Nixon worse

Two Marine sergeants arrived at the hospital on Thursday, ready to serve as the former president's honor guard should he die from the stroke he suffered Monday.

"His condition has deteriorated. He's in a very deep coma," Kathy Robinson, a spokeswoman for New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said late Thursday. "His family is at his bedside."

Hospital officials announced earlier in the day that the 81-year-old Nixon had slipped into unconsciousness after developing swelling of the brain, a potentially deadly complication of the stroke he suffered on Monday.

Doctors sometimes try to reduce such swelling by using a respirator to speed up breathing, but Nixon was not on a respirator, and news reports said he had left instructions that he not be resuscitated.

Kathy O'Connor, a Nixon spokeswoman, confirmed he has a living will, but she would not discuss it.

Nixon's doctors and aides would not discuss his treatment or condition in detail. But other doctors said the coma sharply reduced his chances of survival and virtually guaranteed he would never recover his powers of expression.

EARTH DAY — In observance of Earth Day, Vanessa Taylor's fifth grade class at Northeast Elementary designed and painted T-shirts to wear when they planted wild flowers in an abandoned flower bed on the west side of the school building. SHS band wins top recognition

SHS band members scored a "1" in concert and in sight reading Thursday at the UIL Concert and Sight Reading Contest in Plainview.

Coupled with the "1" earned during marching competition in the fall, the achievement earned SHS a sweepstakes award for band.

Band director Walter Reneau said he was proud the group of 66 students was able to overcome unfamiliar surroundings.

"The sound from that stage (at Wayland Baptist University) was quite a bit different than what we are used to in our rehearsal hall and it made us a little uneasy. I wasn't real comfortable with what I was hearing, but when the tape was played back, it sounded much better," he said. "The students did well. I was pleased. It was a tough contest."

The six judges — three in sight reading and three in concert — all gave Snyder a "1." One of the six men was former SHS band director Melvin Montgomery.

"It was a pleasure to hear the Snyder band again," wrote Montgomery. "It is good to see the quality is still excellent. Congratulations on a good job and keep up the good work."

Plainview and Frenship bands also scored 1s in concert and sight reading. Levelland and Lamesa each scored a 2 and a 2, and Estacado scored a 3 and a 4.

Senators divided over what to do in Bosnia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who help shape the nation's defense policy are deeply divided over what to do about Bosnia, wrenched between the impulse to show U.S. initiative and the fear of shedding American blood.

Their split reflects the general disparity of opinions in Congress over how to stop the dying in Bosnia without American involvement the nation may later come to regret.

On one side of the policy debate was Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who reproached the administration for a "pinprick" approach to air strikes.

He said the United States and its allies must be willing to escalate the air war, adding: "I don't think Serbia itself can be exempt in terms of targeting from this air campaign."

Secretary of State Warren Christopher said in an interview Thursday on PBS' "MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour" that bombing attacks against Serbia, the patron of the Bosnian Serbs, was "not on the table at the present time, but it certainly can be considered in the future."

Warning against widening the air strikes were two members of Nunn's committee with strong military credentials — Sens. John McCain, R-Ariz., and John Warner, R-Va.

McCain, who spent six years in a prisoner-of-war camp during the Vietnam War, warned against "incremental escalation" and said he feared the United States will soon "face a choice between deploying American ground troops or withdrawing in abject defeat."

Warner, a former secretary of the Navy, said it was wrong to "mislead the American people that air could turn this battle. Sometimes leadership is more difficult to exercise by way of restraint than just using the forces of military as they are designed and trained to do."

President Clinton said Wednesday he would urge NATO allies to expand air strikes against Serb forces attacking six U.N.-designated "safe havens" in Bosnia.

"We cannot turn our back on this situation," Christopher said. He said France is already behind expanding air power to protect Muslim communities and force the Serbs to the peace table. NATO's North Atlantic Council is to take up the issue today.

The frustrations of confronting the Bosnia crisis surfaced Thursday when the Senate, after hours of debate, set aside a non-binding measure that called for the lifting of an arms embargo on Bosnia.

Two Fed vacancies filled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton, making his first appointments to the Federal Reserve Board, today selected White House economist Alan Blinder to be vice chairman and nominated University of California economist Janet L. Yellen to a second vacancy.

Blinder, a former Princeton economics professor, is currently a member of the White House Council of Economic Advisers. His nomination had been expected for some time.

The move could put Blinder in line to succeed Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan when Greenspan's term expires in March 1996, should Clinton decide not to appoint Greenspan to a third term as chairman.

Yellen is a former colleague of Laura D'Andrea Tyson, the chairwoman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Tyson also taught economics at the University of California.

Today's nominations give Clinton his first opportunity to put a stamp on the powerful seven-member board that sets the nation's monetary policy, including determining the size of the nation's money supply and setting interest rates.

The other five members of the board, including Greenspan, were all appointed by Republican presidents Ronald Reagan and George Bush.

The announcements — to fill seats that had been vacant for months — comes just days after the central bank board raised interest rates for the third time since February.

The Fed has raised short-term rates three quarters of a percentage point in an attempt to help guard against a return of inflation.

Both Blinder and Yellen are viewed as pragmatists rather than strict inflation-fighters.

The current Greenspan board has made inflation fighting its primary goal and the latest rise in interest rates — although not criticized directly by the administration — has made some administration economic officials nervous.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Real lessons in life come in learning to take the good with the bad, the bitter with the sweet, and the speaker with dinner."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Think you've got a tough job, consider the door-to-door salesman who showed up at the newspaper office in Rotan.

He was selling signs which read, "No soliciting."

O.G. Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, is thinking about sending in one of his paper's miscues to Jay Leno's Tonight show.

In a Sunday Senior Scene section, the Brand had a sentence that should have read: "Many people haven't planned for long-term care, so they and their families must now confront innumerable decisions..."

Instead of long-term care, the typesetter had "long-germ care."

Stephen Henry, in the Levelland News-Press, had an interesting story about setting an example.

The father was explaining to his 10-year-old son the importance of giving up something for Lent. The father explained that sacrifice would improve character. He added, "Your mother and I have given up liquor for Lent."

"That's funny," said the boy. "I saw you and mom having a drink before dinner last night."

"That was wine," countered the father. "We gave up hard liquor."

"Oh that's good," the boy said. "I'll give up hard candy."

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, told about an Arkansas legislator who was in Amarillo to speak to the Panhandle Press Association.

He told of a movement afoot to rename Highway 71 in that state that runs from Texarkana north to Fayetteville. Somebody wants to name it the Bill Clinton highway.

He explained why: "It's crooked, slippery and has a yellow stripe down the middle."

No sweaty palms at this competition

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Finnish pianist Ralf Gothoni shuns the spotlight, strictly avoids competitions and doesn't like to play solo recitals.

Last year, when the Finnish ambassador to England invited him to play at Queen Elizabeth Hall, Gothoni turned him down. And when the prestigious Sibelius Academy in Helsinki invited him there, he said he was too busy.

After the recalcitrant Finn finally did play, he won the 1994 Gilmore Artist award, worth more than $500,000 in cash, concert fees and artistic management.

It is one of the world's richest — and strangest — music competitions.

Like the 77 other nominess, Gothoni didn't even know he was in the running. The judges work surreptitiously, attending concerts incognito and listening to tapes of nominees. Only the winner ever finds out he or she was nominated.

When offered the award, a stunned Gothoni, who hadn't participated in a piano competition since he was 7, responded with a cool, "We'll see."

He accepted.

"Music is not like a sport," Gothoni said Thursday. "This award is wonderful because it is not like a competition at all."

The offbeat, 3-year-old competition was conceived by David Pocock, artistic director of the Irving S. Gilmore International Keyboard Festival.

"I figured the last thing the world needs is another piano competition," said Pocock, who also heads the award search committee.

On Saturday night, Gothoni makes his debut as the 1994 Gilmore Artist at the nine-day festival. The event features more than 150 solo recitals, concerto and chamber performances by about 35 musicians, including Ray Charles, Branford Marsalis and Andre Watts. About 65,000 people are expected to attend.

The Gilmore Award search committee seeks secret nominations from more than 100 international musicians and music experts. A jury of 13 then listens to hundreds of hours of recordings to narrow the field.

Then jury members, many of them well-known musicians themselves, travel around the world, listening to five finalists perform at concerts and trying very hard to keep their mission a secret.

Sometimes, they run into roadblocks, such as Gothoni's shyness.

Your Birthday

Saturday, April 23, 1994

In the year ahead you might be luckier than usual in establishing relationships with persons who provide accurate tips. If their record holds up, try to benefit from their information.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Base your decisions on realistic assumptions today and not on how you feel about things. Your logic can help you while your intuition could blur the picture. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a possibility you might be disappointed today by someone you've recently helped when he/she doesn't respond to your request for assistance. Live and learn.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very selective today regarding your participation in social activities. Don't attend functions that have cliques who fail to receive you properly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Certain advantages can be gained today through the proper quid pro quo arrangements that permits each party to get what he/she wants. If it isn't equal, it won't produce.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Impressive accomplishments are probable today with individuals whose ambitions and interests parallel yours. Conversely, success could be denied in arrangements where goals aren't in harmony.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Buying and selling might not be strong suits for you today, so be very careful operating in these areas or else you may pay more than you should or be unable to use what you purchase.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not jeopardize an important relationship today through a lack of tolerance and understanding on your behalf. Trying to make others over in your image could produce a flawed product.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually your hunches are more frequently right than they are wrong. Today, however, could be an exception, so don't bank too heavily on your intuition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take credit today for things you've done on your own, but in arrangements where others helped you, be sure to let them share in the spotlight as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Gains might be measured in inches instead of yards today where the advancement of personal interests are concerned. If you try to jump ahead, you might trip over your own feet.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you don't know something today, don't pretend that you do, because your ruse could be discovered and cause you embarrassment.

ARIES (March 21-June 20) In your business dealings today strive to be fair and honest, but don't feel compelled to give away more than you should. Remember, it's got to be good for you as well.

What to expect in medical checkup

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you print a brief list of what one is to expect in a complete general checkup? I'm 72 and know I will be weighed and have my blood pressure checked, but what else should I expect?

DEAR READER: To a large degree, the extent of a physical examination depends on the patient's age, symptoms and general state of health.

For a 72-year-old, this is what is considered to be a reasonably complete medical evaluation: a thorough history of any illnesses, disorders or symptoms you have had; an analysis of risk factors (such as family history of cancer, whether you smoke and how much alcohol you consume); a complete examination (starting at the top of your head and continuing down to your feet).

In addition, you should have a complete blood count (to check your red and white corpuscles), a chemical screening test (to measure blood sugar and cholesterol, among many other factors), a prostate antigen blood test (if you're male), a check for blood in your stool, a flexible sigmoidoscopy (to identify colon polyps), and a urinalysis.

An electrocardiogram may be helpful but is not vital. A stress test is warranted if you have heart symptoms, such as chest pain. A chest X-ray is not mandatory, unless you are a smoker, have a chronic lung condition (such as chronic bronchitis) or suffer from symptoms, such as cough. People over 50 should have an eye examination to check for glaucoma, and women, after menopause, should have annual mammograms.

Of course, if you have symptoms, they should be investigated with tests. For example, joint pains require additional blood tests and, perhaps, X-rays. Indigestion means that you should have intestinal X-rays. Fever would indicate the need for special tests of your body fluids.

By paying close attention to clues he discovers in your medical history and examination, your doctor will suggest other examinations and testing that are appropriate for your particular health problems. Thus, the abbreviated list I gave serves only as a general guide for average people.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a beautiful 19-year-old daughter with excessive hair growth on her face. She saw a certified electrologist for two years, but without significant improvement, she stopped going. A doctor took blood and checked her hormones. That wasn't a problem, but he didn't offer suggestions. I hate to see her going through life having to pluck, wax and shave. Is there a procedure that could help her?

DEAR READER: If, as you said, your daughter doesn't suffer from a hormonal imbalance, I'm afraid that she will have to address her problem using cosmetic techniques. Plucking, waxing and shaving may be nuisances, but I am unaware of any other treatment that would be appropriate in her case.

Nonetheless, to cover all the bases, I recommend that she be seen by a dermatologist, who will — perhaps — be able to tailor therapy to your daughter's specific condition.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2483, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Enjoy bridge, enjoy life

If you walk into a bridge club and watch play in progress, you witness a sea of serious faces. Rarely will anyone smile or — crime of crimes — laugh. And if someone does laugh, you will hear "Quiet, please" from all corners of the room. It is one reason why beginners feel intimidated by bridge clubs. We should take the game less seriously.

South was lucky and then unlucky on today's deal, but he didn't lose his sense of humor.

Four diamonds and five clubs were cue-bids. Five no-trump was the Grand Slam Force, asking about trump honors. North's six-club reply showed the ace or king of spades. Then South closed his eyes, hoping North had only two clubs, or the club queen, or the diamond queen, or stronger hearts.

West led a trump, dummy's eight winning the trick. The right line is to ruff a heart, playing for hearts 4-4 or a heart-club squeeze. Instead, South started with dummy's club ace. When no honor appeared, declarer bravely led a diamond to his 10. It held! Trying not to smile, South played off the A-K of diamonds, planning to discard one of dummy's clubs. Imagine his dismay when West ruffed the third diamond. One down after all.

South showed remarkable composure at this cruel turn of fate. He said: "This reminds me of the time I was in a serious accident. My car was totaled, but I was unhurt. However, as I climbed out of the wreckage, I slipped on a banana-peel, fell and broke my arm."

Fighting city hall has new meaning

DALLAS (AP) — Video images of a prominent political activist being wrestled to the floor as he lunged toward a city councilman. Threats from residents and fellow council members.

In Dallas, the old adage 'You can't fight City Hall' seems to have taken on new meaning.

And while the verbal jousting, rambling tirades and scuffles are nothing new at City Hall, former councilman Jerry Bartos described recent scenes downtown as "the biggest spectacle ever."

"The reason I left, and I'm just going to take a little credit for it, I thought this was going to happen, and I'm delighted I'm not there," said Bartos, who served from 1987 to 1993.

But another former council member, Lori Palmer, says she believes Wednesday's outburst — in which Marvin Crenshaw tried to punch Councilman Bob Stimson — was a fairly isolated case.

"It gives the impression, clearly, that there is some significant increase in violence in our city, and I don't think that's the case as it relates to political forums," Ms. Palmer said.

Crenshaw's actions came moments after the council decided against considering a proposal to rename Illinois Avenue in honor of Malcolm X, an effort he led.

It prompted his second arrest in a week on an assault charge. The first followed a scuffle last week with a security officer at a City Plan Commission meeting, police said.

Irving Baker, associate professor of political science at Southern Methodist University, said he sees the latest episodes as "incidents of overreaction" and behavior not uncharacteristic of politics.

He views Crenshaw's actions and some other City Hall incidents as "expressions of powerless."

Baker, who came to Dallas about 20 years ago from New York, said volatility has long been synonymous with Dallas politics. And he believes the greater level "reflects the degree to which the black community has been out of the political process in any effective and affective way."

Black council members Charlotte Mayes and Sandra Crenshaw, Marvin Crenshaw's cousin, said some of the frustrations being vented at City Hall come from newcomers to the political process.

"There are people coming out to City Hall that have never been there in their life," said Deputy Mayor Pro Tem Mayes, "and they're learning that democracy does work."

Some of them, she said, are frustrated with the lack of good jobs in their community.

"We're working frantically and furiously to correct those problems, and I think it's finally starting to happen," Ms. Mayes said.

Bartos' assessment is that the council hasn't successfully tackled meaningful issues.

"I just think it's like nomadic, they're not going anywhere," he said. "It's a very wandering bunch of people that dislike each other. They don't tolerate the public very well, and I think we can see the public doesn't tolerate them."

Ms. Crenshaw, who said she was threatened with assault in February by a woman who faced possible ejection from a bus tour, has requested beefed up security at some public meetings.

Councilman Don Hicks, who has been at the center of some controversial outbursts, said he was threatened with assault Wednesday.

But he's also been on the other side of the conflicts.

Missionaries to speak at Trinity

Short-term missionaries Eva and George Wickes of Dayton, Ind. will speak at Trinity United Methodist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Eva is the aunt of former resident Mrs. Gene Dow who now resides in Seminole.

The Wickes returned in February from a year in Karaghanda, Kazakhstan of the former U.S.S.R., where they assisted the Spottswood family who minister there full-time.

The Wickes are affiliated with World Gospel Mission which seconded them to the Mission Society for United Methodists for the Kazakhstan mission. While there, the Wickes helped care for the four Spottswood children, assisted with church planting and evangelism efforts, and led Bible studies.

They have served on 29 short-term mission trips and conducted more than 400 lay witness mission.

The Wickes have two daughters and two sons, plus two adopted Korean sons, and one adopted Korean daughter. They have also worked with foster children.

Prior to Wickes retirement, he was employed by Eli Lilly & Company.

A sandwich supper will follow the presentation, and Trinity members Margaret and Bill Bass of Snyder will be extended farewell wishes by the congregation.

Tigers host Lobos to start homestand

The Snyder Tigers start an important 2-game homestand tonight when they host Levelland in a 7:30 matchup at Moffett Field.

The Tigers are tied for second place in the district with a 4-2 record after Tuesday's 8-1 road win over Lamesa. Plainview and Estacado are also 4-2 heading into weekend games.

Following their meeting with Levelland, the Tigers will entertain loop leader Frenship on Tuesday before closing out the season on the road at Plainview and Estacado.

Snyder accumulated a dozen hits in Tuesday's victory at Lamesa, including a 3-run homer by John Clinkinbeard and winning pitcher Reagan Key's 2-run dinger.

"We hit the ball really well," said SHS coach Albert Lewis. "In fact, we played a great game all around.

"We've got two home games coming up and we need to win both of those to stay in the middle of the playoff race."

Snyder is hitting over .400 as a team, led by Clinkinbeard's .700-plus average with with 11 RBI, since beginning loop play. Curt Rinehart carries a .529 mark and Bryant Roberson is hitting at a .412 clip.

Idom tossed a 1-hitter against Estacado a week ago, leading the Tigers to a 10-0 shutout victory.

Snyder topped the Lobos, 14-1, in the two teams' previous meeting this year, slamming 18 hits, including a homer by Bryan Lickey.

Levelland, winless in six loop encounters, is 10-12 on the year, including a 10-4 loss to Estacado on Tuesday.

In other district games, Lamesa (13-10, 1-5) is at Frenship (14-9, 5-1) and Plainview (13-11, 4-2) visits Estacado (13-10, 4-2) on Saturday.

Lacewell in charge of Dallas' draft

IRVING (AP) — Jimmy Johnson called him the finest football technician he has ever been around.

At Wichita State, Oklahoma State and Oklahoma, Johnson learned how to judge football talent under this man.

Meet Larry Lacewell, who will be on the hot spot for the Dallas Cowboys in Sunday's NFL draft.

Lacewell, the director of the Cowboys college scouting, will be making recommendations to owner Jerry Jones and new coach Barry Switzer.

It's the first time for all three of them to be in the spotlight.

"We don't know what's going to happen," Lacewell said. "We need help in the defensive line and at linebacker. But we've lost some free agents so we might have to make a call at another position. It should be interesting."

Perhaps not as interesting as when Johnson, who split with Jones after a personal feud ran too deep, was calling the draft day shots.

Johnson wheeled and dealed, gambled and won, gambled and lost.

But Johnson could recognize talent and, more importantly, an athlete's heart and courage.

Emmitt Smith was the prime example. He was passed over by 13 teams because of a too slow, too small label.

"The other teams didn't measure my heart but coach Johnson did," Smith said. "He knows there is more to football than computer statistics."

While everyone will be wondering what Johnson would have done in this draft, Jones gets his chance to be up front and center.

Jones had been little more than a sideshow in the Cowboys previous drafts. Now, he'll make the calls based on Lacewell's recommendations.

"It will be my call based on all of our information," Jones said.

"I'll be watching and learning," Switzer said.

The Cowboys will be taking a long look at defensive linemen like Henry Ford of Arkansas, Sam Adams of Texas A&M, and Joe Johnson of Louisville. Losing tackle Tony Casillas to Kansas City and Jimmie Jones to the Los Angeles Rams has cut into the Cowboys' depth at the position.

Public Notice

On February 22, 1994, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company ("Southwestern Bell" or "Company") filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") to restructure the Company's Local Transport and Directory Transport categories of its Switched Access Service. This matter has been assigned to Docket No. 12784. The tariff sheets in Southwestern Bell's application, if approved, will bring the Company's intrastate Access Service Tariff into structural parity with the Company's interstate Tariff No. 73 for Local Transport. Southwestern Bell's companion interstate tariff became effective on January 1, 1994.

The transport rate elements provide for the transmission facilities between the cutomer's premises and the end office switch(es) where the customer's traffic is switched to originate or terminate the customer's communications.

Southwestern Bell proposes to implement the revised tariffs on a revenue neutral basis. Although the proposed tariff changes will affect all customers subscribing to Switched Access Service, the Local Transport and Directory Transport categories of Southwestern Bell's Switched Access Service is primarily for interexchange carriers. If approved, this application will result in an increase in Southwestern Bell's revenues of approximately $1682.00 during the first year. Southwestern Bell proposes that the changes be effective on December 1, 1994.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is May 6, 1994.

Dear Abby

Lawyer Makes Case Against Surrogate Mothers as Saints

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised at your response to the woman who agreed to be a surrogate mother for a woman who had tried unsuccessfully for 10 years to have a baby. You described the process in charitable terms reserved for martyrs and saints.

As an attorney who has researched the subject, the matter is by no means as simple and altruistic as that.

While you refer to the process as a gift to enable a woman to have a child, the would-be surrogate stated that she would be paid $5,000 at the time of conception, and $5,000 upon the delivery of a healthy, normal child. In other words, this is not a gift; it is a fee for services rendered.

Abby, if the surrogate mother is doing this out of the kindness of her heart, she should accept only reimbursement for medical expenses.

In the cases I have read, never has a wealthy woman donated the use of her body to a woman in financial straits.

Except in true donation situations where the surrogate is, for example, a mother or sister of the adopting mother, the surrogate expects to be paid. This is not to say that she finds the procedure distasteful; she merely regards it as an easy way to make some extra money.

Finally, carrying and bearing a child for another woman is an emotionally complicated way to make money. It is difficult enough to bear one's own child, and situations arise where surrogates do not want to give up the child; or children who are less-than-perfect are rejected; or where marriages break down, leaving the child in limbo. As things work in our society, the only ones who benefit are the lawyers who pick up the pieces.

I happen to be a female attorney and member of the New York, New Jersey and Maryland bar associations.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME WITHHELD: Granted, the lawyers do benefit, but the couple also benefits by getting a much-wanted child. And the surrogate mother not only benefits monetarily, she also gains the satisfaction of knowing she was able to perform a service for an infertile couple.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We really appreciated all the columns on "The Childless Couple." My husband and I are also a childless couple, and we have no regrets. Our reason, it so happens, was a physical one.

My husband was in the Army when we found out we couldn't have children. Moving around as we did made adoption impossible. After my husband's retirement, we came to Ruston, La., to live. Both his mother and mine were widows, and they came here to live, too. Shortly after we arrived, my sister died, leaving me an only child. My husband had a stepsister who lived in Arkansas. Both moms reached the point in their lives where they could not live alone.

James promised his mother and mine that they would never be put in a nursing home — and he kept that promise. We thank the good Lord that we had the time and energy to care for our moms, and give back to them a part of what they had given us.

If we had children, we could not have cared for our moms the way we did.

JAMES AND JANIS PIERCE,
RUSTON, LA.

IRS problem solvers available

DALLAS — Been back and forth through normal channels trying to get a knotty tax problem resolved? There is someone at the Internal Revenue Service to help you.

The Problem Resolution Program was established to help cut through red tape and help taxpayers with chronic tax problems like missing refunds, scrambled Social Security numbers and incorrect billings.

The IRS cautions that the program is not a substitute for normal procedures. For examples, taxpayers who have not received their tax refund should call the IRS tax information, 900-829-1040, before contacting Problem Resolution.

If the issue is unresolved after that contact, the person can ask to be referred to Problem Resolution.

Most taxpayers will never need the program's services, but those with a persistent tax problem will find Problem Resolution willing and able to help.

Contact: Steve Yost, East Texas, 713-653-3670; Bill Moore North Texas, 214-767-1424; Sally Sassen, West Texas, 512-499-5315, all of the Internal Revenue Service.

U.S. House oks crime bill; penalties closer to reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — House passage of a $28 billion crime bill moves one step closer to reality dozens of new capital crimes, life imprisonment for third-time drug and violent felons and thousands of new cops on the beat.

But first, the House must deal with assault weapons.

The Senate's $22 billion crime bill, passed last November, would ban 19 specific types of domestic and imported assault-style weapons, and President Clinton wants that passed, either in the crime bill or as a separate measure.

The House has never voted on such legislation. Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee's crime subcommittee, says it is still 15 to 20 votes short of passage.

But Clinton is "going to roll up his sleeves and get personally involved in this fight," Schumer said White House officials told him Thursday.

Clinton cheered the House's 285-141 vote passing its crime bill Thursday.

"The House of Representatives made their intentions clear: crime will not pay," Clinton said in a statement read by Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers. "Democrats and Republicans joined together to break the gridlock and make our streets safer."

The bill drew the support of 219 Democrats, 65 Republicans and one independent. Voting against it were 107 Republicans and 34 Democrats. House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., who by tradition seldom votes, cast his vote in favor of the bill.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Texas, extolled the House bill's "genuine balance between hard-nosed punishment and forward-looking prevention."

"When I go to conference (with the Senate), I intend to see that this careful balance is maintained so that the final product sent to the president's desk will make a difference where it really counts — in our communities, in our schools, and yes, in our very homes," Brooks said.

But that balance, and the funding for it, as well as the so-called Racial Justice Act included in the House bill, are expected to be major points of contention in the upcoming House-Senate conference, which must agree on a compromise version of the bill.

The Racial Justice Act would let defendants facing the death penalty use racial statistics on capital punishment as evidence of discrimination.

Getting rid of it is the Republicans' top priority.

"In its present form, this eliminates the death penalty as we know it in this country, and we cannot vote for that," Republican Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia told reporters.

There is no similar provision in the Senate bill.

As to the funding balance, the House bill specifically authorizes $13.5 billion for state prison grants and $3.45 billion for 50,000 community police officers, plus $7 billion for crime prevention and $2 billion for rehabilitation, such as drug treatment for prisoners.

House leaders have said they will accept the Senate's figure of $8.9 billion for 100,000 new police officers, and Attorney General Janet Reno has told Congress that the administration supports the full $9 billion in the House bill for prevention and rehabilitation funds.

The House bill's $13.5 billion in state prison grants has little in common with the Senate's $3 billion for regional prisons.

The House version would offer bonuses to states working toward "truth-in-sentencing" standards by incarcerating violent criminals more often and longer.

The Senate bill, by contrast, envisions regional prisons housing inmates from several states, as well as federal convicts. It requires states that want to participate to meet, in advance, such standards as requiring all violent criminals to serve at least 85 percent of their sentences.

Roseanne drops divorce proceedings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That bit about Roseanne and Tom Arnold getting a divorce? Abuse allegations? Extramarital affairs? Forget about that stuff.

That was before. All the way back to Monday.

The Arnolds want to reunite.

Mrs. Arnold announced Thursday that she no longer wants that divorce she filed for.

"Please forgive me to everyone I love. I just lost it completely and found myself camping in the Sequoias," she said, referring to the California national park. "I am off for a much-needed rest to attempt to put my marriage and my head back together."

She even extended an olive branch to her assistant Kim Silva, whose relationship with Tom Arnold was the subject of much gossip.

"I must apologize to my husband, Tom, and to my dear friend Kim Silva for letting outsiders, nasty gossip and lies finally break me down and leave me reeling," she said.

Kevin Campbell, a spokesman for Mrs. Arnold, said the divorce action is being dropped.

"This is a great first step toward a healthy and loving resolution of the crisis," he said.

Mrs. Arnold didn't retract the allegations of abuse she had made against her husband in a restraining order request that accompanied her divorce petition.

However, she said she shares some of the blame for the couple's problems.

"Tom never hurt my children, and often our fights in the past have led to physical action which we both are learning to control," she said.

Earlier in the week, Arnold denied abusing his wife.

There was no word on when the couple might actually kiss and make up.

The couple had separated Friday after an argument on the set of "Roseanne," which has completed filming for the season.

Mrs. Arnold, her brown hair now dyed blond, slipped in and out of her walled Tudor-style home in the city's Brentwood section on Thursday.

Clinton's Cabinet sets weekend meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton is giving up his Saturday golf game and taping his weekly radio address to make room this weekend for another of his favorite pastimes: talking shop.

Over dinner tonight and at a daylong session Saturday, Clinton and his Cabinet will hash over their goals for 1994 and beyond and take stock of how well they work together.

Just don't call it a retreat, thank you.

"It's a Cabinet working session," said Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers. "A retreat is kind of overstating it."

That may be to differentiate this year's gabfest from last year's — a touchy-feely gathering at Camp David where professional "facilitators" had members of the new team share telling experiences from childhood as part of a trust-building exercise.

Details of the hush-hush session dribbled out and it was disclosed that Clinton had told the group about how other children taunted him for being chubby when he was young.

There will be no New Age bonding exercises this year.

Expect some serious talk about the historical relationships between presidents and their cabinets and a lot of discussion about fostering teamwork on the Clinton team.

"It will be taking stock, as any good organization does," said one senior administration official who spoke on condition of anonymity. "Think of it as if you have a large national corporation, you bring in your division presidents to take stock of where you all are right now."

Myers said the gathering also is designed to let Cabinet members "coordinate agendas and talk through initiatives for the coming year and beyond. ... It's tough during the working week to have an opportunity to discuss all these issues at a ... daylong session that is uninterrupted by people like me."

Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt said he's looking forward to "just a lot of chances to sit around and talk in free-form style rather than in structured settings."

Name: Geraldine Parker

Age: 63

Address: 3765 Avondale

Occupation: Supervisor of adult education, WTC

Civic, fraternal, church or other affiliations: Member, vice president, Snyder Chapter of Texas Retired Teachers Association; member First Baptist Church; member, past president of Zeta Lambda Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma International; member Phi Delta Kappa; past president Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association, Dist. 14.

Prior board experience? Snyder ISD board, 1991-94; Scurry County Senior Center board, 1986-90; Snyder Day Care Center board, 1982-83; Abilene State School Outreach Center (Sweetwater) executive board, 1974-76.

1. What do you consider the most pressing problem facing your school district today? Outline the solution to this need.

To secure and support proactive leadership. Through communication among the board, the staff and the community, pride and confidence in our school system can be enhanced.

2. If you are required to make a decision to either raise taxes or limit services which would you choose? Or, do you have an idea to bridge the problem?

Instructional programs for students must be of primary importance in making sound financial decisions. Creative leadership, cooperation of staff will enable this school to continue with the programs students need. There is no magic formula with which to provide for educational needs during difficult financial times. We need to look for waste, pare back and prioritize; only after these measures do we need to examine raising the tax rate.

3. State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished within the school district.

To ensure that all students leave this school with reading, writing and math skills. To secure a safe, disciplined environment for students and staff.

4. Define briefly the role of a school board member.

The individual board member joins other board members in setting goals and establishing policy for the school. The school board sets the tax rate. The board is responsible for hiring and evaluating the performance of the superintendent. The superintendent, not the board, is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the school. An informed board member is an excellent link between the school and the public.

Place 2 Write-in

Name: Phil Ragland

Age: 68

Address: 4016 Austin Ave.

Occupation: Complex manager at Rip Griffin's Truck Service Center.

Civic, fraternal, church or other affiliations: First Baptist Church; chamber of commerce Goldcoats; Hermleigh Masonic Lodge; Yellow House Masonic Lodge, Lubbock; Snyder Shrine Club; Scottish Rite Temple, Lubbock; Suez Shrine Temple, San Angelo.

Prior board experience? None.

1. What do you consider the most pressing problem facing your school district today? Outline the solution to this need.

Finances. The decline in oil and the shrinking tax base make school financing a pressing problem every year. It will take very creative ideas to solve this problem: Cutting any fat out of the budget, exploring all avenues for additional revenue; possible limiting of services or possible tax increase.

2. If you are required to make a decision to either raise taxes or limit services which would you choose? Or, do you have an idea to bridge the problem?

In all reality, it will probably take a combination of a tax increase and some limiting of services to bridge the gap here. I do not like the cutting of services as I believe all of our 3,500 SISD students deserve the very best education we can give them.

3. State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished within the school district.

4. Define briefly the role of a school board member.

Sets policy. Hires superintendent. The hiring and evaluation of personnel. Evaluates educational programs of this school district. Establishes educational goals for the district. Reviews and adopts the budget after revisions, if necessary. Board plans facilities and building program. Establishes a school-community relationship.

Place 3

Name: Richard Chambers

Age:

Address: 1508 Coliseum Drive

Occupation: Salesman for Highland Pump Company.

Civic, fraternal, church or other affiliations: Have attended church at Christian Temple Church for the past 19 years.

Prior board experience? None.

1. What do you consider the most pressing problem facing your school district today? Outline the solution to this need.

The most pressing problem in our school district today is the declining tax base. As the tax base declines, it puts more pressure on the school board to spend every dollar wisely. The solution would be to bring in new business to take up the slack left by the depletion of the oil reserves.

2. If you are required to make a decision to either raise taxes or limit services which would you choose? Or, do you have an idea to bridge the problem?

I would have to look to the administration to make those recommendations. Then I would have to study the recommendations so I could make the proper decision.

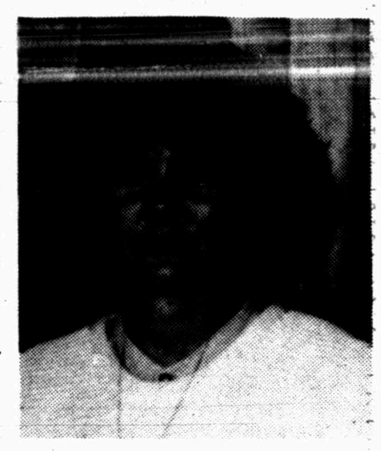

3. State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished within the school district.

One goal that I would like to see accomplished begins at home. I would like the new superintendent to try to get more parents involved in the SISD. This would have a two-fold effect of showing our children we love them. Also it would make the children and parents proud of their school. Giving our schools that winning spirit would help the school system in academics and in the sports programs.

4. Define briefly the role of a school board member.

The primary role of a school board member is to hire the superintendent. The secondary role is to see that the funds are spent in a prudent fashion.

Place 3

Name: Pam Zeck

Age: 42

Address: 2602 33rd St., Snyder

Occupation: Full-time wife and mother. Part-time church and school volunteer.

Civic, fraternal, church or other affiliations: Member of the Noah Project Advisory Board for several years, as well as serving as a volunteer for the Noah Project Hotline. Member of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, freshman girls' Sunday School teacher, also help with youth program. Band Booster president for three years, and actively supports the SHS drama department.

Prior board experience? Noah Project Advisory Board.

1. What do you consider the most pressing problem facing your school district today? Outline the solution to this need.

Money. The most pressing problem is maintaining the high standards we all want in our schools while dealing with the reality of shrinking funds due to a declining tax base.

The school board consistently has tough decisions to make: whether to cut services or raise taxes. There is no easy solution. With costs escalating — supplies, utilities, transportation, health care — and our local revenues decreasing, the school board often faces an extremely difficult role. The board must share their input, knowledge and make decisions based on what is best for the students.

2. If you are required to make a decision to either raise taxes or limit services which would you choose? Or, do you have an idea to bridge the problem?

Nothing is ever quite that simple. I would look at the specific service in question and look at how much taxes would have to be raised in order to avoid cutting the service. In evaluating service, if it were truly not necessary or could not be financially justified, then an elimination could be considered.

3. State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished within the school district.

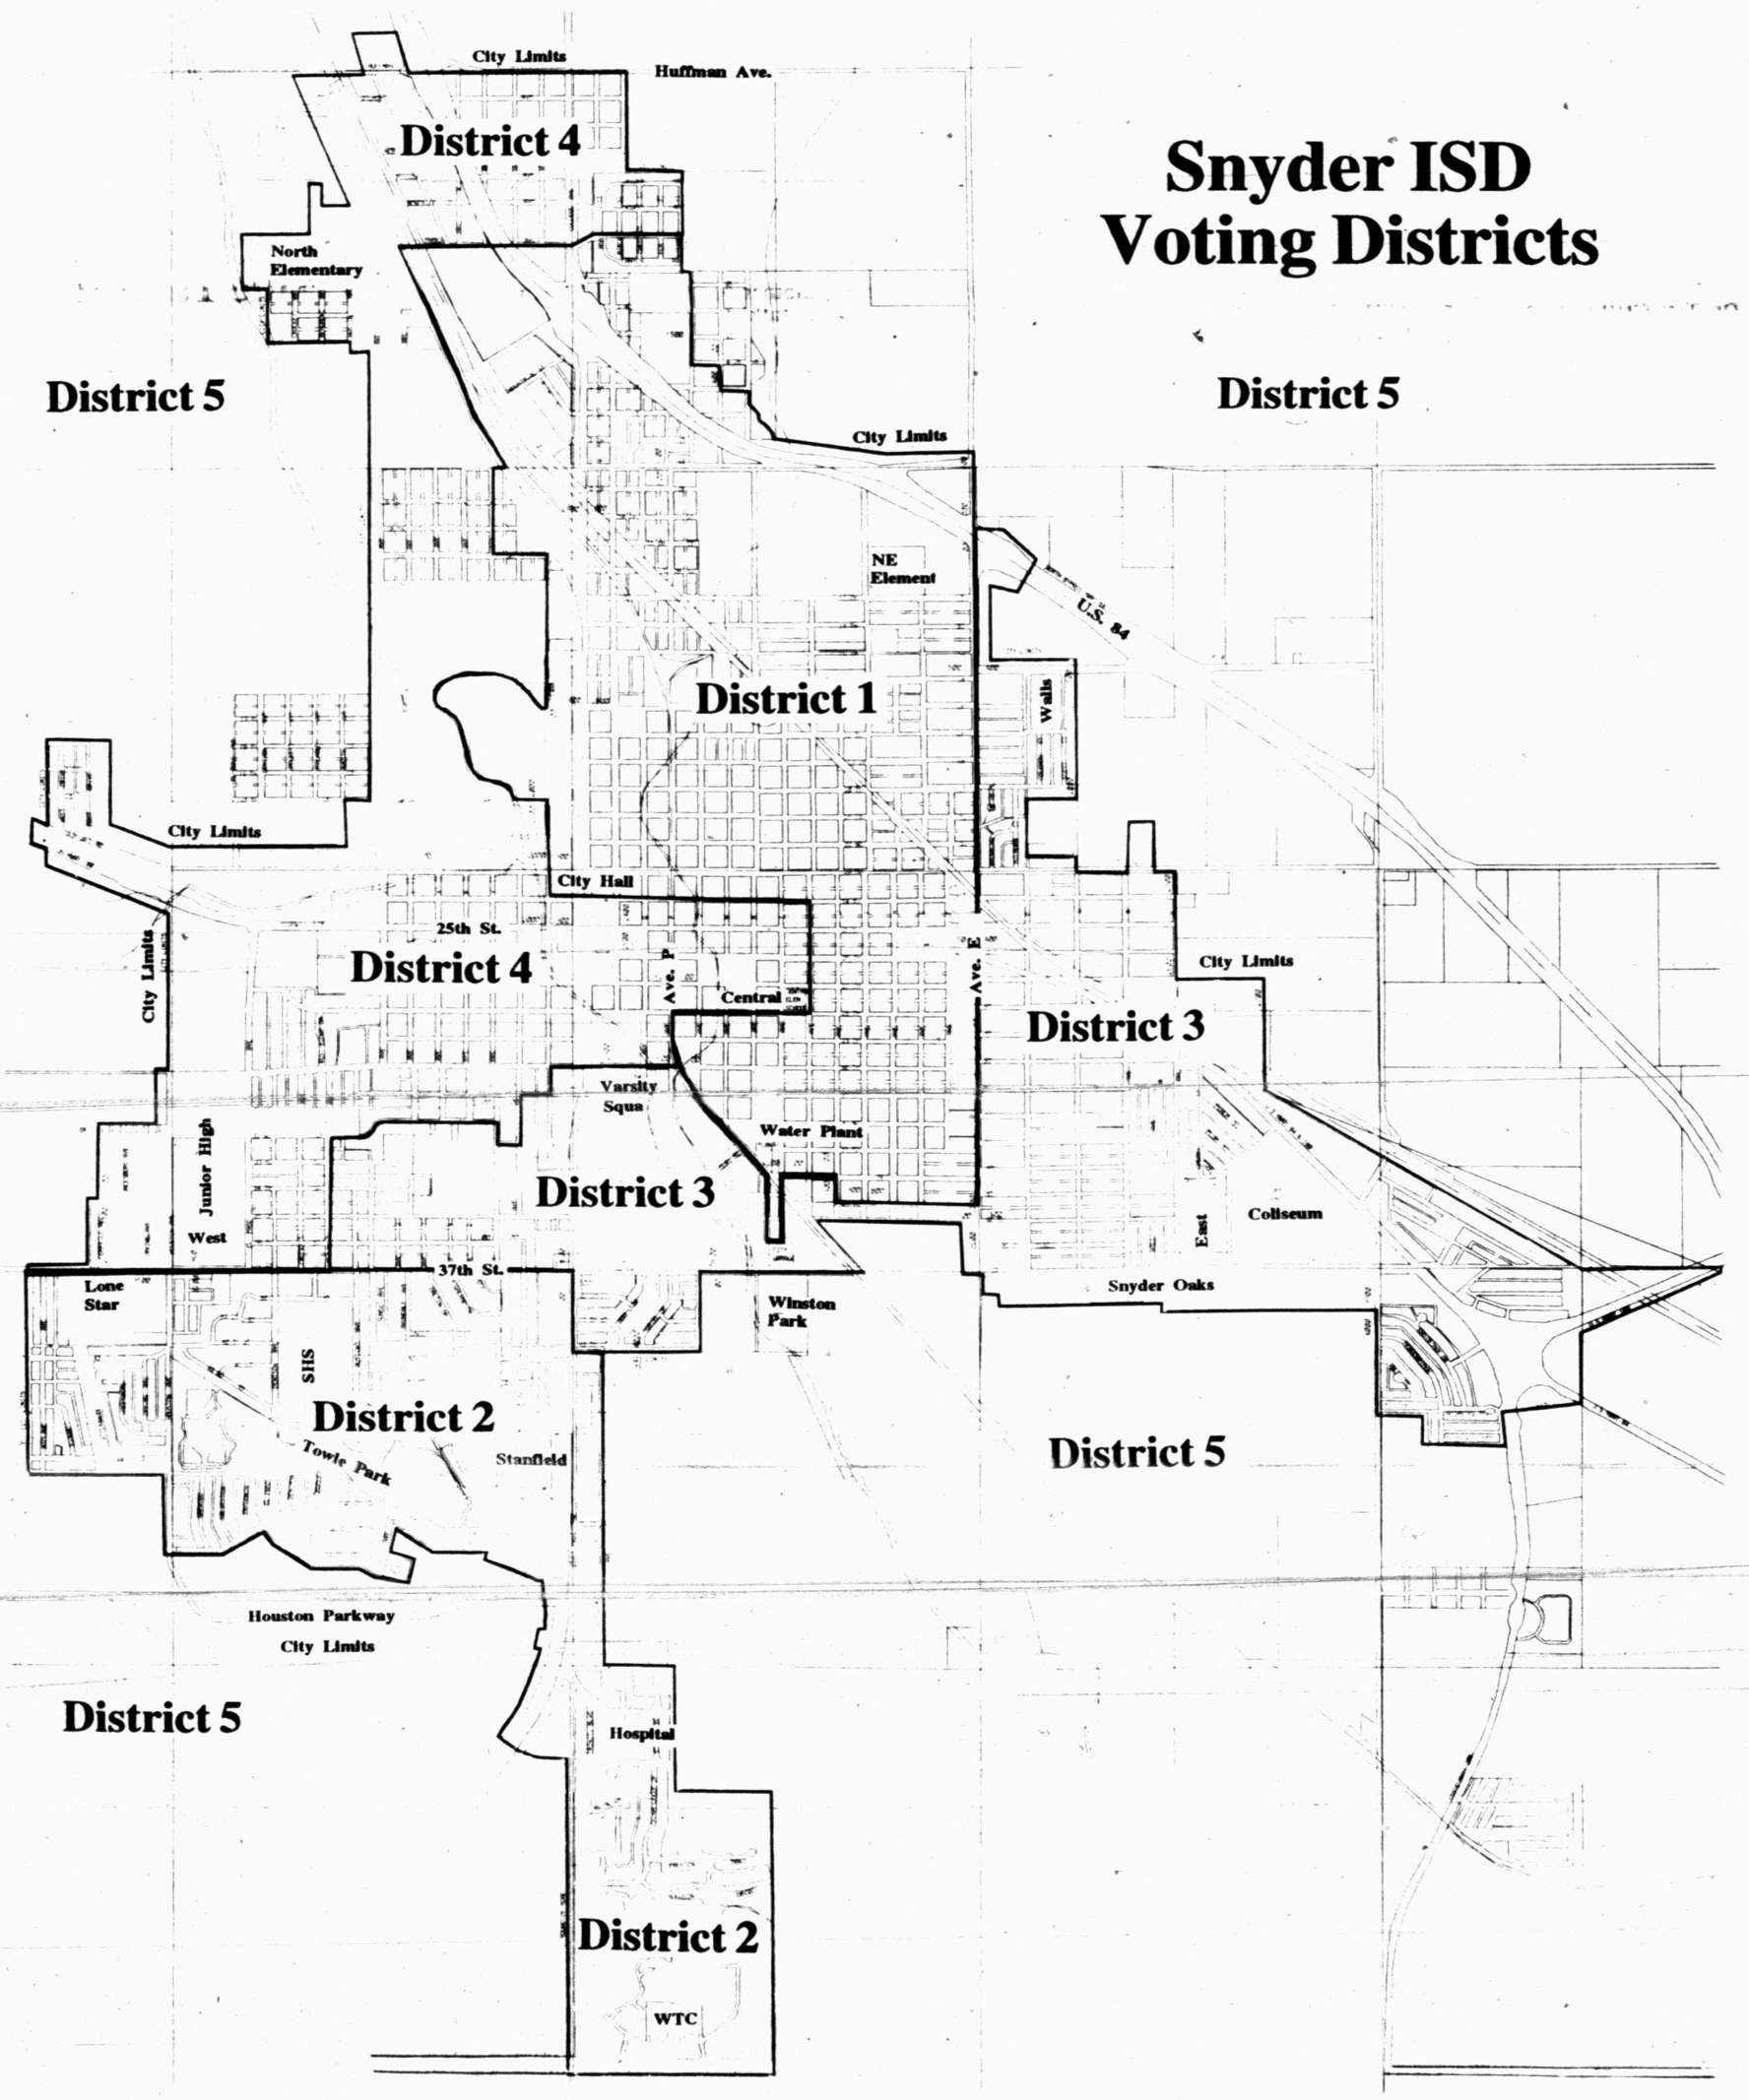

Snyder is very fortunate to have a quality educational system. Faced with tough financial decisions, it will be a challenge to maintain that quality. A goal I would like to see accomplished is to keep our standards high and even set higher levels of academic excellence for Snyder's future students.

4. Define briefly the role of a school board member.

A school board member must always put the students first. With this in mind, the board establishes new policy to operate the school system and delegates responsibility through the superintendent of enforcing existing policy.

A board member should not confuse his role with that of school administrators and try to become involved in the day-to-day operation of the schools. The board members and superintendent must work as a team to be effective in always providing the highest quality of education for all students. The school board member serves as a trustee for each student and every vote must be in the students' best interest.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

SPIES AND SCOUTS

IN BIBLICAL TIMES IT CAN BE SAID THAT AN ARMY WAS ONLY AS GOOD AS ITS SPIES AND SCOUTS. HAVING NO RECONNAISSANCE OTHER THAN THE NAKED EYE TO REPORT WHAT LAY AHEAD OF AN ARMY, THE MEN, DESIGNATED AS SCOUTS AND SPIES, HAD TO BE OUTSTANDINGLY ALERT AND ABLE TO JUDGE THE STRENGTH OF THEIR POTENTIAL OPPONENTS SEEN FROM AFAR. THE SCOUTS MOSES SENT TO SPY OUT THE PROMISED LAND (NUMBERS 13) WERE OF THIS CALIBRE. HOWEVER, IN REPORTING TO MOSES, THEY CLAIMED TO HAVE SEEN GIANTS IN THE LAND AND ADVISED AGAINST GOING FORWARD. ONLY JOSHUA AND CALEB GAVE MOSES A CLEAR PICTURE OF THE LAND AND ITS POSSIBILITIES. FORTUNATELY MOSES GAVE EAR ONLY TO THEIR REPORT! SCOUTS AND SPIES WERE THE UNSUNG HEROES OF EVERY CONQUERING ARMY, AS THEY ARE TO THIS DAY, THOUGH SOPHISTICATED WARFARE HAS THEM THUNDERING THROUGH THE SKIES AS "THEY SEARCH OUT THE LAND."
