U. S. Calls On Hungary To Battle Nazis

Better Treatment In Peace Implied

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 24 — The United States today called on Hungary to fight rather than submit tamely to the "Nazi whip"—and implied that if she does she will get better treatment at the peace table.

Secretary of State Hull issued a statement calling for "firm resistance" against German forces occupying the Axis satellite nation. The statement was obviously designed to stir a wave of sabotage and guerrilla fighting and thus hamper Hitler's desperate attempt to strengthen his military position in southeastern Europe.

Implicit Promise

The American action carried with it an implicit promise that Hungarian resistance would earn the respect and friendship of the United Nations which thus in victory would look more favorably on the status of Hungary despite its voluntary alliance with Hitler up to the moment of occupation.

Almost simultaneously with Hull's statement came word from Ankara that the Rumanian embassy there had confirmed reports of German occupation of Rumania. It appeared that Bulgaria was next.

The rapid spread of German military strength through the Balkans threw a new complexion on Turkey's relationship with the Allies since Turkey has a common border with Bulgaria in the extreme southeastern tip of Europe. Obviously the advice and implied promise made by Hull to Hungary applied likewise to the Rumanian and Bulgarian situation.

FDR URGES HIDING OF INTENDED NAZI VICTIMS

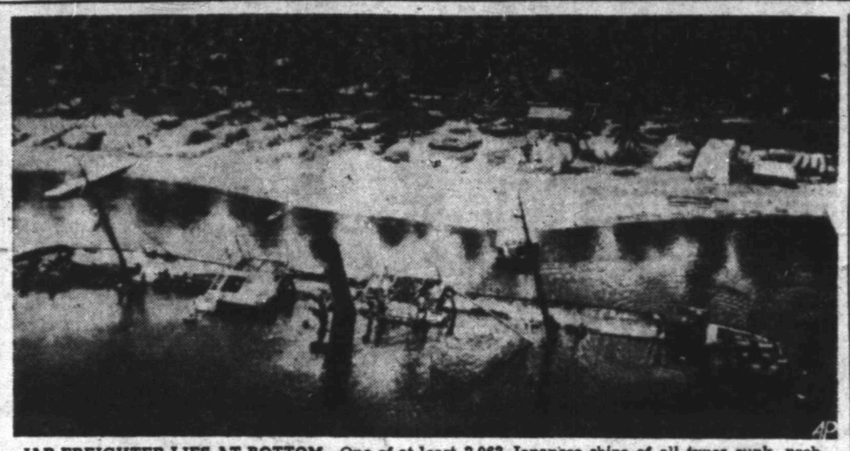

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) President Roosevelt, saying hundreds of thousands of Jews face death as a result of Hitler's grasp of the Balkans, called on the peoples of those countries and the Germans themselves today to hide intended victims from the Nazi executioners.

The chief executive also asked in a statement that the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily open their frontiers to all victims of oppression."

Considerable Success

Mr. Roosevelt, in a voice heavy with the cold which kept him to his living quarters earlier this week, read the statement to his press-radio conference. He said the American inter-departmental

Chaplin's Defense Effort Ruled Out

LOS ANGELES, March 24. (AP)—A court ruling this afternoon prevented efforts of Charlie Chaplin's lawyer to question Joan Berry about a romance with another man and attorney Jerry Giesler told reporters: "This closes the door on our books."

Immediately after a brief recess Giesler announced he was through with the cross examination of the government's chief witness in its effort to convict the actor on a Mann act indicement.

Prosecution Closes

U. S. Attorney Charles H. Carr, with a few questions about Miss Berry's visit to Chaplin's Beverly Hills home with a loaded pistol, brought her testimony on behalf of the prosecution to a close.

The ruling followed a 58-minute huddle at Judge J. F. T. O'Connor's bench in which Giesler said later he had made various offers of proof in resisting the government's objection to his line of questioning.

The question which preceded the lengthy conference and to which Carr made quick objection, was:

"In November, 1942, before you left for Tulsa, did you have a conversation with Hans Reusch in which you said in effect that you were broke but that you knew where you could get some money in Oklahoma from a business man who had to give you some money because you had made a trip from Mexico and there is a law against that in the United States and he can't do that?"

At Afternoon Session

Reusch was not further identified.

It was propounded by Giesler, defending the actor against Mann act charges involving a trip to New York, where Chaplin met his 24-year-old protege, and came at

Utmost Confidence In Victory Shown

AT A U. S. ARMY BASE IN ENGLAND, March 24. (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill completing a two-day inspection of American invasion forces, declared today that these are "most anxious and inspiring weeks, when all thoughts are turned to striking a great blow which may bring peace and freedom nearer to the men of all the United Nations and indeed to all the world."

The prime minister told the American troops they could face the coming struggle "with feelings of utmost confidence and resolution."

Churchill watched hundreds of parachutists in a mass leap at a U. S. air-borne base yesterday and pronounced the air-borne troops "the most modern expression of war."

Surprise Visit

"Soon," he told the parachute troops who gathered around him on his surprise visit, unannounced until today for security reasons, "you will have the opportunity of testifying to your belief in all those great phrases embodied in the American constitution."

Mentioning the comradeship in arms of American and British troops, Churchill said "our troops, British and American, at this moment are shedding their blood side by side in Italy, at Cassino or in the Anzio beachhead, fighting hard and losing heavily in the struggle."

The Americans in Britain, he said, "are preparing themselves to strike a blow for a cause which is a greater cause than either of our countries have fought for in bygone days.

"It is a world cause," he con-

Senators Assail Wallace's View

Trickery Charge Draws Heavy Fire

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—In a hot-tempered session in which senators angrily denounced Vice-President Wallace's use of the words "parliamentary trickery," the Senate voted today to strip the administration's Tennessee Valley authority of its financial autonomy and make it come to Congress for funds.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), author of the restrictive legislation, denounced the vice president's re-

SENATE TIGHTENS REINS

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The Senate, approving the $8,557,000,000 independent offices appropriation bill, voted today to withhold funds from any government agency in existence 12 months without direct congressional appropriations.

This ban, sponsored by Senator Russell (D-Ga), struck particularly at the President fair employment practices committee and other agencies Mr. Roosevelt has financed from funds given him for discretionary use.

The senate also wrote into the bill an amendment requiring that the Senate confirm all federal employes appointed to jobs paying $4,500 a year or more. The vote was 51 to 23.

marks as "damnable" at one point and at another, Senator Clark (D-Mo) charged the vice president with "brazenly" disregarding the Senate's parliamentary rules.

Includes Amendment

The Senate voted 39 to 26 to incorporate in the $8,577,933,978 independent offices appropriations bill an amendment denying TVA, public power agency, the right to use its power and fertilizer receipts to finance its operations.

Under the proposal, upon which the House has yet to act, TVA's receipts would have to be paid into the general fund of the treasury, and its spending would be limited strictly to such money as Congress appropriated.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) contended that the agency would be "crippled" if unable to use its receipts to meet operating emergencies like any other utility.

Previously bitter debate centered around McKellar's charges that

One Dies, One Hurt In Training Crash

F/O Albert C. Wyatt of Houston, was killed Friday afternoon, and a companion was injured when a training plane from the South Plains Army Air field crashed at the auxiliary landing field near Idalou while on a routine training flight, it was announced last night by Col. James A. DeMarco, SPAAF commanding officer.

Wyatt's survivors include his wife, Mrs. Elsie B. Wyatt, of 1918 Thirteenth street, where the couple lived.

Details of the crash were not announced. A board of officers was named to investigate the crash.

The injured man, whose name was withheld pending notification of next of kin, was in the post hospital last night. Extent of his injuries had not been determined, the announcement said.

Nazis Step Up Cassino Support

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 24. (AP)—The Germans have thrown powerful new artillery and aerial support into their defense of Cassino, their ground troops are resisting as desperately as ever in the ruins of the mountain-locked stronghold, and it becomes plain that last week's terrific air assault did little to help Allied forces break through into the Roman valleys.

Enemy artillery fire from north of the town has mounted steadily in recent days, and between 40 and 50 Nazi planes swept low yesterday to shoot up Allied traffic on Highway Six behind the lines.

Allies Worm Forward

New Zealand troops wormed forward in the ruins at the southern edge of Cassino and an Allied spokesman reported they made "some little progress." German parachute troops clung to wreckage of the Continental and Des Roses hotels and other buildings.

Allied heavy bombers attacked railroad targets at Padua, west of Venice, again last night following a daylight raid by American medium Marauders on the Campo Di Marte freight yards in the Florence area. No Allied planes were lost.

German artillery fire against Allied positions in the Anzio beachhead also mounted in volume.

Steel Workers Blaze New Trail In Postwar Demands

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—The CIO United Steel Workers set out today to blaze a new trail in labor economics with demands for a 17-cent hourly wage increase regardless of government wage ceilings, a guaranteed postwar 40-hour week or annual wage, a joint fund for steel workers returning from the armed services and nearly a dozen other concessions.

Philip Murray, spare and gray president of the steel workers, spearheaded his union's case before a War Labor board panel.

He denounced the Little Steel wage formula for what he termed "obvious, practical unworkability," contended corporations and the farmers have been guaranteed minimum incomes, and shot barbs at "the fat boys" of the steel industry for their "audacity" in trying to keep the steel workers wage case from the War Labor board.

Murray spoke for two hours and ten minutes to the six-man panel, lawyers for 94 steel companies, and his union policy committee of nearly 100. The companies will begin their presentation April 11.

"You," said the union chief, turning to the industry spokesmen, "have got to do a little more constructive thinking about giving people in the United States of America jobs after this war is over than you have ever done in all your lives. The present situation and the situation which may develop after the war, create conditions that challenge your ingenuity.

"It is your responsibility. . . . And you cannot laugh at a worker's demands that you give to him a guaranteed income in order that he may live and may have sustenance for both his wife and his family. . . .

Returned Veteran Commits Suicide

SAN ANTONIO, March 24. (UP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace Frank Vaughan today in connection with the death of Master Sergeant Gilbert J. Kester.

Kester's body was found Wednesday in a pasture off Culebra road, a pistol lying beside it. He had been ill since last December, when he returned home from one of the fighting fronts.

The soldier was a veteran of 167 flying missions, wearing the European and north Africa campaign ribbons, the Air medal, and two Oak Leaf clusters.

He was a native of this city.

Draft Rules Changed For Younger Men

Faster Induction Of Group Sought

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Selective Service tonight intensified its drive for able-bodied young men in a series of sharp new instructions to draft boards, while government agencies agreed on a plan to save a few "indispensible" youths for vital war industry.

Aimed directly at faster induction of men 25 and younger for combat service, the orders from Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, will leave registrants 26 and over untouched until the younger men have been cleaned up.

Committee Set Up

Hershey's action came quickly after Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower commission (WMC) announced that a new committee headed by himself would "ration" deferments among the chosen key industries, and gave other agencies just three days to submit figures on the number of men proposed by them for deferment.

The Hershey orders provided "interim" machinery to prevent the drafting of essential young men until McNutt's machinery is functioning, and in addition told the local boards:

1. To pay no heed to the expiration date of present deferments of men under 26, but to proceed with the review of their deferments and reclassify them as 1-A or otherwise as rapidly the review is carried out.

2. To let men 26 and older stay in their present classifications until the boards have gone through the lists of all men under 26 in class 3-A as well as those deferred in industry and agriculture.

Ordered For Physical

3. To order up for pre-induction physical examination all men under 26 who hold occupational deferments and who have not been physically examined within the last 90 days.

4. To use their discretion in reclassifying as 2-A or 2-B (occupational deferments) those men under 26 who are found unfit for military service or fit only for limited military service, if such registrants are contributing to "war production or war supporting activities."

The last instruction, which is expected to diminish the number of 4-F classifications handed out, will meet the complaints of many industries who argue that as fast as their "essential" men obtain 4-F classification, they leave the war industry and hunt up better-paid jobs of other kinds which are

One Badly Hurt In Prairie Fire

PLAINVIEW, March 24. (AP)—A prairie fire on the Tony Chisholm ranch, 12 miles west of Hale Center, was believed under control late tonight after one person had been critically burned and ranch properties threatened.

R. R. Fulfer, foreman of the ranch, was burned about the face, body and arms. He was brought to a hospital here.

Stock Loss Not Known

Ranch hands were scouring the smoke-screened pasture tonight in an effort to ascertain whether there had been livestock losses.

Fulfer, his wife and daughters and employes fought the blaze a few hundred yards from the ranch headquarters.

Mrs. Fulfer said the smoke was dense and when she noticed her husband he had become entangled in barbed wire and fallen to the ground. His clothes were virtually burned off. Three tires on a pick-up truck Fulfer had been driving were burned and a small pile of lumber near the ranch house was destroyed.

The blaze was believed to have started about 12 miles west of the Chisholm headquarters. Fulfer began fighting the blaze, using wet sacks, seven miles from the ranch head quarters.

Visible For 30 Miles

The blaze was visible 30 miles.

Mrs. Fulfer said the smoke was so dense when she started driving a car away from the ranch house she had to get out and locate the road before proceeding.

Wayne Brownd, Hale Center, who went to the scene, estimated the fire, fanned by a brisk west wind, traveled about six miles in an hour and a half.

This Quartet To Cost Uncle Sam Big Dough

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 24 (AP) The Marine corps recruiting office here figured today four recruits from North Carolina it had just sent to the Parris island base for boot training would cost Uncle Sam $932 a month in pay and family allowances.

The quartet, representing four different towns, has a total of 33 dependents including 29 children. Two will draw $248 a month each, another $226, and the fourth $208.

Ex-Soldier Is Held In Portales Murder

PORTALES, N. M., March 24. (U.P.) — A man identifying himself as Carl Smalling of Kingsport, Tenn., was charged today with murdering Fred Morton Phillips of French Creek, W. Va., a motorist who was believed to have given Smalling a lift.

Phillips' body was found in a tourist camp at Kenna, 35 miles southwest of here, last night.

Smalling, who recently was discharged from the Army as unfit for duty overseas, was picked up because an occupant of an adjoining cabin saw him driving away, alone, in Phillips' car and became suspicious.

Two truck drivers, told that the car did not belong to Smalling, chased him, overtook him and captured him.

Officers said that Smalling was carrying Phillips' wallet.

Japs Hit Trouble In India, Mass In China

Two Columns Are Stopped, Another Hidden By Jungle

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

JAPAN, whose three-pronged thrust into India is running into trouble, appears to be massing troops in China for a new offensive.

In the Pacific all news yesterday was bad for Tokyo. The Navy announced American submarines had sunk 11 more Japanese ships — two tankers, three transports, five freighters, and a converted minelayer.

A Navy search plane bombed the Ant islands, the sixth target in the Caroline islands to be attacked. Fires were started on one of four enemy islands raided in the Marshalls.

Philippine Independence

President Roosevelt promised "America will fulfill its pledge" of independence to the Philippines and noted that "the return of freedom . . . draws closer with each island victory."

Tokyo radio asserted "fierce attacks are being continued" by Japanese troops on Bouganville in the northern Solomons. But Associated Press war correspondent Spencer Davis reported from Guadalcanal the wind had been knocked "out of the enemy's last gasp offensive" and "artillery, planes and destroyers continue to bombard Japanese positions day and night."

Although they have no planes to fly, the Japanese at Rabaul are still repairing Vunakanau bomber strip, torn up by daily raids. South Pacific pilots so reported after hitting the airdromes on eastern New Britain with another 160 tons of bombs. Despite bad weather other once strong Japanese bases around the Bismarck Sea received their customary bombings. A small cargo ship was sunk off Wewak, New Guinea, last Japanese supply point in the area.

Central Thrust Stopped

Southeast Asia communiques said the central Japanese thrust through Tamu pass toward Imphal in the primitive Indian state of Manipur had been stopped. Four road blocks were established by the southern column, cutting communications between Imphal and the British forces in the Tiddim area of Burma. Three on the road blocks were reported broken. A third Japanese column, of undetermined size, was hidden by the jungle northeast of Imphal.

The week-long operation has cost the Japanese an estimated six or seven hundred men. Allied stratgists said the invaders couldn't win any part of India by this action alone. The British have superior numbers of men and planes in the area.

The drive was described as "disturbing," by Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng, Chinese Army spokesman, who said it had more political than military significance.

Heavy Japanese troop movements were noted in South China. Tseng said they apparently were preparing for a drive against the southern sector of the Chinese-

Red Smash Kills 20,000 Germans

Troops Within Five Miles Of Bucovinia

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 25 Russia's First Ukraine Army broke through to the Dniester river at the Balkan gateway city of Zaleschiki yesterday, killing 20,000 Germans and capturing 3,500 in a four-day offensive which put the Red Army within five miles of the former Rumanian province of Bucovina and 60 miles from old Czecho-Slovakia, a Moscow communique announced last night.

The 62 mile flanking smash below Tarnopol threatened to trap thousands of battered German troops to the east, part of the 50 German divisions of more than 500,000 men already threatened with encirclement in the Odessa area of southern Russia.

Red Line Cut

Other Soviet units cut the Lwow-Tarnapol railway northwest of Tarnopol, fought their way into Proskurov, 62 miles east of Tarnopol, severed another German escape railway from lower Russia into Bessarabia, and toppled the German Bug river stronghold of Voznesensk above Odessa, the Soviet command announced.

Whole enemy garrisons were wiped out in the new smash to the Dniester at captured Zaleshchiki, said a midnight Russian bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor. German troops also abandoned great piles of equipment, it said.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's troops were declared to have overrun 400 towns and villages in reaching the river in the southeastern corner of old Poland, and the thrust placed Soviet troops just 26 miles north of Czernowitz, big Rumanian rail junction controlling lines into Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary and southern Rumania.

Nazi Casualties Mount

The 23,500 casualties inflicted on the enemy boosted to nearly 250,000 the German dead and captured in the Ukraine offensive, on the basis of Moscow announcements.

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced the breakthrough to the Dniester at Zaleshchiki, and also the capture enroute of the "operationally important" rail junction of Chortkov, 22 miles to the north, and Gusyatin rail station 17 miles east of Chortkov. An order of the day, recorded by the Soviet monitor, recorded the gains.

The daily communique later announced that Soviet troops striking northwest of besieged Tarnopol had crossed the Sereth river and cut the railway to Lwow at a point only 60 miles from that big Axis communications city in southern Poland.

RAF Heavies Hit Battered Berlin

Night Raid Follows Heavy U. S. Sweep

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 25.—"Aircraft of the RAF bomber command were over Germany in strength during the night, with Berlin as the main objective," an authoritative British source announced today hard on the heels of the American daylight attacks which Friday pounded Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French airfields of Nancy and St. Dizier as the air war against German Europe raged without pause.

The German radio declared the night raid on Berlin was on a large scale.

Entire City Blanketed

High explosives and fire bombs blanketed all Berlin, the Germans said.

The Germans, who had offered little opposition to the daylight attacks, made it a "battle of the capitals" Friday night with the longest, most determined raid of the week on London.

It was their fourth consecutive night raid, and several waves of bombers caused casualties and damage with high explosive and incendiary bombs. A well-known building, a famous old church, and a publishing house were among London structures hit, along with many residences. The Germans also struck in southeast England and East Anglia.

Growing Air Strength

About 250 American bombers and approximately the same number of fighters, including RAF Mustangs, took part in each of the two daylight missions—a total of 1,000 planes—significantly demonstrating the Allies' growing command of the air, the raids were made at a cost of three bombers and five fighters although two of the targets, Frankfurt and Schweinfurt, are vital industrial centers heavily defended in the past.

The escort destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and shot down a third as it was taking off.

U. S. Subs Sink 11 More Ships

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Strong evidence of the growing power of the American submarine fleet in Japanese waters came today from the Navy department in an announcement that 11 more enemy vessels have been sunk.

Only three days ago Secretary of the Navy Knox told of 15 other Nipponese craft going to the bottom after attacks by American submersibles.

The submarines, planes and surface ships of the Navy have sunk, probably sunk or damaged at least 2,062 enemy ships of all types, including some war ships.

653 Hit By Subs

Of that total, 653 Japanese vessels have been accounted for by submarines alone.

The American submarines are taking their heaviest toll in enemy freighters and tankers.

The bag of 11 ships announced today included two tankers, five freighters, three transports, and one converted minelayer, which might have been trying to keep submersibles out of Japanese coastal shipping lanes.

Thus far 23 American submersibles have been lost since the war started, all but three of them presumably in action against the Japanese.

British Subs Hit Japanese Shipping

LONDON, March 24. (AP)—The British Admiralty announced today that submarines of the eastern fleet have sunk a Japanese cruiser of the Kuma class, a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier, eight supply ships and several small naval craft since the first of the year.

A second cruiser was torpedoed, and a small supply ship and one large supply ship were damaged, the announcement said.

Capt. Olen Cupp Of Earth Is Decorated

LONDON, March 24. (AP) — Capt. Olen E. Cupp of Earth, Texas, pilot in the European wing of the U. S. Air Transport command, has been decorated with the Distinguished Flying cross and the Air medal for making 26 missions in unarmed transports over enemy territory in China and Burma and in India.

Brig. Gen. Paul E. Burrows presented the awards in recent ceremonies. The flights were made over rugged mountain country at altitudes seldom reached in ordinary flying, the citation said.

Long-Gone Family Men Dig Up Biblical Cue On Leaves

KENNETH L. DIXON

U. S. AIR BASE IN SARDINIA, March 17 (Delayed)—Two captains and a major in the air corps had been overseas some 18 months, which they considered sufficient for the time being if not too long.

The major was Warren G. Bradford of Shreveport, La., and the captains were William J. Sullivan of Effingham, Ill., and Lawrence J. Valade of Boston.

All three were married but not one had been married even half a year before leaving his wife; Captain Sullivan four months, has a daughter he has never seen; Major Bradford a month; and Captain Valade who had but four hours of marital bliss before the martial bugles busted him off.

Now these three, all attached to a Marauder outfit here, considered, as all men overseas eventually do, that the time had come for at least a short home leave. So they went before the high authorities and stated their case.

But the higher authorities merely advised them to go see their chaplain, a semi-subtle system of saying "no soap."

But the chaplain was Capt. Conrad Baldwin of Clarkton, N. C., who was somewhat weary of having soldiers sent to him simply for solace.

It seemed to him that he remembered something in the Bible which touched on such cases. Night after night he hunted through the Bible and eventually came upon it.

So now the higher authorities

March 24, 1944

DEAR:——

Spring is here. At least that is what the calendar says although the mornings remain keenly cool and those who planted war gardens early will have the job to do over.

Capt. Noel Edgar (Bud) Thompson, Marine flier, has returned to the United States and is due in almost any hour now. He is coming home by way of Dallas where he will meet his wife, the former Eron Gafford, who has resigned her job with the Braniff Airways and is to remain with him as long as he is in the states. Bud has been overseas for over a year and no doubt will have some interesting things to tell about the "Down Under" country.

Visitors at home this week include Lt. (jg) Norman B. (Billy) Hancock, who has been seeing action in the Central Pacific as pilot of a Hellcat, and Ensign Ralph Cocanougher, dive bomber pilot. Incidentally the boys were quartered on the same carrier.

Billy has changed little from the happy-go-lucky, personable kid who used to work around town and go to Tech. It's hard to believe he is 24 years old; he looks a bare 18. His wife, the former Betty Nell Smithee, has been teaching physical education at Senior High school. Has resigned to go with him for the time he will stay in the states. He also is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hancock of Tahoka.

A good crop year is in store for the South Plains area. Authority is Clark M. Mullican who said the wind was just a little east of north Wednesday morning, indicating better than average rainfall for the year. What's more, the rain that does fall should come at the right time to foster crop conditions. He got the idea of the forecast by carrying out an Indian weather legend.

Maj. John N. Huttig has arrived to assume duties as commanding officer of the 309th College Training Detachment (aircrew) stationed on Texas Technological college. His wife accompanied him. Their home in Orlando, Fla., and he comes here from Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where he held a similar post at Iowa Wesleyan college.

John S. Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Ball, 1924 Sixteenth street, who is an associate chemist in the U. S. Bureau of Mines petroleum laboratory, Laramie, Wyo., has been honored by Secretary H. L. Ickes for originating a time and money-saving system in his department.

Herbert Hoover, jr., son of the former president of the United States, was in Lubbock briefly this week on business. He conferred with George Livermore, the Permian Basin's No. 1 drilling contractor with whom he is associated in some oil activity in the area. His home is in Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. John C. Woodle, the former Miss Juanita Cook, has learned that her husband, Lt. John C. Woodle, a B-24 pilot in Italy, has been missing in action since Feb. 22, on a raid somewhere over Germany.

Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, famed piano team, appeared in concert Wednesday night at Senior High school auditorium under auspices of Tech Artists course.

The high school youngsters could put a little of that spare time they are always lamenting in learning about airplanes. Friday afternoon a plane flew over the school grounds just about the time classes were dismissed.

"What kind of a plane is that?" asked a girl.

"Oh that is a link trainer," replied her companion, scarcely looking at the sky.

So long for now.

Mrs. Doyle Roberts Hostess To Club

Sunshine Home Demonstration club met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Doyle Roberts.

After a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Hub Hicks, Miss Clara Pratt discussed "Restyling." Others on program were Mesdames Roberts and Charles Hicks. Members displayed dresses to be remodeled.

Attending were Mesdames O. H. Scott, Floyd Lee, J. E. Gray, C. S. Tramel, I. F. Kennedy and visitors were Mesdames R. L. Rinck and F. L. Schmidt.

Repatriated American Soldier Tells Story Of Wounds, Capture After Salerno Landing

TEMPLE, March 24 (AP) — German 88 mm. shell fragments tore through Pvt. James E. Carpenter's right arm and the Jewell (Leon county), Texas, youth suffered excruciating pain—at times almost unbearable—before he received first aid behind German lines, administered by captured American medical corps men.

That was the beginning of the story told at McCloskey General hospital here today by the first 36th division soldier to be repatriated from Germany.

Couldn't Apply Tourniquet

Carpenter was injured in the hills of Italy on Sept. 13 after the Salerno landing of the 36th.

He was unable to apply a tournique, but Private Carpenter grasped his right shoulder firmly beneath the arm pit to stop bleeding to some extent. Then he waited six hours while the Jerries moved closer. Finally, he was discovered by two German foot soldiers, but by that time he was so weak that they had to carry him to the top of the hill.

Two American prisoners of the Germans—one of them T/5 Smith of Weatherford, Parker county — gave him first aid and applied sulfa powder and sterile bandage. They were soon shifted back of the lines to a field hospital.

Surgeon Amputated Arm

Said Carpenter: "I received no attention except for the care received from American medical soldiers. German doctors would come by occasionally and look at the German patients, but I can't remember their looking at any of us."

A German surgeon amputated his arm, leaving a two-inch stub, he related.

At a concentration camp, Carpenter stated, they were taken to a shed where they were allowed to lie on gunny sacks that were thrown on the ground. It was here that First Lt. Leonard E. Kremer of Patterson, N. J., wounded in the leg and arm by a hand grenade, amazed his fellow prisoners with his energy.

Gathered First Aid Equipment

"The lieutenant gathered all first aid equipment from the American soldiers who were taken prisoners and set up a small hospital of his own," the Texan recalled. Most of the medical kits came from paratroopers. Lt. Kremer maintained a constant vigil over all 22 of us. He was superb."

He said a Captain Bonds, member of the Mexia National guard company, took charge of the culinary department and that there was plenty of goat meat.

Menu Never Varied

"The Germans neither helped nor hindered us and Captain Bonds made sure that all of us were fed," he asserted.

The trip into Germany started then with a short stay at another field hospital 175 miles from Rome. They were taken to Rome and then put aboard a Red Cross hospital for Munich. From there they were transferred to a German hospital 15 miles away.

Their menu never varied. It was bread and potatoes one meal, then potatoes and bread the next, twice a week (sundays and Wednesdays) they were given a small piece of meat with "the old familiar goat smell," he related, adding: "Fortunately, we received American Red Cross food parcels each week. They never failed us. We had four ounces of coffee in the packages, which really was a Godsend."

Private Carpenter was one of 37 prisoners among the 693 persons who boarded the Gripsholm for the return trip to the United States.

End Of Progressive Education Said Here

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24 (AP)—In a prophesy of changed trends in post-war education, President Robert G. Sproul of the University of California asserted today that "so-called progressive education has run its course."

"In the approaching post-war period," he told a banquet audience in observance of the 76th anniversary of the state university's charter, "the long-time interests of the race bid fair to be given a measure of protection against the devastation of rampant adolescents and sub-adolescents."

He said the reaction would be from a 50-year trend in which "higher education swung over almost completely to the free elective system, and primary and secondary education transferred control of the school in large part from the teachers to the pupils."

House Passes Farm Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—After refusing to remove a ban against use of selective service or rationing laws to induce farmers to enlist in farm programs, the House today passed and sent to the Senate the $567,995,779 Agricultural department appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The ban against use of any of the funds for payment of salary or expenses of persons attempting to make membership in the Agricultural Adjustment administration a condition of draft deferment or of the obtaining of gasoline or rationed farm machinery was put into the bill yesterday on motion of Representative Harness (R-Ind).

Texas Welfare Cost Said Second Lowest

AUSTIN, March 24. (AP)—Texas' ratio of administrative expenditures for old age assistance to total assistance expenditures is second lowest in the nation, the Department of Public Welfare said today.

Publishing an analysis of comparative expenditures among the 48 states by Stuart Chamberlin, director of the division of research and statistics, the department noted that Texas ranks first in the number of payments, second in per cent of population over 65 receiving assistance, third in the amount of payments, but 36th in average payments and 36th in per capita income.

Other conclusions reached by Chamberlain:

Texas has an "extremely large" coverage both in terms of absolute number of recipients and in terms of the relative number of the population over 65 receiving assistance.

The average assistance payment in Texas is well below the national average. The highest prerecipient payment in the nation is made by California, $47.26, the lowest was $9.43 paid by Mississippi; the Median or average payment was $26.28, made by Montana; Texas ranked 36th with $20.72.

The County Democratic Executive committee will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon, said L. C. Ellis, chairman, on the second floor of the courthouse. Committee vacancies caused by death and resignation will be filled, and there will be a predetermination of campaign expenses, Ellis said.

Pew Calls Arabian Project Extravagant Public Waste

DALLAS, March 24. (AP)—The Petroleum Reserves corporation's proposed pipeline across Arabia was denounced by J. Edgar Pew, vice-president of the Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, in a prepared statement in Dallas today as an extravagant waste of public funds and as a quick way to embroil America in war.

The PRC is a government agency headed by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and head of the Petroleum Administration for War.

Much Already Owned

"American oil companies already own the Bahrein island near the head of the Persian Gulf and the Arabian concessions adjacent thereto with an estimated proved reserve of probably as much as ten billion barrels of crude oil," Pew said.

"There is a modern refinery already built on Bahrein island. Its capacity is being increased.

"The United States government now proposes to build a pipe line from these fields across Arabia and Palestine to the Mediterranean, a distance of 1,250 to 1,400 miles, depending on the location of the Mediterranean terminus. The actual building of this line will cost probably from 130 to 150 million dollars; even more, depending on conditions yet unknown.

Great Sums Involved

"It has been suggested that the government will build a naval terminal at the end of this pipe line and possibly a refinery. All of these expenditures by the government may easily exceed 500 million dollars.

"The line would pass through an area, largely desert, peopled by at least four contentious elements with conflicting boundaries and racial problems England has tried for years to reconcile. The hardest nut to crack might be the conflict in Palestine between the Jews and the leaders of the Arabs. England undoubtedly would be very happy if the United States would generously take this problem off her hands, especially so in view of the fact that a large terminal on the Mediterranean for this Arabian oil would be at England's disposal any time she chose.

Must Maintain Defenses

"Such a terminal could hardly be built and maintained without adequate defense. A pipeline across this country would be subject continuously to sabotage which could be prevented only by liberal tributes to conflicting interests or by armed protection along its entire length. In either event, the costs would be vast.

"The necessity for the defense of this line and the base at the eastern end of the Mediterranean might put the United States into war quickly and without any option on the part of the people as to whether we wanted to go to war. Certainly, the government would have to protect these installations immediately in case of any new war."

Invasion Hints

tinued, because though no one can tell how the future of the world will shape itself, we are determined that the dark tyrannies which have overcrowded our lives and drawn our people from their homes shall be broken and battered down, and that an example shall be made of the guilty which will prevent such tyrannies being erected again upon the masses of the people."

Churchill spoke from a jeep, bare-headed, with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower close by, along with Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom, and Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the U. S. Ninth Air force.

MONTGOMERY SAYS WAR MAY LAST FOR A YEAR

LONDON, March 24. (AP)—Returning from a tour among the forces he will lead in the invasion of the continent, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery forecast today the war probably would last another year or more.

General Montgomery, commander of the British invasion forces, described them as the best Army Britain ever had.

"We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug-of-war the world has ever seen," he said, "and if any should let go of the rope then we lose the match.

"How long will the pull last? No one can say for certain; it may last a year, it may take longer. But it will be a magnificent party, and we shall win. It will be a proper job for proper men."

General Montgomery asserted that "the promised land is not now so far off," but he warned the nation that it must not again let its forces go to war inadequately equipped.

"It must forever redound to our shame," he said, "that we sent our soldiers into this most modern war with weapons and equipment that were quite inadequate. We have only ourselves to blame for the disasters that early overtook us in the field."

Armstrong Decisions Zanelli In 10 Rounds

BOSTON, March 24 (AP) — Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, boxing's former triple champion, gained his third decisive triumph in 10 nights by outpunching rugged Ralph Zanelli of Providence tonight for an unanimous 10-round decision before a 12,941 crowd at the Boston Garden. Armstrong weighed 142 and Zanelli 148.

It is likely that this second decisive win over Zanelli will end Armstrong's professional boxing career—now in its second comeback stage—for he had been ordered to report to his Los Angeles draft board next week. If so, he will bow out with a sizeable purse, for the gross gate receipts totalled $38,395.

SUGGESTS SCRIPTURES

Editor, The Avalanche: I read in The Avalanche that you would like more information on the Sabbath Day. So here are a few Scriptures to help you in knowledge of God's truth.

First the Sabbath was given to the children of Isaiah, to the Jewish nation. It was not given to the Gentiles. 2 King 16:6; Exodus 20:8-11; Exodus 31:14-18; Leviticus 23:1-7; Nehemiah 9:14; and Ezekiel 20:12. Christ came into the world to save the Gentiles as well as the Jews. Acts 9:15 and Acts 18:6.

The Jews could not keep the law God gave to Moses. Acts 15: 1-12. The laws God gave to Moses were done away with. Galatians 3-8 to 29. So the Sabbath day was to be kept no longer. Colossians 2-14 to 17 verse. God's Word shows people are to keep law that Christ gave. Galatians 4-24-31.

New Draft Rules

open to them because of their draft-exempt status.

Under the new action, a draft board may make such a worker 2-A or 2-B which will make him subject to WMC regulations restricting job transfers.

McNutt had created the supreme new committee to ration out occupational deferments, for men under 26, and secured agreement of the Army and Navy that deferments should be considered for key men in railroading, logging, coal mining and other war-supporting industries.

The Army had held out for deferments only in a group of industries producing "must" munitions—chiefly those needed for an invasion of Europe.

Temporary Committee

Almost immediately after McNutt announced the new supercommittee, Hershey notified his state directors of the arrangement, and at the same time set up an interim procedure to be followed while McNutt's committee is organizing its permanent program.

Under the interim procedure, effective immediately, authorized representatives of the appropriate government agencies, may endorse deferment requests of employers in the industries in which the agencies are concerned. These endorsed requests will be sent straight to state draft directors at present.

The state directors do not have to accept the endorsements.

Selective service orders to all men under 26 with occupational deferments, except farm deferments, to report for pre-induction physicals unless they have been physically examined within the last 90 days does not mean these men necessarily are being put in 1-A immediately.

Accelerate Processing

Hershey told the state directors such registrants may be retained in 2-A or 2-B even after the examination and the action "is designed to accelerate the processing for induction of those who will become available for military service and to provide the director and employers with information regarding those who are not acceptable for military service."

McNutt's action as war manpower chairman, in setting up the super-committee was believed to provide a solution for the manpower crisis precipitated by the Army's sweeping demand for virtually all able-bodied men under 26.

Kenneth Dixon

have been presented official applications, each citing as authority the 24th chapter and 5th verse of Deuteronomy, which reads:

"When a man hath taken a new wife he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

Up in northern Italy a bunch of German engineers must be tearing their hair. On December 1 our bombers knocked out a certain bridge. For more than three months the Germans painstakingly rebuilt it. Yesterday, traffic was resumed across the new span.

Today the Marauders from this base went out to bomb another target and found it obscured by a low overcast. They went on to their first alternate target and it, too, was hidden.

Finally they flew to the second alternate, found a hole in the clouds and laid their bombs right on it. It was the bridge.

It was only after they returned that they found they had wrecked three months of German engineering just as it began to bear fruit.

"Dirtiest trick we ever did," said a bombardier. "If we'd only known, we'd have let them run traffic across it another day, anyhow."

Woman Given Gas To Get Away From Hubby

FORT WORTH, March 24 (AP)—A wrathful husband is definitely a hardship, the county rationing board decided.

A woman who had filed suit for divorce received a special gasoline allowance on the plea that she must flee her husband's ire. Her attorney advised her to go "fast and far."

Camacho Cracks Down On Unions

By LARRY STUNTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MEXICO CITY, March 24. — Cracking down with a speed and severity which took even senators by surprise, President Avila Camacho has ousted the unions from the last vestiges of their control of the government-owned railroad system.

The most surprising feature of the step to untangle the rail network was an order for the general manager of the system to set aside any union contract provisions which "slow up, impede or impair" operation.

Did Not Decrease Bickering

This was an unexpected here as would be New Deal repeal of the Wagner act.

President Cardenas, precessor of Avila Camacho, turned the railroads over to workers to manage. Union heads appointed the board of directors, which appointed the general manager.

This experiment did not decrease bickering between employees and the bosses, and did bring on a string of wrecks which killed more than 50 passengers in the first year of worker operation.

One of Avila Camacho's first acts was to resume government operation of the Mexican system. The U. S. came to the rescue, sending a technical commission to advise on rehabilitation and offering almost unlimited credits, of which $4,000,000 has been used.

Didn't Solve Problem

This helped, but did not solve the problem.

The manager ordered mechanics from Mexico City roundhouses to go to Acambaro to repair locomotives. They refused, citing a contract clause forbidding employees to be sent more than 35 miles away.

The management ordered two shifts installed at Acambaro and the employes refused. They didn't want to work overtime and under their contract extra help could not be hired.

What was apparently the last straw was an inter-union fight which the president solved temporarily by naming a compromise executive committee of the union. The Trainmen and boilermakers, however, objected to the compromise, withdrew from the union, and then struck because their union dues were still being deducted from salaries. After three daily three-hour strikes, the president acted.

The board of directors of the railways was abolished and a nine-man advisory board substituted. Labor has two members on this, but commerce also has two. The manager was given full power to hire without regard for union membership, and to discipline workers.

Appeal To Hungary

committee on refugees has had considerable success in actually getting people out of Nazi-dominated areas.

He indicated that he considered the first paragraph of his statement to be a summary of American foreign policy, commenting after he read it that it should answer people who have been going around asking bellhops whether this country has a foreign policy.

The paragraph reads:

"The United Nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression cannot exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice; a world in which all persons regardless of race, color or creed may live in peace, honor and dignity."

Wants Evidence Recorded

Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to the Germans and the Balkan peoples asked that they record the evidence against Nazis guilty of acts of savagery and promises that those having a part in such acts—leaders, subordinates and functionaries—will all be punished.

Prompted by the President's appeal for free countries of Europe and Asia to open their borders to refugees. A reporter asked if the United States planned to do the same. Mr. Roosevelt said we are already taking care of all we can get out. There are a good many now in North Africa, he added, but not enough to come to this country.

In another foreign policy development, Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement reaffirming America's pledge to drive the Japanese from the Philippines and grant freedom to the island people. The occasion was the 10th anniversary of the Philippine independence act.

War In Pacific

held portions of railways linking Canton and Peiping. Similar troop concentrations have been noted in the north. If Japan controlled the entire rail line, her shipping would be relieved in supplying Burma and Southwest Pacific actions.

This week the U. S. Navy has announced the sinking of 26 Japanese ships by its submarines. That makes 503 definitely sunk by submarines during the war, including 107 this year.

A Japanese plan to compel the conquered peoples to learn the Japanese language to develop "spiritual cohesion and unity" was reported by Aneta, Dutch news agency.

A comic touch was introduced by Tokyo radio. It announced Japan would establish a "greater East Asia Comic Strip Study society" and "with its formation, a large drive to crush and bring the enemy . . .to their knees will commence."

HE MAKES IT RUN

IRVINGTON, N. J., March 24 (AP)—Carl Lehroff notified police today that his automobile, which he had left outside his home last night because he could not get it to run, had been driven off by a thief who could.

And Sure Enough, Enormous Strides Come In A Hurry

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) Lt. Gen. A. A. Vandergrift, of the Marine corps, told the District of Columbia Medical society this one tonight:

"A patient came to one of our field hospitals with the complaint that he was unable to sleep at night, and the doctor advised him to eat something before going to bed.

"'But doctor,' the patient reminded him, 'two months ago you told me never to eat anything before going to bed.' The good doctor blinked and then in full professional dignity, replied: 'My boy, that was two months ago. Science has made enormous strides since then'."

Chaplin's Trial

the start of the afternoon session of court.

The forenoon session was terminated abruptly when Miss Berry broke into sobs upon the introduction of a letter she wrote Chaplin in which she said: "I know what I've done is past forgiving," and "I'm going back to New York."

Red-haired Joan sat in the witness chair staring at the floor and Charlie shifted in his chair as defense attorney Jerry Giesler read the letter.

Arguments Over Letter

There were arguments and a conference over another letter Joan wrote to Charlie from Tulsa. Judge O'Connor ruled out the first page of that letter and six lines of the second page.

During the arguments over the admissability of the letters, Miss Berry began to cry. She pleaded with the court for a recess and was led sobbing from the courtroom.

The second letter, which Giesler read, was written on stationery of the Mayo hotel in Tulsa, and was dated Nov. 18, 1942.

In the first of the letters, Miss Berry, signing herself, "Always Yours, Joan," wrote of her plans to marry another man after spending Thanksgiving with her mother.

"Then the 'fatal plunge,'" she wrote. "He wants to get married Saturday."

"By the way, I've had a lot of explaining to do as to the reason I'm in Tulsa and not in New York," she added. "Luckily the 'best girl friend and I must see her' still works."

The letter was dated Nov. 22, 1942, about a month after her trip to New York.

Previously Giesler had taken Miss Berry again over the incidents of her trip to New York upon which the Mann act charge is based. He brought out that she was accompanied by her mother and that Chaplin was not on the same train.

Wallace Assailed

TVA Chairman David E. Lilienthal played Tennessee politics—accusations flatly denied by Lilienthal. But this fight was overshadowed by that touched off today by parliamentary point of order.

The Senate vote 46 to 17 to force Wallace to submit for its decision the question of the "germaneness" of the McKellar amendment.

Wallace previously had refused to do so on the ground that it amounted to "a parliamentary trick" to prevent a vote on another point of order: That the amendment involved legislation which had no place in an appropriations bill.

"I denounce the statement of the chair that I've undertaken to trick the chair," McKellar shouted furiously. "I think its damnable for any one to say that. I don't resort to tricks. It should be withdrawn."

Asserting that he meant no reflection on McKellar, Wallace said he was "happy to do so." However, he insisted on ruling the amendment improperly offered.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) jumped up to demand that the Senate overrule Wallace, asserting the question at issue was "whether the vice president can openly, fragrantly and brazenly disregard the rules of the Senate in ruling that an amendment is not germane."

After forcing the vice president to submit the question, the Senate subsequently by voice vote overruled his decision. Subsequently Wallace overruled the second point out of order on the ground that the Senate already had settled the issue by its previous vote.

Petain Holds Only Utter Contempt For Vichy's Nazi Laval

By TAYLOR HENRY
Associated Press Correspondent
(Just Returned from Internment in Germany)

NEW YORK, March 24. — So great is the contempt which France's Marshal Philip Petain feels for Permier Laval that he refuses to have any relations with him except on official business.

It is an open secret in Vichy.

Petain does not attempt to conceal from his friends that he tolerates Laval only because it is the only means by which he can maintain the fiction of an independent Vichy government.

Might Be Worse

Supporters of the marshal add that he feels if he ousted Laval, the Germans might force on him someone worse—if possible.

Laval, less openly, uses the marshal's still substantial popularity and reputation for honesty as a cover for his collaborationist policies. "Black Peter," as Laval is known in France, has shown by his actions in Vichy that he knows that without the protection of the marshal it would take Nazi bayonets to keep him in power.

The first clash between the two key figures in France today came during the days of secret negotiations before Laval took office. He tried to force the aged marshal to name him his official successor.

Kicked Out Once

Petain refused. He already had kicked Laval out of the government once before, in December, 1940. At that time Laval was Petain's official heir, designated to succeed Petain automatically.

Petain issued a special decree putting responsibility for selection of his successor on the French cabinet.

The thick-skinned Laval accepted the situation on orders of his German friends who told him it made no difference. He even tried to establish personal relations with the marshal. Laval was told firmly and none too politely by the marshal that he might have to accept Laval as a business partner but not even a Nazi occupation could make him accept Laval as a friend.

Deep-Seated Difference

The difference between the two men is deep-seated. Petain is a militarist in the straight-laced sense of the word.

Laval, on the other hand, is a wily politician in the worst sense of the word. He often has changed his political coat to meet the needs of the moment.

Petain never has understood nor liked Laval.

Their only common meeting ground is their mutual hatred of communism. That serves as only a feeble link because Petain has indicated to his close associates that he is not sure Laval wouldn't turn communist if he thought it would save his political skin.

Higher Price For Gasoline Proposed

DALLAS, March 24 (AP)— Maston Nixon of Corpus Christi, president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, has an answer to the complex oil situation.

American automobile owners, he said in a statement here yesterday, would be glad to pay 1c more per gallon for gasoline in order to assure an ample future supply.

Said Nixon: "Now that steel and other materials needed to drill wells are more plentiful, the producers of crude oil should be unshackled so that they may drill when and where in their judgment is best. Their capacity to produce developed before the war is best proof of the soundness of this policy."

Nixon made his statement as the American association of petroleum geologists closed their 1944 convention in Dallas.

The AAPG heard John L. Rich, University of Cincinnati (Ohio) geology-geography department head declare that South America is rich in potential oil reserves. He said, the finding and development of that oil promises to be more than ordinarily difficult.

The problem of whether crude oil in a pool can be recovered best by spacing the wells close to each other or at various distances occupied the concluding technical session of the association.

Neither car was driveable after the mishap, police stated.

Export Of More Farm Tools Urged By FDR

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP) —President Roosevelt, saying the United States will have 5,000,000 men overseas by July 1, indicated today that he considered this a good reason in itself for sending more agricultural machinery aboard.

The president mentioned this figure in a discussion at his press-radio conference of farm machinery exports. He said less than 2 per cent of the available American supply of farm machinery has been exported under lend-lease and noted that Britain, Australia and New Zealand are supplying large quantities of food to American troops under reverse lend-lease.

Mr. Roosevelt first disclosed the plans to have 5,000,000 men overseas by mid-year in his address last Christmas eve.

By three to two, the tribunal reaffirmed two decisions of 1936 holding absentee voting unconstitutional.

Loss Of Transports Said Just One Of All-Out War Results

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP) —Secretary of War Stimson said today that the pilots of 23 American transport planes shot down by friendly gunfire during the invasion of Sicily were operating under a "completely unified high command."

A reporter raised the question of command at the secretary's press conference by citing an overseas dispatch which said that the Army and Navy were under joint command during the Sicilian invasion, while the air force operated separately. Neither the questioner nor Stimson identified the dispatch which indicated loss of the planes with 410 personnel may have been due to lack of coordination.

Statement Said Untrue

"The statement that the air forces operated separately in the Sicilian landing operation or in any other joint operation in this war is untrue," Stimson said, "and is a complete disservice to the fine men of the Army Air forces.

"The blame, if we must highlight censure for every unfortunate circumstance in war, most certainly does not lie with the pilots of those transport planes who were carrying their human cargo under orders laid down for them by a completely unified high command."

Combination Of Circumstances

"The loss of the planes in the case you mention," Stimson continued, "resulted from a combination of circumstances that may occur in spite of the best layed and most meticulous planning. I know of no more complicated operation in war than an amphibious operation at night involving only sea and ground personnel, but airborne troops as well.

Stimson was asked if any disciplinary or other action had been taken or was contemplated concerning Sgt. Jack Fosie, Stars and Stripes, correspondent who first revealed publicly in San Francisco the story of the Sicilian plane episode.

"No action has been taken and none is contemplated," he replied.

Tennis Honors Evenly Divided

Winners in the tennis tournament, the crowning event on the two day sports carnival, were well divided Friday afternoon with the netters battling until the mantle of darkness shut off the tournament with the boys' singles crown still undetermined.

Durwood Sanders, Quanah singles player, and a former Lubbock boy, and John Allen of Amarillo battled into the finals in boys singles, but were unable to finish the match before darkness halted it after one set with Allen holding a lead after a bitter battle, 6-4.

The Lubbock boys doubles team of Delbert Cooper and Jerry LeMond battered their way through two Amarillo teams to annex the doubles crown.

Lamesa, Amarillo Win

In the girls' division, Lamesa and Amarillo divided the honors of the meet with Virginia Broyles of Lamesa sweeping over Myrth Howard of Amarillo and Betty Nance of Lubbock to win without losing a set.

The girls doubles team from Amarillo, made up of Pat Jackson and Ginger Owens, did the same in the girls doubles to sweep through Lamesa and Lubbock to the title.

The girls games, played at the Texas Tech courts, found Broyles winning from Howard, 6-1, 6-0, then from Nance by a more bitterly fought battle, 6-3, 6-4.

Jackson and Owens avenged the loss of their singles team mate, winning over the Lamesa girls team by the same 6-1, 6-0 score, then beating Francys Peters and Juanice Bagwell of Lubbock, 6-3, 6-2.

Top Upset

Perhaps the greatest upset of the meet in the first round of the boys doubles as the Lubbock B team of Johnny Cole and Louis Hawkins upset the favored Quanah team of Billy Cole and Roy Neal Hughes in two bitterly fought sets, each 7-5.

The other game in the upper bracket brought a victory to the Amarillo A team of John Allen and Jack Laing over Lamesa's H. L. Crouch and Wayne Roberts by a 6-1, 6-3 count.

In the lower bracket, the Amarillo B team of Warner Wilson and Hayden Hardin rolled over the Shallowater boys, 6-0, 6-1, to reach the semi-finals.

In the semi-finals Allen and Laing roared into the finals with a 6-2, 6-2 win over Cole and Hawkins while Cooper and LeMond encountered their toughest test of the day before winning over Wilson and Hardin, 6-4, 7-5.

Lubbock Victory

In the finals, Cooper and LeMond won handily from Allen and Laing by a 6-3, 6-1 count.

Amarillo put two men in the semi-finals and Quanah one as the result of first round wins, while Billy Walker of Lubbock reached the semi-finals by a bye.

Bill Reville of Amarillo reached the semi-finas with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Glen Ray White of Lamesa while John Allen, the other Amarillo boy went into the semi-finals with a 6-1, 6-0 win over the Shallowater entry.

Durwood Sanders reached the semi-final round after a hard battle with David Hester of Lubbock, 6-3, 7-5.

John Allen eliminated the Lubbock A star, Billy Walker to reach the finals, being hard pressed in the first set, but taking the last set in a breeze to win 6-4, 6-0.

Sanders again encountered stiff opposition in the semi-final bout, but came through with flying colors against Reville, 7-5, 6-3.

The finals played off only one set which Allen had won, 6-4, but was called to allow the two to start to share the honors for the meet.

Lubbock Trackmen Take Top Honors In Triangular Meet

Chalking up 13 first places in the 14 events, the Lubbock Westerners roared to the front in the triangular meet here Friday afternoon to roll up 94 1-2 points to 51 1-2 points for Amarillo. Lamesa accounted for two points in the meet.

Individual honors of the day went to Bobby Martyn, fleet footed dash man, who roared down the runways for first places in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and ran a leg on the winning 440 yard relay team from Lubbock. His 11 1-4 points nosed out his team mate, Buddy Boles, who skimmed the lumber for first places in both high and low hurdles.

These two lads were the only men in the meet to capture two first places but the meet brought out some fine records for an early season session with perhaps the peak of the afternoon reached in the pole vault.

Dean Goes High

Clifford Dean soared into the ozone to a peak of 11 feet, 3 inches before he was able to eliminate Johnny Davis, his team mate, who cleared the bar at 11 feet before being dropped from the running.

Two other events that set some good time records, but not a shattering of established marks, came in the 880 yard run and the mile relay, both won by Lubbock.

Jim Lowrey, fast improving half-miler of the Westerners, set a blistering pace in the finish to come up from fourth place to win the 880 yard run with the nice time of 2 minutes, 9.5 seconds.

The finishing touch to the meet was put on in the mile relay as the Lubbock team of Lindsey, Nichols, Brewer and Grimes stormed around the oval in 3 minutes, 38.2 seconds to beat out a good Amarillo team.

The lone first place registered by the visiting Sandies came as Mixon headed the shot put for 39 feet, 2 inches, a mark that is not bad for the early season events.

The Lamesa track team brought only a part of it's personnel to Lubbock for the meet, and the only points came from Billingsley, who romped home in third place in the half mile with another great finish, but one that failed to overhaul Lowrey and Butler of Lubbock in the home stretch.

Most of the Lubbock points can be accounted for in the 13 first places, four of them by Martyn and Boles, and another aided by Martyn. To this, the Westerners added five second places in the meet. Amarillo added seven second place winners to the lone first, and placed two men in a three-way tie with a Lubbock man in the high jump for second.

The summary:

High hurdles—Boles (Lubbock), first; Grimes (Lubbock), second; Emery (Lubbock), third; Dixson (Amarillo), fourth. Time 16.2 seconds.

Low hurdles—Boles (Lubbock), first; Emery (Lubbock), second; McGinley (Amarillo), third; Dixson (Amarillo), fourth. Time 25.2 seconds.

100-yard dash—Martyn (Lubbock), first; Latson (Amarillo), second; McGinley (Amarillo), third; Sessums (Lubbock), fourth. Time 10.7 seconds.

220-yard dash—Martyn (Lubbock), first; McGee (Amarillo), second; Latson (Amarillo), third; Sessums (Lubbock), fourth. Time 23.8 seconds.

440-yard dash—Moore (Lubbock), first; McGee (Amarillo), second; Nichols (Lubbock), third; Smith (Amarillo), fourth. Time 53.2 seconds.

Gee Reports Arm Is Once More In Shape

MUNCIE, Ind., March 24. (AP) — Pitcher Johnny Gee, the 6-foot-9-inch southpaw, picked up by the Pittsburgh Pirates four years ago for $35,000 only to wreck his arm on the first day in spring camp, now appears ready to begin paying dividends.

Gee is one of eight hurlers, half of whom are 4-F's, training with the Bucs at the Muncie camp and has shown signs of recovering the form which made him a 20-game winner for Syracuse, N. Y., in 1939.

The following spring, in San Bernardino, Calif., Gee was welcomed into camp in the morning and had lost effectiveness by afternoon. Observers said the misery set in when he opened up by throwing curves.

"I guess I just threw too hard too soon, that's all," Gee recalled today. "But now my arm feels fine. I only hope I can do the Bucs some good this year."

Manager Frankie Frisch thinks he can and will.

Gee reported to the Pirates this spring in fine trim after coaching soccer and basketball at Groton, N. Y., High and may be used in an exhibition game against Cleveland here Sunday.

Aggies Nose By Dow Chemicals In Opener

COLLEGE STATION, March 24. (AP) — Big Bill Johnson, catcher, and little Red Burditt, second baseman, hit in the clinches here today and the Texas Aggies nosed out the Dow Chemicals 7-6 in the season's baseball opener.

Burditt hit four for four, one of them to put the Aggies in the lead in the 6th, with three on base.

Cooper Noses Past Frenship Nine, 7-5

COOPER, March 24. — The Cooper High school baseball nine nosed out the Frenship lads here this afternoon in a renewal of their diamond feud, winning a 7 to 5 decision over the visitors.

Sooter did the chunking for the local nine with Cornell handling the catching end of the battery. Sims and Dowger made up the Frenship battery.

Wood, Hines In Tie At Durham

DURHAM, N. C., March 24 (AP) The veterans Craig Wood and Jimmy Hines trapped out four under par 67s over the short, muddy Hillandale course today to lead the field at the end of the first 18-hole round of the $5,000 Durham Open tournament.

The 42-year-old Wood, last winner of the National Open, put together nine-hole scores of 32 and 35 and Hines, 38-year-old chipshot artist from Amsterdam, N. Y., went out in 35 and streaked home in 32.

Hard on the heels of the leaders came Byron Nelson, the pre-tournament favorite, with a 68 that included five birdies.

Skip Alexander, a Durham boy now in the Army, gave the hometown fans a treat by knocking out a 34 on the front nine but skidded to a 37 coming back and was deadlocked at 71 with five other players, Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., recent winner of the North and South at Pinehurst, Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., winner of the Texas Open last month, Frank Strazza of Greenwich, Conn., Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., and Jimmy Johnston of Farmington, Mich.

Jug McSpaden, the leading winner of the winter swing, headed a list of another six players bracketed at 72, including Ed Furgol of Detroit, who bested the amateurs.

George McAllister, an amateur from Spartanburg, S. C., knocked in a hole in one on No. 4 but wound up with a big 80 just the same.

Idalou Trackmen Win Meet With Lorenzo

IDALOU, March 24. (Special)—In a practice dual meet this afternoon between Idalou and Lorenzo High school track squads, the Idalou boys seemed to be the better performers on their home grounds, only one Lorenzo youth winning a first place.

But this youngster, a junior, Kirksey of Lorenzo, tied a senior, Ulan Gregory of Idalou in the high jump with a leap of five feet, four inches over the bar. H. Boyd, an Idalou junior, also tied D. Truett, an Idalou senior, in the 100. In the 440-yard relay, the junior runners from Idalou also tied senior runners in a time of 48 seconds.

Other results: 50-yard dash (juniors), H. Boyd, Idalou, 6.5 seconds; 100-yard dash (juniors), H. Boyd, D. Truett (seniors), 11.5 seconds; broad jump (junior), H. Boyd, 16 feet, six inches; broad jump (senior), Ulan Gregory, Idalou, 18 feet, 2 inches; discus, Gregory, Idalou, 76 feet, three inches; shot put, Sneed, Idalou, 33 feet; 200-yard low hurdles, Kelly, Idalou, 25 seconds; 220-yard dash, Kelly, Idalou, 24 seconds; 880-yard run, M. Sower, Idalou, 2 minutes, 8 seconds; mile relay, Idalou (Kelly, Bishop, Sowder, DeBusk), 3 minutes, 45 seconds; 120-yard high hurdles, E. Sowder, Idalou, 14.5 seconds.

Auburn Gets Voyles As New Grid Coach

AUBURN, Ala., March 24 (AP)—The Auburn Tigers, longtime giant-killers of intercollegiate football, will return to the gridiron next autumn under a new coach and athletic director, Carl M. Voyles.

Succeeding Lieut. Comdr. Jack Meagher, who entered Naval service at conclusion of the 1942 season, Voyles comes to Auburn from the College of William and Mary under a six-year contract salary terms were undisclosed.

Announcement of Voyles' resignation from William and Mary, and his appointment at Auburn, came almost simultaneously from Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of W. and M., and Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

At least two bowl teams have gone into post-season games with Auburn as the only blemish on their schedule. Mississippi State's 1940 team, which went to the Orange Bowl, was tied 7-7.

Georgia's Frank Sinkwich & company—headed for the Rose Bowl where they eventually defeated USLA—were upset 27-13 by Auburn in 1942.

Prospects for 1944 are uncertain. Only Curtis Kuykendall, reserve halfback, remains from the 1942 squad. Voyles is expected to play 17-year-olds and 4-F's.

At William and Mary, Voyles' teams won 29, lost seven and tied three in four seasons.

El Paso High Signs Brown As Grid Coach

EL PASO, March 24 (AP)—Kenneth Brown will be head football coach of El Paso High school next season. Brown succeeds Ross Moore, now in the Navy.

Brown, who came to El Paso from Baker university of Baldwin, Kans., was assistant to Moore last fall.

Central Ward Wins Over Carter Coyotes

The Central Ward Spurs took both halves of a double bill from the K. Carter Coyotes in the grade school volleyball leagues Friday afternoon at the High school gym.

The boys won a 36 to 24 victory while the girls encountered more trouble, but won a 33 to 31 thriller.

Dodds Captures Two Miler At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 24 (AP) — Gil Dodds, indoor king of the milers, failed in his attempt to crack Greg Rice's world's indoor two-mile record tonight, finishing 14.3 seconds over the mark of 8 minutes 51 seconds established by Rice at the Knights of Columbus games here last year.

The meet saw one world's record fall before Dodds came to the track. Ed Conwell, New York University national dash champion, and Claude (Buddy) Young of Illinois, each ran the 45-yard dash one-tenth of a second faster than the mark of 4.8 seconds set last year by Herb Thompson of Jersey City, now in the Coast Guard. Young sped the distance in a preliminary heat but was second to Conwell in the finals, when the New Yorker matched the new time.

Dodds finished a lap and a half ahead of his nearest competitor in the distance event. He traveled the first quarter in 66 seconds and was moving at a world's record pace of two minutes, 12 seconds after the first half mile.

The best health year on record in the U. S. was 1942.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Isn't The U. S. Still Free?

IT IS astonishing that any official in the American democracy would have the effrontery to make a statement like one attributed the other day to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.

Mr. Knox declared on this occasion that oil companies should be forbidden to "interfere" with the administration's planned construction, at taxpayer expense, of a 150-million dollar oil pipeline in Arabia.

The only "interference" that has been offered by oil companies, and a great many others, has been to oppose the pipeline project on the grounds that it is unsound, uneconomical and dangerous to the future peace of the United States. Thus, clearly, Mr. Knox has proposed that a large and important segment in the American democracy be forbidden to criticise and oppose a tremendously costly project that the administration would undertake.

Statements by Knox himself are the proof that prospects are remote that the proposed pipeline could make any contribution to the victory effort in Europe. He has said that the pipeline should be started at once because "at least 18 months" would be required for its completion. Most of us are hopeful that the war in Europe will be finished before then. Thus, it seems most unlikely that the pipeline would be any help in the present war. On the contrary, it appears logical that ships could be put to better use right now than to start hauling the materials for a 1,200-mile pipeline to the shores of Arazia more than 5,000 miles away.

Nor has Mr. Knox, or anyone else, said anything to answer the logical argument that the future peace of the United States would be endangered if it should sponsor a project in the powder keg of Arabia where the interests of such nations as Russia, Britain, Turkey, France and others have been in sharp conflict for decades.

However, it makes no difference in this instance whether the pipeline is good or bad. Even if it was the best thing conceivable for the United States, it still would be the right of any American citizen to cirticise and oppose it.

It is disturbing to those who believe in the American democracy that any official in a position like that occupied by Frank Knox—and he isn't, by a long shot, the only one of his kind in the administration—would dare to oppose openly that the exercise of the right to express opinions should be forbidden.

Some Reassuring Evidence

THE prominent display in most newspapers of the FBI report the other day of the arrests of 33 Baltimore shipyard workers on payroll fraud charges was reassuring evidence that things of this kind are few.

Everyone can understand that, under the conditions existing, opportunities for frauds of many kinds have been without previous parallel. It would not have been surprising to any practical-minded person if a great many more people had succumbed to the temptation to posses themselves of what might look to them like some "easy money."

Yet, despite the opportunities so many people have had over a considerable period of time to commit acts as bad, or worse, than those disclosed in the Baltimore shipyards, scandals of that nature have been negligibly few. It is to be assumed, of course, that there have been frauds which have not been uncovered as yet. It is entirely probable that a few—though very few—may never be revealed. But it is a certainty that, if conditions like those reported in the Baltimore case were widespread and had continued over any considerable time, some of them would be discovered from time to time. Even an inefficient law enforcement organization could not keep from stumbling over violators now and then if they were numerous—and not even the worst critics would suggest that FBI is inefficient.

The logical supposition is that disclosures of this kind have been few for the simple reason that violations have been few. They have been so few, in fact, that the uncovering of the Baltimore case called for "big headlines" in most newspapers. The occurrence was given added value as news because such things have been so rare.

Let's hope that such things will continue to rate the big headlines. If the time should come that occurrences of the kind are so common that they cease to be "big news," then this nation will have a real cause for worry on its mind.

We studied English grammar until we reached a chapter on the use of the verbs lay, lie, sit and set and their principal parts. After giving this chapter the once-over, we threw the book away and abandoned all notions of learning English.

The One Minute Sermon

Ye are the children of the Lord your God: ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.

It horribly suggested a macabre modern ballet. At the apex of two shafts of light Ben knelt; swung forward, paused — sank back. Swung forward; paused; an arc of desperate rhythm. Stretched limply flat along the ground, Randall's body looked unnaturally elongated. Mag stood at his head; tall, frozen. Hidden in the heavy curtain of night around them Kitty closed her eyes but a shutter in her mind stayed open and she kept on seeing Ben arch forward, back, across the black angle that the two Seatons made against the light.

She lived in nightmare time again, fluid yet static. She was surrounded by things that couldn't be real and yet were. Mag's voice flaying her before Peg's friends, threatening her outside in the dark, and through her, Randall. Again her mind finally made a connection between the sound of a running motor but no car appearing and sent her flying toward the garage and Randall. What she found set her to screaming for Ben, hopelessly and desperately.

"All right, all right," he had called back as he came. "You're waking the dead. What — My God!"

It was Peg who snapped up the kitchen shades and let the light stream out. She called the doctor. Someone drove a car up the drive so that its headlights glared on Randall's crumpled body. And Ben began the artificial respiration they'd all practiced in First Aid, unable in their hearts to believe they'd ever use it.

Kitty never knew who took her in the house. The party had disappeared like smoke. Peg was upstairs, trying to explain it all away to Jane.

Mac came in.

"Well," he said, "that's the time you didn't fall sunny side up."

Kitty looked at him and noticed that his face was pale to grayness before she answered. She remembered, as the pictures flashed past yet again in her mind, that Mac's big figure hadn't been among the shadows of the men who worked over Randall, forcing in the oxygen, forcing out the poisonous monoxide from the exhaust of Ben's car.

"Let me tell you something," said Kitty in a tight voice curiously older in tone than it had been an hour ago, "I'm tired of being the one who slips on the banana peel so that everybody else can laugh and feel better—"

"Good God who's laughing?"

"Nobody, and they'd better not. You're not; you're angry because it made you squeamish to see Randall — well, to see Randall. And you're worried, too."

"I suppose you mean Mag. But how about—"

"Did you know she threatened to divorce Randall? Where would that leave you?"

"And where," said Mac, "would it leave you? Listen, my pretty, why turn on me?"

Because you're part of the muddle, thought Kitty with the new part of her mind that worked too clearly. Because you asked without wanting and I responded—a little—without caring. And it might have gone on, still without meaning, if Collins hadn't come.

"I'm an accident!" Kitty cried out loud. "And everything that's happened to me has been an accident. I'm sick of it! I was sorry for Randall, naturally I was. It was one muddler to another. But these people who were here tonight — they were shocked, but they've gone home and by now they've had a drink and they feel better and they're buzzing! About me, about Mag, about Randall. It's their fault, too! Don't you suppose Mag knew they always called her "poor Mag"? And that she knew they knew she had a new coat every fourth year instead of every second year? And that they sat and sewed the Seatons' troubles in the seams of every pair of Red Cross pajama pants they made? Randall knew it, too. So he took a drink and Mag said something sharp and — All these nice respectable one car and mortgage people! They were always awfully kind, but they talked too much. They've almost killed Randall Seaton—"

"Wait a minute," said Mac. "If you don't like it here why don't you go back where you came from?"

Kitty felt as though something inside her were being wrung very slowly.

She knew why Mac wanted to hurt her; the trouble was that he succeeded. She couldn't go back where she came from. And in a dreary clairvoyant perspective she saw herself whirling wretchedly along from mistake to mistake, accident to accident, because she couldn't go back where she came from; back to Collins.

Mac's world was threatened too and so he hated her, temporarily.

"Why don't you go home?" Kitty asked. Even her eyes were drained of color, water gray in her white face. "What's the use of our hitting at each other? What good will that do either Mag or Randall? You're selfish and I'm stupid and the town's small-minded, and among us we've ruined the Seatons. There's no use in our trying to take it out on each other."

"I'm not anxious to stay," Mac sank unhappily from hostility to sullenness. "And I may be selfish but you're right, I'm not stupid. This world plays favorites every time. It makes me hot! You can stand there and wince about the Seatons but I'd be willing to lay every cent I have that none of this is going to cost you a nickel. You'll go away and find a new place but our small-minded friends that you're so stern about will see that a lot of other people pay, including Peg and Ben—"

"Go away," whispered Kitty. "Go away."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A 12-YEAR-OLD Cleveland boy has just entered Yale university, the youngest student on record.

According to the news story, he spoke a complete sentence at the age of four months and has an I. Q. of 182, or a mental age of 20.

On his first birthday, he read through a first grade reader for 5-year olds and at the age of 22 months, he picked out a Liszt melody on the piano.

His ambition is to get his Ph. D degree before he is 16.

I have always been sorry for child prodigies and for trained seals. Both miss so much.

As you know, there is a very interesting children's quiz program on the radio, where 7 and 8 and 10-year-old kids do astounding acrobatics in mathematics, history, music and what not.

I have never met any of the performers, but I sympathize with them.

They don't sound at all like the kids on our block or the kind of kids I used to know when I was their age.

They sound too good to be true. And most wonder children of whom I have known, when they grew up, didn't get any further than normal kids to whom a classroom or a schoolbook was just something to get away from as quickly as possible.

Youth is such a wonderful possession and such a brief one.

George Bernard Shaw, the old synic, complained once that it is too bad that youth is wasted on children.

He is all wrong. Youth is wasted on adults. It is the too fussy grown-up who robs the child of the one thing that is all his own—his youth.

There should be education. There should be a certain amount of discipline.

But please remember that youth is SPRING.

DON'T you see how, in Spring, all nature bursts its shells, its fetters and its crusts to break out into color and glory?

"Don't you see the colts, the ewes, the calves leaping and gamboling and daring and exploring?

Don't you, yourself, feel in that aging soul of yours, a resurgence of what once was gaiety and strength and adventure and—just a bit of naughtiness?

So, let the children have their fling! Let them have baseball instead of cube roots, a bit of jazz instead of Beethoven, let them have Spring while they ARE Spring.

With Calvin Cooldige, I'm "agin sin," but with Charles Kingsley I say:

"When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad
And every lass a queen;
Then hey, for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course, lad
And every dog his day."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE administration has been driven belatedly to tackle the liquor shortage because of warnings that the problem may produce scandals rivaling the gangster practices which killed prohibition. At the behest of the White House, the Treasury, the Agriculture department and industry have undertaken a survey designed to discover new sources of alcoholic ingredients.

Henry Morgenthau explored every phase of the perplexing subject recently in an off-the-record session with distillers ,retailers, Senate investigators, representatives of the War Production board, the Office of Price Administration and the War Food administration. Everyone submitted gloomy reports on the spread of black markets, hijacking, bootlegging, sales discriminations, the appearance of undrinkable brands and popular dissatisfaction.

With higher taxes effective on April 1, the Secretary of the Treasury expressed fear that the nine hundred million dollars of annual revenue expected from this quarter will not be realized unless a larger volume of booze can be manufactured.

THREATENED: Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada, chairman of a Senate committee now looking into the whole question, charged that sufficient liquor at low prices can be provided if the government will prosecute the "whisky trust" and force it to disgorge hoarded gallons.

While none mentioned such a sordid topic as politics, Democratic strategists suspect that this issue will cost them votes among normally friendly elements of the electorate.

The April Fool's Day duties will boost the cost to consumers from 65 cents to $1 a quart, making it impossible for the average man to indulge. Meanwhile, he will have to look on thirstily while luckier fellows hog the beverages available to those in the dough.

The conferees agreed that no program of expansion should be adopted which threatened to interfere with production of alcohol for military purposes. But there was general belief that the situation can be relieved as to amount and cost if the interests involved make a sincere and unselfish effort to improve conditions.

MOLASSES: The distrillers' oft-submitted proposal that grains be utilized in a liquor-making holiday was ruled out by War Food administration experts with the argument that these products are needed as feed for cattle, a more important commodity. Moveover, a reservoir of wheat, corn etc. must be built up so that the United States may supply starving Europeans after the conflict.

WPB representatives explained that they have already okayed a project that will produce war alcohol from wood, adding that this enterprise will be expanded if developments warrant it. They may also approve a plan for making military fluids from petroleum. Success in these fields will permit diversion of some grain into the vats of liquor manufacturers.

Senator McCarran declared that certain distillers have inventories of alcohol, while some are suffering from scarcities. He recommended that these stores be divided among various makers of well-known blends. He also expressed belief that larger amounts of blackstrap molasses could be imported from Caribbean and South American areas, now that the submarine menace has been whipped.

PROHIBITION: The discussion eventually angled off to the prospect of using additional crops as possible sources of ingredients for potable stuff. These included potatoes, fruits, vegetables and other items susceptible of fermentation.

In short, the frank and exhaustive unbosoming boiled down to this: If everyone from Morgenthau down to the white-coated bartenders along Pennsylvania Avenue will exercise the same ingenuity and inventiveness that have solved so many other emergency problems, Uncle Sam can win the war without going on the wagon—or going broke.

SQUABBLING: President Roosevelt's strongest political stronghold threatens to crack under new domestic and international pressures. His liberal friends of all sorts of stripes are swapping punches, and some of the stray, aimless blows may hit him if he seeks re-election.

Progressive like Senators Hiram W. Johnson of California and Robert Marion La Follette of Wisconsin deserted him long ago. They dislike his foreign program, especially as they believe he has thrown overboard his philosophy of enonomic and social idealism at home. Neither will take the stump or say a good word for him in the campaign.

The Norris-La Guardia-Marcantonio faction still trails along, accepting the rightist swing as one of the penalties of the war. But the former Nebraska senator is too old to play an active part in the ballot contest. Mayor La Guardia and Rep. Marcantonio have scant national influence, although they may control some American Labor Party votes in New York.

Pinkish radicals and long-haired Bohemians assail the more robust Johnson-La Follette breed for its defection. For weeks they have carried on guerrilla battles in their respective magazines and newspapers. Moscow's followers back FDR when he agrees with Stalin, or vice versa, but the Soviet dictator's acrobatic antics have left them speechless and leaderless.

Vice President Wallace and Secretary H. Ickes have been assigned the task of reuniting and holding these soldiers of reform for the Democrats. But so far their intervention has been productive of only fiercer yowling and squabbling.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE possibility that Axis agents in Eire spy on American troop movements is only one of the delicate problems the United Nations confront involving neutrals.

Military leaders see the coming invasion as touch and go to such an extent that a mere "straw" of aid given to the enemy may tip the balance between Allied victory and reverses. Hence it is probable that Washington, London and Moscow will re-examine the questions of Swedish iron ore, Turkish chrome and other economic leaks which help the Germans.

New York bankers have figures to show that in 1942 and 1943 Portugal sent to Axis-dominated Europe around 1.200 tons of tin and a considerable amount of tin concentrates. Such trade is permissible in international law; nevertheless, this metal will be used for weapons to fight American boys.

Berlin also has a grievance to settle with Dr. Salazar. At his request the British installed magnetic mine detectors in the port of Lisbon and loaned RAF instructors for his small air force. Visitors reveal that ships are constantly unloading war materiel of American and British manufacture.

CENSOR: A New York correspondent from the Iberian Peninsula states that at the outbreak of war, Franco wanted to join the Axis as a belligerent, and suggested to his neighbor dictator that both should team with Hitler. But Salazar bluntly told Franco that should Madrid take such a step it would be the most terrible of blunders. His advice apparently restrained the impulsive Spaniard.

However, the Portuguese ruler has a strange way of showing his reputed friendship for the democracies. American and British publications containing any criticism of Lisbon's actions are barred from entry. No public mention can be made of Eisenhower's coming invasion. The censor suppressed a reference to Portugues shipments of Wolfram to the Reich, voiced in the British Parliament.

NYLON: New York spokesmen for hosiery manufacturing corporations caution women not to raise their hopes too high. Even when the fighting ends, they say, several months and maybe a year will elapse before most shops will have nylon stockings.

The industry now has the machine capacity to supply most of the normal trade after switching from war work. But adjustments in thread reconversion and in hosiery mills will cause delay. It will take time to replanish the thousands of distributing outlets, as practically all are completely out of the "miracle yarn."

Here And There In Texas

W. L. Clayton Has Big Job, But That Isn't New To Him

By BRACK CURRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, March 24. — It's a long trail from a Mississippi cotton farm to disposing of 50 to 100 billion dollars of war materials but W. L. Clayton of Houston, recently named director of the Surplus War Property administration, has lapped it in galloping strides.

At 15, Clayton was recognized as a wizard at shorthand. At 24 he founded his own cotton firm.

As head of Anderson, Clayton and Co., this quiet, shaggy-maned Texan became the world's biggest cotton merchant. His firm girdled the globe.

Now he has shouldered one of the key jobs in the broad task of demobilizing the nation and easing it back to normalcy after the war.

Used To Big Jobs

To one less accustomed to handling vast quantities of goods and dealing in astronomic figures the magnitude of the task of selling surplus war goods might be baffling. But not Clayton.

In his 64 years he has become accustomed to big jobs and big figures. In one seven-year period he peddled one billion dollars worth of cotton. Anderson, Clayton and Co., under his direction, seldom failed to handle as much as 2,000,000 bales of U. S. cotton in a year.

Referring to his new post, Clayton says "It won't be an easy job but it's got to be done. I think I'll like it."

ONE OF HIS first jobs wasn't easy, either. Born on a cotton farm near Tupelo, Miss., the son of a railroad contractor, Clayton left school after the eighth grade and mastered shorthand. Among his first customers was William Jennings Bryan, who made Clayton do over a speech because the margins were too narrow.

Clayton was 14 at the time. A year later a St. Louis cotton firm hired him for his stenographic skill. Soon Clayton was in Manhattan as secretary to a cotton dealer.

When this company failed he went west to Oklahoma City and at 24 founded his own firm—Anderson, Clayton and Co. Before his retirement in 1940 the firm had attained preeminence among the world's cotton merchants.

Lived Simply In Houston

Before going to Washington in 1940, Clayton lived simply in a two-story brick house in Houston. Each morning he walked the 48 blocks to his office. Seldom was he seen at clubs or on golf links.

When his friend Jesse Jones called him to Washington to be assistant federal loan administrator, Clayton severed all active connection with his firm. Later he became assistant Secretary of Commerce.

THOUGH few war goods will be sold before peacetime, Clayton already is busy with organization plans. The minutes the war ends he hopes to start the conversion of plants from war goods to civilian production.

Perhaps his biggest headache will stem from the disposal of government-financed war plants, running the gamut from tool shops to airplane plants and sprawling shipyards. Many are owned outright by the government.

Clayton must decide which will be retained to fabricate civilian goods, which will be junked. Only as a last resort will any plant be scrapped, he promises, adding "We'll explore every possibility of using them."

Texans Good Canners

Texas homemakers canned 199 million containers of food in 1943. The average conserved per family is well above the national average, Miss Mildred Horton, vice director of Texas A&M's Extension service, said.

THOUGH he wasn't an accomplice, Federal District Judge James C. Wilson of Fort Worth received first-hand information on how an envious house girl ran afoul with the law.

Judge Wilson was studying court opinions after his wife had retired for the night.

A knock at the door of his home brought the judge to face a crying girl. She was in need of help, explaining she had been left to watch the children next-door while the parents went to a birthday ball—she didn't know which one.

In the meantime, the girl said she had received word that her baby in Cleburne was seriously ill, and would the judge please come stay with neighbor's children so she could leave.

Judge Wilson didn't know the family or the girl, but he went to the home. The girl departed. The judge finally tucked the two children—three and six years of age—into bed.

Aha! A Plot!

The neighbors finally arrived, more than surprised to find the judge tending their children. The judge explained his presence.

About then, however, the mother discovered some of her clothing and silverware were missing.

The missing girl was located through her family two days later. All of the missing clothing had been worn.

"You had good clothes, I didn't, and I resented it," the girl told the mother.

About 35,000 war refugees are now living in Sweden.

OFF TO A FLYING START

On the Road to High Production with
STANTON'S MANAMAR CHICK STARTER
Most poultry authorities agree that profitable poultry raising depends largely on three important factors . . . good chicks, good management, and good feed. Our job is to produce good feed that will combine with your good chicks and good management to get your flocks off to a flying start on the road to high production and profit. We have just such a feed in Stanton's ManAmar Chick Starter. A blend of locally-grown grains, ManAmar and B-G plus, it is rich in the vitamins, minerals and proteins which promote vigorous growth in baby chicks.

B-G PLUS
—is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra trace minerals and vitamins in Stanton's ManAmar Chick starter.

MANAMAR
—in Stanton's ManAmar Chick starter supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials—fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "complex."

ManAmar and B-G plus have been developed and are produced in the laboratories of Philip R. Park, famed livestock nutrition authority. These laboratories have approved the formula for Stanton's ManAmar Chick Starter. Let the records of users tell the rest of the story. Get all the facts today.

Mellett Quits FDR To Write Column

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Lowell Mellett, gray-haired veteran behind the New Deal scenes, quit his $10,000-year job as administrative assistant to President Roosevelt today to become a newspaper columnist for the Washington Star.

The resignation was announced at a news conference by the president who told reporters he was sorry to see Mellett leave the administration family. The president used the occasion to praise publishers who print views contrary to their own.

Mellett, a newspaperman with years of Washington background, went to work for the government in 1937 and headed a trio of war-born alphabet agencies—the National Emergency council (NEC), Office of Government Reports (OGR), the motion picture bureau of the Office of War Information (OWI).

In accepting the resignation the president said:

"I'm much impressed by what you tell me concerning the readiness of the Washington Star, and perhaps other newspapers, to publish points of view contrary to their own. In these times, when it is more than normally necessary to achieve the fullest understanding of vital public issues, no greater service could be performed by the publishers, in my opinion."

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP) — Oats displayed the most strength in a steady grain market today, the May delivery moving up to its ceiling of 82 cents a bushel for the first time since maximums were set on the grain last December. May wheat touched its ceiling of $1.73⅝ a bushel and May barley was at its maximum of $1.28 a bushel.

Gains were confined to fractions in most cases and generally reflected a lack of selling orders, although there was some good buying of deferred oats contracts by leading commission houses. The scarcity of cash grain was emphasized by the fact that not a car of any type of grain was offered in the open market. The Canadian export tax on oats was raised, diminishing the possibilities of large imports from that country.

At the close wheat was ⅛-¼ higher, May $1.73⅝, oats were up ⅛-1⅛, May 82, rye was unchanged to ⅛ higher, May $1.30⅛-¼, and barley was ahead ½-cent, May $1.27⅞.

Demos May Air Two-Thirds Rule

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, March 24.—The state Democratic Executive committee meeting here next week may make a strong recommendation to the party in convention May 23 seeking re-establishment of the two-thirds vote rule for nomination of candidates at the national convention.

This topic, along with selection of a site for the convention at which the Texas delegation to the presidential nominating session will be named, appeared today to top the agenda for the committee's first gathering in 1944.

Should the United States Supreme court rule Monday on the pending case involving the rights of negroes to vote in the Texas Democratic primary, the committee would have another important matter for discussion.

State Convention Sites

There was considerable committee sentiment in favor of naming San Antonio as the site for the first of the year's two state Democratic conventions. San Antonio has formally made a bid for the convention.

There was some sentiment on the committee, however, in favor of Austin because of its central location.

Charles E. Simons, executive secretary, announced that Gov. Coke Stevenson had formally filed his application for a place on the ballot, and had paid the $100 fee.

Associate Justice Richard Critz of the Supreme court has also formally filed for re-nomination. He is seeking his second full term as a member of the Supreme court. He was appointed to the bench in 1935 by Gov. James V. Allred.

Jap "Invasion" Of India Believed In Small Force

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

New Delhi advices tell of contact between British empire troops and Japanese patrols in the Imphal region in India, but give no intimation that any substantial enemy force has yet been brought to action west of the Burma-Assaam border. Nor is there any mention of the presence in that theater of "the national Indian army" Premier Tojo conjured up for Japanese home front consumption to support his statement that a full-scale "invasion" of India was in process.

SIMPSON

That may not be conclusive evidence that the Nipponese incursion from the upper Chindwin region into India is in reality the minor affair it seems. British censorship in India is notably tight. About the only element in the news permitted to reach the outside as the surprise Japanese jab from western Burma that justified big head lines was the fact that the censors did pass stories based on official statements describing it as a "major" enemy operation.

Defenders Have Advantage

To that now is added the statement from Allied headquarters in New Delhi that troops available in the Assaam zone are superior to the Japanese forces involved. That the defenders rallying to throw the enemy back into Burma have every advantage of quick communication and supply as well as air preponderance, any good map of India discloses.

General Sewell, official British military commentator, estimates there are perhaps six Japanese divisions all told widely scattered in Burma, exclusive of troops defending Akyab in the Arakan sector which are not, he added, in a position to assist the main Japanese army engaged in the north." If that is correct it is obvious that the India "invasion" is the small-time military affair Allied spokesmen in New Delhi seem to regard it and justify General Auchinlech's belief that it is far from representing a "real threat" to Allied communications.

Hangs Gives Advice To Draft Prospects

Timely advice was given to members of the American Business club who, are about to enter the armed forces, at the club luncheon Friday noon in the Hilton hotel by Major Frank E. Hangs, commanding officer of the 388th Army Specialized Training unit at Texas Technological college.

Teamwork was cited by Major Hangs as the most important thing in the armed forces today. The development of teamwork among the soldiers is instilled into the minds of recruits the minute they begin their basic training.

There are many opportunities offered the enlisted man in the services. Major Hangs, who has been on active duty with the Engineer corps for more than three years, pointed out that the officer candidate school quotas are much less now than a year ago, but there are many specialist schools where a man, who has had training in some particular field, may go for further training.

Many questions concerning the armed forces were fired at the speaker following his short talk.

Bruce Craig, program chairman, introduced Major Hangs. Dr. Bill Cauley presided in the absence of J. Ray Dickey, club president.

Post-War Curb On Economy Is Urged

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Two of the administration's top men—war production chief Donald and federal reserve chairman Marriner S. Eccles—urged Congress today to keep the country under stabilization controls beyond the war's end.

Nelson declared, however, that the need has passed for a national service act, recommended some time ago by President Roosevelt to authorize the drafting of civilian labor for essential industries. He did say a limited service law might help break a manpower deadlock between industry and the armed forces.

Eccles told the Senate banking committee Congress should keep the stabilization program alive two years after the end of the war "to maintain the public faith and the value of the dollar." The committee is considering legislation to extend the price control act a year beyond June 30.

A sudden release of pent-up spending as soon as hostilities end "might well be fatal" to the nation's economy, he said.

Nelson told the same committee that extended stabilization controls are essential and added: "We are just approaching the peak demand for war production."

WLB Announces Six Decisions

DALLAS, March 24. (AP)—The Eighth regional War Labor board today announced decisions and issuance of directive orders in six labor dispute cases, including:

In a dispute between the Oil Workers International union (CIO) and the Texas company, affecting plants at Port Arthur and Port Neches, Texas, and the Pure Oil company, affecting its Port Neches plant, the board denied the union proposal for a wage adjustment and change of classification for painters and insulators.

Pampa Case Goes Back

A wage dispute between the Columbia Carbon company of Pampa, Texas and the Oil Workers International union (CIO), involving 195 workers, was referred back to the parties for further negotiations.

The board directed the parties to collectively bargain and report the results within 30 days.

A tripartite panel, which held a hearing on the dispute, had recommended a general 3 cent an hour increase—excepting janitors and common laborers—as compared to the union's proposal of a general increase of 10 cents an hour.

With no contract provision agreed upon between the Rudco Oil and Gas company of Tyler, Texas, and local 209 of the Oil Workers International union (CIO) the board declined to take action on their dispute case and ordered the parties to collectively bargain and to report the results after 15 days.

In a dispute between the Louisiana Power & Light company of New Orleans and the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL), the board held that an existing contract between the parties is binding and denied the union request for reopening the contract in regard to wages.

A schedule of increased hourly wage rates for boat crews, retroactive to September 17, 1943, was directed by the board in deciding a dispute between the Higgins Industries of New Orleans, La., and the International Seafarers union (AFL). The wage schedule set increased wage rates for some job classifications from 5 to 14 cents an hour.

First LAAF Grad Is Missing In Action

Capt. Robert E. Arnold, of Buda, Ill., the first cadet to receive his wings from the Lubbock Army Air field with the first class of graduates on April 29, 1942, has been reported missing in action since February 25, according to information sent field officials Friday by Arnold's mother, Mrs. James C. Arnold, after she was notified by telegram by the War department.

The day before Arnold was shot down in a raid over Germany, he wrote a letter to his mother, she advised the field. In the letter he related that he had been made commanding officer of his bomber squadron.

Following his graduation here in the first class, Capt. Arnold was for a time a flying instructor at a basic flying school. He was then given transitional training in B-17s, but instead of going overseas, was held as instructor in transition.

Late in 1943, he was given the opportunity he had been pleading for, and was sent to the European theater. It is not known here how many missions he had completed, nor how many enemy planes, if any, he had shot down before he was downed over Germany.

The honor of being the first LAAF cadet to graduate came to him because of his position on the alphabetical roster, the announcement said.

Lack Of Confidence Is Censorship Fault

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP) — Henry J. Taylor, Scripps-Howard columnist, declared today the fault of wartime censorship was "the suspicion on the part of our elevated leadership that we ordinary Americans cannot be trusted," while Clifton Utley, director of the Chicago council on foreign relations, contended that "we are getting a very large measure of truth.

Speaking on "America's town meeting" radio problem, Taylor said "the attitude of distrust permeates from the top down — and establishes two things: first, a general unwillingness in government circles to give us the news, day by day, good or bad, come what may, and let us do our own thinking and—second, the atmosphere of 'ask me no questions and I'll tell you no lies'."

Commenting that it was impossible to get the whole truth, Utley declared, "I think that we are getting a very large measure of truth — in most cases the maximum amount of truth we can have available consistend with the security consideration."

Taylor said Byron Price's office of censorship was not responsible for this "situation," adding that the office of censorship "is doing one of the best, most forthright and thoroughly honorable jobs in wartime Washington."

Zone 3 Registration To Be Finished Today

Almost 3,000 landlords will have registered by the time the office closes at 5 o'clock this afternoon. A total of 2,262 had registered during the first four days of registration.

Heath announced that Robert E. Key, Lubbock real estate and insurance man, has been appointed area rent examiner, effective March 15. He also announced that Charlie N. Registration for hotels and rooming houses will begin early in April, Heath said. These registrations can not be handled at this time, he added.

Liquor House Holds Bay In Ft. Sill Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24 (U.P.)—A St. Louis, Mo., liquor house was left holding the bag for 225 cases of whiskey shipped to the Fort Sill military reservation, Attorney Gen. Randell S. Cobb said today in an informal opinion.

Cobb advised Fred Squires, Evanston, Ill., research counsel for the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, that the state contemplated no further action in its right to halt shipments to the military area.

The U. S. Supreme court recently ruled that the military zone was not a part of Oklahoma and, therefore, not subject to its prohibitory laws. The suit was filed by the Yellow Transit Co. of Oklahoma City after seizure in 1942 of the 225 cases of liquor by state officers.

"The liquor will now no doubt be delivered to the transit company," Cobb wrote Squires. "The liquor house, though not having been paid a dime for the liquor, is in no position to try to get possession of it or have it returned to them as the court adopted the theory of the transit company counsel that the deal had been closed in St. Louis and, therefore, not violative of the federal statutes with reference to dealing in liquor within a military area."

Former Chief Clerk Guilty Of Embezzling

SANTA FE, N. M., March 24 (U.P.) — Harold Sutcliffe, former chief clerk of the New Mexico state penitentiary, has pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement of public funds—including money which the convicts had deposited when they entered the prison.

Judge William J. Barker sentenced Sutcliffe to one to 10 years, but suspended the sentence on good behavior. Sutcliffe, now a railroad employe, has made arrangements to pay back his bonding company which already has made good the shortage of $1,635.

New Mexican Found Guilty Of Extortion

SANTA FE, N. M., March 24 (U.P.) — Sam Blanchard, middle-aged, one-legged resident of Hot Springs, N. M., has been found guilty in U. S. district court of attempting to extort $2,000 from Hilmer E. James, prominent Hot Springs banker.

The jury was out only four minutes yesterday before returning the verdict.

Blanchard was arrested when he picked up a "dummy" package, deposited by the banker in answer to the extortion note.

Blanchard's sentencing was deferred.
