Bringing Visitors—Leading Fort Worth—Another Joke? Fundamental Difference

Every fifth car at the Scotland park zoo Sunday was from out of town, city officials estimated after a record attendance of 20,000 persons. Arrival of many new animals Saturday had much to do with the increased attendance, but there has been a steady increase in the number of visitors since the opening of the exhibits, C. C. Bunnenberg, head of the park department, told this writer. Any attraction that brings 4,000 visitors to Wichita Falls is decidedly worth while.

Many of the animals at the zoo are gifts from various Wichita Falls firms, but there are many companies which should be glad of an opportunity to add to the collection. If the zoo continues to draw such crowds, and there seems little reason to believe it will not, the donation of some animal to the exhibits should be money well spent for companies and for the city as a whole.

Wichita Falls' zoo is already superior to that of Fort Worth, Superintendent Bunnenberg declares. That is as it should be. Wichita Falls folks are not fond of trailing any Texas city in any enterprise, but particularly we dislike to be second to the cowtown.

Louis J. Wardlaw, in his campaigning, recommends the election of a highway commission by the people, with the state divided into four districts and one commission from each district and one at large as the chairman. He also recommends a registration fee of $3 for automobiles and he would keep the appropriation for two years below the $40,000,000 mark. Texas is a four billion dollar state and its population is nearing the six million mark. It is educating all children in the public schools, and the University of Texas registration, and the registration of all other institutions of higher learning, is growing by leaps and bounds. Increased population and wealth calls for increased appropriations. Campaigners should face the facts.

Frank Ernest Nicholson, Wichita Falls product and author of "Favorite Jokes of Famous People," writes in The Sunday Times and The Record News that the "Old Home Town has gone Broadway." One gathers that perhaps Mr. Nicholson is a little disappointed to find life and thought AND recreation so similar on Broadway and on Indiana avenue. Or is that Mr. Nicholson's own favorite joke?

Radio, movies, fast trains and automobiles, newspapers, magazines, airplanes, telegraphy, and prohibition have made practically all sections of the nation similar. Fundamentally, however, the people of Wichita Falls and of New York are quite dissimilar, we suspect. For instance, several readers told the writer they got a real thrill out of Mr. Nicholson's spats and cane. And the ability and desire to appear in such accoutrements is a FUNDAMENTAL difference. —H. C. F.

Dream Causes Serious Injury

ELECTRA, July 8.—Frightened by a dream while asleep at his home early this morning, Roy Whitley, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Whitley, North Wilbarger street, thrust his hand through a window pane. All tendons, the main artery and blood veins were severed. Surgeons at the Parmley-Ogden hospital, where the youth was taken, hold little hope of restoring the use of the hand and declare the hand may be lost.

IDEAL OF BODY GIVEN STRESS BY GOVERNOR

God and Country Served By Legion, Moody Tells Veterans

DECATUR CHOSEN

Present Officers Retained In Closing Session Sunday

By FRANK GRAHAM
Staff Correspondent

OLNEY, Texas, July 8.—Veterans of the world war combined themselves together for God and country to guarantee to those who follow them that the constitution of the United States shall live on through the ages, declared Gov. Dan Moody in an address before the convention of the American Legion of the thirteenth congressional district of Texas, here Sunday.

More than 1,000 legionnaires and citizens of Olney were gathered in the First Baptist church to hear the Texas governor.

A faint hint of the impending national campaign was sounded when Moody dwelt momentarily on that portion of the constitution "which guarantees us the right to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience."

Legion's Purpose

The legion, Moody continued, was organized by American veterans of the most disastrous war the world has ever known in order that the things they fought for might live on after they are gone. The boys who in 1917 and 1918 responded to relieve the battered but unconquered line which stretched from the English channel across Europe to Asia and the Mediterranean sea organized for God and country to stand by the constitution of the United States.

Legion's main purpose, he said, is that America might not go the way of past civilizations of the world. Peoples of once proud races, descendants of civilizations comparable to our own, today wash their fish nets against the ruined walls of the temples where their ancesters worshipped because their governments failed.

Against War

The relationship of the church and the legion in a common purpose, the edification of the people, was pointed out by the speaker. Both are laboring that humanity might be spared the pain of another war, he declared, and that peace shall prevail upon the earth.

The legion, Moody continued, was organized that the peoples of the world might steadily labor toward establishment of ever higher ideals that the orphaned, the widowed and the maimed of the war might be cared for properly.

Governor Moody met in Wichita Falls by a committee comprised of A. H. Carrigan and R. E. Taylor of Wichita Falls and Captain O. P. McCary, post cammander, E. W. Beauchamp, post commander, W. C. Harrell, president chamber of commerce and Charles S. Richardson and R. A. Barton of Olney, breakfasted in Wichita Falls and was motored to Olney.

Rain Causes Delay

A blinding rain, which began falling shortly before the automobiles bearing the party left Wichita Falls, delayed arrival of the governor in Olney by two hours. When finally the governor's party reached here he was welcomed by a cannon salute.

Governor Moody was introduced by R. E. Taylor of Wichita Falls and stood for several minutes while waiting for demonstration to subside. Mr. Harrell made an address of welcome, with response by Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham.

The Rev. J. T. Jones, pastor of the First Baptist church, presided. Invocation was by the Rev. C.

LOST MAN FOUND DEAD

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 8. (AP)—John R. Reed, 48-year-old cafe proprietor, who disappeared from his home here early Friday morning, was found dead near Lubbock today.

Shipwreck Survivors Tell Of Disaster At Sea

Only Four of 295 Persons Aboard Chilean Transport Live; They Hold No Hope for Others

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 8. (UP)—The wreck of the Chilean war transport Angamos, with men, wome nand children aboard, was described today by the four known survivors of the 295 persons aboard when the ship battered itself to pieces and sank in darkness and storm at 1 a. m. Saturday, off Punta Chimpel, seven miles south of Lebu, and only a short distance from land.

The Angamos ran on the rocks at 11 p. m. Friday during a terrific storm. The radio was wrecked and all lights aboard the ship were out.

Passengers Retire

Most of the passengers had retired but they hurried on deck in their night garments and clung to the rails as waves washed the deck and gradually carried away the ship's superstructure.

Scores were washed overboard and pounded to death against the rocks. About 20 children were among the lost.

A great wave carried away the mast and funnel and most of the superstructure of the vessel. The four men who survived the tragedy clung to the mast as it floated away and were thrown upon the beach.

Ship Destroyed

The ship went to pieces at one o'clock and Capt. Ismael Suarez killed himself with a revolver when it was seen definitely his vessel was lost.

In the opinion of the four survivors, the transport broke its rudder and drifted on the rocks in the storm. The Angamos was en route from the Magellanes to Talcahuano.

Eighty bodies were reported to have recovered, several of them having been washed ashore at Morhuillas beach. Slight hope was held that any of those aboard would be found alive on the sparsely settled shores near the scene of the disaster.

Gale Halts Search

Search for victims today was virtually impossible because of the gale which also had interrupted telegraph and telephone services.

The four men washed ashore alive and clinging to the broken mast were brought to Conception where they told the story of the wreck. They believe it impossible that any others had survived as the seas had broken the lifeboats against the rocks and baitered to pieces even the wreckage to which the victims were clinging.

Works of D'Annunzio Condemned by Church

ROME, July 8. (US)—The sacred congregation has resolved to condemn all the works of Gabriel D'Annunzio as containing offense against faith and morals, it was learned today by Universal Service.

The action was taken after doubt had been expressed as to the status of the poet's works since the action taken against writings produced prior to May 8, 1911.

When the sacred conrgegation of the holy office met, the pope was present as its prefect and Cardinal Merry del Val as secretary. Eight others were in attendance.

Weather Does What Politicians Fail to Do

TOPEKA, Kan., July 8. (UP)—The weatherman has made agricultural relief less of a political issue in Kansas and apparently has done what politicians have failed to do in the last years, wheat growers claim.

Million dollar hot winds that blew over the sea of grain last week dried the wheat thoroughly, enabling farmers to store it in bins where "it is as good as gold in the bank."

Death Takes Another Member of Nobile Crew

VIRGO BAY, Spitsbergen, July 8. (UP)—Natal Cecclone, chief engineer of the ill-fated transpolar dirigible Italia, has died as a result of injuries received when the airship crashed May 25 on its return from the North Pole, it was learned today.

The death of Cecclone, who was marooned with General Umberto Nobile on a small ice floe, leaves but four known survivors of the Italia still held captive by the northern elements.

THREE LEADERS GO TO ALBANY

Reed, Robinson and Jones To Confere With Al

ST. LOUIS, July 8. (AP)—Senator James A. Reed will leave here tomorrow morning to discuss the Democratic presidential campaign with Governor Smith at Albany, N. Y., he announced this afternoon. Senator Reed made his announcement following a long distance telephone conversation with the Democratic presidential nominee.

Campaign Discussion

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8. (US)—Governor Smith announced today that Senator Joseph T. Robinson, vice presidential candidate, and Jesse W. Jones of Texas, who are en route to New York for the national committee meeting on Wednesday, will confer with him tomorrow at the executive mansion.

Plans for the campaign are expected to be discussed, although the governor said Robinson and Jones would make only a friendly call.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate and the treasurer of the national committee are in St. Louis today. They are due in Albany about 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

In announcing this unexpected conference, the governor said:

"I just received a telegram from Senator Robinson and Mr. Jones saying they happened to be coming over the Central Lines and that they would like to stop off in Albany for an hour and a half tomorrow afternoon and see me. Of course, I will be delighted to see them."

Pittman Visits Smith

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the notification committee, was at the executive mansion today with the governor.

Except to say Senator Pittman would remain at the mansion until Tuesday and then accompany him to New York, the governor did not divulge the nature of their conference. It was understood, however, that details of the notification ceremony, which will be held in Albany were discussed. The date of the notification will be fixed by the national committee at the meeting on Wednesday.

Asked if he has received a reply to the letter he wrote to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri inviting Reed to confer with him at an early date, the governor replied:

"I guess not, unless the reply came to the capital yesterday, while I was away."

G. O. P. CONFERENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8. (AP)—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, a Republican nominee for the vice presidency, left here this morning by train for Washington, where he will confer with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, presidential choice of the party.

Marland Refuses To Talk About Wedding

NEW YORK, July 8. (UP)—Ernest W. Marland, wealthy Oklahoma oil man, registered at the Hotel Plaza today but would not make a statement regarding plans to marry Miss Lodie Miller Roberts, his former ward.

Miss Roberts' brother, George Roberts Marland, adopted son of the Oklahoman, said, however, "an important announcement" will be made soon in regard to the engagement, according to a story in the New York World. He refused to amplify his statement, but denied rumors that the enegagement had been broken.

Race Betting Bill Stumps Parliament

LONDON, JULY 8. (UP)—The house of commons, after prolonged debate, failed to reach a vote on the third reading of the race course betting bill designed to legalize pari-mutual betting. The government supported the bill.

TOKIO, July 8. (UP)—Four members of the crew of a government naval dirigible were drowned when the craft crashed during night practice at Yokosuka, it was reported tonight. The dirigible was participating in the Osaka air defense maneuvers.

ACCIDENT ON ROAD TAKES LIVES OF TWO

Carter Hughes and Edgar Walker Victims Of Road Mishap

VERDICT RENDERED

"Accidental Death," Says Henrietta Judge In Inquest

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, July 8. — Carter Hughes, 21, of Electra, was instantly killed and Edgar Walker, 23, of Electra was fatally injured early Sunday morning when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed into a motor truck 10 miles east of Henrietta, it was learned here.

Hughes was en route to Decatur to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hughes, while Walker was going to Denton to visit friends over the week end when the accident occurred.

Body to Henrietta

Hughes' body was taken to Henrietta by passing motorists. Walker was taken to the Wichita General hospital at Wichita Falls and died later in the morning.

Hughes, who was employed by the Perkins-Timberlake store in Electra, is survived by his parents, one uncle, Jeff Hughes of Electra, three brothers, Guy, Austin and W. A. Hughes Jr., of Decatur.

Walker is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walker of Electra, a sister, Leo Walker, his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Anna Hemphill of Electra, and his paternal grandparents, Mr and Mrs. P. D. Walker of Mountain Air, N. M.

Burial Tentative

The body of Walker was taken to the home of his parents at Electra Sunday afternoon. Funeral arrangements have not been completed pending the arrival of relatives from out of the state. Burial probably will be Tuesday afternoon from the First Baptist church. Mr. Hughes will be buried Monday at Decatur.

Accident Verdict

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, July 8.—A verdict of accidental death was returned by Clay Coleman, justice of the peace here today, following an accident on the Fort Worth highway which resulted in the death of Carter Hughes and Edgar Walker of Electra when their motorcycle collided with a gasoline truck at 1 o'clock Sunday morning about 10 miles east of here.

"The two boys rode up a short incline on the Fort Worth highway and suddenly came on to the Wilkerson gasoline truck bound from Wichita Falls to Decatur with gasoline," Mr. Coleman said. "It was going the same direction they were going, but they had been unable to see it, due to the rise in the land, until too late."

STABBING AT NEWCASTLE IS UNDER PROBE

Ernest McBride, 17, Killed By Wound Inflicted In Affray

INQUEST IS HELD

Verdict Holds John Hobbs Responsible for Death Of Companion

Special to The Record News.

NEWCASTLE, July 8.—A verdict of death at the hands of John Hobbs, 15 years old, was returned by P. J. Gardner, justice of the peace, here this afternoon following the death of Ernest McBride, 17.

The tragedy took place a mile southwest of town on the right-of-way of the Wichita Falls and Southern railway, Mr. Gardner said, and was due to a single knife wound in the upper part of the McBride boy's stomach.

After waiving the examining trial, the Hobbs boy was taken to jail at Graham after an investigation by C. E. Penix, county attorney of Young county. He will await the action of the next grand jury.

Details of the affair were lacking, as Morris Hobbs, brother of John Hobbs and the only person known to have been in the immediate vicinity, was about 150 yards down the track when the tragedy happened and did not see it, he said.

John Hobbs told the justice of the peace that both he and the McBride boy had drawn their knives. Neither of the knives had been found at a late hour Sunday night.

The McBride boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McBride of this city. The Hobbs boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hobbs.

Young McBride probably will be buried Monday, but funeral arrangements had not been completed late Sunday evening.

County attorney Penix said the boy probably will be tried as a juvenile as he is only 15 years old, and that the heaviest sentence he probably will face is the reform school until he is 21 years of age.

Mr. Penix said he did not believe a rumor that the boys were fighting over a horse.

"They were simply scuffling, and I don't think there was any horse in it," the county attorney explained. "I took a statement from Claudie Hobbs, his brother who is known as Morris, but am not holding the brother. John Hobbs probably will be held for the September grand jury."

THEATER MAN SHOOTS YOUTH TO DEATH

DENVER, Colo., July 8. (AP)—Herbert H. Powell, 19, was shot and killed today by A. E. "Dick" Dickson, western theatrical man, when he came upon Powell with Mrs. Dickson at the Dickson home here.

Dickson today told police he had staged a faked out-of-town trip, but returned home after a couple of hours and found Powell in his home. Powell argued with him, he said, and in a fight which followed he and the youth grappled for possession of the revolver which Dickson carried.

During the scuffle, he declared, he pulled the trigger of his pistol twice. One bullet struck Powell in the shoulder and the other went through his head. He died almost instantly, Dickson told the police.

Mrs. Maude Cameron Dies at Electra Home

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, July 8.—Mrs. Maude Cameron, 36, wife of S. J. Cameron, who is employed by the Magnolia Petroleum company here, died Saturday night at 10 p. m. after a short illness. The body was shipped Sunday morning to Yantes, Texas, for burial. Mrs. Cameron is survived by her husband, five children, her mother and three sisters.

Habeas Corpus Sought To Liberate Preacher

DALLAS, Texas, July 8. (AP)—Henry G. Wills, attorney for the fundamentalist Baptist church here announced today that he would make an application for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of the Rev. Earl Anderson, incarcerated pastor of the church, tomorrow before the state supreme court at Austin.

Anderson has been confined to the Dallas county jail since Thursday when he was found guilty of contempt of court by District Judge Towne Young for alleged refusal to obey a temporary restraining order against construction of a tabernacle in a local residence district.

He was fined $100 and costs and remanded to jail until he should post $1,000 as a guaranty that the order would not be disobeyed.

Spends Quiet Day

The pastor spent a quiet Sabbath in the hospital ward of the jail. He had originally planned to broadcast a sermon from his cell and had later intended to speak from the jail steps, but both avenues were closed to him by Judge Young. He remained in his flower-bedecked cell room and had very few visitors.

A heavy downpour on the newly-laid sheet iron roof of the two-thirds finished tabernacle interfered with the sermon during preaching this morning, and a song service was held instead, the combined voices of the large crowd succeeding in drowning out most of the noise from overhead.

Work Stopped

Work on the tabernacle was ended Friday after Judge Young had issued an order for the arrest of all persons aiding in construction. A previous order by the judge included only "men" who procured to turn their carpenter's tools over to the women and children of the congretation.

Moody Mixes Prison Discussion With Breakfast Eggs While Here

Governor Dan Moody ate bacon and eggs and half a cantaloupe, drank a cup of coffee and discussed the prison system with A. H. Carrigan for breakfast in Wichita Falls Sunday morning. The governor had stopped over here for a few hours en route to Olney, where he addressed the thirteenth district American Legion convention.

Governor Moody reached Wichita Falls about 8 o'clock Sunday morning and embarked from his pullman an hour and a half later.

He was met by a reception committee composed of Judge Carrigan and R. E. Taylor of Wichita Falls and E. M. Beauchamp, post commander of the Olney legion post, Capt. O. P. McCary, past commander, W. C. Harrell, president of the Olney Chamber of Commerce and Judge R. A. Barton, all of Olney.

From the Union station the governor was escorted to the Kemp hotel, where breakfast was served.

Before the 50-mile journey to Olney was begun, it started raining. The governor's party reached its destination mud spattered an hour late. Governor Moody declined to keep the legionnaires waiting longer, but stepped from the muddy car into the church.

Park Officials Estimate Sunday Attendance at City Zoo at 20,000

One of the biggest out-of-town crowds ever attracted to Wichita Falls came to the Lions club municipal zoo in Scotland park Sunday to see Miss Sugar, the 22-year-old elephant, who arrived late Saturday. She came with the puma, hyena, Bengal tiger, jumping kangaroo, baboons, and other animals in her ladyship's private express car on a passenger train from the Horn zoological gardens at Independence, a suburb of Kansas City.

Estimates as high as 20,000 persons were made of the crowds which included automobiles by the hundreds from neighboring counties and from Oklahoma. The tourists attracted to the city for the holiday by the elephant and the zoo constituted by far the largest individual crowd attending any event in the city this year.

Next to Miss Sugar, the kangaroo who doesn't have any name that the public knows, was the center of attraction.

LEGIONNAIRES HEAR MOODY

Governor Addresses Vets At Olney

Luncheon at Hall

Following services legionnaires, auxiliary and friends returned to Legion hall for luncheon prepared by the auxiliary where Captain McCary served as master of ceremonies in the absence of R. E. Shepherd of Wichita Falls.

The legion met in a business session in the afternoon, when officers were elected. Clyde Haden, district committeeman, presided.

Final gesture of the day was the banquet tendered Governor Moody by Charles S. Richardson late Sunday afternoon. Judge A. H. Carrigan was toastmaster.

A resolution thanking Governor Moody and endorsing him as the greatest single force for civic righteousness in civic life in the United States was passed by district legion convention here today.

Decatur Selected

Decatur was chosen the next convention city of thirteenth district American Legion at the third convention of district in business session Sunday afternoon. The date of the convention will be Sept. 14 and 15.

Clyde Hayden of Graham was renamed committeeman for the district until after national convention. Present officers were retained.

Committee members elected were: District executive committee, R. D. Slade, Electra; Walter Caldwell, Wichita Falls; O. P. McCary, Olney. Resolutions, O. T. Ailes, Wichita Falls; B. J. Carey, Burkburnett, and Clyde E. Taylor, Electra.

Sunday afternoon's session concluded the convention.

A banquet honoring Gov. Dan Moody was given by Charles S. Richardson of Olney. A. H. Carrigan of Wichita Falls presided. Mr. Richardson introduced Governor Moody, who made a short address.

Two-minute talks were made by Luther Hoffman, W. E. George, J. D. Parnell and R. E. Taylor, all of Wichita Falls; Joe Wheat, Seymour, W. L. Scott, Olney, E. G. Thornton, Archer City and G. W. Ware, Jermyn.

Baumes Law Puts Stop to Veteran

NEW YORK, July 8. (UP)—John McCarthy, known to police as "the grand old man" of the grand larceny racket, sat in his cell in Brooklyn today and mused on the strange ways of fate and the police courts that would send him to prison for the rest of his life because, in a moment of weakness, he stopped to deal which netted him only $150.

McCarthy, in his philosophic mood, ruminated at length upon the felicity of the goddess of chance and in his meditation waxed garrulous. He recalled the glory of other days when the Baumes laws were non-existent; days when his record was almost a legent built upon police record data.

He recalled, for instance, the day he sold Brooklyn bridge to a stranger from "out west" at a "reasonable" figure, and no sooner was the cash in McCarthy's hand than he recalled a pressing engagement elsewhere and police sought him in vain for months.

This "prince of bunco men" was among the pioneers of an inspired era in New York swindle games. Now, at the age of 68, he speaks of his past loquaciously and somewhat boastfully. There is but one incident which, in his eyes, mars his long record, that was his arrest Friday on a charge of cashing a worthless check for $150. As a fourth offender the Baumes laws, he faces life imprisonment.

String Quartet On Next Vaudeville Bill

The I. B. Thompson string quartet was announced Sunday as an added attraction for the Thursday night free vaudeville program in Bellevue park by C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks. Numbers previously announced for the program include the Lions club boys' band under the direction of Leo Underwood, and Joe McMakin playing saxophone solos. Mr. McMakin will be accompanied by James Youngblood.

Nine Prisoners Go To Huntsville Pen

Five white men and four negroes were in the group which included J. P. Jones, L. W. Rockholt, C. A. Newell, W. O. Turner and R. W. Canada, all whites, and Will Hudson, B. C. Meadows, Henry Steal and Henry Moss, negroes.

Globe Girdlers Seen Over Russian City

MOSCOW, July 8. (US)—The airplane "City of New York" bearing the globe girdlers Mears and Collyer was sighted over Novosibirsk at 7 o'clock this morning, New York daylight saving time, according to word received here.

It is believed that the airmen are trying to reach Krasnoyarsk before nightfall on a non-stop flight of 1600 miles from Kazan.

British Birdman Turns Back From Flight

HORTA, ISLAND OF FAYAL, Azores, July 8. (AP)—Captain Frank T. Courtney, British aviator, who hopped off this morning for Canada, returned at 4:30 p. m. Greenwich Meridian time. He was forced to put about by fog and strong winds.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

LAMESA, July 8.—Friday, July 13 is the date set to start the big clean-up campaign that is being sponsored by the civic department of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce. On that morning business houses will close and the town will be converted into an army of workers cleaning up the town. This campaign is unique in that it does not last for just one day, but for six months. Prizes will be awarded the best houses, blocks and streets.

Sunday School Attendance Drops

Sunday school attendance suffered a severe drop due to the rains Sunday morning, according to the reports. One-fifth to one-third the usual attendance was reported by a majority of the churches.

No report was available at the First Methodist church, one of the largest in the city, due to the fact that the attendance of all of the men's classes had not been reported.

The total of the churches reporting was 2108. The number present, by churches, follows:

Adams Street M. E.	42
Salvation Army	130
Lamar Avenue Baptist	107
Scotland Evangelical	30
Grant Street M. E.	40

Women Included In Train Bandit Captives

MOSCOW, July 8. (US)—Twenty-five women were among 40 captives taken by Chinese bandits who held up and looted a passenger train on the Chinese eastern railway between the eastern border of Russia and the town of Harbin. Telegrams received here say four passengers were killed and seven wounded.

Most of the passengers, as well as most of the 40 taken prisoner by the bandits were believed to have been Russians.

DUCE REVAMPS HIS CABINET

Mussolini Accepts Two Resignations

ROME, July 8. (UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini suddenly recast his cabinet today when he accepted the resignations of Count Giuseppe Volpi as minister of finance, and Pietro Fidele, minister of public instruction, and replaced a number of undersecretaries.

Senator Antiono Misconi was appointed minister of finance and Giuseppe Belluzo, minister of national economy, was given the portfolio of minister of public instruction.

Alessandro Martelli, at present undersecretary of communications, will replace Belluzzo as minister of economy.

Deputies Ettore Rosboch and Vincenzo Casalini were appointed new undersecretaries of finance and Piero Leicht undersecretary of education.

Guglielmo Josa and Alessandro Lessona were named new undersecretaries of the ministry of economy. Other new undersecretaries appointed were: Raffaello Riccardi, communications; Count Giovanni Cao, merchant marine; Arnodoi di Croiludn, public works.

Coolidge and Family In Quiet Sabbath

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 8. (US)—President Coolidge and his family spent a quiet Sunday today attending church services at the little wooden Congregational church at Brule and remaining indoors at Cedar Island lodge for the remainder of the day.

The rain, which has fallen almost daily since the executive's arrival for a vacation on the Brule, poured down dismally and discouraged any outdoor recreation.

France and Belgium Rush Border Fortresses While Striving for Peace

PARIS, July 8. (UP)—With memories still fresh in their minds of the invasion of their frontiers by the German hordes 14 summers ago, France and Belgium are flinging across their eastern borders a wall of fortfications as nearly impregnable as modern science will permit.

While playing a leading role at Geneva as one of the sponsors of the Locarno peace agreements and an advocate of the Kellogg anti-war plan, France still is convinced of the truth of that old adage that preparedness is the best form of insurance.

"France, while devoting herself wholeheardedly to the peace programs of the world's leading statesmen, must assure herself of the security of her territory," Paul Painleve, French minister of war, declared to the United Press.

French Creed

That may be taken as the creed of the French, the peace doctorine of her government. France intends to help along as much as possible any world movement to perpetuate peace, but in the meanwhile she will make her frontiers so strongly fortified as to discourage any of her neighbors trying to force their way in.

Eventually Belgium and France will extend their bulwarks from the north sea to the Mediterranean, for the French plan includes the fortification of dominating positions in the alps to close the way to Nice and the Savoy to the Italians.

Cost Goes High

At a total cost of $100,000,000 and many years of effort, the new wall to separate western europe will be placed. Within seven years France must draw her troops out of the Rhineland. At the same time the French-controlled Saar basin must vote by plebiscite to establish its future before that day arrives the French government hopes to have erected that part of its eastern bulwarks that are destined for Alsace and Lorraine.

The bulwarks really are intended to be invisable. There will be no great fortresses. Instead there will be reinforced cement dugouts and trenches, concrete platforms for heavy guns, machine gun emplacements, underground and supposedly secret hiding places for artillery shells and engineers supplies, such as barbed wire and road building material.

Eventually these bulwarks will be reinforced by steel and concrete blockhouses along the French banks of the Rhine and at bridge heads. The French general staff already has given these three years of study to the plan of security and such masters as General Guillaumet have figured out a great campaign of defense, mapping out where every machine gun, cannon and trench must be. Now thousands of workmen will build them.

Mines Protected

The primary protection must be afforded the Lorraine iron mines in the Briey basin. One of Germany's first moves in 1914 was to seize the Lorraine iron mines. France suffered from an iron shortage during the whole of the war, while Germany had all she could use.

The Armistice and following treaty gave to France entire control of the Lorraine mines. The demilitarization of the left bank of the Rhine means that Germany cannot rightly place troops within striking distance of the Lorraine mines. Now with the great defence system France figures to hold these mines.

Naturally, great secret covers the general plan of bulwarks and much of the underground work will be built by men chosen from among the most trustworthy in the army. After the whole system of obstacles is completed the government will forbid photographs to pass over certain important works.

German payments under the Dawes plan will be diverted to the defense work, thus relieving the French taxpayer.

Experts at the ministry declared that 200,000,000 francs will be set aside in the next budget for the continuation of the work, together with part of the German reparations payments. At the ministry it was strongly stressed that the whole system is purely defensive and can not be taken to France's neighbors as an offensive threat or a preparation for attack.

PLAINS SCOUT COUNCIL GROWS

Enrollment Nears 300 Boys In Few Months

QUITAQUE, Texas, July 8.—Scouting is growing rapidly in the newly organized Central Plains council, Boy Scouts of America, states E. L. Roberts, scout executive of this area.

At the beginning of the year when the area was organized there were only three registered troops in the area, on July 1 there were nine troops, with troops meeting and organizing in Matador, Lockney, Kress, Tulia, Happy, Hereford and Olton. This will bring the scout enrollment close to 300 against 80 as of April 1.

Camping dates are being announced by Scout Executive E. L. Roberts. These camps will be a series of short term camps of three days each, free of cost to the boys, as they bring their food and do their own cooking. A menu and food list will be furnished each boy thereby assuring the proper food to be prepared for each meal.

Plans are under way for a big area "jamboree" to be held some time the latter part of August, date and place to be announced later. All scouting events will be included in the rally such as first aid, water boiling, fire by friction, wall scaling, signalling, archery and many other events.

Interest in Waurika Hospital Changes Hands

WAURIKA, Okla., July 8. (Sp)—Dr. L. L. Wade of Ryan has purchased an interest in the Waurika hospital from Dr. D. B. Collins, who formerly owned the entire stock, and will actively engage in the hospital with Doctor Collins.

IF THIS weather would just make up its mind what it is going to do and then go ahead and do it, there might not be so many mistakes made. About an hour ago, it was distinctly cool, so we don spring or fall clothes and sally forth to encounter the full blast of a very hot afternoon. It wouldn't be so bad if it hadn't taken the slower minded element 45 minutes to make a decision on the question of attire for the day.

SOME day there is going to be a column written sans the usual wisecrack at the weather, but not in Texas.

"WOMEN are all alike, but they dress differently." You've heard that gag and have probably believed it. I just hadn't paid it any great amount of attention until the other day when I took part of the day off to roam the streets. Parked out and watched 'em pass. And now when I hear that remark I get sore.

PRETTY soon somebody will invent something to replace the airplane as a thriller, then, maybe we may see an occasional news reel at the movies which shows something a little different. No, I don't have any objection to airplanes, but my neighbor does. Makes her dizzy, I think.

THE WOMAN'S FORUM (someday there is going to be a column written sans mentioning the Woman's Forum, but not in Wichita Falls) is doing itself up in fine shape. Hot upon the heels of announcing the staging of "Old New Orleans" we have an entire galaxy of other attractions already booked for the 1928-29 season.

Among the November attractions will be a lecture by Dr. Aurelia Rhinehart, president of Mills college, Oakland, Calif., who has spoken here before and who will be well remembered as one of the few really interesting women speakers to be presented in Wichita Falls.

That remark about the scarcity of women speakers who are really interesting is a relic of woman's inhumanity to woman, but did you ever hear many feminine speakers whom you've remembered? And I'll bet they were not especially feminine, at that.

That should be sufficient of this for today.

Geology Bureau Issues Cooke County Bulletin

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8. (UP)—Bulletins on the geology of Cooke and Tom Green counties have been issued by the bureau of economic geology of the University of Texas, analyzing physiography, stratigraphy and paleontology of the countries and concluding with a treatment of the mineral resources and a study of the petroleum development.

Field work on the reports was done by H. P. Bybee and Fred M. Bullard in Cooke county and by George Henderson in Tom Green county.

Loaded Plum Branch Is "Sign of Times"

TAYLOR, Texas, July 8. (UP)—A "sign of times" was brought here in the form of a limb from a plum tree from the orchard of R. J. Eckhardt.

The plum branch measured eight inches in length and there were 18 large plums on the one branch. The grower said his trees were overloaded this season.

Woodmen and Neighbors To Picnic at Mangum

MANGUM, Okla., July 8.—The annual picnic of the Mondern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors of the southwest district will be held in Mangum city park, July 24-25. CHIC CHERIE — LATEST FASHIONS

You've no idea—or perhaps you have—of how important short jackets are in this summer's wardrobe. They are used with skirts to make suits. They are used with dresses to make ensembles. They are used with anything at all and provided the color combination is right, they are always smart. They are made of silk, or linen, or cotton, or flannel. Also of knitted fabrics. They are cardigan cut or loose and flappy. Cherie shows you two of them in this sketch. To the left the sweater jacket of rough knit silk in pale yellow, to the right a coat of brilliant printed linen, three-quarters length. Both of them to be worn with a plain white crepe frock and a white silk stitched hat. One dress is enough.

One dress can make a summer—but it needs several jackets. The jacket Cherie has on at this moment is a new belted style from Paris—a soft cashmere cloth in a deep blue. She's holding in her hand another—the striped flannel blazer which is all the smarter because its stripes run diagonally instead of straight up and down. In case you are interested, she could also wear a double breasted jacket, a surplice jacket or a sleeveless jacket and be perfectly in style. And just to the right is a picture of Cherie in the one white dress that will appropriately accompany any one or all of these short coats—a dress of white crepe with a pleated skirt and a trimming of stitching.

AL PRAISED BY MRS. SEVIER

National Committeewoman To Go to New York

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8. (AP)—Mrs. H. H. Sevier, Austin, Democratic National committeewoman from Texas, today lauded Gov. Al Smith and urged "every true Democrat" to support him.

In a statement issued before her departure Sunday for New York to attend the first meeting of the new committee, Mrs. Sevier declared that "it is my considered opinion that Governor Smith is the outstanding executive of the nation."

She asserted that any excuse for a Democrat's failure to work for Smith "must be far fetched and insincere."

"Destiny would not be denied," she added, "and Governor Smith was named as the overwhelming choice of Democracy for the president of the United States. If elected to the presidency he will prove to be one of the most capable and valuable leaders our country has produced."

Her appeal largely was to the women voters. After calling the Democratic prohibition plank "strong and consistent," she predicted the country, if Smith is elected, "may depend on it that a whiskey distiller will not be placed at the head of enforcement forces."

She charges Herbert Hoover's prohibition declaration was belated and "unconvincing."

Sadler to Donate Signs For Municipal Zoo

W. T. Sadler, manager of the United Advertising corporation plant in Wichita Falls, has promised to donate to the Lion's club municipal zoo in Scotland park, signs for all the animal cages showing the true name of the animal, the generally known name, and also the name of the donor.

This announcement was made Friday night by Dr. R. H. Graham, president of the Lions club and sponsor of the zoo.

How would you like to cuddle Dorothy Jo? Shouldn't be hard to take. Dorothy Jo is the luckiest of young ladies—she is a blonde, one of the type who has the world at her feet by merely being there and looking like a million dollars.

And she doesn't half appreciate it, either. She spends most of her time in the hot sunshine and never a sun bonnet! The reason for spending most of her time outside is so "Bubba" who is all of 5 years old, won't get entirely away from her.

Dorothy Jo has a good disposition and is a perfect baby, which probably go hand in hand. She is the 1½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Brown, 1700 Taylor street.

QUEEN ASKS 7000 TO FETE

Lawn Party to Close London Season

By GERTRUDE LADY DECIES
By Universal Service

LONDON, July 8.—Queen Mary is already busy with preparations for the event which marks the climax of London's summer season—the royal garden fete on the grounds at Buckingham palace, to be held toward the end of this month. Over 7,000 guests have received invitations and so far the king and queen have received only 50 letters of regrets. There are a number of prominent Americans and anglo-Americans on the list of those who will take tea and enjoy strawberries and cream with the cakes prepared by the royal chef and served at the little tables dotted about the grounds of the palace.

The king and queen themselves always take tea on this occasion under the scarlet and gold umbrella which was used when their majesties visited India for the delhi durbar. Privileged guests will be asked to take tea with the royal party, but as usual either the king or queen will make a point of having a few moments conversation with each.

Event of Week

One of the gayest social events of this week was the ball of the 1900 club which was held Tuesday at Brook house, Park Lane, the magnificent mansion which was the scene of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt's entertainments some years ago. Among the society people who gave dinner parties before the ball were the duke and duchess of Northumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bossom, of London and New York; Lord and Lady Wavertree; and Mrs. Hubert Rogers. Mrs. Rogers caused a sensation when she entered the marvelous blue, lapis and white marble ballroom robed in an evening cloak made entirely of strings

Summertime Has Queer Effects, Especially On Human Tongue

Why Should We Graft on Friends in August That We Wouldn't in December?—Why Do We Tell Family Secrets to Strangers at Summer Hotels or Brag Before Our Shipmates?—Why Does Hot Weather Turn Staid Couples Into Philanderers?

The good old summertime! Isn't it queer how it affects us? It melts down the stiffening in our characters like it melts down the starch in our collars, and we get as negligent in our manners as we do in our clothes. All of us do things in August that we wouldn't think of doing in December.

Why this is, nobody knows. It is just merely that as autumn is the season of good cheer and fulfillment—the reaped harvest and the bursting granaries—and as winter is the season of pep and ambition when we gird our loins up for the fight, and as spring is the season of hope, so summer is the time of relaxation when everything goes and we just let 'er slide.

Whether the Recording Angel, as we fondly trust, knocks off work and shuts up the shop and takes a vacation during the dog days is, of course, a guess at which we give ourselves the benefit of the doubt, but we mortals recognise the withering effect of heat on the cardinal virtues and we have made midsummer madness a sort of alibi for all we do and leave undone when the thermometer climbs up to the 90s.

Nor do the conventions stand up any better in the hot weather than the moralities do. People who are punctilious about etiquette in the winter are lax about it in the summer. Consider the convention that prevents our crashing in on any one as a self-invited guest.

In winter we recognize the fact that when our friends and acquaintances desire our society they will inform us of it, and we would not dream of doing such a thing as dropping in unexpectedly on the Joneses for dinner. Still less would we have the affrontery to go unasked and take along a bunch of our friends of whom the Joneses had never seen or heard.

But in the summer we know no law of politeness or consideration. We are out for a good time at the expense of any one who can give it to us.

And so, if the Smiths are unlucky enough to have a country place in the mountains, or at the seashore, we write and tell them how we pine for their society and ask them if it would be convenient for us to come on the 4 o'clock train on next Thursday, or if it chances that we are motoring near the Joneses' we drop in with our carload of strangers and announce that we are hungry as wolves.

Now hotels and roadhouses are even more plentiful in the summer than they are in the wintertime. Why should we patronize them one season as a matter of course and pass them up the other? We don't sponge on our friends in the winter, why should we graft on them in the summer? Why should we pay our way at Christmas and beat it on the Fourth of July? It is just a summer mystery.

And why should summer melt down our reserve and make us tell things that wild horses couldn't have dragged out of us in the winter? In cold weather we do not go about telling chance-met acquaintances the story of our lives, but you cannot spend a month at a summer resort without virtually every man and woman you have been thrown in contact with confiding to you everything that has happened to them from the day of their birth.

They tell you all about their husbands and wives and sweethearts, and whether they love them or hate them. They open the doors of their skeleton closets and rattle their bones for you. They tell you of sins they have committed and sins they are contemplating committing. They tell you all about their business affairs. They tell you family secrets that they should be choked for revealing. They strip their very souls naked. They leave their reputation, their honor, in your hands, and for no reason at all except there is just something about night that makes one want to babble about himself.

And what is it about summer that turns people into braggarts who are modest and self-effacing in the winter? I don't think I have ever met anybody at a summer hotel, or on shipboard who wasn't a millionaire and a leader of society at home.

Every man speaks largely of the time he engineered a corner in Wild Cat preferred or Blowing Oil or when he cornered all of the grocerries or drug stores in seven states. He mentions casually his yacht and his seven automobiles and his little hunting or fishing lodge, a simple thing that only cost a couple of hundred thousand dollars but it is rather comfortable.

Women regale you with stories of what they said to their butlers and their second man and their parlor maids, and if they are plainly dressed and wear no jewels, they explain that they go out in society so much in the winter and have to dress so elaborately that they just wear any old duds in the summer, and that they have left their diamonds and their pearls in the safety deposit box because they are afraid of thieves.

What makes veracity simply sizzle up into nothingness in the summer? When the psalmist wrote, "I said in my heart that all men are liars," he doubtless penned the statement in a summer camp. It is still true.

No man ever tells the truth about the size of the fish he caught, or the number of miles he makes in his automobile. No woman stops at a tarryddidle when she begins to describe the beauty of her home, or tell what wonders her children are to those who will never see them. Every vacationing clerk poses as a wealthy young man about town. Every manicurist is a society girl.

And why should the summertime turn staid and domestic husbands and wives into philanderers? Eleven months of the year they are dutiful and contented yokemates with never a thought of vamps and sheiks, with never an eye cast over the bars into forbidden pastures.

But let wife start off on a summer vacation and she begins to wish she could park the children somewhere and have just one more fling, and husband becomes that shyest and most irresponsible of all created beings, the summer widower, and begins itaking a real look for the first little cutie who has been taking his dictation all winter.

Why do old bachelors find themselves making love to women they have spent the winter trying to escape? Why do girls get engaged to men whose real names they do not even know, and whom they have only met half a dozen times on the beach? Why do the high-hatters hobnob with those they will spend half the winter trying to drop? Why, in short, do we do the things in summer that we would never, never do in winter?

Is drudgery a habit?

EXPERTS declare it is. For generations housewives were virtual slaves to the economic duties of the household.

When by their own labors they rubbed clothes over rough washboards, scrubbed floors or swept rugs, they felt that the service was adequately done.

Labor saving devices were received with skeptism for a long time, and even today some women cannot feel satisfied that a job is completed unless they have experienced genuine physical labor in its fulfillment.

Experiments have proved this. And have shown this unusual situation to be a carry over from our ancestors who had nothing but personal manual labor with which to perform household drudgery.

Electric service has changed all this. Efficient appliances of today, designed for almost every household need, economically operated by constant, unlimited electric energy leave no legitimate, economic reason why the average electrified American home should not be equipped to banish drudgery.

Electricity contributes magnanimously to higher living standards. It has become the foundation upon which present and future progress is based Invest in it.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 9.—Burton Rascoe's forthcoming novel "Gustibus," has a living person, Charles McArthur, as its principal protagonist. McArthur is a playwright ("Lulu Belle," "Salvation," "The First Page") and hedonist (doctrine that pleasure is the chief good), about whom a hundred extraordinary stories are told by the reconteurs of Broadway and Park avenue. About his career there is being erected a saga as imposing as that which adorns the fictional life of Paul Bunyan. He still is a young man, but he is becoming a legend.

McArthur in turn is using a living person, Ernest Boyd, the critic, as a character in his new play. So he told me at lunch the other day. Boyd was present and possibly McArthur was spoofing. Anyway, all of his plays have characters drawn from easily recognizable living persons.

The younger American writers are doing lots of writing about their friends and each other under the thin guise of fiction. Ernest Hemingway's characters in the best-selling "The Sun Also Rises" are alive to read what he thinks of them. Ben Hecht's "Count Bruga" is a satiric portrait of his former friend, Maxwell Bodenheim; and Bodenheim's "Ninth Avenue" has a vengeful portrayal of Hecht. F. P. A. (Franklin P. Adams), the columnist, appears as a character in Edna Ferber's book, "The Girls." Neysa McMein, the artist, is supposed to be the original of Dallas O'Mara in Miss Ferber's "So Big," and Elsie Janis, the actress, in the same author's "Mother Knows Best." Incidentally, the Barrymore family is reported to have been offended by "The Royal Family," a play by Miss Ferber and George Kaufman, which is supposed to have used the Barrymores as models.

Carl Van Vechten has H. L. Mencken, the erstwhile antichrist, in his "Nigger Heaven" under the name of Russett Durwood. Many readers of Joseph Hergesheimer have noted the resemblance of one of "Cythera's" principal characters to Lillian Gish, the cinemactress, who has been a subject for the pens of other noted writers also. John Chipman Farrar, the youthful critic and essayist, appears as Johnny Chipman in two of Stephen Benet's novels, "The Beginning of Wisdom" and "Young People's Pride," and as John Chapman in Cyril Hume's "Wife of the Centaur." Hester in Margery Latimer's "We Are Incredible," has been identified as Zona Gale, the novelist.

And the famous Algonquin Round Table crowd of wits and half-wits figures in the flesh and the fresh in Anita Loos' new book, "But Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

All this might incline a person who doesn't know authors to conclude that they do considerable log-rolling among themselves. As a matter of fact, they do more stiletto tossing.

Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, who started the original Al Smith boom, and whom many will regard as a president maker if the New York governor is elected to the White House, gives most reporters the impression of being a woman devoid of emotion and sentiment. In her office she is mannish, ultra-businesslike, a cold, informative machine.

But one reporter isn't fooled by the impression she gives the world. That reporter is her son, Josef Israels. He says that she spends her spare time at home making clothes for grandchildren or layettes for poor mothers. She also sees to it that Joe keeps his neck and ears clean.

GETS PRISONER

Sheriff Fred McClorkle of Frederick returned a prisoner to Frederick Sunday from the Wichita county jail on a felony charge. The man was arrested at Iowa Park Saturday by R. D. Morris, deputy sheriff, at the request of the Frederick officers.

One-Minute Sermon

And he said, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.—St. Mark, iv, 30-32.

Modern Symbols of Peace

THE SCRIPTURAL prophet of old sang of a day when the men would beat their swords into plowshares. Something rather like that, in a modern was, has just been happening in the United States.

When the World war ended the government had on hand large stocks of an explosive called pyrotol. It had been made for killing Germans; the end of the war of course made it a useless commodity. So the government began selling it to western farmers who had cut-over forest lands to clear.

Thus the pyrotol that was made to kill men was used for blasting stumps and rocks of fields so that men might raise wheat and corn. That is the modern version of beating swords into plowshares.

Protection From Antiquated Airplanes

DEATH of one man and serious injury to another in Beaumont in the crash of a worn-out and discarded government plane is only one of a number of such instances which should arouse friends of aviation. Beaumont city officials plan legislation to control the use of such planes, too late to remedy a tragedy but early enough to serve as an example to other cities.

Men will be found who are ever ready to risk their necks in antiquated planes, but they should not be allowed to endanger the lives of others, and cast an unjust reflection on all aviation. Air travel in carefully inspected machines and with trained pilots has been found as safe as any other means of transportation. In some instances, there is an even smaller risk. Cities which look to the safety of their residents in the control of automobile and taxi companies should certainly do as much in the case of airplanes.

The Soda Fountain

AND NOW the soda fountain, once the despair of dietitians and health authorities, comes in for a pat on the back.

Writing in the current issue of Good Housekeeping, Dr. Walter H. Eddy, of Columbia university, says that the soda fountain is now an asset to the national health, whereas a few years ago it was considered a detriment.

The reason? We are learning what to drink. Fountain sales show an increasing consumption of pure fruit juice and milk drinks in place of the artificially flavored, more or less mysteriously concoctions of a generation ago. The change is good for us. It is helping to balance our diet.

The stenographer who drops in at a drug store for a lunch of chocolate malted milk and a sandwich is wiser, apparently, than some people think.

Old Days Have to Pass

JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER, the novelist, isn't at all sure that the great progress of America in the last century is altogether a good thing.

In his most recent book, "Quiet Cities," Mr. Hergesheimer discusses life in American cities a century ago. He paints absorbing pictures of the color and romance of early Pittsburgh when it had but 1500 inhabitants and no steel mills; of maritime Boston of the clipper ship era; of Natchez in the day when the Mississippi steamboat was the most gorgeous thing in the valley; of New Orleans at the time of French rule.

He is frank to say that he would rather have lived in those cities a century ago than live in them today; although he admits that he probably could not exist without the comforts and cushions of twentieth century civilization. In the old days, he believes, there was more of a sheen to life; the old aristocratic ideal expressed itself in customs and manners, living was both more leisurely and more exciting, the time were simultaneously more peaceful and more strenuous.

All of us probably feel the same way, at times. No one can think of the great old plantation houses of the pre-Civil War south, for instance, without feeling real regret that the old days have passed away. There was a savor to life then; wide, cool hallways, open verandas overlooking rolling lawns, white paneled rooms with great four-poster beds, drawing rooms lit by long waxen tapers, peopled by men and women who ordered their lives by one of the most punctilious codes ever made.

Yet the old days had to pass. As Mr. Hergesheimer frankly admits, they disappeared before the rising tide of democracy and industrialization. A century ago the masses were submerged in order that the few might live gracefully and pleasantly; now we are trying to experiment of giving everyone a shot at the pleasures of the few. For democracy not only means that the humblest may have a voice in his own government; it means, in this day of mass production, that he has a voice in the shaping of civilization. He has a right to get, or at least try to get, the luxuries that formerly were denied him. The Ford Motor company and General Motors could not exist save in a democratic community; and, at the same time, they help to make democracy more real every day.

We can regret the passing of Mr. Hergesheimer's "quiet cities" all we want to; but, after all, their passing was inevitable. It is no use for us to mope and wish they could return. They can't. Our wisest course is to face the present frankly and hopefully, resolved to remedy its defects and make the most of its good points. The past may be beautiful, but it is past.

A small town newspaper is one in which the editor casually makes the occasional remark that "considerable humidity has been mingled in the local atmosphere the last few days."

Judging by the smile Mrs. Al Smith has been wearing in her recent pictures, Al probably can throw ashes on the rug at home now any time he wants to.

AUCTION ENDS FINE BREWERY

"Steins and All" Go On Selling Block

CHICAGO, July 8. (UP)—The Stein, symbol of cheer in bygone days when good fellows gathered together, didn't rest on the table in Chicago—it went under.

Fair weather was at hand, in fact good beer-drinking atmosphere attended to make a perfect setting. The crowd assembled but there was no song or cheer. Not a dry eye could be seen when the old Stege brewery, "once the biggest and best in America," literally was hammered into junk by an auctioneer.

"The Stege was one of the finest in its day," the auctioneer bawled as he steadily hammered away. "It was worth three quarters of a million but it goes for a begger's supper. What am I bid for this?"

Paltry Sums Paid

Vat after vat went for paltry sums. The king vat, which once held 20,000 gallons of beer, was sold for junk. Twenty-one others of 10,000 gallon capacity and 75, 5,000-gallon containers went the same way.

"Everything is going—steins, glasses and all," the auctioneer repeated, his words crushing some of his listeners like an executioner would a condemned.

It was a sight that would have brought cheer for "Pussy-Foot" Johnson but not for the old-timers who had assembled at "the Stege" today to witness what to them was a catastrophe.

Sad Memories

"That's what prohibition does for you," said one. "Many the day did I drop in there for a cooling draught. Now look at it."

Thirty-five years ago, beer trucks backed up to the six-story structure and carried away kegs and casks that filled many steins for the good fellows in the past.

Imposing figures carved on a 30-year-old copper cooker had cobwebs over their eyes today. Soon they will be beaten into unrecognizable junk as the entire equipment valued by its former owners at $750,000 went to a scrap dealer for $2,100.

Odor All Gone

The brewery was marked for destruction by Federal Judge J. H. Wilkerson a year ago when Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, well-known "beer barons," of Chicago, were charged with attempting to reopen and operate it. Judge Wilkerson ordered the equipment sold and the building will be torn down to make way for a legal business structure.

The auctioneer may have noticed the sympathetic spectators as he placed the entire lot under the hammer but he smiled and gave a sigh of relief when his work was done.

Not even the slightest odor of the old brewery remained today but the memory of it will linger for the old-timers who visited there in "better days."

PUBLIC LOVE-MAKING

Now, I am just a young man,
Still full of fire and life;
I think that I am normal—
I'm hunting for a wife.

But I don't do my hunting—
I can't talk soft and sweet
Cuddled in a picture show,
Or riding down the street.

It's nauseating beyond words
To ride along and see
A couple locked in ford embrace,
As tight as tight can be.

Or worse, a courtship in a show,
Where one and all can see
The movies showing drama—
The couple—comedy!

The Reader's Opinion

The columns of The Record News are open to its readers for the discussion of questions of current interest or import. Letters should be not more than 300 words in length, preferably shorter, and should be signed with the name and address of the writer. Initials, or pen-name, will be substituted upon request. Letters must be free of personal abuse or libel, and the editor reserves the right to reject parts or all of letters.

Editor, the Wichita Falls Record News:

Please let me have space to answer an editorial in your paper of Tuesday, July 3, "Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide." If you want to define democracy, it is a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

As a people, we have not much to say in national affairs. It is run by a political machine with the steam roller process.

The Democratic pledge in the primary election is a state and county pledge. It does not pertain to national offices at all, but we have some weak-kneed and feeble-minded that want to cover the entire universe with a word with only six letters and call it a people's rule. It is a farce and always has been.

We should stand on principles and not committee pledges. We should vote for men with honest records and pure motives. We have too much "partyism" and not enough pure Demo principles.

This is a democratic form of government whether the Republicans or the Democrats are in power. If the pledge is the only method to assure a white man's rule, it is a poor thing, I must confess. We should do away with it and put in a set of good principles that the people could be proud of.

Now as to the donkey ride. You will seldom see a donkey that is willing to be ridden. If he is willing, it is rather a rough ride. This seems to be the rather rough gait for 1928.

As to the elephant, the ride is generally smooth and easy, but at unloading it is sometimes disagreeable if there are no ladders handy. But at all times on the road, the ride is easy and smooth.

Now to the point: The primary is to choose state, county and precinct nominees. That is as far as it goes. It has nothing at all to do with national affairs. That is a different thing. The president is elected by electoral vote, and the majority has no say. Only the electors in the electoral college have the power to elect the president.

This is wrong, and should be changed to the majority vote. It was O. K. in our infancy, but baby clothing won't fit a man. Neither does the electoral system fit this nation at present.

So let's vote for the best man with the best platform with pure motives for the best government, whether it be an elephant or a pitching donkey.—J. W. Jamieson, Route 2, Childress, Texas.

When A Girl Loves

This Has Happened

Nathaniel Dann is engaged to Virginia Brewster, whose father dies suddenly after losing his fortune. Niel begs her to marry him at once, but Frederick Dean and his daughter, Clarissa, persuade her to make her temporary home with them. This angers Niel for he suspects Dean's motives.

Virginia becomes unhappy in her new home and resolves to tell Niel her fears. But when she phones his studio late at night his model, Chiri, answers. This plants the seed of jealousy.

Hoping to get Niel out of the way, Dean has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried commercial position in San Francisco. Niel begs Virginia to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

Clarissa becomes jealous of Virginia over her fiance. Virginia resolves to leave but when she goes to say farewell to her host Dean tries to get her to stay and asks her to marry him. When she refuses indignantly, he tells her that her father had cheated him out of $100,000 and that she will have to marry him to save her father's honor. She says that she will earn the hundred thousand to pay him in one year's time or marry him if she fails. Then she slips quietly out of his house and goes away in a taxi.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter XVI

"Well, if it's an address in New York you want I'll get it for you," the driver said in answer to Virginia's reckless statement. He had pulled his cab over to the curb and sat, head turned to face his fare, while the motor died noisily.

Virginia hesitated to reply, aware that she had plunged headlong into a situation that contained elements of danger. To tell an unknown taxicab driver that she wished to obtain a loan on a valuable ring, just because he looked sympathetic, was foolhardy to say the least, and Virginia knew it. She had been trained in the ways of the rich who know how to guard themselves from unnecessary risks and she was taking herself to task now for her impetuosity. But the driver was waiting and he did look like a decent, regular person. Virginia threw caution to the winds and decided to chance his honesty.

"I should like to go to someone who will make a loan on a piece of jewelry," she said as nonchalantly as she could manage. "A reliable person, of course," she added firmly.

"That's easy, lady; I know a guy over here on Sixth avenue who'll treat you right. All the chorines go to him."

"Is that a recommendation?" Virginia asked, curious to know why it should be so.

"I'm tellin' yuh. Them babies has got genuwine sparklers, all right. They can't trust 'em except with a white guy. You can't go wrong if you follow the chorus dames when they send their jools to be 'reset.'" He laughed goodnaturedly at the little deceit practiced by those who keep their dealing with pawnbrokers a secret matter, and Virginia smiled with him.

"All right," she said; "take me to your friend and I'll see what he can do about 'resetting' my ring. It isn't a diamond, though," she hastened to explain as a belated precaution, in case he had any unscrupulous designs in his head. "I haven't any diamonds," she went on. It was true, because she liked sapphires and pearls better. But, much as her father had lavished luxuries upon her, he had given her few jewels. Virginia had thought he did not care for them on young girls and she had been content to expect them later in life. She knew now that it was because he hadn't had the money to buy them.

She wondered, as she was being swept with the traffic across town, what sacrifices he had made in order to give her the two strings of pearls that nestled rosily in a gray velvet case in her traveling bag. Suddenly she sat rigidly upright, terrified with a new thought. Those pearls represented the only barrier between her and dire want! What if they were not hers after all! They might have to go in the liquidation of her father's estate!

For the first time since she had been deprived of her father, her home, and even her dearest friends, Virginia faced poverty. It was a soul-trying ordeal for one who was utterly at a loss without funds. But how little it would have mattered to her if she could have been sure of a future with Nathaniel! Then she could have found diversion in learning to bear an economic responsibility. It would have been thrilling just to share success by proxy with him, helping him.

The driver's voice recalled her to her immediate quest for money. How far from a fortune she was!

"Here we are lady," he was saying as he beamed upon her from the open door. "I'll go in and introduce you. And here's a tip. Hold out for about 25 per cent more than this geezer offers you. He's square but he ain't in business for a ride!"

"Thank you," Virginia murmured and climbed hurriedly out of the cab.

The shop they entered was small, only half a store, but the show window was filled with an assortment of more or less valuable odds and ends, and Virginia was reassured to see a tray of wrist watches that looked as if they had originated on Fifth avenue. Evidently the owner of this place was used to handling good things, she thought.

The opening of the door was instantly followed by the buzz of an electric guard and in a few seconds the proprietor appeared from a back room and turned on more light. Virginia watched nervously for any covert signals to pass between him and her taxi driver but she saw nothing to arouse her suspicions.

"Miss, this is Uncle Simon, a good guy," the driver announced amiably. Then, to the gaunt old man he said, "Treat her right Uncle; she's a friend of mine."

Virginia pardoned him for that, divining that he meant it as a favor. "Wait for me," she directed as he turned back to the door.

"Well, well, what can I do for you, young lady?" the pawnbroker asked when Virginia turned her attention to him. He was peering at her from under shaggy brows with a seriousness that was not in accord with his professionally cheerful voice.

"I wish you to look at a ring," she said with determined poise. She did not want him to know this was the first time she'd ever been in such a place. With a quick movement she pulled the sapphire ring from her finger and handed it to him.

He bent over it for an instant and then said, "Wait," in a blank tone that told Virginia nothing of his impression of it. She stood while he took it to a light and studied the sapphire under a magnifying glass.

"Do you want to sell it?" he barked at her finally.

"Oh, no, I'd just like to secure a loan on it," she answered quickly, startled at the thought of parting with the ring permanently.

"How much do you want?"

"As much as you will give me," she told him simply, with no idea of bargaining, but because she did not know the exact value of the gem.

"One hundred."

"Only a hundred!" she echoed in alarm. "Why I thought . . ." she stopped short, averse to telling him that she had believed it worth many hundred in fear that he would take advantage of her ignorance.

"Yes?" he urged eagerly.

"I thought you would give me at least two hundred," she said, aiming in the dark.

"One hundred," he said decisively. But when Virginia left the shop a few minutes later she had $125 more than when she had entered it. She was glad she had received the driver's advice but her pleasure would have been short lived if she had heard the pawnbroker congratulating himself upon his end of the bargain.

"He's 'resetting' it," she told the waiting driver, with a wry smile. "And thanks to you I got the 25 per cent increase."

"And do we go back to the Ritz?" he inquired gayly.

"Yes, but tell me first, are you absolutely certain my ring will be safe here?" Virginia worried.

"You can take my word and my number too, lady, and if anything goes wrong just go to my company and complain," the man assured her earnestly and Virginia decided that his word would do.

A lump rose in her throat, and fear ghastly, paralyzing fear, froze it there.

For the first time in her life she inquired about rates before taking accommodations in a hotel, and was at last alone in the cheapest when she was at last alone in the cheapest room the Ritz had to offer she locked the door and turned to survey her new quarters and her new life.

She had been in humbler chambers in obscure stopping places when traveling in out-of-the-way villages and towns with her father. But that had all been adventurous, romantic, while this was commonplace; a first visible result of her change from the petted daughter of wealth to a penniless girl with a bitter, staggering undertakings ahead of her, blocking off her happiness if she failed in it!

A lump rose in her throat and fear, ghastly, paralyzing fear, froze it there. What a mad thing she had done to make such a rash bargain with Frederick Dean! She had told him she'd rather die than marry him, but that escape would not clear her father's name. She could visualize grave, white-haired, venerable men sitting in club windows, whispering over the stories Dean would set afloat.

She couldn't bear it. The lump in her throat was torn away on a strangled cry and she dropped into a heap on the floor, where she lay for a long time, inert, her mind stunned with the shock and grief that had come upon her in such a swiftly moving succession of misfortune.

Dusk had given way to night before Virginia stirred and breathed sobbingly. Weakly she brushed her hair off her hot forehead and dragged herself to her feet.

She was faint with lack of food, but it did not occur to her to order anything to eat. There were only two things that seemed of any importance to her. To find out from her father's lawyer if she could hope for any money from the estate, and to see Nathaniel—to tell him . . . .

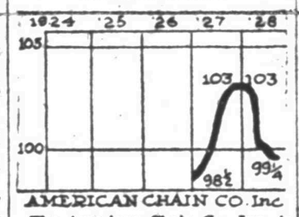

And as if her loyal heart had not already suffered enough to break it, Virginia suddenly glimpsed a new cross that she must bear.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to
FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By MARY PICKFORD

MARY PICKFORD

Gladys Smith, better known as Mary Pickford, America's sweetheart, is even more fully identified as the wife of Douglas Fairbanks.

Mary and Doug are Mr. Hays' shining example of how to be happy in Hollywood without being married more than twice.

Mary makes merry with the following favorite joke:

"The story opens in a negro church," Mrs. Fairbanks began, "and the colored preacher is explaining how, by calling upon the Lord, any one can have whatever he wants—providing that he needs it and has faith that it will be given to him. The parson's words were making a deep impression on one colored man who sat on the back row.

"Now, this particular darkey was a wayward one, and it so happened that he was in dire need of $50, so he wrote the following note and placed it in the collection plate when it went round:

"'Oh, Lawd,' the note read, 'I'se got to have fifty bucks. You know I needs it, and the preacher man says you'll provide for your children whatever they needs.'

"The parson was rather amused when he found the missive, but after thinking it over, he decided to call upon several members of his congregation, suggesting that—as a method of converting the wayward one for all time—they make up a contribution for the amount for which he had asked, and send it to him.

"However, $42 was the most he could raise. This he sealed in an envelope and handed to the darkey the following Sunday.

"Imagine the preacher's surprise when, at the close of that day's sermon, he found another note in the collection plate—from the same negro.

"This one read:

"'Oh, Lawd, next time you sends me money, don't send it in care of no preacher—I was eight bucks short.'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Heat Fatalities

Every hot season brings a toll of deaths from heat and exhaustion and sunstroke. This occurs when the individual has not taken the proper precautions or made changes in diet and clothing which are necessitated by the change in temperature. Heat exhaustion develops from inability of the body to adapt itself to a rapid rise of temperature. This occurs most frequently when the air is very humid or the clothing is too heavy; which prevents a rapid evaporation of perspiration. By sensible changes in our diet and clothing, we can avoid much of the unpleasantness of the hot weather.

In one of the middle western cities I saw a number of cases of heat prostration in individuals soon after they emerged from a very cool theater into the sweltering external heat. Heat stroke may occur even when one is not in the sun. It comes on slowly and leaves the surfaces of the body cold and the temperature sometimes sub-normal. These individuals always have a sluggish circulation. It is well to place them on a fruit fast for several days, with tepid or warm shower baths, hot enemas, deep breathing exercises, and dry friction baths.

A sunstroke differs from heat exhaustion in that it is caused by a congestion of the blood to the head. The effect is sometimes immediate unconsciousness, and is often produced by not wearing a hat while in the direct rays of the hot sun. Children, light complexioned people, and those under the influence of alcohol, are especially susceptible. Sometimes death occurs almost immediately. Where this does not occur, there are sometimes serious after effects, such as partial paralysis of brain or legs, dizziness, fever and complete prostration. The individuals who do recover are peculiarly susceptible to heat or the sun for a long time after.

Because of the profound shock which occurs with this disorder, one must use extreme care in the treatment. Ice packs to the neck will cool the blood in the head and reduce the pressure in the brain. I do not recommend the ice cold enemas that are usually given to lower the temperature, since I am of the opinion that it is more important to secure a thorough cleansing, and warm water is more valuable for this purpose. The cooling may be accompanied by sponging the skin with ice water or using cold shower baths.

The fever of sunstroke sometimes becomes very high, from 105 degrees upward. One who is recovering from a sunstroke must conserve his vitality by as much sleep and rest as possible.

While sunburn is very painful, it hardly ever is serious enough to cause death, although this has occurred in several instances. Much relief may be had by using cool showers and ice water compresses whenever the pain is severe. The skin should be covered with an alkaline oil, such as carron-oil, which is a mixture of lime water and linseed oil. This is obtainable at any drug store, and will keep out the air and at the same time neutralize some of the acid products of the decomposing skin. You should time yourself when in the direct sunlight, because the burn may occur even though the skin does not become hot.

Questions and Answers

Question: F. W. asks: "Will you please tell me if the menus printed once a week in your column are reducing menus? I am too heavy and would like a balanced diet which would take off 10 or 15 pounds. Have been following your instructions but do not lose by using your weekly menus."

Answer: If you want to reduce, I would advise you to change the weekly menus somewhat. A simple way to do is to substitute a fruit meal in place of any meal including starch. If you are overweight and will do this, you will probably lose from three to five pounds a week.

Question: M. asks: "Is it healthy to drink a glass or two of sweet milk just before retiring every night?"

Answer. Not unless you are on an exclusive milk diet, in which case your schedule might extend to bedtime, depending upon how much milk you were taking. Ordinarily, when milk is used at all, it should be used as a meal itself, and not in addition to any of the customary three meals a day.

Question: S. H. writes: "I am a young man of 20 years and have heart trouble (mitral stenosis) which has existed since birth. I have heard that near my 21st birthday I may expect a change for the better, the explanation being given that during youth at intervals of seven years a change occurs. Is this true?"

Answer: It is true that heart disorders of childhood often gradually disappear after adolescence, but do not depend too much upon this possible change. Begin eating correctly so that you do not have an excessive amount of gas pressure against your heart, as such gas pressure is the most common cause of all heart derangements.

Former Mangum Men Now Chautauqua Officials

MANGUM, Okla., July 8.—James Tubb, a Greer county boy, and a graduate of Mangum high school, is the superintendent of the Redpath Horner Chautauqua which opened here Saturday afternoon for a week's engagement. Mr. Tubb has been a superintendent of the Premier curcuit for the past several seasons. He resigned as principal of the high school at Weatherford to accept this position. His brother, Romey Tubb, also a member of the Mangum High School Alumni association, has charge of the chautauqua tent here. After several years' absence the young men are receiving a hearty welcome from their Mangum friends.

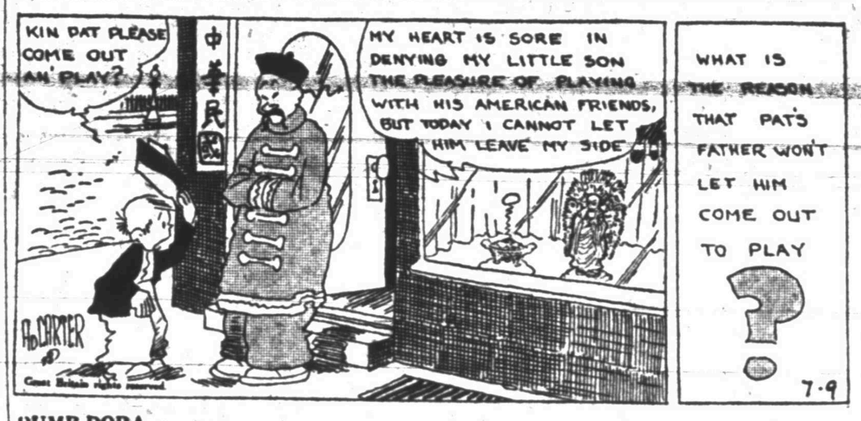

Panhandle Boy Scout Council To Be Formed

COLLINGSWORTH, Texas, July 8. (Sp)—Plans are being completed for the organizing of all boys in the towns of Memphis, Shamrock, Wellington and McLean into a Boy Scout organization called the Southern Panhandle Boy Scout council.

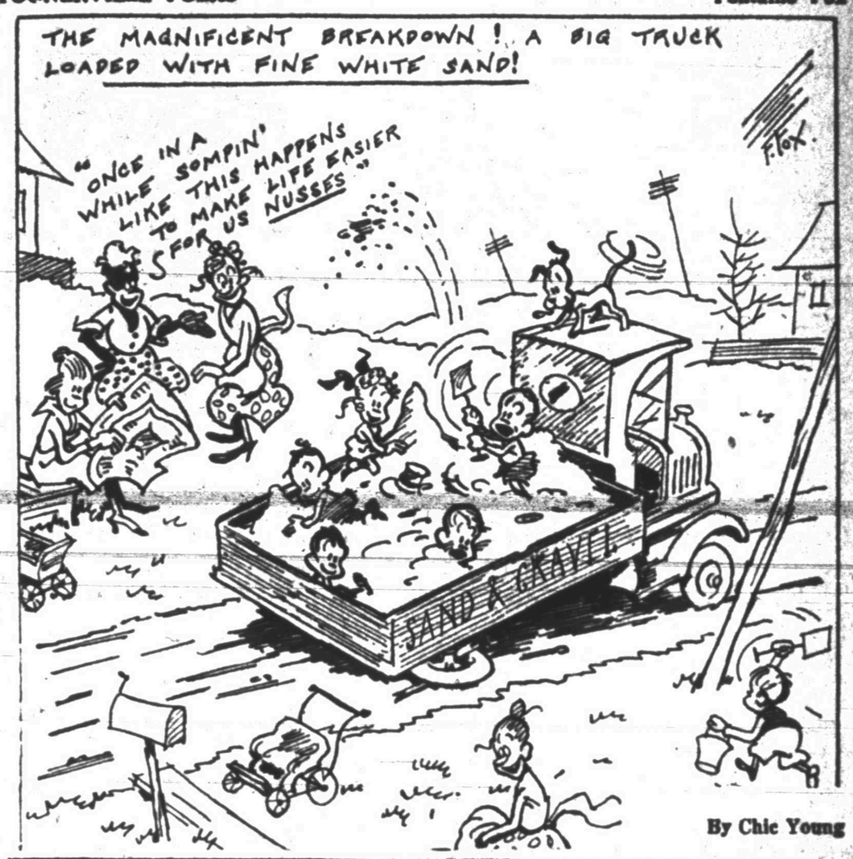

The organization committee will be made up of the following: Claude Wells of Memphis; H. E. Singley of Wellington; Sam Braswell of Clarendon; W. H. Walker of Shamrock; C. E. Jameson of Memphis, and M. T. Bourland of McLean. H. B. Yates, scout executive, will spend the summer organizing troops in the above mentioned towns.

SHORES BEATS SPORTS, 3-1 AFTER SPUDS DROP OPENER, 5-3

LAMB'S HITTING FEATURES PLAY

Lapan, Turgeon and Roetz Also Bat Hard

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our Spudders took several wallops on the chin and were reeling and groggy, but managed to emerge yesterday from a no-decision afternoon of pastiming with honors even, no more nor less. Thanks to some timely clouting and the superb pitching of Bill Shores the Spudders took the nightcap from the Sports 3 to 1, after dropping the opener, 5 to 3.

Ineffective chunking and loose infielding cost the first game, though due credit is given Leo Dickerman, the elongated veteran right-hander, for turning in a very good eight-hit performance. The Sports batted Milt Steengrafe off the hill in the fifth round and Joe Kiefer, after retiring the side in that frame, lost control the next and Tom Estell finished.

Leo Scatters Hits

Except for the fourth inning when the Galloways bunched three hits for a brace of runs Dickerman kept the blows scattered and he went the last five rounds without allowing a run. Dickerman struck out four, but passed five.

Lyman Lamb whaled three hits, two for two bases, scored a run and drove home another to lead the attack. Eddie Roetz, the newest Texas league senation, banged a double and single and was passed twice in five times up.

Shores wasn't throwing them past the Sports as he did Thursday when he acted in the relief role and on a couple of occasions was unsteady. But Bill settled down to his usual excellent tossing after the fourth inning when the hostiles' lone run was tallied, and pitched no-hit ball the last three innings.

Spuds Bat Hard in Final

The two Petes—Turgeon and Lapan—each smacked two hits. Turgeon, Lamb and Stanton drove home the runs with timely knocks.

The Spudders lost the margin of a game in their race for the lead with Houston, when the Buffs gave Waco a pair of lickings. Dallas and Fort Worth were idle.

Spudders Score In First

Wichita Falls started the tallying with a run in the first inning of the opener. Roetz doubled to right. Turgeon struck out and Fitzgerald grounded to Deviveros, but Lamb singled to center, Roetz scoring.

Shreveport tied it in the second. Wilson, first up, walked, and went to second on Phipps' single to left. Roetz dropped Swenson's throw to force Phipps on Holman's grounder, filling the bases. Deviveros lifted to Lamb, Wilson scoring.

The Spudders tallied two in the fourth. Lamb doubled to center and scored on Jenkins' two-base drive to left. Swenson fouled to Whelan. Jenkins moved to third while Stanton was grounding to Whelan and scored on Smith's single to center.

The Sports won in the fifth when they scored three runs. Whelan singled to left. Kilduff hoisted to Swenson. Watwood doubled to right, Whelan stopping at third. Wilson's infield hit scored Whelan and sent Watwood to third. Wilson went to second on a wild pitch. Phipps skied to Lamb, Watwood scoring and Wilson going to third. Holman singled to left, Wilson scoring. Kiefer relieved Steengrafe and Turgeon threw out Deviveros on a sharp hit that bounced off Joe's glove.

One more was scored by the Sports in the sixth. Hayworth walked. Dickerman sacrificed, his first of three sacrifices in the game. Whelan and Kilduff strolled, filling the bases. Estell went to the box and threw out Hayworth at home on Watwood's grounder. Wilson bounced a high hit over Estell, Whelan scoring.

Spuds Take Final

Galloway's Ten Gallons scored first also in the final, with a run in the second inning. Lamb was safe on Holman's wide throw. Jenkins forced Lamb, Deviveros, unassisted. Tom went to second while Kilduff was tossing out Swenson. Stanton singled to center, scoring Jenkins.

Phelon's frollickers tied it in the fourth. Wilson singled to center and continued to second when the ball went past Fitzgerald. Jenkins took Phipps' fly. Wilson went to third on a passed ball. Holman walked. Deviveros' long fly to Fitzgerald scored Wilson.

We won in the fifth with a tally to spare. Lapan singled to center and went to second on Shores' sacrifice. Roetz grounded to Deviveros, the third hard hit ball by Eddie of the contest that failed to go safely. Turgeon singled to center, Lapan scoring. Hits by Fitzgerald and Lamb brought Turgeon scampering home.

Notes of the Game

The rejuvenated Dallas Steers will open a two-day stand today at the orchard.

Joe Kiefer probably will hurl, with the possibility of Mike Cvengros being Galloway's selection.

Heavy rainfall yesterday morning made the ground heavy, but it brought relief from the heat, welcomed by the players.

Art Phelan was banished from the coaching lines by Cecil Grigg in the first game for protesting on a called third strike on Wilson.

The leadoff man led off seven innings in the first game and four times in the second game. Which might be some sort of record.

Doc Smith's thumb on his throwing hand was split by a foul ball by Kilduff in the first game and the catcher will be out of play two or three days.

Lapan showed some speed in making a fast scoop and throw of Wilson's tap in the sixth inning of the second contest.

Turgeon handled 14 chances with one error in the two games.

Bernie Deviveros played the five games without an error, accepting 31 chances.

Record Holders

Records galore should fall in the 1928 Olympic games if spring and early summer performances in America and on the continent can be taken as a criterion.

In the United States alone intercollegiate and interclub competition since the start of the present outdoor season has brought new records in discus and javelin throwing, sprinting and long-distance runs, relay racing, swimming and almost every other athletic activity which has its counterpart in the Olympic games.

Records have crashed on the continent, too. The most startling has been the new relay record set by a great German team.

With such exhibitions as a forerunner the 1928 Olympiad at Amsterdam, Holland, should equal if not excel the 1924 games in the setting of new marks. The Paris games saw 24 new marks and two records equalled.

New records were set in the 400 meters run, 1500 meters run, 5000 and 10,000 meters runs and the 3000 meters steeplechase. New marks were also set in the 400 and 1600 meters relays, 3000 meters team race, 400 meters hurdles, running high jump, hop-step-jump, discus throw and decathlon.

All six men's and five women's swim records, 11 in all, were broken. The 100 and 200 meters runs records were tied.

Previous Olympic record breakers and present champions who will try to gain still further prestige for themselves and the United States in the forthcoming games are Frank Hussey, and Jackson V. Scholz, runners; Harold Osborn, jumper and decathlon man; Pat McDonald, shot putter; Mat McGrath, hammer thrower; Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer; Bud Houser, weight thrower; Martha Norelius, swimmer.

All-in-all—it's going to be a great Olympaid.

Paddock's Place On Olympic Team Rests With Decision On Pro Charge

Bracey of Texas Named for Sprints and Churchill of Oklahoma Gets Place as Decathlon Competitor

NEW YORK, July 8. (UP)—Charley Paddock of Los Angeles, veteran sprinter of the Olympic teams of 1920 and 1924, may be barred from competing in the 1928 Olympic games, it became known tonight when the United States team was announced without certifying Paddock as a member of the spring squad.

Paddock's amateur status has been challenged by both the U. A. U. track and field committee and the American Olympic selection committee, and his case has been referred to the A. A. U. for decision.

The protests were lodged against Paddock because of his work in motion pictures. If Paddock is cleared by the A. A. U. he will be a member of the United States team for the third time, but if he is disqualified, his place will be taken by Roland Locke of Nebraska.

After being shutout in the 100 meters Friday, Paddock staged a remarkable comeback to place in the 200-meter final Saturday and demonstrated he is still one of the world's fastest humans.

The 1928 American Olympic track and field team as announced by the Olympic selection committee follows:

Barr and Quick Take All-Texas Tennis Final

DAYTON, Ohio, July 8. (AP)—Emmett Pare of Chicago won the men's western tennis singles title here today by defeating Gordon Lum, Chinese Davis cup player, in five sets, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 6-0.

The women's singles championship went to Marjorie Gladman of Los Angeles, Calif., national girl champion, who vanquished Ruth Reise of Saginaw, Mich., 6-1, 6-3.

John Barr and James Quick of Dallas, Texas, won the men's doubles championship by defeating Bruce Barns and Karl Kamrath of Austin, Texas, 10-8, 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

HOUSTON COPS 2 FROM WACO

Buffs Run String to Eight Straight Over Cubs

WACO, Texas, July 8. (AP) — The Houston Buffs swept the double header here today against the Waco Cubs by scores of 10 to 8 and 10 to 4. The double victory today also gave Houston eight consecutive victories over the Waco Cubs during the second half.

The first game today went 11 stormy innings, and saw Penner, the starting Houston pitcher as well as Darby, the starting Waco hurler hammered from the mound. Score:

Moore Gets Acid Ring Test Tonight

Dempse to Make Pro Debut Here in Outdoor Show

Upon his ability shown in his match with Private Walker to be staged Monday night by Alec Ross in Spudder park, may, to a great extent, depend the future professional boxing career of Dempse Moore.

Moore recently turned professional after a successful campaign as an amateur and in Walker he is meeting the light heavyweight champion of the United States army and one of the best men of his weight in the world. The match will go for 10 rounds.

Sharing headline honors on the card with the Moore-Walker match will be a finish wrestling bout between Gus Kellio, who won the junior middleweight wrestling title in Madison Square garden, and Joe Parelli, the "rough and tough boy."

The junior middleweight title will be at stake in the match, which will be under New York commission rules.

The preliminary announced by Ross is a 6-round bout between K. O. Shorty and Kid Tidwell. In past bouts in Wichita Falls Shorty has always been returned the winner and has kept his matches filled with action from gong to gong.

Ritt's Riticisms

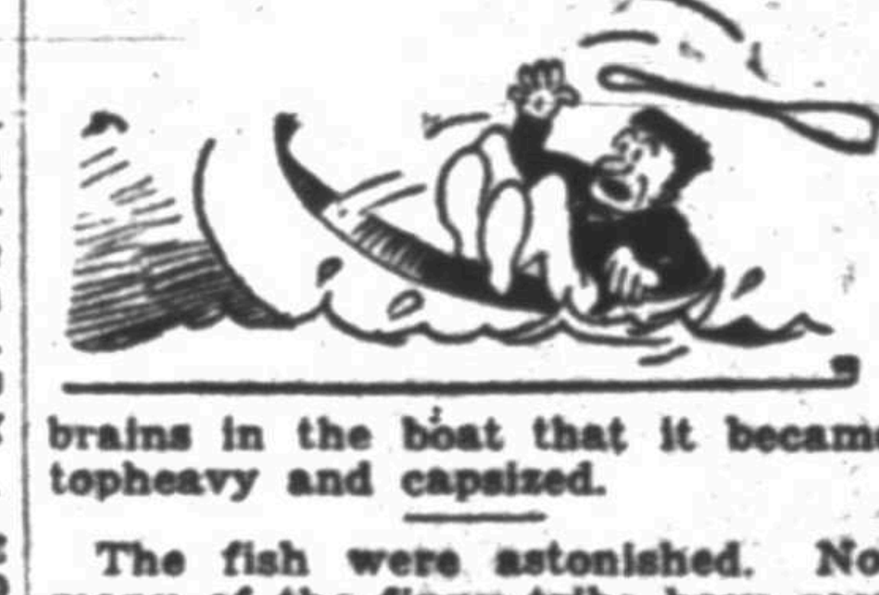

By BILL RITT

Gene Tunney fell out of a boat the other day and was in great danger. He risked publicity.

It was just like the time Tom Heeney rescued a fellow. A coincident that made the sports pages.

The Tunney mishap was a great success. It happened in full view of the reporters.

Gene was out canoeing with a noted author. There were so many brains in the boat that it became topheavy and capsized.

The fish were astonished. Not many of the finny tribe have seen a $2,000,000 champion at his bath.

However, Gene was calm. He knew Tex Rickard couldn't afford to have him drown.

After the rescue it was said the canoe has sunk often before. In fact, it was almost a habit.

The fellow who owns the canoe should make a fortune from now on. Think of the thousands who want their names in the papers!

CARDS TAKE 2 FROM BRAVES

St. Louis Leads Giants By 3 1-2 Games

ST. LOUIS, July 8. (AP)—Taking two games of a doubleheader from the Boston Braves here today, the St. Louis Cardinals pulled themselves up three and one-half games ahead of their nearest rivals, the New York Giants.

The first game was stopped several times by rain, but the Cardinals with a four run lead in the fourth inning held their ground and won, 7 to 4.

The second game was of the slugging variety, and between running for shelter from passing showers, the Red Birds garnered 12 runs to 8 by the Braves. Score:

Roberts Deaf To Steers' Protest

Plea On Saturday's Game Overruled by Doak

DALLAS, July 8. (AP)—Dallas' protest of yesterday's game lost to Fort Worth was disallowed today by J. Doak Roberts, Texas league president.

Bob Tarleton, business manager of the Steers, filed the protest on the grounds that Jim Riley of Fort Worth had lost count of the outs and had tossed the ball to Umpire Barr after only two men had been retired in the fourth inning. After Riley threw the ball to the arbiter, Mann scored from third base.

Roberts said he had the statements of both Barr and Umpires Hayes that time had been called to examine the ball. The final score of the game was 5 to 3.

BROWNS TRIM YANKS TWICE

Babe's 32nd Unavailing In Second Contest

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The Browns defeated the Yankees in both ends of a double header today, 10 to 4 and 5 to 3, thereby reducing the lead of the champions over the Athletics to a mere 11½ games.

Babe Ruth hit his 32nd home run in the second clash, in which all of the scores were due to homers. The Babe, Lu Blue and Schulte each hit for the circuit with one on, while round trip drives by Blaeholder and Lazzeri found the bases empty. Score:

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the following day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Where ads are ordered and paid for no refunds are allowed where ads are cancelled before expiration date.

SUNDAY DEADLINE BOTH PAPERS, 6 P. M. SATURDAY.

CLOSING HOURS FOR STRAIGHT CLASSIFIED ADS
Ads accepted for week days until 6 p. m. day before publication and for Sunday's issue until 7 p. m. Saturday night.

NO DISCONTINUANCE ORDERS WILL BE TAKEN AFTER 6 P. M.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN SUNDAYS
from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want Ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

Ads coming in after closing hours will not appear until next morning's issue, with exception of Lost and Found. Ads coming under this classification will appear under the Too Late to Classify column in the evening edition.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headings and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

Frog Chaser Hits Road With Head-Toad Escapes

RANGER, Texas, July 8. (UP)—Having heard of the famous Texas horned frog, Rawls G. Gordon, seven, of Augusta, Maine, sighted one running across the road near here, from the car in which his family was en route to California.

Rawls got out of the car to catch the frog. When he made a dive for it, his feet slipped and his head hit the pavement. The frog escaped.

Four Brick Buildings Constructed in Spur

SPUR, Texas, July 8. (Sp)—Four new brick business houses are being built in Spur. Five such houses have just been completed. The houses now under construction will be the property of W. S. Campbell, W. S. Dunn of Roxanna, and two for C. L. Love of the Love Goods company.

Trees To Be Planted On Land Near Mangum

MANGUM, Okla., July 8. (Sp)—Ten acres of denuded land will be planted with trees this fall and next spring as an experiment to be made by the Oklahoma Forrest commission, the Boy Scouts of Navajo Mountain council and the city of Altus. The site will be the land adjacent to Lugert lake, the Altus water supply source.

MATCH MAKER HELPS NATIONS

Monopolies Secured by Big Loans to Governments

WASHINGTON, July 8. (UP)—The penny match business is able to loan and donate millions of dollars to foreign governments to promote sales, according to reports obtained from the department of commerce.

Every third person in the world who lights a match, lights one manufactured by the greatest monopoly in history—the International Match company of New York, and the Swedish Match company of Stockholm.

Amazing Story

The story of the little safety match is one of the most amazing in modern commerce. Its output is practically controlled by the two companies, which are interlocked by joint stock holdings.

This mammoth organization with 50,000 employes and 90 plants in 32 countries of the world, capitalized for only $48,200,000, has been able to loan and pay outright millions of dollars to foreign governments in the past few years—in exchange for monopoly rights on the sale of matches.

There is not a nation in the world, according to commerce department reports, that is not connected in some way or another with the Swedish company in the use of matches.

Commerce department reports give a few of the foreign loans made by the Swedish company in exchange for monopoly rights as follows:

Seventy-five million in 1927 to France for a 20-year monopoly on sale of raw materials and match machinery. This loan, the reports show, was used by France to apply on its debt to the United States.

Five million to Greece for a 20-year monopoly.

One million five hundred thousand dollars to Ecuador, January, 1928, for a 25-year monopoly.

One million dollars a year for 20 years to Peru.

Six million dollars to Latvia, July 1928, for a 30-year monopoly.

Two million dollars to Esthonia, 1927.

Other Negotiations

The Swedish company offered a few weeks ago to loan Hungary $36,000,000 for a 30-year monopoly, the reports show, and has asked for an agreement to be signed by July 15.

Negotiations are reported to be going on between the Swedish company and Turkey for a substantial loan and the match company recently advised its stockholders that it was about to take over Italian production.

The Swedish company now holds a monopoly on the sale of matches in Bolivia, which expires in 1929. It is reported to the commerce department that a loan, running into the millions of dollars, has been offered for a renewal of the monoply.

Twenty companies in Argentina now are controlled by the Swedish Match company, the reports show, and the Compania Chilena de Fosforos, the largest match factory in Chile, recently disposed of 36 per cent of its stock to the Swedish company and gave it an option on 50 per cent of the stock.

German Agreement

An agreement has been reached with Germany to limit German match production to 35 per cent and permit the Swedish company to monopolize 65 per cent of all match sales.

In 1927, the Swedish company gained control of the Eddy Match company of Canada, which dominates the Canadian market. It already had control of British markets.

The Manila Match company, the only one of its kind in the Philippine Islands, is owned by the Swedish company.

The Swedish company recently acquired a majority of stock in the Japanese companies.

One City—One Man

T. O. Klath, United States commercial attache at Stockholm, recently advised the commerce department that "absolute control of this worldwide organization is centered in Stockholm and almost entirely in one man—Ivar Krueger."

The reports show that in the past 23 years the Swedish company had paid an average dividend of 25 per cent on its common stock. This profit is in addition to the millions loaned or given to foreign governments.

Thieves Take Cover From Sleeping Man

EL PASO, Texas, July 8. (UP)—While Agapita Castro slept soundly, thieves entered his room and stole all of his clothes and jewelry. The burglars, having nothing to carry their loot with, took the covers off of Castro.

Drilling Resumed On Runnels County Test

BALLINGER, July 8.—Drilling operations have been resumed at the Talley well, four miles north of the McMillan producers, after having been closed down during the past two months. Actual drilling began Wednesday night, when lost tools were recovered from the hole, as the result of efforts inaugurated Sunday morning.

This is considered a strategical test, in that all tests south of producers in the county have not proved profitable, while this is the only test in the opposite direction. A depth of 2430 feet was reported today. Kennedy and Farnsworth are the operators drilling this test.

COW TESTERS IN FIRST MONTH

14 On Honor Roll in Randall County Association

CANYON, Texas, July 8.—The Deaf Smith-Randall county cow testing association finished its first month's work on July 1. This association is composed of 19 herds with a total of 357 cows for the month of June.

According to the records of the tester, Carl Marsh, 44 cows made the honor roll for the first month.

The honor roll is made up of cows making a monthly production of 40 pounds of butter fat or 1,000 pounds of milk. Nine of the 44 cows produced over 50 pounds of fat for the month.

The high cow in the entire association in fat production was Little Agatha, the purebred Jersey owned by the West Texas State Teachers college. This cow will be remembered by many as being the grand champion cow at the recent dairy show held at Plainview.

The high average herd in butter fat production was the teachers college herd at Canyon. This herd of pure bred Jerseys made an average of 39.9 pounds of butter fat per cow for the entire herd for the month.

The herd showing the cheapest butter fat production costs was the Holstein herd, owned by H. B. Hales of the Zita community.

The farmers and dairymen who are members of the cow testing association are very well pleased with the work being done so far and it is hoped that many other farmer-dairymen will get into this work in the near future.

Cup of Coffee Cause Of Jailhouse Mutiny

EL PASO, Texas, July 8. (UP)—A mutiny was caused in the county jail here over a cup of coffee.

Twenty-four federal prisoners rebelled at an order of Meleton Holguin, turnkey, to get in their cells after one of the prisoners threw a cup of coffee at the officer. The prisoners who were in the bull pen, attacked the turnkey when he entered the pen. Other officers were called to quell the mutiny.

The mutiny was said to have started when the prisoners were being given their suppers. Guadalupe Martinez, failed to have his cup ready when J. C. Mahoney of the jail kitchen came in, prisoners said.

Mahoney was said by the prisoners to have cursed Martinez and that Martinez grabbed a cup of coffee from another prisoner and threw it at the officer.

Lawton Minister Carries P. O. Key for 20 Years

LAWTON, Okla., July 8. (Sp)—The Rev. S. M. Hunt, retired Presbyterian minister, has surrendered his postoffice key after carrying the same key for 20 years. Henceforth, his mail will be delivered at his residence.

Quinine is derived from the bark of the chinchona tree, a native of Peru, which was not grown in England until 1858, although its virtues had been known for over 200 years.

LORE OF STARS MADE PUBLIC

Noted Astronomer Gives Newly Found Facts

NEW YORK, July 8. (US)—Dr. Walter S. Adams, world-famous director of the Mount Wilson observatory, California, who lately received the 1928 Bruce medal from the Astronomical society of the Pacific, gives to the world some of his summary of astronomical advance in the last 20 years in a remarkable treatise just made public here by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Intended for consumption by astronomers, it contains many startling facts and assertions for the layman on the latest discoveries concerning universe piled on universe, of which the solar system containing the earth as a satellite is only a small example.

New Resources

With new laboratory resources and marvelously delicate instruments, Dr. Adams shows that the latest analyses of the composition of our own sun "give definite evidence of the presence of 57 of the elements known as the chemist on the earth." Six of these, he says, have been added to the number in the last few months, "and there can be little doubt that all the others are present as well." Failure to observe them is due to physical conditions in the sun which prevent their spectral lines from appearing with sufficient intensity.

Methods of analyzing spectra and the fact that spectral lines shown by instruments are displaced by small amounts when the source of light and the observer are approaching or receding from one another, have led to one of the most fruitful fields of investigation in all astronomy, the authority says. Then he adds:

Sun's Rate Derived

"The results derived enable us to find at what rate our sun is moving in space, how the motions of the stars in our system are related, and how even the enormously distant universes of stars, the spiral nebulae, are moving with respect to us and to one another."

It has been definitely established that sun spots have lower temperatures than the remainder of the sun's arc, Dr. Adams shows, and this gives a new method of attack upon the physical problems of the sun and stars, a "partial breach in the hitherto almost impenetrable ,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,-d,. Facietyaftacys.THTHT wall surrounding the interpretation of the spectrum."

The work of the last five years has gone so far in the interpretation of complex spectra "that we can take almost any line in a stellar spectrum and say not only what sort of atom produced it but just what the atom was doing at that time."

Council to Vote On Traffic Ordinance

Traffic problems of the city probably will be discussed at the Monday night meeting of the city council when an amendment to the city traffic code will be offered by Thelbert Martin, city attorney.

The amendment was ordered prepared by the council last Monday night at the suggestion of George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and allows for 30 minute parking in alleys of trucks when loading and unloading.

Chicago Heat Wave Claims Tenth Victim

CHICAGO, July 8. (US)—The record-breaking heat wave which settled over the middlewest Saturday and sent the mercury to 93 in Chicago claimed another life here today, bringing the total number of deaths attributed directly to the heat to 10.

Charles A. Donnell, weather forecaster, said the extreme weather would probably end tomorrow with showers.

With elephants, lions, airplanes and reforms in city government becoming a permanent and integral part of the city life, this little western city is becoming quite cosmopolitan. Wichita Falls always has been that. It is just becoming more so. There is more general knowledge of the outside world and there is more of a cosmopolitan atmosphere here than may be found in any city in the state with the possible exception of Dallas. Fort Worth, Austin and a flock of the others really don't know what it is all about. If memory is correct, Fort Worth today has a zoo not a whit better than the present zoo here. The Cowtown zoo made such a light impression that it is doubtful as to just what it is.

◇ ◇ ◇

Wichita Falls has the vitaphone. Lots of cities don't have it. We have first run movies just about as soon as any city in America. On a number of occasions, shows have been presented here while the original show was still running in New York. First run pictures are shown in three theaters all the time.

◇ ◇ ◇

People who don't care if they have to wait a little while but who do not wish to spend so much money, may see the same pictures a few months later at the second and third run huoses at lower prices.

◇ ◇ ◇

Dent Theaters, Inc., have given these advantages to this city in a way that is complete for any motion picture exhibiting organization. So, why not quit cussing the hot weather and enjoy a movie for a change?

◇ ◇ ◇

Al Jolson used to have a gag in which he put the idea across the footlights and at the same time took the sting off of paying $4.40 for a single seat. "Well, folks," he would say, "you might as well relax and get ready for the fun. You have paid for your dinner, probably for a taxi here, and also for your tickets. The bill for your party probably is $30. Now that's nothing to sneeze at—$30. But you might just as well make the best of it, sit back in your seats, draw in a deep breath and let it out again and forget your worries."

◇ ◇ ◇

He would then wade into his coonsong comedy, and make the cash customers forget the cost of pleasure. Al Jolson had the right idea. We might just as well enjoy the whole show, even paying for the tickets.

Boy Scouts Leave For Summer Camp Today

Boy Scouts from Wichita Falls, Childress, Quanah and Electra will go to Camp Ephriam Griffin at Diversion lake at 9 o'clock Monday morning for the first week's session of the summer training camp. There will be 100 in the party under the leadership of Taylor Cash of Electra as camp director.

The Rev. John Mullen and Houston Crump, boys work secretary, both of Childress and Jerry Phillips and Frank Creighton of Wichita Falls, will be among the other scout leaders at the camp.

A large colony of apes, owned by Mme. Rosalie Abreu of Havana, has been filmed in co-operation with the department of anthropology at Harvard.

PARNELL TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Wichitans to Accompany Attorney to Decatur

More than a score of Wichita Falls citizens will accompany J. D. Parnell, local attorney, to Decatur Monday night, when the former state senator formally opens his campaign for the lieutenant governorship.

Prior to his departure Mr. Parnell issued a statement concerning his record and his campaign platform.

"I have always been an ardent advocate of prohibition," he said. "I was a member of the legislature when that body voted to submit the eighteenth amendment for ratification. I spoke and voted for it. Before that time I had campaigned in the interest of prohibition.

"But I do not see a menace to prohibition in Governor Smith. Liquor laws could not be enforced more poorly than they have been since the Republicans went into office."

Mr. Parnell declared that he believes that all persons who participate in the Democratic primary in July will be morally obligated to vote for Governor Smith.

PARK PROGRAMS

Motion pictures will be presented by the park department in Bellevue park Monday night, according to an announcement made Sunday by C. C. Bunnenberg. The pictures will be shorter than usual, Mr. Bunnenberg said, in order to allow time for Alvin Owsley to speak. A singsong will be given Monday night at the Grant street playground.

at Lake Wichita beach.

C. C. Frazee at Westmoreland pool.

All instructions for men and women this week will be given at the Westmoreland pool each day by Mr. Frazee.

SWIM COURSE OPENS TODAY

Classes To Be Conducted In Four Pools

Let's swim today!

Everyone who doesn't know how to swim has the opportunity to do so, free of charge, under competent instructors and with the safety of a life guard close at hand in addition to the swimming instructors.

Monday is the day that marks the opening of the free swimming program of the city park department, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks, sponsor of the move.

Instructors will be at the Westmoreland, Cedar park, Haven park and Lake Wichita pools in accordance with the schedule. Those who don't own swimming suits may rent them. Small children should be accompanied by their parents, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

The schedule follows:

Boys from 7 to 11 years old from 4 to 5 o'clock on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays of each week.

Men from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Girls under 18 years old from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

Women from 3 to 4 and from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

Instructors and the pools where they will be on duty follow:

J. L. Creecy and Cleo Creecy at Haven park pool.

A. J. Slayton and Lorene Mathis at Westmoreland pool.

Frank Shaw and two assistants

Liquor Seized In Block of Courthouse

More than a quart of whisky was seized and a woman arrested early Sunday when Jim Glenn, night chief of police, and Plainclothes Officers Fred Fountain and E. H. Thornton raided a house within a block of the Wichita county courthouse.

New Plan for Oil Curb May Be Asked

TULSA, Okla., July 8. (AP)—The corporation commission, which on June 15 issued an order restricting developing in the Little River pool of the Semilone field to one well to each 20 acres, may be asked to order a new plan, similar to the Winkler-Pecos potential proration plan, for the pool.

At a meeting of Little River operators Friday the Seminole shut down committee was empowered to ask the commission's advice on whether the potential plan could be legally worked in the area, if it cannot then the committee plans to legally enforce the commission order of June 15, which has already been violated by a number of operators there, it is alleged.

PERMITS GAIN

EL PASO, Texas, July 8. (UP)—Building permits for the first six months of this year more than doubled the permits issued during the first six months of 1927, according to the records of the building inspector's office.

Ranger Men Set Record in Changing Raw Wheat Into Finished Bread

RANGER, Texas, July 8. (UP)—A world's record was very nearly broken here the other day. It is the record as regards the transformation of growing wheat into biscuits. The record is 40 minutes. A trio of Ranger citizens accomplished the feat in 41 minutes.

Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of the chamber of commerce; Ben Whitehouse, vocational agriculturalist; and K. C. Jones, owner Jones Milling company, went to the farm of S. W. Bobo, nine miles from Ranger, to procure the wheat. After the wheat had passed through the combine, each of the three men grabbed a bushel sack full and rushed to the car which was over 100 yards away. It took 22 minutes to bring the wheat to the Jones mill. Eleven minutes after it reached the mill, it was flour. With the sack of flour over his shoulder, Hickey rushed to the Ranger cafe, where W. R. Avent, chef, had a greased pan, ingredients and a hot stove waiting. Six minutes after the flour reached the kitchen, the biscuits were being eaten by diners at the cafe. An even dozen biscuits were made.

PACKARD SIX MODELS REDUCED $300

THE Packard Motor Car Company has just advised us by telegram that effective July 9 prices of all models of the Packard Six have been reduced $300. The new prices are as follows:

126" Wheelbase Models

2-Passenger Runabout	$1975
5-Passenger Sedan	1985
5-Passenger Phaeton	1975
2-Passenger Coupe	2050
2-Passenger Convertible Coupe	2125

133" Wheelbase Models

7-Passenger Touring	$2185
4-Passenger Coupe	2385
5-Passenger Club Sedan	2385
7-Passenger Sedan	2385
7-Passenger Sedan Limousine	2485
2-Passenger Runabout	2085
5-Passenger Phaeton	2085

(Prices f. o. b. Detroit)

These reductions have been made because the factory expects to announce in the late Summer, new cars which though identical in size and similar in appearance, will have enough mechanical changes to classify them as new models.

In view of these reduced prices and of the fact that the new cars will be priced higher than the present cars were before this reduction, the purchaser of a Packard Six has now not only a great price advantage, but also immediate use of the most successful and popular car Packard has ever built, and at the lowest price at which new Packard cars have ever been offered.

Your used car will be accepted as cash and if of average value will more than make the down payment on the new car. Your cash outlay will then be only $100 or so a month on a Packard Six which the average owner keeps more than four times the payment period.
