Inmate injury

A Midland County jail inmate remained in serious condition at Memorial Hospital and Medical Center Friday evening following a fight over a television, sheriff's department and hospital officials said. Shannon Day suffered a fracture near one of his eyes, officials said. According to Sheriff Gary Painter, as the disagreement progressed, Day started a fight and threw the first punch at a fellow inmate. Day was subsequently hit, fell and was injured when he hit his head on the concrete jail floor, Painter said. Day was in jail for several charges, including violation of parole, theft and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a jail official said.

Trial nears jury

WICHITA FALLS — The capital murder trial of a "suicidal" honor student neared the jury stage Friday, but a debate continued over who killed Fort Worth socialite Caren Koslow and how. Ironically, the dispute is legally insignificant, but could determine if defendant Jeffrey Dillingham, 20, lives or dies./8A

Palace opens

LONDON — The ornate doors of Buckingham Palace swung open to the press for the first time ever on Friday, revealing a blinding, gilt-edged example of imperial glory and acquisitiveness. It was a sneak preview of what the paying public will get to see for the next two months. Beginning Saturday and continuing daily through Oct. 1, the public will follow the same red-carpeted path through 17 formal staterooms in the palace of Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh./9A

Midland police officer Darren Clements checks out "The Pit," an area off Loop 250 where local runaways often hide out.

City's runaways fall through cracks in system

By Katherine Poteet
Staff writer

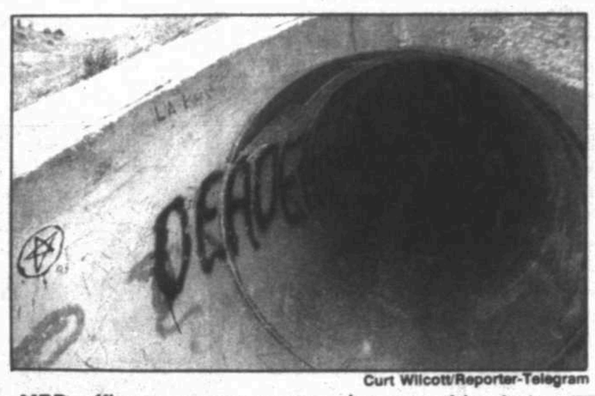

A mattress, some empty cans and a burned Christmas tree stand out against the dry, windblown foliage of mesquite bushes and weeds — the only signs that something besides snakes has visited the place.

"This is where they hang out," said Midland Police Officer Darren Clements, pointing to a huge hole about 6 feet deep and 4 feet wide. "They have dug out holes in the sides for chairs."

They are the city's youngest drifters — runaways. And, this is one of their temporary homes — The Pit, located in an abandoned field northwest of the Windmill Park apartments on Loop 250.

"We know they are here, we just can't catch them,"

Plan splits Senate, Gore casts winning vote

■ Clinton says victory marks end of gridlock, rising deficits, trickle-down economics.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton won passage of his deficit-reduction plan from a deeply divided Congress Friday night, prevailing 51-50 in a Senate showdown that stood as a crucial test for his young administration.

Vice President Al Gore cast the tie-breaker in the Senate. But the decisive vote came from Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., the last senator to make up his mind. He declared he "could not and would not cast a vote that would bring down" the administration.

Shortly after the vote, the president joked that he had won a "landslide," then said it marked a turning point. "The days of endless gridlock, rising deficits and trickle-down economics are over," he told cheering aides at the White House. "The the days of economic growth and real opportunity for the working families of this country have begun."

The bill, with claimed deficit savings of $496 billion over five years, cleared the House on a 218-216 vote Thursday night.

"Certainly not a mandate, two votes in the House and one in the Senate," Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole observed acidly just before the roll call that dispatched the plan to the White House without a single GOP vote in either chamber.

Democrats said the final passage marked the end of gridlock and pledged additional spending cuts later in the year.

The plan's bitter pill of tax increases and spending restraints includes a gasoline tax increase of 4.3 cents per gallon. It also reverses 12 years of Republican

Bill's historic end had tedious middle

By Mike Feinsilber
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Simpson of Wyoming stared into space. Kennedy of Massachusetts took off his glasses, put them on, took them off. Kerry of Massachusetts — not the mystery Kerrey of Nebraska — slapped McCain of Arizona on the back.

It may have been historic and, at the end, dramatic, but in the middle Friday it was a Senate debate. Which is to say a debate in which no blood flows, voices rarely rise, no passion flares, not much new is said and few listen anyway.

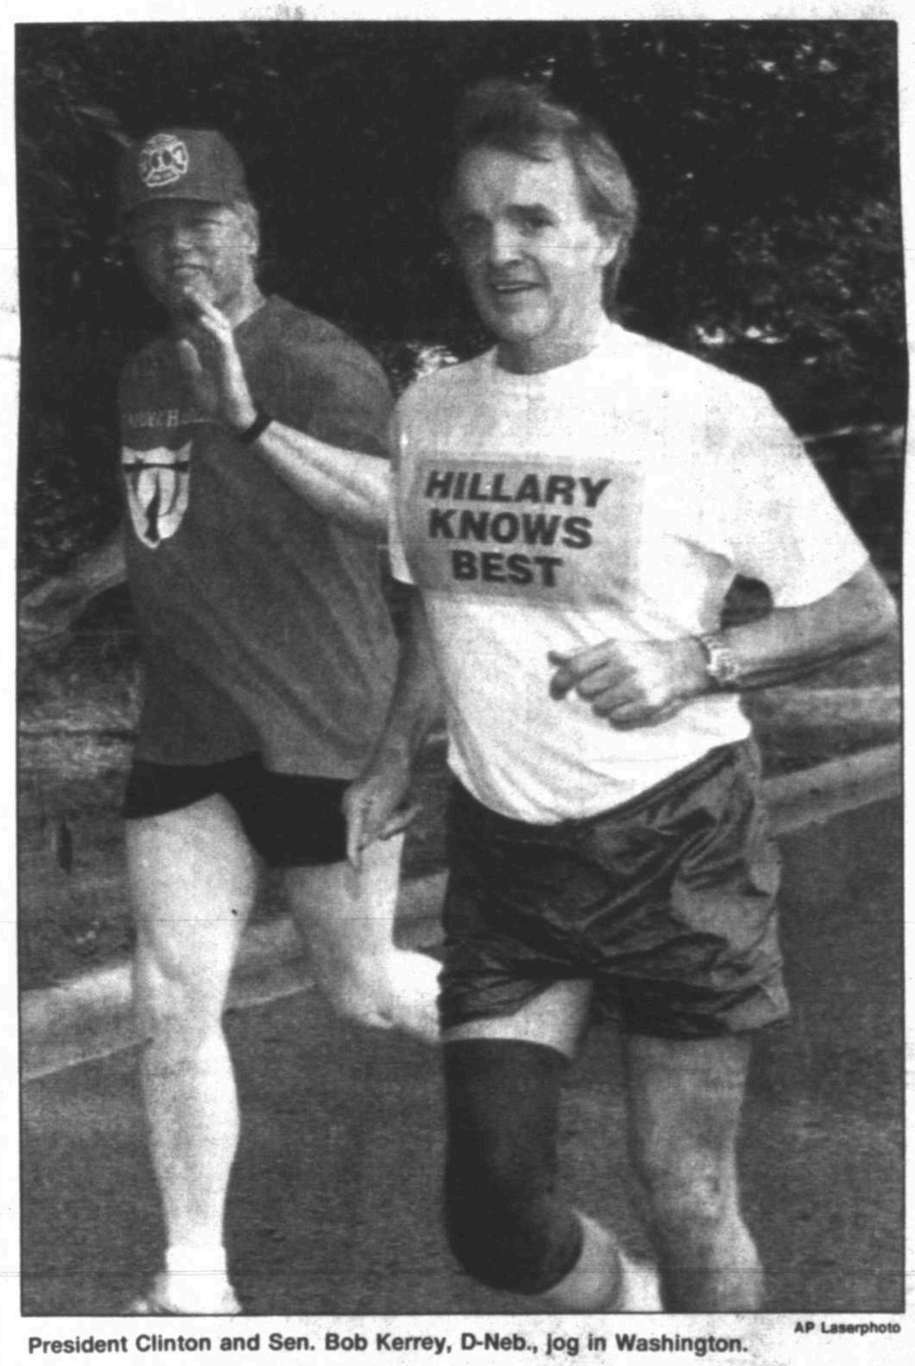

At 1:35 p.m., Sen. Connie Mack read aloud a letter from a small-business constituent expressing concern about the impact of any new taxes. John McCain put a Wall Street Journal article into the Congressional Record. Slade Gorton read a sheaf of papers.

Wars are authorized in this place, flood damage paid, abortions banned or unbanned, judges impeached, the Constitution amended, crops subsidized, crime deplored, liquor taxed and ambassadors confirmed, but the Senate hardly changes. It does the people's business with an abstract, offhand air.

Change comes hat in hand. Television cameras came but the senators chose to pretend they hadn't. Microphones came and the mumblers on the Senate floor could, for once, be heard in the galleries.

Tornado strikes historic Petersburg, kills three, wounds hundreds in mall

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — A tornado charged through this historic city Friday, toppling buildings and killing at least three people in a shopping mall that witnesses said was sliced open. Nearly 150 people were hurt.

The storm devastated this economically depressed city's most precious quarter, known as Old Town Petersburg, which has several Civil War-era buildings that withstood Union troop barrages in 1864-65.

Policeman M.L. Clarke said "one large tornado" touched down about 1:30 p.m. at the Southpark shopping mall just outside the city limits in Colonial Heights.

Police say they won't release names in Hollywood madam's 'black book'

By John Horn

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Everybody is getting to know the name of the woman accused of running the best little whorehouse in Hollywood. But any celebrity john will be no more than a John Doe in legal proceedings.

The sex-for-hire scandal has Tinseltown abuzz. It has sparked a backlash, with the accused — Heidi Fleiss — her neighbors, a women's group and even a former prostitute criticizing the police and the media frenzy the followed her arrest.

Miss Fleiss, charged Thursday with five counts of felony pandering and a drug violation, kept lists of her clients, but police said Friday they would not name or prosecute any of the alleged solicitors.

CAF flights to promote AirSho '93

Staff report

Confederate Air Force World War II aircraft, including the "bent-wing," carrier-based Corsair naval fighter and the Stinson L-5 Sentinel, are to perform exhibition flights at approximately 11 a.m. today at Midland International Airport.

The flights are designed to help draw attention to the American Airpower Heritage Museum at CAF headquarters and to help promote the CAF's AirSho'93, scheduled for Oct. 9 and 10 at the airport.

Corsair pilots shot down 2,140 enemy aircraft in 64,000 missions in the Pacific; only 189 Corsairs were lost.

Beginning in 1943, Corsairs were credited with helping change the course of War World II. The warbird's combat-kill ratio against Japanese aircraft was 11 to 1.

The Sentinel, in addition to being used as an observation and liaison aircraft, was modified to accommodate a stretcher for ambulance work.

A North American SNJ advanced naval trainer from the World War II-era will be flown during the exhibition.

The SNJ — the Navy's version of the Army Air Corps' AT-6 Texan — was flown by aviators training to fly powerful fighters such as the Grumman Hellcat and the Corsair.

Admission to the museum is $4 for adults, $3 for teen-agers and senior citizens, $2 for children over 6 and free for children under 6.

Boy, 11, chained to table calls for help

HOUSTON (AP) — A 30-year-old woman was arrested Friday after her 11-year-old son phoned police to say his mother had beaten him and chained him to a coffee table.

Cecilia Olea was held in the Houston City Jail on charges of endangering a child, said police spokesman Alvin Wright. Bond had not been set by late Friday afternoon.

Wright said the boy, whose name was not released, called police just before 10 a.m. and said his mother had beaten him and left him chained inside their southwest Houston home.

Investigators found him shackled to a coffee table by his ankles with what officers described as "a big chain," Wright said. It was secured with a padlock, he said.

The boy said that for about a month, his mother has chained him to the table whenever she leaves the house. At night he is chained to his bed, he told police.

The boy was not injured and appeared to be well-fed, police said.

Ms. Olea arrived at the home shortly after police and was arrested.

She told authorities the boy has a discipline problem and "runs the streets all hours of the night," Wright said.

"Apparently her reason for chaining him was to keep him from going out at night and getting into trouble," Wright added.

Police said the boy's 12-year-old sister, who was home when he called for help, corroborated her mother's claim that the boy was a discipline problem.

Both children were placed in the custody of state Child Protective Services.

Plan won't cure deficit, end deadlock

By Ron Hutcheson
N.Y. Times News Service

■ Analysis

WASHINGTON — After all the shouting, all the arm twisting, all the claims and counter claims, congressional approval of President Clinton's economic plan will neither cure the deficit nor end government gridlock.

Although the proposal calls for $496 billion in deficit reduction over the next five years, it would still leave the federal government far short of a balanced budget.

If all goes as planned — and it never has with previous deficit-reduction efforts — the government will continue to pile up debt at a rate of more than $200 billion a year. At the end of the five-year plan, the nation's underlying debt would be $1.1 trillion more than it is today.

Rep. Tim Penny of Minnesota, who voted for the package, cited its shortcomings Friday in explaining his surprise announcement that he will not seek re-election. Penny, a leading advocate of deficit reduction, expressed frustration that Congress failed to do more to stop the flow of red ink.

"I viewed this as an opportunity year to dramatically reduce the deficit in a bipartisan fashion. We have failed to do that," the Minnesota Democrat said.

Like many skeptical lawmakers, Penny said he voted for the plan because it was better than nothing. House leaders contend that without Clinton's combination of tax increases and spending cuts, the deficit would steadily increase from $302 billion next year to $361 billion by 1998.

Of course, no one can be certain that the projected deficit growth is correct. If the projections are wrong, so is Clinton's claim of $496 billion in deficit reduction.

"It's gobbledygook," said Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas, a former economics professor. "You're basically talking funny numbers."

For Clinton loyalists, the political impact of the proposal's passage may be as significant as its effect on the deficit.

"It clearly was extremely important to Clinton's ability to govern and function as president," said Rep. Martin Frost, a Dallas Democrat who supported the package. "This was our first opportunity to show that we could do something about the deficit. We had to deliver. I hope that it works."

Lawmakers and political analysts agreed that the defeat of Clinton's proposal would have left the president virtually powerless by highlighting his inability to control Congress.

"He couldn't afford to lose," said Roger Davidson, a congressional scholar at the University of Maryland. "If the president has a record and a reputation for hanging tough, it's a little more difficult to defy him."

On the other hand, even Clinton's allies conceded that the narrow win does not guarantee him an easier time on health-care reform, the North American Free Trade Agreement, welfare reform and other controversial issues.

"Gridlock is not permanently over," Frost said. "It doesn't make the other issues any easier or any more certain. But at least it gives the administration an opportunity to pass other initiatives."

Clinton's future legislative success is likely to hinge in large part on his ability to court Republicans. GOP lawmakers showed rare unanimity in opposing Clinton's economic package by refusing to give the president a single Republican vote in either the House or Senate.

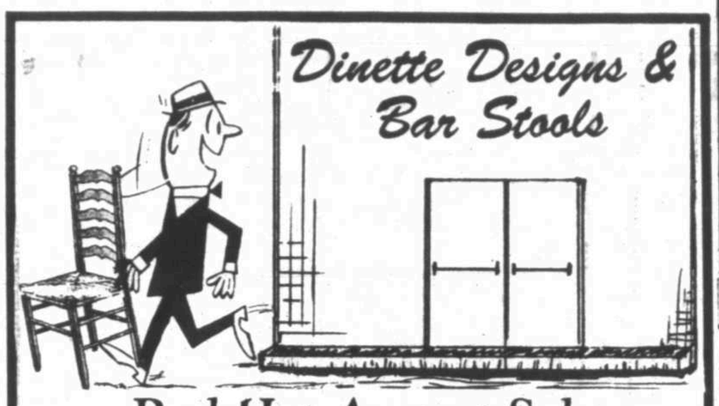

Lawmakers and congressional historians could not cite another instance of similar unanimity by either party. Key portions of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal and Lyndon Johnson's Great Society programs — both of which faced strong Republican opposition — still managed to win Republican votes.

Even former President Ronald Reagan failed to get his party in lockstep for his 1981 package of tax cuts.

"You can't pass tough legislation month after month with just Democratic votes," Frost said.

Today, cloudy, chance of rain

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with a 20 percent chance of rain becoming partly cloudy in the afternoon, and a high in the lower 90s and southeast winds at 5 to 15 mph, according to the National Weather Service.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of rain and a low of about 70.

Sunday is expected to be partly cloudy with a high in the mid-90s.

After an overnight low of 70, Friday's high was 87 compared with the record high for that date of 107 in 1964. The record low for today's date was 61 set in 1936.

STATE

North Texas enjoyed unseasonably cool weather as a front moved in, spanning from Texarkana to Junction, and bringing with it a blanket of clouds.

A large area of showers developed along the western edge of this front with thunderstorms along the eastern edge.

The temperatures remained quite low, with most of the area reporting mid-70s. The front also brought winds of 10 to 15 mph and gusts up to 30 mph.

Today is expected to be partly cloudy with a chance of thunderstorms. The highs in the upper 80s in the northeast and the lower 90s elsewhere.

A ridge of high pressure remained over South Texas Friday and the only precipitation was near southeast Texas.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy with temperatures in the upper 80s to upper 90s. Winds were southerly from 10 to 15 mph with occasional gusts to near 25 mph.

Today's forecast for South Texas calls for partly cloudy skies with a chance for widely scattered showers. Highs will be in the 90s to near 100 degrees.

In West Texas, storms were scattered Friday from El Paso and eastward across the Permian Basin and Concho Valley.

Otherwise, skies were mostly cloudy to cloudy in most areas. Temperatures ranged from 70 degrees at Childress to 90 degrees at Sanderson. Winds were variable at 5 to 15 mph.

Today's forecast calls for partly to cloudy skies with a chance of showers and thunderstorms for the entire region. Highs generally will be in the 80s and 90s.

NATION

A tornado swept across southeast Virginia on Friday, toppling buildings and killing at least four people in Petersburg. Rain hovered over most of the Eastern seaboard and the Southeast.

The tornado that hit Petersburg sliced through a shopping mall, killing at least four and injuring more than 100. It also devastated the city's historic Old Town district, which has several buildings that survived Civil War attacks.

The National Weather Service had reports of several tornadoes in the region, but couldn't immediately say if more than one had hit.

A tornado watch was also posted over the region, as well as over eastern North Carolina.

Meanwhile, rainshowers and thunderstorms extended Friday from the central half of the Atlantic coastal states across the southern Appalachians, the eastern Gulf states, lower Michigan, the lower Mississippi Valley, Texas, New Mexico and the southern Plateau.

A flash-flood watch was posted for northern and central Mississippi.

Heavier rainfall during the six hours ending at 2 p.m. EDT included 1.80 inches at Quantico, Va.; 1.67 inches at Washington, D.C.; and 1.58 inches at Pine Bluff, Ark.

Temperatures were cool early Friday over the northern Plains. Low temperature records for the day were set in Bismarck, N.D., with 42 degrees; Cheyenne, Wyo., with 44 degrees; and Huron, S.D., with 47 degrees.

YOUTH: Runaways aren't police priority

(From 1A)

Clements said. "They can hear us coming through the bushes.

"It is standard knowledge at Culver (Youth Home)," he said. "As soon as they come in, they learn about The Pit."

The city has hundreds of places for runaways to hide out, but The Pit is one of three major hangouts for teen-agers who have left home or escaped from a half-way house or criminal center.

Another major hiding place, according to police, are two drainage tunnels that empty into the canal behind Midland Park Mall along Lehigh Street. One runs directly under the mall and the other runs under Fairmont Park apartments to Loop 250.

Each tunnel is decorated with graffiti: obscene words, attempts at art, symbols and messages left from one runaway to another.

Police said the third major hideout is the deserted, back units at La Plaza Apartments, located at 2438 Whitmire Blvd.

These three locations form a loose triangle of homes for the city's hundreds of runaways and are a major problem for Midland Police Det. Rick Benton.

Benton, along with Det. Dan Walkenshaw, make up the police department's juvenile division — a division that has seen such a dramatic rise in violent crimes that the problem of runaways has almost gone by the wayside.

"There is only two of us," Benton said. "We can't do everything. We have to prioritize and look at the problem of runaways the way the law does. It's not as important as burglary or shooting someone, according to the law."

But, according to Benton, it is important and is a problem in Midland.

"We counted about 640 runaways last year in Midland," he said. "In my opinion, that's a problem."

The three major sites to which these hundreds of runaways flock were discovered about four or five years ago, Benton said.

"These are mainly local kids," he said. "They are rebelling against rules at home and want to get out. Or, they have escaped from Culver or some place like High Sky Ranch. These places are known to the local kids."

Occasionally, Benton said, there will be a group of out-of-town runaways passing through, but the main problem is with Midland children.

The average age of the runaways is 15, with white females making up the majority, followed by white males, Benton said. Next is Hispanic females, then Hispanic males and black males and females, he said.

Although the Police Department is aware of where the runaways are, officers go to the scene only if they are notified by parents or other authorities.

"A lot of the runaways are not reported," Benton said. "We try to find the ones that their parents have called in or have escaped from Culver or something like that. Otherwise, they simply are not a priority right now."

Benton said when he first joined the juvenile division in 1991, he tried to to get acquainted with the youngsters and attempted to put programs in place that might help them.

He said he also tried to get the city to issue citations for the offense of running away, but none of his ideas came to fruition.

"What people don't realize is that if we put a dent in the problem of runaways, we would put a dent in a lot of other crimes," he said.

"These kids have to shoplift to eat and clothe themselves. They break into buildings to keep warm."

But, running away is only a status — not a criminal offense — and is punishable by 24 hours in Culver Youth Home, Benton said. But that does not solve the problem, he said.

"After 24 hours, these kids are out again and where do you think they go?" he said. "The system is so overcrowded that these kids are falling through the cracks. We don't have room to put them anywhere and the probation officers are overworked.

"The justice system is failing these kids," he said. "Until the law puts its foot down, we are always going to have a problem."

STORM: Tornado blows through shopping mall

(From 1A)

store were killed, including one who died at a hospital Friday night, authorities said. Two people in Colonial Heights were still unaccounted for late Friday, and authorities searched door-to-door through the area.

Authorities said 148 people were sent to area hospitals with various injuries, which included broken bones and head and neck problems.

The storm cut a swath through the Wal-Mart discount department store, from front to back.

"The lights went out, then came back on, and immediately the roof started caving in," said Pam Barden, who was shopping in the store. "People were screaming and crying."

Mike Johnson said he was driving into the parking lot when "everything started collapsing." He said he helped pull three people from the rubble.

Ambulances and hearses were summoned to a triage center in the mall parking lot.

Gov. L. Douglas Wilder activated the National Guard before heading from the capital in Richmond by helicopter to survey the damage, said spokeswoman Lisa Katz. The Army sent at least three helicopters to help with evacuations.

Tornadoes are uncommon in Virginia, where the last one hit near Augusta Springs in the Shenandoah Valley in 1989, killing two people.

No tornado warning was posted until 1:35 p.m., about five minutes after the twister smashed the area.

As the tornado crossed the James River to the north of Colonial Heights, it threw up a wall of wind and water that knocked down two tractor-trailers on the Interstate 295 bridge across the river, authorities said.

A third truck collided with the first two, and two smaller trucks were flipped over by the wind. Five people were hurt in that incident, said state police Sgt. Robert A. Johnson.

Tornadoes were also reported in several other parts of the state Friday afternoon, including the counties of James City, Surry and Sussex.

At Langley Air Force Base, two planes and several buildings were damaged and one person slightly hurt, said Sgt. Mike Brown, a base spokesman.

LIST: Police won't disclose madam's names

(From 1A)

Monday, ran an exclusive prostitution ring from her $1.6 million home and charged clients $1,500 per encounter.

Ever since Miss Fleiss' arrest June 9, Hollywood has been whispering names and trading gossipy tales of high-priced call girls coupling with some of the movie industry's top stars and moguls. But Capt. Glenn Ackerman said police would not disclose the names listed in records seized when she was arrested.

"We got a list of names, addresses," Ackerman said. "It serves no purpose, however. We have nothing to charge them with."

He noted that solicitation is a misdemeanor and must be witnessed by law enforcement officials for a prosecution.

Miss Fleiss, meanwhile, said her threat to tell all for $1 million came in an angry fit with a reporter.

"God, whatever mistakes I've made, I certainly didn't expect my life to turn out this way," she said in Friday's Los Angeles Times. "Did you see what they did to me on TV? They stuck their cameras in the window and shot pictures of me running away from the door, and then they ran it back and forth in slow motion, like I was a serial murderer."

Miss Fleiss' peaceful neighborhood of luxurious estates and gated mansions has been transformed into a noisy circus of news helicopters, television crews and tabloid photographers.

It's the most attention the area has received since 1969, when Charles Manson and cult members killed actress Sharon Tate and four others in a nearby house.

"It's a quiet neighborhood," said Richard Watts, who lives near Miss Fleiss. "The only time when it has not been that way is now with all the media attention directed at the so-called house of prostitution. There's too much attention directed at such a small, insignificant problem."

The National Organization for Women and a prostitutes' rights group agreed that the Hollywood madam story was losing all sense of proportion.

"The massive law enforcement operation geared to arrest Heidi Fleiss and stop an alleged prostitution ring borders on the hysterical," said Tammy Bruce, president of the local NOW chapter.

She asked that the police spend equal energy investigating street criminals, rapists, spousal abusers and — if nothing else — Miss Fleiss' alleged customers.

DRAMA: Senate had uneventful budget debate

(From 1A)

every word for the next day's Congressional Record, were allowed to take their words down on keyboard machines, balanced on a board strapped across their chests.

The biggest change, the oldtimers say, was central air conditioning, which came in 1937. No Senate would have allowed itself to be here, in session, in August without air conditioning. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 would have had to have been dealt with in June or would have waited until September.

Friday's debate was even more desultory than most because 99 of the 100 Senate minds were not only made up but announced publicly.

Only Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., was undeclared, and maybe — he wouldn't say — undecided.

Without him, it was universally said, President Clinton's deficit-reduction bill, and, to hear some say it, the promise of his presidency, would go down. With Kerrey voting with the Democrats, the president's program could be saved on a vote by Vice President Al Gore to break a 50-50 tie.

Kerrey in indecision was in character. When the Senate voted to support George Bush's line-in-the-sand against Iraq, Kerrey agonized until the end. When Clinton's bill, in different form, was before the Senate in June, he hesitated long until finally voting yes reluctantly.

In midafternoon, the Senate took a vote on a Republican point of order to declare the bill unconstitutional. All Democrats but one voted against the point of order; all Republicans but one voted the other way. Kerrey voted with his fellow Democrats, who prevailed.

The bells rang. Senators pushed through swinging doors to cast a vote.

The clerk called the roll: "Mister Akaka! Mister Baucus! Mister Bennett!..."

Senators voted "aye" or "nay" (where else is "aye" and "nay" part of an everyday vocabulary?) or with their thumbs, up or down.

Kerrey the mysterious took a seat by Wendell Ford, D-Ky., but none of their colleagues slipped over to eavesdrop, to inquire how he might vote. This was the Senate.

Kerrey waited until just about an hour before the final vote to end the mystery. He came to the floor and announced he was voting "yes." To do otherwise, the senator said, could be seen as a move that would doom the Clinton presidency to failure.

Speaking to the large, viewing audience across the country, the Kansas said declared: "Put down your remote control and pick up

PLAN: Clinton's bill wins razor-thin victory

(From 1A)

policies by dumping most of the new tax burden onto the wealthy.

"Sometimes the right thing is not the easy thing," Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, said in a final plea for the bill. Vote yes, "not for your reelection ... (but) ... based on what is best for our country."

"This is a bad plan," countered Dole. "It raises taxes, and it does little to effectively reduce government spending or control the deficit."

The packed Senate galleries erupted in cheers when Gore announced his vote and declared, "The president's economic program is passed."

All 50 Senate votes in favor came from Democrats. All 44 Republicans and six Democrats voted no.

But the suspense had been drained from the roll call roughly two hours earlier, when Kerrey, a rival of Clinton's during the 1992 presidential campaign, declared his support.

Enactment of the bill capped months of drafting, bargaining and polishing by the president and the Democratic leaders in Congress as they squeezed support from Democrats concerned about raising taxes. As late as Thursday night the president was offering concessions to recalcitrant House Democrats, pledging his support for votes later this year on additional cuts in federal spending.

It was not known what Clinton's discussions were with Kerrey, although the two men met privately in the White House early in the day. There then followed hours of suspense, capped by the Nebraskan's address to a hushed chamber.

"President Clinton, if you are watching now, as I suspect you are, I could not and would not cast a vote that would bring down your presidency," Kerrey said.

"You do not deserve and America cannot afford to have you spend the next 60 days quibbling over whether we should have this cut or this tax increase," he said.

When Kerrey finished, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., and several other Democrats applauded and some shook his hand. Moynihan strode over to Kerrey and slapped him on the back.

Democrats called the bill an opportunity to regain control of the economy while Republicans accused the Democrats of being too eager to raise taxes and too slow to cut spending.

Sen. Robert Smith, R-N.H., said Clinton deserved a place on Mt. Rushmore if the plan could deliver all the Democrats claimed for it. He added tartly: "The stonecutter can relax."

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., who announced his support earlier in the week after intense White House lobbying, hinted at the unease felt by many supporters. "I don't like to pay taxes either, but the time has come that we have to do something about the deficit," he said. "And we have to do it today."

Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., waved a magician's wand while accusing Democrats of trying magic to make the deficit disappear. "Abracadabra, alakazam, presto — we have turned into a circus of magicians."

Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., was not amused. "Perhaps if he ever becomes weary of the Senate ... he would do very well on the carnival circuit as a barker," Sasser said dryly.

Democrats say the bill will raise taxes by $241 billion and eventually reduce spending $255 billion over the next five years. More than 90 percent of the taxes would come from those with incomes over $100,000. Some of the more affluent retirees would pay tax on more of their Social Security benefits, but the only provision that would hit the middle class directly is a 4.3-cent-a-gallon increase in the tax on gasoline.

The major spending restraint in the bill would cut the growth of the Medicare health program for the elderly by $56 billion.

Authorities warn of dangers of homemade potato-blasting pipe-guns

AUSTIN (AP) — Some people may think they are just toys, but Austin police are warning that "spud guns" — homemade explosive devices that blast potatoes from pipes at high speeds — are dangerous and illegal.

Police confiscated what they refer to as a "zip gun" from an Austin man and warned the public that anyone found with one may face felony weapons charges and jail.

Robert Taylor White, 17, was arrested Thursday and charged with possession of a prohibited weapon. He is accused of building and test firing one of the guns July 25. White was released after posting $5,000 bail.

White told police he learned to construct the device at summer camp and built it out of curiosity, said police officer J. mes Neilson.

White's "zip gun," as police call homemade projectile weapons, is similar to the spud guns becoming popular with street and motorcycle gangs in San Francisco, Neilson said.

Neilson said spud guns can be deadly to both the person firing them or anybody hit by the projectile. Potatoes have been clocked at speeds of more than 1,000 feet per second, he said. In comparison, a bullet fired from a .45 caliber handgun travels at 850 feet per second.

Neilson said the pipe commonly used to make the guns can explode, sending shards of plastic toward anybody near the device. Potatoes fired from the guns have pierced car windshields and dented cars, he said.

White's device could hurl a potato to about 100 yards, Neilson said.

Many people probably are not aware that the devices are illegal. Programs in San Francisco to educate the public have been successful in teaching people the dangers of the devices, he said.

"They had a lot of calls from parents who said their kids had these and they were destroying them," Neilson said.

Tapes: Wounded members of cult didn't want help

WACO (AP) — Branch Davidian sect members wounded in the initial raid by federal authorities on the cult's compound told police they'd rather die inside their home than receive medical attention from the government, a leader of the group told a negotiator in 911 tapes released Friday.

"We don't want anything from your country," cultist Wayne Martin, a Harvard-educated attorney, told McLennan County sheriff's department Lt. Larry Lynch.

"You don't want any help from us?" Lynch asked. "Please let us help you, Wayne. If you've got serious people, we've got medical people out here. Let's take care of them. Let's don't let someone pass because they didn't get help."

Martin insisted he or other cult leaders weren't making the decision for others.

"That's what our wounded are telling us. They don't want your help. I'm just passing it on."

The tapes, the third set of 911 tapes to be released by the government, are from the first hours of the assault on Feb. 28 on the Mount Carmel compound 10 miles east of Waco.

It began a 51-day standoff that ended in a holocaust April 19 that killed cult leader David Koresh, Martin and as many as 84 other followers.

Four Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and six cultists were killed in the Feb. 28 raid.

State will appeal Graham hearing, Dan Morales says

AUSTIN (AP) — State Attorney General Dan Morales said Friday he will appeal a judge's decision to grant death row inmate Gary Graham a hearing as soon as the judge returns from vacation and signs the order.

Morales said the appeal likely would come on Monday.

If Graham is not given a hearing by the Board of Pardons and Paroles before Tuesday, his Aug. 17 execution date will be postponed, according to State District Judge Pete Lowry's ruling.

A receptionist in Lowry's office said the judge was expected back on Monday.

Graham, 29, was convicted in the 1981 robbery-murder of an Arizona man.

In his lawsuit against the parole board, Graham alleges he was denied his right to a clemency hearing.

Graham contends new witnesses would testify that he was elsewhere when the murder took place and that he didn't fit the gunman's description.

While he vigorously denies the slaying, Graham has admitted to 10 holdups, including two where the victims were shot, which occurred around the same time.

Morales said members of the parole board, not judges, have the authority to decide whether to hold executive clemency hearings.

"If (board members) believe there is sufficient credible evidence existing in this case or any other case that an innocent person is on death row, they may investigate, they may hold a hearing," the attorney general said. "However, they cannot be compelled to do so by a court of law."

Lowry said in his order that the Texas Constitution entitles Graham to a hearing on the additional evidence.

Graham's attorneys did not immediately return telephone calls from The Associated Press.

Twice this year Graham has avoided death by injection by receiving 30-day reprieves.

Several actors and civil rights activists have drawn attention to Graham's case by participating in rallies and news conferences.

Morales said Graham's case is typical and that it is normal for death penalty opponents to protest in the days before an execution.

"I don't think there's anything new or novel or unique about this instance except that some high profile individuals from the West Coast have become involved," Morales said.

Debate continues as 'suicidal' student's trial nears jury stage

By Mike Cochran
Associated Press writer

WICHITA FALLS — The capital murder trial of a "suicidal" honor student neared the jury stage Friday, but a debate continued over who killed Fort Worth socialite Caren Koslow and how.

Ironically, the dispute is legally insignificant, but could determine if defendant Jeffrey Dillingham, 20, lives or dies.

State and defense attorneys closed at midday after jurors heard partially conflicting medical testimony by experts for both sides regarding the cause of death.

The case could reach the jury by noon Saturday.

Prosecutors maintain Jeffrey Dillingham killed Mrs. Koslow and bludgeoned and slashed her husband at their fashionable Fort Worth home in the early morning hours of March 12, 1992.

Jack Koslow, 49, an ex-banker, survived.

The state contends the attack on the Koslows was a muddled million-dollar murder-for-hire scheme concocted by Jack Koslow's adopted daughter and carried out by Dillingham and a longtime friend, Brian Salter.

Kristi Koslow, 18, and Salter, her 21-year-old boyfriend, are in jail in Fort Worth and awaiting trial.

All three have given police statements admitting complicity in the Koslow affair, which stunned the aristocratic Rivercrest area of stately mansions and old Texas money.

The state's 25th and final witness triggered a vigorous dispute over the cause of Mrs. Koslow's death, which he attributed to a "blunt force" blow to the throat that crushed her larynx.

In effect, she suffocated, said Nizam Peerwani of Fort Worth, the Tarrant County medical examiner who performed the autopsy on Mrs. Koslow.

The defense concedes Dillingham savagely beat the Koslows with a metal pry bar, but insists that Salter killed Caren Koslow by cutting her throat with her husband's buck knife.

Court-appointed attorneys Jack Strickland and Michael Ware called only two witnesses for the defense, both of them forensic pathologists.

Sparks Veasey of Odessa, the Ector County medical examiner, and Werner Spitz, an eminent Detroit author-pathologist, disputed Peerwani's claim that the blow to the throat was the sole cause of death.

Referring to the two injuries, Veasey said: "I would include both of them as the cause of death. ... Either could have been fatal in and of itself."

Spitz agreed, adding that the 11¼-inch knife wound would cause death even faster than the fractured larynx: "In the absence of immediate medical attention, that wound would be fatal within a range of five mintues."

With a guilty verdict all but assured, Strickland says he believes the jury might spare his client's life if it concludes that Salter wielded the knife and that it was the death weapon.

But it is unclear who slashed the Koslows.

"Brian found Mr. Koslow's buck knife in the closet and ... I saw him slit Mrs. Koslow's throat," Dillingham said in a statement he gave police 12 days after the slaying.

"But I turned around and I didn't see exactly what he did to Mr. Koslow."

In his statement, Salter told a homicide detective he knew nothing about the cutting until after he and Dillingham had fled the crime scene. Said Salter:

"He told me that he had cut them. He did not specify where, but he said he had used the knife on them."

Throughout five days of testimony, Dillingham has sat hunched over the counsel table, his head bowed and his hands clenched and trembling. Friday, he appered to be hyperventilating and gasping for air.

Strickland denied suggestions that his client's demeanor was an act.

He described Dillingham as "scared and despondent, and justifably so. I also believe he is suicidal, and there is sufficent evidence to back that up."

Under Texas law, a capital murder conviction is punishable by lethal injection or life in prison. A defendant assessed life must serve a minimum of 35 years before becoming elgible for parole.

Fights predicted as Japan gets new prime minister

TOKYO (AP) — Morihiro Hosokawa, a descendant of warlords, became Japan's new prime minister Friday and immediately faced a call to battle.

Picked by parliament to direct a new era in Japanese politics, he must rally a divided coalition government and stave off attacks from the still-strong party he helped push from power.

Hosokawa's election by parliament capped a dramatic realignment of Japan's postwar political order. The seven-party coalition toppled the Liberal Democrats, who had governed for nearly four decades.

His ascendancy also marks a generational shift in a society that traditionally reserves power for the elders. Hosokawa is 55, nearly two decades younger than his predecessor, 73-year-old Kiichi Miyazawa.

■ More world news/8B

In addition, Hosokawa is a political outsider in a country where politics, like business, has always been a chummy affair.

Even opponents acknowledged it was the start of a new era. "I feel this is the beginning of a big political restructuring," said former LDP Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita.

Hosokawa immediately set to work assembling his Cabinet. His government is to be formally certified by the emperor in a ceremony on Monday, with the former government having caretaking powers until then.

The new government has promised to clean up the endemic political corruption that brought down the Liberal Democrats.

Royal palace doors swing open to press for first time

LONDON — The ornate doors of Buckingham Palace swung open to the press for the first time ever on Friday, revealing a blinding, gilt-edged example of imperial glory and acquisitiveness.

It was a sneak preview of what the paying public will get to see for the next two months.

Beginning Saturday and continuing daily through Oct. 1, the public will follow the same red-carpeted path through 17 formal staterooms in the palace of Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh. The palace, which also houses the queen's private suites and offices, has more than 600 rooms in all.

It is expected to quickly become one of Britain's most popular tourist attractions.

The line for Saturday's public opening had been forming outside the palace since Thursday. About 8,000 people are expected in daily. Roughly 7,000 of them will purchase tickets on the day they enter. The remainder will buy tickets in advance from travel agents.

The queen reversed tradition and decided to open the palace to the paying public for two months annually in each of the next five years as a fund-raising ploy to help pay the cost of renovating Windsor Castle, her "country" home outside London that was ravaged by fire last November. The castle will from $48 million to $64 million to repair.

A ticket to Buckingham Palace is $12.50. But people over 60 will pay only $8.75.

Leaders resign as Georgia slips through chaos

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) — Georgia's entire Cabinet resigned Friday after parliament refused to approve the national budget and leader Eduard Shevardnadze warned the country was on the brink of collapse.

The government has been in growing turmoil for months because of a costly war with separatists in Georgia's northwestern province, Abkhazia.

But the immediate provocation for the mass resignation was parliament's rejection on Thursday of the Cabinet's proposed budget.

Parliament voted 127-19 to accept the departure of the Cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Tengiz Sigua, who had been in office for nine months.

Shevardnadze, the former Soviet foreign minister, remains Georgia's parliament chairman and temporarily assumed the post of prime minister.

He may either nominate a new Cabinet next week, or ask parliament's permission to keep both jobs. Earlier this week he called for emergency powers to combat lawlessness and economic chaos.

"Georgia today has two alternatives: to be or not to be," he told lawmakers Thursday.

Shevardnadze returned from Moscow to his native Georgia in April 1992 to head a shaky Military Council that had seized power in a popular but bloody revolt in January 1992.

He subsequently was elected parliament chairman and head of state. But he has been unable to restore peace, attract foreign investment or change much of the Communist-era economy in the tiny country of 5.3 million people south of Russia.

The 11-month war with separatists in Abkhazia has taken more than 2,000 lives and drained state coffers. Refugees from the fighting jam hotels in Tbilisi, the capital.

Dolphins win

ATLANTA — Jerry Glanville usually has a special love for his special teams. The Miami Dolphins left the Atlanta Falcons coach no room to gloat Friday night.

Rookie O.J. McDuffie returned a kickoff 90 yards for a second-quarter touchdown that gave the Dolphins the lead for good in a 28-27 exhibition victory.

McDuffie, Miami's No. 1 draft pick, had three returns for 137 yards. On his touchdown, he raced up the middle, faking out kicker Norm Johnson inside the Atlanta 50 to gain a clear path to the end zone.

Atlanta's coverage troubles began with the opening kick of the game, when rookie Terry Kirby had a 34-yard return. The Falcons survived that start. Two plays after Dan Marino connected with Mark Ingram on a 42-yard pass to the Atlanta 22, Bruce Pickens picked off a pass.

The Falcons built a 14-0 lead on Chris Miller's scoring passes of 5 yards to Michael Haynes and 13 yards to Eric Dickerson.

The Dolphins gained a 14-14 tie on Aaron Craver's 1-yard run in the first quarter and Marino's 4-yard pass to Keith Byars in the first minute of the second quarter.

Little League

WACO — Orwall National of Oak Ridge-Woodlands won the state Little League title on Friday, beating Laredo Del Mar, 9-0, behind the combined three-hit pitching of Ben Jones and Aaron Karas.

THE 1993 NIKE PERMIAN BASIN OPEN

Mission defenseless

■ Sixty-seven golfers assault par in Friday's first round, but a tragedy strikes the Nike Tour family.

By Bill Petitt
Staff writer

ODESSA — It was a hard day to celebrate after the first round of the Nike Permian Basin Open Friday at The Club of Mission Dorado.

While there was plenty to celebrate as 67 golfers finished the day under-par, tragedy struck the Nike family as the newly wed wife of golfer Dicky Thompson was killed Thursday evening in an apartment fire at their home near Orlando, Fla.

Thompson, who has yet to make a cut on the tour this season, played in the morning and was unaware of the news until after the round in which he shot a 4-under 68. Upon being notified, Thompson left the course and immediately returned to Orlando.

As the news trickled through the tournament field, the realization of importance of life and family came back to a group which spends 20 weeks or more a year away from their loved ones.

"It makes you wonder who's pulling the strings," said Olin Browne, who fired a 6-under 66, two shots behind leader Gary Rusnak. "That's the kind of thing that keeps eveything in perspective.

"It really took the pressure (of golf) off out there; it makes you realize what's important. I just came off a two-week break and had to leave a wife and two kids and I really didn't want to leave them. Dickey and I are friends, everybody likes Dickey. Our hearts go out to him."

A light rain early in the day and no wind made the course "defenseless" according to Rusnak. Rusnak scorched the course for a tournament-record 8-under-par 64 to hold a two stroke lead in the Nike Permian Basin Open being played at The Club of Mission Dorado.

The previous record was 7-under 65 last year during the third round of the tournament by Jeff Woodland and Bruce Vaughan.

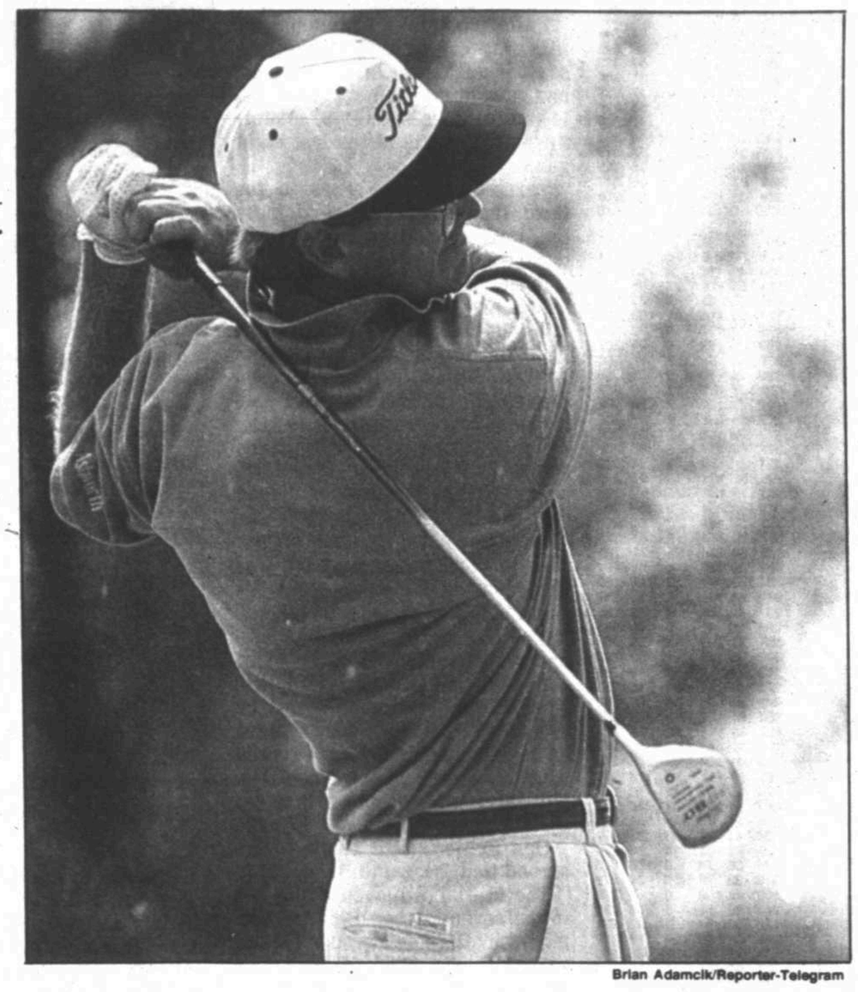

"The rain was to our advantage," Runsak said. "It made the greens softer. I've been putting well lately and putting was the key. You get in one of those streaks where you are disappointed if you don't make the putts.

"This course was meant to be played with the wind. Without the wind, the course was defenseless."

Rusnak's 64 actually could have been much better. Missed birdie putts on No. 2 and No. 3 and a tournament marshall mistakenly identified his ball on No. 18, which would have been a two-stroke penalty had Rusnak played the ball, but he caught the mistake and played his ball for par. It tied the best round of the season for Rusnak, matching a 64 in the White Rose Classic, July 4.

Nine players stand two strokes behind Rusnak at 6-under 66, including

ODESSA — If the scorecards fall right, Sean Murphy might not be the only member of his family to rank on the Nike Tour money list.

Sean, 27, and his brother Ryan, 19, played in the same tournament for the first time in their lives Friday at the Nike Permian Basin Open at The Club at Mission Dorado. The older Murphy shot a one-under-par 71 while his brother stumbled on a double bogey and a triple bogey to fall back at 5-over 77.

Murphy

Sean is currently second on the money list with total earnings of $103,086 while Ryan, who will be a red-shirt freshman at Arizona State University in the fall, qualified for his first tour tournament Monday.

If Ryan keeps improving like Sean thinks he will, the Lovington, N.M., brothers could be a lot closer on the golf course than they are in age.

"During December and January, I helped him on his game," said Sean, who caddied for his brother during Monday's qualifying round. "Last week I played with him, and what a change. He's definitely playing the best right now that he's ever been playing.

"I would say he's farther along than I was at his age," said Sean, who played collegiately for the University of New Mexico and earned Western Athletic Conference player of the year his senior season.

Ryan added, "Some people say that I'm a little farther along than he was."

Sean doesn't even have to give Ryan a single stroke when the two play a fun

Manchester United beats out NFL's Dallas, Detroit

By Stephen Wilson
AP Sports Writer

LONDON — There are two games scheduled at Wembley Stadium this weekend, one featuring the champions of American football, the other the champions of British soccer.

Which is the bigger sell?

It's no contest: Manchester United easily beats the Dallas Cowboys.

Today's Charity Shield exhibition between Manchester United, the Premier League champions, and Arsenal, the FA Cup titlist, is the kickoff to the British soccer season. The game is expected to draw about 70,000 fans.

By comparison, Sunday's American Bowl game between the Cowboys and Detroit Lions is just another NFL preseason matchup in a country where interest in football is wearing off.

NFL officials are hoping for a crowd of 40,000-45,000 — still good, but far short of past years.

The first American Bowl game in London eight years ago drew nearly 80,000 fans. Last year, 61,000 turned out for the game between the Washington Redskins and San Francisco 49ers.

The local press has virtually ignored this week's game. The mass-circulation tabloids haven't written a word about it, while two articles appeared Friday in the broadsheets — a profile of Cowboys owner Jerry Jones in the Telegraph and a story on Thursday's "media day" in the Times.

Besides the competition from soccer, the American Bowl also is up against Britain's other national sport — cricket. England's Test match against Australia is the top sports story at the moment.

In addition, the American Bowl game is lacking in big names.

The Cowboys are without their two stars — Super Bowl MVP quarterback Troy Aikman, recovering from back surgery, and NFL rushing leader Emmitt Smith, holding out in a contract dispute.

The big marquee name is Detroit running back Barry Sanders, but he is expected to play less than a half.

While American football continues to have its hard-core supporters in Britain, the general public seems to have lost its enthusiasm after eight years of essentially meaningless preseason games.

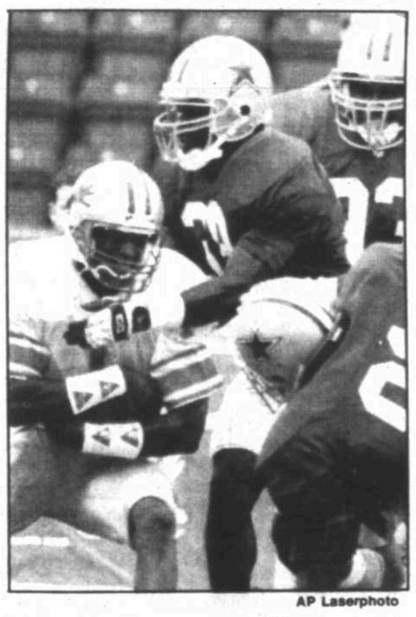

NFL president Neil Austrian said the recession is partly to blame.

"The Cowboys are the Super Bowl champions," he said, "but at the same time, if the people don't have the money it's a real problem."

Ticket prices range from $53 to $23.

"I'm personally not ready to give up on the UK and say we ought to move the game somewhere else," Austrian said. "I don't think American football's dying over here. Things go in cycles."

The next stage could be an NFL regular season game in London or Berlin.

Diablos nip Angels, 4-3

By Mike Butts
Staff writer

Something had to give in the Midland Angels 4-3 loss to El Paso Thursday night.

Afterall, it was a Texas League game. That's Texas League as in 8-7 is considered a low-scoring game.

And here were Midland's Shad Williams and El Paso's Marshall Boze going through the opposing lineups with ease at Angels Stadium. At one point the two retired 16 batters in a row. In all, they combined for 15 scoreless innings.

Midland finally got to Boze and his sinker for three runs in the eighth inning. But the Angels left three runners stranded and the Diablos went on to win their sixth consecutive game against Midland. If the Diablos mastery of Midland keeps up, the Angels will never passo El Paso in the league standings.

First place El Paso's win drops the second place Angels to five back

Court deals Tyson another TKO

By Nancy Armour
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Mike Tyson was described as angry and disappointed. His accuser was "weary but satisfied."

After six months of waiting, an Indiana Court of Appeals panel on Friday dealt the former heavyweight boxing champion a 2-1 split decision upholding his rape conviction.

Tyson's supporters questioned how it could happen, and railed at an unfair justice system, while those who sided with Desiree Washington used the word "vindicated," and said the truth had won out.

Tyson learned of the decision Friday morning in a telephone call to his housing unit at the Indiana Youth Center in Plainfield from his attorney, Alan Dershowitz.

The boxer was upset with the ruling, knowing it means a continued stay in jail.

"He feels and knows in his heart that he was innocent, and he knows that he did not get a fair trial," the Rev. Charlie Williams said of Tyson, who has served 17 months in prison and could be released as early as May 1995.

Williams is the president of Indiana Black Expo and the man who invited Tyson to come to Indianapolis for that fateful weekend in July 1991 when he would meet Washington, a contestant in the Miss Black America pageant.

"Justice has been done," said Deval L. Patrick, Washington's attorney.

"Desiree is weary but satisfied that Mr. Tyson got a full and fair trial and appeal," he added.

Not everyone agreed.

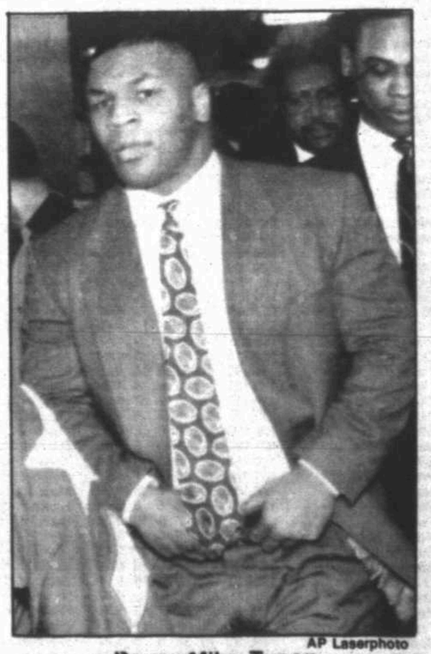

"This is an incredibly dishonest opinion. It picks and chooses which facts to quote," said Dershowitz, the Harvard law professor who represented Tyson on appeal. "Almost nobody seems to think that Tyson got a fair trial."

All three judges' agreement that a Marion County policy that allows the prosecutor to pick which judge will hear a case "lacks the appearance of impartiality" should have been enough to grant a new trial, Dershowitz said.

"The majority agreed that letting the prosecutor pick the judge is 'totally inappropriate and must be abandoned,' and yet they didn't apply that to Mike Tyson," Dershowitz said, adding that Marion Superior Court Judge Patricia Gifford should have been disqualified from the case because she prosecuted rape cases before becoming a judge.

"From now on in history this is going to be called the Tyson Rule and he didn't get the benefit of it," Dershowitz said.

Tyson's name might bring special treatment elsewhere, but not in the eyes of the law, said Greg Garrison, a special prosecutor in the case. The boxer got all the benefits a defendant is entitled to, nothing more, nothing less.

Rangers closing in on Chisox

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Rafael Palmeiro homered for the sixth time in seven games and the Texas Rangers pulled within 3½ games of division-leading Chicago with a 5-3 victory Friday night over the Seattle Mariners.

Kenny Rogers (9-7) pitched seven innings of five-hit ball, struck out three and walked three to give the Rangers three consecutive victories from their starters for only the second time this season.

Tom Henke pitched a perfect ninth for his 24th save.

Palmeiro's solo homer in the fifth, his career-high 29th of the season, pushed Texas' lead to 5-2 and gave him 10 homers in his last 14 games. He is hitting .357 (10-for-28) with 11 RBIs in the last eight games.

Texas scored two runs in the third, thanks to a bout of wildness by Mariners starter Chris Bosio, to take a 3-1 lead.

Bosio (4-7) walked the bases loaded and threw a wild pitch that allowed Doug Strange to score from third. Third baseman Mike Blowers' fielding error on Ivan Rodriguez's grounder allowed Palmeiro to score from third.

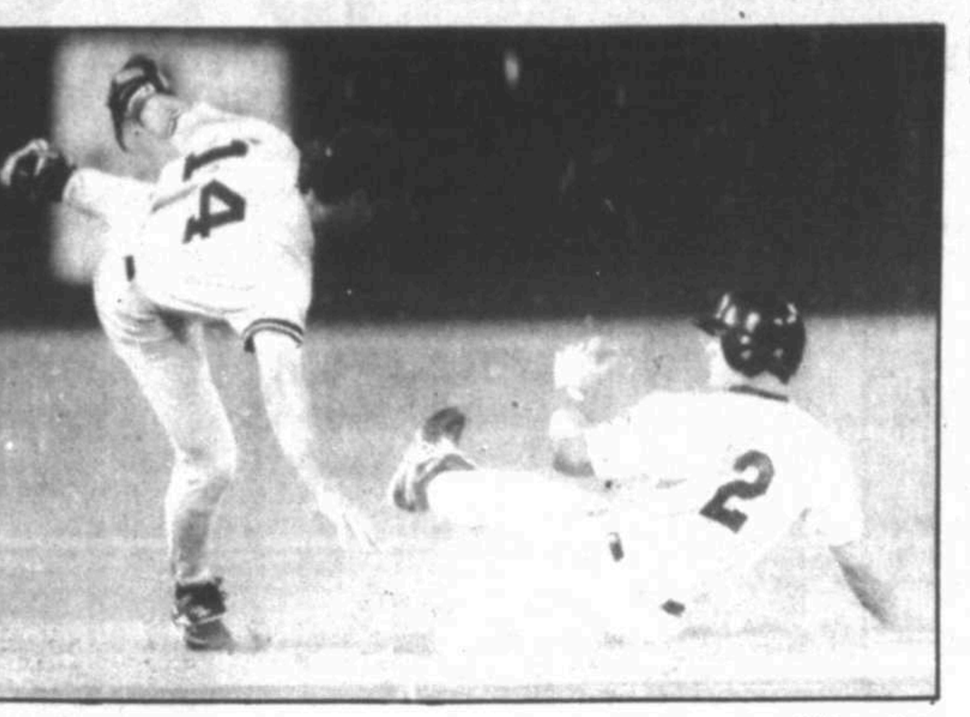

Seattle loaded the bases with one out in the third on a single and two walks, but the Mariners managed only one run on Blowers' RBI single to make it 3-2. Edgar Martinez tried to score on the play but was tagged out at the plate.

Bosio lasted seven innings, allowing five runs and five hits with four walks and seven strikeouts.

The Mariners took a 1-0 lead when Edgar Martinez led off the second with a double, went to third on Jay Buhner's single and scored when Rangers center fielder Donald Harris allowed the ball to get by him.

Dan Peltier's RBI single in the second tied the game 1-1.

The Mariners moved within 5-3 in the seventh when Blowers doubled, took third on a groundout and scored on Bill Haselman's grounder.

Angels 7, White Sox 3

CHICAGO — Stan Javier went 4-for-4 and drove in two runs to lead a 16-hit attack as California defeated Chicago.

Gary Disarcina had three hits and three runs, Eduardo Perez had three hits and two RBIs and Ron Tingley had two hits and two RBIs for California, which won for the seventh time in 10 games.

Chuck Finley (13-8) allowed three runs on seven hits and one walk while striking out two in 6 2-3 innings. Gene Nelson got the final eight outs for his fourth save.

Wilson Alvarez (8-7) gave up four runs and six hits with four walks in 3 2-3 innings while taking the loss.

The Angels went ahead 3-0 in the third on Chad Curtis' bloop RBI single and A bases-loaded single by Perez that scored Javier and Curtis. California made it 4-0 in the fourth when DiSarcina led off with a double, moved to third on an infield out and scored on a Tingley's sacrifice fly.

Consecutive singles by DiSarnica, Ron Correia, Tingley and Javier off reliever Kirk McCaskill increased the lead to 6-0 in the sixth.

Run-scoring singles by Steve Sax, who went 4 for 4, Craig Grebeck and Tim Raines in the seventh inning brought the White Sox within 6-3, but the Angels got another run in the eighth on Javier's RBI single off Donn Pall.

Athletics 5, Royals 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Craig Paquette's bases-loaded, two-out triple off Brian McRae's glove in the sixth inning led Oakland past Kansas City.

The Royals lost for the fifth time in six games but stayed 4½ games behind Chicago as the White Sox lost 7-3 to California.

Rookie Todd Van Poppel (2-3) gave up two runs and four hits in six innings to get his second straight win and the second of his career. Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth for his 24th save.

The winning sixth-inning rally against Chris Haney (7-4) started with two out and none on. Ruben Sierra doubled before Terry Steinbach and Dave Henderson walked to fill the bases.

Tigers 5, Red Sox 1

DETROIT — Bill Gullickson pitched a three-hitter and Kirk Gibson and Scott Livingstone hit fourth-inning homers to break open a close game as Detroit beat Boston.

Bill Gullickson (7-6) struck out five and didn't allow a walk in pitching his second complete game of the season. He retired 25 of the last 26 batters, the only flaw being Scott Cooper's solo homer in the fifth inning.

Roger Clemens (9-8), who gave up five runs on five hits in four-plus innings, also allowed a homer to Dan Gladden.

Blue Jays 11, Brewers 10

TORONTO — John Olerud singled on the first pitch he saw with the bases loaded in the 11th inning, giving Toronto a wild come-from-behind 11-10 win over Milwaukee.

Toronto increased its lead in the AL East to two games over Boston and New York.

Milwaukee scored twice in the top of the 11th to take a 10-8 lead, but Pat Borders singled and Rickey Henderson tripled to open the bottom of the inning. Henderson scored on a wild pitch by Doug Henry (2-4) to tie the score.

Devon White then tripled, and after Roberto Alomar and Joe Carter were intentionally walked to load the bases, Olerud singled over drawn-in center fielder Robin Yount.

The game featured 36 hits — 19 by Toronto, 17 by Milwaukee — seven lead changes and seven ties.

Roberto Alomar, Paul Molitor and Tony Fernandez had three hits apiece for Toronto, while Pat Listach had four hits and B.J Surhoff went 3-for-6 with four RBIs for Milwaukee.

Al Leiter (7-6) got the win despite walking two of the three hitters he faced in a third of an inning. The loss was Milwaukee's fifth straight.

The Brewers went ahead in the 11th on Pat Listach's RBI double and a bases-loaded walk to B.J. Surhoff. Two innings earlier, they tied the game at 8-8 on John Jaha's leadoff homer, his seventh.

Twins 4, Yankees 3

MINNEAPOLIS — Gene Larkin's pinch single to shortstop with two outs in the ninth inning gave Minnesota a victory over the Yankees, the Twins' first victory over New York after seven losses this season.

Bob Wickman (10-4) began the ninth by allowing Brian Harper's single and was relieved by Steve Howe. Mike Pagliarulo sacrificed pinch-runner Jeff Reboulet to second and Rich Monteleone relieved.

After Chip Hale grounded out, advancing Reboulet to third, Larkin hit a grounder that sent shortstop Randy Velarde well to his right. Velarde dropped the ball before he could make a throw.

Orioles 8, Indians 1

BALTIMORE — Rick Sutcliffe pitched an eight-hitter for his first win since June 23, and Baltimore extended its winning streak to five games by beating Cleveland.

David Segui homered, Jack Voigt hit three doubles and Cal Ripken had a pair of RBI singles for the Orioles, who moved a season-high 11 games over .500 (60-49).

Sutcliffe (9-7), 0-5 with a 7.43 ERA in his previous seven starts, struck out four and walked one in his third complete game of the season. He lost a shutout with two out in the ninth when Jeff Treadway hit an RBI single.

Baltimore took a 2-0 lead against Jeff Mutis (2-5) in the bottom of the second. After Segui hit his eighth homer, Tim Hulett walked and scored on a double by Voigt.

A walk to Mike Devereaux and singles by Harold Baines and Ripken made it 3-0 in the third. Mark Parent, Devereaux and Ripken hit RBI singles in the fourth to make it 6-0.

Baltimore went up 8-0 in the seventh when Voigt scored on a wild pitch by Jeremy Hernandez and Brady Anderson hit a sacrifice fly.

Mutis gave up six hits, four walks and five runs in three-plus innings.

Rockies run loss streak to 12

■ NL Roundup

SAN DIEGO — Tony Gwynn went 3-for-3 to push his career hit total to 1,999, and the San Diego Padres beat Colorado 6-3 in the first game of a doubleheader Friday night to extend the Rockies' losing streak to a franchise-record 12 games.

Andy Benes (13-7) allowed three runs and nine hits in 6 1-3 innings, and struck out eight for his sixth win in his last nine starts. Trevor Hoffman worked the final 2 2-3 innings and allowed one hit for his third save, first for San Diego.

Armando Reynoso (7-8) allowed 10 hits in five innings to lose his fourth straight decision. The Rockies committed four errors, leading to five unearned runs.

Gwynn singled three times, was intentionally walked twice and scored once. His hit in the first inning scored Jeff Gardner, who led off with a double.

After Ricky Gutierrez reached on shortstop Freddie Benavides' fielding error with two outs in the third, Gwynn singled. Phil Plantier then hit a two-run double and scored on Derek Bell's single for a 4-0 lead.

Daryl Boston led off the seventh with his eighth homer of the season. Benes allowed four straight singles with one out, being chased by Alex Cole's RBI single that made it 4-2.

The Padres scored two more unearned runs in the seventh. Brad Ausmus hit a leadoff double and scored when pitcher Marcus Moore fielded Craig Shipley's bunt and overthrew third. Bruce Ruffin came on and induced Gutierrez to hit into a double play, but he also walked four batters, including Gwynn intentionally, and Derek Bell to force in a run.

Expos 8, Braves 2

ATLANTA — Rookie Kirk Rueter pitched a five-hitter and drove in two runs with his first major league hit to give Montreal a win over Atlanta.

Rueter (2-0) walked one and struck out one in his first complete game victory. He also keyed a three-run Expos' second inning with a two-run, bases-loaded single.

It was the Expos' third win in four games and the Braves' third loss in their last four.

With one out in the second, Darrin Fletcher was hit by a pitch from John Smoltz. Moises Alou followed with a single and Sean Berry walked to load the bases.

Smoltz (10-9) struck out Mike Lansing, but Rueter's bloop single to left drove in two runs. Delino DeShields followed with an RBI single.

The Expos added a run in the seventh when Larry Walker's RBI triple scored DeShields, who had singled.

The Braves took a 2-0 lead in the first when Ron Gant walked with two outs, stole second and scored on Fred McGriff's single. Terry Pendleton then doubled McGriff home.

Smoltz went seven innings, giving up eight hits, four runs, walking three and striking out seven.

The Expos added four runs in the ninth off Mark Wohlers. Derrick White hit an RBI double and Marquis Grissom, who was 3-for-5, drove in another run with a single. Grissom scored on Gant's fielding error and Alou had an RBI single.

Marlins 4, Phillies 3

MIAMI — Orestes Destrade hit a tie-breaking homer in the sixth inning and Florida's struggling pitching staff contained Philadelphia.

The Marlins had been outscored 26-8 in their past two games at St. Louis, but Pat Rapp and three relievers checked the first-place Phillies on eight hits. Philadelphia had a base runner in every inning and stranded seven in scoring position. Bryan Harvey struck out Dave Hollins with Lenny Dykstra at third to end the game.

Luis Aquino (5-6) pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings for his first relief victory since July 17, 1991. Harvey pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings, striking out four, for his 33rd save.

Destrade hit a two-out homer in the sixth to extend his career-high hitting streak to 11 games. The homer, Destrade's 11th, came off Roger Mason (3-8).

Cubs 6, Cardinals 4

ST. LOUIS — Rookie Kevin Roberson hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning off Lee Smith and Rick Wilkins added a solo shot as Chicago beat St. Louis.

Derrick May led off the ninth with a single and, one out later, Roberson hit a 2-2 pitch from Smith (2-3) to center for his sixth home run. Wilkins, who had been in a 2-for-28 slump, followed with his 21st homer.

Smith, who leads the major leagues with 37 saves, has given up seven runs in his last four innings over five appearances. He has surrendered 11 home runs in 44 innings, and has blown six saves.

Jose Bautista (5-2) worked a scoreless eighth and Randy Myers finished for his 34th save to end the Cubs' three-game losing streak.

Chicago's Sammy Sosa homered with the bases empty in the second and hit a two-run home run in the fourth. It was his fifth two-homer game this season and the seventh of his career. He has 25 this season, including a pair of two-homer days against Cormier.

Cormier (6-6) allowed four hits with one strikeout and one walk in 7 2-3 innings, retiring 12 batters in a row before Ryne Sandberg doubled with two outs in the eighth.

Gregg Jefferies homered with the bases empty in the fifth, his 13th, and Todd Zeile hit his 10th with a man on in the third.

Mets may release Coleman

NEW YORK (AP) — The ins and outs of baseball's uniform major league player contract and an arbitration precedent set by ex-major league pitcher LaMarr Hoyt could determine outfielder Vince Coleman's future with the New York Mets.

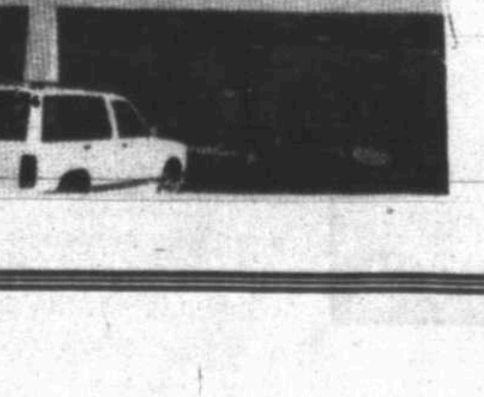

Coleman, currently on an unpaid leave of absence, faces felony charges next week in Los Angeles for illegal possession of fireworks. The Mets denied published reports Friday that they were ready to release him and pay off the final year of his $11.95 million contract, which expires in 1994.

"It's not true," said general manager Joe McIlvaine, who was in San Diego where his wife is awaiting the birth of a child. "All I can say is if I'm one of the people making the decision, nothing has been decided. It's certainly an option. We'll wait and see what happens with the court hearing."

Releasing Coleman may not be a simple matter.

Paragraph 3(a) of the standard contract is a loyalty clause in which the player "pledges himself to the American public and to the Club to conform to high standards of personal conduct, fair play and good sportsmanship."

NIKE: No. 14 is tame, but 18 is bothersome

(From 1B)

Jerry Haas, brother of PGA veteran Jay Haas and Chris Perry, son of PGA player Jim Perry and nephew of former Texas Ranger Gaylord Perry.

"(Conditions) were pretty ideal," said Bill Porter, who also fired a 6-under 66. "The greens are so good, they are really holding well and guys are going to make putts.

"(The course) really wasn't that different this (Friday) afternoon. Normally, with the heat of the day, the greens get spiked up, but they were in good shpae when I played them."

"The greens are perfect," Browne said. "Hit it between the heavy stuff and it feels like you're chippin' and hittin' all day. The rains last night really helped them (the greens)."

Last week's champion at the Nike Mississippi Gulf Coast Classic, Jim Furyk, leads a group of nine, three shots behind at 5-under 67.

Midland's contingent of golfers didn't fare too well on Friday. Larry Bryan led the group with a 1-over 73. Mission Dorado assistant pro Chris Carpenter was 2-over 74. Midland College standout Chad Campbell and Midland Country Club pro Terry Lester were 3-over 75. Midland Country Club assistant pro Jeffery Beal fired a 4-over 76. Green Tree Country Club representative Randy Kahn shot a 79 and former Midland College golfer Shaun Savage shot an 81.

Other notables include Gary Nicklaus, son of Jack Nicklaus, shooting 3-under 69. Defending champion Taylor Smith turned in an even-par 72.

Play resumes this morning at 8 a.m. The field will be reduced to the top 50 finishers with ties at the end of the today's round.

NIKE NOTES: Last year's most difficult hole of the Nike Tour was the No. 14 hole at Mission Dorado. "The Mickey Mouse" hole yeilded only 17 birdies in three rounds last year. This year the hole surrendered 14 birdies during Friday's opening round. The hole most talked about by the pros is No. 18. A par-4, 465-yard dog leg to the right into a prevailing wind. Last year, the hole gave the players the option of driving one's tee shot right or left, with right playing "60 yards shorter" according to Bill Porter, who shot a 6-under 66 to tie him for second place, but course officials have planted a group of pine trees along the right side, eliminating the short cut. The players of the Nike Tour are establishing a fund in the name of Cameron Thompson, the wife of Dickey Thompson. The proceeds will go toward the Pediatrics Unit of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

BROTHERS: Sean, Ryan in Nike tourney

(From 1B)

round together.

"We played four rounds recently and I beat him three out of four," Ryan said. "He didn't give me anything."

Sean currently holds the 18-hole record at their local 9-hole golf course in Lovington with a 59 while Ryan has shot a 61.

"I'll get 58 some day and then I'll get on the phone to call Sean," Ryan said.

One thing Sean has given his brother is the knowledge of the tour and the benefit of eight more years of golf.

"Before the tournament, he said, 'I'm just going to try to hit fairways and greens.' But I said, 'You got out there with a 68 in mind,'" Sean said.

Ryan added, "I was nervous but not as nervous as I thought I would be. My mental game has gotten better and most of that is because of Sean. He tells me some of his mind sets during practice that help him."

Ryan said that having Sean as a caddie during the qualifying round helped.

"Not only did he get great yardages, but just being around him makes me confident. He's a pretty good caddie," Ryan said.

The siblings, while eight years apart, look almost exactly alike. Sean is a little tanner and stockier than his brother while Ryan is thin and looks like he could still be in high school. And their golf games are even similar, although they don't play together very much.

Sean said that's because his father, an avid golfer, taught both he and Ryan how to play.

"We do a lot of things the same," Sean said.

Sean, who has played on the PGA Tour for a year, thinks his brother might have a shot at the major tour eventually.

"I would recommend that he plays anywhere he can win," Sean said. "Some guys come out of college and go right to the (PGA) tour. And since he red-shirted, he will be about 24 when he graduates."

But first things first. Ryan is one of about 14 golfers for ASU hoping to fill the six spots on the team. Last year, there were 17 and he felt like he'd be better off if he red-shirted and kept his full four years of eligibilty.

That extra year could help him join Sean, who hopes to return to the PGA Tour by then. That way they could continue to push each other.

Raiders end reporter's ban

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The ban of reporter Eric Noland from Los Angeles Raiders practices ended Friday amidst speculation that a media boycott of the team would take place should it not change its stance.

Steve Ortmayer, director of football operations for the Raiders, announced the ban was over but wouldn't comment further immediately, instead saying a statement would be issued by the team later in the day.

It was Ortmayer who told Noland, a reporter for the Daily News of Los Angeles, on Tuesday that he was not welcome at the team's training camp in Oxnard, 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

"My response is very simple — we're just happy it's over and we want Eric to go back to work," Daily News sports editor Rick Vacek said.

Vacek acknowledged he had heard speculation of a boycott of the Raiders by one or more major newspapers as long as Noland was banned, but added, "I was not going to be responsible for leading any media boycotts. I did not feel that a move such as that should be my role."

Vacek wouldn't comment when asked how the Daily News would have handled either games or practices in the future had the Raiders not changed their position.

"It's all a moot point, let's leave it at that," Vacek said.

The NFL said it was pleased that the ban was over.

"We worked with the Raiders on it, and discussed it with them, and they made the decision to lift the ban, and it is resolved," NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said, adding that no disciplinary action would be taken against the team.

Aiello wouldn't comment when asked if the Raiders had been threatened with disciplinary action.

"Our goal was to see that Eric Noland was allowed to do his job," Aiello said. "A fine wasn't necessary. Our goal was not to punish the Raiders."

The lifting of the ban came a day after Ortmayer issued a statement saying, among other things, that Noland "acted irresponsibly, misrepresented facts and had been a source of divisiveness."

Mize still owns Buick golf lead

Associated Press

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Larry Mize finally made a bogey, on the last hole of Friday's second round, yet maintained a one-stroke lead over late-charging Fuzzy Zoeller in the Buick Open.

It was the only bogey of the tournament for Mize, who shot a 3-under-par 69 for a 36-hole total of 133. Zoeller, who shot 65, was two strokes ahead of Mark O'Meara and Corey Pavin.

Payne Stewart, Steve Lamontagne and rookie Paul Goydos were at 137.

"Well, I got that bogey out of the way," Mize said. "Now, maybe I can go bogey-free the rest of the way."

The $1 million tournament is the final tuneup for the season's fourth and final major — the PGA Championship next week at Inverness in Toledo, Ohio.

Mize, who won the Northern Telcom Open in January, had missed the cut in his last three starts.

"Patience was the key, especially after starting this tournament with a 64," Mize said. "You have to keep going, you can't look back. But you don't want to waste a good effort in the first round, either."

Mize played in the morning Thursday, when conditions were perfect at Warwick Hills. But he played in the afternoon on Friday, in a steady rain.

"Today was a lot tougher, with the rain," Mize said. "And the breeze picked up. I had to scramble a little bit today. I shot what I feel was a good 69."

LPGA McCall's Classic

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. — Dana Lofland-Dormann survived a 10-stroke fall from her opening round and clung to a two-stroke lead Friday halfway through the $500,000 McCall's LPGA Classic.

After matching the lowest round of the season, 63, on Thursday, Lofland-Dormann slipped to 73 for a 8-under-par 136 total, still enough to tie the tournament's two-round record.

"I had quite a few short birdie putts," she said. "I just didn't make the putts today."

Mary Beth Zimmerman and Nancy Ramsbottom were tied for second at 138.

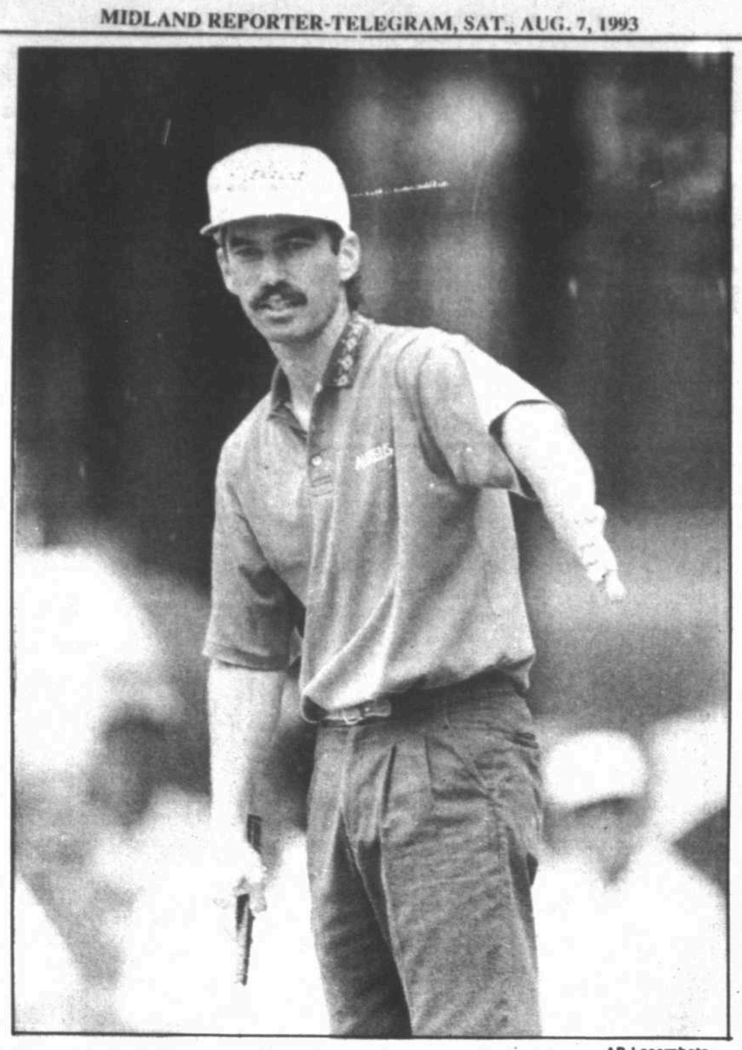

Zimmerman, who began the day seven strokes off the lead, birdied the first four holes and added an eagle on No. 6 to go 8 under. But she bogeyed 15 and double-bogeyed 16 before salvaging the last hole with a birdie.

"It was a very emotional up and down day," she said. "I'm what they call a streak player, I guess."

Ramsbottom, shooting her second 69, started the day with her only bogey, but came back with four birdies, two on putts of 31 and 35 feet.

"I was rolling in the long putts really good," she said. "It was nice because I haven't been making any putts the last three weeks."

But she still lamented that she was troubled by putts between 5 and 10 feet.

Senior Bank of Boston

CONCORD, Mass. — Tommy Aycock, who became unhappy with the security of his job as a club pro after 28 years, and Bob Betley, a one-time motorcycle cop who took up golf at the age of 28, shot 6-under-par 66s Friday to share the first-round in the $750,000 Bank of Boston Senior Classic.

Aycock, unsuccessful long ago in a bid to join the PGA Tour, and Betley, whose top victories have been in various state championships, completed their rounds in dramatic fashion over Nashawtuc Country Club's 6,755-yard course.

ANGELS: Tough loss for Williams, Midland

(From 1B)

in the Western Division. And just as importantly, it cut Midland's lead over third place Wichita to only three games. A second place spot would put the Angels in the playoffs if El Paso wins the division.

Boze had a one-hitter through seven innings. Charlie Rogers got the save for the Diablos, putting down three Angels in the ninth.

"We played poorly early, but we battled back," Midland manager Don Long said. "He (Williams) pitched well and kept his fastball down and was aggressive."

Williams, who has struggled at home this year with a 7.18 ERA and two wins in 11 starts, retired the last 13 batters he faced in going the distance.

"I don't know if its his best outing but he showed a lot of improvement from his last start," Long said.

The Diablos put four runs up in the third. Williams walked the first two batters and Midland didn't help matters with three errors. Bo Dodson's three-run double did the most damage.

"This is the kind of ball park where you don't want to walk anybody because here there's going to be some hits that wouldn't be in other ball parks," Long said.

The two starters took over the game from the fifth to the eighth innings. Williams allowed only two base runners in the last six frames.

But the Angels rallied in the eighth. A double by Orlando Munoz, who had replaced Mark Dalesandro in the fifth when he caught a Boze pitch in the helmet, started things off. Jorge Fabregas singled to score Munoz and Brian Grebeck later singled to right to score two more.

"I happened to fall behind 3-1 to the leadoff batter and he doubled and it confused me a little," Boze said. "He fouled a lot of balls off and I gave him his pitch and he cranked it."

Williams performance was especially heartening because the Angels have recently lost probably their two best pitchers in John Fritz and Colin Charland, who both moved up to Triple-A Vancouver. Williams' home and away showing has been a mystery this year. His road record is 4-2 with a ERA of 3.26.

"I think he and (David) Holdridge and (Chance) Gledhill, those three starters that have been here, a couple of those guys need to step up and take the roles that Char and Fritz had," Long said. "You can't expect one of those guys that came up from (Class) A to do that."

Martin leads assault at Watkins Glen

WATKINS, Glen, N.Y. (AP) — Mark Martin led Friday's all-out assault on the NASCAR Winston Cup qualifying record at Watkins Glen International with a fast lap of 119.118 mph.

That was nearly 2½ mph faster than the previous Glen stock car record of 116.662, set last August by Dale Earnhardt on the 2.45-mile, nine-turn road circuit.

Martin, consistently one of the best road racers in the stock car series, took the 21st pole of his career, and his third of the season, as he grabbed the top qualifying spot for Sunday's Budweiser at the Glen.

The fast lap, which took Martin's Jack Roush-prepared Ford Thunderbird just 1 minute, 14.044 seconds, was one of 12 qualifying efforts Friday that eclipsed Earnhardt's mark.

Martin called the fast lap "kind of spectacular in places," then added, "I don't know, I guess everything was pretty spectacular, considering the lap time. But I didn't know it at the time."

■ Bud at the Glen

"There was a delay in reporting the times, so when I came in there was really no reaction from the crowd, so I didn't know if it was a good lap or not," Martin said. "I just figured if it wasn't the pole, well, that's OK because that's the fastest I could go."

Ken Schrader's Chevrolet Lumina was second at 117.946 (1:14.746), followed closely by the Lumina of Terry Labonte at 117.892 (1:14.814) and the Thunderbird of Lake Speed at 117.755 (1:14.901).

Schrader, who leads the series with four poles this season, said, "If I'd known I had a chance for the pole, I would have tried to go faster. I tried to go fast, but I also concentrated on trying to bring it back in one piece. I wasn't concentrating on trying to get the pole and we're still seven-tenths (of a second) behind Mark."

Earnhardt's Chevy was caught at 117.478, and despite improving his time from last year's record of 1:15.603 to 1:15.078, the current Winston Cup points leader was fifth.

It was a strong qualifying performance for Speed in his first time in the car previously driven by Davey Allison, who died July 13 of injuries sustained in a helicopter crash.

Speed has only one other top-10 starting position this season, beginning the June race at Michigan eighth.

Pine Chip looking for victory

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It took a while for Pine Chip to get the hang of it. Now, he is acting like a colt in the know.

The 3-year-old trotter goes into the Hambletonian today at the Meadowlands riding a five-race winning streak, including a victory last Saturday over his main rival, American Winner.

Pine Chip was an unknown factor in the 3-year-old trotting division at the beginning of the year because a slight knee problem kept him from racing as a 2-year-old.

He won only two of his first seven starts.

"They need experience," said Chuck Sylvester, trainer and co-owner of the colt purchased for $17,000 as a yearling. "Even if they race only six or seven times as a 2-year-old, it means so much. It's hard to win and educate them at the same time.

"You're trying to get him to race, and he's trying to learn," driver John Campbell said. "He's come on in his last six races."

Has he ever!

Pine Chip is unbeaten since finishing second by 1¾ lengths to American Winner in a Pennsylvania Sire Stake June 12 at The Meadows near Pittsburgh. In his last victory, he overcame American Winner in the stretch and won by a length in the Beacon Course Trot final on the Meadowlands' one-mile track. That gave him a 2-1 edge over American Winner.

Tracy has threefold run challenge

LOUDON, N.H. (AP) — Paul Tracy played a little three-dimensional chess at New Hampshire International Speedway Friday.

Not only did the 24-year-old Canadian have to learn the fastest line around a track he's never seen, but also had to figure out how to set up his Penske-Chevy to get the most out of it during qualifying today and in Sunday's New England 200.

Too, he's trying to find a way to catch up with Nigel Mansell, the dominating winner of last weekend's Michigan 500 and the leader in the season driver standings.

"Just learning the track is the main thing," said Tracy, who is in his first full season driving for Roger Penske. "We put our Phoenix setup on for here, because turn one at Phoenix is similar to both ends of this track, fairly long straightaways with a good tight turn with good banking. We couldn't put a Milwaukee setup on the car because the turns are so flat, so the Phoenix setup is closer."

Hardly perfect, however, as Tracy soon learned in Friday's opening session of practice.

■ New England 200

"The problem we're having now is a bit of mid-turn understeer," he said. "It gets into the turn well, but when you get out of the throttle the car starts to pick up an understeer; you can't drive it all the way through the turn and off. We're making some changes for the next session. We hope they work but sometimes they don't."

Despite scrubbing off some speed because of the problem in the turns, Tracy was nonetheless fourth-fastest at 164.506 mph. Raul Boesel of Brazil had the fastest lap, 167.310 in a Lola-Cosworth, with Mansell second at 165.771. Mansell is facing the same problems as Tracy this week in trying to learn a track he'd never seen before. The defending Formula One champion from Britain is an Indy-car rookie.

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, Tracy's Team Penske teammate, was third at 165.260.

Alamodome to host first game

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Houston's defense will be trying to break old habits tonight night when the Oilers host the New Orleans Saints in the first football game ever played in the Alamodome.

First year defensive coordinator Buddy Ryan is installing his rugged 46 defense and he wants his players to get tough to lend a hand to the run-and-shoot offense.

"When you play laid back so long it's hard to change," Ryan said. "It was bend but don't break and hope the offense stops itself. We want to stop the offense ourselves.

"It's just a matter of getting the intensity to catch fire again."

It will be the exhibition opener for the Oilers but it is the second game for the Saints, who beat Philadelphia 28-16 last week in the Tokyo Dome.

Saints coach Jim Mora gave playing time to quarterbacks Wade Wilson, Mike Buck and Steve Walsh against the Eagles and the selection process will continue against the Oilers.

The Saints used big plays to beat the Eagles, including rookie Tyrone Hughes' 79-yard punt return for a touchdown, New Orleans' first since 1989.

Two other rookies are fighting their way up the Saints depth chart, No. 1 pick William Roaf and fullback Lorenzo Neal.

The Saints waived right tackle Tootie Robbins and his $1.4 million salary, clearing the way for Roaf to start. And Neal, a fourth round pick, was impressive against the Eagles.

"It's not that I'm disappointed in him in practice," Mora said of Neal. "But he did some good things in the game that I didn't know he could do."

Houston coach Jack Pardee plans to look at as many young players as possible.

"I want us to look good in the game but I want to look at a lot of players too," Pardee said.

The offensive line will get plenty of experimentation at both tackles. Kevin Donnalley and John Flannery are the current starters and reserve Eric Norgard also will get playing time.

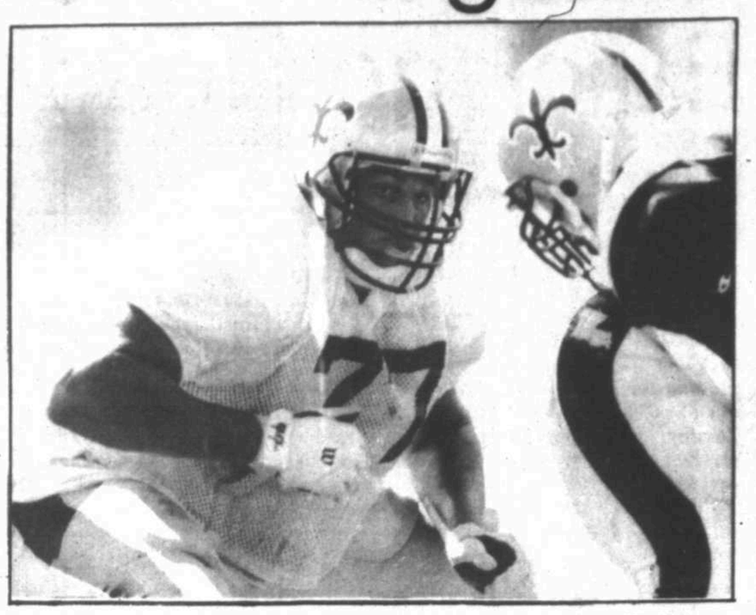

"I know what Bruce Matthews and Mike Munchak can do, we want to see who else can play," Pardee said.

Matthews, an All-Pro at center, has worked at both tackle spots in practice.

Quarterback Warren Moon is having a sharp training camp, Pardee said. He expects Moon to get 15-20 plays and then turn the offense over to Cody Carlson and possibly Bucky Richardson.

"Warren will get more playing time as the preseason goes on but right now he's pretty sharp," Pardee said. "Nothing is engraved in granite but we'll likely just get Warren 15-20 plays."

Wilber Marshall, a $2.75 million free agent signee in the off-season, will miss the game because he underwent arthroscopic knee surgery to repair partially torn cartilage in his left knee.

AP Laserphoto

New Orleans Satints' No. 1 draft choice William Roaf, left, will see action against the Houston Oilers today.

Two starters, right tackle David Williams and running back Lorenzo White, are still contract holdouts.

The Alamodome was used extensively during the Olympic Festival but has not hosted football. The Oilers and Dallas Cowboys will play the second game in the Alamodome on Aug. 21.

Parcells hates long road trip

Associated Press

■ NFL Exhibitions

It's a night for Drew Bledsoe's debut and Bill Parcells' comeback in San Diego today.

Parcells' would rather be elsewhere.

"It's ridiculous that we're doing it," Parcells said before making the NFL's longest possible transcontinental trip — from Boston to San Diego, where his New England Patriots will play the San Diego Chargers.

"Next year, we'll make every effort not to do it. It just takes too long for travel and to look at the films."

Unfortunately for Parcells, who will use Bledsoe, the No. 1 pick in the draft, at quarterback for one-third of the game, the trip was scheduled last January, before he was hired to coach the Patriots, whose 1-15 record last year was the NFL's worst.

It isn't the longest trip of the NFL's first full exhibition weekend, however.

That distinction falls to the Buffalo Bills and Minnesota Vikings, who will meet at Berlin in one of two overseas "American Bowl" games. The other is Sunday at London, where Detroit and Dallas meet.

In other games today, the New York Jets are at Pittsburgh, Denver at Tampa Bay, the New York Giants at Cincinnati, Houston vs. New Orleans at San Antonio, Kansas City vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Indianapolis at Seattle, and the Los Angeles Rams at Phoenix.

In other Sunday games, the Los Angeles Raiders play San Francisco at Stanford and Chicago is at Philadelphia.

Monday night, Cleveland is at Washington.

One thing about the San Diego-New England game — while the Chargers are coming off an AFC West title and the Patriots are coming off one win, the Pats probably should be the favorites.

That's because Parcells plays to win. In eight season with the Giants, his winning percentage in exhibitions was .818, not as impressive as his two Super Bowl victories. In some games, he would throw in Lawrence Taylor and other regulars late in games against an opponent's rookies to hold a lead.

Bledsoe won't start, but he may finish. He will follow Scott Secules and Tommy Hodson at quarterback for New England as Parcells goes with experience to start.

"I've said many times that we'll try to win every game I coach," Parcells said. "I like to win. I don't like losing. In fact, I'm getting worse at it."

The Chargers will play Stan Humphries, who signed a four-year $12.35 million deal Thursday, at quarterback for about 1½ quarters. He will be relieved by John Friesz, who missed the 1992 season after injuring a knee in last year's exhibition opener.

The most intriguing matchup could be at Milwaukee between the two most prominent players to change teams during the busy off-season — Reggie White of the Packers and Joe Montana of the Chiefs. Montana was traded from San Francisco, while White signed a four-year, $17 million free agent deal with the Packers.

Except that Montana probably won't play. Coach Marty Schottenheimer is planning to save him for next Thursday night's home game against Buffalo, presumably to help fill Arrowhead Stadium.

"I've been lobbying them, but it doesn't look good," Montans said. "I've missed two years, and I'm looking forward to getting back on the field. The excitement is still there. When you miss something you love for two years, you find you want it more."

The Houston-New Orleans game marks a return for Buddy Ryan, the former Philadelphia coach who now is the Oilers' defensive coordinator. His attitude about exhibitions is like Parcells, meaning that the Saints, who beat the Eagles 28-16 at Tokyo last week, had better look out.

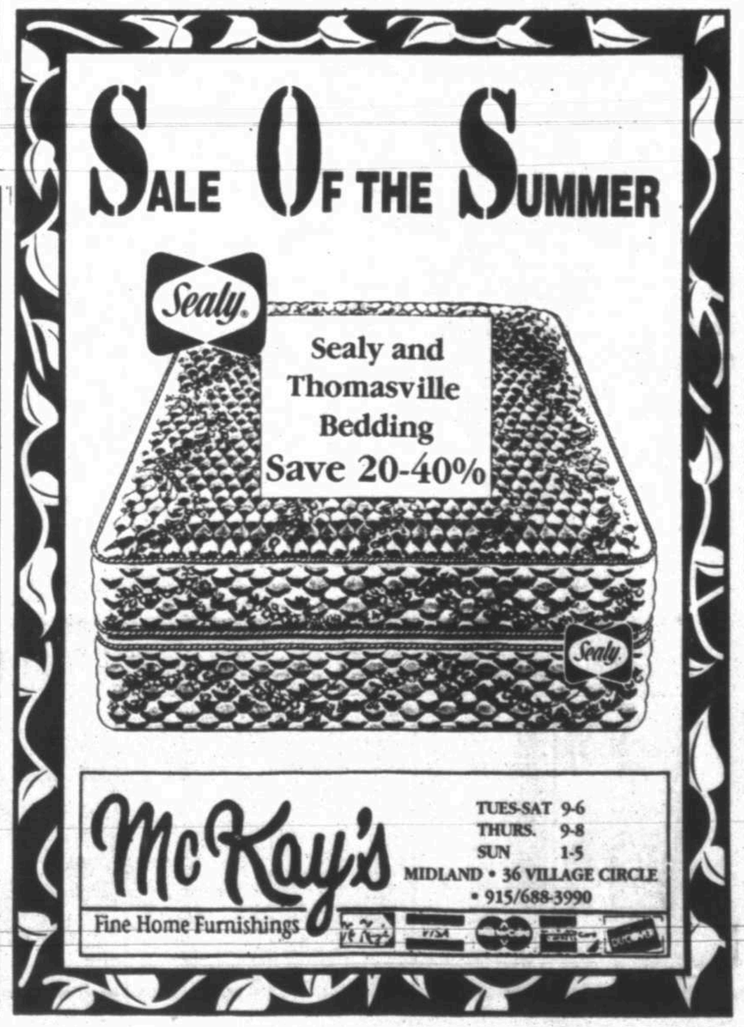

"When you play laid-back so long, it's hard to change," Ryan said of the Houston defense that blew a 35-3 third-quarter lead in a playoff loss at Buffalo last January.

"It was bend but don't break and hope the offense stops itself. We want to stop the offense ourselves."

Christopher: Serbs lift Sarajevo siege or face NATO attack

NATO grows impatient with empty Serb promises, Christopher says. Military strategy to include air force, naval aircraft.

AVIANO, Italy, (AP) — Top U.S. and NATO officials sent a strong signal Friday to Bosnia's Serbs to halt their seige of Sarajevo or face swift military action. "We're ready to take the action that needs to be taken," said Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Christopher flew to this U.S. Air Force base for a briefing from NATO Secretary General Manfred Woerner, U.S. General John Shalikashvili, the alliance's top military commander, and U.S. Admiral Jeremy Boorda, the commander of NATO air operations in Bosnia.

At a news conference, Woerner said a final decision on military plans will be taken next week. "The military operation is ready," said Christopher.

"I would say to the Serbs they would be very unwise to depend upon any indecision," he said.

A NATO source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the alliance was drafting a plan that envisions military action against the Bosnian Serbs but that thus far the blueprint had not reached the top military level.

The NATO military committee will meet Saturday and the alliance's governing body, the North Atlantic Council, will review the plans at a meeting Monday.

In Washington, officials at the White House and the Pentagon said they hoped the military plan would win approval at Monday's meeting but that a final decision by NATO to execute it probably would come at a later, separate meeting.

The White House said Thursday's Serb offer to withdraw forces from two strategic mountains overlooking the Bosnian capital did not go far enough. In fact, on Friday, Bosnian Serbs balked at easing the siege of Sarajevo, failing to reach agreement on handing over their strategic mountain positions to the United Nations.

Christopher stopped in Italy en route to Washington from a five-day mission to the Middle East to try to get the peace process back on track.

He met here with crews of planes that would take part in any action against Serb positions in Bosnia.

Parked on the runway were huge AWACS and C-130 flying command posts and sleek F-16 and F-18 fighters.

Marine Maj. Mark Places of Elmhurst, Ill., stood in front of his F-18D. He said he had never flown in combat but shrugged off a question on whether that made him nervous.

"It's part of the territory," he said. "You constantly train for that."

Lt. Col. Denny Rea, with the Air Force 52nd Tactical Fighter Wing, said it would take about 30 minutes to fly to Sarajevo, which is only about 250 miles from the base.

Asked about Serb air defenses, he said he assumed they had old Soviet surface-to-air missiles. But he acknowledged that they could have shoulder-fired U.S. Stinger missiles.

Also involved is the USS Theodore Roosevelt, an aircraft carrier stationed in the Adriatic.

Christopher brushed off statements by Bosnian Serbs that they are ready to lift the seige of Sarajevo, saying that "we simply cannot accept empty promises as a cover for continued aggression."

He said it was "time for the Serbs to take the action they need to take to avoid the military action being contemplated here."

Attackers renege on their promise to free capital city

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian Serbs balked at easing the 16-month siege of Sarajevo on Friday despite promises made the day before. No accord was reached on handing over strategic positions to the United Nations.

Bosnian Serb commander Gen. Ratko Mladic and Rasim Delic, the commander of troops for Bosnia's Muslim-led government, met at Sarajevo airport with Lt. Gen. Francis Briquemont, commander of U.N. troops for Bosnia, to discuss Serb withdrawal from two strategic peaks over the city that they captured this week.

On Thursday, Mladic and Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic offered to hand Serb positions on the two mountains over to U.N. troops, and to open two routes in and out of the besieged capital city for civilians and aid convoys.

The pledge was meant to undercut growing sentiment in NATO for air raids on Serb positions and to meet the Muslim-led government's terms for resuming talks in Geneva. The meetings seek to divide Bosnia among the three warring factions — Muslims, Serbs and Croats.

But on Friday, Briquemont announced after six hours of talks, "We could not achieve a military solution for Mounts Igman and Bjelasnica because we do not have the same concept about conditions, control or monitoring an area."

He said he, Mladic and Delic will meet again Sunday, when "we shall compare the solutions of the two parties and I hope we shall progress."

Briquemont, of Belgium, called the talks difficult, and the U.N. spokesman, Cmdr. Barry Frewer, called Friday's talks a "long, onerous session."

Mladic did agree to let U.N. military observers remain in the Bjelasnica area, where they arrived on Tuesday, Frewer said.

Despite Karadzic's pledge, his fighters remain firmly entrenched around the capital.

Divided Russian government slows anemic economy

MOSCOW (NYT) — The struggle and drift in Russian economic policy was particularly vivid on Friday, as President Boris N. Yeltsin convened an expanded meeting of his divided government in the Kremlin while the Parliament was busy suspending his privatization program for the second time in a month.

As a measure of the state of affairs, it was considered a victory for the market-oriented wing of the government that the industrialist prime minister, Viktor S. Chernomyrdin, did not throw his support behind a Soviet-style effort by the Economics Ministry to resurrect the essentials of centralized planning.

Instead, in an hourlong speech to the Council of Ministers and representatives of Russian regions and local administrations, Chernomyrdin endorsed a 300-page report that sets noble aims in reducing inflation, stabilizing production and narrowing the budget deficit.

The report, on the state of the Russian economy and its development through 1995, was described by government officials and advisers as a reaffirmation of current commitments to get the budget deficit down to 10 percent of gross domestic product and inflation down to 7 percent a month by the middle of 1994.

But there is much concern among Western economists and diplomats that the government will not be able to get its budget deficit or inflation down sufficiently by the end of 1993 to qualify for a second installment of $1.5 billion in loans from the International Monetary Fund and accelerated loans of $2 billion or so from the World Bank. Russia's debt rescheduling is also at stake.

KNFM (92.3 FM) continues to hold down the top spot in the West Texas radio wars, finishing No. 1 in the Spring 1993 Arbitron ratings with a 15.1 percent share of all listeners, age 12 and above.

KNFM, which has been the top-rated radio station in the Permian Basin since 1989, did lose a share of its audience, dropping 4.3 percentage points from a 19.4 share during the Fall 1992 reporting period.

KGEE (99.9 FM), also country, was the second-highest rated station in the area. KGEE's share of the market jumped slightly from 12.0 in the Fall '92 period to a 12.6 during the Spring of '93.

THE FUGITIVE

Updated film holds its own

By Michael H. Price
N.Y. Times New Service

Network television's "The Fugitive" kept David Janssen on the run for four years, eluding capture for a crime of which his character was innocent while carrying on a dogged pursuit of his own for the culprit.

The payoff episode in 1967 attracted almost three-quarters of the U.S. household audience, establishing a record that went unbeaten until the climax of "Dallas'" "Who Shot J.R.?" plot, 13 years later.

All of which will be ancient history to many of the customers who discover "The Fugitive" as a one-shot feature-film revival starring Harrison Ford. Fans who can remember the series will be drawn back in, all right, but nostalgia is hardly an issue. Arriving Friday from Warner Bros., "The Fugitive" is certain to give the adventurous likes of "Cliffhanger," "Rising Sun" and "In the Line of Fire" a run for their money

Janet's justice

Janet Jackson's "Poetic Justice" remained in the Top 10 in national box office receipts last week, raking in $5 million, but dropped from No. 1 to No. 7. "Justice," a John Singleton film, continues its run at the Midland Park Mall cinema this week.

Those bombs are really hits

■ They may look like mega-busts, but Disney's summer movies are quietly raking it in for the entertainment powerhouse.

By John Horn
AP Entertainment Writer

BURBANK, Calif. — On paper — and on screen — it looks like one bomb after another: "Guilty as Sin," "Super Mario Brothers," "Another Stakeout," "Hocus Pocus."

In fact, these Walt Disney Co. summer films all will make money. Along with Disney's other releases, they are helping the studio to another record-breaking year in motion-picture profits

Please see DISNEY/3C

ON SCREEN

(Condensed movie reviews by Los Angeles Daily News film critics. The rating system for the film list is: ★★★★ — Don't miss it; ★★★ — worth your while; ★★ — Has it moments; ★ — if you must)

N.Y. Times News Service

ALADDIN: Another endlessly entertaining animated feature from Walt Disney, buoyed by Robin Williams' energetically inventive turn as the Genie who helps a poor street kid named Aladdin surmount the evil plotting of Jafar and win the love of the Sultan's daughter Jasmine. Dazzling color and breathtaking animation combine with nonstop laughs and spritely songs. G. Rating: ★★★★.

CLIFFHANGER: Truly spectacular stunts, camerawork and special effects are nearly wasted on this stone dumb, Alpine adventure. Sylvester Stallone battles John Lithgow's murderous thieves at 12,000 feet. Director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2") piles on the virtuoso, ridiculous action, but the effects of oxygen deprivation are only apparent when somebody tries to speak coherently. R. Rating: ★★½.

CONEHEADS: The "SNL" sketch is brought to the screen pretty faithfully and with a good sense of fun, though an interlude on the Coneheads' home planet is tiresome. Dan Aykroyd and Jane Curtin reprise their roles as the pointy headed alien invaders who enthusiastically take up a mass consuming, suburban lifestyle. Steve Barron of "Ninja Turtle" infamy directed, but don't let that keep you away. PG. Rating: ★★★.

THE FIRM: Sydney Pollack's gripping, intelligent film version of John Grisham's legal thriller improves on the book. Tom Cruise is the only weak link — and he's never less than adequate — in this cerebral suspenser about a young lawyer enmeshed in a mob-connected law firm. He must use all of his legal skills to avoid getting squashed by the government or mafia or both, and his ingenious strategy is the film's real star. Jeanne Tripplehorn ("Basic Instinct"), Gene Hackman, Ed Harris and Holly Hunter provide invaluable support. R. Rating: ★★★½.

FREE WILLY: A sort of "E.T." for the environmentally conscious, the story of two adolescents in search of family — one a killer whale, the other an abandoned boy — unfolds deftly and without excess sentiment. Credit director Simon Wincer ("Phar Lap," "Lonesome Dove," "The Man From Snowy River"), newcomer Jason James Richter, Keiko the whale and wildlife cinematographer Bob Talbot for the class act of the summer family shows. PG. Rating: ★★★.

IN THE LINE OF FIRE: This terrifically enjoyable action thriller pits Clint Eastwood's aging Secret Service agent against John Malkovich's brilliant, would-be presidential assassin. Both actors give flavorful performances and director Wolfgang Petersen ("Das Boot") supplies smart, Hitchcockian visual and thematic panache. The whole thing is a little hard to believe, but it's too good a time at the movies for that

NATO grows impatient with empty Serb promises, Christopher says. Military strategy to include air force, naval aircraft.

AVIANO, Italy, (AP) — Top U.S. and NATO officials sent a strong signal Friday to Bosnia's Serbs to halt their seige of Sarajevo or face swift military action. "We're ready to take the action that needs to be taken," said Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Christopher flew to this U.S. Air Force base for a briefing from NATO Secretary General Manfred Woerner, U.S. General John Shalikashvili, the alliance's top military commander, and U.S. Admiral Jeremy Boorda, the commander of NATO air operations in Bosnia.

At a news conference, Woerner said a final decision on military plans will be taken next week. "The military operation is ready," said Christopher.

"I would say to the Serbs they would be very unwise to depend upon any indecision," he said.

A NATO source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the alliance was drafting a plan that envisions military action against the Bosnian Serbs but that thus far the blueprint had not reached the top military level.

The NATO military committee will meet Saturday and the alliance's governing body, the North Atlantic Council, will review the plans at a meeting Monday.

In Washington, officials at the White House and the Pentagon said they hoped the military plan would win approval at Monday's meeting but that a final decision by NATO to execute it probably would come at a later, separate meeting.

The White House said Thursday's Serb offer to withdraw forces from two strategic mountains overlooking the Bosnian capital did not go far enough. In fact, on Friday, Bosnian Serbs balked at easing the siege of Sarajevo, failing to reach agreement on handing over their strategic mountain positions to the United Nations.

Christopher stopped in Italy en route to Washington from a five-day mission to the Middle East to try to get the peace process back on track.

He met here with crews of planes that would take part in any action against Serb positions in Bosnia.

Parked on the runway were huge AWACS and C-130 flying command posts and sleek F-16 and F-18 fighters.

Marine Maj. Mark Places of Elmhurst, Ill., stood in front of his F-18D. He said he had never flown in combat but shrugged off a question on whether that made him nervous.

By Jimmy Patterson
Special Projects Editor

KNFM (92.3 FM) continues to hold down the top spot in the West Texas radio wars, finishing No. 1 in the Spring 1993 Arbitron ratings with a 15.1 percent share of all listeners, age 12 and above.

KNFM, which has been the top-rated radio station in the Permian Basin since 1989, did lose a share of its audience, dropping 4.3 percentage points from a 19.4 share during the Fall 1992 reporting period.

Results of the spring rating period, from April 1-June 23, were released this week by The Arbitron Co., New York.

Country music continued to be the most-listened to format in the area, garnering a 34.8 percent share of all radio listeners.

KGEE (99.9 FM), also country, was the second-highest rated station in the area. KGEE's share of the market jumped slightly from 12.0 in the Fall '92 period to a 12.6 during the Spring of '93.

In at No. 3 was KCHX. The contemporary hits station, at 106.7 FM, KCHX was the only other station in the Permian Basin with a double-digit share of the audience, at 10.5 percent.

Rounding out the Top 5 were album oriented rock's KBAT (8.8) at No. 4, and KODM (adult contemporary), with a 6.7 share.

Updated film holds its own

By Michael H. Price
N.Y. Times New Service

Network television's "The Fugitive" kept David Janssen on the run for four years, eluding capture for a crime of which his character was innocent while carrying on a dogged pursuit of his own for the culprit.

The payoff episode in 1967 attracted almost three-quarters of the U.S. household audience, establishing a record that went unbeaten until the climax of "Dallas'" "Who Shot J.R.?" plot, 13 years later.

All of which will be ancient history to many of the customers who discover "The Fugitive" as a one-shot feature-film revival starring Harrison Ford. Fans who can remember the series will be drawn back in, all right, but nostalgia is hardly an issue. Arriving Friday from Warner Bros., "The Fugitive" is certain to give the adventurous likes of "Cliffhanger," "Rising Sun" and "In the Line of Fire" a run for their money

Janet Jackson's "Poetic Justice" remained in the Top 10 in national box office receipts last week, raking in $5 million, but dropped from No. 1 to No. 7. "Justice," a John Singleton film, continues its run at the Midland Park Mall cinema this week.

Those bombs are really hits

■ They may look like mega-busts, but Disney's summer movies are quietly raking it in for the entertainment powerhouse.

By John Horn
AP Entertainment Writer

BURBANK, Calif. — On paper — and on screen — it looks like one bomb after another: "Guilty as Sin," "Super Mario Brothers," "Another Stakeout," "Hocus Pocus."

In fact, these Walt Disney Co. summer films all will make money. Along with Disney's other releases, they are helping the studio to another record-breaking year in motion-picture profits

ON SCREEN

(Condensed movie reviews by Los Angeles Daily News film critics. The rating system for the film list is: ★★★★ — Don't miss it; ★★★ — worth your while; ★★ — Has it moments; ★ — if you must)

N.Y. Times News Service

ALADDIN: Another endlessly entertaining animated feature from Walt Disney, buoyed by Robin Williams' energetically inventive turn as the Genie who helps a poor street kid named Aladdin surmount the evil plotting of Jafar and win the love of the Sultan's daughter Jasmine. Dazzling color and breathtaking animation combine with nonstop laughs and spritely songs. G. Rating: ★★★★.

CLIFFHANGER: Truly spectacular stunts, camerawork and special effects are nearly wasted on this stone dumb, Alpine adventure. Sylvester Stallone battles John Lithgow's murderous thieves at 12,000 feet. Director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2") piles on the virtuoso, ridiculous action, but the effects of oxygen deprivation are only apparent when somebody tries to speak coherently. R. Rating: ★★½.

CONEHEADS: The "SNL" sketch is brought to the screen pretty faithfully and with a good sense of fun, though an interlude on the Coneheads' home planet is tiresome. Dan Aykroyd and Jane Curtin reprise their roles as the pointy headed alien invaders who enthusiastically take up a mass consuming, suburban lifestyle. Steve Barron of "Ninja Turtle" infamy directed, but don't let that keep you away. PG. Rating: ★★★.

THE FIRM: Sydney Pollack's gripping, intelligent film version of John Grisham's legal thriller improves on the book. Tom Cruise is the only weak link — and he's never less than adequate — in this cerebral suspenser about a young lawyer enmeshed in a mob-connected law firm. He must use all of his legal skills to avoid getting squashed by the government or mafia or both, and his ingenious strategy is the film's real star. Jeanne Tripplehorn ("Basic Instinct"), Gene Hackman, Ed Harris and Holly Hunter provide invaluable support. R. Rating: ★★★½.

FREE WILLY: A sort of "E.T." for the environmentally conscious, the story of two adolescents in search of family — one a killer whale, the other an abandoned boy — unfolds deftly and without excess sentiment. Credit director Simon Wincer ("Phar Lap," "Lonesome Dove," "The Man From Snowy River"), newcomer Jason James Richter, Keiko the whale and wildlife cinematographer Bob Talbot for the class act of the summer family shows. PG. Rating: ★★★.

IN THE LINE OF FIRE: This terrifically enjoyable action thriller pits Clint Eastwood's aging Secret Service agent against John Malkovich's brilliant, would-be presidential assassin. Both actors give flavorful performances and director Wolfgang Petersen ("Das Boot") supplies smart, Hitchcockian visual and thematic panache. The whole thing is a little hard to believe, but it's too good a time at the movies for that

Ford prefers characters with some character

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Harrison Ford knows how Dr. Richard Kimble feels. Both have been wrongly condemned, Kimble for a crime he didn't commit, Ford with a persona he doesn't want.

Ford plays Kimble in the new, big-screen version of the classic television drama "The Fugitive." The actor's imperative is to invest as much human complexity as he can into a movie that is essentially one long, nonstop chase; the kind of action attraction that has made Ford famous but that he'd like to move beyond.

"There's very little time to sketch in Kimble's life before the circumstances that led h..n to become the fugitive," Ford explained with the wispiest hint of frustration.

He wasn't concerned about capturing or avoiding the same persona the late David Janssen brought to the role in the popular '60s series — Ford claims never to have watched an episode of it all the way through.

But he was determined to get enough across about the man — his comfortable complacency as a wealthy Chicago doctor, his devastation over the loss of a beloved wife, his bewildered paranoia at being wrongly convicted of murdering her — to lift the performance above its simple, running-man basics.

It's a struggle Ford is familiar with. Long considered Hollywood's ultimate, action franchise movie player — he's been in all three "Star Wars," headlined a trio of Indiana Jones entries and starts his second stint as Tom Clancy's super CIA analyst Jack Ryan in the fall — Ford would like nothing more than to prove himself a versatile, fully mature actor.

He has had some success at that recently — as an effective romantic comedian in "Working Girl" and "Presumed Innocent's" conflicted lawyer. But he also failed to click with the difficult psychological studies "Regarding Henry" and "The Mosquito Coast."

Now comes "The Fugitive," which was directed by action specialist Andrew Davis ("Under Siege," "Above the Law"). Ford portrays Richard Kimble as a physically resilient, nimble-witted sort. His search for the one-armed man whom no one believes really killed Mrs. Kimble is conducted with pitbull tenacity, his escapes from relentless pursuer Marshal Sam Gerard (Tommy Lee Jones) executed with laserlike precision.

Still, Ford would like his souped-up version of Janssen's haunted wanderer to be perceived as more man than movie hero.

"I think it is interesting to see, if a person is going to do something heroic, that they are much like we are," said the 51-year-old actor, whose only outstanding physical characteristic is looking a good decade younger than his age. "There's more of an emotional continuity between you and that character who is an ordinary man who behaves extraordinarily than if it's an extraordinary man all the way through and you've just got to sit there and admire him."

"Harrison is everybody's next door neighbor," the film's producer, Arnold Kopelson, added.

When he's not running for his life, that is. Fleshing out Kimble in such a fast-paced scenario was not an easy task. Janssen had it easier. Over "The Fugitive's" four-year run, Kimble had ample time to saunter into a town, strike up relationships with usually female, usually vulnerable locals, and reveal his tender, noble instincts before having to move on at episode's end.

To get the guy's personality across, Ford had to rely on quick-read visual signifiers.

"The studio was not happy with the beard," he said, grinning, about his Kimble's pre-escape penchant for facial hair. "They figured they'd paid for the face they wanted to see, so they were very concerned about that."

FUGITIVE: Jones, to many, will be film's star

(From 1C)

at the box office.

Distilling the yarn to an essence eliminates much of the fun of the original; the lulls in the chase allowed an anthology-type presentation rather like "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" or "Thriller," except with recurring characters. But Ford is a more expressive actor than Janssen, and the casting of Texan Tommy Lee Jones as Ford's nemesis is a brilliant stroke.

In a performance mingling the vitality of Indiana Jones with the obsessive drive of his "Mosquito Coast" character from 1986, Ford makes the title character — a distinguished surgeon named Richard Kimble — a resourceful but fallible sort, forgetful of crucial details even as he attends to the business of altering his appearance to move about freely.

The Fugitive

Richard Kimble ..... HARRISON FORD
Sam Gerard ..... TOMMY LEE JONES
Helen Kimble ..... SELA WARD

Directed by Andrew Davis; Produced by Arnold Kopelson; Screenplay by Jeb Stuart and David Twohy.
Rating: PG-13 (mature themes, violence, language)
Venue: Midland Park Mall.

Kimble must be free, you see, to evade a relentless team of federal marshals while he tracks down the notorious one-armed man who killed Kimble's wife. Kimble has been convicted in that slaying, and he owes his illicit freedom to an accident — and a spectacular accident, at that — that enables him to escape while en route to prison.

As solidly grounded in horror cinema and the action-adventure no-brainer genre as in midcentury television melodrama, the "Fugitive" screenplay is the work of David Twohy, best known for the supernatural thriller "Warlock," and Jeb Stuart, whose first produced screenplay marked the start of a series called "Die Hard." Director Andrew Davis piles on the mayhem to a satisfying degree, especially in the final reel.

Davis' lean-and-mean directing style leaves Ford and Jones plenty of room to find unexpected depth in their characters. Second-billed Jones (inheriting a role played on television by Barry Morse) will be the star of the show for many viewers: He seems to know that Ford is guiltless, and yet still he pursues, perhaps relishing the chase more than the anticipation of capture. Jones has an edge here in light of earlier successful collaborations with director Davis on "The Package" and the recent Steven Seagal action thriller "Under Siege."

But Ford matches Jones note-for-note in the nuances-of-character department, developing a sorrowful portrait of a man of utter devotion. Flashbacks demonstrate the depth of Dr. Kimble's feelings for his wife (played by Sela Ward) and portray his discovery of the crime in terms that demand the viewer identify with his situation. As the notorious one-armed man, big Andreas Katsulas is appropriately menacing.

Photographed to strong foreboding effect by Michael Chapman, "The Fugitive" offers proof that classic-manner film noir — that movie-making attitude involving tormented heroes at large in a hostile "civilized" world — has as great a validity today as in its heyday of the latter 1940s. This is no mean accomplishment for a TV spinoff.

Disappointing 'Meteor Man' burns out quickly

By Yardena Arar
N.Y. Timews News Service

LOS ANGELES — Look up at that street light! It's a bird! It's a plane!

No, it's just Robert Townsend hanging on for dear life in one of the funnier moments of "Meteor Man," in which he plays an inner-city schoolteacher suddenly — and to his intense discomfort — endowed with superpowers.

In this particular scene, Townsend has just flown for the first time, as much to his own astonishment as to that of the crooks who have been chasing him. He doesn't fly very far or very high, though, because he has a fear of heights. The movie has no such excuse; every time you think it might take off, it gets bogged down in some muddled attempt to make a social statement.

Townsend, who wrote and directed, plays Jefferson Reed, a substitute teacher so resigned to failure that he tells his young charges to run at the first sign of trouble in their crime-ridden Washington, D.C., neighborhood. Reed is the exact opposite of his dad (Robert Guillaume), who goes out of his way to threaten gang members, with predictable consequences.

When a meteor oddly reminiscent of kryptonite strikes him in a dark alley, Reed suffers third-degree burns and winds up in a hospital. But strange things begin happening, not the least of them being his miraculous recovery.

Soon he is home, talking to his dog and absorbing entire books at a single touch in addition to more traditional superhero feats. Watching Reed try out his new abilities is the best part of the film, right up there with watching his mom (Marla Gibbs) and hair-obsessed downstairs neighbor (James Earl Jones).

Reed's initial encounters with an endless stream of bullies — most notably the bleached-blond members of the Golden Lords — also are cute, but soon things start to fall apart. Although Townsend is bent on making the point that you don't need to be a superhero to stand up for yourself, the film ultimately sends a very different message — that might makes right.

"Meteor Man" boasts a huge cast, including a number of star cameos. Some work, but, for the most part, they make for an unnecessarily busy movie. Bill Cosby's much ballyhooed appearance as a homeless man who also gets a dose of meteor magic pays off with one mildly amusing scene that has nothing to do with anything else happening on screen.

Townsend's knack for sketch comedy, honed on a series of Home Box Office specials, is very much in evidence when "Meteor Man" clicks. He has a wonderful, gentle quality that makes him perfect for his role, and his directing is solid enough; it's the writing that needs work.

It's a bird ... it's a plane ... it's a disappointment.

RADIO: KCRS makes strides

(From 1C)

Country music's KCRS (103.3 FM) registered the largest increase in audience share from the Fall '92 period, jumping from a 2.8 to a 6.0, and rising from 11th in the market into a three-way tie for sixth, along with KCDQ (102.1 FM) and KMRK (96 FM).

Since changing its format from classic rock to a mixture of classic rock with "today's country," KCDQ has pulled in 5.7 and 6.0 shares in the last two books.

A share indicates the percentage of households with radios in use.

SCREEN: 'Axe Murderer jokes wear thin toward end

(From 1C)

to matter much. R. Rating: ★★★½.

JURASSIC PARK: Steven Spielberg's dino-spectacular is not the religious experience many expected, but it's a pretty good, sci-fi chase movie. Something goes wrong at an island amusement park whose main attraction is genetically engineered, live dinosaurs. The big lizards, realized by a superb combination of full-sized robots and computer-generated graphics, have infinitely more charisma than their underwritten human prey, played by Sam Neill, Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum and Richard Attenborough. PG-13. Rating: ★★★.

POETIC JUSTICE: John Singleton's follow-up to "Boyz N the Hood" isn't the worst case of sophomore slump ever, but there are more than a few bumps in this road movie/romance. Janet Jackson and rapper Tupac Shakur are convincing as young adults trying to survive the pain of inner-city life with dignity, and Maya Angelou's poetry lends the film a touch of class when it doesn't feel ridiculously forced in context. R. Rating: ★★.

RISING SUN: Though he has excised some of the more alarmist politics from Michael Crichton's Japan-bashing best seller, adapter-director Philip Kaufman ("The Right Stuff") still has made a pretty racist thriller. It's also quite sexist and muddled, though blessed with strong, high-tech visuals and fine performances by Sean Connery and Wesley Snipes. They're two L.A. cops investigating the murder of a white woman in a Japanese corporate tower; the mystery is too obvious, the explanations of Japanese behavior simultaneously reductive and convoluted. R. Rating: ★★.

ROBIN HOOD: MEN IN TIGHTS: Mel Brooks is back with a parody of Kevin Costner's "Robin Hood" featuring Cary Elwes as Robin of Loxley, crackup performances by Roger Rees and Richard Lewis as the Sheriff of Rottingham and Prince John, Tracy Ullman as the hag Latrine and Brooks himself as Rabbi Tuckman. It has Brooks' signature musical numbers and Yiddish jokes, plus Dom DeLuise as a medieval Marlon Brando, but the lunacy isn't consistant enough to match Brooks' earlier sendups or more recent spoofs by the Zucker brothers and Jim Abrahams. Go with modest expectations. PG-13. Rating: ★★.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR: A sweet and funny fable about a clumsy 12-year-old who is drafted by the Chicago Cubs when his broken arm heals into a 100-mph pitching machine. Rookie director Daniel Stern in a not-so-shabby performance himself milks the situation for all its comic potential without ever losing sight of the warmth that gives the film its "Big"-ish charm. PG. Rating: ★★★.

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE: Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan star in Nora Ephron's contrived, self-mocking and deliriously wonderful romantic comedy. He's a widowed single father; she's a passion rattled journalist on the other side of the continent. They don't meet until the last scene. In the meantime, Ephron (who wrote Ryan's hit "When Harry Met Sally...") hilariously implores us to bury our fake, movie fed romantic notions — then makes us fall for them all over again. PG-13. Rating: ★★★½.

DISNEY: Even 'Son-In-Law' made millions

(From 1C)

— likely more than $600 million for the fiscal year.

The high-profile blockbusters "Jurassic Park," "The Firm" and "In the Line of Fire" have captured most of the headlines this summer. But very quietly, Disney has put together a movie roster that collectively will make more money than some entire entertainment conglomerates.

The secret lies in the company's low-budget deal making, creative financing and aggressive marketing. Where the average studio film costs close to $30 million — and many exceed $50 million — Disney has kept its costs subterranean.

If anybody else had made "The Adventures of Huck Finn," for example, it probably would be a $35 million epic, and a loser at that. Since Disney made it for a paltry $10 million, its modest box office of $26 million won't keep Disney from netting some money at the end of the run. Furthermore, its talented director, Stephen Sommers, is set to make at least two more movies for Disney.

"Son-in-Law" may not attract a lot of Academy-Award nominations, but so what? The Pauly Shore nuptial comedy was produced for a rock-bottom $8 million. After three weeks of release, "Son-in-Law" sold $26 million in tickets, of which Disney collects half. Before it hits video stores, "Son-in-Law" is making money.

Although Disney executives sorely wish they had one "Sister Act"-type hit or a critical smash this season, stockholders really can't complain. Of all the recent Disney films, only one — "Life With Mikey" — will lose money, and it may end up only $5 million in the red.

"That would be the only real disappointment this summer," says Disney's Dick Cook, who heads up the company's distribution arm. "We weren't able to hit a chord with the public."

At the same time, the company slowly is beginning to shed its image for turning out an endless stream of unimaginative, predictable works:

■ Earlier this week, Disney signed Allen and Albert Hughes, the 21-year-old twins behind the sleeper hit drama "Menace II Society," to a two-picture deal.

■ Miramax Films, whose current titles include "Like Water for Chocolate" and "Strictly Ballroom," was bought by Disney this April.

■ Tim Burton, the offbeat director behind "Beetlejuice" and the "Batman" movies, is making two quirky movies for Disney — a stop-action animated film called "The Nightmare Before Christmas" and "Ed Wood," a story about the worst director in Hollywood history.

The Disney lot will never consistently attract the top stars and directors. The work ethic is so rigid and the money so tight that not long ago studio employees would quip, "If you don't work on Saturday, don't even think about coming to work on Sunday."

These days, though, there are occasional signs of largess. Whoopi Goldberg is being paid $7 million to star in "Sister Act 2," which probably will be Disney's most expensive (and contentious) production this year.

And in other places, worries over low budgets are replaced with praise for a more relaxed atmosphere. Jeffrey Katzenberg, chairman of Disney's movie division and a legendary meddler, pledges he's no longer micromanaging each and every picture.

Film producers say he's a man of his word.

"You may not set records for fees, but it's good work, and they're good people," says Steve Tisch, an independent producer who counts Katzenberg among his friends.

Tisch, who made "Big Business" for Disney in 1988, also applauds the company's preference for an array of safe, small films instead of a handful of make-or-break blockbusters.

"I think that's probably a good business philosophy — they really sort of spread it out and try to control their costs. They have a lot of movies in distribution and I think they're going for a broad program of pictures."

Hiring the most expensive actors and directors is no guarantee of success anyway, other producers point out. Sydney Pollack may bequeath you with a runaway like "The Firm" — or he may saddle you with a turkey like "Havana."

"Disney's theory often is that the top talent isn't worth the price you pay the top talent," says one top producer. "They'd much rather take a shot with someone either less tried and true or someone not tried and true at all."

Finally, Disney eventually may become a place where true filmmakers are proud to work. The studio acquired the classy South African film "Sarafina!" last year, and is busily courting the purveyors of other, more daring projects.

"It was very satisfying creatively and practically," Doug Chapin, the producer of the Tina Turner story "What's Love Got to Do With It," said of working on the Burbank lot. The film dealt with spousal abuse, hardly a subject matter in many previous Disney films.

"From the very first conversation, we said, 'Now, you're aware that there's sex and drugs and violence in this movie and these are pretty intense experiences these people went through?'

"And they said, 'We understand that, and we're making that movie.'"

It's now Disney's biggest hit of the summer.

TRAILERS: Despite some early media predictions that the summer season would be a dud, box-office revenues are running 11 percent ahead of the all-time record. Thanks mostly to "Jurassic Park," the summer haul so far totals $938.9 million, up dramatically from $771.4 million at the same point a year ago. The record pace, set in 1989, was $848.2 million. Of course, movie tickets cost $4.44 in 1989, and average close to $5.15 now.

JETHRO'S FORESIGHT!

WHEN JETHRO, MOSES' FATHER-IN-LAW, WAS VISITING THE CAMP OF THE ISRAELITES HE CAUTIONED MOSES WITH A BIT OF ADVICE. AND BECAUSE OF HIS ADVICE PEOPLE EVEN TODAY DELEGATE AUTHORITY IN A LIKE MANNER. WHAT JETHRO SAW, THAT CAUSED HIM CONCERN, WAS THE FACT THAT MOSES SPENT FROM MORNING TILL NIGHT LISTENING TO THE TROUBLES OF HIS FOLLOWERS AND STRAIGHTENING OUT SQUABBLES AMONG FAMILIES, ETC., TO THE EXTENT THAT MORE IMPORTANT NEEDS WERE NEGLECTED. HE RECOMMENDED ASSIGNING MEN TO SPECIFIC DUTIES TO RELIEVE MOSES OF PETTY DETAILS. "...MEN OF TRUTH...TO BE RULERS OF THOUSANDS, AND RULERS OF HUNDREDS, RULERS OF FIFTIES, AND RULERS OF TENS: AND LET THEM JUDGE THE PEOPLE AT ALL SEASONS..." (EXODUS 18:21,22) AND TO THIS DAY JETHRO'S ADVICE IS POTENTLY PRACTICAL!

West Texas Methodist pastor explores ministries of diversity

By Roy A. Jones II
Associate Press writer

ABILENE — The Rev. Curtis Hayes wasn't surprised when he became the first black minister appointed to pastor a predominantly white church in the Abilene District of the United Methodist Church.

After all, the appointment was an answer to prayer.

Oh, Hayes wasn't praying to be a first. He had learned — the hard way, he says — "to let God control my life, not Curtis."

"But I've always been praying for a church like this," he said, speaking in his study at Grace United Methodist Church.

"I told the Lord 20 years ago if I ever pastored a church I wanted to pastor a church that has white people and black people and Mexican people and all colors," he added.

Grace doesn't have any black members right now, but promoting inclusiveness and fostering a genuine unity in Christ were two of Bishop Alfred Norris' main goals when he selected Hayes and three Abilene-area pastors to break new ground in the far-flung Northwest Texas Conference.

Norris, who had been named the conference's first black bishop in July 1992, made the first of what he called "cross-cultural" pastoral appointments in June.

In addition to Hayes, the Rev. Darrell Boone, a black minister who pastored the predominantly black Plum Street UMC here, was appointed to pastor a predominantly white church in Levelland; the Rev. Steve Boney, who is white, was appointed to follow Boone at Plum Street; and the Rev. Todd Raspberry, who is white, moved from Aspermont's First UMC to pastor the predominantly black Mount Vernon UMC which Hayes had pastored in Lubbock for four years.

Hays said he has already found the Grace congregation to be more demonstrative in its worship than the Lubbock church. When he describes his former congregation as "cold," he's talking about the lack of "feed back" during a sermon, not the members' spirituality. An occasional "amen" was about the closest he came to the participatory encouragement commonly associated with black churches.

> 'But that's okay, I get my amens anyhow. The Lord gives me his amens.'
> — Rev. Curtis Hayes

"It's the Methodist in those folks," he said with a laugh, explaining that he'd been a Baptist for most of his life and had grown accustomed to more audience participation.

"But that's okay, I get my amens anyhow. The Lord gives me his amens," he added.

Hayes said at Grace he can see "a lot of people shaking their heads and smiling," so he knows "the Lord's getting through to 'em. . .He's the one doing the preachin' anyway; I'm just his mouthpiece."

That's a far cry from the attitude Hayes had for the first 50 or so years of his life. He wanted Curtis Hayes, not God, to be No. 1.

Hayes, now 62, has always been driven to be the best at whatever he does.

Growing up in an integrated American Baptist church in an integrated community, Sioux City, Iowa, he excelled at speech in high school. He said he recognizes now "it was a God-given talent," but using that gift for the Lord was not a priority.

After a year in all-black Lincoln University, as a pre-law major, he was drafted into the Army in 1951. He wound up toting a rifle in Korea for a year.

After the war, he earned a bachelor's degree in speech from Morningside College. He taught high school speech in Sioux City for five years, then in California for 15 years.

In California his integrated speech teams won state titles nearly every year and he was recognized as the state's most outstanding speech teacher.

"I had rooms full of trophies. That was my goal then, being No. 1. But when I finally made it I wasn't satisfied," he said.

Meanwhile, he felt the Lord leading him to attend seminary. He got a scare, though, when he was recommended to Dallas Theological Seminary. He'd never even visited the South before.

"I didn't want to go to Dallas. I'd heard they used to hang black folks in Dallas," he said.

Nevertheless, he stepped out on faith. After he had sold his two homes and furnishings and prepared to move to Dallas, he got a letter informing him he'd been accepted to study at the seminary — and on full, four-year scholarship!

"The Lord provides," he beamed.

"Three years of Greek and two years of Hebrew nearly killed me though," he said. "It had been a long time since I'd gone to school."

He received his master's degree in theology in 1980.

"I told the Lord I'd like to be a chaplain in a prison or a hospital, or teach Bible at a Bible college," he said. "I told him, 'I don't want to be a missionary.'"

"Well, it wasn't long before I was in Africa," he laughed. "The Lord still had to keep me down."

With God's help he raised his own $30,000 support for the three-year, inter-denominational mission to Liberia. His main support came from the "store-front churches" of pastor friends he had met in seminary.

He'd planned to return to Liberia in 1985, but when the support was slow in coming in, he returned to teaching school in Dallas. Through a friend's insistence, the Baptist wound up attending the 3,000-member St. Luke's United Methodist Church and "fell in love with it."

Eventually, after taking some Methodist doctrine courses, he became one of its associate ministers.

Another step of faith took him to Lubbock for his first pastorate in 1988 and he's "still growing in the Lord every day," he said. He's already scheduled some joint activities with other predominantly white Abilene churches to help break down racial barriers.

Hayes and his wife of 42 years, Opal, have three grown children and eight grandchildren.

Churches criticize refugee protection proposals

NEW YORK (AP) — Church organizations have sharply criticized the Clinton Administration's proposal for summary exclusion of refugees without safeguards for those fleeing political persecution.

The new screening standard "raises the real possibility that refugees will be forcibly repatriated before all the facts of the case are made known," said the executive director of the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service.

"Refugees and asylum seekers are among the most vulnerable people in the world," added Ralston H. Deffenbaugh Jr. "They must be protected."

The Rev. Richard Ryscavage of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' office of Migration and Refugee Service, also criticized reducing legal safeguards of refugees. He said it's "the worst time possible for the United States to renege on its international and moral leadership in refugee protection."

Church World Service, relief arm of the National Council of Churches, also criticized the Supreme Court's recent decision upholding the Clinton Administration's policy of intercepting and returning Haitian refugees without hearing their claims.

Lutheran membership decreases; giving increases

CHICAGO (AP) — Membership is down slightly, but giving is up in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

The denomination reported a decrease of 10,609 baptized members in 1992. After two years of reporting small increases in membership, the 0.2 percent decline last year dropped the denomination's membership to 5,235,000.

"Though any loss of members is disappointing, this church is grateful that the number is as low as it is," said the Rev. Lowell G. Almen, secretary of the national church.

The Lutheran church also reported giving increased 3.7 percent in 1992, up $41 million to a total of nearly $1.7 billion.

Researchers: Methodism influences American culture

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Initiators of a $600,000, three-year research project into "United Methodism and the American Culture," say people cannot understand religion in the United States unless they understand Methodism.

The project, financed by the Lilly Endowment, is being co-directed by the Rev. Dennis M. Campbell, president of Duke University's divinity school president, and the Rev. Russell E. Richey, dean.

They say Methodism became the "most popular and fastest growing religion in the new nation," serving as a "creative and trend-setting religious force.

"Methodism helped to shape the United States just as the United States was determinative in the shaping of American Methodism."

However, that Methodist influence on U.S. culture has gone largely unexplored by scholars, the project officers say, adding that this is a curious oversight since Methodists make up the largest, most geographically widespread, socially diverse of the country's mainline Protestant bodies.

House passes $5.7 billion flood relief bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate a $5.7 billion spending bill Friday to repair damage from months of flooding and heavy rain in the Midwest.

The measure also provides aid to farmers suffering crop losses this year from the Southeastern drought and weather problems elsewhere.

Approving the measure by a voice vote, the House made only minor changes in the bill passed Wednesday by the Senate, which was expected to send the bill quickly to President Clinton.

Clinton requested or endorsed all the items in the aid package, which totaled only $2.5 billion when he introduced it July 14 in waterlogged Des Moines, Iowa.

The amount of aid has steadily grown with the scope of the disaster, and will continue to rise as the flood waters recede, exposing more damage to communities, homes, farms, highways, railroads and livelihoods.

Damage has been estimated at $12 billion. The loss to farm production will become clearer next Wednesday when the Agriculture Department issues its first corn and soybean production estimates based on field surveys conducted this weekend.

"We've scattered money all over the world," said Rep. William H. Natcher, D-Ky. and chairman of the Appropriations Committee, urging the House to move quickly. "These are our people and they're suffering."

Besides approving $2.3 billion in payments for crop losses, the bill gives $2 billion for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the front-line agency for aiding individuals and families.

The bill provides funds for repair of levees, highways and rail lines; temporary jobs in flood cleanup; individual loans of up to $1.5 million for small businesses; and grants for communities to rebuild.

It offers a variety of other aid aimed at protecting water supplies, safeguarding against epidemics and helping individuals repair their homes and farms.

Some of the spending that was approved will service nearly $600 million in loans, bringing the total value of the aid to $6.2 billion.

Because of the crop-loss provision added by the Senate, growers should be able to collect the full amount of disaster payment under a formula contained in the 1990 farm bill.

The formula enables growers to collect about 42 cents on each dollar of loss. Disaster spending bills since then, however, have limited payments to farmers at 21 cents on the dollar.

The $900 million in crop-disaster payments will be borrowed from the Agriculture Department's Commodity Credit Corp., rather than directly from the Treasury. The CCC continuously takes in and pays out money, and Congress yearly appropriates more to cover shortfalls.

Manufacturing jobs drop, fast food employment up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate fell to 6.8 percent in July, its best showing in 22 months, but analysts worried that most of the labor market growth came in low-wage, temporary jobs.

The Labor Department report Friday showed that the jobless rate dropped from 7 percent in June as business payrolls swelled by 162,000 jobs, almost four times the rate of job creation of the previous month.

But more than half of those gains came in the service sector and many of those jobs were what economists classified as temporary and low-paying.

Manufacturing employment, already at the lowest level in 28 years, lost another 13,000 jobs last month, mainly in layoffs in the machinery, aircraft and paper industries.

The Clinton administration, eager to show that its economic program is helping to stimulate the economy by producing low interest rates, noted that with July's report, the economy has now added 1.14 million jobs since the beginning of the year.

"The pace of the recovery has really picked up," said Laura D'Andrea Tyson, chairman of the White House Council of Economic Advisers.

She combined her comments on the latest figures with a pitch for Clinton's deficit-reduction plan, headed for a final Senate vote Friday.

She suggested some of the new jobs created by the economy were "in anticipation of our plan being passed."

But private economists said their worry was the quality of the jobs being produced.

They noted that some of the biggest gains in July came in low-paying work, including at fast food restaurants and at employment agencies that provide temporary office help. They said this indicated that businesses were still wary about adding permanent workers.

"What we are getting in this recovery are lower paying and more uncertain jobs," said Allen Sinai, chief economist of Economic Advisers Inc. of Boston. "These jobs don't generate as much job security or spending power as regular jobs and that is one reason the economy is not performing as well."

The 6.8 percent unemployment rate for July was the lowest since September 1991 but was still higher than the jobless rate during the 1990-91 recession and serve to highlight just how slow and uncertain this recovery has been.

"We are beginning to see some progress on the job front, but it has been extremely slow," said David Wyss, an economist at DRI-McGraw Hill. "This report shows that the country's moderate recovery is continuing."

Gay man's Senate confirmation makes history

WASHINGTON (HNS) — The Senate for the first time has unanimously confirmed an openly gay presidential appointee.

Bruce Lehman, 48, a former counsel to the House Judiciary Committee, was approved Thursday night without objection as an assistant secretary of commerce and commissioner of patents and trademarks.

A native of Beloit, Wis., Lehman, has been a partner in the Washington, D.C., law firm of Swidler & Berlin since 1983. He joined the Commerce Department in May as special assistant to Commerce Secretary Ronald H. Brown.

Roberta Achtenberg, the only other openly gay appointee by President Clinton to a position requiring confirmation, won Senate approval as an assistant secretary in the Housing and Urban Development Department on May 24. But the senators split, 58-31, after a bruising floor fight against her led by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Lehman said Friday that his nomination by President Clinton and the unanimous Senate vote "demonstrate again that being well qualified to serve our country and gay are completely compatible.

"I hope to be a role model for young gay men and lesbians who aspire to reach their lifelong dream, just as I have today," he added.

'I hope to be a role model for young gay men and lesbians who aspire to reach their lifelong dream, just as I have today.'

— Bruce Lehman

At Lehman's confirmation hearing July 28, Sen. Orrin Hatch, the ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee and on its subcommittee on patents, copyrights and trademarks, praised President Clinton for selecting Lehman.

Hatch recalled that his subcommittee and a similar House panel where Lehman served as chief counsel had often worked together on legislation and that Lehman had advised the Senate committee as well.

"It isn't often that we have before us for confirmation an individual who has as extensive a history of working with and advising the Judiciary Committee as does Bruce Lehman," Hatch declared.

"In every instance the Senate Judiciary has dealt with many monumental changes in the nation's intellectual property laws, the committee has benefited from his active participation," Hatch added.

Andrew E. Barrer, director of Coalition '93, the gay and lesbian community's presidential transition project, praised the Senate action.

Barrer said the organization, an umbrella group for 19 national gay and lesbian associations, expects that the unanimous vote "will help to encourage the administration to make further appointments at the level requiring Senate confirmation."

Lehman served for nine years as counsel to the House Judiciary Committee and was chief counsel to its Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice Subcommittee.

He served as the committee's principal legal adviser in drafting of the 1976 Copyright Act and the 1980 Computer Software Amendments.

Before working on Capitol Hill, Lehman served as a legal counsel to the Wisconsin State Legislature, an attorney with the Justice Department and a first lieutenant in the Army's Judge Advocate General Corps between 1971 and 1973.

He is a 1967 graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a 1970 graduate of its law school.

Elections Commission doles out record fine to Dole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Dole's 1988 presidential campaign was fined a record $100,000 in civil penalties Friday by the Federal Elections Commission.

The FEC cited a wide range of violations, including exceeding state spending limits and accepting too much money from Dole's political action committee and from individuals.

Fines against Campaign America, Dole's PAC, and other contractors and individuals accounted for another $22,975 in penalties.

The $100,000 civil fine against the presidential compaign was the largest ever leveled by the FEC, spokesman Scott Moxley said.

"It's ironic that the FEC has already changed many of the rules on which they based this penalty against the campaign committee," said Dole, the Senate's Republican leader.

"We've learned a lot about dealing with federal agencies, and this bureaucratic process is the best example yet of why we don't need public funding of congressional campaigns," the Kansas senator said.

According to FEC documents, Dole's ill-fated 1988 campaign for the Republican presidential nomination ran afoul of numerous elections laws, including:

'It's ironic that the FEC has already changed many of the rules on which they based this penalty against the campaign committee.'

— Sen. Robert Dole, GOP leader

—Overspending in the state of Iowa by $304,065 and in New Hampshire by $284,084. The limit, calculated on 16 cents for each resident of voting age, was $775,217 in Iowa and $461,000 in New Hampshire.

—Improperly accepting $64,043 from corporations, which are barred entirely from giving money to federal candidates.

—Improperly accepting a total of $239,131 from 418 different individuals, each of whom had already contributed $1,000, the maximum primary contribution a person is allowed to make.

—Spending $41,887 in exploratory funds in Iowa and $5,359 in New Hampshire. The maximum allowed for "testing the waters" research and polling is $5,000 per state.

—Improperly allowing Campaign America, Dole's PAC, to spend $47,247 on campaign-related activities. The PAC spending limit is $5,000.

—Wrongfully accepting $42,247 in additional goods and services from Campaign America.

The next largest penalty on record was $68,000 assessed against Democrat Walter Mondale's 1984 campaign, Moxley said.

However, the fine to Mondale's campaign did not include approximately $300,000 in repayments it was forced to make.

After scoring an upset victory against then-Vice President George Bush in Iowa, Dole was thought to be in solid shape heading into the New Hampshire primary, the nation's second.

However, Bush scored a decisive victory there, and Dole never recovered. He quit the campaign after being swamped by Bush on the Super Tuesday primaries in March.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1993

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Creative projects will prove especially successful. Be careful not to take unnecessary financial risks in late summer and early fall. You will hit it off better with your partners and co-workers when you lighten up a bit. Family members show greater appreciation for your efforts as 1994 gets under way. Your romantic luck changes for the better. Go slow if thinking about remarrying.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: humorist Garrison Keillor, marathon runner Alberto Salazar, singer B.J. Thomas, spy Mata Hari.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Domestic matters need your close attention. A scheduling problem could arise where vacation plans are concerned. A compromise will prevent resentment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A friendship could prove too expensive. Follow your instincts where financial matters are concerned. Think about the long-term no matter what your age.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Seize a golden opportunity to improve your health or finances. You shine when in the company of VIPs. New contacts could prove very lucrative for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A friend who is feeling discouraged would dearly appreciate a chat with you. Be a good listener. Take care of your errands in the afternoon. Enjoy a stroll down memory lane tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A private day for two — your partner and you — could be just what you both need. Entertainment expenses could run higher than expected. Keep your budget in mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Romance may miss a beat. Repaying a favor or apologizing for a mistake will protect your reputation. Use your smarts when trying to outwit a rival.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A gift, favor or willingness to share helps you regain someone's friendship or love. Put past mistakes behind you. Making minor concessions will let you salvage a special plan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A quiet, reflective day would suit you best. Do what you can to avoid commotion and crowds. It may be time to fight the battle of the bulge once again. Exercise daily.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A day to say "no" to temptation and extravagant spending. Greater self-discipline is the key to attaining a long-sought goal. Let loved ones know that you need their support.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A letter or messenger brings good news. Travel is likely. Pack your bags! Consult a lawyer if you are confused about a legal notice. A friend helps you cut through red tape.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Shun get-rich-quick schemes advanced by well-intentioned pals. A new acquaintance helps you satisfy a secret desire. Do not be afraid to reveal your romantic feelings.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give top priority to family projects. Efforts to make your home more comfortable prove highly successful. Talking shop at social events could make others think you a bore.

TODAY'S CHILDREN will always act with a special dignity and confidence. They take pride in their efforts and expect to be shown the same respect they show to others. Deeply loyal to their friends and families, these affectionate lions are generous to a fault. Count on their hard work and excellent "people skills" to win them a leadership role at work. They are likely to accumulate considerable wealth and power with the passage of years.

Cast of 'The Cosby Show' will miss Fat Mike's dogs

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N.J. — After Sunday, Bill Cosby's going to have to find somewhere else to get chili dogs. Fat Mike's, the restaurant that makes his favorite, is closing down.

Cosby

Fat Mike's is on Route 17 near Teterboro Airport, where the comedian landed his plane when he taped "The Cosby Show" in New York City. The show would place weekly orders for 30 to 40 hot dogs, said restaurant manager Stan Newman.

Cosby said he was shocked that Fat Mike's was closing.

"I cannot comment on what I ordered or when I visited, because Mrs. Cosby shouldn't know about the cholesterol. ... Now I suspect (this) might be Mrs. Cosby's doing."

Actually, Newman blames the closure on changed tastes since Fat Mike's opened 45 years ago.

"The times are getting a little different, our volume is down and the trend is toward healthier food," he said.

BUDAPEST, Hungary — Chess legend Bobby Fischer's next opponent could be a 17-year-old Hungarian girl who's more of a prodigy than he was.

Fischer, who made headlines last year with his rematch against Boris Spassky, was in Hungary for a match against the world's top female player. State TV said the former world champion arrived amid talk of a possible match against 17-year-old chess whiz Judit Polgar.

Laszlo Polgar, Judit's father and manager, was quoted by the Budapest sports daily as saying conditions for a match had been agreed to.

"All we need now is the right sponsor," he said.

Fischer, 50, was reported to have remained in Yugoslavia after beating Russian-born Spassky in November in their highly publicized match, played in defiance of U.N. sanctions.

Judit beat Fischer's record by one month as the youngest player ever to qualify for the men's international grandmaster classification, doing so at the age of 15 years and five months.

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine — Some firefighters fell into some money after rescuing former President Bush's 28-foot speedboat, which broke free from its mooring and crashed against the rocky shore.

Secret Service agents noticed the Fidelity was adrift Saturday afternoon. The vessel, filled with water, was rescued by firefighters from nearby Kennebunk, said Deputy Chief Richard Roy.

Bush didn't let the heroics of the Washington Hose Co. detachment go unnoticed.

"My thanks to you and to all the Washington Hose members for responding the other day when Fidelity hit the rocks," Bush wrote to Roy. "I appreciate it very much."

Bush included a check, but Roy wouldn't say for how much.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. — The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles are moving into a 100-year-old restaurant building co-creator Kevin Eastman just bought. They won't be on the menu, but they might hang on the wall.

Eastman says he'll use the building, which once housed Beardsley's Restaurant, to house an expanding version of his comic book art museum. He paid $355,000 for the building at an auction.

Eastman said Thursday that he had been negotiating with the owners of the Roundhouse building in Northampton that currently houses his Words and Pictures museum about his plans to expand, but had been unable to reach an agreement.

Thousands of proposals have been presented on the floor of the House of Representatives, but none like the one the representative from Buffalo put to the representative from Staten Island: "Will you marry me?"

Let the record reflect that Susan Molinari said yes to Bill Paxon.

"It was between votes Wednesday evening," Rep. Molinari said Thursday. "He pulled me over to the seats in the back under the pretense that he had something important to tell me. We are always sharing news like 'I just passed a bill.'"

"He looked at me and said: 'Boy, have I had a day. I've been on the phone with your parents,'" she continued. "I got worried and asked why. He said, 'Because I wanted to tell them I want to give you this.'"

Paxon handed her a box containing a 2-carat-plus diamond ring, then dropped to his knees and proposed.

"I said, 'Yes — but get up,'" Rep. Molinari said.

The couple, both Republicans, met 10 years ago when she was teaching a campaign-management seminar for the Republican National Committee. "I asked him out to dinner," she recalled. They began dating two years ago when he volunteered to help in her congressional campaign.

Rep. Molinari, who is 35 years old and divorced, was elected to Congress in 1990.

DISTRIBUTORSHIPS

LOOKING FOR PART TIME JOB? HAVE WE GOT A DEAL FOR YOU

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which are available now.

Often Asked ????? Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth.

Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:

- ADULTS who have F/T jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
- STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors and friends.

How much money can I make as a distributor?

Depending on the size of distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!

How long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subsribers'papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or a family member to substitute a for them!
