Holly Sugar Has Record High Sales

COLORADO SPRINGS —Holly Sugar Corporation reported record sales and an increase in operating earnings for the nine months ended December 31, 1967, according to company president John B. Bunker.

Sales for the period reached an all-time high of $82 million, compared with $72.9 million for the first nine months of the previous year. Income from operations advanced to $2.7 million for the period ended December 31, 1967, from $2.5 million for the corresponding period last year.

Per share income from operations declined to $1.71 from $1.92 because of the greater number of common shares currently outstanding.

Mr. Bunker said that this year's nine months income was further reduced by extraordinary items totaling 33 cents per share, producing a net income per share after extraordinary items of $1.38. The non-recurring charges consisted of the premium paid for convertible debentures which the company retired during the period and also of costs incurred in the closing of one plant.

According to the Holly president, proceeds from the sale of sugar were higher than the corresponding period last year, reflecting both stronger sugar prices and higher sales. Beet crops in all of the company's growing areas were good to excellent, except in Northern California, where extremely unseasonal weather adversely affected the quality of the crop.

Holly operates manufacturing, storage, distribution and research facilities in several Western states, with corporate headquarters in Colorado Springs. The company markets refined sugar, at both the wholesale and retail levels, in addition to livestock feed and molasses.

New Grand Jury Meets Monday

Twenty new grand jurors will report for duty in the 69th Judicial District Court Monday at 10 a.m. before Judge Archie McDonald.

They were originally set to report last Monday morning, but the date was postponed due to a jury trial being carried over in another town in the district.

The new Grand Jury is scheduled to hear twelve cases. One of them will be the burglary of the Big T Pump Company. Three men are charged for the December 14 incident.

ACCIDENT SCENE — A 1966 Dodge was demolished early Thursday morning when the driver apparently fell asleep, left the road and struck a tree. Alvin (Butch) Walterschied, driver of the car, was killed in the accident.

Funeral Services Held For Alvin (Butch) Walterscheid

Rosary for Alvin O. (Butch) Walterscheid were conducted in Rose Chapel of Gililland Funeral Home Thursday and Friday evenings, and the funeral mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church Saturday morning. The Rev. Angelus Delahunt, pastor, officiated, assisted by the Revs. Timothy Mac Donald and Aeden Davis.

Members of Walterscheid's fraternity at WTSU participated in a graveside ceremony before burial in St. Anthony's Cemetery Pallbearers were Gene Storrs, Roger Albracht, Brian Deady, Jim Marnell, Albert Scumbiato and Steve Oakley.

Born Feb. 9, 1943, at Muenster Walterscheid came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Walterscheid, to this county the same year. After attending Hereford schools, he entered WTSU and continued the grid career he had begun in high school.

He was a three-year Buffalo letterman and received the President's Award and the Kliensc-smidt Award as outstanding squad member in 1965, his senior year. Washington Redskins of the National Football League chose him in the 1966 draft but released him from the squad before the regular season.

Joe Kerbel, WTSU Buffalo coach, said Thursday, "It's a personal loss to me and I know I speak for the entire coaching staff and the members of the entire football squad."

"Butch was not only a great athlete, he was one of the finest, cleanest young men I've ever had the privilege of knowing."

He was employed by a lumber company here and was a part-time student at WTSU.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Doris, Jeanette and Betty Walterscheid, and four brothers, Leonard, Larry, Kenneth, and Vincent Walterscheid, all residing in Hereford.

Walterscheid Dies In Wreck

Alvin O. (Butch) Walterscheid, 24, former Hereford High School and West Texas State University football great, was killed in one-car accident .6 miles west of Dawn about 12:05 a. m. Thursday.

Investigating officers said Walterscheid apparently had gone to sleep at the wheel of his 1966 vehicle and left the highway on the left side. He awoke as the car went into the median and headed toward a tree, attempted to swerve to the right to miss the tree and struck it broadside with the left part (driver's side) of the vehicle.

Highway Patrolman Robert Sanders said the vehicle had traveled about 200 feet in the grassed median before striking the tree, then went another 75 feet before stopping. Debris was scattered 75 feet on past the car.

Walterscheid, the investigation revealed, was thrown through the back window of the vehicle.

A motorist from Friona discovered the accident no more than three of four minutes later, officers said.

Highway Patrolmen Sanders and Glen Toles of Hereford investigated the accident. Walterscheid was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Ernest Wade.

MOD Campaign Not Over Yet

The March of Dimes campaign is still not complete, according to W. C. Russell, the 1968 campaign chairman for Hereford.

Money for the research of birth defects is still being received and collections are still continuing with various local organizations.

A check was received from the students at La Plata Junior High School for $90.37 from their own personal campaign.

The Tri-Hi-Y Clubs at Hereford High School reported $12.67 on their cookie sale. President of one of the school's Tri-Hi-Y Clubs, Cynthia McMinn, said that they had also collected an additional $28.40 in student donations from three classes.

Russell estimated that the grand total was now approaching $2,500.

Jack Wilson Is Candidate For County Sheriff's Post

W. J. "Jack" Wilson this week authorized The Brand to announce his candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Deaf Smith County, subject to action of the Democratic primary.

★ ★ ★

W. J. "Jack" Wilson

Wilson is widely known in this area, having come to Deaf Smith County in 1930 and working on the H. G. Conkwright ranch until 1941, when Mr. Conkwright helped him get started in his own farming operation.

He married Ruth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Smith, in 1935, and the Wilsons have two sons, Tunny, industrial broker with Merril, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith in Albuquerque, and Mike, who is now associated with General Dynamics Corporation in Ft. Worth. He and his wife are members of the First Methodist Church of Hereford.

After farming and ranching here until 1952, the Wilsons moved to Albuquerque, N. M., where they lived until 1964, when they returned to Hereford. He operated an oil business there for several years, and later was manager of Hertz Rental cars in Albuquerque. As an active member of the Albuquerque Sheriff's Club, he became interested in law enforcement and as a deputy under several sheriffs worked with the New Mexico Highway Department, F. B. I. and narcotics bureau in various phases of law enforcement.

"This was where I got really interested in law enforcement," he said, "and if elected, I will devote my full time to the job of making you folks a good, capable sheriff. I feel that my experience and background will be of tremendous help."

Since returning to Hereford, Wilson has been associated with the Hereford Cemetery Association, which he says that he likes and which he will continue to support on a voluntary basis if he is elected sheriff.

"I realize full well the responsibilities of the job," he continued. "It will be my purpose to see as many of you as possible before the election. If you have

Water Conference Speakers Remind Of Water Depletion

By MARSHALL DAY

Hereford and Deaf Smith County were represented by some 21 persons at the Sixth Annual West Texas Water Conference, which was held in the Student Union Building on the Texas Tech Campus in Lubbock Friday.

With registration beginning at 8 a.m. and lasting until 9 a.m., the welcome and introduction was given at 9 a.m.

The program, which was divided into four sessions, was begun with the first speaker of the first session being C. A. Rechenthin, who discussed the "Probable Effects of Grassland Restoration on Water Resources".

Rechenthin showed slides on the effects of vegetation and its using up of precious water and causing water storages and streams to dry up and die out.

Rechenthin stated, "Grass doesn't use near as much water as brush does, so the spraying of this area can kill the water-devouring bushes and can save the amount of water that is now wasted".

Upon ending his discussion, Rechentin emphasized the need for the leaders in the water conference to do things to make people realize the need for the program.

The second speaker of the first session was O. J. Barron of Spur. Barron outlined the "Duck Creek Watershed Project" and gave details of flood control projects and the problems that arose around Spur involving Duck Creek. He showed slides of the watershed in Dickens County and explained the ways they went about establishing water control in that area.

In the second session, the first speaker was John Vandertulip who discussed the "Current Outlook for Water Importation" for Texas.

"A better understanding is needed throughout the entire state on the necessity of importing water into Texas", Vandertulip stated. He pointed out that the cost of importing water from the Gulf to the High Plains was not a feasible project because the cost of eliminating the amount of salt in the water was excessively high.

Vandertulip outlined the alternate route which could be ued for water importation, and that was from the Mississippi River, west to Texas, Oklahoma, and eastern New Mexico.

"Steps have already been taken toward the planning of the route from the Mississippi River", he said, "and these include the publishing of maps, the making of field investigation, exploratory core drillings, and many other things."

Session two's second speaker was C. C. Reeves Jr. who showed slides on the study of basins and their geological problems in storing imported water. He said that the main problem will be that if the water is brought in here to the High Plains, and if it is stored, will the salt content affect it.

The morning session was convened for the noon luncheon and after the meal, the announcer introduced Dr. Edward Teller, holder of many awards in science and related fields.

Dr. Teller expressed the need for the use of atomic energy in the transportation of the water into the area and it's use in forming storage wells beneath the ground to keep the water in after it is brought here.

"In the next decade, increasing shortages will take place in the West Texas area concerning the water and the replacement of this water from the Mississippi basin can be done by the use of nuclear energy," he said.

After the noon session, the meeting was re-convened for the afternoon session with Dr. B.A. Stewart being the first speaker. Stewart showed slides on nitrate in water and the bad effects it has had on ground water.

The second speaker of the afternoon was O. R. Jones who talked on the "Movement of Bacteria from Recharge Wells", and immediately following Jones Walter Grub gave a talk on "Control of Surface Water Pollution from Feedlot Runnoff."

This discussion of Grub's dealt with the cattle feedlots in Texas and the runoff from these lots. He showed statistics on feed, cattle, and amount of water consumed by these elements which amounts to about 1.7 million gallons per year.

Roger Tyler Jr., with the Texas Attorney Generals office, gave a talk of "Water Law in Terms of Planning."

In his discussion, Tyler said that his purpose was to raise all legal problems which might arise from the importation of water from the Mississippi to the High Plains and bring them to light for the convention.

"If the source of water is not found, Texas economy will double by 1980 from what it is presently, but then will decrease to less than 30 per cent of what it is now" he said. He also went on to outline the details of the operation and the legal aspects involved.

The last speaker of the day was John Kendrick, president of the Water, Inc., who spoke on "Organization, Goals and Propects" of the organization.

"This was designed so we could work closely with the many different organization connected with this type of work for the things needed for the water supply in our area" he concluded.

Hunting Accidents Increase Greatly In 1967 Over State

AUSTIN — Texas hunting accidents showed an increase of 17.3 per cent with 95 in 1967 compared with 81 in 1966, according to Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Even with the overall increase in hunting accidents, fatalities showed a decrease of six for a total of 22 in 1967. By the same token, the non-fatal accidents increased from 53 in 1966 to 73 in 1967.

These figures were compiled from hunter casualty reports submitted by Department game wardens, Mauermann said.

"These figures could be revised upward slightly if all the 1967 reports have not been filed with the Information and Education Division of the Department."

Statistics from these reports will be compiled later in January and submitted to the National Rifle Association which will compile a nationwide report in an effort to cut down on the rate of hunting accidents.

Compilation of the reports at year-end indicated 49 of the 95 hunting mishaps involved persons 18-year-old and under. Of the 2 fatalities, 14 involved persons 18-years-old and under.

Forty-one of the total number of accidents involved shotguns, 37 involved rifles, 15 involved pistols, and two involved pellet guns.

Thirty-eight of the 95 hunting accidents involved persons shooting themselves compared with 34 out of 81 in 1966.

Mauermann says that carelessness and lack of common sense caused all the accidents.

A 14-year-old boy was killed by his playmate when they took a shotgun without their parents' permission. The report cited extreme carelessness as the cause of the accident.

A 13-year-old boy shot his 14-year-old brother as he was shooting at a rabbit. The victim moved into the line of fire.

Another accident involved the shooting of a skin diver by a duck hunter who thought he was shooting at an alligator.

A 64-year-old Kingsland man was killed by another man who mistook him for a deer. The distance between the two men at the time of the shooting was 27 yards, and the victim was wearing a red hat and light colored pants.

In another incident, a man killed his 12-year-old grandson after shooting into brush at a running deer.

In Houston a nine-year-old boy was killed while playing in a vacant lot. It is theorized that someone was hunting rabbits within the city limits and shot the boy.

A 16-year-old boy had much of his head blown off by his 17-year-old companion. The shooter was resting his rifle on the top of his car while shooting at a deer from a public roadway, and the victim crossed the line of fire.

A comeback was noted on Hereford cattle in 1925 when registered cattle sold for top prices of $500 to $1,000.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Doctor, I'd Like To Know—

I HAVE been advised to have cobalt treatment for a cancer of the cervix of my womb. I have been told that this is too dangerous a form of treatment. I would like to know if you have had any experience with cobalt?

Mrs. D.I., Georgia

Dr. Coleman

Dear Mrs. I.: Cancers of the cervix of the uterus have been successfully treated with surgery and with cobalt radiation treatment. In fact, there are few happier statistics than those reported with successful cures of this form of cancer, especially when it is found early and treated early.

Cobalt radiation treatment is a form of X-ray treatment that has technical advantages over the usual conventional types. There is no greater reason for concern about cobalt than there is for any other method.

You have been told that this is too "dangerous" a form of treatment. Can I guess who told it to you? Could it be a "kind" friend or the butcher, baker or candlestick maker? Can you match their unsolicited "consultation" with those of the doctor who suggested it?

It really is a little absurd to predicate your health and happiness on the indefinite "they" who practice their own untrained "form of medicine" without benefit of license.

Yes, I have had experience with cobalt when it was used in many cases of cancer of the larynx after surgery. The results are sometimes startling as lifesavers. As I told you in my personal letter, the cobalt treatment should start as soon as your doctor arranges for it.

Recently, we lost a member of our family. There were all sorts of rumors about how contagious his illness was and everyone in the family was taking sulfa drugs for fear of contracting an illness we know nothing about. It was called Waterhouse-Friderichsen. We have not been able to get any information about this condition and need your assurance.

Mrs. R.A.B., West Virginia

Dear Mrs. B.: Waterhouse-Friderichsen is not a disease in itself but rather a hemorrhage into the adrenal gland. This gland is part of the important regulating system of the hormones of the body.

The fact that you have been taking sulfa drugs, undoubtedly at the suggestion of your doctor, means that the underlying cause for the W-F complication was probably an infection.

Had your doctor felt that the rest of the family needed isolation from contagion, he most certainly would have arranged for it. The likelihood is that all of you have been protected adequately against the severe infection that was fatal to your relative.

It is completely understandable that when people are at such a low ebb after a calamity in the family that they would be more frightened than ever. Reassurance from your doctor and the safety precautions that he took should bring a sense of security to all of you.

Income Tax Facts

Dallas — Most Northern Texas farmers must pay Federal self-employment tax for 1967, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of the Internal Revenue Service advised today.

The rate of self-employment tax is 6.4 percent, or a maximum of $422.40, and is in addition to By law ,a self-employed person is one who operates his own business or farm. A farm employee is considered to be self-employed if he employs others to operate or work the farm even though he does not live on it himself.

A farmer must file a Federal income tax return and pay the self-employment tax due if his net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more, even if his gross income is less than $600 and he owes no income tax.

The self-employment tax applies to a maximum of $6600. But this figure is reduced by any wages from which Social Security taxes were withheld.

A special optional provision in the law enables farmers to acquire Social Security credits even if they have a loss. It works like this:

(1) If a farmer's gross income from farming is no more than $2,400, he may count two-thirds of such gross income as his net earnings from farm self-employment.

(2) If gross income from farming exceeds $2,400 and actual net earnings from farm employment are less than $1,600 he may use $1,600 as his net earnings from farm self-employment.

Under the above provision a farmer with annual gross income from farming of $600 can declare his net earnings from farm self-employment to be $400 or two-thirds of his gross farm income, to get Social Security credit for that year.

Generally, income attributable to rent from real estate and from personal property leased with the real estate is not taken into account to determine net earnings from self-employment. However, such income is considered as self-employment income if a landlord, because of the rental arrangement, participates materially in the production or management of the farm.

"Farm" as used in the Federal tax law, relating to Social Security and self-employment taxes, includes stock, dairy, poultry, fish, fruit, fur-bearing animals, and truck farms, and also plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, greenhouses or similar structures, and orchards.

"Farmer's Tax Guide," IRS Publication No. 225, furnishes more detailed information on this subject. It is available without charge upon request from your county agents, or from your IRS District Director by dropping him a post card.

Hardwick Attends Dallas Convention

Francis Hardwick, partner in the Star, Texas and Tower Drive-In theatres in Hereford, attended the Texas Drive-In Theatre Owners Association convention held in Dallas at the StatlerHilton Hotel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Hardwick heard Jack L. Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, and Julian Rifkin, president of the National Theatre Owners, speak on topics of importance to both the theatre owner and the theatre-goer.

Valenti took the view that despite any problems which beset the film industry there are "signposts which tell us there is good promise and possibility ahead." He gave facts from a recent study of the attitudes of the U. S. moviegoing public to back up his optimistic view.

Valenti said the study was limited to persons 16 years of age and older, this group regarded as the beginning of autonomous decision-making. He said this group comprises 138,000,000 of the total population of nearly 200,000,000 in the United States today.

"We learned for instance 97,000,000 persons 16 and over go to the movies with varying frequency. U. S. movie audiences buy 107,000,000 per month — 1,280,000,000 per year. Persons between 16 and 24 account for 48 per cent of admissions and 74 per cent of movie audiences is between 16 and 40. Those who are better educated and have a higher standard of living are more frequent moviegoers by far," the MPAA president said.

Valenti also said MPAA had made successful efforts in recent months, working with newspapers across the country to encourage more printing of information on the content of motion pictures playing in their communities.

Lt. Governor Preston Smith, a longtime Lubbock theatre owner, made a tribute speech on opening day.

Hardwick's partner in the Hereford theatres will become known as Commonwealth-Frontier Theatres Inc. on Monday, when the Kansas City-based Commonwealth circuit takes over operation of the 74 theatres in the Dallas-centered Frontier chain.

A total of 29 managers (including Hardwick) of Frontier theatres in Texas and New Mexico met in the Hilton Hotel at Albuquerque on January 16 and 17, to be briefed on the takeover.

Ed Connell came to Deaf Smith County as a Texas Ranger and stayed to serve three terms as sheriff.

Committee Chairman Paints Rosy Picture For Deaf Smith County

What makes Hereford tick? What is attracting new industry to Deaf Smith County? What are the prospects for 1968 and the coming future?

These questions and several others were answered during the regular meeting of the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday by Wayne Thomas, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Describing Hereford and Deaf Smith County as "truly a bright spot in the nation," Thomas said one of the main objectives of his committee during 1968 will be "fostering and continuing to support industry we already have."

Listing the industry already here, Thomas included the vegetable industry, manufacturing of various types of irrigation equipment, Holly Sugar, custom printing establishments, agricultural chemical manufacturing plants, a major meat processing plant in Caviness Packing Co., machine shops, cattle liquid feed manufacturers, the largest high speed offset press in the state, brick factory, dress factory, and a salt mine. The list of industries in Hereford reads like a who's who from the Wall Street Jounal, said Thomas.

Speaking on the prospects of Wilson and Co. establishment of a major meat packing plant in Deaf Smith County, Thomas said his committee had visited with everyone in the organization and they have plans to construct, complete and have cattle killed at the plant not later than Jan. 1, 1969. Construction should begin in the immediate future, he stated.

Killing capacity of the plant is expected to be 6,000 head a week, Thomas continued. He said Wilson officials anticipate the opening of a tremendous market for the beef and may realize $100 million in sales from this plant.

There will be from 250-300 permant employes, stated Thomas, and the plant also will have facilities for breaking in it. The company therefore can get the designated cuts the grocer wants.

The facilities will enable Wilson and Co. to use more parts of the cattle, and may result in cheaper beef prices to the individual consumer.

In discussing the cattle feeding industry, Thomas said "Conservatively, within a 120 mile radius of Hereford, the feeding capacity is well over 1 million head a year.

"We anticipate a major expansion in the feed yards growth, and several already have indicated plans for expansion."

Thomas told the Lions that there are also a number of other things which greatly enhance the picture for Hereford. There is perhaps still another meat packing plant and other industries relating to agriculture and the meat industries which are now working with the Chamber of Commerce.

Thomas said he was not at liberty to say what companies or industries now are talking about Hereford, because the companies do not want it known until they are ready to announce. "Besides, other cities will get very interested in the company and try to lure that company to their location."

"Something like this doesn't develop overnight," he continued. "For instance, the idea of getting Wilson to Hereford began about three years ago. several companies have been discussed and interviewed and several discouraged from coming to Hereford. We wanted the best ....established, sound company, with good people. People we can be proud of and who will be good citizens."

"Industry," said Thomas, "is for everyone in Hereford and everyone in Deaf Smith County. Industry will utilize the resources here — land and water, and afford a gainful employment for our people."

"Industry also increases the buying power, helps merchants and cattlemen...every phase of the economy is benefited. It will result in diversification which will stabilize the economy like no other place in the country."

One secret of Hereford's success, explained Thomas, is that the city is "retaining its youth. It is attracting them back to it with the industry."

"The unique feature" about Hereford said Thomas, "is the people. There ia a certain attitude, a certain progressiveness, a certain desire to move on, to utilize what we have and no wait for handouts."

"People here are willing to giving moral and financial support to projects, and it's contagious."

Thomas, explaining that his announcement may be premature, said there will be a bond issue by the city to get funds for putting water to Wilson and Co. "Remember that these are revenue bonds, and will be paid for by the revenue raised from the sale of the water."

"This will be most advantageous to the City of Hereford, and I encourage you to vote for it," Thomas concluded.

Cocanougher registered Herefords have been known in the cattle world for several decades. Although W. M. Cocanougher was a farmer, all his sons engaged in ranching either as owners or working with stock.

W. B. Dameron made careful plans for his family's move to Hereford in 1900 by shipping lumber for a new home by rail and brick for a business building, the first 2-story brick building on Main Street.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Confiding in Your Clergyman

"See your spiritual adviser."

That suggestion is often made to the man or woman in trouble. If you do talk things over with your spiritual adviser, is the conversation confidential in the eyes of the law? Could a clergyman be ordered to testify in court as to what you said?

Or is this information "privileged"—that is, protected against public disclosure?

The common law, generally speaking, did not recognize any such privilege. Courts were reluctant to give up access to what could be a valuable source of information. Obviously, the more facts available to a court, the better it could do justice—both in punishing the guilty and in freeing the innocent.

However, most states have now passed special statutes (called "priest-penitent" laws) to change the rule. These statutes, in varying degree, grant a privilege of privacy to communications confided to a clergyman.

To be sure, there are still limits on the scope of this privilege. For one thing, information given to a clergyman in an ordinary conversation—not as part of a regular church procedure—is usually not protected.

Thus, a court found no privilege in the remarks of a suspected rapist to a minister, voiced during a casual encounter in a railroad station. The judge ruled that the minister, just like any other citizen, would have to tell what he had heard.

Nor does the privilege apply to a clergyman's general observations, unrelated to any specific admission of wrongdoing.

For example, a court saw no reason why a minister should not give his opinion of the mental condition of a woman whose will was being challenged — an opinion based on long years of acquaintance with her.

But in most situations, the person unburdening his failings to his spiritual adviser may count on a legal curtain of privacy. As one court put it:

"The human being does sometimes have need of a place of penitence and confession and spiritual discipline. When any person enters that secret chamber, civil authority turns away its ear."

ABC

What is the A.B.C.?

Chatting with a merchant the other day, we mentioned our "ABC figure."

"What," he asked, "is an ABC figure?"

Perhaps what we told him will also interest you.

This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an independent, nonprofit organization of nearly 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers.

Its purpose is to provide accurate and factual reports on the circulations of member publishers. In the advertising and publishing industry, the ABC insigne is often referred to as the "hallmark of circulation values."

At regular intervals, an ABC traveling auditor visits our office to check our records. The findings of this physical audit are embodied in an Audit Report published by ABC — the report literally tells us what our circulation is.

Virtually everything an advertiser should know about our circulation is found in this report, facts and figures without opinions.

Few retailers bother to ask to see a copy of our report, yet we want you to know one is available anytime you are interested in the quality and quantity of our circulation audience — the audience for your advertising messages.

Manager Plans To Attend Meet

Leo Forrest, manager of the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative, and his wife are planning on attending one of the largest meetings of rural leaders in the nation, which is being held Feb. 25-29 in Dallas.

The National Rural Electric Cooperative Association holds an annual meeting in which some 9,500 persons representing 20 million rural electric consumers served by most of the country's rural electric systems are expected to attend.

The theme of this year's meeting will be the rural-urban crises, their inter-relationship, and what rural electric cooperatives of the country maintain that the crises of the cities cannot be eliminated until the migration of millions of rural poor to urban slums is halted.

Among those speaking at the meeting will be former Kentucky Governor Edward T. Breathitt, chairman of the President's National Advisory Commission on Rural Poverty; Senators Ralph Yarborough of Texas, and James Pearson of Nebraska; Representatives Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, and Leonor K. Sullivan of Missouri; REA Administrator Norman Clapp, Robert Partridge, acting general manager of NRECA; and Clyde Ellis, general manager emritus.

Aside from achieving rural-urban balance, the meeting will also deal with pending legislation designed to prevent blackouts and assure the availability of adequate supplies of power in all areas of the nation, and an amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to give small electric systems, public, consumer-owned and private, and opportunity to share the ownership and operation of giant atomic power plants now being planned by large investor-owned utilities.

FHA Emergency Loans Total Over $300,000 Since July

Emergency loans totaling $313,350 have been made by the Hereford County Office of the Farmers Home Administration since July 1, 1967, to help local farmers and ranchers recover from natural disasters, James Gouldy County Supervisor reported today.

One hundred and ninety-three counties have been designated by Secretary Freeman as areas needing an emergency credit source. As of December 31, 1967, over 2,300 emergency loans for nearly $14.25 million have been made in Texas.

In fiscal year 1967 over 4,100 emergency loans for around $27 million were made in Texas.

The program provides a stand-by source of credit for farmers and ranchers who cannot obtain mergency credit elsewhere. Repayment schedules vary according to purposes for which funds were advanced.

Agriculture Prices Will Continue Rise

COLLEGE STATION — The Agricultural situation in 1967 turned out to be one of record farm output and declining prices.

John G. McHaney, Texas A & M Extension economist, said that realized net farm income probably was reduced by about 10 percent from the near-record 1966 level. The net effect of larger marketings and lower prices was to reduce cash receipts from marketings only slightly. However, he said, the uptrend in production expenses continued in 1967 and realized net income of farm operators dropped to a $14.8 billion annual down from $16.6 billion a year earlier.

McHaney noted that production gains for livestock products were large in 1967, especially for hogs, poultry and eggs. Livestock product prices received by farmers in the first half of 1967 averaged five percent below a year earlier. By the third quarter of 1967, livestock prices still averaged four percent lower. In recent months large supplies have held prices for hogs, poultry and eggs well below year-earlier levels.

A record 1967 crop output, some four to five percent above 1966, was produced. Prices of grain and soybeans adjusted downward in response to big gains in production of wheat, feed grains, rice and soybeans. He said the all-crop index of prices received by farmers in July-September averaged eight percent below a year earlier. This narowed in October with the advance in cotton prices. However, McHaney said, grower prices for wheat were down 10 percent, corn 19 percent and soybeans 12 percent from October 1966.

He said larger exports are in prospect for corn, soybeans, oils and rice during 1967-68. Cotton and wheat exports probably will hold around 1966-67 shipments. Lower farm product prices will help to improve the competitive position of U. S. grains and soybeans.

The uptrend in farm production expenditures will continue in 1968 and accelerate somewhat. Prices paid by farmers for most items used in production will continue to rise in 1968, though feed prices will average lower. McHaney said wage rates will also increase.

All in all, farmers' incomes pected gains in the rest of the economy, he concludes.

Let's Go Fishin'

BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

Deep and Slow

If you're not getting fish these days, the odds are about twenty-to-one you're fishing too fast and too shallow.

The most exciting type of angling occurs on the surface, but over the long haul you'll find that most fish in most areas are taken in deeper water . . . and by anglers who have the patience to fish their lures at a snail's crawl.

"Fish 'em deep and slow" is the advice offered to fishermen by the experts of Mercury Outboards, and it's a tip that deserves further consideration.

While no theory in fishing is infallible, this business of switching to deep-running plugs when on-top baits fail to produce is merely common sense. During a 24-hour period, the shallows are good mainly in the early morning and at dusk. The rest of the time, you'll do better in the depths.

The biggest handicap to fishing a bottom bait properly is the fisherman's impatience which invariably causes him to retrieve too fast. It takes plenty of self-restraint to let an artificial sink down into 15 to 30 feet of water, and then retrieve it so slowly it would play second fiddle to a slow turtle.

As a general rule, turn the reel handle one complete turn about every five seconds. Occasionally twitch the rod tip to make the lure dart forward. The strikes you'll get adequately compensate for this painstaking retrieve.

Another advantage of working the depths with a bottom bumper is the fact that this is the home of big lunkers, fish seldom taken in the shallows.

So don't give up too quickly when you're on the water and the action is slow. Gear your fishing accordingly and hug that bottom . . . that's where the fish are.

Walk and Be Healthy

INDUSTRIAL FOOT HEALTH CUTS COSTS

Foot fatigue and disorders are a leading cause of industrial accidents, employee absenteeism, and lowered morale.

In addition to the obvious personal discomfort to the employee, foot ailments are estimated to cost American business approximately $125 million a year in clerical errors, delayed deliveries, cancelled orders and lost production.

In one plant, for example, a worker's elbow was caught in a whirling machine and a costly industrial insurance claim plus the loss of a skilled worker resulted. The real culprit in this accident, however, was a painful bunion which the employee had neglected. In order to shift his weight from the aching foot, he supported himself by resting his elbow on the edge of the machine. A sudden slip forced the elbow into the mechanism.

Studies made of industrial workers show that the average employee moves his weight from foot to foot approximately 39,600 times a day. In walking one mile, he forces 181 tons of his own weight down on his feet. Retail store clerks multiply this pressure by seven to eight times during a normal working day.

No wonder, then, that the U.S. Department of Labor reports that 26% of all industrial accidents occur to the feet and legs. It's difficult to keep your mind on your work when you're in pain and even standing becomes an effort.

To reduce this human and financial toll, many businesses are instituting foot clinics, under the direction of a podiatrist, as part of their medical departments. Depending on the need for his services, the podiatrist may visit the plant or store for a few hours a day or spend one or more full days there. Industries providing such care for employees find that safety records improve, production increases and employee morale soars.

Insurance companies approve introduction of this service, viewing it as a means of reducing sick and accident compensation payments. Industrial foot health clinics have been endorsed by the Department of Labor, U.S. Public Health Service, Veterans Administration and AFL-CIO.

Where such clinics do not exist, employees can avoid many of the consequences of poor foot health by following some general rules recommended by the American Podiatry Association.

1. Keep your feet clean. Use warm water and a mild soap.
2. Dry feet thoroughly. Blot, do not rub hard with the towel. Use a foot powder.
3. Do not wear tight garters.
4. Avoid cutting corns, calluses or ingrown nails. Corns and calluses are nature's angry defense against a continued pressure. Seek professional care.
5. If you suffer foot injuries such as bruises, burns, cuts, cracks, or frostbite, or if an ulcer or sore appears on the foot, see your podiatrist or medical doctor promptly.
6. Be careful of exposing feet to cold and dampness. Always change your hose and shoes promptly if your feet get wet.
7. Wear the type of shoe that will give you the maximum comfort and protection for the work you are doing. Remember that run-down heels and worn soles can be the direct cause of falls.

Medicare Enrollment Period Will Continue Until April 1

The second general medicare enrollment period is now open, and will continue until April 1, Travis C. Briggs, manager of the Amarillo social security office said today.

Most people 65 and older who did not enroll in the first period will receive an application blank in the mail. Those who wish to enroll and do not receive the letter should contact their social security office for the enrollment form.

This part of medicare helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses not covered by hospital insurance.

Those who enroll how will be covered beginning next July 1. The premium payment will be $4 monthy, which is matched by the government. Enrollees who could have signed up a year or longer earlier will pay an additional premium of 40 cents a month above the $4.

The next general enrollment period will be in 1969, and those who enroll late must pay an additional premium cost of 10 percent for each year they could have had the medical insurance but were not enrolled.

More than 9 out of 10 people over 65 have already signed up for the medical insurance.

Senator Tower Speaks

Americans Should Have All Facts On Pueblo, Budget

The last week certainly has been a hectic one for Washington and for the entire nation. On top of the very major business of receiving and analyzing the President's large budget, we have faced the continuing Pueblo crisis.

There is little point in rehashing what happened to U. S. S. Pubeblo except to say that the violent, pirate action of North Korea in seizing an American ship in international waters was a deliberate, calculated escalation of international lawlessness. Two questions were immediately raised:

What to do about getting the ship back?

And, how could it have happened?

The Administration's immediate answer to the first question was to attempt recovery through diplomatic means.

First the Soviet Union was asked to help. Not unpredictably the U. N. proved unable to even talk, much less to help at a crucial time.

Despite these rebuffs the Administration continued diplomatic efforts apparently in the desperate hope that when the North Koreans finish stripping the ship and interrogating the crew they will eventually have no further use for them and will give them back.

From the very beginning, with the chances for diplomatice settlement so invariably dim, it was widely suggested and widely anticipated that at the appropriate time American military power would be brought to bear to free the men and to recover the ship. This was not done. It is appropriate for the American people to ask why.

The safety of the crewmen is reason enough for us to ask why strong attempts were not made to save them.

Of perhaps even greater importance is the maintenance of a believable American foreign policy. It is very important that we make it clear and credible to adventuresome communist bloc nations that just as we will not tolerate warlike acts by major powers, neither will we allow war-like acts by smaller powers. In other words, our power to deter vioence must extend to and be believed by small nations as well as big nations or our international policies fall flat on their face and everybody is free to push us around.

Why then, was no U. S. military power applied when diplomacy stalemated?

It is very possible that it was not applied because it could not be applied. It is possible that our nation was not sufficiently strong in the area concerned tha we could have recovered Pueblo in those first days even if we had tried.

I realize that this is a very serious thing to say, and I do not say it lightly.

On the basis of information available to me I have asked the Senate Armed Services Committee to undertake a full investigation of what U. S. strength was when the Pueblo was committed to and engaging in her assigned mission. I believe it is important for us to know whether or not she she was sent into such dangerous waters, in effect, totally unprotected.

May I say that — and Texans know this — I have for many months been concerned about the policies of the outgoing Defense Secretary, Mr. McNamara. Those policies have stripped men and equipment from U.S. forces all over the world to support the Vietnam effort. There is some evidence now that this policy has left our nation astonishingly weak in other potential crisis areas of the world.

I frankly believe the American people are entitled to know what the situation is. And, they are entitled to know whose fault it is. They may very well desire some changes of both policy and personnel.

• • •

Just a word now, about the defense budget presented for the coming year. It calls for expenditure of some 80 Billion dollars. That is a fantastic sum. but the American people should know that it is only 80 percent of what our military experts think we need in the world in which we live. The defense budge represents a 21 billion dollar difference between the military services and the Adminstration's McNamara-guided policy. There is a very real possibility that even the Administration knows it is not asking or all the defense it needs and that it intends to ask for more before fiscal year 1969 is over. I HOPE Congress will try to find that out now. The American people are entitled to know whether shorgchanging on national defense is likely to bring them any further Pueblo disasters.

We certainly owe it to the 83 Pueblo crewmen to see that none of their fellow sailors is ever again placed in danger from which a shortchange-policy may preven his rescue.

Income Tax Facts

DALLAS, TEXAS — Businessmen will find answers to a wide range of questions about Federal income, excise and employment taxes in the 1968 edition of "Tax Guide for Small Business," Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Interna Revenue for Northern Texas, said today.

This year's booklet contains a Tax Calendar for 1968 listing all dates on which the various tax and information returns and payments are due. It also features a checklist for businessmen to rapidly identify taxes for which they may be liable, where information on the type of tax may be located in the "Guide," and what forms are needed to report and pay the tax.

The "Guide" also explains how Federal tax laws apply to various forms of businesses such as the sole proprietor, partnership, or corporation. Tax treatment of special problems, with examples, is provided for manufacturers, retailers, and professional men.

The "Tax Guide for Small Business" booklet is available for 50 cents a copy from most Internal Revenue offices or from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

CHILDRENS DENTAL HEALTH WEEK — Karen Drake, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Drake of 127 Juniper, gets the once over by Hereford dentist Dr. Joe Whitley, a scene which local dentists hope will be repeated many times this week. Mayor Ray Cowsert last week proclaimed Feb. 4-10 as Children's Dental Health Week in Hereford. Five Hereford dentists will visit elementary schools this week to give talks on teeth care and give each child a dental packet.

Herd Lines

By Marshall Day

When you use up 13 years of your life for one thing, something good has got to come out of it and that is just what it has done in the case of Coach Cuby Kitchens.

Kitchens has been connected with athletics here for the past 13 years and has compiled a number of honors, trophies, and medals in golf and basketball. Over this period of years, he has over, or around, 194 victories to 120 losses to his credit in the basketball game, and has collected the district trophy in golf just about every year he has been here.

Born at Paducah in 1928, he attended high school at Childress where he graduated in 1946 and then journeyed to West Texas State University on a basketball scholarship where he majored in physical education. While in high school at Childress, he participated in football, basketball and track and in college he played basketball and a little tennis.

Upon graduation from West Texas, Kitchens took the coaching job at White Deer where he stayed one year and helped the team win district title that year — the first time in 15 years for the school. Immediately after his first year at White Deer, he served a two-year hitch in the Navy and then went back to coaching at Groom for one year. Then he moved to Hereford, where he has been since.

When Kitchens first came to Hereford he took over the basketball coaching job along with assistant football coaching, which he did up until three years ago. His basketball coaching being his main interest, he did have the responsibilities of football, coaching the freshmen and B-teams throughout the years.

His basketball career, which spans the entire period of 13 years, had its highlights two seasons in a row and those were in 1957-58 and 1958-59. In 1957-58, his cagers won district and regional and ended up in fourth place in the state tournament at Austin. The following year, he again sent his team to the state tournament after winning the district and regional titles, and this time his team showed even better promise as they wound up in second place in the tournament .Their record for the 1958-59 year was 29 wins and 6 losses.

Also in the basketball portion of his career, Kitchens had his worst year of coaching the first year he was at HHS and his record for that season was 7 wins and 16 losses. Twice during his cage career, he tied for the district championship and that was during 1961-62 and 1962-63. Both times the tie was with Dumas and both times Dumas beat them in the district play-offs.

Playing mostly 4A schools in non-conference golf, Kitchens can hardly remember when he has lost a district title, but they were never able to get past that district line. Last year, the linksters lost in the regional play-offs by four strokes and ended up in second place in region.

If it is records that do make coaches, then Cuby Kitchens has nothing to worry about.

If you have ever wondered why Perryton did so well during the past football season, one look at the statistics will show the reasons.

The Perryton defense held it's opponents to less than one touchdown per game while their offense rolled an average of 27 points on the scoreboard per game. Overall figures show that Perryton scored 269 points during their 10 game season while allowing their opponents only 56 points.

The high school gridsters were not the only ones to do well, Perryton's five other football teams showed up well with three of them going undefeated. The five squads did an amazing job on the field as they collected 32 wins, 2 defeats, and 1 tie between them.

Scheduled workouts for the varsity baseball team are set to begin and coach Jack Waggoner outlined the plans for the upcoming year for the squad. The traveling squad will consist of 19 boys and one manager this year, and Interscholastice League board set the limit of 20 games to be the maximum any one team could play. The team will work out on weights and running for the next two or three weeks then will scrimmage Amarillo College two times, on Feb. 22 and Feb. 27.

If you've got something against sticky fingers, don't go and tell Dave Szymakowski about it. Szymakowski, the outstanding split end from West Texas State University, was chosen in the third round pro draft of the American and National Football League by the New Orleans Saints.

Szymakowski was the second pick of the Saints as Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame was their first selection and the Saints were by-passed in the second round choosing, so actually, Szymakowski was the Saints second choice.

And just for you ardent and loyal Dallas Cowboy fans, the Cowboys selected Dennis Holman, Alabama end, in the 20th spot of the first round; David McDaniels, Mississippi Valley end, in the 18th spot of the second round; from Chicago, Ed Hamon, Louisville linebacker in the 16 spot of the third round; from New York Giants, John Douglas, Missouri linebacker, in the 14th spot of the fourth; and Blaine Nye, Stanford tackle, in the 19th spot of the fifth and final round.

You've got to take the bitter with the sweet and that is just what Bula High School has been doing for the past five years in their basketball program. Up until just last Tuesday night, Bula was riding a 51-game losing streak going into their 11th game of the fourth year. They broke the junx as they defeated Smyer by a score of 45-37.

The girl cagers of Bula got back on the winning side after they had lost eight straight when they defeated the Smyer felines by a 74-28 score.

In view of Bula's record, some schools can count themselves rather lucky, don't you think?

When you get something like this you can hardly keep from passing it on The Northwest Elementary School boys got together with the La Plata 7th grade "B" team in a little basketball scrimmage last week, and guess who turned the tables on who? Northwest did, in fact, win the contest by a score of 21-11. High pointer for the Northwest 6th grade team was Jerry Brock.

Rangers Near Title By Beating Herd

The strong Perryton Rangers, hitting on 52 per cent of their field goals, blasted the Hereford Whitefaces Friday night 90-49 in a District 1-AAA contest.

Hereford held the high-flying Rangers to a 16-12 first quarter score, but then the roof fell in. The Rangers began to hit from all sides and went into the locker room at halftime with a 44-25 lead.

Not letting up, Perryton had a 67-34 lead at the end of the third stanza and stretched it to the final count of 90-49. The Rangers got an added boost early in the third period when Whiteface starter Jim Childers fouled out. Bobby Burwick, the Herd's leading scorer, also left via the foul route soon after and Perryton took advantage of the losses to increase their lead.

Hereford connected on only 16 of 50 attempts from the field, while the Rangers hit 34 of 62 shots.

Leading the Rangers was Mike Hargrove with 24 points. while Dusty Duncan was high pointer for Hereford with 14. Burwick had 12 points and Marsh Pitman 10.

The Rangers now are 7-0 in conference warfare and need only one more victory to clinch at least a tie for the crown. Hereford now is 2-7 in district play.

The Whiteface "B" team absorbed their first conference loss of the season when they dropped a thriller to the Perryton Deputies 58-52.

In other district games, Tulia overpowered Dumas, 77-62 and Canyon won over Muleshoe 59-52.

Women To Play First Cage Game

The new Womens' Basketball League will play the first games Tuesday night at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, according to one of the team's coaches, Diana Dooley.

She also reported that hereafter the games would be played each Tuesday night at Hereford High School. The time is 7 to 9:30.

Diana also said that "anyone who hasn't signed up yet for one of the teams, we would still like to have them come out and play."

The teams who are playing are: Dooley's Dollies, coached by Diana Dooley with Elva Devers as assistant coach; The Double J's, Joanne Morton, coach, Joan Culp, assistant coach; The Gay Grannies, coach Yolanda Dye, Assistant coach, Mary Howard; and Lani's Lovelies, coach Lani Walterscheid, and assistant coach Theresa Albracht.

There will be an admission charge of 25 cents, she said, to help pay the expenses.

Alternate Crops Chosen By USDA

Alternate non-surplus crops which may be grown on feed grain or cotton diverted acreage were named today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

These crops are: castorbeans, guar, sesame, safflower, plantago ovata, sunflower, mustard seed, flaxseed, and crambe. As in 1967, a reduction is made in program payments per acre when these crops are planted on diverted acreage.

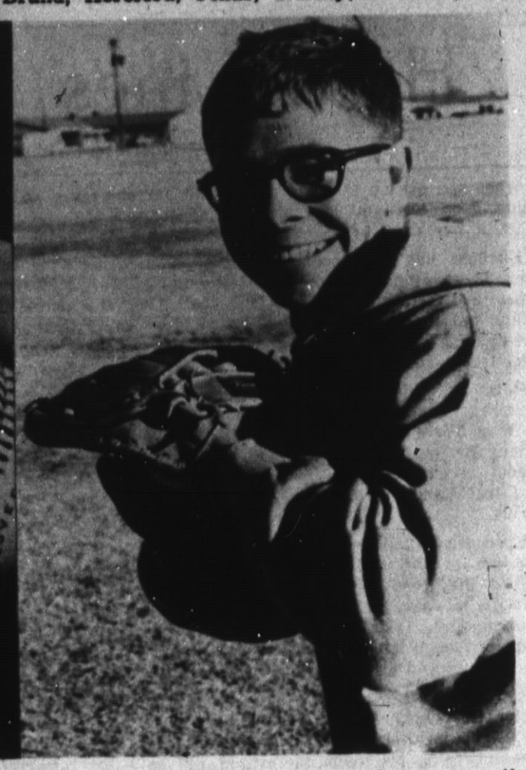
Sunflower, safflower, and flaxseed, which were not included as alternate crops last year, have been added to the list.

When any of the alternate crops, except sunflower or safflower, are planted on the diverted acreage, payments will be reduced 50 per cent, the minimum deduction under the law. When sunflower or safflower crops are planted, there will be no diversion payment.

Alternate plantings do not apply to the wheat program, which has no diversion provisions for 1968. For the feed grain and cotton programs, alternate crops may be planted only on acreage that is voluntarily diverted in excess of the required minimum diversion.

For cotton, voluntary diversion is that acreage diverted above the minimum amount required for program participation; that is, the acreage eligible for the additional voluntary diversion payment rate of 6 cents a pound.

For corn and grain sorghums, voluntary diversion is that acreage diverted above the 20 percent that is required for program participation. On a national average basis, payments on voluntary feed grain diversion acreage are 60.75 cents per bushel for corn and 53.9 cents per bushel for grain sorghums. Actual rates will vary depending on location.



WHITEFACE HURLERS — Berry Johnson, right and Lynn Betts, left, are two Whiteface pitchers that will be on the mound during the coming season. Hereford's Whiteface team began practice last week.

By MELVIN YOUNG

Gubernatorial hopeful Preston Smith may have been "lonesome" when he first announced for the governor's post, but he has plenty of company now. He's running with a full slate. To date, there are three Republicans, a raft of Democrats and one Dallas Go-Go girl in the race.

Of course, Smith's first hurdle will be to win the Demo nomination — and that may be some trick. Having gotten an early start however, he will probably wind-up in the run-off, but we haven't the foggiest notion with whom.

"Bubbles", the Dallas show girl, apparently could not come up with sufficient money for the filing fee so she's trying to mount a write-in campaign. That one, no doubt, will wither on the vine.

On the local scene, it appears that both attorney Andrew Shuval and Sheriff Ed Roberson have picked up opponents in the last few days. Jerry Tucker, an attorney from Dumas, has announced for District Attorney of the 69th Judicial District but on the Republican ticket so there won't be much action here until later in the year. Ed Roberson's opponent however, is vying for the Democratic nomination. He is W. J. "Jack" Wilson, a long-time resident of Deaf Smith County. Wilson farmed in the area during the '40s and in 1952 moved to Albuquerque. He has been back in Hereford about 2½ years.

Although the official announcement has not come, we understand that Representative Bill Clayton of Springlake will have a Republican opponent this fall. Monday of course, is filing deadline, so there will be no speculation after that date.

Representative Bob Price also faces an opponent, but again, not in the primary. Dick Brown pears to be only one in that primary while Price has a clear field in the Republican primary. So again, no action until later in the year.

Former County Attorney Bruce Miller has two opponents for the Court of Civil Appeals, 7th District. They are Jack Hazelwood of Amarillo and Judge James Joy of Plainview. All three appear to be hard at work on the campaign trail.

Deaf Smith County must have set some kind of record on voter registration. Certainly this is the biggest in the history of the county, and in comparison with other area counties, it is entirely possible that we have a larger percentage of qualified voters registered in Deaf Smith than in any of the others. The final talley was something over 6,750. And with a good hot gubernatorial race in the primary, we should have a record number out to vote.

Interest is still rising in the Hemisfair. And for the benefit of those who might have missed it, we might say again that tickets for the gate and rides are available at the Hereford State Bank at a saving. It will pay you to buy these before you leave Hereford.

APOLOGIES ARE IN ORDER

We received a letter from an official of the Texas Society Of Professional Engineers stating that it is unlawful to enply in our advertising in the Hereford Brand that we are engineers of duct systems. It certainly was not our intention to cast any reflection what so ever on the Society Of Engineers. We simply wanted to get the point across to our customers that we design our duct systems to give them a comfortable heating and cooling system for their homes and businesses — it's not a pot luck deal. Its our goal to give our customers their money's worth. We do not claim to be a registered engineer, however, at times we do install duct systems in commercial jobs such as the J. C. Penney Co., FHA jobs, etc. that do have the engineer seal stamped on the plans.

So we do apologize to the good folks, and we will do our best to DESIGN a duct system for you

Let's Go Fishin'

BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

FLOAT TRIP

Float fishing has often been overlooked in the mad dash to big impoundments, but this method of fishing remains one of the most satisfying adventures an angler can have.

A do-it-yourself float trip is a little more work than the commercial variety, but it's a lot more fun, say the fishing authorities at Mercury outboards. It takes ingenuity and skill in maneuvering your boat downstream, a better than average casting ability and a few arm and shoulder muscles which may have grown soft from disuse.

Use the long winter months to study various areas. The stream should be selected from a detailed county map and have access points no farther than 10 miles apart. A dependable outboard motor will then keep you within an hour of a take-out point should an unexpected occasion arise.

In making a float trip you'll encounter varying types of water which should be fished with different lures. It's a good practice to rig two or three rods so that you can make the switch rapidly. Have a weedless underwater or top water lure ready for fishing rocky shorelines in the still pools, and fast moving spinning or wobbling lures for swift water. Stop and fish the best spots. For instance, if you've been getting strikes in the fast water, beach the boat above every riffle and fish it thoroughly.

By the way, one more item is necessary for a do-it-yourself float trip. Someone to pick you up when it's over. A congenial wife is excellent for this purpose.

Area Child Welfare Supervisor Says, "100 Cases Going TODAY!"

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Iley Compton, supervisor for Child Welfare in Deaf Smith and five other counties, had six local cases involving divorce for presentation to the Welfare Board. All of them involved children, otherwise they would not have been considered. Each of Compton's cases will involve at least one child.

The first one indicated a husband who was asking that the mother be given custody of the child and that he would pay $50 per month for his support. The second case covered eight children and the father was scheduled to pay $30 per week for their upkeep (with Jewel Smith, County Welfare, explaining the circumstances).

The next case was one that involved non-support payments by a father who had been injured in an accident during the summer. The wife had already been awarded custody, with reasonable visitation rights for the father and support set at $100, for the three children. Compton explained the circumstances following investigation.

Case No. 4 had the father asking that custody of his two children be awarded to the mother, and that he would pay $80 per month child support. No. 5 was a complaint from a mother. She said she had called her ex-husband, who is working out of town, that one of their daughters was in the hospital here. He had promised to send some money, her complaint continued, but none had been received. Jewel Smith also had a report on these circumstances for the Board.

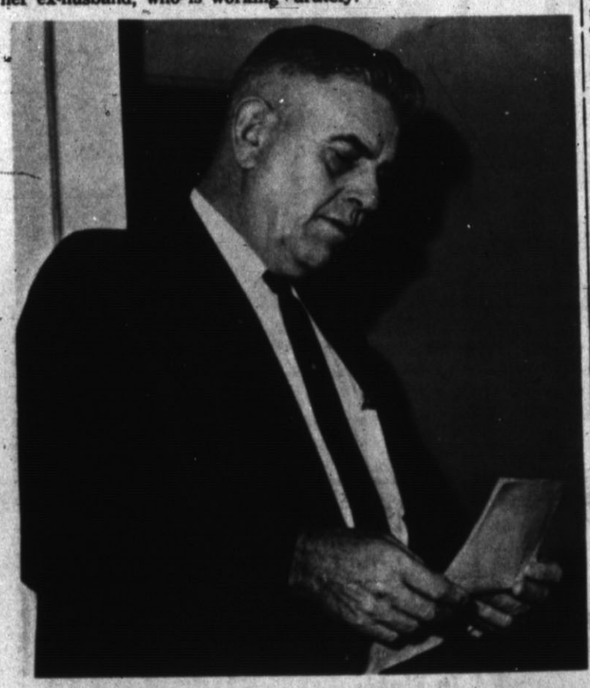
And another case came in just before noon. A brief was presented for study.

Compton takes the cases and makes arrangements for what is to be heard.

The Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board consists of Garland Solomon, chairman; Herschel Black, Bob Veigel, Mrs. Richard Bernard, Mrs. M. W. Nobles, Mrs. Raymond White and Mrs. Luther Lesly. They are appointed by the Commissioners Court, and they serve without pay for 2-year periods. The Board can only make recommendations — then it's up to the court. They meet on the first Thursday of each month.

Iley Compton, Jewel Smith, the Board members — first, they try to save the marriage ("There are times that we do," Compton pointed out), and they investigate the welfare of the children of these marriages. In times of divorce, custody is the number one point, number two is support, and number three is visitation.

The Board can investigate them as a body or do it separately.



ILEY COMPTON — Pictured here in the County Welfare office on the third floor of the Court House, Compton looks over some important papers, a beginning for each Thursday in Hereford, as supervisor of Child Welfare. He lives at Dumas.

Compton said, "Seventy-five per cent of my work is on cases that are not even heard in court. I go to their homes and do quite a bit of counseling. A lot of the time I do more listening than talking. I think this helps a lot. And I receive a lot of phone calls at night, from people who feel thay have an urgent need for help in Child Welfare."

Compton estimated that he had "100 cases going in six counties today. We never catch up — phone calls and letters, all about the same number every year since I started in 1960."

Most of his work is through District Court, although he is subject to call by the County Court. He spends a lot of time sending letters to fathers for child support, to give them every chance before having to file on them. And there are the points of dependent neglect and divorce.

"I don't remember them all there is so much of it," he said.

But he did remember a situation that happened on January 1. In Dumas — where he and his wife live — they received a call from the chief of police. It was about a girl who had trouble at home, and the police department didn't want to keep her locked up over the holidays. So Compton and his wife took the girl to a foster home. On Tuesday night he called Marshall Cooper, the supervisor at Girls Town, who immediately accepted the girl. She is still there and doing fine.

"Incidentally, there is a Hereford girl now at a foster home for older girls at Dalhart," he said.

"A county attorney called me recently at 2:30 one morning," Compton continued. "He said that a woman with three children — with another woman and three men — had robbed a grocery store at Vega. I put the children into a home. And the kids didn't cause a bit of trouble while they were there.

"None of the men were married to the women, and the 14-year-old child was pregnant. The mother and the three children had come from Chicago. When everything was all cleared up in the robbery case, Child Welfare bought them railroad tickets and returned them home."

He had talked to a woman Thursday morning who had gotten a divorce in Dallas. "Legally we have no jurisdiction outside of this district," he said, "but we are trying to help her get her support money."

Prior to 1954, child welfare cases were handled through County Welfare, along with all their other work (as described by the Brand in the January 21 issue). But Harry Schultz, then District Judge of the 69th Judicial Court, living in Dalhart, wrote a letter to Jewel Smith on November 24, 1953. In it was the outline for the formation of the present Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board.

Judge Dchultz wrote: "It is comtemplated that this Board would be called upon by the District Judge for advise and assistance in connection with most of the problems involving children that come before the court. There are also many problems involving children that are brought to the judge in an unofficial way. The Board could render very valuable services to such people — especially in view of the fundamental rule of law which does not permit a judge to take effective legal action on any matter unless it comes before the judge by way of proper legal procedure.

"It is also expected that you as County Welfare Administrator (Jewell Smith) would avail yourself of the services of this Board in connection with the problems involving children which you have to deal with in your welfare work.

"It is also probable that the County Judge would want to avail himself of the services of this Board in connection with Juvenile Delinquency problems." H. C. Williams is County Judge.

Thus the Board was born.

(Those connected with Child Welfare easily give the credit for its foundation to former Judge Schultz. Jewell Smith said, "The Judge and the late Cal Farley, founder of Boys Ranch, are the same kind of man, toward the problems of kids."

Compton said there had been changes in the program since going from Judge Schultz to Judge Archie McDonald. "At the beginning," he said, "we investigated every divorce case with children. Now it is only such divorce cases where there is a problem with the children."

The first Child Welfare supervisor was Jerry Chapman, followed by Howard Masden and Juanell Compton. Iley Compton has held the post longer than any of his predecessors.

Compton started as a farmer in Childress County, where he was born and went to school. He married a Childress girl and they had six children of their own. They were put through school working on a dairy farm, where there were 30 to 40 cows to be hand-milked daily, at the beginning. When he came into this area, he was chairman of the PMA board in Childress and school trustee at large.

Now the oldest of his children is 35 and the youngest 26. Daughter Peggy Williams lives at Plainview, where her husband is a supervisor for Mrs. Baird's Bread; Iley Jr. is a vice-president of the First State Bank at Vernon; Betty Harris is married to a traffic manager for a large grain elevator at Enid, Oklahoma; Mickey is a supervisor for a milk plant at Wichita Falls; Jerry is with El Paso Natural Gas Co. at Williams, Arizona; and Tony (and his wife) is a teacher in the Lubbock school system.

His daughter-in-law was Juanell Compton, the third supervisor. She decided to leave the job and Iley was interviewed for it — and served his training period under her.

He came to Hereford in April 1960. But three months later, Judge Schultz moved the office to Dumas. He has been there ever since.

His wife Ethel is his secretary when he is home. He is in Dalhart on Tuesdays and Hereford on Thursdays. The other counties — Oldham, Hartley, Dallam, Moore — are subject to call.

Compton does not work for the state but the counties. Each county pays him on a pro rata basis.

In 1957, Hereford citizens voted $100,000 in bonds for the building of the Hereford Municipal Airport.

CHILD WALFARE — Iley Compton, supervisor for Child Welfare, with Jewel Smith of County Welfare. Said Compton: "When I first went to work, I don't know how I would have handled Deaf Smith County without Jewel Smith standing over my shoulder."

One-sixth of the telephone callers to taxpayer assistors at Internal Revenue need a tax form. The good tax folks point out that you should use the tax forms sent to you by IRS, that have your name, address and taxpayer identification number printed on the form. Using the label printed by the Service Center assures that you will be on speaking terms with the computer. You can't speak to the computer unless you use the correct identification number. Sale Of New License Tags Gets Off To Brisk Start

On the second day of the new 1968 automobile license plate sales, the Tax Assessor and Collector's office on the second floor of the Deaf Smith County Court House reported that "we have really sold more than we thought we had, and didn't realize we were that busy."

They had sold 173 passenger tags, 28 commercial tags and 16 farm tags by early afternoon Friday.

The deadline on the new Texas license plates is April 1.

Mrs. La Nell Miller, Deaf Smith County Tax Assessor—Collector, urged everyone to bring their titles and past year's license receipts with them when they come for their 1968 tags. Without the title the car owner cannot receive his license plates.

Mrs. Miller explained that "Austin is trying to go computer" in these sales, and it requires the car title.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported that more than 4,250,000 vehicles still remain to be inspected for the 1968 sticker before the April 15 deadline.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director, said that only 1,574,397 cars had been inspected thus far this year. The total number vehicles inspected during 1967 was 5,702,862.

Garrison urged motorists to have their cars inspected as soon as possible in order to avoid the long lines which will undoubtedly develop as the inspection period draws to a close.

He reminded car owners that under the new provisions of the law the inspection will include front seat belts in cars where the anchorages are a part of the manufacturer's original equipment, steering ,wheels and rims.

"These motorists who wait until the last weeks of the inspection period to have their cars inspected may find that they will need to install seat belts," Garrison said. "And with the last minute rush, there may not be enough seat belt kits in supply to take care of the demand. Dealers will have no way of knowing how many sets to have on hand ,so to be on the safe side we urge all owners to have the work done as soon as possible."

Garrison said the inspection could be completed at any of the 5,836 inspection stations in Texas. Each authorized station displays a standard sign identifying the establishment as one approved by the State of Texas for conducting inspections.

He is a 1961 graduate of Hereford High School. Until his enlistment he was a student at West Texas State in Canyon and was employed at Sears in Amarillo.

His wife, the former Sandra Kay McClellan of Gruver, will join him ater at Biloxi.

Applicants Due For Hosting Foreign Students

Local residents interested in hosting a foreign exchange student for the 1968-69 school year are asked to contact Mrs. Wilma Braddy this week at Hereford High School.

Mrs. Braddy said the American Field Service has requested that applications by local persons to keep the students in their homes should be in very soon. More information also may be obtained by calling Mrs. Braddy.

NEW TAGS — Austin Rose of Hereford is one of approximately 16 area men who have new personalized license plates which remind other motorists of a certain need for the High Plains. The other tags, owned by members and supporters of the Deaf Smith County Water Association, are similar to this one, except the last letter differs each time.

Facts About Heart Attacks

MY HUSBAND died of a heart attack at the age of 42. The attack was sudden and without prior warning or symptoms of any kind. He smoked a great deal and was perhaps ten pounds overweight but he was able to work energetically in business. Was there any way we might have taken precautions against such a calamity? Perhaps other readers of your column could benefit from my sad experience.

Dr. Coleman

Mrs. Y. O., Kansas

Dear Mrs. O.: You are most kind in your own sadness to want to spare others the unhappiness that came to you. You almost pinpoint in your letter some of the factors that are responsible for heart attacks in young people. Many are sacrificed unnecessarily by not inspecting their health and taking for granted that the heart machinery can withstand the insults of tobacco, overweight and tension.

A sudden heart attack seems to be sudden, but really is not. Disease of the coronary arteries that bring blood to the heart muscle itself may go on for years, secretly and slowly without any symptoms. Suddenly the coronary artery is shut off. After years of becoming narrower and narrower, the attacks occurs.

There are many factors that go into the complex puzzle of heart attacks. Many empty spaces still exist in the jigsaw puzzle. There are enough, however, for us to know that many severe heart attacks can be avoided.

The major reasons for heart attacks are: (1) high blood pressure (2) lack of exercise (3) marked overweight (4) cigarette smoking (5) cholesterol-filled fatty foods (6) uncontrolled, neglected diabetes and (7) tense emotional behavior at business and in the home. When these conditions occur singly they are less of a threat than when they occur in combination.

How can the potential candidate for a heart attack be flushed out of hiding so that productive lives can be spared the tragedy of sudden death or chronic invalidism? Prevention is the key to the preservation of useful hearts.

Diets should concentrate on replacing saturated fats with unsaturated fats. Saturated fats are found in meat, butter, cheese, cream, whole milk and solid cooking fats. Polyunsaturated fats are in liquid oils—corn, soybean and safflower.

Fish and poultry fats tend to reduce the cholesterol in the blood. It is this build-up which is thought to be one of the major reasons for the arteriosclerosis that finally shuts off the coronary arteries which bring blood and oxygen to the heart muscle to keep it healthy and pumping.

Tobacco is a culprit, a very important one, that helps take a toll of hearts. The burden of 25 extra pounds is an unfair one to impose on the faithful heart muscle.

There are enough precautions that are known and can be taken by regular examination and by following the advice of a physician; advice that too often is heard, listened to, and quickly forgotten.

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot adequately express our deep appreciation for the many kind and sympathetic acts that came to us at the time of the passing of our Mother, Mrs. Josephine Huckert. A very special thanks to the doctors, nurses and clergymen and to all for prayers, flowers, food and kindness.

The Children of Mrs. Josephine Huckert.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

When a Child Darts Out

Rare is the parent, and rare is the motorist, who has not been haunted by the vision of a child darting out in front of an oncoming automobile. Yet, tragically, such accidents are anything but rare.

If a child is injured or killed in this manner, who bears the legal responsibility?

In a sense the child himself is at fault, since he "took the initiative" in causing the accident. But the law adjusts its standard of care to fit the age of the individual. In most of these darting-out cases, the child is too young to be tagged with the label of negligence.

Yet, the fact that the child is not responsible does not automatically shift responsibility to the motorist. Our impulsive, humanitarian sympathy for the youthful victim does not justify placing the blame on someone who is truly blameless.

Thus, a motorist is ordinarily not liable for running down the child who darts out suddenly from behind a parked car. For there is nothing to give the motorist fair warning of what is to come.

But there are many circumstances which should put the motorist on a special alert. An obvious example is the presence of a child in the street. The motorist should not assume, even if he blows his horn, that the child will promptly and prudently retreat to the sidewalk.

Even if there is no child in sight, other telltale signs may cry caution. For example:

In one case, the fact that a ball bounced into the street was held good reason for an oncoming motorist to expect that a child might follow.

In another case, a posted notice of "CHILDREN AT PLAY" was held sufficient to call for extra careful driving.

It is true that this special responsibility on the motorist, when children are in sight or in prospect, has a tendency to slow the movement of traffic.

But it is also true that cars are killing thousands of our youngsters every year. The law is willing to slow the traffic, to slow the slaughter.

CLUB HONOR AWARDED — Past president of Bud to Blossom Garden Club, and the only charter member remaining on the club roll, Mrs. R. A. Daniel was presented a life membership at this week's meeting. Mrs. Sam Long, right, also a past president, gives the citation denoting the club honor to Mrs. Daniel.

Life Membership Honors Woman

Life membership in Bud to Blossom Garden Club was presented to Mrs. R.A. Daniel, only charter member still on the club roll, at a meeting Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Daniel's mother, Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. Mrs. Ernest Kendall was hostess.

Mrs. Daniel served the club as president in its early years in the late 1940's, and at the time was the youngest club president in Texas Garden Clubs Inc.

She has filed other offices and committee chairmanships and been active in all phases of garden club work. This year she holds an associate membership. The life membership citation was presented by Mrs. Sam Long.

Mrs. Hill, an authoritative garden club speaker and master judge, a member of Hereford Garden Club, gave the program for Bud to Blossom Club after a business meeting featuring plans for the convention of District I, Texas Garden Clubs Inc., for which the two local clubs will be hostesses Feb. 26 and 27.

Committee appointments for convention duties were announced by Mrs. Bruce Brown, Bud to Blossom president, who with Mrs. Ray Johnson of Hereford Club is co-chairman of convention arrangements.

Resignation of Mrs. Louis Orleans, who is moving to Colorado, was accepted with regrets; Mrs. Jess Robinson was named publicity chairman to fill the office vacancy she left, and Mrs. Delmo Williams to replace her on the social committee.

Landscaping With Flower Arrangement Material was the topic of Mrs. Hill's talk. She reminded members first of the basic principles of landscape design, unity, harmony of color and texture, balance and repetition.

She discussed a master plan for planting in order to have blooms or other material for arrangements the year round. Setting bulbs in the fall, then planting and transplanting in spring and summer can assure blossoms from the first spring days to freeze, she said.

Ten members and an honorary member, Mrs. A. L. Manjeot, were present.

Concerning Veterans

Fifteen specific legislative and adminstrative proposals are included in President Johnson's most recent message to Congress on servicemen and veterans, Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office, reported today.

Coker, whose regional office serves 720,000 veterans residing in the northern two-thirds of Texas, said an analysis of the complete text of the message, which he has just received, reveals these legislative requests:

(1) To increase the low cost group life insurance now available to members of the Armed Forces from the present maximum of $10,000 to $30,0000.

(2) To protect disabled veterans, widows and children against disproportionate pension loss as a result of increases in other income such as Social Security.

(3) To increase the maximum portion of a G. I. loan that can be guaranteed by the government from $7,500 to $10,000.

(4)To permit part-time VA vocational rehabilitation training so service-disabled veterans can improve their skills while working at a regular job.

(5) Enactment of a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that private employers should give job priority to returning servicemen.

(6) To provide incentives to channel the talents of returning Vietnam era servicemen into teaching in deprived areas, or serving local communities as policemen, firemen and hospital workers. The program would be known as Veterans in the Public Service (VIPS), and would provide extra G. I. Bill benefits to veterans serving or training to serve in VIPS.

In the message, Coker said, the President also advised Congress he is taking the following actions to improve service to servicemen and veterans:

(1) Expanding VA service in Vietnam where VA representatives provided veteran benefits counseling last year to 220,000 fighting men about to return home.

(2) Expanding VA counseling now being received by disabled servicemen in 110 military hospitals to the entire system of military hospitals.

(3) Extending VA counseling now being conducted at 150 military separation points to an additional 107 separation bases.

(4) Opening 20 new, one-stop U. S. Veterans Assistance Centers. Working with VA officials at the centers will be representatives of many other Federal agencies as well as local and state veteran affairs officials. This first multi-agency effort is designed to render every assistance to returning Vietnam era servicemen. Ten of the centers, to be opende within a month, are to be located in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, D.C., San Francisco, Boston and Atlanta. A second group of centers, to be opened at a somewhat later date, will be located in Baltimore, Milwaukee, Houston, St. Louis, Pittsburg, San Antonio,New Orleans, Indianapolis, Phoneix and Newark.

(5) Directing the Department of Defense to double participation in its "Project 100,000" which provides military training for young men who would otherwise be rejected on educational or physical grounds.

(6) Directing the Department of Defense to extend to all principal troop installations its "Project Transition" with a goal of training 500,000 disadvantaged men for civilian jobs in the months before they leave service.

(7) Directing the Secretary of Labor to continue giving top priority to personal, job-help contacts with every returning serviceman through the more than 2,000 Federal-State Employment offices.

(8) The President will issue an Executive Order permitting the hiring in the first five levels of Federal Civil Service of returning veterans who agree to pursue educational programs in their spare time. These veterans would not have to compete in regular Civil Service examinations.

(9) Directing the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to expand training of all types of medical personnel. VA now provides training to some 40,000 medical specialists each year. The President set a goal of 80,000 specialists to be trained each year in the vast VA hospital-clinic system, to relieve the acute shortage of trained personnel, and at the same time improve care for veterans.

Coker noted that the Presidential message also referred to the appointment last year of an 11-man U. S. Veterans Advisory Commission, and said, "We are looking to the recommendations of the Commission."

On the subject of national cemeteries, the President said:

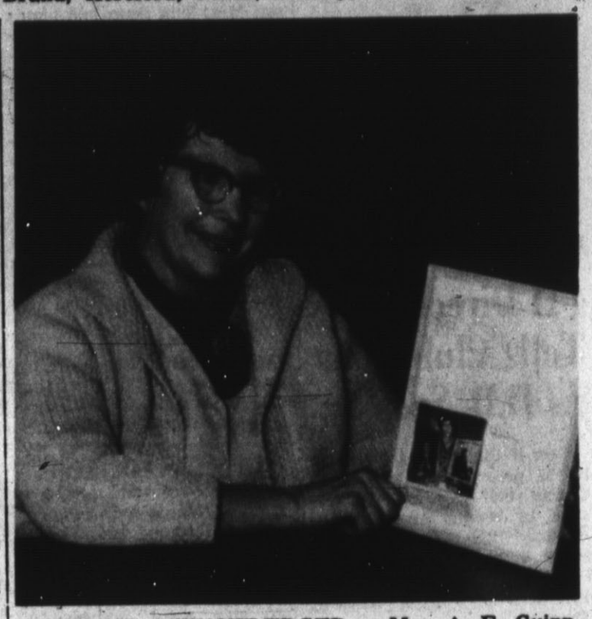
"Every veteran who wants it ... those who risked their lives at Belleau Wood Iwo Jima and the DMZ... should have the right to burial in a National Cemetery situated reasonable close to his home. I have asked the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to make certain that the recommendations of the Advisory Commission include proposals to assure this right in a meaningful sense."

Leron B. Gough, whose father was Hereford's first full-term mayor, set up a bootblack stand at the town barber shop in 1905 when he was fifteen. During the summer he shined the cowboy's boots when they came in from the range to get cleaned up and make "Whoopee."

CARD OF THANKS

Words are inadequate to express my thanks to Dr. Mims, Dr. Hicks and all the nurses at the hospital who were so kind to me during my illness. And I am most grateful for all the visits, cards, flowers and every expression of interest that was shown me.

Mrs. Odlia Huckert.



PORTRAIT ACKNOWLEDGED — Mrs. A. E. Guinn proudly shows the letter she lately received from the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston, acknowledging the note she sent with a clipping concerning the portrait she has painted of the late President. She mounted the clipping from The Hereford Brand with the library administrator's letter. The Hereford painter was told that she would be listed among those who have done portraits of Kennedy, in a file kept in the library.

Teacher Of Art Is Club Speaker

China painting as an art as well as an absorbing hobby was the subject of Mrs. O. Wertenberger, guest speaker to L'-Allegra Study Club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Jim McDowell, hostess, introduced the guest, an art teacher in LaPlata Junior High and teacher of a private class in china painting.

A black velvet cloth was the background for display of choice pieces of china Mrs. Wertenger-ger has painted — a vase, plates, cups and a china shoe used as the base for a pincushion. She mentioned that the rose is the favorite subject of china painters and is seen in many styles and colors on all sorts of pieces.

Wares that can be painted include ceramic, enamel, crockery and glass as well as china, the speaker continued. She showed stages in the decoration of china and told of techniques used to achieve a transparent effect on painted petals, gold or platinum borders, lustre finish for an iridescent effect and the monchromatic method of applying paint and wiping it to achieve a pattern.

Club members' questions were answered as they examined the china shown. The program was one in a year's series on the general subject of Art.

Mrs. Danny Martin reported for the hostess committee on plans for a party to entertain members' husbands Feb. 13 in Hereford Country Club. Mrs. Dennis Lomas presided for business.

Also present were Mmes. John E. Smith, Jimmy Conkwright, Bobby Veigel, Terrell Hodges, Noble Ballard, Bud Snyder and Hazen Woods.

Kwanians Hear Amarillo Speaker

George Davis, representing the Big Brothers of Amarillo, spoke to the noon meeting of the local Kiwanis club Thursday.

Davis, who is a field worker in this area for the Big Brothers club, related several incidents about boys between the ages of 9 and 16, adding, "Statistics show that three-fourths of all boys who get into bad trouble come from homes where there is no male influence."

George Davis

Davis also listed ways that the Big Brothers help unfortunate boys, and gave some of the past history of the Big Brothers association.

Also at the meeting Thursday, it was disclosed that the Lt. Governor of Kiwanis Division 6, Travis Aaron, would make his official visit to the club at the next meeting.

Toastmasters Hold Meeting

Toastmaster Club 844 of Hereford had their meeting Thursday night at the Hickory Log. President Connie Goeringer presided. The business session was highlighted with a discussion of a membership drive contest and the purchase of new club equipment.

Ways To Finance An Education To Be Topic Of Friona Confab

Friona High School will be host on Feb. 14th to students and school counselors from 13 area schools who are interested in attending vocational and technical schools and ways of securing financing to attend such schools.

The conference is one of a series of 11 being conducted on the High Plains during the month of February. Sponsoring organization is The Opportunity Plan, Inc., in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education and West Texas State University.

Eight colleges and institutions will be represented at the conference, which is open to students and school counselors from Hereford. Anyone wishing to attend should contact school officials. High school graduates are given a special invitation.

Purpose of the conference is to give ideas as to what the participating institutions have to offer, as well as means of obtaining financial assistance for those who need the aid to pursue their education or training beyond the high school, as well as to stress the importance of training beyond high school.

High school students, ex-students, parents, school officials, church and civic leaders and other interested persons are eligible to attend.

Participating colleges and institutions include Oklahoma State, Okmulgee; Tech, Lubbock; James Connally Technical Institute, Waco; South Plains College, Levelland; Amarillo College; Lubbock Christian College; Clarendon College; West Texas State University; and the Texas Hospita Association.

Representatives from Adrian, Bovina, Canyon, Dimmitt, Farwell, Happy, Hart, Hereford, Kress, Lazbuddie, Olton ,Springlake-Earth and Vega will attend the conference. Baker Duggins, Friona counselor, is conference chairman.

To early-day cowboys, the D. R. Gass and Son store in Hereford was more than a place where they could buy boots and pants; it was a hotel.

Study Club Has Student Guest

Tourists come to Finland in summer to see the midnight sun, and freqently complain that nights are so light they can't sleep, Katie Laine remarked as she was telling Hereford Study Club members about her native country Thursday evening.

She was the program guest, introduced by Mrs. Marvin Knox, at a meeting in Mrs. Garland Solomon's home. Mrs. Johnny Clark was co-hostess. Miss Laine is a student in Hereford High School this term under the American Field Service program.

Humor added interest to the facts she gave about Finland, which she said is an independent nation with a democratic government which holds a neutral position politically and trades extensively with the United States, Western Europe and Russia.

Its language is Finnish, she continued, and Swedish is also spoken a great deal. Freedom of religion is maintained although a large percent of residents are nominally Lutherans; far fewer Finns than Americans, by percentage, attend church.

The pretty student lives in Savilappaleen, where her father is on the police force. Like most Finnish families, hers has two homes, she added, one for summer and the other for winter.

Mrs. R. N. Yarbro directed club business. Mmes. Maurice Tannahill, Ed Wilson Jr. and S. L. Garrison were appointed a committee to nominate next season's officers, who are to be elected next month and installed in May.

Plans were completed for the annual sweetheart party Feb. 15, when husbands of members will be guests in the home of Mrs. Don Robinson.

At the Thursday meeting, members included Mmes. Ray Coneway, Kenneth Fanning, J. W. Witherspoon, Arthur Stoy, Robinson, W. H. Gentry, T. E. Braddy, Labry Ballard and Miss Gladys Setliff.

Lewis R. Bradly was active in the organization of Deaf Smith County in 1890 and served as a commissioner while the county seat was La Plata.

CCA Artist And Board . . .

YOUNG ADMIRER, Jean Bullard, turns to take an autographed program from Leibert, who had used her shoulder as a desk.

Relax After Concert

GAY MOOD of party guests reflects the pleasure that officers and members of the new Hereford Community Concert Association felt at the success of its initial concert which organist Richard Leibert played recently. Board members entertained after the program with a reception honoring Leibert, at Hereford Country Club. Candid camera shots catch the spirit of the occasion.

Couple At Home After Dimmitt Church Wedding

Mrs. Jimmy A. Martin
. . . nee Jo Lynn Harman

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Allen Martin are at home in the Varsity Apartments at Canyon, where both are students in West Texas State University, after their recent marriage in Northside Church of Christ at Dimmitt. Mrs. Martin is the former Miss Jo Lynn Harman of that city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harmon of Dimmitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Harper of Route 2, Hereford. Bill Talley conducted the double ring wedding before an arrangement of greenery, baskets of white flowers and candelabra holding white tapers.

Sisters of the bride were her attendants, Mrs. Darryl McLain of Canyon the maton of honor and Miss Dana Harman the bridesmaid. McLain acted as Martin's best man, Don Chapman of Hereford groomsman, Steve Hendon and Paul Hendon of Hereford, cousins of the bride, ushers.

Patti Hendon was flower girl and the bride's brother, Billy Harman, lighted candles. Miss Carolyn Dunn registered guests.

Escorted by her father down an aisle marked with green garlands and white satin bows, the bride wore an empire style gown, the bodice of Alencon lace, the skirt a sheath of organza over taffeta appliqued with flowers cut from the lace.

Capelet sleeves were scalloped at the elbow. The squared taffeta train had a wide border of organza with lace appliques. A cluster of organza and lace roses held her bouffant veil. She carried roses and gardenias on a bridal Bible, the groom's gift.

Attendants' empire dresses were in two shades of blue, the darker in satin of the bodice and train, while crepe skirts were powder blue. Their bouquets were gardenias. The flower girl wore a white lace frock and blue ribbon in her hair.

A reception at Dimmitt Country Club followed the ceremony. Mrs. Murray Hall and Mrs. William Bellinghausen served wedding cake and punch. Bouquets of the bride and bridesmaids were placed around crystal candelabra centering the table.

For a short wedding trip, Mrs. Martin wore a brown and white sheer dress with beige accessories and gardenias from her bouquet. She is a graduate of Dimmitt High School and is a junior in WTSU. Martin, a senior student, previously attended Mississippi State University after graduation from Aberdeen, Miss, High school. He is an agent of a life insurance firm.

Open House To Observe Minister's Anniversary

The Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Brink will hold open house this afternoon, marking the fifth anniversary of their work with First Christian Church here. They invite friends to call at their home, 211 Sunset, between 3 and 6 p.m.

Rev. Brink became minister of the Hereford church after similar service in Carrollton, a Dallas suburb. A major accomplishment of the congregation under his leadership was building the present church structure on West Park Ave., which was completed in July, 1963.

In addition to his work as a minister, he has served in numerous civic organizations. At present he is a member of the boards of the Migrant Ministry, Hereford Camp Fire Girls Council and the Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Brink is a member of the Music Study Club. She is a substitute teacher in Hereford schools.

The Brinks' children are Jimmy, a junior in Texas Christian Univesity this year; David, a Hereford High School senior, and Nancy, in her first year at LaPlata Junior High.

—Small Talk—

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

When the Andrew Kershens learned that their son, Drew, had been made an associate editor of the Texas Law Review, publication of the University of Texas Law School, they were naturally quite proud of his accomplishment.

SINCE THEN, talking with friends who are lawyers, they have become more and more proud. Seems that the Law Review is regarded as the voice of the legal profession in Texas, a very highly respected journal among lawyers of the state.

Drew began work on it about six months after entering the law school and his appointment to an editorship is a recognition of ability which is calculated to make any parent proud. Friends here join the Kershens in that feeling of pride.

SOMEWHAT AMAZED and considerably amused, Mary Thomas joins me in marveling at the way stories can get started, all by a logical misinterpretation of facts. Something like putting two and two together and getting, not four, but 22.

After Marilyn Van Derbur spoke here at the Chamber of commerce banquet, someone mentioned to a Brand reporter that Mrs. Wayne Thomas knew the former Miss America well, had been in college with her, and maybe that would be of interest to mention in the paper.

It certainly was, and we promptly telephoned Mary, who at first was quite puzzled because she hadn't the pleasure of Miss Van Derbur's acquaintance and didn't know why someone thought she had. Then light dawned.

DURING THE EVENING of the banquet Mary had been chatting with friends who were part of the general crowds and one said she recently met in another city, a woman who recalled that Hereford was the Thomases' home, and that she had known Mary in college.

"Oh yes, I know her well!" Mary had exclaimed, and went on to talk of their association as coeds. Evidently someone nearby had heard and assumed that the pretty speaker was the subject of that conversation, as she was of most of that night's talk.

Well, I'm happy that the talk was overheard by an alert person who recognized a bit of news when it floated by, and was prompt to let us know about it.

In this case no harm could be done, and the incident sheds light on the way stories, some not so harmless, can be started by a perfectly sincere person who jumps too far to a conclusion.

NOTE TO Peg Hoff: That was most delicous grape jelly. Now I'd like your recipe — not for the jelly, but for growing Concord grapes here. They were Concords, to have that wonderful flavor, weren't they?

NOTE TO Dorothy Mercer: Thanks for those kind words! We so often hear from the person who doesn't like the way we do it, rather than the one who does. It is quite a treat to know someone took time to write such a nice note.

As you surmised, it is more a matter of chance than choice, as our plans in the news department must fit in with those of the ad department, and all are subject to the limitations of page size and the flexibility of type metal, which is on the inflexible side.

MARCH BRIDE-ELECT — Plans for the March 30 marriage of Miss Connie Beth Vaughn and Ted L. Couple To Be Married In Home Wedding Today

A simple home ceremony is planned for the marriage of Miss Adelina Tijerina and Enrique Galvan at 3 p.m. today, with Justice of the Peace Ernest Wade officiating.

The setting will be the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tijerina, 111 Lake. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Margaret Valdez, 123 North Main.

In addition to the two families, the only witnesses will be Mr. and Mrs. Maurilio Iruegas. The couple will be unattended as they exchange wedding vows.

Fashioned of white satin, the bride's gown is on princess lines, with long sleeves and circlet neckline. Lace is appliqued down the center front from neckline to the street-length hemline.

Her pouf veil of net falls over her shoulders from a crown headpiece. She will carry a nosegay of white blossoms.

The room will be decorated with bouquets of flowers, as will the table where luncheon will be served after the ceremony. The triple-tiered wedding cake with icing in floral pattern and bride-and-groom figurines on top, will be the centerpiece and will be cut after the luncheon.

A home in Hereford is planned by the couple, who both attended schools here. Galvan is employed by Holly Sugar Corp.

His grandparents and an aunt came from Mathis to be among the wedding guests.

Open Discussion Ends Club Talks

Joining heartily in the discussion, members of Bay View Study club gave evidence of their interest in the program subject, American Power And Foreign Policy, as presented by Mrs. Colby Conkwright at the meeting in Mrs. R. B. Miller's home Thursday.

A general discussion followed her talk; topics aired were U. S. Committments, The Kennedy Round, America's Destiny, Two Visions, Foreign Policy And You.

Mrs. Conkwright had selected her material from Great Decisions, a new publication of the Foreign Policy Association, and other sources. She began with a quotation, "The U. S. President's task of making foreign policy has become complicated almost beyond management in the twentieth century".

Headlines rivet our attention now on the crisis in Viet Nam, where war or peace may hinge on the outcome of our policy, she said, adding that we tend to forget that no crisis appears fullblown overnight, also that stark choices of life or death, war or peace, are not the only ways U. S. foreign policy can affect our lives.

The nation's economy and our part in international trade, for instance, depend on our policies and diplomatic relations between the U. S. and other countries, the speaker said before the round-table discussion began.

The program opened with repetition of the Collect for Club Women. Mrs. Miller had decorated the dining room in symbols of St. Valentine's day and repeated the motif on dessert plates served to Mmes. W. S. Kerr, Carl Swanson, H. L. Benefield, Jimmie Gillentine, Carl Perrin, Juston McBride, W.J. Gilliland and the speaker.

Pioneer Honors Local Workers

AMARILLO — Four Hereford residents were honored Friday night at Pioneer Natural Gas Company's annual service award dinner at the Amarillo Country Club.

More than 80 employees and their wives attended the dinner which was presided over by C.I. (Stoney) Wall, president and chairman of the board, who made the award presentations. He was assisted by B. P. Smith, executive vice president; T. S. Whitis and K. B. Watson, senior vice presidents; M. B. Edquist and C. H. Rainwater, vice presidents.

Henry T. Wedel, Jr. was presented with a pin commemorating 20 year's service to Pioneer. T. Edward Clark and Clinton L. Massie were both recipients of 15-year awards, and Richard J. Sartain received a 10-year pin.

In making the awards Wall said, "The contribution each of you has made down through the years has been responsible for the continued growth and success of Pioneer. Really, you are Pioneer Natural Gas Company, and those of us charged with the responsibility of administering the affairs of the company are grateful for your good work."

Small Girl, 'Adopted' By H.D. Club

The ABC's of water development programs in Deaf Smith and nearby counties were traced by Andrew Kershen, guest speaker to North Hereford Home Demonstration Club, at a Thursday meeting in the home of Mrs. W. J. Lueb. A club project for the year was chosen.

Kershen told of organizations formed in recent months to study water resources and look forward to enlarging the water supply of this area. Conservation of present water resources as well as the outlook for future use, was stressed by the speaker.

Members voted to sponsor a four-year-old girl, Selena Sloan, a new resident of Girlstown U-SA, as a major project this year. They plan to assist the little girl with gifts and friendship.

Mrs. Kershen was a guest with her husband. Other members present were Mmes. Mary Bodkin, Otto Massie, R. A. Fullwood, C. L. Whitehead, Clinton Ward, Velma Salvino, Otto Olson, A. E. Hodges, Paul Hoff and Viola Williams.

Randy Tooley Is Library Worker

ABILENE — Randy Tooley of Dawn is one of more than 30 McMurry College students assisting in the reclassification of McMurry's 65,000 volume Jay-Rollins Library from Dewey Decimal System to Library of Congress.

McMurry's Library director, Daniel J. Gore, is receiving nationwide attention because of the many unique methods he is employing in the reclassification. Chief among them is the utilization of a large staff of part-time student help who are enrolled in college work-study programs. Previously it had been believed that only a professional staff could accomplish the reclassification of an entire library.

The task involves removal of books from the stacks, remarking, reshelving and the creation of a new 250,000 card catalog. With the use of student help and short-cutted methods the project will cost around $30,000. This is a saving of approximately $80,000 to $100,000.

Proposed Junior College To Have Profound Impact

Many residents of Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer and Oldham Counties noticed recently that this particular area has been officially selected for the location of a junior college, but not many of us are fully aware of the import connected with location of the school, which is designated as "Region No. 5" in a maze of 53 junior colleges which is expected to cover the entire state.

Because the idea comes nearer to bring college within the means of everyone than any development since organization of Texas" vast high school system, we reprint the following article by Mary Jane Bode, which appeared recentley in the Texas Co-Op Power, monthly magazine:

* Austin — a public junior college within daily bus or driving distance of every Texan is the anounced goal of the Coordinating Board, Texas' College and University System.

And the Board's new master plan, adopted January 15, is not a "someday" kind of thing. It can be achieved, the Board believes, "within the next decade."

The plan, admittedly flexible, proposes 53 community junior college geographic regions for Texas, with 73 public junior college campuses where there are now 39.

The idea is to make post high school education available to everybody, and with junior college enrollment increasing as it is — 20 percent per year, Higher Education Commissioner Dr. Jack Williams predicts that the current enrollment of 76,000 students on 39 junior college campuses can grow to 305,000 students on 73 campuses by 1985.

Ironically a similar proposal to put a junior college at everybody's bus stop was made in 1955 by then Representative Jerry Sadler, now State Land Commissioner, but rejected as "too advanced."

Now, a dozen years later, the ideal is considered to be lagging so far behind need that implementation of the plan is "urgent."

The Board is urging that junior colleges "be established with all reasonable speed in Regions 1 (El Paso and Hudspeth counties,) 24 (Travis, Williamson, and Bastrop counties), 42 (the Houston area not now in a junior college district), and 43 (Jefferson and Orange counties and the east half of Chambers.)

To make it easy to establish community colleges, the Board would require an enrollment of 500 full time students by the time a new school reached its third quarter, compared to the national requirement of 1,000 full time student equivalents.

To make it easy to finance community colleges, the Board proposes to "offer aid and encouragement" to existing junior colleges to expand their tax districts.

To make it easy to attend community colleges, the Board promises an "open door" admissions system to give as Coordinating Board Chairman John Gray of Beaumont put it, "everybody an opportunity to succeed or fail by his own efforts."

But there is no way to make it easy to get a junior college education. The plan insists on "expert and dedicated teaching and extensive counseling" in every junior college, with a master's degree or its experience equivalent the minimum requirement for instructors.

Erasure of the 'technical-academic dichotomy," under which students in vocational and senior college preparation divisons never feel a kinship, is proposed.

But at the same time, "transfer level" programs, technical programs leading to associate degrees or certificates, and occupationally-oriented programs would all be offered, as well as continuing education of adults and public service programs.

The community junior college's role of providing technical and ocupational programs is no less important than the academic role, the plan declares.

"Technical-occupational programs should be undertaken only with clear reference to state and area need, and with particular emphasis on the latter."

To insure integration with the local economy, continuing surveys of known and projected employment opportunities are proposed on a state-local matching funds basis.

The plan does not countenance any more changeovers of junior colleges to senior college status. Dr. Williams promises:

"There is no way junior college work can be done by senior colleges. They have different roles, different emphases. The staff believes junior colleges should not become senior colleges. If the staff is dogmatic about anything, this is it. Junior colleges offer educational maturity to those people who will not, cannot, go to senior college."

Now that the junior college master plan has been adopted, the Coordinating Board is proceeding with a senior college plan, and when that is accomplished, a university plan will be undertaken.

While the junior college plan is the foundation for the pyramid of Texas' educational ambitions, it is not concrete. The plan is "flexible," Williams insists, because the Board knows it may be subject to some revision as regional junior college plans evolve at the grass roots level.

There Ought To Be . . .

We have all heard the phrase "there ought to be a law." It pops out of our mouths almost automatically now whenever something occurs that we personally do not think should be permitted. This psychological confession of willingness to accede to government fiat is no longer a joke. Nearly 16,000 bills have been introduced to Congress so far this year. When these are added to the blizzard of laws that sweep through legislatures of the 50 states, the total becomes awesome. Included in the deluge are all the spending measures.

It is useless to blame our elected representatives for grinding out more laws that can be administered, enforced or paid for, as long as the performance of Congress and the legislatures are judged by the number of bills that go through their hoppers. They are only responding to "there ought to be a law" psychology. The next time you are tempted to use the phrase, stop and think. Do you mean it?

High Officials Attempt To Spice Speeches With Humor

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Speech making can be a rather grim business, especially for Federal officials who must answer frequently the call of duty to the podium. Some of them try to lighten their message with a bit of humor.

President Johnson, for example, often opens his remarks with a small witticism, usually topical and homespun. In a talk to business executives attending a recent foreign policy briefing at the State Department, he began with four straight jokes, two of them involving Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

According to the President, Rusk asked for an office with a view and was given a suite on the seventh floor. He also requested the windows to be sealed. When asked why, according to LBJ, Rusk explained: "It is too far to jump and too high for the pickets to climb."

The office did not prove too high for the birds, the President added, and they flock to his window sill. The Secretary brings bread crumbs to feed them, and the sparrows and starlings are very appreciative. But, Mr. Johson noted, "there is just no pleasing the appetites of these doves and hawks."

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd told of seeing a public service advertisement in a New York subway, urging vocational training. The ad showed a picture of a computer brain and asked: "What will you do when this circuit learns your job?" According to Boyd, a subway rider scrawled this response on the poster: "Become a circuit breaker."

Freeman Is Champion

Undoubted champion of the Cabinet in number of stories told is Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. He makes a habit of warming up his audience in the opening minute with a story, and along about Page 7 of his manuscript he is likely to throw in another gag.

Recently he told of the railroad superintendent who received a note from a foreman. It said: "I am sending in the report on Casey's foot, which was damaged when he hit it with a sledgehammer. Now there's a place on this report for Remarks. Whose remark do you want,, mine or Casey's?"

Secretary Freeman told on another occasion of the stranger seeking a church to attend. He stood in the doorway of one church and heard the clergyman and congregation reading: "We have left undone the things we ought to have done and we have done things we ought not to have done." The visitor took a seat, saying to himself: "Thank goodness, I've found my crowd at last."

Freeman is a crusader for keeping rural people on the farm. Often he finds a story with a moral he can stress. For example, he told a tale of a father being pestered by his young son, who had nothing to do. In desperation for a little peace, the father tore a map of the U. S. into many pieces and told the boy to "put the country back together again."

In an amazingly short time the boy had completed the home-made jigsaw puzzle. The father was impressed by his son's quickness and knowledge of geography and sought an explanation. The boy answered: "I remembered that in the back side

Dear editar:

I had started to use a copy of the New York Times to start a fire in my fireplace the other morning, I like to be fair about such things and while it's true I have kidded the big dailies some I'll have to admit that when it comes to starting a fire on a cold winter morning The New York Times is better than The Hereford Brand, although when it comes to settling back in the warmth and finding out what's happening around here, The Hereford Brand wins out every time, when I noticed a headline on the front page.

I tore it out and used the rest of the paper to start the fire, and after the wood caught sat back and read this article, which reported that a man running for office in this Presidential election year said:

"My fellow Americans, I believe the time has come when the government ought to be given back to the people."

I didn't think much about this until a little later in the day and then it hit me.

Whoa, I said. Hold on there just a minute. I'm not sure I want it.

If somebody offered you an enterprise which was head over heels in debt, was operating on borrowed money, and was living way beyond its income, would you be interested in having it thrown in your lap?

You take a government which is over a hundred billion dollars in debt on the national level, no telling how many other billions on the state and local level, and I don't believe I'd be interested in taking it over.

Understand, I don't blame a politician for wanting to get rid of it, but don't unload it on me.

If there ever was a time when a gift horse ought to be looked in the mouth, this is it.

I sympathize with all officials on all levels of government, if I was in their shoes I'd want to give it back to the people too, but I'm sorry to have to report to them that I'm just not in financial shape to take the government back at this time.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Who Wants To Stay 'Down On The Farm'

Maintaining that the old-fashioned family farmers represent the "salt of the earth," some people herald the downward spiral of farm population as certain decay in the American social structure. If this is true, then we are rotten to the core. Nobody wants to stay down on the farm.

The solution to the problem lies in more government programs, according to some ideas. But the more Unle Sam tried to help, the longer he puts off the problem. Agriculture isn't economically efficient; we're keeping too many people down on the farm.

Good fierce competition and private enterprise will not allow the family farmer an existence. This is in spite of the fact that farmers' productivity is up. Unfortunately for their own well-being, farmers have a parity dropping into depression levels; grocery bills for city folks are taking a proportionately small share of their wages.

For citizens demanding less government interference and more free enterprise, there is a solution for the farm problem; quit trying. Why bother with subsidizing something forever.

This may be demoralizing for those who want son to come home to take over the family farm. But consider: when a business can't make a living profit on its own, is there just cause for the government's giving direct aid forever.

Thr family farm is being erased across the land, not by government or decay. The change is occurring through need to improve agriculture's economic vantage point.

Big corporations do not neccessarily bring with them increased efficiency and lower prices, and big farming operations would not necessarily bring increased efficiency and lower prices. Let farming operations get really big, and oligopolies may be in the making. Consumers may spend more to eat. But if farming should become more competitive and efficient, big operations might not exact such a toll.

For those fearing the wane of agruculture's political influence, it might be pointed out that resources (such as manpower) are wasted when engaged in inefficiency. If industry continually attracts people of the farms we will improve the economic plight of individuals engaged in some form of agriculture. Aggregate farm income would not have to be split among so many people.

Why bother to keep them down on the farm as long as it's not making any money.....

Hereford is going to start bowling again. The person who broke into Dave Alexander's safe at the Hereford Lumber Yard last week may have thought his efforts were wasted when he examined his 22-cent haul. But to Alexander the contents of the safe — his personal papers, insurance, some war bonds, etc. — are worth $25. Alexander asks that the papers be mailed to him and he will mail a $25 check, made out to cash, to the return address. There certainly will be no question asked and no further efforts made to trace the safecracker, if the papers are returned, Alexander said.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

For Passengers Only

Passengers on a trolley or a train, a taxi or a bus, get more than a ride for their money. They also get the benefit of a special legal status. As passengers on a public carrier, they are entitled to an extra measure of care for their safety.

In case of accident, this privileged status may make the difference between collecting a goodly sum as damages and collecting nothing at all. But to qualify, you must indeed be a "passenger"—as that term is defined by the law.

At what moment, legally, do you become a passenger, entitled to this special protection? Consider this case:

A bus driver, failing to see a woman coming up the steps of his bus, shut the door on her leg. When she claimed damages for the resulting injury, the bus company protested that she had not acquired the status of a passenger because she had not actually entered the bus.

Nevertheless, the court upheld her claim.

"The law is not so narrow," said the judge, "as to conceive of the relation of carrier and passenger only when a person is actually on board. To the contrary, the law deems that relation to exist when one is properly on the steps entering."

On the other hand, a man waiting at a sidewalk bus stop was held not yet a passenger as the bus was pulling up to the curb. At that moment he was jostled against the bus and injured. Lacking the status of a passenger, he failed in his efforts to make the bus company pay his doctor bills.

After you are once on board, how long does the passenger status continue? Generally it ends when you disembark—but only if you are let off in a place of comparative safety.

In one case a cab driver discharged two children into a busy street, and a passing car struck them down. The cab company was duly held liable for the accident because the children, not having been delivered to a safe place, were still passengers in the eyes of the law.

If you are let off at a carrier's depot, you ordinarily remain a passenger until leaving the premises. But not if you linger there too long.

For example, a man who was injured after remaining at a bus depot for almost two hours, waiting to be picked up by a friend, was held to have lost his passenger status.

The court reasoned that, after so much delay, the man had shed his special rank and had become just another member of the public.

Q — Who can file the short form 1040A?

A — This form can be used in thr following circumstances:

1 — income is under $10,000 and

2 — income consists entirely of wages subject to withholding and not more than $200 from other wates, dividends and interest.

The form 1040A cannot be used by taxpayers who either itemize their deductions or who claim special tax credits or deductions such as the retirement income credit, sick pay exclusion, or moving expense deduction.

Further details on filing requirements are given in the instructions that accompany both the 1040 and 1040A tax forms.

Q — How do you handle medical insurance premiums under the new law?

A — One-half of the premiums paid for medical insurance up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted when you itemize your deductions. These premiums are not subject to the three percent of income limitation that applies to other medical expenses. The balance of your premiums should be included with any other medical expenses.

The $3 a month paid for supplementary benefits under Medicare qualifies for this tax treatment.

Q — Does IRS put out anything that goes into more detail than the tax instructions?

A — Yes, there are several publications.

One, "Your Federal Income Tax," provides 160 pages of detailed information. It may be purchased at local IRS offices for 50 cents.

There is also a "Tax Guide for Small Business," which costs 50 cents and a "Farmer's Tax Guide," which is available without charge.

Q — Too much was taken out for social security tax last year because I held two jobs. What should I do?

A — You can take a credit for the excess social security tax withheld by entering it on line 18 of Form 1040.

Q — My company paid my salary while I was recovering from a serious operation in the hospital last year. Can you tell me whether I have to pay tax on my pay for that time?

A — It depends on how much you received in pay for the time you were out. If your company paid you over 75 percent of your regular salary while you were sick then there is a 30-day waiting period before any of your pay may be excluded from income. After the 30-day period, you may exclude up to $100 a week from your income as sick pay.

If you received 75 per cent or less of your regular pay, you will have no waiting period. Then you may exclude up to $75 a week. After 30 days, you may exclude up to $100 a week as sick pay. If you had not been hospitalized, you would have a seven-day waiting period.

This provision of the law is explained at greater length in the 1040 instructions so be sure to check them if you think you are entitled to claim this exclusion.

Q — I support the child of my divorced daughter. Can I claim the child as a dependent even though she does not live with me?

A — Generally, you can if you provide more than one-half the child's support and the child was either a citizen or resident of the U. S., did not file a joint return and had gross income of less than $600.

The dependency requirements are covered in the 1040 tax instructions.

The first edition of the Hereford Reporter came off the presses in 1901. It continues today as the Hereford Brand.

SS Amendments After Medicare

Several changes were made in the Medicare program in the social security amendments enacted in January, Travis C. Briggs, manager of the Amarillo social security office said today.

90 additional days of hospital care has been added. These additional days are a "lifetime reserve" a patient can draw on if they have used their 90 days in a spell of illness. For the added 60 days, the patient will pay $10 a day. As the law now stands, medicare pays all covered expenses for the first 60 days, except the $40 deductible. From 60 to 90 days, medicare pays the covered expenses except for $10 a day payable by the patient. Now, with the added 60 days, the patient can stay up to 150 days, paying $20 a day for the last 60 days.

Once the patient has used his 60 days "lifetime reserve", he will not have these days of covered hospitalization again.

Medicare beneficiaries who were patients in non-participating hospitals in the period from July 1, 1966 to December 31, 1967 can now receive partial reimbursement for their hospital expenses. They should ask their social security office to help them apply for this.

Doctor bills and other medical expenses may be paid in part by medicare with the doctor or supplier accepting assignment and being paid his share by medicare directly. A patient may also file claim himself with an itemized bill showing the services received. The bill may or may not have been paid first before claim is made for the medicare payment.

Needed medical equipment, such as wheelchairs, beds, etc., may be purchased instead of rented if the beneficiary so decides. If the equipment is purchased on a time payment plan, monthly installments may be submitted to medicare for the period of time the equipment is medically necessary. Patients now renting equipment can change to the purchase method. A physician must certify the equipment is necessary.

Certain podiatrists services are now covered under the medical part of medicare. Reimbursement may be made for diagnosis and treatment of foot disorders. Treatment of flat feet and routine foot care is not coverod.

Your family will applaud that broiled fish if you serve it topped with slices of crisp bacon.

When you are stuffing cabbage leaves — usually this means with a ground beef and rice mixture — be sure to cut away the heavy stem part from each leaf.

Latter-Day Saints Have Two New Elders In Church

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Hereford announced the arrival of two new Elders this week. They are Elder Dwayne Overholser from Snohomish, Washington, and Elder Barry L. Wright, San Anselmo, California.

They are in addition to President and Mrs. Marvin C. Cartwright who preside over the church at 500 Country Club Dr. The Cartwrights are from American Fork, Utah, and have been in Hereford several months.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints has experienced phenomial growth here in Texas, according to President Cartwright, as it has in many other areas of the world. The item of interest to more than 30,000 members in the state is the recent division of the Texas Mission into the Texas and the Texas South Missions.

A mission in the Church is an ecclesiastical area in which the functions of the church in that area are presided over by a Mission President. In a mission an unspecified number of missionary pairs work in proselyting activities.

During November 1967 a meeting was held at Lubbock with Elder Richard L. Evans, a member of the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and Elder Bernard P. Brockbank, an assistant to the Council of the Twelve. With them was President Verl F. Scott of the Western States Mission; President Dean L. Larsen of the Spanish-American Mission; and President Elliot C. Howe of the Texas Mission.

At this meeting the proposed division of the Texas Mission was discussed. The division went into effect during the latter part of December. The new boundaries run from above Nacogdoches to just below the Big Bend National Park.

The Texas Mission now has 177 fulltime unpaid missionaries, and the Texas South Mission has approximately 181 fulltime unpaid missionaries in the field. The missionaries in these missions spend 2 years as missionaries for the Church. It is voluntary and they must pay their own way.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints is also known from their nickname as Morman.

"It is a pleasure to work here in Texas because the people for the most part are God fearing and humble," said Howe, president of the Texas Mission. "They are religious and want to hear the wonderful message of the restoration of the Church and Gospel of Jesus Christ in these the Latter Days."

Local president Cartwright said, "We love the people here in Hereford and are enjoying our stay very much."

Regional Stories Frequent

Often stories by Federal officials are tailored for a hometown audience. For example, in a New York City speech, Federal Highway Administrator Lowell K. Bridwell told a tale that might not be understood far from Broadway. It concerned the Martian spaceship that landed in Gotham on a goodwill visit, only to learn that the return flight could not be begun until a vital part of the craft could be replaced.

A search of Manhattan store windows proved fruitless until one man from Mars spotted an exact replica in a delicatessen store. He bought it and learned it was a bagel. Persuaded to buy a second one and eat it, the Martin remarked: "You know this would go good with lox and cream cheese."

'68 Seniors Entertained With Dinner

Prospective 1968 graduates of Hereford High School who are members of the Church of Christ were honor guests at a dinner given by the Lubbock Christian College Association at Community Center. Parents of the students were also special guests for the annual event.

Mrs. Burke Inman Jr. presided for the program, which featured songs by Mike Myers of Canyon, former LCC student. It closed with a brief devotional talk by Gene Fooks minister of Central Church of Christ.

Tables were decorated in gay orange and white with a large feather arrangement on the head table and candles on the others.

Senior class members present were Levenie Benefield, David Bosley, Linda Brooks, Connie Bryant, Carolyn Collier, Glenda Sue Dillard, Diana French, Suzanne Hart, Bryan Knox, Katie Laine, Cecelia Packard, Lowell Wiggains and Penny Young.

I. N. Dillard was one of a group of five who bought the first of the XIT land to be sold when it was dispersed in 1900.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Recently an incident which I think is of concern to most everyone in Hereford came to my attention.

It seems one who is so unfortunate as to die when the streets are wet from a prolonged rainy spell is denied the questionable honor to lie in state at the local funeral home.

The owner of said establishment fears for the carpet in the chapel!

This actually happened! In Hereford Sunday before last!

The bereaved family had to call an out of town mortuary.

A member of said family, being of comfortable means, even offered to put up a generous deposit to pay for cleaning or damage incurred by this precious carpet — to no avail.

Could it be because the bereaved family is of Latin American descent? Perhaps not. Perhaps this particular mortician actually did fear for his carpet.

I didn't know the deceased. Nor do I know the whole family. But those I do know, a brother and two sisters, are intelligent, honest, and industrious, a definite asset to the community. I am proud they are my friends.

I, for one, would appreciate much if your paper would call this atrocity to the attention of your public.

Thank you,

Jim Davis

Wrecks Cause Minor Damages

Two accidents occured over the weekend on 25 Mile Ave. resulting in damages to the vehicles involved.

On Saturday at 3:23 p.m. the police investigated an accident which involved two cars traveling in the same direction. A 1962 Pontiac was in the inside lane next to the yellow strip as a 1950 Ford began making a left turn into a private drive 100 feet south of Fuller. It was made from the wrong lane, according to officers, into the path of the car in the outside lane, with the Pontiac striking the left side of the Ford.

Drivers of the cars were James Ebby Tollett, 84, 615 25 Mile Ave. and Lee L. Leatherman, 50, 503 25 Mile Ave. The Pontiac received $125 in damages and the Ford $100. A citation for improper left turn was issued.

On Monday at 9:55 a.m. a Chevrolet pickup backed up in the outside lane of southbound traffic in the 100 block of 25 Mile Ave., in order to enter the Catholic Church parking lot. A 1967 Plymouth, making a left turn into the parking lot at the same time, struck the left rear fender of the 1967 Chevy.

The drivers were Paul Zinser, Rt. 5, Hereford, and Velma B. Warren, Rt. 2, Hereford. Damages amounted to $115.

The site of the latter accident was 175 feet north of Park Ave. A citation for negligent collision by improper observation while backing was issued.

Farm Bureau To Seek Members

Craig Thomas, new executive assistant to the president of the Texas Farm Bureau, will be speaker during a breakfast Tuesday morning whick will kick off a weeklong membership drive.

The breakfast will begin at 7 a. m. in the Hickory Log.

The local bureau is made up of members from Deaf Smith and Oldham counties. Persons from Parmer and Castro counties are invited to attend.

The membership drive will follow the breakfast, with each present members calling on prospective members by geographical area.

Any farmer interested in joining the Farm Bureau who is not contacted may call Bill Walden, county president; Bill Kahlick, county membership chairman, or go by the office on Harrison Highway.

"Farmers and ranchers have recognized the value of joining together in an organized effort to promote and protect their interests and we believe Farm Bureau is an organization in which we still have a voice in agriculture," said Walden.

Jeff T. Gilbreath first came to Deaf Smith County in 1899 because his father, J. A. Gilbreath, thought the High Plains a land of opportunity.

H. L. (Lee) Goats came to the Panhandle in the 1880's and operated a freight line from Amarillo to La Plata in the 1890's.

Check Water For Purity

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Some reports have come to the office in regard to the contamination of water for domestic use. Impure water can cause many very disagreeable things. Here is a check list for safe water supply. See how your domestic water supply rates.

WELL SUPPLY

IS YOUR WELL located at least 150 feet from the nearest point of human or household waste disposal facility, animal or poultry shelters and other sources of possible pollution?

Is an abandoned well nearby, and if so, has it been properly sealed to prevent possible contamination of the water producing stratum.

Is the well so located that run-of waters are diverted from it and is the well at an elevation that will prevent its flooding by a nearby stream or drainage ditch?

Is a water-tight, impervious covering provided to exclude contamination of the well by surface drainage, stuffing box leakage, dust, insects, small animals and other foreign material?

HAS YOUR WELL been cased or curbed to exclude surface drainage and seepage water originating nearby?

Is the seal between your pump and the well casing or concrete cover adequate to prevent contamination of the well water?

Have you investigated the possibility of constructing a deep well rather than using water from a shallow formation?

Has your well been constructed or repaired recently? If so, have the well and piping system been disinfected with a chlorine solution since this work was performed?

WINDMILLS

DOES YOUR WINDMILL installation provide adequate protection of the water formation from surface drainage and waste water from the hydrant which may be installed on the riser pipe?

When new leather cups were placed in the pump cylinder, was the assembled cylinder submerged in a chlorine solution (40-50 p. p. m.) for at least one hour? This procedure is recommended since the presence of leather cups foster the growth of coliform organisms.

ALL WATER SUPPLIES

HAVE ALL WATER storage tanks been provided with tight fitting covers to exclude contamination and to prevent the presence of "red worms" and algal growths in the water?

Are all stock watering tanks or troughs supplied by allowing the water to spill into them? Submerged supply lines may cause your water system to become contaminated.

Have you submitted a sample of your water to the State Department of Health Laboratories for bacteriological analysis?

Come to the Extension Office for a bottle to send a water sample for analysis. Do not take a chance for diseases caused by water-borne bacteria.

Farmers Union To Begin Drive

The Deaf Smith County Farmers Union will kickoff a membership drive Monday with a breakfast at the Hickory Log beginning at 7 a. m.

Speaker for the meeting wil be Tom Cherry of Lubbock. The drive will continue throughout this month.

The nickname "wildcatter" for an oil driller was coined by pioneers of the American oil industry. In remote areas of Pennsylvania, wild cats fought at night over food scraps left by daytime drilling crews.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

AUSTIN — The number of cases of draft delinquency in Texas increased from 959 to 1,028 in the last quarter of 1967, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, has announced.

But the number of these cases involving failure to report for induction into the military service decreased from 547 to 511, the summary of delinquencies to the director of Selective Service showed.

Analysis of the reports from the state's 155 draft boards revealed that 569 men were listed as having been reported to United States attorneys for various failures to comply with the draft law and its regulations. All these were not reported in the final quarter of 1967, as the list is cumulative.

A total of 889 names was on the delinquent lists from Houston-Baytown, Dallas, and San Antonio, with 321 of these cases having been referred to federal attorneys.

Twenty boards, located at Lufkin, Pleasanton, Coleman, Van Horn, Eastland, Fairfield, Sulphur Springs, Benjamin, Lampasas, Groesbeck, Bowie, Robstown, Clarksville, Henderson, Abilene, San Angelo, Canton, Graham, Gainesville, and Calvert, reported no delinquencies.

The Selective Service regulations define a "delinquent" as "a person required to be registered under the Selective Service law who fails or neglects to perform any duty required of him under the provisions of the Selective Service law."

REC Sets Deadline On Speech Contest

February 19 is the deadline set by the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative for their annual speech contest, which is held every year in March.

For this contest, students must compete in a local contest with other students in their high school and a 5 to 8 minute speech on "My Future In Rural Texas" is required. The winners (one boy and one girl) are then sent to an area contest which includes contestants from the towns of Dimmitt, Friona, Bovina, Hereford, and Farwell.

The two winners in this contest enjoy a 13-day, expense-paid trip to the nations capitol, Washington D. C. The two winners meet with 98 other students in Dallas, travel by chartered bus to Washington and meet some 800 other students from different states who have received the same honors from the REC contests.

A few of the interesting places that will be visited are George Washington's Mount Vernon Home, Arington National Cemetery, House and Senate in action the U. S. Department of Agriculture, (under which the REC operates), the National Rural Electric Office, and the Smithsonian Institute.

Anyone wishing to enter this contest should contact Ray Simpson, manager of Rural Electric or their high school principal. A student cannot be 18 years old prior to the date September 1, 1968.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

TREE OF JUSTICE — In 1850, following an historic court session in Athens, Henderson County, District Judge O. M. Roberts wrote into the record:

"This court is being held under the shade of an oak tree near the center of the public square in Athens which public authorities are requested to preserve as a memorial to the habits of early Texans."

The tree was preserved, but a courthouse fire in 1886 killed it. Henderson County residents saved a limb, however, and fashioned it into a walking stick. They gave it to Roberts, then a state Supreme Court justice.

Later, as Governor of Texas, Roberts visited Athens and again reminded the citizens that they should mark the historic site where he had once held "open" court. Last fall, 117 years after the court session was held, an historical marker finally was placed on a 316-year-old oak on the courthouse square that somehow survived the 1886 fire.

TRAVELING TEXAS — It's worth a trip to Corsicana to see a herd of the smallest adult mules in the world.

Lee McNutt, Sr., owns the 14 minature animals, the tallest of which is only 30 inches high. He created the herd by breeding a tiny jackass imported from Sicily with miniature Shetland mares.

* * * * *

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Texas' last big Indian fight took its greatest toll in horses.

In August, 1863, troops from Fort Clark, under Major General Ranolad MacKenzie were ordered to round up raiding Kiowas, Cheyennes and Arapahoes led by Lone Wolf, the Kiowa chief. MacKenzie found the Indians at Palo Duro Canyon on September 28.

In the resulting skirmish between tired soldiers and confused Indians, four Indians were killed. There was no loss of troops. The fleeing Indians left 1,400 horses behind, however, and MacKenzie ordered them shot.

There were a few minor Indian clashes in subsequent years, but the Palo Duro battle was the last big fight between the white and red man in Texas.

TELL ME NO LIES — Sheriff Phil Medlin of Seguin, Guadalupe County, sometimes uses a crystall ball to wheedle confessions out of lawbreakers.

The sheriff hauls the ball out of his desk and tells the suspect: "You might as well come clean. This ball will show me just what happened."

By the time he recites the information he already has on the case — apparently getting it from the crystal ball — the shaken offender usually decides that the sheriff has some mystic powers and spills all he knows.

Back in 1944, John Randolph of Tomball, Harris County, put together a book of these boasts which he called simply "Texas Brags." To date, it has sold more than one million copies and is still going strong.

NOVELS WORTH READING TWICE.

Of course all the classics are considered worth reading more than once. But for the present day books, especially novels, few people read a book more than one time.

The past year brought a resurgence of reading interest and recommendation of a certain book's worth. At the holiday time it was on the highly-recommended-list as a gift in our area stores.

Love Is a Wild Assault by Elithe Hamilton Kirkland is believed by many to have attracted few readers when published because of the title. But once people read and began to discuss it, the book's popularity has grown.

Since the book is about the man, Potter, for whom Amarillo's county is named, it is of particular interest to us. Just as Deaf Smith County was named for a Texas scout in our war for independence, Potter was a military man in early Texas history. At the forming of new counties in Texas many were named for heroes or military leaders. Hereford even has some streets named for these men and if you remember your Texas history you can pick them out.

This book is a gripping story of a strong brave woman and to us, she is the real protagonist, rather than Potter. It takes a story like this one to help us to realize the courage of the pioneer woman.

Another book which we could reread is Gone With the Wind by Margaret Mitchell. Though by critics it is considered poorly written and rambling. But because of the history it portrays and the action that keeps us tense-and for the history of the Civil War in the south we know no other book which is as exciting. The author spent a life time collecting and writing the book.

A newcomer to the list is a more recent book of Christy by Catherine Marshall. This is a story, with a different time and locale. And since the writer has recently reviewed the book we will not add more.

Concerning Veterans

VA loan activity in 1967 was substantially higher than in 1966 for all categories, the Veterans Administration announced today.

Seasonally adjusted appraisal requests, however, declined for the second straight month, probably reflecting increasing costs and declining availability of mortgage funds. But VA housing starts, seasonally adjusted, increased from November.

VA housing starts in 1967 totalled 52,517, up 42.9 percent from the 1966 total of 36,750; applications for home loan guaranty went up to 249,116 in 1967, a 36.5 percent increase from 182,476 in 1966. Appraisal requests for new homes totalled 124,270 in 1967, up 25.3 percent from 99,211 in 1966. Appraisal requests for existing homes amounted to 229,096 in 1967, up 43.7 percent from 159,441 in 1966.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for VA housing starts was 56,000 in December, compared to 54,000 in November. Appraisal requests for new homes on a seasonally adjusted basis were 125,000 in December, down 8.1 percent from 136,000 in November. The seasonally adjusted annual rate for appraisal requests for existing homes was 194,000 in December, down 6.3 percent from 207,000 in November.

Veterans interested in securing a loan should contact their local VA office.

Jerry Coulter Completes Basic

Jerry Don Coulter, son of Dave Coulter of Muleshoe, completed basic training at Fort Polk, Louisiana Jan. 19 and is now going through AIT.

Coulter, who went into the service on Nov.2, will spend four weeks at Fort Polk in Advanced Individual Training and then will be stationed elsewhere for additional business training.

Coulter's wife, Carolyn, visited him from Jan. 17 until Jan. 20 and is now back in Hereford. She is the daughter of A. D. Cowley of Hereford.

Minnie Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Cox, was Deaf Smith County's first white bride on record. She was married to Cal Walker on Jan. 14, 1890.

The Wyche school was named for John S. Wyche, who came to Deaf Smith from Castro County in 1895.

Income Tax Facts

New rules for claiming dependents where the parents are divorced or separated is one of the principal tax law changes for 1967, according to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director for the Northern half of Texas.

Generally, the parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the deduction. However, there are certain situations which are exceptions to the general rule. The parent not having custody (or having it for the lesser period of time) is entitled to the dependency if:

(1) They contributed at least $600 toward support of the child and the divorce decree or written agreement specifies that they are entitled to the deduction — or

(2) They provide more than $1200 of child support and the parent having custody does not clearly establish that they provided a greater share of the support of the child (or children).

Contrary to past practice, if both parents claim the dependent, each is entitled to receive an itemized statement of the expenditures upon which the other parent's claim of support is based.

Mr. Campbell points out that the determination of dependency under these rules also applies to all other dependency provisions, such as medical expense deduction. The new rules do not apply if a third party provides principal (more than half) of the child's support. "Unfortunately, claims to the dependency from both parents in divorce or separation cases have often created bitterness between the parents. We believe that the new rules will help them settle the dependency question."

Parents planning to claim this type of dependecny will find a full explanation in Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," price 50 cents, available at Internal Revenue Offices.

Concerning Veterans

Some 162,180 Texas veterans holding United States Government Life Insurance and National Service Life Insurance policies will receive $8,755,787 in dividends in 1968, Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco VA Regional Office, said today.

The first dividend checks went out January 1. All dividends will be paid on the anniversary date of the veteran's GI insurance policy, Coker explained.

For 8,293 World War I veterans in Texas, the dividend on USGLI policies will total $656,475, with payments averaging $79. The 1967 USGLI dividend averaged $3 less, Coker said.

The 1968 NSLI dividend for 153,887 Texas World War II and Korean Conflict veterans will total $8,099,312. Coker said that the average dividend payment of $52 on NSLI policies is $6 higher than last year's dividend.

The Waco VA Regional Office manager explained that the USGLI and NSLI dividends will vary according to plan, age, and amount of insurance coverage.

He pointed out, however, that veterans who converted their GI insurance to permanent plans will receive higher divdends in 1968 of increased interest earnings on reserves.

According to Coker, modified life insurance policies will not share in this year's dividend since premium rates for veterans holding these policies are so near actual costs that no surplus has accumulated.

Nationally, about half of the four million World War II NSLI policies are "permanent plan," Coker explained. By contrast, he said, all but 2,500 of the USGLI policies held by 190,000 World War I veterans are permanent plans.

The 1968 dividend will mark the 19th straight year in which an annual dividend has been paid on NSLI policies. It will also bring to approximately $7.2 billion the amount of dividends paid on NSLI policies since 1950.

Coker pointed out that dividends were first paid on USGLI policies in 1919. Since that time, he said, about $700 million in USGLI dividends, including the 1968 payment, have been paid.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

AUSTIN — The number of cases of draft delinquency in Texas increased from 959 to 1,028 in the last quarter of 1967, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, has announced.

But the number of these cases involving failure to report for induction into the military service decreased from 547 to 511, the summary of delinquencies to the director of Selective Service showed.

Analysis of the reports from the state's 155 draft boards revealed that 569 men were listed as having been reported to United States attorneys for various failures to comply with the draft law and its regulations. All these were not reported in the final quarter of 1967, as the list is cumulative.

A total of 889 names was on the delinquent lists from Houston-Baytown, Dallas, and San Antonio, with 321 of these cases having been referred to federal attorneys.

Twenty boards, located at Lufkin, Pleasanton, Coleman, Van Horn, Eastland, Fairfield, Sulphur Springs, Benjamin, Lampasas, Groesbeck, Bowie, Robstown, Clarksville, Henderson, Abilene, San Angelo, Canton, Graham, Gainesville, and Calvert, reported no delinquencies.

The Selective Service regulations define a "delinquent" as "a person required to be registered under the Selective Service law who fails or neglects to perform any duty required of him under the provisions of the Selective Service law."

REC Sets Deadline On Speech Contest

February 19 is the deadline set by the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative for their annual speech contest, which is held every year in March.

For this contest, students must compete in a local contest with other students in their high school and a 5 to 8 minute speech on "My Future In Rural Texas" is required. The winners (one boy and one girl) are then sent to an area contest which includes contestants from the towns of Dimmitt, Friona, Bovina, Hereford, and Farwell.

The two winners in this contest enjoy a 13-day, expense-paid trip to the nations capitol, Washington D. C. The two winners meet with 98 other students in Dallas, travel by chartered bus to Washington and meet some 800 other students from different states who have received the same honors from the REC contests.

A few of the interesting places that will be visited are George Washington's Mount Vernon Home, Arington National Cemetery, House and Senate in action the U. S. Department of Agriculture, (under which the REC operates), the National Rural Electric Office, and the Smithsonian Institute.

Anyone wishing to enter this contest should contact Ray Simpson, manager of Rural Electric or their high school principal. A student cannot be 18 years old prior to the date September 1, 1968.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

TREE OF JUSTICE — In 1850, following an historic court session in Athens, Henderson County, District Judge O. M. Roberts wrote into the record:

"This court is being held under the shade of an oak tree near the center of the public square in Athens which public authorities are requested to preserve as a memorial to the habits of early Texans."

The tree was preserved, but a courthouse fire in 1886 killed it. Henderson County residents saved a limb, however, and fashioned it into a walking stick. They gave it to Roberts, then a state Supreme Court justice.

Later, as Governor of Texas, Roberts visited Athens and again reminded the citizens that they should mark the historic site where he had once held "open" court. Last fall, 117 years after the court session was held, an historical marker finally was placed on a 316-year-old oak on the courthouse square that somehow survived the 1886 fire.

Lee McNutt, Sr., owns the 14 minature animals, the tallest of which is only 30 inches high. He created the herd by breeding a tiny jackass imported from Sicily with miniature Shetland mares.

In August, 1863, troops from Fort Clark, under Major General Ranolad MacKenzie were ordered to round up raiding Kiowas, Cheyennes and Arapahoes led by Lone Wolf, the Kiowa chief. MacKenzie found the Indians at Palo Duro Canyon on September 28.

In the resulting skirmish between tired soldiers and confused Indians, four Indians were killed. There was no loss of troops. The fleeing Indians left 1,400 horses behind, however, and MacKenzie ordered them shot.

There were a few minor Indian clashes in subsequent years, but the Palo Duro battle was the last big fight between the white and red man in Texas.

TELL ME NO LIES — Sheriff Phil Medlin of Sequin, Guadalupe County, sometimes uses a crystall ball to wheedle confessions out of lawbreakers.

The sheriff hauls the ball out of his desk and tells the suspect: "You might as well come clean. This ball will show me just what happened."

By the time he recites the information he already has on the case — apparently getting it from the crystal ball — the shaken offender usually decides that the sheriff has some mystic powers and spills all he knows.

* * * * *

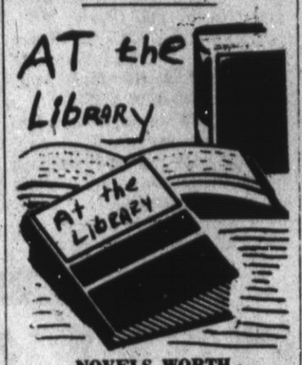
Back in 1944, John Randolph of Tomball, Harris County, put together a book of these boasts which he called simply "Texas Brags." To date, it has sold more than one million copies and is still going strong.



NOVELS WORTH READING TWICE.

Of course all the classics are considered worth reading more than once. But for the present day books, especially novels, few people read a book more than one time.

The past year brought a resurgence of reading interest and recommendation of a certain book's worth. At the holiday time it was on the highly-recommended-list as a gift in our area stores.

Love Is a Wild Assault by Elithe Hamilton Kirkland is believed by many to have attracted few readers when published because of the title. But once people read and began to discuss it, the book's popularity has grown.

Since the book is about the man, Potter, for whom Amarillo's county is named, it is of particular interest to us. Just as Deaf Smith County was named for a Texas scout in our war for independence, Potter was a military man in early Texas history. At the forming of new counties in Texas many were named for heroes or military leaders. Hereford even has some streets named for these men and if you remember your Texas history you can pick them out.

This book is a gripping story of a strong brave woman and to us, she is the real protagonist, rather than Potter. It takes a story like this one to help us to realize the courage of the pioneer woman.

Another book which we could reread is Gone With the Wind by Margaret Mitchell. Though by critics it is considered poorly written and rambling. But because of the history it portrays and the action that keeps us tense-and for the history of the Civil War in the south we know no other book which is as exciting. The author spent a life time collecting and writing the book.

A newcomer to the list is a more recent book of Christy by Catherine Marshall. This is a story with a different time and locale. And since the writer has recently reviewed the book we will not add more.

We could suggest others but will leave this thought with you so that you may make your own list.

Concerning Veterans

VA loan activity in 1967 was substantially higher than in 1966 for all categories, the Veterans Administration announced today.

Seasonally adjusted appraisal requests, however, declined for the second straight month, probably reflecting increasing costs and declining availability of mortgage funds. But VA housing starts, seasonally adjusted, increased from November.

VA housing starts in 1967 totalled 52,517, up 42.9 percent from the 1966 total of 36,750; applications for home loan guaranty went up to 249,116 in 1967, a 36.5 percent increase from 182,476 in 1966. Appraisal requests for new homes totalled 124,270 in 1967, up 25.3 percent from 99,211 in 1966. Appraisal requests for existing homes amounted to 229,096 in 1967, up 43.7 percent from 159,441 in 1966.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for VA housing starts was 56,000 in December, compared to 54,000 in November. Appraisal requests for new homes on a seasonally adjusted basis were 125,000 in December, down 8.1 percent from 136,000 in November. The seasonally adjusted annual rate for appraisal requests for existing homes was 194,000 in December, down 6.3 percent from 207,000 in November.

Veterans interested in securing a loan should contact their local VA office.

Income Tax Facts

New rules for claiming dependents where the parents are divorced or separated is one of the principal tax law changes for 1967, according to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director for the Northern half of Texas.

Generally, the parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the deduction. However, there are certain situations which are exceptions to the general rule. The parent not having custody (or having it for the lesser period of time) is entitled to the dependency if:

(1) They contributed at least $600 toward support of the child and the divorce decree or written agreement specifies that they are entitled to the deduction — or

(2) They provide more than $1200 of child support and the parent having custody does not clearly establish that they provided a greater share of the support of the child (or children).

Contrary to past practice, if both parents claim the dependent, each is entitled to receive an itemized statement of the expenditures upon which the other parent's claim of support is based.

Mr. Campbell points out that the determination of dependency under these rules also applies to all other dependency provisions, such as medical expense deduction. The new rules do not apply if a third party provides principal (more than half) of the child's support. "Unfortunately, claims to the dependency from both parents in divorce or separation cases have often created bitterness between the parents. We believe that the new rules will help them settle the dependency question."

Parents planning to claim this type of dependecny will find a full explanation in Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," price 50 cents, available at Internal Revenue Offices.

Yards and yards of material, from calico to silk, were sold to Deaf Smith County families by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stambaugh. He established a grain and feed store across the railroad track on South Main.

Concerning Veterans

Some 162,180 Texas veterans holding United States Government Life Insurance and National Service Life Insurance policies will receive $8,755,787 in dividends in 1968, Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco VA Regional Office, said today.

The first dividend checks went out January 1. All dividends will be paid on the anniversary date of the veteran's GI insurance policy, Coker explained.

For 8,293 World War I veterans in Texas, the dividend on USGLI policies will total $656,475, with payments averaging $79. The 1967 USGLI dividend averaged $3 less, Coker said.

The 1968 NSLI dividend for 153,887 Texas World War II and Korean Conflict veterans will total $8,099,312. Coker said that the average dividend payment of $52 on NSLI policies is $6 higher than last year's dividend.

The Waco VA Regional Office manager explained that the USGLI and NSLI dividends will vary according to plan, age, and amount of insurance coverage.

He pointed out, however, that veterans who converted their GI insurance to permanent plans will receive higher divdends in 1968 of increased interest earnings on reserves.

According to Coker, modified life insurance policies will not share in this year's dividend since premium rates for veterans holding these policies are so near actual costs that no surplus has accumulated.

Nationally, about half of the four million World War II NSLI policies are "permanent plan," Coker explained. By contrast, he said, all but 2,500 of the USGLI policies held by 190,000 World War I veterans are permanent plans.

The 1968 dividend will mark the 19th straight year in which an annual dividend has been paid on NSLI policies. It will also bring to approximately $7.2 billion the amount of dividends paid on NSLI policies since 1950.

Coker pointed out that dividends were first paid on USGLI policies in 1919. Since that time, he said, about $700 million in USGLI dividends, including the 1968 payment, have been paid.

Casa de Amigos

By KEITH SCHROYER

The hope for solving many of the problems of the poor, lies in education. However, another look at the Crispin Martinez family will show that all to often, this hope never materializes.

Twelve of the Martinez children are now living at home. The four oldest children are no longer going to school. Lupe 21, and Elizandro 18, both finished the 5th grade, while Irene 20, finished the 3rd grade and Silvia 16, finished the 2nd grade.

Felix, 14, is in special education classes at La Plata while three younger children, Joe 10, Alejandro 11, and Yolanda 13, are in special education classes at Northwest. Crispin, 6, just started school and is in the 1st grade at Northwest. It is important to note here that Crispin is the first of the Martinez children to have received preschool instruction and is also the first to enter a regular, rather than a special, class.

Diana and Roberto are presently in preschool while the other children are not yet old enough for school.

The reasons why four of the children did not finish school and four of the five children in school are in special education classes, are not hard to find.

First it is important to realize that a great part of the childs' education takes place before he enters school. If the reasons for the educational problems of the Martinez children, as well as the other impoverished children are to be known, it will be necessary to take a look at these early years.

Few realize the effect that the first six years have on a child. During this time the childs' natural desire to learn and curiosity come into existence. Unless the child is challenged and given the opportunity to learn at this time, it is unlikely that a desire to learn will exist when the child reaches school age. This is due to the fact that 30-35 per cent of the learning ability has either developed or been lost by the age of 6 years. If the child does not develop during this time, he could very well never recover.

In most homes this development is meticulously watched and aided by the parents. The first steps are greatly encouraged and always remembered. The general developement is closely watched and evaluated. Toys are chosen in most cases with the physical and mental development of the child in mind. A part of the childs' time is spent watching television. This in itself has increased the average vocabulary of the 6-year old from 6-8000 word to 12-18,000 words. In addition, many children attend preschool which even further prepares them for the 1st grade.

This situation which involved a great deal of parental encouragement is very different from the situation among the poor. In a large family, so often found among the poor, the number of children creates problems. In most cases these are problems of providing enough food and clothing as well as the problems of spending enough time with any particular child. In the case of the Martinez family, there is also a sizeable language barrier.

The problem of food and clothing is usually dealt with by just stretching the little that you do have. However the problem of providing those things other than food and clothing to help him as he develops is not so easily solved. The problem of personal attention involves a stretching of available time. However, in this regard, much of the care of the younger children is taken care of by the older children.

In this the parental encouragement and for the child is lost to a great extent. The problems created by the Spanish speaking home are all to often not dealt with. All of these tend to hold the child back.

But is it only the lack of things which money can buy or a lack of personal attention or a Spanish-speaking home that holds back the children of the poor and their hope for a meaningful education. It seems that these could not be the only reasons. So much which does not cost money could be given to help the child, and so much can be done with only a little time.

It also seems to be a case of not understanding what the child does need during these years, or how to best use the resources and time available.

Jim Conkwright of Hereford, along with 18 other members of the Texas Hereford Association, was elected to the board of directors of the association on Monday.

Conkwright, who will serve for a three year term, was one of the members present at the Association's Annual Meeting and Membership Meeting in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Texas in Fort Worth.

The banquet, which was attended by about 275 Hereford breeders and enthusiasts, followed the ROM Hereford judging at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Clarks Attend Nephew's Rites

Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Clark have returned after attending the funeral of his nephew, Elliott Clark, 58, of Judson. Services were in a Gilmer funeral chapel and burial in the Judson Cemetery. Britt Clark of Hereford is another uncle of Mr. Clark.

The East Texas man spent summers helping with wheat harvests on his uncles' farms in the 1920's and 1930's, when they lived in the Summerfield community. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, two sons who are both in U. S. Navy service, his mother and two brothers.
