One fatality in Friday night accident

Around 10:20 p.m. Friday night, a call came into the 9-1-1 dispatch about a single vehicle accident on East 2nd Street. A Snyder man was killed in the accident and a minor occupant was severely injured.

Members of the Colorado City Police Department, Mitchell County Sheriff's Office, Colorado City Fire Department, Mitchell County EMS and Department of Public Safety Troopers responded to the call regarding the accident that happened in the 800 block of East 2nd Street. Three occupants, all from Snyder, were extracted from a red Chevy Cruze, the only car involved in the crash.

The Cruze was traveling west on 2nd Street when it failed to make the curve and ran into a metal electrical pole. The vehicle was traveling fast enough that the pole was embedded in the middle of the car when it came to a stop.

A male juvenile passenger in the backseat sustained critical injuries and was transported to an Odessa hospital by helicopter. Domingo Gomez Jr., who was a passenger in the front seat, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Rick Gissam.

The driver of the vehicle, Maria D. Castillo, was arrested and booked into the Mitchell County Jail on charges of 2nd Degree Intoxication Manslaughter with a Vehicle and 3rd Degree Felony Intoxication Assault with a Vehicle.

She suffered minor injuries in the crash.

The case remains under investigation by the Colorado City Police Department.

According to CCVFD chief Tom Carlock, the mother of the minor released some information regarding his condition on Sunday. She said the 13-year-old boy sustained a broken pelvic bone and leg. He has undergone surgery and is doing ok.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON 2ND STREET - Two of the three occupants of a Chevy Cruze were injured and the other died when the driver of the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve and slammed into a metal pole at a high rate of speed last Friday night. The driver was arrested and charged with intoxication manslaughter, and a minor was flown by helicopter to an Odessa hospital where he had to undergo surgery to fix broken bones.

Citizens show concern over tax increase

Next public meeting set Friday, August 28th

The Mitchell County Commissioners' Court meeting was attended by many citizens concerned about the proposed tax rate. Most took the time to speak during the public hearing portion of the meeting, and all urged commissioners to take a hard look at the proposed rate before adopting it.

That's just what court members will do. County Judge Ray Mayo said that a public meeting has been set for Friday, August 28th at 10 a.m. for all parties concerned to take a look at the proposed rate and hold a budget workshop.

Matt Helm was one of the people speaking during Monday's public hearing. He said he had moved to Mitchell County with his family when he was four. He remembers camping in the yard while the house his family had purchased could be made livable. The family renovated the house, creating something of value for themselves and their three kids.

Matt, now 37, started the construction of a house that took seven years to complete. He said it took a lot of sacrifice and hard work, but it paid off. He told the court that

Hospital board sees tax rate comparison

The Mitchell County Hospital District Board of Directors met Monday evening to hold a public hearing regarding the proposed tax rate. The hospital board is proposing to increase the tax rate to .301668, generating a little over $3.1 million in revenue.

In Monday's meeting, no one came to speak about the tax increase, but Hospital Administrator Robbie Dewberry provided information to board members to clarify just what the increase will mean to home owners.

A graph, provided by Dewberry, showed that at the proposed rate, a house valued at $50,000 would see an increase of $34.75 annually. A $60,000 home would see an increase of $41.70 per year, and a $70,000 home would pay about $48.65 more in taxes at the proposed rate. A house valued at $80,000 would see taxes go up by $55.61 at the proposed rate.

Dewberry said the proposed increase is based on the expectation of a 2.5% increase in supply costs, as well as several other factors. The current tax rate for MCHD is .232161 per $100 value. Debt payments for the hospital is $525,352 annually and will be paid off in 2020.

The board met again Tuesday night for a regular meeting. Dewberry said that a recent visit by Dr. Jade Booher, a second-year resident at Texas Medical Sciences Center, had gone well. Dewberry is seeking another healthcare provider for the new rural health clinic once construction is finished.

The administrator said that the visit with Dr. Booher looked "very promising". She is from

County schools "meet standards"

Superintendents of schools already looking to next year

School accountability ratings for 2014 have been released by the Texas Education Agency (TEA), and all three schools in the county have "met standards". It's good news all the way around, but the game is changing for next year.

Next year, all school districts in Texas will receive grades ranging from A+ to F, similar to something once seen on student report cards.

Loraine ISD faculty members are glad to announce that student achievement exceeded the target score set by TEA. Interim Superintendent Dennis Hill said that the district is in the "met standards" category now, as academics have turned around and headed in the right direction.

Hill said that the new rating means various things and that TEA will still be coming in to monitor LISD for another year.

"As the new guy, I'm very happy with the progress," Hill said, "but being happy and being satisfied are two different things. No one here is satisfied. Let the focus remain the focus: what's best for the students."

Hill went on to say that he wants to be certain that the faculty's agenda remains focused on student performance. "The district met standards, and everybody is to be commended. Now, let's keep moving forward," he said.

The interim superintendent has been hired to stay until the school board can hire a permanent replacement or until the end of the semester. He said that he feels like the academic issues at the school can get better very quickly, and it's highly possible that may be the outcome in 2015.

CISD Assistant Superintendent Denise Farmer was quite pleased with the rating earned by the Colorado City school district.

"Our district has wonderful teachers who work hard, and the kids did amazing to meet standards," she said. "I really appreciate the hard work of the staff and the kids."

Thanks to a $3.5 million federal grant, CISD has been able to bring in specialists like Sean Cain, author of The Fundamental 5, which is hailed as a formula for quality instruction. Farmer said she thinks the out-of-the-ordinary things have given teachers the tools they need to help students succeed.

Westbrook Superintendent Todd Burleson was also quite pleased that students exceeded the standard when it came to STAAR testing, but he's keeping an eye on what's to come out of the state.

"We're happy but certainly not satisfied," Burleson said. "The whole system is going to change next year. It's going to be interesting, and it's going to be important to understand the dynamics (of the new system)."

Burleson said that Westbrook teachers and staff are doing innovative things to help students prepare for the ever-increasing standards they must meet. He said that every student at WISD has an iPad, and teachers assign lessons after school, giving students more time to work on them in class.

"It's a whole new concept, but it's going to help overall because it's the world we live in," Burleson said.

He went on to say that he likes the new state legislation of House Bill 5. The new law mandates that schools prepare students for life after graduation, whether that means college or a career.

"It helps prepare students for the real world. That's what we're trying to do here.... prepare them for the outside world," Burleson said.

DPS reminds drivers to be safe this Labor Day

The Texas Department of Transportation reminds drivers that law enforcement officers across the state are out in full force looking for drunk drivers in the weeks leading up to Labor Day, Sept. 7. Last year in Texas, 21 people were killed and 42 were seriously injured in 338 alcohol-related crashes over the Labor Day holiday.

"Labor Day weekend is a fun time for family and friends to celebrate, but you absolutely must have a sober-ride plan if you're going to consume alcohol," said TxDOT Executive Director Lt. Gen. Joe Weber, USMC (Ret). "Too many people are killed on our roads each year — especially during holidays — due to impaired driving. These crashes are inexcusable and 100-percent preventable. We are grateful to our law enforcement officers who will be keeping Texans safe by pulling over and arresting impaired drivers."

Many Texas communities implement "no-refusal" programs over Labor Day weekend, authorizing law enforcement officials to obtain blood samples from suspected drunk drivers and motorcyclists. Drivers convicted of DWI in Texas face costs up to $17,000 plus possible jail time, limited career prospects and loss of driver's license.

TxDOT strongly encourages everyone to have a plan for a sober ride before going out. Visit SoberRides.org to locate alternatives to drinking and driving, including:

Lyle is arrested by CCPD

In a media release issued by Chief Luis Aguilar of the Colorado City Police Department, it was made known that local police officers helped locate and take into custody a suspect being sought for a parole violation. Matthew Clarence Lyle of Snyder was on parole for the felony offense of Aggravated Robbery.

The CCPD received information from the Scurry County Sheriff's Office that Lyle was being sought and might have traveled to Colorado City. The release says that within an hour of confirming the information, Colorado City officers located the man at Gas 'N' Grub convenience store.

Lyle was taken into custody, transported to the Mitchell County Jail and booked on the warrant. The charge of Failure to Identify Fugitive from Justice, a Class A misdemeanor, was added to the charges.

HER HUSBAND'S SUCCESSOR — Sendia Blake (right) was sworn in during the August city council meeting, as she will take over the duties of representing District 4, an office once held by her late husband, Ed Blake. She was sworn into office by City Secretary Donna Madrid.

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH Sounds of the mountains

Back in the depression of the twenties and thirties the government started sending artists to national parks to live in the parks for a few weeks, create something about the area and donate it to the park. The artist in residence program has continued and grown and the parks have gained poetry, films, photographs, paintings and other forms of art.

This past spring the artist in residence at Guadalupe Mountains National Park was Victoria Meyer, who teaches audio aesthetics at Webster University in Saint Louis, Missouri. She would make a good Texan. She drove her pickup to the park from the Webster campus and immediately immersed herself into the Texas way of doing things. When she was asked what days she wanted off, she replied, "I don't need any. I'm off all the time. I love to go around recording things."

Victoria's grandparents raised her. "When I was in third grade my grandpa bought a little recorder because he wanted to play his turkey calls out in the field to get the turkeys to come to him. He brought that in on a Saturday morning and I found it and he didn't get it back until the next day. And he only got it back because he came in and handed me a new recorder."

In the Guadalupe she recorded natural sounds and incorporated them into music she composed. "If you just hear each individual natural sound it's not very interesting. But when you work them into strategic places in the music it gets pretty fascinating. The piece starts with a thunderstorm, and then goes into waterfalls then to a babbling brook that has bees and birds around it. I did some research on the musical instruments the Mescalero Apaches had and used those to create the music."

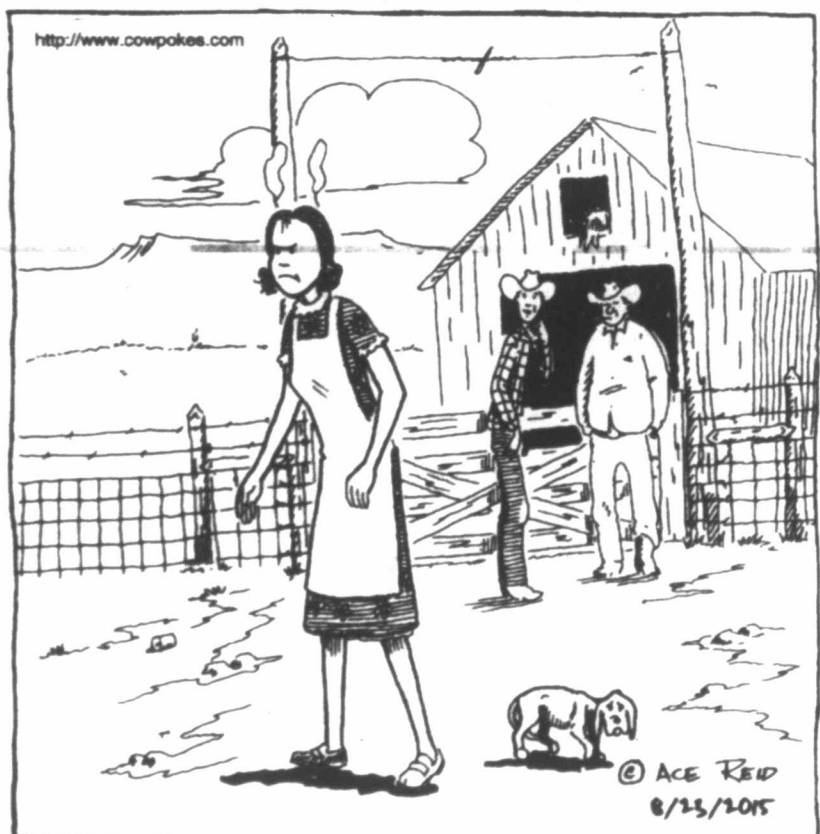

In her four-minute creation, drums provide a strong rhythm and the Indian fiddle and flute, mixed with the sounds she recorded make for compelling listening. "I set up my recording equipment and walk away and wait. Nature and children never do what you want them to do at the time you want it done. You have to really like quiet and like being alone to do this. I enjoy it. I feel like life is so hectic and to be able to sit on a rock and realize that I'm actually accomplishing something is a piece of heaven for me."

She records much more than she will ever use. "I feel lucky when I'm able to use five percent of what I record. Here I think I recorded seven hours of material and used maybe a couple of minutes. I just put large memory cards in the recorder and let it run."

Victoria plays guitar and piano and has multiple degrees including a doctorate in sound design. She did sound for a theater when she finished her bachelor's degree, then worked on the Ozzy Osbourne television show. In addition to teaching she creates sound and music for movies. She has taught at Webster University seven years and recently earned tenure. She has 115 majors studying with her. "They go out with their recorders and get all kinds of interesting stuff."

Why do they call it "Back to School"?

By Monte Wike

Why not "Forward"? Or "Returning"? Or "Forth"? Or "Continuing"? When we say "back" to school, it is with the same approach to drudgery as "back to the salt mines", "back to the same old grind".

Education is such a privilege that it should be looked for with joy, not back or backwards. It is true that schooling makes many demands such as regular attendance, good attention, and lots of writing, but the rewards are well worth the demands. The satisfaction is larger than the sacrifices.

I remember school days with anticipation, not dread. I recall with fondness the new clothes, a new pair of shoes, Big Chief Tablet, some kind of cedar pencils with a white eraser that could be sharpened like the lead end, a box of eight Crayolas and a pair of scissors with a blunt nose and little round finger holes. We carried them to school in a genuine cigar box. We also took our lunch every day and walked the several blocks to school even in raincoats, rubber boots or snow suits and ear muffs. Oh, we got an occasional ride, a real luxury.

As I advanced in grades, these basic supplies were replaced with a fountain pen, and later a portable Royal manual typewriter. I remember distinctly when the first ballpoint pens were introduced. Ink for the fountain pen was the Script brand and came in a bottle with a little well inside. You filled up the well and put in the pen, then opened and closed the lever on the side to draw in the ink. The cap screwed on. You could buy different nibs or points for the style of writing you wanted.

I am so proud of our school system here. The teachers are good and pleased to teach. They have to get rough sometimes with unruly or wayward students, but they are eager and well-qualified to teach.

I have two regrets. One is that there is not enough challenge to the really good students, and the other is that there is so much attention paid to the poor students. The good students are held back from creative achievement and rapid advance by the rigid guidelines of class structure. There should be a balance between challenge and structure. The poor students are poor because they want to be. They have never understood the advantages and discipline of education. We put up with their flaccid attitudes, lack of preparation and disregard for teachers and other students. Yet you cannot afford to ignore them. Maybe some way, some day they will catch the fire of whom they could be and blossom.

Schooling has its definite starting and ending dates. Perhaps that is why they call it "back to school". (What about the youngest that have never been to school, why is it "back"? But words like "advance", "opportunity" or "continuing" seem more appropriate than "back".

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

I am writing to let the readers know of a beautiful celestial ballet that will be taking place the evening of Sunday, September 27th. It will be a total lunar eclipse, and during the totality of the moon, the giant planet Uranus will be visible with binoculars.

The penumbra will be first visible at 7:40 p.m. The partial eclipse will begin at 8:07 p.m. the total eclipse begins at 9:11 p.m.; mid-eclipse, 9:48 p.m. and total eclipse ends at 10:23 p.m.

Partial eclipse ends at 11:27 p.m. and the penumbra's last visibility will be at 11:55 p.m.

During totality planet Uranus will be visible with binoculars 15° east of the moon. One can extend one's joined fist toward the East side of the moon, and 15° should be just about the edge of the left fist. Through binoculars, one can pick up a greenish "star" planet. This will be the giant planet Uranus.

Uranus is four times larger than Earth, has 27 moons; is 1 billion, 783 million miles from the sun; and is very cold, -355° F. Uranus is covered in methane clouds, giving the planet a greenish appearance.

I hope Colorado City loves the beautiful celestial ballet.

Kudos!

First responders

All the emergency responders that came on scene and secured the wreck site on 2nd Street last Friday deserve to be commended. As a matter of fact, members of the CCPD, CCVFD, MCSO, EMS, DPS, and more have earned a "Kudos" for doing a superb job at every accident scene.

Morris Chaney took the time Friday night to get in the backseat at the scene of this particular accident to reassure a scared 13-year-old boy that he was going to get out and be ok.

The hours are sometimes long, the work is hard, the scenes are often gruesome and these guys and gals perform their duties in the extreme heat and cold every year, all year long. They help accident victims get the medical attention they need, they control traffic to make road conditions safer, they put out fires and more.

It would be impossible to name them all, but we all know who they are. So, when you see one of them in town, take a minute to thank them for the things they do to help our community.

Good job, guys! Thank you for all you do.

Sharing funds

It's hard to see a much-needed facility like the Hope for Children Daycare close, and parents of children that were cared for at the daycare faced the difficult task of finding other care for their children.

Even though parents knew it would probably not be enough, a group of them got together and held a fundraiser. While the total raised fell short for the daycare, the group has donated the proceeds of a brisket and bake sale to Toys4MCKids, a charitable toy drive held during the holidays.

The very active Kiwanians hold the drive each year in the fall, and the toys are distributed to boys and girls around Christmas. Jan Lemons spearheads Toys4MCKids, and she expressed gratitude to the parent group for providing a donation of nearly $450.

The money will be used to buy a lot of toys this year, making Christmas better for many local kids!

Editor's Note: This is the ongoing installment of the Kudos! column. Please submit a little information about people doing an outstanding job by calling 325-728-3413.

HOSPITAL

Hale Center, a small town in the Panhandle and had expressed interest in practicing medicine in a small town setting.

Dewberry is putting together an offer and will get it to Dr. Booher next week.

Jennifer Hale presented a report on the cardiac rehab department of the hospital. Patients with various types of heart problems are often sent for cardiac rehabilitation.

Exercise is the method used to rehabilitate cardiac patients, and department employees customize the mode, duration, frequency and progress of exercise for each patient.

The heart rate of each patient is measured continuously as they exercise, as is blood pressure. Department employees also listen to each patient to determine their progress during rehabilitation.

Generally, patients are scheduled for 36 one-hour sessions which are performed on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays each week.

Hale said that employees also help motivate patients to complete rehab, and most are happy to feel themselves getting stronger and progressing physically.

In the first quarter of 2015, there were 367 visits to the department.

Dewberry said that Hale and the other cardiac rehab employees do a fantastic job with the patients.

Hale is also in charge of education for hospital employees. She tracks certifications for all hospital employees and offers renewal on certain certifications like CPR.

Board member Mark Merrell remarked that the staff does a great job in the cardiac rehab department, and the community is extremely lucky to have such a service provided locally.

Patients from Snyder often use the service, as Colorado City is the closest location for that type of rehab.

During the medical staff report, Dewberry informed the board that representatives from the Laura W. Bush Foundation visited the hospital. The foundation bestowed grants to the hospital to help pay for certain women's services, including providing mammography for patients that cannot afford to pay for those types of services.

In other business, Gary White reported that the Mitchell County Nursing & Rehabilitation Center currently has 79 patients in-house. The nursing home is in the process of adding a human resources employee which will help to fully staff the long-term care facility.

A mobile clinic will start making visits to the first five patients next week. The program will be conducted through EMS.

an opportunity for constituents to learn about what was accomplished in the 84th Legislature, ask questions about specific legislation, and weigh in on our district's priorities for the future. Feedback from the district is essential to being a representative, and I look forward to the conversation," Rep. Burrows said.

The meetings are open to the general public, and Rep. Burrows encourages anyone with any questions or concerns to attend.

he needs to add a shop or carport to his place, but rising taxes make him leery to add anything of value to his property.

He said that there have been times he's had to find cuts and make them in his own budget. He advised court members to do the same and not to raise taxes so high it discourages building.

Business owner John Beckmeyer began what he had to say by telling commissioners he appreciates the difficult job they have to do. He cited the present as a bad time for a tax increase.

Beckmeyer said he questions the wisdom of such a big increase when the price of oil is falling, as is the stock market.

"We all have to make cuts. I've had to lay people off," he said. In the end, he asked commissioners to consider a more reasonable increase.

Colorado City citizen Terri Robben made a suggestion to the court. She advised county employees to take an inventory of all the unused equipment and sell it. The proceeds raised could be used to fund part of the budget, she said.

Robben also suggested commissioners look at making cutbacks. "It hits the county people hard," she said. Before ending her comments, Robben suggested that commissioners meet at a time when more working people could attend.

"There are a lot of people working at 9 a.m. If you met at 6 p.m., I bet you would hear from a lot more people," she said.

Matt Helm's dad, Austin Helm, had a final thought. "You have been given positions of trust and deep responsibility. You are leaving a legacy. What kind of legacy will you leave? One of mature decision making or one of unrestrained spending?"

County Auditor Heidi Harris took a turn to speak to clarify two things. If the proposed tax rate is adopted, the budget will be balanced. She also told the crowd that the county has cut $1.8 million in expenses out of the budget over the last two years.

After hearing from citizens about cutting the budget, County Clerk Debby Carlock had a hard time convincing the court to raise pay for election workers. The request died due to a lack of motion.

Commissioner Jeremy Strain said he was for keeping election worker pay the same, which is $8.50 per hour. He said he feels like most people don't do it for the pay but as a service to the community.

The rent the county pays churches to serve as election sites was increased to $75 per day, up from $50 per day. The increase is the first since 2006 and will help offset electricity costs for the churches.

Also returning for the Bulldogs are running back and line-backer Michael Garcia, quarterback and defensive back Dakota Smith and center and nose guard Abram Hernandez. Benivamondez was the leading tackler last year (154) and receiving (42-591) with touchdowns.

Last season Trinity beat the Bulldogs 45-20.

lack of depth and experience. That lack of depth from the sophomore and junior class may haunt the Wolves.

Injuries already have two senior starters on the sideline. Quarterback Trinnon Jackson and center Justin Trawick both have been sidelined for Friday's season opener and when they will be available is questionable.

Albany squeaked out a 20-18 win last year.

Head coach Dan Gainey is beginning his third season at the helm and remaining optimistic about this year's team.

"Developing our younger players will be a priority," Gainey said. "Most of our underclassmen have never played on Friday night."

To the taxpayers of Mitchell County

It has come to my attention that the Notice I gave to be published for Mitchell County had a typographical error -- effective rate on the Notice did not include the effective rate for the Road and Bridge. With the Road and Bridge tax included, the effective rate should have been printed as 0.607714, instead of 0.524057. This means that the proposed rate of 0.652332 is only an increase of 7% from the effective rate. All other information on the notice has since been reviewed by counsel and is correct.

Event planned by CrimeWatch group

The Colorado City Crime-Watch group met last week to begin discussing plans to hold a Colorado City Night Out event to get the community more involved. The community-wide event is set to be held Saturday, October 3rd.

Each block captain will be responsible for encouraging their neighbors and friends to participate in the event. It will be a fun gathering with family entertainment, and everyone is welcome to attend.

During the meeting, it was tentatively decided to hold the Colorado City Night Out in the lot south of the Railroad Building downtown. Organizers are planning a block party-type atmosphere, complete with activities for the kids.

Law enforcement officials, as well as community leaders, will be in attendance. The event is an opportunity to show that citizens and law enforcement are working together to lower crime in Mitchell County.

Mayor Jim Baum has said he will proclaim the day. Though it is a Colorado City event, leaders of the crime watch group have said that they are hoping to make a difference in helping to reduce crime in all of the county.

Members of the crime watch group will be going around to solicit donations from businesses to help fund the celebration, and anyone wanting to take part in the event are welcome.

For more information, watch the Record for details on when Colorado City CrimeWatch will meet again.

CCVFD receives grants

In most cases, patience pays off. That's certainly true for the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department, as grants that were applied for three years ago have finally come through.

CCVFD Chief Rick Goodney said that he applied for two grants back in 2012 and received notification that the department has been offered the funds. Applications were made to the Texas Forest Service as the department was hoping to receive enough money to buy a poly tank for their tanker truck and cribbing.

Goodney received word a couple of weeks ago that CCVFD had been offered $12,170 to purchase the poly tank and $7,770 for cribbing. He said that the poly tank has a few advantages over the metal tanks now on the trucks, with the lack of rusting being an important difference.

Cribbing is used to stabilize vehicles when the department needs to perform extractions at wrecks. Goodney said that the 75-25 grants will also allow for the purchase of new hose and a few extras.

The department will make the purchases, and 75% of the money will be reimbursed from the state. CCVFD will be responsible for matching 25% of the total funds received. Goodney said that the money will come from fundraisers like the World Championship Boer Goat Cookoff and donations from individuals.

"The donations really help us a lot," the fire chief said Monday. "They've helped provide training and equipment to the fire department though the years."

For now, Goodney is in the process of shopping prices in order to get the best value for the money.

Seven file for 4 spots on board

The deadline is up to file an application to run as a candidate for the Mitchell County Hospital District Board of Directors, and seven people have filed to run for the four at-large places up for election in November.

As of deadline time Monday, board members Jerry Reynolds, Patty Pharis, Florence Bodine and Cheryl Warren had filed to run for election again, as had challengers Melinda Alexander, Brodie Harris and John Beckmeyer.

The MCHD Board of Directors held a regular meeting Tuesday night and called the election which will be held November 3rd. Names were also drawn for spots on the ballot.

State Park offers dove hunting two weekends

Lake Colorado City State Park is offering something new for the hunters out there that don't own land and have a hard time finding a place to go dove hunting. The state park will offer an area which will be open to dove hunting on two weekends during September.

Dates for the legal game hunt are September 4th through 6th and September 11th through 13th. Only shotguns may be used or possessed during the hunts.

The hunting area can accommodate only a limited number of hunting parties, and positions will be available on a first-come, first-serve basis each hunt day.

Access to the hunting area from the parking area is by foot only, and locations will be assigned at the time of registration.

Gates to the park will open at 7 a.m. each day, and permit holders may access hunting areas only. All hunters will need to get an Annual Public Hunting Permit, along with a valid Texas hunting license, which is available at Gas 'n' Grub in Colorado City or any Texas Parks and Wildlife Department offices.

Superintendent Kyle O'Haver and the rest of the staff at the local state park are working hard to bring new opportunities to the park, and they are asking for the public's help to make this a successful first season.

If you like to hunt and would like to pass on the passion to the youngsters in your life, make plans to come out to the state park on the first two weekends in September to go dove hunting.

You Can't Control the World, but You Can Control Your Decisions

Sometimes the market reacts poorly to world events, but just because the market reacts doesn't mean you should. Still, if current events are making you feel uncertain about your finances, you should schedule a personal financial review. That way, you can make sure you're in control of where you want to go and how you get there.

CCPD reminds drivers to watch to children

The Colorado City Police Department would like to give a friendly reminder to all drivers that school is back in session, and that means traffic enforcement efforts will increase in the school zones.

Police will be focusing on speeding and seatbelt violations, as well as the use of cell phones inside school zones. Drivers should be aware of pedestrian traffic and obey all school traffic control devices.

Parents and guardians allowing their children to walk to school should ensure the child is of a responsible age to walk to school. Children should try to walk with a group or a trusted adult. Take the time to teach your little ones about looking both ways before crossing an intersection and to avoid talking to strangers.

"Let's work towards providing a safe environment for our children in and around our schools," CCPD Chief Luis Aguilar said.

NO. 1:15-CV-00083-P

City of Colorado City

RESPONSE BY PLAINTIFF TO DEFENDANT'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR EMERGENCY HEARING

1. This complaint and the motion for an emergency hearing are 100% truthful and factual.
2. The ongoing criminal episode against me has escalated substantially since I filed this lawsuit.
3. I am asking the honorable judge to focus on the facts and not on the defendant's attorneys attempts to deflect attention from the facts through hypothetical insinuations and slanted speculation.
4. I am being assaulted at a greater level now and this incapacitates me on every level.
5. This is a direct result of the defendants and denying me equal protection of the law and committing crime against me.
6. The defendants deny me equal protection and commit crime against me because they are equally guilty of the violent crime being committed against me.
7. The defendants week to keep this case out of court or any other legal forum because they are guilty and don't want to be held accountable.
8. Life and limb are in jeopardy and not only mine. The violent criminals assaulting me also endanger everybody's life on the highway as I am a truck driver and they are literally trying to cause me to have an accident by drugging and/or poisoning me to the point of major impairment.
9. The defendants are in fact doing the very opposite of what they are entrusted and paid by the citizenry to do, which is to serve and protect us.
10. I, Craig White, am praying that the honorable judge will not only grant this request for an emergency hearing, but also that it is soon.

Wolves' scrimmage with Snyder showed some highlights

When the final seconds ran off the clock following the completion of a live quarter during the Colorado Wolves' controlled scrimmage with the Snyder Tigers on Thursday evening at Wolf Stadium, head coach Dan Gainey admitted to seeing some positive and not so positive signs with his football team.

Overall, however, Gainey said the good far outweighed the bad. "I think it was good for us," said Gainey. "I thought defensively we held our own. Later in the scrimmage we kind of wore down, but we kind of expected that. That is always a concern when you play a larger school with more numbers. Overall,

I'm pleased with the way the kids responded to the challenge of facing a 4A program, especially the second time we got the ball."

"There were some highlights, for sure," he added.

The Wolves' defense more than flexed its muscle early in the scrimmage. During Snyder's first possession of the event, Colorado City limited the Tigers to just 70 total yards on 17 plays from scrimmage. The bulk of that came on a 32-yard pass play on the next-to-last play in the series.

As a team, the CHS defense held Snyder's first-team offense to 26 yards rushing in the series.

The Wolves struggled through a rough start in their first series. After a pair of fumbled snaps from center and an incomplete pass, De'Ante Adkison gave Colorado City fans something to cheer about. Facing a 1st-and-10 from Wolves' 25, he reeled off a 23-yard gain. Later in the series, Trinnon Jackson hit Mark Munoz with a 37-yard pass that moved Colorado City within striking distance at the Snyder 12. Two plays later, Munoz and Jackson almost connected again in the end zone. The reception, however, was ruled out of bounds by officials.

Snyder drew first blood in the matchup on its next series. The Tigers began their second possession with nine straight running plays and marched to the Colorado City 1 before capping the series with a 1-yard plunge.

C-City responded well to the Tigers' challenge in their second series. Led by quarterback Tommy James, the Wolves flexed their offensive muscle quickly. On the first three plays, James reeled off runs of 10, seven and 14 yards and gave C-City a first down at the Snyder 44.

Offensively, Colorado City rolled up 93 yards on their second series of plays and marched inside SHS territory twice.

Adkison also enjoyed a strong showing in the Wolves' first two possessions, as did Munoz, who hauled in a pair of passes for 73 yards. Dylan Meguire also had two receptions.

The Tigers' depth began taking control of the scrimmage in the live quarter. In the 12-minute "live quarter," Snyder used a solid rushing attack to control the ball more than 8 minutes, including the first 3:17 of the frame in which they marched 86 yards in nine plays to grab a 7-0 lead.

Colorado City answered the Tigers' offensive fireworks with some of their own on their ensuing possession. After Adkison had opened the Wolves' drive with a 15-yard scamper, Jackson burned the SHS defense by scrambling for 61 yards to the Tiger 4. Unfortunately for CHS, the Wolves stalled from there.

Snyder tacked on a second touchdown on their next series.

The Wolves' defense picked up stellar play from several players in the contest, including Andrew Burrola and Isaiah Jennings, who picked off a SHS pass late in the live scrimmage.

C-City will begin the 2015 season this week with a game against Albany.

CALLING THE SHOTS -- Wolves JV Coach B.J. Graham calls a play during last week's scrimmage with Snyder. The JV Wolves played well and travel to Albany Thursday to open the 2015 season.

Flag football signups held through August

It's time for Flag Football again, and signups are set to be held throughout the month of August. Organizers say the number of children signing up will determine whether or not a league can be formed.

Children ages 3 through 6th grade are eligible, and cost will be $50 for the first player, with additional siblings being $40 each. In order for three year olds to be eligible, a birth certificate should be presented when signing up.

A sign-up has been scheduled for Bigg's Pizza on Wednesday, August 26th from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the party room. Wolf Stadium will be the site for signups on Friday, August 28th at 7 p.m., and again on Monday, August 31st during Pigskin Preview. Last chance to sign up will be September 2nd at Bigg's Pizza from 6 to 7:30 in the party room.

A coaches meeting has been scheduled for Monday, September 14th at 6:30 p.m. at Bigg's Pizza downtown.

So, if you have a child who's interested in football, come out and sign them up so they can start learning the basics of the sport. For more information, contact Marisol at 325-574-4863 or Tony at 325-436-9388.

Pigskin Preview to be held August 31

Pigskin Preview, the annual introduction of Wolves athletes to the fans, will be held Monday, August 31st at Wolf Stadium.

The event will start at 7:30 p.m. and include introductions of 7th, 8th, JV and varsity football players, along with volleyballers, cheerleaders, twirlers and color guard. Those attending can expect to be treated to performances by the CHS and mini cheerleaders, twirlers and color guard members.

Representatives from the Wolves Booster Club will also be at the event to enroll fans in the Adopt-a-Wolf program. Cost to adopt a varsity football player, volleyball player or cheerleader is $15.

The booster club is always looking for new members. The club supports all Wolf athletic teams and all money raised is spent helping CHS students. For information on or to join the Wolf Booster Club, call Kaci Griffith at 325-242-0993.

For more information, call CHS at 728-3424.

WOLVES -- The Mitchell County Soccer Association team Wolves had nine members on their team. They are Keziye Strain, Brenlye Strain, Evyn Alvarez, Merrick Alvarez, Kyla Lacefield, Bryce Alvarez, Brandon Barkley, Adrienne Murphy and Ryland Ginkinger.

Wildfire season is here, so beware!

Wildfire season is here and there's fuel to burn.

That's the assessment of Dr. Morgan Russell, Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service range specialist at San Angelo. She said during the week of Aug. 9, the Texas A&M Forest Service responded to 68 fires on 22,519 acres. Large fires were reported in Kimble, Edwards, Tom Green and Crockett counties.

"Extremely hot temperatures, low humidity, large amounts of dry grass and increasingly windy conditions are the perfect recipe for cooking up a very busy fire year," Russell said.

Russell said the National Preparedness Level that monitors fuel and weather conditions, fire activity and resource availability for the Texas Interagency Coordination Center at Lufkin was increased to Level 5, the highest level, on Aug. 13.

"Given the continuing hot and dry weather and the major increase in fire activity, the decision to move to Preparedness Level 5 shows the complexity fire managers are facing to assure adequate firefighting resources are available to protect life, property and our state's natural resources," she said.

Russell offered the following "watch-out" potential wildfire situations to keep in mind over the coming months if dry weather lingers:

— Watch for fires starting in bar ditches along roadways, often caused by cigarettes or idling vehicles. Report the fire immediately to local authorities and clearly state the location.

— Watch for dragging trailer safety chains that can easily spark roadside fires.

— Watch for sparks coming from tire rims running on flat tires.

— Keep all firefighting resources such as slip-in pickup pumper units and sprayers filled and ready.

— Be aware of active county burn bans in your area.

— Be careful when welding and when using a chainsaw.

"Hunting season is about to start and with it will come an onslaught of off-road vehicles," Russell said. "When driving anything — pickups, utility task vehicles or UTVs and ATVs through pastures, be aware that idling the vehicle in tall, cured grass can quickly spell disaster. Also, know that grass seed heads impacting the exhaust manifold can start fires.

"If conditions remain as they are, there will probably be some fires set by Mother Nature, but as a rule, most fires start from human carelessness," she said. "Or, simply not realizing that some common practices, given the right conditions, can actually spark a fire.

"If we all remain vigilant and observant, hopefully we can stay safe until this wet El Nino weather system that's been talked about so much arrives this fall."

For more information, contact Russell at 325-657-7317, morgan.russell@ag.tamu.edu.

Basic kayaking class set Aug. 29

Temperatures are hotter than ever, and there's plenty of summer left to get out on some water. The staff at the Lake Colorado City State Park has just the class to help get you ready.

On Saturday, August 29th, Park Superintendent Kyle O'Haver will teach a basic kayaking class at the state park. Those attending will learn basic skills necessary for successful kayaking and canoeing, with all the fun starting at 9 a.m.

O'Haver expects to complete the course at about 11 a.m., leaving plenty of time for other activities. Anyone planning to attend should call the park at 728-3931 to sign up, as spots are limited.

Personal flotation devices, or lifejackets, will be available for use, but everyone is encouraged to bring their own if they have one. The same goes for the canoes and kayaks. Those attending can borrow one from the park, but everyone is welcome to bring their own.

There is no program fee for this class. Only entrance fees to the park are required. Daily entrance fees are $4 per adult, and children 12 and under get in free. Also, there is no charge for anyone with a valid Texas State Park Pass.

For additional information or to sign up, call 325-728-3931.

LOCAL NEWS

CAUSED BY LIGHTNING – A small storm cloud with an electrical light show popped up Monday evening. The lightning started a grassfire just north of I-20 between Enderly Road and FM 1229. Westbrook and Colorado City fire departments were able to extinguish the blaze before it was a real threat to any homes or other structures.

CCPD seeking information concerning local burglary

A business was broken into on August 1st, and the Colorado City Police Department is seeking information about the crime.

On Saturday, August 1st, at approximately 5 a.m., a report of a Burglary of a Building was made to local police. The crime occurred at B&B Liquor Store, located at 548 N. I-20 in Colorado City.

As police investigated, it became clear that entry into the building was forced and there was damage to the installed security system. In addition, approximately $2,400 was stolen from the store.

The owner of B&B Liquor Store is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the subject or subjects responsible for the burglary.

Anyone with information about the crime is encouraged to call the Colorado City Police Department at 325-728-5294 and speak with Detective Kelsey Rivera. All callers may remain anonymous.

BELIEVE IN YOURSELF – Former Harlem Globetrotter Melvin Adams came to Colorado High School to talk to CISD staff last Friday. Adams told his story of how two teachers made him believe he could accomplish great things, so he did. He is seen here showing Ester Quintero how to spin a basketball on her finger.
