4 Health Bureaus to Go Under "Ma's" Economy Program

15 MILLIONS SOUGHT SAVED IN TEXAS COST

Job Holders at Austin Worriod Over Adoption Of Ferguson Plans

HAVE REASON TO BE

Outlook Gloomy for Many Of Employes if Legislature Accepts Mandate

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 5.—When the democratic party of Texas, which elects the legislature as well as the governor, adopted the $15,000,000 appropriation cut program of Mrs. Ferguson, and endorsed the reductions proposed by her in cost of the government, the items of her program at once became the object of hurried study and of worried thought not only by those in the departments which she proposes to abolish but also in those whose salary and traveling expense lists she would materially trim.

Cut From Bureaus.

Four bureaus of the health department, Mrs. Ferguson has declared, must be abolished, the bureau of sanitary engineering, the mosquito control work, the bureau of communicable diseases and bureau of hygiene and the bureau of rural sanitation. The mosquito control has an appropriation of about $10,000; and recently a spokesman or the Texas Medical association declared that $10,000 represented all the effective health work of the department, out of $150,000 a year, most of which was spent in salaries and traveling expenses.

Mrs. Ferguson pledged the abolishment of the state topographic and hydrographic surveys; but these surveys will be completed on money already appropriated, and no further appropriation is asked for them.

Cut Court Officials.

She would cut the salaries of all court officials by 15 per cent, at a total saving of $430,000.

Here are the other bureaus and departments whose establishment was approved by the democratic party platform: State fire insurance rating board, tick eradicating work by the livestock saintary commission.

Here are reductions she would make by consolidation or cutting down the appropriations of departments: Merge the department of markets and warehouses with the state department of agriculture at an estimated saving of $125,000.

Slice the biennial appropriations for buildings at all state schools.

C[illegible] half appropriations to the game, [illegible] and oyster department, saving approximately $60,000.

Other Reductions.

Cut ranger service in two, saving $120,000.

Retention of one-third of the state automobile tax for school purposes, eliminating the $3,000,000 supplemental school appropriations biennially from the general revenue. Reduction of the board of control to one member, and cutting its appropriations; cutting the governor's office appropriations by $11,000; ten per cent reduction of appropriations to the state department of education, effecting a saving of $15,000 in that item.

She would trim the legislature's appropriations for its own work, too, Mrs. Ferguson declared.

She would cut the mileage and per diem bill $100,000; thus making it virtually necessary that the legislature pass its general appropriations bills in the regular session, and go home without holding the usual two to three special sessions.

She would also trip $50,000 from the contingent expense fund of the legislature, used for paying cost of printing bills and journals and other expenses of the session.

Prosperity Just Around Corner Views Expressed in Wichita Falls

A. H. Britain sounded the keynote for an autumn of better business codnitions at the luncheon of the chamber of commerce business council at the Kemp hotel luncheon yesterday, declaring his belief to be that by the middle fo this month there would be notcieable improvements in almost every branch of industry in Wichita Falls.

An improvement in the oil industry was forecasted, attention being called to recent action of companies buying crude oil here which would bring about a means for getting money for all oil produced.

In connection with the agricultural situation over the county, Mr. Britain stated that bumper crops of wheat and cotton seemed to be assured for this year and that proper prices for both should aid retail business here materially.

He declared that irrigation had succeeded on the farms where it had been used beyond all expectation and that crops on these farms were larper this year than ever contemplated.

A niece, Mrs. C. C. Averill of Houston, has been called to his bedside.

Advanced age has made his condition extremely grave.

Dr. Reed was one of the first physicians to come to Wichita Falls and he has made this city his home since the frontier days. He early acquired a large medical practice and continued in this almost up to the time his health gave way.

Three years ago he served on the city council as park and health commissioner.

Former Wichita Girl Chosen To 'Peter Pan' Role

Betty Bronson, former Wichita Falls girl, has been selected by Sir James Barrie to play the part of Peter Pan in the screen production of "Peter Pan" which will soon be released according to word received by her Wichita friends yesterday. Miss Bronson is well known in Wichita Falls having lived here several years ago with her grandmother, Mrs. John Stillsmith, at 806 Brook street.

Comes As Surprise

The announcement that she had been selected to play in the famous picture came as a surprise to the motion picture world as she was completely unknown. She was named from hundreds of competitors and was endorsed by Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky and other Paramount officials.

In speaking of her, Lasky said "She has the joyous spirit of eternal youth, the comedy pathos, the extraordinary grace, and the frank zest for life and the dramatic expression which makes her the ideal Peter Pan who flew through the window to sustain our belief in fairies."

Previously Unknown

Before being selected for the screen play Miss Bronson was unknown. She appeared two years ago with Alice Brady in "Anna Ascends." Since then she has been one of a thousand struggling novices.

When notified of her selection Miss Bronson said, according to a press report, "I'm the luckiest girl in the world," and she said it in a confusion of tears and smiles.

As remembered here Miss Bronson is a grey-eyed, dark-haired little girl, smiling at all times.

Came From New Jersey

She was born in Trenton, New Jersey, but was brought to Hollywood at the age of three. Returning from there to New York she studied ballet dancing and was at one time a pupil of the famous Fokine.

Officials of the play have been seeking a person to take the leading role for nearly a year and tests of many players has been made in order to secure the right person.

"Peter Pan" is said to be one of the greatest motion picture plays of all times and will be released in the near future.

WALL ST. SCARED AT LA FOLLETTE

Campaign Manager Declares Break in Stocks Is Sign of Fear

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—John M. Nelson, national manager of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign issued a statement to local managers today declaring that the advice of brokers to their customers and the reaction of the stock market indicated that the LaFollette campaign has "shaken Wall street."

"Senator LaFollette's strong speech on Labor Day to the American public has shaken the monopoly system to its foundation," said Representative Nelson. The reactionary press of the country has been uncertain what to say under the circumstances lest it betray the anxiety existing in Wall street. But hidden away in the financial columns of the Metropolitan press and the financial papers, intended only for the eyes of large investors, it is to be found news of great significance."

Married Friday the 13th, With 13 Witnesses Breaking 13 Mirrors; Now He's Facing Murder Charge

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—Friday again proved an ill day for Thomas L. Boyce, who became a bridegroom, Friday, June 13, last. He was bailed before Judge Frank Murphy in recorder's court today, charged with the murder of Clyde Keller, 45, last Sunday night. He pleaded not guilty, and was ordered held without bail for examination tomorrow.

Boyce's 29-year-old wife, Louise, who stood with him in the dark shadows of cell number 13 aboard the convict ship "Success" that June Friday and became a bride in the presence of 13 witnesses while 13 mirrows were being shattered and the 13th hour was striking, was in the court room. The couple seperated shortly after their "hoodoo" marriage.

The examination of Mrs. Irene Bellanger, divorcee, and Mrs. Frances Rice, also held in connection with Keller's death, have been set for tomorrow. Murder charges were made against Boyce and the two women on the story of the 11-year-old son of Mrs. Bellanger, who told police Boyce struck Keller down with a hammer in the presence of the woman, who aided him in carrying the body to a moving van at the rear of the Bellanger apartment.

MILKMAN SEES H. R. H. COME HOME 4 TIMES

No Wonder, He Was Stagging it One Time With Will Rogers

LAUGHED AT JOKES

Meanwhile it is Long Islandese to do Many Strange New Things

Special to The Record News.

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The Prince of Wales spent his fourth successive night out last night and as noon approached had not left his bed room in the home of J. A. Burden, his Long Island headquarters.

The last official communique concerning the prince's movements, issued last evening, told of his boarding a motor launch at the estate of J. S. Cosgen and whizzing off to "somewhere on Long Island sound" after one of his attendants had notified the Burden home that his highness would not be home to dinner.

Nothing more was known of the prince's movements except that he returned to the Burden estate some time between 1 o'clock and dawn.

Captain A. F. Lascelles, secretary to the prince, said his royal master now planned to leave here for his ranch near Calgary, Alberta, Canada, September 14, and did not intend to leave his train until he arrived at his Canadian home.

The prince expects to leave the ranch on the first leg of his homeward journey about October 12.

That Third Night

Something about H. R. H. third night out has been gleaned from his secretary, A. F. Lascelles.

Will Rogers, who once punched cows in the Sooner state, diverted the prince mightily, according to Lascelles.

"His stories were most amusing and the prince laughed heartily," Lascelles said.

"He was quite overcome with Mr. Rogers' remark that it was the second time he had been in the presence of royalty. The first time, it seems, was when Sir Harry Lauder came in a theater where Mr. Rogers was appearing.

"Sir Harry, Mr. Rogers added, "came in on a pass."

Will Rogers was one of the guests at a "stag party," at the Piping Rock club, which Lascelles described as the most successful stag party he and the prince had ever attended.

They Begin to Copy Him

The hard-riding, fashionable polo set of Long Island gave up its struggle today to glean from the prince something new and outstanding in up-to-date dress. It is the prince's manner. It is copying, the way he stands, the way he leans, his particular slouch, his nervous gestures, his obvious inclination to be stirr or informal at no time.

Those to whom a club and fashionable out-of-doors life is everything were expecting Wales when he came here for the international polo matches to exhibit samples of his conceits in clothes that have made him the model of all tailors, whether in London, on Fifth avenue or up one flight, where you save $20.

But Wales fooled them. There has been a despairing sameness about his clothing since he set foot on American soil last Saturday. He has worn the same hat, a smashed, turned down Panama on hot days, or broad-brimmed gray felt turned up or down in cool weather.

His shirt every day with lounge suits has been blue with a blue collar attached. His ties have been russet or brownish red Indian prints with bandanna handkerchiefs of the same hue. His suits were grey some times with a pin stripe, other times with a hairline criss-crossing in large checks. Seldom has he been seen with other than tan suede shoes.

His Gestures Noticed

The polo set gave up hope little by little day after day.

There seemed nothing about the prince's clothes to copy.

Then the eyes that were turned on him whenever he appeared began noticing his distinctive gestures and mannerisms.

Wales, when he is a little bored, stands with his weight on one foot the other turned out at an angle of 90 degrees. He shifts his weight from foot to foot every few minutes, turning the free toe at a corresponding angle.

So does Long Island's smart set—now.

Shields Match With Hat

The prince, when the sun is hot, never takes his hat from his head. He merely grasps the brim and shoves it backward and forward several times to ruffle up his hair. So does Long Island—now.

Long Island used to stand erect, chest out looking for all the world like an outdoor athlete. Then it says that Wales who is an athlete, slouches a bit, even stoops at times. It has picked that up. He lights his cigarettes in the wind by shielding them with his hat. That's very Long Islandese now, too.

FRANCE SEEKS PEACE PARLEY

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—Great events which, in League of Nation circles, it is firmly believed are destined to affect the future of the whole world, including the people of the United States, occurred at today's session of the assembly of the League of Nations.

France joined Great Britain in pledging support for the principle of compulsory arbitration, and through her premier, M. Herriot, in removing the doubts of those who feared that France would hesitate to weaken her force as a great continental military power.

France Favors Conference

M. Herriot announced unequivocally that France favors an international conference on disarmament. In a calm, masterly oration, like that of Premier MacDonald of Great Britain delivered before the assembly on Thursday, M. Herriot made the men and women present sit in rigid attention.

The premier told the world through the assembly that henceforth that nation which refused to submit disputes to arbitration would stigmatize as an agressor nation.

18-FOOT LENGTH OF ROPE FOUND IN COOK JAIL

Prison Officials to Take No Chances With Their Celebrated Prisoners

SENTENCES SEPT. 10

Rope Found in Murderer's Cell, Who Claims He Had it 3 Months

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Discovery of an eighteen foot length of rope made from old clothing in the Cook county jail two tiers below those in which Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb slayers of young Robert Franks, are confined, led to a redoubling today of guards for the two millionaires' sons who will be sentenced to the gallows or the penitentiary September 10.

While officials after an investigation said they did not believe either of the youths knew anything about the rope, jail guards said they were taking no chances with their most celebrated prisoners.

The length of rope was found in a cell occupied by two prisoners, one of them Russell Scott, who once confessed murder, but later changed his plea to not guilty when the judge indicated he would sentence Scott to death.

Scott admitted making the rope, but said he made it three months ago to hang clothes on.

While jail authorities were investigating the finding of the rope, Leopold and Loeb were entertaining in their cells, this being visitors' day. Six girls and women called on Loeb, but Leopold's guests were confined to male relatives.

Judge John R. Caverly, who will sentence the boys, expects to leave the city in a day or two to write his decision.

WORLD FLIERS

virtual circumnavigation of the world by air, the fliers received by telephone the congratulations of high army officials who had gathered here to meet them.

Forced by fog to turn back with his squadron of eleven planes, with which he hoped to escort the aviators to Boston, Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, found a telephone call from Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, leader of the world flight, awaiting him on his return here. Smith's first greeting to his chief was:

"Sorry we had to disappoint you, sir, but the fog was too thick for me to take a chance with these men and our ships."

The aviators, who alighted on the waters of Casco bay, Maine, without mishap, tonight were planning to proceed here as early as possible tomorrow, where a re-arranged program of ceremonies is to be carried out. Then, according to an arrangement made by Major General Patrick, the planes will be overhauled, the pontoons removed and landing gear substituted. On Sunday, according to plans, they will push on to New York City. They will land at Mitchell field, from where they will continue their flight to the Pacific coast.

Over the telephone tonight Lieutenant Smith gave the Associated Press a brief account of the experiences of the fliers.

"We ran into fog most of the way down the coast," he said. "When we reached Casco Bay it was dense, but we hoped we could make our way along a little farther in the thought that we might strike clear weather. It couldn't be done and we looked around for a landing place.

"After circling about the bay for a while we discovered a good place near Mere Point. We made an easy landing at 5:10 p. m. daylight time, our first actual touch with United States soil since we left Seattle."

SPECTACULAR TAKE-OFF FROM PICTOU HARBOR.

By the Associated Press.

PICTOU, N. S., Sept. 5.—The American army round the world fliers left foreign soil for the last time on their long and arduous aerial circumnavigation of the globe when they took off from Pictou harbor for Boston at 10:35 this morning.

The "Chicago" bearing Lieut Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, and Lieut Leslie P. Arnold, led the trip and following came the "New Orleans" with Lieutenants Erik Nelson and John Harding Jr., and the "Boston II" which had been sent here to permit Lieutenants Leigh Wade and H. H. Ogden to resume their flight which had been interrupted by the wreck of their original plane off the Faroe Islands.

Take-Off Spectacular

The take-off, perhaps one of the most spectacular of the globe tour, was delayed by the difficulty Lieut. Wade experienced in getting his heavily laden plane off the water.

Wade first experienced trouble in starting his motor after the new propeller, brought here by the United States destroyed Coghlan had been fitted to his machine.

Both the Chicago and the New Orleans had been warming up their engines for some time and Lieutenants Smith and Nelson crossed to the Boston II in a navy motor to see if they could assist Lieutenants Wade and Ogden.

Slips Into Water

Stepping from the boat to the Boston's pontoon, Lieut. Nelson slipped into the water and was soaked to the waist. After a few minutes Lieut. Wade got his motor started and it functioned properly thereafter. Nelson made light of his wetting and he and Smith returned to their planes in which they took their places.

The three machines taxied into a V formation at the Pictou side of the bay and, at a signal from Smith who was leading, started their take-off simultaneously. The New Orleans forged ahead with the Chicago following. The Boston II, heavily laden with gasoline because she carried two more tanks than either of her sister ships, roared across the entire width of the bay without taking the air.

No Wind To Aid

There was no wind to help her off the water and Lieut. Wade turned and appeared to be developing full power but the pontoons refused to lift from the water.

A third trial failed but on the fourth, Lieut Wade chose a longer course, rocked his ship back and forth to break the surface tension of the glassy water and headed for the inlet of the harbor.

Spectators on shore said the plane left the water on the first part of his run and settled back again. At the end of two miles, the Boston II took the air and started climbing slowly.

The Chicago and New Orleans, which had been circling over her and swooping to break the air ahead so that she could get up easier, joined her in formation and the trio disappeared over Pictou Island, heading west over Northumberland Strait.

Manhattan Just All Excited As Harold And Jackie Arrive; Lloyd's Welcome Is Genuine, Boy's Press Agented

NEW YORK. — Two conquering film heroes arrived in our midst this week with so much hullaballoo that momentarily they switched film fans' conversation from the usual discussion of the difficulties to get in the stand to see "Monsieur Beaucaire." The two heroes were Jackie Coogan and Harold Lloyd. Jackie's press agents had corralled all the brass bands in town, so he came in with a great flourish. Harold Lloyd, who always has had a corner on modesty, endeavored to slip in without being recognized, but with no success at all.

Somebody tipped off Will Rogers that Harold was in town, so when Harold arrived at the New Amsterdam Theatre, where the Follies is playing, the lobby was jammed with people who wanted a look at him. When Harold got inside Will Rogers played a mean trick on him; lassoed him, pulled him up on the stage and forced him to make his first—and Harold says his last—personal appearance.

Harold stepped out before one of the most apahtetic audiences that ever watched a Follies show and made them a mob of ringing enthusiasts. The weary buyers from out of town who make up New York's August audiences got no thrill at all out of the decorative Follies girls, but they were strong for Harold. There is food for thought in that for motion-picture producers who are about to squander a lot of money on film extravaganzas.

Harold has now received offers from every company of any importance in the industry, but until he makes the final picture for Pathe that his present contract calls for, he is not interested in concluding future arrangements, or, at least, in announcing them. Harold is handling the negotiations for his services in a characteristic way. Instead of playing one company's bid against another's and in that way jacking up the offers, he is simply giving every company a chance to figure out what is the very best they can offer him.

One thing about the future Lloyd contract is pretty generally accepted, and that is that where the Lloyd pictures go, the Valentino pictures go. Together these two stars represent a business that is estimated at $16,000,000 annually and the value of their services puts them in a class by themselves. The contracts offered them are unprecedented in the motion-picture business.

But, to return to Jackie our child crusader. His arrival in New York State was the occasion of greater demonstrations than greeted any of our war heroes, presidents, coastwise bootleggers or what have you? Acting Governor Lunt went to Syracuse to meet his train and accompany him to Albany, where a great reception was held. When he arrived in New York City a parade of thirty automobiles and all the bands in town escorted him to Times Square where Earl Carroll introduced him and a fifteen-foot milk bottle—all ready to collect funds for the Near East.

When the excitement there had subsided a little, his entourage was joined by ten buses filled with orphans. The cavalcade, proudly decked with banners, proceeded to Brooklyn, where in Prospect Park 40,000 children—considerably under the press agent's estimate, but still a good number, were waiting to greet him. To say nothing of handing over their pennies for the Near East.

DEFENSE STANDS AT SHANGHAI

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—General Chi Shieh-Yuan, the Kiangsu leader, continued today to throw his strength against the right wing of the Chekiang army, self-styled defenders of Shanghai, which rests on an estuary of the Yangstee river at the little town of Liubo, west of Woosung, the outer anchorage for Shanghai. His immediate objective is believed to be Woosung, where he hopes to obtain assistance from warships for his advance up the Whangpoo to Shanghai.

Fails to Gain

He failed to make any headway there yesterday, despite the use of artillery, which both sides have now brought into action, and again today was being held, according to the headquarters staff of the Chekiang army.

Whether the main battle is to be fought on this wing is not yet clear. Apparently General Lu Yung-Hsiang, the commander of the Chekiang forces, feels that his left wing at Hwangtu on the Shanghai-Nanking highway west of Shanghai, where he has established his headquarters and whence he is sending reinforcements, need guarding to prevent the enemy penetrating into his province and menacing the Sunkiang-Hangchow railroad. This line gives him an easy means of communication southward into Chekiang.

SOVIET THINKS POWERS SCHEME

Official Statement Says Russia Suspicious of Hughes Actions With China

"We have ground to suspect that some arrangement was arrived at between the great powers as regards China during Secretary Hughes' stay in London," the statement asserts. "We believe that the United States abandored its policy of the open door and decided to divide interests in China. It seems that England receives the south, France the province of Unnan, and Japan, Manchuria.

"Whatever scheme the powers have arrived at," he added, "soviet Russia is going to raise protests as, being a neighbor to China, it affects Russia closely and fills her with great anxiety."

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

THE TWO GREAT COMMANDMENTS:—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

PRAYER:—We thank Thee, Lord that to all those who trust in Thee, Thy commands are not grevious.

THE NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

Since John W. Davis has begun an active campaign and has been making speeches which have attracted attention all over the country, it seems probable that the republican policy of ignoring Mr. Davis entirely will have to be changed.

Another republican policy is gradually being changed from necessity. This one is the persistent proclaiming on all hands that the election of Mr. Coolidge is certain and that everybody is for him but a few professional politicians and discontented persons.

The latter policy has been so thoroughly discredited that it has almost ceased to exist as a policy and one hears very little these days of such talk as was prevalent wherever republicans met earlier in the campaign.

The party of Coolidge and Dawes which has undertaken to ignore Mr. Davis as a factor in the campaign is now beginning to take notice of him because of the attention he is getting from all over the country and the appreciation shown the speeches which he has made.

The persistent hammering of Mr. Davis and attacks upon the administration and its policies by Senator LaFollette and his followng are expected to force the real issues between the parties into the foreground and make a real campaign upon genuine issues after all.

One difficulty which the democrats meet in their campaign work is the astonishing large number of persons who say in a bored sort of way that it makes no difference who may be elected, that they will neither benefit nor suffer whichever candidate wins. Some even go further and say there is always corruption in public office and the only difference involved is the question of who is going to get the money.

Because of the effort to belittle chances of the democratic party and this attitude of indifference upon the part of many voters, regardless of party, democratic campaign workers and supporters are preparing to discuss in detail the politics of the democratic party as outlined in its platform and as represented by its candidates.

They propose to show to the fellow who thinks it makes no difference to him who is elected that it does make a difference to him in dollars and cents, even if he does not see the difference from the economic standpoint. They propose to show that almost any article manufactured in the United States under a protective tariff duty can be purchased abroad for less money than it can be bought for in the United States. They propose to show from this that the manufacturers could still pay the same wages they now pay and sell their product at home, certainly as cheap as they can sell it abroad and then when they fail to do so they are taking money out of the pockets of all the users of their product.

They propose to drive home to the average man the realization that under the present republican policies, a continuation of which is promised by the republicans if they are successful in November, he is actually being robbed day after day in almost any purchase he may make for the benefit of the favored few who are the beneficiaries of these republican plicies.

Even now before the democrats have started in upon an active campaign along this line the republicans are defending their tariff policies and still trying to make it appear that the high tariff is a good thing for all of the people instead of the few who actually reap all its benefits.

That the republican party is thoroughly committed to the government for the benefit of the few and is still being run by those who have grown rich under its discriminating policies, becomes more and more apparent every day. In every speech made by either Mr. Coolidge or Gen. Dawes the reactionary tendencies of the candidates and their party are apparent.

Mr. Coolidge was originally named for the last presidency through the combined efforts of the late Boies Penrose and Murray Crane. Their stamp of approval branded him indelibly as the typical reactionary. Gen. Dawes in his speeches is proclaiming himself even more of a reactionary than Mr. Coolidge. Over in Delaware the republicans defeated Senator Ball in his renomination to make room for T. Coleman duPont, multi-millionaire beneficiary of republican protection policies, and will undertake to elect him to the senate.

Senator LaFollette and those who are supporting him have been very bitterly attacking the present national administration and its policies and have set forth in vigorous language its shortcomings and its failuse to act in many cases, as well as its wrongdoings in others. Senator Wheeler, who is the nominee for vice-president on the ticket with Senator LaFollette, in his Labor Day speech laid directly at the door of President Coolidge responsibility for attempting to protect those who had been drawn into the oil scandal and department of justice scandal during his administration. He charged the president with having attempted to make the investigation more difficult instead of lending his assistance to it.

With both the Davis and third parties constantly discussing the oil scandals and honesty in government, the republican party probably will be compelled to recognize this issue instead of ignoring it, as in the past.

With the tariff discussion being brought home to the individual throughout the country and the republicans showing by every act that they are thoroughly committed to a government for the benefit of a few rather than for the whole people, this issue will also have to be met and it would seem that the entire policy of the republican managers in this campaign will have to be changed. Instead of ignoring the opposing candidate and simply sending the word round that Coolidge's election is certain, and ignoring all issues between the parties it now seems that the republicans will have to meet the real issues of the campaign and acknowledge that Mr. Coolidge has a real contender for the presidency in the person of Mr. Davis.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE, VIRGO.

Good and adverse planetary aspects alternate throughout the day, and it is therefore, inadvisable to start anything new, but more politic to keep things going that are going. The vibrations indicate a predisposition to quarrels and differences, unless you take a firm hold of yourself and carefully avoid anything and everything of an argumentative nature. Calm and poise will help you, more than anything else, to make today one with no regrets.

A child born today will suffer in its infancy from many ailments: The esriousness of these will be very much ameliorated by rigid rules of health and careful nutrition. Its character will be difficult, its disposition tinged with meanness, its mentality normal. Affection, combined with strict and forceful discipline, will do very much toward overcoming the difficulties of this child's character, and will very largely eradicate the inherent meanness of its disposition.

If today is your birthday, you would be very successful and much more contented if you would only think. A great deal of your friends' resentment towards you, a large amount of your own failure, is entirely attributable to thoughtlessness on your part. Thought is the parent of progress: it creates all. Human beings are distinguished from other animals by this one power, the power of thought. The immortals of this world are they who thought deeper or more brilliantly than their fellows.

Just as the unit of human society is not a man or a woman, but man and a woman, so the basis of achievement is not thought or action, but thought and action.

As civilization advances, thought becomes more and more vital to success. The time is coming when virtually all tasks not requiring human thought will be performed by machines. To rise above the level of machines you must develop the power of thinking.

Rule-of-thumb methods will no longer suffice for either nation or individual. New formulas must be the product of thought, of hard, serious, sustained, clear-headed thinking.

Successful people born on this date are: Fanny Wright, reformer; James Henry Coffin, metercologist; Samuel D. Burchard, clergyman; William H. Miller, lawyer; Jane Addams, social reformer (head of Hull House, Chicago).

HOW IT STARTED

A "MISSISSIPPI BUBBLE"

"Mississippi Bubble" has long been just another name for a financial scheme which goes to smash involving vast sums of money belonging to investors.

And the reference is to the so-called Mississippi scheme, which in the early eighteenth century wrote a black page in the book of financial history.

This was a gigantic banking and commercial scheme projected in France, at the beginning of the reign of Louis XV, by the well-known Scottish financier, John Law. The primary object of the scheme was to resuscitate the French finances after the havoc wrought by the wars of Louis XIV.

The idea was that France was to be enriched by developing the resources of the province of Louisiana and the land bordering on the Mississippi—land believed at the time to abound in precious metals.

In 1717 a company was incorporated and 200,000 shares were issued, which rose rapidly in value as they were eagerly bought up and glittering reports about Louisiana continued. The company obtained trading monopolies and the privilege of laying taxes and coining money, and in 1718 changed its name to the Banque Royale, the King guaranteeing its notes. Public enthusiasm became frenzy, and the whole industrial life of France was effected by the false feeling of prosperity. By 1720, however, many speculators became wary and "sold," which resulted in a run on the national bank which had become incorporated with the company. The crisis came when the bank stopped payment, Law had to flee the country, and the "Mississippi Bubble" burst.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A WORD OF WARNING

Young man, if you feel that long after you're dead
The world will remember your name,
Repeat the smart things you have written and said,
And foster forever your fame;
If you think, to be brief, that years after you've passed
From this whirling terrestrial ball,
The credit you won in your lifetime will last,
Do not write any letters at all.

The passionate letters to Molly or May,
When a couple of decades have sped,
Will cause the good folk of the future to say
That you must have been soft in the head.
For if you have drunk of celebrity's cup,
As soon as you walk off the scene,
These thrifty young ladies will gather them up
And sell them to some magazine!

Your letters to sisters and cousins and aunts,
Concerning this subject or that,
May please them immensely, and yet there's a chance
That they'll sound just a little bit flat.
For the next generation will note that your style
Lacks the Shelley or Stevenson touch,
And say with a weary and pleasing smile:
"That bird didn't have very much!"

Let us who are fameless, unknown and obscure
Correspond, if we choose, without stint,
For, when we have gone to our rest it is sure
That our letters won't get into print,
But you, who are certain that fame you will gain
And hope, in the popular mind
That bright and untarnished the same will remain,
Do not leave any letters behind!

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYES

By JEAN NEWTON

A Method That Worked Well.

Recently I have seen a girl impress herself on a man with a method of which I do not exactly approve, but it worked wonders in her case, so I will pass it along.

The man in the case is a tall, handsome young chap with a great attraction for women. He is a bit spoiled because all the girls are crazy about him.

The girl hails from aother town. She is pretty and has always been a belle.

When they met the boy acted very indifferent; he was cold and uninteresting and only lingered long enough to acknowledge the introduction.

The girl, after the meeting, indicated that she disliked the young man very much. When even his name was mentioned, she would say, "I don't see how you stand that fellow. He is certainly not my type. I don't think he is one bit attractive or interesting."

Finally the remarks reached the young man's ears. He made up his mind that he would tame this girl—that he would make her like him in spite of herself.

He started out to do it—and succeeded.

The chap himself told me about this. The last time I saw him he was almost engaged to the girl.

I think the girl planned the whole thing. She knew how to arouse his interest. He thought he was after her, and all the time she was after him. That's how deadly the female of the species is.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

LIBERTY

Liberty is like everything else. It can be carried to extremes.

When Mme. Roland, on her way to execution, exclaimed: "O Liberty, what crimes have been committed in thy name!" she had in mind liberty carried to an extreme.

There is no liberty of a practical nature, in the world, that is not limited by the demands of others. And only those experience the delights of liberty who are the readiest to admit those demands.

The fall of the Bastille and its destruction by the people of Paris, on July 14, will forever remain a symbol of the fact that anarchy is the inevitable result of incompetent government.

The only way to establish a lasting government is first to see that it stands for equality of all before the law and, secondly, to recognize that, in most things, the people are to be free to do as they please.

When a government becomes occupied merely in continuing itself, and when with its purpose it tramples upon the rights of the people, it is sowing conditions which will create the revolution which will overthrow it. France learned this great lesson and helped to teach it to the world.

America stands for the same thing and, in its way, England recognizes the same truth, that the peace and prosperity of a government depend upon the peace and prosperity of its people.

It has long been recognized by students of political economy that that government is safest which can most easily be put out of office and that the natural check to the tyrannical evidences of governments is the people themselves. The more educated and intelligent its people the firmer is its government. For the government will recognize that the limits of its powers are always set by the will of the people. And, furthermore, that that government is surest which is founded upon popular good will.

Both the French and American revolutions constituted a warning to all governments that the inevitable effect of tyrannical government incompetency, is revolution. The frequent revolutions in the South American republics illustrate the same thing. It is not only necessary to give to the people the kind of government that is best for them but it is necessary for them to realize what is best. In order to maintain its security a government must be founded upon the popular approval of its people whether that government be a pure democracy, a republic or a limited monarchy.

The effect of tyranny, whether it is that of the Bourbons of France, of the reactionaries in England, or the tyrants in Russia, it always the same.

GLEANINGS FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

BY CLARK KINNAIRD

FOLLOW YOUR INTEREST

As soon as a person or thing interests you, sieze it, absorb yourself in it.

You will learn a thousand times more by doing that than by absorbing yourself in a thousands things and people.

As George Brandes explains (in his essay, On Reading) "The object widens before your gaze, and gradually expands to a whole horizon. Never begin with the horizon, or you will stare at random and see nothing."

It is pointed out by Brades, a Dane, who is perhaps the greatest living critic of literature, that the real importance is not in the book but in the way it is read.

"I do not, of course, mean to say there are not numbers of poor books it is waste of time to have anything to do with. People warn, and justly, against dangerous books, and occasionally the books called dangerous really are so. But these dangerous books called dangerous really are so. But these dangerous books are not only which speculate in the youthful readers' sensual impulses, or appeal to his idleness or frivolity, but those also that represent base and low things as admirable, or disseminate prejudices, and throw a hateful light on liberal-mindedness, or the pursuit of freedom.

"Next to the dangerous books are the wearisome books. It is a sorry superstition that leads people involuntarily to cherish a certain respect for earnestness and erudition that weary them. Wearisome books discourage people from acquiring knowledge.

Histories for example, are often wearisome; but how many patient people keep on reading them because they regard it as a sort of duty! Do not waste your time and energy over what is dry as dust, unless as a specialist, you are seeking for information. History is, and ought to be, the most interesting of all subjects. To my mind it is far more interesting to read about real men and women that about fictitious ones, even if the latter have been drawn from life.

"Historians sometimes take too little pains, and describe men merely from the outside, without first having acquired the intimate personal sort of feeling that enables them to understand their hero's character and motives.

"Read such books as Carlyle's Cromwell and the first volume of his Frederick the Great, or Michelet's History of France, or Mommsen's Roman History. Here on each page, the character's are alive and seem to come forward to meet us."

Great Things Expected Of Useeit's Little Son

LEXINGTON, Ky.—A little mite of horseflesh, at his mother's side on the E. R. Bradley's Iidle Hour farm here, some day may attract the attention of lovers of the sport of kings. He is Black Gold's baby brother, son of Black Toney and the little Indian pony Useeit.

Seldom has it happened that more than one member of a family has a hieved greatness on the track, but there are exceptions. Three notable horses by the same father and mother were bred by "Bob" Anderson on his farm near Georgetown, Ky., some years ago. These were Dick Welles, Ort Welles and Dick Fennelle, by King Erric from Tea's Over by Hanover. All were great racers and each sent to the track scores of winning equines.

It is not improbable, then, turfmen say, that Black Gold's little brother some day will receive the plaudits which have greetd the older horse this year, and increase the purse of his owner, Mrs. R. M. Hoots of Tulsa, Okla.

He is eligible for the Kentucky derby in 1926. Foaled shortly after his brother won the Golden Jubilee Kentucky derby, this little colt has already won praise from turfmen as a promising looking youngster.

Can "Good But Lonely" Get a Husband Without Traveling With a Fast Crowd?—Should a Widower Remarry for His Children's Sake?—Does a Boy of 20 Know His Own Mind About Love?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I was raised very carefully, and I thought that all I had to do was to be modest, jolly and friendly, and Mr. Right would be on the job.

I am twenty-five now, and I have been a good little girl. Men have come into my life, but when there were no kisses and midnight parties they didn't linger, but would say, "Wake up, little girl." I have watched silly, irresponsible, little seventeen-year-old kids go out and make a sensible man look and act foolish, so I have come to the conclusion that that is what men want and that I am a 1900-year model and out of date.

This is the year 1924. Shall I continue to be a real nice girl or shall I get into the game and, through paint, lipsticks and foolish talk, give the debs a run? When the men ask what about a little party shall I go and dance and flirt as all the other girls do? My instinct tells me that is the wrong way to go after a husband. But I long for a domestic life. I have tried the good, little, stay-at-home way and I am twenty-five, and if I continue this way I will always be

GOOD BUT LONELY.

Answer:

Perhaps, my dear, it is better to be twenty-five and good but lonely, and have your own self-respect, than it is to be married to the kind of a man who picks out his wife at wild parties and who mistakes the effects of bootleg liquor on his system for love. Drink makes many men amorous, and any woman can inveigle a gentleman who is pleasantly lit up to the altar. But the trouble is that when the effects of the liquor die out the man's affection also dies out, and the poor wife is left regretting her bargain.

Of course, if you just want to have a good time for a little while there is no doubt that you can have more fun traveling with the fast crowd than the slow one. Theoretically, men admire the good, little, modest girl. That is the kind of a girl they want their sisters to be and the kind they try to marry. But they prefer to play around with the girls who are not particular about what they do and who have no scruples with which to "wetblanket" a party.

But my long observation has been that worth-while men seldom marry the wild, wild women. They have had enough of the female rounders, and when they pick out a wife they want some girl who hasn't been kissed and pawed over by dozens of other men and whose main accomplishments are not cigarette smoking and booze punishing.

Of course, the girl who belongs to the midnight frolic crowd does marry—usually a man of her own kind, and we see the results of these unions in the divorce scandals in the paper.

It may be, Good But Lonely, that you are in the wrong environment and that you need to go away from home and meet strange men. Often a girl gets sort of pocketed in her own little circle and she has to break away and go where people are not accustomed to her to make them realize how attractive she is. I don't believe any girl is passed over just because she is good. God help the world if the time ever comes when men cease to admire modesty and purity in women!

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widower with two children. I lost my wife some years ago and have never remarried, though I am now only thirty-eight years of age. Did I do wrong by staying unmarried all these years, or should have got married again to give the children a mother? I felt that I had no right to burden any woman with some one else's children. Was this the right view to take?

T. J. L.

Answer:

I imagine, T. J. L., that you have never come across a woman who appealed strongly to you or else you would have let her decide the question about whether she were willing to raise another woman's children or not. This being the case, you were wise to stay single, for marriage for anything but love is a losing game.

Generally speaking, it is a good thing for a widower to remarry, provided—and mark well the word provided—he makes a suitable choice of a wife, for the widower must consider the interests of his children as well as his own in the woman he puts at the head of his house.

Many men don't do this. I have seen plenty of widowers marry young, frivolous girls no older than their own daughters, and I have seen men marry cold, selfish, women who had no pity or sympathy for children in their hearts. Such marriages as these are bound to bring misery on all concerned.

But there are plenty of good, kind, sensible women who give a mother's love and a mother's tenderness to their stepchildren, and who make for them a home where they can grow up under their father's influence. Such women never consider their stepchildren an infliction.

Also you have to consider yourself. Children grow up quickly and go about their business of life, and you will find yourself a very forlorn and lonely old man unless you have provided yourself with a companion for your old age.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think a boy twenty years old is old enough to know his own mind about love?

JANE.

Answer:

No, indeed, Jane, I don't. A boy of twenty has not come to himself. He is just a kid, with a kid's changeable tastes. He is crazy about one thing today and wild for another thing tomorrow, and tired of them both and wants something else the next day. And it is the same way about love.

A girl attracts him because she has got such a cute way with her, and the next week another girl has got him going because she talks baby talk to him, and the next month he is sure he will die if he doesn't get the girl whose step matches his in the dance.

The boy of twenty is honest in thinking that he is experiencing an undying passion, but he is just mistaken, and don't you put any faith in him. Wait until he is older and has seen more of the world and his tastes are settled before you give him your little heart for keeps.

A Lost Lady

BY WILLA CATHER

His sister Annie was in the kitchen, helping the hostess. Mrs. Forrester came in for a moment to greet Niel, then excused herself and hurried back to Annie Peters. Through the open door he saw that the silver dishes had reappeared on the dinner table, and the candlesticks and flowers. The young men who sat about the in the twilight would not know the difference, he thought, if she had furnished her table that morning, from the stock in Wernz's queensware store. Their conception of a really fine dinner service was one "hand painted" by a sister or a sweetheart. Each boy sat with his legs crossed, one tan shoe swinging in the air and displaying a tan silk sock.

Mrs. Forrester came back, fanning herself with a little sandalwood fan, and when she appeared the boys rose, —in alarm, one might have thought, from the suddenness of it.

"Are your cocktails ready, Ivy? You will have to wait for me a moment, while I put some powder on my nose. If I'd known how hot it would be tonight I'm afraid I wouldn't have had a roast for you. When she came back she took Niel's arm and led him into the dining room. "Did you notice," she whispered to him "how they hold their glasses? What is it they do to a little glass to make it look so vulgar?"

Aloud she said, "Niel, will you light the candles for me? And then take the head of the table, please. You can carve the ducks?"

"Not so well as—as my uncle does."

"Nor as Mr. Forrester did? I don't ask that. Nobody can carve now as men used to. But you can get them apart, I suppose. The place at your right is for Annie Peters. She is bringing in the dinner for me. Be seated gentlemen!"

While Niel was carving the ducks, Annie slipped into the chair beside him, her naturally red face glowing from the heat of the stove.

Niel studied Mrs. Forrester between the candles. Her long earrings swung beside the thin cheeks that were none the better, he thought, for the rouge she had put on them when she went to her room just before dinner,—at least, not tonight, when her eyes were hollow with fatigue, and she looked pinched and worn as he had never seen her. He sighed as he thought how much work it meant to cook a dinner like this for, eight people,—and a beefsteak with potatoes would have pleased them better!

Dinner was soon over, at any rate. The hostess's attempts to prolong it were unavailing. The salad and frozen pudding were dispatched as promptly as the roast had been. The guests went into the parlor and lit cigars.

Mrs. Forrester had the old-fashioned notion that men should be alone after dinner. She did not join them for half an hour. Perhaps she had lain down upstairs, for she looked a little rested. The boys were talking now, discussing a camping trip Ed Elliot was going to take in the mountains.

"I'll tell you boys," said Mrs. Forrester, when she had listened to them for a moment, "when I go back to California, I intend to have a summer cabin up in the Sierras, and I invite you, one and all, to visit me. Will you come?"

"You bet we will! You know those mountains by heart, I expect," said Ed Elliot.

She smiled and shook her head. "It would take a lifetime to do that, Ed, more than a lifetime."

Niel turned to her. "Have you ever told the boys how it was you first met Capt. Forrester in the mountains out there? If they haven't heard the story, I think they would like it."

"Really, would you? Well, once upon a time, when I was a very young girl, I was spending the summer at a camp in the mountains, with friends of my father's."

She began there, but that was not the beginning of the story; long ago Niel had heard from his uncle that the beginning was a scandal and a murder. When Marian Ormsby was 19, she was engaged to Ned Montgomery, a gaudy young millionaire of the Gold coast. A few weeks before the date set for their marriage, Montgomery was shot and killed in the lobby of a San Francisco hotel by the husband of another woman. The subsequent trial involved a great deal of publicity, and Marian was hurried away from curious eyes and sent up into the mountains until the affair should blow over.

Tonight Mrs. Forrester began with "Once upon a time." Sitting at one end of the big sofa, her slippers on a foot-stool and her head in shadow, she stirred the air before her face with the sandalwood fan as she talked, the rings glittered on her white fingers. She told them how Capt. Forrester, then a widower, had come up to the camp to visit her father's partner. She had noticed him very little—she was off every day with the young men. One afternoon she had persuaded young Fred Harney, an intrepid mountain climber, to take her down the face of Eagle Cliff.

They were almost down, and were creeping over a projecting edge, when the rope broke, and they dropped to the bottom. Harney fell on the rocks and was killed instantly. The girl was caught in a pine tree, which arrested her fall. Both legs were broken, and she lay in the canyon all night in the bitter cold, swept by icy canyon draught. Nobody at the camp knew where to look for the two missing members of the party—they had stolen off alone for their foolhardy adventure. Nobody worried, because Harney knew all the trails and could not get lost.

In the morning, however, when they were still missing, search parties went out. It was Capt. Forrester's party that found Marian, and got her out by the lower trail. The trail was so steep and narrow, the turns around the jutting ledges so sharp, that it was impossible to take her out on a litter. The men took turns carrying her, hugging the canyon walls with their shoulders as they crept along.

With her broken legs hanging, she suffered terribly—fainted again and again. But she noticed that she suffered less when Capt. Forrester carried her, and that he took all the most dangerous places on the trail himself. "I could feel his heart pump and his muscles strain" she said, "when he balanced himself and men on the rocks. I knew that if we fell, we'd go together; he would never drop me."

They got back to camp and everything possible was done for her, but by the time a surgeon could be got up from San Francisco her fractures had begun to knit and had to be broken over again.

It was Capt. Forrester I wanted to hold my hand when the surgeon had to do things to me. You remember, Niel, he always boasted that I never screamed when they were carrying me up the trail. He stayed at camp until I could begin to walk, holding to his arm. When he asked me to marry him, he didn't have to ask twice. Do you wonder?"

WATER

Why Lake Kemp is Cooler at the Botton Than at the Surface.

A man who recently visited Lake Kemp noticed while in bathing that when he dived deeply, the water seemed to be colder than at the surface and he wants to know why the lake does not have the same temperature from top to bottom.

One reason is that water is a poor conductor of heat and another is that warm water is lighter than cold.

If you took a pan of water and tried to make it boil by blowing a flame on it from the surface, you would find that it took much longer than if you applied the same flame at the bottom of the pan.

When water is heated from the surface, only the surface water becames warm and as it remains at the top it forms a blanket which protects the water below. As the warm water is all on the top, there is nothing to cause the water in the pan to circulate.

When heat is applied from the bottom, currents are created. The warm water from the bottom constanly rises and displaces the colder water at the top, forcing it to the bottom where it in turn is heated and the cycle continues until the entire mass is boiling.

There is no current in Lake Kemp during the summer to cause the water at the bottom to rise and displace the surface water.

When colder weather sets in and the surface water gets cooler than the water below, then it will sink and currents will be set up from the surface toward the bottom and vice versa, until the whole mass will approach somewhat the same temperature unless it becomes cold enough to freeze. Water at the freezing point is also light and comes to the top.

CROWDS JAM P.-T. OPENING

68 Salesmen Required To Care for Business In Basement Store

Sixty-eight sales persons were employed in the Perkins-Timberlake basement store Friday to accommodate the large number of persons that visited the store during the opening day, according to Harry McMillan, manager of the basement store. At 2 p. m. Friday 1,400 persons had made purchases in the new store and Mr. McMillan said that this number would reach 2,500 by the time the store closed.

Kids Fitted Out

Many of the people that visited the store were parents of school children who were desirous of purchasing school clothing for their children. According to Mr. McMillan all the persons who visited the store were pleased with the good quality of the material and the low prices.

"We are more than satisfied with the number of persons who have visited the store the first day it opened and we are convinced that the people of Wichita Falls will appreciate a basement store like this where they can get the best material at the lowest price," Mr. McMillan said Friday afternoon.

2 Out of 100 Shed Tears At Shears

"My crowning glory is gone forever," one gray haired grandmother almost wept as she saw her long locks falling under the persistent "clip-clip-clip" of the barber's scissors. "My husband finally agreed because he thought I could hear better. Then, too, I think women of my age should keep in style even if they have to get 'a bob'. By the opening day of the Texas-Oklahoma fair my hair will have a permanent wave."

A Wichita Falls barber who claims he has specialized in "bobbing" states he has shorn the locks of some 600 women. He states barbers have no trouble with women weeping over "losing their dignity" when they get into a barber's chair. About two out of 100 shed a few tears. The others are good sports about it. They insist on having the latest trim. There is no evidence of sensitiveness on the part of older women who bring the whole family with them for their approbation of the bob. Most old women take the hair cutting as a grand event.

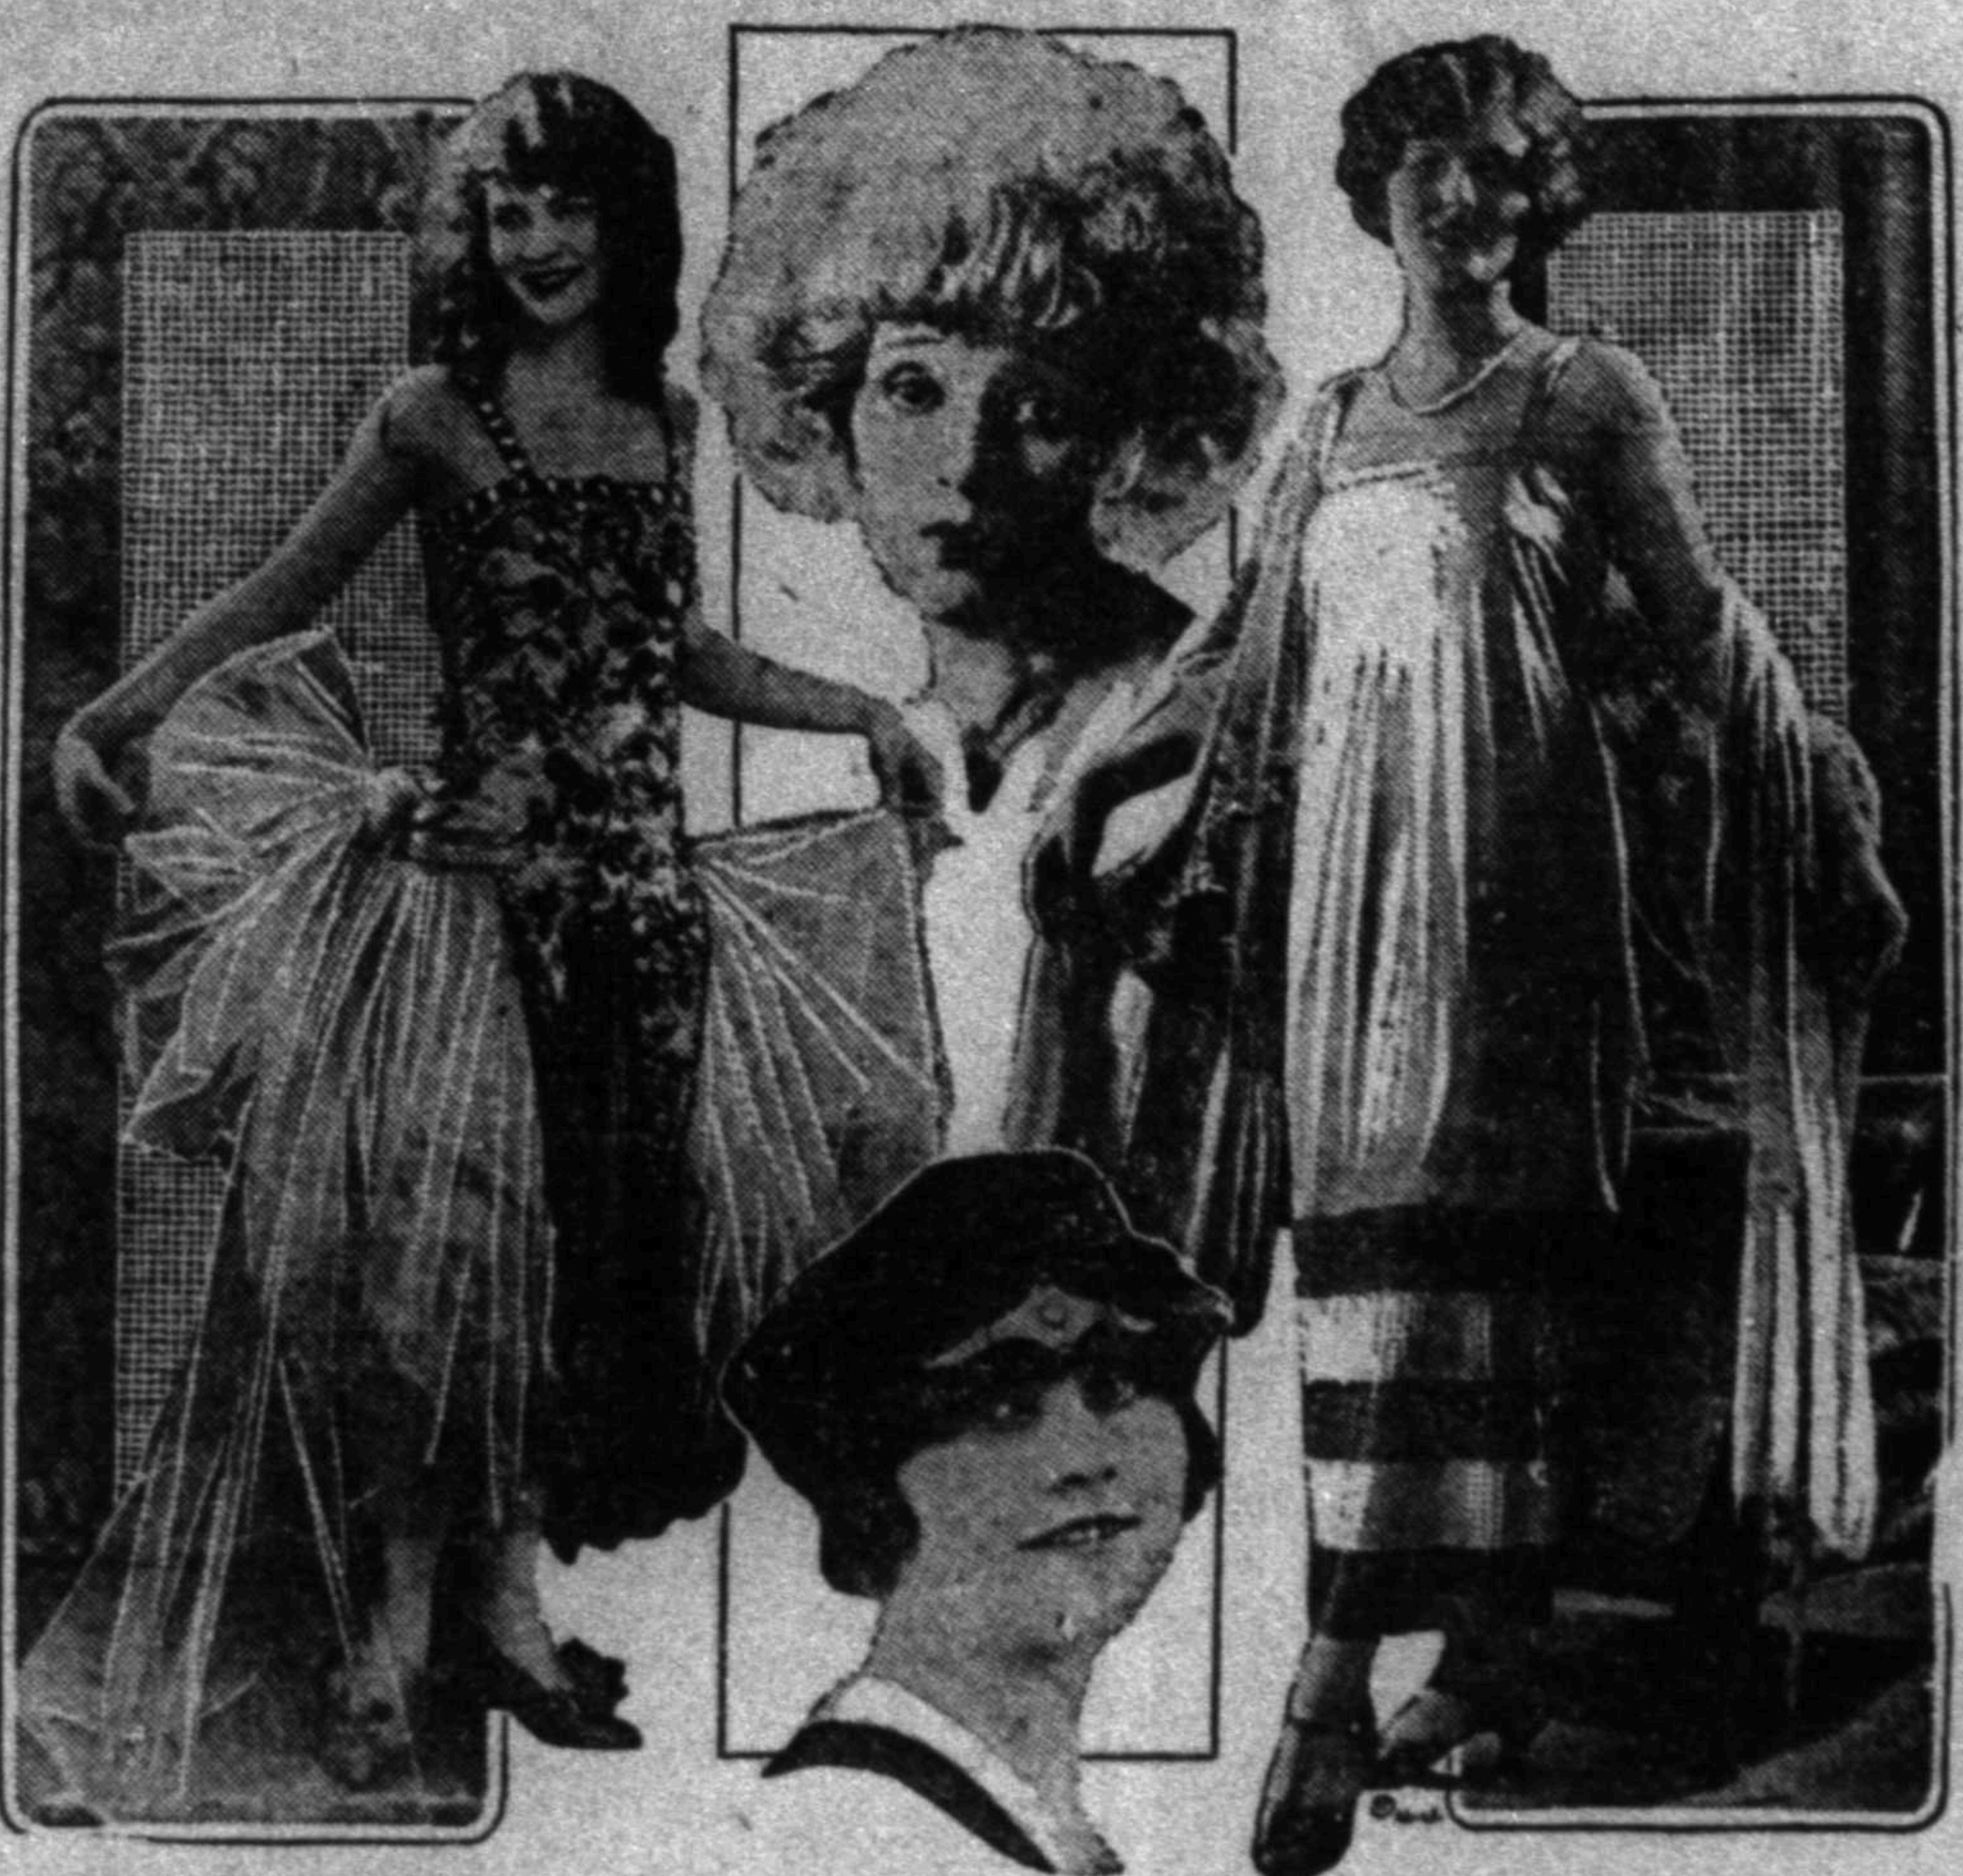
A "Talk of Many Things"



By MME. LISBETH.

"'The time has come,' the walrus said, 'to talk of many things'," which is just my intentions, only my talk will not be of "shoes and ships and sealing wax, cabbages and kings," but it will be about almost as odd an assortment of things. Frocks, hats, wigs, and costume slips will be the subjects of my story and they are of the greatest interest to women generally, with the possible exception of the wig, which may interest the bobbed haired sisterhood more if short hair really does go out of fashion as is predicted.

On the left is illustrated a fairy-like evening frock with a close fitting bodice and pointed panels of novelty cloth of gold. It is trimmed with Luneville stones and rhinestones and butterflies of metal cloth. The voluminous draped skirt is of cerulean green net. It is a frock fit for a fairy princess.

Milady depends on her costume slip for much of the correct fit of her gown, so that item of dress is of first importance to her. The one pictured (right) is fashioned of two-tone Italian silk platinum silk in tones of camel, oak and coral. Three-inch bands of navy blue are used for trimming around the skirt.

It is said that the silk wig is very popular abroad for evening wear. While I do not anticipate this fad will ever become very popular it is interesting as a novelty and the picture (upper center) shows just how becoming these wigs may be.

In the lower center is one of the pretty, conservative little hats for fall wear. It is black velvet and the folds of the material need no other trimming than a buckle.

We are told that hats will be larger this fall and winter but the small, snug fitting chapeau will, I am sure, be as much a favorite with milady for the windy wintry days as it has been in times past.

FLAVORS CHIEF OF SALAD NEED

Every Cook Knows That Combinations are Essential To Success

The success of the salad, as every cook knows, depends upon the combination of flavors obtained. This is especially true of the fruit salad, which is best when it contains a foundation fruit, such as the orange, that brings out the flavor of the other fruits used.

For a simple orange salad, served on lettuce, French dressing or mayonnaise are perhaps the best dressings; while for a salad that combines this fruit with some other, as for instance bananas, either mayonnaise or a sweet dressing may be used, depending upon whether the salad is served as a salad course, or as a combination salad and desert, which it very well may be.

Whipped cream, slightly sweetened, makes an ideal dressing for the sweet fruit salad, but a more economical dressing and one which brings out the flavor of the fruit is made by mixing 2 to 4 tablespoons of powdered sugar with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice.

The following are suggestions for salads in which the orange is used as the foundation fruit and which are suitable for serving either for the salad course alone or as a combined salad and dessert.

Orange Salad

3 oranges.
3 bananas.
Slice and serve with dressing.

Variations

1. Add 3 apples pared and cubed.
2. Add 4 pears halved or cubed.
3. Add 4 slices pineapple cut up.
4. Add 2 slices pineapple and 1-2 to 1 cup California cherries, pitted.
5. Add 4 slices pineapple and 6 marshmallows cut up.
6. Add 3-4 cup shredded dates.
7. Add 1-4 cup walnuts to any recipe above.

Potato and Walnut Stuffing for Fowl

2 cups of mashed potato.
1-2 cup chopped walnut meats.
1 teaspoon each onion juice, salt.
4 tablespoons thick cream.
1 tablespoon butter.
Yolks of 2 eggs.
1 teaspoon mixed herbs.
Combine ingredients and stuff fowl.

Green Bread Stuffing

2 cups soft bread.
1 grated lemon rind.
1-3 cup melted butter.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon each chopped thyme and marjoram.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
1-2 teaspoon spiced pepper.
Combine and use as other stuffing for fowl.

Cracker Jack

6 qts. popped corn.
1 cup molasses.
1-2 cup sugar.
1-4 teaspoon baking soda.
1 tablespoon hot water.
Pink coloring.

Place popped corn in large buttered pan. Boil molasses and sugar until mixture snaps in cold water, then add soda dissolved in water with enough coloring to make desired pink. Let foam up, pour over corn, stirring so that each grain may be coated. Suitable for holiday use.

Orange Short Cake.

Orange short cake, unlike strawberry or peach short cakes, which may be had only during the summer when the latter fruits are ripe, may be made every day in the year, for oranges are now harvested all the year through in California, where more than half of the country's supply of this luscious fruit is grown.

To make, take:
Oranges.
Sugar.
Two cups flour.
Five level teaspoons baking powder.
One level teaspoon salt.
Six level tablespoons shortening.
1-2 to 3-4 cup milk.
1-2 pint jar heavy cream.
1-3 cup powdered sugar.
1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Butter

Wipe as many oranges as you care to use. Pare with a small sharp knife, removing white membrane with the skin, then remove sections free from membrane. Sprinkle with one tablespoon sugar for each orange used and put in ice box or cold place. Put into flour sifter, flour, baking powder, salt, and one level tablespoon sugar and sift together twice. Add shortening and rub in lightly with the fingers. Add milk just enough to make a soft dough. Put into a greased cake pan and bake 12 to 15 minutes in a hot oven. Beat heavy cream until stiff, adding slowly the powdered sugar and vanilla. Split short cake, place lower half on serving dish and spread generously with butter, cover with orange sections drained from juice and with whipped cream. Place other half of short cake above the fruit, spread with butter, cover with orange sections, and garnish with whipped cream forced through pastry bag and tube and with sections of orange. Serve the orange juice separately as a sauce.

English Beef Soup

1 qt. beef soup stock.
1-4 lb. beef.
1-4 cup carrot and onion.
1-4 cup cooked barley.
1-4 cup diced celery.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 tablespoon tomato catsup, salt, pepper.
1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce.
1 cup boiling water.

Cut beef in very small dice, and brown with onion, celery and carrot in dripping or butter. Add boiling water and simmer until tender. Add flour, then the hot broth with seasonings. Double this quantity for a family of six.

Fish Chowder

4 lbs. fish.
1-4 lb. bacon.
1 small onion.
1 qt. diced potatoes.
3 cups milk.
1-4 cup butter.
1 tablespoon salt.
Pepper.
10 water crackers.
2 tablespoons flour.

Use any fish, clean, skin and cut in 2-inch pieces. Dice bacon finely and fry out in skillet, adding onion. Par-boil and drain potatoes, season, add to milk and onion. Have crackers finely rolled. Meantime have fish simmering carefully until tender. Thicken milk mixture with flour and butter and combine with fish. Just before serving sprinkle in cracker crumbs. One quart of corn pulp, or one quart of oysters or clams may be substituted for the fish. Use sprig of marjoram and 1 cup carrots diced if clams are used.

California Lemon Pie

1 1-4 cups sugar.
1-2 cup flour.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
1 cup boiling water.
Grated rind of 1 lemon.
3 egg yolks.
1 tablespoon butter.
4 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Mix sugar, flour and salt, add boiling water, stirring constantly. Allow to come to boiling point directly over the heat, then cook over boiling water in double boiler 15 minutes. Add butter, egg yolks, lemon juice and rind and mix thoroughly. Pour into a baked pie crust. Make a meringue by beating 3 egg whites until stiff and adding 1-2 cup of sifted powdered sugar and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Beat until smooth and glossy and spread over top of pie. Bake in a moderate oven 8 minutes or until brown and serve cold.

LARGE COTTON YIELD IS SEEN

Increase of 3,000 Bales Probable in Wichita County According to Raisers

An increase of possibly 3,000 bales over last year's crop of 5,000 bales is expected this year by cotton raisers of Wichita county. While it is yet too early to get an accurate estimate on yields, farmers generally are predicting substantial gains over 1923 records.

Cotton throughout the county has deteriorated in the past 10 days but it is still in far better condition than it was at any time in the past year. Had it not been for the grasshopper invasion during midsummer, farmers believe they would have had one of the largest crops on record here. Upland cotton now, produced on land which last year yielded practically nothing, is in excellent shape as is the bottom land crop.

Picking is in full swing now with a mild labor shortage prevailing in this territory. Many negro cotton pickers are passing through on their way to central and south Texas fields while additional scores of Wichita Falls blacks are leaving the city.

RHODESIAN LIONS DECIMATE CATTLE

Special to The Record News.

LONDON. — Farm houses in the bush bordering on the northern Rhodesian frontier have recently been in a state of siege owing to the activities of lions. The animals have come out of the jungle in daylight and attacked the farm animals, carrying off many of them.

In some cases the natives working on the farms have been attacked and several have been killed. The lions are often joined by leopards, and have appeared in such numbers that the settlers are forced to go about only in large groups and to keep a constant guard over their families and stock.

FRUIT SALADS ARE NECESSITY

If Your Meal is Well Balanced You Should Include Them in Menu

One of the most important items of the daily menu is the salad, since it brings to the meal an attractive form of fresh fruits and vegetables so necessary for their mineral salts and vitamines.

Salads made from fruits offset excess acidity in the body. This is true even of certain fruits known as "acid fruits." Oranges, grapefruit and lemons, for example, produce an alkaline reaction in the blood because of the mineral salts they contain, and so may be considered as especially valuable fruits to include on the diet in this form.

They also have the advantage of being obtainable at all seasons of the year. In California, where more than one-half the nation's supply of these fruits is grown, oranges and lemons are now picked, packed and shipped to market every day of the year; so that the housewife may always find these fruits available to her use.

For a simple but noel salad, try

Orange and Cherry salad.

To make, allow one small orange and about eight cherries, either canned or fresh, for each person to be served. Peel oranges, removing white pulp, and separate into sections. Arrange on leaf of lettuce. Place cherries on orange segments and serve with mayonnaise.

Or, this salad may be topped with a sweet salad dressing and served as the dessert course. Whipped cream, slightly sweetened makes an ideal dressing for such a combination salad and dessert.

Mayonnaise Dressing.

One teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, tiny bit of cayenne, 1 yolk egg, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 1-2 cups salad oil.

Mix the dry ingredients, add the egg yolk and mix well. Add the oil a very little at a time at first; then when an emulsion is made, add the oil and the lemon juice alternately.

After Dinner Mints.

Two cups sugar, 1-2 cup water, pinch cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon extract peppermint.

Dissolve sugar in saucepan, add cream of tartar, boil without stirring until it is brittle in cold water. Pour on buttered board and as soon as cool, pull until white, adding extract. Cut in small rounds with buttered scissors. Roll in powdered sugar and keep in covered glass jars.

Nut Pralines.

Three cups maple sugar, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup chopped pecan nut meats, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract.

Boil sugar, cream and butter until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from fire, add nut meats and extract and beat until it begins to get creamy. Pour into a buttered tin and mark in squares.

Mince Meat.

Three pounds of top beef round, 5 lbs. pared and cored apples, 6 oranges, 1 1-2 lbs kidney suet, 1 lb. currants, 1 lb. raisins, 1-2 lb. citron, 1 1-2 pt. molasses, 3 pts. boiled cider, 1 lb. sugar, 2 lemons, 1 nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 2 tablespoons mace, 1 tablespoon salt.

Pass meat, suet and apples through food chopper, and add other ingredients; seeded raisins, cleaned currants, citron cut in thin slices and the grated rind and juice of the orange. Mix thoroughly. Make up several pies without cooking mixture. Bake in a moderate oven about one hour. Scald remainder and seal in glass jars.

J-C REGISTERS 70 ON FRIDAY

Enrollment This Term May Exceed 200, Say School's Officials

Approximately 70 students enrolled in the Wichita Falls junior college Friday, according to S. H. Rider, dean. In order to avoid any confusion on the opening day the college students are being allowed to register this week, and judging from the number that registered the first day, it is thought that more than 200 will register this year. All students that have not registered are requested to do so today at the junior college.

Many of the students that registered Friday are out of town boys and girls which makes the official think that the college will prove the educational center for many of the boys and girls in this part of the state and the southern part of Oklahoma.

EMPLOYMENT GOOD SAYS UNION HEAD

Union employment in Wichita Falls is good at present, accoding to Dick Dickson, who is representing L. M. Moore, labor temple secretary, now on vacation.

WICHITA AUTO TRAFFIC HEAVY

Unprecedented Growth Of Tourist Trade in City Reported by Harrison

Wichita Falls had an unprecedented tourist traffic during the summer months just past, according to Hubert Harrison, secretary of the chamber of commerce, at the luncheon of the business council at the Kemp yesterday noon. He stated that this traffic had grown year by year for some time but that it had eclipsed all former years this past season. He stated that the chamber of commerce had been often commended by tourists for the excellent aid and information furnished the transients as they passed through this city.

According to Mr. Harrison the chamber of commerce has prepared various folders and made arrangements for increased publicity for Wichita Falls industries, and has distributed a large number of the soil survey maps prepared for this district by the United States department of agriculture.

3 Pairs of Wild Turkeys Loosed

Three pairs of wild turkeys were turned loose on the S. G. Helm ranch five miles northeast of Dundee and about 28 miles from Wichita Falls late Thursday night, but the season is closed on this type of game hunting at present, so don't get excited, Mr. Huntsman.

The turkeys were received recently from J. J. Dent of Kerrville, sent to the North Texas Fish and Game association for restocking purposes by the state game association.

More of this breed of game is expected from the association later, according to E. G. Hill, president of the north Texas branch.

FAIR COMPLAINTS TO BE HANDLED

A request for citizens of Wichita Falls who are displeased or have any complaint or suggestion to make with regard to the conduct of the Texas-Oklahoma fair this year to talk to one of the officials of the fair association about it was made yesterday at the chamber of commerce business council meeting by R. E. Shepherd, secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association.

Mr. Shepherd stated that he knew it was impossible to please everybody but that he believed he might find suggestion and criticism helpful if directed to him through the proper channels.

HOUSTON, Sept. 5.—A hard smashing flare-back in the ninth inning of the opener enabled Wichita Falls to nose out Houston here this afternoon, 11 to 10. The Spudders came back in the after piece and behind tight hurling by Drake swamped the local, 9 to 0. The contest was called at the end of the fifth because of darkness.

Wichita Falls scored two runs in the first inning of the first game on single by Fitzgerald, triple by Callaghan, and an infield out.

Kane of Houston scored the last half of the first on double, infield out, and sacrifice fly by Monroe.

Both teams scored one run in the third, Williams of the Spudders scoring on a walk, and two wild throws by the Buff outer and inner works. Kane scored on infield hit, passed ball, and single to left by Monroe.

Spuds Two in Fourth.

The Spudders scored twice in the fourth. Metzler hit a home run to left which rolled under the bleachers. Singles by Jonnard, sacrifice by Brett, single by Fitzgerald, and infield out accounted for the other run. Houston scored once in this inning. Peel tripled to center and came home on sacrifice fly to center by Boggess.

The Buffs tore off two runs in the fifth and three in the sixth, routing both Brett and E. Morgan, and taking the lead, 8 to 5. The Spudders scored in the seventh when Golvin singled to right and Metzler doubled to left.

Houston forged still further ahead in the eighth, scoring another run on double to right by McCarty and single to center by Monroe.

That Driving Rally.

The Spudders tore loose in the ninth, and stowed the game away, although Houston managed to score one run the last half of the inning.

Turgeon grounded out, third to first. Golvin singled to right. White and Metzler walked, filling the bases. Jonnard singled to center, scoring Golvin and White. Locker batted for Morgan and singled to center, scoring Metzler and sending Jonnard to third. Morris went to the mound for Houston. Tanner ran for Jonnard. Fitzgerald walked, filling the bases. Callaghan singled to left, scoring Tanner and Locker. Williams forced Fitzgerald, pitcher to third. Turgeon flied to center.

Drake Invincible.

Drake's delivery in the second game was too baffling for the home team to even indicate. On the other hand, the visitors had found themselves in the ninth inning of the first contest. They slugged Morris and Swartz freely. In the first inning the Spudders scored four runs. Fitzgerald popped out to the pitcher. Callaghan doubled to left. Williams doubled to right, scoring Callaghan. Turgeon singled to left, scoring Williams. Golvin singled to center, sending Turgeon to third. White and Metzler walked, forcing in Turgeon. Smith grounded out, second to first, Golvin scoring. Drake grounded to pitcher.

Golvin Hits it Over.

Wichita Falls came back in the third and counted four more. Turgeon walked. Golvin hit a home run over the right field fence. White singled to center. Metzler doubled to left and went to third on Compton's error, White scoring. Swartz took the pitching for Houston. Smith flied to center, Metzler scoring after the catch. Drake fanned. Fitzgerald singled to center. Callaghan popped out to the catcher.

The last Spudder run was made in the fourth when Golvin hit his second home run of the game into the right field bleachers.

Coolidge Praises Nats

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—President Coolidge today personally congratulated the Washington baseball team on its rise to the top of the American league and wished it good luck in its road trip starting Sunday.

Record News to Give Returns of Firpo-Wills Embroglio Thursday At Arena During Legion Fisticuffs

Luis Firpo, conquered only by champion Jack Dempsey, and Harry Wills, negro heavyweight contender will mingle in a fistic way next Thursday eve in dear old Gotham. Hundreds of Wichita Falls fight enthusiasts will be interested in the outcome of the battle; in fact, will want round-by-round blow-by-blow reports of the gigantic tussle. But also Thursday night, the American legion will stage its weekly fight card in the legion open air arena at Tenth and Ohio, and Wichita Falls glove followers will want to see the local battlers in action, too.

Tex Rickard Obstinate.

It was either postpone the Firpo-Wills embroglio or postpone the legion program, and fearing that Promoter Tex Rickard may become obstinate and not care to change the date of the heavy tilt, Legion Promoter Don Wofford with the aid of the Record News decided to compromise with Wichita Falls ring followers. So next Thursday, Spudder fandom will be given the treat of witnessing the legion battlers in their weekly mills and during intermissions hear round by round reports by the Record News of the big fight in the east as the battle progresses.

No Card Yet.

No specific arrangement has as yet been made in connection with the lining up of the next legion card. Said Promoter Wofford Friday, Frankie Fink, Dallas featherweight flash, will meet probably Nick Gundy of Oklahoma or Mutt McKee, also of the Indian reserve state, in the main event. Wildcat Monte of Amarillo may be used in the semi-windup if a suitable opponent can be located. There is a possibility of the popular Moko Carpenter, Wichita Falls heavyweight, being billed with some husky. Tabby Levine, Wichita Falls Featherweight, is expected to square off with some good boy, too.

GOOD HEAVY MUST HAVE GOOD LEFT!

Firpo, Knows It, So He Educated His For Harry Wills

Luis Firpo

Harry Wills

Luis Firpo, the only man who ever knocked Champion Jack Dempsey into Seat 4, Row B in a championship fight, is prepping himself now for a battle which he hopes will carry him to another meeting with Dempsey.

Firpo meets Harry Wills, perennial black challenger, Sept. 11.

Dispatches from Firpo's camp speak repeatedly of Firpo's efforts to perfect his left hand. This "info" is the most interesting bit that emanates from either camp. It indicates that someone has finally made Firpo realize the vital necessity of owning a good left hand.

The history of heavyweight fighting has shown that a man must have a good left to "get there." John L. Sullivan is the exception that proves the rule. Sullivan fought his way to the throne mostly with a righthand and haymaker. Then he met Jim Corbett. Gentleman Jim carried one of the greatest lefts that has ever been hooked to a heavyweight jaw or tummy. Corbett literally "lefted" Sullivan to death.

Corbett himself met his doom when Bob Fitzsimmons shot a left to his solar plexus.

There are "old boys" still alive who recall vividly how Jim Jeffries could deliver a stinging left while using his famous crouch. He caught "Curly Bob" Fitzsimmons on the chin with that left and knocked Fitz into the ex-champion class.

Jack Johnson knew the value of a left. He tormented the dazed Jeffries mercilessly with it at Reno when the ex-champion tried in vain to bring the heavyweight title back to the white race.

Willard has been taught to use his left when he met the dissipated Johnson at Havana. He rocked Johnson with it for 23 rounds.

After Dempsey had crushed his face in with a murderous left at Toledo and had sunk him to the canvas like a stuck cow Willard arose and almost turned the title battle with two nerve-deadening lefts to Dempsey's jaw.

Dempsey turned the tide of battle in that free-for-all with Firpo by landing a left hook after Firpo had knocked the champion down and out of the ring.

Dempsey's critics will tell you that the champ has not perfected his left to the extent Corbett, Fitz, Jeffries and the other old stars used it. And it is with the knowledge of Dempsey's failure to make the best of his left that Firpo gives his a post graduate course as he prepares for Wills.

Top O' the Mornin' Stuff

BLONDY CROSS

As one wiseacre fan chirped last night, "Somebody must have ribbed those Spudders up that spring training was not over until Aug. 31 and that all games up to that day were merely exhibition affairs." Now that Fort Worth has sewed up the old rag for the fifth straight year, and the season is at its fag end, Bud's proteges are whaling the stuffing out of all comers including the Champion Cats Labor day when the Felines were allowed one lone marked in 16 innings of play. Homelings swept the three-game Dallas series, lost Thursday by a narrow margin in Houston, and came back Friday to clean out the Buff orchard in a double header.

It's on to Galveston for a trio today, and those Spudders may yet wind up in the first division. Now that Wichita Falls is beginning to put up a fair brand of ball it's a shame they will not return to this city again until the spring training in 1925.

Pete Donohoe of Cincy and Rip Wheeler of the Cubs, Donohue a Fort Worth boy and Wheeler formerly of the Spudders, hooked up in the speediest tilt of the year yesterday. The Reds shaded the Chicago national league entry, 3 to 1, in one hour and ten minutes of actual combat.

The slim Cincinnati hurler is still in his youth, and has many years of major league baseball before him yet. Right now were Donohue with a faster club, a nine battling around the top of the ladder sport scribes far and wide would herald him loudly and long, for Pete has the goods. Of a naturally frail physique Donohue has trouble in making the weight required as a rule of an athlete of his height, and occasionally he is bothered with a slight kink in his chunking arm. But weight or no weight, kink or no kink the one-time Fort Worth school boy is pitching his way to the National league hall of fame.

As a student of Texas Christian university Donohue was hard to surpass. Even after signing with the Reds he continued his college work, studied diligently, and rarely came close to failing in a course. A clean cut gentleman, and an affable fellow at all times, Pete nevertheless romped off on a numerous playful streaks during his college days. One of his strong suits was jerking trolleys on the T. C. U. street cars, and causing one ordinarily very grouchy motorman on the one-man cars to become all the more irritated. This motorman had incurred more or less the hatred of the college boys which any Fort Worth street car man will tell you was very, and still is, untactful.

One night late this hard boiled motorman parked his car for a few minutes at the end of the line out by T. C. U. while he went to a nearby student store for a cup of coffee. When he came back he found himself, street car and all, blocked off from the city. Several huge bleachers from the football field had been dragged onto the tracks. There were hurdles and debris in general, a small shed, and a little donkey attached all stacked on the track directly in front of the car. Led by Donohue a young army of students had quickly piled the obstacles in front of the car before the motorman returned. That street car stayed anchored there until morning. Also, the street car gentleman was never again hard boiled with the college students that year, anyway.

Well begun is half done, the old adage goes. That being the case Arthur Weis, young outfielder the Chicago Cubs recently recalled from the Spudders, is well on his way to big league fame. Weis, on his first appearance in the Cub lineup, socked out three singles and a double in four trips to the plate and played the outfield well. Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn trojan, was Weis' victim at the platter. Since that day the former Spudder has been walloping the pill with regularity, made one error, and missed but two days in whamming out at least one safe blow.

If the Washington Senators knock the New York Yankees out of the American league pennant four important members of the Nats will raise their voices in lusty guffaws. They are Muddy Ruel, George Mogridge, Roger Peckinpaugh, and Allan Russell. These four gentry were given the wide swinging gate by Miller Huggins at various times.

Now Mogridge ranks as one of the best southpaws in the game and is playing an impontant portion in the Griffmen's fight. Ruel must be ranked as one of the best catchers in the game. His handling of Walter Johnson's delivery has been superb. Peckinpaugh, despite his failings and his advancing age, will be rated as one of the best shortstops of the season, at least in the Ban Johnson circuit. Russell has proved the pinch pitching ace of the team.

Griffith himself will have reason to chortle if he does land his club at the top of the heap. Back in 1909 Griffith was eased out of the managership of the Yanks without the slightest warning that his job was in jeopardy.

I watched the work of Nelson Green, young southpaw rookie some interest at Clearwater, Fla., with the Brooklyn Dodgers, with last spring. Green was sent later to Little Rock in the Southern association for more seasoning. His mound work there has caused the Robins to expect great accomplishment from him in the season of 1925. One of his recent achievements was the hurling of a four-hit game.

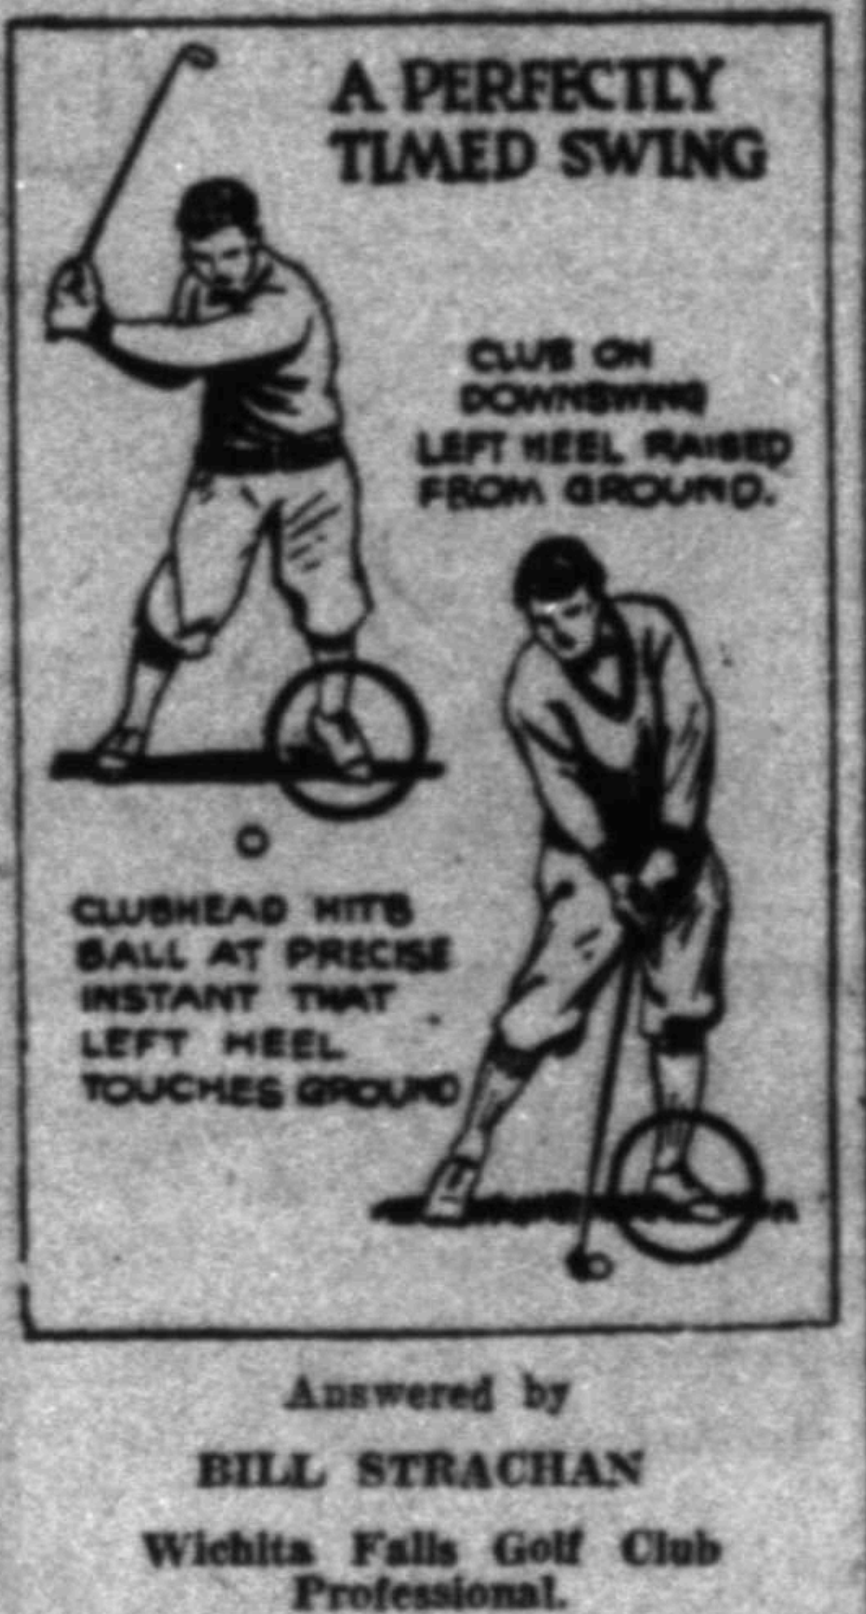
Golf

As Champions Play It

What is "timing?"



A PERFECTLY TIMED SWING
CLUB ON DOWNSWING LEFT HEEL RAISED FROM GROUND.

Answered by
BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Golf Club Professional.

Timing is an important bit of golf and consists of bringing the club-head against the ball at the exact second when the left heel returns to its original position—the position it occupied when the upswing was started. If the club-head meets the ball on the down-swing when the body is in any other position, the timing is faulty and any one of several golf disasters may occur. The ball may be hooked, sliced or topped; it may be hit pretty decently, but it will lack the distance which perfect timing gives.

No Schedule For Coyote Team Yet

Due to the small amount of practice the Iowa Park high school football team will have had by September 18, the planned game between that team and the Coyotes will not be played on that date, according to reports Friday. Coach Bud McCallum is trying to match a game with some other team in class B for September 18.

No definite arrangements have been made for the class A schedule in this district but it is thought that Wichita Falls will play both Electra and Vernon about the middle part of October. Vernon gave Wichita Falls a tough tussle last year and the men are already going through stiff practice with nothing less than a district championship in sight. Electra has at all times and will in the future give Wichita Falls a hard game and should the Wichita Falls squad come through thees two games victorious, chances are that they will go high in the state race.

More men are reporting every day and there is a chance of securing another athlete who played with Stamford last fall and made quite a record as a punter. "Kid" Taylor left for Durant, Okla., Friday to determine whether he will play with Wichita Falls this fall. All the men are getting down to hard work and the practice field presents a scene of activity each day at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

AUSTRALIAN DAVIS CUP PLAYERS TAKE LEAD FROM FRANCE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 5.—Australia took the lead from France in the Davis cup competition at the Longwood cricket club this afternoon, when Pat O'Hara Wood and Gerald L. Patterson, Melbourne partner for many years standing, smothered Jack Brugnon and Rene La Costa, of Paris, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. The concluding stages of the competition, which will determine America's challenger for the historic trophy next week at Philadelphia, will be held tomorrow afternoon.

NEWARK CYCLIST SETS NEW RECORD

BOSTON, Sept. 5. — Will Honeman, of Newark, N. J., set a new world's record for the junior quarter mile in the national amateur championship bicycle races here this afternoon. He covered the quarter in 31 seconds flat. Walter Bresnan of New York City, made the same time in the semi-final, but was left far in the rack, however, in the championship event.

Horsemen to Provide Memoir for Pop Geers

By The Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5. — A movement was started among horsemen at the Indiana state fair today to provide a national memoir to Edward F. "Pop" Geers, who was killed at Wheeling, W. Va., last Wednesday. The fund soon grew to $100 and it was decided to ask friends of the veteran reinsman all over the country to join in the movement.

Billy Whiskers

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY.

You remember Billy Junior had butted the guard into the sea lions' pool where he lit on the back of one of the animals. But no human being could stick on the back of a slippery sea lion, and the guard soon came up to the surface of the water blowing and spouting like a porpoise.

The goats did not wait to see what become of the guard, but ran and hid themselves under the approach of one of the park bridges.

Early the next morning before the crowds of people began to come to the park, the goats had a fine time visiting all the animals, going up one path and down another and in one animal house and out another until they came to the lion's cages. These ferocious beasts with their glaring yellow eyes, tawny manes, big red mouths and gleaming teeth frightened the Twins nearly into spasm, and they ran away from the family so fast that their mother could not follow them. They dodged under this bush and that, around curves in the paths quickly that she gave up the chase and came back to get their father to help her.

"They have gone and we can't catch up to them now," said he. "Stay here and go with us a bit and when we have seen all the animals we wish to see, I'll look for them. They will be frightened after awhile when they find they are alone, and begin to hunt us," said their father

So Billy Junior, Daisy and Nannie walked leisurely from cage to cage, saying a word here and a word there to all the animals and birds they saw. And this is how it happened that the Twins found themselves in the park.

"Gee! I hope those big beasts don't break out of their cage and come after us! We would only make one mouthful for them and I bet they like tender kid meat at that!" shuddered one Twin.

"Don't even mention it!" said the other. "I can feel my bones crunch in their big mouths and see them lick their chops after they have eaten us."

"Where shall we go now? We can do as we please all day if we just keep out of sight of the family."

We'll keep our eyes open for them, never mind, and if we see them coming, we will hide. I wonder what is in that big cage over there? I see something flying from one side to the other, but it doesn't look like a bird. Let's go see what it is.

So they trotted off and soon found themselves in front of the monkey's cage.

Mothers

AND THEIR CHILDREN

The Young Barbarian.

One Mother Says:

My seven-year-old boy has suddenly stepped out of babyhood into the barbaric realm of boyhood. He is a tough guy, he is—won't wear sailor suits because they are sissy. He has played truant from school and told me lies. I have not, however, raised a row. Instead I keep him at home and at work. He shakes out rugs, sweeps the walks and does all other tasks he is capable of, without being in any way overworked. I give him straight talks about truth and honor without being "preachy." I stay at home a great deal these days for the habits that the little boy develops now are going to be the making or marring of his whole life.

New York Subway's Efficiency Impresses German

BERLIN.—"The speed and snap of the New York subway service impressed me more than the much healded skyline,' declared Herr Pawel, general manager of the Berlin underground railways, after his return from a trip through the United States. The close sequence of the trains and the rapidity with which they were operated during the rush hours, the calm and the discipline of the crowds jamming the stations, surprised him too.

Even the turnstiles made a hit with Herr Pawel, who, in a newspaper article, contends that attempts of New Yorkers to cheat the administration by inserting fake nickels were tried but seldom. Nevertheless he does not recommend the turnstile system for Berlin.

PORT ARTHUR.—New cigar factory being opened which will have minimum production of 150,000 cigars per month.

A FULL WEEK

"Lazybones! Aren't you ever going to get up?" shouted Billy Cut-out.

Betty rubbed her eyes sleepily. "Yes, of cousse, but this is the first week of school and it seems awful nice to have Saturday morning come around when you can sleep later."

"I think it's nice being back at school, after all," declared Billy.

"So do I," agreed Betty, and then she grinned—"on Saturdays."

"Breakfast! Breakfast!" called Mrs. Cut-out. "The first one down can choose the dessert for dinner."

Betty's bathrobe is ligot blue. Her cat is white and it wears a pink ribbon.

Now if you've saved the Cut-outs every day this week you have a whole set of clothes to play going-to-school with Betty Cut-out.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

"The Brisbane sale opening at an advance of 10 to 12 per cent over the July sale has given the local market a new lease of life and prices are tending teadily upward so that asking prices of a week ago are selling prices of today.

"The goods market appears to be moving slowly and cautiously and according to most reports, the light weight openings have been rather disappointing up to date but there is a strong conviction that the demand must come sooner or later for goods since the market is in a healthier situation than it has been for some time.

"Foreign markets are all strong and the tendency of values is upward. Early offerings from South America are still above the level of this market. European markets are all very firm.

"Mohair continues rather slow with prices barely steady at quotations."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow:

Scoured basis: Texas fine 12 months (selected) 135@140; fine 8 months 125@127.

INDUSTRIALS NOTE LOSSES

American Woolen Again Under Pressure After Decline Featured Thursday

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Stock prices broke sharply in today's market net losses running from one to four points in a number of popular industrials. Lack of effective buying support revived discussions among market observers as to whether the recent reaction represents the culmination of the bull market which began early in June, or a temporary setback to correct a weakened technical condition. Each theory found plenty of adherents.

American Woolen, whose sensational decline featured yesterday's session, was again under pressure today. The first sale was a block of 3,500 shares at the "spread opening" which of 56-57. It rallied about a point higher on short covering, broke to 54⅝, the lowest price since 1919, and closed at 55½.

U. S. Steel common dropped one point to 106¼. Baldwin showed a loss of 2 points at 119½ and American Can was down 3¼ at 126½. Studebaker duplicated its recent high of 40 and then slipped to 38⅝, off ⅝.

A bear raid against Famous Players, predicted on the fact that the half year's dividends were only earned by a small margin, forced that stock down to 74⅞, but it rallied later to 76, where it was off 3¾ points on the day. Net losses of 2 to nearly 5 points were registered by more than a score of other issues.

Oils showed splendid resistance to selling pressure in reflection of the further improvement in the crude oil situation. Pacific Oil closed a point higher at 47⅞ and Standard Oil of New Jersey, Marland, California Petroleum and Phillips Petroleum improved fractionally.

Market Letters

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—Cotton values averaged 15 to 20 points higher than yesterday's close, though they eased a little late in the afternoon on selling induced largely by weakness in stocks.

Decreasing crop estimates from the private bureaus and estimates of 12,300,000 bales from a couple of spot houses created more uneasiness among shorts and led to a fair amount of covering. Possibility that the census bureau make take the ginnings into consideration in making up their next estimate as well as abandoned acreage tended to increase the uneasiness as forecasts of ginnings are 285,000 to 500,000 less than last year, when they were 1,424,000.

It is probable that small ginnings will be accepted as confirming small crop estimates if the ginnings come anywhere near that predicted in view of reports of premature opening account of the drouth.

Nearly all the private bureaus emphasize that bolls are small and yield of lint disappointing.

We do not see how the government can fail to materially reduce its crop forecasts from that of August 16th in view of the universal claims of deterioration since then. If it does, it should change sentiment and market conditions radically.

FENNER and BEANE.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—WHEAT: There was excellent buying throughout most of the session, most of it being by houses with seaboard and foreign connections. There was constant liquidation of long holdings on the hard spots, however, and this along with the hedging pressure sufficed to hold prices from advancing. Outside trade was small, weather was favorable. The wheat market under influence of northwestern hedging sales which tends to off set export business and we look to see the market a trading affair around here for the next week or ten days.

CORN: Tired longs fed the market on all hard spots and lack of important outside support was reflected late in the session when prices gave way. Trade was smaller and extremely nervous. The official forecast was for rising temperatures after light frost was rewarded to probable tonight in lowlands of Michigan and Wisconsin and one Iowa message said they feared frost there also during the night.

OATS: Showed independent strength with good investment buying in the deferred futures. The heaviness in corn and continued liquidation in September had a depressing influence, however, and prices held within a narrow range. Weather conditions generally favorable.

RYE: Good trade with prices supported on the upturn, despite heaviness shown at times in the wheat market. Buying was believed to be largely against export business.

PROVISIONS: There was scattered liquidation through commission houses and market lacked support. Packers took little interest in hogs. Hogs were 10 to 25 cents lower. Top $10.05.

(Jackson Bros. to Fenner and Beane.)

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Smaller crop estimates were the features of today's dull session, but they were without much effect. While there is some disposition to modify ideas as to the probable government report, the majority believes we have a crop in the neighborhood of 13,000,000 bales and that with so much cotton coming on the market prices will give way temporarily at least, even if an indicated crop of 12,600,000 were indicated.

Opinions mean nothing in the face of the government report but believe the chances favor a good crop and lower prices, under weight of the actual.

FENNER AND BEANE.

W. N. Graham from Curtis

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Market held steady most of the day but eased off near the close. There was selling of wheat by commission houses who were on the buying side yesterday. Trading was light. A report from Argentine said wheat was progressing satisfactorily with showers reported in some localities. Receipts fairly liberal but cash market held steady with good demand for offerings. Bradstreets report of export clearances for the week rejected the active export business.

Corn—There was some buying on reports and predictions of frosts but the action of the market was disappointing to the bull side and toward the close prices eased off. Most of the day market was very narrow.

Oats—Market was relatively stronger than corn but toward the close prices eased off to nearly the same as yesterday's close. Sentiment prevails that oats are cheap as compared with corn and at present prices is getting better support.

(see the 8 points below)

There are eight precautions every man should take in regard to his insurance. These precautions will save him time, money, and worry.

Insurance, like any other financial project, is a highly specialized and highly legalized game. Here are some of the precautions which the average man should take in regard to his insurance.

1. Deal with a broker whose standing is unimpeachable.
2. Don't prejudice the rights of the insurance company in any way.
3. When you have any trouble give immediate written notice to the company.
4. Don't change companies unless you have a very good reason for so doing.
5. Do not insure for less than value nor for greater than value.
6. Take care of all your policies.
7. As soon as you get your policy, read it. If there is anything you do not understand, get it explained.
8. See that your application for insurance is absolutely correct.

An incorrect application may invalidate the policy.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—The cotton market fluctuations were narrow today, bearing all the marks of pre-bureau influence as there was proved to be more of an evening up character, but the general trend of values was towards firmer levels, traders having become alarmed by the lower private crop estimates and particularly by the estimates of several spot firms now based on the government formulas which are nearly a million bales lower than the indicated yields worked out according to the official method. The market opened steady and unchanged from yesterday's close and the opening range of prices proved to be the lows of the day with October at 23.65 and December at 23.75. The gradual advance during the greater part of the session carried October and December 22 to 25 points up from the lows. There was a reaction during the afternoon mainly on weakness in the New York market but prices rallied again and the close showed net gains for the day of four to six points.

The stimulating factors aside from the fear of a bullish bureau report included reports of a firmer spot basis in Texas markets and an estimated of ginning to September 1, by a Washington private bureau of only 857,000 bales as against 1,442,600 last year.

Two more authorities issued reports during the day, one making the condition 58 and the indicated crop 12,684,000 bales and the other showing a condition of 61.4 and a crop of 12,900,000 bales. Two big spot houses made crop estimates, one at 12,200,000 and the other at 12,316,000 bales.

The average guess on condition of 74 members of the New York Cotton exchange was 60.6.

GRAINS DOWN ACCOUNT SALES

Provisions Lower on Selling By Cotton Oil and Weakness in Hogs

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—All grain markets showed the effect of persistent selling by longs during the day and prices eased rather sharply and finished near the bottom. Wheat was ⅞ to 1⅛ cent down, with September 1.22⅞ to 1.23 and December 1.27⅞ to 1.28; corn was off 1¼ to 2 cents; oats ⅛ higher to ⅜ cents lower and provisions declined 10 to 40 cents.

Provisions were lower on selling attributed to cotton oil interests and weakness in hogs.

BUTCHER STOCK GOES HIGHER

Ft. Worth Market Steady On Steers, With Calves On Good Demand

FORT WORTH, Sept. 5.—The general trade in the cattle market here today was around 10 to 15 cents higher on butcher stock, and steady on steers. Calves sold to a good demand on a steady basis. The day's receipts were estimated at 3,200 head of cattle and 1,500 calves.

A fairly liberal run of cows arrived and cleared at the highest rates that have prevailed recently, the general market showing a 10 to 15 cent gain over Thursday's close, and being very brisk on that basis. Most of the good butcher grades sold at 3.50 to 4.15, cutters going at 2.75 to 3.25 and canners making 1.75 to 2.15. Bulls sold to the usual good call the best heavy classes going at 3.00 to 3.35.

Good light calves brought 6.50 to 7.25, and the best heavies cleared at 5.00 to 5.50.

Stocker receipts consisted mostly of riffraff for which a poor demand developed. A few steers sales were made at 4.00 to 4.50. Prices in the hog market was 10 to 15 cents down, making a drop of about 25 cents during the past two days. Bulk of the receipts sold at 9.00 to 9.50. Receipts were estimated at 1,200 head and included 6.00 that were on direct billing.

Pigs sold readily at steady rates. The bulk of the run brought 7.00 to 7.75.

Receipts in the sheep house amounted to about 300, most of the run being mixed sort, and not possessing enough quality to test the market.

WICHITA DRAWS CAPACITY CROWD

Theatre Filled for Opening Of Vaudeville Season In Renovated House

The new Wichita theatre with Anatol Friedland, presenting his "Anatol's Affairs of 1924", playing the stellar role, opened its doors to the Wichita Falls theatre goers last night and played to a crowded house with every seat filled and the floor at the back jammed. It was a crowd that came to see and left to praise, unstinting in acclamation of the beauty of Wichita's new playhouse and loud in applause for the bill that had been provided.

It isn't often that a theatre audience is privileged to hear the man sing the songs he wrote himself, play the music he conceived in his own mind, and direct the dancing and acting of the puppets whose parts are of his own making; yet that was just what Wichita Falls was treated to last night. Anatole Friedland, composer, artist, director, and playwright sat at a piano on the stage of the new theatre and sang his own songs, while pretty maids in the costumes of different worlds danced the dances he had conceived himself.

Pretty Girls Dance

While Friedland played a tune on the piano his cast presented the audience with different "lands". "Jamland" and there was jazz, "Toyland," and a coy little girl playing havoc with a top support that danced and frolicked in true Santa Claus style. "Loveland", and there was "One Hour of Love". "Russia land" and the officers of the Czar's old army made love to the maids of his court. But it was "Fried-land" that went home. Twelve different members of the chorus sang each a song of the composer's past, among which were such old remembered numbers as "Shades of Night", "Sweet Adair", "Are You From Heaven" and "Lily of the Valley."

"When You're Old—"

Mattie Lee Lippard in a "Song Cycle With Trimmings" scored a distinct hit, too. She danced and sang her way into the hearts of the listeners and when they were prepared for the pathetic side she sang them a song of jazz incarnate. "When you're old you may get strong, so eat your candy while you're young," she advised the world.

"Dark Moments" with Joe Bennett was well received, and the "Songflage" of Charles E. Bennee and Florence Baird presented a grotesque number so absurd as to be pleasing. Will Morris did astonishing things with a collapsible bicycle and kept his audience in the throes of suspense and laughter through his act.

Whole Bill Good

The vaudeville bill was preceded by two pictures of unusual merit, a mechanical comedy and a slow-motion picture of athletic tribulations.

The bill was good and the audience appreciated it.

It was the fashion last night to remark on the beautiful interior of the new renovated and remodeled theatre, and its beautiful ironwork, a Wichita Falls product, and the sky-like starry dome in the ceiling attracted much favorable comment.

Fines, small in amount but judiciously administered, have about broken up an evil against which the police and street departments have been fighting for some time—parking of automobiles in downtown streets throughout the night. Probably 400 fines on such offenses have been assessed in the past four months. None of them have been over $1, most of them less, and yet they have accomplished the desired results.

Title to an eight and one-half acre strip of land in the Beaver Creek district near Electra is questioned in a suit styled Annie V. McCarty vs. G. E. Nance and the Ryan Petroleum company, now on trial before Judge Napier of the 78th district court. The territory has three producing oil wells, with daily production of about 150 barrels. A mix-up in boundary lines is causing the controversy, both sides claiming ownership of the strip on which the wells are located. Testimony in the case will be concluded today.

Fungus Growth in Lake Wichita Is Cause of Odor and Flavor of Water; Tests Show Purity Is Not Affected

"Distasteful but harmless" is the report of the city health department on the persistent odor and peculiar flavor of city drinking water the past few days.

Numerous queries have been received by water department officials as to the cause of the condition. Water has been anything but palatable and some alarm has been felt by cautious housewives.

Tainted By Fungus

The water is tained by a fungus growth known as spiro gyra, large quantities of which have appeared along the edges of Lake Wichita recently. The moss-like substance has spread over a large part of the lake and accordingly has affected the entire basin from which the city's water supply is taken.

Careful tests have been made by Dr. A. H. Dought, director of the city health department, but so far the purity of the water remains unchanged. The odor and taste, with a very slight discoloration are the only outward signs noted since the growth began and the water retains a substantial margin of purity, making it perfectly safe for use.

Officials Puzzled

Just what is causing the fungus growth is puzzling officials. It did not appear until water in large quantities was turned into Lake Wichita from Lake Kemp, but whether the big lake is the cause of the trouble is not known. Such growths have been found in Lake Wichita before and have usually disappeared within a short time, giving rise to the hope that such will be the case again.

Pity the Poor Post Office Man; Here's Some Things He's Asked, Some of 'Em Pertinent—Otherwise

Many are the curious letters that are received by the postoffice, according to L. H. Howard, assistant postmaster of the local postoffice. Mr. Howard recently received a letter from Dr. G. M. Gaston of Ireland requesting him to give him the names of two boys who loaned him some gasoline in Grand Canyon August 7. It seems that Mr. Gaston borrowed some gasoline from two boys who were driving a car with a Wichita Falls license on it. In some way he became separated from the two boys before he reached the nearest town and was therefore unable to repay the borrowed gasoline. Perhaps a still small voice prompted him to write and try to secure the names of the two boys so he could return the gasoline. Thus far Mr. Howard has been unable to locate the two boys, and give them "the wise tip" how to secure possibly 30 cents.

Mr. Howard said Friday that every day he received letters asking strange questions. It seems that persons have the impression that a postoffice official knows every person in his town, the nature of his business and when he goes on his vacation. Mr. Howard said that if he made an attempt to trace [illegible] boys he would be forced [illegible] with at least 2,000 [illegible] in Wichita Falls as he placed [illegible] as a conservative estimate of [illegible] number of Wichita Falls people that were in the Grand Canyon this summer.

INSTITUTE TO BE HERE AGAIN

Teachers Select Wichita Falls Junior College For Meeting in Fall of 1925

Just before the joint teachers' institute came to a conclusion Friday at noon after five days of instructive work, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the Wichita Falls public schools and chairman of the institute, announced that the executive committee had voted to hold the joint county institute in Wichita Falls in 1925 at the junior college building. The institute next year will begin September 6 and close September 10. The counties represented at the institute were Wichita, Clay, Wilbarger and Baylor. The Quanah and Chillicothe independent school districts were also represented.

Closing One Largest.

The closing institute was the largest that has ever been held in north Texas, according to the officials in charge. Arrangements are already being made by those in charge to have the institute even larger next year and to have a larger force of leaders in charge.

W. T. Lofland, chairman of the resolution committee, read the resolution adopted by the committee. The work being done by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent was commended and his policy of the asking the state legislature for an appropriation of $500,000 to pay the tuition of the rural school students who desired to attend the high schools in the cities was approved. An appreciation to the people of Wichita Falls for the courtesy shown and the cordial treatment of Dr. Cantwell and the school board was expressed by the committee. It was further resolved to express deep regret over the death of President Bralley.

The committee further expressed their appreciation to E. C. Huckabee and the other persons who lead the assembly in singing. An appreciation for the work done by Superintendent Burl Bryant and Dr. Cantwell was expressed by the committee. An appreciation was also expressed for the work done by Dean Hubbard, Mrs. Little, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Peeler in leading the institute.

Newspapers Thanked.

The committee also thanked the local press for the consideration given.

J. F. Peeler addressed the assembly at the opening session on the recent tendencies in intermediate department work and gave the teachers a few principles to follow. Before beginning his address Mr. Peeler asked the 1,000 teachers to remain perfectly silent for one minute in respect to Dr. Bralley, president of C. I. A. who recently died. Dr. Bralley was scheduled to deliver an address at the institute and upon his death Mr. Peeler was substituted.

Miss Wenonah Ware, representing the Parents-Teachers association spoke briefly to the assembly explaining the benefits of the association.

All the leaders spoke briefly at the closing session and all praised the junior college building, declaring "that no other educational building in the state could equal it in value and beauty." Burl Bryant urged all the teachers to attend the Texas-Oklahoma fair and to send exhibits from their schools for the educational building at the fair.

Rev. F. T. Duton asked the invocation and the singing was lead by W. E. Young.

Dismissed Early.

The institute was dismissed at 11:15 a. m. in order to allow the teachers time to secure their lunch in the college cafeteria and to allow those who wished to leave the city Friday to catch the noon trains.

Officials in charge of the institute said Friday that they were more than satisfied with the work accomplished this week and that the institute had been a success from every standpoint. More than 1,000 teachers had registered Friday morning, according to the officials.

All the Wichita Falls teachers will remain in this city the week end as school opens here Monday. Burl Bryant said that all the nine months school in this county would open on the same day.

Iowa Park Man Sends Deserter Back To Camp, But Gets $100 Fine As a Result—Enters Plea of Guilty Here

A too fervent quest for an army deserter against whom he is alleged to have had a personal grievance cost an Iowa Park man $100 and costs—$125 in all, when he pressed his case yesterday and Thursday. He paid that amount after pleading guilty to charges of carrying a pistol, but he at least had the satisfaction of seeing his army adversary started back for Fort Sill, Okla., under heavy guard.

C. R. Jackson of Iowa Park appeared here Thursday and gave officers information that a man wanted for deserting the Fort Sill post was in this city. According to officials, he very plainly showed his anxiety that the deserted be caught—and eventually he was. Military officers were summoned and the deserter taken back to Oklahoma.

Trouble Begins

Trouble began for the Iowa Park man then, however.

It developed that during his search here, and also during a period of investigation in Iowa Park, he had carried a loaded revolver concealed in his clothing. He was arrested Friday morning by Constable Latta Graham at Iowa Park, brought to Wichita Falls and arraigned before Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law.

The minimum fine of $100 and costs was imposed when Jackson entered a plea of guilty.

He paid and was released.

$20,000 SUIT OVER 60 ACRES

Chicago Man and Sunshine Consolidated File Action In Court Friday

Two suits in which damages aggregating $20,000 are asked were filed Friday in United States district court here against G. W. Vernon and his wife, Della, of Young county, and R. O. Sanford of Wichita Falls. The plaintiff in the first suit is Charles C. Porter of Chicago and the second is the Sunshine Consolidated Oil company.

A producing lease of about 60 acres located in Young and Archer counties and said to be valued at over $20,000 is the basis of action in both cases. Title is questioned.

Mr. Porter contends that he is the lawful owner of a part of the lease and that the plaintiffs have sought to dispossess him of his land. He asks for a clear claim to the lease and $20,000 damages. The Sunshine company also seeks $20,000 damages and clear title to part of the same territory.

The lease in question is a part of the A. C. Neeley survey.

WILLIS JURY HUNG, REPORT

Judge Martin Says Body Must Deliberate Until Saturday Morning

Although reporting that they were "hopelessly hung," jurors in the S. H. Willis assault with intent to murder trial were ordered by Judge P. A. Martin late yesterday afternoon to continue their deliberations. They must remain at least until court convenes Saturday morning and may be held even longer.

The jury reported it was divided nine to three but did not indicate whether a conviction or acquittal was the wish of the majority.

Willis is under indictment in connection with the attack several months ago on John Nickels, who was shot in the right thigh as he was standing in front of a Tenth street fruit stand. Evidence in the case was introduced Thursday and arguments of counsel heard Friday morning. The jury deliberated all afternoon and reported at 5 o'clock that it could not come to an agreement.

AERIAL TRAM BEING BUILT.

SAFFORD, Ariz.—An aerial tramway nearly 40,000 feet in length is being built from near the top of Mt. Graham, south of this point, from a sawmill to a terminal on a highway. The start is at 9150 feet elevation and the terminal is at 8700 feet. A flume was used, but the water supply proved insufficient. Most of the timber cut is to be used in the mines of Globe and Miami.
