Queen Calls Election

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today called a general election for May 3 following the ouster of Prime Minister James Callaghan's minority Labor government in a historic no-confidence vote.

Callaghan's office said in an announcement that the monarch set April 7 for the dissolution of the current Parliament and May 9 for the first session of the new Parliament.

The government was ousted Wednesday night by a margin of only one vote, 311 to 310, in the House of Commons.

Arab League Split

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—The Arab League conference to punish Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was split today, with Saudi Arabia refusing to cut off its multi-billion-dollar aid to Egypt, and Syria, Libya and the Palestinians boycotting the others because they would not vote economic sanctions against the United States.

Fires Injure 67

BOSTON (AP)—Arson was blamed for fires that started 90 minutes apart and sent nearly 2,000 dazed guests at two of Boston's most fashionable hotels fleeing into the night.

Police said at least 67 persons were injured, mostly from smoke inhalation. Three were burned seriously, and at least two heart attacks were reported.

Probation Not Revoked

AUSTIN (AP)—The Travis County attorney said today he will not try to revoke Comptroller Bob Bullock's probation from a July 1978 driving-while-intoxicated charge following Bullock's collision Monday evening with a pickup truck.

"No one has stated to us that they could testify that Bullock was intoxicated," County Attorney Jim McMurtry told a news conference.

The SDN Column

We happened upon an interesting bit of information while scanning a publication of the Republican Party. The convention director at Detroit next year when Republicans gather for their big nominating event will be a man named Carter---Bob, not Jimmy.

It could be interesting if he encounters some of the usual problems associated with conventions. We can almost hear it now as the chairman of a state delegation lodges a complaint.

"We don't have enough seats for our delegation," he tells an usher.

"I'll check on it, sir," replies the usher.

A few moments later, the usher returns. "Mr. Carter says you were assigned the same number of seats as accredited delegates from your state."

"Mr. who?" snaps the delegation chairman.

"Mr. Carter, sir. The man who is in charge of the convention."

"You mean..."

"Oh, no, sir. Not that Carter. I mean Mr. Bob Carter, a Republican official."

This Detroit convention is a sore spot with Texas Republicans who thought they could get it booked into Dallas. But the odds were against them from the very start. In fact, what they thought were plusses in their efforts to lure the Republican National Convention into the Lone Star State very likely were minuses.

They thought that the election of Bill Clements as the first Republican governor of the state in 100 years would influence the national committee. Put that together with the dissatisfaction Texans have expressed concerning some of President Carter's policies—especially oil and gas—and it looked like an opportune time for the Republicans to move in.

But the fact of the matter is, the Republicans undoubtedly thought that these factors were going to work in their favor regardless of the convention site. So, why come to Dallas to make hay when the crop already is heading out and almost ready for the harvest?

Report On Prospective Industry Set

Some first-hand information on an industry consideration this area as a plant site was to be presented this afternoon at a meeting in the chamber of commerce conference room.

Bill Warner, chamber manager, said that Dalton Walton, chamber president, and Charlie Henderson, president-elect, were to make a report to a local group. Sitting in on the session were officials of the chamber, the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, the city and the county.

Walton and Henderson were to pass along some first-hand information they have obtained concerning the industry's operations for a number of years, etc.

"It looks great," said Warner, who declined to go into details prior to the report session.

Dyess Retiring As Parks Chief

Scurry County Parks Superintendent J.C. Dyess was honored at a retirement party Wednesday afternoon at the Towle Park Barn.

Dyess, 68, has been the parks superintendent the past nine years. He said he does not have any specific plans for the future, but "plans to take it easy for a while."

Before starting as parks superintendent for the county, Dyess had worked for 20 years in the maintenance department of the Snyder Independent School District. The Grand Saline native has lived in Scurry County 56 years.

"It just became available," said Dyess of the parks superintendent's job. "I thought I would like it, and I have these past nine years I've been here."

As parks superintendent, Dyess looked after eight community centers, eight ball fields, three parks, plus the grounds at the hospital, Scurry County Boys Club, the old Travis Junior High School.

Attending the party yesterday was J.K. Ward, Dyess' replacement. Ward a county employee for Precinct 4 the past three years, begins his new job the first of April.

'House Of Jeans' Plans Mall Store

HOUSTON,-Lawrence N. Hurwitz, President of L&M House of Jeans, Inc., has announced plans to open a 3,229 square foot store in Snyder Mall in Snyder. The store will be called The Junction.

The Junction in Snyder Mall will handle sportswear by Levis, Brittania and Pentimento, and junior sportswear by St. Michelle, Tuffilyn, College, plus additional popular lines. When open, it will employ 10 people.

L&M House of Jeans was established in 1937 by John Hurwitz with the founding of Austin Army & Navy in downtown Austin. Since 1970, under the direction of Lawrence Hurwitz, House of Jeans has expanded throughout Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and New Mexico. In August of 1978, store number 73 was opened in Texarkana. Headquarters for House of Jeans remains in Austin.

Sy Ainbinder, President of Ainbinder Associates, developers of Snyder Mall, expressed great pleasure in adding The Junction to the long list of tenants that will open the air-conditioned mall.

"It is the variety that specialty stores give plus the selections found in K mart and other large department stores that will make shopping such a pleasure in Snyder Mall," Ainbinder said.

Apartment Loan Gets COG Okay

The West Central Texas Council of Governments has given its approval to an application for a Farmers Home Administration loan to finance construction of an apartment complex in Snyder.

The application was submitted by Robert H. Danner, development coordinator, on behalf of Rogers nd Rogers Investments.

The Fort Worth firm is seeking a loan of $756,000 for development of Kingswood Estate Apartments, Phase II. Kingswood's Phase I, which includes 40 living units on 37th St. just south of the East Elementary School, was completed several months ago and at the time Rogers and Rogers indicated that it would develop another 40-unit complex on a site immediately east of its Phase I.

The Phase II project will be similar to Phase I, with 24 one-bedroom apartments and 16 two-bedroom apartments. They will include energy savings features and rental prices will range from $145 to $269 per month, according to the application.

The WCTCOG committee recommending approval of the application noted that the project was endorsed by local agencies, that the property already is properly zoned and has utilities on the site. It also noted that Snyder is one of the chief growth areas in the 19 counties served by the WCTCOG.

Rogers and Rogers had indicated earlier that it had a substantial waiting list for tenants in Kingswood Estate Apartments Phase I.

Carter Decision On Deregulation Due Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, described as ready to lift price controls from domestically produced crude oil, told congressional leaders today he will probably announce his decision early next week.

Carter, who is directing intensive consultations with members of Congress on a promised new energy blueprint, said he called the leaders to a Cabinet Room meeting to discuss the broad range of options confronting him.

The president opened the session by noting he will have the power, come June 1, to decide whether to lift price controls on domestic crude.

"We are prepared to take that burden," he declared.

Senators who met privately Wednesday with top administration economic officials reported the president is prepared to lift price controls but remains unsure of how to go about it.

The biggest question marks, the senators said, involve possible imposition of a special tax to accompany deregulation, and whether Congress would pass necessary tax legislation.

Although Congress rejected Carter's 1977 proposals for taxes on crude oil and gasoline, two Republican senators said the country might be better off had Congress been more receptive to the president's original energy program, passed in bobtailed form last year.

These sentiments were expressed by Sens. Charles Percy of Illinois and Pete Domenici of New Mexico after a bipartisan congressional group met Wednesday with Carter to discuss energy matters.

If Carter produces a bold program, said Domenici, "we'll back him up."

The extent of administration consultation with Congress was underscored by Carter's personal involvement, as well as by the meeting of senators on Capitol Hill with Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Budget Director James T. McIntyre Jr. and Carter adviser Stuart Eizenstat.

The Wednesday session in the office of Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd was similar to one held last Friday with a diferent group of lawmakers.

Carter originally had indicated to congressional leaders he would unveil his new energy strategy Thursday.

U.S. Pledges To Israel Irk Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Egypt has registered grave concern over what it calls unacceptable new U.S. security assurances to Israel.

But it was not immediately clear what, in a practical way, Egypt could do about the American pledges to Israel, outlined in a memorandum released Wednesday by the State Department.

The memo includes a promise to urgently consider an increased show of American strength in the Middle East and emergency arms shipments to Israel if Egypt violates the peace treaty signed Monday.

"It gives the United States the right to impose a military presence in the region for reasons agreed between Israel and the United States," Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil wrote Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

This, said Khalil, is "a matter we cannot accept."

At Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's direction, Khalil sent two letters of complaint to Vance Wednesday. They were not released, but become available to The Associated Press.

In a reply made public, the State Department said the "expression of unhappiness" in the Egyptian letters was based on a misreading of the memorandum.

"We advised Egypt well in advance that assurances would be given to Israel," the department said in a statement. "Egypt, in fact, frequently indicated that it would have no objection to security assurances or guarantees in the context of peace."

Ask Us

Q--Why are the citizens of Snyder being asked to support an industry without first being given enough information to make an intelligent evaluation? Why did the last community object to them? What community was it?

A--The only "support" local people are being asked to give is to accept them as citizens. First hand reports disclose no objections to them where they now operate and in fact they will continue to operate there. They happen to be in a locality where state government does not want industry to expand, or new industry to come in. A plant in this area would be an expansion and they like our climate and other factors.

Drive Begins Sunday To Hike Church Attendance

The Scurry County Ministerial alliance is set to launch a church attendance campaign that will continue through all five Sundays in April.

The alliance, made up of ministers of churches in Snyder and Scurry County, is urging all residents of the city and county to attend church services during the month.

Mayor John Fagin has signed a proclamation designating April as "Attend the Sunday School of Your Choice Month." The alliance plans to check figures each week and post the attendance totals on a sign on the courthouse square.

The theme of the campaign is "We Really Do Need Each Other.

"To help us reach more people and have greater Sunday School attendance, we are urging all of the ministers and churches to join us in a community-wide effort to report our Sunday School attendance through the month of April," said the Rev. James R. Jackson, president of the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance and pastor of First Assembly of God Church.

Although special emphasis is optional with the various churches, the alliance has mapped the following schedule of featured Sundays during the coming month:

April 1, "All the Family Sunday."

April 8, "Bring a Friend Sunday."

April 15, "Easter Sunday."

April 22, "Beat Our Best Sunday."

April 29, "Membership Sunday."

force not needed

Programs for the health and safety of workers were not invented by the bureaucracy. The omnipresence of government agencies in the field today probably leads some of our younger citizens to believe that until forced safety regulations came into being, there were no good programs in industry.

Even if it were true that management generally had no concern for its workers, the cost of such a leak would provide over-riding incentive to develop good safety programs. Sickness and injury have always been costly factors in the conduct of a business.

Long before state and federal government invoked regulations to force compliance with their ideas on safety, good programs had been in effect in industries. For the most part, such programs evolved from cooperative efforts of top management and lower level supervision. This assured that proper consideration was given the working experience at the level where correction was most effective.

The voluntary approach was received by the workers with much better attitudes than can possibly be achieved by the shotgun approach of government. Much of the unacceptance of the regulations imposed by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) was engendered more by workers and lower level supervisors than by top management. Workers have always been able to spot danger in stupid rules.

There is simply no way a complete set of safety regulations can possibly be dreamed up to fit every facet of industrial activity. Conditions differ in departments within an industry, and no two industries can possibly have all of the same problems.

OSHA had to back down on nearly 1,000 regulations when so much of its safety controls became viewed as ridiculous.

From the standpoint of the safety of the worker, an unaccepted program can create its own danger. The attitude of Americans has always led them to accept a voluntary consideration over one which is forced by governmental edict.

When safety programs are preempted by authoritarian government, there is a tendency on the part of management to drop efforts at voluntary means to prevent hazards. So workers lose programs tailored to their particular needs and industry loses control over a costly factor in operation.

Industry generally has had a long record in good safety procedures. This is not to say there were not some areas where hazards which could have been avoided were not met by some industries.

We will probably never achieve perfection in the matter of industrial safety, for who among us can claim he is perfect? This also applies to the bureaucracy. But the voluntary method and industrial education will achieve far more than anything government can come up with.

The forced political approach is never on a selective basis, and so efforts toward forcing safety procedures usually do nothing but burden all industry and fail to halt the offenders who have little regard for good safety practices.

Officials of OSHA unwittingly revealed extent of effective safety practices born in voluntary efforts of industry. In defense of their positions, and in dismay at its negative reception, they claimed most of the regulations were derived from good industrial programs already in existence.

We have much good cause to wonder why this expensive, ineffective irritant is allowed to plague so great a part of our economic base in our industrious private enterprise.

how's that again?

One good example is worth a thousand admonitions.

One at a time we have been examining those states which are demonstrating an effective response to chronic political and economic problems.

Utah, for one, has whittled welfare down to near-nothing by a state law that says, "If you can work you work or your welfare payments are cut off."

Today let's visit Ohio.

Of all states, state and local taxes are next to the lowest in Ohio.

Ohio has had no new state taxes since 1971 and yet has a surplus in its treasury. Last year that surplus amounted to $134.4 million; this year it will total $176 million.

How do they do it?

Ohio has fewer state employees per capita than any state.

Yet Ohio is not stingy with itself. Its highway system is excellent, one of the best.

Ohio's educational system provides an institution of higher learning within 30 miles of every boy and girl in the state.

Ohio's emphasis on vocational education is such that when any industry contemplates moving to Ohio, it has only to place an order for the skilled workers it will need and they will be trained, ready and waiting when the new industry moves in.

Gov. James Rhodes says: "The more government has sought to solve the problems of the cities with public money, the worse those problems have become." And the cost of welfare is doubling every four years.

Five thousand families on Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) will cost the taxpayers more than $24 million.

But if the heads of those 5,000 families are working, each becomes a taxpayer rather than a tax-consumer and the state receives an additional $2 million a year income.

Ohio has already taken 48,000 people off welfare by getting jobs for the heads of households.

Gov. Rhodes is a businessman governor. He wants to create more jobs for more workers paying more taxes.

He wants to use that extra income to build day-care centers and more vocational schools so that no worker can say, "I can't work because I'm not trained" or "I can't work because I have children."

Gov. Rhodes is willing to offer tax abatement to any employers willing to risk building new facilities in the inner city because he is convinced that the only cure for the "cancer of the cities" is productive, permanent employment.

Gov. Rhodes believes that "general education" is preparation for "general unemployment." With his encouragement, more than 50 percent of all high school juniors and seniors are now in vocational training.

When the Mactool Company was negotiating with Brown County in Ohio, a group of school-agers marched toward the negotiation meeting with a sign reading:

"Welcome Mactool; we want to work for you."

Starting this spring many will.

A mouse is at large in the courthouse.

So far, the critter has revealed himself only to the people in the Justice of the Peace Office. While no one has seen him in a face-to-face confrontation, Wanda Rushing was the first to see his sign. That was Monday.

"I screamed...People thought I had been bit," said Mrs. Rushing in recalling the occasion.

Dan Callaway, the Justice of the Peace, procured two traps and some cheese. The traps were baited and set by Van Meador and Al Ramos, the courthouse custoddians. The traps were laid and everybody waited.

The mouse ate the cheese without springing the traps. Pesky devil.

Now, the traps have been reset, and everyone waits. The mouse remains at large and no one knows his exact whereabouts, but he is probably still in the JP office. Mrs. Rushing thinks so. That's what frightens her.

If the mouse really is in the JP office, then a secretary-to-mouse confrontation is looming.

When asked what her reaction might be to the confrontation that must come, Mrs. Rushing replied: "Well, I'd probably run, or scream, or something. There's no telling what I'd do. It depends on how much he startles me when I see him."

That is an honest reply from a woman fearful of mice.

Mrs. Rushing, however, should be made of sterner stuff. She used to work down here at the newspaper. During her newspaper days she was exposed to a steady diet of traffic accidents, assorted high crimes and misdemeanors, uncooperative coworkers, and circulation complaints.

She, along with everyone else in this business, became tough. But she's still afraid of mice.

Mrs. Rushing fears the mice slipped in from the air space separating the "old" and "new" courthouses. If that's the case, she ought to feel fortunate that a skeleton didn't also fall out of the courthouse closet. I imagine there's one or two of them lying about.

Getting back to mice, however, Mrs. Rushing describes her fear of the creatures as "something you just can't help."

WASHINGTON (NEA)- Politicians aren't the only ones gearing up for next year's presidential race. The Federal Election Commission has just announced that its "machinery is being oiled" in preparation for the campaign.

But that FEC lubrication job includes the questionable expenditure of almost $2,000 in public funds by a small group of the commission's senior staff members during a 2½-day "retreat" at a countryside inn more than 100 miles from Washington.

The FEC is responsible for administering federal laws governing presidential campaigns and for authorizing payment of millions of dollars to candidates in both the primary and general election races for the White House.

The meeting to plan for the 1980 campaign was held far from the capital despite both opposition from FEC Chairman Joan D. Aikens and a warning from the commission's information officer that public disclosure of the arrangements could be embarrassing to the agency.

Although the retreat was designed to improve cooperation among the FEC's seven divisions, it produced instead a bureaucratic feud between the commission's lawyers and other high-ranking agency officials.

The driving force behind the meeting, held at a rural lodge called the Boar's Head Inn near Charlottesville, Va., was William Loughery, the commission's deputy staff director.

After returning to Washington, Loughery prepared a typewritten, nine-page, single-spaced memo that lists all the purported accomplishments of the rural retreat.

But even the participants who have defended the meeting on the grounds that it provided a vaulable forum for informal discussions have characterized Loughery's memo as an exaggerated account, possibly prepared to ward off criticism that the trip was little more than a boondoggle.

Most of the participants rented $31.80-per-night rooms at the countryside inn for two nights, while costs for the conference room brought the total hotel bill up to $1,044.

Those who drove their own cars to Charlottesville were reimbursed for auto expenses at the authorized government rate of 17 cents per mile for a round trip averaging 250 miles, with costs in that category totaling almost $375.

In addition, the participants received a collective total of $520 in standard government "per diem" payments of $16 a day to cover the cost of meals and incidental expenses. The total cost of the retreat was slightly more than $1,960.

Aikens declined to personally discuss her views on the meeting, but a spokeswoman was authorized to say that the commission chairman "expressed her reservations" about the idea and "questioned the value of the seminar."

David Fiske, the commission's chief information officer at the time of the trip, also declined to discuss his attitude toward the retreat. But others at the FEC said he warned his colleagues that it could be publicly perceived as a pointless junket.

Such out-of-town retreats are common in the business world and do offer various benefits to both the sponsoring organization and the individuals who attend the meetings.

They provide an informal setting where difficult long-range problems can be discussed in a relaxed atmosphere free from the pressure of routine daily business. In addition, participants can become better acquainted with their colleagues.

But the concept can be abused by both business and government groups. Some federal agencies, for instance, have flown scores of officials to high-priced resorts thousands of miles from Washington, at a cost to the taxpayers of $10,000 to $50,000 or more.

By that standard, the FEC retreat was a modest affair. But commission officials remain rightfully sensitive about the meeting because it was a questionable undertaking for the watchdog agency committed to ethical campaign financing.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

I am writing this in the hope that you will find a place for it in your newspaper, for I think the people in Snyder should know what a great bunch of people you have working at the Texas Dept. of Human Resources (especially the director and the Social Security office). So many times the work they do is overlooked and taken for granted, and in this case I don't want this to happen. They went above and beyond their jobs to help my sister in a time of great need and when all hope was gone. I came to these people prepared to beg if I had to, but I didn't have to do this, because of their warmth and compassion for another human being.

Thanks to these people, my sister is now in Houston and even though we're not sure what the outcome of her illness will be, at least we know she has a chance.

I also want to mention the pastor of the Bethel Assembly of God Church, his wife and the whole congregation for all the love, prayers and help you have given through this, for without you I know Ann couldn't have made it this far. It's nice to know there are still people like you in this world and please keep praying for her.

Sometimes mere thanks just don't seem like enough and I do hope this letter expresses the deep gratitude that I and my whole family feel for all of you. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

East opened the bidding light, as most players do in third position. Although North-South could have made five clubs easily — losing only two aces — they not unreasonably arrived at the major suit game that superficially depends on trump breaking no worse than 4-2.

After East won the opening spade lead with the ace, dropping South's king, he had to decide whether to continue spades and force a ruff or switch to diamonds. He played a spade, which was the correct defense, and declarer had to ruff.

If declarer now had routinely drawn trump, an accurate defense would defeat the contract. Declarer would have to leave the high trump outstanding in the East hand and try to run the club suit. If East ruffed the fourth round of clubs and played a spade, South would have to ruff with his last trump. East would then get on play with the ace of diamonds and cash two spade tricks.

Declarer could see this trap. The key play was made at trick three when declarer led the king of diamonds from his hand, and from then on there was no defense.

Whenever East choses to win the ace of diamonds, South is in complete control. If East leads a third round of spades, it can be ruffed in dummy. The defense will get only their two aces and a trump trick.

A number of important items were on the agenda for the Hermleigh Community Meeting, held March 22.

The Hermleigh Lions Club will host a $2 a plate barbecue on Monday, April 23, in conjunction with the community meeting. It is at this meeting that Bill Benson, the Community Development Specialist, will speak. Mr. Benson works exclusively aiding small communities in improvement projects. Because his salary is paid by the State of Texas, his services come to us free of charge. He has stated that he is very enthusiastic about the progress Hermleigh Community has made in the past year and is eager to work with us on future projects. He has a seemingly endless supply of ideas and stories of other communities successes. Everyone is urged to meet with Mr. Benson on April 23 and to indulge in another of the Lions Club's famous barbecues!

Saturday, April 28 is the date set for the Spring Festival. The festival is to be held in the high school auditorium and will feature tables of handmade crafts, home-baked goods, plants, a garage sale and food booths. Joy Fuqua was appointed chairperson for this event. All proceeds will go the Community Fund to be used for future projects.

Guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Herrley, were Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Herrley of Snyder and their great granddaughter, Kari D'Von Kemp of Ackerley.

Members of the Methodist Church enjoyed a supper at the church Sunday night and heard Mrs. Doris Gafford tell the highlights of her Holy Land tour.

Mrs. Billy Carter of Tyler visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boyce last week.

Mrs. L.H. Howard of Sweetwater, and son Jack of Odessa visited in the W.E. McMillan home Sunday.

Visitors during the week in the Raymond Lloyd home were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lloyd, Tony, Pam and Doug of Gooding, Idaho; Christi Lloyd of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Lloyd, D'Lyn, M'Lys and A'Lisa of Fluvanna; Mrs. Carl Gray, Pat Cornett, Danna and Debbie Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Patrick, David, Jon, Jimmie Don Lloyd and Claudia Dixon, all of Snyder; Eltine Davis of Midland; and Carl Ray Lloyd and Mike of Wendell, Idaho.

Mrs. Elenor Collins of Abilene, and granddaughter, Debby Collins of Lubbock, and Miss Jan Kimbley and neice Jennifer Sanders of San Antonio, visited briefly with Mrs. Rachel Lassiter and Adala Drennan last week. Miss Collins and Miss Kimbley are teachers in the Lubbock school system.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wall and children, Lane and Angie have returned to their home in Tulsa, Okla., after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glover Wall and her mother in Roby.

A number of projects are being considered and a priority will be voted upon soon. Among others being considered are:

1. Naming and erecting signs for rural roads.
2. Street signs for town proper.
3. Emergency first aid courses and possibly a vehicle equiped for emergency care.
4. Developing you center.

For storage of garage sale items, phone the school 863-2451, or 863-2461.

The Scurry Co. Commissioners Court is to be approached once again on the possibility of appointing a constable for Hermleigh.

In final action, it was decided to limit the terms of office for community moderator and secretary to one year. Also, assistants to each office are to be added. The terms of Moderator Ray Simmons and Secretary Jervia Farr will end in April. The April 23 meeting will be election night for new officers.

At the close of the meeting, those present enjoyed the fine presentation of the Interscholastic League one-act play entry by Hermleigh high school students.

65th ANNIVERSARY-Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Beavers of 2511 Ave. W were honored with a reception on their 65th wedding anniversary Saturday, March 24 at the Union Community Center. The event was hosted by the couple's children, Forrest Beavers and Mrs. Esthalee Haney, both of Snyder, Mrs. Elois Smith and H.R. Beavers, both of Lovington, N.M., Mrs. Darlene Ramage and Mrs. Mary Lou Boothe, both of Carthage, and Betty Brown of Novat, Calif. (SDN Staff Photo)

Annual Report Pinpoints Water District Problems

The 1978 operating report of the Colorado River Municipal Water District pinpoints some of the problems the area water supplier wrestled with during the past year. Among them are mounting costs for producing water, another is water quality, and still another is a budget squeeze.

Rising energy costs resulted in a cost of 10.39 cents per 1,000 gallons of water from Lake Spence to Big Spring; to Odessa 15.75 per cent; and from Ward County to Odessa 11.30 cents per 1,000 gallons. For every thousand gallons of water over estimated consumption, the district receives six cents. Mis-estimating of consumption by cities, however, is adjusted in fixed charges the next year, but for the year in which it does occur, this puts the district in the hole on extra deliveries.

Cost of water during 1978 was 36.98 cents per 1,000 gallons to Odessa as compared with an average of 25.29 over the years; to Big Spring 30.40 against an average of 19.29; Snyder 26.83 compared with an average of 18.78.

Power costs for pumping ranged from 1.13 cents per thousand gallons from Big Spring to McWhorter station in eastern Martin County up to 7.68 cents per 1,000 gallons for pumping Odessa city wells, or 6.80 cents for pumping SACROC brine wells. The average cost of the initial lift from the main sources of supply was 4.18 cents per 1,000 gallons. To this, however, was added the cost of other lifts at booster stations on the supply lines.

Another problem was that of quality. Successive drought years since 1972 have eroded quality seriously, but had it not been for CRMWD's efforts, the picture would have been far worse. For instance, during 1978 the district diverted 1.28 billion gallons of poor quality low flow from the Colorado River near Colorado City, and this represented diversion of 10,500 tons of chlorides (about twice that weight in salt).

Also diverted from Beal's Creek above Big Spring were 105 million gallons containing 8,600 tons of chlorides. Together these accounted for 19,100 tons chlorides which will not get into Lake Spence. Interestingly, while the Beal's Creek volume was less than one-twelfth of the Colorado City diversion, it accounted for 44 percent of the diverted chlorides.

In the past 10 years the Colorado City diversion has been operative, 122,720 tons of chlorides have been taken out, and for the five years of the Beal's Creek project, 65,000 tons, a total of 18,300 tons. Again, computed as salt this means 375,000 tons have been kept out of Lake Spence.

During the year the district averaged delivering 37.75 million gallons a day to municipal customers, and 10.66 to oil company and other customers, a total average of just under 50 million gallons a day.

Most water came from Lake Thomas (3,362,366,000 gallons even with oil companies cut off from this source) and Lake Spence (8,282,000,000 gallons). Other sources were 3.554 billion gallons from Ward County wells, 423 million gallons from Martin Countywells, 105 million gallons from city wells, 868 million gallons from diverted water and 855 million gallons from brine wells for oil companies.

Because of record low runoff, supplies had to be jugged. Only 10,550 acre feet flowed into Lake Thomas and 10,676 into Lake Spence. Moreover, with the 1977 meager flow, this accounted for the worst biennium on record--15,355 for Lake Thomas, 33,800 for Lake Spence 220,200 acre feet. Lake Thomas pumped out 113,000 acre feet, an obvious deficit, and Lake Spence 160,100 acre feet. Yet when evaporation loss is considered, both were in serious deficit.

Because of higher power costs and having to work around short supplies at Lake Thomas, delivering water cost $2,770,000 in 1978, or $311,000 more than budgeted. Administrative and recreational costs were held under the budget, so that the total operating budget of $2,960,927 was exceeded only by $281,000.

New Fire Truck Named For Fiedler

BOSTON (AP)-Boston Pops maestro Arthur Fiedler has a new namesake - a 100-foot-long firetruck.

"I hope I deserve it," said the beaming 84-year-old Fiedler, who makes a hobby of fire-engine chasing.

Deputy Fire Chief John McCarthy said the truck will be called the Arthur Fiedler Memorial Aerial Tower. In a ceremony Wednesday in City Council chambers, the Museum of Transportation also named the firehouse holding its fire collection after Fiedler.

Three days earlier, Fiedler had returned to the podium to lead the Boston Symphony in a four-minute rendition of "The Stars and Stripes Forever." It was his first performance since undergoing brain surgery in December.

'Bonded' In County Jail

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP)-The Baxter County Jail isn't the most romantic place in town, but Jean Erickson and Billy Joe Welch were married there because Welch couldn't raise $2,500 bond.

The ceremony was performed Wednesday in the main hallway of the jail by the Rev. Lyndel Harberson. A blaring police radio served as accompaniment.

Welch, 17, of Mountain View, was jailed Feb 23 on a second-degree forgery charge. The new Mrs. Welch, 20, is free on bond on an identical charge. The bride's brother, Robert Erickson, who is being held on burglary and theft charges, was the best man.

Achievement Tests To Begin April 3

AUSTIN (AP)-Statewide tests to measure student achievement in economics and career education will be administered April 3 through May 11, the Texas Education Agency announced Wednesday.

The TEA said 78,850 elementary and secondary students will be tested.

Their scores will be considered in choosing textbooks and designing curriculums, the TEA said.

Will It Be Banned?...

Opinion Due On Nitrite Question

WASHINGTON (AP)-Two federal agencies are in a tussel over where and when to announce a Justice Department opinion on whether a widely used food preservative will have to be banned outright if it is shown to cause cancer.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland earlier this week told a group of farm editors that an announcement of the Justice Department's decision would be made Friday afternoon.

Bergland said he and Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, would be present but, "I don't know what I'm going to say yet."

The opinion was sought months ago by the two agencies after a report last summer indicated the preservative - sodium nitrite - may cause cancer.

Other studies had shown that nitrosamines, which are formed from nitrite when bacon is fried at high heat, can cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Meanwhile, several members of Califano's staff have been in contact with Bergland's office about the news conference on the nitrite question, contending that the briefing should be held today or next Monday so it would get better news coverage.

Eileen Shanahan, HEW assistant secretary for public affairs, reportedly wanted the news conference to be in Califano's department. But at Agriculture, Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman was said to be holding out for having the event on Bergland's turf.

As a result of the concern about nitrosamines, the Agriculture Department last year reduced the amount of nitrite that can be used in making bacon and is monitoring compliance through regular tests of fried bacon.

Agriculture and HEW's Food and Drug Administration asked for the opinion in hopes the two agencies could gradually phase out use of nitrite instead of banning it outright, as is required under current law that prohibits the use of known cancer-causing additives in food products.

Sources close to the situation indicated more than a month ago that Justice Department lawyers believe it would be illegal to phase out nitrite gradually if it is shown to be a cause of cancer.

Further tests and other snarls have also developed, however, so that whatever Justice says may be meaningless for months until those other issues are settled.

Bergland has said a number of times that if an outright ban of nitrite is forthcoming, he will "immediately go to Congress and ask for a one year moratorium" so there will be time to change the law so nitrite can be used and phased out gradually.

Also, Bergland has said, USDA and FDA are working on "suggested tolerances" for food additives suspected of causing cancer so that those can continue to be used in the food supply according to federal limits.

Nitrite has been used in the processing of bacon, ham and other products as a preservative and color enhancer and to prevent the formation of organisms that can cause botulism, a deadly food poisoning.

Desperado's Wife Files For Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)-John Wojtowicz, the real-life desperado portrayed in the movie "Dog Day Afternoon," is out of jail, out of work and may soon be out of wedlock.

Wojtowicz, 33, said Wednesday that his wife, Carmen, had sued for divorce, accusing him of adultery with a male lover in jail and with Liz Eden since his parole last November.

It was to finance the sex-change operation of Miss Eden, then known as Ernest Aron, that Wojtowicz pulled the celebrated 1972 bank holdup that cost him six years in jail, he says. But he claims he has not been with Miss Eden since then, and says he will countersue.

Farmers Repairing Washington Mall

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of farmers are plowing and planting seed to repair damage to the grassy Mall, where hundreds of tractors ripped the turf and gouged holes during last month's protest by the American Agriculture movement.

Chuck Kanten, a farmer from Milan, Minn., said Wednesday "at least a dozen" tractors, along with chisel implements, disks and grass seeders are being used in the repair.

Side areas of the Mall are being planted with grass seed on top of existing sod and then rolled with machinery to help smooth the soil, Kanten told a reporter.

But in one large center section of the Mall, a showpiece area for millions of tourists who visit nearby museums and art galleries, Kanten was told by the National Park Service to plow the old sod with his chisel.

"I walked across this section first, looking it over, and I could see no need to tear it up, to re-sod it," Kanten said.

"But after I started digging I could see why. The grass roots are only about one-quarter of an inch deep and then its like a hard shell."

Kanten said Maryland farmers provided most of the grass-seeding equipment but that farmers from Virginia and "all over" are helping with the project.

"We won't sod it," Kanten said. "We're just to get the ground somewhat ready."

A shipment of 7,200 pounds of grass seed donated by Oregon producers, meanwhile, was scheduled to arrive here today.

The American Agriculture protest began here Feb. 5 when thousands of farmers, tractors and other vehicles paraded into the capital to seek higher government price supports.

Police used buses, trucks and other vehicles to confine the tractors to the Mall, except for approved "tractorcade" marches through city streets.

Honesty Best Policy But Premium Is High

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I want to share something with you that bothers me. My brother and six other guys were drinking at a friend's house. They were all on the basketball team at the time. The rule of the team is that no player is allowed to drink.

Well, the coach heard about it and got all the guys together and asked them flat out if they had been drinking. Two "brave" guys admitted it. The others lied.

I always thought honesty was the best policy, but I've changed my mind. The two guys who told the truth got kicked off the team. The ones who lied are still on it.

I no longer believe it pays to be honest. This incident proved it.

DISGUSTED WITH LIFE

DEAR DISGUSTED: The guys who were kicked off the team were punished for breaking the rules, not for telling the truth. Everyone must live with his own conscience, and the two who were honest scored much higher in self-esteem that those who lied.

Don't blame the coach. He had to stick by the rules, but I'm sure he appreciates the integrity of the two who confessed their guilt. (I'll bet he reinstates them. Please let me know.)

DEAR ABBY: My wife read the letter from TIRED PARENTS and handed it to me without comment. These parents were tired of supporting their 30- and 25-year-old sons, who were lazy good-for-nothings and always in some kind of trouble.

What a contrast to our son, who has always been independent and highly motivated! He worked his way through college and has a bachelor's degree and master's from one of the top universities.

We helped him a little his first year; from his sophomore year on he never asked for a cent. He now has a very responsible position with another fine university and a bright future.

You could not find a more thoughtful son. He always remembers our birthdays and anniversary. On Mother's Day and Father's Day he always calls AND sends a present. Though he is nearly 30, he has never missed a Christmas at home with us. His gifts are always special.

Incidentally, our son is a homosexual. We don't understand why he is this way. We were hurt and upset when he told us. But we have never stopped loving him, and we feel it would be ungrateful to complain or pray that things were different. The Lord sent us a wonderful son who is "a joy in our old age," and we feel truly blessed.

PROUD PARENTS

DEAR PROUD: And your son is also truly blessed to have such understanding parents.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to donate my eyes and kidneys and any other parts of my body that would be of use to a living person (after I die of course), but I doubt if they would be good enough.

You see, I'm 72 years old, have had a gall-bladder operation, two heart attacks, and put drops in my eyes regularly for glaucoma.

I wonder who would want my eyes? And since the rest of me isn't in very good shape either, would it be worth the trouble to donate any of my parts to that organ bank you wrote about?

You may print this because I'm sure other people want to know the answer, too.

ALL USED UP IN HIBBING, MINN.

DEAR ALL: Organs that are not suitable for transplants are useful for research and teaching, so please don't hesitate to register with The Living Bank, Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77005.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

March 30, 1979

Progress will come this coming year by setting definite goals and sticking to them. Don't be tempted to make change for change's sake.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're a bit too apathetic concerning your possessions today. It's this kind of attitude that creates carelessness and loss. Be careful. Discover with whom you best get along romantically by sending for your new Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Springing last-minute changes on people today will not only disrupt their plans but also give you a headache you didn't bargain for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to look for an excuse to put off something you promised to do for another today, even though you probably could come up with a lulu.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful you don't inadvertently hurt someone's feelings today because you'd rather be with someone else. It won't be worth it in the long run.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If others aren't producing as you think they should today, it just may be your fault. Make certain to give clear instructions and to define your goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Going against what your common sense tells you is right is always a mistake. Don't be enticed today into doing something you'd rather not.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In activities where teamwork is required to reach the goal, patience will be needed. You could suffer a loss if you get edgy and push prematurely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might be forced to put the priorities of others above your own today. If you can't change things, don't add to your frustration. Cooperate with a smile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you have a specific job to do, you'd better organize the steps or you're likely to create a lot of unnecessary work for yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Social plans could be changed at the last minute today. Take things in stride. Don't demand friends conform to a rigid program. Go along with the group.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you feel like your back is up against the wall today, take a second look. Chances are, the way you're going about things is all wrong.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unless you plan an itinerary today, you're likely to do a lot of needless running around. Map out a route. Don't head off on a wild goose chase.

Texaco To Cut Gas Deliveries

NEW YORK (AP)—Texaco Inc. announced Tuesday it would cut gasoline deliveries to its dealers further in April, a reflection of the world's tight supply of oil.

Nearly all gasoline suppliers now are giving their dealers less fuel than they can sell because supplies have been tight as a result of the revolution in Iran and a bottleneck in U.S. refining capacity.

Texaco this month is selling dealers 90 percent of the gasoline they got in March 1978. That will drop to 85 percent in April, spokesman Jim Robertson said.

While service stations are getting less gasoline than last year, demand for fuel is higher. Dan Lundberg, publisher of an authoritative newsletter on the gasoline industry, estimates that gasoline supplies now are running about 8.9 percent lower than demand.

Last year, Americans returned 6 billion aluminum cans for recycling, one of every four aluminum cans manufactured.

WTC Rider In Rodeo At NMSU

Western Texas College rodeo teams will be in Las Cruces this weekend for the New Mexico State University NIRA rodeo.

Two WTC contestants, Lane Foltyn and Tammie Matthews, will be seeking points to add to their current lead standings in the Southwest Region of the NIRA. Foltyn leads the region in All-Around Champion and bull riding points, while Ms. Matthews is the top barrel racer and ranks fourth in breakaway roping.

Foltyn, a freshman from El Campo, is the current Texas High School All-Around Champion Cowboy, and was the high school bull-riding champion last year. Ms. Matthews is a sophomore from Odessa and a candidate for the Associate in Arts degree at WTC in May.

The NMSU rodeo will be followed by rodeos at Howard College in Big Spring April 5-8, Tarleton State on April 12-14, Hardin-Simmons April 19-21, WTC April 26-28, and NMJC May 3-5.

Each region in the NIRA sends its top two teams and top two individuals to the Collegiate National Finals Rodeo (CNFR). Lake Charles, La., will host the CNFR in June this year. The winning teams or individuals are computed on total points in the best five rodeos of the season.

"We hope WTC will send at least two individuals and possibly a team to the CNFR," Van Rigby, rodeo team advisor, said. "We invite local rodeo fans to support our WTC contestants at every rodeo, and hope to see many of them at the WTC rodeo on April 26-28."

GOOD RIDE -- WTC's Lane Foltyn won first place in bull riding at the Texas Tech NIRA earlier this season when this photo was made. Foltyn earned 180 points at the Tech rodeo and was named All-Around Cowboy there. WTC rodeo teams will be in New Mexico for an NIRA competition this weekend and will be in action each weekend through May 5.

Carbon Monoxide Killed Firemen

LUBBOCK (AP)—Three firemen fighting an early Sunday fire at a café died because their oxygen masks apparently contained carbon monoxide, city officials have concluded.

The officials called a news conference Wednesday night and said laboratory tests in Dallas on the firefighters' air packs showed they contained carbon monoxide.

Autopsies on the three showed they had a 50 percent level of carbon monoxide in their blood. A level of from 50 to 75 percent produces a coma, followed by death, officials said.

It earlier had been thought the men died because of toxic fumes, perhaps from ceiling tile, but no traces of other poisonous vapors was found in the victims' bodies.

Here A Chick, There A Chick

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)-Schools like to mold young minds, but what can you do for 2,000 baby chickens?

Police said Wednesday that the chicks were found roaming the halls of Avondale High School and Columbia Seminary on Monday morning.

DeKalb County animal control director John Bodie said pranksters broke into the school and dumped some chicks in a hallway before apparently tripping the burglar alarm. Another load of chicks was dumped at the nearby seminary, he said.

"I'm sure it's considered humorous, but I personally don't feel that way," said Avondale Principal Ames Kitches. "This was a violation of school rules and we plan to pursue it."

Bodie said he believes the chicks came from a local hatchery. But police spokesman Chuck Johnson said, "We've had no missing chicken reports."

Fossils of creatures believed to be prehistoric ancestors of elephants, rhinoceroses, bears and various reptiles were found recently in a diamond-prospecting pit in South Africa's Namib desert.

China Cancels Wheat Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—China has cancelled orders for 300,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat it ordered for delivery in the new marketing year that will begin on June 1.

The Ariculture Department said Wednesday the cancellation was reported by private exporting companies.

No official explanation was provided for the cancelled orders, but one source said China may have been able to get a better price from another supplier.

With world wheat stocks up, international export trade is highly competitive, and it is not unusual for a foreign buyer to cancel contracts if better prices are available elsewhere.

The department said U.S. wheat sales to China include about 2.9 million metric tons for the current marketing year and 1.2 million metric tons for the 1979-80 year, which will begin June 1.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat.

In addition, China has bought more than 2.9 million metric tons of U.S. corn for 1978-79 delivery, plus substantial amounts of soybeans, soybean oil and cotton.

Tech To Charge Recreation Fee

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate Education Committee voted 8-0 Wednesday to permit Texas Tech University to charge students a $25-a-semester recreation fee.

It is the first such fee at a Texas college, the committee was told.

OPEN LETTER TO THE RESIDENTS OF SCURRY COUNTY

Sunday School and Church Attendance is a subject of vital interest to each of us. As a result of this interest, the Churches of Scurry County are joining together for a concerted effort for increased Sunday School attendance.

To help us reach more people and have greater Sunday School attendance, we are urging all of the Ministers and Churches to join us in a community wide effort to report our Sunday School attendance throughout the month of April. On each Monday of April each church of Scurry County is asked to call 573-2631 and report your Sunday School attendance for the previous day. The grand total of all the churches in Scurry County will be the figure posted.

Mayor John Fagin has declared April as "Attend The Sunday School Of Your Choice Month." A sign on the Courthouse lawn will depict the attendance of each Sunday for all the churches in Scurry County. The theme of our campaign is "WE REALLY DO NEED EACH OTHER."

The following is a schedule of the featured Sundays:

April 1 — All The Family Sunday
April 8 — Bring A Friend Sunday
April 15 — Easter Sunday
April 22 — Best Our Best Sunday
April 29 — Membership Sunday

Of Course, this is optional with your church and your plans.

This program has great potential of blessings for all of the churches in Scurry County. Let's put forth every effort to attend our church each Sunday in April.

"WE REALLY DO NEED EACH OTHER"

Sincerely,

James R. Jackson

Whooping Crane Eggs Entrusted To Bantam Hens

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)-Sebrina is gentle, devoted, fussy and protective - an ideal foster mother. That's why she and four other bantam jungle fowl hens at the San Antonio Zoo have been entrusted with five extremely rare whooping crane eggs.

The fertile eggs, seldom produced in captivity, are the last from Ektu and Crip, the only whoopers in a public zoo out of a total whooping crane population of about 100. Crip died Tuesday after living three decades in captivity.

All of that, however, is immaterial to the small brooding hens from the jungles of India. The hens are just happy to have something to mother and have been trained to think the whooper eggs, five times larger than jungle fowl eggs, are their own. They also don't know jungle fowl babies aren't supposed to be large, gangly cranes.

"Their brooding instinct is so strong, they will sit on a light bulb until they hatched it. They will literally sit on anything round," said David McKelvey, the zoo's senior aviculturist and originator of what he calls the "foster parent program."

"They're not allowed to lay eggs or hatch anything of their own species, just cranes," he added. "As far as they know, all baby jungle fowl look like cranes.

"They know damn well they are jungle fowl themselves, they just think their babies look like cranes. There is a great possibility they would turn against chicks of their own species."

The rare eggs were turned over to the brooding hens because of the somewhat unsettled domestic situation in the whooping crane household, what with Crip's death and all.

It also seems the year-old hens, which hatched a crop of more common cranes last year, care for the eggs better than the real mother, said McKelvey. "Once that old brooding hormone hits them and says sit, they sit," he said.

The zoo got more eggs this way, since Ektu would have produced only two eggs if she had been allowed to keep them in the nest. She continued, however, to replace the eggs removed and given to the hens.

It's also normal for the stronger and older of the baby whoopers to kill its younger sibling after they are hatched, the aviculturist added.

McKelvey said the hens are better than incubators because of the possibility of power failures or equipment malfunctions that destroy eggs in incubators.

The eggs, however, are almost half as large as the hens themselves. Therefore, attendants must open the covered, straw-lined wooden boxes several times per day to turn the eggs for the hens. If not, the embryo will stick to one side and die, McKelvey said.

The first of the eggs is due to hatch April 14.

"The chicks will immediately be taken away because of their rarity," McKelvey said. "We wouldn't want one of the hens to whack a chick in the middle of the night or something."

The foster mothers are disturbed when their foster off-spring are removed, but easily forget it in less than an hour, McKelvey said.

The chicks will be placed in separate cages in boxes, so they can see, but not kill, each other. McKelvey, who has mastered 220 bird calls, will feed them while whistling like a mother-whooper and using a whooping crane puppet on his hand.

If the chicks are exposed to the hens or to humans, they could grow up thinking they are a jungle fowl or a human. "They really can get a warped outlook: I want our cranes to grow up to be cranes, not pets," he said.

In three weeks, the whooper chicks should be twice as large as their foster mothers.

Only one whooping crane now living was hatched and raised in captivity, said McKelvey and Assistant Zoo Director Ernest Roney. That's Tex, the daughter of Crip and his second mate, Rosie. Tex was hatched and raised in 1967 at the San Antonio Zoo.

The New Orleans Zoo has produced four healthy whoopers in captivity, but all are now dead, Roney said.

The chicks, also federally protected as an endangered species, will either remain at the zoo or go to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for restocking, McKelvey said.

Inflamed epididymis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes a man's scrotum to hang about two inches lower than normal and, at the same time, the right testicle is slightly swollen?

After a few days of bedrest this condition disappears and everything is back to normal. My doctor calls this epididymitis. What is it and why does it happen? I am 58 years old and in excellent health.

DEAR READER — The epididymis is the cordlike area that attaches to the side of the body of the testicle. The vas deferens, the tube that carries sperm cells up to the penis, is coiled in this area. There are also a large number of veins and arteries inside the epididymis. The ending, "itis," means inflammation. When the epididymis is inflamed, it is called epididymitis.

The epididymis and scrotal area is well below the level of the heart when you are sitting up or standing up. Blood runs downhill. That means that if there is a disorder such as an inflammation, the swelling will occur when you are sitting up.

To give you a better understanding of what causes swellings and what to do about them I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-6, Swelling: Causes and Management. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — This week I had a terrible experience which made me angry and also worries me. Both of my parents had cataracts and I went to see a local oculist. They put drops in my eye and sent me back to the waiting room to wait until my eyes were ready for examination. Then they put some more drops in my eyes and I was examined.

The doctor told me I didn't have any eye disease and I didn't need to change my glasses and to come back in a year. No one gave me a word of warning, caution or advice to prepare me for what struck my eyes as I opened the door to go outside.

It was about noon and the sun looked like bright lightning. I could hardly keep my eyes open and I had to drive 60 miles home. Happily, the Lord hears and answers prayers. I'm worried that between the doctor's office and home, the sunlight may have done permanent damage to my eyes. They were uncomfortable a couple of days, but my vision was all right by the next morning. Am I worrying needlessly about future eye problems that may arise as a result of this incident?

DEAR READER — I can understand your unhappiness, but the danger was driving home in that condition. People who are going to have an eye examination should plan on having their eyes dilated. The doctor uses medicine to dilate the pupil so he can examine the back of the eye and other structures adequately. That's important to you because you do want a good examination.

There are no permanent harmful effects from the procedure, but it can affect your vision when you first go out in the sunlight. After all, the pupil dilates or contracts in relation to the light primarily to improve your vision. People who have such an examination sometimes find that dark glasses after the examination are helpful.

Don't worry about your eyes being damaged. They weren't, but the next time you have an eye examination any place, prepare for the possibility that you may want someone else to drive you home. Also, take along a pair of dark glasses if you will be out in the sunlight afterwards.

Base Cutbacks To Save Millions

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon, under intense political pressure, was announcing today moves aimed at closing, reducing and consolidating military bases across the country to save more than $400 million a year.

If all the plans are carried out, the Defense Department could cut more than 40,000 of its 3 million civilian and military personnel from the payroll.

Defense officials refused to identify the affected bases in advance of an afternoon announcement. But it is known they plan to clear up some cases dating back to the Ford Administration in 1976, as well as proposals the Carter administration made last year.

Sources who declined to be identified said a major part of the plan calls for studies aimed at streamlining supply operations and shifting to civilian contractors some support missions now handled by defense workers.

The Pentagon says it has saved about $5.4 billion in operating and personnel costs as a result of base streamlining actions over the last 10 years.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has said about $1 billion still is being wasted by operating bases "we do not need."

According to a variety of sources, these are some of the expected actions:

-The Army's basic training center at Fort Dix, N.J., will be closed, while the one at Fort Jackson, S.C., will remain open. Fort Dix will still have a chance, however, to become the home of the 2nd Infantry Division, due to be withdrawn from South Korea.

-Defense supply and logistics centers and depots in a number of states will be merged.

-Army anti-aircract missile batteries in Florida and Alaska - the service's last in firing position in the United States - will be closed.

-The Marines will retain recruit training camps at Parris Island, S.C., and at San Diego. The Pentagon had considered closing one of them.

-The Navy will keep open its boot camps at San Diego and Great Lakes, Ill. The Pentagon said last year it was thinking of shutting either of them.

-The Army will move out of Fort Wadsworth and Fort Toten, and the Old Bellmore air defense missile site, all in New York.

-The Air Force will keep both Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., and Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., but close Goodfellow Air Force Base, Texas.

NRC Expecting Safety Analyses

WASHINGTON (AP)-Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials expect to begin receiving this week safety analyses of the cooling systems of five nuclear power plants shut down earlier this month.

But Victor Stello, director of the agency's division of operating reactors, said Tuesday it was not yet known when the safety investigations will be finished. The plants in Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and Maine were ordered closed so a reevaluation could be made of the effects of earthquakes on the systems that cool the nuclear cores.

Makes Wine From Dandelions

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) —Standing with Tom Pontano in his field, you sense an irony. In his secret heart, he hopes his crop won't bring a price that makes it worth picking.

"I need to get at least $3 a half bushel," he said, "It does not look like I'm going to get it." His eyes brightened. "So I'll just have to let the whole two acres go to flower."

Pontano grows dandelions, on purpose.

At restaurants in Philadelphia and New York, at sidewalk markets in Italian neighborhoods, the first tender leaves of that often accursed plant are sought as a spring-time salad delicacy.

Should dandelions go to flower, alas, only one purpose remains for them. Make wine.

"I'm down to my last jug," Pontano lamented.

He brought it from the kitchen, his last gallon jug. It was barely half full. The color of the liquid was the color of a dandelion. "You mean you have never tasted dandelion wine?" he said.

On a tree stump in the front yard he placed two Styrofoam cups and carefully spilled a precious dollop into each.

"Talk about potent," he said and got no argument, "one winter I took a jug of this stuff with me while I spread manure. You should have seen the tractor tracks the next day. They weaved all over the field.

"I don't like to think of going through a winter without dandelion wine. We're just going to have to make some more."

Pontano is 29 and counts himself lucky to have gotten into farming when he did, five years ago. "A year later and I wouldn't have been able to afford the investment." He farms 43 acres of greens: lettuce, parsley, cabbage, dill, dandelions.

"Making dandelion wine is a big event," he said. "A bunch of us, all relatives and friends, get together and do it.

"The worst part is picking the flowers. We get the kids to do that. Then we all get together and cut the oranges and the grapefruit, drink a little of last year's wine, make a night of it, or two nights.

"We do this over at my uncle Caesar Simone's place. He is the winemaker. Everybody has his own recipe, but people who have tasted his wine say it is the best. His father taught him, or his grandfather. Somebody from the old country."

Unit pricing, according to the United States Office of Consumer Affairs, is one of the most useful tools available to shoppers for comparing prices and determining the most economical buy. Safeway, recognizing the benefits to customers, was one of the first chains to introduce unit pricing.
In Safeway, shelf labels show the price of an item and, breaking the price down into a basic unit, also show the price per pound, quart, ounce or other even unit of measure.
We have done the arithmetic for you. All you need to do is compare the Unit Price of brands of the same product to help determine the most economical brand and size.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Radiation leaks from the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant continued today, authorities said, as a debate grew over what was described as one the most serious such incidents in this country's history.

"The vapor that is now going into the atmosphere is from a sump pump and is only mildly radioactive within accepted limits," said Don Curry, a spokesman for the Metropolitan Edison Co., owner of the plant. The pump is designed to remove water after it has cooled the reactor.

"We concede that it's not just a little thing," Curry said. "In terms of publicity it will probably surpass the Browns Ferry incident."

Until now, a March 1975 fire in the control room of the Browns Ferry nuclear plant in Alabama has generally been considered this nation's most dangerous incident involving a nuclear reactor.

Low-level radiation was detected in the air as far as 16 miles away after an apparent valve failure Wednesday morning resulted in excessive pressure being built up in the water used to cool the reactor core at Three Mile Island.

Curry said the latest radiation measurements outside the plant were at two to three millirems. Individuals are exposed to up to 30 millirems in a single X-ray examination.

Walter Creitz, president of Metropolitan Edison, said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" show this morning that the plant shut down safely and that the level of radiation released "would not endanger or injure any people."

Brother Billy Feeling Fine

ATLANTA (AP)-Billy Carter is feeling fine and looking forward to the end of his treatment for a drinking problem, his friends say.

"I have talked to him on the phone several times, and his voice sounds great," Tandy Rice, his agent, said Wednesday. "He sounds better than ever. He sounds like the old Billy Carter."

The president's brother was voluntarily admitted March 7 to the Long Beach Naval Medical Center in California where former first lady Betty Ford and Sen. Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia also were treated. Carter obtained special permission to enter the government hospital and will pay the $242-per-day tab himself.

There's A Lot Going On This Weekend...

Sports Fans, Don't Quit Yet

Whew! If local sports fans had the idea that everything died out with the end of the basketball season they were never more wrong.

Snyderites can stay at home this weekend and watch their pick of golf, track or baseball, or can attend relay meets in Sweetwater or Seminole.

The action opens as early as 10:30 a.m. Friday when Andrews and Jal, N.M. open the annual Snyder Baseball Tournament at Moffett Field. At 12:30 Snyder and Estacado lock horns, followed by Odessa Ector and Lamesa at 2:30 and Kermit and Levelland at 4:30.

Play continues through the day and evening and finishes up with the championship game which begins at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Speaking of Saturday, Snyder High School hosts a District 3-AAA Golf Tournament at Western Texas College on that day. Snyder, Brownfield, Lamesa and Sweetwater will tee off with a shotgun start at 9 a.m.

The play is based on a point system and whichever team has the most points after four district meets - one at each school's home town - is declared the 3-AAA champion.

Currently, Snyder is in second place after one meet, behind Brownfield, and ahead of Lamesa and Sweetwater, in that order. Tiger player Lance McMillan was medalist at the previously played tourney, held in Sweetwater.

Also Saturday, a trio of track meets involving Snyder athletes will be held.

On the home turf, Tiger Stadium welcomes the fourth annual Snyder Girls Invitational. Field events will begin at 10 a.m. and running prelims start at 11. Finals have been set for 2 p.m.

Eight teams will participate in the single-day meet. They are Snyder, Coahoma, Rotan, Lubbock High, San Angelo, Lake View, Lubbock Coronado and Post.

Elsewhee, Coach Winfred Shipp takes his varsity trackmen to the Indian Relays in Seminole. Field events begin at 10 a.m. with prelims to start shortly after, and finals to get underway in the early afternoon.

Finally, Snyder seventh and eighth grade girls, and seventh through ninth grade boys will attend an all-day track meet in Sweetwater.

Oh, and on the college scene, the WTC Westerners will compete in the Southern Intercollegiate (54 holes) at Dadeville, Ala. for three days, Friday through Sunday, and Duster star Nodia Vaughn will join top women's basketball players from throughout the nation to vie in the East-West Juco All-Star Basketball Classic at Hutchison, Kan. on Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Quick Glances...

Cagers Again; A Roast, Too

By BILL McCLELLAN

College basketball fans don't have to go sit in a corner yet.

At 3 p.m. Saturday CBS will air highlights of the 1979 East-West All-Star Basketball Classic which features former Western Texas College star Lawrence Butler and Indiana State's Larry Bird.

There's a catch though. Viewers will have to sit through a 'Pete Rose Roast' with such celebraties as Milton Berle, Don Rickles, Phillis Diller and Johnny Bench.

And CBS lists only "highlights" of the game, which in addition to Butler and Bird is staffed with three Southwest Conference players.

Just what amount of interest the Roast will pull is up for speculation, but the feeling is from this section of the sidelines that the public will get burned again. It happens every time a network attempts to mix sports with hollywood.

Anyway, coaching the East team will be Bill Foster of Duke, and he'll have with him Nick Galis of Seton Hall, Terry Duerod of Detroit, Duke's Jim Spanarkel, Dayton's Jim Paxton, Ohio University's Tim Joyce, Central Michigan's Jeff Tropf, Alabama's Reggie King, Notre Dame's Bruce Flowers, Mississippi State's Wiley Peck, and of course the Birdman.

West coach Abe Lemons (Texas) will have Butler, now at Idaho State and the top scorer in the nation at the regular season's end, Arkansas' Sidney Moncrief, Baylor's Vinnie Johnson, Texas' Jim Krivacs, Wichita State's Cheese Johnson, Nevada-Las Vegas' Earl Evans, Northeast Louisiana's Calvin Natt, Larry Demic of Arizona, Ollie Matson, Jr. of Pepperdine and Paul Mokeski of Kansas.

Eight spots on each team were chosen by fan UCLA forward David Greenwood, who finished third in the voting - Bird was first - elected not to participate.

Could it be he didn't want to compete with Petey's roast?

The game, for charity, will be held in Las Vegas.

Lopez Favored At Mesa Meet

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)-Nancy Lopez, shaking off the sophomore jinx and looking for her third straight victory, is the clear-cut favorite in a $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament scheduled to begin today at Mesa Verde Country Club.

Winner of nine tournaments last year during her stunning rookie season on the tour, Lopez has won the last two LPGA tournaments on the tour.

A victory last week in the Sahara Open boosted her into an early lead in money winnings with $42,300. Lopez, 22, won $189,813 last year.

The LPGA's top 39 money winners are among the field of 115 pros and three amateurs for this tournament, which ranks among the richest on the tour.

Three inches of rain in 36 hours left the 6,134-yard, par-71 Mesa Verde layout a swamp earlier this week, forcing cancellation of Wednesday's pro-am.

Brown Takes UCLA Position

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Many college coaches hope for the day when they can advance to the professional ranks, with a corresponding jump in pay and prestige.

Not Larry Brown.

Brown, who resigned as coach of the Denver Nuggets earlier this year, said Wednesday that he is extremely happy to be UCLA's new basketball coach.

"This is a great moment for me, and I hope in the future UCLA can say the same thing," Brown said at a press conference announcing his appointment. "I was hoping I wouldn't have to go back to the pros. The pros are good for certain people, and it gave me the opportunity to coach. But I didn't think I was suited to that type of job.

"I love to coach basketball," he continued, "and I think I can contribute more in the college game than in the pros."

Brown, 38, succeeds Gary Cunningham, who resigned last week, saying he wants to spend more than with his family. Cunningham said he plans to take an administrative post at UCLA.

Borg Keeps On Winning

MILAN, Italy - Top-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden crushed Italy's Tonino Zugarelli, 6-3, 6-1, and advanced to the quarterfinals of a $200,000 World Championship Tennis tournament.

In other matches, third-seeded John McEnroe outlasted Britain's Andrew Jarrett, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2; Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison upset sixth-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3; local hero Adriano Panatta suprised Argentina's Jose-Luis Clerc, 6-2, 7-6 and Peter Fleming defeated Italy's Massimo Rivaroli 6-3, 6-3.

Snyder Hosts Baseball Action...

Tigers Set For Tourney

Snyder High School will prepare to defend its championship of the Snyder Baseball Tournament here as eight teams begin the annual battle Friday.

The Tigers, 9-5, will be pitted against Lubbock Estacado at 12:30 in the second game of round-one. Andrews and Jal, N.M. will open the two-day tourney at 10:30 a.m. All games will be played at Moffett Field.

Other teams competing in the tournament will be Odessa Ector and Lamesa, playing at 2:30, and Kermit and Levelland, vying at 4:30.

Snyder Coach Albert Lewis is optimistic about his teams' chances of holding onto the crown, but off-handly picks Levelland (10-2) as the probably favorite.

The Tigers trimmed Levelland by a score of 1-0 in the fourth game of the season, but that was only one of two losses the opponent has given up all season.

Lewis will open with either Mitch Mackey or Mark Davis on the mound. Mackey had been suffering a wrist injury which may leave the senior lefthander off of the hill, but in the game at right field.

Mackey is 3-2 on the season.

Davis has not started this season, but has relieved twice and "not given up anything." He is credited with a save.

The batting order and starters for Snyder shape up this way: Bryan Vincent will lead off - he will play left field - followed by Richard Crayton, shortstop; Kyle Short, second base; Sid Everton, third; Scott Crenwelge, first base; Mackey, pitch or right field; Toby Neves, catcher; Bobby Degrate, center field; and either Trussell Thanes or Pete (Sammy) Willis as designated hitter.

Estacado comes into the tournament with a 5-7 record and is listed by Lewis as "a very good hitting team."

Trophies will be awarded for first, second, third and consolation, and for all-tournament players.

Spurs Smash Orleans Jazz

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-The Spurs cast aside the memory of a nightmare in New Orleans by virtue of a 122-94 victory over the Jazz Wednesday night.

Two weeks ago, San Antonio blew a 24-point third quarter lead in the Superdome and lost, 124-122. From there, the Spurs had dropped six of their past seven games before winning Wednesday.

Leading 54-44 at the half, the Central Division-leading Spurs blew the game open in the third period, leading by as much as 22 points.$

That advantage reached as high as 31 in the final period.

"It was the most important game for us to this point in the season," said Spur Coach Doug Moe.

The victory, coupled with Indiana's 125-124 triumph in Houston Wednesday, moved the Spurs to a 1½-game lead in the Central Division. San Antonio and the Rockets tangle Friday night in the Arena.

The loser Friday is not out of it, Moe said, "but I'd hate to lose." The Spurs and Rockets have one game between them remaining after Friday, that in Houston.

The Spurs were sparked offensively by Larry Kenon's 24 points. The league's leading scorer, George Gervin, missed Wednesday's game because of a viral infection.

"Not only did we win, but we won a typical Spurs' game," Kenon said, referring to the quick pace, particularly in the second half.

Petraglia 7th Cash Bowler

By The Associated Press

AKRON, Ohio (AP)- Johnny Petraglia has jumped into seventh place on this year's Professional Bowlers Association money-winnings list with a first-place finish last weekend in the Milwaukee tournament.

Petraglia, of New York, now has won $20,880 this year, just ahead of Carmen Salvino of Chicago with $20,680.

Mark Roth of North Arlington, N.J., retained his No. 1 spot with a total of $47,950.

Knight Seals Pacers Victory

HOUSTON (AP)—After five years in the National Basketball Association, Indiana forward Billy Knight has learned to rely on his instincts in clutch situations.

Knight hit a layup with four seconds left in the game for the winning basket as the Pacers edged the Houston Rockets 125-124 Wednesday night for their sixth consecutive victory.

Knight, who tossed in a season-high 37 points, followed a layup by Brad Davis as the Pacers overcame a 124-121 deficit with eight seconds to play.

Davis' basket brought the Pacers within one point, 124-123. Davis then stole Mike Newlin's inbounds pass and fed the ball to Knight for the winning bucket.

"Things happen so quickly that you don't have time to think about the situation," Knight said. "Basketball is a game of reactions and that's all you can do in a situation like that."

Houston led 75-55 at the half, but could connect on only 33 percent of its third-quarter field goal attempts as the Pacers narrowed the gap to 100-91 entering the final period.

Astros, Rangers Notch Wins, Too...

Red Sox Gun Down Chicago, 15-5

By The Associated Press

If the Boston Red Sox hit like they did Wednesday, it won't make any difference who does their pitching. And on those days when the big bats aren't booming, rookie right-hander Chuck Rainey could become a very important mounds-person.

Rainey pitched six innings in Wednesday's 15-5 exhibition rout of the Chicago White Sox. He allowed three runs and five hits while walking six - not the most impressive figures in the world.

But he settled down after a rugged second inning in which the White Sox combined three singles, a sacrifice fly and three consecutive walks for three runs.

The pitching-poor Red Sox received more good news when ailing relief ace Bill Campbell unlimbered his sore elbow and pitched two scoreless innings.

In the catching department, rookie Garry Allenson sparked Boston's 19-hit attack. He hit his third homer of the spring, a double, two singles and had four RBI.

Jim Rice and Rick Burleson also homered. Rice capped a seven-run second inning by lining a two-run shot some 450 feet for his fifth preseason homer. Jim Dwyer had three hits and Burleson, Jerry Remy, Carl Yastrzemski, George Scott and Butch Hobson two apiece.

Kansas City's injury situation also took a turn for the better. Rich Gale, last year's rookie sensation, allowed seven hits and one run in seven innings. And third baseman George Brett delivered a key single in a three-run eighth-inning rally that lifted the Royals to a 4-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere, Geoff Zahn, Gary Serum and Mike Marshall combined on a five-hit shutout as the Minnesota Twins handed the world champion New York Yankees their 15th setback in 20 exhibition games, 3-0.

Rookie catcher Alex Trevino of the New York Mets drove in three runs with a single, double and triple in an 8-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who wasted a pair of home runs by Dusty Baker.

The Houston Astros got four-hit pitching from J.R. Richard and Frank Riccelli and edged the Montreal Expos 1-0. Steve Stone hurled six strong innings and rookie Sammy Stewart retired the final nine batters, giving him 17 scoreless innings this spring, as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2.

Richie Zisk's two-run homer in the first inning started the Texas Rangers to a 4-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Jack Morris allowed one run in seven innings, including a home run by Keith Hernandez, as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

The Cleveland Indians scored all their runs in the fifth inning.

Top Pick Sets Sights

LEBANON, Pa. (AP)- Sam Bowie, the nation's most recruited high school basketball player and the NCAA's choice as the outstanding schoolboy player this season, has decided to attend the University of Kentucky.

Lebanon High Coach Chick Hess said Wednesday, the 7-foot, 1-inch Bowie had picked Coach Joe Hall's Wildcats from among more than 400 colleges and universities that had attempted to recruit him.

Hess said Bowie would sign a letter of intent with the Southeastern Conference school on April 11, the national signing date.

Commissioner Says Umps' Making 'Serious Mistake'

DALLAS (AP)—Umpires will be making a "serious mistake" if they fail to go back to work by the season-openers next week, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

In his first at-length statement on the umpires' boycott of spring exhibition games, Kuhn told national broadcasters Wednesday at their annual meeting that baseball owners are ready in case the arbiters stay away.

"We have plans for an alternate approach. The umpires would be making a serious mistake if they do not show up for work," he said.

"I hope these decent men see the errors of their ways. It is unfortunate we have the problem we have, but in this case they (the umpires) are way off base," added Kuhn.

Kuhn spoke to the National Association of Broadcasters as part of a panel that also included National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O' Brien and National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Roone Arledge, of ABC Sports, moderated the panel.

The 51 umpires who work for both the American League and National League have yet to sign their individual 1979 contracts. With the umpires boycotting exhibition games, substitute umpires have worked in the exhibition games in Florida and Arizona.

The umpires want more money and other improvements in a collective bargaining agreement negotiated last year. They are in the second year of a five-year agreement.

The team colors of the Detroit Lions are Honolulu blue and silver.
