JAPS BOMB EMBASSIES OF THREE POWERS

By United Press
SHUNKING, China, Aug. 4.—Japanese bombing planes damaged the German embassy and the French and British consulates and wrecked the home of newspaper correspondent early today in a moonlight raid on the temporary Chinese capital.

It was the third raid this week in the light of the moon.

A 200-pound demolition bomb struck 20 feet from the home of F. Tillman Durdin, correspondent for the New York Times, knocked one side of the house off and partially removed the roof.

Durdin, former Pecos, Texas, resident and ex-student of Texas Christian University, his wife, and guests at their home were uninjured.

By United Press
TIENSIN, China, Aug. 4.—A mob of Chinese stormed the British-owned International Export company today, smashed windows and furniture and hurled office equipment into the High river.

British employes escaped uninjured. They took refuge in the nearby property of the Texas Oil company.

Fugitive Desperado Caught After Leap From Moving Train

By United Press
SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Aug. 4.—James O'Connell, fugitive desperado, who escaped from a moving train last night by flinging himself headlong through a window, was captured today by Santa Barbara police.

O'Connell, 33-year-old robber and burglar, was being returned to Texas to Oakland to face a series of holdups and kidnappings when he pulled a hat over his head and hurled himself through the window.

The train was traveling up-grade at 20 miles an hour. O'Connell landed on his face on the pavement of a road along the tracks, rolled over a few times, jumped up and disappeared into the brush.

Livestock Show To Be Held In Old Pickering Grounds

Members of a committee planning livestock events at the annual Eastland County Fair Sept. 29-30 have decided to use stalls at the old Pickering Lumber Company, as last year, instead of housing the show in a tent, it was announced today following a meeting.

It was also decided at the meeting, at which T. E. Richardson, committee chairman presided, that dairy cattle judging will be at 2 o'clock Friday, Sept. 29.

The all-around stock show will be held Saturday, Sept. 30.

It's Fun, but Nova Will Stick to Ring

Lou Nova goes aquaplane riding at 40 miles an hour in open channel off Hermosa Beach, Calif., with Marian Cook, center, and Jeanne Gilbert, but the heavyweight champion challenger will in the future stick to something easy... like fighting Tony Galento or even Joe Louis.

Looking Up!

Eastland School Board Strives To Settle Bonded Indebtedness

Efforts for the elimination of the Eastland school district's bonded indebtedness are progressing, it was disclosed Friday by K. B. Tanner, president of the school board.

Tanner said that it is the opinion of the board that majority of the bondholders would settle for 25 or 30 cents on the dollar.

The bonded indebtedness, dating back to 1919, amounts to $431,000. Majority of the proceeds of the bonds were used for building costs.

Recently a group of bondholders, representing approximately $150,000 of the bonded debt, informally told the school board that they would settle for 25 or 30 cents on the dollar.

The board is to make application either to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the State Department of Education for a loan of approximately $110,000 or $120,000 with which to buy the bonds.

The plan if carried through would have to have consent of two thirds of the bondholders. The board this year was able to pay the interest of $9,000 on the bonded indebtedness.

Should majority of the bondholders not agree to the plan it is possible for the school district to take bankruptcy, therefore forcing them into the plan.

The school board, however, is not desirous of taking bankruptcy and wishes to make amicable agreement with the bondholders.

Bondholders seem to understand, it was said, that the school district might default on its obligation if the settlement is not agreed upon.

Should the district default then the bonds held by the bondholders would not be considered assets. Majority of the bondholders are banks and insurance companies.

The RFC would charge 4 percent interest for the loan and the State Department of Education would charge 3 1/2 percent interest. The loan would be paid in full in about 20 years.

The school district would have to agree to pay 50 cents of every dollar taken in and apply it in liquidating the loan.

While the matter is still pending, board members are optimistic on ultimate settlement of the matter.

"Iron Man" Get A Bashed-In Face Catching A Ball

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—"Iron Man" Joe Sprinz, catcher for the San Francisco Seals baseball club, was in the hospital today, his face held together with surgical wire, because he tried to catch a baseball falling at a speed of 145 miles an hour.

Sprinz was seeking to establish one of those mythical records by catching a baseball dropped 800 feet from a blimp.

He got under the ball all right, but it crashed through his up-raised hands and struck him full in the face, with an impact estimated at 8,050 foot-pounds. Doctors said he would be in the hospital for two weeks while his face was restored.

Dam Workers Are Back On Job As Guards Stand By

By United Press
GREEN MOUNTAIN D.A.M., Colo., Aug. 4.—Long lines of grimy workmen moved through the main gates of this re-opened $4,000,000 federal-state project today, under the guns of national guardsmen, who had put down a striker "insurrection," evacuated strikers and anti-strike vigilantes in a 100-square mile area, and established military rule.

Not all of them were put back to work immediately, nor was it certain that full operations would be resumed at once.

William Reilly of the state industrial commission, announced in Denver that a hearing to negotiate a settlement of the strike situation would be held at Denver Monday.

Helmeted guardsmen, their rifles bayoneted, policed the lines and patrolled the entire area from temporary bases scattered 50 miles up and down the Blue River Valley, a deep gorge which one day will be an artificial lake and part of the $44,000,000 Big Thompson Irrigation and Hydro-electric project.

Eastland Woman Observes Her 96th Birthday This Week

Mrs. Paulina Hunt of Eastland, who this week observed her 96th birthday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Julia Mayes, is one of the county's oldest residents.

Although nearing 100, Mrs. Hunt still has 12 of her teeth. A day before her birthday four teeth were extracted.

Mrs. Hunt had been more or less active until 20 months ago, since which time she has been bedfast.

She has lived in Eastland since 1898, when with her husband and family Mrs. Hunt moved from Fannin county, the pioneer was born in Indiana and moved to Texas, settling at Fannin county in 1854. Her husband, the late Rev. E. M. Hunt, who died in 1923 at the age of 84, devoted 51 years to the Baptist ministry.

During the Civil war Mrs. Hunt moved from Texas to Missouri. Her husband as a private in the Union forces. After the war they moved back to Texas.

The pioneer woman's hearing is fairly good, say relatives. Her general health, however, is fast declining, they add.

Descendants range to great-grandchildren. She has five of seven children living. The children living are Will Hunt of Breckenridge, George Hunt of San Antonio, S. C. Hunt of Eastland, John Hunt of Sherman and Mrs. Mayes of Eastland.

There are 22 grandchildren.

Eastland Man Is Signed To Play In 'Dream Game'

Darrell Tully of Eastland, a standout performer of the East Texas State Teachers College Lions of Commerce, Lone Star Conference champions, has been added to the list of signed players on the roster of the College All-Stars who'll oppose the professional Green Bay Packers at Dallas Labor Day night in the fourth annual football dream game in the Cotton Bowl.

Tully was a Little All-American selected last autumn and won honorable mention on Grantland Rice's All American squad.

He is a triple-threat who many coaches described as the equal to any star in the South-west Conference. A big 200-pounder, Tully compiled an enviable record as a ball carrier, did some splendid kicking and was a good passer.

Later this year, Tully will play professional with the Detroit Lions.

Roosevelt Does Not Plan Talking On Lending Bill

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt said today that he did not plan to carry the issue of house rejection of his $3,860,000,000 lending plan to the country on his western tour this fall.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that the house action and the roll call votes on the plan spoke for themselves.

He refused to be drawn into discussion of the house action,

WOMAN LEAPS WITH CHILDREN FROM WINDOW

By United Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—A coroner's jury found, today, that a refugee mother from Czechoslovakia, who leaped to death from a hotel window with her two small sons, was a victim of temporary insanity due to "persecution."

The verdict was returned as the father and husband, Karel Langer, a prosperous textile manufacturer until Adolf Hitler's German legions overran his homeland, repeatedly had broken down as he tried to supply the motive for his wife's act.

Mrs. Adela Langer, 43, made the leap late last night with Karel Tommy, 6, and Jan Mischa, 4.

They were Jews, Langer said, and when the German troops swept over their homeland they sold their mill to the employees and sought "a better life here."

With only a remnant of their fortune—it had dwindled to less than $8,000—they were admitted to the United States on six months' visitors permits.

Ironically, Langer had received encouragement from his attorney that they would be able to go to Canada, and steps had been taken to assure them a sanctuary of at least one year in Bolivia. Mrs. Langer did not know that.

After the coroner's hearing, Langer went away with his lawyer, who sought to console him and persuade him from the threat he had uttered early today in his first shock realization of the tragedy. Drawing two fingers across his throat, Langer exclaimed: "Tomorrow—me—this!"

Ad Valorem Tax Rate Is Set At The Legal Limit

By United Press
AUSTIN, Aug. 4.—The maximum state ad valorem tax rate of 77 cents on each $100 valuation was levied today by the State Automatic Tax Board.

It was the first raise in state taxes in five years.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, in whose office the board met, barred reporters from the meeting. The tax is divided into 35 cents for state general revenue, 35 cents for schools, and seven cents for Confederate pensions.

It was ascertained that the needs of the state's general revenue funds were placed at $50,375,813 and that $16,210,305 is expected to be received from other sources for the fiscal year.

Case of Mistaken Identity

They say everyone has a look-alike and in case of Philip Caruso, right, that saying sadly proved correct. For when Morris Gottlieb, left, robbed Eugene Scamellino of $1200 last December, it was Philip Caruso who was sentenced in April to 10-to-20-year stretch in Sing Sing, Gottlieb, a brother-in-appearance, was picked up by New York City police recently and confessed the holdup for which Caruso is now serving time.

Ranger, Eastland To Cooperate On Street Dances Here

A big, free street dance was voted at a meeting held at the Ranger Chamber of Commerce this morning, and B. S. Lemma was named chairman of a committee to promote street dances every other Saturday, to alternate with the street dances held in Eastland.

Tentative plans call for holding the street dances in different blocks each time one is sponsored, with the first one being scheduled to begin Saturday night at 9:30 on North Austin Street at the side of the Paramount Hotel. The dance will continue until 11:30.

Plans for holding the street street dances were discussed some time ago, and when Eastland began holding the dances every other week, an agreement was made between the two towns that alternate Saturday nights would be used by each town.

Plans have already been worked out in advance by Lemma for the dance to be held this week-end, and between then and date for the second dance other details for it will be made.

Although the time is short in advertising the event, Mayor C. W. Hoffmann of Eastland is quoted as saying that Eastland will cooperate with Ranger in putting on their street dances in return for Ranger's cooperation in helping Eastland, and a whirlwind advertising campaign is expected to bring in a large number of people.

Largest Silo In County Is Filled

County Agent Elmo V. Cook reported today that a trench silo filled recently by George Fee of Cisco is the largest in the county. Fee put 180 tons of hegar into the trench. If he gets rain he will have a second crop of hegar which he plans to place into a smaller silo.

He is going to feed out 100 beef calves this fall and winter, using silage as part of the ration. S. O. Montgomery of Ranger has recently filled his 120-ton silo for the fourth time.

H. G. Lyda, who lives six and one-half miles south of Gorman, has just completed refilling his 60-ton silo with hegar. It will be used to feed breeding ewes at lambing time.

W. F. Hagood, who lives near Lyda, also is refilling part of a trench silo he filled last year.

J. H. Clements of Cisco recently put 40 tons of red top cane in a silo at his place. A 120-ton silo has been completely filled with late feed for use of dairy cows.

John Jones of Cisco is still another who has filled a silo recently.

Henry Hamilton of Ranger is digging a trench and expects to fill it soon.

The Fee silo was filled with cut silage harvested with an ensilage harvester and cut up and dropped into a truck.

There will be held in the Methodist church at Eastland, Saturday night at 7:30 a public singing which will be a part of the program for the Butler reunion which will be held at the City Park, Sunday. All old timers and lovers of sacred music are cordially invited.

Mr. Preston had been employed by the Burton-Lingo Lumber company at Cisco for 41 years.

He was born in Texas in 1875 and came to Cisco with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Preston, while a small boy. He was married to Edna Littlepage at Mineral Wells in 1904.

Congress Moving Near Adjournment

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Congress moved up to the last adjournment barrier today when the senate, working at high speed, undertook consideration of the year's final appropriation bill.

Most of the funds cut out by the house were restored by the senate committee that considered the bill in record time.

Another hurdle was cleared when the house and senate conferees broke a long deadlock and agreed on amendments to the social security act, freezing payroll taxes at present rates for three-year savings to taxpayers, estimated at $905,000,000.

RAINS GENERAL OVER MUCH OF WEST TEXAS

FORT WORTH, Aug. 4.—Rain general across Northern West Texas during the last 24 hours reached here today and moved on toward East Texas.

The precipitations, varying from easy, prolonged showers to storms, moved eastward from the New Mexico border.

A dry spell was broken at El Paso and other points in far Southwestern Texas. Rains there were accompanied by cooler weather.

Reports from West Texas points indicated benefits to crops would outweigh by far the slight damage done to property. Hard rains fell there in accompaniment to lightning that killed several head of livestock.

Miss Clara Glonya was stunned, but not seriously injured when lightning struck her as she drove a cultivator on her farm near Plainview. Severe winds did some damage.

Grandson Of Well Known Rangerite Killed In Mishap

Funeral services for Jackie Jensen, 8, grandson of V. V. Cooper, Sr., who was accidentally electrocuted when he came in contact with a live wire at his home in Abilene Thursday afternoon, will be conducted from the First Methodist Church of Ranger Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Jackie had climbed to the roof of his home in Abilene about 5:30 Thursday afternoon, to gather grapes from vines in a tree, when he came in contact with the wire. More than three hours of efforts by his older brother, Carl, 17, city fireman, a physician and employees of the West Texas Utilities Company, failed to revive him.

Notified of the accident, V. V. Cooper, Sr., his son, V. V. Cooper, Jr., and daughter, Mrs. C. C. Cross went to Abilene Thursday night.

Jackie Jensen was born May 20, 1931, in Los Angeles, Calif. His father died there Feb. 22, 1934 and about three and a half years ago Mrs. Annie Jensen, his mother, and her two sons moved to Abilene. They had lived at their present address but a month. Jackie would have been in the fourth grade at school next year.

Dalhath Hughes, 12, and Billy Gene Ellison, 11, playmates of the accident victim, told Abilene newspapermen about the tragedy. Putting a ladder against the west side of the house the three boys had climbed on the roof to gather grapes. Jackie ventured to the roof's peak, seeking to reach chinaberries in a tall tree. Unsuccessfully, he started sliding down the edge of the roof.

He screamed when his arm hit the wire, said Dalhath, and one of the boys ran for Jackie's brother, Carl, and the other for his mother. Carl used a wooden hammer handle to dislodge his little brother's arm from the wire and handed him down to two men, who had arrived at the scene. It was then that efforts to revive him started.

THE WEATHER WEST TEXAS—Partly cloudy to night and Saturday; probably scattered showers Rio Grand Valley.

SERIAL STORY

WAR AND A WOMAN

BY BETTY WALLACE
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Linda is infuriated when George refuses to leave his experiments, come to her, George calls again. Linda's father has had a heart attack, is in a serious condition. Linda plans to take the first plane home.

CHAPTER VII

SHE never remembered, afterward, how she had broken the dreadful news to Marcia and Mrs. King. All she knew was that the blood pounded in her temples, and her knees shook so that they led her to a chair. Marcia was instantly upset, going for cold water, smelling salts, saying distractedly, "Oh, Mother! Linda and her father are so close—so much closer than ordinary parents and daughters! This is terrible!"

"A plane—" Linda murmured. "I must get on once."

"But there are no regular planes at this hour," Mrs. King said, knitting her brows. "If you were a man, and if somehow we could get hold of a service ship. . . . But this way."

Marcia flew to the telephone. "Jimmy will know what to do."

It was pathetic, the way she relied on him for everything. Through the dim fog of her shock, Linda found herself noticing that. Dreading Jimmy's presence, even the help he might be able to lend. A moment later, Marcia was saying, "Mobile. That's the nearest airport. It's more than 150 miles from here. Jimmy says he doesn't think there's a flight out of there until night. But even so, Linda, you'd be home in the morning. Better than the train. If you caught a train right now, you couldn't be there before tomorrow night."

"Get hold of yourself, child," Mrs. King said kindly. "Perhaps your father isn't as ill as it seemed at first. You must be brave. I'll help you pack."

Sick grief ached inside Linda. "Anything. I—I can't think."

Everything else was dwarfed before this horrible tragedy. Her father—her father whom she had left in the best of health, completely happy with his latest rare books. She remembered that one day, come the morning she went back, he had been saving for months in order to be able to buy. She thought of his wise eyes, his fingers that turned the pages of old manuscripts so lovingly. It wasn't fair that this should have happened to Daddy! Heart attack. Why, he'd never even been ill before. He was only 55. Young. In the prime.

HER eyes kept blurring as Marcia and Mrs. King were taking her in hand. She watched them pull open bureau drawers in the guest room; watched them take out her trunk and begin to hang dresses inside it.

"One hundred and fifty miles. That's a long ride for you, Linda. All worried and upset. . . ." Mrs. King ventured.

"I'm too jittery to drive all that way," Marcia said. "I know I'd plow into a truck, the way I feel. But Jimmy said if you decided to take the plane, he'd get away and drive you."

Jimmy. His name penetrated that queer, mental fog that enveloped Linda. "What? What did you say, Marcia?"

"I said Jimmy would drive you to Mobile."

"Won't—won't you come, too?" Linda faltered.

Mrs. King's lips pursed in thought. "You'd not be back before one in the morning, Marcia. Tonight there's the Captain's party for you. I—I hardly see how you—"

"But Jimmy won't be there, either, Mother."

"One of you must be present," her mother said gently. "We can't disrupt Mrs. Blair's plans. It would be unpardonable."

She did not say so, but the conclusion hung in the air that if the illness had occurred in their own family, it would be different.

"I can get a bus to Mobile," Linda whispered. "I can even take a taxi, if I must."

"Oh, no, my dear. I merely meant that there was no need of both the prospective bride and groom being absent from a party in their honor! Maybe it seems silly to stand on ceremony, but the Captain—"

Linda didn't want Jimmy Cooper sitting beside her for a hundred and fifty miles. But she had to get to Daddy. She had to get to him swiftly. Nothing else mattered. From Mobile it would be overnight until she was home, beside Daddy. Seeing him with her own eyes. Talking to the doctor. Assuring herself that the half-formed disquieting fears in her heart were not true. People had heart attacks and didn't die.

"For things like this, thank God for speed," she thought. "Thank God for planes!"

If only men would use all their power, all their miraculous knowledge, for the good things. . . . And that brought her back, in the same endless circle, to Jimmy. He was a pilot. He flew planes every day. But his planes were devoted to war and the teaching of war. Forbidden for an errand of mercy.

HER things were packed, at last. An enlisted man took down the trunk, ready to be strapped to the back of Marcia's car. "You can't take that by plane. I'll send it to the express office myself, after you've gone," Marcia said.

It seemed ages before Jimmy came. At last he was there. Quiet, controlled, his eyes betraying no memory of the blow she had given him last night. Marcia collared him, talked in swift, low sentences. Linda pressed a handkerchief to her lips, and said shakily, "Goodbye, Mrs. King. I—I don't know how to thank you."

"Goodbye, Linda. I hope you'll find your father ever so much better than you expect."

"Oh, darling, I'm so sorry this had to happen!" Marcia was frankly weeping. "If it's only a false alarm—and I hope it is, for your sake and your dad's—come back for the wedding! Linda, I'd even postpone it, if you could come later."

Linda tried to smile. "Be happy, Marcia."

"Jimmy, drive carefully, sweet," Marcia stood on tiptoe, her face lifted for his kiss. Linda turned away.

The familiarity, the possessiveness of that kiss burned into her eyes even though she hadn't seen it. And she thought that she must be a monster to be thinking about this, while Daddy was lying ill at home.

The last handwavings, the last goodbyes, were soon over. Jimmy Cooper and Linda Storm were alone in the little car. He said nothing for a long time. It was only when Pensacola was behind them, and the white ribbon of the road ahead, that he told her, "I'm dreadfully sorry."

That was all. Curiously, it was enough. A current of strength seemed to flow from him to her. Her lips quivered, but she said bravely, "It was awfully kind of you to undertake this long drive."

"You know I wish I could do more."

And there it was again, naked and throbbing between them. The same emotion, the same compelling urge, the same hopeless feeling of love and despair.

The girl set her lips. She dared not look at him. One hundred and fifty miles. Three hours, at least. Three hours or more of beating alone, of having this thing beating its wings like a caged bird against their hearts. Three hours of knowing that he was beside her—his strength and his love and the longing that racked him.

"It's little enough to have, out of a life time," she thought queerly. But she was afraid, too. Afraid because sitting beside him was driving the thought of her father out of her mind. Afraid because in three hours, anything might happen.

Aged Woman Talks Over a Telephone For the First Time

BEAUMONT, Texas—Mrs. Holland, 80, of Village Oaks, found real adventure just 7 miles from her home in Hardin county.

She came to Beaumont this summer (a 45-minute automobile drive) and talked over a telephone for the first time in her life; she in an elevator for the first time; saw the first liquor openly played since pre-prohibition days; and saw a tall building for the first time in her life.

Mrs. Holland, known to her neighbors as "Aunt Becky" lived her 80 years in Hardin county about going to the city. Now she seems to see a movie, ride in an plane, and maybe have a permanent wave—all of them things she has never done before.

The pioneer Texas woman is the other of ten children, three of whom live on the farm with her.

Nazi Army Back to Horse and Buggy Days

Germany has not overlooked the horse as source of mobility for its war machine—particularly in rough terrain of eastern Europe. Photo shows Nazi horse-drawn anti-aircraft unit in action during maneuvers near Dresden. Plane has been sighted, so the team is unhitched to be driven to cover under the trees, while the crew opens up. Horses rear nervously as the gun fires.

Old Newspaper File Is Given to School

EL PASO, Texas—A file of the newspaper Lone Star, published here between 1882 and 1886, has been presented to the Texas College of Mines library by Dr. S. H. Newman, son of the editor.

The paper, in which separate columns were devoted to classes of news such as local, state and national, contained an item telling of Palestine, Texas, getting electric lights.

Man Really Falls Into a Fortune

LAS CRUCES, N. M.—A. P. Lauer literally fell into a fortune when his foot slipped while he was hiking in the San Andreas mountains.

Lauer accidentally uncovered a deposit of Fuller's Earth, creamy white substance used as a refining agent, medicinal paste, cleansing aid, and filler in paints and calamine.

Wink Man Slated To Lead Revival

A Michigan girl caught a fish as long as she is tall. That's nice because it saves motion. She won't have to demonstrate the size with her arms.

A Baptist revival is scheduled to start Friday night, August 4, at Mangum, with the Rev. Roelen of Wink in charge of the preaching.

Aged Woman Gets Walking Mileage After 60-Mile Hike

LIVINGSTON, Tex., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Sibbie Tullis, 73, who walked 61 miles to appear in court yesterday as a state witness in a murder trial, had $9.84 today as payment for her two-day journey.

Mrs. Tullis, her daughter, and the daughter's three children came from their farm home near Lufkin and arrived 20 minutes before the case was scheduled. They were disappointed that the case had been postponed until the next term of court.

Although state law provides witnesses shall receive only actual traveling expenses incurred, the district clerk issued a voucher for $9.84, "four cents a mile for walking," for the family.

Liquor Board Head Advice Is Taken by Admitted Drunk

AUSTIN, Texas—State Liquor Administrator Bert Ford was as surprised by a recent telephone call as "Wrong Way" Corrigan must have been when he landed in Ireland after flying west.

A telephone caller complained to Ford that a Cameron tavern keeper refused to sell the caller some beer.

"He says I'm drunk," the caller informed Ford.

"Are you?" inquired Ford.

"Yes. But if he won't sell me some beer, what can I do about it?"

"Go home," suggested Ford.

The caller hung up the telephone. Later, Ford learned he had taken the advice given him. Bigger surprise was to find out that the caller had paid for the telephone call.

Oil Field May Help In Mosquito Fight

HOUSTON, Texas—A nearby oil field may be used in the future to help combat a plague of mosquitoes that came from salt marshes near Houston after heavy rains this summer.

Health authorities said that the mosquitoes could be killed if crude oil from fields in this vicinity is poured on the marshes where they breed. Dr. J. Herbert Page, Harris county physician, said an unlimited supply of the oil had been offered but that no method had been approved yet for applying it.

Rice Institute chemists suggested that the marshes could be "bombed" with insecticides dropped from airplanes as citrus and cotton farmers sometimes kill insect pests now.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or painful passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BRUCE CATTON — IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—A few days ago, a frankish member of the House of Representatives chanced to look up at the gallery, where he spied an uncommonly pretty girl sitting all by herself. He bethought himself then of a fellow member of the House, a bachelor congressman who has an appreciative eye for this and that.

So he went to the cloakroom, got notepaper, and wrote to the congressman a mash note purporting to come from the girl in the gallery. He gave it to a page and instructed him to deliver it.

The bachelor ston read the note, rubbed his chin, and glanced casually at the gallery. Then he read the note again, looked once more—and, finally, sauntered out and made his way to the gallery. A moment later he took a vacant seat beside the young woman and opened conversation with her.

The real author of the note, meanwhile, with two or three cronies he had let in on the gag, was watching jubilantly from the floor. But the thing didn't work out quite as the gaffer had expected. Instead of getting into an embarrassing jam, the bachelor presently arose and departed from the Capitol—with the lovely visitor on his arm.

Maybe the Senate has found a successor to the late James Hamilton Lewis in the matter of sartorial splendor. One of the things Senator Lewis was famous for was his wardrobe; especially striking was a cut-away suit of rich brown.

Comes now Senator Matthew Neely of West Virginia, in a double-breasted suit of pale green, set off with dark green buttons, a green handkerchief, a light green shirt, and a dark green tie.

Favorite game played in the House gymnasium, where athletes inclined members of Congress go for exercise, is paddling. It was invented on the premises; is much like handball, except that a paddle is used instead of the hand, while the ball is an ordinary tennis ball with the cover ripped off, which gives it more bounce.

Next most popular diversion, is bike riding. The bikes are stationary; you can get on and pedal furiously for an hour without ever moving from where you started.

Some members occasionally inquire about boxing. By mutual agreement, it is barred. Long ago, the members found out that even in a friendly sparring match you can easily get a black eye—which doesn't look so good next day when you're solemnly legislating and some of your constituents are in the gallery.

Congressman Joe Byrns, Jr., of Tennessee, is one of this session's freshman congressmen, and he made his maiden speech recently under rather unusual conditions.

Along with other members of the House he arose to pay tribute to the late Sam McReynolds, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who died after a long illness.

Byrns recalled that it was just about three years ago that McReynolds had arisen in the House to inform his fellows of the death of Byrns' father, who was then speaker of the House. Now the son of the man McReynolds then eulogized was, in his first speech, eulogizing McReynolds.

Mail from folks back home is supposed to be pouring in on the law-makers here in regard to neutrality legislation—and, in lots of cases, it is. But Senator Schuellerbach of Washington says he has yet to receive a letter from his state protesting against the changes which the administration seems made.

He gets plenty from other parts of the country—90 per cent of them, he says, employing precisely the same phrases—but, so far, none from the folks back home.

Highway Haulers Gross 700 Million In Nation In 1938

NEW YORK.—Highway haulers of property operating under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission during 1938 had gross revenues of $700,000,000, according to a survey made by the Commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers.

There were 39,000 freight carriers operating under Commission rules last year, and they employed a total of 200,000 truck units. Ninety-three per cent of these carriers owned ten units or less.

Forty per cent of the total number of vehicles accounted for were run by Class I operators, which are those having revenues of

Farmer Makes FSA Officials Eat Their Mortgage at Meet

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—W. R. Williams, Madisonville farmer, made the Farm Security Administration eat the mortgage he gave them last January. They ate it and liked it at their banquet at Texas A&M College, which was a feature of the FSA annual conference, with 850 FSA workers taking part.

Williams owns a 40-acre farm but had been struggling along until the first of this year without a team. He borrowed $200 from FSA January 1, with which he bought a mule. He managed for a horse in exchange for labor and feed. He spent the remainder of his FSA loan for 500 baby chicks and chicken feed.

The chicks have now reached a weight of two or three pounds each, and Williams sold 400 of them for the piece-de-resistance of the annual FSA banquet. He and his wife dressed them in a long day's job in the A&M College abattoir, and were paid 22 3/4 cents a pound. It made enough to lift the mortgage and leave something over in cash, as well as 100 chickens still on the farm.

L. A. Machemehl, county supervisor for FSA, received payment in full as his 858 fellow workers prepare to sit down and "eat the mortgage."

C. M. Evans, regional director of FSA, said that Williams is one of 56,500 share croppers, renters and hard-pushed landowners in Texas who in the past three years have received from FSA loans totalling more than 20 million dollars and have already repaid more than eight million, although a large part of the loans are not due until five years from the time they were made.

$100,000 a year or more, but these operators represented but 2 2/3 per cent of the total industry. By contrast, 38 per cent of the carriers had only one truck.

Class I operators averaged $4,150 in revenue per truck, but the average take-in of the one truck operator was only $2,500. The average revenue per truck of all carriers covered by the study was $3,500 per truck.

Common carrier operation represents but a small segment of motor truck haulage as a whole, records of the Automobile Manufacturers Association indicate. Out of a total of 4,224,000 commercial vehicles registered at the end of 1938, an estimated 600,000 are classified as being in "For Hire" operation, in which the interstate carriers are included. By contrast there are 2,580,000 private carrier trucks, which are used in the transportation of property belonging to their owners.

Interstate motor truck haulage is very largely confined to traffic with adjoining states, road use studies by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads have shown. Comparing percentages of annual round trips exceeding 200 miles in 11 widely scattered states, it was determined in every instance that the great majority of trips crossed but a single state borderline.

Young Sailor Rues Bartering For Pearls

By United Press

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Shivering in shorts in a chilly wind on the deck of the Estonian ketch Ahto in Sydney harbor, 17-year-old Will Stein of Buffalo, N. Y., explained that he exchanged his clothes for pearls during the vessel's voyage across the Pacific.

"Several of the crew did the same thing," he said, with a glance at the bleak sky.

"Now we wish we had our clothes back again, especially as we over-estimated the value of the pearls, which are mostly discolored, small and blemished."

Game Suffers From Drought

Those of this section of Texas who do their winter hunting in the southern portion of Texas and in the hill country will be sorry to know that the drought has hit game birds and animals in these sections. It has become necessary for the State Game Department to feed wild turkeys in a dozen hill country counties. Seven game wardens are engaged in feeding the birds which is necessary in order to save sufficient stock for breeding purposes next season. The turkey crop this season will be well below normal in the hill country according to a report from Earl Saunders, Game Department regional game manager at Kerrville.

Triplet Deer

Triplet deer are very unusual. does usually giving birth to a pair but Texas has at least two does which are more than doing their share in keeping the state stocked with deer. A doe on the W. H. Ramsey farm three miles from Kerrville recently had three deer for the fourth consecutive year. She is not yet five years old. The other deer which has proved very prolific is one on the Hyatt Brothers Ranch near Johnson City. She recently had her third set of triplets. She has given birth to seventeen young, including four sets of twins in the last seven years.

Original Compact
Found On Plain

PORTALES, N. M. — G. Dickebreder has what he thinks is the "original compact." He found it on the prairies of West Missouri more than 50 years ago. The compact is a triangle-shaped yellow material which resembles sandstone or sulphur, which Dickebreder believes was used as "makeup" by some of the Indians.

It did not, however, contain lipstick.
