SHANGHAI, Aug. 6. (Wednesday) (AP)—Two thousand Chinese were executed while Communists were in possession of Changsha, Hunan province capital, Japanese press dispatches said today. In addition 4,000 Chinese were missing, either executed or kidnaped.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5. (AP)—Nationalist military reports tonight said all forces the government could muster were being dispatched to Hunan and Shantung provinces in an effort to halt the northern rebel alliance drive.

Upwards of 30,000 Nationalists have arrived at Tsingtao, Shantung, from Canton, southern China, to be hurried into line against the northerners along the Tsingtao-Tsinanfu railway.

A government dispatch from Nanking said Hunan provincial troops had re-entered Changsha, looted by Reds. This report was received here with great reserve.

MORE WARSHIPS SENT INTO AREA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5. (AP)—Aroused by further outrages against foreigners in China by bandit-Communist armies, foreign governments today ordered additional warships to proceed up the Yangtse river to reenforce 11 gunboats at Hankow and five at Changsha.

Despite announcement of the Nationalist government its troops had re-entered Changsha, recently razed by the Reds, the situation was considered grave there and Hankow, which is threatened by approaching Communist armies.

The American gunboat Luzon arrived at Hankow today, prepared to aid the U. S. S. Palos, on which five sailors were wounded in two clashes with Reds recently while protecting foreigners.

Leaving Sasebo, Japan, for Shanghai, four Japanese destroyers were rushing to join others in the Yangtse patrol.

New Outrages

New outrages against British nationals included the wounding of three sailors at Changsha in a gunboat engagement with Communists;

Bailey, who since has assigned it to T. B. Slick.

ALLEN LEADS KANSAS VOTE

Hoover Spokesman Wins Primary Contest

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 5. (AP)—Steadily increasing his lead, Frank (Chief) Haucke, young ex-service man, tonight held a margin of 11,264 votes over Gov. Clyde M. Reed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination on returns from 526 of the state's 2,661 precincts. The vote: Haucke, 42,222; Reed, 30,958.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 5. (UP)—With Senator Henry J. Allen continuing to hold a substantial lead over his three opponents for the Republican nomination to succeed himself, political leaders here tonight declared these early returns might be taken as an indication Kansas still is standing behind President Hoover and his program for farm relief.

Allen often is referred to as the "Hoover spokesman in the senate." The Kansas junior senator's lead, almost two to one in early returns, was certain to be cut down, however, as country precincts are tabulated. Ralph Snyder, farmer, and James F. Getty, lawyer, are running close to him in some reports.

Scattered reports from 43 counties indicated the race between Gov. Clyde M. Reed and Frank "Chief" Haucke for the Republican gubernatorial nomination would be closer than expected. With 16,432 votes tabulated, Haucke held a lead of less than 1,000.

18 Convicts Injured in Race Riot Among Inmates of New York Prison

White and Negro Prisoners Battle Over Possession of Baseball Diamond on Recreation Ground

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (AP)—Eighteen prisoners were injured late today in a riot between whites and negroes which began when negro prisoners monopolized the baseball diamond on the recreation ground at Welfare Island in the East river.

The trouble began yesterday when white prisoners went to the field and found negro prisoners using the diamond. Threats were exchanged at that time but guards were able to prevent violence.

Today, however, the negroes again got possession of the diamond and a general fight broke out in which about 200 prisoners took part. Pending the arrival of police emergency squads from Manhattan the fire department company on the island turned streams of water on the rioters in an effort to stop the fight.

When rioting continued despite the efforts of the firemen additional aid was asked from police headquarters and four emergency trucks with machine guns and tear gas bombs were rushed to the stairway at the middle of the Queensboro bridge, which leads down to the island. A police boat with additional police was also sent across the river to the island.

Shortly after the police reached the island the riot subsided and the prisoners were herded back to their quarters. The emergency trucks then returned to Manhattan.

U. S. Denies 'Snubbing' Argentina Stockmen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—State department officials sought today to squelch gossip that the American government had deliberately omitted Argentina from a group of Latin-American countries invited to participate in livestock exhibition to be held in St. Louis and Chicago.

As a result of published dispatches saying it appeared a "diplomatic snub" had been administered Argentina, officials explained the American government merely transmitted the invitations on behalf of private interests, and had nothing to do with omission of so large a livestock producer as Argentina.

INVESTIGATORS AT FREDERICK

Three State Officials To Study Liquor Charges

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 5.—Three Oklahoma City investigators, including Ed Crossland from the attorney general's office, J. G. Armstrong, special investigator for Governor Holloway, and Clint Myers, arrived in Frederick Tuesday to conduct a one-day inquiry into an alleged "liquor ring" involving Tillman county officials.

P. V. Ruch, county attorney, C. A. Wages, sheriff, and Robert Rodgers, constable are all under federal charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition laws following statements made by Bud Walls, former peace officer, exposing an alleged protection system. Walls is now under three federal charges.

The three Oklahoma City officers expect to complete their investigation Wednesday. Crossland will return Aug. 14 to meet with a special Tillman county grand jury which is to inquire into the charges.

It developed Tuesday that a number of witnesses who were to have been quizzed by the state officials had disappeared from their homes and offices Tuesday and were reported temporarily out of the city.

Ruch and Wages are both back in their Frederick offices after making bond in Oklahoma City Sunday. They entered pleas of not guilty and charged that they were the victims of "racketeering" in the preliminary hearing.

Friends of Sheriff Wages, who is in the Democratic run-off against William McAfee have rallied to his support, expressing their confidence in advertisements published in the daily and weekly newspapers.

U. S. POPULATION IS 122,728,873

Continental Census Shows Big Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—The population of continental United States on the basis of official preliminary census figures is 122,728,873.

This figure was compiled tonight from official announcements given Associated Press bureaus by census supervisors in the various states after completing the enumeration which began April 2.

Only one district in the United States—in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania—was incomplete but a preliminary estimate tonight by the census supervisor placed its population at 1,319.

The total figure for the United States' population is, however, subject to revision in the census bureau's official announcement which is not expected for another week or more.

Territories of the United States and outlying possessions, not included in the continental United States total, bring the nation's grand total of population to 137,501,561. This figure includes an estimate for the Philippine Islands whose census is controlled by the insular government which has not made an enumeration for several years.

Continental United States had 105,710,620 people 10 years ago,

PAYNE TO FACE QUESTIONING IN FATAL BLAST

District Attorney to File Murder Charges In Unsolved Case

SCRIBE FINDS CLUE

Accused Lawyer Rushed To Adjoining County For Safe Keeping

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 5. (AP)—A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney, tonight was arrested and placed in jail in connection with the investigation of his wife's death June 27, when a bomb demolished Payne's automobile. His 9-year-old son was maimed by the explosion. E. W. Thomerson, district attorney, said he was preparing charges of murder for filing against Payne.

Mayor Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo was assisting the district attorney. Officials said the direct clues which led to the arrest of Payne were uncovered by A. B. MacDonald, staff correspondent of the Kansas City Star, who came to Amarillo to work on the case.

Removed From County

Immediately after his arrest, Payne was hurried to the county jail at Pampa, as a safety measure against possible mob violence.

District Attorney Thomerson said a statement had been obtained from Miss Verona Thompson, Payne's former secretary, asserting Payne had made violent love to her and had taken her driving numerous times.

When Payne was arrested, officers found on him two letters purportedly written by safe blowers. One was addressed to the sheriff and the other to police and both claimed that on the night of June 26—the night preceding the explosion which killed Mrs. Payne—a quantity of explosive had been placed in Payne's car by mistake.

Walked to Town

On June 27, Payne left his car at home and walked to town, several miles distant, accompanied by his small daughter. He afterward told officers that he had left the car at home for his wife to use while shopping in preparation for a vacation trip the family planned.

Mrs. Payne and her son started from home in the car several hours afterward. They had driven about 10 blocks when smoke suddenly began to fill the sedan and a few seconds later a terrific explosion blasted the automobile to bits, tore Mrs. Payne's body to shreds and cast the boy's mutilated body on the lawn of a house nearby.

Boy Recovers

The boy lingered near death many days but finally recovered, although one arm had been almost torn from his body by the explosion and he was badly maimed.

Detectives who investigated the explosion found bits of metal scattered about the scene of the explosion which they declared were fragments of a nitroglycerin or T.N.T. bomb. They also expressed the opinion, after viewing the wreckage, that ignition wires on the car had been tampered with and that the explosive machine had been placed directly under the driver's seat in the car.

Payne insisted at that time that he knew of no enemy who would have made an attempt upon his own life or of members of his family. Nothing further in the investigation had been made public until Payne's arrest tonight.

Asks Investigation

Payne called last week at the office of Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, and requested that the editor make a personal investigation. He said the authorities were making no progress in apprehending the slayer of his wife and he welcomed an inquiry by newspaper men.

Howe immediately telegraphed the Kansas City Star and requested

SCURRY LISTS DEMO LEADERS

Regulars Hold 2-1 Majority In County Committee

A check of the newly elected Wichita county Democratic executive committee, completed by Judge Edgar Scurry, retiring chairman, Tuesday afternoon showed the regulars in control with 29 members against 15 aligned with the 1928 bolter group. Precinct 43 failed to elect a committeeman, Judge Scurry explained. The vacancy will be filled by appointment when the new chairman, Bert King, takes office after the second primary.

J. W. Bussy, elected from precinct 40, explained that he did not vote in the 1928 general election and had not bolted the ticket, but that he is a member of the "non-partisan league" and his sympathies lie more with the minority group than with the regulars.

The present roster of the committee includes the following members classified as "regulars": Nat L. Inge, K. H. Anderson, W. A. Bandy, Dr. L. Mackechney, R. L. McFall, John R. Macknechney, C. B. County Board to Hear Assessment Protests

Protests on tax valuation increases in Wichita county will be heard Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday when members of the county commissioners court meet as a board of equalization. Approximately 1,500 notices have been mailed to property owners, nonresidents, and oil companies, announcing that the assessments have been raised and calling for a hearing.

The valuations have been increased only where they fell below the amount given for 1929, it was explained. In those cases the court proposes to put the assessment back to its former sum unless reasons for the reduction can be established. Except where improvements have been added, no valuations have been raised over the 1929 standard.

Archer Grand Jury Makes Final Report

In its final report to Judge Allan D. Montgomery Tuesday afternoon, the 30th district grand jury for Archer county returned nine additional bills of indictments, bringing the total to 14 for the term.

The other seven named in the indictments are not yet under arrest, Sam Spence, district attorney, announced. Five of the bills allege forgery and two charge swindling.

Donath and McNeill will both be brought to trial Wednesday morning. The case of V. L. Lemons, charged with possessing and transporting whisky is also set for the day.

Moody and Ferguson To Speak Thursday

didacy, on Sterling's declaration that he would bolt the party if "Ma" Ferguson is nominated and on the nomination of Dr. George C. Butte by the Republican forces.

"Sterling will get awful mad," Ferguson said today, "when somebody calls his attention to the fact that when Felix Robertson and George Butte were making the same charges against my wife of being a proxy candidate for me in 1924, that his political son, Dan Moody, was voting for my wife and begging me to support him for attorney general. They are just taking poor Sterling's money on a chalk mark and it is a measly shame.

W. C. T. U. Statement

"No matter what they say about my good wife, if I should die tomorrow, I know, and everyone else knows, she is far superior and would make a better governor than Sterling can ever hope to make."

The W. C. T. U. statement, issued today at Austin, said in part:

"Mrs. Ferguson said through her husband that she favored ousting any official who drank liquor. Mr. Ferguson at the same time assured the people that the statement would not affect them. Therefore we believe the election of the Fergusons would mean placing the highest power in the hands of an enemy of all prohibition laws."

In announcing that he would not bolt the party, Sterling said: "My application for a place on the ticket in which I pledged to support the nominee speaks for itself. It still holds good."

Meanwhile official returns from the Republican primary contest for governor gave Butte a majority over three opponents. The state committee will meet at Brownsville to canvass the returns.

REDS EXECUTE 2,000 CHINESE

More Gunboats Sent Into Troubled Zone

the probable fatal bayonetting of Mrs. A. R. J. Hearne at Puchen and the sending of a severed finger of a woman missionary with demand for $50,000 ransom for herself and companion, held captive a month.

The Communist menace sweeping the Yangtse valley affected the great southern provinces of Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsi and Fukien. Dispatches from far flung areas throughout these provinces said numerous Red bands numbering from a few hundred to 10,000 continued to pillage towns and rob the populace without opposition.

Foreigners Flee

Foreigners throughout those areas were fleeing toward river and coastal cities. Whereabouts of many of them was unknown here. The majority were missionaries, recalled for safety.

Headquarters here of several missions reported varying proportions of their inland staffs had reached places of refuge, while others were bottled up at interior towns, avoiding the Reds, but unable to reach treaty ports. Still others, it was feared, had fallen into the hands of marauders.

Along the Yangtse between Kiukiang and Hankow, the Communists for 24 hours have been looting and burning villages, apparently seeking to terrorize country folk into joining them.

Kiukiang Doomed

Kiukiang advices said fears were growing that the city was doomed to Red attack shortly, as 10,000 Communists were reported advancing from the west. Additional foreigners departed from Kiukiang today for safe areas.

From Hankow came word that uneasiness continued at high pitch in Wuchang, Hankow and Hanyang as Reds were reported planning an attack. The Chinese populace was forming a volunteer defense force to prevent repetition there of the wholesale robbery and murder perpetrated by Communists at Changsha.

Reds continued active north of Hankow, extorting money and supplies from the helpless populace.

With severance of the Peking-Hankow railway, the large foreign missionary colony at Kikungshan, southern Honan province, became isolated. The place contained a Lutheran colony of 200. They were considered in no immediate danger, although unable to depart.

Foreign wireless reports from Kiangsi province said Communist capture of Nanchung, the capital, was considered a matter of hours, as the Red legions virtually surrounded the city and were greatly superior to the meager defending troops.

Other Reds were believed planning to cut the Nanchang-Kukiang railway south of Kuikiang.

Members of the same Communist force captured Hsiaho at the southwestern base of Kuling mountain.

Information of the situation at Changsha was brought to Hankow by the Spanish Catholic priest Father Baima. He was held captive by the Reds at Changsha five days after they captured the city and was in constant danger of execution. His extensive knowledge of the Chinese language and acquaintance with several Communist leaders gained him permission to depart Friday on an Italian gunboat.

Father Baima said up to that time destruction of mission property while extensive, was not complete. All foreign properties, he said, were looted, while many foreign buildings were burned.

Reds, the priest believed, extorted $3,000,000, Mexican cash from Changsha Chinese merchants, while property owners were compelled to pay rents and taxes two months in advance. The Communists burned all properties where demanded funds were not forthcoming.

DIRIGIBLES TO RULE AT WAR

Ingalls Describes Value Of Rigid Airships

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5. (AP)—As super-carriers of airplanes the military future of the giant dirigibles was described today by David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, as assured beyond doubt.

In presenting the Gordon Bennett international balloon race trophy to Ward T. Van Orman before an aviation meeting of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, Ingalls said he believed the modern dirigible "practically invulnerable when operated at sea."

The two airships contracted for the navy, one of which is to be completed next year, he said, would far surpass the airplane for observation at sea, and would be able to scout 20 times the area of a cruiser.

"The airplane with only one or two engines and a few hours of fuel is obviously greatly restricted and limited in its operation and must restrain itself within reasonable distance of surface vessels to afford a base," he said. "The rigid airships may cruise for days and days and for thousands of miles affording, through radio communication, information of inestimable value to our fleet.

"Each rigid airship is capable of carrying within its hold five or six airplanes and of launching them and taking them on board again during flight," he continued. "These planes are the striking force of the rigid airship and may be used to bomb machine guns, enemy planes, bases and ships."

Ingalls praised Orman for the work he had done in free ballooning, an art which he described as "still a very important factor in our rigid airship development."

Britain's Antarctic Claims Challenged

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 5. (AP)—Many of Great Britain's claims in the antarctic, particularly in the Falk-land Islands, are challengeable on the basis of right of discovery, Dr. Laura H. Martin, geologist and geographer of Washington, D. C., told members of the institute of politics today.

In an address before the conference on "problems of sovereignty in the arctic and antarctic," Dr. Martin said Great Britain asserted dominion over several polar areas extending beyond parts discovered by Englishmen.

The recent flights of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in antarctic have again brought to the fore the question of whether the United States might claim land in the antarctic on the basis of discovery, Dr. Martin stated.

The United States has so far never claimed land in the antarctic, she pointed out, nor acknowledged Great Britain's claims to the region used for Admiral Byrd's base and his flights.

Arrogant Mussolini
Fools in the Trees
Words That Live
Nothing Is Lost

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The refusal by Mussolini of all proffers of aid to afflicted Italy is in bad taste. He is simply revealing an arrogant pride which the world will take note of and deal with when the time comes. A true diplomat would have acted with more courteous circumspection. But he doesn't care whom he offends, evidently.

The decision of Utah, Chicago and New York to unseat their marathon tree-sitters by court order is to be commended. Tree-sitting, if it continued for a million years, could never do anybody any good. All it has accomplished so far is damage to trees and an increase of idiocy. Establishing a record in such things simply proves that fools are still plentiful.

Whatever is once written, no matter how faded or scored, remains ineradicable. This is the discovery and achievement of a new application of electricity, which will recapture the "ghost" words of many priceless and forgotten books of lore for the delight of scholars who, hitherto, counted them lost.

A mercury vapor lamp generating ultra-violet rays is used for the purpose. By using a special filter, surface writing is absorbed from the page and the lost words made to appear. A similar process is adopted in restoring the original colors and designs of old canvases. Nothing, in a word, need be considered lost. If Moses, for instance, had made a copy of the Ten Commandments in his own hand, and the tablet could be found, it would be decipherable.

A young violinist, Guido Naccia-rone, whose arrest for smoking in the subway revealed his pitiful plight, will thank fate for his misdemeanor. Through it he has now secured some money and the promise of a job.

Men who are only half unfortunate are the most unlucky, for they sit on the fence of circumstances, in a paralyzed state of inaction. Despair often stirs to inspirational impulse. Many a rise in fortune is due to the courage of despair. The greatest deeds are often accomplished in those moments when death seems to be the only way out.

Earl Carroll, fighting a losing battle in America in the cause of nudity, will be interested in what is happening in Spain, where a famous painting of an undraped beauty, the Maja of Goya, has been reproduced on a postage stamp. Censors, much to their vexation, have found no law yet to exclude the stamp from coming in on letters addressed to citizens in the United States.

Hypocrites will veil their faces when they behold the Goya engravings, but they will collect them secretly.

People sitting on their own chairs on the beach at Coney Island are arrested for a violation of the law. If they hire chairs and pay for them they are not molested. Police are spending more energy in the enforcement of this law than protection of citizens against gunmen and racketeers. Who is getting the money for the paid chairs and why are the police so active about it? A wise magistrate should inquire into this graft.

W. Bernard Vause, former county judge of Brooklyn, buries his face in his hands, probably to show his lack of emotion, as he is found guilty of mail fraud and conspiracy on 13 counts. Whatever the sentence, he will deserve what he gets. Placed on the bench to weigh justice he preyed on the poor and is no better than the average racketeer.

"An' Gran-dad Morrow hain't so bad either when it comes to lightin' 'cat where he starts out fer," said Tell Barkley in discussin' Lindbergh's luck. If ther's any tired business men it must be on account o' too much golf.

Farmers in an Illinois town reported that potatoes they dug during the hot spell had been baked by the sun. After such a burn, of course, the skin peeled itself.

The Real "Red" Menace

A CONGRESSIONAL committee has been spending several weeks investigating the activities in this country of Russian Communist plotters; and since some of the committeemen seem to be badly alarmed about things, it might be just as well to look into this "Russian question" and see just what the outlook may be.

There is little question but that the Russian form of society is basically antagonistic to our own. Furthermore, it is quite possible, even probable, that during the next few years this antagonism will bear more fruit than it has done in the past.

But it is worth noting that whatever danger this situation may mean for us will probably come, not from Russian agitators in this country, but from the things that happen in Russia itself.

The Russians are just beginning to get started on a vast co-operative farming movement. Enormous wheat farms are being put into operation on a co-operative basis. These farms are owned by the government. They are designed to produce bumper crops; and the great point to be remembered is that the government has no desire to make a profit on these crops.

Now it happens that American experts are helping the Russians start this big experiment. Thomas D. Campbell, the famous Montana wheat grower, has been supervising the operations of the farms. Americans have financed and built a huge factory at Stalingrad to build 50,000 tractors a year. The result is that Russian wheat production can be expected to soar mightily in the next few years.

Bear in mind, now, what this implies. Russia will have a huge export surplus in wheat. She will be able to dump it on world markets at a price far below the price that other growers can afford to take. She can undersell every wheat grower on earth.

Our tariff can protect our home market. But what will become of the market for American export wheat? Campbell predicts flatly that American growers will have to produce only enough grain for American needs—which would mean a tremendous decrease in American wheat production.

It is going to be the same with other commodities. Russian coal is beginning to undersell American and English coal in world markets—and the Russians have hardly begun to develop their big coal deposits. Russia is now beginning to raise an Asiatic cotton substitute, and some trade experts believe that this eventually will drive American cotton off the world market.

That sort of thing represents a genuine danger. It will have to be met by all the ingenuity and efficiency of which American producers and exporters are capable.

And, by the same token, this impending trade conflict makes the work of red agitators in this country look unimportant. They do not represent the real "red peril." What happens in Russia during the next five or ten years is the thing to watch.

Aftermath of the War

TRYING to make sense out of the late news from China is an almost impossible job. Battle, murder and sudden death seem to have been let loose once more on a wholesale scale, with the city of Changsha coming in for the most attention; but what it is all about, which faction is which, and what the upshot is likely to be are questions that cannot easily be answered.

The one thing that stands out is that China's long period of turmoil is nowhere near an end. A few years ago the emergence of the Nationalistic party made it look as if some sort of order would be maintained. Now the situation looks just as bad as ever, and the one safe bet is that there will be a great deal more violence and bloodshed before China gets a rest.

Changsha was looted by an army said to be under "Red" control. At this distance its leaders look very much like ordinary bandits; they act like them, whether they are inspired by a desire for money or by a yen for Communism, and it is very hard to find any definite set of principles back of any of the revolutionary movements in that country.

That, of course, is what makes the whole business so discouraging Really, though, the mess isn't quite as puzzling as it seems.

In a general way, it is probably true that China, along with most of the rest of the Orient, is still liquidating the world war. That final catastrophe brought on by the militaristic habits of imperial-minded white men was an even greater cataclysm than we usually suppose. Its reverberations have not died away yet, and it will be a long time until they do.

The world war was a most powerful ferment. It not only changed the map of Europe; it loosed on the world a flood of new ideas and new movements, and they are working powerfully. It brought Bolshevism to the surface, and the Bolshevist undoubtedly is at least partly responsible for China's trouble. It filled India with a desire for freedom, as England is discovering to her dismay. From the Nile to the Yellow Sea it stirred men up, broke down old customs and routines and deposited a heritage of turbulence and unrest.

What the final solution will be no man can say. We can understand things better, however, if we recognize the fact that the trouble in the Orient today is largely an outgrowth of the war. It will be a long, long time before the explosion that was touched off 10 years ago stops re-echoing.

Fine Spectacles, Anyway

WHETHER these giant new dirigibles will eventually prove commercially practical as transatlantic passenger carriers or not, it must be admitted that they provide an enormous thrill for the spectator.

Merely to see such an enormous bulk float lightly off into the air is in itself something of a miracle. Add to that the fact that these newest ships have promenade decks, staterooms, dining rooms, bars and other luxurious appointments and you have something irresistible in its appeal.

It may be that their cost will prevent them from becoming money-makers in commercial service. But at any rate they are just about the gaudiest things men have yet constructed.

Query

Well, thank you for your letter, anyway,
I'll overlook its strict formality;
At least you took a little time from play
To pen a few indifferent lines to me;
I rather hoped that you would recollect
That summer when we captured happiness,
But doubtless that is too much to expect
And you have quite forgotten it, I guess.

New songs to sing this year—the old tunes fade,
New lips to kiss—the old have lost their lure;
But I am slow to learn and I'm afraid
Old songs and memories for me endure;
I wonder if your laugh will be as clear—
When this year's songs are last year's songs, my dear!
—DON WAHN.

Things You Never See

Claudette Colbert with wrinkles in her stockings . . . 15 & 5 taxicabs in front of the Ritz . . . Texas Guinan drinking liquor . . . Mae West in a clean play . . . George White in any other tie but a black bow . . . Morris Gest without a cane . . . Peggy Joyce in cotton hose . . . Bobby Coverdale sober as some judges . . . Heywood Broun with a flower in his lapel . . . Jimmy Walker with ketchup stains on his vest, and a ship news photo of a show gel with her columns uncrossed.

Wisey

And Benny Hellman says that show business is so terrible, financially, that a certain manager had to find out for people to double for the audience.

In Case You Didn't Know

The reason Jerry Breitigam (Gerald Breckenridge and Keith Russell to you!) writes his books for boys (Radio Boys series, Young Airmen series, etc.), so prolific is that for years he had to write a chapter daily to read to his own two sons before they went to beddie. They are too big now for that sort of stuff, but the habit persists—hence the steady output and the terrific royalties.

Jerry used to be the city editor of the N. Y. Globe, which blew up just when some of its star writers thought the town couldn't get along without them.

As If We Didn't Know

And Manny Self, who writes better verse, says that when an Earl Carroll girl gets home after the show she puts on some clothes and goes to bed.

Oop!

The Presto-Times, a music journal, complains because it was recorded here under a "Things I Never Knew Till Now" col'm that during a certain week recently not one piano had been sold in N. Y. The defender of the piano trade groans: ". . . and even if New York City didn't sell a single piano for a single week, what of it? How infinitesmal a part of this great nation is New York, although Mr. Winchell may be laboring under the popular delusion of the hoi polloi that civilization of the kind that plays the piano does not exist west of Weehawken, N. J."

And among other things the Presto-Times apparently doesn't know even yet is that you mustn't write it "the hoi polloi." hoi meaning the. Hoi Polloi is Greek for "the masses, the herd."

The Squelch Swelegant

Take it from John Hanratty, a newlywed couple had a small dark apartment in Greenwich Village. The husband, a true Hobohemian had difficulty shaving in the morning so he would shave near the window, holding the mirror in one paw. His squaw, annoyed by his "indecency" said that unless he stopped the practise that she would go to the window and cold cream her face. "And then," she and-then'd, "what do you think the neighbors would say, eh?"

"My dear," he indifferently responded, "they would say I married you for your money."

By Way of Report

It seems that Western Union has but recently stopped the practice of accompanying their telegrams with a profusion of advertising matter. Since this was a rather consistent practice of long standing there must be a reason.

Several are proffered. One of them is the story of a couple who had six children—all girls. Finally the mother was blessed-eventing again while all joined in prayer for a boy. The baby was born—a girl.

While the parents were bemoaning their fate the first congratulatory telegram arrived. They opened the telegram and stared an advertising dodger in the face, bold letters stood out. "If you want a boy call Western Union."

Hic!

The exact cause of hiccoughs is not known, but everyone has his or her pet way of "curing" them. Some of the choice "cures" are holding the breath, pressing the upper lip, counting 10 or 100, drinking water through a 'kerchief, or doing anything that might distract the attention. All of which, however, is a lotta malarky, as Joe Laurie Jr., would say.

You remember the war yarn about the two doughboys in the trenches with cannon exploding all around them. Suddenly one was seized with the hiccups. He turned to his buddy and said: "Do something to scare me."

Add Merciless Truths

One of the popular restaurants catering to the so-called celebrities has a slogan, viz: "From a Sandwich to an Institution!"

One of the wags who was charged $1.50 for two slices of bread with some ham and cheese between them, groaned: "You pay for an institution and you get a sandwich!"

Novelette

J. P. Morgan tells the story himself. The famous financier was visiting one of the wine cellars in a French cafe, and picked out two bottles of Burgundy of an ancient and renowned vintage. "I want these," said J. P.

"But no, that cannot be, they are not for sale," protested the proprietor, "they are too, too precious!"

Undaunted, Mr. Morgan slipped the two bottles under his coat, and the cafe owner later found a blank check signed with the famous Morgan signature.

A check—he has never cashed!

"STEP-CHILD"

By ROD EDEN

Kay Smith can remember nothing about her past not even her name. She works in the office of Dane Talbot, whom she loves though he is engaged to Julie Drew. On the trail of a fresh clue to her identity, Kay goes to San Francisco, only to find she has been tricked.

CHAPTER XXIV

"So I'm just Kay Smith after all," the girl murmured, half to herself, half to Edith, who sat on the seat opposite her.

Edith wanted desperately to sympathize with Kay, but did not know how. There seemed nothing she could say that would help matters. Better to say nothing at all.

"I almost had myself believing I was Katharine Ford," she went on, still in monotone. "All the time, I was wondering what she was like, and hoping she would be what I pictured her." All the bitterness, the worry she had gone through when she thought she was Kitty Banning came back to her. Then it was anxiety left she really be Kitty Banning. Horror of the girl she really hadn't seen. Terror that she was Kitty.

Now only disappointment. Somehow, she had wanted to be Katharine Ford. Longed to be. Perhaps it was the letters which still lay in her purse. She could not bear to throw them away. When she got home, she would put them beside the rogue's gallery pictures of Kitty. Two girls she wasn't. Kitty Banning and Katharine Ford.

If only she hadn't wanted to be Katharine so much . . .

"Do you think I'll ever know?" she asked Edith.

"I don't know, Kay. I hope so." Edith was disappointed, too. Because she knew Kay wanted so badly to be Katharine Ford, she wanted her to be, too. The child had gone through so much. Her fault, entirely. She shouldn't have consented to go in such a hurry. She should have gone to Dr. Raleigh first, Dane Talbot also. Either of them would have looked up Mrs. Ford, found it all a hoax before they set out on this wild goose chase. For that's what it was. A wild goose chase.

Futile Search

Edith blamed herself entirely for what Kay had suffered. The hurry of their departure. Kay's sudden glorious enthusiasm. The hope.

They hadn't believed Mr. Malcolm at first. It didn't seem possible. The futile search through directories. All a nightmare, with Kay still hoping on, until they had exhausted the last chance.

Mr. Malcolm had helped them willingly. He had even come down to the train to put them on, when they finally decided to go. Edith had hurried their departure, wishing to get Kay away from the city where she had had her worst disappointment. Kay had protested at first, saying she had no money for the trip, but Edith had enough for both, and her arguments won out in the end.

The trip out—hopes so high. This trip back, Hope gone.

"If I could understand it, Edith," Kay was saying, "If I could only understand why that $300 was in the letter. It seemed so genuine. Getting the money and all."

"I know. It did to me, too." Edith had been wondering constantly about the money angle. She could not get it out of her mind. Three hundred dollars was a lot of money to spend as a joke. And certainly the trip to San Francisco had been a joke. Except that it was a poor joke.

Again and again the two girls looked at the letter, and the postmark on the envelope. It was genuine. San Francisco. No doubting that. Air mail. It had been sent from that city.

"Edith, I don't know anyone who would do such a thing to me. I know so few people, practically nobody. The people at the office, you, the hospital force, Dr. Raleigh. No one I know would fool me this way. Disappoint me. When everyone knows how anxious I am, how eager I am to know the truth about myself."

Jim Whalen? Kay had forgotten him for a moment. The thought of him came sickly over her. Ridiculous that he should do such a thing. She hadn't seen him since that evening at the hotel. And he didn't know, anyway, anything about her. He couldn't have done this. Besides there was no point in his doing it.

The handbag she had bought for her mother. It still lay in her bag. She tried to smile about it now, but the smile was wry, unmirthful.

The mother she had wanted so badly. The mother, who was now as much of a myth as ever.

Edith was asking for the letters. Kay pulled them from her bag, and gave them to the nurse, who studied them for the hundredth time.

"Now, Kay, think back a minute. Does this handwriting look familiar to you?"

"I've told you a dozen times it doesn't," the girl answered wearily.

"Haven't you seen it recently?"

"What do you mean?"

"I think that somebody deliberately wrote this letter, or got someone to write it. Have you ever seen any handwriting like this—recently? Since the time you came to the hospital?"

"No, I haven't."

"Somebody just wasted $300—that's all, Kay. Plain wasted it."

Home Again

"I can't see the point of throwing $300 away."

Edith couldn't, either.

The apartment seemed like home again to Kay, when they reached it. Dusty, in disorder, it was yet the only home she knew. It was cleaned and tidy, though, when Dr. Raleigh called that evening in answer to a message from Edith. After he had heard the story, he consulted the letters, but could make nothing of them. He uttered no word of reproach for Edith and Kay, fully understanding the excitement which had hurried them from New York.

"Well, what do you think?" Edith asked impatiently. She was anxious for his opinion.

"I can make nothing from the letters, Miss Nason. Nothing. They might belong to Kay's past Easily. She knows no one at the present who would play upon her nerves as these letters have done. At least I hope she doesn't. Do you, Kay?"

Kay said she didn't. Jim Whalen couldn't have written them.

He didn't have the intelligence nor the culture.

"The best thing to do, I believe," he continued, "is to say as little about them as possible. Whoever sent the there hundred dollars had a definite purpose, and that person may show his hand again. What do you say, Kay, to coming to my office for a month? My office girl is leaving for a trip south to visit her family, and I want a substitute while she is gone. You'll do perfectly. No nursing at all, for I have two nurses, but I'll merely want you to look after the telephone, receive my patients, and make out my statements every month. The work will be a change, and I can have you close to me. In this way, if anything happens, I'll be close at hand."

"What could happen?" Kay asked amazed.

"Nothing that I can think of. But I'm not going to have you running out on any more wild goose chases. And the work won't be hard. Mr. Talbot has probably gotten someone for your place. My girl will not leave until the end of the week, but you can start tomorrow and learn the job."

Kay hesitated. She would rather, far rather, go back to Dane Talbot's office where she could see him every day, be near him. If she went to Dr. Raleigh's office she might never see him again. . . .

Before she had time to think further, she quietly told Dr. Raleight she would be glad to come to him. There it was settled. It had settled itself. She wasn't going back to Dane's office. And being away from him, she could forget him. He belonged to Julie. Loved Julie. Wanted her, or else he would not want her to be his wife.

"Fine!" Raleigh exclaimed, and found his hat.

But Kay would not let him go yet. "Do you think—do you think I'll ever know about myself? Is it as hopeless as it seems?"

"I think you'll know some time, Kay. Don't worry. And, child, I'm going to ask you to do something for me. Something you won't mind doing. It isn't ethical, in my profession, but I'm interested in Madame Marcia. I want you to go back to her as soon as possible.

"I don't believe for a minute in fortune telling, but Madame Marcia helped you, once, and she might be able to help you again. It will do no harm." His eyes were twinkling as he left.

"Well, that's settled," Kay said. as soon as the door closed after him.

"What?"

"I'm not going back to Dane's office. You're glad, aren't you, Edith?"

"In a way I am. I think it's better that way. The sooner you try to forget Mr. Talbot, the better."

"I guess so—," the girl sighed. "Is it too late to go up to Madame Marcia's tonight?"

Edith didn't think so, so they started out. The waiting room was crowded, but as soon as the seeress heard Kay was there, she took her in.

"I sent for you last week," she chided, "but I couldn't find you home."

Kay wasn't frightened by the big room this time. It seemed good to her, with all its shadows creeping from the corners. Even the desk where she sat opposite Madame Marcia appeared to smile at her. A few coals glowed cheerfully in the fireplace. A low bowl of purple violets on a table near by wafted a sweet fragrance through the warm library.

A friendliness about Madame Marcia that Kay liked.

"Did you want to see me about anything particular when you sent for me?" she asked.

Half Solution

"I've been thinking about you a lot. Can't get you out of my mind. I thought I'd better see you, and find out what it meant. And you?"

Kay pulled out the letters which by this time were slightly soiled and ruffled at the edges. She explained in detail the futility of her trip to San Francisco.

Madame Marcia was silent for a long time, and her slender fingers were touching the letters. It was almost as if she were feeling the words on them.

"What do you think about them?" Her eyes were on Kay's face, but her fingers still wandered over the papers.

"I don't know what to think, Dr. Rawleigh suggested that they might have something to do with my past."

"I doubt it," Madame Marcia said emphatically. "I doubt it. No, I think the letters belong to your present. Decidedly. A woman write them."

"A woman?"

"Yes, child, a woman. More than that I can't tell you, but I know enough about handwriting

A.—It is believed that it originated in Hungary, where it was an ancient custom to wear a feather in the cap when one had killed a Turk. The number of slain enemies was indicated by the number of feathers.

Q.—How is it known that manufacture of glass was in a high state of perfection in very early times?—M. E. P.

Q.—When was The Poetic Edda written?—W. M.

A.—It is not known when the lays of the Edda originated or how long they had existed in oral form before they were written, but it is believed that they took their present form during the Viking Age between the years 900 and 1050. They were written in Iceland or some other island colonized by Norwegians or in Norway.

Q.—How large will the new transatlantic Zeppelins be?—A. M.

A.—The first of Germany's new Zeppelins, the L-Z-126, will carry 120 passengers, their luggage, a crew of 46, and 10 tons of mail and express packages. It will have a displacement of 5,287,800 cubic feet and a cruising speed of 75 miles an hour. The new super-Zeppelin will be 813 feet long and 852 feet high. Three days crossings of the Atlantic are planned with eventually two ships a week leaving each side.

Q.—Why is it that the supreme court has to pay postage on its letters? Why doesn't it enjoy franking privileges like the other government departments?—C. A. B.

A.—The justices of the supreme court do enjoy the franking privilege when writing on official business. The clerk of the court handles most of the correspondence and his office is supported by fees paid by litigants and most of his correspondence is to litigants about their cases. The fees of the clerk are paid by litigants, and if the government were to grant the franking privilege on such matters it would amount to paying postage on private cases.

The Record News Offers A Booklet, The Home Helper

There are 150 ways of simplifying housekeeping, according to the experts who prepared this booklet which is now available to Record News readers. These experts proceed to enumerate almost every conceivable home help from how to select the most serviceable broom to how to clean a barrel. Cleaning a barrel is admittedly one of the more modern problems of housekeeping, dating from the time when making home brew became an important activity in many domestic establishments. Other suggestions in the booklet will be found of more universal interest, however.

Send for a copy today, enclosing 10 cents in coin or stamps to cover cost and postage charges. Use the coupon.

Don't Live With Your Children, Widow Advised

Where Can a Widow Find Companionship After Her Sons Marry?—Easy Mark Who Lends Money at His Family's Expense—Blood vs. Breeding.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widow of 50, with two sons who are about to be married. What am I to do? I don't mean for support, but for companionship? I don't fit in with the young people and, believe me, I spend some mighty lonesome times. Don't say "How about your friends?" You can't impose on them all the time. Most of my friends are married and I hate to stick around with them. What shall I do?—"YOURS IN HOPE."

Answer—There is one thing not to do, and that is not to go and live with your sons when they are married. There are thousands of well-to-do widowed mothers, such as you are, who saddle themselves on their children when they get married just because they are terrorized by the bogey of lonesomeness. And the result is almost inevitable disaster.

Don't make this mistake. Believe me, no woman is ever so lonely as the mother is who finds herself an unwanted third in her children's homes, and who realizes that they drag her around with them not because they want her, but because it is the decent and polite thing to do.

Personally, I think that it is a sensible thing for a woman to break up her home when her children get married and go to live in some nice boarding house or family hotel, where there is always some one to talk to of evenings and where one does not have to eat ghastly meals alone. Of course, a woman naturally misses her own home, but she can take along the dearest of her belongings, and the society she gets compensates for the loss of her own gas range.

Travel is also a great resource for the woman who is left alone when her children marry. If you have money enough to become a globe-trotter you can go anywhere under the sun in the parties organized by the numerous tourist agencies who conduct you wherever you want to go, look after you when you are sick and generally carry you about as if you were a babe in arms.

These tourist agencies are perfect godsends to the middle-aged and elderly women, who can make the latter years of their life full of thrills and interests by going to new places.

And, of course, you can "see America first," as the slogan goes, and spend your winters in agreeable places and your summers in nice cool ones and everywhere you will pick up new and agreeable friends.

If you have only a modest amount of money, go into some little business. Keep your own house and take a few boarders. Start a little gift shop. Start a flower garden. Raise chickens. Do anything that will keep you busy and occupied. Work is the best remedy for loneliness.

I started out with a "don't" and I end with another "don't". Don't marry some man who comes along and of whom you know nothing, just because you are lonely. There are a lot of dead-beat men who prey on lonely widows.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a fine man, who makes only a fair living. But we could get along, and even realize our ambition to own a little home, except that he is always lending money to any one who asks him for it. Of course, it is rarely repaid, because he is an easy mark for the grafters, and it keeps us strapped for money all the time. I have remonstrated with my husband over and over again, but it is useless. What can I do about it?—MARY.

Answer—I don't know, Mary, unless you can make your husband see how unfair he is to you and the children, and that his first duty is to his family. But I think that it is doubtful that he will listen to reason because that kind of man not only lacks backbone enough to stand up and say "No," but he is an egotist who likes to pose as free-handed and generous.

He gets a kick out of the fact that he is a sort of big man, a moneyed man to whom those without money come to borrow. And you may be sure the ones who get his money flatter and cajole him while they rob him.

A lot of philanthropy is just self-glorification. I know plenty of men whose wives almost have to chloroform them to get enough money to buy a new coat, yet whose names always head every subscription list that is published in the papers.

And I know a lot of men, like your husband, who let their families go without the things they need so that they can maintain their reputation as liberal men by always being ready to lend a few dollars to any one who asks them.

Charity begins at home, and no man has a right to give to his relations or lend money to his friends until he has comfortably provided for the wife and children for whom he is responsible.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I adore my wife, but she often makes me very unhappy by bragging about what an aristocratic family she belongs to, when she well knows that I came of poor and humble people. Before we were married I knew I would have this to contend with, but I loved her too much to take it as seriously as I should. Is my wife right in what she does?—HUSBAND.

Answer—Certainly not.

She may have good blood in her veins, but she is not acting as a lady should when she boasts of her family and humiliates you. In your attitude toward her you show much better breeding than she shows to you.

It is just as vulgar to boast of one's ancestors as it is to boast of one's money, and it is something that a real aristocrat never does. The woman who has to proclaim the fact that she is a lady and the man who has to tell the world he is a gentleman are neither.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have always had the impression that when you really loved any one you thought their every act perfect, but I am in love with a young man who is not so polished in his manners as I would like him to be, nor is his English above reproach. Do you think I could be happy married to him?—DOROTHY.

Answer—You will never marry if you wait to find some one whom you think absolutely perfect. Perhaps you are not perfectly perfect yourself. There are lots of qualities in a man more important than his table manners or his grammar. If you are sure you love your rough diamond and he loves you, marry him and polish him up.—DOROTHY DIX.

Parnell Thanks Voters and Gives Views on Second Primary Contest

Wichitan Urges West Texans to Query Both Witt And Strong on Attitude Toward Section

A statement thanking the voters of Wichita county and West Texas for their strong support in the first primary, and giving his position in regard to the two candidates in the second primary was issued here Tuesday by former Senator J. D. Parnell, third man in the race.

In giving his views on the contest between Sterling P. Strong and Edgar E. Witt, Senator Parnell declared his neutrality, but urged that West Texans query both candidates on their attitude toward much legislation affecting West Texas. He predicted the early arrival of a time when other sections of the state will recognize and accept West Texas candidates on their abilities to serve, rather than considering them on a sectional basis. His statement follows:

"I wish to extend by sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters of Wichita county and my old senatorial district, the 23rd, for the splendid support they gave me during my campaign for lieutenant governor, in the July 26 election. Though I was defeated, it is pleasant to remember the overwhelming majority I received over all my opponents in this section of the state. I carried practically every county in West Texas and most of them by a majority.

"I have no alibi to offer for my defeat except the one that must be given by most of the candidates from West Texas. In the early days we were pioneers in the development of this country, having come from the East to settle the West. At the present day we have ceased to be pioneers in development and have invaded the eastern part of the state for support of western candidates. We shall not always have failures, for the time will soon come when the west will be recognized and sectional strife will be put aside. To this end I shall continue to render whatever service I can for my district and the state at large.

"With the final count of the votes I congratulated the two gentlemen who will go into the run-off for the position to which I aspired. I did not indorse either of them but on the contrary wish to state that those who voted for me can use their own good judgment in casting their vote for either of these gentlemen. I am particularly interested in selecting the one that will at least be considerate of the needs of our section of the state and will assist us in the re-districting bill, which will be before the next legislature. West Texas is entitled to her share of representation in the legislature and we shall contend for it.

"Senator Witt was a member of the senate in 1921, when they failed and refused to re-district the state, according to the 1920 census. I do not know his attitude at this time. Mr. Strong, while in Wichita Falls this week, pledged himself to the support of this measure and any other measure affecting West Texas. I think the people should insist on both candidates expressing themselves freely on this and other questions affecting our section of the state."

Select Healthful Amusements

Many people who are trying to build up their health make the mistake of having no recreation, yet it is possible to use healthful amusements which have a great power for doing good.

In choosing your amusements, try to find those which will act as a corrective to your work. Our modern living has a tendency to permit us to use a few muscles but neglect the others. Try to select amusements which will balance your day. If you work in an office, then be sure, sometime in the week, to hike, golf, swim or dance. Those who are indoors a great deal will find that a drive proves restful if one avoids speed and traffic congestion; and when you get out into the country, it is a good plan to get out of the car and stretch your legs by taking a short walk. Such a drive will clear your mind and give you a pleasant sense of release.

The mind exercises a greater influence on the body than many people realize. When the mind is engaged in looking forward to a pleasurable event the body responds with better health.

In choosing your amusements, try to vary them. We should use those which we find most beneficial. Avoid the extreme of restlessly seeking entertainment every moment.

It is a good plan to select a hobby which will give you activity at the same time. There are many amusements to select from. You might follow Helen Wills (now Mrs. Moody) and take up tennis, or you might follow Gertrude Ederle's lead and find enjoyment in swimming. The Prince of Wales, as well as thousands of happy vacationists, on "dude" ranches, will tell you that "there is nothing as good for the inside of man as the outside of a horse."

Golfing, dancing and walking all have their strong adherents. Many people find the movies are a restful recreation and one which gives the bunions and arches time to recuperate. It is said that one person out of every four in civilized countries takes in a movie a day. President Hoover and ex-President Coolidge find that fishing is a good investment of spare time, while Zane Grey, the novelist, goes in for deep sea fishing. Lindbergh enjoys gliding, one of the newer sports. Flying, like polo, is a good amusement, but expensive. Canoeing, rowing and aquaplaning are popular and healthful summer amusements. Whenever the weather permits it is a good plan to camp out over the week-end, and get a complete change of scenery from your everyday routine.

Healthful amusements keep one cheerful and contented, and bring out the good emotions of friendliness, kindness and tolerance which should be encouraged for the sake of mental health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Drainage After Operation

Question: Mrs. H. R. R. writes—"I have had an open sore on my back for many years. Have been operated on my back three times and this has been draining ever since. Have lung trouble, and the lung is gone on the side where I have the sore. Also have three or four ribs out and have a big cavity which is packed every day by a nurse. Could you tell me how this draining could be stopped?"

Answer. In some cases the continued draining from an operation can be stopped by using the fasting and dieting regime. It may be necessary to repeat the fast at frequent intervals of about one month apart until improvement is noticed. Of course, it may be that some local irritation or foreign substance is preventing the healing and this would have to be removed. The actinic light treatments might also be helpful for this trouble.

Milk

Question: Mrs. U. W. writes—"I have been told that milk hardens the bones, and that if adults take it at all it should be curdled. I also would like to know your opinion of junket."

Answer—Milk does not harden the bones and may be used to good advantage in the diet at any age if used in the proper combinations. Junket is quite wholesome and should be used in the same combinations as milk. I am sending you an article called "Food Combinations," and hope you will find it interesting and helpful.

Pressure Cooker

Question: W. G. asks—"Will you please advise through the columns if food is harmful when prepared in a pressure cooker?"

Answer—Cooking with a pressure cooker is an excellent way of preparing food and superior to most of the older methods where the steam and flavors are allowed to escape.

Big Fish Drowns Seaman at Tampa

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 5. (AP)—The story of a death struggle between a Japanese seaman and a giant Jew fish that dragged him into deep water and drowned him at Port Tampa was related today by port authorities.

Kimoto Toono, 25, arrived on the freighter Lison Maru, July 18 and began spearing small fish from a small boat. He fastened the end of his rope around his body and when he sighted a Jew fish sent the spear into its tail.

Dashing out into the bay, the fish dragged the seaman under before he could release the rope. Searchers who found the body the next day said the fish still was on the rope.

George Jean Nathan 'Not Surprised' at Mencken

PARIS, Aug. 5. (UP)—The approaching marriage of Henry L. Mencken has failed to astonish George Jean Nathan, Mencken's partner of many years, who received the news calmly.

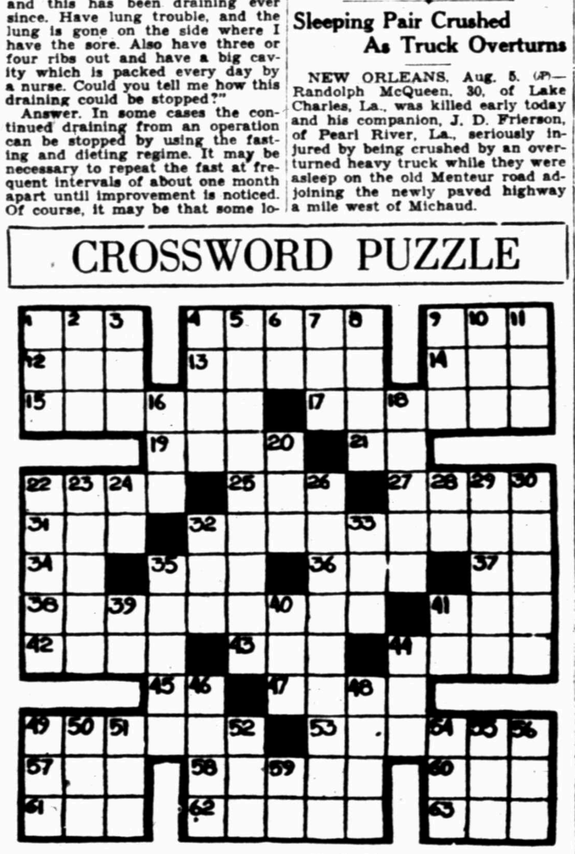

"I am not surprised," Nathan told the United Press today. "I foresaw the marriage three years ago. You must remember Henry is approaching 50, and age changes and mellows earlier opinions. Consistency is unimportant.

"Mencken and I both used to believe in the existence of Santa Claus and the wisdom of the president of the United States, but the passing years have changed all that."

Sleeping Pair Crushed As Truck Overturns

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5. (AP)—Randolph McQueen, 30, of Lake Charles, La., was killed early today and his companion, J. D. Frierson, of Pearl River, La., seriously injured by being crushed by an overturned heavy truck while they were asleep on the old Menteur road adjoining the newly paved highway a mile west of Michaud.

SPUDDERS DEFEAT STEERS IN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE-HEADER

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Contest Closes Thursday

The contest to pick the fastest runner from home to first will close Thursday evening exactly at 6 o'clock, so if you haven't made a guess you'd better do it now. Don't telepnone your answer, because I won't be here to take it. The Spudders are in town and you know how I'd feel if I had to miss a game. No, don't telephone, write it. Mail it in right now, so it will be here on my desk by Thursday evening.

The timing of the runners has already started. My right bower, Harry Van Emden, got some very interesting figures on the runners during the double-header yesterday, and they will be printed in this column Friday morning. However, much remains to be done. Several of the players haven't been timed and it may require a week to get the accurate figures. The winners should be announced within the next week, however.

An Ideal Name

There isn't a pitcher in organized baseball who has such an appropriate name as Mr. Tauscher, of the Dallas Steers. A pitcher's purpose in life is to fool the guy at bat, and Tauscher's name means just that. Tauschen, a learned friend of mine informed me, is a verb in the German language meaning "to fool." Tauscher is the German noun meaning one who fools, or trips up, or deceives, or something to that effect. Could a pitcher want a better name than that?

And Mr. Tauscher has in part lived up to his name. He is one of the best the Steers have, even if he does have his bad days.

A New Pitcher

We have a new hurler among us, mates. His name is Sam Sparks, and he comes from El Paso, where the Rio Grande and other liquids sparkle. He's a lanky youth, about 20, and faintly resembles an old friend of ours named Andy Messenger. He is working out with the boys now to get in shape.

Sparks was signed this spring, but shortly after underwent an operation for appendicitis which kept him from reporting.

Robby Looks Happy

Claude Robertson, veteran mittman, wore a broad smile Monday afternoon after his new mates, the Spuds, had whipped the ears off the Dallas Steers, his former buddies. Robby looks happier with a Spudder uniform on. He wore one on the local lot for the first time Monday, and earned title to it by sticking to his post efficiently. We would have to look a long time for a better pinch-catcher. Robby didn't get a hit in five times up Monday, but he made up for it by snagging a high foul and in other ways giving his former playmates the horselaff.

Hospital Report

Incidentally, Jack Crouch, our first-string mittman, is rapidly recovering his health. He was fungo-hitting and chasing fly balls down on the lot Monday, and he should be back in the game shortly. A few more days now and the player limit will be lifted, and he can reenter the fold.

Spider Levey likewise is almost his old self. When he left on the late road trip he was half dead, and then, just as he was recovering nicely he wrenched a knee at Fort Worth. The ailment gave him some trouble Monday, but it was indicated the injury is not quite as bad as the knee ailment that whipped Old Pete down.

Hal Wiltse is still ailing with his sprained shoulder. He's determined to wear it off, though, as witnesseth his 17th victory of the season over the Steers Monday. They nearly got the best of him in the fourth inning, but somehow he and his bad arm got by.

We are also pleased to report that Howard Fitzgerald and Larry Bettencourt are quickly recovering their batting health. Fitzgerald is coming across with a double and a single every now and then, and Larry, believe it or not, is actually hitting a few of same also. He used to be particular, you know, and deigned to hit nothing but home runs. He now apparently has decided to hit home runs only every other day or so.

CALDWELL WINS FIRST, 6 TO 5

White Equals Meadows In Second to Win, 7-3

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Carl's Williamsmen made it three in a row over Jakie's Atzmen Tuesday afternoon, defeating the visitors in both games of a double-header, 6 to 5 and 7 to 3.

Earl Caldwell limited the Steers to seven hits in the first game and was in danger only once, in the fourth inning, when his foes made four runs, three of them on J. Moore's home run with Michaels and Taitt on base. Previously Taitt's double scored Urban who also had hit for an extra base. Earl then tightened and allowed only two more hits in five innings, the second being Taitt's homer in the ninth.

Home Runs Count

The Spudders mauled Tauscher for 10 hits. Levey scored in the first on his double and Storti's single, and again in the third when he lifted one over the left field boards for a home run. The rest of the scoring was done in the fifth. Euller singled past third and was forced at second by Caldwell. Levey grounded to the pitcher, who threw the ball into center field attempting to get Caldwell at second, the latter taking third and Levey second. Storti doubled to center, scoring Caldwell and Levey and then Fitzgerald belted a home run over the right field fence scoring Storti and himself. Kloza struck out and Burns walked but Bettencourt fouled out to third for the final out. Thereafter the Spudders made few real threats.

Lester White squirmed through the nightcap after getting in serious trouble in the fifth, and came out exactly even with Speck Meadows, Dallas tosser, both allowing eight hits.

Levey started the scoring in the second, also, getting around on his double, a fielder's choice when Storti hit to short and the latter failed to nab Levey at third, and Fitzgerald's sacrifice. In the second Burns made one. He beat out a bunt, went to second on Bettencourt's infield out, took third on a passed ball, and scored on Bradbury's single. Three errors and a double steal helped the Spudders to score three in the third. Levey struck out. Storti was safe at first on Morse's error, and shortly afterward he stole second. Fitzgerald walked. Kloza came to bat. Flynn, the catcher, threw to first trying to get Fitzgerald off the bag and the ball went hither and yon, Storti scoring from second and Fitzgerald going to third. Kloza walked. Burns came to bat. On the second ball pitched Kloza stole second, the catcher making a peg trying to get him, and Fitzgerald outran the return to the plate to steal home. Burns then singled to right, scoring Kloza. Bettencourt was safe when Urban made a bad throw to second attempting to get Burns. Larry, however, went out stealing, catcher to first, and Bradbury was thrown out, short to first to close the inning.

Burns Hits One

In the fifth Burns made the sixth tally with a home run over the right field boards. In the sixth the last was scored. Euller was safe at first when the ball slipped from Urban's hands as he started to throw it. He went to second on White's sacrifice, took third on an infield out and scored on Fitzgerald's single.

Singles by Taitt and J. Moore and E. Moore's double scored two Steer runs in the fourth. Their third and last run was walked in by White in the fifth.

The Spudders meet the Fort Worth Cats here today.

Swimmers Prepare For Title Tries

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5. (AP)—The season for assaults on the record for swimming Chesapeake bay is at hand.

John Rehak, six-foot fireman, plans to attack the Tolchester-Bay shore 12 mile route on Aug. 6.

He already has made an unsuccessful assault on the record of 5 hours 25 minutes held by Lillian Cannon and is in training.

A young Philadelphian, who hopes that some day he will swim the English channel, is planning to swim the bay as a step toward fulfilling that ambition.

He is John Devine, 11, who has been training at Bay Shore, near here.

His mother said he already has conquered the Hudson river, Delaware bay and Biscayne bay. He does not plan to seek a record, however, she said.

Alexander Puts in With Nice Word for Whitney

DALLAS, Aug. 5. (AP)—Arthur "Pinkey" Whitney is the greatest third baseman in the major leagues, take it from Grover Alexander, who has pitched against him and was his teammate with the Philadelphia Nationals for a short time this year.

"It's a shame he couldn't have gotten with a winning club," Old Pete said here recently. "The boy is a wonderful fielder and one of the most dangerous hitters in the game."

Spit is a horrid word, but it's worse if on the end of your cigar

One of many actual photographs of "spit-tipping" cigar makers. The above picture was taken on March 15, 1930. An affidavit from the photographer is on file, showing that this workman used spit in finishing the end of a cigar.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (AP)—Reports of rains or showers in the Southwest and Arkansas were reflected by liquidation and reselling by recent buyers in cotton here today. A question as to the adequacy of the rainfall and the rather more bullish private crop figures slowed up the decline during the middle session, but offerings increased again and the lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading when new October contracts sold at 12.62, or 30 points net lower. They closed at 12.64, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 21 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 10 points in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and private reports of showers in the Southwest. Initial offerings were absorbed by further covering and there was some commission house buying. The demand was less active following the advance of yesterday and the market worked off to net declines of 18 to 23 points before the end of the morning.

Rallies of several points followed on private reports that there had been nothing more than light scattering showers in Texas, but the detailed weather reports showed rather more rain than anticipated in Oklahoma and Arkansas. This promoted a renewal of selling and offerings became more active during the last hour, when there was Wall street, local and New Orleans selling on private reports of rain in the Southwest. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest with the new December declining to 12.84 and March to 13.08.

Liverpool cables said continental and Bombay buying had been supplied by hedging and realizing in expectations of rains in the South. Port receipts today, 9,131; U. S. port stocks, 1,551,831. Exports 8,560, making 18,299 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5. (AP)—The cotton market today was moderately active with erratic price ranges. It opened 7 to 10 points down but promptly rallied 11 to 12 points on covering, possibly helped by a bullish private crop estimate showing condition 66.4 per cent and an indicated crop of 13,749,000 bales.

Rains in the western belt caused prices to ease off 22 to 24 points but they recovered 14 to 15 points in early afternoon on shorts covering. The market weakened again in the late trading on considerable hedge selling, making new lows 26 to 27 points under the highs, and closed at the bottom, steady at net declines of 23 points on all active months.

Dullness Prevails While Stocks Fluctuate Hardly at All Tuesday

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (US)—Dullness again prevailed on the stock exchange today. The volume remained on 1926 basis and few stocks showed more than two-point total fluctuation during the day. The price tone was rather firm, but the market displayed evidence that neither bull nor bear leaders were anxious to renew aggressive activities. Continued strength in the farm commodities failed, as it did on Monday, to stimulate corresponding strength in stocks, but the bulls undoubtedly were cheered by the turnabout in the grains. The net change for the day among principal stocks averaged less than a point. Firming of call money from 2 to 2½ per cent was attributed to month-end adjustments. No underlying change in the money situation to account for the advance was forthcoming, since time funds continued in supply at somewhat easier rates.

From all indications, the bull sponsors of the market are consolidating their position for a renewal of constructive activities. They are considerably cheered by the market's persistent strength despite lack of aggressive sponsorship of late. One of the most ardent bull leaders has been in Detroit, presumably arranging for resumption of activities in the leading motor stock. General Motors has been a firm feature in recent days and although it sold off today offerings were well taken.

Industrial news of the day included a slight gain in steel activities during the past week, although a larger expansion had been anticipated. Steel common yielded half a point. Most stocks displayed a tendency to turn extremely quiet on even moderate setbacks. The public utility shares were again more or less ignored, with relatively small changes in the majority of the leaders, Consolidated Gas yielding 1⅛ points, and Public Service of New Jersey 1¼. The market has not yet made up its mind on utilities, in view of the lower rate tendencies.

Grains ignored the latest reports indicating that the damage to crops has not been as disastrous as recently indicated. However, the continued strength of wheat, which was up from 2¾ to 3¼ cents additional, and in the other grains, emphasized the oversold condition of these markets, as repeatedly emphasized here recently. Wheat has had a recovery of over six cents in two days from the law prices of last Saturday. This column for a fortnight declared that the internal condition of the wheat and other grain markets was such as to promise a sharp comeback. Corn achieved further gains ranging as high as 3¼ cents a bushel for September, oats were up from ½ to 1 cent, rye two cents, and lard 10 to 12 points. Various of the grain-moving railroads seemed affected by the firmer price tendency in these markets, Northern Pacific advancing two points, Union Pacific 2½ and other rail shares held firm.

Radio was an active feature and although selling off a small fraction the stock was reported well taken by interests usually sponsoring the stock. The oil stocks as a group in the early trading showed signs of reviving but failed to carry through on announcement of an increase in crude oil output in the past week. Foster-Wheeler achieved a new high on the present recovery.

Communist Leaders Arrested in Havana

HAVANA, Aug. 5. (AP)—Indictment of more than a score of alleged Communists was announced today following continued raids on meeting places of the Communist organizations and the reported revelation of a plot to overthrow the Cuban government.

Police officers participating in the raids last week, in which some 50 of the alleged leaders of the reported plot were arrested, declared they had unearthed positive evidence that the "association for the protection and assistance of Soviet Russia" was fomenting a civil war here.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 5. (AP)—Wheat prices on the Fort Worth cash grain market Tuesday failed to follow the entire advance in contract values, exporters and mills wanting grain but refusing to raise their bids in line with the sharp gains in the bid markets. All interests admitted that there was good demand for the wheat but said trade was slowed down both by the light offerings and by the reluctance to follow the contract market advance.

Export bids at the close were around 95 to 95½c for ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports. Mills were bidding 95½ to 96c for ordinary No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points; with 14 per cent protein bringing 96½ to 97 and 15 per cent 98 to 98½. However, no sales were posted after the advance and these quoted prices appear entirely nominal.

An even sharper advance in contract corn values placed that and all coarse grain prices in the doubtful column with dealers admitting ignorance of what could be depended upon in the cash market. No sales were reported after the advance. Quotations are entirely nominal with effect on the cash market of the advance in contract values a matter of the future.

Estimated receipts—Wheat, 107 cars; corn, 5; oats, 3; barley, 2; sorghums, 4.

Bids and offers nominally quoted as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 1.07½ to 1.08½; No. 2 white corn 1.13½ to 1.14½; No. 2 yellow corn 1.10½ to 1.11½.

Oats, No. 2 red 47 to 49c.

Barley, No. 2 nominally 59 to 60; offerings very light.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1.65 to 1.67; No. 2 kaffir 1.55 to 1.57.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 1.06 to 1.07; No. 2 white corn 1.10 to 1.11; No. 2 yellow corn 1.09 to 1.10. No. 3 white oats 47½@48c. To which add one cent for delivery Texas group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. (AP)—Moves by President Hoover to furnish government aid to drought areas gave a powerful upward impulse today to prices of all grain, especially corn. Largely owing to a statement the president issued relative to government relief, corn quotations went soaring above any point reached this season, and up 5¼c a bushel from today's bottom level. An estimate from Secretary Hyde of the United States department of agriculture suggested corn crop losses amounted to 500,000,000 bushels, and there were unofficial estimates that the hay crop has been reduced 10,700,000 tons, equal the feed value of 145,000,000 bushels of corn.

Both corn and wheat closed feverishly at virtually the day's top prices, corn 1⅝@4¼c higher than yesterday's finish, with wheat at 2-3c net advance, oats ⅛@1⅛c up, and provisions showing 7c to 15c gain.

It was not until the final half hour of trading that President Hoover's statement threw into high relief the magnitude of losses suffered by the corn crop. News of the president's plans for broad administrative measures in connection with the crop disaster, however, quickly aroused big buying of corn future deliveries. Adding to the force of the upward swing was a report from the United States weather bureau that break up of the prevailing heat wave was in sight.

Reports of rains in Nebraska, Iowa, and elsewhere helping to check drought damage had brought about an early setback both of corn and wheat prices, and there were predictions of threatening weather over most of the corn belt, but only local showers were indicated. Other advices told of countless late and early fields of corn being now past hope, and noted that the "firing" of corn crop had extended to river bottomlands heretofore unhurt. At times, too, the corn market received bouyancy from the wheat market, although in the end corn was plainly the leader of wheat.

Export sales of North American wheat in the last 24 hours were estimated in some quarters as totaling 4,500,000 bushels. This circumstance, together with Secretary Hyde's statement of immense losses of corn in the last week and of consequent probable high augmented use of wheat as a livestock feed substitute for corn, had much to do with hoisting the wheat market. Advices were also received that black rust in Canada was causing crop injury, and that the wheat crop of France showed daily greater shrinkage. Oats followed corn rather than wheat.

Provisions reflected upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities were: Wheat—Sept. 89½@89⅝c, 94½@94⅝c; Dec. 95½@95⅝c $1.00¼@1.00⅜; March $1.00, $1.05⅛. Corn—Sept. 90⅛c, 98⅛c; Dec. 86⅝c, 92⅞@93c; March 89⅛c, 96c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. (US)—Harvey S. Williams wired Thomson & McKinnon that crops in Southwest Nebraska appear to be almost a complete failure except for occasional spots. Some farmers are already cutting for fodder, he said, and no pastures appear anywhere.

Wheat in the prairie provinces is generally filling well although showers would be beneficial, according to the Searle Grain company of Winnipeg. Cutting has already begun in the southern areas and will be general by Aug. 15, except in the extreme north.

Oats are attracting increasing attention as a substitute for corn in feeding operations. While they have been well down in price, an adjustment appears to be getting under way.

The July 1 estimate of the 1930 hay crop and carryover is placed at 110,100,000 tons a reduction of 10,700,000 from the five-year average, according to Cromwell of Lamson Bros. & Co., the final estimate is expected to fall short of this figure because of further damage since July 1, he says.

WHEAT PRICES CLIMB AGAIN

No. 1 Hard Grain Up Five Cents in Two Days

Recovering from a low figure of 63 cents per bushel reached several days ago, No. 1 hard wheat jumped to 68 cents, wagon price, at the Wichita Mill & Elevator company shortly after noon Tuesday.

The advance of three cents posted Tuesday marked the second gain in the past two days, the local market having moved up from 63 to 65 cents Monday. Announcement of the improved price here followed reports of a disposition of wheat to decline on the Chicago market early Tuesday morning. The new price, the highest offered locally in several weeks, was posted also by the J. C. Hunt Grain company.

Considerable depreciation in the amount of whole milk being delivered to local dairy products concerns was reported Tuesday. Drought conditions were held to be largely responsible, with pastures burned off and water supplies affected in some quarters. It was estimated that deliveries now represent a reduction of about 15 per cent from those of one month ago.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit continued slow with packers out to break prices but meeting with considerable opposition from the selling side. Demand was sufficient to maintain firm prices on fat light yearlings while the market on beef steers was unevenly steady to 25 cents lower.

Heavy steers in Chicago were reported as 50 to 75 cents under the strong close of last week. Choice heavy steers at Chicago cleared at $10.65 while light yearlings at several points sold up to $10.35. Common to medium western grassers cleared from $4.25 to $6.75 with wintered and fed westerns upward to $8.25. Stocker and feeder classes moved slowly at steady prices. Well bred grass steers in medium flesh went to feeder buyers at $6.50 to $7.00. White faced 340-lb. stock feeder calves in Kansas City made $8.60. Aggregate receipts, estimated at 32,000 were 3,000 more than a week ago but about the same as the corresponding day last year.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (AP)—Cotton goods were irregular today following the decline in percales and an early weakening in raw cotton. Raw silk consumption in July was ahead of June. Canton crepes and some other heavy styles of fabrics are selling for fall. Novelties in topcoatings are being shown by a few mills. Tropicals in staple patterns are being ordered moderately. More business is anticipated on silk hosiery in consequence of low prices that will be maintained by mills having the advantage of a reduction in labor costs and low raw silk. Summer merchandise is being cleaned up well in retail houses due to prolonged heat.

SERVICES HELD FOR ENGINEER

Other Wreck Victims Show Improvement Here

Funeral services for F. B. Robinson, veteran engineer for the Fort Worth and Denver railroad who was instantly killed Sunday when the locomotive and six coaches of a passenger train in which he was riding plunged into a ditch at Oklaunion, were held from the chapel of the Merkle Undertaking company Tuesday afternoon. Rev. E. M. Magee officiated.

Following services at the chapel, members of the Wichita Falls Masonic lodge No. 635 had charge of the Masonic rites at the grave in Riverside cemetery.

Pallbearers included J. W. McCloud, J. M. Littrell, J. R. Aldridge, M. C. Pressiar, L. E. Miller and F. W. Michael.

Other victims of the wreck, in hospitals in Vernon, Wichita Falls and Electra, were reported improving Tuesday.

Mrs. Oda Toland, route 3, Wichita Falls, was able to leave the Wichita General hospital. Miss Frances Tyson, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. L. D. Trice, Oklahoma City, were resting quietly at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

Carl Echols of McPherson, Kan., suffering from serious internal injuries, was reported showing improvement in a Vernon hospital.

U. S. Population Is 122,728,873

while the nation with its outlying possessions totaled 117,859,395.

The country has had the largest numerical increase for continental United States in its history during the last 10 years, despite restricted immigration and a declining birth rate. There was an increase of 17,018,253 people in the decade, compared with the previous record for a 10-year period of 15,977,691, made between 1900 and 1910.

In rate of growth, the last decade made a better showing than that which ended in 1920. The increase was 16.1 per cent, compared with 14.9 per cent from 1910 to 1920, and 21.0 per cent from 1900 to 1910.

California had the largest rate of growth of any state but was exceeded by New York in numerical increase. California's rate of growth was 64.6 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,215,421. New York's rate was 21.4 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,224,328.

Florida, second to California in increase percentage, rated a 51.4 per cent growth, with a numerical gain of 497,499. New Jersey third in increase rate, added 26.8 per cent, a numerical gain of 846,668.

Montana was the only state to show a decrease, 2.8 per cent loss, the numerical decline being 15,370. In the 1920 census, three states, Mississippi, Vermont and Nevada, showed decreases in population. Arizona had the largest increase of that census, with 63.5 per cent gain, while Montana, second in line, had an increase of 46.0.

New York, for more than a century leader of all the states in population, triumphantly held her place gaining by more than the census bureau had anticipated. Nevada completed a half century in final place.

The population of the United States and all of its possessions, and comparative figures of 10 years ago, follows:

School Boy Held For Slaying Policeman

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (INS)—A 19 year old Pittsburgh school boy calmly stepped off the bus from Boston when it pulled into the terminal here and was immediately placed under arrest for murder.

The youth said he was Thomas Healy, student at St. Mary's school in Pittsburgh, and admitted to police that he and his classmate, Paul Purley, had shot a Brookline, Mass., policeman during a drug store holdup Sunday night.

to know that a woman wrote them in a disguised hand. The woman who wrote them always writes a flowing right-slanting hand. In these letters she writes a straight back-hand. But at times, her hand has slipped." Madame Marcia opened a drawer in her desk, and drew out a magnifying glass. "Yes, I'm right. At times, you see." She pointed out through the glass the discrepancies. "She lapses, not much, but enough. Who do you know in your present circle of friends who would write such a letter?"

"No one."

"Miss Nason, the nurse you live with?"

Kay laughed. "Of course not."

"What other women do you know? I mean the ones who know your case?"

"You," and the girl smiled. "No one at the office knows. Mr. Talbot's office. A few other nurses at the hospital. That's all. Oh, there's Julie Drew. She knows. But there'd be no point in her writing the letters—" Kay caught herself, as she remembered her conversation with Julie at the tea shop, Julie suggesting that she leave Dane Talbot's office on account of Gordon. Julie, she realized, knew everything that there was to be known about her. From Dane. That she could play the piano, dance, sing. Things even the nurses at St. Luke's didn't know.

The description of the clothes in the letter—anyone might know that. But the scar on her left eyebrow, that minute scar which had never been mentioned before. Julie would know that, too. Kay had seen her eyes examining her closely more than once.

But Julie wouldn't write such letters. She couldn't knowing how much Kay wanted to believe what was in them. How could she send them? She hadn't been out of town, and the letters were dated from San Francisco. Yet that noon at the tea shop. Julie blaming her for encouraging Gordon . . .

Allred Rally Brings Northwest Texas Delegations to Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 5. (AP)—After a band concert arranged by local supporters, James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, candidate for attorney general, addressed a crowd on the courthouse lawn here tonight. The meeting was in the nature of a Northwest Texas rally of Allred supporters. Delegations were present from Wichita Falls, Vernon, Pampa, Miami, Wheeler and other Panhandle towns.

Allred was introduced by District Judge Henry Bishop. He was preceded in a short talk by his brother, Raymond Allred of Pampa, who won the nomination in the July Democratic primary as district attorney of the district composed of Gray, Wheeler, Hemphill and Roberts counties.

Allred announced his itinerary for the remainder of the week as follows: Abilene, Wednesday night; Alvarado, old settlers' reunion, Thursday morning; Dallas, Fair park, Thursday night; Tyler, Friday night; Jefferson, Marshall and Longview, Saturday.

FAMILY FUSS

Physicians Uncertain If Wife Took Poison After Quarrel

After pumping out the contents of a young woman's stomach Tuesday night, physicians at a local hospital were still undetermined as to whether the operation had been necessary.

The patient vigorously denied her husband's assertion that she had swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet after a family quarrel. The young woman, still asserting that she had not taken the poison was rushed to the hospital in an Albert's ambulance where emergency treatment was administered just to make sure. Physicians said she would be able to leave the hospital Wednesday.

'SPOTTED' RAINS BREAK DROUGHT

DALLAS, Aug. 5 (AP)—Rain clouds skipped around over Texas today watering widely separated spots and bringing general relief to residents who had sweltered under one of the most unrelenting summer suns that ever left an imprint on Lone Star weather charts.

In several places where precipitation was recorded it was the first beneficial rain to fall upon withering corn and cotton fields and parched cattle ranges in more than two months.

A considerable area in Central Texas adjacent to Waco received a good rain. It extended to Belton, China Springs, Clifton, Meridian, Valley Mills, Hubbard, LeRoy, Mart, Temple, Reisel, Taylor, McGregor and Covington. It was hailed by farmers as a help to cotton and small grain.

Portions of Gregg, Smith, Panola and Harrison counties in Northeast Texas comprised another spot that got a good watering, an hour's downpour measuring at least two inches having been reported from that section. It was the first rain there since May 28.

Wichita Falls reported rainfall at Abilene and Dublin and said railroad dispatches there advised it extended 200 miles into Oklahoma.

Fort Worth was favored with one and one-half inches, while Dallas, only 30 miles east, had a shower of brief duration.

"Doctor, take care of my patient," he gasped, his last words. Dr. R. M. Caston Jr., completed the operation.

LAWYER HELD FOR BOMBING

A. D. Payne Arrested For Death of Wife

that MacDonald be assigned to the case.

MacDonald and Howe started their investigation Monday morning and this afternoon put the evidence they had obtained before Mayor Ernest Thompson and E. W. Thomerson, district attorney. Payne was arrested soon afterward and Miss Verona Thompson, who formerly was employed by Payne as his private secretary, was detained as a material witness.

Woman In Statement

Miss Thompson in a signed statement said she and Payne had made numerous trips to outlying cities and that Payne was so desperately in love with her that he planned to divorce his wife to marry her.

She stated that when she told Payne she did not care to marry a man with three children he said he would "take care of them."

The two letters found upon Payne when he was arrested were sealed and stamped, one being addressed to Sheriff Bill Thompson of Amarillo and the other to Police Chief McDowell of Amarillo.

The letters, which were written in longhand and were identical in wording, stated that the writer was a safe blower and that the night before Mrs. Payne was killed, a quantity of a high explosive was placed by mistake in the wrong coupe. The writer said he believed the mistake made by the gang of safe blowers had resulted in Mrs. Payne being killed by an explosion.

Lists Secretaries

When MacDonald began his investigation, he immediately began to question Payne as to his relations with women. Payne insisted he had "known and loved but one woman" and that was his wife. He gave MacDonald a list of private secretaries who had worked for him over a period of several years.

He dwelt at length upon a description of the physical attractions of several of his secretaries and asked that MacDonald interview them. In speaking of Miss Thompson, he said that she was "so plain and commonplace" that there would be no need of seeing her.

MacDonald went directly from Payne's office to the home of Miss Thompson, who made a written statement involving Payne in a love affair. Miss Thompson is attractive.

Investigators said it was only a coincidence that the other two Payne children did not accompany the mother in the car when she started on the fatal journey to town. The explosion occurred eight blocks from the Payne home, in the most exclusive residential district of Amarillo.

The explosion was so terrific that Mrs. Payne's backbone was stripped of flesh and hurled 50 yards from the street. The car was tossed from the street into the rear of a residence, which partially collapsed.

Payne had posed in Amarillo as a model husband and had requested newspapers to publish interviews with his neighbors and relatives, stating that he was a perfect husband and that his devotion to his wife and his children was unequaled by that of any other husband in Amarillo. He made this same request of MacDonald.

Feeling was high in Amarillo as news of Payne's arrest spread and officers lost no time in hurrying him away to the Pampa jail.

CHEST FLOATS $2,000 LOAN

Welfare Society in Red As Subscribers Fail

The community chest was forced to borrow $2,000 for the purpose of paying the July bills for the organization, it was revealed at a joint meeting of the finance and executive committees in the City National bank building Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

"The chest and its auxiliary organizations are facing a financial crisis and if delinquent pledges are not paid within the near future, the organizations cannot exist," Mrs. J. Q. Bentley, executive secretary, said. A total of $6,000 should have been paid in to the chest on June 1 and up to date only $250 of the amount has been received, Mrs. Bentley pointed out.

Following the joint meeting, members of the finance committee held a separate meeting in which plans were made for the new campaign to be opened Sept. 1. H. A. Gray Jr., president of the organization, presided at the meeting.

Here's a system that'll work on Sonny . . . and it goes for Sister, too. Call 'em in. Lay down the rules of the game! Good behavior from breakfast 'til noon rates one Dr. Pepper at ten. At two, another'll be due if the players toe the mark. And then at four they get one more if deportment is up to snuff.

This advertisement is suggested by a mother who says it works . . . beautifully. Also she says: "I know it's good for them." Fruit juice is healthful; everyone agrees that's true. Sugar is quick-energy food; doctors say it's essential to life. Water! why, one never can drink too much. The chief virtue of Dr. Pepper is health. The "good behavior" part is a "by-product" and it doesn't cost a cent.

this Free book helps make Long Distance like a local call

A vest-pocket will hold it.

How would you like to pick up your telephone and, almost as quickly as on a local call, get in touch with friends, relatives, business associates, a hundred . . . two hundred . . . miles away?

Would you like to know you could do this, not only in emergencies, but on ordinary social and business calls? . . .

You can do it, in practically every case.*

It's easy. All you have to do is give the number of the out-of-town telephone you are calling.

Knowing the number saves the operator the time of looking it up in the directory, and enables her in most cases to ring the telephone almost as quickly as if it were in your own town.

Statistics show that on 8 out of every 10 of these long distance calls the person calling is connected to the called telelphone while he holds the line. On the shorter distances—up to 500 miles—the proportion is even greater.*

To make it easy for you to use this speedy method, we will supply you, if you wish, with an "out-of-town number book," listing the names and addresses of your out-of-town friends, relatives, business associates, and telling you how much it will cost to talk for three minutes to each.

THIS BOOKLET IS FREE

To obtain one, simply write on the coupon the names and addresses of three or more persons in other cities whose telephone numbers you would like to keep handy. Then mail or bring the list to the office of the telephone company.

We will obtain the numbers for you, enter them with the other information in your own private long distance telephone directory, and mail it to you promptly.

Here's what an editor wrote about the booklets.

"These booklets are of untold value . . . so simple any child can see the advantages they offer."

From a business man:

"It is very convenient, especially when the time element is important, which is usually the case these days."

SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE CO.,

I would like to have the telephone numbers of the following out-of-town people. Also, please tell me what it would cost to talk to them by "long distance."
