Bernhard Goetz ordered to trial

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's top court today ordered Bernhard Goetz to stand trial on charges of attempted murder and assault in the 1984 shootings of four youths on a Manhattan subway.

In a 7-0 decision, the Court of Appeals reinstated charges thrown out by lower courts.

Goetz also faces less serious charges of illegal possession of weapons.

Goetz has admitted shooting the youths Dec. 22, 1984, after one of them approached him for $5. He said he feared he was going to be mugged; the youths contended they were panhandling.

The Court of Appeals said state law does not "allow the perpetrator of a serious crime to go free simply because that person believed his actions were reasonable and necessary to prevent some perceived harm."

Earthquake rocks California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The strongest earthquake to hit Southern California in 15 years shook a wide region early today, triggering rockslides, shattering windows and knocking out power to 100,000 customers, but there were no immediate reports of injuries or heavy damage.

The 2:21 a.m. PDT earthquake measured 6.0 on the Richter scale and was centered 12 miles northwest of Palm Springs, said Dennis Meredith of the California Institute of Technology. Palm Springs is 110 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

"It's a big one," Meredith said.

In Washington, D.C., U.S. Geological Survey spokesman Don Finley said the epicenter of the quake was about 40 miles east of San Bernardino in mountains near the edge of the Mojave Desert.

"Early reports said there was some damage in the epicentral area," he said.

The quake was the strongest to hit Southern California since Feb. 9, 1971, when a quake measuring 6.5 on the Richter scale collapsed a Sylmar hospital, killing three people. The quake caused $550 million damage in the Los Angeles area.

A quake measuring 6 on the open-ended scale is capable of causing severe damage. Today's quake was felt from San Diego, 100 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, to the San Fernando Valley, 120 miles north. Radio stations in Lake Havasu, Ariz., and Las Vegas, Nev., reported the quake felt there as well.

"A lot of people were just pouring out of my apartment complex into the parking lot and the street to get away from the building," said Jack Kowalec, assistant city editor of The Desert Sun newspaper in Palm Springs. "There was a little bit of panic, a little bit of hysteria."

The quake initially knocked out power to 10,000 to 15,000 households when it damaged a Southern California Edison Co. substation in Desert Hot Springs, said spokeswoman Becky Sordelet.

The load was automatically picked up by an electrical system belonging to the Metropolitan Water District, she said, but at about 4 a.m., the load grew too large, and those circuits shut down. The result was a blackout throughout Palm Springs and the Coachella Valley region. The lights began to come back on around 5 a.m.

Rocks rolled across all four lanes of State Highway 111, the main road into the desert resort from the west. An 18-wheel truck had a minor accident at the slide site.

Principal changes due to be revealed

The reassignment of Snyder's six elementary school principals will be revealed Tuesday during the July meeting of the Snyder school board.

Tuesday's regular meeting will begin at 7 p.m. It will be preceded at 6 p.m. by an executive session to discuss the pending lawsuit against the district involving single member districts.

Superintendent Bob Hawes said Tuesday morning he would offer as an informational item his reassignment decisions. He noted no action will be required by the board regarding the new assignments.

In addition, Hawes said he will make a recommendation to the board for the hiring of a new elementary school principal — the second such hiring required here due to recent retirements.

L.D. Monroe, principal for grades K-12 at Ira the past nine years, was employed but not assigned as a new elementary principal June 24 by the board.

The retirement of Frank Miller at West Elementary and the shift of Central Elementary Principal Charles Anderson to junior high created the two openings. Anderson replaced the retiring James (Dutch) Stehley.

Other elementary school principals now due reassignment within the district are Jim Erwin at North, Gerri Parker at Northeast, Bob Travis at East and Wayne Kennedy at Stanfield.

In addition Tuesday, the school board will consider authorizing a second salary study for school staffers, this one involving clerical, secretarial, maintenance and custodial personnel employed by the district.

Regarding the salary study, the district recently contracted with the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) for a pay survey profiling the district's teachers and administrators.

Indictments sealed for drug trafficing

Scurry County grand jurors meeting for their regular July session Monday returned 14 felony indictments against 14 defendants — six of these allegedly involved in drug trafficing here.

The indictments against these six were sealed pending the arrest of the individuals named.

Scurry County Sheriff Keith Collier reported Tuesday that the indictments were the result of an undercover operation supervised by his office.

Also indicted Monday was 44-year-old Gail William Brooks of 2600 Ave. Y., who now stands charged with one count of aggravated sexual assault on a child.

Brooks was arrested by police last weekend and charged with the rape of a 4-year-old girl on or about May 4.

He remains in the Scurry County Jail in lieu of bond now set at $20,000.

Also indicted for a sexual offense with a child was 31-year-old Alvin Ray Spencer of Rising Star.

Spencer is alleged to have had indecent contact with a girl under the age of 17 on April 22 of this year.

He also remains in the Scurry County Jail in lieu of bond set at $15,000 on a formal charge of indecency with a child.

Indicted for one count of aggravated assault was 32-year-old Alfredo Carrisalez of 2711 Ave. X.

Carrisalez is alleged to have stabbed Juan Quintana of the Diamond T Lodge in Snyder on June 8.

The assault is said to have occurred in southern Scurry County as the two men were returning to Snyder from Colorado City with several other individuals.

Carrisalez is currently free after posting $7,000 bond on that

Freight terminal slated with rezone

Plans for a 40 ft. by 50 ft. freight terminal scheduled to be built to accomodate Central Freight Lines traffic were revealed Monday during the July session of the Snyder city council.

The terminal's construction would require the rezoning of an area adjacent to U.S. Hwy. 84 in north Snyder, and this request was approved on first reading by the council.

Two other rezoning requests before the council Monday were prompted by proposed new business operations in Snyder. These include a day care center and a combination construction company office-beauty shop.

All three requests still require a second approving vote before the rezoning classification becomes effective.

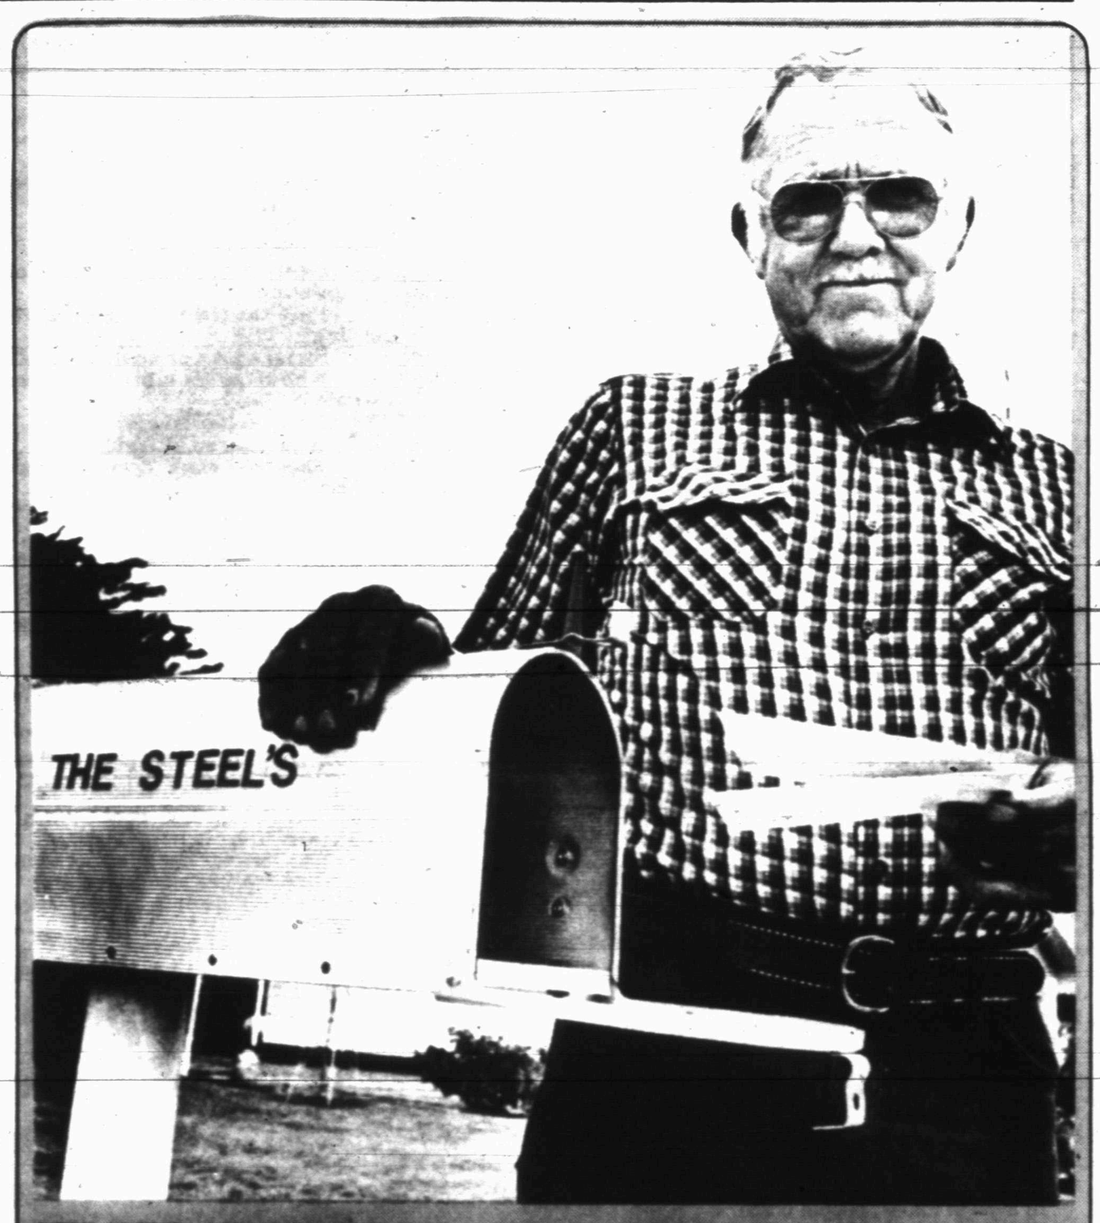

Regarding the truck terminal, the request as approved is to rezone portions of a three block area south of U.S. Hwy. 84 and its adjacent access road from R-3 (general residential) to M-1 (light manufacturing).

The area in question is directly north of Northeast Elementary. Submitting the request were landowners Ray and Billy Don Martin and Milford Hackfeld, who proposes to build the terminal for lease to Central Freight Line.

Hackfeld, who met with council members Monday, is the manager for a similar Central freight terminal in Big Spring.

Central obtained operating rights to haul freight out of Snyder and other points along U.S. Hwy. 84 effective March 27.

NEW AFTER 67 YEARS — W.T. Steele, a Dermott native who lives about 1.5 miles west of the rural community, is shown with his new mail box and correspondence newly delivered directly to his home. Having lived in the Dermott area all his life, he has been accustomed to "driving to town" for his mail at the Dermott Post Office, which officially closed July 1. (SDN Staff Photo).

For Dermott mail customers...

Home delivery said first

By NOBLE B. YOUNG
SDN Staff Writer

For the first time in his life, W.T. Steele of Dermott is experiencing the "change" of mail delivery to his front door.

A native of the Dermott community in northwest Scurry County, Steele has for the last 67 years posted and received his mail through the Dermott Post Office which officially closed July 1.

He and other area residents have now had their addresses changed from simply Dermott, Tx to Dermott Rt., Snyder, Tx.

Along with the change of address comes a change in zip code with all mail to Dermott now carried under the Snyder code, 79549.

Steel said Monday, "It will be nice getting the mail at the house once we get used to it, but it seems funny not to drive into town every afternoon."

We have a recommendation for a future chamber of commerce speaker. We found his brand of humor refreshing while attending a press convention a couple of weeks ago.

He is Dr. James H. Boren, who bills himself as president of the International Association of Professional Bureaucrats. His talk was in "bureaucratese" and for years we've been trying to understand the language of big government.

Boren reported that his mission is to help those inside the bureaucracy "bubble to the top of the cesspool through dynamic inaction, bold irresolution and learning how to cut red tape lengthwise."

Boren is a former state department foreign service officer and has five earned college degrees. The speaker says, "bureaucracy is no longer related to employment."

In 1972 he ran a race with the U.S. Mail from Philadelphia to Washington, D. C. by horseback. His pony express beat all the mail–some by as much as eight days.

That same year he ran for President on the platform of "More Red Tape." He gave it another shot in 1984 and ran as Honest Jim Boren with a slogan, "I have what it takes to take what you've got."

One of his most famous quotes is "When in charge, ponder. When in trouble, delegate. When in doubt, mumble."

Boren also advises, "If you're going to be a phoney, be sincere about it." The Boren Advisory for 1987 is "Never threaten anyone who roosts above you on the organizational chart."

His latest book is entitled, "The Bureaucratic Zoo–the Search for the Ultimate Mumble."

Rebellion led by Marcos's associate ends; no retaliation

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A revolt led by an elderly pro-Marcos politician and backed by four generals collapsed at dawn today when the rebels abandoned the luxury hotel they had occupied for nearly 40 hours and surrendered.

"Welcome back," armed forces chief Gen. Fidel V. Ramos told soldiers who had joined the abortive rebellion, shortly after they left the 22-story downtown Manila Hotel.

He then told the troopers to get down on the floor and do push-ups with him.

Arturo Tolentino, 75, the former running mate of ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos, launched the uprising on Sunday by proclaiming himself "acting president." He left the hotel Monday night, followed by two rebel generals, a military spokesman said.

Tolentino, who said he was acting on Marcos' orders, was not around as his vanquished following of 289 soldiers and a few hundred civilians abandoned the hotel he had said would serve as the temporary seat of his government.

The soldiers, whose numbers dwindled to a few dozen in the uprising's last hours, left through a back door.

The rebels gave up 10 hours before the expiration of the 24-hour deadline set by President Corazon Aquino for their surrender. By then, about 1,000 government soldiers had the hotel, surrounded from a distance.

Minutes after the rebels left the hotel, dozens of government soldiers pushed their way through the main door, rifles at the ready.

"We are not going to humiliate, punish or embarrass any of you. There will be no retaliation against you," Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile told the surrendered soldiers at a suburban army gymnasium, where he and Ramos met with them.

"We shall consider this as past," Enrile said. "Let us forget, as though nothing happened."

Ramos and Enrile were the two leaders of a military revolt that ultimatetly drove Marcos from the Philippines on Feb. 26 and installed Mrs. Aquino as the Asian island nation's head of state.

Mrs. Aquino had called Tolentino's rebellion a "foolish adventure," and said she would not allow it to happen again.

Thousands of Marcos supporters cheered Tolentino Sunday when he announced on the hotel driveway that he was taking his oath as acting president.

Delays bog down refinancing loans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Homeowners lured by low interest rates are seeking to refinance mortgages at such a feverish clip they are bogging down the system and facing long delays and higher-than-anticipated interest rates.

California, the nation's biggest market for residential mortgages with 28 percent of the business, is feeling the pinch the most.

"Some of our members are doing 300 percent more business this year than last," Lee Anne Mathews, spokeswoman for the Sacramento-based California Mortgage Bankers Association, said Monday. "It's just more than anyone anticipated, and we weren't ready to handle it."

But the problem is being felt elsewhere, as well.

"It's causing a lot of problems," said Roman Olescyeak of Earl Keim Realty Inc., the Detroit suburb of Livonia. "Deals are falling apart because it takes too long to get them closed and people get frustrated."

Nationally, lenders this year expect to process new loans and refinancings worth about $400 billion for residences of up to four units, compared with $246 billion last year and $210 billion in 1984, according to the national Mortgage Bankers Association, based in Washington, D.C.

Loan officers, appraisers, title insurers and credit verifiers are stretched to their limits, and still the time it takes to get a mortgage has swollen from the usual 30 to 60 days to as much as 120 days, officials said.

More typical, in recent months, is 80 to 90 days.

Trying to parlay the problems into more business for itself, one lender, Beverly Hills-based Great Western Savings & Loan Association, issued a release saying that despite delays elsewhere, it was able to process loans in an average of 41 days.

"Understandably, consumers are none too happy about it when it means they have to pay higher interest rates," said Warren Dunn, a bankers association spokesman.

In many cases, the delay has meant homeowners faced interest rates as much as 1 percent higher in the end than what they anticipated when they applied.

"In a lot of cases, people could no longer qualify under the higher rates, and the loans just fell through," Ms. Mathews said.

Other times, rising rates made refinancing less lucrative — or not worth it.

Homeowners refinance when the difference between what they are paying and what they could be paying is enough to make it worth incurring $2,000 to $3,000 in refinancing costs.

Dear Abby

Slow Down and Read 'What's Your Hurry?'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Seeing "Slow Me Down, Lord" by 85-year-old Wilferd A. Peterson in your column not only triggered "Speed Me Up, Lord," it brought to mind a surrebuttal by my grandfather, Samuel Ullman (whose "Youth" was published in your column in 1982 and was often quoted by Gen. Douglas MacArthur).

Grandpa's poem (enclosed) was written circa 1918, so if you think it merits sharing with your readers, you have my permission.

MAYER U. NEWFIELD

DEAR MR. NEWFIELD: Thank you. I do:

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?

Slack up, brother, what's your hurry,
That so recklessly you scurry,
With your elbows crowding sideways
And your eyes fixed straight ahead?
Is a minute's time so precious,
That you need be so ungracious,
And go tramping on your fellows,
As on the way you speed?

Can't you spare a nod of greeting,
Pass the time of day in meeting,
Swap a joke or smile a little
When a neighbor comes along?
Is the dollar so enticing —
Is success so all-sufficing
That you can't devote a second
To a brother in the throng?

Do you know your destination?
It's a quiet little station,
Where ambition never troubles
And the dollar jingles not;
Where riches are not enduring,
Where your note has passed maturing,
And the richest man's possession
Is a little grassy spot.

Why be over keen in speeding,
On a trail so surely leading
To that lonely little city, where
We all must land at last?
Slack up, brother! What's your hurry,
That so recklessly you scurry?
You may lead a slow procession
E'er another year is past.

By Samuel Ullman, "From a Summit of Years Fourscore"

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a wonderful man. He's good-looking, romantic, decent, sober, works steady and treats me like a queen. So what's the problem? He keeps asking me to take my shoes off so he can kiss my toes and caress my feet. Frankly, I would rather have him pay more attention to the rest of me, but what really turns him on is my feet.

My mother says he sounds like a kook, and she hopes he's not dangerous. Outside of that he is perfectly normal. I love this guy and we're talking marriage. I've known guys to get carried away with other parts of a woman's anatomy, but this is a new one. Have you ever heard of it before? And should I worry?

TOOTSIE-WOOTSIE

DEAR TOOTSIE: Your boyfriend has a foot fetish, which simply means that he is "turned on" (sexually stimulated) by feet. It's nothing new, and it's not dangerous. If he wants to know what caused it, a psychotherapist could probably dig it out of his subconscious. Don't worry about it. You could be "sole-mates."

DEAR ABBY: My father owns a catering business. I am getting married soon, and my father assumes that he will cater my wedding. Abby, I've been to some of the weddings he has catered, and the food was lousy and the service was terrible. His competitor in town does a much better job. I really want a catered wedding but I hate to hurt my father's feelings. What should I do?

DESPERATE IN JERSEY

DEAR DESPERATE: Rather than bite the hand that feeds you by engaging your father's competitor, elope.

People Express, Texas Air won't comment on report

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — People Express Inc. and Texas Air Corp. won't comment on a report that Texas Air would pay $314 million for the no-frills carrier that shook up the airline industry.

Texas Air has made a $12-a-share offer for the troubled airline, which announced two weeks ago that it was considering selling all or part of the company, according to a report published in Monday's edition of The Wall Street Journal.

The story said that three other companies are interested in People Express, the nation's fifth-largest airline.

Russell Marchetta, People Express spokesman, said the carrier had no comment on the published report or whether the carrier's founder and chief executive, Donald C. Burr, had met with Texas Air chairman Frank Lorenzo.

He also refused to comment on how much progress Newark-based People Express has made in trying to sell part or all of the company.

Texas Air spokesman Bruce Hicks said his Houston-based company would not comment on a potential business deal.

Texas Air is in the process of buying debt-ridden Eastern Airlines and would become the nation's largest carrier if it receives government approval for the $600 million acquisition.

In addition, Western Airlines of Los Angeles told People Express on Saturday that it would seek to acquire the airline's Denver-based Frontier Airlines, along with some aircraft that it would lease back to People Express, the Journal said.

Western spokesman Glenn Bozarth said his company does not comment on possible acquisitions.

A Japanese concern, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Ltd., reportedly offered as much as $16 a share for People Express. Sources also told the Journal that another Japanese company, All Nippon Airways Co., was interested in a $12-a-share offer for a substantial stake, the Journal said.

A source close to the negotiations told the newspaper that Texas Air last Thursday offered $11 a share for People Express. At that point, Western Airlines reportedly said it would match the offer.

On Friday, the source said, Texas Air raised its proposal to $12 a share.

USDA: worst is over

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crunch on U.S. farm exports may be winding down, and an era of long-term growth could be at hand, if the signals are correct, an Agriculture Department economist says.

During the 1970s, a time of escalating farmland prices and inflation, the volume of U.S. farm exports increased an average of 8 percent per year. So far in the 1980s, including this year, the amount shipped has declined annually.

Clark Edwards of USDA's Economic Research Service says the forecasts indicate "the worst may soon be over" for exports, which have become vital to the financial well-being of so many of the nation's farmers.

"The foreign exchange value of the dollar has been dropping against many major currencies, and our commodity prices are closer to market-clearing levels," Edwards said Monday in a new agency report. "Farmers' production costs are stabilizing, and rates of return on investment in agriculture are recovering from reduced levels for many farm enterprises."

Perhaps the most important development for American agriculture — assuming decades ahead without major wars — will be the steady increase in global population, which, according to the Population Institute, has now reached 5 billion people, double what it was in 1950.

"The long-run trend in export growth over the past three decades averaged about 3 percent per year," Edwards said. "If we can manage to get back on that track — and it appears that we can — agriculture's recovery will be hastened."

Although Edwards thinks farmers will continue to see "temporary strains" in the future as they have in the past, he said those need not lead to prolonged periods of either surplus or shortage.

Consumer prices increase

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Consumer prices soared 40.6 percent in the first half of the year, the government said Monday, giving fresh support to analysts' predictions that inflation for the year will be the highest since 1982.

The Bank of Mexico, the nation's central bank, said consumer prices rose 6.4 percent in June, the biggest jump since the 8.8 percent increase in January. Prices were up 5.6 percent in May.

Higher costs for a wide range of goods and services, including tortillas, meat, eggs, rent and medicine, contributed to the June advance, the report said.

The Mexican economy has been badly battered by the collapse of oil prices on the world market, and a Treasury official said late last week that the economy slipped into a recession during the first half of the year.

The downturn will be the third in five years for the economy.

Guillermo Prieto Fortun, undersecretary of Treasury for income, said the nation faced "an unfavorable national economic and financial panorama."

Analysts have predicted the economy will contract 3 percent to 4 percent this year, after growing an inflation-adjusted 2.7 percent in 1985.

Book helps assemble wardrobe for today's styles and fashions

SUIT STYLES for different types of women, as shown in "It's You!" include a sweater jacket outfit, right, for a casual woman, and a dressmaker suit, left, for the woman suited to more feminine fashions.

By Florence De Santis

It's not easy these days to feel well-dressed or even appropriately dressed. Fashion influences come from all sides — classic preppy, ethnic or even street-wild. Choosing on a budget can be tough.

The problem has encouraged a number of fashion advisers to set up shop in recent years. An extension of the old-time "personal shopper," the advisers work one-on-one with their customers, helping them assemble suitable wardrobes, as well as change or add to them season by season. They also save their clients time by bringing accessories together.

Emily Cho and Neila Fisher have been doing all this for some years at their company, New Image, in New York City, but they've now gone a step further. As they explain in their new book, "It's You!" (Villard Books, New York) the real guide through today's fashion maze is you. They've divided women into six basic types, and the book shows you how to place yourself in one of these groups. A final chapter shows how to make an occasional breakout into another type. (We all like a change now and then.)

The authors enlisted Cheryl Lickona to help with the many sketches that illustrate choices one might make in each group for varying occasions, whether business or social. With the old idea of fashion "rules" gone, it is now possible to discover your own type and create an impressive image by dressing accordingly. A scattered assemblage of fashion choices makes no personality impression, as "It's You!" clearly shows.

Cho and Fisher think that clothing possibilities should include some items made by you or by a hand-picked dressmaker. You'll get custom fitting, more quality for the money and exclusivity. It saves shopping time, too.

The authors have worked out a group of outfits for Vogue/Butterick patterns that incorporate some of their personality points for the six basic types.

Update your insurance policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you looked at your homeowner's insurance policy lately?

Most Americans don't — until a disaster strikes and they discover the house they insured for $30,000 in 1971 is going to cost about $80,000 to replace.

You may think you're covered against any disaster that might destroy your house, but this can cause a rude awakening when the time comes to take stock.

Check your policy, says insurance expert Mary Rowland in Family Circle magazine. She says there are 17 common "perils," or types of damage, such as fire, theft, smoke, storms and vandalism. While many policies cover "all risks," others cover only certain perils. No standard policy, she says, covers floods, earthquakes, war or nuclear accidents.

Taking advantage of an error

By James Jacoby

After passing originally, North felt he could do no less than invite game. Despite his flat distribution, South felt that his 14 points and two 10-spots warranted a four-spade bid. A defensive error gave South a chance to bring home this shaky contract, but it required sleight of hand.

West chose a neutral lead — the heart seven. East won the ace and could have sunk declarer by returning a diamond, but made the friendly return of a second heart. There was now a straightforward play for the contract. Perhaps East held both the queen and the jack of spades and could be finessed out of them. South thought that unlikely, but perhaps the defender with a third spade would also hold the king of diamonds. If the other suits could be eliminated, a throw-in might work. Upon winning the heart in dummy, declarer played a club to the queen. West won and cleverly switched to the spade jack. But South wasn't about to be cajoled into playing East for the queen.

He won the spade ace, played a club to the jack and returned a spade to his king. Now he cashed the jack of hearts, pitching a diamond from dummy. Another club was played to the king, West discarding a diamond. Then the last club was ruffed. If West overruffed, he would be forced to lead away from the diamond king. When he discarded again, South simply played his last spade and our hapless defender was caught in the same bind. You can guess what West said to his partner about the heart return at trick two.

AP Food Editor

A love of cooking, from the time he was very young, brought Arthur Gordon into the restaurant business, even though when he was growing up a career in the food field never entered his mind.

Born in Durham, N.C., he studied chemistry and later philosophy at The University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. But eventually he joined a group that opened a vegetarian restaurant, "Irregardless Cafe," in Raleigh, and his restaurant career began. Ever since he has had a marvelous time developing his own recipes.

A few years ago he became sole owner-chef of Irregardless Cafe and enlarged his menu. Nowadays he offers fish, poultry and eggs as well as fresh vegetables and fruit. He prides himself on having a constantly diversified menu — good international-style food at reasonable prices.

Several years ago he wrote a cookbook called "The Irregardless Cooks" (Ten Speed Press). In it is a recipe for an unusual carrot cake. When we tried it in my test kitchen, one of my tasters said, "Mmmm ... I like this ... I didn't know carrot cake could taste like gingerbread."

ARTHUR GORDON'S
CARROT CAKE

¼ pound butter
¼ cup oil
¾ cup honey
½ cup molasses
4 eggs
2 tablespoons vanilla
1½ cups white flour
2-3rds cup whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
2½ cups grated carrots
Cream Cheese Icing, see recipe

Melt butter and blend with oil, honey and molasses. Add eggs and vanilla, beat well. Stir in the flours and spices, leavenings and salt. Add carrots and stir to distribute evenly. Spread into 2 greased 8-inch round pans. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Spread Cream Cheese Icing over top and sides. From "The Irregardless Cooks" by Arthur Gordon (Ten Speed Press).

CREAM CHEESE ICING:

Mix together 1 pound cream cheese (softened), ½ pound butter (softened) and ½ cup honey until blended.

Opposition may seek elections nullification

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — The opposition National Action Party said it would demand that the government nullify the vote in the Chihuahua governor's election because of widespread fraud.

The governing Institutional Revolutionary Party claimed sweeping victories in the elections Sunday here and in three other of Mexico's 31 states.

According to the party's count, Fernando Baeza, its gubernatorial candidate in Chihuahua, had 211,514 votes and Francisco Barrio, gubernatorial candidate of National Action, had 131,159 votes. The results were from 1,022 of the state's 1,789 precincts.

Official results are generally not released until a week after the vote, when they are certified by the state electoral commission. Citizens voted for mayors of all 67 municipalities in Chihuahua state and for 14 legislators.

Baeza told supporters Monday at party headquarters, "We're at the entrance of a new phase in the history of Chihuahua. We're in the presence of a PRI that is fortified in action and essence that believes in itself."

"We're going to respond to that confidence — a new language has to begin now, the language of conciliation," he said. "The country and the state are bigger than the political party."

The ruling party, known by its Spanish initials as PRI, has not lost a presidential or gubernatorial race since its founding in 1929.

But National Action, or PAN, the main opposition party, cried foul in Sunday's balloting.

Barrio and other PAN officials claimed that among the election violations found were dozens of ballot boxes already full, the expulsion of PAN representatives as poll watchers and names of PAN supporters not appearing on the voting lists. They also said there were voting slowdowns in PAN strongholds and a false circular put out early Sunday carrying the PAN logo and urging people not to vote.

"We received low blows in the first round. We'll fight with different weapons in the second round," said Barrio, 35, the former mayor of Ciudad Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas.

The elections, he charged at a news conference, "were an insult to the people of Chihuahua." Chihuahua borders New Mexico and Texas.

An umbrella organization called the Democratic Electoral Movement scheduled a public rally for Wednesday in Chihuahua to decide if it will take action against the alleged vote fraud. The movement had pledged to "paralyze the state" if vote-rigging occurred.

Umberto Ramos, mayor of Cuauhtemoc and a leader of the group, was asked if the organization would lead street blockades as threatened. "We are doing the summoning, the people will have the answer," he replied.

Leaders of three business organizations alleged there were voting irregularities. "The will of the Chihuahua people was not expressed freely," said Alonzo Baeza, president of the Centro Empresarial.

Elba Esther Gordella Morales, a regional PRI delegate, responded to the PAN calls for nullification of the vote by saying, "There's an electoral law that legitimizes the election. PAN always does this to invalidate elections."

The opposition party made unprecedented strides in the 1983 municipal elections in Chihuahua and had mounted an unusually strong challenge in the gubernatorial race.

Schools may punish vulgar language users

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teachers and school administrators will be armed with new disciplinary powers in the next school year to promote what the Supreme Court says are the "values of a civilized social order."

The nation's highest court said Monday that public school students may be suspended for using vulgar language.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for the court, "Schools ... may determine that the essential lessons of civil, mature conduct cannot be conveyed in a school that tolerates lewd, indecent or offensive speech and conduct."

At the American Federation of Teachers convention in Chicago, union President Albert Shanker praised the decision.

"The schools are responsible for teaching civility as well as the three R's," Shanker said. "The decision should encourage schools to act against verbal as well as physical abuse."

Secretary of Education William J. Bennett joined in the praise, saying, "The court has upheld the legitimate, indeed essential, responsibility of schools to maintain an environment and ethos conducive to learning."

The court, voting 7-2, upheld the 1983 suspension of a Spanaway, Wash., high school senior who gave an assembly speech filled with crude sexual allusions.

Matthew Fraser's one-minute speech in support of a friend's candidacy for student body vice president of Bethel High School contained no dirty words, but it caused a brief uproar among his fellow students.

In the speech, Fraser described his friend as "a man who is firm."

White says closing colleges 'mistake'

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has lined up in support of five colleges that he said have been mentioned as possible candidates for closing as a result of a special committee's work.

White, in a July 3 letter to chairman Larry Temple of the Select Committee on Higher Education, said:

"I am deeply concerned by speculation and press reports which suggest that some of Texas' finest institutions of higher education, such as Sul Ross University, East Texas State University, the University of Texas at Permian Basin, Laredo State University or Texas A&M University at Galveston, may be closed as a result of the committee's findings."

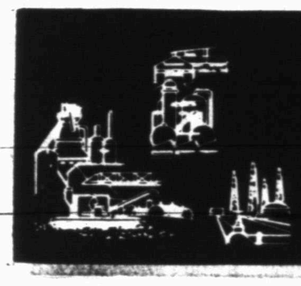

"As I have previously communicated to you, I believe such action would be a tragic mistake. These institutions offer unique access and programs that are unavailable anywhere else in the state, and to eliminate them would deny opportunities to a large number of citizens. We simply cannot place too high a value on those opportunities," White said.

On Monday, a delegation opposing changes at Laredo State University presented 20,000 signatures to Temple.

He accepted the signatures and said his committee will consider all issues, including budgets and the quality of higher education, before making recommendations to the Legislature.

Officials and supporters of UT-Permian Basin appeared before Temple's committee June 13, urging that their institution be continued.

His committee meets here Thursday and Friday to consider possible closings and mergers of colleges.

Foot problem will self-correct

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter-[illegible] my granddaughter to sleep on her stomach. Now she's pigeontoed. I'm afraid she may need surgery or corrective shoes. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I think that sleeping on the stomach does not cause children to be pigeontoed. Many infants' feet tend to turn in; they usually straighten out during childhood. I recommend that you leave your granddaughter's medical problems to her parents who, with the help of a reliable pediatrician, should do just fine.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a problem about which I feel uncomfortable asking my doctor. Whenever I have a bowel movement, the anal area starts itching really badly. I have hemorrhoids once in a while, no allergies and am about 90 pounds overweight. What could be causing this problem?

DEAR READER — There may be a low-grade inflammation in the anal area that is irritated by your bowel movements. In overweight people especially, the skin between the buttocks can become chronically inflamed and itchy. Your doctor may be able to help you to overcome the problem — but, of course, you'll have to ask to get help.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Sometimes I nearly pass out from pain in my stomach and get so weak that I can hardly walk. The doctors said I had pockets in my colon and put me on Adapin, Reglan, Stellezine and hormones (I'm 76). My legs hurt when I take the Adapin, but I get nauseated if I don't take it. Should I see some other specialist?

DEAR READER — Adapin is a drug that is marketed to relieve anxiety and depression. This, plus the other medicines you have been given, suggests that your doctor is treating "functional bowel disorder" — which means that your bowel does not seem to be functioning normally. I agree that you might be helped by another specialist, particularly a gastroenterologist. Bowel problems do tend to appear with age, but your complaints seem more serious, and you are now taking strong medicines that you may not need.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was in the hospital because my heart was skipping beats. Would low potassium cause this? The doctor has me taking Tonocard. Are there any long-term harmful side effects to this drug? What would a stress test show? The diagnosis on my chart read "ASHD." What does this mean?

DEAR READER — Arteriosclerotic heart disease (ASHD) means that your heart is aging and may not be receiving the proper amount of blood. The muscle may not be functioning efficiently and a lack of oxygen may be causing irregular beating. A stress test would confirm this diagnosis. Tonocard is a drug that suppresses irregular beating. The medicine has many reported side effects, including dizziness, confusion, nausea, vomiting, low blood pressure, headache and a clammy feeling.

A low blood potassium level is a potentially serious cause of heart irregularity. Such a deficiency must be corrected before medications or further testing are used.

DEAR DR. GOTT — About two years ago I was infected with a virus that caused a croupy cough. The doctor prescribed a cough medicine containing codeine. It left me with a loss of my sense of taste and smell. What can I do to get them back?

DEAR READER — Some virus infections of the nose and sinuses can cause loss of smell and, to a degree, taste. I am not aware of any commercial cough medicine, with or without codeine, that could cause this type of loss. I believe that you need a thorough nose and throat examination by an otolaryngologist. The specialist may be able to suggest treatment that will relieve your problem.

Hispanics support Mattox

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox, saying he isn't worried about facing an Hispanic opponent, says he not only will win the election but carry his opponent's hometown, too.

"The more Hispanic votes that turn out, the better I like it," Mattox said. "I guarantee you this — I will carry San Antonio and Bexar County."

Mattox's November opponent is Republican District Judge Roy Barrera Jr. of San Antonio.

Mattox, on a five-city tour Monday designed to emphasize his support among Mexican-Americans, said his Hispanic opponent is being used by the Republican Party.

"Country club Republicans have never thought they could beat Jim Mattox. They felt by anointing someone with an Hispanic surname they could help (GOP gubernatorial candidate) Bill Clements," Mattox said.

Mattox said he isn't worried about Barrera because so many Hispanic leaders are on his side.

"Today, we are delivering a devastating pre-emptive strike to my Republican opponent by releasing the names of approximately 1,000 prominent Hispanic elected officials and other leaders who support my re-election," Mattox told a news conference.

Barrera's campaign manager, John Nolan, said Mattox's allegations carried no weight.

"It sounds like typical Jim Mattox to me," Nolan said.

"The appeal of Judge Berrera will be to the Hispanic electorate, not the elected officials. That's where we expect to find a warm reception," Nolan said.

He also discounted Mattox's claim that Barrera is a token gesture by Republicans to try to lure Mexican-American voters, noting that Barrera had to defeat two other GOP candidates to earn the attorney general nomination.

"He (Mattox) ought to talk to Ed Walsh or John Roach if he thinks that," Nolan said.

Mattox was joined at his Austin news conference by U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-San Antonio; state Sens. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, and Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville; and state Reps. Frank Collazo, D-Port Arthur, and Lena Guerrero, D-Austin.

Mattox said his long list of Hispanic supporters "destroys my opponent's naive campaign promise to the Republicans that he can deliver the Hispanic vote to their ticket in November."

The Hispanic politicians backing Mattox said they don't believe Barrera's race will be an asset in November.

Uribe said ethnic background shouldn't be the determining factor for Hispanic voters, but rather the candidates' positions on issues of importance to Hispanics.

"They have a moral and ethical obligation to support the best candidate without regard to race. ... If Hispanics support Hispanics only because of ethnicity, we cannot expect anyone else to act any different," he said.

Gonzalez, who served in Congress with Mattox, said no single politician can deliver the Hispanic vote as a bloc.

Mattox also noted the resignations of Dallas industrialist Trammell Crow as Barrera's campaign treasurer.

Oil crunch affects white collar people

DALLAS (AP) — Job opportunities practically leaped at Joseph Sanders III from the pages of Dallas' newspapers seven years ago, as they did for thousands of white-collar workers who swarmed to Texas in the state's oil-fed boom days.

But now those ads are thinning while lists are filling with people like Sanders — white-collar workers who are being laid off by both the smallest and largest of companies.

Sander, a Buffalo, N.Y., building executive who had worked 22 years with the same northern company, hadn't even been considering a job change before his Dallas visit in 1979.

But "the ads were incredible. I had 10 interviews in a week," he said.

Hired by a local construction company, Sanders, 51, found a steady working role in a city where building was constant. But today, he's out of work and struggling to get interviews.

"I thought it was going to be simple, believe me," he said. But after weeks of trying, "you send out resumes like they're going out of style and you get no calls."

The downturn in the petroleum-based Texas economy has affected a much wider group than the roughnecks watching wells shut down. As oil prices have fallen, the further downturn in an already soft economy has taken a toll on the financial, management and development industries.

In Dallas, mid- and upper-level executives and office personnel are paying the price along with the historically vulnerable laborer.

The state's unemployment rate soared to 10.5 percent in June, and the six-county Dallas-Fort Worth region's unemployment rate has risen from 3.9 percent last spring to 5.2 percent this year.

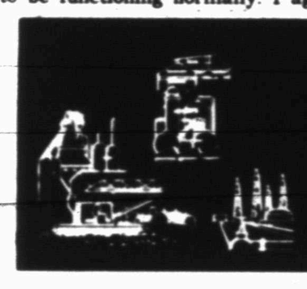

Texas Employment Commission analyst Don Johnstone told the Dallas Times Herald that a significant factor is "white-collar people out of work who didn't used to be."

It's a trend that has highly credentialed professionals in a number of fields struggling to make career changes at reduced salaries, or straining to get interviews — when corporate recruiters once flocked to their doors.

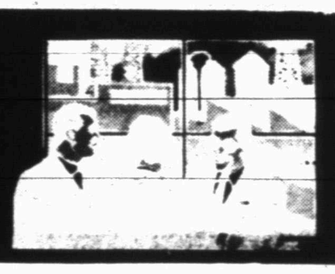

"When I was working, I had headhunters (recruitment firms) calling me all the time. Now the same guys are avoiding me," said Errol Broussard, a 47-year-old Plano resident who was laid off as domestic and international sales manager for Milchem Inc., an oil drilling and field service company.

Broussard, who is looking for a job in the finance field, hadn't been out of work in 27 years. Recently, he was one of several former oil company employees in line at the TEC office in Richardson, checking on unemployment benefits or job listings.

Although the hardest hit even among executives are those in the oil and gas industry, the downturn has rippled through the real estate business, where some agents are supplementing lower commissions with part-time jobs.

Rangers fall, too...

Oops, Clemens' streak turns around

by The Associated Press

Roger Clemens is off on another streak - but it's not quite the same as his first one.

Boston's sensational right-hander, who blazed to a 14-0 start, suffered his second consecutive defeat Monday night as the Oakland A's beat the Red Sox 6-4.

He was knocked out when Jose Canseco and Dave Kingman hit consecutive sixth-inning home runs and, to add insult to injury, he was outpitched by three castoffs - Dave Stewart, Dave Von Ohlen and Doug Bair.

"I just didn't have any intensity," Clemens said. "I was kind of sluggish. I don't know what it was. I felt good, I threw the ball real good, I had good velocity and everything. My intensity, though, just wasn't where I needed it to beat these guys."

Boston's lead in the American League East is back to seven games over New York, a 14-3 winner over Texas. The loss, coupled with California's 3-1 16-inning triumph over Milwaukee, dropped the Rangers into second place in the AL West, one-half game behind the Angels.

Elsewhere, Baltimore handed Kansas City its 10th consecutive setback 8-1, Chicago edged Cleveland 4-3, Toronto downed Seattle 7-5 and Minnesota outslugged Detroit 10-8.

Clemens allowed seven hits and six runs, five earned, before being knocked out with none out in the sixth as the A's gave new Manager Tony LaRussa a successful debut by winning for only the third time in their last 22 road games.

Winning pitcher Stewart allowed eight hits, including a two-run homer by DwightEvans, before needing help from Dave Von Ohlen and Doug Bair in the seventh. Bair posted his second save by holding Boston hitless over the final 2 1-3 innings. It was Stewart's first victory since Sept. 28, 1984, when he was with Texas.

Yankees 14, Rangers 3

Dave Winfield, batting just .226, was benched again with Charlie Hough pitching for Texas. But he entered the game as a pinch hitter, collected the 2,000th hit of his career and drove in four runs.

The Yankees collected 14 hits, including home runs by Don Mattingly and Claudell Washington, and took advantage of 10 walks in making Scott Nielsen's major-league debut a success.

Hough lasted only 2 2-3 innings, giving up six hits and seven runs while walking six.

Angels 3, Brewers 1

Wally Joyner hit a bases-loaded triple with one out in the 16th inning to snap a scoreless tie and put California back into first place.

Terry Forster, 4-1, who injured his right ankle on a putout at first base in the 15th inning and was taken to a hospital, got the win with three innings of relief.

Orioles 8, Royals 1

Baltimore's Floyd Rayford, Cal Ripken and Fred Lynn homered while Mike Boddicker scattered eight hits for his 11th victory. The Royals' run came on Steve Balboni's 17th homer in the fifth after the Orioles had taken a 5-0 lead against Charlie Leibrandt. It was the 10th consecutive loss for the defending world champion Royals.

White Sox 4, Indians 3

Chicago, which ended a 10-game Cleveland winning streak two months ago, snapped the Indians' seven-game skein this time on Greg Walker's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Blue Jays 7, Mariners 5

Jimmy Key set a career high by striking out 10 Seattle batters in seven innings, and Lloyd Moseby drove in Toronto's final runs with a single and homer.

TOURNAMENT ACTION – Snyder third baseman Eric West tries unsuccessfully to glove a wild throw as Rotan's Tyronne Daniels slides safely to the bag during first-inning action of Monday's Area 5 Playoff game in Jayton. Snyder's Little Leaguers won the game 6-4 and will play Stonewall-Kent tonight at 8. See article below. (SDN Staff Photo)

Snyder All-Stars rally to conquer Rotan, 6-4

ROTAN -- Snyder's Little League All-Stars overcame a three-run deficit to defeat Rotan 6-4 in the Area 5 Playoffs here Monday.

The Snyder team will now play Stonewall-Kent, a 6-3 victor over Hamlin, tonight at 8. In this evening's other game, Rotan meets Hamlin at 6. The tournament is double-elimination.

Snyder trailed 3-1 going into the fifth inning, but rallied behind Eric West's leadoff single to centerfield. Next-up Richard Morris walked, and one out later John Conger also drew a base on balls to load the bases.

Marcus Best then slapped a pop fly behind second base that scored two runs when Rotan players collided while trying to field it. The go-ahead runs followed as Raymond House slugged a ball to deep left field that bounced off the glove of Rotan's Tyronne Daniels and flipped over the fence for a home run.

Rotan had taken a 3-0 lead in the first inning on two walks, a single and an error. Snyder starting pitcher Best walked Lance Alls and Daniels before giving up a run-scoring single to Trey Carrillo. A throwing error on the play allowed two more runs to come across.

The Rotan team threatened again in the second inning when it loaded the bases. Snyder manager George Page elected to bring Steven Bollinger to the mound, and he fanned Daniels for the final out.

Bollinger went on to pick up the victory, allowing just one hit while striking out eight batters.

Snyder got one run in the fourth inning when Conger singled, went to second on a passed ball, to third on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

After Snyder's big fifth inning, Rotan managed one more run. Daniels walked, went to second on a passed ball, was wild pitched to third and scored on an error.

Carrillo went the distance for Rotan and took the loss. He gave up just five hits and struck out four batters. He walked five.

The game was halted at that point due to a rule which states that no inning can start after 10 p.m. Ironically, the first pitch of the game was delayed until approximately 8:30 because an earlier start would have forced batters to look directly into the sun.

Conger led Snyder sticks with a two-for-three effort that included a double in the second inning. West, House and Sam Cain provided the other three Snyder hits.

Pena triumphs for LA

by The Associated Press

After two years of arm miseries, Alejandro Pena is ready again to shoulder the burden of major-league pitching.

The right-hander won his first game since Aug. 12, 1984, when he pitched the first five innings of the Los Angeles Dodgers' 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Monday night. He allowed only two hits before three relievers combined to retire the last 12 Cardinals.

"He wasn't throwing as hard as he used to, but he threw good enough to win," said Tommy Herr, whose fourth-inning single was the Cardinals' last hit. Pena, who led the National League in earned run average when he was 12-6 with a 2.48 ERA in 1984,

An Important Notice Regarding Natural Gas Pipelines And Your Safety.

Watch For The Signs!

We have installed colorful signs like these at every major highway, road, railroad and river crossing. The signs are there to clearly mark the path of our pipelines. When you see one of these signs, please be careful not to use drilling instruments, backhoes or other equipment which might accidentally puncture or damage the pipeline. If you need to work near one of our pipelines, please call our 24-hour phone number (713) 651-1464. We will be happy to send a representative out to locate the pipeline. If you see someone else working near our pipelines, please call us so we can offer the same assistance to them.

In the event of an emergency . . .

Pipelines do make good neighbors. They have the best safety record in the transportation industry. We need your help, as our neighbors along the system, to keep it that way.

It is most unlikely that we would ever have a leak in the system near you. But if a leak should occur, one or more of the following symptoms could be detected: ● A strange or unusual odor near the pipeline. ● A hissing or roaring sound caused by escaping gas. ● A dense white cloud or fog. ● A slight mist or frozen area above ground along the pipeline route. ● Flames originating from an opening in the ground.

Should any of these symptoms be detected, please take the following precautions: ● Leave the area immediately. ● Avoid driving into a vapor cloud. ● Avoid contact with any escaping gas. ● Do not create any sparks or heat sources which could ignite escaping gas or liquids. (For example, do not start a car, turn on a light or light a match.) ● As soon as you reach a safe area, notify the pipeline operator. (For our pipeline, call collect to (713) 651-1464. Give your name, the location and a description of the leak. ● Call your sheriff, fire department, local or state police. Advise them of the emergency and its location.

By working together, we can keep pipelines operating safely and quietly for our neighbors along the right-of-way. Thank you.

Bailey working to sign final four as Cowboy camp opens

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey said he would continue talks with the agents of the four unsigned draftees of the National Football League team.

"I came to camp early to meet with (No. 1 pick) Mike Sherrard's agent, Leigh Steinberg, but I have to go back to Dallas to take care of some unfinished business," Bailey said Monday as 75 Cowboys officially opened the league's summer training camps by practicing for 2½ hours in full pads.

The other unsigned players are Darryl Clack, Mark Waler and Max Zendejas. Bailey said he planned to return to Dallas today.

The 75 Cowboys in camp include 10 draft choices, 50 free agent rookies and first first-year players and 15 veterans.

Among the veterans is former Atlanta Falcons all-pro tight end Junior Miller, whom the Cowboys signed as a free agent in May. Miller was released last year by the New Orleans Saints and didn't play in 1985.

"Miller looked pretty good," said Cowboys coach Tom Landry. "Naturally, he's going to look good against the rookies, but we may have found ourselves a tight end who can help us."

The Cowboys did reach agreements Sunday with sixth-round choice Lloyd Yancey, 10th-round choice Bryan Chester and 12th-rounder Chris Duliban, Todd said. Terms were not disclosed.

Although the Cowboys' new five-year offer that Sherrard rejected Sunday is substantially higher than the original $865,000 package, agent Leigh Steinberg said the two sides are far from an agreement.

Steinberg wants $1.6 million for four years. Broken down to four years, the Cowboys have essentially offered $1.22 million to Sherrard.

Steinberg said he is basing his request on contracts signed last year by four NFL wide receivers drafted in the first round. Al Toon, Eddie Brown, Jerry Rice and Jesse Hester received an average of $1.576 million for four years.

"I can't accept a contract that is $300,000 short of what Jesse Hester got last year," Steinberg said. "Unfortunately, this is a serious money difference.

Steinberg said, meanwhile, that he would accelerate negotiations with the United States Football League's Arizona Outlaws, who have offered Sherrard $1.9 million for four years.

Schramm testifies for NFL as antitrust suit continues

NEW YORK (AP) - An official of the Dallas Cowboys testified that the National Football League never tried to sabotage the rival United States Football League.

On the witness stand in U.S. District Court, Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys, gave his testimony Monday as the USFL's $1.69 billion antitrust suit continued against the NFL.

The younger league has claimed that the NFL allegedly set out to strip the USFL of its television contract, force player salaries up and bankrupt financially weak teams.

Schramm, a Cowboys executive for 27 years, responded to questions about an NFL seminar entitled "How To Conquer The USFL" and a memo headlined "Spending the USFL Dollar" from Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council.

Schramm admitted he sent three executives to the seminar in February of 1984 conducted by Dr. Michael Porter, a Harvard Business School professor. But Schramm said he knew nothing of the details at the time, except that it was a negotiating seminar.

Of the suggestion of a secret draft supposedly made at the seminar, Schramm said, "That's not possible. It's a media event."

About the suggestion of sending undesirables to the USFL, Schramm answered: "How can you force the USFL to take them?"

Schramm also denied that the NFL was attempting to lure influential USFL owners or trying to bankrupt weak teams.

"That would be preposterous," he said.

Schramm also rebutted the so-called "New York Conspiracy," which alleged that the NFL was plotting to keep New York City without a team.

Snyder's McLarty named to academic all-state team

Kima McLarty, recent graduate of Snyder High School, has been named to the Texas High School Girl's Coaches Association Academic All-State Track Team.

McLarty, who placed third in the District 2-4A Track and Field Championships in the 800 meters this past season, was one of only 20 girls chosen to the elite team statewide.

To be eligible, senior students had to have participated in varsity track, post an overall average of 90 or above in their freshman, sophomore and junior years, as well as the first semester of their senior year, and score at least one point in their district track meet.

McLarty is the first Snyder High School student to receive the award. The all-around athlete also participated in volleyball and was a member of Snyder's Class 4A state championship squad.

KIMA MCLARTY

PENA

underwent shoulder surgery in February 1985. He was making his second start since coming off the disabled list.

"I'm getting stronger each time out," said Pena, who also allowed a second-inning single to Andy Van Slyke.

In other NL games, Cincinnati edged New York 7-6, Houston trounced Montreal 12-1, Philadelphia downed Atlanta 7-3 and Pittsburgh beat San Diego 3-1 in 10 innings. Chicago and San Francisco were not scheduled.

Astros 12, Expos 1

Glenn Davis knocked in five runs with two homers, while Mike Scott won his ninth game as Houston routed Montreal.

Davis broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run homer off Expos starter Dennis Martinez in the third inning. Martinez, 0-1, left the game in the fifth after allowing six runs in his second NL start.

Davis, who leads the league with 19 homers, added a three-run shot in the fifth, giving the Astros a 6-1 lead.

Gregg endorses NFL plan of mandatory drug testing

by The Associated Press

"I'm no longer a policeman," Green Bay's Forrest Gregg said. "I'm a football coach again."

Gregg's reaction came Monday after he learned of a plan by NFL Commissioner Petre Rozelle to introduce mandatory drug testing of players.

Gregg was among three NFL coaches who expressed immediate endorsement of the plan. Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Sam Wyche of the Cincinnati Bengals were the others.

"This is preventative medicine," Gregg said. "We're not trying to catch people. Every time we test I just hope and pray that we don't have a single guy that's positive on anything but it doesn't always work out that way."

Said Shula: "I was happy to hear that the commissioner is taking strong steps to combat drug abuse. In light of the recent deaths of (Maryland University basketball star) Len Bias and (Cleveland Browns defensive back) Don Rogers, I feel it is imperative that the National Football League does everything in its power to restore public confidence in our game and its players. There can't be anything more important."

"Something has to be done," Wyche said. "Let's use a little common sense. People are dying around us. It's not just athletes.

"Enough has not been done. Something else needs to be added to the policies that are in place," Wyche added. "I think all the effort that could have been made was made with the NFL Players Association. I think a firmer statement had to be made and he (Rozelle) has done that."

Meanwhile, one NFL player felt Rozelle's plan wouldn't eliminate drug use among players.

"It's a half solution," said Tony Elliott, the New Orleans Saints' nose tackle who kicked a cocaine habit that nearly ended his career. "I feel that random testing could be used positively, but education is the only thing that's going to deter drug usage in society itself, including the NFL."

Elliott said he would comply with Rozelle's plan but expects NFL players to rebel against it.

Cincinnati wide receiver Steve Kreider said he thinks the players might surprise Elliott and endorse the program.

"Everybody knows what has happened the last few weeks, and I think you'll find that most Bengal players support testing," Kreider said.

Joyner rips 7,000 to win heptathlon

MOSCOW (AP) - Jackie Joyner of the United States became the first heptathlete to break the 7,000-point barrier and Americans beat the Soviets 49-39 in swimming medals as the Goodwill Games got into full swing.

Joyner captured 7,148 points, smashing the previous mark held by East Germany's Sabine Paetz by 202 points. She became the first U.S. woman to hold the world record in a multi-sport competition since Babe Didrickson, who held the old triathlon mark more than 50 years ago.

"Coming into this competition, I had set goals for myself," Joyner said. "I realized that the competition was out there, but my competition was against the scoreboard. I just concentrated on what I had to do."

Despite sending its second-line swimmers, the U.S. won six of eight events held Monday to beat the Soviet Union at the end of that sport's four days of competition. The U.S. team, minus its top athletes, who are training for the World Championships in Spain next month, won 49 medals, including 15 golds, compared with 39 overall and 13 golds for the Soviets.

Overall, the United States had 22 gold medals and 63 overall to 21 and 69 for the Soviets after Monday's competition.

Sean Killion of Cherry Hill, N.J. supplied the day's biggest upset when he edged former world record-holder Vladimir Salnikov of the Soviet Union in the men's 400-meter freestyle.

"I didn't think I could beat Salnikov," Killion said. "He is the best distance man around. I just wanted to give him a race but when I saw I could win, I just closed my eyes and pressed hard."

Killion was timed in 3 minutes, 51.91 seconds, .09 seconds ahead of Salnikov.

Angel Myers, who started the U.S. wave of victories on the first day of swimming last Friday, completed the competition with four gold medals. She won the women's 400-meter freestyle and was part of the winning 400-meter medley relay.

Joyner began the heptathlon competition with an American record in the 100-meter high hurdles, 12.85. She continued with personal bests of 5 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, 48 feet, 5¼ inches in the shot put, and 23 seconds in the 200-meter sprint.

On Monday, she had a heptathlon world record with 23 feet in the long jump, and followed with a throw of 163 feet, 4 inches in the javelin. Joyner then capped her sensational seven events with a clocking of 2:10.02 in the 800 meters.

Other U.S. track victories included Antonio McKay in the 400, Floyd Heard in the 200 and Doug Padilla in the 5,000.

In basketball, Cheryl Miller scored 20 points and Anne Donovan added 15 to lead the United States past Czechoslovakia 78-70, while the Soviet Union beat Bulgaria 82-56. The two superpowers meet Thursday night.

One of the few U.S defeats Monday came in women's volleyball, where North Korea beat the Americans in four games.

The first group of U.S. boxers arrived late Monday, but the Defense Department in Washington said it had told three more team members to stay home because of their positions in the military.

That brings to 12 the number of U.S. athletes barred by the Pentagon from competing in this multi-sport festival, according to the Turner Broadcasting System, which is sponsoring the games with the Soviet Sports Ministry. The Soviet agency, however, said the a total of 13 boxers were not participating.

Solan, Mavs meet

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Jerry Sloan, assistant coach of the Utah Jazz, has met with Dallas Mavericks owner Donald Carter concerning an assistant coaching job with that National Basketball Association team.

Sloan and Carter met Monday in Dallas.

"Technically, they really haven't offered me the job as such, with all the details," Sloan said Monday night.

O'Grady may pursue legal action to appeal

NEW YORK (AP) - Golfer Mac O'Grady might pursue legal action to appeal his six-event suspension by the PGA Tour, according to his lawyer.

The decision in this regard, attorney Steve Novak said Monday, will be made "hopefully by Wednesday."

"I talked to the (appeals) committee chairman today and he told me they had affirmed the commissioner's decision (to suspend O'Grady)," Novak told the Hartford Courant by phone from San Diego. "Since we've exhausted all of our administrative avenues, we may have to consider legal action as an alternative."

O'Grady, who won the Hartford Open on Sunday, was informed he must begin serving a six-event suspension for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer." The Courant reported that O'Grady was notified of the suspension and an accompanying $5,000 fine.

Tour media spokesman Ric Clarson, reached at his Ponte Vedra, Fla., home by The Associated Press, said that "details of that (announcement) were made public by Mac and his attorney."

However, the PGA Tour reserved any more comment.

Clarson said there were actions by the Tournament Policy Board "that indicated Mac has been suspended, but until the policy board gives its written opinion to the PGA Tour, the tour has no comment to make."

However, Clarson said the suspension probably would begin next Monday, which would clear O'Grady to play in this week's event, the Anheuser-Busch Classic at Williamsburg, Va.

O'Grady, 35, ran afoul of the PGA Tour and Commissioner Deane Beman in 1984, when he was accused of insulting a volunteer worker at a tournament in New Orleans. He also was fined by Beman after several public remarks about the commissioner.

O'Grady appealed his case to Beman and, after losing, took it before a three-member appeals board. The decision by the board on Monday ended O'Grady's appeal outlets with the tour.

O'Grady wasn't available for comment on Monday. However, he discussed the subject of the impending suspension after winning the GHO on Sunday.

Beman, traveling in Europe, was unavailable for comment.

Budget problems are getting worse

AUSTIN (AP) — The state government's budget woes are getting worse, and the deficit is mushrooming beyond the $2.3 billion already forecast, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

"I'm not going to second-guess the exact number we'll be facing at the end of the month, but with deteriorating conditions in the Texas economy it will be substantially higher than the current estimate," Bullock said Monday.

Bullock said the state's 10.5 percent unemployment rate announced last week is one of several indicators signaling an even larger shortfall.

"We expect a new revenue estimate before Aug. 1, and, frankly, none of the indicators contain an ounce of good news," Bullock said.

Gov. Mark White said Monday, "While it would be preferable to have better news, the comptroller must base his projections on the data available."

White has said he will call a special session of the Legislature as soon as legislative leaders work out a plan to balance the books.

"Any improvements in Texas' economic outlook is going to require a continuation of the long-term effort to diversify the economy which we started in 1983. Our investment in education, better roads, job training and an ample water supply represents a significant stride toward achieving our goal of a stronger and more diversified economy," White said in a statement.

"This news only reinforces our commitment to work closely with the legislative leadership to resolve this situation," he added.

White's Republican opponent, former Gov. Bill Clements, said at a campaign stop in Houston that White is failing to provide sufficient leadership during the budget crisis.

"Today, we hear discussion about the possibility of the state being unable to pay its bills by December and of whole agencies being forced to close by early next year. Literally, Austin burns, while Mark White fiddles," Clements said

Some lawmakers have said spending can't be cut enough to make up the deficit and that taxes will have to be raised.

But House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, last week said he found overwhelming opposition among House members to a tax hike.

Librarian cutbacks questioned

A group questioning the cutback in elementary school librarian positions is expected to make a presentation Tuesday to Snyder school board members.

The group's request to appear before the board was submitted Monday to Mike Jordan, board president.

Their appearance is not listed as an agenda item and no action by the board is slated.

During budget workshops June 24-26, the board opted to not replace two librarians who retired at the end of the school year. In addition, they directed the administration to reassign a third librarian to another district post, reducing the number of elementary librarians from six to three.

The plan was then to assign each remaining librarian to serve two elementary campuses — operating on an approximate half-day schedule.

Special master is appointed

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has appointed a special master to oversee desegregation of public housing in East Texas and has rejected a desegregation plan proposed last year by the federal government.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice named Francis A. McGovern, a University of Alabama-Birmingham law professor, as the special master despite objections by U.S. Housing and Urban Development attorneys.

Justice had indicated during a May 5 hearing that McGovern would be appointed. McGovern is a professor of complex litigation and tort law at UAB.

In a 40-page memorandum opinion issued just before the July Fourth holiday, Justice also indicated that he was rejecting a remedial plan proposed late last year by Justice Department attorneys representing HUD.

Deliveries off at CRMWD

Deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District took their worst one month drop on record in June. Economics may have had some slight effect, but continuous rains cut sharply into municipal demands which plummeted 31.18 per cent.

City customers took only 1,320,289,500 gallons in June, 616,426,000 less than for the same month last year. Oil companies dropped 8,609,000 gallons or 4.70 per cent, making total deliveries of 1,494,764,440 gallons, down 29.49 per cent.

Part of the decrease resulted from San Angelo's good fortune in catching a net of 23,245 ac. ft. in its reservoirs and thus dropping its draw on CRMWD's Lake Spence to 27,657,300 gallons, or by 84.49 per cent. On the plus side for the district, Lakes J.B. Thomas and Spence gained 53,120 ac. ft.

During June, Big Spring took 231,706,000 gallons, down 27.49 per cent; Midland 397,710,000 gallons, down 5.18 per cent; Odessa 568,589,000 gallons, down 33.96 per cent; Snyder 88,198,000 gallons, down 32.89 per cent; Stanton 6,429,000 gallons, down 50.94 per cent. Robert Lee which took 14,192,000 gallons in June 1985 used none this June.

The sharp vlume drop, however, did not have a commensurate effect on revenues because of previous rate adjustments and fixed charges. The total of $1,077,476 was down only $66,963 for the month or 5.85 per cent.

Correction...

The status of a civil lawsuit in 132nd District Court styled Mariatta Jones, Gary Arnold, Terry Arnold and Douglas Arnold vs Alpha Ray Jones, Elbert Lynn Jones & C.A. White Trucking Co. & Frank Crane individually was incorrectly listed in the public records section of Sunday's Snyder Daily News.

The suit was listed as having been dismissed on a motion from the plaintiffs in the case.

In fact, the suit was dismissed only as to defendant Frank Crane. The suit against the remaining defendants remains in force.

A 1907 earthquake killed 1,400 persons in Kingston, Jamaica.

Truck terminal now proposed

Questions related to the change were raised Monday by adjacent property owner Clara Jones who owns a farm north of U.S. Hwy. 84 across from the proposed terminal site.

After discussion, the zone change request was passed on first reading unanimously.

In other zone change actions, the council approved on first reading a request to rezone two lots and a portion of a third located in the 1000 Block of 24th St. from R-3 (general residential) to C-2 (commercial).

The change was requested by Stan Pavlik, and he indicated he intends to build a structure to be used for construction offices and a beauty shop.

The measure passed by a 5-1 vote with Councilman Don Osborn voting against.

In addition, the council approved unanimously a request to rezone a portion of a 2.1 acre tract located in the 100 Block of 37th St. from R-1 (single family residential) to C-2 (commercial).

This change will allow opening a child day care center in the structure formerly used for the Snyder Christian School sponsored by the Agape Fellowship church.

The request was submitted Monday by the current owner of the property, Gene Best.

One zoning change request was denied by the council Monday after protests to it were voiced by adjacent homeowners.

Jack and Kay Willis, who indicated they would soon be moving back to Snyder, had requested four lots and a portion of a fifth located in the 2100 and 2200 Block of Ave. Z be rezoned from R-2 (limited multi-family) to R-3 (general residential).

This change would allow them to setup a double-wide mobile home on a lot which includes a house they said they planned to renovate.

Opposition to this was raised by three property owners attending the meeting, among them Don Tucker. He noted that while the Willis' indicated the mobile home move-in would only be temporary, changing the zoning would allow such mobile homes to be located there henceforth.

The council denied the request by a 5-1 vote with Tommy Davis voting against.

Under "old business," the council approved on second and final reading an ordinance placing a "no parking" sign adjacent to Snyder Nursing Center — with Joe Fowler abstaining from the vote — and an ordinance rezoning five lots located in the Noble Heights Addition south of 37th St. from R-2 (limited multi-family) to C-2 (commercial). This change was requested by David Strunk, who has indicated he plans to build storage units there.

Under "new business," the council approved a preliminary plat for a block located in the 3200 Block of Ave. V. The request was submitted by Randy Perkins. It was noted a change of ownership for the property is still to be legally effected and the council indicated approval of a final plat would be pending the proper change of ownership.

School agenda for Tuesday told

Trustees are now considering a similar study from TASB related to auxiliary staff members.

The intent of both surveys is to determine where Snyder ISD pay levels rank compared to districts of similar size and tax resources.

Other agenda items listed Tuesday include bid items. These include bids for paper goods and janitorial supplies used by the district; and a rebid involving a station wagon let by the board at the June meeting. The bid change is required since the vehicle as specified is not currently in stock by the low bidder.

In addition, trustees are to consider TEA requested revisions to the district discipline management plan; a request to use a school bus to transport a group representing the Scurry County Association for Retarded Citizens to a performance of "TEXAS" in Canyon; and the resignations of two school staffers.

charge.

Also free after posting bonds to felony charges Monday are Denny Ray Foust and Lee Wayne Foust of Sweetwater.

Both men were indicted Monday on charges of forgery by passing for allegedly paying for merchandise at the Snyder TG&Y April 30 with checks drawn on the account of Joseph Corona of Snyder.

Both men posted bonds of $3,000 through the Nolan County sheriff's office.

Indicted for felony driving while intoxicated were 25-year-old Henry Carrisalez of 909 N Ave. M; 23-year-old Dennis Wayne Lee of Odessa; and 23-year-old Willie Mack Berkley of 208 Chestnut St.

All three were arrested during the month of June and are currently free after posting bonds of $2,000 each.

Three raise senior center local funding

Due to a loss of some $8,000 in grant monies provided through the West Central Texas Council of Governments, three local entities have agreed to increase each's share of operating expenses related to the Scurry County Senior Citizens Center.

The latest of these is the Snyder city council, which voted unanimously Monday to up its annual contribution from $28,500 to $31,200 for the coming budget year.

This represents an increase of $2,700, the same amount also increased by Western Texas College trustees, which administers the center's operation, and Scurry County commissioners.

Bringing the request to the city Monday was Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president.

Vehicle hits parked auto

A Snyder woman and her daughter reportedly sustained minor injuries in a one-vehicle traffic mishap in the city shortly after midnight Monday.

Listed as injured in the 12:08 a.m. accident were Debra Sue Henderson of 100 37th St. and her 5-year-old daughter, Alisha Brooks Henderson.

Both reportedly sustained minor injuries including cuts and bruises when the 1976 Subaru driven by the mother collided with a parked 1976 Buick in the 2700 Block of 37th St.

Owner of that vehicle was listed a Vikkie Whisenant of 2702 37th St.

After receiving medical treatment, Debra Henderson was charged with driving while intoxicated by police.

Window broken by thrown rock

Police are investigating an apparent criminal mischief incident discovered early Tuesday morning.

Officers on routine patrol reported finding at 4:36 a.m. a window broken on the north side of the C&W Food Store at the intersection of Huffman Ave. and U.S. Hwy. 84.

According to reports, a rock had apparently been thrown through the window.
