Chief Asks U. N. Action On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—President Makarios today rejected the British-American proposal to land an international peace force on embattled Cyprus and will take the matter to the United Nations immediately, authoritative diplomatic sources said.

Sporadic fighting persisted between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

There was no immediate official statement from Makarios or from U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball, who ended three days of discussions in Nicosia.

Ball flew to Ankara to report to Turkish officials on his talks with Cypriot leaders and to urge restraint on Turkey. He will then go to Athens on a similar mission to Greek authorities.

INTERVENING

Makarios is believed to be ready to ask for a U.N. Security Council resolution which would prevent any one nation from intervening in Cyprus and to protect Cyprus' territorial integrity. This would be aimed primarily at Turkey.

Diplomats said the United States and Britain believe a solution must be found to settle the differences on the island which might possibly lead to a war between Greece and Turkey, who are allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Presidential palace sources said the Greek Cypriot leader insisted that any international force be under control of the U.N. Security Council.

The U.S.-British plan called for an Atlantic Alliance army of 10,000 men with about 2,000 U.S. soldiers to keep peace.

EXCLUDING YANKS

There was no reaction to the hint from high Washington sources that Makarios wants an international peace force of British Commonwealth nations excluding American soldiers.

Cyprus has been a commonwealth member since independence from Britain in 1960.

Greece and Turkey have treaties to defend Cyprus from aggression and both keep small garrisons on Cyprus for that purpose.

Turkey is determined to protect the Turkish Cypriot minority, which charges Makarios wants to curb its rights by constitutional changes. These set off the fighting that began last Christmas and brought in more British troops as a truce force.

RELATIVE CALM

The cease-fire reached after savage fighting Thursday at Limassol on the south coast restored relative calm in this eastern Mediterranean island.

Sporadic shooting was reported, however, in the western coast city of Paphos this morning.

British truce officials said that before the guns were silenced in Limassol, at least 16 Turkish Cypriots and one Greek Cypriot were killed. More than 35 Turks were wounded but the number of Greek wounded was not known, the British said.

Quick Work For Tax Cut Items Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate conferees expect to hammer out a tax reduction compromise in about three days next week—which would mean millions of Americans could begin drawing bigger pay envelopes before mid-March.

One day of preliminary discussions this week apparently demonstrated willingness on both sides to resolve amicably the more than 200 changes the Senate made in the House bill. All but a handful of these are technical or minor.

VOTE MONDAY

The conferees get back to discussions and probably start voting Monday. One of them predicted agreement by Wednesday—possibly even by Tuesday—on a bill to reduce personal and corporate income taxes by about $11.5 billion. This would be bigger than the House cut and smaller than the Senate version.

Last week the Senate approved a cut of $11.6 billion. The House had approved a cut of $11.1 billion last Sept. 25.

The rest of the week would be needed to write a conference report and the House would be expected to act—with approval virtually assured—about Feb. 24. Senate leaders have spoken of taking the measure up the day the House finishes work on it. Under such a schedule, the bill could go to President Johnson for his prompt signature before the end of February.

SMALL RAISE

Withholding rate cuts—the equivalent of a small pay raise for wage-earning and salaried Americans—would begin a week later if, as expected, the conferees retain the Senate wording on this point.

Two big issues are in controversy between the two chambers. The House voted more lenient tax treatment of certain long-term capital gains than present law provides. The Senate deleted this provision.

Another major difference between the two bills relates to the deduction, for federal income tax purposes, of state and local taxes.

West Germans Veto Easter Wall Opening

Commiss Offer Crossing Plan

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German government and the West Berlin Senate turned down today the East German offer to reopen the Berlin wall for the Easter holidays.

A joint announcement by the government and the Senate said they were fully agreed on the refusal.

The East Berlin government said Thursday night it was willing to allow West Berliners to visit East Berlin during Easter on the same basis they had during the Christmas holidays.

The Communists offered the same conditions that allowed more than 500,000 West Berliners to visit relatives in East Berlin for family reunions during the Christmas and New Year's holidays on one-day passes.

SIXTH MEETING

The East Germans suggested renewal of the old agreement Thursday at the sixth meeting between Erich Wendt, East Germany's deputy cultural affairs minister, and Horst Korber, a West Berlin city official. They negotiated the previous agreement.

The holiday agreement gave West Berliners their first chance to visit relatives in East Berlin since the Communists erected the wall in August 1961. Thousands of West Berliners waited for hours in bitter cold and snow to apply for one-day crossing permits.

West Berlin newspapers bitterly assailed the East Germans for insisting on such an ordeal of red tape. Since then, Western officials have demanded a new method of handling crossing applications.

PERMIT OFFICES

To meet these objections, the East Germans proposed opening temporary permit offices in West Berlin schools as early as

Feb. 25 for an Easter crossing period from March 21 to March 30. Easter Sunday is on March 29.

The East Germans gave no indication how long they would keep the wall open for the Whitsun holiday. Whitsunday falls on May 17.

Injecting two new elements, East Germans indicated they favored special rapid processing for family emergencies and suggested easier requirements for the reunion of separated husbands and wives.

Germans Say Loopholes Aid Nazi Suicides

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Legal safeguards designed to stamp out any trace of Nazi tyranny enabled two major defendants in a forthcoming war crimes trial to commit suicide, officials said today.

Dr. Werner Heyde, chief defendant in a case involving "mercy killings" of 200,000 mental defectives in World War II, was allowed to keep a belt with which he hanged himself in prison Thursday.

Another important defendant, Friedrich Tillmann, was able to leap to his death—at least officials call it a suicide—from an eighth floor window of a Cologne building Wednesday. Courts refused to order him to jail pending trial on grounds of health.

There is widespread suspicion that a Nazi underground is helping with the suicides as well as organizing escapes. Fritz Bauer, chief prosecutor in the State of Hesse, shares this suspicion. He was to have prosecuted Heyde and Tillmann in a trial scheduled to open next Tuesday.

Heyde had been in jail since 1959, and was under close watch since an attempt to escape last September. He committed suicide when a guard left his post for a few minutes.

Tillmann and two other defendants had been left in freedom. Bauer said he had tried repeatedly to get court orders to arrest them, but the courts had refused on the ground that they were in poor health.

Cubans Due In Court Next Week
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban fishermen whose apprehension in U.S. waters was a factor in the Guantanamo crisis go to court next week.

The Czech Embassy in Washington engaged a New York City firm to defend the 29 prisoners charged with fishing in Florida waters without permission.

Criminal Court Judge Thomas Caro set their arraignment for Tuesday.

Defense Seeking To Shake Sinatra

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A trio of defense lawyers, bent upon proving a publicity hoax, try today to shake the story of Frank Sinatra Jr. that his kidnaping was real and frightening.

Young Sinatra has only a few minutes of direct testimony left today as a government witness. Then his cross-examination starts.

Sinatra, 19 at the time of the kidnaping but since turned 20, testified in U.S. District Court Thursday that he was kidnaped from Lake Tahoe last Dec. 8 "with a gun in my ribs."

He told how he was blindfolded, given sleeping pills and held captive for 54 hours until his father paid $240,000 ransom.

COOPERATED

Prime target of the cross-examination undoubtedly will be Sinatra's own story of how he cooperated with his alleged abductors to elude a police roadblock. The defense has charged that Sinatra cooperated in the deed so that the publicity "would make the girls swoon over him as they did over his papa."

Sinatra, under oath, denied any such motive.

"My state of mind was fear-and the question: Why was all of this happening to me?" Sinatra said.

He testified he cooperated in the roadblock evasion because of two remarks made by the two men in the car.

He said they said: "If there is any trouble, there's going to be shooting."

GUN IN BELT

And "Jeez, this gun is uncomfortable in my belt."

The frail witness, sometimes extremely nervous, told the court that his ordeal began when a tall young man entered his room at Harrah's Lodge with a wine carton, ostensibly a gift.

"Then he removed a black leather glove from his right hand and produced a small caliber revolver."

"At first, I just stared blankly at the weapon. I thought that it might have been a very bad joke."

The intruder was identified in court by Sinatra as defendant Barry Keenan, 23. The other defendants are Joseph Amsler, 23, and John Irwin, 42. Sinatra said he was blindfolded all but a few minutes during his captivity. He could not identify the other defendants.

TEENS TRY TUNNELING

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—A special agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad is in Conway investigating a new teen-age fad—standing inside a tunnel while a train goes through.

A. R. Huskey, the special agent, said he understood that "tunneling" was mainly a sport for boys, but that girls were involved on at least one occasion.

The youngsters reportedly huddled against the tunnel walls while the train passes through.

Not only is there danger of being hit by the train, Huskey said, but poisonous gases sometimes collect in railroad tunnels.

Huskey said the railroad agreed to catch the teenagers and prosecute them for trespassing and malicious mischief.

Home Heads Back With 'Many Gains'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain's Prime Minister Douglas-Home left for home today with the impression that the accomplishments of his visit with President Johnson will benefit "a great many other countries also."

Douglas-Home spoke at a brief farewell ceremony marking the wind-up of his two days of conferences with Johnson on issues around the world.

The main purpose of the Anglo-American summit, spokesmen stressed, was for Johnson and Douglas-Home to get to know each other before each is caught up in the whirl of election campaigns.

In this respect the get-together was a complete success, said a high American official, who commented: "The farmer from Scotland and the farmer from Texas understood each other perfectly."

Although Thursday's joint communique at the conclusion of the two-day meeting mentioned only points on which Johnson and Douglas-Home agreed, both sides conceded that there were issues on which—as the British leader put it at a later news conference—"differences in emphasis" exist.

They were trade with Cuba, and trade with and credits to Communist countries. Britain views trade as its lifeblood and, as Douglas-Home put it, does not believe in boycotts.

CYPRUS CRISIS

The two government leaders and their foreign policy chiefs, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler, devoted most of their time to the crisis in Cyprus.

Relatively little time was devoted to other issues, informants said. Where opinions differed, the positions were stated forcefully and it was quickly recognized that no persuasion would close the gap.

Briefly, these were the issues:

1. On Southeast Asia, the British pledged complete support for U.S. policies in Viet Nam, and the United States reaffirmed its support for Malaysia.

2. Both sides asked for stepped-up efforts to formulate new proposals aimed at breaking the deadlock in East-West talks on Germany and Berlin.

DISARMAMENT

3. It was agreed that further relaxation of East-West tension depends largely on the outcome of the Geneva disarmament conference and action on Western proposals for a nuclear freeze and the stationing of control posts on both sides of the Iron Curtain to detect preparations for a surprise attack.

4. Though the interests of the two countries are not exactly identical, both sides pledged to work toward the success of the forthcoming tariff cutting negotiations in Geneva.

5. The British are not quite convinced about the military effectiveness of the U.S.-proposed multilateral nuclear force.

6. On trade with Communist countries in general and with Cuba in particular, the British maintained their traditional attitude which Douglas-Home summed up this way: "We have to trade if we want to live. We do not believe in boycotts."

7. The same applies to long-term credits to the Communists, the prime minister promised.

NO DEALS

"You may be assured, and all Texans may be assured, that just as I made no deals with you, neither have I done so with anyone else, and I will not do so, regardless how politically expedient," he asserted.

Yarborough predicted Texas will not submit to the "subjugation" of Connally and Shivers.

Yarborough charged Connally had no intention of improving education or raising the economic level of the state. He said the Connally administration "will stand on the same lousy record it has already compiled."

JUDGE RULES Ruby's Trial Begins Monday

DALLAS, (AP)—Dist Judge Joe B. Brown ruled today lawyers must begin selecting a Dallas jury Monday for Jack Ruby's murder trial.

The judge withheld a final decision on a defense motion to transfer the trial to another city. He said still order it moved if an impartial jury cannot be found here for the killer of President Kennedy's accused assassin.

The hearing on the defense motion to move the trial to another city began Monday and testimony ended yesterday.

Judge Brown said questioning of prospective jurors is "the true test of whether this trial should be changed to another city."

The judge announced his decision at 2:35 p.m. (CST).

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said, "I am very pleased with the decision. We will be trying to pick a jury Monday."

Asked if the jury selection will be in Judge Brown's courtroom, Wade said, "I think they are making other arrangements."

Chief defense council Melvin Belli said he plans no further legal maneuvers at this time to try to move the trial to another city.

He said that the judge's decision to include the examining of the prospective jurors as a part of the change of venue motion could be used later in an appeal.

Government Rests Case In Hoffa Tampering Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The government completed its case against James R. Hoffa today on the last day of the fourth week of his jury-tampering trial.

Special prosecutor John J. Hooker of Nashville rested the government case at 10:14 a.m. after presenting Albert J. Gasdor, a court reporter from Washington, D.C., as his final witness.

Gasdor was the reporter at Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville, and simply certified a statement by the judge that a juror was excused at the start of the 1962 trial because he reported a $10,000 bribe offer.

NOT APPEAR

The Nashville judge declined to appear as a government witness against Hoffa at this trial.

U.S. Dist Judge William E. Miller of Nashville was quoted by a source close to him as terming such an appearance "an act of judicial impropriety."

The government, which asked Judge Miller to tell of his dismissing a juror at the start of the earlier trial, planned to end its three-week old case against Hoffa today—his 51st birthday.

The charges on which Hoffa and five others are being tried here spring from the 1962 trial—which ended in a hung jury.

During that trial Judge Miller told attorneys that juror James C. Tippens had reported the offer of a $10,000 bribe. Tippens, a Nashville insurer, testified Thursday over bitter defense protests that what he said was the "rankest hearsay."

TENTATIVELY

Tippens told of being seated tentatively on the jury, of a conversation with Lawrence W. Medlin and then of his meeting with Judge Miller.

Tippens was not permitted to tell the jury details of his conversation with Medlin—a Nashville sandwich maker indicted at the same time as Hoffa.

In a statement released by the court at the conclusion of the 1962 trial, Tippens said Medlin offered him $10,000 in $100 bills if he would vote for Hoffa's acquittal.

ICBM Explodes East Of Roswell

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP)—An Atlas ICBM missile exploded and burned Thursday in an underground launch silo about 32 miles east of Roswell.

An Air Force spokesman said all personnel were evacuated and there were no injuries. Three Air Force personnel were killed last year in a similar missile explosion and fire north of Roswell.

The 82½-foot missile was about one-third of the way to the surface, in what appeared to be a practice alert, when the blast occurred.

LBJ, RALPH OKAYED

Texas Labor Nixes State Endorsement

ARLINGTON (AP)—Organized labor in Texas has endorsed the re-election of President Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., but made no recommendations for state level offices.

The action came Thursday by 387 delegates of the AFL-CIO's State Committee on Political Education (COPE).

The delegates deadlocked over whether to support Dan Sullivan of Andrews or Robert Baker of Houston for the congressman-at-large post now held by Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., from Dallas.

Brown is a former state senator. Sullivan is a former administrative assistant to Sen. Yarborough.

NO ENDORSEMENT

President Hank Brown of the state AFL-CIO refused to break the vote deadlock and suggested that COPE, political arm of the state union group, make no endorsement for congressman-at-large.

Sen. Yarborough, Gov. John Connally and Connally's young Houston opponent for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Don Yarborough, headlined a total of 13 state and national candidates who spoke before the meeting.

Connally said he accepted labor's invitation to address the gathering with full understanding that by ground rules previously adopted, he could not be endorsed.

RIGHT-TO-WORK

At last year's convention, the labor group passed a resolution declaring they would not support any candidate who supported the Texas right-to-work law.

Connally in his 1962 campaign stated he would work to retain the law. It forbids membership in a union as a requisite to employment.

There are those in your ranks who insist that you give personal support only to those public voices who speak your views to the exclusion of others," he said.

Connally declared there had been much said and unsaid in recent weeks about so-called deals.

"You may be assured, and all Texans may be assured, that just as I made no deals with you, neither have I done so with anyone else, and I will not do so, regardless how politically expedient," he asserted.

Yarborough predicted Texas will not submit to the "subjugation" of Connally and Shivers.

Yarborough charged Connally had no intention of improving education or raising the economic level of the state. He said the Connally administration "will stand on the same lousy record it has already compiled."

Checking Vote Totals

One of these charmers will be Gollad Junior High's Queen of Hearts and she will know tonight whether the coveted crown is to be hers. The candidates are, from left, Jeanie Gillean, eighth grade candidate; Diane Campbell, seventh grade candidate, and Beverly Peters, sixth grade candidate. The winner will be crowned at the annual Valentine Festival of the school at 8 p.m. Friday.

Cotton Rules Crisis Rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen from the Southeast express concern lest farmer misunderstanding of the government's cotton program lead to severe losses in that area's future share of the cotton crop.

A number of lawmakers from that area are being flooded with letters from farmers seeking clarification of this year's cotton control program.

They said confusion has arisen since the Agriculture Department proposed in January that the government offer payments to farmers for idling a part of their individual allotments to cut down on cotton production.

OPPOSITION

A department official told the Senate Agriculture Committee hearing earlier this week that the cotton diversion plan had been abandoned. Sharp opposition developed in Congress, particularly in lawmakers from the rural cotton belt of the Southeast. They feared it would bring a further loss in what they called the cotton economy of that area.

The department's decision to drop the acreage diversion plan means that regulations covering use of allotments in effect in recent years will continue in effect this year.

Under these regulations, a farmer must plant all or a part of his cotton allotments or take action to release it for use by other farmers in his area under a reassignment system. Should he fail to do either of these things, he would not preserve his acreage base for future cotton allotments. Not only he, but his county and state would lose allotments in future years to other states — mainly those in the west which have been increasing cotton production in recent years.

HOLDING BACK

Many farmers who did not intend to use all or a part of their allotments this year have been holding back on releasing allotments for use by other farmers. They apparently wanted to keep control of the allotments this year so that they might take part in an acreage diversion program with its government payments.

If they hold back long, they will be too late to permit use of allotments by a neighbor—the result being loss of allotments in later years. Release of allotments must be made well ahead of the approaching planting seasons.

Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N. C., of the House Agriculture Committee — an opponent of the cotton acreage diversion proposals — issued a statement pleading with farmers in the Southeast to take steps at once to protect their cotton bases and those of their counties and states — by releasing portions they themselves do not plan to use.

"Time for release of allotments for use by others is limited," he said.

Cooley said the abandoned acreage diversion program was patterned after the acreage reserve part of the Eisenhower administration's soil bank program, which he said, Congress had found to be unsuccessful and as a consequence had halted.

Original Dr. Kildare Tells Of His Recent Wedding

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Lew Ayres, the movies' original Dr. Kildare, says he's been married for a week to airline stewardess Diana Hall.

Ayres, 55, said in Hollywood he met her three years ago and they were married by a minister somewhere in California. He declined to give any details.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Birthdays and court trials go together for Teamster President James R. Hoffa, who is 51 today.

At a birthday eve party Thursday night in Chattanooga, Tenn., he noted that his 50th came during his mail fraud trial in Tampa, Fla.

Relaxed and cheerful, Hoffa blew out three candles on a cake and celebrated with his family. Then he hustled back to conferences with his lawyers for his jury-tampering trial.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace said that he has found many persons "of Southern attitude" in his trips around the nation.

He said in Columbus, Ohio, that his reception there was "better, more warm and courteous than we expected."

DEAR ABBY

The Mystic Decision

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with two grown children. For almost two years I went with a widower. We got along very well and seemed made for each other. He asked me to marry him and I said yes. Then all of a sudden, just before the holidays, he said he needed more time to think things over. He said he wanted the approval of his two older sisters, and he also wanted to talk it over with his deceased wife at her graveside in another town. I haven't heard from him since. Aside from the hurt and humiliation I have suffered, I can't help wondering what happened at his wife's grave. Or do you think he was just trying to find an escape because he changed his mind about marrying me? Can you offer an explanation to ease my torment?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: His sisters probably turned thumbs down. What the graveside consultation turned up only the mystic widower knows. Who knows—perhaps you are the lucky one.

DEAR ABBY: I sizzled when I read that letter from "GOOD NEIGHBOR" who found two little tots playing inside an old refrigerator he had stored in his garage. He said he scolded them and explained how dangerous it was, and then he gave them each a swat on the behind so they'd remember it. Then he got a call from their mother telling him it was against the law to lay hands on someone else's child, and he'd be hearing from her lawyer! If I had been that mother I would have baked that man a beautiful apple pie and presented it to him with my own thanks. And then I'd have paddled my kids soundly for going onto other people's property.

ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: How stupid can one be? When that "Good Neighbor" found the two little neighbor children playing in the old ice box he had stored in his garage, he should have been told that if he had turned the ice box with the door up against the wall he wouldn't have to worry about anybody crawling into it and suffocating to death.

A Devotional For The Day

(Jesus) spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint. (Luke 18:1.)
PRAYER: O God, this day we pray for our fellow Christians, that we may be drawn together with them into a common faith. Make us instruments of Thy love to bring others to Christ that they, too, may know their sins forgiven and the joy of fellowship; through Christ our Redeemer. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

In Need Of Reform

The farm problem, like the weather, gets a great deal of talk but not too much action. Yet is becoming increasingly clear that the farm program needs to be drastically overhauled rather than patched.
Something is wrong with an industry which grosses 12 billion dollars but requires an Agriculture Department expenditure of more than half that amount in research, administration and assistance. About two billion goes in payments and becomes a part of the gross income.
The payments go in a good part for support prices. These have two effects, aside from sustaining the producer: They serve as a stimulus to increased production of crops already in surplus supply, and they raise the price for these commodities above the world market. Hence, the present approach encourages growing surplus but blocks the only hope of its disposition.

The answer to this isn't as simple as whacking off subsidies. The agricultural industry isn't the only one sustained by government funds; it happens to be the most apparent. It also happens to be one of the most unprotected.
One of the great difficulties is that the programs not only deal with economics but also with people, and people have votes. Thus, one of the big stumbling blocks to reform is in the exceptions or floors provided for the small-acreage producer. By the same token, across the board subsidies run into opposition because big operators would receive big amounts, and this is not politically expedient. Nevertheless, these factors must be faced before there can be any practical hope for substantial reform. Although slow, the steady urbanization of the nation may help hasten the time when this will be done.

The Big Hat

The District of Columbia isn't going "whole hog" Texan, but it's picking up Texas ways, including a five-gallon version of a ten-gallon hat.
Actually, of course, there aren't many Texans outside of Hollywood wearing ten-gallon hats these days. They prefer the "stockman's hat" which is something less than half as large, one that is affected by bankers, oil men, lawyers and politicians, as well as cattlemen.

The District of Columbia version which is achieving popularity has a two and one-half inch brim and comes in "silver belly." This is a light tan, only a shade or two darker than the underside of a Brahmin bull, and a few shades lighter than a Jersey cow's underside.
If the trend in hat styles continues, they may soon refer to the congressional chambers as the upper 40 and lower 40 instead of Senate and House.

Our Loss Of Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—Ninety-eight years ago—after the Civil War was over—an intolerant majority in Congress disregarded the Constitution, took away seats from duly elected members of the House and Senate, and sent troops to certain states to compel the legislatures, at bayonet point, to "ratify" the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. A "civil rights act" was subsequently passed, and the Supreme Court later declared it unconstitutional.

TODAY, NEARLY a century later, a frightened if not terrorized majority in the House of Representatives—stamped by nationwide "demonstrations" that have often led to violence—has passed a so-called "civil rights" bill which actually takes away some important civil rights from the citizens.

If the Senate now should pass the same bill as the House did, a federal police force would be authorized to enter any kind of business—not just hotels or restaurants—and investigate whether its hiring or promotion of employees is conducted on the basis of racial or religious "discrimination."

ALTHOUGH THE measure passed the House by a vote of 290 to 130, Rep. Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire, Republican, says that, if a secret ballot were taken in the House, the legislation wouldn't get 50 votes. Here are some extracts from a significant speech he delivered:

"This legislation makes a mockery of the Constitution. To yield to pressure for an unconstitutional law because of sympathy for social injustice is to say that the end justifies the means."

"IT MEANS finally that there is no power in this Congress to legislate as is here proposed in regard to private lives, private business, and individual activity within and among the several states, having nothing to do with interstate commerce and not constituting state action."

"And it is the sheerest hypocrisy to contend that by so defining such private conduct that it becomes constitutionally amenable to federal government in the Constitution. It is hypocrisy compounded by fraud upon the people to ignore these basic truths because some members believe there are more votes for their re-election to be found in perpetuating the fraud than in protecting the constitutional rights of the people—all the people, both white and colored, Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and disbeliever."

"THERE ARE STILL many private rights in America that under our Constitution are protected."

Dollar Sign Trips Johnson-Home Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two allies stumbled over the dollar sign when President Johnson and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home met two days and then issued a rather uncommunicative communique.

It was at a news conference afterwards that Douglas-Home revealed he and Johnson had failed to agree on trading with Communists or, rather, not trading. The communique didn't mention that.

The point he made—business is business—illustrates as well as anything, probably better than yards of speeches and a dozen games of diplomatic shuffleboard, the changing temperature of the cold war.

THE BRITON, explaining that his country opposes a ban on business deals with a Communist country just because it is Communist, said he declines to stop British trade with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

This country, wishing it could tie Castro in an economic sack away from everybody, has been irritated because Britain, and France, too, are selling Castro buses, trucks and tractors.

Since they will help him survive, the United States looks on this as a form of aid. But this country is in a bit of a contradictory position on this.

IT WANTS to shut off aid to Castro, who is right in America's backyard, but it is willing to sell $250 million worth of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union which has had a real shortage of it. President John F. Kennedy authorized this last year.

He took the position that the Russians could get the wheat anyway because other countries, including allies, could buy it here and sell it to the Soviet Union.

"Our allies," he said, "have long been engaged in extensive sale of wheat and other farm products to the Communist bloc."

Douglas-Home stated the British position this way. His crowded country needs to trade to live. It doesn't discriminate against Communist countries in selling them peaceful goods but it won't sell them materials for war.

Valentine Slings And Arrows

NEW YORK (AP)—Two valentines came to me this year. Both were from strangers.

One counseled, "Stay as sweet as you are."

The other said, "Here's a little heart today, especially for you—'cause you're a purr-fect valentine, and I sure like you, too!"

My wife, Frances, delivered these tender missives as I was going through my morning exercises with my new heavy-weight barbell—the 12½-pounder.

"ONCE A LOVER always a lover," I covered to her, after putting on my bifocals.

"Rover, I hate to break your boyish heart, but these valentines aren't for you. They're addressed in care of you for our cat, Lady Dottie."

Passed over on St. Valentine's Day in favor of a cat!

Well, after all, it was my own fault. I should have known better than to get my hopes up. St. Valentine's Day has always been bad for me.

Cupid never pierces me with a loving arrow. He kicks me square in the solar plexus.

IN KINDERGARTEN, we drew lots to determine who should send a valentine to whom. Our teacher thought this would be a good lesson in democracy.

The little red-haired girl who drew my name turned blue at what destiny had done to her. She stayed home on Valentine's Day.

This set a kind of pattern of disaster that haunted me all through grammar school, high school and college. Love has many battlefields in life, but none is crueler to the growing spirit than that fought over in the years of puppy love.

In third grade I thought my luck had changed. A freckle-faced Cleopatra handed me a valentine, and my heart soared until I read its message.

"ROSES ARE red, violets are blue, why do you have two heads when one will do?"

In fifth grade another ruinous beauty wailed me in the cloakroom and pressed a valentine into my perspiring palm.

"Oh, thank you, thank you, Esmerelda," I whispered. "I'm not for you, thilly," she lisped. "I'm for Roger. Tell him I'm from me."

At 13, when I was riding a drug store delivery bike, I bought a $2 box of face powder as a valentine present for a favorite customer—a sweet-voiced married lady of about 30 years.

THAT EVENING she phoned the store to order a pint of ice cream for her and her husband, and when I delivered it she handed me an envelope. Under the nearest lamplight I tore it open eagerly and found inside—nothing but a dollar bill. Paid off by an older woman! The world has never seemed quite as dark since as it did that night.

But every cloud has at least a pewter lining. Later in life for 20 straight years I did get a valentine regularly from one person—my life insurance agent.

This year he didn't send me a valentine. The policy was paid up last year.

Around The Rim

The Smoke Has Died Down

To make a lousy pun, most of the smoke has died down by now.

Those who decided to quit have reached an important point by now. Either they have stayed with their resolution to quit and now breathe more deeply the aroma of each morning, or they have gone back to smoking just as much as they did before.

AT LEAST one thing has been accomplished. In some households and offices the once cloudy air surrounding the subject has been cleared. In others the cloud remains and diehards believe even more strongly than before that some evil influence is behind this attack on something they have cherished for many years.

By now benevolent tobacco companies have regained their status on Wall Street. They have too good public relations men to stay under a bad image for very long. Cigarettes may have been banned in many hospitals, but I for one will wager that before the year is out they will once again infiltrate the wards.

THE ATTACK on smoking has shown once more the alertness and versatility of the con men who get us to believe that we actually enjoy the tars and nicotine which filter through our lungs. It did not take them long to pounce on the casual statement of one of the men closely related to the study that he had switched to a cigarette which uses a charcoal filtration system. You hardly knew the brand existed before, but suddenly the television screen became alive with smiling men telling us how great a charcoal filter is. Why it says so on the back of the pack.

I DO NOT HAVE much faith in proposed crash propaganda campaigns to curb smoking. The adult addict is already trapped and as the habit is made evil it will hold more fascination for the youngster, as all forbidden items have. I can already visualize a profitable black market traffic in cigarettes to teen-agers. You can ban sin in Boston, but you can't keep the Bostonians from going outside their city limits to find sin whenever they want it badly enough.

A sensible education program of long duration is another matter entirely. However, I feel we will have to depend on a generation yet unborn to bring it to conclusion. A smoking parent does not make a good teacher in giving his son or daughter the message that smoking is undesirable. Some children will get the message, and take up smoking. Over many years the chances of success are better, however, for as the ranks of smoking parents and teachers are thinned, the chances of success increase in geometric proportion.

THERE ARE NUMEROUS ways which the campaign could be abetted. To name a couple—insurance companies could come up with a reasonable policy for non-smokers reflecting the increased life expectancy of non-smokers; church, school and other leaders—especially doctors—could themselves give up the habit. Above all, we need to keep this thing from becoming another witch hunt.

A Bungled Scientific Project

WASHINGTON—If the space agency is having trouble reaching the moon by the deadline of 1970 it is as nothing compared to the troubles besetting the scientific project to bore a hole into the center of the earth.

Project Mohole, sometimes called ironically Project Nohole, has been on the boards for nearly seven years, yet the results have been for the most part confusion and conflict. While the cost of boring through the earth's crust is only a small fraction of trying to reach the moon, it is nevertheless a highly complex and difficult undertaking.

A CRUDE ANALOGY is dangling a piece of macaroni from the top of the Empire State Building in New York and trying to put it through the hole in a Lifesaver on the sidewalk. The hole in the earth's crust must be drilled beneath an ocean depth of two to three miles, depending on the site chosen. Then through three miles of the earth's surface. This means a drill string about 35,000 feet long or almost twice as long as anything hitherto used in the deepest oil wells.

Recently the National Science Foundation, with over-all responsibility, announced a new start for Mohole. Dr. Leland Haworth, head of the foundation appointed Gordon G. Lill, noted geologist, as director of the project. Lill was chairman of the committee of members of the National Academy of Sciences that first conceived the project of boring through several layers of the earth's crust to the mysterious mantle known as the Mohorovicic Discontinuity after its Yugoslav discoverer.

THE LILL appointment will hopefully put an end to the fierce bickering among scientists, politicians and engineers marking Mohole. As an example of how to bungle a great scientific adventure Mohole could hardly be improved on.

At the same time Dr. Haworth approved the plans of the contractor for constructing a $47,000,000 mobile platform to carry out the ocean drilling.

THE HEART of the conflict has been over the contractor and how the contract was awarded. The most persistent critic has been Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), heretofore friendly to the aims of the National Science Foundation as a member of the Senate subcommittee allocating funds to the foundation.

The science foundation called for bids for Mohole. The four bidders rated highest in ability combined the know-how of big oil companies with scientific groups. No. 1 was Socomey Mobil, which has an installation in Colorado. No. 2 was an unexpected entry, the big construction firm of Brown and Root of Houston, Texas.

THE REAL SURPRISE was when Brown and Root got the contract. Part of the surprise was that while the foundation had in the first go-round stressed the no-fee aspect of the bidding, Brown and Root had been the only one of the top five to include a fee in its cost estimates. The fee was $1,800,000 and critics say that with other provisions it will go to $3,000,000.

In a lengthy speech on the Senate floor Sen. Allott asked why the contract went to Brown and Root. He also demanded to know why the Democrats on a straight party vote had twice refused to grant staff experts to the Republicans to match at least in part the Democratic experts. This, he said, could have avoided "what is going to be a catastrophe in the field of science."

THE CRITICS have thus far discreetly avoided a fact that is no secret in Texas. George Brown, head of the firm of Brown and Root, has been one of Lyndon Johnson's closest friends and allies. In each of his campaigns beginning in 1957 the relationship with the Brown and Root firm has been raised. One of the most highly rated construction firms in the nation, Brown and Root got the NASA contract for the Houston space center which will total perhaps $500,000,000.

THE LATEST move may put Mohole on the right course. Part of the urgency was a race with the Russians for inner space as well as outer space. The Soviet Union announced it is giving up its own Mohole. So perhaps there is time enough—and money enough—to carry the job to success.

A Crisis, And We Aren't Blamed

What more suitable recognition of St. Valentine's Day than to point out that in the latest international crisis both true love and Uncle Sam emerged unscathed?

Princess Irene is to marry the man she loves, after a royal washboard weeper that some composer is probably already setting to music for Broadway production next autumn. And all of us romantics who believe in true love and the fairy-tale ending rejoice.

HOWEVER, in the general jubilation that love has found a way, a stunning innovation in this crisis-prone world is in danger of being overlooked. The Dutch crisis is the first in recent times in which no one has placed the onus on Uncle Sam, felt impelled to march on and burn down the American embassy, tear up the Stars and Stripes or denounce us as imperialists, aggressors, warmongers or oppressors through lavish foreign aid.

CERTAINLY, it is the first international crisis in recent years in which Khrushchev has failed to denounce the United States as the true villain. This in itself is a staggering departure from form, as is the fact that no one has demanded that the United States be brought up before the OAS or the U.N. Security Council on charges of aiding and abetting, in this case, love's all sweet song.

ALL IN ALL, this is such an amazing reversal of the crisis situation that it caught the Administration and the State Department completely by surprise and off base. The State Department is fully equipped to deal with international crises that result in destruction of our embassies, debasement of our flag, burning of American-owned automobiles, endangering of American lives, student demonstrations, threatening mobs encouraged by local governments and the usual gamut of verbal insult.

For the regulation-type crisis, as in Ghana, Panama, Indonesia, Cyprus, Cuba, etc., the State Department simply reaches into the file and pulls out Plan One to Ten, depending on whether the embassy was burned or bombed, whether the flag was torn up or trampled or both, and how many local police stood idly by or assisted the mob in its destruction.

EACH PLAN carries a suitable protest which is lodged with the offending government, which then files and forgets it.

The Netherlands, by its extremely unorthodox behavior toward the United States during its crisis, may force the State Department to re-evaluate its whole crisis program.

"The Dutch, by their civilized behavior, has caused us no end of embarrassment," a young State Department attaché told me, "and may eventually force an agonizing reappraisal of our whole crisis policy. When this country can no longer depend upon even a friend and ally to fire our embassy in the midst of a crisis, our whole foreign policy falls apart. America simply can't rely on anyone, any more."

Is 'Whiplash Injury' A Lawyer's Term?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as a whiplash injury, or is this just a lawyer's gimmick?—S. A. W.

Yes, or we might better say that there are such things as whiplash injuries.

It is not a single, specific entity. Rather, it is a description of the way in which injuries to the neck can occur.

The sudden back- and-forth movement of the head in automobile (or other) accidents can damage bones, muscles, nerves, cartilage of the neck.

This is not to say that the same types of injuries didn't occur from other accidents long before the automobile was invented. They doubtless did.

So there is nothing new about "whiplash" injuries. Some doctors, and others, argue that the term might better be abolished.

A factual description of the injury is important, not the whipping motion of head and neck which causes it.

I am told that in some cases, it has been charged that lawyers, by skillful use of the word "whiplash"—and it is a vivid term—have won bigger awards for clients than they would have without such an emotional description. Perhaps so; perhaps not.

But rather than piling the onus on attorneys, I have a strong suspicion that more misunderstanding has arisen on the part of patients who wrongly believe that a "whiplash" is some new and special form of injury that can result in all sorts of mysterious consequences.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — This city had two farms. Now it has one.

The brothers Demattai — James and Antonio — finally gave up their five-acre plot in the 100 block of Williams Avenue in the Bayview District.

Antonio Barbiera still farms his three-acre plot alongside speeding traffic on Bayshore Freeway.

The Demattai plot became a big parking lot.

Long Island Cosa Nostra Ring Under Federal Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Five Cosa Nostra "families" are said to control the rackets in the New York area. The Justice Department is zeroing in on the one authorities say is headed by Thomas (Three-Fingers Brown) Luchese.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was here today as the frontal assault on the crime syndicate by a federal grand jury gained momentum. About two dozen of Luchese's underlings have appeared this week.

Syndicate links with a ring of call girl-housewives in Long Island suburbs were disclosed Thursday by Dist. Atty. William Cahn of Nassau County.

BOOKMAKING

He also announced the arrest on bookmaking charges of a partner of an accused procurer who died mysteriously in a flaming, parked automobile

Luchese, 63, is a short, dapper, garment industry executive who lives in a mansion on Long Island's South Shore. He has always maintained, he has no connections with the crime syndicate.

His son went to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and his daughter to Vassar College. She married the son of another Cosa Nostra "family" chieftain, Carlo Gambino.

ONCE IN PRISON

Luchese, who was born in Sicily, home of the Mafia, went to prison once, in 1921, for 25 months on a bootlegging charge. He lost his right forefinger in a machine shop accident in his youth.

Joseph Valachi, the turncoat mobster, told Senate investigators in Washington last October that Luchese, Gambino, Joseph Magliocco, Joseph Bonanno and Vito Genovese were the heads of the Cosa Nostra "families," or gangs, in the New York area.

UNDERWORLD

In Mineola, Long Island, Cahn said a secret witness "has given us information which for the first time solidly links this ring (of call girls) with the organized underworld in metropolitan New York."

"This whole operation now takes on a far bigger aspect," he said.

Arrested on bookmaking charges was Joseph Napolitano, a partner of Edmund Nugent, 49, whom Cahn had called a prospective defendant who signed a statement about his part as a steerer. The two were co-owners of the Jericho Lounge.

WAS ALIVE

Cahn said autopsy reports indicate Nugent was alive seconds before flames engulfed his parked car. He said there was no evidence of knockout drops. But Nugent had enough alcohol in his body to make him unfit to drive, police said.

One woman has been arrested as the madam of the alleged prostitution ring. Fourteen others, described as typical suburban housewives, are held as material witnesses.

Cahn said the $200,000-a-year ring operated through motels, restaurants and taverns.

Some License

Peggy Smith, 18, of Phoenix is greeted by two license plates which turned up in a shipment to the Arizona License Bureau in Phoenix. Miss Smith is a clerk at the bureau. The unusual plates were manufactured at the Arizona State Prison in Florence. The bureau says it will not issue them. Arizona plates normally contain a combination of letters and numerals. Dr. Bringas Joins Hospital

Dr. I. B. Bringas this week became the second Philippine native to join the staff of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital.

Born on Luzon Island, he became exposed to American culture early through Methodist missionaries and his family was among the first converts to Methodism on the island. The American culture rubbed off, Dr. Bringas said, and he became interested in studying in America.

His wish was fulfilled and in 1927 he graduated from the Nebraska Medical School, returning later to his native Philippines to practice medicine and to serve as a surgeon with the Army during the invasion of the Philippines by the Japanese during World War II. When the war was over, he returned again to the United States.

Dr. Bringas comes here from El Paso, where he has been the past eight months. Prior to that he was with the U.S. Steel Corp. and in private practice for nine years. Now 63, this is his first work with the VA.

Mrs. Bringas was to join him here this week. Dr. Bringas is assigned to medical service.

Webb Food Service Wins Service Award

The food service section at Webb Air Force Base has been named among the top three sections in Air Training Command Hennessey competition. The base was notified that it placed third by Maj. Gen. Henry K. Mooney, ATC vice commander.

The Hennessey Award recognizes overall efficiency in the preparation and serving of food. It will be presented in May during the annual convention of the National Restaurant Association.

Wants Course In Morals For State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington: CRITIC: Rep. Michael S. Feighan feels Congress may have to give a course in basic morality to the State Department which said it could find no legal reason for barring actor Richard Burton from the United States.

The Ohio Democrat had asked the department to review Burton's visa on ground of immoral conduct, contending the Welshman's highly publicized romance with Elizabeth Taylor "is a public outrage and highly detrimental to the morale of the youth of our nation."

AGE DISCRIMINATION: Declaring that "older workers are in indispensable source which our nation can ill afford to lose," President Johnson issued an executive order Thursday against discrimination in employment because of age.

He not only ordered there be no such discrimination in U.S. government service and on federal projects, but said the government can hasten the acceptance of this principle in all sectors of the economy, public and private.

Exceptions to the order, Johnson said, should be tied to a bonafide job qualification, retirement plan or legal requirement.

MERCY FLIGHTS: An emergency airlift of 218 tons of saline solution has helped to save hundreds of persons stricken with cholera in South Viet Nam, the Agency for International Development said today.

The epidemic in Viet Nam was discovered Jan. 12. Since then more than 4,000 cases have been reported, with about 10 per cent fatalities.

Crushing Pearls

Some people are unable to understand certain spiritual truths. This is because they do not, with their present information and attitude, have the capacity for such understanding. This principle is stated in the sermon on the mount when Jesus said, "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your pearls before swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you" (Matthew 7:6).

Christ thus explains the inability of dogs to appreciate, spiritually, meat which had been sanctified for purposes of Jewish worship, nor would swine be able to discern the value of pearls. In both cases the animal lacks the capacity for understanding.

The trampling under feet of holy truth or "crushing pearls" therefore results from one's incapacity to understand certain teachings. This problem is encountered a number of times in the New Testament.

On the night before his death, Jesus told his apostles, "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now" (John 16:12). Our Lord could have taught the apostles further along many lines, but he recognized at that point their limited capacity for spiritual understanding. They were not ready for some things.

Proof that the apostles could not grasp one of the great teachings of Christ is evidenced shortly before his ascension when they asked him: "Lord, dost thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" (Acts 1:6) So ingrained in their minds was the idea of a kingdom being visible and material - due to their historical Jewish background - that they could not comprehend the truth of Christ's church or kingdom being spiritual in nature. Yet, on the same last night Jesus had emphasized this truth: "My kingdom is not of this world" (John 18:36).

Paul spoke of the inability of the Corinthians to receive some teachings: "And I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, as unto babes in Christ" (1 Corinthians 3:1).

The Hebrew Christians were rebuked for their lack of spiritual growth (Hebrews 5:12-6:1). They should have advanced spiritually on the basis of the primary principles they had been taught, but the writer declares that they did not really, in fact, understand the primary principles and had need of re-teaching to obtain a genuine understanding.

"Crushing pearls" exists in our own age when individuals make light of certain spiritual truths due to their inability to fully understand and appreciate certain teachings. Failure to understand might be attributed to lack of intellectual ability, deeply ingrained traditions, or just deficient teaching.

In four succeeding messages on this theme of "Crushing Pearls," we will deal with specific spiritual teachings of Christ which are frequently misunderstood and therefore misrepresented - Christ's Teaching on Baptism, Christ's Teaching on Church Membership, Christ's Teaching on the Lord's Supper, and Christ's Teaching on Obedience.

Oil Industry Group Asks More Support

Friends of an industry which produces 1.3 billion dollars a year of income in the Permian Basin and generates over 44.3 million dollars in local taxes talked Friday about getting more support for it.

Information about the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, a basin-wide organization composed of all interests direct or indirect, was presented at a breakfast presided over by D. G. (Buddy) Whitten, who heads up the PBPA enlistment in Howard County.

Several men have volunteered to work in an enrollment effort which will start almost immediately, he said.

Here for the breakfast were Bob Liebrock, Midland, PBPA president, and George Abell, Midland, basin membership chairman.

In the Permian Basin, 65,000 persons are employed directly in drilling, producing and in other jobs directly connected with petroleum. In addition, thousands of others are in service, supply and manufacturing positions relying on the oil industry.

Big Spring Coin Show Dates Set

Third Annual Big Spring Coin Club Show will be Oct. 11 and 12, it was voted Thursday night at the regular meeting of the club in the Crawford Hotel Building.

M. L. Kirby is to head up the bourse at the show and anyone desiring tables in this department can contact him. There are coin displays from the famous Chase Manhattan Museum will be shown during the show. The displays are silver coins of significant interest; colonial coins and currency - principal types of U. S. coins.

National Coin Week is April 18-28. Last year, the local club won third place in national competition in observance of coin week. This year the club will make a try to take first place. Committee members to help with the show are Victor Barlow, general chairman; Phil Hines, Webb AFB representative; Sam Blackburn, publicity; Orin Dally, display solicitor and Joe Menner, advisor.

Thirty-eight lots were sold at the club auction. There were eight new members added to the club. They are James Abbe, Jack Gully, Barney Gully, Maurice Gunn, Maurice Gunn Jr., Judy Conley, Dick Conley, and Gary Scott.

Eighty attended the meeting.

Weaving A Magic Spell

'Red Stocking Week' Proclaimed By Mayor

There have been red letter days, and now it's Red Stocking Week.

Mayor George Zachariah has proclaimed next week, Feb. 17-

22, as Red Stocking Week in Big Spring, underlining the gala production to be presented Feb. 21-22 by the Officers Wives Club. All net proceeds go to the club's welfare and charity fund.

"Not only is the objective of this event worthy," said the mayor in calling on the citizens of Big Spring to support the revue, "but 'The Red Stocking Revue' promises to be a gay and colorful entertainment. Those who support the revue will be treating themselves to a delightful evening, and at the same time they will be lending a helping hand."

"This is a splendid way in which Big Spring can express its spirit of neighborliness to the Webb AFB families, and particularly to the Officers Wives Club in its unselfish efforts to provide funds that will be largely expended in helping worthy causes and needy individuals here."

"Therefore, I urge all of Big Spring to regard Feb. 17-22 as Red Stocking Week and assist in any way possible to make the revue a real success."

Boosters Sign Almost 200

Nearly 200 new members were added to the Choir Boosters organization Thursday night during an intensive campaign conducted by salesmen from local secondary schools.

The group raised $1 for each membership sold. Funds will go to cover expenses of activities of choir members, including a trip by the high school a capella choir to the campus of UCLA this summer. Choir and band members have been invited to participate in a concert there.

"We did not complete the drive Thursday and choir members will be selling memberships through Wednesday of next week," Mel Ivey, who heads the campaign, said. "Don't be disappointed if you have not been contacted yet. Some one will show up at your door before the drive is finished."

The choir boosters organization now has some 230 members. Although all are not expected to be active in fostering choir work in Big Spring, everyone is urged to play a participating role.

Taking part in the drive Thursday were students from the high school and the two junior high schools.

Two Candidates Have Not Paid Assessments

All but two of the field of 32 political candidates listed with Frank Hardesty, county democratic chairman, had paid their primary expense assessments through Friday. Deadlines for candidates to make payments to the chairman ends Saturday.

Any candidate who does not make his payment by midnight Saturday will forfeit his place on the primary ballot.

Hardesty said that after Saturday, he would declare the lists closed and on Monday at 8 p.m. he and members of the executive committee will meet in the County Courtroom to draw names to determine positions on the ballot.

Candidates are welcome to attend the drawing.

The order in which the candidates names are drawn will be the way they will be on the ballot.

Candidate Here To Stoke Up Fires

Millard Shivers stoked up the state political fires here Friday, bringing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination of Texas commissioner of agriculture. From here he was to go to Colorado City and Abilene.

Shivers, a former director of organization for the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, made it plain his candidacy had no connection with his former organization.

"I do not seek nor do I expect the organization to endorse mine or anyone's candidacy," he said. "The agriculture commissioner's office has not been used to its fullest potential. Texas now has a hide and seek commissioner. He comes out of hiding every two years to seek votes, then returns to seclusion."

"Few people realize it, but every time they buy a gallon of gas or a pound of meat, they do business in an area under the jurisdiction of the agriculture commissioner through the division of weights and measures."

"The commissioner also has the responsibility of insuring health-safe food as well as enforcing regulations in regard to agriculture production. But the commissioner should do a great deal more than to act as a regulatory official. He can have a great effect on promotion of Texas-produced farm and ranch products."

"He should be a leader in explaining to the state the role of the farmer and rancher in the general economy. Forty per-

Joe Black Dies Thursday

Joe H. Black, 36, former Big Spring resident, died Thursday evening at Midland where he had made his home for the past 15 years.

Services have been set for 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Luke's Methodist Church, and burial will be in Midland's Resthaven Cemetery under direction of Newline Ellis Funeral Home.

Mr. Black was bowling with friends and was in the best of spirits when he was suddenly stricken. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Midland Memorial Hospital at 10:20 p.m. He previously had suffered from a heart involvement.

Born in Merkel Dec. 31, 1913, he came with his parents to Big Spring in the early 1920's and completed his schooling here. He went to work for Texas Electric Service and in the 1930's he moved to Odessa with the company. Later he was with Shepherd Roofing Company and the Fitzgerald Weather Mart.

For the past five years he has been building manager for the First National Bank in Midland and he made his home at 1603 Midkiff.

He was a member of the Methodist Church, the Lions Club, was vice president of the Texas Association of Building and Roofing Managers Association, former president of the Midland Building Managers and Owners Association, a director in this organization's Southwest group. The family suggested memorials to the Heart Fund.

Surviving are his widow; one son, Joe H. Black Jr., a student in TCU; a daughter, Helen Black, Midland; his mother, Mrs. Jim Black Sr., Big Spring; a brother, Jim Black, Midland; a sister, Mrs. Fred Guitler, Roswell, N. M.

Little Theatre Opens 1st Children's Play Tonight

Imported talent will share the spotlight in lead roles at the first presentation of "The Emperor's New Clothes" by the Big Spring Civic Theatre tonight at Municipal Auditorium. The first performance will be at 8 p.m. A matinee is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday, with another evening engagement at 8 p.m.

Making his debut in Little Theatre work in Big Spring is a figure familiar from his work on stage last semester at Hewitt County Junior College. Bill Anderson, a freshman, was the devil's disciple in the play of that name. He continues the villainous portrayal in "The Emperor's New Clothes" in the role of Han, who is known to dip into the royal treasury dishonestly.

Anderson comes to the local stage with a sound background of dramatic work. He previously worked with little theatre in Lovington, N.M. and he spent a year at the Pasadena Playhouse, a California dramatics school. Last year he was at Dallas Theatre Center.

Carrying the lead feminine role will be Mrs. Jerry Kasher. The team of Mr. and Mrs. Kasher are cast as Emperor and Empress in "The Emperor's New Clothes." Although Mrs. Kasher has frequently taken a hand working behind the scenes, she will tonight make her first appearance before the spotlight.

Getting a cast together for the show was only one of the headaches for Mrs. Charles Carothers, director of the show. Finding the appropriate props—such as a realistic gong—was another.

"I spent all of one day out at the city dump banging on any and everything, but we found one," she said. It turned out to be the discarded metal lid from a 55-gallon drum of Cosob petroleum products.

Design for the set of "The Emperor's New Clothes" is by Mrs. Carothers. Kenneth Burt is in charge of set construction, assisted by Sharon Talley, Jo Ellen Fiveash, Gordon Loggren, Marshall Cockrell, Elaine Thomas and Charles Carothers. Sandra Merrell and Joe Wennik are the props crew and art work is by Nancy Lewis.

Others giving a hand tonight with backstage and preliminary preparations are Shirley Burt and Joan Arnold, costumes; Gordon Loggren, sound; James Wood, lights; and Mrs. Ronald Carr, program cover design. Charles Carothers is the producer.

Coahoma Amateur Show Saturday

COAHOMA — Amateurs, from pre-school through adult ages, are set for the Band Boosters Club talent show Saturday in the high school auditorium. Four divisions, including pre-school through the fifth grade, grades 6-8, high school, and adults, will perform.

Mrs. H. J. Robertson, chairman of the club, said funds raised would be used to purchase new instruments and uniforms, and other equipment, for the band.

The show begins at 7:30 p.m. and tickets will be available at the door.

The show is expected to feature musical numbers, stunts, dances, and just about anything striking the amateur's fancy, and the club predicts a lot of fun for the audience.

Questions Advisability Of Junior High Dating

To the Editor:

It has come to my attention that there is to be a dance at Goliad Junior High School on Friday night, Feb. 14, for children of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. This has posed a few questions:

First, I have learned that the admission fees to be charged are 50 cents for "stags" (single children — boys and girls alike) and 50 cents per couple. This leads to a question: Are we forcing our children to date at an age I'm sure most responsible parents would agree is too early? At least, the scale of the admission fees would seem to indicate such.

Second, since the dance is to be held at the Goliad Junior High School, it seemingly is school-sanctioned, if not at least school-condoned. Hence, I wonder if our public schools are encouraging this early dating?

Most eminent psychologists currently agree that early socialization (not dating) should be encouraged. Therefore, would this socialization not be better enhanced by an informal after-school dance and Valentine party, when all students would have an opportunity to attend, than by the more formal eveningtime atmosphere?

It remains for each of us, as parents, to decide what we feel is best for our children, with the social, spiritual, mental and psychological welfare of our children and their future uppermost in our minds.

Sincerely,
GRACE TODD

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Keep Socks Together During Laundering

Dear Heloise: After reading about your nylon net bags you made for washing stockings, I thought you might be interested in how I use mine.

Dear Heloise: I have a problem. I used to pour cooking oil directly from the bottle, wipe the bottle and replace it on my shelf. Invariably some of the oil leaked onto the shelf and formed sort of a film. I have yet to find anything that will remove it.

Dear P.B.K.: I have never seen a bottle of oil yet that didn't eventually get that film on the outside. I prevent this by tearing off a piece of foil, setting my bottle in the middle of it and pressing the foil up around the sides of the bottle and gently squeezing with my hands. This forms a little foil cup on the outside. It prevents the shelf from getting soiled.

Bovines End Home Season With Flock

Big Spring winds up its 1963-64 home basketball season in an 8 o'clock basketball game with arch rival Abilene High tonight. The Steers stand a good chance of winding up in the league cellar, unless they can defeat the Eagles tonight or take the San Angelo Bobcats in their final bout Tuesday. The outlook appears bleak for the Longhorns, any way you care to look at it. Midland High and Odessa Permian share the league lead with 9-3 records. Permian goes to Midland to play Le tonight while Midland must challenge Odessa High in Odessa.

Two-Point Attempt

Keith Bond (54) of the Howard County Jayhawks goes up for a two-point try in the recent game with the Frank Phillips Plainsmen. The Jayhawks won the contest easily, 162-79. The Hawks travel to Clarendon Saturday night for a game with the Bulldogs. Game time is 8 o'clock. (Photo by Jimmy Townes)

Aspermont Tries To Clinch Title

COAHOMA—Coahoma's hopes in the District 6-A basketball race ride with Roscoe tonight. The Bulldogs have finished their season with a 9-3 conference record. Pace-setting Aspermont is 9-2 and must go to Roscoe tonight to do battle with the Ploewboys. A loss to Roscoe would plunge Aspermont into a three-way tie for the top spot with Coahoma and Merkel, necessitating a playoff.

Christy, Matthews Quit Cee City Coaching Jobs

COLORADO CITY—The Colorado City Wolves will have two new men at the helm in football and basketball next season. The Colorado City school board accepted the resignations Thursday of athletic director and head football coach, Sam Christy, and head basketball mentor, Caddo Matthews.

SAM CHRISTY

The resignations will be effective May 30. Neither man has announced plans for the future, and each position will be filled as soon as possible. Both mentors came to Colorado City five years ago as assistants to Otis Holladay, who took over the Wolves after winning the Class A state championship at White Deer. Holladay remained only one year, before Christy took over. Christy's most successful season came when he tied with Lamasa and Snyder for the district championship. Snyder won the coin flip and went on to represent the district in bi-district action. The 1963 Wolves had a 3-6-1 record and 1-3-1 mark in District 3-AAA. The Colorado City basketball team is currently 0-9 in district play before going into its final district contest Friday night. Colorado City returns to Class AA next season, after having been in District 3-AAA for several seasons.

Trippet Near Loop Record

Odessa High's Terry Trippet appears to be a leadpipe cinder to break the District 2-AAAA basketball scoring record tonight, when he goes against Midland High at home. The mark is now held by Dubby Malaise, who scored 364 points in 14 games for Odessa High two years ago. Malaise is now a sophomore sensation for Texas Tech. Trippet has scored 362 points in a dozen games, and is apt to shatter Malaise's mark before the minute hand of the clock makes a couple of revolutions tonight.

Langham Will Compete In Dallas Indoor Meet

HCJC's sensational Steve Langham will get a chance to run before his home folks Saturday night. The freshman, whose best event is the quarter mile, goes to Dallas with his coach, L. L. (Red) Lewis, to take part in an open 600-yard event in the Dallas Indoor Track Meet. Langham, who won that event in the Fort Worth Indoor Meet last week, will be running on a dirt track this time. Last week, he competed successfully on the boards. At that time, Steve's time was a rather torrid 1:14.4. He prefers to compete on a dirt track. In winning at Fort Worth, he beat an old rival, Marshall Edwards, an SMU student who was running unattached. After trailing most of the way, Langham showed a sensational kick to win going away. The Dallas meet takes place in the State Fair Coliseum out near the Cotton Bowl. Langham will be HCJC's only entry in the meet and Lewis considers himself lucky to have received an invitation — not

Yacht Club Is Forming

The Lake Thomas Yacht Club, for sailboaters in the Permian Basin, will be inducting charter members until Feb. 19. Charter memberships in the club will be $50 until that date, at which time the membership will be raised to $100. Runnels Triumphs In Goliad Match

The Runnels Yearlings got revenge on the volleyball court Thursday as they drubbed the Goliad Mavericks in two straight matches, 15-7 and 15-10. Pat Hill was Runnels' top scorer with 11 points while Miller led Goliad with seven. Having split their matches, both clubs will return to face each other Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. on the high school volleyball court. The winner of the playoff match will represent Big Spring in the high school tournament.

Stanton Tangles With McCamey

STANTON—The Stanton Bulldogs, one of the top cage quintets in the state AA bracket with a potent 21-5 record, take to the road tonight for a do-or-die meeting with the McCamey Badgers at 8 o'clock. And this game could be for all the marbles—at least, as far as District 7-AA is concerned. The Bisons are tied with the Crane Golden Cranes for first place in the loop, each club having a 6-1 mark. If the Bulldogs win tonight's outing, they will put the pressure on the Cranes who will have to come out the victors in next Tuesday's bout with the Sonora Broncos. Both the Bulldogs and Cranes are favored in their respective contests, but the Bisons should have the east-

FORT WORTH (AP)—Walters Manny Perez of Amarillo and Jesse Valdez of Houston clash Friday night in the feature bout of the 28th Texas Golden Gloves Tournament. Perez won the 1962 championship, but failed to gain the state tournament a year ago. Valdez, the lightweight runner-up last year, trimmed 1963 welter champion Charles Cordova to win the Houston regional this year. The session tops a 24-bout card as the charity tourney moves into its second night in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum. Three 1963 champs will see action as they resume their bids to win a trip to the National Golden Gloves Tournament beginning Feb. 24 in Louisville. Sammy Alvarez of Odessa, the flyweight kingpin who drew a bye in the opener, challenges Jesse Avalos of Corpus Christi. Alvarez is fighting as a featherweight this year. The defending feather champ, Fort Worth's Floyd Molina, goes against Larry Carpenter of Beaumont. Molina won his opener with a technical knockout over Jimmy Kee of Tyler. Another Fort Worth product, light-heavy Wayne Morris, takes on Gary McCamey of Beaumont in his second appearance. He knocked out George Karty Jr. of Wichita Falls in the second round. Mike Brown, a Dallas Negro, became the first member of his race to participate in a state gloves tournament. He lost a close decision to Henry Rodriguez of San Antonio. Four heavyweight bouts are set with the feature matching Lynn Farr, a 230-pounder from Tyler, against Phil Paris, 206, of Odessa. Farr was runner-up last year and Paris was a semifinalist in 1962.

Liston, Cassius Trade Verbal Jabs Over TV

NEW YORK (AP)—"If you usually interested in foot kissing, was challenging Sonny Liston Thursday at a unique news conference. Theater Network Television, which will handle the Feb. 25 heavyweight title match, arranged for special closed circuit television from the fighters' camps in Miami Beach to their lab on Long Island. "About kissing my feet, Cassius," said the heavyweight champion. "If you last through the third round into the fourth, I'll kiss your feet."

PAT WASHBURN'S The Roundtable

When it comes down to all the marbles before a sympathetic home crowd, Permian's Panthers have definitely established themselves as the hardest quintet to defeat. Permian has yet to lose a loop contest at home this season...

Texas University line coach JIM PITTMAN joking about this year's Cotton Bowl game: "Just before we (Texas) played Navy in the Cotton Bowl, Middle coach WAYNE HARDIN told the national television audience that 'when a challenger meets a champion, and wins, then he should be declared the champion.'"

"A few days later, a telegram arrived at the Academy: 'To quote your coach, when a challenger meets a champion, and wins, then he should be declared the champion. Please send me the Heisman Trophy Signed, DUKE CARLISLE, Texas.'"

Fred Sanner, sportswriter for the Abilene Reporter-News: "If a team has a great boy like Odessa's TERRY TRIPPET, it can get by with one or two boys carrying the load. But no other team in the district has that outstanding a boy."

Ever wonder about the earnings of some of the super stars? Here's a run down: Except for SONNY LISTON, the heavyweight champion, and FLOYD PATTERSON, the man he dethroned, the biggest wage earner in sports last year was jockey WILLIE SHOEMAKER. The 100-pounder earned at least $252,892, based on 10 per cent of the purses won by his horses.

ARNOLD PALMER, leading money winner among the golfers, won $128,230 in PGA-sanctioned tournaments—and his total income for 1963 is estimated at a fantastic $750,000. He cleaned up on endorsements, exhibitions, records and movies; owns manufacturing concerns; and is head of a chain of putting courses.

Liston and Patterson split nearly a $1 million jackpot from their championship bout last July which lasted less than a round. Each drew $492,716 of which 85 per cent came from theater, television and other rights.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN of the San Francisco Warriors, the highest salaried basketball player, is earning approximately $73,000 a year. JIMMY BROWN, Cleveland's block-busting fullback, is football's top-salaried player at $50,000. He has been quoted as demanding $75,000 to play with the Browns next season.

Top money-maker among the hockey elite is GORDE HOWE, the Detroit Red Wings' great forward. The long-time veteran earned $110,000 in salary last year, and in addition, he picked up $10,000 in bonus and prize money.

WILLE MAYS and MICKEY MANTLE were baseball's only $100,000 salary earners last year. Tennis players haven't hit the real big-time yet, but they're not starting. The only racket men to clear more than $30,000 last year were pro champion KEN ROSEWALL, and newcomer ROD LAVER.

Bowlers make a fortune. Experts like DICK WEBER, DON CARTER, HARRY SMITH, DICK HOOVER, and RAY BLUTH made better than a $100,000 last year. This includes television prize money and exhibition fees as well as earnings from tournaments...

The Big Spring High School golf team journeys to San Angelo Saturday with high hopes as they compete in the first District 3-AAA round-robin match of the 1964 season. Youth Day Set At Westside Baptist Church Sunday will be Youth Day at West Side Baptist Church. An extension group from Hard-Simmons University will be in charge of the worship services of the church, and youth of the church will supply teachers in the various departments for Sunday morning. Arrangements are being handled by James Kinman, recently called as the educational and music director of the church.

lecture on "The Place of Physical Education in Kindergarten and Nursery Schools." There will be a demonstration in connection with this, the lead-off of the one-day program at Grace Lutheran Church.

Among others from here planning to participate are Mrs. J. L. Turner, Berea Baptist; Mrs. Omar Williams, Big Spring Christian Day School; Ara Phillips and Mrs. R. S. McKinnon, Jack and Jill.

Displays will be on hand from nurseries and kindergartens in the Permian Basin area, plus books for children, equipment and toys for learning.

Baptists Hold Services Sunday In New Sanctuary

The congregation of the Birdwell Lane Baptist Church at Sixteenth Street and Birdwell Lane will occupy its new $80,000 church edifice for the first time Sunday.

The Rev. Cal Sims, pastor, said the first service in the new church will be at 10 a.m. Sunday. He will speak on "The Church at Her Best."

The new church, which replaces the smaller building the congregation has used for some time, has a sanctuary with a capacity of 300. It also has a fellowship hall with kitchen, Sunday school rooms, a nursery and an office.

The attractive new plant is of brick and Rev. Sims said the congregation cordially invited the public to be at the initial services on Sunday.

The building was designed by J. Martin, an architect of Stephenville. L. B. Lane was the contractor.

Rev. Sims said the church has a membership of 100. He has been its pastor since July 1, 1963.

Clarence Daves is Sunday school superintendent and Charles Grizzard is the choir director.

Workers were busy putting the final touches to the building this week. Weather permitting, it will be ready for complete use on Sunday.

SINNERS ARE POSSESSED

The Bible story recounted by Luke of Christ and the Gadarene demoniac has much to say to the Christian, especially those who feel that they can live with sin provided the price in reputation or troubled conscience is not too high.

The wretched, insane man represents sin, for sin is a twisting of men's minds and souls in such a way that they hate good and love evil. The man was insane, and we too are off the straight and solid pathway of reason if we believe that sin can give us satisfaction and that God's demand that we live righteously curtails our pleasures and deprives us of satisfaction in life.

Methodists Slate Worship Emphasis

Big Spring's Methodist Churches will join hands during the next month as they will stress worship during the Lenten Season. This activity will be one of the main special programs for the season.

The program will begin Monday with special meetings in homes of leading members of the churches. Each leader will decide the time and place for his meeting. Representatives from each congregation will be at each meeting, according to the Rev. Henry Salley, pastor of the Kentwood Methodist Church.

"We will cross church lines in these sessions," Rev. Salley said. "Even non-members are welcome to attend."

Discussions will cover the meaning of the Church and God to each of these church leaders.

Special emphasis will be placed on worship at the Kentwood Methodist Church March 8-15. The other three local Methodist Churches—First Methodist, Wesley Methodist and Park Methodist—will have their programs March 15-22.

For the week of March 16-20 a morning service each day will feature a different worship speaker from one of the churches at the 10 a.m. service.

Hold Conference

WESTBROOK (SC) — The Mitchell - Scurry Baptist Association conducted a Worker's Conference Tuesday at a Worker's Conference Tuesday at the Avenue D Baptist Church in Snyder. Guest speaker was the Rev. Bill Cook, pastor of the Leveland Baptist Church.

The Gatlin Quartet, Odessa, appeared on both radio and television Sunday will present a musical concert at the First Assembly of God Church, West Fourth and Lancaster, according to the Rev. Homer Rich, pastor.

One of the youngest nationally-famous quartets, the Gatlins have sung with such famous groups as the Blackwood Brothers, Statesmen and the Stamps Quartet.

The Gatlin group consists of Donnie, 8; Rudy, 10; Stevy, 12; and Larry, 15. They are accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Gatlin. Although they are young in years, the quartet has sung for audiences of several thousand, has produced two long-play albums and has ap-

ORBIT PATH: THE CROSS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The entire message of America's astronauts has not yet been deciphered. Parts of it still lie locked within instruments, and most of it still is hidden in the infinity of space. But we are learning, and we might say that the astronauts are our teachers.

Many, many years ago there was another great Teacher, and His message is still being revealed through faith to the mind of mankind. His message is the path of the Cross... the path to eternal life.

But where do we find our instructions, our briefing? What instruments can we use to discover this message for ourselves? You will find it in your church, this Sunday.

We all know now about Cape Canaveral, about tracking stations. We are discovering more about outer space.

We know too about the Church. Let us use it then as our guide, our booster, our thrust to Heaven.

Couple Injured Today In Crash At 4th, Birdwell

Two persons were injured in a traffic accident at Fourth and Birdwell Lane about 8 a.m. today. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Smith, Route 1, were taken to Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, River-Welch ambulance following the accident. She was treated for abrasions and cuts about the head, and he received X-rays to determine the extent of his injuries, hospital authorities said.

Big Spring Youths Win Cadet Honors At NMMI

ROSWELL, N.M.—Two cadets from Big Spring, Tex., are among those listed on achievement rosters for the fall semester of the 1963-64 term at New Mexico Military Institute. Cadet Private Raymond L. Tollett Jr. was cited, because he did not have a mark or report made against him for disciplinary behavior throughout the semester. He is a fifth classman (high school sophomore) and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Tollett, 606 Hillside Drive, Big Spring.

Club Observes Valentine Day

Valentine's Day came one day early insofar as the Big Spring Kiwanis Club was concerned. The club had a ladies day luncheon Thursday and most of the members were accompanied by their wives. Program for the day featured Rev. Horace Whiteside, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church at Luther, who spoke humorously on the general subject of women and marriage. Bob Travis presided in the absence of V. Ward Jackson, president.

METHODISTS TO DECIDE ON SCHOOL

A decision on whether or not the First Methodist Church will operate a day school in Big Spring will be made Monday night following a meeting of the church's board. Rev. Marvin James, associate pastor, said a Day School Committee is conducting a survey to determine the need for a day school. Results of the survey was given to the commission on education at a meeting Wednesday night. The commission on education will make a recommendation to the board Monday. Action on the recommendation will be taken by the board then, Rev. James said.

New Minister Joins First Christian Church

The Ronald W. Hansen has accepted a call from the First Christian Church and begins his work as associate minister Sunday. His major job description, said the Rev. John Black, pastor, will be as Christian education and youth director, but he also will be in charge of evangelism. He and his wife, Roberta, and their baby daughter, will make their home at 1317 Sycamore. They have been in Chula Vista, Calif., where Rev. Hansen had gone for his ordination service. Rev. Hansen was born in Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 27, 1939. His father was in the Navy, and he spent most of his early years on the East Coast. He moved with his father to San Diego, Calif. when he was in high school. It was here that he became interested in the Christian ministry. Rev. Hansen did his undergraduate college work at Northwest Christian College, Eugene, Ore., and the University of Oregon. It was while in Oregon that he met and married his wife, the former Roberta Lea Shreve. Ten days after the graduation and wedding they left for Fort Worth, where he enrolled in Brite Divinity School at TCU. He graduated Jan. 15, 1964. While attending TCU he served some small churches as student pastor.

Regional Lawyer Convention Set

ABILENE (AP)—A regional meeting of the State Bar of Texas—the Central West Texas Bar Convention—has been scheduled for Abilene, March 6-7.

Buster Cole of Bonham, state bar president, said about 300 lawyers, judges and their wives from 57 West Texas counties are expected.

SA Banquet Set Saturday

Plans are complete for the annual Salvation Army board banquet meeting set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the HCJC student union building. The Rev. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will be speaker.

New officers and board members will be introduced by Capt. William Thomas, commander of the Dora Roberts Citadel.

Reports of the year's activities of the local unit, and the financial condition, will be given by Chester Cathy and Mrs. William Thomas.

Tickets for the banquet, to which the public is invited, are available from board members, the Salvation Army office, and will also be available at the door, at $2.50 each. Joe Pickle will be master of ceremonies; Harold Canning, 1963 board chairman, will recognize the board; Bill Anderson, baritone, will provide music, with Mrs. Reba Fields as accompanist; the Rev. James Puckett will give the invocation; and the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, the benediction.

Chairman Says Rice Missed On $10 Million

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the board of trustees of Rice University says the school missed out on a chance to get $10 million from Ford Foundation because it does not charge tuition.

George R. Brown testified Thursday in the fourth day of the trial in which the trustees ask court authority to open Rice to Negro students and to charge tuition.

Brown told a jury in Dist. Judge William M. Holland's court that costs of operating the university are increasing much faster than income from its endowment fund.

"In soliciting grants from foundations we are told that if we are too rich to charge tuition, we're too rich to give money to," Brown said.

RESTRICTIONS
The trustees seek in their lawsuit to change provisions in the 1891 indenture of William Marsh Rice, founder of the university, which restricted enrollment to white students and provided that no tuition should be charged.

The petition is being opposed by a group of former Rice students.

Dr. Logan Wilson, president of the American Council on Education, told the court Rice must discard its restrictions to become a great university.

Wilson, of Washington, D. C., and a former president of the University of Texas, said federal agencies and some major foundations such as Ford will not grant money for research projects if segregation is practiced.

CASTE SYSTEM
"We really had a caste system here in the South when Mr. Rice was living," Wilson said. "Now the South is part of the United States."

"If you are going to make a fetish out of this race issue and run institutions that belong to the 19th rather than the 20th century, that is your privilege."

Brown said when trustees tried to raise $33 million in additional foundation funds, the Ford Foundation was asked to give matching funds on a 50-50 basis.

"They said they might go up to $10 million on a 2-to-1 basis except that we had not helped ourselves (by charging tuition)," he testified.

When he was asked what effect he thought Rice's contribution of admission restrictions against Negroes would have on the university's chance of becoming a first class educational institution, Brown replied:

"Well, obviously no first class University in the world has such a restriction."

Austin Pickets Eye City Hall

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of Negro and white college students threatened today to picket city hall following a demonstration Thursday before a downtown cafeteria.

A spokesman said their immediate goal is more city jobs for Negroes.

About 50 persons, white and Negro, picketed the Picadilly Cafeteria on Congress Ave., a few blocks from the Capitol. The assistant manager of the cafeteria, Benny Thurman, refused to admit colored members of the group. Students from the University of Texas and Houston-Tillotson College took part.

The demonstration began as Negro girls asked to be admitted. As each was refused, she moved to the end of the line. Later, demonstrators, carrying placards with anti-segregation slogans, paraded in front of the cafeteria.

Thurman said the Picadilly Cafeteria chain, operated in several southern states, does not serve Negroes. He said the policy was laid down by chain headquarters in Baton Rouge, La.

Claude Allen, who said he is an Austin school teacher associated with the group, said city hall would be picketed today.

"The only Negroes hired by the city are in menial positions. Negroes are capable of doing other jobs. It doesn't take any training to be a meter reader," Allen said.

In Texas... after bowling, beer is a natural
After you've bowled a game or two, or when you're winding up the evening at the neighborhood bowling center, it's good to relax with friends and compare scores. What better way to add to the sport and the sociableness than with a refreshing glass of beer? However you take your fun—skiing, skating, or at your ease in the game room—beer always makes a welcome addition to the party.
Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

Author Outlines Common Base Of World Churches

NEW YORK (AP) — When viewing Christianity, the attention tends to focus on the denominational differences, the theological conflicts which separate the believers.
In "The Way and Its Ways," author George W. Cornell strips away the dividing factors among and within Protestantism, Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy. He uncovers "a common ground of faith, compatible and essentially undeviating, that runs through them all."
Cornell brings to his task a qualification shared by few professional writers. During his 12 years as religious news editor of The Associated Press, he has covered national and international church meetings, visited Rome and traveled the Judean paths Christ trod.

"It has fascinated me," he writes, "to find how much one church environment seems an echo, an almost hauntingly familiar repetition, of another, even at times when they themselves don't realize it."
As a practicing Christian, a vestryman at New York City's St. Mark's - In - The - Bowery Church, Cornell is concerned that "we have given a false facade to Christianity, partially fooling ourselves, and cheating those outside the church."
Thus, this book, written with the beautifully flowing mastery of language for which Cornell is famous within the fraternity of newsmen, came into being. "There is one 'way,' even though it has many ways," Cornell writes. "It is this, it seems to me, that needs to be more fully recognized if the believers are to know their brothers and the wanderer is to see the way home."

Although he focuses on the commonly shared truths of Christianity, the author devotes one chapter to an examination of some of the by-ways of its many forms.
He remains true to his professional calling. "One point should be made quite clear," he advises the reader. "The insights set down here are not of my own making, but are the bequests of the Christian community. My place as a reporter is not to originate definitions and interpretations, but to absorb and disseminate them reliably and in proportion."

Ideas On Soybean Props In Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has received conflicting recommendations from two national farm organizations on the level of price supports for the 1964 soybean crop. Soybeans have become one of the top income-makers for farmers.
The American Farm Bureau Federation has written Freeman urging a reduction in supports from the 1963 crop level of $2.25 a bushel. But the National Farmers Union also has written the secretary asking that he raise the supports to $2.50, effective immediately, which means for 1963 crop soybeans still in farmers' hands.

Since Freeman took over in 1961, he has raised the supports from $1.85 to the present level. In most of the recent years, producer prices have averaged above the support levels, reflecting an expanding domestic and export demand. Soybeans are an important source of edible oil and high-protein livestock feed.

The secretary is expected to make a decision soon.
The Farm Bureau said that the soybean market had proven it can raise producer prices above supports whenever demand and supply conditions warrant.
It added, however, that industry developments indicate it would not be wise to increase supports this year. It said increased stocks of soybean oil have reduced processor margins, closing down some crushing mills or reducing their operations. An increase in supports, it argued, could aggravate this situation.

The Farmers Union, on the other hand, said processors "have stubbornly held down" their operations to persuade growers that the soybean market outlook is not favorable and that they should sell their soybeans at prevailing prices.
The Farmers Union has generally supported Freeman programs, while the Farm Bureau has been critical of many of them.
