Great Raiding Fleets Virtually Unopposed

Brunswick, Coast Targets Pounded In Mighty Blows

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, March 1.—RAF heavy bombers were reported to have headed out over the Straits of Dover shortly after dark last night and, soon afterward, German-controlled radios in Europe left the air.

The night air operations were an immediate sequel to the double assault made by American Liberators and Flying Fortresses on Brunswick, Germany, and on military installations about Pas-De-Calais, France.

Out of the great fleets of Flying Fortresses and Liberators which made the two separate strikes, one bomber and eight fighters were lost. In both cases the bombers were given tremendous escorts, which shot down three Nazi planes.

Practically No Opposition

"Practically no opposition from enemy fighters was encountered," said the communique. It pointed out that this was the 19th day in the month the Eighth Air force had been on the offensive and the third time in 10 days it had hammered Brunswick, the site of big plants manufacturing engines and other parts for Messerschmitt rocket-shooting fighters.

Record after record was broken during the month as the Allied aerial effort against Germany expanded to its greatest strength of the war.

The 19 missions of the Eighth Air force exceeded by seven the most days it ever had been in action in a preceding month. At least 632 enemy aircraft were destroyed while 245 heavy American bombers and 61 fighters were downed.

Eight Fighters Lost

Many today's combined operation, Ron American fighters and two of Sha RAF were lost.

The 450-mile thrust at Brunswick took the Fortresses and a Harris escort of fighters, over territory which in the past has been extraordinarily defended by the Germans, William it does on the direct route Lt. John Felix T on this course that the Roy J. Air force suffered its record of heavy bombers, 60, Clash raid on Brunswick Jan. 11 when 152 Nazi aircraft were destroyed.

In the various operations in which Brunswick was a target before today the Americans and British lost a total of 183 bombers and the Americans destroyed 504 Nazi fighters.

Official Red Terms Outlined For Finns

Russians Demand Break With Nazis And Internment Of German Troops And Ships

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 29. — The Soviet government demanded tonight that Finland immediately break relations with Germany and intern all German troops and ships in Finland—with Soviet armed help if necessary—as a preliminary to "official negotiations in Moscow" for peace.

This was the foremost of six demands broadcast officially over the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet monitor. Official peace moves are dependent on the "termination of military operations," the broadcast said.

The Finnish Parliament held two secret sessions in Helsinki during the day to debate the question of peace or continued war with Russia, but an official announcement gave no indication that a decision had been reached.

Want 1940 Border

The Russians also demanded—with "immediate" acceptance specified—that the Russian-Finnish peace treaty of 1940 be restored with the withdrawal of Finnish troops of the 1940 borders.

The Soviets also demanded that all Soviet and Allied prisoners of war and citizens interned in Finland be released, but said territorial questions would be left for further negotiations.

The Russian broadcast said "a prominent Swedish industrialist" brought Juho K. Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat, and Madam Alexandra Kollantay, Russian ambassador to Sweden, together in Stockholm on Feb. 16 and Paasikivi asked for the Soviet peace conditions. The Russians agreed to negotiate with the present Finnish regime "on termination of military operations," said the broadcast, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Terms As Transmitted

According to the Moscow radio Madam Kollantay transmitted these terms:

1. Rupture of relations with Germany and interment of German troops and ships in Finland.

"If Finland considers herself incapable of fulfilling this task," the Moscow broadcast said, "the Soviet Union is prepared to render her the necessary assistance by troops and aircraft."

2. Restoration of the Soviet-Finnish treaty of 1940 and the withdrawal of Finnish troops to the borders of 1940.

3. The immediate return of Soviet and Allied prisoners of war as well as Soviet and Allied citizens who are kept in concentra-

Meat Rationing In Canada Suspended U. S. Sets 'Bonus'

Point Values Of Pork And Many Cuts Of Beef Lowered Along With Grant Of Pork

(By The Associated Press)

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—Temporary suspension of meat rationing in Canada, effective at midnight, was announced in Commons tonight.

Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister James L. Ilsley, told the House that meatless Tuesdays and meat rationing alike would be discontinued.

Heavy marketings of Canadian livestock and shipping shortages which limit exports to Allied nations led to lifting of the bars on meat consumption in the Dominion.

No coupons will be needed for meat or canned salmon bought after midnight.

"Rationing was introduced as a means of building up surpluses of meat for export to Britain and the present surplus position in Canada is due to a bottleneck in transportation and shipping," said the prices board in a simultaneous statement.

Will Use It Again

"As soon as these conditions are eased and meat supplies can move more freely into export channels, it will be necessary to use rationing again to ensure en equal supply of the reduced domestic allowance for consumers."

All machinery for meat rationing will be retained. Ration book holders were instructed to keep meat coupons that have not expired. The meat trade was asked to retain coupon-value charts and other meat-rationing documents.

U. S. ANNOUNCEMENT AHEAD OF FIRST PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Tipped that Canada was about to allow more meat to civilians, OPA today rushed out announcements that:

1. American housewives would be given a fourth pork ration "bonus" effective this week.

2. The point costs of pork and many beef cuts will be cut deeply beginning at the end of the week.

Scheduled For Friday

The announcement of the ration point changes had been scheduled to come out Friday, March 3, but the Office of Price administration suddenly decided to make it this morning. For several hours, the reason for the early announcement was a mystery, but late in the day it became known that Canada was planning to make a major modification in its meat rationing program.

Officials here desired, it was explained, to avoid any impression that they were cutting American point values merely as a result of Canada's change. They said the American changes were decided upon last week.

The OPA moves to slacken restrictions came as a surprise to housewives, in view of OPA predictions that ration values would be adjusted upward in the next few months.

Heavy Marketing

It was explained that meat animals, particularly hogs, have continued to reach the markets in unexpectedly large numbers, and that cold storage space meat be cleared for the flush production season of eggs and dairy products in the spring.

The pork "bonus" was applied by validation of spare stamp No. 4 in war ration book No. 4 for five points. Three stamps had been validated for the same amount previously. The extra allowance is good for tomorrow through Saturday. The point value reductions apply Sunday.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, said the extra pork allowance is an interim measure to help move "the great amount of pork being produced."

Other Effective Saturday

It "will not be needed after Saturday" because the lower general point values will apply then, he added.

The special stamp is good for all types of sausage, regardless of pork content.

Lamb, veal and mutton items will continue at present values.

Admiralty Landing Dooms 50,000 Japs

AMERICANS LAND ON ADMIRALTY—Tightening the ring around some 50,000 Japs virtually marooned on New Britain and the Bismarck archipelago, more effectively cutting Jap supply lines to the area, and moving with 700 bomber miles of Truk, American forces Tuesday landed on the Admiralty islands, shown above in relation to Rabaul and Kavieng, which are under constant battering from land and sea.

Islands Quickly Overrun And Nip Bases Outflanked

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

AMERICAN troops seized a foothold in the Admiralty islands yesterday (Tuesday), outflanking Rabaul and sealing the fate of some 50,000 Japanese troops.

Destroyer-borne troops quickly overran one island in the northern flank of the Bismarck Sea, overpowering light resistance.

"Some 50,000 of the enemy, largely in New Britain and at Rabaul, are now enclosed," Allied headquarters announced. "Their situation has become precarious and their ultimate fate is certain under blockade, bombardment and increasing pressure of besieging ground forces."

Tokyo Expects Raid

Announcement of the invasion came as Vichy radio reported Aleutian-based American reconnaissance planes were flying over Japan itself in preparation for an invasion of the home island from the north.

Sinking of 14 more Japanese ships by United States submarines was announced in Washington.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported new bombing raids in the Central Pacific.

Over the week-end land based American bombers smashed at Kusaie and Ponape, Japanese bases in the Carolines guarding Truk on the east, and on seven enemy-held atolls in the Marshalls.

Invasion of the Admiralty islands advanced American front lines by some 250 miles, bringing them within 1,300 miles of the Philippines.

Island Quickly Seized

Big Momote airdrome on Los Negros island was quickly seized from the surprised Japanese who put up only weak resistance and were quickly overpowered. The field, heavily raided by American bombers a month ago, had been well repaired and was in such good condition it can be soon turned to use against remaining enemy bases around the Bismarck Sea.

The surprise strike by the dismounted First Cavalry was made under the personal direction of General Douglas MacArthur, who rode a warship with the invasion forces.

It was one of MacArthur's favored encircling moves, with a double edge. It put American forces on either flank of Rabaul, 380 miles to the southeast, and severed Japanese supply lines

Invincibility Myth At Truk Exploded

Swift And Daring U. S. Thrusts Lay Bare Jap Defenses And Show Cause Of Failure

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press War Writer

ABOARD A BATTLESHIP IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC, Feb. 22 (Delayed)—The United States Navy was exploded the myth of Truk's invincibility, discovered its weaknesses and probed the character and strength of its defenses as well as those of Japan's mandated Marianas islands.

A powerful task force commanded by Rear Adm. Marc A. Mitscher learned in two swift and daring thrusts what may be expected in future attacks on those islands in the enemy's inner ring of defenses.

No Supporting Air Bases

Truk's principal weakness, exposed by the carrier plane attack of Feb. 16-17, is that it does not have the necessary nearby supporting air bases. When Truk's own airfields were neutralized by the planes of this task force, the Japanese were unable to bring in planes from other bases in time to fight back.

The attack Feb. 22 on the Marianas islands, by virtually the same force that stunned and paralyzed Truk, disclosed that the principal enemy bases, Saipan and Tinian islands, do not have protected deep water anchorage for warships larger than cruisers. Neither is a natural naval base where large installations would be most effective.

The greatest concentration of naval striking power in history, including aircraft carriers and new battleships, was under Admiral Mitscher's command. Hellcat fighter planes of this mighty froce struck a surprise blow out a cloudy dawn at Truk. They wiped out nearly all the planes defending that Nipponese fortress and supply base. Thereafter a steady stream of Avenger torpedo planes and new Helldiver divebombers blasted enemy targets for two days almost without air opposition, but in the face of heavy groundfire.

Meager Air Defense

Rear Adm. F. C. Sherman, commanding one group of carriers, said Japanese air opposition was meager the first day of the attack and entirely absent the second day.

How thoroughly the enemy was beaten was demonstrated by the daring rescue of an American fighter pilot from Truk's lagoon. A cruiser's scout plane landed near the southern end of the lagoon, picked up the pilot from his rubber lifeboat and returned safely. Fighter planes circled overhead to protect the rescue plane.

When this force retired Truk's lagoon was littered with sunken ships. Not a single bombing or

Annual Election For School Trustees Here Set April 1

Annual elections of trustees of Lubbock Independent School district were ordered last night, as required by law, at the regular monthly business meeting of the school board and Saturday, April 1, was the date announced.

Voters of the district, 10 miles square with the courthouse as focal point, will elect two trustees on a board of seven. Trustees whose terms expire are those of Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president, and Chas. A. Guy. Judges of the election ,to be held at the schools' business office, 1007 Texas avenue, will be P. C. McCoy, Glenn Hess and R. Bush Smith.

Last night's meeting, in addition to the calling of the election, was purely routine. Resignations of four teachers were accepted and employment of three others, as recommended by Acting Supt. R. W. Matthews, was approved.

Staff Changes Made

Faculty members resigning were: Mmes. Dorothy McGregor and Marie Gabriel, both of Senior High; Miss Ruth Dupree, of Wilson, and Viola Williams, Dunbar. Teachers employed were: Mrs. Delia Stone, Senior High; Mrs. Lois Eastus, Sanders, and Elphaney Dewberry, Dunbar.

The board hear a four-man committee from the negro section, representatives of Lubbock Colored Chamber of Commerce, which offered arguments against the proposed grouping of negro schools in what is known as "the new addition" adjacent to the high school. The committee was composed of Charlie Sedberry, newly elected president of the negro chamber of commerce; T. A. Amos, Will Sedberry and Charlie Deo.

Building Drive Pushed

Japs Feverishly Await Air Blow

(By The Associated Press)

Jarred by the sweep of American task forces which attacked Truk and the Marianas only 1,400 miles from Tokyo, the Japanese have awakened to the realization that they must be prepared to experience air attack at any time now.

Berlin and Tokyo broadcasts Tuesday reported that stringent steps were being taken as a result.

"Japan must be prepared at any time to sight enemy bombers," said a Berlin account, which added that the feeling the Japanese islands were now a part of the front "has been awakened among the entire Japanese nation by the appearance of the U. S. fleet off the Marianas."

Emergency Decrees

Tokyo broadcasts reported by OWI told of a series of government measures of an emergency nature suggesting that while the American naval force was near the Marianas it was feared it might strike next at Tokyo.

"One has realized that the American advance in the Pacific is no isolated enterprise in which after rapid thrusts the attackers recoil to their original positions," said a Berlin broadcast.

One government order closed all bars, cafes and dancing places

Gas Coupons To Be Serially Numbered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—The Office of Price administration announced today that all renewals of "B," "C," "E" and "R" gasoline rations will be issued in strips of serially numbered coupons in a cardboard folder, beginning tomorrow.

Serial numbering of coupons, described by OPA as one of the "strongest weapons against the gasoline black market," first was applied to new "T" rations issued after Jan. 1.

This switch to coupon strips, OPA emphasized, will not mean the abandonment of coupon endorsement.

The new coupons will be issued in rolls resembling theater tickets and will be exactly enough to equal the gallonage value of the ration to which the applicant is entitled. The folder that accompanies the strip of coupons will bear the information usually found on the cover of a ration book. In addition, the range of serial numbers of the enclosed coupons will be noted on the folder which must be kept with the tickets at all times.

Farmers or other off-highway consumers are given "E" and "R" coupons. Motorists doing occupational driving receive "B" and "C" rations.

Japs Pay Heavy Price In Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—American sea and air forces, whittling industriously at Japan's lifeline of conquest, were reported by Secretary of the Navy Knox today to have littered the Pacific's bottom with nearly half the merchant tonnage with which the Nipponese started the war.

"More warships, more planes, more submarines are going out to join the hunt," Knox said just a year ago in reporting destruction of "almost one-third" of the enemy's cargo shipping.

3,000,000 Tons Sunk

Today at a news conference he disclosed results of that hunt—"well over" three million tons sunk since Pearl Harbor.

And the rate of destruction shows no sign of slackening. Knox emphasized that point in announcing destruction by submarines of 14 more Japanese ships and telling newsmen that American undersea fighters are growing in skill.

Accurate figures on the size of the merchant fleet that constituted Japan's only hope of holding together her empire of oceanwide banditry never have been available. But estimates of her original tonnage plus ships seized in the original wave of conquest range around 7,500,000.

Naval officers have indicated they have reason to hope that the Japanese efforts to replace losses

Nazi Artillery Roars At Anzio

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 29 (AP)— German artillery on heights overlooking the Anzio beachhead below Rome roared into full-throated action today, spraying Allied troops and installations throughout the 100-square-mile area with one of the heaviest shellings since the landing there over five weeks ago.

In a dispatch from that constricted Allied holding, Edward Kennedy of the Associated Press said that the Nazis were not concentrating on any particular target of the many within their observation, but were blazing away at the beachhead in general. Therefore, he said, the fire was not intensive at any given point.

NEW DRIVE REPORTED

LONDON, Wednesday, March 1. (AP) The German-controlled Rome radio said today that it was unofficially reported the Germans had launched a great offensive on the Anzio Beachhead this morning and it was "developing favorably."

The broadcast, recorded by the ministry of information, quoted "latest reports which have not yet been officially confirmed."

Nazi Air Force Out Again

There also were air alerts, Kennedy radioed, indicating the German air force was out in some strength again after several days of almost complete inactivity.

Japs Exhorted To Build More Planes

(By The United Press)

The Japanese conceded today that the heavy U. S. naval attack on the Marianas last week was not "merely a rash attempt" and tacitly admitted the lack of sufficient aircraft to cope with the American offensive forces.

In exhorting the Japanese people to produce more airplanes, Tokyo radio, in a broadcast recorded by the FCC, said Japan was fully aware of the speed in the Allied advance "that cannot be regarded lightly."

"What we must bear well in mind," the radio said, "is that if we had a still greater number of aircraft, we could have engaged this strong enemy task force that recklessly plunged into our iron-wall defense positions and could have sunk it entirely to the bottom of the Pacific ocean."

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 29. (AP)—The South Carolina house of representatives adopted today a resolution demanding that "henceforth the damned agitators of the North leave the South alone" in inter-racial relations; and reaffirmed "our belief in our allegiance to establish white supremacy."

The resolution adopted with only a few dissenting "noes," said "We indignantly and vehemently denounce the intentions . . . of all organizations seeking the amalgamation of the white and negro races by co-mingling of the races upon any basis of equality. . . .

"Insofar as racial relations are concerned we firmly and unequivocally demand that henceforth the damned agitators of the North leave the South alone."

Reds Smash On Toward Pskov

LONDON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Moscow announced tonight that the Red Army had torn the Germans from 250 more localities around Pskov, ancient trade center of the north, capturing Pogorelka, six miles north of the fortress city at the door to the Baltic states.

Sixty-five miles southeast of Pskov other Soviet forces captured Novorzhev, 44 miles from the Latvian border, and hurled the Germans from 60 more communities in the area, said the Moscow communique.

On March In Ukraine

Far to the south in the Ukraine, Soviet troops were on the march again and the communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor from a broadcast, said 70 towns and hamlets were swept up in an advance south of the captured iron town of Krivoi Rog, along the Ingulets river to Nikolayevka, 26 miles away. In this drive the Russians captured Ingulets, 15 miles southwest of Krivoi Rog, and its sister town of Shirokoye, four miles southeast.

A German broadcast said the Russians, in this southern advance admitted a penetration in "only one point."

Hop Halsey Not To Seek Re-Election

Corp. Hop Halsey of the U. S. Marines, reserve, will not be a candidate for re-election as state representative, his father, Mark Halsey, announced last night.

By letter, Corporal Halsey told his father he is "retiring from office until the war is won," because "I feel the people of the 119th Legislative district have a right to representation in Austin and I am not in position to give it to them. I can't be a Marine and a representative at the same time and right now I am pretty busy being a Marine." His letter indicated that he expected within the very near future to "be still busier as a member of the Leathernecks."

Counties in Corporal Halsey's district include, in addition to Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Terry, Lynn, Yoakum, Gaines and Dawson. His second term, which he was elected in 1942 without opposition, will end next January.

There have been no announcements of candidacies for the legislative post to date.

"Spirit Of Anzio" Binds Troops Closer As Each Group Seeks Chance To Help Doughboys Repel Enemy's Drives

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF IN ITALY, Feb. 22. (Delayed)—Did you ever hear of the "Spirit of Anzio?"

If you haven't you will some some day. It isn't a thing you can describe or explain. All you can do is tell how it was, and how far it extended.

DIXON

On the beachhead sometimes it was "Kill any Krauts today?" or "How many replacements you going to need, lieutenant?"

Sometimes it was "How you reckon they got us outnumbered now, sir?" or "counterattack repulsed, sir. . . . What's that? . . . Oh, no, sir, this was another counterattack."

Sometimes it was merely a silent gesture, the cleaning of weapons for another night dash, the grim stocking of extra ammunition in the spare space of a foxhole where a buddy had been before.

Sometimes it viciously, terribly bitter, voiced in one sentence through bearded lips:

"What about reinforcements?"

There are hundreds of stories about the spirit of Anzio. Some of them defiantly gay, some hopelessly stubborn, some unshakeably confident, but the strangest thing about the spirit of Anzio was in how far it stretched—all the way to advanced air bases miles away, south of the main Fifth Army front.

The pilot came in to the lighted room, closing the door against the wet, windy gusts outside. His jacket was slick with dampness.

"Still raining?" someone asked foolishly.

"Yeah," he said, "still raining."

There was silence a while. Then someone lighted a cigaret. The lighter's rowel grated noisily against the flint.

"Those poor bastards," said the short, curlyheaded pilot. "Those poor bastards. Soaking wet all night. Up to their bellies in mud. And they'll catch it again in the morning if we can't get up there."

"Think we can fly tomorrow?" someone asked the newcomer.

"Doesn't look like it now. Can't tell, though. Ceiling might lift a little. Won't take much for us to get in."

"Damn right it won't," said the curly head. "A few frag bombs would play a lot of hell with that Jerry concentration up north, too."

"Yeah, and I know a couple of Jerry machineguns I'd like to work over," said another. "Saw 'em on patrol this morning. They were giving those doughboys hell. Started down to get them then had to go chase some ME's and didn't have enough gas to go back."

They sat still a while, then one or two got up and started pacing back and forth. Every time the

BIRTH CERTIFICATES

DEAR MISS TURNER:

Without in the least trying to be sarcastic—or smart alecky—I might say trying to get a birth certificate is not at all unlike going to a drug store and calling for a box of pills. There are all kinds of pills for all kinds of ailments. Likewise, there are several different forms for birth certificates, all depending.

In the first place, the birth certificate should have been filed by the attending physician, mid-wife or someone in attendance at the time of birth. It might have been done and it might not have been done. The doctor usually goes to his office, fills out the blank and mails or delivers it to the local registrar—just as a matter of routine. Sometimes the doctor gets busy and forgets about it and then no record is made of the birth.

No individual knows whether he or she has a birth certificate regardless or how old he is until he checks with the registrar of the city or county in which he was born. He may be surprised to learn it may have been filed, although it may be 10, 20, 40, 50 or even 100 years ago. In San Antonio, for instance, there were births recorded in 1835—more than 100 years ago.

The first thing to do is to write the county clerk and ascertain if the birth certificate was filed. In writing him one should be sure to enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope and to give him the following information: name of child, date of birth, father's name, mother's maiden name and where born. If the child was born in the rural district, write the county clerk, if born in an incorporated town or city, write the city registrar of births in that town.

If a birth certificate has been properly filed a certified copy of it will cost only fifty cents. If no birth certificate was filed, then a delayed certificate must be filed with the clerk, approved by the court, and recorded in the clerk's office. The total fee for this service is $1.50—the customary fee in any county in Texas.

It may seem complicated and confusing to the layman. Our advice, first and last, is to write to the county clerk or city registrar where you were born and usually you will get the information needed. Time, expense and oftentimes disappointment will be saved, by following this suggestion.

Sincerely,
Louie E. Moore.

Texans Contribute Heavily To War Efforts In Pacific

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, (AP) — Figures strongly support the fact that Texans have made a tremendous contribution to the war effort in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific theater in the second year of the war.

Texas furnished one of the outstanding heroes in the area, Col. Neel Kearby, San Antonio, a Congressional Medal of Honor winner. Of 72 fighter aces who rose to fame seven were Texans, three of them ranking among the first ten. The seven Texas aces shot down 72 planes between them for an average of better than 10 planes per man.

775 Medals In 1943

More than 775 medals were awarded Texans in the year 1943.

But Texas' story of the war in the Southwest Pacific is principally one of the air and no story is complete without retelling the exploits of Col. Kearby, the soft-spoken Thunderbolt pilot, who shot down six Zeroes in a single fight over Wewak, New Guinea on Oct. 11. He won the medal of honor from the President of the United States who termed the act one of "conspicuous gallantry and intrepedity above and beyond the call of duty."

No other pilot in this area has been able to duplicate the trick. Kearby tied with a Wisconsin flier, Captain Richard I. Long of Poplar, as top fighter ace with 21 planes as this is written. Another San Antonio pilot, Capt. Thomas B. McGuire, is in third position with 17 planes while Captain Jay T. Robbins of Collidge, with 13 planes, also ranks in the first ten.

Other aces include Capt. John D. Landers, Joshua, with six; Capt. Harry W. Brown, Monroe, five; Capt. Marion F. Kirby, Lometa, five.

Some Of Outstanding

There are too many Texans who have performed heroically and brilliantly in combat to list all their names. Here are some airmen, however, whose exploits received official attention and the medals they won:

Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action: Capt. Garrett E. Middlebrook, Springtown; Capt. Robbins.

Silver Star for gallantry in action: Capt. Kirby, Lometa; Flight Officer John D. Blain, Breckenridge; Lt. Phil H. Hawkins, Panhandle; Sgt. Everett W. Snyder, Alanreed; Sgt. Willie A. Andrews, Alameda; Lt. George T. Maher, Laredo; Sgt. J. Byoung, Romayer; Corp. Max F. Scoggins, Shamrock; Capt. Charles H. Giddings, Munday; Lt. Robert L. Hand, Hempstead; Lt. Robert J. Harris, Ranger.

Air Medal for meritorious achievement; Lt. Harold E. Holze, Marlin; Sgt. Hubert J. Murphy, Overton; Lieut. Nathan J. Hirsh, Overton; Sgt. C. Gregg, Santa Anna.

Scores Have One Plane

Scores of Texans have at least one plane to their credit. They include Lt. Holze who got his at Wewak.

There is no definite record of the total number of planes shot down by Texans who are gunners in bombers or of the ships they destroyed. But these men from the Lone Star state have scored heavily on Japanese shipping. Some of them are:

Sgt. Snyder who went on a Mitchell bomber strike which attacked three destroyers, two cruisers and fought off eight Zeros east of Finschhafen. Snyder's plane was the only one to reach its target and it scored a near miss on one of the destroyers, shot down a Zero. Sgt. Murphy took part in the now historical Bismarck Sea battle and his plane scored a hit on a destroyer.

Lt. Hirsh not only set fire to a cargo ship in the Solomons but his plane came home 580 miles on three engines.

In one of the longest running fights in this area's history, Sgt. Fielder's Liberator battled for one hour and 45 minutes after a raid on Wewak and shot down two of 18 Zeros that attacked it.

Others who sank or heavily damaged merchantmen included Lt. Fuller, and Lt. Moore., Sgt. Cruz, gunner on a Mitchell, shot down two fighters.

All who have been awarded decorations didn't get them for fighting, however. Some went to men who aren't supposed to fight, the pilots and crew members of twin-engine transports whose jobs calls for flying their planes into enemy territory to land troops and supplies, sometimes within sight of enemy lines. Among them were Sgt. Gregg and Lt. Shaw.

All, whether fighters or not, contributed to the war in the Southwest Pacific.

Work Of Red Cross Depicted For Lions

Members of the Lubbock Lions club, in their weekly luncheon in the ball room of the Hilton hotel Tuesday noon, were treated with a short movie entitled "At His Side." This movie, produced by the March of Time, showed the work now being done for our boys overseas by the American Red Cross.

The work being done by the Lubbock county chapter of the American Red Cross, and its plans for the forthcoming War Fund drive, were lauded by George Kuykendall, county chairman for the War Fund campaign. He said the organization set up for this drive was the finest set up in the county in the past twenty years. He, in turn, introduced W. C. O'Mara, chairman of the Lubbock county chapter.

O'Mara read a report written by Norman H. Davis, National Red Cross chirman, which praised the work being done for our boys on the battlefronts of the world. Especially did the report praise the use of blood plasma, referring to it as the "gift of life itself." The report added that more than five million pints of blood plasma have been donated since the opening of the blood donor centers in the United States three years ago. There are now 35 Red Cross blood donor centers in this country and more than 60 mobile units, the report said.

R. C. Johnson, program chairman, introduced Kuykendall, and President Ewell Hunt presided.

Nelson Is Speaker At Optimists' Luncheon

With emphasis on the constitution of the United States, G. H. Nelson, former state senator, addressed members of the Optimist club at a regular luncheon today noon in Lubbock hotel.

"The fundamental law written by our forefathers will continue to meet the needs and demands of the American people as long as the citizens of the nation remain awake; so long as they vote intelligently; so long as they vote unafraid; so long as they vote; and so long as they demand of those for whom they vote to keep the three branches of the government separate and independent, one from the other," Nelson declared.

The speaker was introduced by M. L. Shepherd, first vice-president of the club.

Burl Ham was initiated into the club as a new member and was presented the club creed, bulletin and Optimist pin by Syrian Marbut. T/Sgt. Max J. Herskett of the Army Specialized Training unit at Texas Technological college, presented two piano selections.

President O. W. McGuire appointed Dr. R. S. Underwood, C. H. Scales, Truman McMullen, J. D. Strickland and Albert Ohlenbusch to serve on the nominating committee to select members to fill offices for the incoming year. It also was decided that Optimists would meet with the Lubbock Jaycees in the Hilton hotel next Monday, March 6, instead of convening on Tuesday.

Wendell Morrisset, son of Optimist J. B. Morrisset, was introduced as a guest. Young Morresset is with the U. S. Navy V-12 program.

SCOUT LEADER HERE — M. H. McMasters of Dallas, deputy regional Boy Scout executive, is in Lubbock this week to assist the South Plains council in developing plans for its 1944 program. A member of the regional staff nearly three years, McMasters has spent 23 years in Scout work, in Galveston and Green Bay, Wis., as scout executive, in San Angelo, Tyler, and Kansas City, Kan., as field executive and as director of scout camps for 20 consecutive summers, according to G. M. Unger, executive of the South Plains council. He is an Eagle scout. McMasters will also be available to interview men who might be interested in becoming professional Boy Scout leaders.

Number Of New Cars Far Below Demands

J. Doyle Settle, district OPA rationing executive, has announced that it is impossible to allocate sufficient new automobile quotas to local boards to meet the approved application demands as the stock pile of new automobiles yet in dealers hands is rapidly declining.

Local boards now are asked to refer applications for new 1942 cars to the district office for review, Settle said. The board determines the eligibility of the applicant and indicates its approval before sending the application to the district office for action.

Certificates for specific used 1942 cars will be issued by local boards on a non quota basis. However, the applicant for a used 1942 car must submit a written statement giving the following information of the car he wishes to purchase: make, body type, serial number, engine number, license number and state of registration.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Chas. Whitacre. Lubbock insurance man, has been appointed chairman of the Department of Texas, American Legion, World war II liaison committee, Harry E. Rather of Austin, department adjutant, announced Tuesday. The appointment was made by Sam D. Forman of Houston, department commander.

Dirk Ronk of Waco, who left Holland with his family in 1936—"just in time," will speak tonight at a meeting of Yellowhouse lodge 841, AF&AM. The freedoms that entitle lodges of this country to meet in peaceful conclave are not matched on the continent of Europe; rather, those lodges have been forced "underground," he will explain. Ronk, a former lodge member in Holland, will speak of his experiences, and observations in that country. His talk will be bristling with interest and filled with portent of what would happen to all countries if totalitarian powers were to win this war, according to Burl Ham, worshipful master of Yellowhouse lodge.

In transit—a statement he did not elaborate—First Lt. C. W. Lynn is visiting briefly with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Lynn of 1916 Firteenth sreet. A brother, Rev. W. E. Lynn, church pastor and school teacher of Hart, near Plainview, also is visiting here. Lt. Lynn is a fighter squadron leader who flew with the Royal Air force before he transferred to the U. S. Army Air force, and he has dueled in the North African and European theaters ,and over Pantelleria and Sicily. He last was based in Corsica.

George R. Bean school Parent-Teacher association Tuesday sold $695.75 in war bonds, $70.20 in stamps to students and teachers—boosting totals for the year to $8,837.50 in bonds and $1,605.70 in stamps, it was announced by Mrs. E. E. Sullivent, Mrs. R. H. Seale, Mrs. Roy Wheeler and Mrs. Acle Cope.

A county court jury Tuesday afterfnoon found Douglas Watson guilty of theft of a crate of eggs and assessed 270 days in county jail as a penalty. As to J. L. Comer, similarly charged, witnesses failed to identify him, and County Judge G. V. Pardue, on motion of the state, instructed the jury to acquit him.

Conflicting reports concerning Sgt. Furber F. Salser, U. S. Marine from Lamesa, who was with American invaders on Guadalcanal and has seen much service since in the Southwest Pacific, were cleared last night by announcement by J. K. Salser, brother of the Marine, who lives at 3103 Avenue L here. He said his brother was wounded in action in the Southwest Pacific, but since that time the family has received a letter or two from him explaining that the wound was "slight," and he expected to be back in action soon. The family received telegraphic information from the Navy department that young Salser was wounded, countering reports here that he had died in action.

"Can Lubbock Have a Real Revival of Old-Time Religion?" will be the topic of Evangelist Art Wilson of Wichita, Kan., as he continues his revival messages tonight at the Tabernacle Baptist church at Avenue N and Fifteenth street. His topic Thursday night will be "25 Signs of the Soon Return of Christ!" Mr. Wilson speaks twice daily at the church, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and at 7:45 o'clock at night, and over KFYO at 2:15 o'clock every afternoon.

The War department made public Tuesday the names of 172 United States soldiers killed in action, including Sgt. Dan J. Huckleberry, son of Mrs. Della Huckleberry of Brownfield. He was stationed in the Southwest Pacific area.

The War department made public Tuesday the names of 150 United States soldiers wounded in action, including T-5 Mack M. Liston of Tahoka, who was in the Southwest Pacific area.

BOYS AND GIRLS... Have Fun but...

Please Be Careful Flying Kites!

Your kites are lots of fun, boys and girls, but they must be flown properly if you want to be sure not to get hurt. Maybe it's hard for you to believe, but it's an actual fact that hundreds of youngsters throughout the country are seriously hurt every year at kite-flying time. So please be careful... watch these precautions, especially:

- Don't use metal or wire on any part of your kite.
- Don't use string with wire in it... Keep your string dry at all times.
- Don't climb trees near electric wires to recover your kite.
- Don't climb electric power poles to recover your kite, if it lodges in either pole or electric wires, call our servicemen to recover it for you.

Remember—you can help set a new record for safety at kite-flying time if you'll heed these warnings. Show this advertisement to your Dad and Mother—they'll be glad to check your kite and be sure it's safety-proof.

Army Demobilization

4. The question of the partial demobilization of the Finnish Army will be left to future negotiations in Moscow.

5. The question of reparations for any damage inflicted on the Soviet Union by Finnish military operations and in Finnish occupation of Russian territory also will be left to negotiations in Moscow.

Dispatches from Helsinki said the legislators met for an hour before noon and heard President Edwin Linkomies make a statement on the government's position and then met again in the afternoon in secret session to ask questions of the executive.

No details of the debate reached the outside world, but there were indications an official announcement might be forthcoming shortly.

Swedes Are Hopeful

The Swedish press was hopeful the Finns would find a way out of their dilemma and expressed the view that nothing had happened that would definitely prevent an armistice.

A reliable information in Stockholm said Sweden had given assurances the Finns would not go hungry if they quit the Axis, thus removing one prop—Finnish reliance on Germany for imports—that has kept Finland in the war. Swedish government spokesmen refused to comment on the report, however.

with new construction have not been too successful. They have drawn support for that hope from the enemy's increasing use of barges for fairly long inter-island hauls of both men and materials.

Toll Steadily Mounts

Asserting that American submarines are "growing more successful," Knox made public the latest communique on undersea forays into enemy waters. The tabulation of sinkings was headed by one large tanker highly important to the enemy in maintaining defense bases. The other ships were medium -sized cargo transport, a small cargo vessel, and 11 medium cargo ships.

Those figures bring to 611 the number of Nipponese ships of all kinds—including some warships—sunk, probably sunk or damaged by submarine action. The total includes 461 vessels sunk, 36 probably sunk, and 114 damaged.

Two-Year Study Of Press Freedom Set

CHICAGO, Feb. 29. (AP) — A commission of Inquiry has been formed to conduct a two-year study of the status of freedom of the press in the United States, President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago announced today.

Hutchins, who will serve as chairman of the group, reported the inquiry was made possible by a grant of funds from Time, Inc., publishers of Time, Life and Fortune magazines. But he said, Time, Inc., would have no connection with the commission, and added that it also would be independent of the University of Chicago, which will administer the funds. The amount of the grant was not disclosed.

Hutchins said in a statement:

"The function of the commission is to begin an inclusive inquiry into the nature, function, duties and responsibilities of the press in America — using the word press in its broadest sense to include not only everything that is printed but also the radio, the news-reel and the documentary film. Moreover, the commission will consider the press and radio in their wholeness — news, editorial expression, columnists, departments, features, advertising, etc. — and not news content only. amine areas and circumstances

"The commission plans to examine areas and circumstances under which the press in the United States is succeeding or failing; to discover where free expression is or is not limited, whether by governmental censorship, pressures of readers or advertisers, the unwisdom of its own proprietors or the timidity of its managers."

Spirit Of Anzio

cold wind blew a new rattle of rain against the building someone said "Those poor bastards, those poor bastards." It was like a prayer.

After a while they started talking about the German air activity up there, strongest they'd run into yet by far; crack pilots, too.

They talked about flak over the beachhead, hottest they'd hit in a long time. Briefly they spoke of boys who hadn't come back. But they didn't dwell on it.

"Wonder if they'll really turn us loose if it does clear up?" someone said, "they said something about 'waiting for targets.'"

One of the guys pacing stopped short, whirled around.

"Targets hell!" he exploded. "You don't need any targets. There's a bombline." He pointed to a map of the beachhead. "And there's a Jerry in every square yard beyond it. What they oughta do is let us turn loose with everything, heavies, mediums, lights, divebombers, everything, just plaster that bombline."

"Yeah," said the curly head. "Might waste a few bombs, but those guys need some help. The taxpayers wouldn't squawk," he said, brooding a moment. "Bet those doughboys think there's plenty of targets for us when the tanks are coming. Wonder if they know we're wanting to do everything we can?"

Nobody said anything for a while. Finally the veteran of some 70 combat missions said wryly, thoughtfully;

"Never thought I'd turn Eager Beaver. I've just taken my missions as they'd come before. Now I guess we're all asking for them, and Anzio is one hell of a place to be asking for them. It's gotten in our blood, I guess." He laughed shortly. Outside it kept raining.

"Those poor bastards," said the curly head.

Truck Loses Meat, Negro Reports It

Probably not all people upon finding "700 or 800 points" of beef would have reacted as did a Lubbock negro Tuesday.

The meat, a hind quarter valued at $30, yesterday fell from a McDonald Packing Co. truck between 2000-block Nineteenth street and Texas Avenue. The negro telephoned the company and told of his discovery, police said. They were unable to furnish his name.

Blow Explodes Myth Of Truk

surface attack had been made against our ships. Truk's defenders apparently had been lulled into security because the war had been fought far from them.

The attack on Truk had several purposes. It was intended to feel out that bastion's strength and learn of its defenses. It was planned to prevent enemy air interference with the American amphibious invasion of Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall islands the morning of Feb. 17. Another purpose was to destroy as many Japanese ships as possible.

23 Sunk, Six Probables

(Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced at Pearl Harbor Feb. 27 that 23 Japanese ships were sunk six probably sunk and 11 damaged at Truk, and 201 enemy planes destroyed. American losses were 17 planes.)

Admiral Mitscher's message to his ships, "stand by for a fight to the finish," was the signal that the assault on the Marianas was to be something different than Truk.

A Japanese search plane, early the afternoon of Feb. 21, detected the task force as it approached the Marianas, about 600 miles closer to Tokyo than Truk.

From then on enemy planes attacked. But the task force closed in daringly. Ship's guns in 11 hours of air attack shot down 14 Japanese planes. Fighters and bombers were launched from carriers while the enemy air attack continued. They destroyed 121 more Nipponese aircraft, in the air or on the ground, sank one and probably three enemy ships and damaged two others.

Only Six Planes Lost

Not a single American ship was damaged and only six planes were lost.

Exultant over the great victory, Admiral Mitscher commended all hands with this message:

"This attack was history making for daring and tenacity of execution."

The most thrilling, as well as dangerous," of the enemy's air attacks on the task force were two attemps by Japanese pilots to crash their planes into carriers.

In the first a twin-motored Mitsubishi crossed through a screen for the carriers to within a hundred yards of the carrier's port side. There it was caught in the antiaircraft crossfire of four ships. It burst into flames, crossed above the carrier's deck and plunged into the water on the other side in a pool of orange flame.

Another Does Likewise

The second "suicide run" also was made by a Mitsubishi pilot. Failing to send a torpedo into a flattop, he tried for a crash into the carrier's hull. Deadly crossfire caught him. The plane fell into the ocean like a flaming Fourth-of-July pinwhell.

Meanwhile Hellcat fighters flew south to Guam, 130 miles from Saipan, to pin down enemy air forces based there. It was the first time American planes had flown over Guam since that former U. S. naval base was lost early in the war.

The assault on the Marianas capitalized on the capture of Kwajalein and Eniwetok atolls in the Marshalls and the temporary knockout of Truk. It demonstrated that the Japanese are short on planes, at least in the Marianas.

Meat Rationing

production being good enough to forestall cuts that had been indicatde.

The current 16-point value on butter also will be maintained, as will the prevailing point rates for lard, cheese and other dairy products.

New Point System

The lower meat point values also take into consideration the fact that the new ten-point ration stamps give housewives one point less a week for meats and fats.

The point value of every rationed pork item except spare ribs is cut one to three points in the new table, while beef cuts used for roasts, rib steaks and stews are reduced one to two points.

OPA administrator Chester W. Bowles said that pork will make up more than half the total supply of meat in March with 650,000,000 pounds expected to be available. Beef supply is computed at about five per cent more than the February total of 430,000,000 pounds.

Trustee Election

application covers a new ward school building in the Northwest part of the city; the addition of four rooms on Sanders ward school, and a new ward school for negroes.

Trustee Paul Hardwick, head of the committee on audits, reported that he had studied the district's annual audit, recently completed by certified public accountants, and found the report in acceptable shape. The audit then was unanimously approved by the board.

Census To Be In March

Reporting that the school census must be made during March, in accordance with law, Jackson asked for and received official appointment as census officer for the board.

Matthews pointed out that the West Texas district of the Texas Teachers association would hold its annual meeting here on March 31, this year a one-day session in place of the usual two-day affair. The board approved a holiday for students on that date; suggested that teachers, unless ill, should attend the sessions.

Present at the meeting were Board Chairman Dr. J. T. Hutchison; Secretary R. F. Bayless; Trustees Paul Hardwick, Hubert L. Allen and Chas. A. Guy. Other members are Walter G. Alderson, vice-chairman, and E. J. Parsons.

KHORASSAN CHIEFS—T.C. North of Waxahachie, grand chancellor of Texas (top) and Dr. Paul V. Wynn of Magdalena, N. Stalin Sees Final Defeat Of Germany

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP) — Marshal Stalin of Russia today underscored the Allied understandings reached at Moscow and Tehran late last year, and advised President Roosevelt he was convinced the time is near when cooperating forces of the Soviet union, the United States and Great Britain will bring about "the final defeat of our common enemy, Hitlerite Germany."

A message made public by the White House, acknowledging the President's cable of Feb. 22 congratulating the Red Army on its 26th anniversary, said:

"I ask you to accept my sincere thanks for your friendly congratulations on the occasion of the 26th anniversary of the Red Army and on the successes of the armed forces of the Soviet union in the struggle against the Hitlerite invaders.

"I am strongly convinced that the time is near when the successful struggle of the armed forces of the Soviet union, together with the armies of the United States and Great Britain, on the basis of the agreements reached at Moscow and Tehran, will lead to the final defeat of our common enemy, Hitlerite Germany."

Bomber Forays

parts for Messerschmitt rocket-shooting fighters, was made Feb. 21 at a cost of 15 bombers, with 51 enemy planes being shot down.

Tremendous Escort

The latest penetration, however, was made with a tremendous escort of fighters and returning crews gleefully reported that they had encountered little aerial opposition.

Two typical comments were "Our fighters took up so much of the sky that there would have been no room for the Germans even if they had tried to come up," and "Our fighter formations massed in the greatest display of perfect escort strength it is possible to imagine."

Besides the awesome size of the escort, another possible explanation for the scarcity of enemy interceptors may have been weather conditions over some parts of the continent. The American bombers had to unload their lethal charges through a heavy layer of clouds

The Liberators also were given an ample escort and their attack on the "military installations" across the channel was made in coordination with day-long attacks against the same targets by American medium, light and fighter-bombers as well as planes of two tactical air forces, the U. S. Ninth and British Second.

Americans Land On Admiralties

from Truk to northeast New Guinea.

Madang and Wewak, the two major bases still held by the enemy on the northeast shore of New Guinea, are 225 miles to the south and southeast. Australians are pressing toward Madang from the south and Americans from the east.

Defending ground forces on the Admiralties were left to fend for themselves. They received no aid from bomb-battered airdromes, which have seldom even defended themselves recently, nor from Japanese naval units which American forces have been hunting for months.

The presence of MacArthur himself, with a battery of other high ranking officers, indicated the importance he attached to the actoin.

Truk, vaunted Central Pacific enemy base, now lies midway between American-held bomber fields on Los Negros and on Eniwetok in the western Marshalls—both within range of Allied four engine planes.

Subs Sink 14 More

Fourteen more ships have been cut by American submarines from Japan's shriveling fleet of merchant ships, already pruned to about half its pre-war size.

In announcing the new victories by the growing nad "increasingly skillful" United States undersea fleet, Secretary of the Navy Knox said yesterday that "well over 3,000,000 tons of Japanese merchant shipping" has been destroyed since Pearl Harbor when Tokyo had 7,500,000 tons available. Despite the shrinking tonnage, Japan's shipping losses continue to mount.

Seventy five vessels have been eliminated by American submarines this year and another 25 were wiped out by carrier planes in February's raids on Truk and the Marianas islands alone.

The attack on the Marianas was primarily a windfall raid after the unexpectedly one-sided success at Truk. But, Berlin radio pointed out, it gave the Japanese at home "the feeling they are now directly included in the front area," and "must be prepared at any time to sight enemy bombers."

"All places of entertainment which are not necessary to the war effort" will be closed in Nippon March 5, another broadcast said, and Geisha girls will be put to work in war plants. Even the size of theater audiences was restricted "for safety reasons."

Close to 800 miles south of Truk "the Japs have given up" at Kavieng, New Ireland and Rabaul, New Britain, Capt. Arleigh T. (30-Knot) Burke of Boulder, Cloo., said after his destroyers shelled both bases. "I think those stranded and deserted Japs will collapse, but not soon."

In Southwest Burma where a broken Japanese Army that three weeks ago numbered 8,000 was straggling back to its original lines, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten saluted his troops with:

"You have given the Japanese a crack they'll remember. . . . They are learning that—just as the war cannot be won by sudden and treacherous assaults—so, too, big battles are not decided by surprise attack."

Monahans Couple Report Only Leap Year Baby In City

Lubbock must go without a Leap Year baby of 1944, judging by reports—or lack of reports—to the Avalanche-Journal.

But there was at least one baby born in the city on February's extra day, a check of hospitals revealed. It was a girl, to Lt. and Mrs. Wilburn F. Daniel of Monahans. Little Miss Daniel, weighing 6 pounds 6½ ounces, was born Tuesday afternoon at 4:29 o'clock in St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Daniel is the former Miss Elsie Caywood of Lubbock, a graduate of Lubbock High school and a former student of Texas Technological college. Daddy is stationed at Roswell Army Air field.

The little girl is the first child for Lt. and Mrs. Daniel and is the first Leap Year baby in either the father's or mother's family.

Mrs. Daniel's mother, Mrs. Bob Caywood, lives in Monahans.

A member of the family remarked, "Fifteen years from now young Miss Daniel will find it very convenient to have a birthday only every four years"

New Tax On Luggage Not Effective Yet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP) — A Treasury typist's error gave that department, the luggage trade, and the telephone company a workout.

The Treasury announcement on application of the excise taxes in the new revenue bill passed over President Roosevelt's veto showed the increase in luggage rates as going into effect March 1.

Actually the new rate, 20 per cent at retail instead of the former 10 per cent manufacturers' levy, applies with other excise increases April 1, officials said, but they didn't say it in time to head off a deluge of queries and protests.

The new rate applies on toilet cases, purses and wallets as well as trunks, suitcases, and such.

Feverish Japs

for 12 months beginning March 5. Thirty thousand entertainment establishments were affected, it was estimated.

More than 4,300 Geisha houses in Tokyo alone were affected. The Geisha girls will be given employment in war enterprises, it was stated.

The Japanese cabinet, meeting at the imperial palace for the first time since 1936, also was said to have adopted an emergency program for mobilizing sea transportation. The measures were not explained.

Man And Girl Held In Theft Of Autos

A 20-year-old man and a girl, 14 or 15, were in custody at Plainview Tuesday night after they allegedly stole cars at San Saba, Slaton and Abernathy, Plainview state police informed the Lubbock police radio station.

State police announced that in Canyon yesterday afternoon the pair had been apprehended and the Abernathy car recovered.

Deputy Sheriff Cap Moore said the couple took a car at San Saba Sunday, abandoned it at Slaton where they Tuesday morning drove off a car belonging to R. G. Wright, and took another car at Abernathy after abandonment there of the Wright vehicle. State police said it was believed that the man and girl had started for Dumas.

Moore said the car taken at Abernathy was from A. R. Knight.

The thief who took another car at Slaton Monday night was "halted by a mud-hole," officers said. The car was found "struck" Tuesday morning near Slaton.

Skirmishing continued in the broken terrain southwest of the village of Carroceto.

Rome Airfields Lashed

Despite the bad weather, American Invader divebombers again spread wreckage over three Nazi airfields near Rome — Littorio, Marcigliano and Guidonia — and Mitchell medium bombers attacked the Camino field nrothwest of the Italian capital. Warhawk fighters raked German gun positions north of the beachhead. In all, the Allied air force made about 600 flights and lost three planes. Not a Nazi craft was seen.

It was announced that an American cruiser which steamed off the coast near Anzio Sunday and shot it out with German artillery in the hills scored "excellent" results.

Weather on the Fifth and Eighth Army fronts stretching across the shin of the Italian boot still held fighting to a virtual standstill.

A few Nazi troops who infiltrated through Allied lines in the mountains northwest of Cassino were detected and wipd out, an Allied spokesman said.

Whiteside Funeral Set This Afternoon

Funeral services for James H. Whiteside, 71, who died Monday night in St. Mary's hospital, will be conducted in First Methodist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Rev. H. I. Robinson officiating.

Pallbearers will be J. W. Thompson, C. E. Love, J. B. McCauley, Earl Thompson, M. H. Duncan, Brownie Hamilton and Percy Ralls.

Burial will be in Memorial Park with Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home directing.

Lamesa Nurse To Be Hospital Supervisor

Miss Eva Rankin of Lamesa has been appointed night supervisor at Lubbock General hospital to succeed Miss Tillie Elizabeth Bu-Dres who held the position for the past several months. Miss Bu-Dres leaves Thursday for her home in New Orleans, La., to await a specialized assignment as laboratory technician in the Army Air Corps.

The new supervisor, Miss Rankiin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rankin, formerly of Lamesa and now residing at Brownwood, is a graduate of Lamesa High school and Lubbock General hospital school of nursing. She was formerly employed as a surgical nurse at Price hospital of Lamesa.

of the great city upon which hinged the entire German position in the north. Four railways and two highways radiate from Pskov and should the Germans lose it their entire position in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania will be menaced.

Mobile Russian artillery which has softened the strongest German positions in Russia was presumably pounding Pskov and its outer defenses already, for Russian lines were within easy artillery range.

There were indications, however, that the Germans would make a major stand at Pskov despite the speed of their retreat from the north. A Moscow broadcast following the communique said the Nazis put up a stiff battle for Novorzhev — stiffer than observers in London had expected.

Former Jurist Dies At Amarillo Home

AMARILLO, Feb. 29 (AP)—Judge M. J. R. Jackson, 73, former chief justice of the Seventh Court of Appeals in Amarillo, died here today.

Judge Jackson served on the court from 1924 until his voluntary retirement in January, 1943. He was reared at Madisonville, Tex., and started his career as a Madison county attorney. He moved to Amarillo in 1905.

Nazis Told Invasion Plans Are Complete

LONDON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Gen. Kurt Dietmar told the German home front in a broadcast tonight that Allied invasion preparations had been completed, that gigantic land forces and sea and air armadas were standing by and "they're no bluff."

The whole world, the Nazi commentator said in a transmission recorded by the Associated Press, "is full of tense expectations."

Formation of the organizational set-up for the approaching Red Cross drive in Lubbock county got under way this week with the meeting of groups Monday and Tuesday to map plans for the campaign and will continue with meetings through Friday. The drive opens March 7.

This morming at 10 o'clock, the employes group headed by Retha Martin, colonel, will have a second meeting of majors and captains at the chamber of commerce rooms. The majors of this group are: W. G. Alderson, transportation; Olen Stewart, wholesale and finance; H. L. Allen, public services; G. A. Meiser, retail; Edgar Lewis, industrial, and H. D. Woods, public employes.

Special Gifts Division

Tuesday afternoon, the special gifts division headed by W. G. McMillan as colonel, held it first meeting and selected captains. Majors are: C. H. Hamilton, R. P. Fuller, DeWitt Landis, Clyde Tatum, C. E. Maedgen, L. R. Rampy and Morris Levine.

At 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the general campaign division headed by Homer D. Grant, colonel, held a session to select captains. Majors are: C. A. Bestwick, O. W. Ribble, Clyde Smith, Joe Nislar, John Toles and Vernice Ford. The majors and captains of this group will meet again Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock to select lieutenants for the drive.

Others Meet Thursday

Thursday at 8 p. m. the retail and public services majors and captains will hold a meeting in the district courtrooms on the second floor of the courthouse for the purpose of selecting lieutenants. A similar meeting will be conducted by the industrial, and public employes groups on Friday night at 8 o'clock at the same place.

Progress toward completion of the organization for the campaign is moving forward, Geo. P. Kuykendall, county chairman, reported. A quota of $78,500 has been set for the campaign. J. D. Hassell, jr., and W. C. O'Mara, Lubbock county chapter chairman, are vice chairmen in the campaign.

Tax Simplification Progress Reported

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 (AP) — The promise of a simplified system of reckoning federal income taxes was held out today by the House Ways and Means committee which conducted what Chairman Doughton (D-NC) called a "harmonious" session with congressional and treasury experts.

"We are making progress," said Doughton with a hope that a bill can be drawn within two weeks.

The proposed streamlined system will not apply to the impending March 15 returns. It is intended for the 1944 tax accounting.

The committee is working on these objectives:

1—Eliminating the need for 30,000,000 of the 50,000,000 income taxpayers having to file any returns at all, by making the withholding levy the actual tax for those only income is from wages and salaries.

2—Merging the victory, normal and surtaxes into one levy, so as to attain sweeping simplifications for persons in high earnings brackets and those with income other than from wages and salaries.

Mrs. Clyde Hundley Is Buried At Post

POST, Feb. 29. (Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. Clyde Hundley, 44, who died suddenly Sunday night about midnight at her home here, were held at the First Methodist church in Post this afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. E. Stephens, assisted by Rev. I. A. Smith and Rev. R. C. Tennison.

Born in 1899, Mrs. Hundley moved to Post with her parents in 1907. She was converted and joined the Methodist church about 30 years ago. She had been active in church and social work for many years.

She is survived by her husband, Clyde Hudley, grocer here; three children, Helen Jo Hundley, a student at McMurry college in Abilene, and Wayne and Mary Ann Hundley, Post; her mother, Mrs. Fannie Maupin, Post; and a brother, Winfred Maupin, Los Angeles, Calif.

Services were under the direction of Mason and company of Post, and burial was in Terrace cemetery here.

Rat Steals Show At Long-Haired Houston Concert

HOUSTON, Feb. 29. (U.P.)—An unabashed rat which made an unscheduled appearance on the concert stage last night may result in a cleanup drive at the Houston city auditorium.

The brash rodent skipped briskly across the platform while the Houston symphony orchestra was playing classical music for an elite audience. Lucille Manners, the lovely concert and radio star, was the guest of symphony.

The city council, it was predicted, will take quick action on bids for re-roofing of the auditorium—a move suggested by health authorities recently as an anti-rat measure.

Nazis Wreak Havoc On Central Italy

ON THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Feb. 29 (AP) — The Germans have razed 19 towns in the rich Abruzzie Molise district of central Italy as a part of a vast program of destruction of Italian property for military reasons, the underground Socialist newspaper Avanti said. today

Once-fertile areas have been reduced to deserts, the newspaper declared. Inhabitants of towns doomed to destruction were given only an hour or two to vacate. Their livestock has been requisitioned.

The Germans are seeking to Germanize northern provinces by sending the population to other provinces or to forced labor in Germany.

Single Birth Twisted Into Rumor Of Quints

TRENTON, Ga., Feb. 29. (AP)—A short-lived report that quintuplets had been born in North Georgia was credited today to exaggerated reports of a single birth at a remote farm home.

J. G. Gray, telephone operator at Trenton, said he received word that quintuplets had been born to a farm family on lonely sand mountain. Upon checking, however, he learned only one child had been born.

Many persons in the vicinity had heard the report.

FOLGER'S COFFEE made them friends

READ HOW FOLGER'S COFFEE HELPED TO MAKE FRIENDS FOR MISS BETH HART OF MASON CITY, IOWA, WHEN SHE FIRST STARTED TEACHING

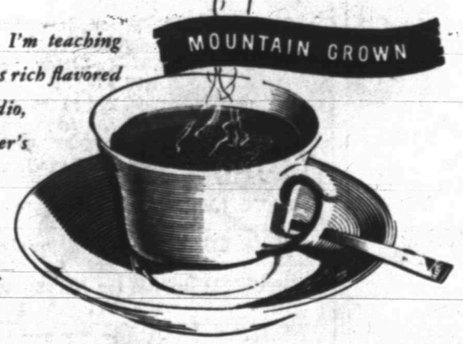

Dear Judy and Jane:

To me coffee drinking is such a friendly habit, whether I have companionship or am alone. When I first started teaching, I boarded with a Swedish immigrant family. The lady couldn't talk English very well, and I couldn't talk Swedish at all, but over coffee and cake after school we visited somehow.

This fall due to the teacher shortage, I'm teaching again and I'm planning on a pot of Folger's rich flavored coffee with each evening of study. The radio, magazine, typewriter, and a pot of Folger's tangy coffee fill my evenings at home.

Sincerely yours,

Beth Hart

Why Folger's Keeps Friends for Life

You find a heartwarming goodness in Folger's Coffee that makes friends at first taste—and keeps them for life. Folger's flavor has such a rare winey tang—such delicious richness and vigor. No other coffee in the world has quite that flavor.

For you see Folger's Coffee is a blend of rare mountain coffees from the Coffee Growing Paradise of the World . . . combined as only the Folger people know how to blend them to produce the delicious miracle of flavor that is Folger's.

And since no other coffee has that flavor . . . people who have once tasted Folger's . . . will go to almost any length to continue to enjoy it. They even carry Folger's with them on vacations . . . explain to their friends they just can't drink any other coffee!

Truly Folger's is a special kind of coffee. There's a mountain of flavor in every spoonful of Folger's!

Red Raiders Nose By SPAAF, Tech Engineers Beat LAAF

Tech's basketball teams, the Army Engineers and the Red Raiders closed the season in a blaze of glory last night at the Tech gym with the Engineers nosing out a 41 to 40 victory over Lubbock Army Air Field while the youthful Red Raiders blasted the bubble of South Plain's Winged Commandos in a 55 to 46 thriller in the nightcap.

The big gala double closing of the season was a pair of real thrillers and brought the season to a close in a blaze of glory for the two teams at Texas Tech. Both were see-saw battles from start to finish, and both found the action in the closing minutes turning the crowd into a wild uproar as both teams tried desperately for the victory.

In the opening game, the two teams see-sawed back and forth with never more than a four point lead at any time in the ball game. The teams reached the half-way mark with the score knotted 19 to 19.

Lead Changed Past

As the teams thundered down the final stretch, the lead began to change hands fast and often with Kaiser, Engineer star, slipping in under the basket to shoot the winning goal just seconds ahead of the final gun.

It was Kaiser that carried the brunt of the attack for the Engineers, rattling the backboard for 14 points by dropping in six field goals and pair of free tosses. Booth, lanky Engineer center, was the closest to Kaiser, for the winners, dropping in four field goals and a donation toss for nine.

It was Norman Volz, Bruce Prior and Leon Reese that carried the brunt of the attack for the Fliers, and were closely bunched at the finish, but could not supply the added punch needed.

Bruce Prior nosed out for the scoring lead with the Fliers with 11 points, followed by Volz with 10 and Reece with nine. In the closing minutes, it was the deadly long shots of Volz that kept the game in doubt up to Kaisers final bucket.

Fitting Finish

But it was the second game on the card that produced the upset of the night as Coach Polk Robison's kids refused to be licked and came back time after time to overcome SPAAF leads and then stage a great rally in the closing minutes to shoot safely into the lead for the victory.

It was the victory that stamped the basketball season at Texas Tech as a success and put the basketballs away for the season with the team proud of the finish.

A new star blossomed into his season's peak for Tech in the final game, Tex Wallis playing his greatest game of the season and taking second place in the Tech scoring honors for the night, rattling the backboard for five field goals and one free pitch for 11 points.

The scoring honors for the night, however, went to Nolan Weeks, the Fort Worth carrot top, who dropped in five field goals and four free pitches for a grand total of 14 points. Don Grove, Tech center, finished close on Wallis' heels with 10 points.

McCloud Held

The Tech defenders, paced by Bechtol, Wallis and Weeks, each taking their turn at guarding the vaunted Leason "Pete" McCloud, who had scored 66 points in the last two meetings with Tech, held the SPAAF All-American to one field goal for the night. McCloud added three free pitches to this total for five points, his lowest score in years.

While Tech was bottling up McCloud, and giving him but few chances to shoot, it was John Kline and Doug Wakeland that broke into the clear and set the pace for SPAAF. Each of these men dropped in six field goals for 12 points. Bob Edwards and Charles Conley came second, each with seven points.

Conley opened the ball game by firing in two long field goals to give SPAAF a four point lead, the best lead they held during the first half of the game. But the Red Raiders refused to be checked and stormed back to keep seesawing the lead, and the score was tied five times in the first half before SPAAF pulled away for a 29 to 27 lead at the halftime.

The Winged Commandos led most of the way through the second half, but the Red Raiders continued to snap at their heels until the closing minutes when the score was knotted at 39 to 39. From this point, Tech took the lead and held it the rest of the ball game.

As the timers clock ran out on the vaunted Winged Commandos, they began to take desperate chances, but the Red Raiders played heads up ball, and took full advantage of these openings to keep out in the front until the final gun sounded.

Connie Mack Praises New York Skippers

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29. (U.P.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics since the American League was organized in 1901, paid tribute today to John McGraw of the Giants and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees as the greatest team leaders in the history of organized baseball.

Though he would not distinguish between their abilities, Mack stressed that they belonged to different eras. McGraw won the National League pennant with his Giants in 1904, '05, '11, '12, '13, '17, '21, '22, '23, and '24, taking the world championship in three of the 10 years. McCarthy, beginning his 14th straight season as head of the Yankees, has won eight pennants and seven World titles, since 1932.

Mack, speaking to a group of business men, also stressed that he believed Robert Moses Grove, his left handed pitching ace, was greater either than Christy Matheson or Walter Josnson.

"Matheson only tied for the pitching championship, Johnson won it three times and Grove took it six times," he said.

Night Schedule Heavy In A. L.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (U.P.)—Twilight and swing shift baseball games, dreamed up by Major league magnates to accommodate war workers, were financial failures and are almost absent from the 1944 American league schedule, but there will be a heavier emphasis on night contests than ever before.

The completed schedule finds 104 games billed for the after dinner crowd. The Washington Senators, with special league permission, have scheduled 43 of their 77 home contests at night, while the St. Louis Browns will play 21. The Browns also secured special permission for the extra contests inasmuch as league rules permit a maximum of 14 home night games, two with each club.

The only club to book twilight games again is Detroit, which has no lights. There will be no morning games. The Tigers will play seven of the cocktail hour contests. Two other clubs, New York and Boston also will play no night games.

Cleveland and Philadelphia will play 14 each and Chicago has booked 12 night games. The Athletics are the only team in the league affected relaxation by dim out restrictions which prevented night baseball along the Atlantic seaboard last year, since the other coastal clubs play no night games.

Opening day for the 154-game grind will be April 18 with Cleveland at Chicago, St. Louis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Washington and New York at Boston. The other clubs will open on April 21 with Detroit at Cleveland, Chicago at St. Louis, Boston at Philadelphia and Washington at New York. The season closes on Oct. 1.

The Memorial day holiday finds St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland with home double headers, while Washington, Philadelphia, Boston and New York get the July 4 twin bills. On Labor day, St. Louis, New York, Chicago and Washington will be host clubs.

Each team gets 12 Sunday dates at home and all but Cleveland and St. Louis have 12 Saturdays. The Browns have 10 and the Indians nine.

Four Favorites Picked In State Schoolboy Tourney

AUSTIN, Feb. 29 (AP)—Austin, Waco, Goose Creek and Sunset, of Dallas appeared today as co-favorites in the AA class of the state schoolboy basketball tournament beginning here Thursday.

Class A and B teams start play Thursday morning and AA teams swing into competition Friday afternoon.

Austin's record is the more impressive—only one loss in 28 starts — among AA entries and therefore it has been installed automatically in the favorites category. The Maroons lost only to Waco but Waco dropped two other games to Austin.

Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio and Waco are the only top flight teams the Maroons have taken, however, and the percentage advantage fades somewhat in view of tougher competition experienced by other co-favorites.

Sunset won 17 and lost four and Waco has taken 20 and lost three.

Goose Creek comes from the district of champions (Jeff Davis of Houston was the '42 and '43 titlist) and defeated John Reagan of Houston in bi-district play. Goose Creek's first foe in the state tournament is Lufkin, a very tough opponent.

Waco squares off first against Highland Park of Dallas, third place winners in last year's tournament. Sunset is favored over Midland in first round play. Austin meets Childress as its first opponent.

Radio Network Will Carry State Finals

AUSTIN, Feb. 29 (Special) — The playing of the Final High School Championship Basketball games will be divided into two periods on March 4th, according to R. J. Kidd, Athletic Director of the University Interscholastic League, in charge of all events.

The final games of the A and B divisions will be played at 2:00 p. m. on March 4th. The Class AA final game will be played at 9:15 Saturday night.

A special network of 26 radio stations has been formed to carry a play-by-play report of the two championship games Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, and the championship game Saturday night. The entire state will be covered with the following radio stations:

Abilene, KRBC 1450 Kc.; Amarillo, KFDA 1230 kc., Austin, KNOW 1490 kc.; Beaumont, KFDM 560 kc.; Big Spring, KBST 1490 kc.; Brownwood, KBWD 1380 kc.; Dallas, KRLD 1080 kc.; Dallas, WRR 1310 kc.; El Paso, KROD 600 kc.; Ft. He said he will represent the U. S. Naval Preparatory Flight school at Monmouth, Ill.

Glen Rose Named As Coach At Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 29 (AP)—Glen Rose was named athletic director and head football coach of the University of Arkansas by the university trustees tonight in a reshuffling of the coaching staff.

Rose, who returned to the University recently after receiving a medical discharges as an Army captain, succeeds John F. (Bud) Tomlin, former four-sport star at Oregon State, who was retained as first assistant coach.

Texas Glovers Still Winning At Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 29. (AP)—Golden Glove eliminations tonight included the following:

In a first round bout, 147-pound class, Donald Nasche of Fort Worth scored a third-round technical knockout over Pvt. Julian Hernandez of Los Angeles.

In the 160-pound class, Dick Young of Camp Barkeley, Abilene, Tex., beat Private Connie Goeringer of Memphis, Tenn., in three rounds.

In the 175-pound class, Sgt. Pressley Darnell of Fort Worth Army Air field beat William Reese, Milwaukee, in three rounds.

Heavyweight O. W. Ott, Chase Field, Corpus Christi, Texas, scored a technical knockout over Arnold McAlphine, Kansas City in two rounds.

In a second round bout, Charles O'Kelley of St. Louis, fighting in the 147-pound class, defeated Donald Nasche of Fort Worth in three rounds.

Blacks Defeat Whites, 22-18

Coach Curtis Barrett's Blacks came from behind in the last half Tuesday afternoon at the Junior High school gym to take the first game of the Junior High city basketball series from the Whites of Coach Russell Wimberley, 22 to 18.

Rampy of the winners copped scoring honors for the game, ropping in eight points while Waters of the Whites finished at the top for the losers with six points.

The Whites got away to a running start in the ball game, and at the half time intermission was holding a 12 to 5 advantage. The Blacks began to find the range of the basket in the last half and while holding the Whites to six points, they poured 17 through the hoop for the winning margin.

The two teams will meet again Thursday afternoon at the Junior High gym in the second game of the series. If the Whites even the count in this game, the third game will be played Friday afternoon. The games will start at 3:45 o'clock.

Arkansas To Decide Soon On Cage Offer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 29. (AP) — Arkansas University's faculty athletic committe will decide within the next two or three days whether the university basketball team, Southwest Conference co-champions, will participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Western Regional tourney at Kansas City March 24-25, Dr. Harrison Hale, chairman, said today.

Dr. Hale announced yesterday the Razorbacks had been invited to represent the Southwest.

Arkansas shares the Southwest Conference title with the Rice Owls.

Lorenzo Cagers Get Even Break At LAAF

Independent cagers from Lorenzo invaded Lubbock Army Air field Tuesday night and carried off an even split in the two game series with the 495th Squadron beating the men's team, 36 to 21, but the Lorenzo girls nosed out the WACs in the second game, 17 to 14.

In the opener, Wilce nosed out his team mate, Armstrong, for scoring honors for the winner with 11 points and 10, respectively. Rhodes paced the losers with eight points.

The soldiers took the lead early in the ball game and held it all the way, holding a 17 to 9 advantage at the halfway mark.

Lorenzo took the lead in the early minutes of the second game, holding a 5-4 advantage at the end of the first quarter and 8 to 6 at the half. The WACs rallied in the third quarter, and the score was tied twice, 8-8 and 10-10 before the WACs pulled out with a 12 to 11 lead at the end of the period. But the Lorenzo girls finished strong to win the game.

Scoring honors for the game were divided with Catching leading the winners with eight points while Clevenger led the losers with eight.

State Champs Start Grid Work Thursday

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 29. "We'll do it again."

This is the boast of the San Angelo Bobcats, according to Blondy Cross, sports editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times, as the squad prepares to start spring training Thursday.

The defending state champions from the sheep and goat country make no bulls about being good, and are telling the world that last season's state champions are just a shade of what the 1944 team will be. They point out that they called their shots last year, and went right ahead and won the state title. They are out to repeat, both on their boasts and on the field.

The kind of weather we are having at this time causes sickness, and if it continues for another two weeks half of the population will be sick.

At this time one should be very careful about their living habits. They should not get wet, be sure and get their daily requirement of vitamin C, (orange juice) not eat to heavy, (unless doing muscular work) should be very careful about their elimination and above all should see their Chiropractor regular or at least when signs of sickness manifests itself. . . .

Not A "Dead Rat" Yet

WISHFUL thinking no longer is implied by the statement that the Allies have just about sewed up the victory in the Battle of the Atlantic. The disclosure that a large convoy reached the British isles a few days ago without having dropped a single depth charge during its journey merely added further confirmation to a fact recognized for some time.

The importance of the victory now in process of final consummation cannot be minimized. Without victory in the Battle of the Atlantic, the Allies could have had no hope of victory in the war. One of the costliest and most forbidding obstacles to the final victory has been shattered almost completely.

Unhappily, this is a fact which must be accepted with dread foreboding as one contemplates the tasks immediately ahead. The fact that the Nazis seem to have abandoned the Battle of the Atlantic, except for occasional gestures of defiance, can mean only that they are conserving and consolidating strength for other critical struggles ahead.

No one can doubt that the Nazis still have an enormous undersea fleet which is skillfully manned. Almost certainly it could inflict a great deal of damage to transport shipping if the German high command could afford or risk the necessary sacrifices. But that would be a foolish thing to do when there could be no reasonable hope of turning the tide in the Battle of the Atlantic. Germany has something far worse to worry about now than that battle.

The self-evident fact is that the Nazis have drawn their available strength as close to the homeland as possible and are husbanding it with every possible care. The logical expectation is that it won't be used until Germany is forced to make a final desperate play to escape annihilation. Presumably, that will be when the invasion of Western Europe is undertaken.

Then, with a short line to defend, no one knows what damage the massed Nazi undersea fleet may be able to inflict. Probably, though not necessarily, a great deal. It goes without saying, of course, that the Allied high command is fully cognizant of the danger, and is making preparations accordingly. Hopes are justified by past achievements that it may have the solution for this problem.

But no one can be justified in imagining that the last has been heard of the German U-boat. If the enemy's undersea fleet can be likened to the rat that is being cornered, then it is a rat that is strong and vigorous—one still capable of a great deal of damage.

The Tokens Make Their Bow

THE ALMOST certain probability is that the change-over to the token system of rationing now in affect will be attended by a good deal of confusion, especially for awhile. Difficulties almost certainly will be increased by the common trait of human nature which dislikes change. Many people have become accustomed to the old system and would prefer to continue on that basis out of habit, if for no other reason.

Doubtless other and more valid objections may arise. One, for example, may apply to the small size of the tokens. This objection is given an appearance of logic because steps already have been announced to replace the present tokens with others of substantially larger size.

But everyone should recognize that this change has not been made without the mature deliberation of people who have acquired experience in the problems that go with rationing. It is their considered opinion that the change is for the best. Their opinion demands respect. Probably the new system is better than the old Certainly it should mean fewer wasted points.

However, it may be difficult at the start for some people to recognize that the new system is best. These people should—and most of them will—take cognizance of the fact that the worst confusion will be at the start while the change-over is actually taking root.

They should remember, too—as nearly all will—that there can be no fair judgment of the token system until it has been tried for awhile. Given a fair trial and all of us may be wondering why we "muddled through" so long with the old system.

"In a damage claim case a court ruled that a cow can't kick backwards." The court is mistaken. A cow can kick in any direction except straight up: Her favorite kick, however, is a roundhouse swing that knocks the milker for a loop.

"Breathing pure oxygen will cure seasickness," says a physician. But so much of the time a seasick person is too busy to breathe pure oxygen.

We are stymied. So many of the current women's hats are too small to pin a joke on.

I

THE northbound train from Florida pulled into the dinginess of Newark. Sitting in the air-conditioned flatness of her Pullman Kitty Bishop felt oppressed by the air, by Newark, and marooned in loneliness.

She was on her way back from Florida where she had spent three months acquiring not sun-tan, but a divorce. With a long, smooth pull the train started on again for the last few minutes' run into New York. Kitty stared out into the gray spring day, listening to the wheels clicking steadily along the rails and trying to take in the fact that she had her divorce from Collins Bishop and that now she had it her own life had jumped its tracks.

The porter came through and confiscated her luggage. If she had been traveling with Collins she wouldn't have had to give the luggage a thought. That, she supposed, was one of the reasons she felt depressed in trains. It wasn't traveling that depressed her, it was traveling alone. There was something about it that undermined her self-confidence—like an unbecoming hat.

Alarmed by the way her mind was sabotaging her courage, Kitty disciplined herself. She did a little work with compact and lipstick, because there was never any point in looking as bad as you felt.

Then she deliberately shunted her thoughts away from amazed wonder that three brief years of marriage should out-balance all the preceding twenty-odd years of her life. She had traveled, for instance, many, many more miles alone than she had with Collins. And yet the total of the miles she had traveled with him, the few years she'd spent as his wife, added up to a total of emotional experience that made living alone a sharper readjustment than she'd quite foreseen.

She decided it would be far more constructive to concentrate on her immediate destination instead of worrying about the uncertainties of the new direction her life had skidded into. It was a relief, and she admitted it, to know that instead of lonely indecision in New York she was bound for the definiteness of suburban Doremus, New Jersey, to stay for a while with her brother, Ben Graham, and his wife, Peg. Kitty was devoted to Peg and Ben and she also reasoned optimistically that you can't go on feeling alone in a house like the Grahams' that has three children in it.

The train rushed into roaring refused to let herself hope that Ben might have driven in to New York to meet her.

OUT in Doremus, a wave of children and tumult rushed out of the house. A door banged and there was a shock of quiet. Peg Graham hoped Kitty could stand noise.

Peg was wholly relieved that her sister-in-law had agreed to come, but she did have qualms. For one thing, Doremus was an old pair of saddleshoes to her because she'd lived there all her life except for a few years at college and in New York, but she worried a little about how easy a fit it would be for Kitty. Ben refused to do any worrying at all. He was fond of his younger sister, gave as his considered opinion that she'd always had more brains than sense, and gone off to meet the Florida train with a brother's philosophical attitude toward a sister's ups and downs. Peg, watchfully waiting for his return with Kitty, assuaged her worries by a fit of irritation at Ben. Ben never went into the publisher's office in which he worked on Saturdays, but he'd gone off bright and early that morning even though Kitty's train wasn't due until late afternoon. Clutching at a straw, in Peg's opinion, to save himself from having to clean the cellar as he'd promised.

It was hard for Peg to think of the Bishops as she had to: separate and clouded. She could still see Collins and Kitty coming in together like a flourish of brass, and like everything bright and broken, their marriage seemed more broken because it had been bright. And why it had ended she had been unable to gather from the hideous picture post-cards filled with violent comments on Florida shill and Spanish Moss that had comprised Kitty's communications during her three months' wait for a divorce. Collins, busy gaining rapidly on a brilliant legal future, now further accelerated by the war, occasionally shouted at Ben over the telephone but to Peg, his shouts were even more obscure than Kitty's silence. For several weeks Peg had been working up a desire to smack both of them for being so off-hand and close-mouthed.

Her resentment evaporated the minute Kitty came in. Laden with in indescribable confusion of luggage, Ben kicked the door shut behind him and said expansively to his wife, "Well, here we are. Kitty wants a bath."

"That's for me to say," objected Kitty with normal contentiousness.

But she looked so young and mulish that Peg's easily touched heart was agitated.

It was five o'clock and, punctual to the dot, Bunny Graham came in and started upstairs for the first of his evening radio serials.

"Hello," he said absent-mindedly as he passed. Halfway upstairs he seemed to remember that he had seen something unusual. "Kitty! Hello! When did you come? I expected you all day."

"How's everything?" said Kitty interestedly. "Did you get that cocoanut skull I sent you?"

"Yes," said Bunny, "thank you . . . I thought I did thank you, in a letter from mother."

Kitty reassured him. He sat down on the steps and examined her for an instant, in a puzzled diagnostic way.

"Where's Collins?"

PEG sighed. After some doubt, considering his characteristic abstractedness, as to whether he would be less likely to bring up the subject of Collins if he was reminded not to, or whether to gamble on his not happening to think of his absent uncle as long as he didn't see him, Peg had cautiously advised Bunny not to ask Kitty too many questions.

"Why?"

"Because it's not polite."

"Not about Florida? I'd like to ask her about alligators."

"Alligators are all right, you can always ask people about places they've been. In fact, you're supposed to. I mean personal questions."

"Oh . . . about Collins, for instance, and why he didn't go with her."

"Didn't he?"

"Oh Bunny, you know he didn't."

"Busy, I suppose," said Bunny. "I suppose, I suppose . . . Come on, men, follow me. Single file, and take cover. These Indians out here are bad actors!"

Followed by a shadowy file of scouts he had left, and his mother was afraid to take a chance on planting the idea any more firmly in his mind since she felt so little confidence in how it might sprout. When the question dropped from the stairs, Peg received it fatalistically.

"Bunny," she said, "lives in too many worlds at once at the moment. He gets mixed up."

"Me too," admitted his Aunt Kitty. "Why should he have to begin being tactful so soon anyway? As a matter of fact, let's none of us be tactful; life's too short."

Jane Graham couldn't take Bunny's error, or anything else, lightly. She had joined the family group and was staring up at Bunny with a black scowl reminiscent of her fearsomely strong - minded grandmother Graham.

"Bunny," she said fiercely, "you're dumb!"

Bunny looked grieved, then turned scarlet, his eyes filled with tears as humiliating consciousness of his blunder, or having blundered, struck him. He bolted up the stairs, occasionally banging the banister with his closed fist.

"Ol' cow hip, ol' cow hop! ol' cow eat my turnip top!" suddenly dripped into the momentary silence in sorghum rich tones.

"That Lulu," explained Peg sociably. "That's Georgia for patty-cake patty-cake. The joint is hopping . . . go up and bring Sara Ann down, Ben."

There is nothing like a baby, in Peg's opinion, for neutralizing an awkward moment.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

IT is too bad that President Roosevelt exploded the story of Stalin bopping Marshal Timoshenko over the head with a vodka bottle when he talked too much at the Teheran conference banquet.

There was something very human about that story.

Can't you just picture enigmatic, unemotional Stalin quietly walking around the table, not saying a word, picking up the bottle and, wham, crack it over his favorite general's noggin?

Can't you just see the fighting marshal passing out, sliding down in his chair, all wet with vodka, and not saying another word?

It's so simple, so direct, so effective.

I would like to see it introduced in this country.

It doesn't have to be vodka. A beer bottle would do, or a water carafe, or a speaker's gavel, or just a hammer.

I wouldn't tap 'em too hard, these fellows who are shooting off their mouths. Just enough to make 'em shut up till the end of the session, or the banquet or the meeting.

Free speech is, of course, a wonderful institution; I am all for it.

But the trouble is that free speech consists so often of talking a lot without saying anything.

Couldn't we pass a law that everybody who exercises the right of free speech should be forced to think before he speaks?

HAVE you ever attended a session of the House of Representatives? Do it sometime. It will remind you of an afternoon in New York's Fulton Fish market. If words could smell, the resemblance would be even closer.

Or how about some of those luncheons and meetings you had to sit through? Remember those tiresome talkers that shouted their way all through the dictionary making you wish you had nerve enough to leave—and making you ache for the nearest bottle?

Yes, I wish that story about Stalin and Timoshenko had been true.

I'm sure some congressmen and senators would be much more careful if they expected to be hit over the head any minute.

And now, with the campaign coming on wouldn't it be a great innovation?

We could say it with bottles instead of ballots!

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

FIERY and formal revolt by Congressional Democrats against Franklin D. Roosevelt's leadership may seriously jeopardize the President's fourth-term chances. Not even in Herbert Hoover's darkest days was there delievered such a smashing "vote of no confidence" as the party lieutennts have registered against the White House.

"Sunny Jim" Watson of Indiana, who was Mr. Hoover's Senate Majority Leader, frequently raged against the Californian in the cloakrooms. But he never announced openly, as did Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, that he could no longer "carry the flag" of his Chief Executive. Not in modern times have the members of the upper chamber, including all but four highly unpopular Democrats, arisen and handclapped any speech.

The rebellion is directed against New Dealers and New Dealism as well as against Mr. Roosevelt personally. Between the lines of the Kentuckian's oration and the joint Doughton-Knutson blast there were vicious thrusts at "Willkie Rooseveltians," pinkish newspaper and magazine writers and owners, CIO labor chiefs, radical farm spokesmen, Treasury theorists and the fraction represented by Henry Wallace. The VP squirmed in his chair, but did not dare to gavel down the demonstration in accordance with the rules.

Despite these attacks on FDR, he can probably dictate his renomination if he wants it now. The convention will be dominated by postmasters and other federal officials rather than by legislators.

But the ill feeling generated by the taxation, commodity credit and soldier ballot bills, and the devastating analysis of the Presidential veto, may tend to weaken the Hyde Park man with the court of last resort—the electorate. Almost every Democratic member will return home as a critic of the Commander in Chief.

FAILED: Capitol Hill Democrats have handled the GOP several powerful issues for use against the President if he runs again. They did it deliberately and with malice aforethought. Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, one of the four who did not applaud the Barkley address, evidently recognized this danger when, gazing at his associates lined up to congratulate the Majority Leader, he remarked:

"There they go to compliment the man who has wrecked the Democratic party!"

Now, in the campaign, GOP spellbinders will be able to argue that FDR's re-election will promote "disunity in Washington" in the nation's gravest crisis. They will be able to ask whether the citizens want to entrust the handling of postwar problems, domestic and foreign, to and administration as divided as would be one headed by Mr. Roosevelt.

Hostile orators will also point out that, in their opinion, Mr. Roosevelt aims to discredit one of world's few representative parliamentary bodies at a time when he has mobilized the country against dictators. They will recall that Hitler and Mussolini seized power only after they had undermined the people's faith in legislative processes. At least a score of members are now writing speeches in which they develop that theme.

Congress may not be the most popular group of men in the United States. But veterans on Capitol Hill note that no Chief Executive has bucked the lawmakers with permanent success. Woodrow Wilson tried it on the subject of the League of Nations and failed. Mr. Hoover's record is too recent and well - known to require repeating here. And never was the crowd so mad at a modern White House occupant as it is at Mr. Roosevelt!

REACTION: The expressed pessimism of London and Washington on the war's progress and prospects is generally interpreted here as psychological strategy. Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have hoisted warning signals so that initial reverses or even a long delay in launching a European invasion will not dampen home spirits or encourage the enemy.

Military leaders, including General "Ike" Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, have raised expectations of far-reaching successes in 1944. Allied gains in all sectors, especially in the Pacific and in Russia, have instilled a widespread feeling of cheer. Commentators, in particular flash radio reporters, have exaggerated local advances to the magnitude of major victories, to the disgust of fighting men on the spot.

For a while the statesmen acquiesced in this policy. Now they fear that the optimism they have built up may result in an alarming letdown if our forces cannot uphold their prophecies. They are muting the orchestra of hope which they themselves once led.

The situation also has its domestic political sidelight. Should there be not attack on Festung Europa by next November, or should our first stab meet with hard luck, the reaction in the United States might be unfavorable to the standard-bearer on the Administration ticket. The GOP would naturally contend that a change at the White House would advantage the United Nations.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WINSTON Churchill in his prediction of heavier aerial blows gave an inkling of how adverse weather conditions are overcome by Anglo-American forces.

Aviation authorities admit that fog and freezing temperatures, at a height above which heavily loaded Flying Fortresses and Halifaxes cannot normally climb, remain obstacles. But the Allies have developed aids to navigation little dreamed of in the early days of this war.

Frosts that grounded many planes were first conquered by de-icers. The installation of these devices was extremely slow and difficult, especially on the giant bombers. It took four or five men to tug the mechanism into place. But Yankee ingenuity produced a pneumatic shoe "puller" that is quickly adjusted.

The slightest variation in wind may push an aircraft off its course into concentrated flak, or compel it to arrive over its target too late to join a massed attack. Meteorologists now provide forecasts in such abundance that pilots can respond to split-second timing.

As long ago as the Dieppe Commando raid, physicists announced almost to the moment the clearing of atmospheric drawbacks for the take-off of the squadrons.

WORRIES: But even now — before the spring will permit almost endless chain strafing — our birdmen are inflicting heavy punishment upon the Reich. The confusions resulting from wholesale migrations of refugees add up to miseries not widely known.

Trainloads of families are dispersed all over Europe. Not too many persons from a single disaster zone are allowed to settle in one area lest their reports lower the morale of their hosts. Berlin is jittery over what it calls rumor-mongering. The Weimar court recently sentenced a woman to eight months' imprisonment for describing in a letter to her soldier husband an air raid which she had not witnessed herself.

The Swedes estimate that twenty million Continentals have been shifted. That figure — like so much of the gossip from Stockholm—appears to be an exagerration. But it is certain that millions are on the move. Neutrals reveal that the bombardments have made Berliners popular in Bavaria and in Austria where formerly they were deemed intolerable.

An added hardship is that women and children are sent away from their men. Each group worries about the fate of the other. Whole schools are often evacuated, whereupon parents persist in begging for the return of the pupils. When the government refuses bad blood results. Providing for disrupted households costs the state billions of Reichsmarks.

Paper Shortage May Effect Year's Elections In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Feb. 29—Because it controls release and distribution of paper stocks the War Production board might be in position to cause Texas to change one or two things about the way elections are held this year.

At request of WPB, Secretary of State Sidney Latham made the first estimate of how much paper is required to hold elections—state, school, local and special.

Latham did not estimate how much paper would be needed. He simply told the WPB the sizes necessary for ballots and the other required forms and the number of each which likely would be used this year. His calculations revealed need of about 2,000,000 ballots, envelopes and forms, based on a voting strength of 1,448,860.

It is up to the WPB to compute how much paper will be required. Also, it will be up to WPB to release that amount of paper so that the materials may be printed. Latham hopes his estimates are sufficient.

In event present stocks are inadequate and WPB decided other paper had to go directly to the war effort, quick changes would have to be made in the size of ballots and other printed matter.

Carrying the supposition further, should paper stocks be cut off entirely for election use, present state officials would be continued in office. The law provides an official's term does not end until his successor qualifies.

He Got A Surprise!

He was a mighty surprised fellow when he once again attained normalcy after nipping too many times at a bottle in Beaumont.

He discovered himself in jail, and found that the slacks he had stolen in a department store were for women!

Officers Bob Surles and Ray Yaw arrested the man, staggering down the street, his arms filled with slacks.

WORKERS at the Orange Consolidated Steel shipyard had fun when a mammoth "slave" auction was held at the launching of a destroyer escort.

As part of the Fourth War Loan effort, officials were offered to the highest bond bidders. Two officials "sold" for $3200 in only a few minutes.

Assistant secretary of the corporation, T. J. White, went for $1200. And assistant hull superintendent, A. V. Neblett, brought $2000.

Neblett's slave job was reported to be to sweep out the mould loft of the yard.

Maude, the 60-year-old lead elephant of Ray Bros. Circus died the other day in Galveston.

Jack Knight, circus manager, said the 6500-pound pachyderm died quietly while asleep.

Maude was brought to this country from Ceylon when 18 years old, and was worth about $7500 at the time of her death.

IT IS no trouble to get rid of money, negro suspect in a safe burglary told Potter County Sheriff Bill Adams.

Asked how he got rid of the $1,000 loot, the negro said he paid $350 for a car, and as for the rest:

"Sheriff, did you ever go out in a chicken yard with a bucket of corn and see the chickens coming from every direction? Well, that's the way the colored boys did me. I paid the bills."

Sheriff W. E. (Bill) Webb has the habit of paying attention to automobiles parked on Smith county highways and side roads.

En route to Troup, the sheriff slowed down to investigate an automobile parked beside the road near Whitehorse.

As the stopped his car, a young negro climbed the embankment with a bulky object in his arms.

"What you got there?" asked the sheriff.

"I don't know, suh," was the answer.

He had a gallon of moonshine white corn liquor.

A STORY in an Abilene paper read as if it had been taken from one of the pulp murder mystery magazines—with the emphasis on the mystery.

At first there was a dead man and no murderer. Then no body and a suspected killer.

The perplexed police finally declared no dead man—thus no killer.

It seemed that a man had called the police about midnight that there was a body lying in front of his house.

But while he was telephoning, the orpse disappeared. He said he heard a car in front of his house and supposed the killers had come by and picked up the body. A suspect killer was found.

Several days later, the "dead" man called in that he was quite well and unhurt.

Shades of Sherlock Holmes!

HOW MUCH MONEY are you making from your DAIRY BUSINESS?

Never before was it more important to put your dairy herd on the most efficient basis possible. Whether you are milking two cows or twenty, every extra pound of milk you can produce, every bag of feed you can save means extra cash in your pocket. Furthermore, efficient feeding means less work per pound of milk produced, and that's a welcome bonus these days.

TRY
STANTON'S 18% MILK PRODUCER

MANAMAR Calf Pellets
These pellets save up to 1500 lbs. of milk for each calf you raise. The pellets cost from $20 to $40 LESS than the milk would bring if sold. And you don't have the mess of mixing gruel.

It's developed and mixed right here in Lubbock to meet local needs and local conditions. It's tailor-made for feeders who demand efficient production. In addition, Stanton's 18% Milk Producer contains ManAmar, a product of the sea, rich in the proteins, minerals and vitamins which the ocean contains in vast quantities. Come in today and get all the facts.

STOCKS RETREAT ORDERLY

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—Stocks generally negotiated an orderly retreat in today's market as selling of steels and rails touched off a downtrend in other departments.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .3 of a point at 51.2, widest slip since Feb. 18, but on the month showed a net advance of .6 of a point. Transfers totaled 865,590 shares compared with 753,780 Monday.

Principal casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Eastern Air Lines, American Distillers "Stamped," Park & Tilford, Western Union "A" and Owens-Illinois. Exceptions were Engineers Public Service, which touched a high for 1944; Pepsi-Cola, Sears Roebuck and Allied Chemical.

In the curb minus marks were attached to Cuban Atlantic Sugar, Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share and St Regis Paper.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—Cotton futures declined 85 cents to $1.10 a bale today on a wave of liquidation which came through New Orleans commission houses and locals. Selling developed on favorable Russian war developments coupled with Finnish discussions concerning peace moves.

The liquidation encountered scale down price fixing against textile orders, and smaller mill interest in spot cotton was also discouraging.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 29 (AP) — After displaying some strength at the opening, wheat and rye futures eased today on selling encouraged by weak stock and cotton markets where declines were recorded in connection with a statement by Stalin predicting early defeat of Germany. After holding steady most of the session, oats also tended to soften.

Closing near the day's lows, wheat finished ⅝ to 1 cent lower than the previous close, May $1.70, July $1.06¾-⅞, rye ended the day with losses of ¾ to 1¼ cent, May $1.27¾-1¼, and oats closed unchanged to ⅛ off, May 80. Barley was nominally ½ lower, May $1.22.

Texas Tech Briefs

Ex-governor Dan Moody of Austin will deliver the address to the graduating senior class of Texas Tech at commencement exercises in May, President Clifford B. Jones announced Tuesday.

Chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honor society, will be installed at Tech soon, according to Dr. Eunice Gates, associate professor of Spanish. Spanish instructors at Tech will sponsor the chapter. Some of the now 43 active chapters in the United States include University of Texas, Southern Methodist university, Baylor university, Mary Hardin Baylor college and the University of California, where it was founded.

Army A-12 and Navy V-12 tests for the Army-Navy college training program will be given on Tech campus March 15, according to Dr. H. L. Kent, administrative assistant. Those wishing to take the tests which does not obligate them to enter the services, must call at Dr. Kent's office, room 215 in the Administration building on Tech campus, to secure forms, which must be filled out before March 10. All college men between the ages of 17 and 20 and high school students who will graduate in May or June are eligible, Dr. Kent said.

Officers of the Faculty Advisory committee of Texas Tech were recently elected and announced Tuesday by President Clifford B. Jones. They are: Dr. J. William Davis, coordinator of the Preflight detachment, chairman; Professor F. L. McRee, professor of civil engineering, vice chairman; Miss Mabel Erwin, professor of clothing and textile, secretary. Prof. T. F. Wiesen, professor of economics and management, was elected as representative on Tech Administrative council.

Dr. Archie J. Bahm, associate professor of philosophy, attended a meeting of the Institute of Public Affairs in Dallas Monday and Tuesday, as guest of the institute. The meeting is sponsored annually by the department of government at Southern Methodist university and the Arnold Foundation. Topic of the conference this year was "Toward International Organization."

F. A. Kleinschmidt, head of the department of architcture and allied arts, attended a meeting of the Texas Society of Architects' board of directors Tuesday in Austin.

Jap Fleet Reluctance To Fight Partly Explained

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Japanese reluctance to come to grips with American task forces hammering virtually unmolested at such enemy bastions as Truk, the Marianas stepping-stones and Guam is exciting conjecture from even Nazi commentators.

A Berlin broadcast apparently based on Tokyo advices says all Japan now is aware that the "American advance in the Pacific is no isolated enterprise" from which the attackers are apt to "recoil to their original bases" but holds the threat of American bombing of Japan itself. It suggests that "the Japanese are not willing to use their fleet in waters where the Americans might have air supremacy."

SIMPSON

That may be a partial explanation of failure of the Japanese thus far to put up any formidable resistance in the Central Pacific except for the stand of abandoned atoll garrisons. It does not fully answer the question as to Japanese fleet deployment, however, or what actually is causing Tokyo warlords to accept successive damaging blows without retaliation.

Hint Of Massed Power

Delayed eye-witness accounts from the mighty force which dealt the Truk, Marianas and Guam blows in fast succession without finding any trace of the enemy fleet or of its air arm, afford another possible answer. They disclose for the first time some definite hint of the massed power of that armada.

It was a fleet in itself, tremendously strong in both sea and air force the enemy had available and Tokyo knew it.

It now develops that the great task force definitely was spotted by Japanese planes before it struck at Guam. A desperate and utterly futile air attempt to ward off the stroke resulted. It only served to emphasize the weakness of Japanese air deployments on the islands involved.

Had Definite Reports

The Japanese high command must have had detailed reports on the strength, composition and whereabouts of the U. S. force, relayed from the scouting plane that sighted it.

That raises an important question as to whether there is any central concentration of Japanese sea-and-air power in the Pacific. It tends to suggest that the enemy fleet is even now badly dispersed to meet all actual or probable Allied threats.

There has been encouraging news from the Burma front within the last few days. Lord Mountbatten's command is at least gaining good tactical positions for the ultimate recapture of the Akyab enemy base on the Burma coast of the Bay of Bengal. Farther north British and Chinese troops are making some progress toward ensuring the security of the new India-China Ledo road when it is completed.

Mountbatten's assignment to the southwestern Asia command implied, however, that the main Allied attack in that theater would be amphibious across the Bay of Bengal. There have been official intimations that much of the British Mediterranean fleet now is in the Indian ocean. The ultimate Allied objective—to break into the China Sea from the southwest—must be plain to the Japanese.

The coming monsoons probably will halt extensive land fighting in Burma for some months. It will not necessarily prevent amphibious attacks in the Bay Bengal sector to seize vantage points offering bases for air command of China Sea approaches. And a substantial portion of Japan's prime naval strength may be deployed to meet that danger, unavailable to help hold at arm's length the American advance in the Central and South Pacific dispite the growing bombing threat to Japan itself.

Nine LAAF Officers Granted Promotion

Nine officers at Lubbock Army Air Field have received promotions ranging from 1st Lieutenant to Lt. Colonel, it was announced yesterday. Two of the nine have come up from the ranks, each with more than twenty years of Army service behind him.

Lt. Col. Elmer J. Voltz, post quartermaster, is a veteran of three major engagements in France where he served as an enlisted man in the field artillery in 1917-18. He has held commissions in the organized reserve and the Pennsylvania National Guard and was assigned to duty at LAAF just two years ago as assistant sales officer. Since that time he has advanced to head all Q.M. activities on the field.

Capt. Leon W. Grilley, supervisor of aircraft maintenance of the 498th Two-Engine Flying Training squadron was commissioned from the ranks after coming to LAAF in January of 1942. His latest promotion comes after more than twenty years of army service.

The other officers promoted and their news ranks are: 1st Lt. Charles E. Snyder, cadet detachment tactical officer; 1st Lt. John H. Thornton, assistant statistical officer; Robert E. Hemphill, assistant physical training officer; 1st Lt. Robert S. Pittard, jr., former fighter pilot with the 6th Air force in the Carribean Defense command; 1st Lt. Howard G. Morgan, 1st Lt. William H. Goodwin, and 1st Lt. Joseph E. Brosseau. The last four named are all flying instructors at LAAF.

Khorassan Sets Ceremonial Here

Boabdil temple 185, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, will hold its annual ceremonial tonight at 8 o'clock in Lubbock hotel.

Invitations to "all the faithful to sojourn from your respective camps, villages, cities and towns, and gather to welcome the tyros who crave admission to our turbaned tribe," were issued by committeemen.

J. D. Collier, royal vizier ,issued a proclamation calling for votaries to repledge fealty to the American form of government and for all Khorassans to "rise and do your duty."

Visitors Expected

No estimate of attendance was made, but E. H. Bergman, chairman of the publicity committee, said there were 175 members of the temple and that visitors were expected from Spur, Lamesa, Tahoka and Albuquerque, N. M., and that probably 25 tyros would be here to "get the works."

Officers of the temple are J. D. Collier, royal vizier; Levi Duncan, grand emir; Acle Cope, sheik; J. D. Corcorran, mahedi; H. G. Brock, secretary; Estell Hendrix, treasurer; W. H. Galloway, satrap; K. C. Southern, sahie; J. B. Shannon, mokanna; G. K. Taylor, saruk; Douglas Parker, master of ceremonies.

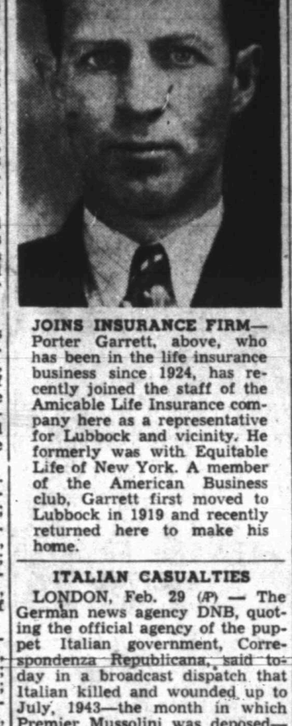

Dramatic team for the ceremonial will be Victor H. Lindsey, royal vizier; Duncan, grand emir; Cope, sheik; Corcorran, mahedi; Brock, secretary; Hendrix, treasurer; Galloway, satrap; Southern, sahib; Taylor, saruk, and Emmett Kerr, mokanna — Shannon having left several days ago for the armed services and been supplanted by Kerr.

Mrs. O'Conner To Be Buried This Morning

Rev. William Blakeslee will read last rites for Mrs. Catherine O'Conner, 61, in St. Elizabeth's Catholic church at 9 o'clock this morning. Mrs. O'Conner of 1202 Avenue O, died at 7:55 o'clock Tuesday morning in West Texas hospital where she was taken Monday for treatment of a fractured hip sustained in a fall near her home. She suffered a stroke of paralysis later in the day.

A rosary service was held in Rix Funeral chapel last night. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Mrs. O'Conner, who came to Lubbock in 1939 from St. Louis, Mo., was the wife of the late J. J. O'Conner, who died about a year before she moved here. She is survived by a son, Maurice O'Conner of the armed forces who is here on furlough; a sister, Mrs. R. F. Hinchey; and a brother, Oliver Lanning of Pueblo, Colo.

JOINS INSURANCE FIRM—Porter Garrett, above, who has been in the life insurance business since 1924, has recently joined the staff of the Amicable Life Insurance company here as a representative for Lubbock and vicinity. He formerly was with Equitable Life of New York. A member of the American Business club, Garrett first moved to Lubbock in 1919 and recently returned here to make his home.

ITALIAN CASUALTIES

LONDON, Feb. 29 (AP) — The German news agency DNB, quoting the official agency of the puppet Italian government, Corrispondenza Republicana, said today in a broadcast dispatch that Italian killed and wounded up to July, 1943—the month in which Premier Mussolini was deposed—totaled more than 100,000 men, with an additional 500,000 captured.
