Hasken Beard, a mathematics teacher himself, says he would like for a mathematician to determine the odds on drawing the forty-two hand that he turned up the other night.

It was the ultimate in "lay downs," as Beard was dealt all seven fours in the set of dominoes.

Beard said he had played forty-two for years and that he had drawn many cinch hands from time to time, but never before had he seen anyone draw all seven of a certain suit, or series.

Did he have witnesses?

"My opponent certainly knew about it," said Beard, "And everyone else at the table saw it and some 20 others in the group were told about it on the spot. I've been a math teacher, and I would like for some math whiz to tell me just what the odds were on that hand," said Beard, who lamented that he was unable to bid more than 84 on it.

If you think youngsters today don't know a good thing when they see it, consider those from a junior high school in an unidentified town in the state who were shown some motion pictures of animals and outdoor scenes provided by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept.

Their letters of appreciation for the privilege of seeing the films reveals acute perception.

"I sure did enjoy the films you sent us," one youngster wrote. "Especially because we got to miss three geography class periods."

"I appreciate you sending the films to our class. (Especially, free of charge.)"

"The film helped me get a better interest in the growing power of man over the dumber animals."

India-Pakistan War Is Ended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The war between India and Pakistan ended today, with the new nation of Bangla Desh established in East Pakistan. In 14 days of fighting more than 2,000 Indian soldiers died, at least that many Pakistanis and uncounted civilians.

President Agha Mohammed Yayha Khan of Pakistan accepted India's proposal for a cease-fire on the western front.

"I am accepting the Indian proposal for a cease-fire in the interest of peace and stability on the subcontinent," he said.

Yahya ordered Pakistani forces in West Pakistan to halt the fighting at 9:30 a.m., EST, the time set by India in a unilateral cease-fire. Only 24 hours earlier he had vowed to fight "until all occupied areas are taken back."

India announced the cease-fire Thursday after Pakistan's army had surrendered in East Pakistan, 1,000 miles from the western front

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi greeted Yahya's acceptance by saying: "I must be careful because I don't know yet whether it will be a full peace."

Official sources in New Delhi said India suffered more than 10,000 casualties in the war on both fronts—2,307 killed, 6,163 wounded, and 2,163 missing. Of these 1,021 were killed in the added.

There have been no figures on Pakistan losses, but the Indian Defense Ministry says Pakistan's losses are much higher than India's—and few doubt this.

The future of Yahya Khan's military government is in doubt. He had moved recently to transfer control to civilians, and this trend will gain impetus under such men as Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. As deputy prime minister and foreign minister, he says Pakistan should have democratic government soon.

Lt. Gen. J. S. Aurora, who accepted Pakistan's surrender in Dacca, said his troops will remain in East Pakistan for a time to help repatriate war prisoners, re-establish law and order and communications, and help with the return of Bengali refugees from India. He expected most Indian forces to withdraw within weeks.

The general said the defeated soldiers from West Pakistan were being allowed to keep their weapons until they arrived in POW camps because of fear that vengeful Bengalis "would butcher them" in reprisal for the Pakistani Army's war on the Bengali independence forces since last March.

"The bitterness in Dacca—you have to see it to believe it," he told reporters.

Pakistani troops to be disarmed within two days and movement of the prisoners of war to India to begin "as soon as it can."

In a short speech to her Parliament, Mrs. Gandhi said India wants to build its relations with Pakistan on a "basis of friendship."

India had Soviet backing in the war while China supported Pakistan, but there has been no evidence of direct intervention by either power.

A Bangla Desh civil administration, led by four senior civil servants, was going to Dacca to take over general administrative responsibilities.

Gen. Aurora will exercise over-all supervision.

Mrs. Gandhi expressed hope that Sheik Mujibur Rahman, the East Pakistani political leader held prisoner by Yahya Khan, "will take his rightful place and lead the Bangla Desh people to peace, progress and prosperity."

Sheik Mujib was arrested in March when the West Pakistani army cracked down on the East Pakistani secessionist movement.

Lt. Gen. K. P. Candeth, commanding general of Indian forces on the western front, told reporters he thought West Pakistan's military power had been destroyed "to a very great extent indeed."

COMPROMISE REACHED ON AID

92nd Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress adjourned today until Jan. 18 after a skeleton crew of Senate and House members voted final approval to a compromise settlement of their foreign aid controversy.

The House quit at 12:59 p.m. EST but the Senate took a while longer, adjourning at 1:31 p.m.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, had stood with the adjournment resolution in his hand while Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., urged that the United States avoid any involvement in the conflict between India and Pakistan.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind.-Va., took over, complaining about the federal budget deficit, his speech holding up adjournment further.

The Senate took its final foreign aid votes with 54 members on hand, just three more than than the absolute minimum number that is required to do business. The House didn't risk any roll call vote on getaway day.

The House-Senate compromise cleared a resolution to continue foeign aid spending until Feb. 22 at a rate equal to $2.84 billion annaully. All told, the resolution covers $3.2 billion in temporary spending authority, including also funds for the Peace Corps $139 million for Cuban refugee relief, and some other items.

The last legislative act of the House was acceptance of Senate amendments to the foreign aid bill which the Senate had passed earlier in the day, 45 to 9. The bill keeps the foreign aid program in operation until Feb. 22 at a rate equal to $2.8 billion annually.

Earlier, the Senate had approved 33 to 21 a bill authorizing foreign aid expenditures totaling $2.75 billion.

The money measure included $2.37 billion in new funds and $452 million in appropriations authorized under prior legislation.

Absenteeism pulled the Senate roster down near the level required to do business.

It takes a quorum of 51 senators for the Senate to transact any business.

After the first foreign aid vote drew 54 senators, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urged everybody to stay close by the chamber.

Even though the House is not going to act on the authorization bill until next year, Senate approval of that long-deadlocked measure was the key ingredient in the compromise that opened the way for adjournment.

The next, and presumably final, order of business for the Senate was a resolution to appropriate foreign aid money until Feb. 22, while the next session of Congress works on a regular appropriation bill for the program.

Hopes Rise For Money Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally opened the crucial conference of the Group of Ten richest nations seeking solution of the world's monetary problems after telling newsmen: "I am very hopeful we can wind it up here."

Connally, chairman of the assembled finance ministers, spoke briefly with reporters before the start of the two-day conference seeking realignment of the non-Communist currencies.

Connally did not predict a favorable outcome despite his expressed hope of a weekend solution. Whether there will be a settlement "is not for me to say," he told questioners.

Although hopes for an agreement have been bolstered by President Nixon's announced readiness to devalue the dollar in exchange for upward revaluation of other currencies, Connally told newsmen he expects "a lot of very tough negotiatons" this weekend.

As the so-called "Group of Ten" prepared for a two-day meeting at Washington's oldest Smithsonian Institution building, optimism abounded that an interim system of currency-exchange rates could be worked out by the weekend.

If so, it would end the long-standing international monetary crisis in which world currencies have floated against each other without fixed rates of exchange.

President Nixon broke the stalemate earlier in the week when he announced, after a meeting with French President Georges Pompidou in the Azores, that the United States would be willing to devalue the dollar as part of general currency realignment.

Mikio Mizuta, the Japanese finance minister, told newsmen he sees a 50-50 chance for agreement on new currency values.

U.S. Treasury officials spoke optimistically of hopes for a settlement, as Secretary John B. Connally met privately on the eve of the talks with the finance ministers of Japan, Germany and the United Kingdom.

The new currency system would include a dollar devaluation ranging from 5 to 8 per cent and revaluations of the Japanese yen and the West German mark and other currencies. The French franc would remain unchanged.

6 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

Personal Income Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — National personal income showed a moderate increase in November as the thaw from President Nixon's wage-price freeze began to take effect, a government report said today.

The Commerce Department said personal income increased by $3.5 billion compared with a $1-billion advance in October. The wage-price freeze expired Nov. 13.

Most of the November rise was in wage and salary payments, with a $1.5-billion gain in government wages and salaries a main feature of the increase. About two-thirds of the government pay step-up was attributed to the military pay raise approved by the Pay Board just as Nixon's Phase 2 program went into effect.

In the private sector, there was little evidence that the Phase 2 wage policies were contributing to a dramatic rise in payrolls after the freeze.

Manufacturing payrolls climbed by $500 million, dropping in half from the October rate.

But the manufacturing increase was attributed mainly to greater employment and a longer work week. Average hourly earnings were little changed from October, the department said.

Feldman Won't Go To Baylor

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — New Mexico football coach Rudy Feldman said today he is staying with the Lobos and won't go to Baylor University in Texas as announced Thursday.

"It is most difficult to explain the change of decision, but my decision last night was premature," Feldman said.

"I'm convinced as a result of discussion with school officials that the football program at the University of New Mexico will continue to grow and I would like to remain as a part of the program."

Bangla Desh Opens Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The infant nation of Bangla Desh has set up a hopeful diplomatic mission to the United States in makeshift offices above a fabric store in downtown Washington.

No national emblem marks the doorway, the elevator ride is shaky and the cellophane tape that tacks the new flag to the wall speaks of impermanence.

But the once and future diplomats who man the Bangla Desh mission look for the day when they will have an embassy to call home, signifying recognition as a nation by the United States.

M.R. Siddiqui, chief of the mission, scheduled a news conference today at which he is expected to appeal for recognition and aid for a war-torn population of 78 million.

Many members of the mission staff are Bengalis who were foreign service officers at the Pakistani Embassy here. They renounced their Pakistani citizenship and diplomatic status in August. Technically, they are stateless political refugees.

"The State Department has been very generous to us," said Sams Kibria, political officer of the mission. Kibria, who also served as political officer at the Pakistani Embassy, said that all who renounced citizenship have been allowed to stay in the United States.

For Kibria and other members of the mission, the East Pakistan that fell Thursday to a victorious Indian army exists only as historical fact. To them, it is now Bangla Desh.

Kibria recalls a period of "tremendous strain" at the Pakistani Embassy as conditions in East Pakistan worsened.

"The ambassador and other West Pakistani officers looked upon us with suspicion. They didn't trust us," he said. "We were there by sufferance. We didn't know what would happen to us."

Thursday, Kibria reported happier problems—the dropoff of communication with the Bangla Desh Provisional Government that signified it was moving to the East Pakistani capital of Dacca, freshly taken by Indian troops from surrendering West Pakistani forces.

BUT LETTER REMEMBERED

No Virginia This Christmas

By By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

NORTH CHATHAM, N.Y. AP — No, Santa, there is no Virginia this year.

No Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas this Christmas. She was buried May 17 here in the rolling Taconic hills.

Remember, she used to say, all the way until she was 81 and died, "I am anonymous from January to November."

And remember The New York Sun? Well, there's no Sun this Christmas either.

But then it was gone long before Virginia.

Remember when Frank Church, associate editor of The Sun, told Virginia—then 8 years old: "The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see."

He was talking about you, of course.

But perhaps he was talking also, in unconscious innocence, about the words he and she would leave behind—to become a part of Christmas in America, when The Sun, Church and now Virginia were gone. As much a part of it as good will toward men, commercialism, and Scrooge.

"Dear Editor," she wrote. "I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun, it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

She grew up, married and became a public-school teacher and principal in New York City. Then she retired here with her daughter's family in a quiet community of century-old homes.

And spent her last two Christmases in a nursing-home bed, never forgetting Church's answer to her question in the Sun:

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little ....

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished ....

Is her doctor kind or interested?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am strongly attracted to my doctor. He is divorced and I am a widow. I have a hunch he feels something for me. He is very kind and gentle. He is also very ethical. He hasn't expressed any special interest in me, but he frequently brushes lint, or what have you off my clothes. Could this mean anything?

He seems concerned about my welfare in a professional way. He touches me a lot. Friendly gestures. On the arm, shoulder and hands. He listens to me attentively, however trivial my conversation.

Am I just lonely, or do you think this could develop into something more than just a doctor-patient relationship? And if so, how? PATIENT

DEAR PATIENT: Since he is, as you say, "very ethical," you will have to find out outside his office. The next time you need an escort, invite him to do the honors. If your hunch is right, and he "feels something for you," the next move will be his. If your hunch is wrong, you haven't lost anything, and you've saved a lot of time.

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary to an executive in a large and important firm, and as such, I telephone other businessmen in like positions. The purpose of this letter is to express amazement at the stupidity of some of the secretaries with whom I have spoken on the telephone.

Example: When I telephone and say, "Is Mr. Jones available? Mr. Smith of X. Y. Z. Corp. is calling." I have been told, "One moment, please, I don't think he's come in yet." [And this is at 11:15 a. m.]

Or: "Would you care to hold? He's on the other telephone with Mr. Schwartz." [It's nobody's business who he's on the phone with.]

Or: "He hasn't come back from lunch yet, but he won't be gone long. Nobody took him."

Or would you believe, "Just a minute. I think he's in the john."

Girls can be taught how to type and take shorthand, but I honestly believe they should be given a course in common sense. AMAZED IN NEWARK

DEAR ABBY: Please put this in the paper with your answer. Our next door neighbor gave us a Christmas gift a whole MONTH in advance. [She did the same thing last year.] Here we are, living right next door to her and she could have waited until at least two weeks before Christmas.

I have a theory about people who give gifts that far ahead of time. They want to give the recipients plenty of time in which to buy a gift for THEM. And of course, after they GET a gift, they are obligated to give one in return. Your comments, please. IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Your letter falls into the "You Can't Win" category. Your "theory" could be correct. It could also be incorrect. Many prefer to avoid the hassle of Christmas giving by sending gifts well in advance of the rush.

DEAR ABBY: Is it normal for a boy who is in the 8th grade to kiss his mother goodby every morning before he goes to school, and then wave a couple of times as he goes down the street?

I have two grown sons, and they stopped kissing me goodby in about the 2d grade. Sign me . . . WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The boy's behavior in this one instance could suggest that he has a rather strong attachment to his mother. But that doesn't necessarily mean there is anything abnormal about it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Well Field Is Being Recharged

Storage of surface water in the de-watered zone of the Martin County well field is now underway with good results, according to Paschall Odom, assistant general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The recharge is proceeding at the rate of about 3,000,000 gallons per day. By April 1, the district should have injected about half a billion gallons of water from Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence in the field.

This will put the water nearer the point where it will be most needed next summer during peak season of consumption.

US Protests Seizure Of Ship

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The United States is protesting the Cuban seizure of the freighter Johnny Express, whose naturalized American captain was shown on Havana television being treated in a hospital for wounds suffered when the ship was taken over.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Thursday that President Nixon, spending the weekend at the Florida White House, has expressed "grave concern" for Jose Villa, captain of the freighter which is owned by Cuban exiles.

Villa's wife and three children paid a visit to Nixon Thursday.

"He (Villa) has been gravely wounded," Mrs. Villa said afterward. "He has the right to be returned to me."

In one of the last radio messages received from the Johnny Express after it was attacked by a Cuban gunboat in the Bahamas Wednesday, Villa reported: "The deck is covered with blood. I am dying ...."

The captain and five crew members wounded in the attack were pictured on Havana television late Thursday night recuperating in a Cuban hospital.

A commentator for the station identified Villa and the crew as counter-revolutionaries.

Teofilo Babun, one of four brothers who own the Miami-based Bahama Lines, denied that any of his ships have been used in raids against Cuba. Earlier, Radio Havana said the shipping line was fostering harassment against the regime of Communist Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

"The United States will be demanding the immediate return of Capt. Villa through the swiss Embassy in Havana," Ziegler said. "This is an unconscionable act by the Cuban government and it is an act that cannot be tolerated in the international community."

The British government said it had instructed its ambassador to investigate the attack, which took place in British waters near Bahama.

Nixon Dollars Confiscated

DETROIT (AP) — The Secret Service has confiscated thousands of inflated—in size—"Nixon dollars" that Michigan Democrats had been circulating to spoof the President and his economic policy.

Amused Democrats declared after the seizure Thursday that they knew dollars had been in short supply under the Nixon administration but they didn't realize how short.

A spokesman for the Secret Service said the oversized bills were confiscated as contraband under a federal law forbidding the use of imitation U.S. currency for novelty or advertising purposes.

"Nixon dollars" are about one-third larger than regular dollar bills. On the front is an image of President Nixon flashing a victory sign with one hand while crossing the fingers of the other. On the back the bills say, "God Help Us."

Each "One Frozen Dollar" is signed by "M. Mitchell, Keeper of the Cookie Jar," and by "John Con Lee, Secretary of the Treasury."

TV Station Named In Libel Suit

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A San Benito construction firm filed a libel suit Thursday asking for $2.4 million damages from a Harlingen television station in connection with news stories concerning the building of homes with federal funds.

Papers in the suit were not available before the court closed but the court clerk confirmed the suit was filed in 103rd District Court by Custom Designed Homes, Inc., against KGBT-TV and several persons. The same firm had sought and obtained a restraining order Wednesday against the station broadcasting a special news program titled "Home Sweet Home."

Named as defendants in the suit are Harbenito Broadcasting Co., KGBT-TV Vice President Lee Harr, South Texas Lumber and Supply Co., W.M. Moore, Robert Hurst, Betty Hull, Jim Maule and Jerry Dekkard.

Those named in the suit in addition to the station and Harr were persons who appeared on the program.

Travel Pact Signed

BONN (AP) — East and West Germany signed an agreement today which will make travel to isolated West Berlin easier.

The pact, initialed in Berlin last week, was signed by State Secretaries Egon Bahr of West Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany in the Palais Schaumburg.

The agreement fills in details of the Berlin Accord signed Sept. 3 by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

It will not take full effect until the Big Four powers sign a final protocol. The Soviet Union is expected to withhold its signature until the West German Bundestag ratifies the Soviet-West German nonaggression treaty in the spring.

After signing the accord, Bahr said the next step is to conclude a general traffic agreement between the two German states.

Kohl described the agreement as a contribution toward the relaxation of tensions and an impetus toward further steps in this direction.

Bahr and Kohl exchanged letters in which they agreed that, as of Jan. 1, West Germans no longer will have to pay individual autobahn and visa fees when traveling to West Berlin.

This meant the two sides intend to go ahead with at least parts of the new agreement even before it is sanctioned by the Big Four. The initiative for this came from the East German side.

The accord provides that, in place of individual fees, the Bonn government will pay a yearly lump sum of $71 million to permit West Germans to use the Berlin access routes.

Nation's Welfare Rolls Increase

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's welfare rolls swelled in August for the first time in four months but total expenditures declined, the government announced today.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said about 14.4 million persons received cash payments, an increase of 138,000 persons—or 1 per cent—during August, the latest month for which statistics are available.

The rise nearly wipes out the cumulative 1.2-per-cent caseload decline during May, June and July, but represents a significant reversal of the average 2-per-cent monthly increase earlier in the year.

Spending for all public assistance including Medicaid totaled $1.5 billion for August, a $15-million decrease from July, attributed primarily to smaller demands for medical care.

HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service said 95,000 persons were added to the Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program in 42 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

New Jersey, which had dropped 108,000 AFDC recipients in July under tighter rules governing unemployed and employed parents, added 25,300 in August. Michigan, Illinois, Florida, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas recorded increases of 5,000 to 9,500.

AFDC rolls shrank in eight states and Puerto Rico, including 3,900 in New York and 3,100 in California, which has reported a continuing decline since March, HEW said.

Another 4,000 persons were dropped nationwide from old-age relief because of Social Security raises first paid in June.

Increases were recorded in general assistance, up 35,000 or 3.6 per cent; aid to the disabled, up 12,000 or 1.1 per cent; and aid to the blind, up 200 or .2 per cent.

Baby Is Offered For Beer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma City police are holding a pregnant mother, 39, who was arrested after they received reports that she had offered to trade her 3½-month-old child for a bottle of beer at a downtown cafe.

The child has been placed in a county shelter and youth bureau detectives say the mother will be given a mental hearing.

Detective Herbert Booker said Thursday, shortly after the arrest, that criminal charges would be sought if the hearing shows she is mentally competent.

"We got an anonymous phone call that the woman had been hanging around Eddie Henry's Cafe for the last three days," said Booker. "I went to the restaurant in plain clothes and drank a cup of coffee to observe for awhile. A waitress told me that the woman had carried the baby at least once by its feet, and that she had offered to sell it to different people Tuesday and Wednesday.

"She told me the woman had taken stew meat and stuffed it into the baby's mouth. When it choked, the waitress said she grabbed the baby and dislodged a hunk of food. At least one of the waitresses had offered to buy some baby food and some clothes for the child, but they told me the mother refused.

"They said the woman would leave the baby laying on the floor while she went to the rest room, and once walked off and left the baby laying on the counter with its head hanging off the end.

"She apparently refused any help for the child from the people at the restaurant, so the people told me one would lure her attention while another fed or cared for the baby.

"Thursday afternoon we got the phone call after the woman was reported to have offered the baby to a man at the cafe," Booker said.

"While I was sitting in the cafe, a uniformed officer who I had called for, walked in and the woman immediately got up and walked toward the cash register. She just left the baby in the booth, so I picked up the baby and Officer David White took the woman into custody."

Many American families are building their own three-bedroom "castles" in Spain where the living is economical.

We're A Nation Of Regions— So Are Our Candy Recipes

Regional candy recipes still flourish. But as people move, recipes move with them so that many regional sweets are no longer strictly regional. They are enjoyed throughout the country.

New England still has its maple syrup candies. Charleston and Savannah can boast of benne seed (wild sesame) brittle. Arizona residents still make candied cactus. Oregon and Washington have local fruit candies while Hawaii has melt-in-the-mouth coconut creams.

As you have guessed regional candies often incorporate ingredients that abound in the area. Hawaii's favorite includes the islands' three major crops, sugar, pineapple and coconut. Californians send gifts of Rocky Road or Almond Roca instead of brittle. Regional candies in the Northwest often include apples and filberts.

Even the type of sugar and the name it is called varies by region. Pennsylvania Dutch Moravian mints require finely refined sugar. In the East it's usually called confectioners' and in the West, powdered sugar. Both names refer to the same product.

New Orleans pralines are usually made with brown sugar; so is molasses taffy found in other parts of the south. Taffy elsewhere contains granulated sugar. Flavorings match the type of sugar used. Bland fruit flavors in granulated sugar taffy are found along Atlantic City's Boardwalk and strong anisèed in New Mexico's brown sugar and molasses taffy.

Wrap and gaily decorate a box of regional candy to say happy birthday, Merry Christmas or simply a warm thank you the the neighbors down the street.

REGIONAL CANDIES. . .As people move, recipes move with them and one day true regional candies will no longer exist. They make a lovely gift dressed up in a colorful container. Regional candies often incorporate ingredients that abound in the area.

MAPLE BUTTERSCOTCH

1 cup granulated sugar
two-thirds cup maple syrup
one-third cup butter
½ cup water

Combine all of the ingredients in a kettle. Bring to a boil and cook without stirring, until the temperature reaches 285 (soft crack; syrup forms hard but not brittle threads in cold water). Turn into a buttered 8-inch square pan. Mark off the candy while it is still soft. Break it when it is cold. Makes about 65 pieces.

COCONUT CREAM CANDY

1½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup water
2 teaspoons corn syrup
1½ cups grated coconut
¼ cup well drained crushed pineapple
Food coloring, if desired

Combine sugar, water and syrup in a kettle. Cook the mixture over medium heat until the temperature reaches 248 (firm ball; syrup makes ball in cold water and holds its shape). Wash down the sides of the kettle with a pastry brush dipped in hot water. Remove from heat, stir in coconut and pineapple. Gently boil the mixture until it is very thick, between 226 to 236. Remove from heat and beat mixture until it becomes creamy. Blend in food coloring. When the candy is the proper consistency, drop from a spoon onto waxed paper. Makes about 1 pound. Note: This candy is especially good when freshly grated coconut is used. The pineapple may be omitted, if desired.

ROCKY ROAD CANDY

½ pound marshmallows
1 cup walnuts, broken into pieces
1-2 pounds milk chocolate

Cut the marshmallows into small pieces with kitchen scissors moistened frequently in cold water. Sprinkle the marshmallows and nuts evenly over the bottom of a buttered 8-inch square pan. Melt the chocolate in a double boiler slowly (will take at least an hour) over lukewarm water. If the water is too warm the candy will turn out an unattractive white. Pour the melted chocolate over the marshmallows and nuts. When cool, mark and cut in squares. Makes 50 pieces.

Note: The size of the pan is important as this candy is best if quite thick. Penuche (brown sugar fudge) may be poured over the nuts and marshmallows instead of chocolate.

APPLE CANDY

2 cups cooked sieved tart apples
2 cups granulated sugar
one-eighth teaspoon salt
2-3 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
6 tablespoons cold water
1 cup chopped walnuts
4 teaspoons lemon juice
Powdered sugar

Wash about 7-8 apples. Core and cut unpeeled into small pieces. Cook in just enough water to prevent from sticking into the pan, until soft. Put through a sieve and measure. Combine cooked apples, sugar and salt. Cook until mixture becomes thick, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Soak the gelatin in the cold water to soften it. Add to the hot apple mixture, stirring until the gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat; add nuts and lemon juice and pour into a well oiled shallow pan. Cool, then refrigerate. When candy has set cut into squares and roll in powdered sugar. Makes about 65 pieces. Note: Fresh cooked or dried apricots may be substituted for the apples.

MORAVIAN MINTS

3 cups powdered sugar
1 cup boiling water
12 drops oil of peppermint or wintergreen; red or green food coloring, if desired

Boil sugar and water to 238 (soft ball; syrup makes ball in a cold water which will not hold) in a kettle. Add flavoring. If wintergreen is used, add either red or green coloring. Remove from heat and beat until candy thickens. Drop from a spoon or oiled funnel in thin patties on buttered or oiled paper. Makes 50 mints.

To get rid of white, waxy fuzzy clusters of lice on house plants, probably mealy bugs, use plant dip or spray containing malathion. Use two teaspoons of 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water and repeat the application if the infestation continues.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

Certain types of furniture lend themselves to stenciled designs.

The designs impart a gay look to such things as children's furniture and are often used on specialty pieces of a provincial nature, including many items in the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Those who finish wood as a hobby are rediscovering stenciling as a satisfying and occasional alternative to the more conventional ways of refinishing furniture. Nobody is suggesting that you should conduct stenciling experiments on your good living room furniture, but it is an excellent and intriguing way to turn a rather stolid piece of furniture into something exciting.

You can start with stencils purchased from art supply and paint stores. When you get the hang of it, stencils can be made from magazine illustrations or from a drawing you have made yourself. In making your own stencils, use an oiled, stencil paper. When you buy it, also purchase some tracing paper and a single-edged razor blade or one of the craft knives which has a handle.

The design you have selected is transferred to the tracing paper, then cut out of the stencil paper, being careful to make clean cuts. The stencil paper is taped to the furniture or other object and painted over. On the matter of painting, Robert Berger, in his new book, "All About Antiquing and Restoring Furniture," has this to say:

"Either enamel or oil color in tubes can be used for the stenciling. The paint must have a thicker consistency than would be normally acceptable so that it won't tend to seep under the edges of the stencil.

"After mixing the paint, tape the stencil to a scrap of wood so that you can test the stencil—and your technique. Ideally you should use a stiff, short-bristled stencil brush, but lacking that, you can make your own by giving an ordinary brush a haircut. Tap the brush the way a woodpecker uses his bill—move it up and down with short strokes to work the paint into the stencil openings. Don't stroke the brush sideways; that would force the paint under the edges of the stencil.

"Let the stencil stay in place until the paint has dried. If you're impatient and move the stencil too soon, you risk smearing the paint."

Once you have mastered the method of using stencils, you can move on to more complicated designs, some of which require several stencils rather than one. And if you fancy yourself as an artist of sorts, you can add subtle shadings and highlights to the designs with freehand brushwork.

When it is likely that the designs will be subjected to frequent handling or other hard use, Berger suggests that they be protected with a coat of clear varnish.

B&PW Club Enjoys Christmas Party

The Business and Professional Women's Club held their traditional Christmas dinner at the Martha Ann Woman's Club Dec. 14 with ten members and one guest present.

Dinner music was provided by James Hamblen. A choral group from Travis Junior High School, under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Kayser, sang a selection of lovely Christmas carols.

A scholarship fund tree was set up near the entrance and instead of exchanging gifts, the members decorated the tree with money to be used for their annual scholarship.

Jerry Bowers, president of the club, submitted her resignation. Mrs. Eva Victor, vice-president, will serve as president for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades told a wonderful story of an inn keeper from Bethlehem. She was dressed as a wondering inn keeper.

TOPS Club Has Christmas Party

The Snyder TOPS Club held their Christmas party Dec. 14 in the home of Jean Yearwood with sixteen members and one guest present. Members sang Christmas carols and exchanged gifts.

The club Friendship Quilt was won by Emma Huffman.

The club also honored Mrs. Tommy Galyean, nee Sandra Crockett, with a bridal shower.

Housewives Share Job, Salary

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two former housewives who have switched from the heat of the kitchen to the even more intense heat of the business world are urging other women to follow their lead.

Teddi Levison and Mickie Silverstein, who host a radio talk show in Atlanta, see many alternatives to the traditional 9-to-5 office job, including their own unique arrangement.

"We share one job and one salary," explains Mrs. Levison. "The office never knows which one of us is going to show up," adds Mrs. Silverstein. The two write and produce their documentaries as a team and usually do their show together once a week, but the rest of the time they split up their working days.

"There are very few jobs that women can't share," Mrs. Silverstein continues. "They can run a store together, divide a copywriter's job, an administrative position or a social worker's case load."

The slim, long-haired blondes recently expanded their own collaboration by writing a book, "Have You Had It In The Kitchen?" They themselves had it one afternoon eight years ago. "Mickie had just gotten back from Florida and was teaching me the bossa nova," Mrs. Levison recalls. "Our hair was in curlers, the kids were running around the living room playing leapfrog and we suddenly looked at each other and said 'There has to be more to life than this.'

"We sat down and took stock of ourselves," Mrs. Silverstein breaks in. "We both attended college for three years, taking a liberal arts course that only fits you for taking a secretarial course after you get out. We decided to make the most of our organizational talent and writing ability."

After several other joint efforts they eventually became a news team that won the 1970 George Foster Peabody Award for distinguished news broadcasting, never before received by a woman. On a visit to New York they talked about the importance of a meaningful career for women.

"What true women's liberation is doesn't come from marching and slogans and it doesn't come from legislation, though that helps," says Mrs. Silverstein. "It comes from within. When a woman isn't dependent on another human being for her economic, emotional or spiritual well-being, she is truly a free person. Then her life is made up of choice, not chance."

Instead of women's lib, which they consider a "silly" term, they prefer women's dignity or women's humanism. "We are basically in agreement with the aims of the new feminists but we think they are making a mistake in negating their femininity," Mrs. Levison adds. "Men use their sex appeal every day in the week. Being women has been a tremendous help, like when we were at the state legislature we got the first interviews. You can use your femininity to get in, but once in you must have the ability to do the job."

The authors believe businesses should allow women to work shorter hours at adjusted salaries, take some of their work home with them and make other flexible arrangements.

"Why shouldn't businesses allow women to set their own hours as long as they're productive?" asks Mrs. Silverstein. "Nobody worries about a man having two-hour martini lunches but if a woman has to take time out for an emergency with her kids she usually has to lie and say she's sick.

"We want to encourage women like us with husbands, runny-nose children and suburban car pools but who still want careers to use their minds and be human beings."

The two say there is no reason for working mothers to feel guilty. "I can think of no disadvantage to the children of working mothers," Mrs. Levison, mother of three, declares. "They seem to get along better than those whose mothers stand there feeding them milk and cookies, blowing their noses, hanging up their clothes and telling them what to do."

Mrs. Silverstein, mother of two, adds it is the husband who has to give up the most when his wife goes to work. "She has all she can do to keep the house functioning and he has to give up some comforts and some of his wife's time. But in return he gets a woman who is a whole person, not an appendage of himself."

While admitting that running a home and having a career at the same time can be a struggle—and both are in favor of having household help even if it takes most of the paycheck—they think the rewards justify the effort.

"Career women are invariably better groomed, more stylish and younger looking and have a zestful outlook," Mrs. Silverstein points out. "At a cocktail party after 30 minutes you can tell which woman stays home and which goes to work."

Swing Era Nostalgia

SIMON SAYS: THE SIGHTS AND SOUNDS OF THE SWING ERA, 1935-1955. By George T. Simon. Arlington House. $19.95.

This is a huge book, which calls itself "the biggest collection of Swing Era writing ever assembled and the best, by far." We haven't read them all, but on the basis of reading this one, we're willing to believe it. It's a veritable cornucopia of pictures and different kinds of writing and it's got a 14-page index.

"Simon Says" isn't a look back at the Swing Era and the way we now think that it was. It's articles written at the time, for Metronome Magazine, by a writer who was (still is) vivid and knowledgeable about jazz. There are interviews and reviews of bands—that's where the title comes from. At the end of a review of a band comes. the sentence "Simon says A minus." (B plus, etc.)

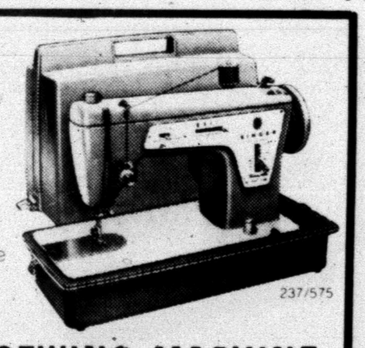

There also is a diary (with marginal notes in which Simon comments these days on what he wrote in those days), essays and coverage of concerts and cutting contests. In one, Goodman vs. Basie, he writes, "Herschel Evans cut the more famed Lester Young." You can check out your memories in this book; who, recalling those times, would have thought that?

The section of the book that's maybe the most fun is called "Hits and Misses," in which Simon makes his picks and predictions. "Here's No. 1 for 1936: Ella Fitzgerald, 17, unheralded, and practically unknown right now, but what a future. There's no reason why she shouldn't be just about the best in time to come." But in 1939, Simon heard one he thought was better, Jayne Whitney. Who? But he liked Ben Pollack's first trumpeter in 1936, Harry James, and he liked what he heard in rehearsals as Glenn Miller was organizing a band in 1937.

This is youthfully exuberant writing, with the words of the time, like "dansapation." But this just adds to the authenticity. For the musically inclined reader, this book is more fun than being a kid in his grandfather's candy store, dipping into the good things here and there.

FITS INTO NEW LIFE STYLE

Graham Sees Bright Future For Rail Travel

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Graham is a former commercial pilot and airline executive who believes that the business of carrying passengers over railroads is a fascinating concept with unlimited possibilities.

Soft-spoken, low-keyed, Graham becomes enthusiastic about the future. "There are few new industries in this world," he says. Rail travel, he claims, can be a brand new way of life.

Hold on Mr. Graham. A new way of life? Railroading a new business?

In 1929 about 20,000 passenger trains rolled the rails. They carried 77 per cent of all passenger traffic between cities. In 1970 only 450 trains remained and they carried only 7.2 per cent of intercity traffic.

Whether they were driven off by poor service or whether the passengers deserted the rails for the car, bus and plane is a moot question. But what the figures seem to say is that this is not a new industry but a dying one.

Well, Graham explains, new in the sense of the possibilities, new in the way it fits into a new life style. To Graham, railroads can be the answer to ecologists' prayers, the solution to businessmen's fatigue, the opportunity for family vacations.

Speaking in this manner, Graham could only work for the National Railroad Passenger Corp, AMTRAK, the new corporation responsible for running most of the nation's intercity passenger trains. He is vice president-marketing.

He begins with the assumption that the American public really wants trains if they are clean, efficient, gracious.

"There has long been a love-hate relationship between the railroads and the people," he says. "They love the railroads but they hate the people who run them."

There is, he says, a mystique about the rails. They pushed back the frontier, opened the West. They belonged as much to the farmer who set his clock by the train whistle as to the financiers who owned them. They are Americana.

The plane never meant so much to the people, Graham believes. It flies over, often unseen. It is an impersonal object. It belongs to somebody else.

But the airlines flourished and the trains deteriorated.

Now, he feels, there is a chance to recapture the business and the way of life. The market is there, he says. It simply has to be found through experimentation and then priced competitively.

"We can make a family train trip an event," he says. "Union members now get four to six weeks vacations and they'll be more prone to take minivacations. We can make all the accomodations, solve all the problems at the end of the line."

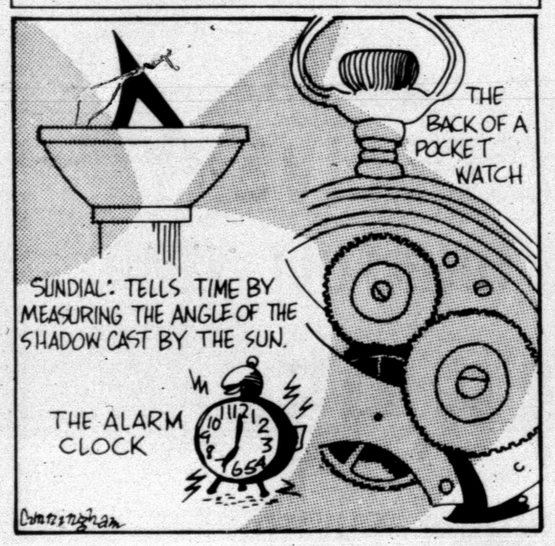

For the businessman, Graham hopes to sell the concept of the overnight trip—New York to Atlanta, Los Angeles to San Francisco—as a graceful, relaxing, efficient way to operate. Good food, music, working conditions.

"What's this about ecology?" he was asked. The train, he suggested, is beautiful. It doesn't take up space. It doesn't pollute the atmosphere.

"A normal four-lane highway takes 40 acres a mile," he said. "How much ore do you want to strip the land at the expense of housing and greenery? An airport takes 15,000 to 20,000 acres of land. Where are you going to find that kind of tract reasonably close to traffic centers?"

One problem remains: Can all this be profitable? Nobody can say for sure. They just hope.

A Junior Editors Quiz About WATCHES AND CLOCKS

QUESTION: How did watches and clocks originate?

ANSWER: Early man was familiar with sunrise and sunset and observed shadows cast on the trees during the day. Then he invented the sundial, which is really a shadow clock. The shadow cast on the sundial gives an idea of the sun's position and thus the time of day.

In the 1300s, Henry de Vick invented a clock which contained many of the important parts of the modern clock: It had wheels, a dial and an hour hand. By 1700, a pendulum, a minute hand and a second hand had been added. The wheels of the early clocks were motivated by a weight or pendulum and therefore the clocks had to stand upright. Early clocks were usually large and unwieldy.

In 1504, Peter Henlein, a locksmith, found a new way to drive the wheels in a clock. He invented the mainspring. A clock then could be built much smaller and no longer had to be upright. Henlein produced the first watch which was so heavy it had to be hung from the belt. As new kinds of watchmaking machinery was made, it was possible to make smaller and more accurate watches.

Mannequin Outdraws Even Santa

By BILL STOCKTON
Associated Press Writer

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Robert the Mannequin stands motionless, head cocked, arms extended, slightly bent at the waist like any good department store [illegible] Christmas shoppers hurry by unnoticing.

Then he moves, ever so slightly.

"Oh my," a startled matron whispers to her companion. "That dummy, he moved. I saw him move."

Click, click, click. Like a mechanical robot, Robert turns his head, moves his arms up and down, straightens up, slumps forward, again motionless. The green eyes stare blankly, the face frozen. Around the shopping mall, others have caught the movement on a platform at the entrance of a men's shop where several mannequins are clustered.

Suddenly the mannequin strides stiff-legged into the crowd, arms jerking up and down. The spectators melt before the advance until one young couple holds its ground.

Like a toy soldier that's run into a chair leg, Robert the Mannequin stands before the couple, arms outstretched, feet moving in place.

The crowd laughs and applauds.

Robert is outdrawing even Santa Claus at the shopping center.

"The hardest thing, the thing it took me the longest to learn, is not to laugh, not to break," Robert Montoya, 28, said during a break in the store where he's been hired.

Montoya's passion for pantomime was born 10 years ago when he saw the famed French mime, Marcel Marceau.

"I was hooked. He's been my idol ever since," Montoya said.

At grand openings, restaurants, banquets, wax museums, wherever he could convince someone a robot was needed, Montoya has plied his skills.

"People are so used to seeing mannequins around that when one moves, they tend to get a little nervous," he said.

"I've been hit, pinched, kicked and struck on the head with a skillet,"

Several minutes later Montoya again toy-soldiered into a crowd of shoppers, stopping in front of a dazzling blonde.

"Your place or mine, handsome," she cooed.

Robert the Mannequin, unflinching, wheeled and marched away.

Second Bids Called For Facilities

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Agriculture commissioner John C. White said Thursday specifications on new livestock holding pens and facilities at Eagle Pass and Del Rio are expected to go to bidders by Feb. 1.

Present export facilities were condemned for livestock use last July by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Mexican authorities.

This will be the second time bids have been called for on the Del Rio pens and facilities. Previous bids exceeded estimates.

White also said Dick Arthur Co., Inc., still build new livestock facilities at Houston International Airport for $201,700.

"The new Texas facilities will be unequalled anywhere in the United States and far exceed minimum standards set by the USDA's animal health commissioner and Mexican authorities," White said.

Sooner Coach Stresses Discipline, Fair Play

"Football means a lot of different things to a lot of different people, but it is very much a part of our way of life," said Chuck Fairbanks, head football coach at the University of Oklahoma.

He spoke last night at the annual Tiger Football Banquet, held in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The OU mentor said that football has more significance in the Southwest than it does in some other parts of the country. He mentioned the fact that OU squad has three players from Midland, two from Abilene, one from Brownfield and three from Monahans. He said Joe Hale, lineman from Snyder High School, did a good job on the OU Freshman team this past season.

"What do we get out of football?" Fairbanks asked.

In answering that question, he said a player's teammates and his fans will remember more about what kind of a person a player was than how many touchdowns he made. Speaking for himself, Fairbanks said that he has "been rewarded more than I gave."

Football results in the best kind of personal discipline, Fairbanks said, the kind of discipline that a young man "imposes on himself."

"There are not many chances where a young guy can find out about himself as a man," Fairbanks declared, "but football gives the young man an opportunity to compete physically and mentally.

"As a part of a team, you have an opportunity to build something. Learn to play the game by the rules. If you don't like your rules or laws, don't break them, but work for change," he observed.

Discipline has more meaning if you know and understand that what you are working for is right, the coach of the nation's third-ranked college team said.

In this connection, Fairbanks said during his first year at Oklahoma, he called a meeting of the team to discuss the various rules. After a discussion of each rule, they voted whether to retain it. The squad voted to retain every rule it had.

"You have to give up some of your personal identity for the good of the team or group," Fairbanks stated, adding, "Attitudes are a part of personal discipline that give you a chance to do your best."

Pride "starts with the individual," Fairbanks declared, stating that appearance and conduct, loyalty, hard work and fair discipline all have a part in successful football.

"There are two prerequisites to success on the team: discipline and morale, and you can't have morale without discipline," he said.

Fairbanks concluded by telling the Tigers that several years from now the thing they will remember most about their football careers is the contribution they made for the team.

You will ask yourself, 'Did I which pointed up the strong points of various Tigers on the football field. Invocation was given by Mike Dennis.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cornell's Ed Marinaro may have missed his calling. Instead of a football player of the hotel management executive he's studying to be, he could be a comedian.

Did he expect to carry the ball an average of 39.6 times per game the way he did for Cornell?

"You ain't seen nothing yet," responded Marinao, adding that he wants to play pro ball and expects to be drafted in the first round of the National Football League draft.

Does he have an agent to negotiate for him with the pros?

"I've talked to Howard Cosell about representing me," said Marinaro.

"Do you have any choice for a pro team?"

"Yeh, the Bridgeport Bulls. Oh, I guess I'd like to stay in New York, but I'll be happy anywhere I go."

Which award did he think was the more important, Heisman or Maxwell?

"The Maxwell, because I won

Did he have any other observations?

House Probe Requested On Day Lobbied Bills

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Rep. Frances T. Farenthold of Corpus Christi and a House candidate from Fort Worth have asked the House General Investigating Committee to probe into the legislature's passage of three bills for which James C. Day...

The request followed publication of a copyrighted story in the Houston Post which said Day arranged a $60,000 loan for House Speaker Gus Mutscher's top aide Rush McGinty while the bills were being debated.

The Post said the Mutscher-guaranteed loan to McGinty was from Shearn Moody Jr.'s private bank, W. L. Moody & Bankers (Unincorporated).

John Chidgey, 24, of Fort Worth, a candidate for a House seat, joined Rep. Farenthold in the appeal.

The Post reported Day was a member of the Moody bank's executive committee and otherwise a business associate of Moody. It noted Day was a registered lobbyist for Moody, the Texas Vending Association and other clients.

The Houston newspaper said it's investigation revealed that Senate Bill 268, creating a nine-member Texas Vending Commission to regulate the entertainment vending machine industry, was drafted at Day's direction.

The Post said House Bill 1582 and Senate Bill 983 were drafted in Day's Houston office for the Moody interests.

"We have all become aware of the phenomenon of large unsecured loans seeming to be available at times to state office holder," Rep. Farenthold said in a letter to Rep. Menton Murray, chairman of the House committee. "This practice and its ramifications should certainly be scrutinized by your committee."

The Post said an official of the bank stated that the $60,000 McGinty loan deal was presented to the bank but the loan was not made by the bank. The official indicated Moody could have made the loan from his other financial resources, it said.

The newspaper quoted reliable sources, however, as saying the same official told investigative authorities Nov. 30 that the loan had been made by the bank.

The bank official said this loan and a 1970 loan of $30,000 to Mutscher were paid off by Moody after the Post began investigating and records of the loans were removed from the bank, sources told the Post.

House bill 1582 authorized State Treasurer Jesse James to deposit state funds in private banks after their approval by the state depository board as depositories.

Senate Bill 983 created the League City Semi-Tropical Gardens Utility District, embracing seven scattered pieces of land to which Moody's bank claims title.

Rep. Farenthold said the investigating committee is "uniquely fortified" for the investigation and, under the Legislative Reorganization Act, also has authority to conduct joint hearings with the Senate General Investigating Committee.

Murray told the Post he has not promised an investigation. He said the decision would be up to the full committee.

Martin Is Quizzed On Ethics Law

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of State Bob Bullock has asked for an attorney general's opinion on the most important feature of Texas' new ethics law: financial disclosure.

Bullock also asked whether the 12-member ethics commission, created to investigate breaches of ethical standards, was constitutional.

He asked Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin to say whether these provisions of the act are constitutional:

—The requirement that each state official and employe report to the secretary of state by Jan. 31 each year any interests held by them or their spouses in businesses regulated by the state.

—The provision that each elected or appointed state official, and every state employe earning $11,000 or more per year, must file financial statements covering their sources of income and investments.

"It's going to cost us $50,000 for 200,000 filings, and we don't have any appropriation to do it and no additional personnel," Bullock said.

Bullock said he doubts the constitutionality of the ethics law because its caption fails to disclose the financial reporting provision.

He also says there is a question about the membership of the commission since the law says six members must be legislators, chosen by their colleagues.

Bullock pointed out that the Texas constitution prohibits legislators from voting for other lawmakers for any office except those provided by the constitution, such as House speaker.

Martin already has criticized the ethics law as a "virtual mishmash" which the legislature should repair.

The American Bible Society in New York has distributed more than one billion copies of Scripture since it was organized.

UN Council Sets Closed Meeting

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council scheduled a closed meeting this afternoon to try to choose a new secretary-general to succeed U Thant on Dec. 31.

Diplomatic sources said the five permanent members of the council listed five nominees:

Max Jakobson, Finland's delegate to the United Nations; Kurt Waldheim, Austria's U.N. ambassador; Felipe Herrera of Chile, former president of the Inter-American Bank; Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, U.N. high commissioner for refugees; and Gunnar Jarring, the Swedish ambassador to Moscow and U.N. special representative for the Middle East.

Informants said the discussion and voting would not be limited to the five. They expected that one or another council member would propose Argentina's U.N. ambassador, Carlos Ortiz de Rozas; former Foreign Minister Gabriel Valdes of Chile, who is director of the U.N. Development Program's Latin American bureau; and perhaps S.S. Ramphal of Guyana.

These sources said there might be votes also for two announced candidates who did not make the Big Five's list: Shirley Amerasinghie, Ceylon's U.N. delegate, and Ethiopia's minister of communications, Endalkachew Makonnen.

The council may need more than one meeting to agree on a candidate to recommend to the General Assembly.

The five permanent members of the Security Council—Britain, China, France, the Soviet Union and the United States—play a decisive part in the process because the assembly can only vote on the council's nominee, and a veto from any of the Big Five can block any candidate.

The five failed to agree on a candidate in six private conferences in the past week.

On Thursday they sent the names of Jakobson, Waldheim, Herrera, Prince Sadruddin and Jarring to the council president for December, Ismael Byne Taylor-Kamara, of Sierra Leone, and asked him to call the council together today.

Couple Wed Over 82 Years

MANCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — Edd and Margaret Hollen have been married 82 years, seven months and 10 days.

Edd, 105, and Margaret, 99, of Bear Branch, were married in the Kentucky mountains on May 7, 1889.

According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the previous record for conventional marriages was 82 years and one day held by Frederick Burgess and Sarah Ann Gregory of London, England. She died June 22, 1965.

"I think the Lord has blessed us mighty well," said Mrs. Hollen. Their health is relatively good, according to their 67-year-old son Carlo Hollen, with whom they live.

Both have lived most of their lives in Clay County except during World War I when Edd worked in an Ohio factory. He didn't remember where.

Army Uses Metal Jails

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Army admitted today that it temporarily imprisons GIs in large metal crates. But it said they aren't "tiger cages," they're 8 by 10-foot rooms with cross ventilation.

"We have been using them for a long time" when permanent cells are not available, said Lt. Col. Vincent J. Carafano Jr., an Army spokesman. "They are not tiger cages or little boxes like the Japanese used in World War II."

Carafano was asked about a report that a deserter had been hospitalized Wednesday night after being kept for more than 50 hours in a steel shipping container at Long Binh, the big army headquarters 15 miles northeast of Saigon.

"He was detained for about 48 hours because he refused to identify himself or his unit," said Carafano. "But he was not in the detention facility continuously. He was taken out to all meals. He was taken to the latrine on request, and he was permitted to walk with an escort."

On Tuesday night, Carafano said, the soldier's behaviour "was observed to be other than normal," and Wednesday morning he was taken to the 24th Evacuation Hospital for psychiatric evaluation. "This evaluation resulted in his admission to the 24th Evacuation Hospital where he remains under guard," the spokesman said.

The "detention facility" where he was held "is constructed from what used to be a Conex container," the spokesman reported. "It is a very large metal box, a huge crate, 8 feet deep by 6½ feet high by 10 feet across.

"The whole front end has been taken off and a door with bars placed on it, much like a jail cell. The back is modified so that a strip of metal has been removed and there are bars there, too. Thus there is ventilation and a cross breeze ...."

Carafano said the Long Binh base has two such cells for personnel picked up for offenses considered not serious enough to warrant putting the men into the stockade, he said.

"The average term in a detention facility is about 24 hours," he said.

CHRISMON TREE—Grace Lutheran Church on the Round Top Road has a Chrismon Tree for the first time this Christmas. Chrismons are tree decorations in the form of symbols of the early Christian church—such as triangles, fish, circles, and crosses. The Lutheran Church Women decorated the tree. A nativity scene to the right of the tree adds to the meaning of Christmas.

Chrismons Used On Church Tree

One way to make a Christmas tree truly signigicant is to decorate it with Chrismons.

Chrismons—the word is a compound of Christ and monograms—were originated by the early Christians as symbols of their faith: the triangle, the fish, the circle, the cross.

This year for the first time, a church in Snyder has a Christmas tree decorated with Chrismons. The Lutheran Church Women of Grace Lutheran Church decorated the tree at their church.

The Chrismons are made of styrofoam, beads, wire, foil and other trimmings. Each of the symbols has a special meaning. There are different shapes of crosses and different Greek lettering, which all have their special meanings. These symbols have come out of the history of the church.

Use of these Christian symbols as meaningful ornaments for the traditional Yule tree was the inspiration of Mrs. Harry W. Spencer of Danville, Virginia.

Mrs. Spencer volunteered in 1957 to create appropriate ornaments for the Christmas tree in her church, the Lutheran Church of the Ascension. Her minister accepted the offer, and the result was the first Chrismon tree.

The church in Danville has prepared instruction and pattern books for series of Chrismons. Chrismons are not for sale, and the idea is copyrighted by the Danville church, which will give any church or nonprofit institution wanting to make proper use of the idea a release of that copyright. The three pattern books the church has compiled cost $1.50 each.

The public is welcome to view the Chrismons at Grace Lutheran Church.

There also is a nativity scene near the Chrismon tree.

Brittany spaniels were developed by French peasants who poached on the private game lands of noblemen.

Sect Seeks Miriam's Release

DALLAS (AP) — A spokesman for the Children of God, a controversial religious sect, says a federal court attempt will be made to secure the release from a mental hospital of Miriam McClendon.

Lewis Ingersoll of the sect's Dallas group claimed Miss McClendon has been confined to a state hospital at Wichita Falls because of her religious beliefs.

She was removed from the religious group's Fort Worth colony Nov. 5 and taken to a private psychiatric hospital in Dallas on a court order issued in Grayson County at the request of her mother.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed in state court here by the girl's lawyer, James Johnston, was denied. He later filed another petition in federal court. U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice set a hearing for Dec. 27 in Tyler.

Ingersoll claims Miss McClendon is being given tranquilizers at the hospital. He said the Children of God had helped her break away from drugs.

Sharp Ordered Back To Court

DALLAS (AP) — Frank Sharp, key figure of the Texas stock fraud scandal, has been ordered to return to federal court here Dec. 30 to answer an unsettled claim in a civil suit affecting the National Bankers Life Insurance Co., which he formerly controlled.

NBL and Sharp's son-in-law, W. D. Haden II, are also defendants in the suit.

Lawyers for C. Robert Young are seeking to collect a $50,000 judgment.

About 10 per cent of domestic air freight now moves in containers, says the Air Transport Association.

Egyptians Battle Huge Rat Pack

CAIRO (AP) — An hour's drive west of the Suez Canal, small group of Egyptian scientists are planning ways to annihilate the enemy.

The enemy in this case is more than double the size of the Egyptian army.

It already has destroyed 20 per cent of Egypt's major foreign income source and is denying food to the poor, frightening the populace and spreading disease.

The strategists are experts in pesticides. The enemy is the biggest rat pack in memory, perhaps 200 million strong.

Experts have studied the problem for some two years and are ready to act.

According to an official report, they found the rats live on cotton weeds and flowers, sugarcane weeds and dirt.

The report pointed out Egypt also is losing $46 million annually as a result of various rat attacks. If the rats are left unchecked, the loss may be doubled in two years time, the report warns.

The government sought World Health Organization help. An expert visited Cairo. He noticed, according to a report, that numbers of rats ran about the basements of Cairo Airport, customs stores, and inside electric power stations. He suggested these places be quickly cleaned.

For years, rats have caused power failures in the country. Certain type of rats nibble the cable wires which cause the failures, a report said.

Rats also pose a serious threat to health. One expert, Shukry Ayub, said that a recent survey in the Cairo suburb of Imbaba showed 70 per cent of the inhabitants were the victims of one of 15 types of diseases caused by rats. The most serious disease, according to Ayub, is plague.

Porcupines are considered a native of forested areas.

King of Kings

And there is no finer name for the Great Teacher. He speaks and His words come with authority. There is no court to refer His words for judgement . . . for He is the judgement. He has blessed mankind so richly that we have sought other words to do Him honor; the Great Physician, Shepherd of Souls and Lord of Life. But Handel's Messiah keeps ringing in our ears . . . "King of Kings and Lord of lords. And He shall reign forever and ever." Isaiah looked forward to the coming of this "Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace."

The artist has done us a service in the picture. Christ is destined to reign over His people, over His church, over His world. His throne was a cross spelling sacrifice. His vehicle is the church and His army a company of devout followers. His dominance is within the hearts of men and His forces are Truth, and Goodness and Love. He will triumph through our loyalty and devotion. They stop where you are! Is He regnant in your heart? He is looking to His church, imperfect as it may be, to bring in His Kingdom and to save the world. Won't you join His army, His church today . . . for He is the King of Kings.
