Babson Forecasts Big Improvement For Oil Industry

Noted Statistician Says That Fights and Competition Between Standard Companies is Cause of Present Chaos.

By ROGER W. BABSON.

BABSON PARK, Oct. 10.—The prices of crude oil and gasoline are still being cut. The latter is selling at a tank wagon price of 15 cents in Ohio and is retailing at 17 cents, in Tulsa it is selling at 7 cents a gallon in tank car lots which is the lowest price reached thus far this year. The price range for 1923 at Tulsa was 6 1-8 cents a gallon to a high of 14 1-2 cents. It is apparent that gasoline and crude oil are selling at very low prices at this time. Reductions have been the rule with all companies from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Considering the large amounts of oil, both crude and refined, used every day it is quite remarkable that the market has broken so sharply. Since everyone is interested either as a user of petroleum products or an investor in oil securities Roger W. Babson's analysis of the industry, issued today, is of more than passing interest.

Rockefeller Quits.

"When John D. Rockefeller, Sr., received a message that the United States supreme court had dissolved the Standard Oil company," says Mr. Babson, " it is reported that he made this statement, 'nearly half a century in the oil business has taught me that it is profitable only as it is controlled. Oil companies may sell oil by cutting prices but such warfare does not yield profit. I am through with the oil business." From that day to this it is said he has never stepped his foot inside of 26 Broadway. Although the price of oil securities went up considerably after the supreme court decision and although the various split-up company stocks sold in total for more than the old company stock had ever sold, yet the senior Mr. Rockefeller never changed his opinion. He was through with the oil business and devoted himself to golf. Things did not seem to work out as he had predicted for some years but his forecast is now coming true because the competition between oil companies has become so keen as to be practically ruinous. In some localities the rush to put up filling stations has become almost humorous. One real estate man at least suggested the following rhyme for every vacant corner lot 'cheer up little corner don't you cry you'll be a filling station by and by.'

Intra-Standard

"This competition has become so keen that it is reported now that there is real enmity between the Standard Oil companies themselves. It is said that the president of one is hardly on speaking terms with the president of another and that competition is even keener between some of the Standard Oil companies than between the Standard of New Jersey and some of the independent companies. Mr. W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf, is often seen at the head offices of the Standard Oil in New York city while officials of several of the other Standard companies have not been seen there for several months. Some believe that this apparent estrangement is purposely arranged in order to lead the government to think that there is no collusion between the individual Standard Oil companies, but such evidence as I have does not justify such a conclusion. The fact is clearly indicated that there is not only keen competition between the Standard companies and the independent but that the Standard are divided against themselves. This is the real reason for the present chaotic condition in the oil business.

"It is said that the industry is overproduced," continued Mr. Babson, "but there has always been an overproduction of oil. The situation existed when Mr. Rockefeller first started his small company in Cleveland years

LATE NEWS

KASUMIGAURA, Japan—Major Pedro Zanni, the Argentine round-the-world flyer who left Kushimoto at 7:20 this morning arrived here at 11:57 a. m.

PARIS—Owen D. Young, temporary agent general for reparation payments under the Dawes plan, announced this evening that the $200,000,000 German loan bonds would be issued 92 and carry an interest rate of 7 per cent.

BELLAIR, Ills.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, won a technical knockout over "Wild Bill" Reed of Columbus here tonight, the referee stopping the fight, a 10 round bout, in the third round after Reed had been floored six times.

DALLAS—Three of the four democrats authorized by the state democratic executive committee as an advisory committee to assist in the election of Mrs. Miram A. Ferguson, were named by E. A. Berry of Houston, chairman of state committee here today. They are Jed Adams of Dallas, national committeeman from Texas; C. A. Leddy of Dallas and O. L. Stribling of, Waco.

SHERMAN—Allegiance to party was the principal point in the address here tonight of former Senator Joseph Welon Bailey in behalf of the democratic state ticket. He declared that the argument "to the effect that a pledge is not binding on the men and women who have made it," goes to the very foundation of civilized society.

PRINCETON, Ky.—The national guardsmen arrived here tonight at the request of County Judge Smith to guard the home of S. B. Hodge, county attorney, from threatened violence. An anonymous letter received by Mrs. Hodge last Saturday, declared that her husband has been warned to resign as county attorney. Penalty for failure to do so, the letter stated, would be death. Mrs. Hodge and their children were directed to leave the house to escape being blown up.

LaGRANGE, Texas—George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor of Texas was heckled here tonight for the first time in his campaign. And his instantaneous answer to an apparently hostile question drew the warmest applause during his speech. "How about the 400,000 women who voted for Mrs. Ferguson?" shouted a man in the audience. "Won't they have anything to say in the general election?" "Yes they will" Butte answered. "There are a million two hundred thousand qualified voters in Texas. Let Ferguson have every one of the 400,000 and I am going to get the other 800,000." His questerner immediately left the audience.

ATOKA, Okla.—Joseph W. Yeates former minister of Alluwee, Okla. was bound over to the February term of district court for trial on a charge of abduction for the purpose of marriage growing out of his elopement a month ago with Georgia Fields, 14-year-old choir member at the church where Yeates formerly preached, by County Judge W. H. Thomason, following his preliminary hearing here today. Bond was fixed at $3,000.

DES MOINES—A new political situation came today with the withdrawal from the senatorial race of Luther A. Brewer of Cedar Rapids, representative, who denounced Senator Brookhart as a "Deserter" of his party and urged election of Daniel F. Steck of Ottumwa, the democratic senatorial nominee. Republican state has decline to discuss today's developments. Party leaders had frown upon Mr. Brewer's candidacy when Iowa, said they did not wish to comment upon his withdrawal. Nor woud they speculate upon its effect upon the election, declaring the extent of Brewer's following was problematical.

HIGH SCHOOLERS IN AUTO CRASH; GIRL INJURED

Estelyyn Allday Suffers Broken Hip in Crash On The Lake Road

FOUR IN THE PARTY

Failure of Wagon to Attach Rear Danger Light Is Held Responsible

Failure of a wagon driver to place a tail light on his vehicle is held responsible for critical injuries which resulted late last night to Miss Estellyn Allday, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Allday 1103 Polk street, when an automobile in which she was returning to the city from an orchestra concert at the asylum crashed against the unseen bulk in the darkness.

Her hip bone is broken, according to her mother, who added that whether her daughter has suffered any internal injuries is not yet known. Miss Estellyn was taken to the general hospital.

Robert Peckham, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Peckham, 1604 Monroe street, who was driving the car, was dazed by the impact, but is believed not to have suffered any further injuries.

In the car also were Miss Dorothy Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reed, 809 Burnett street, and John Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Robinson, 1063 Lucile street, neither of whom suffered injury.

All members of the party are high school students, and had attended an orchestra concert given by the high school organization at the asylum. Of the party only Robinson was a member of the orchestra.

COST GOULD 6 MILLION.

Son of Billionaire Determined to Become a Railroad Magnate.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—George J. Gould's ambition to become a railroad magnate and obtain control of the Missouri Pacific railway caused him and the estate of his father, the late Jay Gould, to lose more than $5,000,000, it was asserted today by Walter R. Walker, attorney for Frank J. Gould in the hearing of the $82,000,000 accounting suit by members of the Gould family.

Mr. Walker said he expected to bring out at the hearing proof that approximately $5,000,000 of the losses were borne by the estate, of which George J. Gould was executor and trustee. Frank J. Gould was the principal objector to his brother's administration of the eestate.

FLOODS IN FLORIDA.

Crest of Water Was Expected Last Night in East Coast Section.

By The Associated Press.

DAYTON, Fla., Oct. 10.—The crest of the flood that is inundating towns in this section of Florida's east coast is expected late tonight when it is feared that high tide in the Halifax river here will carry the waters over the banks.

Business is virtually at a standstill here, many of the business streets being six inches to two feet under water while in the residential sections citizens have been forced to leave their homes in search of higher ground. Merchandise damage alone will amount into the thousands, it is said.

Bridges on all highways leading out of this city are washed out and Daytona is practically isolated. Scores of autoists are reported marooned on the Deland-Daytona highway, and efforts are being made to reach them through use of small boats.

Take Finger From Hand of L. Drake

After fighting unsuccessfully for some time to stay the spread of the poisoning, Logan Drake, a Spudder hurler during the latter part of this year's Texas league baseball season, submitted yesterday to the amputation of the first finger on his right hand. It was reporter last night that the operation was a success and that he was resting well.

Drake entered the hospital when an infection developed at the tip of the finger. The nail was knocked off and the injury failed to heal as was expected. During the last few days the poison spread through the finger and despite the efforts of physicians to stop it, amputation was finally decided on as being necessary.

Japanese Turning To Russia As U.S. Closes Her Gates

Exclusion Act Wrecks All Prestige Built Up Through Years

IS BISHOP'S VIEW

Veteran Church Worker In Tokio Tells What Congress Did

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Japan has turned her face eastward toward Russia and her back on the west, toward America, as a result of the Japanese exclusion action of congress, members of the house of bishops and the national council of the Protestant Episcopal church were told today.

Tuesler Speaks.

Their informant was Dr. Rudolph B. Tuesler, director of St. Luke's International Episcopal at Tokio, who said he spoke from a knowledge of far eastern conditions and peoples gained through a 20-year association. America and Americans held a warm place in the hearts of the Japanese up to the time of the exclusion action—a position which was strengthened with the generous response of Americans to the call for aid which grew out of the earthquake last year. But in the minds of the all but comparatively few persons in Japan the exclusion act's passage had utterly destroyed American prestige in the island, he declared.

Now Seeking Treaty.

"Since the exclusion act was adopted," Dr. Tuesler said, "the Japs have begun the negotiation of a commercial treaty—a treaty of friendship and amity—with the Russians. Right now there is talk of a Japanese-Russian alliance to take a hand in the Chinese war. Japan no longer is looking across the Pacific toward America—her eyes are upon Russia."

Bishop Freeman of Washington read to the meeting a recent letter from Secretary of States Hughes praising the church for its efforts to re-establish St. Luke's, which was completely destroyed in the Japanese earthquake.

"This is an important work which is not only valuable as representing the progress of American contribution of medical science, but also as promoting our cordial relations with the Japanese people," the secretary wrote.

DEATH FOR BURGLARY

Negro in Kentucky Must go to The Electric Chair.

By The Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 10.—The death sentence as a penalty for burglary was upheld by the Kentucky court of appeals today when it affirmed a decision sending Alex Gibson, Lexington, Ky., negro to the electric chair. Gibson was indicted for burglary after a jury heard evidence that he had cut and stabbed Lucian Thompson at the home of the latter's father, after Gibson pulled the trigger of an empty shot gun pointed at Thompson.

The death penalty for burglary was established by the 1922 Kentucky legislature. The previous penalty was two to ten years imprisonment.

WICHITA HOWLS WITH THE REST WHEN NATS WIN

This City Drops Work Friday Afternoon To Get the Returns

ALL FOR WASHINGTON

Giant Rooters, Few And Far Between, Get But Little Consideration

The rest of the United States followed suit yesterday when Wichita Falls suspended operations to help Walter Johnson and the Senators win a ball game.

Business, from 1 to 4 o'clock, was decidedly non-essential; nobody knew or cared for anything except the number of runs Washington needed to tie it up or take the lead and the gentle art of making money was discarded and forgotten—except by the conspicuous minority who had the family bank roll on the fence. There was plenty of it changed hands through that route, not because there was so many Giant supporters at heart but because a good many backed their honest judgment that the McGraw clan would come through.

All for Senators

It was a remarkably unified community that buried all other differences and bet its cash on Washington. Aside from the scattering groups of misguided Giant enthusiasts it was a Senator crowd first, last and all the time. A New York victory yesterday would have been a tragedy scarcely less poignant here than in the nation's capital itself, and when the wires flashed that McNeely's double in that fatal twelfth and filched the diamond crown from the already over-burdened brow of Gotham, this city hurled its collective hat in the air and acted almost as foolish as President Coolidge. The president, you know, stood up and actually clapped his hands.

Returns coming in from the Washington ball yard were snatched up and digested hot off the wires. Equally active were the radios, hundreds of which were tuned in on Dallas and Fort Worth stations which, in turn, took the reports from their own leased wires to the Griffith stadium. Several merchants here put up sets in doorways down town and they never failed to draw a crowd. They thickened, too, as the game lapped into extra innings, Walter Johnson returned to the firing line and the tension became surcharged with expectation.

They All Stop

The city hall was an example of what went on elsewhere. At that place work was practically suspended while the staff crowded into the fire station where a radio told the story. One lone fireman and a newspaper reporter, the sole Giant rooters, narrowly escaped a manhandling when Frisch's triple in the ninth brought unguarded whoops of glee. Duty's call is strong in the breasts of firemen, but in those last three innings yesterday Pa McClure was plainly worried. He wouldn't guarantee what kind of protection the city had until the game was over.

Walter Johnson's heroic comeback, the scintillating work of Bucky Harris, in fact the game fight of the whole Senator crew was the principal topic of conversation on the streets, in cafes and everywhere else last night. The game was played over in detail; "that sap" Miller was excused for hitting into a double play in the ninth; George Kelly's brilliant feat of fanning twice in a pinch was explained, of course, as being the only thing possible with Johnson in the box; Frisch was anethamatized for cooling one for three sacks; McGraw's stategy was cussed and discussed.

And after it was all over it was a sincerely joyous bunch of Wichitans that bestowed all honor on the Washington American league baseball team—the new world's champions—and at the same time admitted that the New York Giants, even if they were beaten out, furnished their full half of the thrills in the greatest series ever played.

4-Year-Old Babe is Cause of Wedding Again in Kansas City.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11.—George A. Pickel, 48 years old, 431 Wallace street, and his former wife, Mrs. Helen G. Pickel, 38, were married here by Judge C. Clyde Myers in the Wyandotte county probate court.

Their 4-year-old daughter was the only witness to the wedding.

"We decided it was not fair to the child to rear her with one of us missing," the father told the judge. "We both wanted the little girl, and decided we could get along together for our daughter's sake."

They were divorced a year ago.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Hours behind schedule and still buffeted by heavy head winds, the navy dirigible Shenandoah at 8:30 o'clock tonight was sailing over the Orange groves near Riverside, 50 miles east of here, headed towards Santa Anna and the east route to San Deigo, which city the navigating officer of the ship said, would probably be reached about midnight.

DEMOS IMPROVING.

Prospects in Nebraska Better, Is Report of National Committee.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A report of improving democratic prospects in Nebraska, the home state of Charles W. Bryan, democratic vice-presidential nominee, was brought to western headquarters of the party today by National Committeeman Arthur Mullen.

"Nebraska is safely in the Davis and Bryan column," he said in a public statement issued at headquarters. "I have been unable to find one democrat in the state who is going to vote for LaFollette."

Mr. Mullen said the straw votes published from time to time "mean nothing."

"I personally know of thousands of these votes sent from old lists of names of people who have moved away away or have died," he said.

VERDICT FOR SIMMS COMPANY

Martin Rules Against American Refinery In Suit

An instructed verdict for the plaintiff, amounting to $13,550, was ordered returned yesterday by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court in the case of the Simms Oil company vs. the American Refining company. The case involved a contract between the two companies for the purchase of oil by the defendant from the plaintiff's lease in Archer county.

A pro-rating order by the refinery last summer, in which only half of the production offered was taken, was also involved.

Walter Johnson, Put in for Marberry After Latter Supplants Mogridge to Stem Giant Attack, Ends the 18-Year Trail by Leading His Forces to 40-Year Dream.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The miracle of baseball, the dream of 40 years, came true this afternoon when Washington won the baseball championship of the world from the New York Giants in the most thrilling, dramatic climax that any diamond series has ever seen.

Out of the depths of two crushing defeats, Walter Johnson, one of the greatest pitchers the game has ever known and idolized, came back to the heights and reached his goal, the end of the 18-year trail, by leading the Senators to victory by a score of 4 to 3, in twelve innings of specatcular, pulse-gripping baseball.

And when Earl McNeely, young outfielder from the Pacific coast, drove in "Muddy" Ruel with the winning run, after the mighty bat of "Bucky" Harris had kept the Senators in their greatest fight, the rookie also drove a vast crowd of more than 30,000 that included President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, into an outburst of victory-inspired frenzy unprecedented in the history of the national game.

The crack of McNeely's bat was the match that set fire to a conflagration of enthusiasm, a whirlwind of excited joy swept the big crowd as it flooded upon the field, then rushed wildly for the dugout of the winning team and gave unrestrained vent to spirits, which first the victorious American League campaign and then through one of the most memorable championship battles of all time had been whipped to feverish pitch.

President Cheers The Team.

The president of the United States and his wife, watching their third game, clapped and waved their hands with the enthusiasm of the most ardent fans. Men and women, many of the prominently known throughout the country, joined with the rabid throng in that tumultuous outburst. Fashionably dressed women hugged one another in joy, cheer leaders sprang up as if by magic, while hats were thrown into the air with abandon. For more than an hour after the game, the crowd swirled about the field and clubhouse where the Senators were given a continual ovation and nearly mobbed.

Tonight the nation's capital gave itself over to the celebration of its greatest baseball achievement, one of the greatest any team has ever gained.

It was a victory that not only stirred the country's hub but undoubtedly swept, magnetically throughout the land, to the crossroads and the boulevards for it seemed the whole nation had rooted for "Bucky" Harris and his gallant band and shared Washington's own joy in the triumphant outcome.

A History Making Game.

Never has baseball's premier crown been won under circumstances so remarkable as those this afternoon in the seventh and deciding game of a series that has swayed back and forth with brilliancy, uncertain until the last thrilling moment. Not since the famous series of 1912 have American and National league rivals fought with such tenacity and courage for the title and, oddly enough, it was the Giants who went down to defeat this time as they did twelve years ago before the Boston Red Sox. It was a shattering setback for John McGraw, gray-haired veteran pilot of the Giants, turned back on the threshold of the greatest goal of his career—a fourth world's crown which would have put him beyond all rivals—but it was also a marvelous victory for "Bucky" Harris, black-haired, dynamic young leader of the Senators.

Harris, 27 years old, and the youngest manager that ever led a major league team to the top, was a dominant, flashing figure in his team's triumph, and gained through the brilliance of his tactics and individual play, a place in baseball that few leaders have ever held.

In Face of Greatest Odds.

Harris rallied his men to their victorious, successful finish when it seemed that disaster would overcome their staunch spirit. Two setbacks for their greatest hurling ace, Walter Johnson, and the loss for the greater part of the series of their veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, might have daunted the courage of any but the Senators. In the face of the heaviest sort of odds and trailing the National league champions, two games to three, Washington's team came back, and before the president and a home crowd, evened the series yesterday and won it today.

In the final analysis it was the never-say-die spirit instilled by Harris, the unquenchable "will to victory" that seemed almost a thing of fate and pulled the team through. It was a fight from behind for the Senators from start to finish. Always the road to victory was uphill and they overcame many obstacles before finally

Clash Averted As Yeats Abduction Trial Is Opened

Father of Girl Starts After Attorney Who Questions Him

Former Oklahoma Minister Pleads Not Guilty As He Faces Court

By The Associated Press

NOWATA, Okla., Oct. 10.—Joseph E. Yeats, former Alluwe minister, today entered a plea of not guilty at his preliminary hearing before Judge W. H. Thomason, in county court, on a charge of abduction growing out of his alleged elopement with Georgia Fields, 14-year-old school girl.

A. W. Fields, father of the girl, who was the first witness, had to be restrained by County Attorney A. T. Anglin, and a deputy sheriff from leaving the witness chair, when E. J. Giddings, of Oklahoma City, attorney for Yeats, intimated that Fields would have offered no objection to the marriage if he had been consulted.

Court Room Crowded.

The district court room, which was chosen for the trial in order to accommodate a large number of spectators, was jammed to the doors when the trial opened, and two deputy sheriffs who brought the former minister into court found it necessary to enter the room through a side door.

Mr. Fields testified that his daughter is not yet 15 years old; that she was born in St. James, Mo., October 29, 1909. He then narrated the circumstances of Yeats' acquaintance with his family and the girl, who was a member of the choir in the former pastor's church.

Friendly Relations.

The relations of the family with Yeats were quite friendly he said, and the minister was given the freedom of the Fields home. Fields then related events following the alleged flight of Yeats and the girl, ending with the defendant's arrest at the home of his parents near Ballinger, Texas.

Opening cross examination, Attorney Giddings asked Mr. Fields if he would not have given his consent to the marriage, had Yeats asked him. It was then that Fields started to rise from the witness chair, but was dissuaded by the county attorney.

Mother Testifies.

Mrs. Fields, mother of the girl, was the next witness. Her testimony was mostly of a corroborative nature.

Ralph Magnus, 14, was called to the stand. Magnus testified that he delivered a note from Yeats to Mr. and Mrs. Fields, telling of the couples' departure. The youth stated that although he had been employed on the day before the alleged flight, he was instructed not to deliver the message until four o'clock the following day. In the meantime, Yeats and the girl had left. Cross examination failed to shake the youth's statement.

ANCIENT HISTORY

Turtle Caught By Lewis and Clark Found in Kansas

By The Associated Press

ATCHISON, Kan., Oct. 11.—Recently a huge turtle slowly but surely climbed the Missouri river bluffs, crossed Riverview drive and arrived in the yard of Mrs. Charlotte Foley. Children captured the turtle and discovered "1804" carved on its shell.

Theodore Nass is confident the turtle was captured by Lewis and Clark in 1804 and was branded and then released. It will be recalled that Lewis and Clark, the earlier explorers of the Missouri river, landed where Atchison now stands in 1804. The turtle is so much of a curiosity that it was presented to the city by Mrs. Foley and is now in the zoo in Jackson park. It shares a cage with an alligator.

The turtle and the alligator are the best of friends, and sleep together in the same iron water basin.

Rally in 8th Ties Score.

The whole story of the series, in reality was written into the final game, for in it the Senators, their makeshift defense crumbling momentarily, yielded a lead that seemed insurmountable until they rallied in the eighth, tied the score and then fought off the Giants until the twelfth and its victorious culmination.

The game sparkled with the most thrilling sort of play, terrific hitting, spectacular defensive work, brilliant and erratic pitching, good and bad baseball. One dramatic moment followed another from the sudden withdrawal of "Curley" Ogden, Washington's first twirler, after he had pitched to only two batters in the opening inning, until the veteran Johnson, the "Old Master," came to the rescue in the last four innings. "Old Barney" had sustained two heart-breaking setbacks at the hands of the Giants and it seemed the irony of fate would keep him from the goal of a lifetime. But this afternoon Johnson came back. He was the Johnson of his prime when the situation was the most dangerous, and the "smoke ball" that had failed him twice before lifted the veteran to his greatest glory and his team to triumph.

Johnson Again Under Fire.

Johnson was under fire in those last four innings, for the Giants fought to the final ditch. Twice when they threatened, Johnson walked Ross Young purposely to get George Kelly, and twice Kelly fanned in the pinch. Frisch, tripling with one out in the ninth, was on third and Young on first when Kelly whiffed for the first time, and Irish Meusel closed the inning by grounding out. A double play checked the Giants in the tenth, but in the eleventh, Southworth, running for Groh, a pinch hitter, and Young, were on second and first, with two out, when Kelly again was a victim of Johnson's fast ball.

Holds Back Another Charge.

The twelfth saw Johnson hold back another charge after Meusel opened with a single before the Senators broke through after themselves threatening in the ninth and eleventh innings.

Ralpher Miller, substitute third sacker, started the Senator's last drive harmlessly when he bounced out to Frisch, but "Muddy" Ruel who had failed to get a hit until today's game brought the crowd to its feet with a striking double down the left field line after Gowdy, veteran Giant backstop, had ingloriously dropped an easy foul pop that would have retired Ruel. Where they had been steadier, the Giants now were crumbling and Johnson got safely to first when Jackson fumbled his sharp grounder. Ruel was held at second on this play, but after McNeely had fouled off the first pitch of Jacob Bentley, Giant southpaw, he caught the next one for a drive that hopped over Lindstrom's head and bounded on the field field for a double.

Behind this great moment for the Senators, however, was a bitter struggle, one in which it seemed only a miracle would put them through. For six innings they were virtually helpless before the sharp breaking curves of "Zeeke" Barnes, young Giant right hander. Harris struck a telling blow when his homer sailed into the felt field bleachers in the fourth but there was only one other man to reach base in that six-inning span while in the sixth the Giants forged ahead, scoring three runs when the Washington infield, badly missing its great cog, Peckinpaugh, hero of two of the Senators' victories went to pieces.

Mogridge Weakens in Sixth.

George Mogridge, veteran southpaw who had checked the Giants after relieving Ogden, also weakened in the sixth, but the trio of Giant runs came while his successor, Marberry, chief pitching rescuer, was on the mound. A pass to Young and Kelly's single brought about Mogridge's retirement, but Meusel greeted Marberry's first pitch with a long sacrifice fly to Rice that scored Young. Kelly went to third on Wilson's single and scored when Judge juggled Jackson's grounder.

Gowdy's hot grounder went through Bluege's legs at short stop and Wilson came home with the third run but Barnes and Lindstrom were quickly retired.

Liebold, diminutive pinch hitter, opened the attack in the eighth, with one out, when he lined a double to left. Ruel scratched an infield hit, his first of the series, and Tate, batting for Marberry, filled the bases when he walked. McNeely's fly to Meusel was too short for Liebold to make a dash for home, but Harris brought him and Ruel in with a single that took a bad bound over Lindstrom's head into the left field. Barnes withdrew at this juncture and Nehf retired Rice to end the inning.

Thus, while the Senators by their own mistakes, paved the way for all the Giants' scoring, they also benefitted from several "breaks" at critical moments. Harris' telling single in the eighth seemed headed for Lindstrom's glove and a third out when it bounced over the youngster's head. In the twelfth Ruel's double followed an error by Gowdy on an easy chance to retire the Washington backstop, while McNeely's double was a hit similar to that of Harris'.

Throughout the earlier part of the game, hits were constantly cut off by the most brilliant sort of fielding on the part of both teams, a feature that was only one of the many that were bound up in this thrilling struggle. In the second Bluege robbed Wilson of a hit by taking his grounder back of second and making a fast throw to first while Wilson himself pulled a startling play when he made a diving catch of Rice's hot liner in the fourth.

Rangers Will Go With Bond Issue Of Mexico to N.Y.

Obregon Secret Service Notifies Its Agent of Plot By Rebels

STATE IS ON GUARD

Issue Totals $50,000,000 And Is Being Handled By Austin Banker

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 10.—Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton announced Friday morning that a guard of state rangers would be detailed to accompany the $50,000,000 Mexican bond issue now being printed here for J. L. Arlitt, broker, when they are shipped to New York. This decision reached because of reports that certain Mexican revolutionary factions were plotting to interfere with the proposed bond issue either by seizure of the plates or of the bonds themselves.

Rangers on Guard.

Because of these rumors rangers were assigned last night to guard the plant where the bonds are being printed.

Senor Juan N. Icaza of New York city, representative of the Mexican treasury department, who is here personally supervising every detail of the printing and delivery of the bonds in company with an attache of the Steck Printing concern requested Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton for protection of the bonds by the state police, it was learned from General Barton. The general stated he promised the printing concern protection to the limit.

General Barton stated that Senor Icaza had information of a report certain insurgent factions in Mexico were forming a plot to seize the plates for the purpose of counterfeiting and to embarrass the Mexican administration.

Secret Service Acts.

That Senor Icaza was in receipt of information from the Mexican secret service officials that factionists of the De LaHuerta banner are plotting to interrupt the printing of the bonds in order to embarrass the incoming Calles administration was said to be the basis of the plot which the Mexican officials are seeking to prevent by means of state police protection. The Calles administration will go into office in December and usually a change of administration is attended with revolutionary disorders, it was stated.

TO ELIMINATE CLASS C.

Such Radio Casting Stations Should Go to Relieve Congestion, Claim.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Elimination of class C radio casting stations, those of 750 watt power, releasing their wave lengths to relieve congestion in the class one group, those of 1,000 watt power, is recommended to the third national radio conference by a subcommittee which has studied the problem for two days.

A revision of present wave length assignments among radiocasting stations to creat new channels of transmission and thereby remove as much as possible of the congestion that has existed, was also recommended.

The revision of wave length assignments and redesignation of the classes of stations, according to reports of the committee to the conference, would make no radical changes in the organization of radiocasting, but would bring all stations within the wave lengths of from 205 to 545 meters. Such an arrangement, it was explained, would release added wave lengths for marine use.

SINCLAIR GETS PERSIA.

American Company, Without Loan, Given Valuable Oil Concession.

By The Associated Press

TEHERAN, Persia, Oct. 10.—A representative of the Sinclair Oil company has telegraphed the Persian government accepting the oil concession of northern Persia. No provision is made for a loan to Persia.

The concession in question was authorized under legislation adopted by the Persian parliament in June, 1923, which, according to a statement given out by the Persian minister in Washington, provided that the concessionaire arrange a loan of at least $10,000,000 for the Persian government through American banks.

A preliminary agreement with the Sinclair interests was reported to have been signed last December.

RETAIL FOOD INCREASES.

All Eatables, With One Exception, Are Up for September.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Increases in retail food prices in the month ending September 15 ranging up to 3 per cent were shown in all but one of 21 cities for which figures were announced today by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor.

Butte, Mont., with a decrease of 1 per cent was the only exception to the general increase in which Bridgeport, Conn.; Fall River, Mass.; Mobile, Ala., and New Haven, Conn., showed the maximum of 3 per cent.

Eighteen of the 21 cities showed decreases for the year ending September 15 ranging up to 5 per cent.

ILL HEALTH THE CAUSE.

Socially Prominent Lanston Company Director Is a Suicide.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Harold M. Duncan, managing director of the Lanston company of New York and said to have been socially prominent in London and Paris, was found dead yesterday with a bullet wound in the head in a wooded section of Oaklane, a suburb. A pistol nearby and a note found in his pocket indicated, police said, that he had taken his town life. Ill health was believed to have been the cause.

Mr. Duncan was well known in this country, having been at one time editor of the Paper and Press, a periodical devoted to journalism. He was 39 years old.

TYPHOON KILLS THIRTY

Also Many Are Missing in Storm Which Swept Manilla Province

By The Associated Press.

MANILLA, P. I., Oct. 10.—Thirty persons are dead and many are missing as the result of a typhoon which swept over the Cagayan valley, according to a telegram received today from the Cagayan provincial constabulary commander.

The report added that although the typhoon occurred a week ago, many sections of Cagayan province remain shut off from communication and the death list may be increased largely when complete reports are received.

The typhoon sunk many launches and sail boats and hundreds of small houses were torn from their foundations and carried away.

Total damage done by the disturbance will reach several hundred thousand dollars, according to reports received here.

SAYS DAVIS IS GONER.

Either Bryan as President or Coolidge, Lenroot's View.

By The Associated Press.

BELOIT, Wis., Oct. 10.—"Either a republican administration with Coolidge as president or a democratic administration with Bryan as president, must result from this campaign," declared Senator Irvine L. Lenroot last night in an address here.

"The campaign of John W. Davis has collapsed," he said. "There is no possibility of LaFollette's election. The aim of the radicals is to throw the election into the house."

Senator Lenroot condemned the "outrageous attacks" that have been made on President Coolidge.

RUSSIAN POET DIES.

Greatest Literary Luminary There In Last Decade Succumbs to Pneumonia.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 10.—Valery Brusoff, Russia's greatest poet in the last decade, died yesterday of pneumonia. Only Wednesday on his 50th birthday the government granted him a pension and dwelling quarters for life.

Brusoff created a symbolic school of poetry and was himself its brightest exponent. He translated into the Russian language Shakespeake, Edgar Allen Poe, Walt Whitman and the ancient Greek poets.

Demo Chairman Is Confident Ma Is Safe By 150,000

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 10.—The democratic party of Texas with Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as its chief standard bearer expects to roll up a majority between 150,000 and 200,000 in the November election over Dr. George C. Butte, republican gubernatorial candidate, E. A. Berry, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, said today. He is in Dallas for a two-day conference with Dallas and north Texas political leaders.

Asked if the democrats were making plans to counteract the candidacy of Dr. Butte, Mr. Miller said:

"I don't think we have to make any plans to counteract his candidacy, for we expect to win by a majority of 150,000 to 200,000 votes."

FIRE MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

Ruins of Ranch Home in Borden County Mute Evidence of Tragedy.

By The Associated Press.

SNYDER, Texas, Oct. 10.—The cause of a fire which cost two lives on a ranch in Borden county yesterday remained unsolved today. The ranchman, L. A. Hicks, and his wife were the victims, neighbors having found their charred bodies in the ruins of their home 28 miles west of here.

HAVE YOU BEEN TOLD.

That Senator Thomas J. Walsh, the Nemesis of the oil grafters and their freinds, will fight the nomination or confirmation of Captain John K. Robison to be a rear admiral in the navy if President Coolidge sends it to the senate?

That Senator Keneth McKellar of Tennessee, speaking of the Robison promotion, says: "I shall fight it to the limit of my ability, I can not conceive of the possibility that the senate, which so overwhelmingly condemned these infamous steals of the oil of the navy will ever confirm Captain Robison."

That F. A. Harrison of Nebraska, until this year widely known in republican politics, placed Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming in the LaFollette column, says John W. Davis has the best chance of winning Missouri, that there is a real fight on for Kansas but that internal dissentions have checked the LaFollette drive in Colorado?

That President Coolidge has decided to abandon his plan to call an arms conference for the reason that the United States can not refuse to support the movement initiated by the League of Nations to limit military establishments.

That the federal government has filed a lein against Gaston B. Means for $267,000 for alleged unpaid income taxes and penalties for non-payment, for three years?

That pickings must have been rich for Gaston B. Means while employed as a special agent by Harry M. Daugherty and William J. Burns, late of the department of justice?

That Senator Burton K. Wheeler told the Iowa farmers that their senator, Smith William Brookhart, exposed corruption at Washington while the president and "Wall Street senators" joined in an effort to cover the misdeeds of republican officials "and thus protect the republican party from disgrace"?

That Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, known as the Hearst mayor of New York, has declared for Governor Alfred E. Smith and has pledged loyal and vigorous support to all democratic nominees from John W. Davis down to the candidate for constable at Podunk on Long Island?

That Mayor Hylan says that New York has never had a better governor than Smith nor one who more thoroughly understood all the workings of the machinery of the state, that he is a distinctive figure in American public life?

That in July Mayor Hylan was expected to follow the flag of LaFollette and to become the LaFollette candidate for governor of New York?

That in his letter to National Chairman William M, Butler of the republican national committee, Senator Brookhart of Iowa said: "Charles G. Dawes has wrecked the republican campaign, especially in the northwest." And for this reason independent political writers say sentiment in practically all the Rocky Mountain states, Minnesota, South Dakota and the Pacific coast, with the exception of Oregon, is so divided as to make a forecast of the outcome of the presidential contest a matter of doubt"?

HAVE YOU BEEN TOLD

That Senator Robert M. LaFollette says he is opposed to the fixing of immigration quotas on a basis of racial discrimination and "can not too strongly denounce the administration of the existing immigration law"?

That Senator Burton K. Wheeler forsees the death of one of the old parties after the November election but declined to say whether he thought it would be the democratic or the republican party?

That Senator Wheeler is hopeful of carrying New England and perhaps Pennsylvania and wouldn't be surprised if all the forty-eight states tear away from the two powerful parties which have been dominant for many decades?

That Miss Ethel M. Smith of New York journeyed to Washington to tell Senator LaFollette that he would get the votes of ten million women in November and this with the votes of six million voters of German stock pledged the Wisconsin senator earlier in the week, will give him sixteen million more than Warren G. Harding received when he defeated James M. Cox by a pulrality of seven million?

That Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, leader of the republican women of New York, says that only one thing can prevent New York carrying its forty-five electorial votes to Calvin Coolidge and that is the neglect or indifference of republican men and women.

That the democratic women leaders of New York say that the registeration of democratic women voters is the largest since the coming of the nineteenth amendment and that the enthusiasm for John W. Davis knows no bounds?

That William Allen White, the famous Kansas editor and writer has announced as an anti-klan republican candidate for governor and the practical politicians of his party are fearful that White's action will probably insure the reelection of Governor Jonathan Davis, democrat and will do harm to the republican national ticket?

That I. M. Ornborn, a noted labor leader of New York, has reported to the democratic campaign managers that union men are swinging to the democratic ticket a: I he asserts the socialist element alone among workers is standing for the third party headed by LaFollette?,

That a report that the Dallas ku klux klan had raised a fund to aid the campaign of Dr. George C. Butte was denied by E. H. Silvan, secretary of the Dallas klan?

That Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York will take the stump for John W. Davis, October 6, and that New England, Baltimore and Chicago are on his list?

That the New York governor will return to New York October 19 and make speeches every day until the close of the campaign on the night of November 5.

That John W. Davis faced the largest audience of democrats in Chicago in recent years and democratic leaders, after the meeting, predicted that he had captured the imagination of voters and would win the state?

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

POETRY FOR THE PEOPLE

Greet the world with a smile as you go down the road,
  Start every new day with a song;
A heart filled with courage will lighten the load
  Though everything seems to go wrong.
No matter how brave and determined you are,
  No matter how bright and effulgent your star,
You will find you never will get very far,
  If you carry your troubles along!

If you know there is labor that ought to be done,
  When you'd rather be playing mah jongg,
If you see that your business cuts into your run
  If you want to sail off to Hong Kong,
Forget all the cares that are holding you back,
The future will always loom gloomy and black
  If you carry your troubles along.

Declare every morning you'll do what you please,
  And start at the crack of the gong,
It always is pleasant to live at one's ease,
  And it makes the old will power strong.
If children and wife you're supposed to support,
  Just ask a divorce from the handiest court,
Remember you're done with the days of real sport
  If you carry your troubles along.

Of course, there's the chance that your system will fail,
  For the best of laid plans may go wrong,
You may be despatched to a tight little jail,
  Afar from the glad heartened throng;
But you'll know, as you sit and look out of your cell,
  That you did all you could to live gladly and well,
And you will not be forced, for a fairly long spell
  To carry your troubles along.

WHY PEWS ARE EMPTY

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

LIBRA.

Today's planetary aspects are distinctly adverse, and favor work of a routine character only. If possible, no important letters should be written, and no contracts should be signed, or agreements made. Above all, nothing of a speculative or risky nature should be attempted, as it is doomed, according to the signs, to failure. In the home circle, self-restraint must be used, as the aspects indicate a condition of restlessness and nervousness, which, if not checked must lead to argument, differences, and to loss of temper.

A child born today will, with the exception of one serious illness during the period of adolescence, attain a normally healthy maturity. Its character will be frank and above board; its disposition more serious than engaging; its mentality very comprehensive. This child, given the right environment, will be a thinker and a keen observer; it will not take life lightly, but will want to inquire into the "why" and the "wherefore," and will be disposed to take very little for granted. Such a character, in its early teens, needs much careful guidance, so that its mental processes develop along sane and healthy lines.

If today is your birthday, you are endowed with a great desire to help your friends, and, though a worthy ambition, your efforts are often considered mere officiousness, and many of those who are close to you think you would be better off if you minded your own business and let other people mind theirs.

There is generally so much in our own affairs that needs correction, that, if we attend strictly to this, very little time would be left to "butt-in" others' business. It is time enough to give advice and counsel when it is requested, and even then it is sometimes policy to refrain from attempting to straighten out difficulties which you have not created; it is, however, sucidal to volunteer counsel when it has not been sought, and frequently such a course not only estranges friends, but creates enemies.

You possess many charming traits of character, but all your virtues do not give you the right, so your friends say, to assume the role of "Peacemaker-in-Chief", and life would flow much more easily for you if you could curb your desire to put everyone right.

ENTERTAINING

It seems to me to be the fad of today for several boys to go calling together. They fairly storm a girl's house, and fill the sitting room so there is hardly a chair left to sit on.

The visitors appear unexpectedly and when the maid announces their arrival to the young lady of the house, she has stage fright, and wonders how she is going to entertain them.

After she has greeted them and is comfortably seated in their midst she should turn the conversation to some subject that they are all familiar with—the last dance—a decent movie—or something of interest published in the daily papers.

Then she can swing the conversation to the discussion of music or popular songs and nonchalantly go to piano and play something or turn on the victrola.

If she does the latter she can dance a few steps with two or three of the boys, and then excuse herself, while things are liveliest, and slip to the kitchen to prepare some light refreshments for them.

She is the one who must be the center—she sets the tempo—and all the boys fall in line with her mood.

On occasions like this the girl should never be serious or play favroites. She must make every boy feel a warm welcome and joy in her presence.

A soft wine-colored dress makes an attractive gown to wear when receiving informally. The color is flattering and boys are very fond of this shade.

A BUSINESS GIRL

By MARK ALLERTON

There must surely be a way of punishing Rutland. Barbara, being a business girl, had thoughts of a libel action with swinging damages. In her mood she told herself that she was glad to be rid of an office which contained a cad like the man Rutland.

She forgot for the moment that Kersland had paid her a salary above the average and that on the strength of it she had been able to take a tiny flat of her own, a luxury which scarcely justified, and which indeed entailed an increase all round in her expenditure.

She no longer connected the news of Alan's legacy with Mr. Rutland's infamouse suggestion. She blamed herself savagely for ever having even for a moment entertained such a thought. The interview with Rutland had left her feeling humiliated.

CHAPTER III

"How Could You Do It?"

The evening post brought a letter from Alan. He would be waiting for her the next day—at mid-day, he wrote—and if the weather was fine they would go up the river. The alternative was a matinee, he suggested. They must really celebrate this legacy of his.

It was a merry, light-hearted letter, and Barbara's misgivings left her as she read it. But somehow she wished that he had not mentioned the legacy.

She could not wait till next day to meet him, as he had arranged. It would be too ridiculous to meet him outside the office from which she had been dismissed. She resolved that she would go to his office and tell him what had happened.

In a warren of offices in Beekman street, one of the most modest bore the legend:

Alan Kennedy,
Quantity Surveyor.

A bell rang as Barbara pushed the door open, and a diminutive office boy showed her into Alan's private room.

His astonishment at seeing her was equalled only by his delight.

"What's happened?" he cried. "Have you got a holiday, or what?"

"A long holiday, Alan," she replied; and then she tried to laugh, and nearly cried instead. "I've got the sack. You remember me telling you about the Great South Railroad estimate we sent in?"

"Perfectly."

"We've lost the contract."

"Well?"

"Dicey's have got it. Dicey's, of Newark."

"Well?"

"It seems they got to know what we quoted, and——"

"Who told you that?"

"Mr. Rutland."

"Well? What's all that got to do with you?"

"Oh, I can hardly tell you. They——"

"They don't accuse you of taking the figures to Dicey's, do they?"

"No; but Mr. Rutland asked me if I had told anybody, and—and——"

"And you said you told me?"

"That's it, Alan."

"And so they think that I told Dicey's! And that is why they've sacked you?"

Barbara nodded.

"What are you going to do about it, Alan?" asked Barbara.

"What am I going to do about it?" he cried. "Nothing, of course! What does it matter to me what an outsider like Rutland thinks?"

"But, Alan——"

"Barbara," he swept upon her, "do you believe this of me?"

"It isn't true, Alan?" she whispered.

"Do you think it necessary to ask?" he demanded. His expression was very stern. She caught his arm.

"I didn't know what I was saying, Alan," she cried, passionately. "Of course it is not necessary. But oh, Alan! If only we could prove that it's a lie——"

"I shall not take the trouble," he said contemptuously.

The telephone bell rang imperiously.

"One moment, Babs."

He went to the instrument.

Her glance fell idly on his desk, and the next moment a look of frozen horror hardened her eyes.

Right before her lay a letter, and the bold heading, "Dicey and Company, Newark," was printed in letters of fire. She was forced to read.

"Dear Sir—Just a line to let you know that we have secured the contract. A check will be posted to you today.—Yours faithfully, John Dicey."

Alan Kennedy replaced the receiver on its hook.

"Now, Babs—Why, whatever' the matter?"

He saw her standing at his desk ashen pale, with quivering lips. He heard her speak, and her voice seemed to come from very far off.

"I shall never believe in anybody again. I shall never trust anybody again. Oh, Alan, how could you do it? How could you do it?"

A look of bewilderment flickered for a moment on Kennedy's face. The girl pointed to the letter on the desk.

"I read it," she panted. "I couldn't help myself."

"So you did believe Rutland, after all?" he said between his clenched teeth.

"Not at first. I—"

"You allowed him to convince you?" There was a bitter sneer in his voice.

"No, no. But this letter—what does it mean,"

"Precisely what it says."

"Then it is true—you did—you did give those figures to Dicey's. Oh! why don't you deny it?"

He turned away and looked out of the window. His back was toward her.

She saw the manhood in him which she had idealized hurled from its pinnacle. What he had done might not be dishonest, but it was worse. It was dishonorable. Looking at his arect shoulder she saw no signs of penitence, but only of annoyance at being found out. He turned slowly.

"Of course, I shan't deny it," he said very quietly.

Her glance was eloquent of scorn.

"I cannot congratulate you on your —legacy," she said witheringly.

She saw him flinch. She had meant the barb to hurt.

"You will at least permit me to congratulate you on the masterful way in which you have collected your evidence," he said.

Hot, reckless anger flamed up within each of them now. They flung to oblivion the memory of tender moments. It was nothing to them now that they had been so much to each other before. Love spread out its wings and escaped, in terror, from the attacks of wrath and scorn.

"I don't call it evidence. I call it proof," she burst out. "I could never have believed it of you, Alan!"

"Nor I of you Barbara."

"What do you mean by that."

"I am in no mood for giving explanations," he rapped out.

"Because you can't. No wonder Mr. Rutland sent me away. He thought I was in league with you. With you!"

"And of course, you weren't! Well," he shrugged his shoulders, "you ought not to find it difficult to persuade your friend Mr. Rutland, that you are not in league with me. Of course," his brooding eyes were upon her again, "believing this of me, you will wish to be free from your engagement?"

"How can I help believing this of you?" she protested wildly. "You won't deny it. You can't deny it. And it was the meanest trick I have ever come across. I suppose you call it business. Perhaps you thought it was a very smart piece of work. I daresay you've about ruined Kersland's They were relying on this contract. Of course, that doesn't matter to you.

HOW IT STARTED

"SICK AS A CAT"

So often do we hear people who have sufficient command of the language to be able to express more elegantly what they have to say, refer to themselves or others as being "as sick as a cat" or "sick as a dog" that the phrase intrigues one as having, perhaps, an interesting origin.

The fact is, however, that "sick as a cat," which is the earlier phrase, enjoys only the authority of usage, being a survival of the old English saying, "as sick as a cat when eating rats." This is a common phrase frequently met with throughout the pages of old English writings, which needs no explanation to people who have ever witnessed a cat paying the piper after having feasted on the remains of [illegible]

Verily, there are more beautiful ways of expressing one's indisposi-

Shall She Go to Entertainments Alone When She Has No Escort?—Advice to the Beauless Girl—A Special Word to College Boys in Love—The Office Tale-Bearer And How to Treat Her.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Is it wrong to go to entertainments, such as theatres, movies, concerts, etc., when you have no boy to take you? I haven't, and I have to go by myself and I fear that people will think it strange. I do not seem to be popular with men. Please tell me what you think about this. E. A. H.

Answer:

Of course it isn't wrong for you to go by yourself. It is fine and independent, and instead of criticizing you for it every one will admire you for your spirit.

They will think: "There is a sensible girl, who doesn't wait for some silly little boy to condescent to notice her and take her out, but who goes along and makes her own good time."

You know, E. A. H., the reason so many girls just sit down and sob, and find life ashes, cinders and dust, if they are not popular with boys, is not because they care particularly for the boys themselves. It is because they think that if they do not have dates with boys there is nothing for them to do but sit at home and twiddle their thumbs and listen to father snoring over the evening paper and mother fretting over the price of butcher's meat and the children quarrel and fight.

They haven't found out, as you have, that the girl who earns her own living has just about as much money to spend on amusements as the average boy has, and that she can go to the theatre, and the movies, and concerts, and lectures alone or with another girl; and that while a beau may add a certain zest to her pleasure, he is by no means necessary to it.

Lots of girls get married to any stick of a man who asks them, because it is inborn in every woman to want her own home where she can rule supreme and where she can arrange the furniture to her taste, and use her best china every day if she wants to, and where she will not have to have her mother bossing her every act. In olden times, the only way to get her own house was for a girl to marry it. But now all that she needs is the price, and any woman can have her own home as soon as she can make enough money to support it.

If girls would only wake up to the fact that men are not necessary to their good times or their happiness, and that they can have full, free, independent lives with pleasant homes and lots of fun by themselves, and that the girl bachelor is every whit as well off as the man bachelor, there wouldn't be so many young women bemoaning their fate because they are not vamps who attract men.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man twenty years old and in my first year at college. I love a girl who is seventeen, who is also in her first year at college. We finished high school together last year. I have never mentioned love to her, but we have always gone about a lot together. I have thought of writing her. Would you do it? Would you tell her that you love her? Please tell me what you would do in my place. L. M. K.

Answer:

Well, L. M. K., if I were you would play a waiting game. I shou keep up friendly relations with t girl and let her know that I w very fond of her, but I shouldn commit myself to any definite lo making and I would step far a wide of an engagement. I should co fine myself to glittering generaliti instead of coming down to cases lovemaking.

I would open up a correspondenc and write her snappy letters. would tell her of my ambitions, a how hard I was studying because meant to make the most of my o portunities and be somebody in t world. That will hold her for while, because every woman loo forward to being the wife of a m who is going to achieve things a of whom she can be proud. A when we were at home at vacation, would go to see her and make plen of dates with her because I wou want to keep up her personal inte ent in me and make her feel th her good times depended upon me a large extent.

But I shouldn't tell the girl that loved her or get entangled in an e gagement until we were both throu college, because I should realize th we were both going through an e perience that was bound to chan our entire characters, and neith one of us knew just what sort of man and woman we were going develop into or whether we wou want each other when we we grown and our tastes were formed.

I should want to meet my ma hood absolutely unfettered, free give the entire feminine sex the on over and choose the one who a pealed to me. I should not want be hobbled by the fetters I h forged in my salad days.

"Friendship with all girls, e tangling alliances with none," is good slogan for a college boy. Ma it your own watchword, son.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—A girl w is working in a married man's offi has been causing friction betw him and his wife, who have bee ing together for thirty years, telling tales to the wife about other girl in the office. Do thing this girl is in love with employer and jealous of the oth girl? Do you think that the hu band should continue to employ th girl? PATIENCE.

Answer:

The tale-bearer is the most d spicable of all creatures, and a w woman shuts the door in the fa of the one who comes to her wi stories of her husband instead listening to her slanders. Moreove the tale-bearer is almost invariab a liar, who embellishes, even if s does not wholly invent the calumni she repeats. certainly any wom who would seek to destroy a wife confidence in her husband and bre up a happy home lacks all heart a sympathy, and can only be driven her fiendish act by jealousy.

I should surmise, in this particul instance, that the girl is in love wi her employer and that he has repuls her. Hence her suspicions fall o some other young woman, becau she cannot imagine a man being tr to his wife.

But in any case, the man will b well advised to get such a viper o of his office. DOROTHY DIX.

Gleanings From the Book of Life

BY CLARK KINNAIRD

EDUCATION IN EDUCATION.

It is because the body is a machine that education is possible, Huxley held. Education is the formation of habits, a superinducing of an artificial organization upon the natural organization of the body; so that acts, which at first required a conscious effort, eventually become mechanical.

Ignorance is visited as sharply as willful disobedience—incapacity meets with the same punishment as crime, he believes.

"Nature's discipline is not even a word and a blow, and the blow first; but the blow, without the word. It is left to you to find out why your ears have been boxed."

Huxley, who opined all artificial education ought to be an anticipation of natural education, said that man has a liberal education who has been so trained in his youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with ease and pleasure all of the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic engine, with all its parts of equal strength and in smooth working order; ready like a steam engine to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with knowledge of the great fundamental truths of nature and of the laws of her operations; one who is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; wh has learned to love all beaut whether of nature or of art, to ha all vileness, and to respect others himself.

To him it was not a questi whether one order of study or other should predominate, he on told students.

It is a question of what topics education you shall select which co bine all the needful elements in su due proportion as give the greate amount of good, support and encou agement to those faculties which e able us to appreciate truth, and profit by those sources of innoce happiness which are open to us, an at the same time, to avoid which bad, and coarse, and ugly, a kee clear of the multitude of pitfal which break through the natural moral laws.

"In an ideal university, the for of living example should fire the st dent with a noble ambition to em late the learning of learned men, an to follow in the footsteps of the e plorers of new fields of knowledge.

"And the very air he breath should be charged with that enthu iasm for truth, that fanaticism of v racity, which is a greater possessio than much learning; a nobler gi than the power of increasing know edge; by so much greater and noble than these, as the moral nature man is greater than the intellectual for veracity is the heart of morality.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

DEATH AND TAXES

Modern life is a losing fight against death and taxes.

It is, however, the only life we have to live, in this world at least. And by postponing one of the above-mentioned evils and reducing the other we can manage to extract considerable happiness out of it.

Statistics recently collected have shown that life has been prolonged a number of years, chiefly by the intelligent battle that science has waged on disease.

Also, as every man past 50 knows, wise living in youth which is far more general than it used to be, has rendered more useful and enjoyable the years that constitute the autumn of life.

I have recently seen, at a political convention, a man in the neighborhood of 70 restored to the leadership of a party, and working with all the vigor of 40 years ago.

In business, everywhere, we see men past 60 holding high salaried and important positions, and getting plenty of fun out of their jobs and out of their recreations.

Sixty years ago most men of that age were retired to the chimney corner, or confined to their homes with the ills of old age.

So much for the battle with death. We must lose it in the end, but we can win many victories meanwhile. And out of every victory we get abundant satisfaction.

From the beginning of civilization it has been the theoretical sin of en lightened governments, when such gov ernments have existed, to reduc taxes.

But government has not yet learn ed to solve that intricate problem.

Lately the terrific cost of a grea war has made taxes hard to bear.

But the tax payer, instead of re ducing his own taxes, by using a li tle intelligence in his expenditure sits around and waits for the govern ment to lower them for him, a thin the government can never do satisfac torily till it gets a little help fro him.

Most men waste far more money o extravagances than they pay in taxe

In the United States the mone paid to the gentlemen who sell illic liquor must nearly equal the incom tax of the purchaser.

In every land there is continu waste because people are unabl resist little temptations to money on things or which th no possible use.

We cannot escape taxes but m of us can cut them at least one ha

Were we one-quarter as afraid them as we are of death, we woul soon by wise expenditures and a fe sacrifices bring down our own expe ses so that the heaviest tax the gov ernment can lay would be hard ensome.

It is estimated that 82 per cent of those who bought German marks won't buy German securities.

"Hurrah For Man" Yelled Someone; Me Too—Bryan

Demo Candidate Almost Beats the Milkman Into Amarillo

THERE BEFORE DAWN

He Mounts a Baggage Truck To Tell Crowd Its Dollar Is Man

By The Associated Press.

ABOARD BRYAN TRAIN EN ROUTE, TO ALBUQUERQUE. N. M., Hereford, Texas, Oct. 10.—Long before dawn and with a large crowd at the station to meet him Governor Bryan of Nebraska, democratic vice presidential nominee, made his first appearance today in the Lone Star state at Amarillo where he declared the democratic party is still fighting the battle of the common people and this year is making one of the most heroic battles in its history.

Crossing the Texas panhandle from Oklahoma, Governor Bryan made three appearances, the first at Amarillo, the next at Canyon and then at Hereford, all added to his itinerary since his swing around the southwest began Tuesday. Amarillo was reached at 6 o'clock and the nominee left his train and mounted a baggage truck to tell a cheering crowd that the contest this year is the same as usual, between the "dollar and man" with the "democrats, as usual, on the human side."

Referring to the candidacy of "Ma" Ferguson for governor of Texas Mr. Bryan said that "Texas seems to be the first state in the union to recognize women."

"Hurrah for Ma," came a shout from the crowd and the governor picked it up with another "hurrah for Ma."

A band and a crowd of students of the West Texas State Teachers college met the Bryan train at Canyon where the nominee from the train steps declared that "education is the foundation upon which this country rests."

"Texas," Mr. Bryan said, "is the place where popular democratic majorities are produced." Issues were not discussed for that reason, he said, and launched into honesty, efficiency and economy in government.

TECH COMMITTEE NAMED.

Experts to Help City Solve Its Sewage Problems Here.

Appointment of Junian Montgomery, Dr. A. H. Douglass, Dr. H. M. Glover, L. E. Whitham and F. M. Rugely, all members of the Wichita Falls Technical club, to serve as a committee from that organization to assist in a solution of the city's sewage disposal problem has been announced by W. B. Hamilton, president of the club. The Tech officials several weeks ago offered their services to the city council in its efforts to work out the sewage problem of the city.

Mr. Montgomery was formerly city engineer here and superintended the construction of the present sewer system; Dr. Douglass is present director of the city health and sanitary departments and is an expert on city sanitation; Dr. Glover is an expert chemist and pathologist; Mr. Whitham is a successful concrete contractor and the one who built sewage system outlet; and Mr. Rugeley is present city engineer.

NO FIRE OBSERVANCE HERE.

City Not to Make Special Plans For Prevention Week.

No observance of fire prevention week is being planned here, it was learned yesterday, which means that Wichita Falls will go without such a period this year. The week ending tonight has been observed nationally as fire prevention time, but because of the Texas-Oklahoma fair no preparations were made to observe it. It had been planned to set aside next week for the purpose, but the Salisbury murder trial at Henrietta, who is charged with killing H. D. Jobe, a city fireman, will take officials there for several days at least.

Rheumatism

"Yes! it's all gone."

DO NOT close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. You can get rid of your rheumatism by building up your blood power. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Coolidge Attacks Pinks in a Wire To Service Men

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Confidence that the ex-service men of America will rally to the defense of the constitution and the supreme court at a time when these institutions are being assailed was expressed by President Coolidge in a telegram of greeting read to the Republican Voters' league, an organiaztion of world war veterans, here last night.

"I feel perfectly confident," the message said, "that now when the constitution is in danger, when the rights of the weak of the individual, are proposed to be put in jeopardy by destroying the supreme court, when the property of the weak is in danger of confiscation by the same process, the service men will resist all such proposals.

"They have demonstrated in the years of peace the same high loyalty and devotion to their country that they gave in the years of war. To all who have been intrusted with the administration of public affairs, it has been an inspiration to know that they had been confident of ready and unqualified support from this important quarter.

"So I send all good wishes for the veterans of the southwest with the assurance that the American people and their government are fully resolved to render every testimony of continued appreciation and gratitude for the service and sacrifices of those who defended their country in its time of most pressing necessity."

START NEW BUILDING.

Camp Structure at Ninth and Van Buren to go Ahead Steadily.

Work has been started on excavating for the foundations of the new $20,000 store building to be erected by A. C. Camp at Ninth and Van Buren streets. Erection of the structure will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

The building, which will cover two lots at the intersection, will be of a California type unusual to this city. Ornamental design and construction material will make it one of the most attractive in the city.

A number of stores will be accommodated in the new structure which, located within a block of the Tenth and Van Buren commercial center, will further enlarge the "business district" of that section of the city.

Dissolution of Parliament Paves Way for Fight Over Labor Survival

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—With parliament dissolved at the request of Premier MacDonald, following the defeat of the government in the house of commons, the utterances of the politicians and the comments of the press indicate that the coming elections on October 29 is likely to be one of the bitterest in recent years.

Sidney Webb, president of the board of trade, is quoted as saying that the campaign will be "an especially dirty one" and the angry tone already manifest in many declarations seems to justify the predictions.

One sign of the eagerness of the liberals and conservatives to prevent another laborite government is the initiation of negotiations between the two older parties with a view to minimizing the number of three cornered contests. Failure to arrange any such liberal-conservative agreement in the last election led to the return of a large number of laborites by minority votes.

It is evident that the women are to participate in the fight to an extent at least equal that of the last election.

NEW CODE EFFECTIVE SOON.

Electrical Rules to Go in Force One Week from Saturday.

The new electrical code recently adopted by the city council is to go into effect one week from today and electricians are busy renewing licenses and making other preparations prior to that date. Licenses renewed now can be obtained at the old rates, while under the new code, an increase is made in the fees required.

The code is to regulate installation and maintenance of electrical wiring and equipment in the city and will, it is believed, result in better workmanship here.

MOTORS STAGE COMEBACK

Slump of 1912 Followed by Recovery Manufacturers Census Shows

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Production of motor vehicles in the United States staged a comeback last year after a slump in 1921 and reached a new peak. The value of the industry's output in 1923 reached a total of $3,163,327,874, according to figures in the biennial census of manufacturers announced today by the census bureau. This was an increase of 89.3 per cent over 1921.

CALLS IT STAMPEDE

Republican Candidate Declares the Unfit and Dishonest are Gone

By RAYMOND S. BROOKS
Record News Staff.

LA GRANGE, Texas, Oct. 10.—An audience larger than the entire population of La Grange heard George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor, in his campaign address here tonight. Delegations were present from Round Top, Ellinger, Fayetteville, Schulenburg and Flatonia and predicted the only county in Texas whose county officers are republicans will give Butte a majority despite the heavy Ferguson vote in the primaries.

Butte spoke on the court house grounds here. He was introduced by C. G. France, reublican county chairman.

Calls It Stampede.

A stampede, the most unique in Texas history, is being started now in Texas, Dr. Butte told his first south Texas audience; a stampeted he predicted which will fling the unfit and dishonest out of office.

Butte vigorously reiterated his plea for constitutional government and declared the only plank in his platform is the governor's oath to observe and enforce all the laws. He told his audience here that 12,000 persons who heard him in San Antonio last night proved the stampede to the banner of anti-Fergusonism is gaining the same momentum in southwest Texas as in the Panhandle and north Texas where he has been.

Reads School History.

He read the Texas school history of Ferguson's impeachment and of the federal court record of Ferguson's receiving $156,000 from Texas brewers. He declared the Ferguson coterie is attempting to revive the ku klux issue but that both the republican party and Butte himself are clearly on record opposed to the klan and that "I have never had and will never have any alliance with it."

The voters of Texas are convinced that 90 per cent of party platforms are bunk, he declared.

Gamblers Shell Out $208 After Raid On Poker Game.

The exchecquer of Wichita county was swelled to the extent of $208 yesterday as a result of a raid Thursday night in which a poker game with ten entries was broken up. Among other things, 41 decks of cards and eight or ten pounds of chips were taken.

The ten gamblers were fined $20.80 each by Justice of the Peace Gwinn after they had all plead guilty.

The raid was made by the sheriff's department on a house in the residential section of the city.

Plans Completed For German Loan Of $800,000,000

Bankers of World Agree On Terms; Bonds On Market Soon

U. S. TAKE OVER HALF

Morgan Banking House Is Signer for American Investors

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The negotiations for a loan of $800,000,000 gold marks to the German government. provided for by the Dawes reparations plan, were successfully concluded this afternoon and the loan will be put on the financial markets of nine countries, including Germany, within a few days. More than half of the entire loan—$110,000.000—is to be raised in the United States.

The bonds will be dated October 15, mature in 25 years and bear seven per cent interest. They will be offered to investors at 92, thus yielding approximately 7 3-4 per cent to maturity. The terms of issue in the various markets are virtually identical.

Signatures to the agreement to loan money to the German government were affixed this afternoon in the old Bank of England building. Doctor H. Jalma Schacht, resident of the Reichs bank, and Doctor Hans Luther, the German finance minister, signed for Germany; J. P. Morgan signed for the American banking syndicate headed by his own company; Montague Norman. for the Bank of England; Jean V. Parmentier for France and the other financiers for the respective financial fields on the continent.

France Seeks to Raise 2½ Billion Francs for Devastated Area.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Interest has been aroused in bourse circles by an announcement from the minister of liberated regions that the government will issue a loan of 2½ billion francs to procure money with which to continue the work of reconstructing the war devastated areas this year. The decision was expected, as no other means had been found to finish the work, but it is criticised in some quarters because the experience of the previous government showed that the financial market was saturated with securities of that kind. It is expected the issue will be made under more favorable conditions than the preceding, with an attractive lottery feature.

Affairs of Defunct Bank Are Being Straightened Out.

By The Associated Press.

TRIEST, Oct. 11.—Herr Cersbach, Austrian consul general here, declares he has been authorized to state that an arrangement to settle the financial affairs of Camillo Castiglioni, formerly president of the board of the defunct Deposit Bank of Vienna, was being carried out with the assistance of the Banca Commerciale.

It was declared to be certain in financial quarters here that Castiglioni difficulties would have no repercussion on other banks or on industrial companies in Austria. It is believed, on the contrary, that a settlement would lead to a stabilization of the Austrian financial market.

PIERRE, S Dakota. Oct.—South Dakota is in the midst of one of the hottest campaigns in its history. The outcome will have an important bearing on the presidential election because this is one of the states claimed by LaFollette adherents.

The chief local interest is in the senatorial race. Though there are eight candidates in the field, the contest appears to be between Governor William H. McMaster, republican nominee; U. S. G. Cherry, democrat, and George W. Egan, independent. Egan is attacking the ku klux klan and calling it the principal issue. Cherry is belaboring McMaster's record as governor while McMaster is promising aid to the farmers if elected.

McMasters won national notoriety last year with an effort to lower gasoline prices. Egan and Cherry are attorneys, and McMasters is a banker.

Promises to lower taxes have formed the principal campaign material for the two principal gubernatorial candidates, the present lieutenant governor, Carl Gunderson, the republican nominee, and William J. Bulow the democratic candidate Bulow is an attorney and Gunderson a retired farmer.

"PRISONER" IN ART GALLERY

New York Woman Sculptor "Takes Possession" After Quarrel

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Miss Helen M. White, sculptor and portrait painter has been a volutary prisoner in an art gallery here for two days in an effort to maintain her right to possession of the establishment. With a tiny window overlooking a deep areaway, the only means of egress, she stands guard behind heavily padlocked oors and are paintings.

Her vigil is the result of a disagreement with Paul C. Leatherman, a business associate, who, she says, obtained a lease of the gallery in his name instead of on behalf of the firm, and ordered her to vacate.

Her Sunday meals consisted of crackers, two apples, a tomato and a can of coffee. She threatens to keep possession until she can institute court proceedings.

Super-Radio To Be Recommended As Experiment

National Conference Agrees To Try Out High Power Stations in U. S.

MEETINGS ADJOURN

Will Also Suggest Giving More Power to Present Broadcasters

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The third national radio conference, called by Secretary Hoover last Monday adjourned late today after having unanimously agreed upon a set of recommendations to the commerce department in its regulation of the radio industry.

The recommendations call for establishment of super power broadcasting stations upon an experimental basis and under strict regulation of the commerce department to prevent interference with smaller stations.

Increase Power.

It was also recommended that general increases in the amount of power permitted to broadcasting stations be made during the summer time and during the day time in winter, in order to overcome interference from static and other outside influences.

Another recommendation adopted urges the government to take no measures towards regulating the matter which it to be broadcast on the air, characterizing any such regulation as government censorship.

FACTS ARE HIS HOBBY

Baltimore Banker Collects Odd Statistics For Fun.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11.—Among the strangest fads on record is that of a prominent Baltomore banker. He makes a specialty of collection what he calles "impossible facts."

"If the world were a perfect circle at the equator," he will say, "and a steel band stretched tightly around it the band would measure about twenty-four thousand miles. But if you add only twelve and one-half inches to the steel band it would stand away two inches from the earth's surface around entire twenty-four thousand miles circumference. Everybody would say that is impossible, but any mathematician will demonstarte that it is a fact."

He Likes It.

Being a banker he loves to dally with figures and in pursuit of his hobby he is often guilty of inflicting cruel and unusual punishment on statistics. Take the pointed matter of pins.

"The world uses 600 million pins every week. Every year for the last one hundred or so it has used 31 billion pins. Now a pin is practically indestructible. Unless it is melted up, a pin will endure unchanged for—be conservative—fifty years. Yet in that time the lost and discarded pins would cover the surface of the earth with a layer two feet thick.

Missing Corpus Delicti.

Turning to a more gruesome subject, the banker deals with the cemeteries and burying grounds of one of the largest cities of the United States—he refuses to say whether or not Baltimore is the subject of his investigation.

"There are twenty-four large cemeteries in and about the city," he goes on, "and, in addition, thirty-five small burying grounds of one kind or another. As the result of painstaking investigation and reference to the records of practically all the burying places mentioned, I have determined that the total number of burials made in them abounts to 577,302.

Where Are They.

"Yet my statistican reports that after a careful study of the population and death rates, backed by the official figures of the public health department, it is certain that at least 900,000 people have died in the city under investigation.

"About 320,000 bodies are unaccounted for. What became of them? Why should there be such a huge discrepancy between the number of burials and of deaths?"

The only clew that he will give to the identity of the city is that it has a population of something over 3-4 million and stands among the older settlements of the country.

ANIMALS IN MOVIES.

Famous Kansas City Herd Filmed For Agricultural Picture.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11.—The herd of famous Sni-a-Bar Farms cattle, like other celebrities, is going into the movies. Motion picture operators of the United States department of agriculture will arrive in Kansas City soon to film scenes at the annual demonstration at Grain Valley and also to make a connected picture of the herd building project in its various steps. Three days probably will be spent in the work.

The pictures will be taken under the direction of E. W. Sheets, acting chief of the animal husbandry division of the bureau of animal industry, and D. S. Burch, editor for the bureau.

Demented Boy Blames Negro For Killing His Mother

Mumbles Over and Over That a Woman Told Him to Do It

KILLED HIS SISTER

After Slaying Mother In Kitchen, Went to Cotton Field for Victim

By The Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 10.—"I didn't think he would harm a fly," says Greenbury Redditt, father of Aquilla Redditt, aged 24, the mental defective who yesterday fatally injured his mother and sister with an axe while the slayer, no longer in the frenzy which prompted him to kill, mumbles over and over again in his cell at the county jail "they told me to do it."

"A woman told me to do it," he said at one time and then changed his story to blame "a negro."

The mother and his sister died in a local hospital four hours after they had been attacked at the family home about 18 miles south of Memphis.

Mildred, 14, another daughter of Mrs. Redditt, escaped death by running to a negro cabin. She declared that for some time previous to the tragedy Aquillia had been pacing to and fro, waving his hands.

"Suddenly," she declared, "I heard a noise of a blow and then a muffled scream from the kitchen. I ran into the room and there was mother lying on the floor and over her was Aquillia with an axe in his hands. I ran to him. He shook me off and lunged at me with the bloody axe. I ran to a nearby negro cabin."

Mary Louis Redditt, aged 24, the daughter who was killed, was picking cotton in a field near the house. The demented brother walked to the field. Later the girl was found stretched across a cotton row, fatally injured. Aquillia then walked to the home of an uncle and told him that "mother and sister are dead."

Cannon Emerges from Retirement To Condemn Senator LaFollette.

By The Associated Press

HOOPESTON, Ills., Oct. 10.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, retired veteran congressman of Illinois, came out of nearly two years of private life last night to address a business men's meeting here and attack Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent candidate for president. He said he had little regard for "a man who is elected as a republican or a democrat and then turns around and raises the devil with those who put him in office.

"I guess I do not have to keep my mouth shut about whom I mean. It's Bob LaFollette."

STEPS ON LOUD PEDAL.

Pinks Won't Be Permitted to Keep Mum on Court Issue, Says Dawes.

By The Associated Press

DAWES SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 10.—Charles G. Dawes, republican nominee for vice-president, announced today as he entered Nebraska for four speeches that "soft pedalling" of the supreme court issue by the leaders of the La-Follette movement would not deter him from attacks on the independent candidacy based on that question.

"Realizing that they ar combatting something instinctive in every patriotic American, they are soft pedalling a little bit on this proposition," he declared. "But why is it there in their platform? Because in my judgment if it had not been there the largest portion of that aggregation, the socialists who in the words of Eugene V. Debs are in this campaign adhering rigidly to socialistic principles and flying the red flag, would not be behind this movement."

Crowd Gathers After Killing And Prisoner is Taken to Ft Worth

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 10.—Dr. W. F. Johnson, 53, physician, was brought to the Tarrant county jail late last night by Cleburne officers following the shooting to death of Luther Etter, 23. A woman was wounded by a stray bullet. A crowd gathering about the court house caused the officers to transfer the prisoner. The shooting took place on the carnival grounds.

MOB SEEKS NEGRO

Precautions Are Taken to Guard Black at Shelbyville, Ill.

By The Associated Press

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10.—A special guard was on duty all last night at the county jail here as a result of the receipt of a warning that a mob was preparing to seize Harvey Davis, negro held in jail here since confessing that he robbed and killed W. L. Funkhauser, 70-year-old magazine solicitor, near Mattoon, Ill., September 20.

The precautionary measure was taken after the sheriff had been informed by Mattoon police of a report that a mob was being formed at Etna, 12 miles south of Mattoon. Information from Etna early today indicated that no attack on the jail was to be feared.

Superstition Jinx Feared By Crew In Trip of the ZR-3

Condoled by Not Leaving Friday, Still Not Satisfied

ARRIVE ON 13TH!

But 32 Will Attempt Trip Of Great Dirigible Over Atlantic Ocean

By The Associated Press.

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Oct. 10.—Thirty-two persons will be on board the R-3 when the giant dirigible, built here by the Zeppelin company for the United States navy, departs soon after daylight tomorrow for Lakehurst, N. J.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin company, made this statement today in announcing that two mechanics had been added to the German personnel, bringing the total of those who will be on board to 28 Germans and four Americans.

Seek Stowaways

Precautions were taken today to prevent stowaways from finding places in the airship. Then watchmen were assigned to guard the ship constantly until the hour of departure.

Because of the fact that the principal agricultural occupaiton of the population of Friederichshafen and its vicinity is the raising of grapes for wine making and apples for cider making, Dr. Eckener has found it necessary to become a sort of self-appointed prohibition agent. Gifts of alcoholic beverages have been showered upon the members of the crew, but the director has ordered that none of it be taken along save only two bottles of cognac in the medical chest. Just before the departure of the airship the ship will be searched from stein to stern for bottled goods as well as stowaways.

Superstition Rules

The decision of Dr. Eckener, partially influenced by both German and American members of the crew, not to start out on a Friday has not quite rid some members of the personnel of concern over superstitious consideration. It is pointed out that if the ZR-3 leaves tomorrow and has a successful trip it will reach Lakehurst on Oct. 13.

SEVERAL INJURED

Explosive Went Off Prematurely, Tearing Big Gap In Silk Bag

By The Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Vt., Oct. 10.—The army blimp TC-2, the largest non-rigid lighter than aircraft yet built in the United States, was badly damaged and several of her crew injured today when a bomb she was carrying exploded while she was in the air over Langley field.

Lieutenants Bruce Martin and Alfred Puryear were seriously injured and Master Sergeant Pitch and Sergeants Wells and Jacobs sustained less serious injuries.

The blimp was about 150 feet in the air when a large bomb exploded prematurely and blew a gaping hole in the silk encased bag. The blimp collapsed and came crashing to the earth, the officers and men aboard having no time to take parachutes.

Races Warm in South Dakota

PIERRE, S Dakota, Oct.—South Dakota is in the midst of one of the hottest campaigns in its history. The outcome will have an important bearing on the presidential election because this is one of the states claimed by LaFollette adherents.

The chief local interest is in the senatorial race. Though there are eight candidates in the field, the contest appears to be between Governor William H. McMaster, republican nominee; U. S. G. Cherry, democrat, and George W. Egan, independent. Egan is attacking the ku klux klan and calling it the principal issue. Cherry is belaboring McMaster's record as governor while McMaster is promising aid to the farmers if elected.

McMasters won national notoriety last year with an effort to lower gasoline prices. Egan and Cherry are attorneys, and McMasters is a banker.

Promises to lower taxes have formed the principal campaign material for the two principal gubernatorial candidates, the present lieutenant governor, Carl Gunderson, the republican nominee, and William J. Bulow the democratic candidate Bulow is an attorney and Gunderson a retired farmer.

"PRISONER" IN ART GALLERY

New York Woman Sculptor "Takes Possession" After Quarrel

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Miss Helen M. White, sculptor and portrait painter has been a voluntary prisoner in an art gallery here for two days in an effort to maintain her right to possession of the establishment. With a tiny window overlooking a deep areaway, the only means of egress, she stands guard behind heavily padlocked doors and her paintings.

Her vigil is the result of a disagreement with Paul C. Leatherman, a business associate, who, she says, obtained a lease of the gallery in his name instead of on behalf of the firm, and ordered her to vacate.

Her Sunday meals consisted of crackers, two apples, a tomato and a can of coffee. She threatens to keep possession until she can institute court proceedings.

Super-Radio To Be Recommended As Experiment

National Conference Agrees To Try Out High Power Stations in U. S.

MEETINGS ADJOURN

Will Also Suggest Giving More Power to Present Broadcasters

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The third national radio conference, called by Secretary Hoover last Monday adjourned late today after having unanimously agreed upon a set of recommendations to the commerce department in its regulation of the radio industry.

The recommendations call for establishment of super power broadcasting stations upon an experimental basis and under strict regulation of the commerce department to prevent interference with smaller stations.

Increase Power.

It was also recommended that general increases in the amount of power permitted to broadcasting stations be made during the summer time and during the day time in winter, in order to overcome interference from static and other outside influences.

Another recommendation adopted urges the government to take no measures towards regulating the matter which it to be broadcast on the air, characterizing any such regulation as government censorship.

FACTS ARE HIS HOBBY

Baltimore Banker Collects Odd Statistics For Fun.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11.—Among the strangest fads on record is that of a prominent Baltomore banker. He makes a specialty of collection what he calles "impossible facts."

"If the world were a perfect circle at the equator," he will say, "and a steel band stretched tightly around it the band would measure about twenty-four thousand miles. But if you add only twelve and one-half inches to the steel band it would stand away two inches from the earth's surface around entire twenty-four thousand miles circumference. Everybody would say that is impossible, but any mathematician will demonstarte that it is a fact."

He Likes It.

Being a banker he loves to dally with figures and in pursuit of his hobby he is often guilty of inflicting cruel and unusual punishment on statistics. Take the pointed matter of pins.

"The world uses 600 million pins every week. Every year for the last one hundred or so it has used 31 billion pins. Now a pin is practically indestructible. Unless it is melted up, a pin will endure unchanged for—be conservative—fifty years. Yet in that time the lost and discarded pins would cover the surface of the earth with a layer two feet thick.

Missing Corpus Delicti.

Turning to a more gruesome subject, the banker deals with the cemeteries and burying grounds of one of the largest cities of the United States—he refuses to say whether or not Baltimore is the subject of his investigation.

"There are twenty-four large cemeteries in and about the city," he goes on, "and, in addition, thirty-five small burying grounds of one kind or another. As the result of painstaking investigation and reference to the records of practically all the burying places mentioned, I have determined that the total number of burials made in them abounts to 577,202.

Where Are They.

"Yet my statistican reports that after a careful study of the population and death rates, backed by the official figures of the public health department, it is certain that at least 900,000 people have died in the city under investigation.

"About 320,000 bodies are unaccounted for. What became of them? Why should there be such a huge discrepancy between the number of burials and of deaths?"

The only clew that he will give to the identity of the city is that it has a population of something over 3-4 million and stands among the older settlements of the country.

ANIMALS IN MOVIES.

Famous Kansas City Herd Filmed For Agricultural Picture.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11.—The herd of famous Sni-a-Bar Farms cattle, like other celebrities, is going into the movies. Motion picture operators of the United States department of agriculture will arrive in Kansas City soon to film scenes at the annual demonstration at Grain Valley and also to make a connected picture of the herd building project in its various steps. Three days probably will be spent in the work.

The pictures will be taken under the direction of E. W. Sheets, acting chief of the animal husbandry division of the bureau of animal industry, and D. S. Burch, editor for the bureau.

Demented Boy Blames Negro For Killing His Mother

Mumbles Over and Over That a Woman Told Him to Do It

KILLED HIS SISTER

After Slaying Mother In Kitchen, Went to Cotton Field for Victim

By The Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 10.—"I didn't think he would harm a fly," says Greenbury Redditt, father of Aquillia Redditt, aged 24, the mental defective who yesterday fatally injured his mother and sister with an axe while the slayer, no longer in the frenzy which prompted him to kill, mumbles over and over again in his cell at the county jail "they told me to do it."

"A woman told me to do it," he said at one time and then changed his story to blame "a negro."

The mother and his sister died in a local hospital four hours after they had been attacked at the family home about 18 miles south of Memphis.

Mildred, 14, another daughter of Mrs. Redditt, escaped death by running to a negro cabin. She declared that for some time previous to the tragedy Aquillia had been pacing to and fro, waving his hands.

"Suddenly," she declared, "I heard a noise of a blow and then a muffled scream from the kitchen. I ran into the room and there was mother lying on the floor and over her was Aquillia with an axe in his hands. I ran to him. He shook me off and lunged at me with the bloody axe. I ran to a nearby negro cabin."

Mary Louis Redditt, aged 24, the daughter who was killed, was picking cotton in a field near the house. The demented brother walked to the field. Later the girl was found stretched across a cotton row, fatally injured. Aquillia then walked to the home of an uncle and told him that "mother and sister are dead."

Cannon Emerges from Retirement To Condemn Senator LaFollette.

By The Associated Press

HOOPESTON, Ills., Oct. 10.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, retired veteran congressman of Illinois, came out of nearly two years of private life last night to address a business men's meeting here and attack Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent candidate for president. He said he had little regard for "a man who is elected as a republican or a democrat and then turns around and raises the devil with those who put him in office.

"I guess I do not have to keep my mouth shut about whom I mean. It's Bob LaFollette."

Pinks Won't Be Permitted to Keep Mum on Court Issue, Says Dawes.

By The Associated Press

DAWES SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 10.—Charles G. Dawes, republican nominee for vice-president, announced today as he entered Nebraska for four speeches that "soft pedalling" of the supreme court issue by the leaders of the La-Follette movement would not deter him from attacks on the independent candidacy based on that question.

"Realizing that they ar combatting something instinctive in every patriotic American, they are soft pedalling a little bit on this proposition," he declared. "But why is it there in their platform? Because in my judgment if it had not been there the largest portion of that aggregation, the socialists who in the words of Eugene V. Debs are in this campaign adhering rigidly to socialistic principles and flying the red flag, would not be behind this movement."

A woman was wounded by a stray bullet. A crowd gathering about the court house caused the officers to transfer the prisoner. The shooting took place on the carnival grounds.

MOB SEEKS NEGRO

Precautions Are Taken to Guard Black at Shelbyville, Ill.

By The Associated Press

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10.—A special guard was on duty all last night at the county jail here as a result of the receipt of a warning that a mob was preparing to seize Harvey Davis, negro held in jail here since confessing that he robbed and killed W. L. Funkhauser, 70-year-old magazine solicitor, near Mattoon, Ill., September 30.

The precautionary measure was taken after the sheriff had been informed by Mattoon police of a report that a mob was being formed at Etna, 12 miles south of Mattoon. Information from Etna early today indicated that no attack on the jail was to be feared.

Superstition Jinx Feared By Crew In Trip of the ZR-3

Condoled by Not Leaving Friday, Still Not Satisfied

ARRIVE ON 13TH!

But 32 Will Attempt Trip Of Great Dirigible Over Atlantic Ocean

By The Associated Press.

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Oct. 10.—Thirty-two persons will be on board the R-3 when the giant dirigible, built here by the Zeppelin company for the United States navy, departs soon after daylight tomorrow for Lakehurst, N. J.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin company, made this statement today in announcing that two mechanics had been added to the German personnel, bringing the total of those who will be on board to 28 Germans and four Americans.

Seek Stowaways

Precautions were taken today to prevent stowaways from finding places in the airship. Then watchmen were assigned to guard the ship constantly until the hour of departure.

Because of the fact that the principal agricultural occupaiton of the population of Friederichshafen and its vicinity is the raising of grapes for wine making and apples for cider making, Dr. Eckener has found it necessary to become a sort of self-appointed prohibition agent. Gifts of alcoholic beverages have been showered upon the members of the crew, but the director has ordered that none of it be taken along save only two bottles of cognac in the medical chest. Just before the departure of the airship the ship will be searched from stem to stern for bottled goods as well as stowaways.

Superstition Rules

The decision of Dr. Eckener, partially influenced by both German and American members of the crew, not to start out on a Friday has not quite rid some members of the personnel of concern over superstitious consideration. It is pointed out that if the ZR-3 leaves tomorrow and has a successful trip it will reach Lakehurst on Oct. 13.

Bomb Explodes In Big Blimp When 150 Feet in Air

Largest Non-Rigid Lighter Than Air Craft Badly Damaged

SEVERAL INJURED

Explosive Went Off Prematurely, Tearing Big Gap In Silk Bag

By The Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Vt., Oct. 10.—The army blimp TC-2, the largest non-rigid lighter than aircraft yet built in the United States, was badly damaged and several of her crew injured today when a bomb she was carrying exploded while she was in the air over Langley field.

Lieutenants Bruce Martin and Alfred Puryear were seriously injured and Master Sergeant Pitch and Sergeants Wells and Jacobs sustained less serious injuries.

The blimp was about 150 feet in the air when a large bomb exploded prematurely and blew a gaping hole in the silk encased bag. The blimp collapsed and came crashing to the earth, the officers and men aboard having no time to take parachutes.

College Indians Lose While Junior High Eleven Wins

Lions' Plunging Attack Scores 46 to 0 Victory

LIONS UNDER WRAPS

Clary, Keevil and Caskey Wage Lone Battle For Defeated

VERNON, Oct. 10.—Coach E. A. Baggett's Vernon Lions proved better fighters than Coach Mosley's Wichita Falls Junior College Indians here this afternoon, and the Redskins bit the dust in an overwhelming 46-to-0 defeat.

The Lions found to their satisfaction early during the first quarter that they were masters of the situation and from there on apparently played under wraps. The brilliant Walker, Vernon fullback, was rarely called on to carry the ball. Bourland, Withers, Ryan and Gilhausen did most of the shoat-skin packing with Williams coming in for a bit of offensive work also.

During the initial portion of the contest Vernon resorted merely to line plunges and end runs. Throughout the second half, smashes at the Wichita Falls forward defense constituted the entire style of attack.

Rival coaches possibly on hand to scout the game went away more or less empty-handed, for the Lions failed to produce anything bordering on a varied attack, but held strictly to straight football.

Clary Shows Up.

The Vernon forwards completely outclassed the inexperienced Wichita Falls line, and for three quarters tore wide swaths in the Indians' defense for the backs to plunge through. The only outstanding player in the Wichita Falls front line entrenchment was Clary at center who put up a hard game all the way. Several long runs were dashed off by the Vernon backfield, but on each occasion well nigh perfect interference given by the linemen gave the backs a running start and a chance to get into the open field.

Vernon scored most of its points by marching steadily to the goal through the weaker Wichita Falls line in successive bucks, and then ploughing over. Outside of the final quarter when Coach Baggett ran in practically a full team of substitutes few tackles were made by the Indians on the line of scrimmage. It always devolved on the backs to stop the Vernon rush. Caskey and Keevil, Wichita Falls halfbacks, fought viciously and were the defensive stars of the game. This pair of moleskinners time and again caught the brunt of the Vernon rushes, and downed the Lions with little yardage gained.

Several Long Runs.

Several long broken field runs were knocked off the victors. During the first few minutes of play with Vernon holding the ball on its 30-yard line, Withers slipped off the Wichita Falls left end behind wonderful interference and romped 70 yards to the goal line. Attempt to put the oval between the bars from placement following the touchdown failed.

With Withers and Bourland doing most of the ball-toting toward the latter part of the first period, Vernon marched steadily toward the goal line from back in its own territory. Shortly after the opening of the second quarter, plunges, a short end run by Gilhausen, a five-yard penalty for Wichita, and another buck by Bourland brought Vernon its second touchdown. Walker booted the ball over from placement for the extra point. Score Vernon 13 to 0.

More steady line plunging by the Lions backs with the forwards working in brilliant fashion brought the pigskin to the 14-yard line. From there Walker brushed Wichita Falls' right tackle for another counter. Walker kicked goal from placement. Score 20 to 0 Vernon.

Later in the second quarter an attempt by the Indians to punt from their 15-yard line was blocked when half the Vernon line broke through. Crouch, right end, swooped up the leather and broke five yards further for the touchdown. Try for goal failed. Score 2" to 0 Vernon.

Early in the third quarter, Bourland slipped off the Wichita Falls right tackle and raced from his own 20-yard line, 50 yards up the field before being downed. Successive plunges brought the ball within scoring distance. Walker then carried over the line for the touchdown. Williams kicked goal from placement. Score 33 to 0 Vernon.

Vernon's fierce and charging attack abbetted by a Wichita Falls fumble put the oval down within eight yards of the Indians' goal again. There Wichita Falls stubbornly and bravely refused to give way before three drives at the forward wall. On the fourth attempt Walker tore through for another touchdown. He then kicked goal from placement. This brought the score up to 40 to 0 Vernon.

Late in the third quarter the Lions again marched steadily down the field until within striking distance, and then Ryan carried over for the final tabulation of the contest. No goal was made following the score. This brought the count up to the final 46 to 0 Vernon.

Vernon had a bit the better of the going during the fourth period but failed to get away for any more goal line forays.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 10.—Aileen Guy, owned by Frank W. Elliss of Philadelphia, and driven by Ben White, won the $11,000 May Day stake today. The time was 2:05 1-2 and 2:05 1-2 for the two fastest heats in the race for two year olds. Soubrette, driven by Cox was second and Jean Claire, driven by Rosemire finished third. The winner's portion was $7,500.

H. W. Hanin's Etta Druien, driven by T. W. Murphy, won the Cattleton in straight heats. Prince Bondsman, driven by Joe Haldeman was second, and Todd Hart, driven by Harry Putnam third.

Nats and Giants Set New Series Receipt Record

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—A new record for world series receipts was established by the Giants and Senators. Figures for the seven games $1,093,104, exceeded by $38,289, those of the only other million dollar series, the six contest battle between the Giants and Yankees in New York last year.

Attendance figures were not shattered, however. The mark of 283,695 set in this series, fell 17,735 short of the 301,430 who saw the classic last season.

Washington players will divide $148,991.62 of the total fund and New York will split up $99,327.75. The remaining 25 per cent of the total players' share will be divided among the second and third place clubs in each league.

The Washington melon will be split into 26 shares of $5,730 each, Manager Harris announced after a meeting of the players which followed the game. Miller and Taylor, substitute infielders, and Al Schacht, coach, will each receive two-thirds of a share and the twenty-four remaining portions will be equally divided among the other players, Coach Nick Altrock and Trainer Mike Martin. Lump sums will be donated by the players to Wade Leftover, outfielder who was ineligible for the series, to the club house boy, Frankie Baxter, and to the Senator bat boy.

The Giants left hurriedly after the contest to catch a train and did not announce the division of their cut. The approximate figures for each of the twenty-six men on the Giant eligible list, including Coach Jennings, would be $3,820.

Every golfer has his peculiarities but if he gets good results and is satisfied with his lot, leave him alone. I have noticed some seventy shooters that look like 18-handicap men, but they get results principally by using their heads. If a player is a dubb and wants to improve he will have to change his methods.

S. M. U. Outpoints Austin 7-0 in A "Grudge Battle"

Mustangs Threaten in All Quarters But Score Once

FREAK PLAYS USED

Fake Punts Used Time And Again in Effort To Score

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 10.—In a hard fought struggle that fulfilled the advance information that the game would be a "grude" fight, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs of Dallas today defeated the Austin college Kangaroos from Sherman 7 to 0.

Though the Mustangs were on the defensive the greater part of the game, they were able to score only in one period, the first, when Pearson, left half back crashed the Austin line and ran 28 yards for a touchdown, Reisor, all conference full back of 1923 kicked goal.

Stewart Sees It

The game today will be the last non-conference tilt for the Mustangs. They begin their grind of six conference games next Saturday at the state fair of Texas with the University of Texas. Coach "Doc" Stewart of Texas was a spectator at the game today.

Until last year Austin college seemed to have a "jinx" over the Mustangs, defeating them when some of the larger schools of the state were unsuccessful. After their defeat last year, the Kangaroos came back stronger than ever this year and with Allred and Miller of the backfield in good shape, they put up a real battle. The line of the Kangaroos was weak during the first half, but tightened during the last two periods.

Nine Freaks.

The Mustangs uncorked nine freak plays, mostly fake punts, during the melee, and in most instances good gains were registered. The Mustangs completed two forward passes, both in the first period while the Austin college team did not complete a one. The Mustang warriors intercepted five of the Austin college shoots, while the visitors only speared one.

Baltimore Needs One More Victory to Win Little World's Series

ST. PAUL, Oct. 10.—Fast balls that sped over the plate in bewildering array, the offerings of Alphonse Thomas of Baltimore, nullified the efforts of St. Paul batsmen and Baltimore took the sixth junior world's series game, 4 to 0 here today.

It brought the Orioles to within one game of the junior title, for tonight they had four games to their credit, while St. Paul has only won two. Five victories determine the series honors. Score:

ELK GOES ON WARPATH

Many Ascend Trees Up in Skookumchuck River Country.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 11.—Ordinary deer hunting experiences are tame compared to the thrilling narrative of the last days and death of the wildest of wild bull elk, up in the foothills of the Upper Skookumchurch river country in Thursday county, as told by Harley Post, chairman of the county game commission.

Resenting the treatment of the young bulls of the herd of nine, elk released in the county last year, who drove him from the herd, the old bull elk ran amuck.

He had timber cruisers climbing trees several days. Later he had a regular field day in a logging camp, drove three men from a hand car and knocked the car into a ditch. Still later he took after a group of loggers on a gasoline speeder and wrecked that. Then he chased several children into a school house and kept them there several hours.

In the logging camp proper, he is credited with having kept nine men up trees from 5 until 9 in the evening when he got wearied and wandered away.

The Commissioner Post was appealed to. The commissioner found the bull on a bald knoll, hurling defiance to the world. The commissioner won, and the carcass, which weighed about six hundred pounds, was packed out of the woods, being placed in cold storage here to await final disposition.

"BUSY" LINE TOLD SECRET.

Budapest Official Kills Wife's Lover After "Listening In."

VIENNA, Oct. 11.—In Budapest, as elsewhere, a telephone operator sometimes plugs a call through on an occupied line. Generally one hangs up. But Stephen Koszaka, a high city official in Budapest, didn't, for he was calling his wife. He was connected while she was speaking with Lieut. Col. Sigmund Valerian, one of the best known Hungarian cavalry officers and a life-long friend of Koszaka. Through the conversation he learned that the army officer was his wife's lover and that they planned to elope.

Half an hour later Koszaka found Colonel Valerian and killed him. Koszaka gave himself up to the police.

Coyote Pups Fight Ahead Late in Game

Hill's Charges Put Up Very Stubborn Scrap Most Of Distance

BURNEY STAR OF TILT

Wichita Falls Flashes To 26-to-0 Win In Last Period

Montgomery's Wichita Falls Junior high school eleven flashed a brilliant spurt in the final quarter of a hard fought contest on the Spudder gridiron Friday, and defeated Coach Hills plucky little Iowa Park machine, 26 to 0.

Fullback Burney of Iowa Park, although losing, was the scintillating star of the game. Burney knocked off four straight downs in the initial quarter with terrific line plunges. On the five-yard line the Iowa Park quarter miscued mentally and called a forward pass. Burney snared the oval, held it and then fumbled. Captain Walker of the Junior Coyotes covered the ball, thereby averting a possible score. Greatly through the playing of Burney, Iowa Park threatened again and again during the game, but lacked sufficient punch to get over for tabulation.

The contest see-sawed back and forth until toward the latter part of the third period, Walker intercepted an Iowa Park pass and ran 40 yards for the Junior's first touchdown. Attempt at goal from placement failed.

In the final quarter Horten broke off Iowa Park's left tackle and raced through a mottled field 50 yards for the second touchdown. Forward pass, Francis to Levine, accounted for the extra point following touchdown.

A few minutes after Horton's first long run he intercepted a pass on Iowa Park's 35-yard line and scampered across the goal line. Again the Juniors scored their extra point via the aerial route, this time Levine to Harrington.

On an attempted placement kick, Taylor slipped down and covered the ball for Wichita Falls behind the goal line for the last counter of the contest. Attempt for extra point failed.

COLLECT SOVIET TAX.

Bolsheviki Will Get 10 Per Cent Of Dancer's Receipts.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Every tenth person who will pay $2 to see Michael Nordkin dance in America will contribute his money to the bolshevist government. Every time Morris Gest counts the house in New York, Chicago and elsewhere, some soviet cheka agent will count the house also. Ten per cent of the receipts will go to the soviets.

After putting all possible hindrances in the way of M. Nordkin going to America, Russia compromised with the dance troop on the condition that the Bolsheviki share the profits of the American tour. This was learned when the Russian troupe opened its European tour preliminary to sailing.

BIGAMIST HAS REAL TASK

He Must Support Two Distinct Families, Court Rules.

ATLANTA, Oct. 11.—C. A. Wigely, a cement contractor, has begun his task of supporting two separate families, both his own, under an order of Judge W. E. Thomas, delivered here yesterday upon finding Wigely guilty of bigamy.

The wives with their children, of which Wigely is the father, appeared in court and urged clemency for Wigely. Wife No. 1 said she was suing Wigely for divorce, whereupon Judge Thomas directed him to pay her $20 a month alimony until she obtained it, giving him as an alternative a sentence of two to ten years on the chain gang. Wigely accepted the first alternative and said he would remarry wife No. 2 when the divorce was granted wife No. 1.

AMUNDSEN SEEKS POLE FUND

Easy With Plane or Balloon, Says Explorer, to Lecture in U. S.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—"Broke" but far from beaten, Capt. Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer has arrived here on the liner Dottingholm, bent on his latest effort to outfit an expedition to the North Pole, replacing the attempt which was to have started him from Italy last June, but collapsed for lack of funds.

Airplane and dirigible would replace the floundering dog team in Arctic exploration, Amundsen said. It is easy to reach both poles with the present development of aircraft if one is sufficiently interested. The hop from Spitzbergen to Point Barrow over the top of the world would take only twenty-one hours, he said.

Amundsen expects to raise $150,000 here by lecturing.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The motion picture director and the camera man came just in time to rescue the naughty parrot from Billy.

"Why, Billy, what are you trying to do?" asked Mr. Dates, going up to pet him, for he saw the goat was very much excited and he wished to quiet him.

Polly, seeing she was safe, began to screech again, when with a bound Billy was after her again, and this time as he ran he gave a jump and bounded up high enough to knock the cage off its hook on the rope, and down it came with a crash. And before either of the two men could get to the cage, Billy was jumping on it, trying to smash it open so he could get at the parrot. In some way one foot pushed on the door, and out flew the frightened parrot past Billy's head and on up to the rafters, where she sat, a most bedraggled looking bird indeed. But she had had enough, and not a peep was heard from her.

"Well, Billy, I am sorry you smashed the cage. But I can't say that I blame you much, for I think I should have done the same thing in your place if anyone had called me the ugly name she did you. You better come along with me and eat a little grass out in the yard. It will help cool you off," and Mr. Dates and the camera man went out, Billy following at their heels.

Billy ate some grass with sweet clover blossoms in it and took a good drink out of one of the tubs of water they had had at the fire. He felt better, so he walked over to a nice, shady place by the stable, where he saw a bunch of fresh straw and lay down on it and was soon fast asleep.

He was dreaming of Nannie, his dear little wife, and Stubby and Button, his dearest friends, and was having a visit with them when he was awakened out of this fine dream by something pulling his whiskers. And when he opened his eyes he thought he was still dreaming, for there in front of him and on all sides squatted a dozen or more Belgian hares.

"Oh, I beg your pardon!" said the largest of the hares, as he twitched his nose (a habit all hares have.) "I chewed a bit of your beard, thinking it was a new kind of grass."

"You are forgiven, but don't do it again," replied Billy in a cross tone, for he was provoked at being aroused from his lovely dream. He shut his eyes and tried to bring it back, but it would not come, and he opened his eyes to see if the hares were still there, but every one of them had gone. He had frightened them so with his big voice that they had hopped silently away the moment he closed his eyes. But what was that he saw coming in the gate from the street but a big black cat and a little, stubby-tailed yellow dog. It was Stubby and Button in the flesh, the friends of whom he had been dreaming. But, no, it could not be. It would be far too good to come true. But it was, and he jumped to his feet and ran to meet them, bleating a welcome as he ran.

(Now how do you suppose Stubby and Button got to the moving picture studio? We will have to wait until tomorrow to find out.)

Mothers

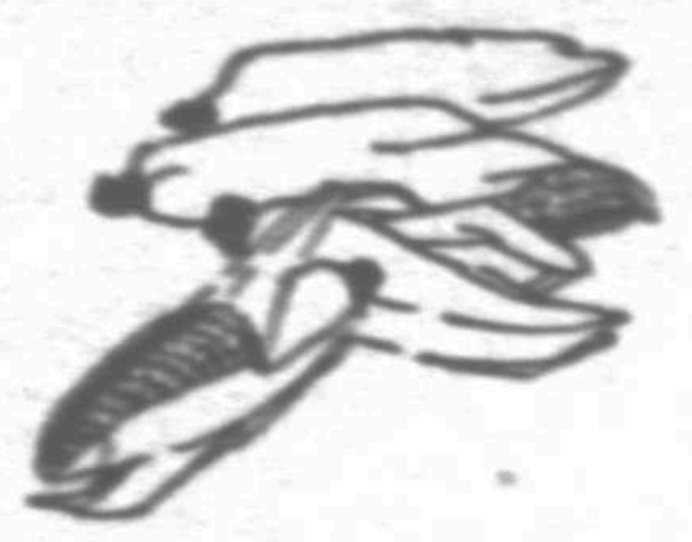
AND THEIR CHILDREN

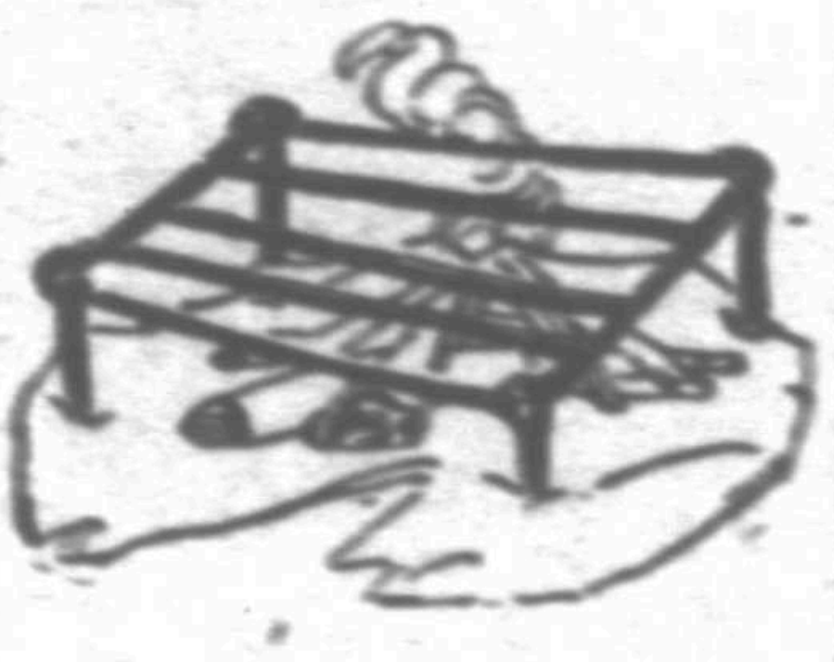
A Dainty Gift

One Mother Says:

Wooden stockings forms easily snag baby's silk hose. Enameled with ivory or a dainty color, with some small design, the stocking forms are more attractive and the danger of snagging is eliminated. These also make very attractive gifts when a new baby arrives at the house of a friend.

Color Cut-Outs





"I can't eat another bite!" announced Betty Cut-out. "I'm so full of corn I feel like a corn popper."

Every one else felt just as Betty did, so they didn't put any more roasting ears in the fire or any more meat on the grill. Such a feast it had been!

One of the girls had a ukulele, so she played some songs they all knew and everybody sang. Then it was time to go home, and they all piled up again in the hayrack. The corn roast was over.

"I like country fun," declared Betty Cut-out sleepily, as she and Dorothy Anne got out in front of Dorothy Anne's pretty farm home and all the boys and girls shouted goodbyes at them.

Color the corn green and yellow, the fire under the grill yellow, and the pail they brought their water in gray.

Wildcatter Hands Geologists Large Crude Oil Drink

Skeptics Who Scoffed at Big Lake Possibilities Couldn't Drink it All Now

NEARLY 6,000 A DAY

Unable to Get Assistance At First—Doesn't Want It Now

Special to The Record News.

BIG LAKE, Texas, Oct. 9.—Oil geologists less than eighteen months ago told Levi Smith, discoverer of the Big Lake oil pool they would drink all the oil this territory would produce. Smith now doubts if all the geologists in the world could drink 6,000 barrels daily. That is the present producton of the field.

Because of the skepticism of geologists for major companies, Smith was unable to get assistance when he most needed it, while drilling the first well. Now he is not enthusiastic about giving major firms even a toehold here. He and his associates have segregated ten sections some miles north of the pool and offered them at $150 an acre cash and a like amount in oil. Apparently there have been no sales.

Assistance came to Smith at the critical time from the Transcontinental Oil company, by which he was employed. That was $50,000 cash and an interest in several thousand acres of leases.

Smith was on a vacation when he was attracted by the possibilities here. The attraction was trend rather than surface structure signs, although a few miles to the south lies a range of limestone hills and a few miles to the west another range of hills. The oil pool is in a flat, level country covered with mesquite grass, mesquite trees, cactus and other plants of the dry lands of the southwest.

Two wells recently completed by Smith and associates are making 2,000 barrels each daily. One is two and one-half miles southeast of the original well and the other about the same distance northeast. Oil is being sold to refiners at El Paso and Fort Worth and shipped from here over the Orient railroad. Plans are being made by the Transcontinental to lay a pipe line, probably to Ranger.

The indications are that an important field has been found here but its development will be retarded by lack of pipeline facilities and the positive decision of Levi Smith that only big companies that pay the price can come in.

The greater part of the oil produced in this section will be on land owned in fee by the University of Texas and from which the university will derive royalty.

CONNECT TANKS.

Wichita Pipeline Company Completes Line to American Co's. "55s."

The Wichita Pipeline company has completed and made connections yesterday afternoon with the two new 55,000-barrel storage tanks of the American Refining company located north of their refinery and south of the Panhandle plant. The line to the tanks is about 3,000 feet long and is laid with six-inch pipe. It runs from the junction at the Lone Star plant to the American tank farm.

QUANAH FINANCES O. K.

City in Excellent Condition Mayor Points Out.

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Oct. 10.—The city of Quanah is in excellent financial condition, according to Mayor E. A. Jones.

During the past two years municipal improvements including $175,000 street paving program, $10,000 storm sewers, $45,000. City hall and fire station, $10,000 street lighting extension, $10,000 improvements and additions to disposal plant, and thousands of dollars worth of laterals and extensions to the water system have been made. There has been no raise in the tax rate, and practically no raise in valuations. According to Mayor Jones this condition has been made possible because the water and sanitary departments are self-sustaining.

BOWIE MAN ENDS LIFE.

J. M. Horn Shoots Self in Heart; Cause Unknown.

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Oct. 10.—J. M. Horn, well known resident of this community and for several years teacher in the rural schools, died at the home of his father-in-law, John M. Dye, five miles north of town this morning at 8 o'clock as the result of two self-inflicted bullet wounds through his heart. Mr. Horn was well known in educational circles throughout the county and at one time was a candidate for county superintendent of education. The cause of the tragedy is not known. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Horn.

QUANAH LAW ENFORCED.

Safety Fire Ordinance Regulation Catches Violators.

QUANAH, Oct. 10. — Quanah's safety fire parking ordinance is now being strictly enforced. Fifteen violators were listed for appearance in city court at the fire when A. F. Decker's gist mill burned this week.

The ordinance was passed some months ago, requiring all vehicles to draw to the curb and park five minutes at the sound of the siren, and no vehicles park closer than 300 feet of the scene of the fire.

Then They Surprised Employes And Get Away With $20,000 Loot.

BRISTOW, Okla., Oct. 10.—Two bandits, hiding in the Oilton State bank at Oilton, Okla., surprised three employes of the institution when they opened the bank for business today, forced them to open the valut and escaped with loot estimated in police reports at $20,000.

News of the Fields

Texhoma, Montague

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is drilling at a depth past 684 feet on their No. 1 Ocie Cato, Finis Robertson survey, north of Nocona, Montague county, and about three miles northeast of their No. 1 N. J. Howard, producer.

Burton-Texhoma, Lewis

C. P. Burton and the Texhoma Oil and Refining company are rigging up on their No. 1 Lewis, southeast corner of the west half of TE&LCO survey, block 187, abstract 434, southwest of Olney, north Young county.

Texhoma Pipeline

The Texhoma has completed their two-inch pipe line from the Green-Flowers pool and their line there to the southeast extension to the pool on the Farmer-Logan land. They have made connections here and yesterday ran the first oil from the Sanders-Taylor, Ray-Featherstone, Evangeline Petroleum company wells here.

Superior, Cowan

The Superior Oil Producing company is drilling ahead with a small bit at a depth of 1,074 feet on their No. 1 Cowan, south of the Major-Clark holdings, Jefferson county school lands survey, abstract 240, south Archer county. The expected 1,050-foot sand here seems to have been missed altogether, it appearing only in broken streaks. The next oil sand is expected at about 1,120 feet.

Winnipeg, Benson

Winnipeg Drilling company is preparing to abandon its No. 1 Benson, TE&LCO survey, abstract 867, 900 feet southeast of the Benson producers in north Young county. The rig will be moved to South Vernon for the same company's No. 3 Bond-Hawkins, Williams. Total depth of the hole was given as 1,450 feet. The regular Benson sand was missed, altogether.

Kemp-Birdsong, et al

Kemp and Birdsong, Clark and Harbin are shut down on their No. 1 Dill, southeast corner of the north half of the southwest quarter of section 84, Dill land, south of Vernon, Wilbarger county, at a total depth of 2,037 feet, in blue shale. This shale has persisted for about 30 feet at this depth, with an occasional streak of sand and lime carrying water.

The sand may, it is said, have carried a light trace of oil, but very little.

It is not known just now whether the well will be drilled deeper or not, or what disposition will be made of the hole, the Star rig above it not being able to go much further.

The completion here at this level for a dry hole will probably exert a great influence on future development of the field here that has lately taken on a boom air by reason of the Winnipeg, Wells-Guiberson, Bridwell-Heydrick completions.

The well is located a little more than half a mile northwest of the producing group.

Shappel, Sisk

Shappel Oil company is drilling at a depth past 1,550 feet in their No. 1 Sisk, block 21 Denton county school lands, abstract 57, block 2, north of the west end of Lake Wichita, Wichita county.

Gates-O'Donohoe, KWFVL

Gates and O'Donohoe are drilling at a depth past 382 feet in their No. 2 KWFVL, block 27, Wichita county, southwest of Iowa Park. This well is a location south of the recently completed extension well to this section.

Burns-Maxson, Neale

Burns and Maxson are drilling at a depth past 850 feet on their No. 1 A. P. Neale, southwest corner of the northwest quarter of the D. White survey, north and west of the Knight-Hines Ragle pool, south Archer county.

Petroleum Producers

Petroleum Producers are bailing a second sand in their No. 1 Oulda Murrah, lot 3 block 3 Denton county school lands, southwest of the Shappel producers, north of Holliday, Archer county. Depth was given as 1,785-87 feet with the first sand a few feet above at about 1,780 feet dry.

Featherstone-Johnson

C. H. Featherstone and D. O. Johnston have completed the derrick and are moving a rig on for their No. 1 Vernon, northeast corner of the G. Vernon tract, J. Standerford survey, abstract 394, between the Carey well and the Ragle pool, south Archer county.

R-F Oil Co., Nichols

The Ray-Featherstone Oil company has completed its No. 8 Nichols, northeast corner of lot 6, section 30, ATNCL, for a small well from sand at 1,607-18 feet. The well will be placed on the pump and it is believed that initial production will amount to about 50 barrels a day.

Winnipeg, South Vernon

Winnipeg Drilling company's No. 1 Bond-Hawkins-Williams, northeast corner of section 100, south of Vernon, has bridged itself after flowing 1,750 barrels of oil in four days, and will have to be cleaned out and a liner applied. The well has been standardized and it is expected to enter the hole with cable tools by Sunday.

The 1,750 barrels of storage on the lease is full now, and an additional six 1,000-barrel tanks are being erected on the lease, north line, to care for oil. Winnipeg being unable to ship oil to Waggoner at Electra via Vernon on the railroad account inability of the railroad to handle the large amount of oil from the field now.

No. 2 Winnipeg, Bond et al, spudded yesterday and is drilling. No. 3, a location west of the producer, is a derrick.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

What is the function of a market, taking the wheat market as a concrete example?

The function of a market, as the word is applied to the buying and selling of commodities such as corn, wheat, stocks, bonds, etc., is to register a price which will correctly reflect supply and demand. The second function of a market is to furnish a meeting place for buyers and sellers.

The price which the market reflects, if it reflects truly, is called an equilibrium price because it is an exact point at which, for the moment, supply and demand are in balance. Theoretically, this is a simple test of a fair price, but when this test is applied to the wheat market neither supply or demand is a simple matter. The difficulty in deceedingly risky gambles.

RAIN DELAYS COTTON.

Some Damage Caused to Open Bolls By Showers.

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Oct. 10.—Cotton picking is being delayed by the rains of the past several days, and some damage is reported to the open bolls. 1.1 inch fell Tuesday night and Wednesday, and quite heavy showers fell Friday morning. The sky is heavy and more rain is expected.

The feed crops, late planting, will be greatly benefited and ground put in excellent condition for wheat planting. Many farmers have already planted large acreage of wheat.

RAIN HITS NOCONA.

Cotton Damaged By Showers Of Wednesday and Thursday.

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Oct. 10.—Something near three-fourth inch rain fell here Wednesday night and Thursday morning together, accompanied by an unusually fierce thunder storm, lasting about one-half hour.

There being a large quantity of cotton in the fields, some was very likely damaged by being knocked out in the mud.

KICK MEANT RICHES

Fate Now Laughs With Earl Wormalts at Hard Boiled Brakeman.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—He who laughs last cortles loudest and longest, or words to that effect, which introduces Earl Wormalts, formerly of Oregon, who a year ago started to take the world by the scruff of the neck and wring a competence from it.

Being a trifle shy on funds our hero took passage in a box car at Rochelle, Ill., and journeyed as far as Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, before a hard boiled brakeman discovered him and booted him off the train.

However, Earl was not to be halted by rebuffs. Rubbing the dust and boot marks from his clothing, he went up town and obtained a job as soda jerker in a drug store, the mecca of Oak Park's younger set.

The natural thing has come to pass. The handsome soda dispenser met Matilda Meyenschein, beautiful young heiress of a millionaire portrait artist. "Billy" as she is known to all her companions, first fell in love with Earl's delightful sundaes and, later, with Earl himself. Two days ago they were married.

"Earl will be back on the job Monday," said his pharmacist boss. "He is getting $18 a week, but I suppose I'll have to boost his salary now he has a millionaire wife."

There are hints from the bride's relatives that Earl's days as a soda jerker are numbered and he will branch out in some larger enterprise.

Holland Thinks Army and Navy Is Useless Expense

Considers Doing Away With It in Light of Recent Events

"NO MORE WAR"

Pacifist Demonstrations Set People in That Country To Thinking

By The Associated Press

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.—Whether it is worth while for a small European country like Holland to continue to keep up an army and navy in the light of recent war experiences, is a question which is agitating the public mind.

At "no more war" demonstrations recently held in all the Dutch cities much dissatisfaction was expressed at the fact that instead of following the example of Denmark, whose government has just proposed the abolition of the army and navy except for a protective police force, Holland has increased her current war budget by 1,500,000 florins and that the queen's speech at the opening of parliament made no mention whatever of disarmament.

Anti-militaristic feelings are also finding expression elsewhere. Despite the army maneuvers certain incidents occurred which the authorities are careful to explain did not mean open mutiny, but which, judging from newspaper accounts, came perilously near it. Turbulent elements refused to obey orders, it is said, and officers were treated with contempt.

According to the newspaperHandelsblad, the position at one time became such that no vigorous measures to enforce discipline could be taken for fear of provoking a dangerous outburst. As a result the queen has refused to attend the review of her troops and the customary distribution of awards will not take place.

BABSON

ago. If there had not been an overproduction of oil there never would have been any Standard Oil company. Moreover, the consumption of oil is greater than ever and will increase continually each year for many years to come. This applies not only to gasoline but to fuel oil as well. The convenience and cleanliness of oil heating for business buildings and the residences is rapidly being recognized and the demand in this field is only begun. The use of oil for the heating of homes has a truly tremendous future and may even become the most profitable end of the business. Improvements in oil burning equipment about to be put on the market should greatly accelerate this branch of the business. Oil should rightly replace anthratice in New England, New York state, Pennsylvania, and in the territory where anthracite at high cost is now being used for heating.

Around the Corner.

"I do not say that the oil industry has turned the corner nor that prices will not be cut further but it should be recognized that the industry is a staple industry and is fundamentally sound. The present warfare cannot continue indefinitely as I've already shown. The difficulty is not due to overproduction nor lack of demand but rather to the competition between the companies. If the truth were known the oil business misses John D. Rockefeller, Senior and is now looking for some other 'general' to take his place. The right man may be one of the present Standard Oil men or it may be Mellon of the Gulf or some other strong independent operator. Those who wait until this man arrives will find that it is too late to purchase oil or oil securities at bargain prices. To make a really satisfactory profit, these must be purchased when things look dark as they do at the present time. When the industry straightens out its difficulties and begins to get back on a sound workable basis prices will have gone up again. My analysis of the situation leads me to believe that those who want oil or oil securities should begin to accumulate now and not try to wait and catch the lowest possible price. It is important, of course, that the right securities be selected. For investment purposes those companies which make their money in refining and distributing oil are more satisfactory than those who depend upon drilling for an income. Of the latter class the pure promotions are to be avoided.

"General business as reflected by the Babsonchart is running 7 per cent below normal. This is the position that affords opportunities without rendering some real service.

Cotton Two Sided

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—The cotton market today was decidedly two sided, advancing about 45 points during the morning and losing all the gain during the afternoon and a trifle more and closing at a small net loss for the day.

The market started out fairly firm owing to good Liverpool cables and to map indications of unfavorable weather over the week-end. First trades were 15 to 19 points up on the most active trading months, and advance was gradually increased during the morning until December traded as high as 2410 and January 2414 or 45 to 38 points above yesterday's closing levels. The market became easier during the afternoon on bearish weekly statistics and weak stock and grain markets and December and January dropped 63 to 64 points from the highs of the morning. There was a slight rally in the final trading and the close showed net losses of two points on October and three to eight points on later months.

Foreign market advices were generally favorable, Liverpool being higher than due and apparently but little affected by the impending general elections in the Great Britain market. The morning's advance, however, was mainly due to a considerable low pressure area shown by the May in the west threatening the cotton belt and another low pressure in the gulf off the west Florida coast. The reaction of the afternoon, was started by Secretary Hester's disappointing mill takings of 267,000 bales against 487,000. The decline was accelerated by advices of weakness in the stock and grain markets due to fears of acute German competition in trade after being helped by the successes of the big German loan to be floated netx week. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the down.

New York Cotton

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—An early advance in the cotton market today was promoted by bullish spot advices and talk of unfavorable weather prospects but after selling up to 2419, or 49 points net higher, December broke 2360 in the late trading, or 10 points net lower. December closed at 2368, with the general market closing steady, net seven points lower to three points higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 11 to 18 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and sold about 30 to 53 points net higher before midday. Both foreign and domestic trade buying was reported on this advance which was accompanied by reports that spots were offered less freely in the south and that the interior was beginning to hold for a higher basis. The outlook for showery weather over the belt and apprehension that a drop in temperature might bring frost to some parts of the southwest before Monday morning, also were factors on the rally. The bulk of the buying, however, was attributed to covering and after selling at 2500 for October and 2423 for January the market turned easier under a renewal of scattered liquidation.

The detailed weather reports showing generally favorable conditions during the past 24 hours probably contributed to the decline. There also was a good deal of bearish comment on the week-end figures bringing into sight a movement of about 640,000 bales an increase of 341,000 in the world's visible supply of American compared with an increase of 226,000 last year.

Liverpool, Wall street and southern selling was reported on the decline which may have been influenced also by reports of weakness in stocks and grain. October broke to 2449 and January to 2365, closing within five or six points of the lowest.

Exports today 17,485, making 1,160,440 so far this season. Port receipts 46,497. U. S. port stocks 713,387.

Grain Down

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—All grains underwent sharp setbacks in price today especially during the last half hour. The fact that the official estimates of the 1924 yield of wheat in the United States as compared with a month ago, had a had been increased 18,000,000 bushels notable depressing effect which extended to the entire list of cereals. Wheat closing prices were heavy, 2¼ to 3½ lower, December 145⅝@145¾ and May 149@150, with corn 1½@1⅞ down, oats 1 cent to 2⅝ cents off and provisions varying from 10c decline to 10c rise.

In the provision market, commission house buying of lard counter balanced most of the influence of grain weakness.

Woman Confesses Slaying Parents Of Her Husband

Wanted to Get Back $4,000 She Had Loaned The Mother

HUSBAND IS HELD

Baffling Mystery is Cleared Up With One Body Yet To Find

By The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 10.—An alleged confession by Mrs. Winona Green, 23, given last night after more than 20 hours almost constant grilling at the hands of Major James A. Pitcock, chief of the Little Rock detective department, in which she admitted killing J. R. (Bob) Green and his wife, Mrs. Lena S. Green, parents of her husband, LeRoy R. Green, according to police clears up one of the most baffling murder cases and is one of the most remarkable documents ever secured by the local department.

Exonerates Husband

In her alleged statements to Major Pitcock, Mrs. Winona Green, who is from Pueblo, Colo., exonerated her husband, LeRoy Green, of all blame, saying he was without guilty knowledge of the fate of his parents. Green is expected to be released from jail here where he is held on a technical charge, in the near future.

She is said to have admitted killing her father-in-law after lying in wait for him in a railroad cut here on the night of August 16 and later to have shot her mother-in-law to death near Red Fork, Okla., September 25. Recovery of $4,000 borrowed from her by her mother-in-law without the knowledge of her husband, J. R. Green, was the reason given for the killing, according to the police.

Find Body Aug. 17.

The body of J. R. Green was found August 17 and for more than six weeks there was no clue to the mystery. Foul play was suspected when the elder Mrs. Green disappeared late in September and an investigation led to what is believed by police to the solution of the whole affair.

Little Rock police have asked Tulsa officers to search for the body of Mrs. Lena S. Green, which the young Mrs. Green says in her reputed confession, according to the police, that she left on a "dim road" leading into the mountains near Red Fork, a small town six miles from Tulsa after she had fired several bullets into the head.

Irrigation

By A. M. McPHERSON

WATER.

Irrigation on Slopes and on Flat Land.

Every once in a while some one remarks that a particular tract of land is too steep to irrigate well. Generally they are mistaken. Very little of the land that is within the irrigated district boundaries as they are now is too steep to irrigate well.

Slopes up to 200 feet to the mile or about 4 feet to the hundred can be handled with ease. Of course this does not mean that water can be just turned down such a slope but there are several systems of handling water on even steeper grades.

As a general thing it is the land that is too level or flat that gives the greatest trouble in irrigating and that costs the most to put in shape to irrigate. It is tood advice to look out for trouble on the very flat lands.

Whenever land is so flat that it does not fall at least one inch in a hundred feet or say five feet to the mile then is when the trouble begins.

Water to run must have a fall. It must run down hill. It won't run on the level or up hill. In irrigating very flat tracts the water must be forced over by creating an artificial head at the field laterals.

Different crops, different soils and different slopes often require different systems of irrigating. As a general rule a good slope for row crops and row irrigation is from thirty to fifty feet to the mile, or from about eight inches to one foot to the hundred.

Lots of land on the irrigation project that is now looked on as being too rough or too steep for irrigation will in the future be found to be much easier to irrigate than some of the very flat lands.

Old Landmark To Go With Razing Of "Orth Place"

First Stone House in Wichita Falls Will be Torn Down

TO BE REPLACED

Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works to Put Up New Structure

When workmen begin this morning the razing of what is now known as the old Orth place, another Wichita Falls landmark will pass into the discard. Located in the path of the city's ever expanding business district, it is to give way for a new and modern building to house a commercial enterprise.

The structure in question is located on the southwest corner of Tenth and Austin streets. It has been known for years as the "Orth place," although half-a-dozen or more Wichitans have owned it in addition to T. R. T. Orth who disposed of it several years ago. At one time or another it has been in the hands of Dr. J. F. Reed, E. T. Hill, L. L. Dixon and perhaps others.

Built in 1884

Built in 1884, the old house was the first stone dwelling to be erected in Wichita Falls. A number of frame buildings were here at the time, of course, but it has always borne the distinction of being the city's first residence of material other than lumber. Its transition to its present form came gradually, with an addition tacked on here an alteration made there. Originally, it was little more than four walls of rock dug from the Wichita river bed and covered with a roof, but in later years it was improved and enlarged until at one time it was considered one of the principal residential structures boasted by the city.

Built by Foreman

Older residents here report that the house was put up by a man named Foreman, who back in the 80's drifted in from the north with an idea daming the Wichita river for water power purposes. He actually did throw up a crude sort of rock barrier at a point near the present Burkburnett bridge, but the first spring freshet carried it away.

Foreman built the house at about the same time and is presumed to have used it as a residence. After his death, years ago it passed into other hands and has continued on down to the present day. Some 15 years ago when Mr. Orth acquired it he raised the whole thing some four feet by means of heavy railroad jacks, tacked on an L and made other improvements. Mr. Orth purchased it from Dr. J. F. Reed, who died here less than a month ago, and he in turn disposed of it to L. L. Dixon, a local automobile distributor. The later sold it to H. R. Hanks and associates of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works, whose new $30,000 structure will take place of the house.

CLARA CONTRACT LET

Electra Firm Gets Work for New School House

The general contract for erection of the Clara school district's new school house was awarded today to A. L. Decker of Electra. His bid, the lowest of seven submitted for the general contracting work, was $25,184. A contract for the installation of the plumbing and heating equipment went to the Hampton Plumbing company of Vernon, which submitted a bid of $3,850. Three other bids were received for this work.

The new Clara school is to be of brick construction, modern in every respect and will be one of the best equipped in the county. A $50,000 bond issue was voted in the district several months ago, but after considerable legal difficulties which kept the matter in the courts, this was finally cut down to $35,000.

Voelcker and Dixon of Wichita Falls were architects for the building.

FT. WORTH MEN COMING

Will Make First Trip in New Reo Buss; Irrigation Heads Here Also.

Thirty Fort Worth business men will arrive in Wichita Falls today in a huge Reo buss, the initial trip of which is to be made between this city and Tarrant county metropolis. Their visit will mark the inauguration of the big machine's service between the two cities.

The entire party, together with directors of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, will be guests tonight of D. L. Fritz, local Reo distributor, at a banquet to be given in the Kemp hotel. Felicitations will be extended at the time.

Included in the party coming here are five directors of the Fort Worth water conservation district, who are to be guests this afternoon and Sunday of the local chamber of commerce in a tour of the Wichita valley irrigation section. The two dams will be visited and all points of interest in the irrigation district explained.

PENNEY MANAGERS MEET

One Hundred Gather at Kansas City to Make Detail Orders

A. R. Watland returned from a two weeks trip to Kansas City where 100 J. C. Penney company managers met the New York buyers at the Hotel Muehlebach.

After an inspection of manufacturer's samples each manager made detail orders for a large per cent of next spring's requirements.

Local Penney managers are greatly pleased over the publication of the life story of James C. Penney, founder of the chain of stores bearing his name, which appears in the current issue of the American Magazine. The story abounds in the romance of merchandising and tells of the growth of Penney stores, from a small store in Wyoming to more than 500 stores today doing a volume of over $50,000,000 annually.

The Old Home Town

Walker Billings of Altus was in the city Friday on business.

Edward R. Terry left Friday for Del Rio to visit friends and relatives there.

Ernest Carrington of 1923 Seventh street was operated on Friday at the General hospital. He was suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

The Alamo Mother's club will hold a rummage sale today in the old Star furniture building on Indiana street.

Fire Chief McClure will leave some time next week for a short vacation trip to Dallas, Fort Worth and possibly his old home in Paris, Texas.

Harry Bishop, a local department of justice agent, left Friday for Amarillo to attend the October term of federal court to be convened there.

A. R. Atland, local manager of the J. C. Penny company, has returned from Kansas City where he attended a convention of Penny store managers.

One lone case was on the docket of the corporation court Friday morning. It was a traffic violation charge, the bond in which was forfeited. Not another arrest was made by the department Thursday or Thursday night.

The month old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Williamson was severly burned Thursday night when a hot water bottle burst, scalding the child. It is expected to recover.

Mrs. P. A. Martin, Jr., and Mrs. G. J. Hook were called to Snyder Friday afternoon by the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. A. A. Pruett of that city.

The lunch room of the Sam Houston school is begun. The foundation was laid Friday, and construction will begin today, it was announced yesterday. The lunch room is being built by donated labor, and those who wish to help may apply at the school any time today, it was stated.

A Ford coupe and a heavy truck collided Friday afternoon at Indiana and Twelfth streets. The smaller machine suffered some badly bent steering apparatus and also lost most of the glass from the windows. The driver, whose name could not be learned, was reported to have been slightly cut by flying glass.

W. M. Lindsey, a bond salesman of Oklahoma City, was here Friday on business. He walked into the city clerk's office yesterday morning and bumped into W. E. McBroom, with whom he used to fish, sleep, play hookey, and scrap years ago in Oklahoma. Neither had seen or heard of the other for six years or more.

Yankees Die As Mexicans Wreck And Loot Train

EL PASO, Oct. 10.—Nine persons were killed, one or two of them Americans, when Mexican bandits wrecked and robbed a train on the Chihuahua and Orient railroad near Candelerio, about thirty miles south of Juarez, according to messages received tonight by military authorities in Juarez. Troops were ordered out tonight to try to intercept the bandits who are believed to have started for the Texas side of the Rio Grande.

The bandits wrecked the train by taking a rail from the tracks. A special train left Juarez late today for the scene of the holdup.

REST ROOM IN STORE

Miller Ferguson Provides Ease For Customers

A spacious and comfartable rest room and lavatory beautifully furnished, hung with pictures, drapes and cutains in color scheme and fitted dressing tables, lounges, easy chairs, rockers and cushions is being installed in Miller Ferguson's store this week. It is the aim of the management to make the place as pleasant, restful and convenient as possible, it was stated.

The millinery department of the store has been enlarged to extend over the entire second floor, and the capacity and stock has been doubled. Painting and decorating which will be completed early next week has given the floor a pleasant and inviting appearance.

A BILLION FROM WHEAT.

Nation's Crop to Make Heavy Cash Return, Says Meyer.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The wheat crop this year will return to the American growers about 1 billion dollars in cash at country points, Eugene Meyer, managing director of the war finance corporation told Secretary Mellon. His statement was on the basis of an investigation in the wheat producing areas.

In a memorandum to the treasury head, Mr. Meyer declared also that railroads were handling the crop in a manner "almost without precedent."

PULITZER RACES DOOMED?

Hazards of Old Planes are too Great, Major Wherle Says.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—The Pulitzer aid races will be discontinued next year as a feature of the international air races unless new planes are built to be used in it, Maj. Howard F. Wehrle of Kansas City, secretary of the National Aeronautical association, sponsor of the races, is quoted as saying in a special dispatch.

"Officials of the association are unanimous in their belief that Capt. Burt E. Skeel and Lieut Alexander Pearson are sacrifices to the needless hazards caused by staging the Pulitzer race this year with ships that long ago should have been discarded as far as racing is concerned," Major Wherle is quoted as saying.

Board Tries to Take School Away From Marrying Teacher

By The Associated Press.

MEXICO, Mo., Oct. 11.—An effort is being made here to determine whether a school teacher can be forced to forfeit her school in case she marries in the school year.

The board of the Oak Grove school has demanded the resignation of Mrs. Emma Sue Erdel on the ground that when she signed her contract she agreed verbally not to marry until the end of the school year. Mrs. Erdel contends she has acted within her rights and refuses to give up the school. The county superintendent of schools is hoping the question will be brought up in circuit court and settled for all time.

Bevan and Flint Bring Laughs On Wichita Stage

They Tickle Crowd With Comedy and Songs On This Week's Bill

LOCKETT - PAGE O. K.

Good Musical Number Is Provided by Versatile Pair

Ralph Bevan and Beatrice Flint in "A Slight Interruption," kept the audience in a continuous uproar of laughter at the Wichita theatre last night. Their act was an original blend of comedy talk and songs. They intermingle their talk and songs in a manner that is original and refreshing. Ralph Bevan makes a hit with funny songs, wise cracks and foolish actions. The able support of Beatrice Flint adds much to the act.

Clever Dancers.

Lou Lockett and Peggy Page in "Say it while Dancing," fully lived up to their reputation for popularity. With Ruby Ward at the piano, they mingled singing by Lou Lockett and dancing by both into an act of wholesome entertainment. They are clever dancers and their steps are models of technique and gracefulness.

Harry and Emma Sharrock are a couple who bring mystery as well as fun with their act "Behind the Grandstand." They open by pitching a tent on the stage in preparation for a day of fortune telling. A snappy quarrel carried on between the two affords the audience amusement. Harry Sharrock goes through the audience picking out various articles, and Emma Sharrock, blindfolded with her back to the audience is able to tell what they are. Intentional mistakes give this part of the act a touch of fun.

She Pleases.

Clara Howard, the musical comedy girl in "Song and Stories," proves herself a singer of talent. She has a good stage personality, and puts plenty of fire and energy into her act. With clever and unexpected remarks and snatches of song she gives one surprise after another.

Bob Cook sings while Dot Oatman chatters in their act "Delineators from Songland." They mingle a varied play of emotion with their singing and chatter, and the act furnishes plenty of good wholesome entertainment.

Margie Clifton and pardner in "Classical Poses and Balancing" furnish the novelty portion of the bill. They present poses and feats of strength that require well-trained muscles and steady nerves. Their skill wins admiration.

The sportlights of Grantland Rice and Felix Cat preceded the regular vaudeville bill. There will be three shows today, at 2:30 p. m., 7:30 p. m. and 9:30.

Dawes Plan For Reparations Is Put in Effect

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Dawes plan for the payment of reparations by Germany, a settlement of the embroglio which has kept Europe upset ever since the war, became virtually effective today when the Germans handed over to the reparation commission industrial railroad debentures totalling sixteen billion gold marks and the commission approved the contract signed in London for the 800,000,000 gold marks loan to Germany.

The appointment of an American citizen, Thomas Nelson Perkins, of the Boston law firm of Ropes, Boyden and Perkins, to act with the commission on the execution of the plan completed the preliminaries.

The formal anouncement that the Dawes plan is in effect, however, was delayed until Monday.

The Kriegslasken, or German war burdens commission, completed the series of operations necessary to make the plan effective during today's session of the commission when Dr. Meyer in behalf of the German government, handed to M. Delacrox, Belgium member of the commission for the railroad pledge, a bond for 11,000,000,000 gold marks.

Honor Men Used To Build Parks Given To State

Few Philanthropic Ones In Texas Make Plan Possible to Work

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 10.—Work has been started on the state parks donated during the past several months and they will be improved one at a time until the entire group has been fitted for camping purposes. "I have worked out a plan," Governor Neff said today, "to improve these parks which have been given to the state for camping sites and recreation places for the people of Texas.

"The federal government has loaned me a truck; the highway department has fitted me up a comping outfit, with tents and cooking utensils, and the prison commission, under the law permitting the working of convicts on public property, has agreed to let me have 8 prisoners.

Work as Honor Men.

"Under the general superintendency of an employee of the state parks board these eight prisoners, who will work as honor men without guards, will go from park to park, fencing, cleaning up, in various ways, making these parks pleasant and convenient camping sites. Benches and tables will be built around trees, cooking ovens will be constructed and other similar work done, loking to the making of the state owned parks comfortable as camping places."

All Expenses Paid.

All necessary expenses will be borne by a few philanthropic citizens who have made contributions in money to this work. The first parks to be visited by the clean-up squad will probably be on that part of the Gulf to the Glacier highway extending from San Antonio to Amarillo.

"By next summer," said Governor Neff, "we hope to have a large number of these state parks, scattered throughout the state, made convenient as community recreation centers and as comfortable sites for auto tourists to spend the night."
