VEGETABLE FOOD

Those who are fond of vegetables are fortunate, since these products are wholesome, palatable and nutritious. They give bulk to the foods and stimulate the digestive organs to perform their normal functions in the assimilation of nutritive elements.

Vegetables, like other articles of food, may be divided into classes according to the element of nutrition. Some contain considerable protein and are known as muscle and tissue building foods. To this class belong peas, beans and the various cereals. Potatoes, both sweet and Irish, are rich in carbohydrates such as starch and sugar and furnish heat for the body.

Potatoes are often used as a substitute for bread.

Olives and nuts are similar to butter; they contain considerable fat which furnishes heat and energy to the body.

Many vegetables contain considerable water and are known as succulent foods. Cabbage, carrots, turnips and squashes are examples. Green vegetables such as lettuce, onions, mustard, radishes, etc., do not as a rule contain much nourishment but they give flavor and variety to foods. They are especially beneficial in the spring when the system requires these foods.

Much depends upon the care and attention in preparing vegetables for the table. Those containing a large amount of starch must be thoroughly cooked. The starch grains must be broken up so the juices of the stomach may dissolve them. It requires considerable heat to render them palatable, but if cooked too long, flavor is lost.

For soups, vegetables are very desirable. They give flavor to soups and they should be more commonly used for this purpose. —Farm and Ranch.

HEDLEY DRUG COMPANY

Farmers Independent

The farmer who owns a farm is the particular person who is fixed. Banks may fail and factories close, workmen strike and mines suspend, merchants fail and towns burn, times may be panicky and crops may be short—but the farmer who owns his acres will get along. He will live in comfort and quiet, with plenty to eat, drink and wear. He is the most independent man on earth. Yet, there are lots of them who do not appreciate their situation.—The Oklahoma State Journal.

A moving picture and vaudeville show was in town Thursday and showed to a small crowd.

I am a registered pharmacist of 20 years' experience; am now one of Hedley's citizens and expect to work in harmony with the people for a greater town and for the development of the surrounding country.

EXPERIENCE WITH "POULTRY" AGENT

You should hear Jack McCants tell the story of a portrait enlarging agent trying to do business with him last fall. To hear Jack tell it adds much to the funniness of the story. We will give it as near as we can remember Jack telling it.

"Last fall I had returned home about dinner time from the gin and wanted to unload the cotton seed. The day was hot and dry; the door to the seed bin was high and hard to reach; the perspiration was streaming from every pore. A man climbs up on the wagon and introduces himself, telling his business at the same time which I understood to be a poultry enlarger.

"My chickens were running about over the yard looking fat and healthy so I said, Don't bother me, my poultry suits me alright. "Yes, but you don't understand" he said. I said, Go away and don't fool with me, mine are large enough and don't need any fixing.

"The agent saw there was no use in talking further and went on to one of the neighbors and told him that that fellow McCants is either crazy or else didn't understand me."

"I found out after he left that he was a portrait enlarging agent instead of a poultry enlarging agent."

MEMPHIS MAN HURT

Tuesday morning while helping to unload a crated buggy at the depot, J. W. Bragg was painfully hurt by the buggy falling upon him and severely mashing and bruising him. He was carried to the Rimes hotel where medical attention was summoned. After an hour or so he was transferred to his home where he is now resting as well as could be expected. We trust he will be out on the streets again in the next few days.—Memphis Democrat.

Giles Calliham left this week for Kansas City where he has a position with a mail order house.

Quit Business Sale ..

BEGINNING FRIDAY APRIL 28 Our stock in Memphis will be closed out absolutely in the next thirty days. To do this at this season of the year we realize that cost must be lost sight of, and that we must make prices on goods that are ridiculously low. We are positively going to close out this stock and quit business in Memphis within the next twenty or thirty days, and during this "QUIT BUSINESS SALE" you will get some of the greatest bargains you ever had. Every article has been cut to the bottom. You are beginning just now to most need spring and summer goods, and it will certainly save you good money and pay you to come many miles to this sale. One dollar will do the work of two in this sale. Don't think because we had a closing out sale on winter goods that we have nothing left but odds and ends, for we have bought new spring goods in all lines and constitutes at least 80 per cent of our stock of merchandise. All of it will be sacrificed.

A WIFE'S LOVE LETTER

SWEETEST STORY EVER TOLD

By MRS. MARY HUNT M'CALEB

This letter was written many years ago by Mrs. McCaleb now of Fort Worth. It was written to her husband. A few months ago the New Orleans Picayune offered a prize for the best love letter. This one was entered and won.

My husband, my idol, my far away king—
The dearest, best half of my self, I would bring
Sweet thoughts of our love, fragrant holy and bright
To thrill through your heart on this wild winter night.
The thunder is rolling athwart the black sky,
No star gleam is seen in the darkness on high;
The rain pours in torrents, the wind mourns around
The eaves of the house with a desolate sound.
The heart in my bosom is freighted with tears
While thinking, my love, of the earlier years.

I sit all alone in the glow of the fire,
The breath of the past lightly touches my lyre;
And over it softly a memory flings
That thrills into music the long silent strings.
I listen, and fancy again I can see,
The deep shaded woods and the old beechen tree,
With its emerald arms stretching up to the sky,
Spreading out o'er the brook that goes murmuring by;
As though it were singing the pebbles to rest
That are lying so white in its crystalline breast.

I love the old tree, and the wood, and the stream,
So hallowed and sacred to love's early dream.
Upon the smooth bark, a sweet record you traced
That Time's busy fingers have never effaced.
Your name and my own, with the date and the year—
Each letter remains there distinctly and clear—
Friends smiled at the plighting of children, but we
Have kept the vows made by the old beechen tree.
Years later, I stood there again at your side
And watched you engraving the name of your bride.
You said with a smile, as you gave me a kiss,
"The old name is not half so pretty as this."

Looking back through the evergreen vista of years,
How vividly each recollection appears
Tinted over with happiness, softly they glow,
Pure pearls in the heart of the long, long ago.
Our childhood—how closely beside me it stands—
How firmly the past and the present clasp hands.
As memory's pencil is sketching the scene,
Thought bridges the years that are lying between.
But over the picture a shadow is thrown
That mars its wild beauty— I sit here alone.
As one stricken suddenly blind craves the light,
My very soul longs for your presence to night.
To lay my head down on your breast as of old,
And feel close around me your loving arms fold,
Just now I would give many years of my life
To hear your voice whisper, "My darling, my wife."

The little ones kneeling tonight at my knee,
Asked God up in heaven that papa might be
Kept safe from all harm in his far away home,
And that soon—very soon—he would bid us to come.
My forehead was bowed on our boys shining hair;
When I lifted my brow there were tears lying there;
They come to my lashes whenever I pray
For you my dear husband, so far, far away.
Those sweet, childish lips, kissed good-night to mamma,
Repeating the loving caress for papa.
In calm, quiet slumber, warm, rosy and bright,
Two little heads lie on our pillow tonight.
The boy's coral lips parted over white pearls,
His breath stirring softly his sister's bright curls
That cluster in tiny, moist rings on her brow—
Her white dimpled hands are tossed on them now.
And clasped are the fingers, so waxen and fair,
Like lily leaves pressed in the gold of her hair.

A fair, lovely picture, in colors divine,
Whose framework, my darling, is your heart and mine.
Thank God! for these bright, rosy children of ours,
They breathe over life the soft fragrance of flowers.
Embalming the pathway that leads up to God—
The sweet, holy ground, the Redeemer has trod.
My dearest, the hour of midnight has passed;
The plaint of the wind has grown quiet at last—
Good night! My sweetheart, my lover, my life!
My one dream of heaven is being your wife.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

We believe that the world is a good place and is growing better. This world began with a garden and it is going to end with a garden. It's a pleasant place to live in and if we had been consulted as to which of the stars we would choose as a habitation, we could not have done better than to select this. We have always been glad we got aboard this planet. It just suits us. To our mind the very best color in the universe for water is blue; the very best shade for grass is green. The mountains are just high enough for 'us, the valleys just low enough, the rivers just swift enough. The human face is most wonderfully adapted for its use with sunshine in its smile and tempest in its frown; with two eyes one more than is necessary, so that if one is put out we may still see the beautiful things God has placed before us; with one nose, most admirably arranged to take in the sweet perfume of the earth.

Art, even at its best, may be justly criticised, but where is the blasphemer who would dare criticise the arch of the sky, or the crest of a wave, or the flock of fleecy clouds that the shepherd wind is driving over the pastures of the sky. There is only one discord in a thousand harmonies. There is a whole sky full of robins to one floating night owl, and to every destructive torrent there are hundreds of placid streams with water lilies anchored at their banks and stars laying bright reflections to sleep in their bosoms.—Childress Post.

Ice Caves.

Now that a new ice cave, which is said to be the largest in the world, has been discovered in the Austrian Alps, it is appropriate to remark that any traveler who is anxious to see an ice cave without going so far can visit one, without difficulty, from either Thun or Interlaken. It is situated half way down the precipice which falls from the Stiglmayr into the Jureletal. The approach to it involves no very difficult scrambling; but it is unwise to enter unless guided by some one who has been there before. The ice is slippery, as ice is apt to be, and there are ample opportunities of sliding down a slope to destruction.

Hedley Wants You

HEDLEY, TEXAS, is located on the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad, in Donley county, 264 miles northwest of Fort Worth and 72 miles southeast of Amarillo, Texas. Hedley is only three years old and already has a population of nearly five hundred and is growing all the time. Hedley is nicely located as to drainage, being almost a level country, but with just enough fall to drain well. The sanitary question is one of our first considerations.

THE COUNTRY surrounding Hedley is without question one of the most productive farming sections in the State. There has never been anything near a failure in crops here; last year when other parts of the country had almost total crop failures, this section had fine cotton and feed crops. This not being a feed farming country alone makes it more sure of producing some money crop each year.

HEDLEY is composed of live, energetic and enterprising people who are wide-awake to any thing that will help the town. We have a two-story brick school building of which a town of three thousand inhabitants might be proud; constructed last summer at a cost of $8,000; has its own system of water-works and being entirely sanitary. The Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches are all well represented here. The town is strictly prohibition, having no saloons and wanting none. The following fraternal orders have good representation here: A. F. & A. M., I. O. O. F., W. O. W., M. W. A., and R. N. A.

HEDLEY has some splendid brick buildings and more being planned. The following business enterprises are here and having good patronage. A State bank, another bank being organized, 3 dry goods stores, 4 groceries,

2 drug stores, 2 hardware and implement stores, 1 saddle and harness store, 1 newspaper—a live wire, 1 barber shop, 2 good lumber yards, 2 well equipped blacksmith shops, 1 vehicle dealer, 1 cabinet shop, 1 splendid telephone exchange with several rural lines, 1 postoffice, five daily mails, 1 R. F. D. mail line, 1 livery barn, 1 wagon yard, 8 dray lines, 1 cold storage, 1 hotel and another under construction, 1 restaurant, 2 millinery establishments, 1 broom factory, a public waterworks, 2 or more real estate offices, 1 fire insurance office, 1 furniture store, 1 undertaking establishment, 2 lodge halls, 2 good physicians, 1 good gin, a pavilion capable of seating 500 people, and a nice park being improved, a depot large enough for a much larger town—the shipping facilities are the very best, having several thousand feet of side-track on level ground.

DURING the year of 1910 we shipped from Hedley 1403 bales of cotton, 175 cars of feed stuff, and about 30 cars of hogs and cattle.

HEDLEY has a Commercial Club that does something. If you mean business write to the Secretary. Perhaps you think Hedley has enough business enterprises, but when you consider that the town has a trade territory of over 336 square miles of thickly settled country you will see that there is room for more enterprises, some kinds that we have and some that we have not. If you are a hustler in your line and want to locate in a live town of live people, come to Hedley. If you are not a live wire and expect to let others do the pulling, you are not wanted.
