New Superintendent For Humble Takes Over On Monday

C. C. McNeil

Production department of Humble Oil and Refining Co. of the Talco district will have a new superintendent next Monday morning, after having served under G. N. Anderson for about 20 years. Anderson is retiring.

The new superintendent is C. C. McNeil, 50 years old, native Texan, born at Stephenville in Erath County, who has been assistant superintendent at Talco for the past two years, having been transferred from Athens to Talco.

McNeil graduated from Stephenville High School and attended Texas Western, formerly the School of Mines at El Paso. He has been with Humble for 31 years, starting as an office clerk at McCamey.

On June 3, 1929 he married Miss Oma Lee Lovelace of Tolar in Hood County. They have two children, Cris, Jr., of Longview and Mrs. Jo Murphy of Fort Worth.

Scattered Rains In Area Lower Temperatures

Scattered rains in this area have lowered temperatures from a high of 96 on Sunday to a low of 70 degrees Monday morning. Along with the rain was an electrical storm Sunday. Some reported rainfall varied in different localities, and at various times.

Government rain gauge at Deport showed a total of 1.90 inches measured for the three day period, according to weatherman A. C. Nixon. Breakdown figures showed heaviest precipitation was Sunday night, when 1.49 inches was recorded. Tuesday morning reading showed .31 and Wednesday at 7 a. m. another .10 of an inch had fallen, to bring the total to 1.90 inches.

Farmers were in general agreement crops could get by without additional moisture. The main trouble in cotton field was too much stalk—caused by excessive rains earlier in the summer—and too few blooms. The latter problem was blamed partly on early summer conditions and on insect damage.

Hay baling was halted by the rain and unsettled weather, as was other farm operations. Rains several days ago caused much foulness in crops and gardens. Many acres were hoed and plowed before rains this week.

Bank Porter Foils Holdup Men In Roxton Bank

Melvin Anthony, Negro porter at the First National Bank at Roxton, apparently foiled a robbery at the bank early Monday.

When Anthony arrived at 6 a. m. to sweep out, he found two well dressed young men already in the bank.

When the visitors didn't speak and didn't look familiar, Anthony slipped next door to phone Bank Cashier A. L. Dunn. Dunn called officers, but the two men had left before authorities arrived.

Officers found they had left behind a sack containing an ample supply of clothesline wire and adhesive tape. Officers said it looked like equipment that might be used in tying up and gagging bank employees in a holdup attempt.

Anthony said the two men both were wearing gloves.

Officers said a screen had been torn from a transom over the bank's rear door. They said the men apparently had entered thru the transom during the night.

Paris Council Revokes Proposed Tax Evaluations

About a year ago the Paris city Council, Paris High School and Paris Junior College contracted with Southwest Appraisal Co. to evaluate the property in the city, school and college districts for tax purposes. Full value figures were reported by the appraisers and the Paris City Council set the figures at 60 percent full value figures.

When the new figures fixed by the Appraisal Company, less 40 percent were mailed to tax payers, a lot of them "hit the ceiling" so to speak. There were so many protests the City Council called off the new valuations and announced old renditions of 1957, would be used, with certain additions and deletions.

Some 600 citizens had met at the Court House on Monday and mapped plans to write petitions seeking a city-wide election returning to the mayor alderman form of government.

Paris school trustees and Paris Junior College Board of Regents have decided to use the new tax evaluation program as prepared by Southwest Appraisal Co.

The Junior College district also includes the Cunningham Independent School District, but tax rendition figures in the Cunningham school district were not increased over last year, according to a member of the Board of Regents.

Penalty On Postage Due Suspended

The Post Office Department has announced it plans to suspend temporarily, on Aug. 1, the new 5-cent penalty charge for handling mail on which postage is due.

This is to give the public time to get used to the new higher postage rates which become effective on the first of next month.

The penalty suspension will continue for three months thru Oct. 31. During that time only the postage due will be collected from the person addressed.

The 5-cent penalty charge was made effective July 1 under a new regulation adopted by Congress early this year.

The Aug. 1 postage rate advance will introduce the 4-cent letter, with most other rates going up 1 cent.

Lamar Prisoner Floods Offices in Court House

An irate inmate of the Lamar County jail womens ward, turned on all the water faucets in her cell and flooded the Lamar County courthouse.

Arrested for driving while intoxicated and placed in jail about 11:30 p. m., she apparently turned on the faucets and plugged the drains. The overflow wasn't discovered until 5:30 a. m. the next morning. By then parts of four floors and the basement of the courthouse were flooded and water soaked.

Sheriff Dan Bills estimated the over-all damage at $2,000. Worst damage was to offices of County Attorney Leighton Cornett and County Judge C. V. Flannery. Both are directly under the cell on the first and second floors.

Books, papers and desks were damaged and plaster on the ceiling of the county attorney's office broke loose and fell to the floor.

VOTERS GO TO POLLS SATURDAY FIRST DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Voters will go to the polls on Saturday to select nominees in the Democratic primary. Nomination is usually equivalent to election in Texas. General election is held in November.

Present sentiment appears to be that Gov. Price Daniel will win his second term of office without a run-off in the August primary. He has three opponents. We have known the kind of man Price Daniel is for a fifth of a century. He will get our vote.

Hottest and probably the closest race will be for United States Senator.

A liberal-loyalist is Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough. Yarborough got to the Senate as high man in the 22-man field in the April, 1957, special election. But he received only 39 per cent of the total vote then and his two leading conservative opponents together outpolled him by 146,000 votes.

This year the conservatives are united behind William A. Blakely, who served briefly in the Senate in 1957 by appointment. Three months ago we didn't think Blakely could win over Yarborough. Now we think he will. He will get our vote, as we have previously stated.

For Lieutenant Governor this editor picks George Nokes over Ben Ramsey. Ramsey has had the job four terms. Nokes is a good man and capable.

For Associate Justice Supreme Court, Place 1, Robert W. Hamilton will get our vote. J. Edwin

Smith and Wilmer D. Hunt are his opponents.

We will vote for Judge Joe Greenhill over Sarah T. Hughes for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Place 4. Greenhill is a conservative who has the respect of a large majority of the attorneys of this state for his fairness and knowledge of the law. Hughes is a left-wing liberal who couldn't receive the endorsement of a majority of the lawyers in her own home county of Dallas for the office.

Office of State Representative, District 3, composed of the counties of Red River, Titus and Camp, formerly represented by George D. Ford, two men are in the race. James V. Adams, retiring superintendent of Titus County schools, wants the job. He is a well-educated, high-type Christian gentleman, Mt. Pleasant business men tell this editor.

We don't know about his opponent from Cookville. He has run nothing in our Talco Times, Bogata News nor Deport Times, telling the voters anything about himself nor asking for their votes.

This editor isn't trying to tell anyone how to vote. With the exception of local offices, he has told you how he is going to vote. You vote for the men you think will represent your views and political thinking and do a good job.

Many have thanked us for such stories as this one is the reason we keep on writing them.

Suspect in Auto Theft Is Caught

Car theft charges were awaiting a 27-year-old Purley man in county jail less than three hours after he allegedly stole a car in Talco.

The man was identified by the Sheriff's Department as Joe Casey, unemployed. Officers said Casey was arrested by Paris police 45 minutes after the auto was stolen from C. C. Blalock, a Dallas salesman who was visiting John D. Wright in Talco.

Blalock said he picked up Casey as a hitchhiker near Dallas. He left the man in his 1955 Chevrolet four-door at the Wright home. The man and car disappeared about 9 a. m.

Mrs. Wright notified authorities who sent the alarm out to neighboring counties. Paris police arrested the suspect there after giving chase. Deputy Sheriff E. R. Grayson returned the man to Titus County.

THIS EDITOR received one of those clever invitations to Humble employees' barbecue party honoring retirement of G. N. (Andy) Anderson last Saturday evening. They were going to auction off an old grey mule—less the harness, and have a barbecue—"not the mule, but some old goat or cow." Sump'in we at the day before prevented our attendance. Now that Humble crowd probably would not have let us make a speech at Andy's retirement party, but they can't keep us from saying here that Talco is going to miss him and Mrs. Anderson. Twenty-two years of their lives spent here has meant much to the civic and educational forces in this community. They have built a nice home on Highway 271, where it will be convenient for their friends to "drop by" and we figure they will do just that. Good fishing and golfing, Andy.

Have You A Friend?

A friend is a person who is for you always, under all circumstances. He never investigates you. He likes you just as you are. He does not alter you. He likes your success, and your failure endears him more. He is better than a lover, because he is never jealous. He wants nothing from you except that you be yourself. He is the one being with whom you can feel safe. With him you can utter your heart, its badness and its goodness. Like the shade of a great tree in the noonday heat is a friend. Like the home port with your country's flag flying after a long journey is a friend. A friend is an impregnable citadel of refuge in the strife of existence. It is he that keeps alive your faith in human nature, that makes you believe that it is a good universe. He is the antidote to despair, the elixir of hope, the tonic for depression. You give to him without reluctance and borrow from him without embarrassment. When you are vigorous and spirited, you like to take your pleasure with him; when you are sick you want to see him; when you are dying you want him near you.—Author unknown.

Maybe it would help the situation in our country if we had more don'ting mothers.

One of the quickest and most popular ways to make money is to be a winner on a quiz show. The only hitch is, you must be smart to win.

Two women drove their sports car 100 miles an hour near San Antonio in an effort to outrun another car. Two funerals were held next day.

We speak often of Father Time. What has become of Mother Time? Is she in the nursery teaching the little Time kids how to be Elvis Presleys and football stars?

It may have been only a coincidence, but it is interesting to note that juvenile delinquency did not get into full bloom until the family garage became a member of society.

It is a sad commentary on our appraisal of individuals when the only fault to be found with a candidate is that he has been a success in life. Heaven knows we cannot expect good government if we fill our legislative halls with failures.

THE KIND OF PUPPIES

Drangerous Tampering

Few taxpayers know the extent of the authority that has been conferred on the Internal Revenue Service—taxing power that can virtually eliminate freedom of the press in America. In recent months, this bureau has come up with the idea that it can decide how much an American company can spend for institutional advertising designed to affect the outcome of legislation.

Without too much imagination, it's easy to see that freedom of the press in America is gone if this effort is successful.

It is hard to believe that the nation's law-makers meant to give tax collectors the right to decide that American business or industry should be penalized for stating its case and defending its right to exist, in the face of government-sponsored competition, by means of paid advertisements. But that is what the tax authorities are doing, acting under a new interpretation of one of their own regulations which declares that money spent on advertising "for lobbying purposes, for the promotion or defeat of legislation or for the development or exploitation of propaganda" cannot be considered "ordinary and reasonable expenses" deductible for tax purposes.

The victims of the most recent interpretation of this ruling are a group of public-utility companies which call themselves America's Independent Light and Power Companies. These companies have for many years sponsored "Institutional advertisements"—some of them in newspapers, including The News—which promote the wider use of electric power and occasionally indicate a preference for investor-owned utility companies as against government-owned plants supported by the taxpayers. Most of the advertisements indicate in some way the advantage of being served by an "independent" power company. If this is "propaganda," it certainly represents an attitude acceptable to some millions of Americans.

Nevertheless, the companies participating in this advertising much as they want in their advertisements. They can no longer charge the taxpayers and the rate payers for their own brainwashing.

Of course this does not mean that the taxpayers will be relieved of the cost of being brainwashed by TVA and public power generally. Inasmuch as public power pays little in taxes and indeed is supported out of taxes, deductibility is a small matter. The net of the IRS's ruling is that the private-utility industry, already campaign are being informed that they may not deduct its cost from their taxable incomes. The power behind the throne in giving the IRS the go ahead is Senator Estes Kefauver. He says, "They can continue to propagandize as forced to meet tax favoritism and vast public appropriations for public power, must jump over another hurdle.

Kefauver with his coonskin halo is a disgrace to America. He is either too dumb to know or too callous to care that he has successfully attacked a cornerstone of American freedom—literally chipped a sizeable hunk from the very foundation of the nation—the entering wedge that can easily lead to disaster. All because it was politically expedient to do so, as TVA is located in his home state.

Like many other aspects of the income-tax law, this effort to censor free expression calls for clarification by Congress. If the people think American corporations and individuals require governmental supervision of the way they state their case in open advertisements, the way to accomplish that dubious objective is to pass a law—not to pass the buck to the Internal Revenue Service.—Winnsboro News.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD, Texas Press Association

Austin.—Focus of interest in Texas this week is not on the State Capitol. It's all over Texas, in a school building or a fire station or a church house—wherever a man stands in a little pasteboard booth with a piece of paper and a blunt pencil.

In the booth is a man who looks like an average, unimportant sort of guy. Chances are he's not very rich, not very interested in politics, as a rule. But John Q. Poll-Tax-Payer is the most important man in Texas this week. With a few strokes of his pencil Saturday, he'll decide who'll be who in Texas for the next two years or more.

When John J. glances down the ballot, he may see a number of names he's never heard of. He'll pause, scratch his head, wonder which name "sounds best," finally shrug, make a mark and go on. Such a possibility gives office-seeker the cold shakes. For fear their names may yet be unknown to some, they'll try to be everywhere at once this week.

In addition, a lot of people will be pleading with John J. to come back to the polling place Saturday evening for his Democratic precinct convention. Gov. Price Daniel, supported by moderate-conservative party officials, is asking him to come and vote for "majority rule." Opposing the governor are the liberal Democrats of Texas who want John to join their drive to assure that "only real Democrats shall participate in the Democratic party affairs."

Nobody can positively predict what John will do. Past records show that some years he feels liberal; some years, conservative. And some years, both ways at the same time.

OIL QUOTA UP AGAIN—Texas oil allowable for August will be 328,185 barrels a day more than for July—a hopeful sign for an industry that's been "in the dumps" for more than a year.

Railroad Commission set next month's allowable at 2,978,058 barrels daily. Number of producing days will be increased from 9 to 11. Last month production rose from its all time low of 8 days.

Reason for the increase was not so much the disturbance in the oil-producing Middle East, said one commissioner, as the fact that Texas had finally reduced its excess oil stocks to correct levels.

INSURANCE BOARD UPHELD—State Insurance Board finally scored a technical knock-out in its prolonged bout with an Austin district judge.

Texas Supreme Court ruled that Judge Charles O. Betts did not have authority to name V. F. Taylor receiver for insurance cases in his court. High court says the receiver must be the state liquidator appointed by the Insurance Board.

Board had appointed C. H. Langdeau as state liquidator. Judge Betts said he did not regard Langdeau as acceptable. He named Taylor receiver for cases in his court.

Supreme Court also ruled void Betts' action in raising salaries of liquidation attorneys working on cases in his court.

Division of authority between the courts and Insurance Department over insurance company liquidation has been a source of dissension for years.

50-50-PLAN—State Highway Department will reimburse cities and counties half the court costs of securing land for state and U. S. highway building.

Up until last year costs of obtaining right of way were borne solely by local governments. Last Legislature passed a law authorizing the state to share the cost 50-50 with cities and counties.

At first this was construed to mean the state would pay half the cost of purchasing the land. Now it has been expanded to include half of court costs and appraisers' fees.

MORE PRISON COTTON—An increase of 10.88 per cent has been ordered in the Texas Prison System's cotton acreage allotment.

Officials of the Texas system had been actively dissatisfied, contending the prison farms had been dealt a bigger-than-average cut. Less production means less money for operating the prisons, they pointed out, and, hence, greater cost to Texas taxpayers.

On their behalf, the Texas Attorney General's Department appeared to the Agricultural Stabilization Committee, and, finally, to federal court.

Adjustment obtained will mean 384 more acres of prison cotton can be harvested. It'll save $100,000 in tax money, prison officials estimate.

CITY TAX PROPOSALS—City officials are laying plans to ask the next Legislature to extend and adjust city taxing powers.

Legislative committee of the League of Texas Municipalities has drawn up a two-pronged proposal to:

1. Allow cities to broaden their tax base and lighten the burden on property owners.
2. Substitute another tax to be collected at time of auto registration for the present "unworkable" property tax on cars.

SCHOOL FUND FIGHT—A rough-and-tumble time can be expected next year when lawmakers consider just how permanent the permanent school fund should be.

Rep. Louis Dugas of Orange, has announced he will introduce a bill which would allow the state to use part of the revenue from school lands for current expenses instead of putting it all into the permanent fund.

Dugas was author of a bill last session to divert 1 per cent of the permanent fund each year to the available fund.

State School Board and numerous other school officials have come out strongly against all moves to tap the schools' multimillion-dollar endowment. They compare it to "eating the seed corn."

REPORT ON 'RAINY DAY'—Texas Employment Commission's report for the first half of this year showed that 185,000 Texans received jobless benefits.

Payments totaled $38,164,378 for this period.

January's stock market rise best since August.

Alcorn Says His Plans and Ike's Have Habit of Failing to Pan Out

Editors note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, manifests some sympathy with Washington this week, his letter reveals.

Dear Editor: I have decided that running the government in Washington is not much different from running a farm or a family out here on this Johnson grass farm, financially speaking.

Last year, if you'll recall, President Eisenhower sat down to figure up what it was going to take to run the country for a year, and he said that while spending would be up some, this could be handled all right because incomes would be up, consequently taxes would bring in more, and the budget would balance with maybe a half-billion dollars left over.

Now though, with incomes not quite as high and hence tax revenue less, it looks like the government will go in the red around there billion dollars.

That's exactly the way it turns out for me. I can sit down and figure up what my expenses will be, what my income will be, and show a paper profit, but invariably as the year wears on things keep happening.

Expenses are a little more than I figured on, income is a little less, and by the end of the year me and the national government are in about the same shape. It's a funny thing, but I can always see fewer expenses and more income than ever results.

Just like President Eisenhower couldn't have been expected to see a mild recession coming. I couldn't see that tractor tire I was going to ruin. It was a good tire, lots of rubber still left on it, and I figured it was good for two or three more years at the least. I got two dollars on it on a trade-in.

The same thing was true of that piston rod, that cow that got sick and died, the roof that blew off, the fence that fell over, my wife's breaking her eye glasses, those relatives that piled in on us ... I tell you, you never know what's going to turn up next on this farm or in the White House.

Of the two jobs, though, I believe I prefer this one. It's one thing to have your wife nagging at you when you take off on a little vacation, but another thing to have the entire United States population to answer to.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

SPOKE FOR HIS GALL

A man called a dozen of his creditors together to tell them that he was about to go into bankruptcy.

Man: "I owe you $100,000 and my assets aren't enough to pay you 5 cents on the dollar. So I guess it will be impossible for you to get anything—unless (with a feeble smile) you want to cut me up and divide me among you."

One Creditor: "Say, Mr. Chairman, I move we do it. I'd like to have his gall."

Bacteria Causes Food Poisoning In Warm Weather

By HENRY A. HOLLE, M. D.
Commissioner of Health

Like other living things, bacteria need food, warmth, and moisture to grow in numbers. That's why, in summer months, certain kinds of bacteria so often team up with heat and lack of refrigeration to spoil food.

That's why food poisoning is so much more common in warm weather—and why you need to be especially careful now about preparing food and storing it.

With proper safeguards of cleanliness and cooling, food poisoning can be avoided. Here are a few suggestions to help you make sure that the food you eat this summer will be safe to eat.

It is well known which foods are most susceptible to bacterial growth, as these are especially dangerous unless they are properly prepared, handled, and stored.

Egg and milk mixtures, including custards and mayonnaise type salad dressings, ham, turkey and chicken, either in salads or sandwiches, and potato salad—one of the popular picnic foods—are often quickly suspected, when food infections occur in summer.

Ham sandwiches used to be considered safe because of the slow, salt laden curing methods employed in the past. But, today, most hams are tenderized and are subject to spoilage without proper refrigeration.

Making ham sandwiches and wrapping them in wax paper, then allowing them to stand at room or outdoor summer temperatures for a few hours, has caused many cases of food poisoning. Ham sandwiches are delicious, but they should be refrigerated until time to eat them.

Potato salad can be another trickster, unless all ingredients are thoroughly chilled before

"Well," said the smiling Eskimo. "But my wife still doesn't have the knack of chopping up the ice squares to fit those little trays."
