THE WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

There's a blunt, almost brutal question, but an answer is needed for the sake of hundreds of people to-day.

Should the duty of unmarried sons or daughters to dependent parents exceed that of married sons and daughters?

The question is brutal because it unavoidably intimates that so serious and almost sacred a responsibility as the care of parents can lend itself to quibbling about how much a child should do.

But that is sentimentality, and it is because of this very sentimentality that the question is all cluttered up with emotion and has never been sufficiently dealt with in cold logic to have a business-like answer.

The question is not only one of economic duty and responsibility, but involves other things.

Harriet, for instance, is the only unmarried one in her family, living at home, not because she wants to but because it is the only solution for her parents' need—at least the only solution that has been tried. The brothers and sisters have so many reasons why no other plans should be put into practice.

There are times when Harriet wants "time off." But the family assumes as a matter of course that Harriet's vacations must entail taking father and mother with her just as her whole year entails recreational plans for them.

The rest of the family go blithely along about its personal plans, explaining that "we haven't room at the cottage for mother and father this year, or "Grace will be coming and—" "As though I might not like a little personal life of mine once in a while!" says Harriet. "I love my parents, of course, but I have interests apart from them, and they make it so impossible for me to live any life but that of a mother's companion."

There's the point. It is generally assumed that being a daughter is life enough for a woman, just a being a wife or mother or husband or father is life for the married brothers and sisters.

But today's unmarried woman has her other job—a life of her own, she has learned that life may be full and rich through the media of many more jobs than the "once upon a time" only job.

Married sons and daughters ordinarily believe not only that an unmarried brother or sister is responsible for the happiness and comfort of their common parents, but that it's also the unmarried one's money job.

They put it on the basis of their own responsibilities. They point to their wives, their off-spring, then say, "why, you have only yourself."

The obvious argument that they assumed the responsibility of marriage with their eyes open and of their own choice, and that they had the same privilege of remaining single as anyone goes over their ears. They see surely on buying houses, cars, radios, and giving their children dancing lessons, managing the bills some way, and growing panicky only when the question of money for their parents is mentioned. Then they never have it—"that's up to you."

One of the most obvious truths is that people can manage money for the things for which they plan and desire to manage.

It's merely a matter of including certain items in their budget plans, and if they haven't been trained to include help to parents in their budget, they can't that's all, as long as they can get away with it. I feel very strongly that all children of parents should share alike in responsibility of all sorts to those parents, whether it's easy or whether it's hard. That's their job, to be accepted and recognized before assuming additional responsibilities.

Beauty! How and Why

LOOKING INTO THE SKIN'S TEXTURE

Our body covering, the skin, consists of two separate layers. The lower might be compared to a lining, through which run thousands of little ducts. Through these ducts, body waste is conveyed to the surface layer—the epidermis. The opening of these tiny ducts are called pores, and upon their size depends the appearance of the skin. The smaller and cleaner they are, the finer and more beautiful the skin. If neglected, the pores are apt to become clogged with sebaceous matter and dirt, forming the so-called blackheads.

It is much better to prevent the formation of unsightly blackheads than to try to remove them after they have formed, for the pressure necessary is likely to enlarge the pores, thus causing the skin to have a very coarse appearance.

Texture and color are the points considered in estimating beauty of complexion. The artist observed with the keenest delight the great variety of beautiful tints with which nature has endowed the human race.

In the white race we see every tint in the color scale, beginning with albino ranging through pale pink, pink and white, pale rose, ivory, cream, olive, swarthy, tan, to light brown. The Japanese and Chinese are wonderfully tinted in pale yellow and lemon while the American Indian, in hide of bronze, looks like a piece of statuary. The artist sees beauty in the soft mellow browns of the Hindus, the Arab and the Persian, as well as the deeper brown and black of the philippino and the Negro.

The study of pigmentation is surely a fascinating one. In my next article I will tell you how to care for the satiny, colorful birthday dress which nature has given you.

Slaton Cage Team Has Good Outlook

Tentative Schedule Calls for Games With Leading Court Combinations of This Section.

(Special To The Avalanche) SLATON, Dec. 21.—With a wealth of material at his command, Coach Odus Mitchell has a splendid opportunity to Kodel a winning cage crew for Slaton high school this season, he believes. Among those of most promising prospects are: J. E. Arnes, captain; Harry McDonald, Curtis Hamilton, Gus Hawthorne, Clarence Nichols, Charles Ford, Robert King, Bob Rich, Raymond Dunn, Jim Cullar, Roy Wilmsmeyer, Cecil Scott, Doris Selman, Roy Veach, Irvin Bennett and Carl Self. Mitchell has not yet completed his team's schedule, but he expects to pit his Tigers against teams from such schools as Lubbock, Plainview, Tahoka, Lamesa, Raila, Floydada, Idaho and possibly Canyon. Practice games already played gave the Tigers victories over Wilson, Southland and Canyon rural school in this county. The Slaton cage record of the past few years has not been nearly so brilliant as it has been in football, but the Tigers may come out of the slump this year, it is believed.

POTATOES ON SHELL Baked potatoes on the half-shell are easy to prepare and are attractive when there is company for dinner. As soon as they are done cut the potatoes in half lengthwise and scoop out the inside without breaking the skin. Mash the potatoes with salt, pepper, butter, and cream or rich milk. Beat until light and refill the skins. Sometimes a little chopped pepper is added to the potato mixture. Grated cheese, if liked, may be sprinkled over the top of the potatoes before they are reheated for serving.

BEST HORSE SHOES Give horses the type of shoe best suited in the work they are to do. Rubber shoes and rubber foot pads for horses used on hard surfaced streets relieve soreness and lameness and prevent slipping and falling. Rubber pads are not recommended for farm horses, since soil may work it way under the pads and cause lameness. If rubber pads are used, pine tar with a thin layer of oakum should be applied to the sole to keep it moist and to prevent contraction.

TREES ON FARM If it is necessary to plant trees to restore idle farm land to productivity, the safest rule is choosing the kind of tree to plant is to select those which occur naturally on a similar situation in the region or have been grown there successfully.

HOGS FOR MARKET Hogs ready for market should be assembled a sufficient length of time prior to the date of shipment to allow them to rest. They should not be crowded into small pens or houses, nor fed heavy rations. There is nothing to be gained by forced feeding just before shipping. Crowding too many hogs into a cage is likely to result in a number of them dying in transit.

DISPOSAL OF WASTE The disposal of all waste and garbage in tightly covered receptacles will help to free the premises of rats.

Wide Variance In Weather Reported At Texas Points

18 And 97 Are Extremes In Temperature As Many Stations Report No Rain During November (By Associated Press) HOUSTON, Dec. 21.—When the thermometer registered 97 at Harlingen the mercury fell to 18 at Rosboro, L. H. Daingerfield, government meteorologist at Houston, noted in his November weather report which shows that the month was warmer than usual and lacked normal moisture.

Harlingen's weather crept into the report on November 26 when it reported a temperature which proved to be the highest of the month at any point in the state. The 18-degree reading at the other extreme, besides being experienced at Rosboro on the same date, reached exactly the same point at Spearman on November 16 and it shared with Rosboro the distinction of being the state's coldest spot.

129 Texas Stations Mr. Daingerfield's temperature readings was compiled from reports of 129 Texas stations. The average was 64.4 degrees or 7.3 degrees above normal. The monthly range was 79 degrees and the greatest daily range was 32 degrees, at Brownwood, which meant that heat and chill swapped places in a single day.

In the matter of rainfall, Mr. Daingerfield found from readings at 222 Texas stations that the average precipitation was only .58 of an inch, which upon comparison with other November moisture records, was found to be 1.76 of an inch less than the state normal.

Many Show No Rainfall Fifty-four stations reported no rainfall. Twenty-eight others told Mr. Daingerfield that only a trace was apparent during the month but Coconoe reports showed 2.29 inches during the month, which was plenty in comparison with less fortunate points. It remained for Finley, however, to report 2.48 inches of rain in a single day which made it the wettest spot in any 24-hour period. This happened, Mr. Daingerfield reported, on November 15. The average of clear days was 15. The wind blew from the south as usual but was varied by a fifty-mile an hour gale from the northwest at Dallas on November 20. The velocity was greater than at any other point during the month.

POULTRY HANDICAP One of the greatest handicaps to the poultry industry has been the lack of legal status regarding it. Laws relating to livestock frequently have been so interpreted as to relate only to the larger domestic animals. The first Congressional appropriation ever made specifically for actual field control and suppression of poultry diseases was the $100,000 authorized in the winter of 1924 to suppress an outbreak of European fowl pest. In the last appropriation bill Congress again recognized the importance of controlling poultry diseases.

CHAIN VOTING

Chain voting seems to be Pittsburgh's latest contribution to the science of beating an election. Several days were required to trace down this new idea and identify it; and even the special board of the Allegheny County Election association was amazed at its cleverness, after it was explained recently.

The method is described as follows: Persons outside the polling places gain possession of a ballot marked for a favorite candidate. This is turned over to a voter about to enter the polling place, for him to deposit instead of the blank ballot which is handed him by the officials after he gets inside. The latter, still unmarked, is carried out by him, and turned over to the "workers," who then mark it and tender it to the next voter.

Intriguing as is this addition to the somewhat malodorous story of municipal politics, it does not much exceed the process of erasure. In some wards in Pittsburgh, it is claimed, 90 per cent of the votes cast in a recent election betrayed subsequent erasures, and apparently the same pencil had made the alterations!

The great State of Pennsylvania seems to have been particularly afflicted with the genus "Politician"—or it has made a greater effort to obstruct his manipulations and to uncover them. One is reminded, reading of Pittsburgh's latest developments wherein 160 men and women were indicted for ballot frauds, of the so-called elections marking less democratic countries.

HABIT OF CLEAR THINKING

If we could set down briefly a set of rules that would lead to a commonly used system of straight thinking we would feel that we had done a good deal for humanity as the instigator of a religious cult. Thought originally simple and direct has over long ages of intensive mental strain become very complex. In our time, men who by habit think clearly and are able to express their ideas in simple understandable language are indeed rated as men of genius. Most of the ancient prophets and philosophers had this important faculty. The Eskimos, the Indians and most of the primitive peoples have it today, but our complicated system of education has filled the brain cells with so much deadwood that mental directness becomes difficult. It is perhaps not unreasonable to assert that much of what we call evil habit and wrong doing is in reality due to foggy, fagged brains out of which come unhealthy, confused thought under pressure and stress of time, which ultimately leads to anarchy in conduct and blurred mental reaction. Under these conditions it is difficult to grip the just proportion and the inter-relation of the problems of life. In methods of clear thinking we can gain much assistance by watching the mental habits of a child. It is honest, simple, and direct in its aims. When the child wants something it appeals to the mother emotion. A little later, when the sense of reason is put into action, we note that the toys, the food, the pleasures, the fears are all clearly aligned in an orderly way. Simple, direct, clear thinking and forceful, fitting words mark the psychology of the child. If we, in our conceit of higher intelligence, would sit down before the facts as the child does, and then in childish simplicity and orderliness bring the mind to work slowly, we would get important first aid in clear thinking. We can in a similar way study the psychology of the wild man. He seeks to express himself with a singleness of purpose, yet he is a real artist in every act. He understands the appeal of every emotion and every sense. When he seeks to express himself he uses fitting words, gives them a double meaning with impressive and melodious modulations of music, the driving power of comedy and tragedy, and he uses his voice to convey his emotions and passions. When he addresses an audience every nerve and every muscle of his body is called into action, but all with a simple orderly manner to a telling climax. Our more highly developed language has realized a good deal of this means of expression unnecessary; but by our highly developed complexity we have the power of simple and clear habits of thought and we have also forgotten the use of words to fit such habits. The modern mind welcomes all the truth from the far horizons. It has an immense receiving capacity, but it has not the direct delivering facilities of the child or the Indian. If we will keep this weakness of modern education in mind, perhaps we can use to good effect the relative emptiness of under-schooled brains. In the life of great cities the over-schooled boys drift into underpaid places of white collared jobs. Mostly they are lost in the machine life of office technique. The leader who becomes the real motive power, the heads of the business institutions, are mostly men from smaller towns with vigorous physique, clear thinkers and original workers. There is room at the top for men of this type. Men who get and earn $100,000 yearly are in demand. These men live a simple life; they are capable of a prodigious amount of work, and the one outstanding quality of their kind or supermen is not superior education but the rare habit of clear, straight thinking.

THE AVERAGE MAN?

There has been a good deal of stir about the campaign of the American Magazine to find the average man. It is rather difficult to understand the purpose of the widely advertised victims who are sponsored as fitting averages, for the type of man offered usually sinks into the zero of modern life. The men who most often rise to be rated as outstanding examples of success are those who come up from the lower ranks or those descend from the higher ranks into other planes to rise again. However, the big question is: "Who is the average man?"

The unfortunate candidate for colorless honors is of middle size and age. He owns and runs a retail clothing store, lives with his wife and two children in a brick house of an average Mid-West town. In politics he is a straight party man, not greatly interested in who runs the government, nor is he concerned over war, national stability, or foreign relations. He does not question the religion he was taught as a boy, and the great legal explosion in Tennessee on evolution is to him "a lot of noise over nothing." The basic intent of school or scientific education therefore does not interest him.

Books do not enter his life, but he subscribes for magazines and promptly says he is interested first in the advertisements. He enjoys picture shows, but will not venture to take in the screen joys until some one tells him the picture is clean. Always the judgment of others is his guide.

This "average man" by his own didactic expressions is outlined in much greater detail, but all with the same evasive methods fitting him as a cog in the wheel of an uninteresting community.

If this is the true type of the average man, then the population within these walls is composed mostly of the "average" many. Our outstanding defect is not a lack of intelligence but an indifference to undertake the hard work to better fit us to a world with a better economic advantage in the future.

We are too prone to accept the opinions of others in affairs of state, religion, and personal culture, as is Mr. Average Man. Reserve, vigor, originality, capacity for independent thinking, consistent and persistent hard physical work, indeed constructive endeavor is too seldom a part of our ever-changing make-up. Considered from almost every angle, we are bound to admit that your average man is as above pictured is behind the bars.

New York police arrested 2000 motorists in one week for violating over-time parking law and the jam in traffic court on trial day was so great a new courthouse is to be built immediately—which is another lesson in financing a proposition.

The best way to lose a good friend is to loan him money. The feeling is never the same thereafter.

Governors, just like anybody else, are known by the company they keep.

Truly presidential candidates should be men who will stand as a rock against disintegrating influences which threaten to undermine constitutional rights and privileges.

When you are presented at court the correct thing to say is, "Good morning, Judge!"

Speaking of fresh country sausage, if any of our readers need an expert sampler of such wares, just bring them in. It won't take us long to render a decision favorable to each contestant.

For pure, unadulterated bravery, the United States senate's action in inviting the wrath of all the Smiths by refusing one of their tribe a seat in that august body, takes the cake.

We think that it doesn't take the Mexico executive long to deliberate over executing people in his country.

We think that the most difficult task that a child has is to learn good manners without seeing any.

We think that nearing about the time of the year when the poll taxes will have to be paid. Don't forget to pay up for 1928 in the voting year.

We think that the difference between a big man and an ordinary man is the big man listens to advice and follows it while the little man neither listens nor follows for usually he is of the opinion that he knows all.

We think that some people remind us of the news reels shown in the theatres of the day—they know all and see all.

We think that probably no other crime in the history of the country has caused as an extensive a man hunt as the murder of Marian Parker.

We think that of all the ailments some people put up it is quite likely that business is the most pleasant of them all.

We think that today, tomorrow, and then the last day will be here in the Christmas shopping. It will be a hard day on the clerks of the local business concerns when the last minute rush begins.

OPINIONS

AN AFTERNOON MAIL.

Those who imagine a newspaper editor has trouble finding enough reading matter to fill the paper would be interested in the task of opening the mail that comes each day to the newspaper office. That is to say, one suspects it might be interesting to open the mail, but not many editors are sure about it because few of them actually open all their mail. A glance at the envelope usually is sufficient, and a yawning waste basket is always ready.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that more than 5000 officers are in search for the killer of Marian Parker of Los Angeles. A reward of $100,000 is out for anyone who can identify the murderer of the girl with such a record of parties that capture the attention of the city with each party.

It is reported that a professor says that free love is now more prevalent than at any other time in history. Maybe the professor is right but what we are wondering about is whether he gathered his information.

It is reported that there are many uneducated and needy people in Lubbock that should be remembered on Christmas. Local people who are able to lighten the hearts of the poor in this city should cooperate with charitable institutions of Lubbock and help the unfortunates have a merry Christmas.

It is reported that there is something the matter with our educational systems these days. Some boys who are started as freshmen have not gotten over it yet.

It is reported that the nation of the world are all ready to outdo each other in the business and questions about which they would rather fight.

It is reported that the mail rush has started in the local post department in earnest. Uncle Sam's boys will all have plenty to do for the next few days delivering the Christmas packages over the city.

It is reported that Lubbock will observe Christmas holiday on Monday. Most of the business concerns will be closed throughout the day.

It is reported that the Texas high school football champions, Waco, will meet with the Latin high school of Cleveland, Ohio, in an inter-state game. Texas high school athletics is thought to be one of the strongest organizations of its kind through the Texas Interscholastic League system.

POULTRY INDUSTRY TO BE ENCOURAGED. The Rule Lumbermen club, along with some of the other towns of Haskell and Jones counties, have agreed to assist in financing the West Texas Poultry association, a cooperative marketing association, with headquarters at Stamford, which was organized some months ago.

The business men of each of the six towns of Rule, Haskell, Stamford, Lueders, Anson and Hamlin, have agreed to underwrite their share until this organization has started to function. It is the purpose of this cooperative association to market the poultry products through a cooperative system, thereby receiving the highest price for their produce. They also intend to store eggs in the summer when the price is low, and sell when the price is good. Some but infertile eggs will be stored. This will cause the farmers to take more time for poultry.

The poultry business has increased three fold in this section in the last two years. The action of these towns is considered the greatest step to help out the production of poultry and poultry products on a paying basis.—Rule Review.

ROSCOE WOMAN FINDS POULTRY IS PROFITABLE. Profit can be made from an average poultry flock in Nolan county, it is evidenced by what Mrs. L. O. Caldwell having two miles south of Roscoe did during the past year. She took 95 pullets on November 15, 1926 and kept an accurate account of all products sold from that date to November 15, 1927, which consisted of 4560.96 worth of eggs, 1127.78 worth of chickens, and 140 pullets, that are worth $1.25 each, in addition to the original 95 pullets. During that time she had all the eggs and chickens that she could get and also a large amount of cash to her friends.

During that time she bought only $127.78 worth of feed, which left her a net profit of $261.23 in cash, 140 additional pullets for this next year's flock that are worth $175, chickens and eggs for home consumption during the entire year making a total profit of $456.24. This is a fine record for a woman. Nolan county farmers flock can do better if the reasons why they

the bankers are saying that this county is in the best financial condition that it has been in for a long time. DAIRY HERDS SHOW PROFIT INCREASE IN NOVEMBER. An increase in net profit during November over October demonstrated the success of the dairy herd testing work being done by J. A. Stark with co-operation of R. M. Millhollin, county agent. For example, net profit per cow, the average, net profit per cow was increased from $12.87 per cow in October to $13.63 per cow in November. These figures give profit after all feed costs and other costs were paid. The figures for two months are given as the work was begun only two months ago. In the individual case, contest J. B. Potts' "Muley" a Jersey, was high for the month in butterfat with 62.3 pounds. The fat percent was 5.6. The cow produced 1113 pounds of milk. "Al Carter," Holstein belonging to Texas Tech at Lubbock, was highest in pounds of milk produced in November with 2283. She produced 320 pounds of butterfat.

J. B. Potts had four cows in the test last month. L. E. Hendricks 16, Fritz Puchs 6, Tech College 16, J. E. Egler 20, E. E. Pinner 5, Joe Vaughn 11, J. E. May 7, Standell 11, John Adams 9. The average for November was 1142 pounds of milk, 1.33 pounds of butterfat, and the October average for all cows was 1144 pounds of milk and 51.7 pounds of butterfat.

$13,000 Paid to Turkey Growers. Thirteen thousand dollars were paid members of the Staked Plains Turkey Growers' Association for their Christmas turkeys. The Christmas bird was made last Thursday and Friday and the birds were sold to the Connelly Produce company. Between two thousand and twenty-five hundred turkeys were marketed by the association and they averaged about twelve pounds each. They were sold for $1.00 per pound, about one-half cent above the local market. —Plainview News.

Should Unify Organizations

With approximately 600 cars of citrus fruit already shipped from the Valley this season, indications are that production will run around 1,200 cars, a new high record for the Valley. This production, however, is approximately one-third of what can be expected next season when between 3,500 and 5,000 cars will be shipped if the growing season is favorable.

There are now in the Valley several cooperatives organized for the purpose of handling citrus fruit. Excellent packing plants have been erected, supplied with the most modern packing machinery, and the Valley is now well equipped so far as packing facilities are concerned to handle the increased production next year. But there is certain to be more or less competition between the cooperatives, with the result that distribution will not be as wide as it could be. It is of course essential that a plan be adopted which will assure sufficient flexibility to handle the heavy production of the future. There are plenty of precedents upon which such plans can be based—the American Fruit Growers of California, and the Florida Citrus Association, the latter of which has been very successful, and their plan and experience is a herald.

Unification of the various cooperatives will require consolidation from the point of view of the growers to build up the cooperatives and bring the industry to its present state. The Valley should profit from the experience of those sections, and should endeavor to be prepared to enter into the era of heavy production with a marketing organization that will effectively dominate the situation in the Valley.—Herald.

Unification of the entire Valley in a cooperative program will, of course, be impossible. Neither California nor Florida cooperatives have been able to secure the cooperation of all growers. But they have secured the cooperation of a sufficient number to virtually control the situation. The citrus industry in both California and Florida passed through the same stages the Valley is now experiencing, and it required years of effort and the loss of millions of dollars to build up the cooperatives and bring the industry to its present state. Deny Avila Sold Documents Basis Of Hearst Charge

Were Neither Purchased by State Department or U. S. Embassy at Mexico City, Report Declares.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Denial today by the state department of the charges that Miguel Avila, procurer of the Mexican documents published in Hearst papers had ever sold documents to it or to the American embassy in Mexico so far as is known here, added to the maze of conflicting stories confronting the senate's investigation of the papers as to the inquiry itself faced further delay.

The state department denial followed statements to the investigating committee yesterday by Robert H. Murray, former New York World correspondent in Mexico City that he understood Avila had peddled so-called Mexican documents to the American embassy in Mexico. He also testified that Avila had sold him he attempted to sell a document made up by Joseph W. DeLoach, former correspondent for the New York Times in Mexico City.

Delay in the senate inquiry seemed likely tonight as the result of the appointment of a committee of five investigators to the committee to attend the funeral of Senator Augustus Jones of New Mexico, Senators Robinson (Tex.) of Arkansas and Jones (Iowa) of Washington expect to attend the funeral services in New Mexico which would make it impossible to be present at the resumption of hearings scheduled for next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, despite the absence of the city of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, chairman of the investigating committee, news was set today that DeLoach, named by Murray's associates, would be heard. Also it was indicated James H. Sheffield, former ambassador to Mexico, might be asked to reply to the charges that Avila sold documents to the embassy before he purchased from Mexican government clerks the papers used by Hearst.

Thought Freedom Is Due to Press

Newspapers Are Built Into Lives of All the People, Editor Declares in Talk to Teachers.

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 21.—American journalism is largely responsible for the freedom of thought enjoyed in this country, Jay Elmer Morgan, editor of the National Education association journal, declared in an address to teachers here tonight.

"The newspaper," he said, "is built into the lives of millions of people. It supplies the raw material for thought and action with clocklike regularity and with a speed of manufacture that is one of the marvels of modern times, and helps to raise the standards of living by encouraging people to dress well, to live in better homes, to drive finer automobiles, to eat a more wholesome variety of food and to let their interests go out to a wider range of affairs."

While he asserted that the educational value of the daily newspaper is beyond calculation, Morgan pointed out that newspapers have been made possible only by universal education and that as schools improve the press likewise will grow better.

"For example," he said, "newspapers made a most significant gain during 1927 by refusing to play up scandals as extensively as in former years. They are giving more attention to education, health, science, politics and geography. A foremost step in this direction has been taken by the Associated Press through its newly inaugurated Feature Service, carrying to its vast newspaper membership the things that are new and important in all the arts."

Declaring that "what eyes are to the individual, the newspaper is to society," Morgan paid tribute to the men and women whose labor fills its columns.

"Those who follow the reporter's beat, or write against him in editorial offices," he said, "know not sleep nor distance, nor fear, nor fatigue, in their heroic search for news."

"To this faithful army of news writers, the great English author, Lucy, well might have dedicated his 'History of the Freedom of Thought,' for the American newspaper, with its annual distribution of 20 billion copies, makes thought more nearly free than it has been at any other time in all history."

Representative Andrew, (Rep) of Massachusetts agreed with McClintic, declaring he did not think Britten's statement should go in the record.

Representative Vinson, of Georgia, senior Democratic member, who many times has been the committee pacifier, smoothed over the situation by demanding that the discussion of Magruder's charges be postponed to an executive session, behind closed doors.

Magruder today argued that the navy should stop using old ships that would be of no value in war. He and Vinson also engaged in a long discussion over abolishing naval hospitals.

Col. W. T. Johnson, commander of the Twelfth Cavalry, was the first to greet her. S. C. Tucker and G. C. Richardson, president and manager, respectively, of the chamber of commerce, welcomed her and presented her with a huge bouquet.

It was announced that if Mrs. Lindbergh was not too tired by the day's journey from Tulsa, with stops at Dallas and San Antonio, she would be honor guest at a banquet given by citizens and the military population.

The big plane is scheduled to take the air again at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, but whether the destination will be Tampico or Mexico City, will depend largely on flying conditions. Pilot Harry Brooks said, if it is decided to go by way of Tampico, there may still be time to make Mexico City before night and it is quite likely the party will spend tomorrow night in Mexico City, he declared.

Fire Chief Twitty last night issued a warning regarding the lighting of Christmas trees in Lubbock homes. The fire danger is too great to be overlooked, the chief stated. He also pointed out that every fire that occurs in this city will count against Lubbock in the fire insurance rating.

Great care should be taken, and if possible other means of illuminating Christmas trees than candles should be used, Chief Twitty said.

WHEAT BRAN FEED

From a physiological standpoint wheat bran is one of the best feeds for dairy cows and should be included in the grain ration when available. It is palatable, bulky, slightly laxative, and tends to keep the cow's digestive system in good condition. It is one of the best sources of phosphorus, which is needed in liberal amounts by heavy milking cows. Wheat middlings is less bulky than bran, a little less laxative, and contains a somewhat smaller amount of phosphorus.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 21 (AP).—Cotton was comparatively quiet today with trading restricted largely to evening up in advance of the holidays. Following an early decline on poor Liverpool advices, the market rallied 20 points on covering and trade buying, but lost most of the gain in the late trading when March sold off from 19.42 to 19.22, and closed at the latter figure. The money market closed steady at net declines of 13 to 20 points.

The lower prices attracted some covering and considerable trading. As a result, prices turned on the upside, helped by details of general mill curtailment, January advanced to 19.20, and May 19.15, 15 points over the lows.

Following a period of quietness in the early afternoon the market weakened in final trading and active months dropped back to the early lows. The close was steady at or near the bottom, with January at 19.01 and May 19.25, 17 to 20 points net down. Exports tallied 24,588 bales.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 21 (AP).—A climb in hog prices was noted on a strong market here today. Ditcher hogs were 5c to 10c up, while pigs climbed 10c to 25c higher and pigs were strong in demand. Normal conditions prevailed in the steer division of the market, with the stock, however, was fairly steady and calves active and 25c higher. Lambs were 25c to 50c lower.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, Dec. 21 (AP).—Tern wool continues fairly active. All grades are selling, but the demand is chiefly for finer grades of which the supply is greater. Prices are holding up very firmly although dealers estimate that prices on wool are not up to the parity of prices paid on contracts in the West. Floor wools are moderately active but quieter than last week.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP).—The cotton market was quiet today. Both regular transactions were attributed largely to evening up of accounts in preparation for the approaching holidays. After selling off early to 19.00, January rallied to 19.22, but later eased off to 19.06, closing at that figure. The general market closed fairly steady at net declines of 15 to 20 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (AP).—Active buying of corn developed today and the market rallied from an early setback. Export bids for corn were at the highest premium so far this season, and estimates were current that Europe will require 65,000,000 bushels of corn from the United States between now and next summer.

Corn closed irregularly, 1/2c lower to 1/2c advance, with wheat unchanged to 1/2c lower, oats 1/2c to 1/4c off, and provisions varying from 1/2c setback to a rise of 1/2c.

Wheat and oats were influenced toward the last by the corn rally, despite weakness shown earlier in the wheat market owing to anticipation for lower quotations at Liverpool and reports that Argentine shippers were offering wheat freely abroad.

For the most part, provisions were lower, sympathizing with weakness of the hog market.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP).—The cottonseed oil market was active and lower today on a mixed holiday trade. Final prices on active months were 5 to 10 points lower, the setback being attributed to the reaction in lard and grains, and irregularity of cotton. Sales: 11,400 barrels. Prime crude 8 1/2c, prime summer yellow spot 9 1/2c, 10 to 15 March 1928, May 1928, July 1928.

Chicago Livestock. Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP).—Hogs: 21,000, steady to strong, pigs 15 to 25c lower, top 8.85, butchers 8.45-8.60; medium and light 8.10-8.25; plus 1.35-1.50; cows 7.40-8.75, hold over 4.00.

Cattle: 8,000; steers 10c higher; cow stock steady to 25c higher; bulls weak; vealers 20 to 25c lower; best heavy steers 18.00; bulk 11.00-14.75; bulls around 7.00; vealers 10.00-11.00.

Sheep: 11,000; slow, mostly unchanged; top lambs 13.25; bulk 12.75-13.00; sheep steady; fat cows 6.00-6.75; top 7.00; feedings lambs slow, around 2 1/2c lower; bulk 12.00-12.25.

Nation Warned To Watch for Slayer

Lubbock Business Men Are Given Description of Money Furnished Murderer of Parker Girl.

As a part of the nation-wide hunt which is being spread for the man who so brutally murdered and mutilated little 12-year-old Marian Parker in Los Angeles last week, banks and business houses in Lubbock have been warned to watch for the gold certificates given to the slayer.

The First National Trust and Savings bank in Los Angeles has taken about thirty and over the country to keep a sharp lookout for the notes handed the slayer. They are described as being in $20 denominations and running from serial K 6801691 to 6801695.

These are most apt to be passed at filling stations and garages where the kidnaper, in his desperate flight, will perhaps be attempting to secure supplies for his automobile.

The bulletin urging a lookout for the notes was broadcast to Lubbock by W. A. Philbert, secretary of the T. S. Bankers' association.

NEW RULES FAMILIAR People Fall In Step With Traffic Signals

Lubbock drivers are gradually becoming accustomed to the new traffic signals and only slight trouble is encountered in enforcing the new rules, according to Police Chief John Leonard. The light most needing to be watched is the amber one, signaling "caution," and calling for traffic in all directions to be brought to a standstill.

Another Threat

told Dr. Mantz. "I'm going to get one of your girls. You know what will happen to her."

Dr. Mantz engaged the man in conversation for a few minutes, trying to hold him on the line while the call was traced. The telephone company was unable to trace the call, however.

Dr. Mantz declared he believed the call was a hoax perpetrated by a "crank," which police believed was the case, although they warned him to be careful.

The threat was revealed tonight through an anonymous telephone message to the Kansas City Star from St. Louis. The St. Louis informant, whose call was traced to a public telephone in the lobby of the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis, refused to reveal his identity, saying "You wouldn't know me."

Opening the conversation with the Star, the man in St. Louis asked what was being used on the "Hickman case." He was informed there was no new developments.

"Well," said the man, "I'll give you a tip. Dr. Mantz knows a lot about it. He has had contact with that fellow. He was in Kansas City yesterday and threatened Dr. Mantz. He is scared to death."

"Dr. Mantz has two detectives guarding him. He's scared. They are private men, I think," said the man in response to a question as to the identity of the detectives. Repeated efforts to get the man to reveal his identity failed.

"You wouldn't know me, but I just wanted you to get this angle," he said in closing conversation.

Star officials believed the call a hoax until Dr. Mantz, who was away from his office then, could be reached.

Dr. Mantz at first refused to confirm the threat, and then admitted it was true. It later was revealed that police believe that both calls were made by the same man.

Dr. Mantz yesterday was unable to identify a photograph of Hickman as the man who stole his motor car here the night of November 7.

Kidnaping

Sunday school youth, friends told the officers, had donated women's clothing on several occasions and had frequently boasted of his ability to impersonate the other sex.

The new evidence tending to pin the actual murder scene on the apartment which Hickman occupied under the name of Donald Evans was given by Rex Welsh, police chemist. The chemist announced that spots in the apartment positively were blood and that the spots were fresh—probably made last Saturday.

It was Saturday night that the kidnaper delivered the dismembered body to Marlin's father, Perry M. Parker, and received $1,500 in return.

The chemist based his opinion that the blood spots were fresh on a careful microscopic analysis. Moreover, Welsh and Police Commissioner Thrope discovered that pieces of newspapers found in the apartment were the missing parts of those found wrapped about the girl's torso at the time it was left in a gutter by the slayer.

CIRCLE FOR SLAYER EVER WIDENING.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21 (AP).—The ever widening circle of search for Marian Parker's murderer, found scores of detectives engaged tonight in a hunt for a new "death case" in the foothills area near Alhambra.

Though not abandoning entirely their first belief that William E. Hickman, accused kidnaper, killer and mutilator of the school girl, cut her body to pieces in his Bellevue apartment quarters here, the new hunt for a possible second killer took form late today with headquarters at Alhambra from which one of the telegrams from the kidnaper to Marlin's father was filed.

As the night of the sixth day since Marian was stolen from school by her abductor came, there appeared to be a slackening somewhat in the great man hunt.

Public indignation at the crime, however, gave no signs of abating. When a man who was somewhat similar in appearance to Hickman, was arrested at Sixth and Hill streets at noon, a crowd closed in so menacingly that a riot call was sent to central station.

After a few questions, the suspected man, Dick Doell, was released and escorted out or danger by officers who answered the emergency call.

A bit of encouragement to the thousands at work in the search here when police picked up a trail, now cold, of a man, who was chased through downtown streets before daylight yesterday and was later identified by his pursuer. The big blue automobile in which the man outdistanced his pursuer, was found abandoned and word came to police that a similar car had figured in a crash in the south end last night.

Believed Still Near. This indicated, they said, that the accused man probably was still within the metropolitan area. Later, however, experts examined finger prints on the stolen car and they said it did not tally with those of Hickman.

Suspects Released. Numerous suspected persons were arrested but all were released. Among them was Richard O'Neill, of Palms, a town in the Santa Monica district. It was the fifth time he had been arrested, and Herman Cline, chief of detectives gave him a letter of identification in case he should again be mistaken for Hickman. He looked so like the accused man that he could pass for a twin.

There was a general feeling among detectives after new information from a man and his wife who live at the Bellevue apartment house that Hickman was assisted in the kidnaping and murder by at least one other person. The informants said they had observed a youth resembling carrying large bundles to his Chrysler automobile about 8 p. m. on the night the broken body of the little girl was returned to her father.

Tell of Bundles. Another youth, the couple said, held the door open while the bundles were deposited in the car. Police recall that last night a janitor at the Bellevue house informed them that he had seen a youth transporting bundles of the same general appearance into the apartment on the night previous. Attempts to dovetail into these statements any information received several days ago that a heavily veiled woman was seen at the apartment with a youth resembling Hickman, led detectives into a confused jumble from which no comprehensive clues appeared to emanate. Despite all information concerning other persons reported seen with Hickman and the belief of other investigators, Herman Cline, detective chief, reiterated his first opinion that the slayer carried out his crime alone, and unaided.

Believe "One Man" Job. Cline, backing up his belief that it was a "one man job," declared all other suspected persons in the case, two of whom still were held, had been exonerated.

The two men held are Earl Smith, said to have been a friend of the Parker family, and George Barnaman, believed to be mentally deranged.

The search was spread to Arizona this afternoon, when George ions of state officers, from preparing any more impeachment charges" and from filing new charges with the "pretended court of impeachment."

Forbids Drawing Pay. The second injunction, a temporary order issued by District Judge Sam Hooker, forbids members to draw pay for their activities in the session, insurgent House leaders today showed no disposition to violate the injunctions although they had ignored the temporary order issued by Judge Chambers in voting and filing impeachment charges against Governor Johnston, Chief Justice Fred P. Bronson, of the state supreme court, and Harry B. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture.

The House leaders were silent as to their future plans. E. P. Hill, a speaker of the House, said no announcement would be made for the present. H. Tom Kight, chairman of the House investigating committee, had said previously there was a possibility that the self-constituted senate court would be asked to take over the district court jurisdiction cases on writs of certiorari, where responsibility for the enforcement of the court orders would be placed had not been definitely announced early tonight. In issuing the permanent injunction, which was applied for by Governor Johnston, Judge Chambers took the governor's attorney to task for not attempting to enforce the temporary order intimating that the final writ would be withdrawn if it was not enforced.

Sheriff Ben Dancy, upon whom the duty of enforcement falls under the law, said he felt there was nothing before him, and that he considered taking no action unless the initiative was taken by the governor or his attorneys. He denied a report that he had engaged extra deputies to enforce the court orders, asserting he believed his present force adequate.

Governor Johnston would not say what action he would take to enforce the injunction, merely commenting that he intended to "do his duty."

In the meantime participants in the "Eve Lamb Rebellion," as the incident has been named by newspapermen, because of Governor Johnston's allegorical reference to his confidential secretary, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, as an "eve lamb," were departing for their homes to remain at least until after Christmas. The senate court is scheduled to reconvene December 25.

A brother, James Broyles, who stood about the casket with other mourning relatives, noticed a twitching of his sister's eyelid, and the funeral services were halted and resuscitation efforts begun. ## REMEMBER THE VITAL SPOTS ON YOUR CHASSIS—

In faulty lubrication lies the cause of 80 per cent of all the repairs on your car. It's the 15 to 60 hard-wearing dust exposed chassis bearings below the body line that cause most grief.

Old-fashioned oil and grease cups were largely to blame, but today most manufacturers have given you a new method of lubrication—the Alemite System—now in use on 7,000,000 cars. Instead of grease and oil cups, the Alemite gun shoots fresh lubricant through each bearing and cleans out old, gritty grease at the same time, keeping the bearings clean as well as lubricated.

Our special equipment and the fact that we are the Official Alemite Service Station in Lubbock enables us to give you quick and thorough lubrication.

Annex to Lamesa Sanitarium Built

Addition to Hospital Will Cost $10,000 Is Word of Contractor for Dunn Sanitarium.

LAMESA, Dec. 21.—The Dunn Sanitarium of this city is now completing an additional annex to the main sanitarium building here. The cost of this annex will be about $10,000, according to contractors. The completion of this new wing to the sanitarium will add materially to the looks and service of the main building.

Dr. W. H. Dunn states that the new building will be equipped with modern surgical equipment and that every convenience possible to be given the sick will be afforded when the building is fully complete and equipped.

Lamesa boasts of three modern sanitariums all of which are very modern and manned by expert surgeons and physicians. The Lovelace and Bennett Hospital is modern in every respect with Drs. W. H. Bennett and J. C. Lovelace in charge. The Standifer sanitarium with Dr. T. L. Standifer, chief surgeon is also well equipped throughout and modern in every way.

With the completion of the Dunn Sanitarium annex no town in this section will be better equipped to take care of emergencies, accidents and illness of all sorts as Lamesa. Each of the three sanitariums are constructed so as to add to the buildings of the city.

BUY FIRE TRUCK

New La France Machine Is Bought At Lamesa

LAMESA, Dec. 21.—The city Commission of Lamesa has purchased a new American La France fire truck. The old fire truck will be maintained and modern fire fighting equipment will be added to both the old and new trucks.

According to the commission it is hoped to pay for the new truck in only a short while by the reduced insurance rates that Lamesa will enjoy by the purchase and use of this new truck. It is said that all property within the fire limits of Lamesa can be insured at full value with the new equipment. The new rate will also be reduced some ten to fifteen cents on the hundred dollars valuation. By the purchase of this new truck Lamesa business men will also enjoy a better credit than heretofore.

The fire department of Lamesa is volunteer with a paid truck driver which will maintain the new truck.

Dawson Crop Now Is 36,100 Bales

Practically All of Crop In Lamesa Section Is Picked and Ready for Market, Say Ginners' Reports.

LAMESA, Dec. 21.—Dawson county has gained to date, according to ginners' information, 26,100 bales of cotton. It is estimated that the county will produce this year around 40,000 500-pound bales. This is almost 40,000 bales more than it looked like the entire South Plains would produce the 12th day of last June when the life-saving rains came that insured the present crop.

Most of the cotton in Dawson county is now out and on the market. The weather has been ideal this fall for harvesting and the farmers have certainly made use of this fact to a great advantage. Most feed stuffs are harvested in the county to date with most farmers making enough to last them for the next two years if none is sold. However, many hundreds of tons of maize will be sold on the market as farmers do not care to store this feed and they have plenty to feed the live stock they expect to maintain.

PAVING PLANNED

Lamesa Folk to Vote On Street Improvements

LAMESA, Dec. 21.—The matter of paving 13 blocks of resident paying on North First and South First west to Bryant street, is now before the property owners of these two streets. Brick paving is to be used on a natural base, according to the contracts now being signed by the property owners. The paving will connect to the business section which is already paved and form a loop for traffic around the school plant.

Galvanized iron gutters or other material of the same material never should be used for preserving, cooking, or otherwise preparing food.

date was selected as the time for all members of the organization and citizens of the town and county to get together in a love feast and goodwill meeting. More than 300 plates are expected to be spread for this occasion.

Prominent chamber of commerce workers will attend this meeting as already indicated by letters of acceptance to invitations sent out by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has accepted and will speak at the meeting. Invitations have been sent to Hunter Metcalf of Marfa, Texas, A. B. Davis, of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and C. T. Watson of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

The idea of community co-operation will prevail throughout the banquet.

PERMIT ISSUED FOR HOUSE IN ELLWOOD ADDITION

Permit was issued from the city office yesterday for the construction of a $1,900 brick veneer residence on block 16-C lot 2 of Ellwood addition for Dr. G. C. Turner. Dr. Williams is contractor. The residence will have five rooms.

Securities Most Active In Finance

More In Transaction Of These Than In Commercial Business, Declares Federal Reserve Survey.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The American world of finance was more active during the last year in transaction of securities than in commercial business, the federal reserve board reported today in a review of 1927 covering operation of the federal reserve system.

While commercial credit decreased by $230,000,000, loans in securities increased by $796,000,000, reflecting the increased use of credit by the security markets.

"This decline in commercial loans," the board said, "reflects the somewhat smaller volume of production and trade in 1927, compared with 1926 and the lower level of prices at which business has been transacted."

"During recent weeks, banking developments have been characterized by a continued growth in the outstanding volume of bank credit. Commercial loans have been declining slightly since the middle of October, when they reached their seasonal peak, but loans on securities and investments have continued to increase."

"The total volume of loans and investments of member banks in leading cities reached $21,500,000,000, in November and was larger than in any previous month. Since November of last year this amount has increased by 7.4 per cent compared with an increase of about 2.2 per cent in the year ending in November 1926, and 5.5 per cent a year earlier."

Winter Wheat In Acreage Increase

Is Greatest Since 1922 But Not As Large As That Of 1918, Agriculture Survey Declares.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Winter wheat was sown this fall on the largest acreage since 1922, but the area was well below the large acreage planted in 1918, just before the close of the war. The department of agriculture in its first report on the 1928 winter wheat area today, placed sowings at 47,897,000 acres, an increase of 16.2 per cent over that sown a year ago.

No estimate was made of probable production, owing to the uncertainty as to what percentage of the acreage will be abandoned because of winter killing and for other reasons. Last year's planted area was 43,465,000 acres, of which it is estimated 12.9 per cent was abandoned, and 37,732,000 acres harvested. The crop last year was 522,384,000 bushels, the acre yield having been 14.6 bushels.

The long continued growing weather for winter wheat, the department said, carries with it the danger of Hessian fly damage, some of which already has been reported in Michigan, Kansas and Oklahoma, and in numerous other states fear has been expressed that this mild weather has favored fly propagation.
