$80 Million Added For Flood Control

WASHINGTON —UP— The House rolled the pork barrel Thursday and added $80 million to a bill calling for $436 million worth of reclamation, flood control and navigation projects.

Pork barrel projects are local ones which congressmen frequently consider as important for political reasons as for the improvements involved. There is a general agreement among members that "I'll vote for yours if you'll vote for mine" when the projects come up for consideration.

Ship Industry Gives In On GAW Demand

NEW YORK —UP— The CIO won a guaranteed wage plan from the shipping industry Thursday night ending a one-day strike of seamen against passenger and dry cargo lines.

The agreement still left at odds the National Maritime Union and representatives of tanker lines but brought a fast end to a threatened tie-up of dry cargo and passenger ships.

Joseph Curran, president of the NMU, said his union still would support an unsettled strike of engineers and radiomen but Francis Greene, spokesman for the shipping operators, said "we do not anticipate any difficulty in settling the differences between the two remaining unions."

The shipping operators agreed to pay 25 cents a day into an unemployment fund for every seaman it employs. Unemployment benefits from the fund will not be paid for one year, during which time the fund will be allowed to build up.

The seamen passed up a virtually assured wage increase this year to win the principle of a guaranteed wage.

Under the agreement, the shipowners will supplement the state unemployment benefits of sailors thrown out of work. Curran said a joint union-company committee would work out details of amounts to be paid and eligibility of seamen.

Management representatives objected during the negotiations to the possibility of seamen taking a voluntary vacation from sea duty and accepting the benefits. The agreement provides for arbitration of any disputes in such a case.

The contract is to run for three years. It also includes increased company payments into a pension and welfare fund.

Greene said negotiations would resume early Friday with the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the American Radio Association.

Molotov Gives U.S. Cities Shaky Time

By TOM NELSON

CHICAGO —UP— Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rolled across the Midwest Plains in a special Pullman car Friday, leaving behind him a slightly shaken Chicago and group of angry demonstrators at Omaha.

The stocky diplomat went on a surprise whirlwind tour of Chicago during a five-hour stopover late Thursday and before his train pulled out he had:

Caused the worse traffic jam on Lake Shore Drive in years.

Done what not even the bravest of Chicagoans would dare attempt—walk across Lake Shore Drive in defiance of speeding rush hour traffic.

Steel Officials Flustered

Flustered U.S. Steel officials who didn't know whether the distinguished Communist would be allowed to plant the company's huge south side plant.

Held a running interview along the Lake Shore with a Russian-speaking reporter, giving his opinion on the smell of Chicago's stockyards, Molotov cocktails, and the nationwide civil defense alert.

Molotov caused an uproar of a different sort when his train rolled into Omaha, Neb., early Friday.

From 60 to 70 displaced persons from Lithuania and Latvia were waiting in the pre-dawn darkness carrying placards reading "Molotov go to hell instead of to San Francisco" and "communism soaked with blood of Lithuanians."

Sleep Off Chicago Visit

Molotov and his party of diplomats, bound for the United Nations meeting at San Francisco, apparently were sleeping off their Chicago visit. They didn't make an appearance, but a few Russian bodyguards peeked from the darkened windows.

Ex-Pampan, Danciger, Dies At 86

Dan Danciger, 86, former president of the Danciger Oil and Refining Co., died yesterday in Fort Worth after an illness of two months.

With his brother, Danciger's interests became centered in the Panhandle field soon after the discovery of oil and in the late 1920s erected a refinery here. The plant operated for nearly 20 years, before it was dismantled and moved to Ft. Worth.

Danciger founded the company at Kansas City in 1917, and later sold to the Southern Production Co. of Shreveport, La., in 1950.

Danciger is survived by two brothers, Jack and A. Danciger, both of Ft. Worth, and a sister, Miss Sadie Danciger of Tucson, Ariz.

Services were to be conducted at 10 a.m. this morning in Ft. Worth. Burial will be in the family mausoleum in Kansas City.

Tornadoes Hit 4 Texas Areas

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes struck at four different places in Texas Thursday night and a hailstorm wreaked vicious damage at Winters, between San Angelo and Abilene.

A weather bureau meteorologist said conditions are still "ripe" and there may be more tornadoes and powerful storms in the northern part of Texas Friday night.

The hail at Winters was the size of baseballs. Perhaps 90 per cent of the homes and business buildings in the town of 2,700 were damaged. All the windows in the north side of the new elementary school building were knocked out.

Big blocks of the ceiling were jarred loose and fell in the school rooms. The school, which was just completed in March, is said to be the largest in the state under one roof.

20,000 Panes in One Side

It had 20,000 panes on the north side—it is of very modern design and about two-thirds of the wall on the north side is of glass. The north wall extends a full block.

The damage was estimated at more than $100,000. School Supt. James D. Nevins and school bus Manager Johnny Bob Smith, aided by volunteers, spent the night trying to prevent water damage by moving school furniture and equipment.

Two-and-a-half inches of rain fell in 45 minutes and water stood on the floors of the school building. Roofs were blown off the William Cameron Lumber Co. and the chamber of commerce building. Several tons of brick and mortar from the chamber of commerce building were showered into the street.

Hospital Windows Smashed

Windows in Winters Municipal hospital were smashed and broken glass littered the hospital rooms and corridors. One patient had to be moved. Long distance telephone service to Winters was interrupted.

Man Survives Five Days In Shut Boxcar

PHILADELPHIA —UP— Manuel Ramirez, 25, the former Chicago stockyard worker who survived 5-12 days in a refrigerated boxcar without food or water, will return to his Laredo, Tex., home in about 10 days.

Joseph T. Reddy, Villanova, Pa., an engineering firm owner, offered to pay Ramirez' fare back to his Texas home. Officials of Episcopal hospital said Ramirez will be released in about 10 days after treatment for malnutrition and dehydration suffered in his ordeal.

Ramirez was found in the refrigerated boxcar when it arrived here from Chicago. Railroad workers at first thought him dead but he opened his eyes as patrolmen were about to take him to a morgue.

He explained from his hospital bed that he had climbed into the boxcar loaded with sheepskins in Chicago, thinking it would make him safe to Texas. He had decided to return home after losing his stockyard job. While he hid among the hides, a railroad employe sealed the car and the temperature dropped to about 50 degrees as the train started its journey to Philadelphia.

Interview In Russian

'Molotov Tells Reporter To Sharpen Vocabulary

CHICAGO —UP— Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov gave an impromptu interview to Molotov cocktails, the smell of the stockyards, and the Iron Curtain Thursday.

The diplomat hopped out of his motorcade during a tour of Chicago to take a brisk walk along the lake shore and found himself next to a reporter who happens to know Russian.

The reporter, Pat McGrady Jr. of the Chicago Sun-Times, got a lecture on his sketchy Russian in addition to his interview.

The interview went something like this:

McGrady: Do you think peace will come in forthcoming East-West meetings?

Molotov: I have just arrived. I cannot answer now.

McGrady: Do you like the stockyards? How about the smell?

Molotov: It is not unpleasant. I remember reading Upton Sinclair's "The Jungle" some time ago.

McGrady: When do you expect to retire?

Molotov: Next question. (A pause) You say you have a pretty lake. What makes it so pretty?

McGrady: Well, you can't see the other side. The skyline view is nice.

Molotov: Your Russian could stand sharpening. You need a larger vocabulary.

McGrady: That's what I was thinking. (Another pause) How about a Moscow visa?

Molotov: Here's your man—see Zaroubin (Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zaroubin).

McGrady: Well how about it, Mr. Zaroubin?

Zaroubin: You will have to write to the embassy. We will answer you.

McGrady: Mr. Molotov, Moscow said on May Day that the United States invented the Iron Curtain. When you satled into New York harbor, did you bump into it?

Molotov: I was not looking for it.

McGrady: You were in New York during a civil defense drill Wednesday. Does Moscow have a similar system — that is, periodical alerts?

Molotov: In Moscow we live in peace.

McGrady: Tired?

Molotov: A little. Do they swim in the lake?

McGrady: Yes. Would you like to?

Molotov: No.

McGrady: Have you ever heard of a Molotov cocktail?

Molotov: That is a new one for me. No.

McGrady: How does American vodka shape up in comparison to Russian vodka?

Molotov: I should not like to offer a comparison.

McGrady: How about a Coke?

Molotov: No, I don't want one. Where did you learn your Russian?

McGrady: At Yale University.

Molotov: You need some more words.

Peron Men Retaliate For Revolt In Which 156 Die

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay —UP— Followers of Argentine President Juan D. Peron burned Roman Catholic churches in Buenos Aires Friday in retaliation for an abortive revolt that cost 156 lives, dispatches from Buenos Aires said.

The dispatches said six churches and one basilica were fired in the heart of Buenos Aires where the heaviest fighting took place in the attempt Thursday to overthrow the Peron government. The residence of Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello also was reported burned.

One dispatch said the curia was "destroyed." The curia includes the cardinal's residence and the office buildings which are the center of church activities in Argentina.

156 Killed, Many Injured

Reports reaching Montevideo through the heavy Argentine censorship said 156 persons were killed in the revolt, 96 persons critically injured and about 800 persons less severely injured. Most of the victims died when rebel planes bombed and strafed the curia.

The official Argentine radio and all other radio stations in the country sent out bulletins throughout the night saying that complete calm reigned throughout Argentina, but observers in neighboring Uruguay said this indicated some resistance continued.

A general strike called by the pro-Peron General Confederation of Labor (CGT) paralyzed Buenos Aires Friday. Shops and businesses were closed and transportation came to a standstill. The strike was called in mourning for the heavy loss of life.

Isolate Buenos Aires

Heavily armed government troops isolated Buenos Aires from the surrounding province Friday and the Argentine secretary of press and information ordered the evacuation of the Plaza de Mayor sector Friday morning.

The secretary said the sector—scene of the heaviest fighting—was dangerous because a number of bombs dropped by rebel planes Thursday did not explode. The government announced it would detonate the "duds" Friday morning.

Two Catholic prelates whose expulsion from Argentina led to the excommunication of Peron—arrived in Rome early Friday and reported to Pope Pius XII on the critical church-state situation in Argentina.

San Francisco Ready For UN Celebration

SAN FRANCISCO —UP— San Francisco made final preparations Friday for the 10th anniversary meeting of the United Nations, with excitement over the historic conference mounting by the hour.

Leading diplomats from throughout the world were converging by train, plane and ship on this city by the Golden Gate where the UN was born in 1945.

Several of the early arrivals agreed that the seven-day conference, which opens in the War Memorial Opera House Monday, would be more than a "birthday party."

Dr. Eelco Van Kleefens, president of the General Assembly who will preside over the sessions, said he expected "much constructive work" would be accomplished here next week.

Van Kleefens, who arrived Monday night, said that in his position as assembly president he was unable to comment on possible "secret" conferences among the Big Four foreign ministers, but he indicated any such talks might steal the show from the main meeting.

"I believe the commemorative sessions themselves will be relatively calm but many things could happen outside," he said.

Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon's ambassador to the U.S., was another early arrival who predicted the Big Four ministers would accomplish much in preparation for the "summit" meeting among the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia at Geneva, Switzerland, next month.

Malik said he considered the meetings here a "milestone of history" and he hoped that one result of the conference would be an easing of the deadlock over admission of new members to UN, including Red China.

"It's far better to have a universal organization with everyone represented," he said. "It is better to have the forces that make up world conflicts inside the UN than outside."

Pope Receives Ousted Prelates

VATICAN CITY —UP— Pope Pius XII Friday heard with "deep tenderness and great interest" personal reports from the two prelates whose expulsion from Argentina resulted in the excommunication of President Juan D. Peron.

The 79-year-old pontiff bestowed his blessings on the people of Argentina during the 85-minute audience.

Msgrs. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, and Ramon Novoa were received by the pope in his private library only a few hours after their arrival by plane from the Argentine capital. Butler arrived in Texas she would

Controls Studied In Alert

Money Rationing Practice Expected

EMERGENCY U.S. NEWS CENTER —UP— The government would expect to ration money, as well as food, and spend millions on emergency aid for evacuees if enemy planes ever rain atomic bombs on American cities.

Some idea of the plans came out of Operation Alert, the big three-day civil defense exercise drawing to a close Friday.

Those were some of the problems tackled by President Eisenhower and top government officials, who, for realism, worked at 31 "emergency relocation" sites on the theory that Washington was among the 61 cities reduced to radio-active rubble by an imaginary "enemy" assault.

Probable rationing of money was mentioned by Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey. He said one of the problems his department worked on during the exercise was "how to get money out to the refugees."

"All over the country you are going to have to try and ration out money... and try to keep anybody from getting an undue share, more than he is entitled to; to try to prevent hoarding, and to see that everybody is helped to get over this first hurdle," Humphrey said. Humphrey said the government has enough reserve currency stashed away in apparently safe places to meet emergency needs for a "good many weeks."

Mrs. Ovesta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, told how her department handled imaginary pleas for help from seven states and hypothetically "allocated" $89.9 million — to feed, clothe and shelter the presumed "evacuees."

Butler Heading For Valley Talk

WACO —UP— Paul Butler, national chairman of the Democratic party, was to fly to McAllen Friday on his heide-hopping tour of Texas during which he is trying to heal a split in party ranks.

Butler told 700 Democrats in the Hall of Texas Coliseum last night that "the payoff in 1956 will be in the precincts." He urged them to go out and "bring the state's 6,000 precincts into the Democratic fold."

"When the precincts are organized, we can't be beat by any combination, no matter what they call themselves—so-called Democrats, pseudo-Democrats, Republicans or any other combination," he said.

He also said one of the difficulties in Texas is that too many men of great financial worth "have an unquenchable thirst for power and prestige and are trying to put a stranglehold on the Democratic Party of Texas."

Earlier in the day, Butler predicted in Tyler that President Eisenhower will not be a candidate in 1956 for re-election. But he acknowledged that "tremendous pressure" will be brought on the President to run again.

"If Mr. Eisenhower does give in to this pressure, we (the Democrats) are willing to take him on," he said.

Butler spoke before 600 party members in Tyler in the ballroom of the Carlton Hotel. During this speech, he also predicted that Texas Democrats will be united for the election of a Democratic President in 1956.

He disclosed that he and Mrs. Hilda Weinert of Seguin, national committeewoman, are supposed to meet in San Antonio on Monday "for a frank discussion about the Democratic Party in Texas."

Weinert announced before Butler arrived in Texas she would

Bike Tour Reservations Being Made

Reservations are beginning to come in to Santa Fe District Scout Executive Phil Pegues' office in City Hall for the coming Bicycle tour, July 9.

Participants in the bicycle tour are selected from among the scouts who qualify as honor scouts at Camp Ki-oh-wah and from other outstanding scouts.

The uniform for the tour will be T-shirts, green caps, and levis or any other trousers that can stand up to the outdoor exposure.

Pegues is the tour director and he will be assisted by scoutmasters J. C. Berson of Canadian and Charles De Spain of Straight, Okla.

The group making the trip will gather in Pampa's Central Park July 9 and will begin the week-long tour which will take them through Wheeler, Shamrock, Wellington, Clarendon, near White Deer and back to Pampa.

The group will enjoy swimming, barbecues, wiener roasts and campfires along the way, all of which is covered by the $10 registration fee.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan is making arrangements for a sheriff's car or highway patrol car to escort the tour for maximum safety. A pickup will follow the tour to aid scouts who have bike difficulties.

Job Picture Better Here

Varied job openings at present are listed with the local office of the Texas Employment Commission. Four general sales positions are open for men, and there is a current need for an insurance investigator and a male stenographer with shorthand and typing training. Other male openings include: a machine operator, between 20-30, with the ability to learn a specialized machine, and two routemen for sales and delivery.

Female openings call for a bookkeeper, restaurant cook, several maids and a department store sales clerk.

According to Bill Ragsdale, manager, the number of claims is continuing to drop off and the job situation has been slowly improving for the last two months. Plenty of high school boy applicants are seeking sales, yard work, stock work, and various labor jobs. The T.E.C. office is presently concerned with placing these boys in respective summer employment.

Tourist Fate Set Saturday

The tourist of-the-week promotion starts Saturday when at 3 p.m. Chief Jim Conner and Sheriff Rufe Jordan will "arrest" some lucky couple and turn them over to the custody of their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vaughn, for a pleasant week end in Pampa.

All the trimmings have been provided for showing the pair the hospitality of the city Saturday night when they will spend at the Pinnac Motel, following dinner at the Pennant Club. Flowers to make their room more decorative will be sent by Parker's with candy by Richard Drug. Saturday night they will either take in the ball game or the movies. For a speedy departure sometime Sunday, Hall and Pinson No. 2 will service their car.

Pampa Drive Inn Gets Publicity

Caldwell's Drive Inn, 220 N. Hobart, was the subject of a cover story in this month's issue of "Drive-In," national magazine.

The June issue said the drive-in served on an average 600 auto patrons daily in an establishment "where service and quality work together." The drive-in, which can handle as many as 800 vehicles in a day, has parking space for 55 cars in a 3,000-yard parking area. Caldwell recently spent $28,000 remodeling.

TORNADO

Haskell, just west of Nolan, between Skellytown and Borger; and at Pollett, in the northeast corner of the Texas Panhandle. It was the second at Pollett in two days.

No Reports of Injuries

All the tornadoes struck out in the country and there were no reports of injury or serious damage. An airplane pilot reported he saw a tornado in the air 20 miles northeast of Amarillo—probably the same one which hit between Skellytown and Borger.

Hailstones were reported also at Nolan, Sweetwater, and Wingate. Some roofs were damaged. Big Spring had a severe sandstorm.

Strong winds blew down the theater northwest of Ballinger. Lake Fort Phantom was within two-and-a-half feet of the spillway, the highest it has been in 15 years. All creeks in the north part of Nolan county were running near-full. Cottonwood and Bitter Creeks were reported "brimful."

Sweetwater Lake on Rise

But Lake Sweetwater, into which they drain, was only about one-third full and rising. It nevertheless has more water in it than it has had in the last five years.

Lake Brownwood, one of the state's biggest, was full after rain totaling five inches in two days. Water was flowing 2.6 feet over the spillway.

Pecan Bayou, into which the spillway drains, was running bankfull through the outskirts of Brownwood. It was feared that any more rain in the lake's watershed will cause the bayou to flood in low places in the northern part of Brownwood.

Pampa Trio Back From Girls State

Carol Carnes and Sheila Chisholm returned with Jr. Counselor Marquette Hill last night from the Bluebonnet Girl's State 10-day annual session held at the Texas State School for the Blind in Austin.

The "49th State" set up its own post office, bank, newspaper, and elected its own city, county, and state officials to give the 360 girls training in citizenship and election procedures. Representatives from all over the state were chosen on the basis of scholarship and school activities.

Carol was elected County Clerk on June 9, the same day that Sheila ran in the primary election for Attorney General representing the Nationalist Party. On June 7, the city government was set up in a general assembly and party elections were held to select the girls running for city offices. A two-party system, Nationalist and Federalist, was set up for state elections.

Bell Softball Meel Resumes

The first round of the Bell Telephone Invitational Softball Tournament will be completed tonight on the Phillips diamond in Bowers City.

K. C. Steakhouse of Shamrock will meet Plains Machinery of Amarillo in the first game at 7:30 with the tourney hosts, Bell Telephone, meeting Hawbaker of Amarillo in the second game due to start around 9.

Only one game was scheduled last night and it was forfeited. The Memphis All-Stars, due to the tornado warnings, were unable to make the trip and thus forfeited their game to Philblack of Borger.

Two exhibition games were played last night with Bell Telephone and Memphis in both games. The Telephones edged Phillips in the first game, 6-5, and then Philblack, 1-1, in the second game in 11 innings.

Leon Crump hurled a one-hitter in the tie game, Russ Herring was the winning pitcher in the opener.

The tournament semi-finals and finals will be unveiled tomorrow night, the first game to start at 6 p.m.

Jones Leaves Sunday For Tax Institute

City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones, past president of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers, leaves Sunday for the TAAO appraisal institute in Lubbock where he will instruct a Monday session on urban land. City Manager Fred Brook said Jones is expected to instruct at two similar institutes offered this summer at Fort Worth and Houston.

Also attending the Lubbock institute, Monday through Wednesday from the Pampa Tax Office, will be Mrs. Laverne Bruce, deputy tax collector.

The session on urban land headed by Jones will include instruction on the market map of a taxing district, block maps, depth factor schedule, classification of area, demonstration appraisal summation, and recording essential information to basic records.

The other meetings this summer at which Jones is expected to give instruction are at Fort Worth Aug. 22-24 and July 25-27 at Houston.

Additional topics on the agenda of the three-day institute are the appraisal manual, rural lands, building appraisal, personal property and orientation.

Several addresses will be given by leaders in the field of taxation in Texas, including academicians from the University of Texas, Texas Tech., and Arlington State College.

Gas Code Study Plans Mapped

Members of the newly-appointed gas code committee met Thursday night to set up procedures for the study of a new gas code for the city of Pampa. The four-man board, according to City Manager Fred Brook, will study a plan submitted by the Master Plumbers Association.

Appointments to the committee were made on the basis of the four groups interested in the adoption of the code. Members are C. L. Sullins, representing the master plumbers, James McCoy, the gas company, Paul Crossman Sr., an appliance dealer, and Malcolm Hinkle, the heating and air conditioning men.

The next meeting of the committee has been called for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Engineer's office. Additional meetings may be called as needed.

Lefors School Tax Board Meets

The Lefors School Board of Education is meeting today in school business office.

The board will work with representatives from the various oil and allied industries in working out plans for taxation for the coming year.

The board, which also sets the rate of taxation for property holders, is presided over by Perry Davis.

Ramon Novoa, the Vatican spokesman, said their expulsion was "unjust persecution" of the church.

Relations Not Affected

However, a high Vatican source said the act of excommunicating Novoa and those who helped in the union involved only the treatment of the two prelates and did not affect relations between the Vatican and the Argentine state. The Vatican spokesman said the Vatican never takes the initiative in breaking off diplomatic relations and that the Vatican has not received any indication from Buenos Aires that it has decided to sever relations.

Declares State of Siege

Peron, in a nationwide broadcast Thursday night, declared the state of siege. Argentina already had been in a "state of internal war" since 1951 when Peron put down an army-navy revolt led by Gen. Benjamin Menéndez.

That revolt, as was this one, appeared to be inspired by the army. Peron reported the revolt was a military refusal to obey government orders.

Most of the rebels fled to Uruguay in planes and warships and reported the plot to overthrow Peron would have succeeded except for freak weather. Fog obscured target for bombing planes and a sudden storm on the river prevented the landing of airborne marine reinforcements, the rebels said here.

WHAT'S UP DOC?

Rice, of Greenville, Tex., looks questioningly at the photographer because she can't see anything unusual about having six paws. Snoky has, on each of her front feet, three extra toes, complete with pads and claws. Her mother also sports six paws as do all her brothers and sisters. Snoky has never seen any cats other than her family, so she thinks all cats run around with two spares. (Exclusive NEA Photo)

Airline Asks Southwest Routes

DALLAS — Continental Airlines announced Thursday it has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for permanent certificates for the routes in Texas and New Mexico formerly operated by Pioneer Airlines.
 Continental Airlines is a trunk line carrier which has permanent certificates for its routes. Pioneer, as a feeder line carrier, had only temporary certificates. Continental took Pioneer over on April 1.
 Continental said the routes over which it is asking the permanent certificates are between Dallas and Houston, Dallas and Midland-Odessa, Lubbock and Albuquerque and Amarillo and Houston.

Man Killed After Fuss Over Woman

DALLAS — UP — One automobile salesman killed another Wednesday night in an argument over women after an afternoon of drinking in a Dallas tavern.
 Homicide Detective H. C. Holloway said a murder with malice charge would be filed Thursday against Rex Hugh Lee, 30.
 The dead man was Elmer Monroe Adams, 30, (Washington Arms Apts.) Both men were salesman at Horn-Williams Motor Co., Holloway said, and Lee said Adams was a "good friend."
 Holloway said they were sitting at the same table in the Bar of Music when they started arguing about women.
 The detective said Lee suddenly jumped up, pulled a .38-caliber pistol from his coat and shot Adams, killing him instantly.

Entertainer, 11, Big Hit In Washington Hotel Act

By ALINE MOSBY
 LAS VEGAS, Nev. — UP — One of the current hits of this gambling capital is a symphony conductor who wears short pants and a Davy Crockett hat and reads comic books between shows.
 The balon waver rivals Noel Coward, Sammy Davis Jr. and other top name entertainers in the busy hotels, but 11-year-old Paul Alberghetti appeared unimpressed by his success.
 Paul, who doesn't look a day over seven, is the baby of the Alberghetti clan that has a family act, headed by sister Anna Maria, at the Royal Nevada hotel.
 Papa conducts, Mama plays the piano and 15-year-old Carla has a voice that nearly matches her famous sister. Paul conducts the "William Tell" overture and a symphonic version of "Davy Crockett" while wearing his coonskin cap. He also fires toy pistols in time to the music.
 Between shows, I found the new star sitting on the floor by the newstand in the hotel lobby. He was reading comic books.
 "My father taught me to conduct when I was five," he explained while thumbing through the latest adventures of Superman.
 "We went all over Italy. I also have conducted in Denver and San Diego."
 His mother walked over to say, "he's really so excited he doesn't know what he's doing. He didn't want to wear the short pants but he finally agreed to."
 Paul took most of his music classes in bed as he was too busy playing baseball during the day.

Alerted Bombers Back Home

FORT WORTH — UP — War-ready B-36 bombers of the 19th Air Division, all of which took to the sky Wednesday during a practice attack alert, were back at Carswell Air Force Base early Thursday.
 Brig. Gen. John D. Ryan, division commander, applauded the mission: "It was highly realistic."
 Also, he said, the test showed clearly the combat readiness of the Carswell-based bombers.
 Dependents on the base also took part in the alert. They herded in groups of four families to pre-assigned cars, and waited to be evacuated.
 "Actually, they didn't move out," said a base spokesman, "but they were ready."
 The test at Carswell and the nationwide civil defense alert started at the same time Wednesday.

Texas Role In 'Alert' Is Success

AUSTIN — UP — Texas' participation in the nationwide "Operation Alert" exceeded "the highest expectations and was successful in every respect," William L. McGill, director of the state's civil defense organization, said Thursday.
 As the 26-hour test period ended at 12 noon, McGill said he was "particularly delighted with the communications system which was never disrupted in any manner—thousands of messages having been transmitted between local, state and federal offices."
 More than one-fourth of the population of Houston was theoretically alerted by an imaginary atom bomb Wednesday as Texas' largest city participated in the exercise.
 State civil defense officials estimated 219,000 persons would have been killed and 170,000 others injured had the simulated sneak attack by enemy bombers been real.

Rich Judge, Wife Sought

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — UP — Investigators, aided by Air Force men and Coast Guardsmen, combed the jungle-like coast line inch by inch Thursday in search of a wealthy judge and his wife who vanished from their beach home.
 Officers also checked a possible tieup in the disappearance of Judge and Mrs. C. E. Chillingworth with the case of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferri of Miami who vanished six weeks ago. Ferri was a witness in the income tax evasion trial of New York gangster Albert Anastasia.
 Two Miami detectives were due here to investigate the similarity of the two cases.
 Meanwhile, scores of law enforcement men worked the area near the Chillingworth home last night with searchlights from air force jeeps.

Shower Presented For Anita Southard

Miss Anita Southard, bride-elect of John Lee Bell, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. H. H. Threatt, 1615 N. Russell. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Threatt were Meses. Elmer Fite, H. A. Guillard, and John Pitts Sr.

In the receiving line were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. E. W. Southard, Mrs. Alvin Bell, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. John Haggard, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom. Miss Southard was presented a corsage of pink roses; and corsages of pink spilt carnations were given to Mrs. Southard, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Haggard.

Guests were registered by Miss Shirley Keel, Mrs. James Gallimore and Miss Cynthia Cantrell. Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and minis were served. The serving table was covered with a pale pink embroidered nylon cloth over pink, centered with an arrangement of roses and white daisies topped with miniature white wedding bells in a silver bowl. Flanking the centerpiece with pale pink tapers in silver holders. Appointments were crystal and silver.

Mrs. Reba Gauge served the cake, and Miss Margaret Holt, Miss Carol Miller and Mrs. Fred Thompson alternated at the punch bowl. Other decorations for the shower included arrangements of cut flowers, such as roses, lilies and sweet peas. Approximately 90 persons attended the event.

RUTH MILLET

The person who criticizes another's choices and decisions just to build himself up is hard to deal with.

But here is a wife who has to deal with the problem every day because the one who does the criticizing is her husband.

She writes: "No matter what the decision I make without consulting my husband, it is always wrong. If it weren't so frustrating it would be almost funny. For I know before I tell him what I have done or shown him what I have bought that it won't be right."

"And yet if I had consulted him in advance, he would often have made the same choice that I did. Is there any answer to this problem?"

There are two. You can go ahead and see the funny side of the situation, getting a private chuckle out of your husband's contrariness.

Or you can attempt to cure him of his habit of always finding fault with your choices and decisions by making him decide so many things he is willing to take what you decide and like it.

To do that, you'll have to consult him on everything — the smallest and most trivial details. If he isn't at home, put off the decision. Or call him at his office if the matter can't be put off.

Jane Talk By JANE KADINGO Pampa News Women's Editor

IT'S QUIZ TIME! Every once in a while, we all get a little careless about good grooming. So, to help us take stock of our grooming habits, I found this quiz you might enjoy taking. How do you rate? I haven't taken it yet, so don't know how I would come out — I just might not tell my score either. That's why I think it's good for us — maybe it will jock us up a bit.

TO BE WELL GROOMED you don't need a $1,000 wardrobe or a personal maid to maintain it, says Martha Blair, director of the Pfaff Sewing Institute. A nation-wide survey of the wardrobe habits of the average woman has just been completed by the Institute, based on the following "good grooming" check list. See how you rate.

1. Do you finish the details of every garment you make as thoroughly as possible — seam edges finished and pressed open, button loops and belt keepers in place, so that the garment looks custom-made and not just home made? ()

2. Do you go over a new garment to buy to reseat buttons, clip up threads, adjust shoulder pads and hems, so that it will be ready for months of trouble-free wear? ()

3. Do you mend rips, sew on buttons, fix the hem you caught in your heel in getting off the bus, just as soon as they occur? Today's modern Dial-A-Stitch sewing machines do all these jobs for you in a matter of seconds. ()

4. Do you check your wardrobe periodically for signs of wear, adding new accessories and blouses to freshen up tired suits and carting outworn edges with new bindings? ()

5. Do you have extra sets of collars and cuffs for dresses and blouses so that they can be kept sparkling clean at all times? ()

6. Do you hang up, air, and brush (when necessary) garments when you take them off so that they are ready to wear the instant you want them? ()

7. Do you keep your accessories as fresh and in as good order as possible? Is your jewelry polished, are scarves pressed, shoes shined, hats in good shape, gloves spotless? ()

8. Do you set aside a specific time each week — even if it's only a half hour — to groom yourself — your hair, nails, skin? ()

9. Do you take a few minutes each day to check your appearance — stocking seams straight, makeup fresh, skirt smooth? ()

10. Do you really feel that good grooming is more basic to an attractive appearance than an extensive wardrobe? ()

The Institute survey rates you as follows: Score of 80-100: You are exceptionally well groomed and the envy of your friends. You have that "hand-box" look. ()

Score of 60-70: Although you may not be as beautifully groomed as a fashion model, you are reasonably well put together and with a little more attention to details could be really well turned out. ()

Score of 30 or less: You have no real interest in your personal appearance. You would find it not only emotionally satisfying, but profitable in your relationship with others if you would pay more attention to good grooming. ()

PASTELS AND METAL THREADS MAKE DAD'S DAY MOST COLORFUL

THIS YEAR THE MALE WARDROBE FOR DAD'S DAY and the summer months is as colorful as a peacock and as glamorous as a bride. Tradition has been thrown pleasantly to the wind in the whirl of colors and color combinations designed to adorn the male animal.

Virtually every hue under the sun will be seen on the beaches, in the dining rooms, on golf courses, at smart supper spots and even behind VIP's desks across the country, and with no age discrimination.

SPORT SHIRTS are as ever one of the important plume spots and an ideal item for that June 19th gift. With that air of carefree living, this year they run the gamut of tropical pastel colors, avocado green, orange, lime, fiesta yellow, bayucayne, rum, mint, cognac, heliotrope — many sparked with the new non-fading Lurex metallic threads.

Particularly different and attractive is one by Damon in an Italian design using a knitted navy blue ribbon fabric with a regal touch from tiny gold metallic threads interwoven throughout.

ANOTHER STOPPER with the Midas touch is a Rich Guild creation in conservative woven cotton block checks combining black or charcoal with pink, blue or cognac squares and a tasteful blending of silver Lurex. And the metallic touch doesn't keep it from being completely washable.

But sport shirts are hardly alone in this innovation. Fine dress shirts, as well, are frequently smitten by this new look. Delicate silver, gold and porcelain colored threads are weaving their way through broadcloths, chambrays and the finest batistes, giving them a new elegant air.

STILL ANOTHER color spot is in bold masculine cuff links, particularly those styled by Robert Zentall, combining in a woven design the porcelain metallics with other man-made fibers of the same color.

Yes, and slacks in peach, lime green, rust, orange and light blues and charcoal, and ties running the whole color spectrum round out this display of brightness designed for the parade of males.

SILK SUITS are again popular for summer this season, in both linen and shantung weaves. And some of these are given an even fancier touch with metallics to match the silk, such as a lightweight blue-black creation by Baker Clothes which has a delicate interweaving of jet porcelain Lurex, a gift Dad would remember for many Junes to come.

The lighthearted groom, the ladder-climbing executive and the business tycoon will definitely travel light in weight as well as light in color this year — a trend that adds up to good sense by combining luxury and comfort that caters to the male dignity.

BABY At about a year, it's a nice idea to get Baby accustomed to cloth or heavy cardboard books. Old magazines, which tear easily, aren't satisfactory because Baby will get the idea that books are for tearing, rather than looking. Highly useful for travel or for the cup quite late is a plastic drinking bottle. These can't get broken in transit or in the park. Be careful about boiling them, unless the directions specifically say it can be done. Baby's first steps are a big moment, a time for pained laughter by the parents and lots of hugs. These pleased reactions have a good effect on Baby's walking, as well as his personality. He gets the idea that it's good entertainment, and will continue to step out. Read The News Classified Ads

Medical Missions Program Presented To Presbyterian Women's Association

"Achievement Of Faith In Action" was the program on medical missions presented at the recent meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Association in the Church Women.

Mrs. Earl C. Casey was narrator, assisted by Mrs. W. S. Dixon. Obitrs on the program were Mrs. Gene Lunsford, who portrayed a woman from India; Mrs. Lewis Chamberlain, as an American Indian; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbin, portraying a South American woman.

Mrs. Casey told the story of the life of Dr. William Wainess, a medical missionary to India. While training for the mission field, he started a mission in Toronto slums, which is now one of its strongest churches.

Dr. Wainess and his wife, who was a nurse, were the first medical missionaries to be sent to India by the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. Their first year there they treated 7,000 patients in a converted donkey stable. Dr. Wainess established hospitals in India and medical schools to train doctors for India. He was prominent in public health work there, plague control and in the eradicating of rats.

The devotional was presented by Mrs. E. L. Biggerstaff, and a special collection for medical missions was taken.

During the business session, led by Mrs. Traylor Price, president, Mrs. Glenn Ritchhart presented and explained the Association's financial report for the year. It was announced that Circle IV won the attendance count. The women were also advised that an all-day prayer retreat will be held toward the end of August at the Traylor Price ranch.

Mrs. W. S. Dixon told of the "primrose party" to be held at 4

Jo Ann Applebay Feted At Coffee

Miss Jo Ann Applebay of Lubbock, recently of Pampa, was honored with a coffee Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. J. R. Spearman, 1707 Mary Ellen. Miss Applebay is the bride-elect of Bob Morris of Levelland.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. John R. Spearman Jr. and Miss Nina Spearman.

The honoree presented a corsage of pink daisies by the hostesses.

The serving table was covered with a pink net cloth over pink and centered with a pineapple topped with cherries. Refreshments of coffee, sweet rolls, melon balls and pineapple chunks were served. Attending were Meses. R. G. West Jr., W. D. Price Jr., Lee Moore Jr., Dwayne Lyons, Jim Campbell of Miami, Bill Braly, Don Thompson, G. K. Hobbs, and John Spearman Jr., and Misses Nina Spearman and Jo Ann Applebay.

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON —UP— The pretty little blue-eyed blonde greeted me in her father's office. "I'm Patty Page," she said. "I'm a feature writer."
Of course I wanted to know what Patty — Patricia Anne Page — feature — wrote about. People, dogs, little kids, bones broken the hard, or unusual way... that sort of thing, she said.
"I have the goop of the youth," she said, whatever that means. To an 18-year-old, if you can understand the lingo, it must mean something.
"I would like to say," she said, "...that I am no next of kin to the Patty Page, who is a pop singer on television. Dig that kid — she has it made."

Our pretty Page, a little sweetie, sings also — an alto. She was graduated from Immaculata school here just a few days ago. Patty has a trophy case at home. Her pappy, Paul Page, once a wheel in the legal section of the maritime administration, and now a successful lawyer in private practice, says that Patty has won:
A lot of honors for public speaking. A scholarship to St. Mary of the Woods, Ind., for her college prep work. She was offered four others. Leading her class from the sand-box on up, most of the way.
"The only thing against me," Patty told me, "is my weight."

Segregation May End Soon In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO —UP— School Supt. Thomas B. Portwood said Thursday segregation will probably be ended in San Antonio public schools this fall.

The announcement makes San Antonio the first city in Texas and probably the first in the South to announce plans to abolish segregation. Portwood said school board attorney Arley V. Knight has been asked to prepare an opinion on the matter. He said Knight's ruling will determine the school board's action but he understands the ruling will support integration.

He said on that basis plans are already under way to prepare the city schools for integration of white and Negro students by September. He said no opposition to the plan has reached the school board. Portwood said the plan would affect "only the pupils, not the teachers who have already been elected and assigned for the fall term."

There was no immediate amplification of his statement but it appeared that it meant all the teachers in previously Negro schools would all be Negroes even if they have some Negro students.

Dead Man Found On Dallas Street

DALLAS —UP— The broken body of J. D. Minor was found Thursday outside the Ambassador Hotel at 1312 South Ervay where he lived, and police thought the 31-year-old truck driver accidentally fell from a fifth floor window sometime during the night.

However, Justice of the Peace Pierce McBride withheld a verdict pending further investigation. Police said Minor lived in one of two rooms on the fifth floor of the hotel which are entered by the same door. The other bedroom is occupied by Bill Shipley, an employee of a wholesale meat firm. Shipley told police Minor came into his room about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday night and then went on into his own room. Shipley said he had been asleep and "just heard" Minor making his way through the room.

Shipley did not know Minor had fallen to his death, he said, until police awakened him at 6 a.m. after another tenant in the hotel had found Minor's body, clad only in a pair of shorts.

Police said Minor's room showed no evidence of violence and the window had been raised to the top. It had no screen.

ALL IS APPARENTLY settled now between Oiler manager Grover Seitz and Umpire John Petrock. A hearing between Seitz, Petrock and Warren Helkie (partner in the umpiring game) with Hal Sayles, president of the West Texas-New Mexico League, was held at Amarillo yesterday.

Seitz won't be able to give you a report of the meeting since the press was barred from sitting in the confab.

In fact, only two of the nine directors of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association who attended the meeting were allowed to attend.

Two directors allowed to attend were President Harold Miller and vice-president Dr. Malcolm ...

A top official from the office of George Trautman, commissioner of Minor League baseball, was on hand for yesterday's conference.

Pat Padan was Trautman's representative at the confab.

Sayles told us after the meeting to pass along the word that he isn't trying to get Seitz or Pampa out of the league.

The league proxy was referring to the statements we printed on these pages Sunday as being made by Seitz that the league was after Pampa.

"I'm very interested in keeping all eight clubs in the league," Sayles said.

We'd like to make a correction here of Seitz's statement that we printed Sunday.

Grover did say that he thought the league was after him but he didn't make the statement that he thought the league was after the Oilers, too.

The latter statement was voiced by a member of the directors and not by Seitz.

The directors going to Amarillo for the conference yesterday, in addition to Miller and Dr. Brown, were Newt Secrest, DeLea Vicars, Aaron Sturgeon, Frank Dial, Joe Fischer, G. F. Branson and yours truly.

Coddington To Hurl For Oilers Tonight

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Albuquerque's Dukes salvaged the fourth and final game of the series with the Oilers last night by pounding out 19 hits, most of them of the wind-blown variety, to chalk up a 10-2 victory at Oiler Park.

It was only the fifth home defeat for the Oilers this season in 27 starts. And it was the worst home loss for the league-leading Oiler nine.

The Oilers open a new series tonight with the El Paso Texans at Oiler Park. It will be a two-game set, tonight and Saturday, after which the Oilers will leave for a series with Abilene at Abilene starting Sunday.

John Coddington, young right hander for the Oilers, is Grover Seitz's mound choice tonight. Coddington hurled one of his better games of his career in his last outing although he was beaten.

Coddington allowed only two hits and one run (it was unearned) in six innings of relief against El Paso at El Paso Monday night. The Texans' only run off Coddington came on a wild throw at first as Alex Gonzales was allowed to circle the bases on the error.

Veteran Jack Venable absorbed his fourth loss against eight wins in last night's contest. Venable's support, however, was shoddy although the Oilers were charged with only one error.

Misplayed fly balls in the strong southwesterly wind kept Venable in hot water during most of his five-inning tenure on the mound.

Venable left in favor of Dean Higgins who came on at the start of the sixth.

The Oilers and Dukes traded run-for-run in the first inning when each came up with a pair.

After the Dukes had taken a 2-0 lead in their portion of the first, the Oilers quickly tied it up when Rach Slider led with a single and promptly scored on centerfielder Red Dial's line-drive homer over the left field wall. It was Dial's second roundtripper of the season, both of them coming during the Duke series.

The Oiler bats were silenced, however, after the first inning, as left hander Ernie Bartolomei blanked the locals rest of the way.

ITHACA, N. Y.—UP—The University of Pennsylvania's varsity crew rowed to its eighth straight victory Friday, rallying in the last half mile to defeat Cornell by a length on Lake Cayuga. Penn was timed in 12:06.2 for the 2 1/3 mile event. Cornell won the junior varsity event over the same distance in 12:26.2.

Texas Tech has won 10 of the 16 Border Conference football titles it has campaigned for.

Little Leaguers In All-Star Tilt Here

All stars from the two Pampa Little Leagues, Eastern and Western, will be unrec'd tomorrow night prior to the Oiler-El Paso West Texas-New Mexico League game.

The all-star clash will start at 5:45 p.m. at Oiler Park. The regular tickets for the Oiler game are good for the Little League contest.

Sixteen players will represent each of the two leagues.

The Eastern LL all-star team consists of the following boys: EASTERN LL ALL-STARS Sportsman Store—Lynn Schoolfield, James Wells, Mike Clark and Lucky Dunham.

Tom Rose Ford—Kenny Powell, Leland Knight, Bobby McCain and Bill Cooper.

Hoffman Oil—Don Owens, Frank Pryor, Pat Gasscock and Jerry McGuire.

WESTERN LL ALL-STARS Spokesman—George Duke, Larry Wilson, Don Hazel and Robert Kelley.

Jeffries—Dodd, Crossland, King and Miller.

Utility Oil—Randy Matson, Randy Haralson, Jim Scott and Leroy Watson.

Your Laundry—Dickie Willis, John Knott, Pete Lewis and Dale Cox.

Bill Garrett, manager of Spokesman, and Gabby Chase, manager of Cabot, will manage the respective all-star teams.

Ponies Eke By G-Sox, 11-10

Second-place Plainview knocked Pampa's lead in the West Texas-New Mexico League down to one game Thursday night.

The Ponies nipped Amarillo 11-10 while the Oilers fell to Albuquerque 10-2.

In other games Lubbock dropped El Paso 15 to 8 and Abilene barely sneaked in a 2 to 1 win in the first game which was called at 4-1-2 innings because of rain. The second game of the doubleheader was postponed.

A new series starts Friday night with El Paso at Pampa, Albuquerque at Plainview, Clovis at Lubbock and Amarillo at Abilene.

Ed Santa was the winner at Abilene on a four-hitter. Rubeen Phillips pitched a three-hitter for Clovis and lost.

First baseman Bob Westfall scored the winning run in the third for the Blue Sox with a double.

Lubbock got 18 hits off three El Paso pitchers for the win. Bob Galey got his eighth victory of the year.

Plainview picked up 20 hits for its victory, including Dale Perry's home run, the only one among 33 hits in the game.

Ken Harrington was the winner. Ernie Bartolomei pitched shut out ball after the first inning and won for Albuquerque. Red Dial homered for the Oilers in the first. Jack Venable drew the loss.

Texas Tech, winner of only three of six opening football games played on the road, begins its 1955 season against the University of Texas in Austin, where the Longhorns have never lost an opener.

"Fencing" is a word with two meanings around the Jack Kirkpatrick household. The Texas Tech quarterback will spend the summer building fences on the family ranch near Post. His wife Zoe was a member of Tech's fencing team.

Old Man Par Holds Advantage In Open

FRANCISCO—UP—The day of attempting to beat old par at the Olympic Club, under perfect weather conditions, was apparent Friday to 151 competitors in the 1955 U. S. National Open golf tournament.

It led off in the second round on Friday with a three-stroke on the field after a fine, three-putt 57. No one else in the top was able to crack par, and unknown Walker P. Inman Augusta, Ga., was able to equal magic figure of 70.

Trucks Spins 2nd Shutout In Row For Flag-Seeking Sox

By UNITED PRESS
Trucks of the White Sox some of the old-time fire from his fast ball but even still has enough stuff to get pennant light gleaming again Marty Marion's eye.

like Herb Score or Bob Turley. So far this season, chubby Chicago right-hander has recorded on 38 strikeouts, a far cry from Score's 107 or Turley's 96. But Trucks is right up there with both in the vital won-lost department.

Even though he struck out only four batters Thursday night, Trucks registered his seventh victory of the season and his second shutout in a row in beating Baltimore 8-0. The six-hit victory marker his fifth straight and kept the White Sox within two games of the pace-setting Yankees in the close American League race.

Celanese Wins On 3-Hitter By Perkins, 3-1

In a windy, dust-blown affair that could have ended after the first inning in so far as scoring was concerned, the Celanese team defeated Pampa Daily News, 3-1, Thursday evening at Harvester Park.

Kist Clips Pill Rollers In Upset, 9-0; Cabot Wins First Half In Eastern LL

The Kist Rollers continued their "giant killing role" yesterday when they staged their second upset in as many days by blanking Pampa Druggrists, 9-0, in the Pony League. The defeat all but eliminated the Pill Rollers from the first half title running. It was the third loss for Pampa Druggrists against five wins.

Murray went the distance in yesterday's Kist win, blanking the Pill Rollers on four hits.

Kist put the game on ice in the first inning with a five-run uprising.

In the Eastern Little League, Cabot sewed up the first half title with a 6-1 victory over Hoffman Oil.

Dennis Duncan pitched the Cabot team to victory. Duncan allowed three hits.

It was the seventh win in eight starts for Cabot and gave it the first half crown outright.

Spokesman can nail down the Western Little League title today against Yore Laundry. The Spokesman nine has a 6-1 record to date.

Yesterday's Western LL game was postponed because of the tornado warnings.

Deacons Win College Baseball Title; Ags' Borland Honored

OMAHA, Neb.—UP—Wake Forest from the baseball-minded state of North Carolina reigned as champion of the college baseball world Friday.

The Deacons came from behind Thursday night in the final of the NCAA college world series.

Catchers played an important part in the final contest.

Lin Holt, Wake Forest's ace receiver, singled home Luke McKeel in the 8th inning for the winning run. McKeel had walked and moved around to third on a pair of passed balls by Western Michigan catcher Fritz Messner.

Wake Forest jumped to a 3-0 lead only to see the Broncos push across three runs in each of the third and fourth innings to grab an edge.

But the Southern nine tied it with its own three-run cluster in the sixth and set the stage for Holt's heroics.

Meanwhile, newsmen covering the tournament named Tom Borland, Oklahoma A&M senior southpaw, as the outstanding player of the series.

Borland won two games for the Aggies and saved another in relief to run his season record to 11 wins and no losses. He also set a series record by going the full 12 innings in the Aggies' 5-4 win over Arizona.

Miss Suggs Top Money Winner

Jones-Durando In TV Bout Tonight

NEW YORK — UP— Middleweights Ralph Jones of Yonkers, N. Y., and Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N. J., will try to hit the comeback trail Friday night in their TV-radio and 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Jones lost his last fight on a decision to Kid Gavilan, Feb. 4, and on a knockout by Peter Mueller of Germany last Dec. 28. Ernie's bout with Gavilan was his only engagement this year.

Jones is favored at 12-5 because of his boxing skill and because of his greater activity in 1955. He had four bouts this year. He outpointed Sugar Ray Robinson, lost to mid-dieight champion Bobo Olson, knocked out George Johnson and lost to Lausse.

The odd-makers figure Durando's only chance to win is on a knockout. The Bayonne fighter is the hardest hitter in the 160-pound division; also, the most frequent misser. He knocked out 28 of his 62 opponents, but suffered 19 de-

Time Given to Olympics

PHOENIX — UP— Squaw Valley, a town resort along the crest of the Sierra Nevada range in the Sierras, is being readied as it sought the 1960 Olympics.

United States lost out in its bid for the 1960 summer games when Rome was chosen Detroit, but most delegates felt we were ready to pick the winter games.

Representatives from Innsbruck, St. Moritz, Switzerland, Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, also placed bids before the International Olympic Committee. Even the Russians seemed to favor an American site for the games.

It seems the simple and healthy town of Squaw Valley will see that the winter games are in true Olympic spirit.

Constantin Adrianov, head of the Russian delegation, now stressed the words "and healthy" in an obvious effort to stress the plush, deluxe atmosphere of St. Moritz and other Alpine resorts.

Winter Olympics last year were the United States at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1932.

By voting for the 1960 summer games, Detroit lost out on an unprecedented offer to pay for the expenses of all athletes out of television proceeds from the games.

American city attracted only a second ballot before being eliminated. On the third and final ballot, Rome polled 35 votes to 24 for Lausanne, Switzerland.

Central Baptist Youth Revival Opens Sunday

REV. JAMES BELL, assistant pastor

The young people of Central Baptist Church are sponsoring a revival at that church beginning Sunday, continuing through the following Sunday. Services will be at 10 each morning. Tuesday will be at 10 each morning, Friday, and at 8 each night.

Preacher for the revival will be the 24-year-old evangelist, Tom Landers, a native of North Little Rock, Ark., a graduate of Ouachita Baptist College of Arkansas and of South-Western Baptist Seminary of Fort Worth. He has served as organist and choir director at First Baptist Church, North Little Rock, and as associate pastor and minister of music at Central Baptist Church, Hot Springs and at First Baptist Church of Camden, Ark. He pioneered in the Youth Revival movement in Arkansas. He is now engaged in full time evangelism and is much in demand for revival engagements.

Music for the revival will be directed by Carroll Evans, a youth choir will sing each night. Committees of young people of the church have been making preparations for the revival. While sponsored by the youth, the revival services will be designed for everyone, and the Central Baptist young people invite all to attend the services.

Special notice will be given to fathers during the 11 a. m. service Sunday of ST. PAUL METHODIST CHURCH. Rev. Edwin L. Hall's sermon topic will be "Man the Image of God." Recognition will be given to the father present with the most children, and for the oldest and youngest father.

Rev. Hall is away this week attending a youth revival in Tahoka. He will return for the Sunday services.

An installation service for officers of the Women's Society of Christian Service will be held during the Sunday evening service.

The Fishermen's Club will meet at 8:30 p. m. today in the youth chapel of the educational building. All interested persons are invited to attend. To become familiar with the club's work.

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the lesson sermon to be read at CHRISTIAN SCIENCE services Sunday.

Scriptural selections from the King James Version of the Bible stress the supremacy of spiritual power and include the account of Christ Jesus feeding the multitude as recorded by Matthew (14:12-20) and John's account (6:16-21) of Jesus walking on the sea.

Among the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following (27:23-28): "God never ordained a material law to annul the spiritual law. If there were such a material law, it would oppose the supremacy of Spirit, God, and impugn the wisdom of the creator. Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws."

"The Marks of a Good Father" will be the sermon topic discussed at the morning services of the FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, at 8:30 and 10:35, by the pastor, Rev. Woodrow Adcock. The Junior Chorus, Carol and Wesley, will sing "Hear Us, Father, by Mozart for the 8:30 service. The Sanctuary Singers will give the anthem "They That Trust in the Lord" by Frey at the 10:35 service.

A Christian Witness Mission conducted by the young people will be concluded Sunday with a special service at 7:30 in the Sanctuary, with Rev. James Bell preaching, Sunday night he will use as his subject, "The Burning Heart."

Rev. Bell will preach at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the Chapel, using as his subject, "Who Shall Be His Witnesses?" His subject on Saturday night will be "Signs of Greatness." This Christian Witness Mission is for young people, by young people, and all young people are urged to attend. Recreation will begin at 6:30 p. m. with the worship service at 7:30 each evening.

The young people will have a prayer vigil in the Chapel from 6 a. m. to 12 noon Sunday.

Fathers will be given special recognition at the morning service Sunday of the FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Rev. Richard Crews' sermon topic will be "A Father's story of the prodigal son. Miss Betty Lou Hogsett will present a vocal solo.

Seven girls and one boy from the junior department will leave Sunday for Ceta Glen Junior camp. Mrs. Dick Crews will be in charge of registration and will serve as Tuila.

CHRIST THE DOOR TO SALVATION

John 10:9

A door suggests the thought of the dwelling place to which it is a means of entrance. Christ said, "I am the door; by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved." Our salvation begins with Him. By Him we enter in. He is the only entrance. It is recorded in the book of Acts 4:12, "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven, given among men, whereby we must be saved." There was only one door into the Ark in which Noah and his family found shelter from the flood. There was only one door into the Tabernacle which was Jehovah's dwelling place. So there is only one "door" into the presence of the Father, and that is Christ for He said "I am the Door — no man cometh unto the Father but by me." John 14:6.

By nature we are separated from God. Sin, as a barrier comes in between and bars us out of His Holy presence. This is one of the first things a convicted soul is made conscious of: "I am defiled and condemned, how can I draw near to God? I am made to realize my guilty distance from Him who is Light, how then can I be reconciled to Him?" "Then from God's Word I learn heaven's answer to me from God." "For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." 2 Cor. 5:21.

There is no other. There is no other coin. Our only hope is through Christ — the door. He said "By Me, if any man will enter in, he shall be saved." Just one step and those who are outside are now within. Remember that a door is not to be looked at and admired, but to be used. Let him be rich or poor — Christ is the Door. Not one door for the rich and another for the poor. But only one. If any should ask, "Is there any other way?" Christ would answer, "I am the way."

Is Police State Coming

Some people find comfort in knowing that their government has a dossier on them covering their every action.

We do not.

A recent story by the United Press, dateline Washington, D. C., revealed that it's a sluggard indeed who isn't listed, fingerprinted and catalogued in any one of half a dozen federal offices.

This is a little too much like prying into privacy to please us as we read the Constitution of the United States and note that Amendment Number IV in our Bill of Rights specifically rules against such practice. It says there: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated . . ."

We think that all this statistical wool-gathering for our obvious protection has already passed the bounds of normal decency. We can't get enthusiastic about the recent rash of instances in New York City in which private telephone conversations were monitored, tape recorded and assembled.

Just because we are a big grown-up nation is no reason why we must all undress and dress in public. Of course we are told, and there is considerable truth in the telling, that we are faced with the internal as well as external threat of communism. But we are reminded of an event that occurred during the presidency of Abraham Lincoln.

The Civil War was on. In the war department Simon Cameron had been replaced by Edwin M. Stanton, and the graft and corruption of Cameron's regime had resulted in his being sent to Russia as ambassador.

But the graft and corruption continued. At least it appeared that way to Mr. Lincoln, who called in his secretary of war and wanted to know why it was that the Confederate forces seemed to be getting advance information on Union troop activities. Further, how was it possible for the South to obtain guns and equipment which were obviously manufactured in Yankee territory?

Secretary Stanton promised to find out and placed wire taps on telegraph lines, intercepted mail and generally conducted internal espionage in Washington and elsewhere on the Northern side.

Within a few weeks he reported to the President and his report was astonishing. Stanton was able to lay before Mr. Lincoln the record of several thousand presumably loyal Unionists, who were in the process of playing both ends against the middle. Men and women Lincoln trusted were tipping off the Southern forces, while at the same time giving support to Union activities. Many of them held prominent positions in business and public life. Stanton urged an immediate and wholesale arrest of the offending parties.

But Lincoln thought about it a long time. And finally his orders to Stanton were to destroy all copies of all the lists he had made and to forget that he had ever made the investigation.

Stanton was stunned, but perforce had to obey his commander-in-chief. And Lincoln's observation was classic. He advised Stanton that these men and women, who in strictest law were traitors, were merely men and women who were badly frightened. They did not know which side was going to win, and their treasonable activities were being conducted in the shape of insurance against possible Confederate victory.

Lincoln opined that the North would just have to go ahead and win anyhow, and thereby prove that it was worthy of the friendship and loyalty of these same persons.

We know of no other instance in history when, in the midst of war, so much leniency and clemency were extended by the man in power to individuals who were ostensibly on the other side.

The situation is not a precise parallel of communist activity in this country today, because communism is a world wide criminal conspiracy, but Lincoln's example is worthy of study nonetheless. It is possible that had he acted the part of the dictator with the mailed fist, he would have so alienated other persons who loved and were close to the offending parties, that he would have wrecked the opportunities which came later to bind up the wounds of a torn and bleeding country.

Lincoln's greatness is found, not in his administrative ability, but rather to those instances when he forgot his official position and elevated individuals to the highest dignity of which they were entitled, merely because they were individuals and as such were and had to remain free men and women.

But the crowded files in Washington which tabulate the goings and comings as well as the incomes and investments of otherwise free men are a blight upon the land of the free. We are not, here, endorsing the abandonment of criminal information. We are, instead, reminding the men in power, that the vast numbers of Americans are neither criminal nor do they tend toward criminal activity. Extensive files on their activities is wrong. In this country we are free . . . naturally . . . and are presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Further, with the infiltration which has occurred and is occurring in our nation's capital, we shudder to think what would happen and is happening to much of that information when and if it is siphoned off and sent to dictators of foreign countries who are casting covetous eyes on everything American.

In the final analysis, there is no substitute for freedom. Why should we advocate any activity which, in the wrong hands, can serve to enslave the innocent? We protest the cataloguing of information merely on the assumption that it is "good" for the federal government to know as much about each of us as can be ascertained.

This is the way to the police state of Hitler and Stalin. And a police state, even if headed by an American, would be an abomination not to be endured or condoned.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Pity The Poor Male High School Graduates

In the last issue I commented on how we should pity the High School graduates in government schools for the collectivistic training they were exposed to for some 12 years. An associate of mine called my attention to the fact that I had omitted one of the most important reasons why we should pity the boy graduates.

Faces More Conscription

When the boy graduates, he faces from two to four more years of conscription. The Federal Government wants him in the Army. The Federal Government, like the School Boards, has more power than he has and they love to use it whether or not it is based on aggressive force or defensive force. Defensive force is justice but aggressive force is always tyranny. Of course the boy graduate was not responsible for the beliefs that cause wars.

The parents who bring children into the world and do not believe they alone are responsible for their protection and education, have the beliefs that bring on wars. When they believe they have the right to compel J. Smith to help pay for teachers that he has no confidence in and does not want to teach his children, it then is only natural for them to believe that representatives of the majority in the Federal Government have the right to make laws and enforce them with a gun to prevent men from buying and selling their labor to the world's best bidder. In short, to believe in protective tariffs and emigration quotas. Tariffs are just a form of involuntary subsidy as are all government schools. And these beliefs are the beliefs that bring on modern economic wars.

If the majority of voters did not believe in any form of coercion such as government schools, then they would not believe in using the government to interfere with a free market. Then we would not have class legislation of any kind such as protective tariffs and quotas.

Local Free Trade

But when individuals do not believe in free trade — a free market for ideas in local communities and states — it is only natural for them not to believe in free trade in wealth between nations. And this brings on wars.

It is only because believers in government schools have not given much thought to the nature of these schools that they do not see that these schools are not operated on a free trade — a free market basis for ideas and services. They are operated on a coercive basis. They take away from a man his God-given right to use his best judgment in the most important thing in his life — the education of his children. It deprives him of being a steward of his life. He has to pay for what he does not want. That is a complete denial of local free trade — a free market.

Oh yes, I hear defenders of these schools contending that parents can send their children to non-tax-supported schools, and thus have a free market in ideas. But when the state takes the education of children out of the responsibility of the parents by compulsory attendance at school, then the state becomes the final judge for the education of all children. Then the parents have lost control and the children become wards of the state. Their parents must get the consent of the state to educate their own children or to have them go to other than state schools. Most states will not give the state's consent for parents to educate their own children. And the state is the final judge as to whether parochial schools qualify. The state is so far afraid to disqualify parochial schools only because the state-teaching bureaucrats do not yet think religious people would surrender this sacred right without a struggle.

Involuntary Subsidy

All ideas should be supported or subsidized on a voluntary basis and not by involuntary subsidies. As are all government schools, these are the worst form of tyranny. Just think of it. These youths have been taught for 12 years by teachers who believe in involuntary subsidies. These teachers cannot very successfully teach their pupils that all subsidies should be on a voluntary free-market competitive basis. If these teachers did not believe in involuntary subsidies they would not be teachers in schools subsidized on an involuntary basis.

Those in charge of forcing the involuntary subsidies of ideas naturally teach that getting some things, such as their pay, is ethical, right and just and does not violate such great guides of justice as The Golden Rule and The Commandments.

With this kind of training it is natural for the youth to grow up and not even know that drafting soldiers is unethical and unjust.

That all forms of involuntary subsidies are a form of socialism. This kind of tutorage handicaps the youth of the land in getting an ethical education. He has to unlearn what he has been taught for 12 years; that the government has an ethical right to do what no individual has an ethical right to do.

And when he is conscripted for two to four years more by the Army and further indoctrinated with the idea that he is a robot and a slave of the state and not the sovereign of his own life, he is all the more to be pitied for the treatment he has received un-

Demo Division Aggravated By Adlai-Harriman Forces

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The division between Democratic conservatives and liberals has been aggravated anew by the simmering feud between the background forces of Adlai E. Stevenson and those of Governor Averell Harriman of New York, leading candidates for the 1956 Presidential nomination. On friendly terms publicly and politically, they have been thrown into collision by ambitious associates.

The two men, however, have chosen different paths toward the prize. Mindful of the fact that President Eisenhower swept several southern and border states in 1952, and cognizant of recent polls that depict Ike as still strong in that section, Stevenson and Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler have been courting the Dixie faction.

In his various commencement addresses during the graduating month of June, Stevenson has delivered no slashing attacks on the Administration's major policies. He has been more aggressive or vicious in his talks than the Dixie-dominated Democratic majority in House and Senate. He leans toward the Rayburn-Johnson policy of co-operation with Eisenhower rather than toward the Harriman-Truman strategy of savage, personal and political criticism.

Stevenson's friends are explaining that he is, innately, a middle-of-the-roader, not an extremist. They recall that he originally spoke in favor of the Taft-Hartley Act after his nomination, although he thought that it needed minor revision. Only when all the major unions endorsed him and raised separate campaign funds did he decide that it was "a slave labor law."

Governor Harriman, on the other hand, has been severely critical of the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill. He agrees with the radical Americans for Democratic Action, who have declared in recent pronouncements that the Rayburn-Johnson Democrats have been "false" to Roosevelt-Truman principles.

A generally unnoted incident reveals how far Harriman and Stevenson differ. It is all for his own good.

Not only should we pity the youth of the land but we should pity the teachers and the advocates of involuntary subsidies in ideas.

Remember the Great Educator said, "But whose shall offend one of these little ones which believeth in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea."

We are certainly offending these youths in our care when we teach them by example to believe that acts that violate the Golden Rule when done by an individual do not violate this Rule when done by the majority. That is one way to standards of right — one for the individual and another for the agents of the majority.

How can we do any greater harm to youth and to ourselves than to have this collectivistic training inflicted on our children?

Most Papers Held Out Wallace's Goofy Letters By WESTBROOK PEGLER

When Henry Wallace was secretary of agriculture, he fell in with a religious faker from old St. Petersburg, Russia, named Nicholas Roerich. During a weird association, he wrote this mysterious character many letters which were grounds for serious public alarm. Yet, knowing all about this correspondence with a mountebank who professed to be not exactly God but a preternatural spirit, the grand cabal of the Roosevelt regime suppressed the facts. So did the Republicans. They had the stuff in hand and thoroughly verified long before the Democratic convention of 1940 in which Eleanor Roosevelt audaciously calmed a howling mob of rougneck Democrats who otherwise might have killed Wallace by hand. Thus, Eleanor put Wallace over as vice president.

The Republicans were in a strange thrall. They doggedly refrained from publishing this gibberish. The late Paul Block made a personal decision to keep this historical knowledge out of his papers in Pittsburgh and Toledo after Ray Sprigle, one of his reporters, had nailed down most of the essentials.

To this day, the only American papers which have published this historical information are clients of these essays as distributed through King Features Syndicate. Most of the American press snubbed this evil page of our history. It cannot be said that they did this out of respect for private property, the fruit of my initiative. After the truth had been published exclusively here, it was part of the public domain. They decided that the public must not know.

However, my point today is not this guilt of the great American free press which peers down its nose at Fern in seamos Aires, but the present eagerness of the same cabal, extending now into the mock-Republican Eisenhower administration, to throw patriotic Americans into lunatic asylums. There are other cases, but, for today's purpose, I refer again to the immurement in a madhouse in Washington of Mrs. Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vt., because she exposed Communists in the sylvan fastness of the Green mountains.

Herbert Brownell, the attorney general, by official order, waffled this fighting patriot far from her home and family, including three young children, on the mere pretense of two psychiatrists that she was, in their opinion, "disturbed." Yet there is no outcry from the great New York Times, which for years has been quaking and quailing in fear of nameless horrors. The Times has not said one single word of objection to a nocturnal raid of 40 armed policemen directed by a United States marshal who fired tear gas bombs into the Miller home, made her unconscious and stunk up the little dwelling so badly that Mrs. Miller's elderly mother spent the entire next day airing it out and trying to decontaminate rug, bedding and upholstery. She had spent the night covering in the bushes.

This horror was perpetrated by authority of the Department of Justice and Mrs. Miller has since been confined among lunatics in a government bedlam by authority of the attorney general. Assuming, for the purpose of discussion, that Mrs. Miller is demented, we find no contention that it was necessary to lock her up at all. She was not violent. She had never tried or threatened to hurt anyone or to damage property. Her patriotic writings have been vehement but she has never been charged with inciting violence, by contrast with a large collection of incitations by union bosses to burn, pillage, wreck trains and beat and shoot citizens.

The New York Times is easily alarmed over the dismissal from a government job of any individual who associates with traitorous persons. That is "terrorism" which creates "an atmosphere of fear." But there is no "terrorism" in the persecution of Mrs. Miller.

In breaking the story of Wallace's idiotic letters to his guru, I presented the opinion of Hamish McLaurin, one of our greatest authorities on oriental philosophies and religions. He said Bubbiehead's letters to Roerich were silly gabble.

They were appalling screeds. The very idea that a man capable of putting such gibberish on paper could become vice president of the United States, especially in time of war, should frighten any American. Yet Frances Perkins wrote that Roosevelt himself picked Wallace by phone to her, and thousands who were present remember that the delegates there in Chicago were ready to stamp Wallace to death.

It was a terrible scene. Bugs Baer wrote that Jimmy Petrillo, a Democrat, of course, rushed a messenger upstairs to command the organist to strike up "Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones." The organist sent back word that his schedule called for some other tune just then. Bugs wrote that Petrillo then sent the messenger back to ask the organist how he would like two handfuls of smashed knuckles. So "Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones" blared forth. Within the last year both Chief Justice Earl Warren and Harry Truman have paid elaborate public homage to Petrillo.

Notwithstanding those blither which were known to both Democrats and Republicans, Wallace served four years in wartime, within one heartbeat of the presidency of our country. Nobody ever set psychiatrists on him or tried to lock him up in St. Elizabeth's although his home, then, was only a few blocks away. For contrast note the campaign of "psychiatric" insinuations against Joe McCarthy by "analysts" who never met the man.

In 1948 when he was the candidate of the Communists for president on his own "progressive" ticket, I challenged Wallace at "convention" of Reds in Philadelphia to say whether he wrote those goofy guru letters. He refused to answer. But I can tell you this all right. He wrote them. He knows I can prove it and so does the New York Times.

Olympics Defeat By Reds Wouldn't Wreck Free World By HENRY McLEMORE

As much as I would hate to see everybody was ready to ride him around the country on their shoulders. It's a cinch that sooner or later, if not next year, our athletes, if not subsidized, are going to be outdone by the Russians. But we'll always have one or two champions on pure merit, and the pleasure in seeing them get the laurel wreath and the gold medal will surpass any satisfaction that could be gained from watching a whole slew of fake amateurs, out-and-out business men, in fact, be crowned.

New York wouldn't turn out for a welcome home celebration to honor the Giants or Yankees for beating the Yale or Stanford baseball teams in a best of seven series. If it did it would be a ludicrous thing. But you can bet that New Haven or Palo Alto would line the streets to hail the Buldog or Indian nines if they managed to upset the best leaguers. And there'd be a reason.

If the United States wants to meet Russia in athletics on Russia's terms, then by all means let them do it, but don't for heaven's sake let it have any connection with the Olympic Games. Let the two mighty powers collide head on with paid, professional teams, with the U. S. Treasury betting the Kremlin treasury a million bucks on the outcome.

If we do play Russia's game in an effort to win, then you can kiss the Olympic games goodbye. It will be a battle of two titans, and will offer no possible excuse for others to join in. And it would make the Olympic oath a profane oath, to say the least.

TALLY HOMB—Alex Grammas of the St. Louis Cardinals is safe at home and Al Walker of the Dodgers is spilled, in fourth-inning action of the second game of a double header at Ebbets Field. Hal Dixon calls Grammas safe. First baseman Frank Kellert dropped a pop-up by Solly Hemus on the play. Cardinals won first game, 9-4, and Dodgers won the second, 10-6.

MUSCLE MAN—Movie star Jeff Chandler was appearing at a hotel in Las Vegas at night, and getting a good physical workout during the day. He's keeping in shape by using that back, shoulders and arms developer in the hotel gym. Mike Tulane, left, was on hand to give a word of advice.

LITTLE PITCHER—New York Giants' pitcher Jim Hearn is trying to "put one across the plate" to his eight-month-old son Jeff, but Jeff doesn't seem to be getting the pitch in New York. This took place at home where little Jeff's the star player these days.

WOW!—A small fry spectator held his head with excitement as a trampoline performer did a "bottoms up" demonstration of the bouncing art at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Hundreds of youngsters supplied a noisy background for the feats of Eugene Fleek, a trampoline instructor at a local youth club.

PICTURE SPORTS NEWS

TRYOUT—Water skiers Ulrich Ferguson, left, and Winfred Pearce are shown during a practice run in Nassau for their attack on the Miami-to-Nassau non-stop record. Ferguson and Pearce plan to make their nearly-200-mile run on June 24th on two skis each, despite reports that a young Miamian said she would attempt the distance on only one.

COME WHAT MAY—Miami University coed Diane Williams could be poised and ready for a dip in the ocean, or waiting for a game of volleyball to begin. But no matter what Diane's waiting for, she does make a mighty pretty picture against the serene Florida sky.

HOLD TIGHT!—Pretty ice skater Terry Brent, of Detroit, is being given a fling in Paris by Phil Romayne, of Brooklyn. They're appearing in the French capital in an ice skating show which recently completed a successful run in London.

IT'S NEW IN GREECE—Here's an action shot from the first baseball game ever played in Athens. The "great American game" was recently introduced to the Greeks, and they like it.

DOIN' ALL RIGHT—Al Plews, of Glen Burnie, Md., is standing beside the giant blue marlin he landed off Cape Hatteras, N.C., after a two-hour-and-35-minute battle with a rod and reel. First of the season to be landed in the area during 1955, Plews' big marlin weighed 464 pounds. It measured 11 feet from tip to tip, four feet and 11 inches around its girth, with a tailspread of three feet, nine inches.

ARCHER'S TRIUMPH—Probably the world's oldest lady archer, Mrs. Hilda Overton, 89, draws a steady bow as she participates in the Southern Archery Championship meeting in Winchester, England. Mrs. Overton never misses a match and is an active member of the West Sussex Archers Club.

GOLFERS ALL—It's a family affair with the Eddie O'Rourke family of suburban Cleveland, O. O'Rourke built and operates a nine-hole golf club, giving about 200 lessons a week. His wife, Shirley, operates a pro shop at the course, which caters to women golfers. The five O'Rourke youngsters serve as caddies, baby-sitter helpers and greens-keepers.

Military Base Hearing Slated

WASHINGTON—UP—Rep. John J. Dempsey (D-N.M.) said Wednesday a House Armed Services subcommittee will hold a hearing June 23 at Almagordo, N.M., on the Army's plan for a 778,000-acre expansion in New Mexico of its artillery and guided missile center at Fort Bliss, Tex.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D-S.C.), will hear representatives of cattle growers, oil and gas interests, landowners and the state land commissioner.

REA Approves Loan
WASHINGTON—UP—The Rural Electrification Administration has approved a loan to the Canadian Electric Co-operative, Seminole, Okla., $930,000, to finance construction of 222 miles of distribution line.

Suicide in Freezer
HOMER, La.—UP—A coroner's jury ruled Thursday Mrs. W. S. Sarquar, 60, committed suicide by climbing into a 12-foot freezer and pulling down the lid so that she suffocated.
