Two Earn FFA Lone Star Farmer Degrees

35 Per Cent Of Payments Mailed To County Farmers

Approximately 35 percent of the farmers of Castro County have received payments for participation in the 1970 wheat, feed grain or cotton programs, according to Jim Elder, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation ASC Committee.

Payments will continue to be made as rapidly as farmers continue to certify program compliance, and as fast as records can be processed through computers at the data processing center in New Orleans and checks returned to the county ASCS office for distribution, Elder said.

"The bulk of payments should be made by mid-August if farmers who signed up complete the necessary certification indicating that they have complied with all of the program provisions," Elder stated. This is earlier than payments have been made in previous years. Elder pointed out that these payments to farmers have an impact on the entire community because most of the money remains in the local area where farmers pay for the things they need to buy. Participation by producers in farm programs helps even out the year-by-year flow of farm products to market, which also helps stabilize food and fiber prices, a benefit to consumers, he said.

"Farmers earn payments by diverting part of their cropland to conservation uses," Elder explained. "This helps keep a balance between supply and demand for food and fiber, preserves the excess acres for future use when they are needed, and provides an orderly supply of farm products to consumers."

Ten Accidents Occur In County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 10 accidents on rural highways in Castro County during the month of June, according to Sergeant Vernon Cawthon, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in two persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $2,010.00.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first six months of 1970 shows a total of 60 accidents resulting in two persons killed, 24 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $48,915.00.

During the first six months of 1970 in Texas, there were 1,482 traffic deaths which was twelve more as compared to the 1,470 traffic deaths for the same period of 1969. However, if past trends continue, the last six months will far exceed the first six months; as a matter of fact, the last six months of 1969 there were 2,081 traffic deaths.

The Sergeant stated, "With a record of 38 traffic victims over the July 4 weekend, Texas is well on its way to establishing an all time record of traffic deaths in 1970."

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Shall We Follow The Pied Pipers?

Are the editors of some of our respected national publications deliberately trying to break down the morality of our nation?

Dr. David Reuben, author of the book, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Sex — But Were Afraid to Ask," is now writing a monthly column for a national magazine. In one of his columns he says:

"The outmoded and punitive criminal laws against abortion, adultery, fornication . . . need to be reexamined critically. It's nobody's business what an American adult does in the privacy of his or her own home — with another (consenting) adult, of course."

He decries limiting one's sexual life to marriage, as too restrictive.

Decency?

He says, "As long as personal sexual behavior is controlled by ancient and unrealistic laws, there is no opportunity for real decency to prevail." When he refers to "ancient and unrealistic laws," he means, I'm sure, laws based on the Ten Commandments — such as the laws which have been in effect in our nation from its earliest days.

By abandoning these laws he proposes to establish the climate for "real decency"!

Quite content to pit his wisdom against God's, he has come to the conclusion that adultery and fornication should be acceptable and abortion should be permitted.

This is real decency?

Another national magazine recently featured a report of a "Gay Pride Week" put on by homosexuals in New York and Los Angeles. The magazine said, "With cause, the homosexuals were protesting police harassment."

DID YOU KNOW?

Uranium deposits were discovered in Texas in 1954 by an airplane carrying scintillation equipment.

Evidently, according to their view, the police are wrong in enforcing the law and the homosexuals are right.

The same magazine carried a favorable report of a church in Hollywood, California, catering to homosexuals — with a homosexual "minister" — in spite of the fact that the Bible condemns this gross sin in no uncertain terms.

Is it right that we should move toward a totally permissive attitude toward sex outside of marriage?

Is it really a forward step to make the killing of unborn children permissible, as Dr. Reuben proposes?

High Standard

Or would we do better to read and heed the word of the Lord, instead of the pronouncements of the self-anointed experts who pour out their folly in magazines which used to deserve our respect?

There are many who claim that the Old Testament law was too strict, saying that Jesus' teaching was milder, easier to live by.

Not so.

Here is what Jesus said about adultery: "You have heard that it has been said, 'Thou shalt not commit adultery.' But I say to you that every man who looks at a woman to lust for her has already committed adultery with her in his heart."

Here is no permissiveness, such as is advocated by some who proclaim themselves to be authorities.

Here is a firm insistence that thoughts, as well as deeds, must be controlled — held to a high standard.

Let's not be led to our destruction by the Pied Pipers of moral decay.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

At a time when the world is convulsed with strife, when capitalist nations are under assault from within, and when the United States has grave need of obtaining new sources of income abroad, it is dismaying and shocking to find the U. S. State Department actively discouraging American investment in Southwest Africa and attempting to curry favor with African revolutionaries on the Southwest issue.

Charles Y. Yost, the old-line liberal who serves as chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, announced the new policy at a convocation marking the 25th anniversary of the organization that has proved so hurtful to American and free world interests generally. Under the new State Department policy, the Export-Import Bank, a federal agency that seeks to promote exports by granting loan guarantees, will no longer provide such guarantees for trade with Southwest Africa. The New York Times rightly described the decision as "a major departure in United States policy."

Southwest Africa, a vast desert territory rich in minerals, is an almost empty land administered by the Republic of South Africa since the end of World War I. South African troops wrested the territory from the Imperial German government. In recent years, the Afro-Asian bloc in the U. N., strongly backed by the communist powers, have sought to nullify the League of Nations mandate of the territory to South Africa and have demanded independent status for the area. The Soviet Union has a keen interest in the territory, for Southwest Africa, under "independent" rule would be an easy target for infiltration and domination and would serve ideally as a base for Soviet naval forces operating in the South Atlantic. Indeed, a Soviet-oriented Southwest Africa could put the USSR in position to dominate the strategic Cape route for shipping around Africa.

In view of these facts, it is tragic that the State Department has enunciated a new policy towards Southwest Africa which is hostile to South African administration of the territory. The State Department decision is what Americans might have expected of the Kennedy administration in its heyday.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Yost, in his remarks at the U. N. ceremony, referred to Southwest as Namibia, the name used by the Afro-Asian bloc and the Soviet Union in all U. N. debates. In an utterly absurd comment, Mr. Yost declared that the territory suffered "a unique international wrong in the unlawful perpetuation of South African rule." There is no foundation of fact for such a statement.

In the first place, South African administration halted the swift decline of population in the territory — a decline caused by tribal strife. Second, the South African administration provided health and welfare services unknown to the vast majority of black African nations. Finally, South Africa has invested huge sums in the development of Southwest, thereby affording the native people employment opportunities for the first time.

As for the South African administration being "unlawful," Mr. Yost knows full well there is no law on the subject. The League of Nations mandate cannot be revoked by the United Nations, which is not the legal inheritor of the League's authority.

American enterprise has a substantial stake in Southwest Africa's economic future, producing copper needed by the Western countries. The fishing industry also is important to the U. S. In Southwest Africa, American investors need not fear illegal confiscation, such as has taken place in South America and other unstable regions where revolutionary and socialist governments are in power. The logical policy for the United States would be to encourage additional American investment in Southwest Africa. But logic apparently plays no part in the thinking of the fanatical anti-South Africa, anti-Rhodesia element in the State Department.

The policy announced by Mr. Yost, and for which Secretary of State William P. Rogers must take responsibility, can aid no nation but the Soviet Union. The decision makes things much easier for the Soviets in their global campaign to drive Westerners out of Southern Africa.

The difficulties created for U. S. companies interested in Southwest Africa appear all the more irritating and unjust when one realizes that the State Department is promoting American trade with the communist countries of Eastern Europe.

It is reasonable to conclude that the Nixon administration has not heard the last of the Southwest issue. The anti-Southwest Africa policy must have been drafted by New Frontier holdovers in the State Department. A strong protest against the policy is in order by believers in free enterprise.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

Did you know that at one time a dollar was worth more than a dollar?

During the Civil War the United States faced bankruptcy. In order to alleviate the situation, the government issued Compound Interest Treasury Notes in 1864.

The idea behind the notes was this. For a three year period after their issue, the notes could be used for currency at their face value. During those three years, the notes would earn six percent interest compounded semi-annually. Only after this time could they be redeemed for their face value plus interest.

Some people were fortunate enough to latch onto these bills for their face value right before the three years was up. Then after only a few months or weeks, they turned the notes in at a nice profit.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

A growing demand from the public in recent years for more and better hospital care facilities has tested the resources and ability of both state and federal health care officials. As a result, the Federal Hill-Burton Act authorized financial assistance for construction and modernization of health facilities and the Texas State Department of Health is required to develop an annual "State Plan" listing the facilities provided in the state and establishing "bed" need for health facilities in Texas.

The Health Facilities Construction Section of the State Health Department is responsible for the preparation and the administration of the "State Plan". The plan is primarily a survey of present facilities and a projection of bed need in any given area or facility. These facilities are then rated as to priority of need, in order to qualify for the limited Hill-Burton funds available. Allocations of these funds are made by the State Board of Health.

The Hill-Burton program approved by Congress only a few weeks ago calls for $1.2 billion in federal funds to be spent in the next three years for construction and modernization of facilities across the country. In past years, Texas has received about 6.4 per cent of the total allocation. If Congress appropriates the funds for each of the proposed three years, the State is expected to receive the largest state grant ever. The maximum grant the state has received to date is about $17 million.

These funds will be allocated for modernization of existing facilities, construction of hospitals and public health centers, long-term care facilities, diagnostic and treatment centers, rehabilitation facilities, and, for the first time this coming year, funds will be allocated specifically for modernization and construction of emergency room facilities.

New categories of Hill-Burton funds were created by Congress this year. Among these are a loan guarantee program to private non-profit organizations, with an interest payment grant to retire three per cent of the interest of a loan to a non-profit private hospital. In addition, direct loans are available to non-profit public health facilities.

Approximately 60 applications for Hill-Burton grants and loans have been received this year. These applications seek to initiate over $143 million in construction or modernization projects. Funds are being sought from the Hill-Burton Program in the amount of nearly $39 million of federal grants. About 100 projects are now active.

This represented 119,000 new organs. Pianos were close behind, with 225,378 new pianos bought for a total of $185 million. Total sales of guitars, amplified guitars, ukeleles, banjos and mandolins was $130 million.

National Farm Safety Week Declared By President

"The efficiency of American agriculture and the quality of life for agricultural workers is threatened today by the continued high rate of farm accidents. Both the human and the financial costs of these accidents are intolerable," noted President Nixon in his proclamation designating the week of July 19-25 as Farm Safety Week in the United States.

He added that a quarter century of experience in organizing for rural safety has shown that most farm accidents could be prevented through the use of sensible practices and protective devices. Safety information and mechanical safeguards are readily available and their consistent use should be actively encouraged, he said.

"I urge all farm families, and every person and group allied with agriculture, to make every effort permanently to reduce the number of accidents which occur at work, in homes, at recreation, and on the roadways," emphasized the President.

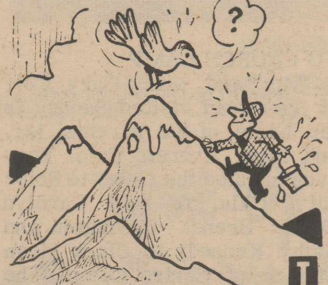

Texas Governor Preston Smith in his proclamation calls on Texans to reverse the farm accident trend. He urges all farm and ranch families to become more safety conscious--to take advantage of modern technology designed to remove many of the hazards in agriculture enterprises and to make use of the Slow Moving Vehicle emblem on their equipment when moving it on the state's rural highways.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council notes that the theme for this year's national week is -- "Protection! Make it Work for Safety." What can individuals do to observe the event? Do as the theme suggests and use all protection available to make life safer. Encourage your neighbors to do likewise, advises the Council. For your own life depends upon how carefully you carry out your work, warns the Council.

What Is A Boy?

- ALAN BECK

Between the innocence of babyhood and the dignity of manhood we find a delightful creature called a boy. Boys come in assorted sizes, weights, and colors, but all boys have the same creed: to enjoy every second of every minute of every hour of every day and to protest with noise (their only weapon) when their last minute is finished and the adult males pack them off to bed at night.

Boys are found everywhere--on top of, underneath, inside of, climbing on, swinging from, running around, or jumping to. Mothers love them, little girls hate them, older sisters and brothers tolerate them, adults ignore them, and Heaven protects them. A boy is Truth with dirt on its face, Beauty with a cut on its finger, Wisdom with bubble gum in its hair, and the Hope of the future with a frog in its pocket.

When you are busy, a boy is an inconsiderate, bothersome, intruding jangle of noise. When you want him to make a good impression, his brain turns to jelly or else he becomes a savage, sadistic, jungle creature bent on destroying the world and himself with it.

A boy is a composite--he has the appetite of a horse, the digestion of a sword swallower, the energy of a pocket sized atomic bomb, the curiosity of a cat, the lungs of a dictator, the imagination of a Paul Bunyon, the shyness of a violet, the audacity of a steel trap, the enthusiasm of a firecracker, and when he makes something he has five thumbs on each hand.

He likes ice cream, knives, saws, Christmas, comic books, the boy across the street, woods, water (in its natural habitat), large animals, Dad trains, Saturday mornings, and fire engines. He is not much for Sunday School, company, schools, books without pictures, music lessons, neckties, barbers, girls, overcoats, adults, or bedtime.

Nobody else is so early to rise, or so late to supper. Nobody else gets so much fun out of trees, dogs, and breezes. Nobody else can cram into one pocket a rusty knife, a half-eaten apple, three feet of string, an empty Bull Durham sack, two gum drops, six cents, a slingshot, a chunk of unknown substance, and a genuine supersonic code ring with a secret compartment.

A boy is a magical creature--you can lock him out of your workshop, but you can't lock him out of your heart. You can get him out of your study, but you can't get him out of your mind. Might as well give up--he is your captor, your jailor, your boss, and your master--a freckled-faced, pint-sized, cat-chasing, bundle of noise. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of your hopes and dreams, he can mend them like new with the two magic words, "Hi Dad!"

Swimming Party Fetes Redlegs

The Redlegs baseball team was honored Saturday with a swimming party. Mike Burnam and Mrs. Jack George took the boys to Plainview for the party and refreshments afterwards.

Those attending were Mike and Lonnie Burnam, Berry, Danny and Cary George, Jackie and Russell Davis, Cary McLain, Robert Lacy, Randy Popejoy and Keith Reed.

Homemakers Haven

By Mrs. Max Marble

Now is the time of the year for all the fresh vegetables and fruits and it is much easier to get a variety in our meal planning. There are many homegrown products available and should take advantage in serving them at every opportunity.

During this warm weather, lots of outdoor cooking is done. Have you tried putting your potatoes, carrots and roasting ears in aluminum foil and cooking in the coals while the meat cooks on top?

BARBECUED MEAT LOAF

1 1/2 lb. ground beef
3 eggs
1 medium sized onion
1 can tomatoes
Enough cracker crumbs to hold together good
3 T. barbecue sauce

Mix all together. Form into individual servings. Let set in refrigerator 2 hours then put on the grill and cook until done, basting every few minutes.

To keep appetites from getting out of hand, try popping corn before the last-minute cooking gets underway. Drench popped corn with butter and sprinkle lightly with salt and Parmesan cheese.

Remember to use windproof center decorations for outdoors. A tray of fruit, bunches of flowers in hurricane candlesticks, or a low flower arrangement under a transparent cake cover would be in order.

Brownies are good to serve with an outdoor meal and could even be made days ahead and frozen.

BROWNIES

1 1/2 c butter
1 1/2 c brown sugar
1 1/2 c. white sugar
6 eggs, one at a time
3 c. flour
3/4 c. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 c. nuts
Dash of salt

Mix in order. Bake in greased and floured pan at 300 degrees for 45 minutes.

An easy recipe of brownies for the children to make is this favorite of my family.

UNDERCOOKED BROWNIES

1 c. butter, melted
2 c. sugar
6 T. cocoa
4 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/3 c. flour
1 c. nuts

Mix cocoa and sugar while butter is melting. Mix together and add eggs and vanilla. Add flour then nuts. Bake at 325 degrees for 35 minutes. Do not over cook. They will not look done but will be.

A treat for the family which you can make ahead and store in the refrigerator is this Chocolate Syrup. It is very good for ice cream topping or to make chocolate milk.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP

3 c. sugar
3/4 c. cocoa
2 c. hot water

Cook 3 minutes, then add 2 teaspoons vanilla and 1 tablespoon Karo. Put in jars and store in refrigerator.

What outdoor party would be complete without a freezer of ice cream?

ICE CREAM

6 eggs, slightly beaten
2 1/2 c. sugar
dash of salt
2 tsp. vanilla
1 can Eagle Brand milk

Slightly beat the eggs and add other ingredients plus 1 quart of milk. Heat just until Eagle Brand milk and sugar dissolves good. Pour in freezer and finish filling freezer can with milk.

If you prefer your ice cream a little plainer or not quite so rich, try this recipe.

ICE CREAM

4 eggs, beaten
2 1/2 c. sugar
1 pt. whipping cream
1 tsp. vanilla
dash of salt

Mix well and pour in freezer can. Finish filling can with milk.

Technical Institute Slates Classes To Begin Sept. 2

Texas State Technical Institute at Amarillo is now accepting applications for enrollment for the school's beginning classes scheduled to start at 8 a. m. Sept. 2.

Initial classes to be taught at the school include courses in airframe mechanics, technical communications, commercial art and advertising, building construction craftsman and technology, graphics and design technology, farm and ranch operations and farm and industrial equipment mechanics. All courses are approved for VA assistance.

For complete information on the courses, plus facts in regards to housing, financial assistance, work-study programs, contact the school's manager of student activities, J. W. Sollis, in care of Post Office Box 4228, Amarillo, Texas, 79105.

Sollis, a native of Crowell, is a former high school principal and math and science teacher. He was principal of high schools in Dimmitt, Abernathy and Springlake-Earth.

Present plans call for all classes to be conducted in a 65,000 square-foot, brick, air-conditioned building during the first trimester of the school year. Students will live in dormitories a short distance from the classrooms, and a cafeteria and student union building is located adjacent to the student union building.

Dr. J. N. Baker, general manager of State Tech at Amarillo, extends a special invitation to all interested persons to contact the school for any information they might desire. "We want to offer whatever courses are needed in this area to as many students as possible, regardless of their race, color or creed," said Dr. Baker.

"Our goal is to teach every person possible how to earn a living at a vocational or technical skill of their choice. We invite everyone to come and 'Learn to Earn' with us," said Dr. Baker.

FAMILY FETED

Texas Teachers To Be Paid On Ten-Months Basis

Texas public school teachers--those on the state minimum salary schedule--will receive pay raises averaging about $1,050 per year in 1970-71.

Students will go to school--and teachers will teach--an extra five days (180 days instead of 175). In addition, teachers will be on duty for 10 more days of non-teaching work during the year, and will be paid on a 10-months basis, instead of nine.

These changes in the school year and the basis for figuring teacher pay result from amendments to the minimum foundation program law passed in 1969 by the Legislature.

Under the minimum program, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher in 1969-70 was paid $593 per month for nine months, or $5,337 for the year.

In 1970-71, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher will receive $600 per month for 10 months, or $6,000 for the year.

Many Texas school systems pay their teachers more than the state-required minimum salaries.

Texas was ranked 38th among states in average teacher pay in 1969-70. The 1970 raises and a long-range improvement plan are expected to move Texas up to a more favorable position among states in the years ahead.

The new law puts into effect in 1971-72 a continuing compensation plan which will give Texas teachers an additional five percent raise each year and cost-of-living raises in 1974 and 1978. It will allow all Texas teachers to reach the top of the pay schedule--$11,040 for bachelor's degree, and $12,040 for master's degree teachers--within 10 years of service.

The new law has left many people--teachers as well as school patrons--with questions about its work and pay aspects. The State Board of Education has attempted to answer such questions by drafting an official definition of the 180-day school term and service requirements for teachers in 1970-71 and future years.

Basically, the state board says that beginning on September 1, 1970:

--Texas public schools will have 180 days of actual classroom instruction, (where teachers and students are together in learning situations) instead of the 175 days previously required under foundation program law. (Some schools had already been operating programs longer than the minimum.)

--Most Texas teachers will be paid on a 10-month basis. (Vocational and special education teachers may be paid for 10, 11, or 12 months.)

--In addition to the 180 days of classroom instruction, teachers and other personnel previously authorized for less than 10 months under the foundation program shall be required to be on duty for an additional 10 days, making a total of 190 days, exclusive of holidays approved by the local board of trustees.

--School districts may employ teachers for more than the specified 190 days, but if they do their salaries for work beyond the 190 days must be paid wholly from local funds rather than foundation program funds.

Moments OF Meditation

By Rev. Thomas H. Taylor

What are we trying to prove?

This past summer a large electrical appliance company installed air conditioners in the homes of a number of residents of the country of Panama free of charge. The reason for this was not simply to promote good will, although this was surely one result. The main reason was to test the machine under the extreme weather conditions in that country. Every major company has a growing research and development division which has as its chief concern the testing of materials—its own and its competitors. Testing materials has grown to be one of America's biggest businesses.

The greatest test of all comes when the product gets into the hands of the user. The producer wants your reaction. Will those who try it, try it again? Does it meet the test of experience? Experience is the best teacher, but we need to have enough wisdom to know when we fail and when we have been successful.

Many today seem to be trying to prove that Christianity and success are synonymous. If you believe this and are trying to prove it to someone, you had better check your examples carefully.

Don't tell your listeners that the founder of the organization you represent died at the age of thirty-three—killed by his competitors.

Don't tell them that for the first two hundred years or more, those who proclaimed allegiance to this man were considered subversives and had to spend much of their time as an underground force, operating without the consent of the government.

Don't tell that one of the key men in the organization spent more time in jail than out.

Don't tell them that one of the promises made by the founder was that those who followed him would face persecution, derision and finally death.

What are we trying to prove? That we can be a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ and still be a citizen of the world in every respect? Are we trying to prove that the differences between a Christian and a worldling are so subtle that they really make little difference? Sometimes we lose our identity so gradual that we don't realize what is happening.

An Irishman came to America and was followed by his wife a year later. Upon her arrival, she remarked: "My, don't these people talk strangely?" Her husband replied: "If you think they talk funny now, you should have heard them when I came over last year!" We gradually accept that which we live with and slowly but surely it becomes a part of our lives.

God has a standard for his people. We are not expected to adjust it to fit us, but to live up to it. We see that standard exemplified in Jesus Christ and it is at this point that many fail. The story is told of a battle where the flag bearer got ahead of the majority of the troops. One of the men asked his commander: "Shall we bring the flag back to the regiment?" The reply was,

"No! Make the regiment catch up with the flag!" If we are falling below God's standard for his church, we have no right to ask that the standard be lowered to fit our level of living. There is only one solution and that is to bring our standard up to God's.

An elderly lady who was told by her doctor that he had done all he could and now she must trust God. She replied, "Has it come to that?"

The God we serve is not a God who comes to us only during the critical times of our lives, but we can hardly deny that the less we are supported by other forces, the more we need him. If we are not close by when God needs us he might not be close by when we need him.

What are we trying to prove? Sometimes it seems that we are trying to prove that we can live without God but check on your experiences and if you have none, let me recommend that you try serving God and I feel that you will have a successful life.

WTSU Survey Reaffirms Residence Hall Policies

Coeds at West Texas State and their parents seem to be in favor of most present residence hall policies at the universities, an opinion survey shows.

The survey, conducted last spring by Dean of Women Jean Moore, pertained to such potentially controversial subjects as curfew and male visitation in rooms of women's dormitories.

Of the 1,770 forms mailed to coeds and parents, 1,742 were returned. A tabulation of replies showed only a few discrepancies in the responses of coeds and their parents, Mrs. Moore said.

"I was overwhelmingly pleased, not only with the number of responses, but with the content of responses," she added.

"This survey has reaffirmed my feeling that parents and students in areas served by West Texas State are characterized by deep-rooted foundations of common sense and responsibility," Mrs. Moore said.

"Parents and students alike seemed grateful for the opportunity to comment on residence hall policies," she said.

"Texas Tech University and Stephen F. Austin University have written for copies of our survey results," she added. "I think the survey was a good idea."

Students as well as parents were almost unanimously in favor of a curfew and locked doors after a certain hour in women's residence halls.

A mother from Midland wrote that she would rest better at night knowing the hall where her daughter lived was locked. "Our home is locked," she said, "Why not the home away from home?"

Many coeds commented that a curfew was necessary. But one student from Tulia said, "I don't think it would hurt to increase the hours some."

The subject of open visitation in women's halls was of much interest to parents. One mother asked, "What is the roommate supposed to do while the boyfriend is there? Stand in the closet?"

A number of parents said they sent their daughters to West Texas State because open visitations were not allowed. Some coeds oppose the ban, but they feel the question should be brought to a vote of residents of each hall.

A major concern of both parents and students was expressed by a Hereford coed who said, "A more liberal social life, instead of a more liberal education, is being pushed off on the student. Most students come to West Texas State because it is the way it is."

"Pressure is on colleges and universities all over the nation to become more liberal," Mrs. Moore said. "We're not going to attempt anything way out at West Texas State."

The only big change resulting from the survey so far is a 30-minute lengthening of curfew hours.

The new curfew will be 11 p. m. for freshmen and 11:30 p. m. for upperclassmen Sunday-Thursday and 1 a. m. for freshmen and 1:30 a. m. for upperclassmen on Friday and Saturday.

Outstanding in its field.

SURPRISED?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday Psalms 64:1-10	Monday Proverbs 3:21-27
Tuesday Isaiah 33:13-22	Wednesday Matthew 7:7-14	Thursday Mark 13:28-38
Friday Ephesians 3:7-13	Saturday 1 Thessalonians 5:1-11

When each new experience springs forth like a jack-in-the-box . . . and your fondest possessions are toys . . . and your chief concern is to squeeze out of every hour the last ounce of amusement—then it's fun to be surprised.

But when you've grown too old for toys . . . when life is laced with serious challenge . . . when happiness depends on a thousand social, economic and moral decisions—then surprises can be devastating!

It is elementary that our early education must prepare us for the later surprises. The knowledge, habits and skills we acquire must be adequate for meeting the unexpected as readily as the expected.

And because religious faith and moral fortitude are men's chief resources in the unheralded crises of adult life, we must nurture their development in every child.

Support, encourage, serve your church in its vital efforts to mold the character of today's youth — tomorrow's adults.
