President Calls Crisis Conference Amid Signs Of Planned Cuban Action

RED CHINESE THROW TANKS INTO BATTLE

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese Communists are using tanks on the western end of the Indian border and have launched a new attack on eastern India near Burma, an Indian spokesman said today.

The Red Chinese are concentrating their troops at another point on India's northeast border, halfway between the two places where fighting is now blazing, the spokesman said.

Reporting on the third day of fighting between Red Chinese troops and Indian soldiers along the disputed Himalayan frontier, the spokesman indicated the Chinese were still advancing. They captured four more posts at the southern end of the Ladhakh battlefield in northwest India, one post falling to tanks after they had turned back two previous Chinese assaults, he said.

MOSCOW IS SILENT

Confusion In Kremlin?

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP)—Confusion in Russian official ranks over the India-China border fighting was reflected today in the total absence again of any news in the press or on the radio about the conflict.

Not a line has been published about the fighting. The whole affair raises an acute problem for the Kremlin. Russia has a mutual assistance pact with Red China which obliges it to come to Peiping's aid in case of aggression.

That explains in part the frantic effort of the Chinese to demonstrate that the Indians attacked first.

If the Russians accepted the Chinese claim that India attacked, it would put the Soviet government in an intolerable position with respect to virtually all neutral nations. Most of them appear to feel that this time the aggression clearly has come from the Communist side.

India has been negotiating for delivery in December of a number of Soviet MIG21 fighters, the latest model out here, and for the right to manufacture them in India.

They chose the Russian MIGs in preference to American fighter planes because they could manufacture the Russian planes more easily and the price was lower. Soviet deliveries of military and other goods to China have decreased substantially for two years.

The slowdown was attributed in part to the inability of the Chinese to make payments on debts already owed Russia. But the ideological differences between the two Communist giants apparently also affected their trade and military relations although both sides continue in public to profess great love and respect for one another.

The Chinese press has been full of direct attacks on Soviet policy. The Russian press in turn has carried a number of indirect and veiled attacks against Chinese "dogmatists" who oppose Russian-American efforts to reduce their points of tension.

The Russians have been plugging Indian-Soviet friendship as a major part of their program to build up a big neutralist bloc. They have built a big steel mill, an oil refinery and a number of show projects in India. Scores of Indian students are studying in Moscow and other Soviet universities. Top-level delegations from Russia have toured India several times a year for several years.

NEIGHBOR STATES

Indian Prime Minister Nehru sought to tighten relations with neighboring Himalayan states.

Peiping radio, which says the Chinese are fighting in self-defense against Indian aggression, reported an outbreak of fighting in a new area on the north side of the border claimed by India. It said Indian troops at Hsialinkung launched "a violent attack" and that Communist troops "were compelled to hit back."

Hsialinkung is in the Chayul area of Tibet, and is about 50 miles northeast of Thagla Ridge, which India claims as her north-

NEHRU CALLS FOR ALL-OUT WAR EFFORT

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru declared today that the independence of India is threatened by Chinese Communist attack.

If necessary, everything else must be sacrificed to meet the threat to the freedom of the Indian people, Nehru said in a broadcast.

He said India is facing a "powerful and unscrupulous opponent."

Still, India Wants Red China In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—While Communist China and India battle on their border, the U.N. General Assembly opens debate today on the annual Communist attempt to seat the Chinese Reds in the United Nations.

Delegates generally predict the Communists would lose again. The Soviet Union was scheduled to lead off the afternoon debate on its resolution that would have the 109-nation assembly replace Chinese Communist delegates on all U.N. bodies.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, was believed likely to contend that the United Nations was only hurting itself by keeping out the Communist government controlling a fifth of the world's population. Nationalist Chinese delegate Liu Chieh planned to reply with the argument that the Chinese people had repudiated the Peiping regime by fleeing the Chinese mainland in droves.

Liu was expected to contend that the Chinese Communists were committing aggression against India and should be kept out of the United Nations because the U.N. charter limits the membership to "peace-loving states."

U.S. delegate Adlai E. Stevenson was listed to speak third, followed by representatives of Afghanistan and Morocco. A vote on the Soviet resolution was likely between Thursday and Monday. Many observers remarked that there seemed to be less enthusiasm for the Red China case this year than last. The Soviet resolution was defeated there 48-36, with 20 nations abstaining.

Both Communist and anti-Communist diplomats predicted the Soviet proposal would lose again, but each side was hopeful of getting a few more votes than last year.

India was considered unlikely to enter into the debate, though it was expected to vote for the Soviet resolution. Indian delegation sources said over the weekend that their government still favored seating Communist China despite their new border fighting. Until last year, the United States kept the question off the agenda each year by getting the assembly to adopt a resolution deferring consideration of the issue. Last year, realizing it no longer had the votes to block assembly debate, the United States agreed to let the matter go on the agenda.

Hoffa Goes On Trial . . .

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The conspiracy trial of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa opens in federal court today. The judge, the Justice Department and defense lawyers agree it could last into the winter.

Hoffa is accused of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, and with illegally obtaining a million dollars through a dummy company from a Michigan firm whose employees belong to the Teamsters Union.

. . . And Loses Court Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, was denied today a Supreme Court hearing on his complaint that President Kennedy and other government officials had prejudiced a grand jury against him.

The grand jury, sitting in Orlando, Fla., returned an indictment charging mail fraud against Hoffa and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit bank employee.

Counsel for Hoffa and McCarthy asked dismissal of the indictment on the ground they were deprived of a fair grand jury "through the conscious and deliberate instigation of propaganda hostile" to Hoffa by officials of the federal government.

Kennedy To Speak To Nation Today; U.S. Leaders Gather

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called a series of crisis conferences at the White House today and scheduled a radio and television address to the nation tonight on "a subject of the highest national urgency."

Speculation persisted in high quarters here that Kennedy was ready to make some dramatic move in the Cuban situation with probable impact on the Berlin crisis and possibly repercussions in the Far East.

The White House announced that the President would go on television at 7 p.m. Washington time (5 p.m. Big Spring time).

He summoned congressional leaders of both parties to an extraordinary session, rounding them up from over the country, and arranged meetings of the Cabinet and the National Security Council.

The White House, State Department, Defense Department, and other government agencies maintained strict silence on Kennedy's plans, with one exception.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester denied Sunday night that United States forces which have been massed in the Caribbean area for maneuvers around the island of Vieques at Puerto Rico would invade Cuba.

The Defense Department announced today that the practice landing of thousands of Marines at Vieques which had been scheduled for Tuesday was canceled. The department said that ships had been scattered by Hurricane Ella which recently passed near the exercise area.

Whatever the reason it was clear that the thousands of Marines and the vessels were released for other action.

White House press secretary Pieter Salinger declined to elaborate on his phrase "a subject of the highest national urgency."

He said the television and radio networks had been asked to set aside a half hour for the address to the nation. Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress were asked to report to the White House at 5 p.m. EDT.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson already was in Washington. Fifteen senators and representatives, including chairmen and top minority members of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees of Congress, were asked to attend the conference with Kennedy.

Salinger said Air Force planes were being brought to the senators and representatives to Washington where no other rapid transportation was available.

Kennedy conferred in private this morning with key administration officials, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The high level sessions were held while evidence mounted that some major international development was imminent.

While speculation during the weekend had emphasized Cuba as the likeliest source of concern, there were indications that Europe—quite possibly the storm center of Berlin—also was involved.

Among those at the White House this morning were Llewellyn Thompson, former ambassador to Russia and now a State Department adviser on the Soviet Union, and Martin Hillenbrand, director of the State Department's German Affairs Division.

For 36 hours Washington has been alive with conjecture that a new crisis was brewing in Cuba. In answer to questions, however, Salinger said he did not believe that Edward Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, participated in the White House talks this morning.

Salinger refused to answer when asked if the urgent subject covered more than one country. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, also took part in the White House deliberations before noon.

Congress members were summoned by the office of Lawrence F. O'Brien, Kennedy's chief representative at the Capitol.

Salinger declined to expand on his announcement that Kennedy had asked for broadcast time and had set a meeting of the National Security Council at 3:15 p.m. and the cabinet at 4:30 p.m.

He did say that there had been no new communication from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The Republican Congressional Committee through its chairman, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, pledged "wholehearted" Republican support for any strong stand the President wants to take on Cuba and Berlin.

Worry over the possibility of a new international crisis caused a sharp drop in the New York stock market. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in Chicago that he had been asked to fly to Washington on urgent business and that Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, assistant House GOP leader, also had been summoned.

Dirksen said he did not know what lay behind the White House call but an Air Force jet had been placed at his disposal for the trip.

Reports quickly came of the White House contacting other congressional leaders. The Indiana office of House Republican leader Charles Halleck reported a call from the White House. It was referred to Mitchell, S.D., where Halleck is campaigning. Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, hurriedly left his home in Georgia this morning. He did not reveal his destination.

In Milwaukee, Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., canceled campaign speeches and prepared to return to Washington. Wiley is the ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

NAVY FLEET NEAR CUBA DISAPPEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A practice landing by 6,000 Marines on the Caribbean island of Vieques was canceled abruptly today.

The Defense Department said the practice landing through the surf and by helicopter had been called off because the ships of the Navy's amphibious force had been scattered by a hurricane. (There had been no other reports, however, of any unusual weather activity in the area today.)

The practice landing had been scheduled for Tuesday as the climax of an antisubmarine warfare-amphibious exercise which began Oct. 15 and is due to wind up Oct. 30. The exercise involves about 40 Navy ships and 20,000 Navy and Marine men.

There was no immediate indication whether the landing might still be held before the end of the exercise period.

The cancellation came against a background of top level activity pointing to a possible major move in connection with Cuba.

Vieques, an island off Puerto Rico, is about 500 miles from the eastern end of Cuba. It is a regular training area for the Marine Corps and the Atlantic Fleet.

The big exercise which began Oct. 15 was planned last year. Similar drills have been held about once a year for some time.

United Fund Past The Halfway Mark

The United Fund campaign boosted its total collections to $59,128 during the weekend—for 57.2 per cent of the goal of $103,324.

Several divisions only recently launched their campaigns and reports from these are expected to give new impetus to the campaign. Many workers in the metropolitan division got started this morning and the school effort launched its work today.

The Big Gifts Division and Webb AFB are leading the pack in the race to meet their goals. Webb has 77.5 per cent of its goal in hand with $7,747. The Big Gifts Division has 76.9 per cent of its goal with $30,769.

The Special Gifts Division has 60.7 per cent with $6,070 collected; the Employees Division has reported 39.5 per cent with $7,713. Organized Labor Division has only 12.7 per cent with $1,902 and the Public Employees Division has totaled up $1,002 for 18.9 per cent.

Campaign leaders urged workers to make contacts and report in. The United Fund effort gives assistance to 13 local youth guidance and welfare organizations in a one-time request campaign.

Milk, Ice Fund Provides Medical Help As Well

The Milk and Ice Fund, one of the agencies covered by the United Fund, is administered by Health Nurse Bo Bowen and Fire Chief H. V. Crocker. The fund covers milk and ice for children of needy families, and for some older people where they cannot eat heavy food. Medicine is supplied to those unable to provide their own.

The nurse said the needs were provided for over 200 persons in the city each year. The fire chief said the erage milk and ice bill would run to $250, and that the medical bills ran around $50 per month.

"This is one of the important funds for needy people," Miss Bowen said.

Gilbert Ritchey Begins Work At Rehabilitation Center

Gilbert G. Ritchey, speech therapist for the Big Spring Independent School District, takes on an additional task today.

He will be the new speech therapist at the Howard County Rehabilitation Center (Crippled Children's) Center. The center has been without a therapist since Betty Hilton left at the end of July.

Ritchey will work part-time at the center, conducting classes from 4-6 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday. But other hours will be arranged if necessary.

"That depends a lot on the case load," Ritchey said.

The 24-year-old teacher has been with Big Spring public schools since September 1961, and will continue there full time. He began work here immediately after graduating from East Texas State College at Commerce. Ritchey has a bachelor's degree, majoring in speech therapy and minoring in general speech. He also attended Texas Tech one year and Arlington State one year.

He is currently enrolled during the summers at the University of Houston working on his master's degree.

Ritchey is originally from Plano, near Dallas. He and Mrs. Ritchey live on the Sterling City Route. They were married Aug. 27, 1961, the day after he graduated. She is also with the school system as a teacher of English for the seventh grade at Goliad Junior High.

Testing of children who have received treatment before at the center will be from 4-6 p.m. today, Ritchey said. New speech therapy students should call the center to set a date for testing.

Coahoma's Fire Insurance Rate Cut By State Board

Coahoma's fire insurance rate has been reduced by the state Board of Insurance effective Oct. 15, it was announced Saturday in Austin.

The cut will represent a savings of around $1,500 to Coahoma residents. The board stated that Colorado City had 30 volunteer firemen, two paid men, and three pieces of equipment. It was charged seven cents for not having enough paid men and eight cents for building law deficiency in code or enforcement.

cents which means a savings to the residents in premiums of $1,500. Del Rio rate was cut from 37 to 33 cents. This will save residents there $3,200.

Last year, Del Rio's fire premium was $80,723; Colorado City's $43,316 and Coahoma's $13,648.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported they were on their way to Washington.

Kennedy had been campaigning in Illinois for Dirksen's opponent in next month's election, Rep. Sidney R. Yates, before he interrupted his weekend of stumping for Democratic congressional candidates and returned to Washington on Saturday.

HAD "COLD"

Salinger said at the time the President had a cold and his physician suggested that he cancel the remaining engagement on his weekend political schedule.

Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was called to Washington for a weekend meeting with Rusk, informants said. They said Stevenson spent the weekend in Washington, returning to New York Sunday night.

A U.S. order cracking down on ships carrying Chinese goods expected early this week. Other activity led to speculation that Kennedy was readying a more dramatic move against the Communist regime of Fidel Castro. Among weekend developments heightening this speculation were military movements, a secret shrouded Saturday-Sunday work by Pentagon leaders and Kennedy's abrupt cancellation of a political tour on grounds he had a cold.

OTHER MOVES

Other military moves included: Round-the-clock construction work at Florida's Key West airport, 90 miles from Havana, to build a control tower said to be needed to handle a big increase in traffic. All leaves were cancelled.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department set up a briefing for reporters at 8 p.m. (EDT) tonight, an hour after President Kennedy addresses the nation. There was no statement on the nature of the briefing, but indications were that it related to possible military moves which the President might announce.

Two Robberies Are Reported

Big Spring police investigated two robberies by assault Sunday night. Two men accosted and beat Eulalio Florez in the 400 block of Northwest Fourth, and four males stopped Roy E. Allen in Birdwell Park and took his billfold.

Florez told officers he was stopped by two men and one of them asked him for a match. They then knocked him down and took all the money he had—$2.

Allen said he was going through the park on his way home, to Fifth and Lancaster, when four Latin Americans took his billfold and personal papers.

Other reports of thefts and robberies were: accelerator pedals from two cars, one owned by Lt. William F. Wesson, 426 Westover Road and the other at 1705 Thayer, from car owned by Mrs. Howard Johnson Guadalupe Paredes, 607 NW 4th, reported a tire, fishing and hunting equipment, taken from the trunk of his car.

20 Are Missing As Ocean Liner Is Abandoned

RORVIK, Norway (AP)—Rescue ships and planes found 20 bodies and at least 20 persons were missing today after the Norwegian coastal liner Sanct Svithun was abandoned in stormy seas.

Five lifeboats with a total of 48 survivors—22 passengers and 26 crewmen—were picked up in the icy Norwegian Sea. Gale force winds and poor visibility hampered rescue operations.

Agents for the liner said she carried a crew of 50, instead of 45 as first reported, but they were unable to give the exact number of passengers, as tickets could be bought aboard ship.

Military planes searched the sea off Norway's west coast. Officials said there were several small islands where some survivors may have landed.

Rescue ships reported recovering eight bodies, while a Norwegian air force flying boat reported seeing another 12 bodies in the water.

The modern 2,172-ton liner went aground Sunday night in gale force winds 4 miles south of Nordoya Lighthouse Island.

The ship, which it had pulled itself clear, but it had been holed by the grounding. Thirty minutes later it radioed that it was taking a considerable amount of water and abandonment ship was ordered.

Survivors said the steek coastal ship was still afloat when they pulled away. Electric power on board had failed, and they could not estimate how many people had managed to escape in lifeboats.

Tanker Burns

Hours after the Norwegian tanker The Boheme struck two oil barges and exploded, smoke still rises from the beached vessel along a Mississippi River bank near Lusher, La. The shattered bow is nosed against the bank and chemicals and superstructure send smoke billowing up.

Missing Sought In River Collision

LUTCHER, La. (AP)—The grim task of searching for the missing continued today after a ship-barge collision that apparently took the lives of 19 Norwegian tanker crew members.

Twelve bodies—most of them badly burned—were recovered from the Mississippi River and the charred hulk of the 13,500-ton motor tanker Boheme. Searchers sought seven others still unaccounted for.

Firefighters put out the last blaze aboard the beached ship Sunday night—about 36 hours after the tanker, bound for the continent, collided near here with a string of oil barges towed by the tug Bonnie D.

As salvage work began, the Coast Guard prepared an investigation but no hearing date was announced. A spokesman for A. O. Andersen Steamship Co., of Oslo, Norway, owner of the Boheme, said her cargo, which included a highly flammable nitrate solvent, was intact.

The spokesman said it was too early to give an estimate of damage, but fore and aft sections were badly charred. The engine room and nearby crew's quarters, where many were trapped, were heavily burned.

Burning oil from some of the four barges seeped into the channel and set the ship ablaze during the predawn hours Saturday.

Panic-stricken crewmen leaped into the flaming waters as fire roared across the Boheme's deck and explosions—apparently from the engine room—rocked the tanker. Seamen's cries could be heard from shore.

The lone identified body was that of Second Mate Hans Wollsen, 65, of Copenhagen. It was found in the river soon after the crash.

Two crewmen are in critical condition at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in New Orleans, about 30 miles south of Lusher. They are Gisle Magnusson, about 19, and Kjell Fjell, 17, both suffering from burns.

Six others, hospitalized here for treatment of minor burns and injuries, were released Sunday night. In all, 29 of about 50 aboard the tanker were reported hurt.

The Boheme's master, Capt. Rolf Gjestad of Sandefjord, Norway, and his crew attended special memorial services at the Norwegian Seaman's Church in New Orleans. Among those reported dead and missing were an Irish seaman and a Danish crewman and his wife.

An earlier theory was that a burglar or burglars who clubbed him to death, then set fire to the house to make his death appear accidental.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was sharply lower late this afternoon following President Kennedy's calling of a series of crisis conferences at the White House. Trading was heavy.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.4 million shares compared with 4.65 million Friday. Losses of key stocks went from fractions to a point or so. More volatile issues dropped several points.

The ticker tape ran as much as 19 minutes behind transactions in the biggest lag of three months, but the tape caught abreast early in the afternoon as some stocks cut their losses.

Estes Is Called To Trial On Theft Charges

TYLER (AP)—Judge Otis Dunagan called promoter Billie Sol Estes to trial today on charges of theft and swindling. The Pecos man's lawyers again sought a delay.

Judge Dunagan overruled a defense motion to bar cameras and broadcast facilities. Arguments consumed most of the morning.

Defense lawyers renewed the motion for a postponement they made successfully a month ago and wished to add to it. They contended they needed more time to prepare this motion for delay, and court was recessed until the afternoon.

Defense lawyers asked that all cameras, sound equipment and radio facilities be banned from the courtroom and began offering evidence to support their motion.

Added at the back of the courtroom since September when another effort to try Estes was made is a booth for television cameras. Four cameras were there as court convened.

Estes once headed an empire of fertilizer sales, grain storage and cotton growing. He was arrested last March on federal fraud charges, became bankrupt and faces numerous state and federal charges, many of them involving mortgages on fertilizer storage tanks.

INDIA

eastern border near the little Himalayan state of Bhutan. Indian defense officials said the Red Chinese launched a surprise attack at dawn Saturday from positions inside Indian territory.

The Chinese accused the Indians of launching hostilities. Indian defense officials admitted loss of at least seven border posts in the northeastern sector and in the Ladakh theater 900 miles to the northwest—both remote snow-covered mountainous areas.

EMERGENCY TALKS Both Prime Minister Jigme Dorji of Bhutan and the crown prince of Sikkim, Maharaja Kumar Palden Thondup Namgyal, arrived in New Delhi for emergency talks.

India is reported to have asked Bhutan for permission to send in a military defense force. Red China has claimed a part of southeastern Bhutan.

Bhutan is an independent country, but India by treaty handles its foreign relations and has a mission in the country to train its small military force. Sikkim is an Indian protectorate.

Years ago, Red China's Mao Tse-tung said both Bhutan and Sikkim should be a part of China by right of treaties with old Chinese empires.

One new Chinese objective appeared to be Chushul airfield, only air supply base for Indian troops facing the Chinese in the Ladakh theater of operations, 900 miles west of the Northeast Frontier area, which is near the airfield.

ANOTHER FRONT The Indians said fighting also continued in the Chiphchap River valley of the Ladakh front.

Each side continued to accuse the other of aggression. Chinese Communist propaganda organs hammered on charges linking the United States with the border strife.

"While intruding Indian troops are launching massive general attacks on Chinese frontier guards," the Peiping paper Ta Kung Pao said, "U.S. imperialism has come out in the open to support and encourage the Indian reactionaries."

The U.S. State Department said in a statement Sunday "our sympathy is with India as it seeks to meet this unprincipled challenge to its national integrity."

The Chinese claimed today to have captured seven Indian strongpoints in the eastern sector and several points in the Ladakh area to the west.

The Indian government has admitted its troops have been forced to fall back in the face of what were described as attacks with overwhelming strength. Various reports said four to seven strongpoints were lost.

DESPERATE WAR Leading Indian newspapers said India is in a desperate undeclared war for survival and Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said "from the way they [the Chinese] are going, there is no limit to where they may go."

Both sides have admitted heavy casualties, but no figures have been announced.

Two leaders of the Praja Socialist party who visited Prime Minister Nehru described him as only "slightly worried" and not at all "pessimistic about the ultimate outcome of the war."

Nehru had refused to negotiate the border dispute with Peiping unless the Chinese withdrew from the 51,000 square miles of territory they moved into on the two frontiers. The Chinese rejected this as blackmail. Nehru gave orders two weeks ago to India's armed forces to expel the Chinese from the disputed territory.

ENVOY RETURNS U.S. Ambassador John Galbraith, who went to London Saturday intending to stay one week, hurried back to his post, explaining "this is not a good time to be off the job."

U.S. State Department officials have expressed the belief that the conflict will not erupt into a full-scale war. They said both India and China have limited objectives. In any case, winter, with heavy snowfall, has come to the Himalayas and worsening weather within the next 10 days or two weeks normally would curtail military operations sharply.

Wealthy Man Turns Profits To Education

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—"We furnish the risk capital," says Charles S. Mott, one of the nation's richest men.

He isn't talking about a big business deal. He is talking about the things his money has helped the Flint Board of Education do for the community.

Today he was to be present at the dedication of the C. S. Mott Children's Health Center. It cost $600,000 and will provide examination, preventive and follow-up treatment for an estimated 16,000 children yearly.

The health center is a gift to the Board of Education. In 1935 Mott, now 87, organized the Mott Foundation and named the Flint Board of Education its administrator.

Annual interest on the diverse foundation holdings gave the board $1.4 million this year for pumping into the 1962-63 school budget. The health center was an extra gift.

This is the only public school system in the United States with such private support. As a result, the Flint community school program has won national endorsement. Its school buildings are conceived as neighborhood centers where the entire family may learn and play.

Some 1,200 adult education classes are available. Classes also are given to retrain workers who may find their skills obsolete in this predominantly factory town.

There are 42,138 children in the Flint public school system. Of a $19 million operating budget, about 6 per cent annually is met by the foundation.

"We do the kind of things," Mott says, "that the system could not afford."

Mott's philanthropies embrace a wide range of subjects. Sunday, for instance, he'll be dedicating the C. S. Mott Library, a $1,153,000 gift to the Board of Education.

Billy Graham Is A Big Hit In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A tall, Bible-carrying American has been in Buenos Aires three days and has swept the troubled Argentine public temporarily off its feet.

Evangelist Billy Graham, in a barrage of personal and television appearances Sunday, said he would like to "see the spiritual flame for Christ sweep across a troubled country."

"Argentina certainly has its share of difficulties," Graham said. "But like everywhere throughout the world, they are not so great that they cannot be overcome. Argentines, as we in the United States, now need a stronger push for honesty, integrity and morality."

The evangelist told newsmen on his arrival that he has more or less adopted "a hands-off policy on politics" during his Latin-American tour. "What I say can hardly conflict with the political situation of a country," he said.

Graham, who has been drawing overflow crowds everywhere, said he has come across "no antagonism whatsoever" from the Roman Catholic clergy or Catholics themselves.

DEAR ABBY To Teen, Or Not To Teen

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would quit printing all those stupid letters from teen-agers. Who cares about an idiotic 14-year-old girl who's madly "in love" with her Science teacher? Or, when a girl meets a boy in the hall, who says "hi" first? Come on, Abby, let's have some really serious problems!

DEAR ABBY: Teen-agers read your column; too, and we would like to have more letters from our age group. We aren't interested in nosy neighbors, unfaithful husbands and barking dogs. Give us more teen letters! Thank you.

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy reading your column because you get right to the point and seem to hit the nail on the head without wasting any words. Keep up that snappy style, Abby, old girl. It's very refreshing in this day and age when so many writers don't know when to quit.

DEAR ABBY: I suppose it is only natural, but I notice you always take the woman's part. Please be a little more fair-minded, Abby. Sometimes the man is right and the woman is wrong, you know.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you quit using that ridiculous high school picture of yourself? Are you afraid to let people see what you REALLY look like? You are probably an old beat-up hag of 60.

Rome Takes Church Meet In Its Stride

ROME (AP)—These are historic days for the Eternal City—these days of The Ecumenical Council, Vatican II.

There never has been such a gathering of prelates in the annals of the church of Rome. Assembled here are the spiritual leaders of 500 million people—possibly five times more than lived in Rome's whole ancient empire at its height.

How are modern Romans taking the council? School children and government employees had a day off when the council opened. Up to 150,000 Romans and tourists flocked to St. Peter's Square to see an inaugural procession of white-robed prelates.

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Anti-Polio Campaign Continues

By The Associated Press

More than 400,000 Texans in 17 counties took Sabin oral polio vaccine Sunday as the state continued its drive to stamp out all three forms of the dread disease.

Some counties offered Type II vaccine and others offered Type III. The turnout in the Type III areas was lower than for other types of vaccine in the same areas and the blame was generally put on a Public Health Service warning issued on the vaccine.

Jefferson County was the most populous county participating in the drives. Type III vaccine was distributed to 140,061 persons there.

Other counties in South Texas offering Type III vaccine and the turnout included Anderson, 11,200, and Hardin with an estimated 6,000.

Five South Texas counties offered Type II vaccine. Cherokee administered 14,302 doses and Houston 1,052. Houston County's program was a makeup session which moved the total to 12,152. Jasper, Newton and Sabine counties also participated, but no figures were immediately available on the response there.

Ranger 5 May Take Solar Orbit

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Tracking stations will determine by Tuesday whether Ranger 5 will go into orbit around the sun, its builders say.

The spacecraft, thwarted by a power failure from its intended lunar landing, passed within 450 miles of the moon Sunday, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported.

The spacecraft, 13 feet tall, was launched last Thursday at Cape Canaveral. It was supposed to televise the moon at close range and measure quakes of the lunar surface.

However, solar panels intended to power the camera and devices to correct its path failed soon after launching.

Marcy Has A P-TA Supper At School

A fund raising community supper, sponsored by the Marcy Elementary School Parents-Teachers Association, was held in the school cafeteria Friday evening.

Approximately 500 people were served, according to ticket chairman, Mrs. E. F. Sieja.

Col. Charles Head, Marcy Parent-Teachers Association president, praised Mrs. W. E. Harris, general chairman of the dinner, under whose direction the school room mothers solicited donations from members to finance the dinner.

Head thanked the school faculty and staff for their cooperation in helping the group promote the project.

Publicity was under the direction of Mrs. E. H. Crandall. The proceeds will be used to provide school equipment.

The Marcy cafeteria staff assisted in the kitchen, with serving completed by the school room mothers.

ESA Members Attend Eighth District Event

Six local women were among the 50 Epsilon Sigma Alpha members attending the Eighth District meeting at the community center in Ira Sunday afternoon.

Representing the local Alpha Chi chapter of ESA were Mrs. Roy McMullen, Mrs. Wendle Faris, Mrs. Glyn Mitchell, and Mrs. Dewey Wheat. Mrs. J. W. Dickens and Mrs. Hanson Lawhon attended from the Mu Kappa chapter.

Mrs. Dickens, chaplain, gave the invocation which opened the business meeting.

Chosen as the district project for the year was the "Hi-Sky," a girls ranch in Midland, home for wayward and unwanted girls. Each chapter in the district will give financial aid to the home with 10 per cent of the money raised to go to the state project, the Texas Rehabilitation Center at Galveston.

Two new district officers were elected. Recording secretary is Miss Faydene Hart and Mrs. Truett McCabe of Andrews will serve as treasurer.

Members of the two Snyder chapters were co-hostesses, choosing the fall football season as the theme with miniature footballs and megaphones used in centerpieces. Decorating the head table were yellow mums and fall leaves on a miniature football field.

Mrs. Wheat won the door prize, a white net poolie, and the members from Crane were awarded the travel award.

Festivities At Base

Nat Shick, retired postmaster, and Mrs. Shick, above, were among the many guests served during the Global Tasting Tea held at Webb AFB Sunday. Here they are shown being served by Mrs. Sam Mellinger who represented Morocco. Below, another one of the international booths where Mrs. Douglas Rouse, Mrs. Michael Miranda, both of France, and Mrs. Eldon W. Hager of Belgium combine their talents in a Parisienne scene to serve food from their countries. Particularly elegant was the Eiffel tower and the flower cart in a street scene. Flags of the nations and travel stickers were predominant throughout the John Lees Service Club, where the event took place.

Global Tasting Bazaar Sunday Event At Webb

John Lees Service Club was a festive scene having international decor for Sunday's Global Tasting Bazaar. Eight hundred or more persons attended, received by members of the International Wives Club.

Booths were set up with displays and food from Latvia, France, Belgium, Ireland, Japan, Denmark, India, Holland, Mexico, China, Germany, Morocco, Colombia, Panama, Cuba, Scotland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Italy and England.

An individual booth was added with a West Texas note featuring ranch fare prepared and served by Mrs. Charles Smith, attired in typical dress of the West Texan. Branding irons, etc. lent atmosphere.

National colors were used for the booth representing Poland with the IWC president, Mrs. John Woodd, serving Kapusta, Czechoslovakia. Mrs. Nath E. Roll serving filled cookies; decorative wine bottles and fruit arrangement for Italy. Mrs. Herman Burgos hostess.

France was represented by Mrs. Millard D. Rouse. Mrs. Eldon W. Hager and Mrs. Michael Miranda, serving chicken in wine. A flower cart and Eiffel tower formed a typical Parisienne background. Plaids were displayed in the booth of Scotland where Mrs. Harold Hopkins and Mrs. George Adams served lute soup.

Objects d'art from the many nations included from China lovely teakwood pieces, ebony carvings and jeweled fruit with temple vases. Mrs. William Knipp was the hostess; pewter mugs were suspended in the booth for those from England serving Sherry Trifle; Mrs. Roy Drinnen, in colorful, embroidered dress of Panama, served Arroz Con Pollo and Empanadas; Mrs. Sam Mellinger and Mrs. J. K. Kornuth displayed the flag, a burmese, candlesticks, hassocks, etc. from Morocco; wooten shoes, featured in the booth of Holland; wood carvings, Denmark; figurines, Germany; penatas, etc. from Mexico.

Mrs. Robert J. Schaffer, Mrs. Louis Viruet, Mrs. Harold Rutherford and Mrs. Everett Stout, hostesses for the booth of Japan, displayed delicate teacups and floor mats while serving the many guests.

Entertainment was provided throughout the afternoon and included performances of the more talented members. Mrs. Woodd and her son, Andrew, in Polish dress, sang and danced; Mrs. Leiland Graves, in Irish dress, folk dancing; Mrs. Kornuth of Morocco, songs; Mrs. Drinnen in a Panamanian number; and Mrs. Al Valdez, rhumba of Cuba.

Others participating were Mrs. William G. Daoust, Mrs. Leon S. Hoag, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. R. M. Clark of Germany; Mrs. Herman Hayward, Mrs. Culberto Maldonado, Mrs. John E. Strong, Mrs. James Ambrose, Mrs. Vincent Broadwater and Mrs. Clyde Cox all of England; Mrs. Thomas Sykes of Panama wearing Moia Indian costume; and Mrs. James Fagan, Colombia, in the Colombian Indian costume, who served Empanadas.

The IWC, having both civilian and military membership, has tentative plans for making the event an annual affair.

Stanley Marcus Is Called Fabric King

DALLAS — Stanley Marcus says that in India he is known as the king of shahtoosh.

Shahtoosh is a fabric so fine that a 72-inch scarf can be pulled through a finger ring. It is made from the throat wool of the Himalayan ibex goat and can be clipped only in May.

Six scarves and an original hostess gown made from the fabric will be only a few of the Far Eastern items on display in Dallas for the next two weeks.

The occasion, during which ambassadors and artists will be visitors, is the Far Eastern fortnight of Neiman-Marcus, which Marcus heads.

"I bought more shahtoosh in one day than anybody had bought in India since they threw out the last rajah," Marcus said of his buying trip to select items for the fortnight.

In addition to the shahtoosh hostess gown, there will be other fashion "one-of-a-kind" creations. The skin of a bengal tiger has been made into a rajah coat; a stole copied from an outer vestment of a Buddhist monk will be shown as a silk poncho; a 150-year-old kashmir shawl has been fashioned into a cocktail coat; a cheong blouse like those worn by Korean women will be modeled in silk.

All of the special creations and imports are expected to be sold. But probably a wider range of persons will see the daily special events brought from the Orient.

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, the charming fairy tale written by the Grimm Brothers and translated into many languages, is featured on a new set of stamps from West Germany, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The 7 pfennig plus 3 depicts the wicked queen peering into a magic mirror. The 10 pf. plus 5 shows Snow White and the seven dwarfs dining at a large table. The 20 pf. plus 10 shows Snow White eating the poisoned apple. The 40 pf. plus 20 pictures the reviving of Snow White by the handsome prince.

The additional values on this semi-postal set go to the Welfare Fund of West Germany. All the stamps are printed in four colors.

Stamp collectors will recall that West Germany issued a Red Riding Hood set in 1960 and a Hansel and Gretel set in 1961.

The United Nations will commemorate its operation in the Congo on United Nations Day (Oct. 24) with the issuance of a new stamp in two denominations. The stamp depicts a map of the world highlighting the African continent and the Congo. Designer of the new stamp is George Hamori of Australia.

First-day cover collectors can obtain their specialties by sending their remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to the U.N. Postal Administration, United Nations, N. Y.

Paraguay reports the issuance of eight new stamps to honor the U.S. astronauts John Glenn and Scott Carpenter. There are four perforated stamps showing the space capsule in flight around the earth. There are also three airmail values featuring profile portraits of Glenn and Carpenter. The Paraguay Post Office Dept., in connection with this issue, has also released souvenir sheets with appropriate illustrations.

Austria has issued a new series of stamps depicting some of its historical landmarks. The 40 Groschen red features Porcia Castle in Spittal on the Drau; 60 Groschen red-brown shows Lederer Tower in Wels; 80 Groschen yellow-brown depicts a farmhouse in Pinzgau; 1.20 Schilling purple features Kormmesser House in Bruck on the Mur; 2.20 Schilling green Beethoven House in Heiligenstadt.

United Arab Republic has issued two new commemorative sets. One set honors the first African Table Tennis Tournament. Featured on this stamp is a map of the African continent and a table tennis net. The ball is seen over the city of Alexandria. The second set honors the 38th World Shooting Championship. This stamp depicts a rifle and a target. Both of these new issues are triangular in shape.

Hold Fire On Cuban Issue, Ike Advises

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says political snipers should hold their fire while President Kennedy is trying to deal with an international crisis.

To subject him to campaign attacks while he is attempting to cope with a current foreign policy problem is to weaken and divide the nation, Eisenhower said in a taped television interview—ABC—Politics '62—broadcast Sunday.

At the same time the former president stoutly defended the Republican party's right to discuss policy matters that are history and the general long-range attitude of the nation toward its whole position in the world.

"Any pronouncements he may make respecting an impending crisis is almost sacrosanct as far as I am concerned," Eisenhower said. "If anyone argues with him, and the bigger the following this opponent gets, the more it has divided our country."

CAMPAIGN TALK

Eisenhower's comments came in the wake of congressional campaign cross-fire over the Communist regime in Cuba and the Berlin crisis. Last Monday, in a Boston speech, Eisenhower joined in the fray, criticizing Kennedy for conducting "a dreary foreign policy... too sad to talk about."

In that stinging attack, Eisenhower termed "a strange departure from fact" a quote he attributed to Kennedy that "during eight years of Republican administration our foreign policy drifted aimlessly about."

Eisenhower said Sunday: "I think that probably we have heard the last of it. At least I hope so."

Eisenhower said it was the Democrats who first brought up foreign policy, accusing his Republican administration of drifting for eight years, and that he had responded to this in his Boston remarks.

"I do not believe we should fail to discuss things that are history," Eisenhower said. "A loyal opposition has got a perfect right to discuss it without rancor."

NO COMMENT

At the same time Eisenhower brushed aside as "none of my business" a request for comment on calls by some Democrats and Republicans for an immediate invasion of Cuba.

Of the last Cuban invasion—the April 1961 Bay of Pigs fiasco—Eisenhower said he has never expressed an opinion about it at all. Noting it occurred three months after the Kennedy administration had taken over, Eisenhower said: "I do not know enough about its complete details to comment upon it, and so while others have, others of my party and I suppose some of the other party have, I have personally kept still about it."

Commenting on Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, Eisenhower said: "While it is true the activities and the actions of the man began to prove his real situation and his real intentions before I left office, the fact was that it was just something a situation we were still trying to save rather by diplomatic means than anything else."

POLICY AN ISSUE

Last Tuesday, the Republican campaign high command declared that foreign policy—Cuba in particular—is "the dominant issue of the 1962 campaign."

A formal statement, issued at GOP headquarters, declared: "If we were asked to state the issue in one word that word would be Cuba—symbol of the tragic irresolution of the administration."

Rep. William E. Miller, national party chairman, was joined in the statement by Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the Senate and House GOP campaign committees.

Reached Sunday night at Niagara Falls, N.Y., Miller said in a telephone interview there is no Republican disagreement over Cuba's place in the campaign.

"We feel we have a proper place in this country at this time to offer suggestions for dealing in the future with Cuba and the Cuban situation," Miller said.

"All we're saying is that they (the Kennedy administration) made a hell of a mistake in Cuba. If they adopt a current policy toward Cuba we'll support it. The reason we're offering suggestions is because they apparently have no policy toward Cuba, unless they're supporting Adlai Stevenson's statement that it'll wither on the vine."

Willie Mays Is Guest At State Prison Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—An enthusiastic crowd of about 25,000 cheered Willie Mays Sunday but saved their longest applause for inmate performers at the 31st annual Texas Prison Rodeo.

It was the first rodeo Mays had seen. The star centerfielder for the San Francisco Giants said "This one is really something."

In the crowd for the third performance was a busload of Fulbright scholarship students from the University of Texas representing 12 foreign nations.

They saw bull riding, the mad scramble, saddle bronc riding, a wild horse race, and bareback bronc riding — all made more spirited because a slippery field from Saturday rains.

One inmate contestant, Rusty Rossman, serving 10 years from Houston, was knocked out in the saddle bronc riding event and was rushed to the hospital.

As he recovered consciousness, he told attendants, "Let me out of here, I've got a bull to ride."

Free world attractions included Cecil Cornish and his educated Brahman bull, a trick riding team of Ted and Betty Lamb, Maureen Moon and Billy Keen, and the Red River Parish Mounted Quadrille of Coushatta, La.

In the opening mad scramble event, Jim W. Evans of Albuquerque, N.M., was trampled by two charging, Brahman bulls but walked away without a scratch.

One well-received act was by the Goree Girls, with Candy Barr featured. The fans applauded an announcement by Lee Norton of Houston, master of ceremonies, about the former Dallas night club stripper.

He said Candy Barr "hopes this year's rodeo will be the last one she will have to sing for as an inmate performer."

High-Flying Duo Is Having A Ball

Norm Snead and Bobby Mitchell, just a couple of kids at heart, are having a ball with the Washington Redskins this year. Trouble is, none of their Sunday playmates from around the National Football League appreciate their antics. This high-flying quarterback-halfback duo went whizzing right through the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday for a 27-21 victory that set Washington solidly in the Eastern Conference lead with four victories and two ties, the latter not counting in the percentages.

But school may be out real soon for this frolicsome pair. Next week, they do battle with the second-place New York Giants and their crunching defense that shocked Detroit 17-14 Sunday. Washington must face the Giants twice this season and also try to master Pittsburgh's awesome defense led by Big Daddy Lipscomb and Ernie Stautner two times, in addition to games against the Baltimore Colts, Dallas, Cleveland and Philly. The Steelers dropped into third place, losing to Dallas 42-27, but are still very much in the Eastern title picture with a 3-3 record, compared to the Giants' 4-2.

Green Bay kept the Western Conference lead and a 6-0 mark with a low starting but decisive 31-13 victory over the San Francisco 49ers. In other NFL action, Cleveland upended the St. Louis Cardinals 34-7, Chicago's Bears won over Baltimore 35-15 and the Minnesota Vikings kept the Los Angeles Rams winless with a 38-14 victory.

Denver Broncos Looking For First Place Berth

Anyone who has been waiting for the Denver Broncos to fade from the American Football League's Western Division race has been wasting his time. The rejuvenated Broncos are in it to stay, and they're evidently not settling for anything less than first place.

Sunday games, after Buffalo edged Oakland 14-6 Saturday night. Once more it was old pro Frank Tripucka at the controls for the Broncos, now 6-1 at the season's half way mark. Behind 10-6 going into the final period, the 14-year pro veteran teamed with AFL scoring leader Gene Mingo to get the Broncos in front to stay.

Brooker, a rookie from Alabama, helped cap another powerful performance by quarterback Len Dawson and halfback Abner Haynes. Dawson passed 78 yards to Haynes for the Texans' first score, then the former North Texas State star went over from the one-yard line for another TD. Haynes touched off some late-game brawling. He was involved in an altercation with Titans' linebacker Jerry Fields after being driven out of bounds and was put out of the game with only 34 seconds left, another battle broke out but was quickly subdued.

MAYBE NO CLEAR TITLE

Dick Tiger Favored To Lift Fullmer's Mid-Weight Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—British Empire middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria continues the favorite to lift the World Boxing Association crown from Gene Fullmer Tuesday night. Odds have fluctuated between 7-5 and 9-5 and should Tiger live up to them, he could put the British Boxing Board in a difficult position.

The British boxing fathers recognize Paul Pender of Massachusetts as the 160-pound champion while the WBA calls Fullmer the world champ. Should Tiger wrest the WBA version of the title from Fullmer, would he be recognized in Britain as the world champion or would that recognition just come in the Americas and the Orient?

Tiger is 33 and gets his title shot because a proposed Pender-Fullmer fight failed to materialize in a hassle over money. The split in the middleweight title ranks goes back three years when the National Boxing Association, now the WBA, lifted Sugar Ray Robinson's title recognition for failure to defend his crown in the stipulated time. New York, Massachusetts and Europe refused to go along so Pender became their world champ when he beat Robinson.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Bubba Bailey, a basketball star at San Angelo College two seasons back, will be performing for North Texas State University the coming season.

Bubba didn't complete his work at SAC, which is the reason he dropped out of sight last year. He spent the time getting eligible. Bubba was probably one of the two or three best "money" players San Angelo ever had.

North Texas opens its season Dec. 1 against West Texas State.

If the Big Spring Steers play the Wichita Falls Coyotes in 1963, they'll open the season with them here. So far, the two schools haven't gotten together on dates, although the Coyote coaching staff has expressed a desire to try the Steers again.

Coach Don Robbins of Big Spring prefers to have his team meet Wichita Falls early in the year, before the Coyotes have had a chance to jell. Lubbock High caught the Coyotes in the first game this year and almost beat them.

NORMAN SNEAD

Incidentally, the Steers' game in Wichita Falls this year did very poorly at the gate. It was expected to draw 9,000. Evening rains there washed out any chance of such a turnout, however. A total of 4,307 witnessed the contest. One would think the Coyotes would sell more season tickets than that.

The gross income amounted to only $3,615 and expenses totaled $1,253.34. Big Spring was guaranteed $600 for traveling expenses. The local school got a check for $1,194.83, in addition to the travel money.

Wichita Falls gets only $1.25 for adult tickets at home. (The standard fee in District 2-AAAA is $1.50). If the Coyote fans purchase season tickets, their average ducat averages out to only $1 per game. Student tickets are higher there than here, however—50 cents if purchased at school, 75 cents at the gate.

Against Midland Lee here the night of Oct. 12, a total of 4,831 paying customers attended, contributing to a gross income of $4,632.90. Each school should realize more than $2,000 from the game. Season ticket sales here are up over 100 over last year. A total of 783 season pasteborders were sold locally.

When the Big Spring B team played in Forsan recently, they performed on a field that had been lengthened to 100 yards. (Forsan plays eight-man ball, ordinarily, and use an 80-yard field).

However, there was no way to widen the field to regulation measurements. For that reason, the Dogies could not make use of their wide plays. Forsan deployed its defensive forces well, kept the locals in a strait-jacket most of the night.

Charley Johnson, the local product who has made good in a big way with the St. Louis (football) Cardinals, was paid a supreme compliment in the recent game against the Washington Redskins.

In a tight situation, Johnson resorted to what is being referred to in Washington circles as a "Snead call." On fourth down and inches to go on Washington's 40, Charley passed 13 yards to Bobby Joe Conrad and kept a St. Louis drive going.

After the game had ended in a tie, Washington coach Bill McPeak said of Johnson:

"He was outstanding and had plenty of poise. We hit him good and hard several times early, and it didn't faze him. He really hung in there."

Proof of that was Charley's two fourth-quarter TD drives that pulled the Cards from behind.

A "Snead call" in Washington has come to mean a fourth-down gamble that invariably pays off. It is named for Norman Snead, the Redskins phenom.

COULD HAVE WON Thwarted Steers Prep For Cooper

Although they smote the Odessa Bronco hip and thigh, the Big Spring Steers Sunday were disappointed that they hadn't won the game.

After viewing films of the game, coaches and players agreed there were three points at which they should have won. One was at the start of the first quarter when Odessa's poor punt was recovered by the Steers after Mike Houston made a grab for it but had the ball wrestled away. Had the Steers got it there, they would have been within scoring distance.

The last play of the game could have been the winner had Hernandez waited a split second to make his turn at the goal line. The ball flicked off his fingertips.

But that's in the past. The big job now. Coach Don Robbins pointed out, is to get ready for Cooper in Abilene Friday night. Cooper runs an offense similar to the Steers with a split end, a straight T and slot T. Drew Tucker, one of the finer fullbacks of the district, hangs the linehard, and Freddy Wagner and Bobby McCraw, quarterbacks, are probably among the better passers the Steers have faced this season. They use a lot of rollouts and throwbacks. Also, the belly series is employed effectively.

Cooper has six seniors among the starters. Bill Tiffany is a fine defensive left tackle, Joe Benson a sharp offensive center, and Mike Robinson a good man on defense.

Given fair weather, the Steers passing game may be sharper. Three days layoff due to tests and weather last week dulled the throwing edge and several times receivers dropped tosses that should have gone for gains.

Local Men Win In Drag Races

Three Big Springers were among winners Sunday in the drag races at Tye, near Abilene.

In the stock car division, Jan Tally captured honors in K stock and Travis Anderson in L class, duplicating his win at San Angelo a week ago.

Franklin Kirby won the C altered class in the hot car division. This will be an open weekend for most of the dragsters, who are planning on entering the races at Hobbs, N. M. on Nov. 4.

May Be The Year For Northwestern

By The Associated Press

For almost a half century — since joining the league in 1908 — Northwestern has spent most of its years looking up at the behemoths of Big Ten football.

This could be the year of the big change. Already, the Wildcats are riding along atop the Big Ten with a spotless 4-0 record—3-0 in the conference—and appear to be growing more confident with every game.

Northwestern has a drab record in the Big Ten down through the years. The Wildcats have won the championship just once. That was in 1936 when they compiled a 6-0 league record and went 7-1 for the entire season. They wound up tied with Michigan in both 1926 and 1930.

NEVER UNBEATEN Matter of fact, they never have had an unbeaten season since joining the league. Last year, under Ara Parseghian, the Wildcats finished in a tie for seventh—2-4 in the league, 4-5 overall—and their prospects were equally dismal in 1962.

But with sophomore quarterback Tommy Myers, a veritable passing fool, directing the attack, Northwestern, No. 8 in the current Associated Press poll, has rolled past South Carolina, Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio State. The Wildcats' 18-14 victory over Ohio State Saturday was the big feather in their hats.

Myers connected on 18 of 30 passes for 177 yards. The Wildcats did some fancy running and defensive work, too, in the process of overcoming a 14-0 lead. They play Notre Dame (1-3) this week, Indiana the following week and Wisconsin Nov. 3. That one could decide the Big Ten title.

OBLIVION Ohio State's defeat sent the Buckeyes into oblivion for this year, at least. They now have lost two games, one in the Big Ten, and with five to play, their chances of winning the league crown are far from overwhelming. They were voted the No. 1 team in the country in the pre-season Associated Press poll. They could be in for trouble this week, too, against Wisconsin. Except for Ohio State, No. 6, and Arkansas, No. 7, all the top 10 teams in the country projected their positions.

Arkansas' 7-3 defeat by Texas, was no disgrace. The Longhorns, No. 1 and shooting for the national title, probably wrapped up the Southwest Conference championship with their squeaky decision. The Razorbacks also were knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten-tied.

Now Texas has a solid SWC schedule ahead and none of the opposition appears to be in a position to put up much of an argument.

CRIMSON TIDE Alabama, the defending national champion, and ranked No. 2, downed Tennessee, 27-7, in a Southeastern Conference game. But the Crimson Tide won't be out of the woods until the final game of the season with Auburn.

Southern California's 32-6 victory over California established the Trojans as the team to beat on the Pacific Coast. They are ranked No. 3 in the nation. Washington, No. 9, with only a tie in five games to mar its record, defeated Stanford 14-0, and still is in the picture. Southern Cal and Washington meet in two weeks in the big one.

Louisiana State, No. 4 and Mississippi, No. 5, both pretenders to the Southeastern Conference throne, continued unbeaten. LSU whipped Kentucky, 7-0, and Ole Miss downed Tulane 21-0. LSU and Mississippi also meet in two weeks in a battle for survival.

Wisconsin, No. 10, warmed up to its task against Ohio State by rolling past Iowa, 42-14.

First Down For Aggies

Lee Roy Caffey (34) Texas A&M fullback, is brought down by Tommy Crutcher, TCU fullback, after Caffey took a pitchout from quarterback Jim Keller and went 8 yards for a first down. Jerry Terrell, TCU fullback is in play. (AP Wirephoto).

First Spotless Record In 23 Years Pending?

By The Associated Press

Texas is at the half-way mark of the football schedule unbeaten and untied through five games and opinion grows that the Longhorns will compile the first spotless record in the Southwest Conference in 23 years.

Texas knocked down Arkansas, considered to be its only strong challenger, Saturday 7-3. Now there are five teams ahead with a combined victory record of six against 20 losses.

The Longhorns meet Rice next Saturday night. Rice hasn't won a game in four tries.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas won't like speculation that his team will go through undefeated. He can painfully cite last year when the Longhorns were unbeaten, untied and virtually unworried through eight games when a Texas Christian team that had won only two out of seven kicked Texas right in the middle of its national rankings 6-0.

Texas was rated No. 1 in the nation at the time, a situation that now prevails.

Arkansas was supposed to be the only team that might take Texas' measure.

Southern Methodist won its first game of the season Saturday when it licked Rice 15-7. But since this was the first conference game for SMU it meant the Methodists were the only team unbeaten in championship play other than Texas. Texas has a 2-0 conference record.

Arkansas fell into a tie for third place with Texas Christian, each boasting a 2-1 mark. Texas Christian lashed Texas A&M 20-14 to reach the deadlock with its conqueror, Arkansas.

Baylor, which some think may be the most likely to upset Texas, whipped winless Tech 28-6. It also was Baylor's first victory of the season.

In conference action Saturday, Southern Methodist meets Texas Tech at Lubbock and Texas A&M clashes with Baylor at Waco. Arkansas plays independent Harding-Simmons, which won its first game after 27 straight losses by beating Trinity 14-6 Saturday.

Texas Christian takes the week off.

Pennsylvania GOP In Trouble

By JAMES E. WALTERS
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Republicans, for nearly a century the dominant power in Pennsylvania find themselves trying in the Nov. 6 election to end an unprecedented eight-year-old Democratic hold on the governorship and attempting to unseat a Democrat from the U.S. Senate.

Most observers regard each contest as a tossup.

For governor the GOP selected William W. Scranton, 45, a multimillionaire. He contributed about the only Republican bright spot in 1960, winning election to Congress over an incumbent in a district long regarded as safely Democratic. Scranton has the all-out backing of Dwight D. Eisenhower, the gentleman farmer from Gettysburg.

Opposing him is Richardson Dilworth, 64, who resigned in his second term as mayor of Philadelphia to make a second try for governor—he got 48 per cent of the vote in 1950 against Republican John S. Fine. Dilworth, like Scranton, is wealthy and a Yale Law School graduate.

HOUSE VETERAN

For the Senate the Republicans picked another congressman, James E. Van Zandt, 63, a 20-year veteran of the House, a railroad worker in private life and three times national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Opposing him is the senior senator from Pennsylvania, Joseph S. Clark, 61, who ousted Republican incumbent James H. Duff in a major surprise in 1956 by about 18,000 votes.

Clark and Dilworth ended 67 years of Republican rule in the city in 1951. Clark as mayor, Dilworth as district attorney. When Clark went to the Senate, Dilworth became mayor.

One of Scranton's biggest campaign themes has been allegations of corruption in City Hall during Dilworth's administration. Dilworth concedes there was wrongdoing, but says his administration discovered it, cleaned it up and recovered the money. He calls Scranton a novice in government.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Another major issue is unemployment. About 320,000—about 7 per cent of the total work force—are out of work. The Republicans blame it on the state and national administrations, both Democratic. The Democrats say it results from Republican policies over many years that left the state dependent on steel, coal and the railroads as major employers.

In a state with about 54 million registered voters, the Democrats hold a slight edge in registration. It was 161,000 in the May primary and incomplete figures for November indicate it will be slightly more. But it wasn't until 1960, that Democrats out-registered Republicans in this state. When President Kennedy carried the state he was only the seventh Democratic candidate to do so in 100 years. Kennedy has stumped the state for Dilworth-Clark; Eisenhower for Scranton-Van Zandt.

Gov. David L. Lawrence, ineligible under the state constitution to succeed himself, is giving Dilworth full support. Lawrence took over from George Leader, only the fourth Democrat elected governor in Pennsylvania since Civil War days. No Democrat ever before had succeeded a Democrat as governor.

Since his election, Clark probably has been in every city and hamlet in the state—a technique in which Van Zandt also is an expert.

Pennsylvania also will elect 27 congressmen — it lost three after the 1960 census—the entire state House of Representatives, now Democratic and slightly more than half of the Senate, now evenly split.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Despite rainy weather, 223,618 persons turned out Sunday to receive Type II Sabin oral polio vaccine.

Republican Jack Cox, charging Connally had spent upwards of $600,000, said he is facing "the best financed machine in the history of Texas politics in the Connally political lousiness."

In appeal for campaign funds at San Antonio, Cox said that his financial support "is coming from across the boards" and added "no governor will take office as free of obligations as I will."

Connally said Republicans "are going all over Texas accusing election judges, the county judges and commissioners of theft or suspected theft."

"I think it is rather strange and unusual we didn't hear any of these cries when my opponent was running as a Democrat, and I wonder where they think all these people were when Republican Senator Tower was elected by approximately 10,000 votes. I think this type of demagoguery that they are engaging in is hurting them and will be of great benefit to us," he said.

Connally also made stops in Brownsville and at Rio Grande City before returning to Austin.

In San Antonio, Cox appealed for Latin American votes.

Cox said it would cost from $24,000 to $30,000 to insure what he called his winning hand in the race for governor.

Oilman Dale Dorn said he headed a group that would match "dollar for dollar," the contributions of $1 and $5 that Cox received.

"No governor will take office as free of obligation as I will," Cox told the group. "I think it will be a wonderful thing to have a governor in that position. We're going to win with the help of people like you."

Cox said where Texas stands first in oil, gas, minerals, wool, mohair and other products, it stands 29th in per capita income, and said other states with a one-party system are lined up closely behind Texas in low per capita income.

He said a two-party system will reverse that, and said that the "top two-party state has a $1,200-a-year more per capita income than Texas."

Alabama's Next Governor May Form Militia

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Sources close to Gov. nominee George C. Wallace say he wants a state militia to deal with emergencies resulting from any racial integration attempts or other sources in the state.

The information came on the heels of an announcement that five Negro students would apply for admission to the University of Alabama in the next few days.

Wallace said during his campaign last spring that, if necessary, he would stand in the door of any Alabama school to block integration during his four-year term.

A state militia would be available should the Alabama National Guard be called into federal service, the source noted.

The militia would answer to the governor and not be subject to federal call.

Wallace declined to comment on the state militia idea or on the announcement by integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. that Negro college students would apply soon to transfer to the university.

STRAINING AT GNATS

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1381

The letter continues: "Personally, I can see no harm whether or not a mechanical device is used. If you choose to sing A capella, fine; if others don't, fine. You know it is still possible today as in Jesus' time to 'strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.'"

Reference was evidently made to Matthew 23:23, 24. Let us read it all: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay title of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. Ye blind guides, who strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel."

Jesus did not advocate that men swallow gnats; but that they strain out both gnats and camels. These men were not wrong in trying the little things; but in overlooking such weighty things as judgment, mercy and faith. He said, "These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." That is, do some things first because they are weightier; but do your whole duty.

Let us not use this Scripture to justify our neglect of duties which may seem small. —Adv.

No Strong Political Tides Detectable Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — With election day only two weeks from Tuesday, no strong political tide seems to be running for either the Democrats or the Republicans.

Personalities often appear to overshadow party labels, pointed out by indications in a number of states that voters may elect a Democratic senator and a Republican governor or vice versa.

At stake in the Nov. 6 voting will be 38 Senate seats—five of them for unexpired terms—and all 435 House seats. Thirty-five governors will be named.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press fails to disclose any major upheaval in sight in the political make-up of Congress, where the Democrats now have heavy majorities in the Senate and House.

Best bet for any Republican surge apparently is in the state-house races, with GOP candidates given a chance to oust Democrats in big swing states like California, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

VANES FLUTTERING
In many cases political weather-vanes were fluttering too uncertainly to make forecasters comfortable.

The AP survey of the election outlook pulled together the opinions of newspaper political writers, polls taken by newspapers and others, and analyses by AP political writers, bureau chiefs and correspondents.

As of now, the signs point to minor Republican gains in the House—probably less than a dozen seats; no advance in the Senate and maybe a net loss of one or two, and possible capture of a half dozen of the 34 governorships now held by Democrats. Here are some of the cross-country highlights turned up by the AP survey:

In Massachusetts the President's youngest brother, Edward M. Kennedy, looks far out in front in his race for the Senate against his Republican opponent, George Cabot Lodge, Republican Gov. John A. Volpe is given the edge in his re-election bid.

BROWN PUT AHEAD
In California, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is locked in rugged battle for the governorship with Democratic incumbent Edmund G. Brown. Most polls put Brown somewhat ahead. Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel is favored to fight off the challenge of Richard Richards, state senator from Los Angeles.

Pennsylvania is another example of a state where the Senate and gubernatorial races seem to be going in different directions.

Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark is rated a winner over Rep. James E. Van Zandt, his conservative Republican foe. In the governor's race, Rep. William W. Scrantom is given a slight edge over Richardson Dilworth, former Democratic mayor of Philadelphia.

In neighboring Ohio, Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is regarded by most political writers participating in the survey as somewhat of an underdog against his GOP challenger, State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

LOOKS LIKE WINNER
Sen. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat whose conservative leanings frequently put him out of step with the administration, looks like a sure winner.

The contest for governor of Michigan, with former automobile man George Romney making his political debut, is rated too close to call as of now. Romney is trying to unseat Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson.

An old hand at politics, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, seems to be on the road to victory. His opponent is Rep. Sidney R. Yates of Chicago.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is an odds-on favorite to win re-election in New York, a result that his admirers hope will propel him into position to capture the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Not only is Rockefeller picked to take the measure of his Democratic-liberal foe Robert M. Morgenthau, but Republican Sen. James E. Buckley Jr. is also favored to win re-election in New York.

While Connally generally is favored, he reportedly could be in trouble if the Democrats don't turn out a big vote.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is an odds-on favorite to win re-election in New York, a result that his admirers hope will propel him into position to capture the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Not only is Rockefeller picked to take the measure of his Democratic-liberal foe Robert M. Morgenthau, but Republican Sen. James E. Buckley Jr. is also favored to win re-election in New York.

Alliance Program Due Some Priming

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
MEXICO CITY (AP) — American finance ministers gathered today to try to pump more progress into the Alliance for Progress.

After a formal inauguration meeting this afternoon the ministers will get started Tuesday on a week of reviewing the problems of the alliance—and hopefully finding some solutions.

Their job is a tough one. The alliance aims at achieving in the Latin American continent a peaceful social and economic revolution within ten years.

In their report to the finance ministers, the experts warned "the task of breaking with the past and reconstructing a society characterized in many cases by economic and social rigidities cannot be realized in a few years."

This was echoed by U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon who said when he arrived here Sunday night "there are no overnight solutions for problems that have been building up for centuries."

"This makes it all the more imperative for us to continue to press forward with our mutual efforts to achieve the objectives of the alliance."

"We must not expect miracles. This is, after all, a ten-year program."

The report on the alliance submitted by the hemisphere's economic experts was not bright. The experts concluded: "There are no signs of prompt improvement in Latin American economies."

"Continual stagnation of internal markets is impeding progress. The alliance goal of a 2.5 per cent annual increase in per capita income is not likely to be even approached until 1963."

"The magnitude of the flight of private capital from Latin America is a source of special concern. Agrarian reform measures are opposed in many sectors and many reform programs lack essential measures to provide credit, markets and increased agricultural production."

"Tax reform programs are moving but no substantial results are likely soon because of weak public administration."

"More information and statistics are needed to judge what is needed in education, housing, public health and rural welfare."

"Private capital investment has been lacking because of a failure to understand the nature and objectives of the alliance."

"The market outlook for Latin America's basic export products is uncertain."

"There is urgent need for simple, efficient coordination of all the agencies operating in the inter-American system."

The experts found a basis for optimism in the accelerating pace of national economic and social development plans. They also said United States and Latin American economic and social experts have begun a fresh, frank dialogue which should produce positive gains.

LONDON (AP) — Anne MacDonald, a shapely mother of four, became a roadside vamp to slow down fast drivers.

In fetching halter top and figure-hugging jeans, she took up her stand outside the village of Graveley on the busy Great North Road.

Then she wiggled her hips and gave the hitch-hiking thumb sign to every passing motorist.

When truck drivers pulled up to offer her a lift, Mrs. MacDonald, 31, smiled sweetly and said: "Thank you for stopping. I do hope you will observe the speed limit through our village."

Mrs. MacDonald said she had written six times to the Transport Ministry asking that it do something about the many drivers who ignored the village's 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.

"I saw drivers whistling at pretty girls in the village and that gave me a new idea," she said.

Mrs. MacDonald now has abandoned her vamp technique.

"The drivers were all as nasty as possible," she said. "I'm shocked."

"It would take the type of language used by truck drivers to describe my opinion of them."

A Devotional For The Day

Let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. (Matthew 5:16, ASV.)
PRAYER: O Lord, enlighten our darkness and make us to shine as lights for Christ. Enable us to do and be what our spirits long to do and be. We thank Thee for all those who, having received light and grace from Thee, enlighten dark corners and glorify Thee. In Christ's name. Amen.

The Enigma Of Algeria

For someone in need of support, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria needs a few lessons in techniques of how to win friends and influence people.
 Most of this year's budget in Algeria is being met by the French government, but a substantial amount of aid needed to bridge a perilous gap for Algeria would need to come from the United States. Already one of every five Algerians gets at least a part of his food from the U. S.
 After his visit here last week, Ben Bella went to Cuba, there to meet beyond the bounds mere cordiality and joined Premier Castro in demanding the U. S. give up its naval base at Guantanamo.
 Ben Bella is playing both sides of the street. He has recognized the Peking government of China, is obtaining arms from Russia, yet looks to the West for stability. Algerians are fierce nationalists, and this compels a degree of realism.
 The mass escape of Europeans (three-fourths of these in Algeria have fled and thousands more are planning to leave) has left the country in a grave position.

Of the 130,000 civil servants in Algeria, 50,000 were French, and most of these have left. When the Europeans left, they took with them an estimated 800 million dollars in capital. A plan to re-attract some of this capital through tax concessions appears to be stuck on high center.
 So bankruptcy is one of two major threats to fledgling Algeria. The other is a military take-over. A brilliant soldier, Ben Bella is a militarist and aware that much if not most of his power flows from the military, and in that sense may be as much its captive as its leader.
 While Algeria is short on cash, it is potentially one of the richest. It gets 55 million dollars a year in oil royalties; it has huge gas reserves. It has some massive industries, including a 60 million dollar plant being erected with American private participation. Moreover, it offers the promise of a bridge to the emergent nations to the south. Hence, practicalities may indicate economic contacts, but Ben Bella doesn't make it easy.

Market News Faster

One of the factors which tend to multiply the bad effect of a sharp drop in stock prices is the mechanics of reporting price quotations. Reports often fall behind the pace of the market.
 Nearly everyone is familiar with the stock ticker—the little machine which spews forth a seemingly endless tape with prices on it. But efficient as it is, it can only operate so fast. In times of active trading, the ticker frequently lags behind. When this happens traders apprehensive about the current price level of a particular stock may not get a true picture. Studies have confirmed the fact that a slow ticker tape can make a price downturn look worse than it really is.

 It should be good news, therefore, to the investing community and to the general public that the New York Stock Exchange plans to speed up its price reporting capability. With new electronic gear, exchange officials hope to be able to get quotations out almost twice as fast as is possible now.
 Keeping mechanically up to date is vital. Much depends, psychologically and otherwise, on the orderly conduct of the nation's largest stock market.

Khrushchev Delays Berlin Showdown

WASHINGTON — On the surface it looked as if Nikita Khrushchev was being very considerate when he openly conceded that he wouldn't bring on any crisis in Berlin at least until after the congressional elections in the United States were over.
 Why would the Soviet premier, however, be so polite about the timing of his crisis? Was he really trying to ingratiate himself with President Kennedy? On the contrary, if he wanted to help the President politically, he would stir up the crisis so that the voters in this country would be aroused to a mood of great anxiety. This is always a help politically to the party in power.
CONVERSELY, DID Mr. Khrushchev have the political astuteness to keep passive and relatively quiet during the congressional campaign because he thought it might be better not to solidify the American people behind their President, as happens so often in international crises?
 The truth probably is that the Soviet premier is really looking for excuses for postponement and delay. There are rumors of a Khrushchev-Kennedy meeting in November, and possibly there will be some more show-pounding by the Soviet premier at the U. N. But he evidently doesn't want a showdown any more than do the Western powers.

which has been there all the time and finally succeeded in forcing a separation from France, reveals itself when the Algerian premier has the temerity to tell the world he takes Cuba's side as against the United States.
 Referring to the Algerian premier's visit to Washington on Monday, Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York, Republican, said:
"IN THE FUTURE we had best learn a little about people before we take them to the White House and give them a big ceremony. If after that they are going to turn around and stick a knife in our backs, we certainly in the future ought to deal with them and people like this through less conspicuous diplomatic channels."
 But why should Premier Khrushchev worry too much about trying a crisis in Berlin when he is having his way in certain parts of Latin America as well as in North Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia?
AMERICAN LIVES are being risked in South Vietnam, where the United States is trying to stop the Soviet penetration. But the Communists are going ahead, anyway. They are reaching into almost every one of the former colonial areas.
 The drive against "colonialism" has turned into a victory for communism. The impoverished peoples in the former colonies aren't getting any help. They are worse off than before. But that's the way the Soviets are driving to conquer—by infiltration of as many of the new governments as they can.
WHY THEN SHOULD Moscow precipitate a showdown in Berlin? If a war came, it could cause the Soviets to lose all they have gained. So the game evidently is to keep on talking with the United States and the West and at the same time keep on infiltrating everywhere else in the hope of establishing more and more Castro and Ben Bella regimes around the world.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

THE AMERICAN people possibly are surprised to read that Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria is welcomed at the White House on one day and flies down to Cuba the next to embrace Fidel Castro. But the Soviet influence in Algeria, Soviet triumphs in space has given the free world an awesome glimpse of what the "total" means in totalitarianism.

 Why are the Soviets ahead in space? Basically, because they decided this was an area in which it was to their advantage to excel—from the propaganda standpoint at least, perhaps also from the military standpoint.
 Having so decided, the Kremlin channeled people and materials in that direction, ruthlessly, inexorably.
 High up in the Kremlin, it was decided that space science would come before everything else—the people would have to get along without both luxuries and what many Americans consider necessities.
 Once this was decided, there was no labor unions to protest by strike, no investors to protest by withholding their funds, no legislature to filibuster, no Supreme Court to hear an appeal, no informed public opinion to raise serious questions.
 That's what "total" means: Economics, politics, science, and propaganda welded into a single instrument aimed to dominate the world.
 Abraham Lincoln raised the challenge whether a nation so conceived and so dedicated as ours could long endure.
 We believe the answer is a resounding yes. But it will take a great deal more plain hard work, sacrifice, and cooperation within the framework of freedom to get the job done.

Report From New Delhi

'Nobody Listens To The Poor People'

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
 NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Parvati drew the end of her cheap cotton sari over her head, framing a thin face with gold disk in the right side of her nose, and said in a tone of weary anger:

"We had a place to live in the village but no work to earn food; here we have work but no place to live."

Parvati stood talking in front of the place where she lives in fear of eviction. It is a one-room hut of mud brick walls four feet high with a reed roof.

Government employees recently tore down similar homes in the squatters' colony where she lives, trying to drive the several hundred persons from their rocky corner in New Delhi's Diplomatic Enclave.

Across the street is the tall government-owned Ashoka Hotel, one of the finest in Asia. A double room in its air-conditioned plushness costs $19 a day with meals; use of the swimming pool and other luxuries.

NEXT DOOR is the British High Commission, a cluster of fine modern office and apartment buildings. The showpiece American embassy is just down the block.

The people of Parvati's colony helped build the fine buildings. The men carried the stones and cement and the women balanced seven bricks at a time on their heads as they walked up ramps along the rising walls.

For construction labor the men get two rupees (42 cents) a day, the women 1.75 rupees. With both man and wife working, an average monthly family income to feed four or five is equal to the daily rate of the hotel's double room.

SUBAGHI Devi, also wrapped in a sari but with gold insets in the front of her teeth instead of nose disk, does not work. Her husband washes clothes at the hotel for 70 rupees ($14.70) a month but can not find space in the limited quarters provided for hotel employees.

The money pays for little more than simple food. The women squat outdoors to cook rice and vegetable gruel and wheat cakes over charcoal braziers. They can afford meat once or twice a month.

AT LEAST they eat regularly. "There is nothing for meals in the villages," one man said. "Wherever we can earn money, that is our village now."

In 1941 both New Delhi and Old Delhi had 700,000 residents. Now the population of the area, in-

Yellowstone Has Litterbeats

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. — What Yellowstone National Park needs is not a good 5-cent cigar—but a bear-proof garbage can.

The brown bears which abound in Yellowstone Park may amuse the tourists with their antics, but to park rangers they are litterbugs and nuisances.

So far, man hasn't been successful in coming up with a garbage can that man can open to deposit garbage—but bears can't open to spread it around.

Park officials are trying several new types of garbage cans this summer to test the ingenuity of the cagy bears. So far, the bears have won on all counts.

One of the experimental models is designed like a mail box. But it didn't take the smart bears long to figure that one out.

Another model hangs from a T-frame, but Park Superintendent L. Muel A. Garrison says it isn't working too well, either.

"The bears knock it around like a punching bag," he said, "and it makes a big racket."

JPs Stay Slender

TORRINGTON, Wyo.—Justice of Peace Lee Hastings has his own special reason for seeking reelection to a third term.

He explained "My sole purpose for running is that I'm on a strict diet and the salary of the office will keep me there."

cluding some surrounding farm land, is 2,644,000. Much of the increase has been from migrants, like those in Parvati's colony, overpopulation and a shortage of land.

The city has not been able to absorb them properly. Parts of old Delhi have turned into slums. Open spaces throughout New Delhi, where the recent construction has been, are dotted with squatters' colonies.

THE COLONIES are not slums in the city sense; they are crude villages in the midst of the city.

In the summer there is no escape from the 110-degree heat; in the winter, no protection from the 40-degree cold; in the monsoon, no shelter from the rain or relief from mud.

The government objects that the squatters are unsanitary and illegal. From time to time, crews descend upon colonies while the men are off working and pull down the huts, trying to force people to leave.

"Where else is there for us to go?" asked a man wearing a dhoti, draped like a loose diaper around him. "The government says for us to go live in the jungles."

SOME FAMILIES applied in 1948 for space in a government housing development. They have just gotten it.

Two days after her hut was torn down and partly rebuilt, Gulshan Chaman gave birth to a daughter in it.

Lanchi, a big, attractive girl with a silver ornament on her forehead, grew up, married and began to raise a family in the colony.

THE SQUATTERS say they were promised electricity, more water taps at the common fountain and other help during last February's parliamentary elections. But instead of help coming, the wreckers came.

Now when they go to the home of the successful candidate, a minister in Prime Minister Nehru's government, his servants always say he is out.

"Nobody listens to the poor people," Parvati said.

Around The Rim

Automation In The Supermarket

This and that:
 Want to know what the supermarket of 1975 will be like?
 Mrs. Marie Kiefer, executive director, National Association of Retail Grocers, told a group of listeners at the recent Fifth International Food Congress in New York that the problem of "checkstand bottlenecks" would be solved by then, for one thing.
 Shopping carts will be motorized and check-outs will be mechanized, Mrs. Kiefer stated.

"THE MOTORIZED shopping cart will follow the shopper like a trained dog," she added. "She won't have to push it—merely carry a sonic control box in her hand."

And for shoppers in the mile-square supermart who frown on the walking exercise, there will be cartmoobiles, operated by a simple control in which they'll ride and shop.

Can't you imagine the traffic snarls on double stamp days? Makes one long for the days of the old cracker barrels and the pickle vats.

NOT LONG AGO in Yellowstone National Park, a gum ball machine service man, one Bill Hankins, reported to park authorities that a bear ate 44 pounds of gum balls after he left the trunk of his car open.

My advice is: Don't read this aloud to your kids. Around our house, we're not allowed to swallow gum and I assume the same ultimatum has been issued to the little ones around your place.
 Yet most children are accused of having the digestive juices of a billygoat.

IF YOU WANT to design your family a coat of arms, I don't know who's to stop you.

A Scottish authority on heraldry, one Leslie G. Pine, was lamenting the fact recently that there are at least 50,000 unauthorized coats of arms in Merry Old England alone. He referred to the practice as "heraldic lawlessness."

The Court of Chivalry in Great Britain has acted to halt some of that "lawlessness" but I rather doubt their authority extends as far as the Pecos.

The Freedom To See

Forty-eight hours ago a friend of the masculine persuasion took me to luncheon. But not because of my blue eyes, it turned out.

"Not to beat around the bush, I want to enlist you in a new public service crusade," he said. "You have a penchant for tilting at windmills and, to be blunt, you never win. Despite your appeals to reason, cities are still full of pigeons, sandwiches of lettuce and the countryside of billboards."

"AND PEOPLE still talk, talk, talk at theatres and concerts despite your threats of bodily harm and your roundhouse blows at these pests."

"My fight is for the fifth freedom," I said. "The freedom to hear after you've paid hard-earned money for a ticket to a play or the opera."

"I realize you can't win 'em all," my friend began again.

"I can't win any of 'em!" I muttered.

"NONETHELESS," he continued, ignoring my interruption, "I urge you to mount the barricades in a last-ditch fight for a sixth freedom—the freedom to see in the theatre."

"This is a new problem," he went on. "For years it's been damn hard to hear anything that is said on stage since a tenth of the audience is yammering in direct competition to the actors. To solve that problem I took a course in lip-reading three years ago."

BUT I HAVE to have help in campaigning for the freedom to see, which is a development of the new, 1962-63 season. I first became aware of this problem about two weeks ago when I went to see "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off."

"Now I had paid $8.60 for a seat in the seventh row center. And I sat in it, congratulating myself on this excellent location, until two minutes before the curtain went up. Then a youngish woman sat down in front of me and everything went black."

"MY IMMEDIATE thought was that there had been a power failure," my friend said. "Then, as I gradually became accustomed to the dark, I could make out that the crowning glory of the woman seated ahead of me appeared to be standing on end."

"I looked around apprehensively to see if Martians had landed—and discovered that the rest of the theatre was still brightly lighted. Disconcerted, I looked again at the woman ahead of me and realized that her hair was not only standing on end but was dressed or arranged in a fair replica of the Chrysler Tower. It was impossible to see around or over it."

"THEN I RECALLED all the newspaper pictures of the new French hairdos," he went on, with considerable emotion.

"All those big knobs of hair that looked like haystacks or a bushel of cotton candy perched on top of the head! But I never really thought of them as a threat to civilization. What woman would be crazy enough to look like that?"

"The woman in front of you," I suggested.

"Very funny!" he said. "Very funny! Not only the woman in front of me, but the women in front of at least another ten men, as I saw when I looked around the theatre. Sure, it's the men who get stuck behind these barricades. Chivalry demands that you let the little woman sit behind the man who is escorting this hair curler."

"IF WOMEN want a new look, why don't they wear their hair in braids—down their backs?" he asked, and added, "This is where you come in. I want you to write a piece demanding that theatre owners hang up a sign that reads: 'Women Will Please Remove Their Wigs Between Intermissions.'"

"Otherwise, and I solemnly warn you and other women," my friend concluded, "that I am going to start carrying a switch-blade knife to the theatre. By the end of the season, I shall probably have the greatest collection of scalp locks since Sitting Bull. And an unobstructed view of the stage."

Pennsylvania Imponderables

SCRANTON, Pa.—Aesop, the old fable man, might make a good reporter on Republican politics in Pennsylvania. A dog stood on the Lackawanna River bridge, bone in mouth, saw a reflection of a bigger bone in the water, and jumped in to get it, losing the one in his mouth. It could happen this way because of the daft notion that the GOP candidate for governor, Congressman William Scranton, is bound to take the governorship—and thereby become a presidential possibility for 1964.

BILL SCRANTON, 45, a slight favorite in the private polls and a first-term congressman of considerable acceptance in Washington, has the air of a winner and the poise of a national figure, but his friends are tempting fate by building a White House backdrop behind his candidacy. An attractive personality, topped by an Honest Abe countenance, Scranton is a hereditary millionaire whom people easily classify as belonging to the Lovely Rich in contrast to the Filthy Rich.

BUT SO is Richardson Dilworth, his good, gray Democratic opponent, who resigned as mayor of Philadelphia in order to go all-out for the governorship. Between the two candidates, there is little to choose in charm, integrity and intellect. If some of the Philadelphia scandals have hurt Dilworth's record, although not his personal reputation, this is offset by Scranton's lack of any record in administrative experience. Dilworth is running in a state that has gone Democratic in the last two gubernatorial years, but Scranton is running in what appears to be a Republican season for gubernatorial aspirants.

THE RACE IS so close at this writing that the reporter has to look for the imponderables which so often, by hindsight, seem to tip the balance. One of these almost certainly is the Republican year to envision a Dark Horse who will out-leg GOP Nelson Rockefeller at the next Republican National Convention and beat President Kennedy in the general election. Scranton, a close friend and somewhat a protégé of Gen. Eisenhower, is one of the alert House Republicans who slowed the Kennedy juggernaut in its path to the New Frontier. At home Scranton's accomplishments, while worthy, are modest. He was the prime mover, in the town which bears his family's name, in unhorsing Democratic Mayor James Hanlon, who had the office for 16 years. In 1960, Scranton won his House seat by ousting a Democratic incumbent, Stanley Prokop, who was no great shakes.

AT BEST, THESE are not presidential qualifications, and Scranton himself makes no such claim. At worst, for his admirers to overrate him handicaps Scranton, much as Richard Nixon in California is handicapped, because they provide Democrats with the argument that the GOP candidate has his mind on something other than becoming a much-needed, single-minded governor.

Another imponderable in Pennsylvania is the imbalance of both tickets. While Scranton is favored to win, his running-mate, Congressman James Van Zandt, is expected at this writing to lose to the senatorial incumbent, Democrat Joseph Clark. Similarly, Dilworth is so far behind Clark at present sightings that the Democratic publicity materials often reverse the usual precedence and bill their ticket as Clark-Dilworth, rather than name the gubernatorial personality first.

WHETHER SCRANTON will be pulled down by Van Zandt, or Dilworth pulled up by Clark, is beyond prediction. Strangely, too, Van Zandt is much more highly regarded in Washington as a representative than Clark is as a senator. Clark is on the Kennedy-never-to-be-missed list, a left-of-liberal liberal and a constant nag to his own party. But his image in Pennsylvania is all aglow.

Rumbles of the Battle of Oxford (Miss.) are echoing in Pennsylvania, probably to the benefit of the Democrats, who are calling for a big turnout of Negro voters in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Unemployment and industrial standstill, dragging on through the administrations of Democratic Governors Leader and Lawrence, are probably helpful to the Republicans. Scranton might aid his cause with the populace, though hurt it among GOP politicians, by offering a solid plan to cut down the army of 50,000 political job-holders, or to put the necessary workers all under Civil Service.

FOR THE NATION, groaning under its stalled leadership in Washington, a victory of Scranton-Van Zandt would give hope for a national turnover two years hence. But the Republicans in Pennsylvania have not got this one in the bag by any means.

Blood Transfusions Won't Destroy Immunities

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Molner: What happens about immunities when you have large or frequent blood transfusions?

I had critical surgery twice in six months. My recovery has been excellent and my blood tests are good; but I seemed to have lost resistance or immunities I previously had. I wondered if the immunity factors were thinned, so to speak—S. P.

That's a good question. We know—as obviously you do—that the creation of "antibodies" in the blood protect us against the invasion of many kinds of germs. This is the principle on which we base all vaccinations, whether for smallpox, flu, whooping cough, tetanus or whatever.

We know that many of these immunities last a long time. Small-pox vaccination gives protection for a matter of years. Flu vaccine tapers off more rapidly.

Now how does it stick to small-pox immunity remain for such a long time? The blood itself, like the other cells in our bodies, is constantly being replaced. A blood transfusion, for example, lasts for a relatively short time, because the red cells are known to survive for something like three or four months after which they are discarded and new ones are formed to replace them.

Yet immunity remains many times as long. Why? Because immunity is created by contact with small samples of whatever we have to protect against. The chemical cells of our bodies, whether blood or other tissues, react chemically.

Loss of some blood, in an operation or otherwise, does not eliminate the traces of substances which induce creation of antibodies, or protective substances.

It's something like saying that one match can light either a small fire or a large one with equal efficiency.

I am quite sure that we have a great deal yet to learn about the exact biological processes involved, but we do know this:

Immunity is not lost or "diluted" by transfusions. In fact, the opposite can be true. New antibodies are apt to be contributed by a transfusion, so the patient gains but does not lose.

True, immunity can and does fade, but it is not because of transfusions. The exact why and wherefore are not clear, and may well be so complicated, when we finally learn all the story, that it will take a book to explain them. For the present let's just be content with knowing what happens even if we can only surmise the why. Blood transfusions will not destroy the immunities you possess.

any other time—MRS. P. R.
 Discomfort in mid-cycle (ovulation time) is not uncommon. The degree varies greatly, from very mild to pain so sharp that it can be mistaken for appendicitis or other abdominal disease. It also can alternate from one side to the other.

This condition is known medically as "mittelschmerz" or "mid-pain." A simple pain reliever is usually all that is necessary. It's wise to have a pelvic examination to be sure there's not an ovarian cyst or some other disorder.

NOTE TO MRS. L. L.: Duodenitis is inflammation of the duodenum, or first portion of the small intestine directly below the stomach. It can be a forerunner of the familiar duodenal ulcer. Diet and medication are the same for both.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Noise—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

'Mr. President' Not Best On Broadway, But Pleasant

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks to Irving Berlin and some very likable performers, "Mr. President" is a pleasant addition to Broadway's entertainment slate.

The musical that arrived Saturday night at the St. James Theatre isn't any landslide champion, mind you. But after many tryout tribulations — widely publicized along with a boxoffice advance of $2½-million—it rolls up a warm-hearted plurality with sheer good nature.

Berlin, Tin Pan Alley's 74-year-old maestro, demonstrates that a decade's layoff from composition hasn't rusted his genius for fitting homespun thoughts to highly hummable tunes.

Nanette Fabray, a darling First Lady in this yarn about a fictional White House family, gets to sing, whistle and bouncily dance several of the best—"In Our Hideaway," "Laugh It Up" and "You Need a Hobby."

Assorted members of the cast pitch in on other numbers you'll be hearing—"Pigtails and Freckles," "Empty Pockets Filled With Love," "Glad to Be Home," and "This Is a Great Country."

Co-starring with Miss Fabray is Robert Ryan, as a chief executive during final months in office and thereafter. The movie star unveils a surprisingly good baritone in several songs, and handles his dramatic chores with engaging urbanity.

Other noteworthy performers are Anita Gillette, as their daughter; Jack Haskell, a Secret Service man; Jack Washburn, a romantic Oriental; and Wisa d'Orso, who gets shoehorned in for a show-stopping torso dance that doesn't have much to do with the plot.

The story, as a matter of fact, is the main handicap to "Mr. President." Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse have assembled a rickety string of situations.

O-O-O! Which One?

Four-year-old Debra Jan Stevenson, visiting Six Flags Over Texas, seems delighted at the choice of colorful balloons offered by her candy-stripe host, George Bentley. Debra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill L. Stevenson of Sherman. The 105-acre amusement park located between Dallas and Fort Worth will close its 1962 season Nov. 25.

Successful World's Fair Ends; Science Rates As Tops

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Successful beyond expectation, the Seattle World's Fair passed into history today and left as part of its legacy a $50-million civic center and a science museum.

In addition to the pavilion, permanent buildings include the plush, 3,000-seat opera house, the smaller playhouse, a display hall and a coliseum. The privately operated 600-foot Space Needle, with a restaurant on top, also will remain.

Approximately 13,000 crowded into the outdoor stadium for a climactic program which featured fireworks, bands, drill teams and opera star Patrice Munsel.

At an afternoon ceremony, the though many may not have an understanding for science, they have a healthy respect for it. There is an awe shown."

Button figures an average of about 22,000 people a day visited the space show during the peak months of July and August. And after school started attendance was still surprisingly high—about 10,000 on week days and maybe double that on weekends.

He said figures show it was the second most popular display on the fairs grounds.

In top place in popularity was the United States Science Pavilion.

DALLAS (AP) — A final day crowd of 185,000 closed out the State Fair Sunday to boost attendance to 2,773,000.

This mark was exceeded only by the 1959 fair which added an extra night for a run of 17 nights and a total crowd of 2,801,305.

Good weather was a factor. Last year attendance was 2,764,398.

Entries of Charlotte Seaton, 15, of Friona and Dick Bolton, 16, of Lubbock took top honors in the junior barrow auction.

Charlotte's 204-pound, 5-month-old barrow took the grand champion of show award and was sold for $600 to Wesley Ballmann for Burrus-Texo Feed Mills of Fort Worth.

Jameel Behbehani, owned by R. B. Cowden of Midland and ridden by Lynn Welch, took first honors in the opening cutting horse event.

FAIL - SAFE. By Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler. McGraw-Hill, $4.95.

By The Associated Press

Primarily this is a suspense chiller, about the Russians and Americans blowing each other up.

But it has to be cross-indexed as a Book With a Message. In addition, it has some of the attributes of science fiction.

The key idea in this piece of fiction is that a nuclear war might be set off accidentally. That is an admitted possibility in this era, and the authors have made the most of it, poetically. But there is some question whether they have stayed within the bounds of credibility.

The time is 1967, and several things are assumed to have happened by that date. Among the assumptions are the launching by both the Russians and the Americans of spy satellites so technically perfect that they can pick up a truck or tank at any spot on the earth and relay back the magnified image, and that someone has installed a "hot wire" telephone for emergency use between the American President and Khrushchev.

The Strategic Air Command at Omaha is thrown into an alert by a mechanically crippled airliner, but as the alert ends, one squadron of six nuclear bombers keeps going toward Russia. There is a vague, implausible explanation, involving a double coincidence, to account for the idea that the squadron cannot be recalled. The American President gets on the "hot wire" to Khrushchev to tell him this is a deplorable accident.

Even with the hasty guidance of the American plotting rooms to their Soviet equivalents, the Russians are so inept that two of the six bombers get through to Moscow, with consequent melodramatic incidents on the American side.

Burdick is a co-author of "The Ugly American," which also was a Book With a Message about the U. S. foreign service. This novel obviously is designed to stir up a commotion about accidental nuclear warfare. Maybe it will.

Like many a book of science fiction, this one has a plethora of trappings that make for a convincing atmosphere of technical fireworks. But like many science fiction writers, the authors seem very inept at any human equations. The conversations between the American President and Khrushchev are windy pomposities; the supposedly flesh and blood characters are wooden puppets dancing at the plot's command—we just know that one collier in the strategic plotting room will break under the strain because it says here that his parents were drunkards; there is a satirical picture of a civilian war theorist, blurred by an utterly irrelevant episode with a sex-hungry society matron. We don't expect much characterization in a suspense novel, of course; but what there is here seems amateurish.

The book is exciting, no doubt about it, if you overlook the improbably human reactions to every aspect of the horrendous crisis. But for a Book With a Message, it deals rather strongly in sensationalism.

Video Flunks Again With New Car Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In spite of numerous attempts, television has not yet found a way to put on a satisfactory fashion show or an entertaining automobile show. It is probably because the clothes and the cars bore viewers who want entertainment, and the entertainment annoys the clothes- or car-lovers.

There were moments Sunday night during NBC's camera tour of the National Automobile Show in Detroit when such experienced men as Chet Huntley and Hugh Downs sounded like those card-reading commentators at fashion show luncheons rattling off details about the next dress coming up.

The entertainment-comedy by hand puppets and some music-seemed like frantic afterthoughts. It was really a show for automobile enthusiasts. Incidentally, the auto news, if one judges by the television show, seems to be about the same as the dress news: new models will be a little longer.

Automobiles look more beautiful and exciting in their makers' lively commercials than set like gleaming static gems on turntables.

Jack Webb was busily sabotaging Nazis in occupied Norway Sunday night on CBS—an exciting tale based on a real-life commando mission. Then, with a flip of the dial, one found an NBC drama in which the enemies were the Communists of Red-dominated Germany today.

The latter story, in spite of its East Berlin setting, was only incidentally a tale of escape. Primarily, it posed an interesting philosophical question.

A neutral East Berlin scholar, buried in his work, was drawn into an anti-Communist plot against his will. Was he wrong to betray the underground to his Red benefactors? (After being tortured, he decided he was.)

A sympathetic performance by Burt Brinkerhoff as the betrayer actually made his a sympathetic character. The show, however, was slow-moving and ponderous.

"You," said my doctor, scribbling a prescription, "have a mild upper respiratory infection." "You mean a head cold?" I asked.

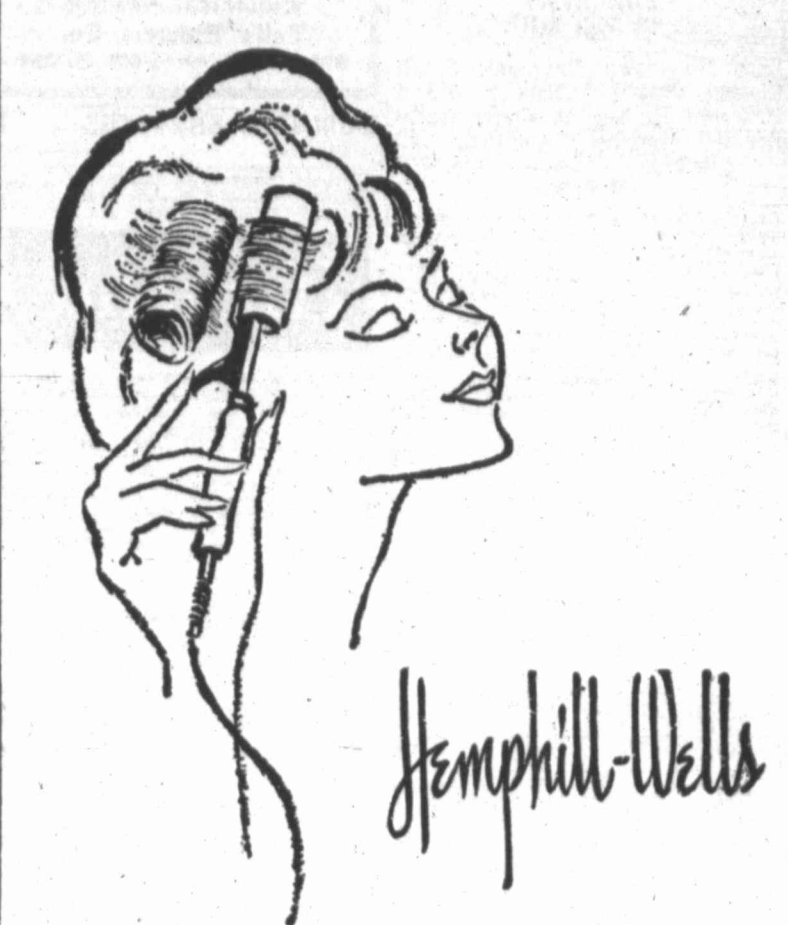

"Sure," he replied. "But I try to talk like Ben Casey nowadays. I keep an eye on those shows because it helps me keep up with the symptoms the patients bring in. The patients in those television doctor-shows give my more suggestive patients ideas, and if you know what diseases are coming up, you can handle them easier."

But you know and I know that nobody in a television doctor show ever had anything as mild as an upper respiratory infection.

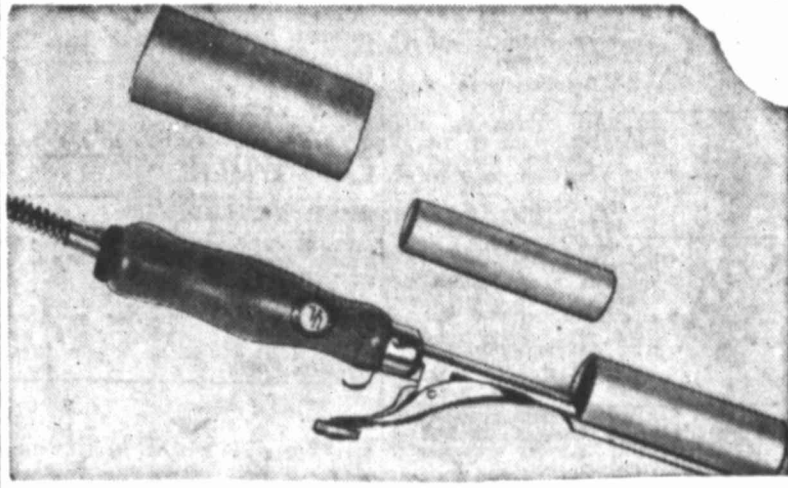

Recommended tonight: Telephone Hour, NBC, 10-11—musical variety hour with Robert Goulet and Cyril Ritchard as guest performers.
