READY FOR SUNDAY — Museum staffer Shirley Leftwich is shown during the exhibit preparation for "HandWork: Women's Folk Textiles," which opens at the Scurry County Museum Sunday. A reception marking its opening as well as an exhibit featuring photographs of New York by local Jay Huckabee is planned from 1 until 4 p.m. The activities are part of special events planned at Western Texas College as Texas Community College Week is observed here through next Saturday. Safeway staffers join strike effort

The meat cutting staff of Snyder's Safeway store joined with fellow union members of the UFCW Local 540 Friday in a strike that is affecting selected Safeway outlets in East, West and Central Texas.

Three staffers were on view Friday in front of the store, wearing union vests and forming their symbolic "picket line."

They were meat cutters Glen Hammonds and Apolinar Molina and wrapper Marsha Drummond. The meat department staff at Safeway is comprised of three meat cutters and two wrappers and they said all but one cutter is a union member.

Safeway officials say supervisory personnel are handling meat cutting work in affected stores.

The strike has been called in protest of what local workers called unfair and unequal contract agreements for various Safeway employees which come under the Dallas-based regional office of UFCW Local 540 — a union formed strictly for meat cutters.

Specifically, wage cuts and some reduction in employee benefits have been proposed for staffers in Safeway stores located in Colorado City, Sweetwater, Temple, Killeen, Henderson and Tyler.

These include a drop in pay equaling $1.67 per hour and a cutback in both vacation time (with up to five weeks currently offered) and five days of personal holidays.

The local store is not directly affected, although the three noted that up until Friday they had been working without a formal contract agreement signed.

Truck fire after theft

A local's pickup — reported missing around midnight — was found burning northeast of the city early Saturday morning.

The theft was reported by Heath Forbis of 2213 40th St. He told police his green 1979 Ford Supercab pickup was missing from the parking lot of The Shack Restaurant, where Forbis works.

The missing truck was found at 2 a.m. Saturday when the Snyder Fire Department was called to extinguish a pickup fire at the intersection of Ennis Creek Road and County Road 426.

No one was near the truck when fire fighters and police arrived and investigation of the incident is continuing.

The pickup reportedly sustained extensive damage.

Exhibits, play, round ball equal WTC 'Week'

Beginning Sunday afternoon, special events are planned at Western Texas College as Texas Community College Week is observed on the local campus through next Saturday.

These will range from new exhibits opening on campus Sunday to the fall production from WTC theatre students to the four-team invitational Westerner Basketball Classic.

Sunday afternoon, new exhibits will open at the Scurry County Museum and the Fine Arts Gallery on campus.

At the museum, the handwork of women — to include examples of locally-produced work — will be featured at a reception and exhibit entitled "HandWork: Women's Folk Textiles."

The exhibition is sponsored by Women & Their Work Inc. of Austin.

A reception marking the opening is planned from 1 until 4 p.m. Sunday and the public is invited.

Included in the exhibit will be quilts, tatting, cutwork, deshilado, crochet and filet crochet. Items from the museum collection as well as from Scurry County women will also be included.

Also on campus, photographs made in New York City by Jay Huckabee of Snyder will be featured in an exhibit opening in the Fine Arts Gallery.

A reception marking this opening is planned from 1:30 until 3 p.m. with the public invited.

Huckabee made the photographs during visits to New York in 1982 and 1983.

Other events during the week will include a reception in the WTC Student Center Tuesday beginning at 11 a.m. Refreshments will be served and visitors are encouraged to tour the campus before or after the reception.

The WTC theatre department will open its fall season next Thursday at 8 p.m. with its production of the musical revue "Tintypes."

Observation after a trip to the state capital: You can't fool all of the people all of the time, but those highway interchange signs come pretty close to doing just that.

Looking at those punch card voter machines last Tuesday, we decided that a write-in candidate would have a difficult time. It seems to us that a paper ballot is better adapted to a write-in race.

However we like those punch-card machines used here in Scurry County, and we suppose election officials really like them. County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth had all the votes tabulated before 10 p.m.--and that was after a record turnout of 6,737 votes.

We remember not many years ago, in a primary election, when the final box was not finished until 11 a.m. on a Sunday morning.

We like fast results, but we wish Congress or someone would ban announcements of vote totals until all the polls are closed, and we also wish exit polls were eliminated. We still have fond memories of election nights on the courthouse square--complete with a big chalk board on which votes were tabulated.

Speaking of write-in candidates, Mitchell County has a new county attorney, Pete McKinney, who waged a write-in campaign. Pete is the husband of Patrice McKinney, well-known physical fitness instructor at Western Texas College.

Aerobics and other exercise programs are among the most popular out at the college. The classes are known by a lot of different names, but the theme is the same, "Leave your fat behind."

U.S. News and World Report was also quick on the election news last week. The magazine's front cover hit the newstands showing the Reagan avalanche.

Said one senior editor. "How could we lose? If Reagan didn't win the issue would become a collector's item."

First time donor total rated No. 1

The last county-wide blood drive of 1984 is slated Tuesday — and Scurry is currently rated as Number 1 for a 22-county area regarding first time donors.

Of the five county drives conducted this year, there have been 210 first time donors recorded here. A total of 724 units of blood have been given locally.

Scurry rates as Number 1 from the area served by United Blood Services of Lubbock. Local drives are sponsored by UBS's local advisory board and the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Tuesday's drive will be from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center.

Q. — What does the arrow sign mean where 45th St. deadends at Houston Ave.?

A. — City officials checked and they indicated it was a now obsolete traffic sign. The sign — which indicates a right turn is required — was erected before Houston Ave. was extended from 45th to 48th St. When it was put up, drivers did not have the option of a left turn. City officials note the sign will be replaced.

Troops land in stronghold, drive out rebels

SUCHITOTO, El Salvador (AP) — Airborne troops landed in this government stronghold north of the capital and drove out an attacking rebel force in the heaviest civil war fighting in nearly five months. As many as 120 people were killed and more than 30 were wounded, the Defense Ministry said.

Guerrillas attacked the heavily fortified town 27 miles north of San Salvador at 3 a.m. (4 a.m. EST) Friday, rebel and military sources said.

The rebels' clandestine Radio Farabundo Marti said the guerrillas quickly overpowered police and Civil Guard posts on the outskirts of town and began pummeling the town's central command post with automatic rifle fire, Chinese-made grenade launchers and recoilless rifles.

The rebel force, estimated at 1,000 men, battled into the center of town, but a few National Police and Civil Guards held them off while troops transported by helicopter arrived from the north, army and civilian sources here said.

A military source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said government forces recovered the town by 2 p.m., after 11 hours of fighting.

The town has about 2,000 residents, mostly refugees from the bitter 5-year-old civil war. It is the last large government outpost inside the guerrillas' Guazapa front, an area of rolling hills 20 miles north of San Salvador.

President Jose Napoleon Duarte said the rebel attack appeared aimed at pressuring the government before a second round of peace talks, scheduled for late November.

"Since we are coming close to the questions of peace, the guerrillas have tried to show their strength," Duarte said. It was the biggest guerrilla attack since rebels briefly overran the Cerron Grande Dam eight miles east of Suchitoto on June 29.

The Defense Ministry said that "more than 100" guerrillas were killed, but soldiers and others in the town said they had no clear idea of rebel casualties.

Twenty troops and four civilians died and 32 troops were wounded, the ministry said.

The army said it had avoided bombing the city during Friday's attack, but residents said 10 houses were damaged by aerial bombing by the air force.

"The planes came to destroy the houses," said a man who would not identify himself but said he was a teacher whose house was destroyed by an air force attack. "They said they were going to humanize the conflict, but no. Neither side has. I think I am going to leave this town."

Duarte and rebel leaders, in the first high-level contact between the government and the guerrillas Oct. 15, promised to try to "humanize the war" by reducing bombing and encouraging prisoner exchanges.

Residents also said at least two houses were destroyed by satchel charges left by the rebels.

"The bombs were from the subversives," said Col. Jaime Flores, commander of the 1st infantry brigade, which is responsible for the area. "Put that in your reports please."

"Our house is destroyed, we are sick and even poorer than we were before," said Silvestre de Jesus Ardon, as he inspected the ruins of his home. "But in any case, there's nothing we can do about it."

Suchitoto, which had at least 25,000 residents before the war started, has been in a virtual state of siege for the past five years.

Heavily fortified and frequently attacked by rebels, the town is considered important because of its strategic location on high ground overlooking Lake Suchitlan, created by the Cerron Grande dam and other hydroelectric projects.

Department of Agriculture signs first loan in program

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Department of Agriculture on Friday guaranteed its first loan under a new program designed to help Texans purchase family farms and ranches.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower signed a loan guarantee which he said will allow a Falls County couple who have been leasing land to own a stocker cattle operation.

"The people who work the land now own their land," Hightower said.

The program was established under the Family Farm and Ranch Security Act, which allows the state to guarantee such loans providing borrowers make the farm or ranch bought their chief occupation.

Hightower said the first loan was guaranteed for Aubrey and Janet Stone of Marlin, who are using it to purchase a 537-acre ranch for $644,000 at an 11 percent variable interest rate.

Financing for the loan was obtained through the Marlin National Bank, an independent, locally owned institution.

Bank president Windell Scruggs said that because of its existing loan limit, Marlin National could not have made the loan to the Stones without the state guarantee.

"We think this is a great program, and we hope to close several more of these loans in the coming months. This is just the kind of help rural, agriculturally oriented banks and family farmers need," Scruggs said.

According to Hightower, the Stones have been running the cattle operation for several years, but on leased land because they couldn't buy their own land.

Police raid homes, offices in the capital

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Acting under the military government's 4-day-old state of siege, police have raided homes and union offices in the capital and three other cities and seized 107 people in a continuing crackdown on leftists.

Francisco Cuadra, secretary-general of President Augusto Pinochet's government, announced that 107 people were rounded up Friday in the raids, bringing the total arrested since the siege was declared to 153.

Most of the arrests were made by gunmen wearing armbands of the secret police. Gen. Pinochet's 90-day siege decree suspended judicial controls of his regime's emergency power to arrest and banish critics. Midnight-to-5 a.m. curfews were imposed in major cities, unauthorized gatherings were banned and media reporting of politics was curbed.

The Vicariate of Solidarity, Santiago's Roman Catholic human rights agency, said four of 46 people arrested before Friday's raids had been released and the government had acknowledged holding the others.

The National Information Central, Pinochet's secret police agency, said four leftists who were arrested during overnight curfews since Tuesday have been sent to military courts for trial — one for allegedly bombing a bakery, the others for barricading streets during recent anti-government demonstrations.

In describing Friday's arrests, the church group said 11 activists were seized at the Mining Confederation union offices, and seven at the Surco Campesino Confederation headquarters. Both labor groups are led by Communists.

It also reported raids on homes in working class districts of Santiago, Antofagasta, Temuco and Valparaiso.

Pinochet said the state of siege was needed to combat what he called a Marxist-led insurrection against his military regime, which came to power in the 1973 overthrow of an elected Marxist president, Salvador Allende.

The crackdown has been used so far only against leftists. Hundreds of them have abandoned their party headquarters and their homes to avoid arrest.

Cuadra announced that police had offered protection to three centrist oppposition leaders in response to threats against them by an [illegible]-wing group.

Fanny Pollarollo, a Communist leader who turned up at the Vicariate's heaquarters next to Santiago's downtown cathedral, said party activists in hiding were planning a day of protest on Tuesday, followed by nightly clanging of pots and pans until some date in late November when a very large demonstration was scheduled.

After Bel[illegible] was found to be a spy for the British, he escaped and was made a brigadier general in the British army.

Reagan reviews CIA findings on manual

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Friday reviewed the CIA inspector general's findings on the Nicaraguan rebel manual, including a recommendation that the agency discipline several junior-level officials involved in its production, sources said.

Intelligence sources said the recommendations were already being implemented, but in Santa Barbara, Calif., where Reagan is vacationing at his ranch, White House press aide Peter Roussel said the president had not yet approved the report.

However, two sources said Reagan apparently had no objections to the findings.

The sources, who insisted on anonymity, said the report proposed action against the manual's author, identified by his pseudonym, John Kirkpatrick, and personnel in the spy agency's Central American and covert action divisions.

The report called for no action against senior-level CIA officials, who were found not to have direct knowledge about the contents of the psychological operations manual that was distributed to Nicaraguan rebels a year ago, the sources said.

Although the sources declined to provide details, they said the junior-level officials would be reprimanded.

Reagan's review of the report comes two days after he dismissed concern about the manual and its advice on "selective use of violence" to "neutralize" Nicaraguan officials as "much ado about nothing."

Besides the "neutralization" section, the 90-page manual, titled "Psychological Operations in Guerrilla War," suggested hiring professional criminals to carry out "selective jobs"; arranging the death of a rebel supporter to create a "martyr" for the cause; and coercing Nicaraguans into carrying out rebel assignments.

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, criticized the inspector general's reports for failing to acknowledge that the manual adopts "the practices of the Marxist-Leninist insurgencies in Asia and the Western Hemisphere."

"The appalling fact of the inspector general's report is that nowhere is there the least indication that even the inspector general — after the event — had any inkling of the ideological (origin) of these doctrines," Moynihan said.

Board okays 9 day trip

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) — Two Richardson high school students are in ship-shape to take a nine-day trip on a U.S. Navy ship next month — even though the cruise will push the pair over the number of excused absences.

Checky Liang and Patrick Niswonger, who are half-brothers, said they would have taken the trip anyway, but school officials finally gave in, saying the boys' situation falls under the "unusual" category.

The question of credit arose because of newly implemented restrictions on absences included in this year's school reform legislation.

The students learned of their status for the semester after various appeals within the district and before the Richardson school board.

"I feel great, though it should have come down without so much hassle," the boys' father, Art Liang, said. "It made me feel like David with a little rock having to go against the giants."

The two were notified Thursday that their absence will be excused under provisions in the new law for unusual circumstances. The law requires a loss of credit for the semester if a student accumulates more than five unexcused absences.

"We reached the conclusion that this trip fell under the 'unusual' clause and that maybe we had taken too hard a line," school Superintendent Arzell Ball said.

Defrocked minister's arrest is prevented

CLAIRTON, Pa. (AP) — A defrocked minister who leads unemployed steelworkers was ordered arrested in his church Friday for contempt of court, but his supporters turned away the sheriff who conceded, "I'm not going to kick in the door of a church."

The Rev. D. Douglas Roth was said by allies to be praying inside the Trinity Lutheran Church, which was barricaded shut as about a dozen militant union supporters stood outside.

Roth has refused to leave his pulpit despite his dismissal by church superiors because of his involvement with a group of anti-corporate clergymen, who blame the region's decline on the policies of U.S. Steel Corp. and banking giant Mellon National Corp. His dismissal was upheld in a temporary injunction, and he was subsequently found guilty of civil contempt for ignoring the order.

After Roth failed to show up in court, Common Pleas Judge Emil Narick sentenced him in absentia Friday afternoon to 90 days in the Allegheny County Jail and fined him $1,200, according to clerk Margaret Bozik.

"He is by the terms of the sentence committed to the jail, so it is up to the sheriff to arrest him and bring him in," she said.

Ms. Bozik said Roth can avoid the sentence by appearing in court and promising not to perform any pastoral functions at the church, not to interfere with the pastors designated by the church synod and not enter the church without permission of the synod.

Earlier, Narick had ordered sheriff's deputies to "pick up this (man) wherever he may be and bring him to our court" after Roth failed to appear at a hearing in Pittsburgh, about 14 miles away.

Two hours later, Allegheny County Sheriff Eugene Coon, saying he wanted to talk with Roth, appeared at the church wearing civilian clothes and accompanied by one assistant.

Coon was met on the church's front lawn by Ron Weisen, a Roth supporter and president of United Steelworkers union Local 1397 in nearby Homestead. Weisen refused to allow Coon to talk with Roth.

"I'm not going to kick in the door of a church. If I wanted to, you'd see brown uniforms all over this lawn instead of me in a blue suit," Coon said.

Coon said Roth would have to leave the church eventually and authorities would not provoke a confrontation which, he said, was a goal of the union members.

Weisen said Roth's supporters would stay outside the church 24 hours a day to protect the minister.

"He's (Narick) certainly bending over backwards, in my opinion, which I'm happy to see," said Bishop Kenneth May, head of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church of America, which recently suspended and defrocked Roth. May attended the earlier court hearing.

Goffer meets with officials, but refuses to say anything

CHICAGO (AP) — A black man whose family was driven from an apartment in an all-white neighborhood by a mob that hurled bricks and screamed racial slurs met Friday night with federal, state and local officials, but refused to tell them anything about the incident, a town attorney said.

Spencer Goffer "came to the meeting, refused to give any statement, and left," said Cicero town attorney Steve Filipowski. "He said he was advised by his attorney not to say anything. We presume that this means that there's some sort of lawsuit in the offing."

The FBI is investigating whether the civil rights of Goffer and his wife and son were violated by the incidents early this week, spokesman Bob Long said.

There was no answer Friday night at the home of Goffer's brother, where the family had been staying.

Law enforcement officers said they were continuing their investigation, but had not arrested anyone.

Long said results of the FBI probe would go to the Justice Department, which would decide whether the case was "prosecutable."

Cook County State's Attorney Richard M. Daley on Friday ordered an investigation into Goffer's report that during the worst of the violence early Wednesday, he saw a uniformed police officer from neighboring suburban Cicero on the scene.

Goffer said the officer talked with members of an angry mob that had hurled bricks, rocks and racial epithets at the terrified family huddled in the apartment. The officer did not appear to try to discourage them, Goffer said.

The Cicero Police Department also is investigating Goffer's report in coordination with the Chicago Police Department, said Filipowski.

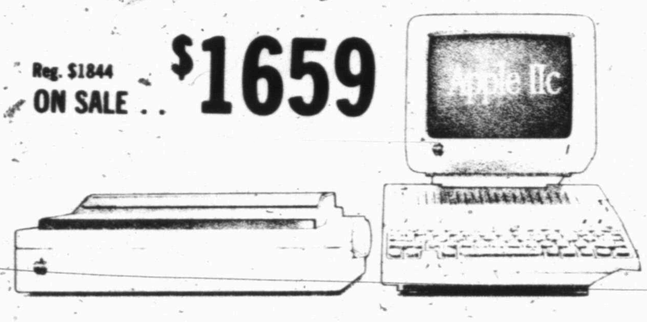

Hannibal Hamlin of Paris, Maine, was Abraham Lincoln's first vice president.

Sept. 28 is observed as Frances Willard Day in Minnesota to honor the educator and temperance leader.

New education law...

Committee seeks tough interpretation

AUSTIN (AP) — Overriding the wishes of its chairman, a State Board of Education committee has recommended a tough interpretation of the new education law — including a ban on extracurricular activity practices for ~~failing~~ students.

The committee also voted Friday to kill its chairman's proposal to allow teachers to withhold failing grades in an effort to keep students eligible for sports and other school-related activities.

The recommendations now go to the full board, which plans a December public hearing. Board members want to act later that month to adopt rules to interpret the recently approved education reform bill.

Legislators approved a measure last summer barring extracurricular activities for students who make a grade of under 70 in any course. Members of the Board of Education's committee on students said Friday it was unclear whether lawmakers meant to bar failing students from practices.

Committee Chairman Jack Strong of Longview said such a ban would be "an awful severe penalty" because students who miss six weeks of practice could effectively miss an entire year in an activity.

Board member Volly Bastine of Houston indicated sympathy was not what was needed.

"That's tough," he said.

"We're trying to allow the student more time to contribute to academic studies," he said. "We need to hold the line on this. Practice is the problem. Participation (in games or contests) is not the problem.

The committee voted 3-2 to include practices in the ban.

Strong also lost with his proposal to allow withholding of grades. The system would give students a second six-week grading period to improve a failing grade. During the second six weeks, the student would remain eligible for extracurricular activities.

Although the Legislative Education board said Thursday that Strong's proposal fell within the intent of the legislation, the proposal was voted down 5-1 Friday by Strong's committee.

The vote leaves the proposal "dead," according to Strong, who said "bad publicity" helped kill his idea.

Strong said it was a fair system that could give a student the incentive to pull up a failing grade. Committee members disagreed.

Charles Duncan of Houston said it would be a clear violation of the new education law.

"I'm not a lawyer, but I can read. It's unambiguously clear," he said of the law. "To say we are going to be bending the rules is exactly what we don't want to happen now."

Committee members approved a system calling for pass-fail reports midway through each six-week grading period.

Strong told the full board Friday that his proposal has been the subject of "a lot of extremely bad information in newspapers and incorrect impressions."

Duncan said extracurricular activities are a valuable part of education, but should take a back seat to classroom work.

"We are about one thing first, and everything else is secondary," he said.

Bastine said, "With one withholding of a grade, a student has played out his whole (athletic) season."

"We'd be doing him a disservice if we build these loopholes into our rules," he said.

Strong predicted parents would "descend" on lawmakers to demand changes in the law. He cited the case of a girl who had a 91 average in her required five courses, but made a 68 in an extra course. She was barred from the school drill team because of the failing grade, while a student with a 71 average was not.

"I don't believe that sort of a situation will be permitted to stand. I believe parents will descend on the Legislature and demand it be changed," said Strong, a former state senator.

Board member claims biology course too easy

AUSTIN (AP) — Two biology teachers say high schools must have a basic biology course for students who need information about childbirth and nutrition, but a State Board of Education member says the course is "insulting."

"There's nothing scientific about these books," Mary Helen Berlanga of Corpus Christi told fellow board members Friday during textbook selections.

The board, meeting as a committee, approved about $55 million worth of books, but delayed action on five books proposed for the introductory biology course.

Mrs. Berlanga complained the books are nothing more than "little health books." One includes a diagram showing how goods are arranged in a supermarket, she said.

Biology teachers on the committee that recommended the books said the course is needed, especially for students who do not go on to college.

"It's the last opportunity to grab hold of a student and give him pertinent information on biology as it effects him," said James Collins of Pasadena.

Another tax bill possible

AUSTIN (AP) — Some of Texas' top business leaders have been told that the state not only may face another tax bill in 1985 but also in coming years.

Gov. Mark White told the annual meeting of the Texas Research League that the 1985 Legislature may face "some of the greatest economic problems this state has been called on to deal with since 1971."

"We are going to have to be very realistic about the revenues available," White said. "I can assure you there will not be any waste, there will not be any fat and there will not be any surplus in the next budget."

Defrocked minister's arrest is prevented

CLAIRTON, Pa. (AP) — A defrocked minister who leads unemployed steelworkers was ordered arrested in his church Friday for contempt of court, but his supporters turned away the sheriff, who conceded, "I'm not going to kick in the door of a church."

The Rev. D. Douglas Roth was said by allies to be praying inside the Trinity Lutheran Church, which was barricaded shut as about a dozen militant union supporters stood outside.

Roth has refused to leave his pulpit despite his dismissal by church superiors because of his involvement with a group of anti-corporate clergymen, who blame the region's decline on the policies of U.S. Steel Corp. and banking giant Mellon National Corp. His dismissal was upheld in a temporary injunction, and he was subsequently found guilty of civil contempt for ignoring the order.

After Roth failed to show up in court, Common Pleas Judge Emil Narick sentenced him in absentia Friday afternoon to 90 days in the Allegheny County Jail and fined him $1,200, according to clerk Margaret Bozik.

"He is by the terms of the sentence committed to the jail, so it is up to the sheriff to arrest him and bring him in," she said.

Ms. Bozik said Roth can avoid the sentence by appearing in court and promising not to perform any pastoral functions at the church, not to interfere with the pastors designated by the church synod and not enter the church without permission of the synod.

Earlier, Narick had ordered sheriff's deputies to "pick up this (man) wherever he may be and bring him to our court" after Roth failed to appear at a hearing in Pittsburgh, about 14 miles away.

Two hours later, Allegheny County Sheriff Eugene Coon, saying he wanted to talk with Roth, appeared at the church wearing civilian clothes and accompanied by one assistant.

Coon was met on the church's front lawn by Ron Weisen, a Roth supporter and president of United Steelworkers union Local 1397 in nearby Homestead. Weisen refused to allow Coon to talk with Roth.

"I'm not going to kick in the door of a church. If I wanted to, you'd see brown uniforms all over this lawn instead of me in a blue suit," Coon said.

Coon said Roth would have to leave the church eventually and authorities would not provoke a confrontation which, he said, was a goal of the union members.

Weisen said Roth's supporters would stay outside the church 24 hours a day to protect the minister.

"He's (Narick) certainly bending over backwards, in my opinion, which I'm happy to see," said Bishop Kenneth May, head of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virignia Synod of the Lutheran Church of America, which recently suspended and defrocked Roth. May attended the earlier court hearing.

Goffer meets with officials, but refuses to say anything

CHICAGO (AP) — A black man whose family was driven from an apartment in an all-white neighborhood by a mob that hurled bricks and screamed racial slurs met Friday night with federal, state and local officials, but refused to tell them anything about the incident, a town attorney said.

Spencer Goffer "came to the meeting, refused to give any statement, and left," said Cicero town attorney Steve Filipowski. "He said he was advised by his attorney not to say anything. We presume that this means that there's some sort of lawsuit in the offing."

The FBI is investigating whether the civil rights of Goffer and his wife and son were violated by the incidents early this week, spokesman Bob Long said.

There was no answer Friday night at the home of Goffer's brother, where the family had been staying.

Law enforcement officers said they were continuing their investigation, but had not arrested anyone.

Long said results of the FBI probe would go to the Justice Department, which would decide whether the case was "prosecutable."

Test tube baby born to couple in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Laura Hobby didn't suffer a moment of morning sickness when she finally got pregnant, and that's not the only thing atypical of her pregnancy.

Mrs. Hobby, 29, gave birth Thursday night to Jessica, one of Dallas' first babies conceived by in vitro — or test tube — fertilization.

"Somebody up there wanted us to have a baby," said Claud Hobby, Jessica's father, in an interview with the Dallas Morning News.

About nine months ago, an egg was extracted from Mrs. Hobby and mixed in a laboratory dish with her husband's sperm.

Mrs. Hobby suffers from endometriosis, a disease that scarred one ovary and Fallopian tube so much that it had to be removed. In addition, her remaining tube was so scarred that an egg could not move through it from her ovary.

Hobby, 30, a pilot with Jet America Airlines, and his wife, owner of the Texas Quilt Co., had been trying to have a baby for six years. The couple were sweethearts at Richardson High School and they married shortly after graduation from Baylor University eight years ago.

They decided to try the in vitro fertilization program at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston after hearing about it on television.

Since Jessica was conceived, three in vitro programs have been established in Dallas. Doctors at the Presbyterian and the University of Texas Health Science Center have not yet announced a pregnancy, but the test tube fertilization program at Trinity Medical Center in Carrolton has one patient who is about two months pregnant.

Mrs. Hobby said her pregnancy was a normal one.

28.349 GRAMS OF PREVENTION ARE WORTH .453 KILOS OF CURE

Most of us remember the days when anybody that spoke of "grams" was probably referring to crackers. Today, the metric system is inching itself into our lives and revolutionizing the way we measure things up.

To the health care professions, the metric system is nothing new. It is the standard method of measurement for purposes of diagnosis, research and scientific analysis.

— Whether your dosage of medication is measured in ounce units, milligrams or simply pills, better think about the risk and dependence inherent in drugs. Better think about a way to use the body's natural recuperative powers.

— Whether you drive everywhere at a rate of 55 miles per hour or 90 kilometers per hour, it would be wise to start thinking about getting out of the car and walking. The pace is slower, but the exercise is better.

— If your food intake in ounces, pounds, or meals contains too much fat, junk and processed foods, it would be wise to start measuring out a diet that is well-balanced and nourishing.

Perhaps this is all a cute way of saying that it is time for Americans to take stock of themselves. And if it takes a new measurement system to do it, why not? It's a good way of changing our values about health.

Interestingly, the structure of your body is also measured in millimeters by the doctor of chiropractic to determine its balance and structural integrity.

The doctor of chiropractic examines the relationship of the bones and tissues of the body. Postural deficiencies often are the cause of health problems. That is why the American Chiropractic Association recommends spinal health examinations on a regular basis. It's the best way to "meter" your health.

Reservations needed for special dinner

Senior citizens who would like to attend a special Thanksgiving dinner in the Senior Center on Nov. 20 are asked to make reservations by 4 p.m. Friday, Gloria Shaw, Senior Center director, has announced.

The reservations are asked because of the special food preparation involved in the dinner," Mrs. Shaw explained. "Our Thanksgiving dinners are always special and we expect a large turnout," she added. "We encourage everyone to make reservations early so we can plan the seating and complete the food orders."

The Senior Center will be closed Nov. 22-23 for the Thanksgiving Holiday.

Special activities for senior citizens this week include a performance by the Kitchen Band at the Triple L Club meeting on Thursday and a program by the Kitchen Band in the center at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Surplus commodities will be distributed to eligible senior citizens and handicapped persons from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the center. Wednesday will be the distribution date for other eligible county residents.

County residents 60 years of age and older who would like to join in activities at the center are invited to visit any weekday. Transportation to the building can be arranged by calling the office at 573-4035.

Educators say legislation means doubling paperwork

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — West Texas school administrators, challenging Gov. Mark White, say a recent education reform package and past legislation has left little time for teaching.

"Everything I'm doing is double what it was," said Joe White, superintendent of Reagan County Independent School District. "I don't think anybody foresaw all the things that were going to happen by having these two bills come in conjunction."

At his weekly press conference Thursday, the governor said the mounds of paperwork is the result of House Bill 246, passed in 1981, and later translated in Chapter 75.

The bill requires teachers to document how they are providing students with "the essential elements of education."

But some educators said that the 1981 bill coupled with the education reform package passed by the Legislature last summer is causing headaches. The 1984 package, also referred to as House Bill 72, deals more with rules and management.

Herschel Duckworth, principal of San Angelo Lake View High School, said he also disagrees with parts of the new reform bill, particularly those dealing with extra-curricular activities.

"I believe that is a reasonable rule. Sure, we're here to teach, but shouldn't we provide a little bit of enjoyment too, not be totally scrooges and autocrats, acknowledge that kids are kids?" Duckworth told the San Angelo Standard-Times on Friday.

Duckworth said the greatest burden for educators is new requirements to document the hours a student spends in the classroom with a teacher, documenting attendance records and each teacher's daily responsibilities.

Duckworth said signing documents for students enrolled in special education classes is even more time-consuming. He said there can be as many as six sheets of paper on one kid, because of all the places he goes.

Other West Texas educators share Duckworth's view.

"I think it is a combination of the two (bills). It has caused a lot of frustration and anxiety on the part of the teachers," Dr. Ernest Zamora, Fort Stockton High School principal, told the San Angelo Standard-Times. "Basically, the confusion exists on what has to be done concerning the essential elements that came out of House Bill 246 and Chapter 75.

"The fact that they exist is not a problem, but how educators are going to determine if they're in place is what's causing the present problem," Zamora said.

Most of the educators interviewed by the newspaper mentioned the rigid tutoring programs, additional attendance tabulations, lesson plan documentation and the career ladder — all results of HB 72 — as primary areas in which paperwork has increased.

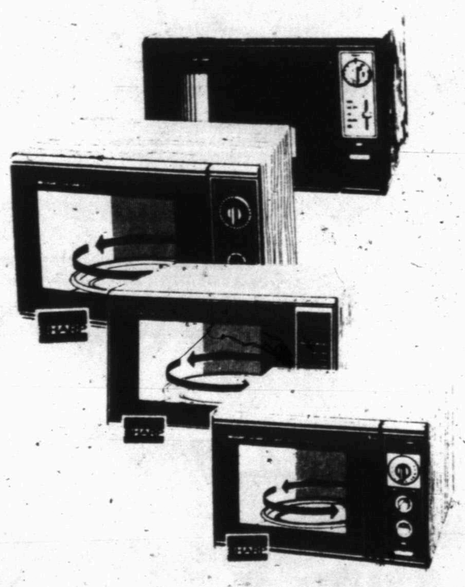

"I think we could have handled Chapter 75 if they had gone into special session to deal with teacher salaries. HB 246 was the real reform package because it dealt with curricula and instruction," Joe White said.

He said the education reform package is a burden to small school districts that don't have the resources to handle the additional paperwork and Dean Hudgins of Wall agreed, saying some of the paperwork now required is unnecessary.

"High school teachers are having to document everything," said Hudgins, high school principal at Wall, outside of San Angelo.

Corporation gets indicted again in patients' deaths

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A Galveston County grand jury has returned eight indictments against a Houston-based nursing home corporation in the 1978 deaths of two elderly patients at one of the company's facilities, a prosecutor says.

Galveston County District Attorney Mike Guarino said the eight murder indictments were returned against Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc., the third time indictments have been returned against the company.

In addition to the charges against Autumn Hills, the first company to be charged with murder in Texas, the president, vice president and three employees were also indicted in the case which began in October 1979.

Guarino said Autumn Hills, which operates about 12 nursing homes in Southeast Texas, was named in all eight indictments.

Robert Gay, 58, president and chief stockholder; Ron Pohlmeyer, 41, vice president; Mattie Locke, 42, nursing consultant; Virginia Wilson, 62, a former administrator; and Cassandra Canlas, 31, director of nursing services, were named in six indictments.

"I'd like to know what took them so damn long," said their attorney, Roy Minton of Austin. "They said they only needed a month or two to get another indictment. Well, two years later, they finally do. None of these people should be indicted and they know it."

Minton said the five were each released on $20,000 personal recognizance bond.

Except for Gay, all the defendants were included in two previous indictments, which were thrown out, Guarino said.

"The information contained in the indictments is basically the same as returned by the other grand juries," Guarino said.

Guarino said he was uncertain whether any further indictments would be returned, because the nine-man, two-woman panel has not completed its investigation.

The indictments returned Friday allege that the corporations and the individual defendants knowingly caused the deaths of Edna Mae Witt, 78, of Galveston and Elnora Breed, 87, of Texas City by not providing the two women with medication, proper care, or other health care needs.

Both Mrs. Witt and Mrs. Breed were patients at Autumn Hills' facility in Texas City, about 30 miles south of Houston. The nursing home is still owned by Autumn Hills but is being leased by another firm, Minton said.

According to the indictments, Autumn Hills also failed to provide an adequate nursing staff and adequate supplies such as bandages and bed linen.

Charges of failing to adequately supervise the nursing staff and failing to take appropriate action when patients were not receiving needed care were also returned against the five individuals.

Mrs. Witt died Oct. 16, 1978, at Galveston County Memorial Hospital. She had lived at the nursing home for 45 days, the indictment said.

Mrs. Breed died Nov. 20, 1978, at the Texas City nursing home, where she had lived 47 days.

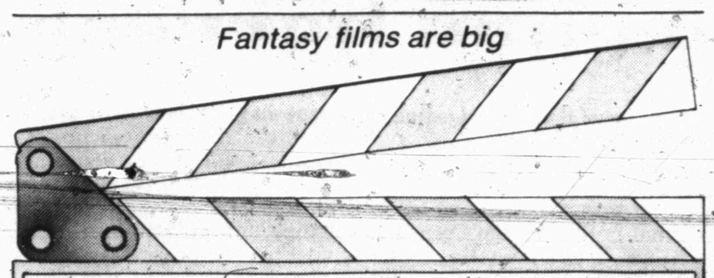

The two patients died, the indictment alleges, because the nursing home staff failed to report abuse and neglect of its patients to the Texas Department of Health as required by law. The deaths of the two women occurred because their clinical records were being falsified by the defendants, according to the indictment.

"I think we are seeing an increased concern across Texas for the quality of life our senior citizens lead, particularly those who live in nursing homes," Attorney General Jim Mattox said Friday of the indictments.

While previous indictments named eight victims, the current grand jury named only the two strongest cases because financial resources were limited.

Jacksons' Texas stop no victory for tour

HOUSTON (AP) — The singing Jackson brothers came to Houston this weekend, but far fewer than expected were thrilled for the 19th stop on the Victory Tour.

Although box office officials said they did not have total attendance figures for Friday night's performance, almost 24,000 tickets were still available late Friday morning, an Astrodome spokesman said.

The Victory performance sold more than 1.1 million tickets by its seventh week — a record for any American band, concert promoters say. The group Styx held the previous record when the band took eight months to sell 1 million tickets.

Ticket sales in Houston weren't impressive as they were on some of the Jackson brothers' other tour stops, which began July 6 in Kansas City, said tour spokeswoman Ginny Buckley.

"I think it's been lower than it sold in other cities," Ms. Buckley said.

Steve Howard, production representative for the tour promotion company, said, "Sales are brisk — which is better than steady in tickets sales jargon. But so far, it's no sellout."

NASA releases its requirements for passage on craft

DALLAS (AP) — Physics teacher Larry Bowen knows that what goes up must soon come down, but the educator can barely keep his feet on the ground since finding out he is eligible to fly on today's ultimate flying machine — the Space Shuttle.

"My wife and my children, they said 'Go for it,'" recalled Bowen.

And that's just what he did.

On Thursday, Bowen and thousands of other teachers across the country found out some of the news they had been eagerly awaiting when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced eligibility requirements for teachers wanting to ride the space shuttle.

Bowen, who teaches at the Science-Engineering Maganet High School, made the cut.

The 48-year-old flying enthusiast who earned his pilot's license and as a teacher decorated his classroom with pictures of famous rockets and aircraft said the president's announcement offered him the ultimate opportunity.

Not all teachers were as happy with the NASA announcement Thursday. Chemistry teacher Paul Hoen, 26, learned that he was not eligible because he has not taught for five consecutive years.

"Definitely I'm disappointed," Hoen said. "Am I less a teacher than someone who has taught five years? ... What upsets me is that I got eliminated before I even had a chance to apply."

Under the NASA guidelines, candidates must be U.S. citizens and full-time classroom teachers with at least five consecutive years of experience. There are no age requirements and initial physical requirements are fairly lenient — the ability to hear a whispered voice from 3 feet away, blood pressure of less than 160-100 and no serious handicaps.

Yields boosting corn harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Larger yields in some areas have boosted 1984 corn harvest estimates slightly from the Agriculture Department's forecast a month ago.

Based on surveys taken Nov. 1, corn production is expected to total nearly 7.53 billion bushels, up 0.4 percent or 30 million bushels, from the October estimate.

Compared with the below-par 1983 harvest, this year's corn crop is 81 percent larger, fourth on the department's all-time list.

A year ago, as a result of drought and the government's acreage programs, U.S. corn production dropped to 4.17 billion bushels, less than half the record 1982 harvest.

The annual corn harvest was 64 percent complete in the major production states by Nov. 4, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. At the same time last year, 89 percent of a much smaller crop had already been harvested. On the average, about 72 percent of the harvest is finished by this time.

"Combining was generally on schedule in the western Corn Belt and Southeast, but lagged below normal in the eastern Corn Belt where wet weather has hampered harvesting," the report said.

"Dry weather is needed to enable the growers to get into the fields to get the remainder of the crop harvested."

Soybean production, estimated at 1.9 billion bushels, is up 16 percent from last year. That was down 4 percent, however, from the October forecast of 1.97 billion bushels. The record was 2.27 billion bushels in 1979.

The cotton estimate was unchanged from last month at 13.3 million bales, up 71 percent from last year's small harvest. It would be the largest crop since 1981's 15.6 million bales.

The report said, however, that flooding and heavy rains caused losses in the Delta states, where cotton production now is expected to go down 9 percent from the October forecast. But improved yield prospects in other regions offset the losses in the Delta.

The corn harvest will be the fourth largest in U.S. history, exceeded by the record 1982 harvest of 8.24 billion bushels, the 1981 crop of 8.2 billion and the 1979 harvest of 7.94 billion bushels.

Grain supplies are expected to be large enough to help dampen livestock feed costs for American farmers in the coming year and to provide ample stockpiles for export demand.

The report did not include new 1984 production estimates for wheat and other crops harvested earlier this year.

In a related report, the department said total Soviet grain output this year is expected to be 170 million tons, unchanged from the October estimate. By comparison, the U.S. corn harvest by itself is expected to be more than 191 million tons.

A metric ton of 2,205 pounds is the equivalent of 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Farmers have about 71.1 million acres of corn for harvest as grain this year, compared with 51.4 million acres in 1983, when farmers posted the smallest U.S. corn acreage in more than a century.

While drought accounted for about half of last year's corn decline, the government's acreage program was also a major factor. In all, farmers idled 75.6 million acres of cropland, including 31.6 million corn acres, under the 1983 programs.

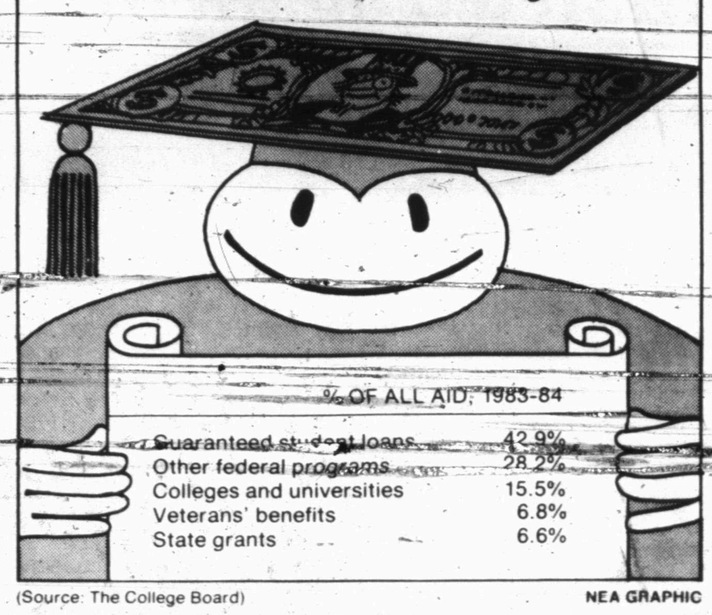

Corn and soybeans provide the main ingredients in feed used to produce the nation's beef, pork, poultry, eggs and milk. Larger production is expected to ease feed costs and encourage livestock production in the coming year, thus helping dampen further food price increases.

Food prices this year are expected to average about 4 percent higher than in 1983, when they gained 2.1 percent, the smallest annual gain in 16 years. The Agriculture Department has not issued a forecast for 1984.

Overall, the department's "all crops" production index as of Nov. 1 was reported unchanged from October at 110 percent of the base year of 1977.

Accused murderer might be good research subject

DALLAS (AP) — A Moroccan national accused of killing six people at a posh North Dallas nightclub would probably die if he was sent to prison, but he has suffered so much brain damage he would be a good subject for research, a psychiatrist has testified.

Dr. Sheldon Zigelbaum of Boston testified Friday that Abdelkrim Belachheb was in a state similar to sleepwalking or a seizure when he opened fired on seven customers of Ianni's Restaurant and Club on June 29.

Belachheb, 39, is charged with six counts of murder and one count of attempted murder in the worst mass murder in the city's history. If convicted, Belachheb, who has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, faces a maximum punishment of life in prison.

"At the time of the shooting, Mr. Belachheb was not conscious. He could not in any way tell you about the shooting itself," Zigelbaum testified.

Zigelbaum agreed with other defense witness that brain damage and a paranoid personality disorder afflict Belachheb.

Under cross-examination, Zigelbaum guided the hands of Assistant District Attorney Norman Kinne over the balding pate of the defendant, pointing out what he described as the scars of old injuries and beatings.

"The absolute evidence of heavy-duty skull damage is there," Zigelbaum said.

Zigelbaum said the brain damage makes Belachheb prone to "partial seizures" marked by violent outbursts.

He said Belachheb's memory of the evening stops at the point where he became insulted when one of the victims rebuffed his advances.

"It seems he remembers everything up to the insult," Zigelbaum said. "Sometimes a trivial insult will kick off the altered state of consciousness."

Raising the specter of a life in either prison or a mental hospital, Zigelbaum said the prognosis for Belachheb is not good.

If Belachheb goes to prison, he would probably die in a violent confrontation with other inmates, the psychiatrist said.

As for treatment, Zigelbaum said there "is no technology in 1984 to replace lost brain tissue" but that Belachheb would be a valuable subject for research into brain injuries.

A number of defense witnesses have testified that Belachheb said he was severely beaten in 1964 outside the Moroccan Embassy in Berne, Switzerland. They also testified that Belachheb said he struck himself in th skull with an ax as a child trying to imitate an African tribal rite.

After Zigelbaum's testimony, prosecutors began trying to refute the insanity defense presented by Belachheb's attorney, Frank Jackson.

The state got off to a shakey start. Kinne's first rebuttal witness ended up admitting on cross-examination that she had said the defense witnesses convinced her that Belachheb is "crazy."

"I know when I've been gored," Kinne said ruefully when the trial recessed for the week.

Kinne's second rebuttal witness, Stanley Lee Woods, testified that Belachheb was calm and precise when he said "Take that, bitch" and fired again at the prone body of one of his female victims.

Like a number of earlier prosecution witnesses, Woods, a sporting goods salesman, identified the one-time waiter and former limousine driver as the man who opened fire in Ianni's with a semi-automatic pistol, stopped to reload and then started shooting again.

Dioxin traces found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials said Friday that a preliminary investigation had found dioxin contamination at Fort A.P. Hill, Va., where 32,000 Boy Scouts camped during a national jamboree in 1981.

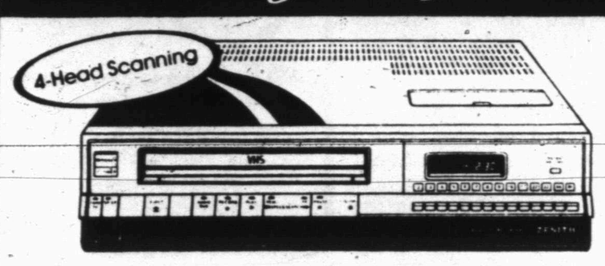

The Pentagon, however, said the dioxin — one of the most toxic chemicals known to man — did not pose a health hazard because the nearest Boy Scout encampment was 150 feet away from the contamination.

"Since the area of contamination was so small, levels so low and length of time the scouts were there so short, preliminary findings indicate that the residual contamination is not great enough to pose a health hazard," said Ma. Mary Andrews, an Army spokeswoman.

She said a small shed adjacent to the Boy Scout encampment had been used to store Silvex, a weed-killer containing "very low levels of dioxin."

In Denver, Dr. Barry Rumack, director of the Rocky Mountain Poison Center, expressed concern Friday about possible hazards posed by the dioxin contamination during the 1981 jamboree.

Oppose Meese renomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard Metzenbaum will contest the renomination of Edwin Meese III as attorney general and will likely request more hearings on the matter, according to an aide to the Ohio Democrat.

"Metzenbaum is certainly going to have, at the very least, a very lengthy statement to make and will most probably ask and urge that full hearings be reopened," Roy Meyers said Friday.

However, one Senate source said the attitudes of other members of the Senate Judiciary Committee would be an important factor in how much resistance the presidential adviser might meet in the confirmation process. And one committee aide, who declined to be identified, said Meese's chances of being cleared by the panel appear to be excellent.

Anson Franklin, an assistant White House press secretary, said President Reagan intends to renominate Meese.

Metzenbaum played a key role in holding up the Meese nomination during the last session of Congress.

Meese was nominated as the nation's top law-enforcement official last Jan. 23, but the nomination was put on hold during an investigation of allegations that the presidential adviser had used his position to obtain government jobs for friends who had helped him financially.

Washington lawyer Jacob Stein, appointed independent counsel by a three-judge panel in April to investigate the allegations, later found there was no evidence of criminal wrongdoing.

However, Meyers said the Stein's report has raised some additional questions about Meese, including an apparent lack of sensitivity to the "appearance of impropriety" and his ability as an administrator.

"The committee never addressed the issue of Mr. Meese and connections with the presidential transition trust," Meyers added. "(And) there is some new information in regard to the Army promotion raised by the Stein report that, again, was never addressed by the committee." Meyers did not say what the information was.

Stein investigated whether payments of over $22,000 to Meese from the trust and foundation set up to assure a smooth transition between the Carter and Reagan administrations were proper. He also investigated whether Meese used his clout to be put on active duty in the Army Reserve and then to win a promotion assuring him a bigger military pension.

Meyers said there is also some question of whether one committee witness told the full story of his associations with Meese. In addition, there may be other questions not included in the report, he added.

Bob Mann, an aide to Sen. Edward Kennedy, also a Democratic member of the committee, said the Massachusetts senator continues to have doubts about Meese's sensitivity to civil rights and civil liberties.

Mann said if Meese is renominated, Kennedy will have some questions, with the extent of his inquiry depending on Meese's response. However, he said the questions addressed by Stein appear to have been laid to rest.

"Those issues have been explored, investigated, and he has been cleared from any impropriety," Mann said. "Those concerns should probably be set aside."

George Burns gets 3rd star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian George Burns has been a star for longer than most people can remember, and if he gets another honor on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, he'll have enough stars to form his own galaxy.

The top banana of the still-syndicated "Burns and Allen" television series and, more recently in the "Oh, God" movies, was honored Thursday with a third star in Walk, the first awarded for the category of live theater.

"If I get another star, I get to keep the sidewalk," joked Burns.

Vietnam veterans prepare dedication

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam War veterans are preparing to dedicate a statue honoring survivors of the Southeast Asia conflict that they added to a controversial memorial for comrades who died or disappeared.

The statue, depicting three young and weary GIs in combat gear, stands 80 yards from the 2-year-old black granite monument that bears the names of 58,022 servicemen killed or missing in the Vietnam War.

"The statue unveiled Saturday brings to fulfillment the purpose of the memorial in paying respect to all Americans who accepted the responsibilities of their citizenship," retired Army Gen. Michael S. Davidson said at Friday's unveiling ceremony.

"This memorial says to those who served in Vietnam, both those who returned and those who did not: we respect you, we admire you, we honor you, and we offer you our profound gratitude," said Davidson, a field commander in Vietnam and an original proponent of the statue.

Some 4,000 people crowded around at the grassy memorial site to watch the 40-minute ceremony. Vietnam veterans wearing rumpled camouflage uniforms watched with public officials, sightseers and reporters.

"I think the wall was beautiful. Some people have put it down, but I think it is great, and so is the bronze statue," said Jack Wojewoda, an Army veteran from Rockford, Ill. "We should have another monument for the over 60,000 service people who have committed suicide since the war."

Both the bronze statue and granite wall, located near the Lincoln Memorial, were paid for with private funds.

On Sunday, the entire memorial will be dedicated and formally handed over to the National Park Service. President Reagan is scheduled to fly from Santa Barbara, Calif., to accept the memorial and take part in a wreath-laying ceremony.

The statue, created by Washington, D.C., sculptor Frederick R. Hart, is designed so that the GIs — a black, a white and one representing other minorities — appear to be looking for names on the granite walls.

It was added to the site after some veterans complained that the memorial's design failed to honor those who fought and survived.

George Sullivan, director of the National Salute II Committee, which is conducting a program of Veterans Day events in tandem with the memorial ceremonies, said alteration of the site was a necessary compromise.

"The wall is very abstract and was a great shock to the veterans and public who contributed $9 million for the memorial," said Sullivan, a former Army Ranger in Vietnam.

Grand jury indicts prison psychologist, seven inmates

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) — A former state prison psychologist whose job involved counseling inmates convicted of sexual crimes was indicted Thursday on charges that he raped a teen-age girl.

The Brazoria County grand jury also indicted seven Texas Department of Corrections inmates on various violence and escape charges.

Armando Simon, 33, a former psychologist at TDC's Ramsey III Unit near Rosharon, is accused of having sex with a 15-year-old repeatedly over an 18-month period. Also indicted was his wife, Angela, 20, who is charged with sexual assault of a child and indecency with a child.

The Simons remain free on bonds totaling $40,000.

Assistant District Attorney John Davis said the Simons met the teen-ager after she answered a local newspaper advertisement asking for someone to participate in a game.

Angleton police said Mrs. Simon watched her husband have sex with the girl and encouraged the teen-ager to go to bed with him.

Investigators raiding the couple's Angleton apartment said they found photo albums showing the couple in sex acts with several people — most of them teen-agers.

Simon was a psycholgist with TDC from October 1981 until August.

Also indicted Thursday were seven Texas prison inmates.

John McAdams, 33, an inmate at the Ramsey III unit, is accused of stabbing two prisoners at the unit. The prisoners were hospitalized and have recovered, said Warden Michael Moore.

McAdams is serving a life sentence for an aggravated robbery conviction out of Harris County.

Grand jurors indicted Mohammed Gholmian, 30, who is accused of striking a guard at the Darrington Unit near Rosharon and stabbing him with a nail. Gholmian is serving 30 years for a Harris County murder conviction.

Also indicted was Juan Manuel Vega, 29, on charges he escaped from the Ramsey III unit on Aug. 24. Vega is serving 17 years for raping a 5-year-old Cameron County girl.

Marty Ray Sohn, 28, an inmate at the Darrington Unit, was indicted in the Sept. 12 killing of Donathyn Steen. Steen, 28, was killed in the prison's recreation yard with a sharpened steel rod, said TDC spokesman Charles Brown.

Sohn is serving 35 years for murder and attempted capital murder convictions from Harris County.

Clemens Unit inmates Joel Hernandez, Juan Jose Martinez and Jose Sanches were indicted on charges they escaped from the unit on Aug. 5. Hernandez, 21, is serving five years for carrying a weapon in a Nueces County bar.

Martinez, 19, is serving five years for a forgery conviction from Brewster County. Sanches, 23, is serving eight years for a Midland County burglary conviction.

The Clemens Unit is located near Brazoria.

On May 9, 1926, Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett became the first people to fly over the North Pole.

The production, technical and management crew needed to televise the 1984 World Series totaled 150 people.

2-4A grid roundup

Sweetwater and Monahans have wrapped up playoff rights in District 2-4A after soundly defeating their respective opponents Friday night.

Sweetwater blasted Pecos 54-0 to remain undefeated in district play while Monahans thrashed Snyder 47-7. Sweetwater is 6-0 in loop action; Monahans is 5-1. Both are 8-1 for the season.

The other 2-4A games were equally lopsided. Andrews kicked San Angelo Lake View 33-8 while Fort Stockton buried Lamesa 45-12.

Sweetwater's win puts the Mustangs in the playoffs for the first time in 20 years. The red-and-white conclude the regular season next weekend by entertaining Fort Stockton.

Sweetwater was assured of the first-rights playoff role because of its earlier win over Monahans. Monahans in turn will take the runnerup spot, even if it should lose next week, because it has already whipped Fort Stockton - the only team which record-wise could tie the Loboes.

In other games next Friday, Snyder is at Andrews and Lake View is at Monahans.

Fort Stockton is 4-2 in loop action while Pecos fell to 3-3. Andrews is 2-4 and Snyder and Lake View are 1-5.

4-1A grid summary

It's enough to make an old man out of a young one, the coaching game. Ask Ira's Mitch Lee, he knows.

His Bulldogs had the District 6-1A South Zone runnerup spot wrapped up this year until Grady's upstart Wildcats put the picture in doubt with 24 second-half points and a shocking 42-37 victory.

The loss came back to haunt Lee and the Bulldogs on Friday when it was used to determine that Grady would be the South Zone runnerup. Grady lost to Borden County 44-40 on Friday, throwing the South Zone into a three-way tie for second place. Borden was quickly eliminated in a coin flip, then officials used Grady's win over Ira to determine that the Wildcats should enter the playoffs.

The irony is that Grady is 3-6 on the season while both Ira and Borden County finished with 7-2-1 marks. All three were 2-2 in zone play.

Meanwhile, Highland ended its regular season by burning McCaulley 65-16. It marked the third straight year the two-time defending state champions have gone through regular season play without a loss.

Highland is to play North Zone runnerup Weinert as the playoffs kickoff next week. Grady must face unbeaten North Zone powerhouse Jayton. Dates and times for the playoffs were unknown Saturday morning.

Hines-led Loboes run past Ragin' Tiger gridders, 47-7

MONAHANS -- The Associated Press schoolboy honor roll will undoubedly carry the name of Jimmy Hines in its weekly state wrapup this week. The senior tailback led Monahans' playoff-bound Loboes to a 47-7 thumping of Snyder here Friday night in one of the best individual performances of the season in District 2-4A.

Snyder, now 2-7, completes the 1984 football season next Friday in Andrews at 8 o'clock. Monahans will go against San Angelo Lake View.

Hines, son of Olympic 100-meter dash record holder Jim Hines, rushed for 267 yards and five touchdowns to help the Loboes post their eighth win of the season. The victory put Monahans in the state Class 4A playoffs as runnerup in the 2-A conference. They are 5-1 in district play.

In fairness to Snyder, the Ragin' Tigers were without their fine junior fullback Justin Webb, who suffered an broken wrist a week ago. Webb had polled 724 yards for the season and was the district's third leading rusher.

Webb was replaced by 138-pound senior Thomas Quintela. Qunitela fought hard, rushing for 62 yards, but was held to only 14 in the crucial first half.

Hines, meanwhile, went into the game as the fourth top rusher with 606 yards. Now boasting 873, the fleet back needs only 127 next week to eclipse the 1,000 yard mark.

Monahans scored on its first three possessions to show dominance early. The Loboes - the top defensive team in 2-4A this year - also allowed Snyder a net yardage of only 11 yards and zero first downs in the first half.

The Loboes struck with 6:55 left in the first quarter when Hines went over from three yards out. It was his shortest TD run of the night. Wayne Willmon kicked the point-after to cap the 55-yard, 10-play drive.

Monahans scored again with 1:54 left in the period. Hines did the honors again, on a 50-yard scamper. Willmon again kicked the PAT. The five-play drive went for 60 yards.

Play it again, Sam.

Hines, 5-9 and 161 pounds, added two more touchdowns in the second quarter. He scored with just 1:04 gone in the quarter on a 72 yard run. The tailback found good blocking up the middle, made two good moves to evade tacklers, then raced the sidelines to chalk his third touchdown of the night. Willmon kicked another conversion and the four-play, 87-yard march left Monahans ahead 21-0.

The Loboes added TD number four with 2:41 to go in the period. It was Hines again, this time from 15 yards out. Willmon's kick was wide left, but the 86-yard, 8-play drive left Monahans in front 27-0. Key plays in the march were a 38-yard run by fullback Tommy Mitchell, and a 15-yard run by Hines which put the ball at the Tiger 15-yard line.

The game was already out of hand by the time Monahans grabbed its fifth touchdown of the first half. The score was set up by an interception. Snyder quarterback Jimmy Cain had hit Kyle Freeman for a 10-yard gain near the 30, but defensive back Anthony Scurlark stripped the ball from the Tiger tight end and returned it to the 6-yard line.

Snyder's defense dug in, and a pass play from quarterback Steve Hernandez fell incomplete on first down. Hines was knocked back to the 7 on the next play, but on third, Hernandez found a wide open Willmon off in the left flat and Monahans scored with 1:44 to go in the half. Willmon also tacked on the conversion, 34-0.

Monahans came out in the second half with its first-team unit, but it didn't take long for Coach Gary Gaines to start making adjustments. He waited only until Hines swept left behind good blocking to break an 84-yarder. Willmon booted the point-after once again.

Snyder's lone touchdown came early in the fourth quarter, after Steve Parker recovered an Al Escamilla fumble at the Monahans 26. Cain hit Paul Thompson on a 1-yard screen pass on first down and Quintela was stopped for no gain on second. But Cain connected up with swingman Willie Greathouse on the following play, and the effort went for 21 yards to the 4-yard line. From there, Quintela bulled one yard before Cain hit Greathouse again on a 3-yard scoring strike. Ricky Hunter put through the conversion with 9:40 left, and Snyder was on the board.

Monahans followed with its final touchdown of the night. The drive took one play as District 2-4A 100-meter champion Dana Amos slid outside on a 71-yard sprint with 5:24 remaining in the game. Willmon's kick was no good this time.

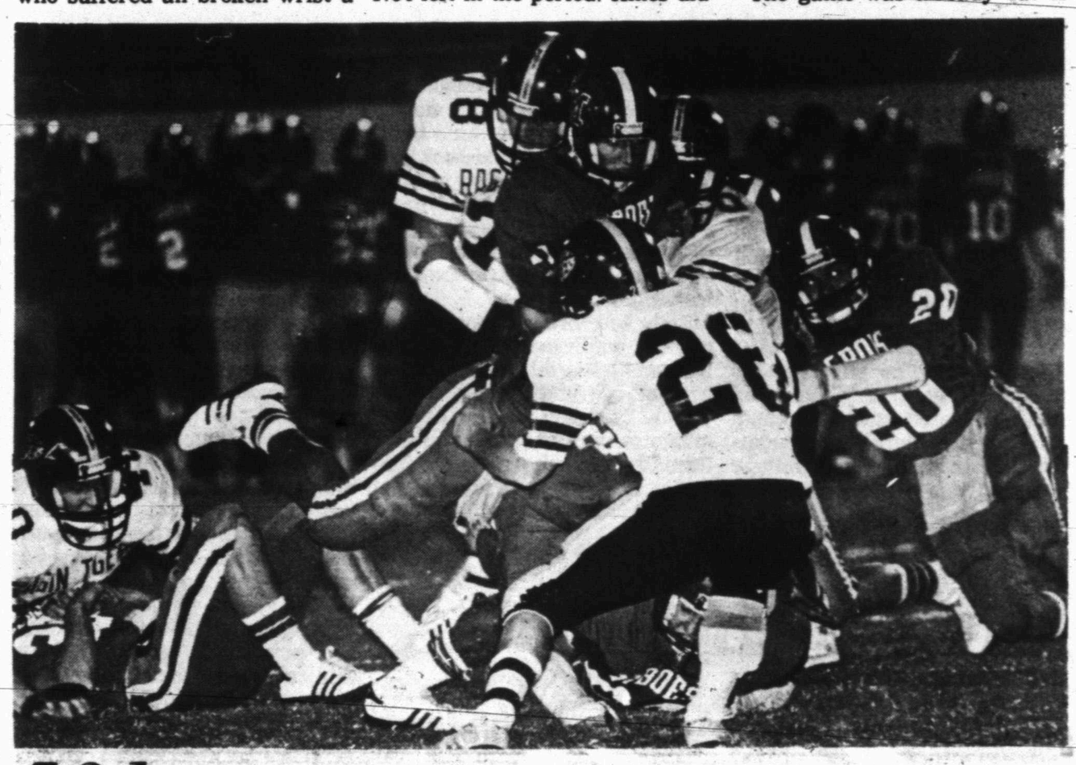

In all, Monahans rolled for 435 yards on the ground and 37 through the air. Hines' 267 led all rushers. Amos had 81.

Quintela's 62 paced Snyder, which, when negative yardage was added in, had 57 on the ground. Cain hit five of 11 passes for 30 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Both teams fumbled three times.

End season at 7-2-1...

Ira bags New Home, 38-19

IRA -- Ira's Bulldogs concluded the 1984 football season with a convincing 38-19 victory over New Home here Friday night, marking up a fine 7-2-1 record.

The season was overshadowed somewhat when Grady won playoff representation rights in a decision following the regular game. Grady, Ira and Borden County had all tied for second place in the loop.

New Home scored first in the six-man contest Friday with James Wyatt catching a 7-yard pass from Kyle James. The points-after try failed.

Ira took the lead to stay in the second quarter, however, when Brent Bearden caught a 16-yard pass from Jay Clark and Bruce Strickland followed with a two-point conversion kick, 8-6.

New Home countered just 13 second later as Chad Ford ran the ensuing kickoff back 48 yards for a touchdown. David Ibarra ran over the one-point conversion, 16-13.

The Bulldogs did likewise, with Darren Hughes returning New Home's kickoff back 65 yards. Strickland again added the conversion.

In the third quarter Ira tallied again. Strickland took it in on a three-yard run. The points-after try failed but the 'Dogs led 30-13.

The fourth quarter saw Ira score again with 2:47 left when Hughes snared a 31-yard pass from Strickland. The point was kicked by Strickland.

New Home, 6-3 on the season, got it's final TD on a three-yard run by Chad Ford with 1:01 left. The point-after try failed.

Hughes had 16 carries for 80 yards. Strickland bulled 10 times for 44 and Davis had six for 41. Reyes Juarez also added 43 yards on four carries and Steve Denson toted the ball seven times for 31 yards.

Defensively, Strickland had 16 tackles. Lloyd Goswick and Barry Ezra took down seven Leopards. Chris Reyna picked off one pass for Ira.

Dusters whip New Mexico; advance to tourney finals

LEVELLAND -- Western Texas College's Dusters rallied from a four-point halftime deficit to nail New Mexico Junior College 88-74 here Friday and enter the championship game of the South Plains Classic.

The Dusters, 6-1, were to play Western Oklahoma at 8 p.m. Saturday in Levelland's Texan Dome.

In other games Friday, Western Oklahoma popped host South Plains 72-69, Cisco bounced Lubbock Christian 98-46 and Dodge City raked Southwestern Christian 82-63.

Saturday's other games had LCC versus Southwestern at 2, South Plains against NMJC at 4 and Cisco against Dodge City at 6.

"They are a better ballclub than were last year," said Duster Coach Joe Cushing of New Mexico, which fell to 4-1 with the loss. "But we're a second half ballclub. We have been all year. I knew if stayed in our man defense it would tell in the second half we got a bunch of turnovers and scored off of them. That was the difference."

Lyndy French had her best game of the year, according to Cushing. The 5-11 sophomore put in 21 points and added 4 assists, 4 steals and 3 rebounds.

"In one stretch of the second half when needed to have it she did an exceptional job of shooting ball. So did Rene Ramaekers," said Cushing. "Patti Hayes and Renvy Evans both played real well, too."

NMJC led 40-34, with eight seconds on the first-half clock when Ramaekers hit a 25-footer to put WTC within four points. The Dusters came out gunning in the second 20-minute half and eventually led by as much as 18 points.

French's 21 points led the Dusters, who also got 20 from Hayes, 12 from Ramaekers and 11 from Evans. Clara Campbell led on the boards with 12 of WTC's 40 rebounds. Hayes had 7 rebounds. French and Evans grabbed four steals each.

Western outguns Navarro College

WACO -- Western Texas College bused in from Snyder, then from Temple to play here Friday in the McLennan College Classic but it didn't hurt their performance as the Westerners popped Navarro, 89-81.

The victory gives WTC its fourth consecutive win against no losses and puts them in Saturday night's championship game against tourney host McLennan, a 91-71 winner over Temple. Navarro, now 2-1, plays Temple in Saturday's other contest. McLennan is 2-0.

Western was forced to bunk in the city of Temple because Baylor University is celebrating its homecoming here this weekend and all available motel space was taken. Temple lies 40-45 miles south-southwest of Waco.

Western trailed 45-40 at halftime but ran out a plus-10 lead in the second half to grab the victory.

The Westerners were paced by sophomore Lorand White's 20 points. James Dawn, a freshman, added 19 while Floyd Singleton put in 18 and Billy Chambers hit for 14. Singleton and Chambers are sophomores.

Mel Hood led Navarro with 15 points. Others scoring in double-digits were Myron Jacobs with 13 and Jeff Smith and Quinton Miles with 10 apiece.

Miami advances on record book

by The Associated Press

The Miami Dolphins could find themselves in the record book and in the National Football League playoffs if all goes well Sunday.

If the Dolphins beat the Philadelphia Eagles, they'll gain a spot in the NFL record book with the second-longest season-opening winning streak. The Dolphins have won 10 straight games, equaling the 1975 Minnesota Vikings' start and second only to the Dolphins' own 17-0 season in 1972.

Miami can also nail down the American Football Conference East title if they win and both the New York Jets and New England Patriots lose Sunday. The Jets host the Indianapolis Colts and the Patriots take on the Buffalo Bills.

Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino, meanwhile, is zeroing in on an NFL record himself - most touchdown passes in a season. He already has 29 and has six games to break the NFL standard of 36 set by Y.A. Tittle and George Blanda. The sophomore quarterback has amassed 3,094 yards while completing 208 of 320 passes, all top marks in the NFL this season.

In other games Sunday, it's Dallas at St. Louis; the New York Giants at Tama Bay; Detroit at Washington; Houston at Kansas City; Minnesota vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; New Orleans at Atlanta; Pittsburgh at Cincinnati; San Francisco at Cleveland; Chicago at the Los Angeles Rams, and Denver at San Diego. On Monday night, the Los Angeles Raiders visit Seattle.

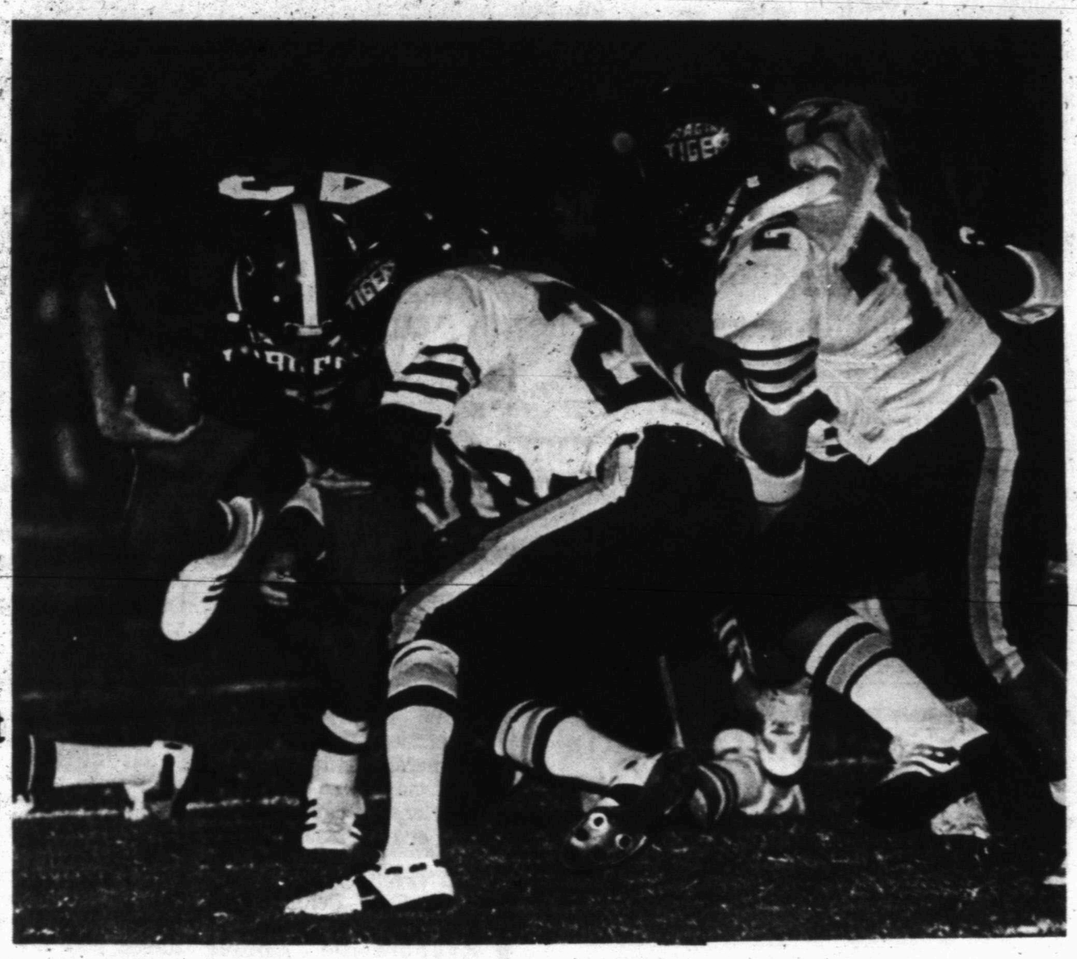

Both the Cardinals and Cowboys are coming off losses - the Cards had a four-game winning streak stopped when they lost to the Los Angeles Rams at home last week and the Cowboys dropped a 19-7 decision to the Giants in Dallas. The Cardinals beat the Cowboys 31-20 in their first meeting at Irving, Texas.

The Rams-Bears game in Los Angeles is expected to center on the only two 1,000-yard rushers in the NFL thus far - Walter Payton of the Bears and Eric Dickerson of the Rams. Steve Fuller is taking over the Bears' quarterback position for Jim McMahon, out for four weeks with a lacerated kidney suffered against the Raiders.

In Washington, the 6-4 Redskins will be trying to stay in the thick of the NFC East race and provide another milestone for John Riggins - he needs 46 yards to become, at 35, the oldest man in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in a season.

The Giants, will be trying to beat the Bucs for the second time this season - they took a 17-14 decision earlier. Coming off victories over Washington and Dallas and with St. Louis coming up next week, the Giants will be trying to avoid a letdown.

The Steelers could all but lock up the AFC Central title at Cincinnati. Pittsburgh leads the Bengals, 3-7, by three games in the league's losingest division and have already beaten Cincinnati once, and a victory would give them a four-game lead with four games to go and eliminate the Bengals even from a chance at a tiebreaker.

PULLED DOWN -- James Powell and Juan Benitez pull down Lobo runningback Wayne Willmon for a short gain Friday as the Ragin' Tigers played their next to the last game of the season. Snyder, 2-7 on the season, finishes out in Andrews next Friday. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble Young)

Holmes defends title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Larry Holmes, at times showing signs of age, pounded James "Bonecrusher" Smith's face into a bloody mess and stopped him at 2:10 of the 12th round Friday night in his first defense of the International Boxing Federation heavyweight title.

The 35-year-old Holmes appeared to have the fight well in hand in the scoring, but he had his problems.

The champion, who sometimes seemd to lose his rhythm, was shaken by rights to the heads on two occasions and suffered a cut above the left eye from a head butt in the seventh round. His corner was unable to keep the cut from bleeding for the rest of the fight.

The victory was Holmes' 46th with no defeats and was the 33rd knockout for the man who defended the World Boxing Council title 17 times before giving it up last spring in a dispute with promoter Don King. King promoted Friday's bout before a sellout crowd of 5,000 in an outdoor arena at the Riviera Hotel and Casino.

Smith picked up $175,000, which will fill more than a few stockings. Holmes earned $1 million.

Smith, who lost his first fight, now has has a 14-2 record with 12 knockouts.

Coyotes conquer Wildcats, 44-40

GRADY -- Borden County's Coyotes held off a late rally in the fourth quarter to stunt the playoff-bound Grady Wildcats here Friday night, 44-40.

Runningback Chris Cooley ran for all six of the Coyote touchdown in a win which ended Borden's season at 7-2-1. The Coyotes finished zone play with a 2-2 record, tying Grady and Ira. Grady won representation rights via a coin flip after the game.

Cooley's touchdowns came on runs of 7, 20, 58, 52 and 55 yards. He also snared a 17-yard pass from Dennis Buchanan for Borden County's other touchdown.

Kirby Williams booted four two-point conversions.

Grady, 4-6, had pulled within two points late in the game before Cooley broke the final, 55-yard touchdown run. Williams' kick-after made it 44-34 and Grady could not recover.

"The kids played good football," said Coach Duke Frisbie. "We made three goalline stands inside the 1-yard line."

kept Snyder from mounting any threats other than the scoring drive, but the three fumbles and the interception - two of which came directly following Monahans miscues - were no help to the Tigers either. Snyder was also flagged 10 times for 63 yards. SHS was ticketed for seven of those (48 yards) in the first half.

Junior quarterback Mike McWilliams saw action in the fourth quarter for Snyder. He also did a good job punting the ball for the first time this year, booting it nine times for a 36.4 average.

Cabooses come to end of line

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — It seems that the end of the train is coming to the end of the line, but not without a fight.

Cabooses are disappearing from the rear of trains as they're replaced with black boxes of gauges and warning lights, but an official says "it'll be a long time" before the boxes completely replace cabooses.

Public Service Commission railroad safety division director J.J. Dwyer said recently the trains in mountainous states like West virginia can't do without the cabooses where workers can direct the train in reverse.

"A train may have to back up seven to eight miles in bad weather," Dwyer said. "You can't have people hanging on a rail of a car in 20-degree-below weather. It'll be a long time before they take cabooses off these trains."

Cabooses are not required by law in West Virginia as they are in Virginia and some other states, he said.

Sandinistas send another protest

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The leftist Sandinista government has sent its third protest note to the United States in nine days, claiming a loud boom that shook Managua was caused by a U.S. spy plane crashing the sound barrier in preparation for an American invasion.

The 8:30 a.m. shock Friday kept up the tension in Nicaragua, which has been on edge since earlier this week following reports that a Soviet freighter off the coast was suspected of carrying Soviet combat jets to the Sandinista government.

U.S. officials did not rule out military action to destroy any warplanes arriving in Nicaragua.

A knowledgeable source, who spoke only on condition he not be identified, said Friday it was likely the Soviet freighter that docked in the port of Corinto brought as many as three Soviet helicopters, and that a second Soviet freighter was waiting off the Pacific coast.

Nicaragua's leaders have been predicting an American invasion for weeks.

The government said it will begin issuing rifles today to 20,000 student volunteers for a defense force for the capital. Carlos Carrion, coordinator general of the Sandinista Youth Organization, said the students will "receive immediate training" in preparation for "a direct invasion by the U.S. armed forces."

"Long-term Outlook for Farm Credit," "The 1985 Farm Bill," "Merchandising Your Credit," "Cattle, Cotton Outlook," "Income Tax Planning," "New Estate Planning Ideas" and "Computers for Agriculture."

Instructors for the seminar will be Wayne Hayenga, attorney and agricultural economist with the ag extension service; Larry Lipke, an extension economist in management; Dan Padberg, head of the agricultural economics department at Texas A&M; Ed Smith, extension economist in grain marketing; and Ed Uvacek, extension economist in livestock.

CPA firms reveal merger

Lloyd, Zola Schlegel and Linda Westmake.

The two firms will move into an expanded office at the Junction Shopping Center on College Ave. — facilities adjacent to Monte West's current office.

The new quarters are not expected to be ready until next spring. Until that time, the firm will operate at its two current locations.

Anderson, Anderson and Vestal are now located in the Snyder Shopping Center.

With the merger, three major areas of accounting and business are expected to be specialized in.

One will entail the expansion to a year-round department for auditing. As of this contract year, the merger will have the firm responsible for outside audits of Scurry County operations, Western Texas College and the City of Snyder.

Vestal, who recently attended an American Institute of Certified Public Accountants national governmental training school, will be in charge of this area.

In addition, the firm will address the need for local businesses to implement new micro-computer systems in their operations.

Anderson, Anderson and Vestal currently uses five micros in their practice for client accounting, tax return processing, auditing, word processing and spread sheet analysis.

Larry Anderson will be directing work in the area of mirco-computers.

Monte West's practice is involved with estate planning and the filing of estate returns and this area will be his primary responsibility after the merger.

Firm representatives announced also they will add to the practice new equipment in tax return printing technology — the Hewlett Packard Laser Jet printer.

The printer is linked to a main frame computer with Tax Logic Corp. in Richardson. Firm representatives say it is designed to hold down the cost of processing individual tax returns and to reduce delays associated with tax season.

Both Anderson and Vestal are graduates of Snyder High School. West was raised in Monahans and opened his office here in 1973.

Anderson, age 36, earned his degree from Texas Tech University in Lubbock in 1970. He returned to Snyder in 1972 to be in partnership with his father, Buster Anderson, CPA.

The senior Anderson, now retired, came to Snyder in 1960 and purchased the Wilbur Ellis, CPA practice.

Anderson's wife Bobbie is a fourth grade teacher at Northeast Elementary. Their children are Tommy Holladay, 18, Tonya Holladay, 15, and Tamra, age 3.

Vestal, age 37, received his undergraduate and his graduate degree from Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He purchased Buster Anderson's interest in the firm in 1982.

His wife Sharrylon is an English teacher at SHS. They have two children, Rebecca, 13, and Bill, 10.

He is a former president of the Rotary Club and currently serves on the board of directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, the United Way and the local American Heart Association.

In addition, he serves on WTC's Office Careers Advisory Committee and is a Little League coach.

Scurry County Folks...

By Vicki Brown SDN Society Editor

"We (children) were just allowed to say hello unless he had a talkin' spell on him. Then we gathered around him at the fireplace to listen to him talk about the war. If we were lucky, he would bring out the gun he used in the war.

Marcus Johnston sat back in his chair in the comfortable "old home place" and reminisced about by-gone days and his grandfather, Albert Monroe Johnston, who is credited as the first to "turn the sod" in Scurry County.

Born in Alabama and raised in Tennessee, the elder Johnston joined Company K of the 22nd Mississippi Infantry Regiment of the Confederate Army. As a member of Co. K, he fought in the Battle of Shiloh, considered one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War, on April 6 and 7, 1862.

He survived the battle, but was shot in the leg a few days later during the regiment's retreat. Also during that retreat, Albert met Elizabeth Ketura Bowles, whom he later married.

Placed in the cavalry because of his leg injury, he was mustered out of the service in 1865.

After marriage, Albert headed for Arkansas, then to San Saba County, Texas. According to the application he made to acquire property in Dunn, he arrived in the state in 1872.

Little is known about his life in Scurry County. In 1883, 41-year-old Albert settled in a dugout on the Billingsley place about 100 yards from Deep Creek. According to Marcus, in the spring of 1884 Albert built a home on the site where the present Johnston home stands.

"The old home was still here in 1940 when we bought the property," said Marcus' wife, Modine. "We used most of the original wood from his house when we built this one," she added.

Albert raised sheep during his early years here. He and his two oldest sons made extra money shearing sheep for neighboring ranchers. "My dad learned to be a pretty good sheep shearer," Marcus recalled.

Although Albert is considered the county's first farmer, his wife, Elizabeth, actually discovered what crops would flourish here. She planted the first cotton seeds in the county and raised a large peach and pecan orchard.

In the 1890's, the Johnston's began raising enough cotton to sell. Sorgum was grown to provide feed for animals and to make syrup. "One of my uncles learned syrup making and was very good at it," added Marcus.

Not much is known about Albert's involvement in community affairs except that he was one of 15 citizens to sign the petition requesting an election for the formation of Scurry County.

Dunn resident Houston Cotton, who also knew Albert before his death in 1926, said, "Most people called him 'Deep Creek Johnston' because he really enjoyed fishing down on the creek."

According to Marcus, his grandfather could "sit for hours on the creek bank fishing. Frank Brownfield's daddy gave him the name 'Deep Creek'. Someone asked him how long my granddaddy had been here. He replied, 'I don't know; when I got here he was sitting on the creek bank fishing.'"

Because Marcus was 13 years old and his cousin Mrs. Farrell Nipp of Dunn about the same age, they do not recall much about the man himself.

"I remember that he was a very quiet man and that he ordered all kinds of patent medicines through the mail," said Nipp. "When I was young, my family lived with him after grandma died, but he stayed in his room most of the time."

Most of what the family now knows about their ancestor is the result of the research of Albert's great, great grandson, Harold

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT — Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Combest of 2302 43rd Pl. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janna Lynn, to Barry Don Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Davis of 2107 43rd St. The couple will exchange vows Jan. 5 at 7 p.m. in the 37th Street Church of Christ. United in double ring ceremony

SAN ANGELO — Stuart Wayne Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cole, and Krista Kaarina DeFreese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James DeFreese, were united on Oct. 20 at 6 p.m. in the First Assembly of God Church. Rev. L.C. Messer officiated the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a white satin gown featuring layers of lace, long lace sleeves and chapel train. A voile bonnet veil completed her attire. She carried a bouquet of silk roses and rainbow streamers.

Wearing an orchid, floor-length gown, Marna Hegedus, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Serving with her was bridesmaid, Rhonda Stagner, sister-in-law of the bride. She wore a baby blue, floor-length gown. Both women carried bouquets of rainbow colored roses.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with a ruffled shirt and a rainbow colored boutonniere. Edwin and Kelvin Stagner, the bride's brothers, served as groomsmen. One man wore a blue tuxedo and one wore a brown tuxedo. Both wore rainbow colored boutonnieres.

Martha Strickland provided wedding music including "Love Lift Us Up" and "Endless Love."

Misty Stagner, the bride's niece, carried the bridal train. Kelya Stagner, also the bride's niece, served as flower girl. Jeremy Hegedus, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer with Kenneth Oliver as usher.

A reception followed the ceremony.

Covered with a white nylon and velvet tablecloth over blue, the bride's table held the cake, mints, punch and rainbow napkins. The traditional white cake featured four tiers decorated with colored bells atop a pink flo fountain. Smaller cakes were joined by staircases complete with miniature attendents dressed in rainbow colors. Donna Hamilton, the groom's sister, and Linda Stagner, sister-in-law of the bride, served.

Centered with a floral arrangement and rainbow napkins, the groom's table was covered with a blue and white cloth. Gabi Clinkenbeard served the German chocolate cake.

The bride's mother arranged the flowers and made the cake.

After a short wedding trip, the bride and groom have made their home in Snyder.

This picture (made about 1900) shows the William W. Nelson family at their home near Camp Springs. According to Jack Nelson, a grandson of William W. Nelson, the people are identified as follows, left to right, William W. Nelson Jr., William W. Nelson, Mrs. Malcolm Johnson, Mrs. William W. Nelson (Nannie), and Ida Mae Nelson.

Many settlers came to Camp Springs in the 1880s because there was good land and good water. The creek was fed by a spring and was named for a Mr. Camp.

According to Evelyn Boone who grew up at Camp Springs, the settlers sometime had to protect their drinking water from the sheep herders. The early settlers finally leased the main spring and preserved it for drinking and household use.

The Nelsons were well known at Camp Springs as William W. had been the first sheriff of Scurry County. Sheriff Nelson served only from 1884 to 1886, but he became known because he was the first sheriff for the new county named after General William R. Scurry.

'Koreshans' at one time had settled in Florida wilderness

ESTERO, Fla. (AP) — When Americans talk about pioneers they usually refer to those men and women who pushed westward across the Appalachian Mountains to the Pacific Ocean in the 100-year period beginning in 1760.

Few ever mention the struggle of those who followed a religious visionary to this quiet nook on Florida's west coast before the turn of the century.

They were called "Koreshans" and never numbered much over 200. Hard workers, devout and obedient, they followed Dr. Cyrus Reed Teed, a New York physician, to 305 acres he obtained here in 1894.

Most of South Florida was a wilderness area then, few roads existed and the easiest way to reach here was by water. Despite the heat, bugs, scorpions and poisonous snakes, the settlers built a community that included tennis courts, picnic grounds and even boasted a traveling baseball team.

The settlement's "Golden Years" were short, however, lasting only from 1904 until Teed's death Dec. 22, 1908, says Jim Baker, a state ranger.

Teed's religious beliefs that he was the Messiah and that the earth was a hollow sphere with the sun in the center and life existing on the inside were not readily accepted by local residents, Baker explains. Many Koreshans believed he would be reincarnated and waited to see him again. The majority, disenchanted, drifted away after the two world wars.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor,

"I have lived a long time, and the longer I live the more convincing proof I see that God governs in the affairs of man, and if a sparrow cannot fall without His notice, is it probable that a nation can rise without His aid? 'Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it.' Without His concurring aid we shall proceed no better than the builders of Babel." So said Benjamin Franklin at the Constitutional Convention of the 13 colonies at Philadelphia.

Just as "early on" (coming near the beginning of a period, event, etc.) has become a popular expression in speech at this point in time, the word "pluralism" (the doctrine that there is more than one kind of ultimate reality) has been worn threadbare during the 1984 presidential campaign. The philosophy of pluralism as defined above is merely an extension of situation ethics and allows for no absolute values. John W. Whitehead wrote, "This type of contemporary pluralism predominates in our society today. The denial of one universal, absolute truth logically leads to an "anything goes" mentality, as illustrated by the breakdown in moral absolutes and the devaluation of human life. Under this view there can be no concrete appraisals of good and bad; all values and resulting behavior, must be held in neutral."

Richard John Neuhaus wrote in "The Naked Public Square, "Without religious ideals, democracy becomes dangerous. The widespread exclusion of religiously grounded values and beliefs is at the heart of the outrage and alienation of millions of Americans."

Ice cream cones are popular long after first appearance

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The home of the ice cream cone may be lost in antiquity but Consolidated Cone Corp. is keeping the Dayton cone connection from melting away.

Some of Consolidated's machines, which turn out 1.2 billion cones and 210 wafer sandwiches yearly, are 1920s equipment put into use after Daytonian Walter McLaren bought a patent for the automated process.

Historical accounts vary. Syrian [illegible] usually credited with selling the pastry that led to the ice cream cone. By most industry accounts, the first one turned up at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis, when a vendor next to Hamwi ran out of bowls for his ice cream. Hamwi rolled one of his thin, wafer-like waffles into a cone or cornucopia, which hardened as it cooled.

The International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers also notes that Italo Marchiony, an Italian immigrant, is credited in some accounts with making cones and selling them as early as 1856. A patent for his cone mold was issued in December 1903. Various cone molds and processes were developed.

In 1910, Fred Bruckmann of Portland, Ore., developed a machine with moving molds that would automatically pour batter into the molds and trim the cones. With financial help from Nelson Talbott, a fellow Daytonian, McLaren bought the patent in 1912 to automate the making of ice cream cones.

"Up until that time they were handmade waffles. You'd make them on a waffle iron and roll them," said Dennis Haller, plant manager at Consolidated Cone. "When he bought that patent he took the patent for doing that and made his machines. His machines were for the first automated cone."

Other companies began using automation to make ice cream cones. Ensuing patent wars were resolved when McLaren Products of Dayton and Peoria, Atlantic Cone Co. of Springfield, Mass., Consolidated Wafer, and Turnbull Cone and Machine Co. of Chattanooga, Tenn., merged into Consolidated Cone Corp.

McLaren's operation was purchased in 1928 by Nabisco, which renamed it Nabisco Baking Co.

Some future edition of the SDN will carry a feature story from Soc Editor Vicki Brown regarding "Scurry County Folks" who are strapped into high pressure jobs.

Specifically, Vicki is going to talk to the wives of men in such professions — to see how everybody's life runs when Dad's job not only calls but screams in his ear.

The newspaper trade has been described as a high-pressure occupation. But in these [illegible] a lot of what people think is "hard" is really only "taking it" that way.

But if you continue to show signs of stress due to "pressure," you [illegible] and a new line of work.

As a profession it is a great training ground, making most middle-aged washouts fully qualified to take up a diverse range of other types of employment.

You'll find yourself qualified as a fuse-changer for large and inscrutible pieces of computer equipment; adept at balancing a telephone between chin and shoulder; and fairly proficient at spotting types after they've seen print.

You also come into contact with people who sure enough seem to have high pressure occupations, and a conversation with one of these guys a few towns back sort of tilted our perspective on the deal.

At the time we talked he was the chief deputy for a county about the same size as Scurry. He has since been elevated to the good high sheriff's post due to a [illegible] of circumstances.

It was this elevation that convinced us all over again that his job [illegible] difficulties — but that is another story.

So anyway, we were discussing deputying [illegible] and he was asked why [illegible] he ever chose law enforcement as a trade.

"Oh, I was get'in ulcers with my other job. I got to where I couldn't stand the pressure."

We were tickled by the thought of someone easing their job pressure by going into a profession where you: (1) associate daily with known criminals; (2) volunteer to wear a gun, which implies eventually you will have to draw and possibly fire the thing; and (3) routinely see the underbelly of a world which — even in good old West Texas — can be a pretty grim little fairy land.

"What did you do?" we asked.

"I was an auto mechanic," he said.

His reply still left us a little thick, so we pressed him for details.

"You gotta understand the business," he said. "When you [illegible] people's cars, they don't want the job finished tomorrow or today, they wanted it yesterday."

It occurred to us that in any job, it's not what you have to do, it's who you have to fiddle with.

And at least in his case, criminals seemed preferable to customers.

John Dunnam

Usually they make you a pretty good offer, but not always. They do always make it sound good. Possibly you are in the market for what they are selling, but the odds are aganist it. This makes no difference to them, they keep pitching as long as you keep listening.

Telemarketing, it is called these days. Telephone soliciting began to have a negative ring to it, so they polished up the old image and are now pursuing an exciting career in telemarketing.

They are also a doggoned nuisance.

What makes these people think I need 8x10 color photographs at an amazingly low price? Or aluminum siding, or stainless steel cutware for that matter? What gives them the right to call me at the ungodly hour of 9 a.m.? If they must call, they should at least have the decency to familiarize themselves with my schedule.

Midnight would be best. At that hour I've realized I've disappointed enough people already during the day that hanging up on somebody seems a minor impoliteness.

Late afternoon is my second choice time slot for phone solicitors. Excuse me, I mean telemarketing professionals.

By this time of day I'm so annoyed with people in general that anyone who rings my phone is fair game.

"What? You drew my name for a special introductory offer on maintenance-free aluminum siding! What a coincidence. I've been looking around for such a deal on siding because I want to put an end forever to those messy and expensive painting chores. Is this anything like the deal you offered my neighbor who foolishly turned you down? Whoops. Someone is knocking on my door. Don't go away."

Then I put down the phone and go on about my business. A shrill sound emanating from the receiver will tell me when my heckler figures out who won this match of time-wasting.

If I should get a return call, I tell them that it was a "moonie" at my door and I've been converted to moonism. Since I no longer own my home, all inquiries should be directed to the new owners. I believe the main moon office is in Korea somewhere and is probably listed in the yellow pages under fruit cakes.

Mood and imagination are the only limits to this method of disposing of telemarketers. It works much better than reasoning. They don't have the patience to listen while you explain that you prefer to trade with locals who make their living here in the same business, pay taxes here and are here when you need them.

The only problem to "working out" on unwary phone peddlers is that someday you may chance to meet one in the flesh and some of them are really nice people who have to deal with the same stresses and frustrations as regular people — probably even phone privacy pirates.

I don't know how they got into the racket. Perhaps they don't have a car and can't sell Avon. Working out of your own home the hours you choose does sound appealing.

I guess no one told them they can get filthy rich selling Amyway. Maybe they needed a job their spouse knows nothing about until they can afford a divorce and take the bum for everything he's got.

I suspect that becoming a telephone solicitor is something no one plans, it just happens. And we all end up victims.

Save Holiday Packages From Dead-Letter Fate

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR POSTAL CLERK: Please do. Many people handle returns for private companies such as UPS. To return packages delivered by these firms, use postage.

8. Breakable items can and will break without protection. Coins are frequent victims of our processing machines, as are small hardware pieces, candy hearts, lollipops and campaign buttons. If you must mail these, cushion them with tissue, or use a box.

9. Monitor your children's mail. It breaks my heart to see a carefully decorated letter addressed simply to "Grandma." (One exception: "Santa" letters are handled by the postmaster.)

10. Mail early in the day. Every business in town mails at 5:00 p.m., and we can't always process it all in time for the main dispatch. Our busiest days are the days after a holiday, Mondays and Fridays. Find out about our special services, such as certified, registered or express mail. We could save you time and money.

11. If you receive poor service, complain! Your local post office has official complaint forms. They're yours for the asking. It will make your local office sit up and take notice.

12. If you think we deserve a compliment, let us know. During the holiday season, we can use a kind word.

Thanks, Abby!

Stepparenting demands new slate of rules, regulations

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Being a stepparent is a task filled with difficulties and disappointments, and new stepparents often have unrealistic expectations which interfere with success, warns a psychologist at United States International University here.

Dr. Robert Leone, director of the psychology clinics at USIU, explains that stepparents who try to model their new relationships after typical nuclear family roles are in for some hard times.

Instead, Leone suggests, new stepparents should abandon any plans for trying to become the child's original "parent" and should try to be a caring, friendly "uncle or aunt figure" in the first two years of the new relationship.

Leone, who has compiled a wide range of advice he believes will help stepfamilies through the stages of adapting to their new relationships, is himself the stepfather of two boys.

Even the word "step" causes problems, he notes. "There haven't been, that I know of, any good stories about stepparents. The first one everyone thinks of is Cinderella's wicked stepmother who sends her own two daughters to the dance and keeps Cinderella home to clean out the fireplace. So the word 'stepchild' is almost synonymous with being a victim," Leone says.

The suggestions he offers to help stepparents through the rough times include:

—Recognize that there are three stages of a stepfamily relationship, the happy and hopeful first stage, the conflict stage in which negative feelings begin to surface, and the crisis stage in which conflicts come out in the open. Parents and stepparents need to be prepared for an average adjustment period of two years.

—Pay attention to developing a good bond with your spouse. Only with that accomplished can stepparents hope to succeed with the children. Both parents need to agree on the new family system, such as how to discipline children, how to reward them, how to show affection and how to play together as a family.

—Recognize that stepfamilies have some unique problems. Problems include coping with children's bonds to their missing parents, conflicting loyalties, and childhood fantasies that somehow their divorced parents will get back together.

—Be prepared for a magnification of common family problems. "If Johnny is failing in school in a stepfamily, the mother may feel guilty for not spending as much time with him as before her remarriage. Johnny may think that if he had his real father available he would get more help with his homework (which may or may not be true), and the new father may be feeling that he's not any good as a stepfather because his child is failing. Everybody blames each other and themselves, while in a nuclear family it's much easier to face the problem for what it really is.

—Equate the experience of becoming a new stepparent with an organ transplant into a body. Even though a new stepparent, like a new kidney, may be for the betterment of the whole system, there is likely to be an effort to reject the newcomer. Kids in stepfamilies already know that marriages don't last forever. They may think, "She got rid of the last one, so if we're outrageous enough we can get rid of this one." Stepparents need to be prepared for that very normal response from the children.

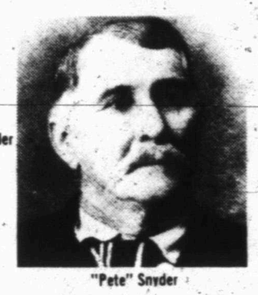

—Be aware that the acclimation process is probably most difficult with children in their middle years, and also that some emotions may be transferred. For example, the child who is angry with his father for leaving may express the anger against his new stepfather.

—If you are experiencing real problems in making the adjustment as a stepfamily, ask for help. Stepparents need to talk to their spouses and the family may need to seek outside help from an organization such as the Stepfamily Association of America Inc. which has 35 U.S. branches, or from a counselor.

"Don't wait until you are drowning to get professional help," Leone advises.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I thought you guys were supposed to FLY south for the winter."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YOU'RE NOT GONNA LIKE THIS, BUT THE SITTER ALREADY QUIT."

'Wild man' now leads tamer life

CARL, W.Va. (AP) — Orval Elijah Brown at age 78 still wears a loincloth when it's warm and still startles passersby with his shoulder-length, silver mane and ominous glare, looking like an aging Tarzan of Appalachia.

But Brown leads a somewhat tamer life than he did 50 years ago when tourists paid to have their pictures taken with the "Wild Man of Clay County."

Today Brown spends much of his time working in a large, pleasantly unruly garden in this hamlet in the mountains of south-central West Virginia. He left neighboring Clay County behind in the 1950s, but kept his distinctive lifestyle and appearance.

A recent afternoon found Wild Man clad only in a leopard-print loincloth as he tramped across the grass.

His long, platinum-blond hair and beard were shining in the sun, and his clear blue eyes glistened from beneath bushy eyebrows as he talked about himself. He recalled that a storekeeper back in Clay County first called him the "Hairy Man," but eventually he became known as "Wild Man."

He said he had always liked being outdoors as a youngster, and enjoyed Edgar Rice Burrough's "Tarzan" stories. As time went by, he developed an appreciation for the ape man's sartorial style.

Brown's aversion to clothes and shaving encouraged stories that he roamed the woods and caves of Clay County, leading a primitive life unencumbered by civilization. He began trading on his nickname with the "Wild Man photos" in his 20s.

"I don't know if they believed the story or not," he chuckled as he recalled the tourists who flocked to have their photos taken with him.

But World War II interrupted Wild Man's modeling career. He signed up for the Navy and was promptly told by a lieutenant that he needed to "shave, get a haircut and put some shoes on."

Following his discharge in 1943, Brown returned to work near his parents' farm and continued to sell pictures of the "Wild Man" along the road.

He moved to Nicholas County in 1968 after spending nearly 18 years in mental hospitals after being charged in a shooting death he says was committed in self-defense.

His Clay County reputation followed him to his new home — as a local storeowner made clear when asked where Orval Elijah Brown could be found.

"You mean Wild Man?" he said. "Yeah, that's who you want."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to get others to cooperate with you today, you must first show a willingness to be cooperative yourself. If you balk, they will as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) "Never do today that which you can put off until tomorrow" is a policy that will cause you later regrets. This is not the time to sweep duties under the rug.

Scenic view eases hard work

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — The 42-member crew had two weeks to make a rutted track look like a hiking trail that would last 40-50 years.

If that meant rolling 175-pound granite blocks across a meadow, the job would get done.

If that meant enduring 16-degree nights and the high Sierra's first snow, the job would get done.

And if that meant working a nine-hour day for minimum wage, the job would get done.

That was the final task of the season for the California Conservation Corps crew camping at 9,400 feet in Rafferty Meadow on the west side of Yosemite National Park.

The job combines the best and the worst of the CCC program.

Corps members are guaranteed the drudgery of their motto: "Hard work, low pay and miserable conditions." But they also live and work as a team amid some of the state's most breathtaking scenery.

CCC Director Bud Sheble and others took a five-mile pack horse ride to the base camp recently to inspect the trail maintenance and reconstruction work in progress.A mule laden with heavy wool blankets accompanied his caravan to ward off the chill.

Park Superintendent Robert Binnewies, who led the trail ride, congratulated the youths on their work.

"The CCC program has just been a godsend for Yosemite,' he said.

The trail crew chops granite boulders into maneuverable chunks, lines them up in two rows the width of two backpackers, fills the center with rocks and tops it with soil to replace the meadow's dirt trail.

"It's a tremendous way to deal with the dilemma of maintaining a park," Binnewies said. The corps, modeled after the Depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps, is "preserving a gorgeous meadow that otherwise would have turned into an interstate highway."

Crews from the 8-year-old state agency have worked on more than 300 of the park's 750 miles of trails, which bear about 350,000 hikers plus horseback riders each summer.

"The work is tough, really tough, but living up here isn't," said corps member Kim Orr, 20, of San Clemente. She quit a better-paying trail maintenance job with the state Parks and Recreation Department to join the CCC last January.

"This work's a little harder and more detailed," she explained. "I'm not in it for the money. I'm in it for the scenery. I'm in it to climb peaks every weekend."

Miss Orr was working with crew leader Mary Anne Baum, 22, of Eureka, who has been in the corps two years. They spent their morning cleaning the mule corral at camp and then hiked a mile uphill to resod the dirt trail being replaced with the sturdier granite causeway.

The Yosemite crew is a fraction of the 1,900-member corps of 18- to 23-year-olds who pledge to work for a year in unglamorous public service jobs such as firefighting, flood control and park maintenance.

The corps' unwritten goals are to build character, confidence and skills that corps members can carry with them.

If Miss Baum were not in the corps, "I'd be in Kansas doing factory work, making color crayons," she said. That was the job she had before taking the advice of her brother, a former corps member, and joining the CCC.

She has worn out five or six pairs of gloves in her six months at Yosemite, a sign of the gritty tasks she has performed.

"There isn't a glove made that can hold up to these people," said Walt Castle, a park employee who coordinates back country maintenance projects.

"My Dad can't believe that his girl is out here doing this, and my Mom thinks it's fantastic," Miss Baum said. "We learn how to work hard. We learned what hiking is. We were hiking 3½-4 miles uphill at Waterwheel Falls."

Corps members must maintain a hiking speed of three miles per hour, "and most can do five miles on good terrain," said crew supervisor Richard "Hoss" Payson. He lived up to his nickname physically before joining the high country team last April and losing 75 pounds.

About three-quarters of the corps members leave before their year is up — about 55 percent find jobs or return to school, about 25 percent are fired and about 20 percent leave for personal reasons.

However, the dropout rate for back country teams is very low, partly because corps members are specially selected for the task. But Miss Orr has a better reason for staying.

"Just living out here is worth it all," she said.

Diluted sealant dumping halted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — City road crews have been ordered to halt the dumping of a diluted oil-based road sealant near the San Antonio River, a city official said Thursday.

The road workers were plugging potholes on a service road that runs parallel to the scenic river, said John Krawczynski, operations manager for street drainage maintenance.

When they finished the job, they apparently washed their trucks out at the site, he said.

The oil-based substance that washed out of the trucks was close enough to the river to run into it and apparently some did, said Phil Bynum, engineering technician for the Texas Department of Water Resources.

But Bynum said there is no oil slick on the water and there appears to be no damage to wildlife.

"They got a little sloppy in washing the trucks out down there," Bynum said. "But it appeared very little if any oil got into the river."

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Saturated fat is damaging

DEAR DR. LAMB — All my life, I have heard doctors recommend that people eat chicken and fish and less beef and pork. I'll agree on fish, since it contains little or no fat, but chicken, eo. If you skin a 3-pound chicken, you'll find almost one pound of fat on it. Now, one-third fat on a chicken is not good for your health. If you cut away this fat and discard it, fine — but who skins a chicken?

When any animal contains one-third fat, I say forget it. I'd agree that eating rabbit, squirrel, fish and all wildlife might reduce heart problems to a minimum, but let no one tell me that chicken will also do this. I'm convinced chicken is harder on one's health than center-cut pork roasts or the tougher grades of beef, such as the neck or shoulder, which have more muscle than fat. What say you?

DEAR READER — It is not just a question of how much fat, but what kind of fat. The fat in poultry is only about one-third saturated fat. Saturated fat is the kind of fat that is most likely to cause high cholesterol levels and fatty-cholesterol deposits in arteries. About half of the fat in beef is saturated fat, and beef contains very little polyunsaturated fat. Chicken fat is a little less than one-third polyunsaturated fat. Pork fat has a little less saturated fat than beef.

Hens and older chickens so have a lot of fat, but the edible portion of fryer chicken, when raw, is only about 5 percent fat by weight. That is about the same as the separable lean-only portion of round steak. The cut of poultry also makes a difference. The fryer breast with the skin is less than 2.5 percent fat, and much less if you take the skin off after you have baked it.

You are right that wild game is usually much leaner than domestic animals. Grass-fat beef is leaner than lot-fattened beef, but the American public doesn't like these leaner and tougher types of meat.

You sound like the kind of person who would cook in ways to avoid fat in the diet. That is a good practice to control weight and to help avoid heart disease, so I'm sending you The Health Letter 9-12, Kitchen Power for Weight Control. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother is in her 80s and has a heart condition. Her doctor put her on a heart medicine and potassium. About three months later, he put her on Nitrostat because she told him she needed it. She was told to place one 0.4 mg. tablet under her tongue every three minutes until she used three, no more, and she could use three in 24 hours.

She uses these like water. I have seen her use them three and four times in 24 hours, and apparently has no ill effects. I can't tell that they do any good, either. The family is concerned about this, but she left word with the doctor that her case is not to be discussed with us. Is the Nitrostat strong enough to do harm or is it a placebo to satisfy her? Any information will help us children to cope with this.

DEAR READER — It shouldn't be any problem. Nitrostat is a medicine that is commonly used to prevent or relieve heart pain (angina). Its use is limited to three tablets in succession since, if the pain is that bad, the patient needs to see a doctor immediately. The use of three or four in 24 hours is fine, and Nitrostat will abort or prevent anginal pain.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 27 and have three children. I have started an exercise program. It is doing a lot for my slack muscles, but I have a lot of loose skin. Is there any way to firm up skin tone?

DEAR READER — Frankly, no. You can only hope that the skin tissue will tighten up a bit on its own, but no exercise will do that for you. The elastic fibers and other parts of the skin have been overstretched, and, like an overstretched balloon, the skin won't return to its original shape.

As muscles are tightened, and, in some cases, enlarged, that may result in some improvement, but the skin itself is not muscle and can't be exercised.

Eventually, if you want to eliminate excess skinfolds, about all that can be done is to surgically remove the skin. That is probably not a good idea if you are going to have more children, and it may not be worth the effort to you, but that is about the only way to eliminate excess skin.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish there were a medicine to solve the problem, but there is not. Candicidin is an anti-fungal agent, and prostate enlargement has nothing to do with fungal infections. Zinc has not proved to be beneficial, and any hormones that might help would also end your sex life. However, I think we may someday find out how to eliminate tumors, and the usual form of prostate enlargement is caused by benign tumors that grow inside the prostate. These tumors are not cancer.

The external size of the prostate may not make much difference. If the enlargement encroaches upon the center of the prostate, as it surrounds the urethra, it can squeeze down and obstruct it. An enlargement on the side of the prostate that does not compress the urethra will not cause obstruction. That is why the amount of urine that is retained in your bladder after urination and the degree of trouble you have urinating are more important than how large the prostate is.

If a person has some obstruction from an inflammation, as in acute prostatitis, controlling or eliminating the inflammation will relieve the obstruction. However, this is no help for the common prostate enlargement of middle-aged and older men.

On the positive side, you need not lose your sexual capacity if you have prostate surgery. It depends a lot on one's underlying state of health. Except in the case of a radical excision that destroys vital nerves, most men can return to regular sexual activity after prostate surgery.

I am sending you The Health Letter 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems, to give you more information. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019

Film star given $90,000 award

NEW YORK (AP) — Italian film star Gina Lollobrigida, who now makes a living as a photographer, was awarded $90,000 for a tooth she broke while eating fried shrimp with her dentist at Trader Vic's restaurant four years ago.

State Supreme Court Justice Louis Kaplan ruled Thursday the restaurant was "careless and negligent in the preparation, inspection and dispensing of their food to its customers" on June 17, 1980.

Stardom may loom for dog

YORK, Pa. (AP) — It's a real-life rags to riches story.

Glenn D. Hake found The Governor in the streets of Harrisburg six years ago. Now, The Governor is going to be the center of a non-profit corporation, and some day, if all goes well, a big star.

"With a talent like his, he could be big," said Hake, a Hellam truck driver, free-lance photographer and country music singer.

The Governor, who now goes by the stage name Boopie, is an 8-year-old, mixed-breed, pit bull terrier who plays the piano.

He may not play it well but, according to Hake, he's probably the only incorporated dog in the country.

"It could be. I don't know of many other dogs or animals that are incorporated," he said.

The corporation is called Man's Best Friend Charities Inc. Its purpose is to raise money during charity events where Boopie will be the star performer.

So far, Boopie has played at a Be Kind to Animals fund-raiser, where he collected $47 for the York County chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"You should've seen that. When he played, the kids loved it," Hake said. "Whenever he plays and kids watch, they go nuts."

Boopie's rise to incorporation began in 1978 when Hake found the dog in downtown Harrisburg. He was delivering a load of materials to a brick company when he noticed about five stray dogs hanging around the loading dock.

Hake asked about the dogs and ended up taking the 2-yearold pit bull home. His wife, Eleanor, didn't like the idea of having a dog, but as time passed, she grew attached to it.

"Boopie's part of the family. He's just like the son we never had, our pride and joy," Hake said.

Boopie was happy to just hang around the house and occasionally accompany Hake in his truck. Then, in the spring, Hake bought an old piano at a yard sale.

One time, when Hake was playing the piano, Boopie jumped on a stool by the instrument and began tapping the keyboard with one paw.

"A light went on in my head. I thought it was a great thing, a dog playing the piano," Hake recalled.

So, Hake went about teaching Boopie to play the piano. At first, he said, Boopie would only use his left paw. But two weeks and many doggie treats later, Boopie was tickling the ivories with both paws.

Boopie's style can only be described as avant-garde. He bangs on the keys, waiting for a doggie treat, producing something approaching music.

"Of course, a dog can't play melodies," Hake said.

After the show at the SPCA fund-raiser, Hake thought about taking Boopie's act on the road.

"With his talent, I could use him to make a profit, But after thinking about iy,uI decided I'd rather make it non-profit. I'd like to use his talents to help poor people," Hake said.

That decision was not a difficult one to make, he said. Hake's father died when he was a 3-year-old and his mother had to support the family.

"I came up the hard way. I know what hard times are. If I can help poor people, I'd rather do that than make money with Boopie," he said.

For now, Boopie isn't working steadily.

Foodbank makes use of mistakes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Imagine more than 500 tractor-trailer rigs packed with food lined up end-to-end, and you will have some idea of how much donated food the Greater Cleveland Community Foodbank has distributed to soup kitchens and emergency food centers over the past three years.

Most of it would have been destroyed merely because it was mislabeled, overproduced or didn't sell in the marketplace, said Edmond V. Worley, Foodbank director since it began operating in March 1980. He said the Foodbank is one group that "benefits from others' mistakes."

"We've experienced all the frustrations of a new business that has grown astronomically," said Worley.

The Cleveland Foodbank, one of 72 across the country, has been so suceessful it is moving from rented east side quarters to a downtown building the Foodbank is buying. The building will provide three times as much space with expanded refrigerated and freezer capacity.

The food bank concept — collecting unwanted food and distributing it to the needy — is about 15 years old and reached Cleveland in 1979, Worley said, when a handful of people set up the program to serve area needy.

Worley, who had recently left the Catholic priesthood and was seeking a new career, volunteered to look for a site and was hired as its director.

Now the Cleveland Foodbank, a private, non-profit organization, trains directors for other food banks around the country.

"I always tell people the person you want as director is really a generalist," said Worley. "You don't need food industry experience. You need to be able to do anything. You need someone who isn't afraid to scrub walls, drive a truck and plan."

With seed money provided by various foundations, including a $90,000 grant from the Cleveland Foundation, and $150,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant funds, the Foodbank opened in a vacant dairy on the east side.

In its first month, it distributed 25,000 pounds of food to 25 charities. Since then it has distributed a total of 18 million pounds of food.

Worley recalls with amusement that the Foodbank's first three food donations consisted of 7,000 frozen pizzas — a new product that didn't sell — 500 pounds of powdered chocolate and 20 tons of caramel wrappings for apples — another marketing failure.

"Our inventory for the first six months consisted of 10 to 12 items. Now we can have 50 items at a time in the inventory," said Worley.

More than 400 agencies are on the Foodbank's distribution list and the staff has grown from three to 15, with two fulltime volunteers.

"The ongoing financing (of the Foodbank) is done by the charities themselves," said Worley. "They give us (up to) eight cents per pound for the food they take out of here. We set that system up because we didn't want to compete with the charities for public dollars." The Foodbank has been selfsufficient since 1982.

"We are the only food bank in the country that is self-sufficient at such a low rate," said Worley. He said a food bank in Baltimore supports itself at 10 cents a pound, while one at Detroit is self-sufficient at 12 cents a pound. "We're able to do it with high volume and keeping expenses down."

The Foodbank receives about 60 percent of its inventory from the private food industry. Thirty percent is government surplus.
