There was a piece on the press wires yesterday about a bill proposed by Rep. R. B. McAlister of Lubbock concerning a "master plan" for colleges and vocational schools.

This bill emerged in a form somewhat milder than it started out, according to reports from the state capital several weeks ago. Originally, the Lubbock legislator, who has long complained about overlapping of vocational schools and junior colleges, as well as the much higher cost per pupil for training in a vocational school, had proposed that the Sweetwater branch of the Texas State Technical Institute be moved here and combined with Western Texas College, which will have its own vocational training program.

That proposal drew plenty of flak, especially from areas served by the TSTI schools, and consequently it was modified considerably. It was reported in Austin at the time that other legislators hinted that funds for the Texas Tech Medical School might be in jeopardy if the Lubbock representative insisted on threatening the TSTI facilities.

What do you think of when the word "pollution" is mentioned?

Most people think of great factories belching out foul effluent, or cities ridding themselves of their filth by dumping it into a stream, making it someone else's problem down stream, but that is not all of it by any means, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept.

They note that smoke from burning leaves or poorly tuned internal combustion engines, lost monofilament fishing lines, abandoned trotlines, feed lots, throwaway cans and bottles, junked cars and phosphate detergents are sources of widespread pollution which can be controlled only by individuals.

Announcement has been made that a new ferryboat service will go into operation April 24 on Lake Travis near Austin. The boat, which will carry up to eight automobiles per trip, will operate between Point Venture and Hurst Creek Road triangle. It will save about 25 miles of driving and at least 20 minutes in time for people traveling between the southern portion of Austin and communities on the northern side of Lake Travis.

S-Viets, US Forces Launch New Operation

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese and U.S. forces have launched a new operation against enemy supply bases and infiltration routes in the A Shau Valley near the Laotian frontier.

No significant contact was reported.

The U.S. Command said troops of the 101st Airborne Division and artillery were flown Wednesday into Fire Base Fury, at the southern tip of the 30-mile-long valley. Their mission was not disclosed, but it was assumed they carried out heavy artillery strikes to prepare the way for the South Vietnamese troops.

The Saigon government would not disclose the size of its force.

Allied troops have conducted periodic raids and reconnaissance missions into the valley about 25 miles southwest of Hue. It is a major supply base and staging area for North Vietnamese operations in the populous coastal lowlands to the east.

The valley has been bombed repeatedly and troops of the 101st Airborne operate several fire bases around the edge of the area, opening and closing them as required.

More than 100 miles to the south, the commander of South Vietnamese forces in the central highlands declared today that the siege of Fire Base 6 is over and the North Vietnamese are fleeing after suffering heavy casualties.

Although Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu said "enemy pressure at Fire Base 6 has entirely lifted," field reports said mortars and rocket grenades were fired at U.S. and South Vietnamese helicopters landing new troops there. Two South Vietnamese positions around the base were shelled and one clash was reported.

Three South Vietnamese troops and one American adviser were reported killed and nine Saigon troops wounded. Two North Vietnamese also were reported killed.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from Pleiku that enemy attacks in the area have eased somewhat.

ECONOMY REBOUNDS

Immediate Tax Cut Ruled Out

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has ruled out calling for immediate tax cuts following a strong rebound in the nation's economy during the first three months of the year.

Although the recovery was not as great as the Nixon administration had hoped, White House economic adviser George P. Shultz said it shuts the door to any tax-relief proposals in the immediate future.

"As of now, we're on a good course and we hope to stay on that course," Shultz told newsmen Thursday. "There is no reason to make any shift in policy."

Shultz said the first-quarter advance of $28.5 billion in gross national product, output of the nation's goods and services, was a "little less than expected, but larger than what the pessimists thought.

"We do have expansion under way—a good solid expansion," he said.

Nixon administration officials have been considering the possibility of further tax relief to boost the sluggish economy. And Shultz said he is not ruling out that possibility for the entire year.

The White House had hoped for a first-quarter GNP growth of $30 billion to $35 billion as an indicator of vigorous expansion and to achieve its twin goals of cutting inflation and unemployment.

The GNP figures showed, however, that inflation continued its high level, galloping along at 5.2 per cent during the quarter but down from the upward-revised 5.9 per cent during the last three months of 1970.

Nixon has pledged to cut the inflation rate to 3 per cent and unemployment from the present 6 per cent to 4.5 per cent by mid-1972.

To do that, the administration figures GNP will have to average $1.065 trillion for all of 1971. If statistics released Thursday are indicative, output will fall short of that goal.

The gain brought GNP to $1.018 trillion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, a 12-percent increase measured by current prices and the biggest single-quarter percentage rise in more than 12 years.

But real GNP output figured in terms of noninflated dollars, grew by 6.5 per cent, sharpest since the second quarter of 1968.

In sheer dollar volume, the $28.5-billion advance was largest on record, mainly because of the rate of inflation.

The increase was possible primarily because auto production snapped back strongly from last fall's General Motors strike and accounted for two-thirds of the GNP advance. Outside of the automobile sector, the economy still suffered from considerable slack during the period.

Williams Assumes A&M Presidency

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — In a speech prepared for delivery at his inauguration today, Texas A&M's new president said educators now will act swiftly and strongly to put down campus disorders, using police and the courts to restore order.

Dr. Jack Kenny Williams, an ex-Marine officer who formally assumes the presidency of Texas A&M University and the Texas A&M system, said he believes militant fanatics will "not be allowed to interfere further with the educational process."

"We may continue to have in some parts of our country disruption and violence by the ragtag of student and nonstudent activists, together with their camp followers and ego trippers," he said. "But... we will witness a quicker reaction to episodes involving these indefensible manuevers. Police in strength will be called without hesitation, those identified as leaders of felonious conduct and as inciters of riots will be moved off the campus."

Such action, he said, "will be openly and soundly supported by students themselves."

Dr. Williams said he was not referring to those "who offer legitimate petition" or work legally to end war and poverty.

"I do refer to the Trojan horse army of militant fanatics in our midst, and I believe that all who have interest in the welfare of education are demanding that these malcontents not be allowed to interfere further with the educational process," he said.

The educator said Texas A&M is creating leadership for future social changes and that students must be prepared to meet that leadership challenge.

"We must remain the pivot point for this maturation of leadership," he said. "The direction of our social change, if it is to be reasoned progress rather than the chaos born of purposelessness, will be set by that leadership and not by the egocentric gadflys among us."

Dr. Williams asked for "the guidance and assistance, and the good wishes and fervent prayers of all who love this university" as he formally assumed his new job.

The inaugural program starts with a formal and solemn processional with student, faculty, academic and government leaders.

The processional party includes Gov. Preston E. Smith and U. S. Sen. John G. Tower who is representing President Richard M. Nixon.

Delegates representing 272 colleges and universities and 105 learned and professional societies were to be on hand.

The inaugural was to be followed by a luncheon with speeches from Gov. Smith, Sen. Tower and Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker of the House Gus Mutscher.

Senators OK $7 Billion Bill

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators approved today a $7 billion two-year state budget which would add $694 million to Texans' tax burdens.

The measure now goes to the House and almost certainly will wind up in a conference committee, which will work out the final version.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston said passage of the appropriations bill will "help us get a corporate profits tax for the first time in Texas history because there is no way under the sun we can meet our obligations" without such a big revenue measure.

An added $27 million was tacked onto the bill when the Senate voted, 21-8, to accept an amendment increasing state employes' salaries even more than was recommended by the Senate finance subcommittee.

The Senate rejected an amendment by Schwartz to knock out $5 million for the Baylor Medical School at Houston and $3.4 million for the Baylor Dental School at Dallas. He said they were the only private institutions getting public funds.

Senators adopted, however, another Schwartz amendment authorizing University of Texas regents to make certain that it does not cost more to educate students at Baylor medical and dental than it does at state institutions.

The Senate-passed liquor by the drink bill is on today's House calendar, probably for afternoon debate. The House failed to suspend rules and take the measure up Thursday.

Sponsors hope for two-thirds majorities in both the House and Senate to put the bill into immediate effect and force May 18 local option elections in 46 counties.

Sponsors hoped to get the bill passed in time to force local option mixed drinks elections in 46 counties on May 18.

Of the $6.99 billion the appropriation bill provides for spending $1.55 billion from the general revenue fund, the state's main checking account. The current two-year budget is for $6.43 billion from all funds, including federal, and $1.22 billion from general revenue.

Major increases are proposed for education, welfare, state institutions and state employes' salaries.

All types of education would get an extra $223.8 million in the two years starting Sept. 1, and $43.8 million more has been recommended for health, hospitals and youth correction.

Colleges Told To End Sex Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — Male chauvinism on the nation's campuses is in trouble. Women demanding that sex discrimination must go have been handed a big club by the federal government.

Either takes affirmative action to eliminate sex bias, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is telling colleges, or the flow of federal contract dollars will stop.

Already such institutions as Harvard and the University of Michigan have negotiated agreements designed to end sex bias where women are paid lower salaries for equal work and passed over for promotion.

J. Stanley Pottinger, director of HEW's office for civil rights, said investigators have run into some resistance but in the end the "universities are very cooperative."

There are signs, however, that administrators are unhappy with the pressure. The University of Michigan school newspaper, reporting on the first agreement negotiated, quoted Fidele Fauri, a school vice president, as saying:

"We just want to get those bastards at HEW off our backs."

William Cash, university human relations director and member of the negotiating team, also told the newspaper:

"Once you let women know they've got you over a barrel they'll take everything they can get from you. Women just make life difficult."

But male egos had better harden. The federal government is getting more aggressive.

McAlister's Bill To Be Studied

AUSTIN (AP)—The chairman of the House State Affairs Committee said Thursday he would appoint a subcommittee April 19 to study a controversial bill on vocational schools.

Rep. Jim Slider, Naples, said he had a subcommittee picked out Wednesday night "but they all turned statesman on me," meaning, he said, they all thought they were experts in the field.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. R. B. McAlister, Lubbock, would establish a Texas Vocational Education Commission, which would draw up a master plan for junior colleges and vocational schools.

The original bill drew opposition from vocational schools because they feared the new board would be oriented more toward the junior colleges.

The Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce president, John Bowen, testified Wednesday night that the original bill would eliminate a budding Texas State Technical Institute branch in his city.

McAlister said the original bill would have combined the Sweetwater TSTI branch with the Snyder Junior College, but that an amendment he has offered will leave the Sweetwater facility alone.

Drought Areas Receive Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Angelo caught 3.5 inches of rain early today and officials said it had eased the West Texas city's critical water shortage.

It was the first rainfall there since .42 of an inch fell in February. City officials estimated the runoff would add four months of water to the city's supply.

Up to 5 inches of rain fell north and west of San Angelo on the watershed of the city's lakes. It was too early to estimate the runoff.

Rainfall measured 5 inches unofficially at Mertzon and up to 4 inches around Ozona, and on the critically dry Edwards Plateau.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms loaded with hail churned across much of West Texas and into Central Texas during the night.

Other rainfall reports included Sterling City 1.90, Dalhart 1.14 inches, Lubbock, .88, Midland .80, Abilene .47, Amarillo .46, Childress .41, and Judd, 100 miles southwest of Wichita Falls, 1.20.

Slow steady rains were reported around Sweetwater, which measured 2.00 inches. Blackwell had 3.25 inches and Maryneal 3.00.

Six deaths were blamed on the weather. Four Fort Stockton men died when their light plane crashed near Irran during a rainstorm and two men were killed in San Angelo when their car went off a rain-slick highway.

Counties Would Hold Elections

AUSTIN (AP) — According to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, all or part of these counties would be required to hold local option elections on mixed drinks May 18 under the liquor by the drink bill pending in the House:

Aransas, Austin, Bee, Bexar, Calhoun, Cameron, Colorado, Comal, Dallas, Dewitt, Duval, El Paso, Fayette, Fort Bend, Galveston, Gillespie, Goliad, Guadalupe, Harris, Hidalgo, Hudspeth, Jefferson, Jim Wells, Kendall, Kenedy, Kerr, Kinney, Lasalle, Lavaca, Loving, Maverick, Medina, Nueces, Presidio, San Patricio, Starr, Sutton, Tarrant, Travis, Val Verde, Victoria, Washington, Webb, Wharton, Wilson, Zapata.

In Austin, State Agriculture Commissioner John White said the reported rains "are wonderful ... we're excited about it, but it cannot be considered a drought-breaker yet. You don't break a drought with one rain."

He said the rains will be helpful in "several spots that were in bad trouble—at San Angelo, where about all their ground water reserves were used up, and at Dalhart, where the wheat was just about gone. It may be too late but there is a chance."

He added, "If we can get 3 to 4 inches of rain generally over the state by the end of May we will be back about even so far as row crops are concerned. The cow people are still in bad shape. They are just going to have to have some help."

Snyder Is Teased By Showers

It was wetter than usual in Scurry County this morning, but the rain clouds Thursday night and early today merely teased the immediate Snyder area.

Heaviest showers in the county apparently fell in the southeast part. Showers measuring up to three quarters of an inch were reported at Hermleigh, and there were reports of half an inch east of town on the Roby Highway and .60 inch in the area from Hermleigh to Dunn.

The heavier rains were logged in counties to the south and southeast.

Snyder's official gauge had only .15 inch this morning, about the same amount reported in unofficial gauges to the west and north.

It barely knocked some of the dust out of the air, but it was the first rainfall sufficient to register on a gauge here since Feb. 21 when .29 inch fell.

The clouds were seeded late Thursday by Atmospherics, Inc. the firm engaged by the Colorado River Municipal Water District. By seeding clouds the district hopes to increase rainfall over the watersheds of Lake J. B. Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence.

Readers reply to 'Dateless, but nice'

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I have news for the girl in Eudora, Kan., who claims she is dateless because she's nice.

I happen to be a 26-year-old bachelor who lives in Eudora, so I think I'm in a position to know. I am no creep, and I've dated all kinds of girls, here and in other cities.

I feel sorry for a girl who doesn't get asked for dates, and if it makes her feel better to say it's because she's "too nice," it's all right with me. But that's not the real reason. There must be something wrong with her personality. A girl can't be too nice! Sure, a guy will take out an easy number just to prove to himself that he's a "man," but after he's used the girl for that purpose, she's had it.

Girls who put out may enjoy a rush of popularity for a while, but guys talk, and if the girl wants to settle down and be respectable, she'd better leave town.

Sock it to 'em, Abby. And keep telling young girls that men still want "good girls." Boys look for the other kind, so if a girl wants to end up with a man and not a boy, tell her to save herself. EUDORA READER

DEAR ABBY: I got a chuckle over the letter from the girl in Eudora, Kan., who is dateless because she's "nice." Maybe there is something about Eudora that causes the trouble. When I went to high school there I never had a date either.

Tell her to hang on. If it takes 10 dateless years to find a husband as good as mine, it's worth it.

TERESA: E. H. S. CLASS OF '57

DEAR ABBY: This is for the nice girl from Eudora, Kan.:

My roommate is a junior in college and I am a freshman. We were "decent" in high school and it paid off. We have done a lot of dating in college mostly with guys who ask us out more than once because they have a good time. And we don't have to put out either. The guys who just want sex don't ask us twice. And who needs them?

Most fellows respect girls who say no! Here is our motto: "Friendship may blossom into love, but don't cheapen yourself and give love to gain friendship." The joy of true love is worth all the waiting it takes.

FLAGSTAFF, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the girl who said that nice girls don't get dates. She's wrong. Boys don't ask girls out because they want only sex. Sure, if you're giving it away, they'll take it, but they do have other interests. I'll bet that nice Kansas girl is dateless because she lets a guy know right off the bat that she thinks all he wants is sex, and that turns him off. LOTS OF DATES AND STILL A VIRGIN

DEAR ABBY: About that girl who said boys don't care to date nice girls. You said she was wrong. Well, you goofed. I say she's absolutely right. Face it, Abby, you aren't a teen-ager anymore. SEVENTEEN

DEAR SEVENTEEN: I know it. They were saying the same thing when I was a teen-ager, and they were wrong then, too.

DEAR ABBY: That girl was so wrong to say that guys don't want to date girls unless they can score with them. I am a 27-year-old bachelor who enjoys the company of a girl I can have a good time with and I assure you I can leave sex out of it. There is so much more to dating and relationships than just heading for the bedroom. I come from the old school where a walk in the moonlight and a kiss at the door is a perfect ending for a wonderful evening. As far as I'm concerned, good girls are in style, and I hope that girl in Kansas doesn't lose her faith in us men.

Theft Reported

Two calculators, an electric typewriter and an adding machine were stolen from a warehouse at 2600 Avenue A Wednesday night, according to a report from City Police. They said the owner of the property is George Poe.

HEAVY DAMAGE — This 1969 Model Ford driven by Lorin Shelfer, a salesman for Southern Plow Co. of Dallas, crashed into the rear of a 1969 Model Chevrolet pickup driven by James Delmar Burk, a rural mail carrier from Roby, on U.S. 180 4.9 miles west of Roby at 10 o'clock this morning. The car was demolished and damage to the pickup was estimated at $1,000 by Highway Patrolman Don Underwood of Roby. A Weathersbee ambulance from Rotan took a passenger in the car to Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene for treatment of a back injury. The name of the injured was not available, but he also is a salesman from Dallas.

Food Stamp Rule Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration hopes to put into effect by fall a sweet and sour blend of food-stamp regulations opening the door more widely to low-income families and shutting it on indigents and hippies.

The proposed rules, a follow-up to a new food-stamp law passed by Congress late last year, were announced Thursday by the Agriculture Department.

Asst. Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng told newsmen the most far-reaching feature is a national income-eligibility standard for operating the food-stamp program uniformly in all states.

Each state welfare agency at present can determine the limit a family may earn before it is cut off from food-stamp eligibility. A family of four in South Carolina, for example, is limited to a take-home pay of $180 a month before stamp qualification is ended.

The proposed rule will allow the same family, anywhere in the United States, to earn up to $360 a month and still be eligible for food stamps, the coupons giving poor people a bonus advantage at food stores.

The eligibility standard was described by Lyng as having tremendous impact on the vast food-stamp program.

Only three states, Alaska, New Jersey and New York, now have earnings limits equal to or larger than the $360 per month proposed in the new rules.

The remainder of the states have cutoffs less than the pending regulations would permit. Officials said the effect would be to allow more persons into the food-stamp program.

But Lyng said he did not have an estimate on how many additional persons the liberalization might bring into the food-stamp program or how much it might cost.

The current fiscal year, ending June 30, calls for $1.54 billion for food-stamp expenditures. Nixon budget experts say $2 billion is needed next fiscal year.

About 10.2 million persons at last count were in the stamp program. These are in 45 states and 1,976 of the nation's 3,129 counties.

In addition to food stamps, the Agriculture Department operates a direct commodity-distribution program. All but nine counties in the country are served by one or both of the programs.

The new rules, carrying out congressional orders, also crack down on nonworking family members and college students who cannot prove they are in need. Commune arrangements involving nonrelated persons are barred.

Federal regulations now allow food stamps for any household as long as it meets local welfare requirements. The new rules say that household members under 60 years of age must be blood relatives or linked by marriage.

"That is pretty significant," Lyng said. "This eliminates communes."

The proposed rules also spell out congressional insistence that all able-bodies adults in a food-stamp family register for jobs. Exceptions include mothers with dependent children under 18 years.

Lyng predicted states will be prepared to carry out the new rules by late September.

Proposal Was For Signalmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential board has recommended pay hikes of up to 42 per cent over the next 42 months for railroad signalmen who had threatened a nationwide strike.

The proposal could form the basis of a contract agreement in negotiations between the National Railway Labor Conference and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen which represents 10,000 signalmen.

The Labor Department, in announcing the recommendation, said the 42-per-cent raise would go to signalmen now earning $3.81 an hour. That would raise the pay to $5.42. Increases for monthly-paid signalmen would be computed under a different formula.

The Associated Press erroneously reported Thursday the recommendation involved pay of railroad enginemen.

Suit Filed To Halt Postal Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Magazines and newspapers have filed suit to halt temporary increases in postal rates which could boost their mailing costs 20 per cent this spring.

Spokesmen for the Magazine Publishers Association (MPA) and American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) said they recognize the need for higher postal rates and postal reform.

"However, we have no other way to get a hearing on either the amount of the increases or the method of assessing them ... " said ANPA President Stanford Smith.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court here Thursday seeks a preliminary injunction barring a proposal by the board of governors of the U.S. Postal Service to increase rates for second-class mail by an average of 20 per cent in mid-May, first-class mail from 6 to 8 cents and air mail from 10 to 11 cents.

The Postal Service has proposed a 142-per-cent jump in second-class rates over a five-year period and a 33-per-cent hike in third-class rates, one-fifth to take effect this spring.

The postal reorganization legislation passed by Congress last year provides rate increases be fixed by a five-member independent rate commission, at the suggestion of the board of governors.

Wreckage of their Cessna 210 was found about a mile south of Irran.

The dead were identified as William J. Barker, a post office employe and a Fort Stockton city councilman; his son, Jake Barker; Willie Pfiester, a recreation center owner, and R. J. Nussbaumer.

The plane was enroute from Houston to Fort Stockton.

SCOTT NAMED BEST ACTOR

'Patton' Wins 7 Oscars

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Patton" blitzed the 43rd Academy Awards like one of its hero general's World War II sweeps, winning seven Oscars including best picture. The best actor award went to George C. Scott who played the title role—an honor he had said he would refuse.

The movie academy says it will hold the Oscar for him in case he changes his mind.

Other top winners Thursday night included Britain's Glenda Jackson, best actress, "Women in Love;" John Mills, supporting actor, "Ryan's Daughter;" Helen Hayes, supporting actress, "Airport," and Franklin J. Schaffner, direction, "Patton."

An artillery-like barrage of applause and approving yells came from a Los Angeles Music Center audience of nearly 3,000 as Goldie Hawn ripped open the envelope and cried, "Oh, my God-the winner is George C. Scott!"

Scott had won for his portrayal of Gen. George S. Patton despite statements he'd decline the Oscar because "it is degrading to have actors in competition with each other ... in a public display of contrived suspense."

He also had called the presentations "a meat parade."

Film-acting in New York, the actor said through a spokesman Thursday before the presentations: "Win, lose or draw I have no statement."

There had been speculation that Scott's blasts would hurt his chances for the Oscar. Accepting the honor for Scott, "Patton" producer Frank McCarthy said the academy "has distinguished itself, shown what a great organization it is, by honoring so generously a fine performance by a great actor."

It's the first time any winner ever refused an Oscar of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Academy President Daniel Taradash said before the ceremonies that since Scott had said he didn't want to be involved, the academy had done everything it could to see that he wasn't.

"He did not receive a letter of congratulations from me as did the other nominees, and he was not invited to the awards," Taradash said.

He said the academy will keep Scott's Oscar and if at any time he wants it, he can have it, but it will not be sent to him.

In 1962 Scott rejected a nomination for an Oscar for his supporting role in "The Hustler."

"Patton" also won for best sound, art direction, film editing, direction and original story-and-screenplay.

"Love Story," with seven nominations, won only for its background music, or score, by Francis Lai. "M-A-S-H," which had five nominations, won only for best adapted screenplay, by Bing Lardner Jr.

The winning movie song was "For All We Know" from "Lovers and Other Strangers."

Miss Jackson, 36, a middle-class girl from the English midlands who shocked the middle classes in Britain with a very naked appearance in "Women in Love," was in Cyprus and unable to attend the ceremonies.

Her Oscar was accepted for her by Juliet Mills, who said Miss Jackson would be "terrible thrilled," adding, "she's 100 per cent a professional."

Miss Hayes' Oscar for her role as an airliner stowaway in "Airport" was her second in 39 years. She won as best actress in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" in 1932.

In Washington, D.C., preparing to appear in a play, she said, "Isn't it marvelous! I can't believe this is all happening. Wouldn't it be awful if they called me in the morning and said they got the wrong envelope?"

Miss Hayes noted that out of the 10 nominations for "Airport," hers was the only Oscar. "Well, I don't like that, but I'm glad, doubly glad I got it," she said.

John Mills, who won the supporting actor award as the mute village idiot in "Ryan's Daughter," wore a black sling supporting his left hand, injured recently in a London cabdoor accident.

He said he was "utterly unprepared" to win and, referring to his role in the movie, "was speechless for a year but I want to say I think it was a wonderful choice. I'm very thrilled."

Besides the presentation formalities before a worldwide television audience, including NBC, estimated 70 million in the United States, there were other dramatic moments.

—The standing ovation for Lillian Gish, spritely in her 70s, and wearing a white gown, as Melvyn Douglas told her: "Come and get your long overdue Oscar."

Presenting a special award citing her for long service to acting, Douglas called her "the youngest person in the theater in terms of zest, enthusiasm and sheer physical strength." He said she has been "an enduring artist since the birth of movies."

Miss Gish who said she was "speechless ... for this wonderful tribute," gestured with the fervor of old-time silent movies and said in a quavering voice: "Oh, the charming ghosts I feel around me who should share this!"

—Gregory Peck presenting the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award to Frank Sinatra, calling the recently retired singer-actor "the current title holder in the soft-touch division." Peck said Sinatra had "given away his talent at hundreds of benefits."

Thunderously applauded, the smiling Sinatra said it was the top moment of his life. "I've been wondering why you have to get famous to get an award," he added, noting that the unknown also do humanitarian deeds. "If your name is John Doe, what you get is tired."

Director John Huston presented a special award citing Orson Welles for long service to film arts. He praised Welles' "glowing performances, the inspiration of his direction" and calling him "that most difficult of God's creation, a genius."

The absent Welles, responding on film, said, "God willing, I'm going to make some movies that deserve it."

The Irvin Thalberg Award for consistent excellence of his films went to Swedish director Ingmar Bergman, likewise absent, and reported in the Baltic area writing a script.

Soaring Topic For Rotarians

Charles Shaw presented the program for the Snyder Rotary Club Thursday when they met for their weekly luncheon meeting on his hobby, soaring, a sporting hobby of sail planes. A film was shown and he gave a commentary on it. He later fielded questions from the Rotarians.

Guests at the meeting included Roy Marvin of Wichita Falls, guest of Truett Bryan, and Frank Taylor, guest of Mel Gilbert.

Frank Miller, president, presided over the meeting. Rotarians were reminded of the district meeting next weekend in Sweetwater.

Horticulturist Says Anyone Can Make Things Grow

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Is there really such a thing as a green thumb?

Yes, believes internationally-known horticulturist Dr. Donald Wyman. But he adds that people who were not born with this useful appendage can still become successful gardeners by reading and doing.

"Many people have a feeling for growing plants," explains the former president and director of the American Horticultural Society. They're observant of nature, know by instinct how far down to plant, when there's too much water, or not enough. But anyone can learn to make things grow, whether in a tiny window pot or a large outdoor plot."

The secret is to select as a start one plant that interests you and read everything available on how to grow it, advises Wyman who has been with Harvard University's Arnold Arboretum for the past 35 years and is the author of numerous articles and books on horticulture.

His latest book is "Wyman's Gardening Encyclopedia," a volume crammed with information on some 9,000 plants, including hardiness ratings and proper selection for various climates, and advice on use of pesticides and fertilizers.

"Growing things brings a feeling of creation, of personal accomplishment," declared the author on a visit to New York. "From 25 cents worth of seeds you're able to get 50 feet of zinnias to cut bouquets and bring beauty into the house.

"Before you plant take a few minutes and decide why you want a garden," he urged. "Do you want it for beauty, for recreation, for cut flowers or a combination of these things? All are factors in whether you broadcast seeds and wait to see what comes up or whether you plan carefully."

He suggests that if you're a rank amateur you might start with annuals, so you can see the whole thing happen in one season and if you've made a mistake it won't be perpetuated. But with perennials, which come up year after year, a little more forethought is needed to make sure, for instance, that the taller flowers are in the back.

"The greatest mistake people make in outdoor gardens is failure to thin plants enough," Dr. Wyman points out. "Plants need lots of room. One will grow well in a given space but let 12 struggle there and they may not even flower. You've got to have the guts to pull out those extras or you'll have scrawny plants."

The most common error in indoor gardening, he says, is watering too much or too little. The soil shouldn't be muddy, with water remaining in the pan at the base. On the other hand, if the leaves appear to be wilting the plant isn't getting enough moisture.

"For fertilizer, there's nothing like good well-rooted manure, but nowadays people don't even know what a cow or horse is," says Wyman. "So you have to go to dried manure products or to a complete commercial fertilizer.

"The trick is not to apply too much," he continues. "If two pounds will make things grow, why wouldn't four pounds make them grow twice as well? The truth is, twice as much could kill them."

Recognizing the dangers of pesticides, Wyman nevertheless sees the need for using them with discretion. "If you've ever grown beans in a vegetable garden you know you have to put something on them to kill the Mexican bean beetle or you won't have any beans," he explains. "Certainly, don't spray everything indiscriminately. Know what insect or disease you're spraying for and what you're spraying with."

At the Arnold Arboretum Dr. Wyman developed a new low-growing crabapple. The tree, with double pink flowers and bright yellow fruit, was named the Dorothea Crabapple in honor of his daughter.

Since his retirement a year ago he and his wife, an enthusiastic amateur gardener, have switched their activities from 125 acres at the arboretum to a third of an acre in Andover, Mass., where they now have a home.

"What we have there is a low-maintenance garden—plants that have no diseases and no insect pests," he says. "You put in that kind of a garden and forget about it, except for keeping the weeds down."

Mrs. M. M. O'Rear showed slides of the Hawaii Islands to 5th and 6th grade students at Central Elementary Wednesday, April 14. She also described two trips around Oahu, the volcanoes and the aquariums to the social studies classes.

During the Social Studies period on Tuesday Mrs. O'Rear served papaya juice and guava juice and sweet rolls with preserves which she purchased in Honolulu. Mealtime is called "kau-kau." Mrs. O'Rear was attired in one of the recent style mumus and the current trend of leis made of beads. The serving table was decorated in spring colors and centered with a dried flower arrangement that she brought back. She told the students that the royal ponciano was the beautiful state flower of Hawaii and showed many slides of other flowers such as the vanda orchid and other orchids that take three years to bloom. She told them of the black coral beach and how many of the islanders weave the straw hats to sell as souvenirs.

Women wear flowers in their hair, and it is interesting to know the significance of which side the flower is worn." The placement of the flower indicates whether or not the woman is married.

Mrs. O'Rear, who is a music teacher, taught the classes two Hawaiian songs and discussed the national park there.

Another treat was in store for the students when Charles Anderson, principal of Northeast Elementary, showed a film with sound made by all thirty-seven 6th grade students at Northeast under the direction of Mrs. Ben Brock and Mrs. Weyel.

Accompanying Mr. Anderson were Randy Collum and Roger Lyons, who had the leading roles in the film, "The Dream." The play depicts characters representing harmful drugs and each telling the truth about the effects of using them. At the conclusion, Mrs. Weyel stated that the students were made aware of the dangers involved in drug usage.

Mr. Anderson told the group that the actual filming cost about $3 and was supervised by Dan Martin, head of the audiovisual department.

The film was made in connection with the new curriculum study.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q.—I saw an advertisement recently for do-it-yourself broadloom carpets. How do they differ from ordinary broadloom carpets?

A.—There are two basic differences. The face fiber and backing fabric are man-made materials that are what is called "dimensionally stable," meaning that they do not expand or contract because of temperature and humidity changes.

Also, they have a built-in cushion of high density latex foam rubber so that they do not need a separate padding. To install, roll out the carpet, cut to fit with a heavy-duty scissors or razor-blade knife and anchor at the edges with a double-faced tape. Since the carpet conforms to the floor, it is necessary to smooth out any patches in the wood before installing the broadloom.

Q.—Despite all our efforts, we still get water in the basement after a very heavy rain. We have been told that a sump pump is an effective way to get rid of the water. Is this so and how does it work?

A.—Yes, a sump pump, properly installed, will drain water from a basement. An electric pump is placed in an opening in the floor. When the water in the opening, called a pit or sump, reaches a certain level, the pump is automatically activated, sending the water into a sewer or other pre-selected area.

Q.—I was a visitor in a wood finishing plant a couple of years ago and noticed one of the men rubbing two pieces of sandpaper together. I didn't pay too much attention to it at the time, but now that I have to finish some furniture, I have been wondering why he did that.

A.—For especially fine smoothing operations, it is important that there be no loose grit on the paper that might scratch the surface. The worker probably was rubbing together two pieces of new sandpaper to be certain he dislodged any loose bits of grit. This generally is unnecessary if an abrasive paper with very fine grit is used for the final sanding operation, but it's a precautionary measure.

The agency, monitored here, said Wednesday that Premier Chou En-lai gave an evening banquet in her honor.

She was quoted as saying that her brother believes in co-operation between countries of different political systems.

Princes Ashraf previously met Chou in 1965. She also met Stalin, former President Harry S. Truman and other world leaders.

Party Cheese Dip An Elegant Beginning

The Creole woman of Louisiana has long been a subject of song and story. Her sense of taste and act, along with remarkably good management of her household, rich or poor, define a character upheld by all who know her.

A Louisiana poet called her "Femme de l'Interieure." She is indeed a Gentle Woman, a fitting companion and confidant for her family.

Dinner at the home of this Southern hostess is an occasion honored by innumerable guests. For an appealing beginning to her feast, the Louisiana hostess might choose the freshest of vegetables to be set off by a favorite meat dip, spiced in the manner the Southland knows best — Tabasco liquid red pepper seasoning. This sauce, a native of the Bayou country, adds zest to Party Cheese Dip as only the purest red pepper can do.

It is served here with a combination of garden fresh frozen vegetables: cherry tomatoes, scallions, mushroom halves, cauliflower and artichoke hearts. Try it with your favorites and serve in your finest china or silver for an elegance befitting the gracious hostess in your home.

PARTY CHEESE DIP

¼ to ½ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 pint sour cream
1 envelope dry onion soup mix
1 can (2¼ ounces) deviled ham

Blend Tabasco with cream cheese. Gradually blend in sour cream. Add onion soup mix and deviled ham; mix well. Turn into serving dish. Serve with raw vegetables such as halved artichoke hearts, raw mushroom halves, raw cauliflowerets, scallions and cherry tomatoes. YIELD: 2 - 2-3 cups.

Fill the hollows of Mary Anns (sponge cake cups) with chilled canned apple sauce. Top with canned or frozen berries, a fluff of whipped topping and a sprinkle of toasted coconut. Delicious and easy.

British publishers issued 32,000 books under separate titles in 1969. More than 23,000 were new books, the rest reprints or new editions.

Observations Of The Industrial Scene

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Observations of the industrial scene that affect your budget and maybe your life:

—One of the chief factors in the denial of funding for the supersonic air transport was the widely held feeling that the nation's technological efforts were being misdirected.

If public transit was inefficient, highways jammed and railroads bankrupt, it was asked, why should the nation put millions into developing an aircraft that would be used by a relatively tiny percentage of the public?

Some of the same critics now are alternately enraged or depressed by another situation closer to earth, that is, that automobiles capable of exceeding 100 miles an hour will have bumpers able to withstand crashes of 2½ miles an hour.

The new standard for rear bumpers, beginning on 1973 models, are actually an improvement over the existing situation. Some bumpers today are largely decorative, like ribbon on a package.

Nevertheless, the term persists, leading drivers to assume their cars are really able to take bumps, and driving insurance companies frantic as they pay millions of dollars in needless damage claims—which of course raises rates.

The new standards call for front bumpers on 1973—model cars to withstand 5 m.p.h. impacts, or twice that for rear bumpers. But a proposal to make bumper heights uniform was put off until 1974 models.

The automakers argued that it would be too costly to make some of the changes before then. But, with the business climate so critical, could the cost eventually be even greater by resisting the improvements?

—As a member of the new breed work force, you are "less easily controlled", less dependent, less submissive and passive, less willing to work harder and smarter, despite greater material rewards, improved working conditions and better trained and enlightened supervision."

Recognize yourself? That's part of the description used by Alexander Trowbridge, president of the Conference Board, in announcing the completion of a study aimed at making jobs more acceptable to workers.

"People at work don't appear to be motivated," says Trowbridge, who used to be secretary of commerce.

The carrot-and-stick formula for motivation doesn't always seem to work too well anymore. Many managers and behavioral scientists have come to recognize that the missing element "... may lie in the character of the work itself."

And so the study of job design is growing in popularity, marked by completion of a Conference Board study by Haroid Rush, senior management research specialist.

The basic job-design techniques include:

Job rotation, or moving employes from one related task to another to broaden their perspectives and skills.

Job enlargement, or expanding the scope of the job itself.

Job enrichment, or making the basic task more demanding and giving the employe more planning and managerial control over the job.

Work simplification, or step-by-step examination of the job to eliminate unnecessary or duplicated tasks and to improve methods for doing the job.

The study quotes the personnel director of an aerospace company on the "Puppy Syndrome" to the effect that:

"We have too often treated our employes as if they were puppies. A swat on the tail makes a puppy anxious about going on the carpet again, but a swat isn't even effective in toilet training unless the puppy is shown where to go and be rewarded.

"Should we expect people to behave differently if they are treated like puppies?"

QUESTION: What is the difference between a marshal and sheriff?

ANSWER: These two officers of the law resemble each other more than they differ. The word marshal comes from the ancient word marah, horse, combined with scalh, servant, and was used for such offices as master of the horse in a royal court. Orginally only people of importance rode horses; and so marshal came to be connected with those who supervised parades and took charge in ceremonies. Later, the word meant an officer of the law who represented the federal government rather than a local body such as a county. U.S. marshals became very important, and still are, for they carry out the orders of the federal courts. A U.S. marshal is assigned to each federal judicial district. The sheriff has similar duties as a law officer, but occupies a minor position because he serves a county rather than the federal government. In old England a head man was known as a reeve. He took charge of a county district called a shire. These words, used together, turned into sheriff. The sheriff may deputize others to act as deputy sheriff. Both U.S. marshals and sheriffs played a heroic part in civilizing the West during the roaring old days of bad men and cattle thieves. "Wild-Bill" Hickock was one of the most famous of these lawmen.

Things We Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some things we could do without:

People who have nothing on their mind but what they weigh and who think everyone else is interested in it too.

Stenographers who wear hot pants in the office.

Waiting in line to buy something you don't need or particularly want.

Listening to two passengers on a bus discuss their digestive disorders.

The taste of the first Martini—and the effects of the third.

Nude pictures on cufflinks.

Any new books offering new solutions of the Vietnamese problem until some of the solutions already proposed are tried.

The eating on Monday of restaurant hash made on Friday.

The high cost of living on a standard that seems to be steadily lowering in quality.

People for whom you've gladly done a favor and who then think that they must make some grand gesture in return such as giving you a dried-out dime cigar that crumbles to shards when you try to light it.

People who seek to achieve attention and distinction by becoming owners of a new breed of dog that one one else has ever heard of. The dog usually has a face that looks like a catfish caught in a mob.

Anybody who tries to read the newspaper over your shoulder because he is too cheap to purchase one of his own.

Smart guys who ask, when you get to work 10 minutes late in the morning, "Back from lunch already?"

Wives who spend more money and time taking care of their fur coats than they do their children.

Doctors who tell you how much they dropped in the stock market while they're writing out a $15 prescription for a $5 medicine to treat you for a two-bit head cold.

Hotel closets which always have exactly four fewer coat hangers than any ordinary guest—even a nudist—actually needs.

Off-Campus Courses Offered

ABILENE (AP) — Seven off-campus courses involving tours to foreign countries are among classes to be offered at Hardin-Simmons University during the mini-term January 3-22, 1972.

Dr. John Harvey, chairman of the Mini-Term Committee, has announced that a total of 35 courses will be offered with most departments participating. Some courses will be innovative, while others will be regular courses as described in the University bulletin.

Early registration for the off-campus courses is being urged so that definite plans can be made, Dr. Harvey said. A deadline of Nov. 15 has been set, although students are urged to make their plans this spring if possible.

Ives To Wed

LONDON (AP) — American folk singer Burl Ives, 61, and interior decorator Dorothy Koster, 44, say they will marry in London but haven't set a date.

"We decided to get married in London because it is a nice place," Ives said Wednesday.

Mrs. Koster, an attractive blonde from California, said they "fell in love with London" when they came for Ives to appear on a television show.

She and Ives have known each other for 10 years. Both have been married before.

They plan to make a home in New Mexico.

Rock Singer Teaching Math

LITCHFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Folk rock singer-composer Art Garfunkel is now dealing with squares. And Circles and triangles.

A spokesman for Litchfield Preparatory School said Garfunkel, half of the team of Simon and Garfunkel, began teaching geometry Tuesday and is expected to continue through the end of the semester.

Garfunkel has a summer home on nearby Bantam Lake.

Issel, Colonels Nip Virginia, 136-132

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Any notions that Dan Issel is off his game have been dashed.

Unfortunately for the Virginia Squires, they were the first to find out.

Issel averaged 21.3 points a game in the Kentucky Colonels semifinal playoffs against the Floridians and fouled out of three games. Quite a turnabout from regular season play when he led the American Basketball Association with a 29.9 average and fouled out of only eight contests.

But the 6-foot-9 roving pivotman was in superlative form Thursday night when he poured in 46 points to pace the Colonels to a 136-132 victory over the Squires in the opening game of their best-of-seven ABA Eastern Division final playoff.

The Colonels-Squires game was the only ABA action as the Western Division finalists, Utah and Indiana, had the night off. The series, locked at 1-1, resumes Saturday at Salt Lake City.

A merry-go-round defense of Doug Moe, Neil Johnson, 6-foot-11 Jim Eakins and Bill Bunting was no match for Iysel who had 29 points at the half and 42 at the end of the third period.

About that time it looked as if the playoff record of 53 points held by Roger Brown of Indiana was in jeopardy.

But coach Frank Ramsey rested Issel the first half of the final quarter and didn't put his precocious rookie back into the lineup until Virginia began to destroy a 13 point Colonels lead.

The Squires, who never led, tied the game at 130 with a minute to go, but steady Cincy Powell, who finished with 31 points, and Darel Carrier combined for six free throws and put the game out of reach.

Charlie Scott led Virginia with 35 points while Ray Scott and George Carter had 27 each.

The second game will be played Saturday at Norfolk, Va.

Big Betting

NEW YORK (AP) — One week after it started taking bets, wagering went over the $100,000 mark for the first time Thursday, the New York City Offtrack betting Corporation announced. The exact total was $109,958.

The OTB said this brought the aggregate amount of offtrack betting for its first week of operation to $628,586. So far bets have only been taken on the night harness races at Roosevelt Raceway.

District Track Meet Expected To Be Close

The District 3-AAA Track Meet which will be unveiled in Tiger Stadium Saturday could be one of the most exciting meets ever held here.

There are several strong teams in the district and most observers feel there will be at least a 6-way fight for the team trophy. Lubbock Dunbar, Lubbock Estacado, Sweetwater, Brownfield, Colorado City and Snyder all will be gunning for the crown. Lamesa and Lakeview aren't as strong as the other teams, but they could have something to say about how they will finish.

The prelims in the running events and finals in the field events will begin at 10 a.m. Finals in the running events will begin at 3 p.m. There also will be a junior division with every school in the district fielding junior teams except the Lubbock schools.

Colorado City has a pair of superb athletes, who will be highlighting the action this year. Stan Bracy is the defending state champion in the century and in the 220 yard dash. He will get plenty of competition in the 100 yard dash where three other district lads have recorded times of 9.7 seconds. The three are Cleo Johnson of Dunbar, Richard Vaughn of Lamesa and Kenneth Yates of Estacado. In the 220, William High of Dunbar and Jesse Letheridge of Estacado will be challenging Bracy. High and Letheridge are both in the 21.7 range. The other Colorado City athlete who is expected to compile about 20 points is Carl Devorce, who will be competing in the shot put and discus. Carl has heaved the shot 61 plus this season, but there are six boys in the league who have thrown it more than 55 feet.

Snyder's best chances of blue ribbons are in the high hurdles and in the pole vault. Gary Patterson has a 14.5 to his credit in the hurdles, but he lost to Estacado's Nathaniel Hines earlier in the year. Troy Hall of Snyder has cleared 12-6 in the pole vault, but so have Steve Smith and Rod Tucker of Brownfield.

Olda Lewis of Estacado has leaped better than 23 feet in the long jump, and he should get plenty of competition from Ezell Brown of Brownfield and Norman Davis and Johnny Spears of Snyder.

Brownfield's Van Garner has consistently jumped 6-4 in the high jump while Dunbar's Gary Howard and Ray Tillman and Snyder's Jeff Stewart have consistently jumped 6-2.

Another exciting race is on tap in the mile run where Juan Ledesma of Brownfield and Bruce Foreman of Sweetwater are expected to battle for the blue ribbon. Meet officials are expecting both boys to break 4:40.0.

Patterson and Hines also will meet in the intermediate hurdles, but Estacado's Eric Hill may be the class of this event. He has a 40.5 to his credit.

Sweetwater's Charley Marshall is capable of running a 50 flat in the 440 while Bill Spain of Brownfield and Ronnie Lawson of Dunbar can do better than 51.

Brownfield's Shannon Brooks is knocking at the two minute barrier in the 880, and Snyder's Freddy Murphy and Estacado's Chris Stubblefield will be pushing him towards a record.

Dunbar, with a 42.3 clocking, has the best time in the sprint relay, but Estacado could surprise them. The Panthers also have a 3:25 to their credit in the mile relay, but Sweetwater will be challenging them for the blue ribbon.

All things considered, it stacks up as a very close, interesting meet.

Ag, Raider Series Begins

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M, boasting a 26-3 season record, a 9-0 Southwest Conference mark, and a fourth ranking nationally hosts Texas Tech Friday and Saturday in a crucial three-game series.

The Red Raiders, who have won 12 of their last 13 games, are 22-9 for the year, and 7-2 in the SWC—good for second place.

Texas A&M Coach Tom Chandler, who is suffering from a ruptured disc in his back which will require surgery, will probably start Bruce Katt Friday followed by Paul Czerwinski in the second game of the doubleheader. Jackie Binks is the probable starter Saturday.

Tech Coach Kal Segrist will pitch Ruben Garcia, Larry Knight, Doug Ham and Doug Ault. His rotation is expected to be Garcia, Knight and Ault.

A&M's 26 victories are the most ever by an Aggie team. The previous best was 25 set last year.

The Aggies are leading the SWC in hitting at a record-breaking .335 clip. Texas is hitting .299 and Tech is hitting .286.

In other SWC games, Baylor is at Rice and SMU at TCU for a weekend series.

Last time the PGA championship was decided by the match play method, Lionel Hebert beat Dow Finsterwald, 2 and 1, in 1957 at Miami Valley in Dayton, Ohio.

Tennis Tourney Underway

The Snyder High School tennis team, coached by Jerry Mankins, is hosting the District 3-AAA Tournament, which began at noon today. Competition will resume tomorrow with the finals getting underway at 1 p.m.

Jimmy Brandon met Butch Boyer of Sweetwater and the doubles team of Bob Christian and Steve Wittie met Larry Kinnard and George Gray of Colorado City at 12 p.m. Also at 12 o'clock, Linda Thompson and Anna Lou Thompson met Kathy Powell and Cindy Densmore of Sweetwater.

At 1 p.m., Pam Smith and Leslie Bilberry were slated to meet Margie Palmer and Janet Brownfield of Colorado City. Vonee Reneau also had a 1 o'clock match with Holley Robison of Sweetwater.

At 2 p.m., Bebo Boren and Bourdon Wooten were to meet David Beaver and Vernon Liddell of Brownfield.

Max Falls, No. 1 singles entry from Snyder, was to play at 3 p.m. today, but his opponent hadn't been decided.

At 4 p.m., Becky Sims will meet an opponent yet to be named.

There also are 16 Snyder junior players competing in the junior division.

Tigers Meet Tors Today

Snyder High School's baseball team was all set to tangle with Lamesa again at 4 p.m. today in Lamesa in a District 3-AAA rematch. The Tornadoes took a 7-6 decision here Wednesday.

Coach Speedy Moffett has named a starting lineup, according to batting order, as follows: Stewart Sims 3b, Butch Buchanan 1b, Larry Wall c, Bobby Schrader, lf, Marvin McClanahan p, and Larry Braziel 2b.

McClanahan probably will be opposed by Hardburger, who appeared in a relief role for Lamesa Wednesday.

Snyder is 10-6 for the season while Lamesa is 9-6. The Tors are 1-0 in district and the Tigers are 0-1.

Relief Pitchers Earn Pay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Relief pitchers earned their pay Thursday night in another round of low-scoring Dixie Association battles.

For example, Rick Hoban of Jacksonville went six innings before he tired and gave way to Dan Hatchell. They teamed for a sparkling two-hitter in a 3-1 defeat of Charlotte.

John Bauer iced down Columbus in the bottom of the 11th inning to give Asheville its first Dixie victory of the season 6-3.

That's the way it went as the hitters try to play catchup in the early days of the season.

Redlegs Will Play Sunday

The Snyder Redlegs baseball team will open their season at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Northeast Park with a doubleheader against the San Angelo South Side Lions team.

Many Objects To Be Housed In LBJ Library

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — On Dec. 31, 1963, Nikita Khrushchev wrote to the new American president about thermo-nuclear war:

"No one will be spared, no one will be able to protect himself against it."

The original of that letter is among 31 million documents and other objects that will be housed in the new Lyndon B. Johnson Library.

The library, on the University of Texas campus, will be dedicated May 22.

Khrushchev's letter is signed "N. Khrushchef," with only six letters, beginning with "X," needed to spell the last name in the Russian alphabet.

Johnson had been president only a little over a month, following the assassination of John Kennedy.

The Russian premier sent him a 17-page letter addressing "the question of territorial disputes between states and the means of their settlement."

Khrushchev blamed imperialism for the two world wars in which "tens of millions of lives were sacrificed to the Moloch of war."

Moloch is a Semitic deity worshiped through the sacrifice of children.

Khrushchev wrote of Taiwan, Korea and South Vietnam, saying the United States must get out of those countries.

"It cannot be doubted that if, because of a local collision of states striving to resolve their territorial disputes by force of arms, a world thermo-nuclear war should come about, no one will be spared, no one will be able to protect himself against it.

"No one, except madmen and politicians blinded by hatred, can acquiesce to such a prospect.

"I want to declare definitely and firmly that in the Soviet Union there are no such politicians, and if some should come to fore, they will unquestionably be placed in an insane asylum."

Johnson replied with a four-page letter agreeing "with much" of what Khrushchev said and urging greater use of the United Nations by the super powers to achieve peace.

Among other documents shown to newsmen last week were:

—A handwritten letter from Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobryin concerning a proposed visit by Johnson to Russia in early October of 1968. The letter is dated Aug. 19, 1968, one day before the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. The invasion killed plans for the visit.

A note from Mrs. Johnson the day after the 1964 Democratic convention opened, discussing whether he should seek the nomination. The note concludes: "In the final analysis I can't carry any of the burdens you talked of—as I know its only your choice. But I know you are as brave as any of the thirty-five. I love you always. Bird." She referred to the 35 previous presidents.

—The card from which Johnson read at Andrews Air Force Base after Kennedy's assassination. The opening line reads, "This is a sad time for every American." Johnson struck out "every American" and wrote above it, "free men." Then he struck that out and finally settled on, "all people."

South Africans Are Boozers

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Hendrik J. Klopper, speaker of the House of Assembly, says the amount of liquor consumed in South Africa is shocking. He said that during his 28 years as a politician he never drank or found it necessary to offer anyone liquor. Klopper is also president of the South African Temperance Alliance.

The name Low Sunday for this octave of the Resurrection marks the contrast with the great feast celebrated the week before, or it is in recognition of the fact that in many places it was customary to repeat some of the Easter solemnities.

"Now it is high time to awaken out of sleep." Romans 13:11.

To delve deeply in the past
we only dig in dust
And glorify the mildew and magnify the rust.
We only have today; the past
is never ours,
Nor have we ever yet possessed tomorrow's future hours.
So today is just the only time
in which we have to live,
Our only true occasion to laugh and love and live.

Methodists See Dawn Of New Day

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The president-elect of the United Methodist Council of Bishops says his denomination is "beginning to see the dawn of a new day in the life of the church."

Bishop O. Eugene Slater of San Antonio, who will take office a year from now, said the Methodist church has "been under a lot of criticism, and some of this criticism may be justified."

But the 11-million-nember denomination has been studying itself closely, he said after his first-ballot election Thursday, and "I see evidences that we are beginning to experience some upswing."

Laymen are saying they are "ready to move up" rather than retreat from the problems of the day, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Slater, 64, is a former Amarillo, Tex., pastor who served as bishop at Topeka, Kan., for four years before his assignment here in 1964. He is a native of Sibley, La.

Bishop Paul Hardin Jr. of Columbia, S.C., who was named president-elect of the council a year ago, officially took the post Thursday at the close of the group's spring meeting here. He succeeded Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington.

Both Bishops Hardin and Slater pointed out the church's financial affairs as another reason for optimism about its future and the interest laymen have taken in it.

In 1970, Hardin said, the church raised 6.4 per cent more money for benevolent causes than ever before in its history.

A new Methodist church in San Francisco, which strives to appeal to all walks of life, is one example of the "dawn of a new day" in the church, Slater told newsmen.

Both said the church must not limit its scope.

"We have a responsibility to all the people and the fact that it is difficult at times to establish and maintain communication does not lessen our responsibility to do so," Hardin said.

Bishop Slater said the new "Jesus movement" among young people is evidence the younger generation is "reaching out for something more solid and more lasting."

The church, he said, "should re-examine some of the methods and approaches as it relates to young people."

As long as the basic Christian values and faith are maintained, he said, "I feel we should not be afraid of experimenting with innovative services."

Speaking of the church in broader, more general terms, Hardin said he thinks it is due for some changes, "but personally I want to see the new pattern before I discard completely the present structure."

The main duties of the president are to preside at meetings of the nationwide council. He does not make policy for the denomination nor speak for it, church officials said.

The Spanish Steps are in Rome and were built in the 18th century.

The General Meeting of the Christain Women's Fellowship will be held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Miller, Towle Park Road, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Church School will begin at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship at 10:55 at Trinity United Methodist Church. Evening vespers are set for 6 p.m.

The Wesleyan Service Guild will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and on Thursday at 7 p.m. there will be a covered dish dinner and program presented by the Rev. Jacinto Alderete of the Wesley Community Center of Amarillo. Women are to bring sewing items for the center.

Renewed Life service will be held April 25-29 at Trinity. The messenger will be the Rev. Leo K. Gee, pastor of First United Methodist Church in Big Spring.

No Tax Relief Seen By Allen

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas businessmen may be hit with taxes on business profits in order to balance the state's budget, Longview Rep. John Allen said Thursday.

Allen, speaking to the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, offered little hope of tax relief for any segment of the state's populace.

He enphasized, however, that the House most likely would reject a corporate income tax program even if it was approved by the Senate.

"I would guess that the franchise tax would be increased, instead," he said.

"If not, then the franchise tax would be abolished and replaced with a corporate profits tax," he added.

"Many of us are concerned that Texas should continue to look kindly to industry which provides jobs for our people. It is better to have a good job and be able to pay taxes than to have no job and pay no taxes," he said.

He called the House appropriation bill a "bare bone" measure, 30 per cent below what state agencies had requested and $100 million less than the Senate's appropriations bill.

He said taxes are likely to get higher since many people have shunned their "rightful responsibilities of taking care of their own" and have taken those problems to state and federal governments.

The convention was to end today with remarks from U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on his recent visit to Indochina.

Baking Is Joint Affair

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Thirty-one bags of wheat, contributed by a Flager, Colo., farmer, Neil Dorach, are being used here to convert into 310 loaves of bread for use at the opening communion service of a American Baptist Convention May 12. Local Baptist women are doing the baking in 150 new pans provided by a Sioux Falls, S.D., hardware salesman, Len Perron.

Priest's Parents Are Overjoyed

PACIFICA, Calif. (AP) — The parents of a Roman Catholic priest say they were "overjoyed" to learn for the first time that they have a daughter-in-law and a 5-year-old grandson.

Robert Duryea Sr., whose son's marriage was disclosed Wednesday after his excommunication from the Church, said the news that he had a grandson was "like a gift."

The son, the Rev. Robert F. Duryea Jr., 49, had been priest for the 4,000 parishioners of St. Peter's church here since 1966.

His wife, identified publicly for the first time Thursday, is 30-year-old Lualan, a nurse at O'Connor Hospital in nearby San Jose. Her maiden name was not disclosed.

The senior Duryea said he met his son's wife and his grandson Paul for the first time Easter Sunday at the last Mass celebrated by Father Duryea.

"My son's wife is wonderful in every way," he said in an interview. "I admire her guts for permitting Bob to go ahead with the priesthood after marrying her. Few women would have done that."

He said that at first he was concerned that some of his friends "would take it the wrong way, but not one single soul has said anything but how happy they are for us. They've been falling all over themselves to tell us."

Another son, John, is Catholic chaplain at Stanford University.

Father Robert Duryea said Thursday he is looking for a job to support his family "until I am invited back into the Church as a pastor."

Speaking before some 600 parishioners at a farewell meeting, he said, "I want to feel that my many years in the Church were useful. And like an elegant gentleman once said before me, 'I shall return,'" a reference to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's wartime vow to return to the Philippines.

Father Duryea was suspended and excommunicated automatically Monday by Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco under a Church law prohibiting marriage by priests.

Father Duryea said he has not decided what type of job to seek but is considering teaching and social work.

The parish council issued a statement lauding Father Duryea but said it had decided not to fight his ouster.

Tricia's Wedding May Be Televised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tricia Nixon has chosen the White House rose garden for her June 12 wedding and is considering live television coverage.

About 400 guests, mainly family friends and relatives, will be invited to the marriage ceremony of the President's elder daughter and Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox.

In event of rain, the ceremony will be moved to the East Room inside the executive mansion where seven other president's daughters have been married.

Details of the ceremony were announced Thursday by Connie Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary.

The matron of honor and best man have yet to be named, but it's thought they likely will be Julie Nixon Eisenhower and the prospective groom's brother, Howard Ellis Cox Jr.

Tricia has chosen Bill Harrington's 10-piece orchestra to provide dancing music in the East Room. Mrs. Stuart said the selection will range from "nostalgic to modern and will include favorite tunes of Tricia and Ed."

Harrington also played for President Nixon's 1969 inaugural ball and at the wedding receptions for Julie and David Eisenhower and David's sister, Barbara Ann Eisenhower, and her husband, Fernando Echeverria-Uribe.

Mrs. Stuart said wedding guests will be received in the Blue Room and take refreshments in the state dining room.

The bridal party will descend the curving south portico staircase and walk along a grassy center aisle to an altar set up on the west end of the 18th Century garden which should be alive with blooming flowers.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Edward Gardiner Latch, chaplain of the House of Representatives.

"We are considering offering portions of the wedding for coverage on television," Mrs. Stuart said. "We're considering everything."

Concert Set By Crusaders

The public is invited to hear "The Spiritual Crasaders" of Snyder who will sing from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at Bethel Baptist Church, said R. Virgil Mott, pastor.

During the intermission, Mrs. Johnnie Harrison will play a piano solo.

Some of the songs on the program are "Before the Heaven Door is Closed," "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Glory, Glory Hallelujah," "Get Your Soul Right in This World," "Makes Me Feel Like Time Ain't Long," "I'll Never Turn Back No More," "King Jesus Is Listening," and "I'm On the Battlefield for the Lord."

Astronaut Sued For Divorce

HOUSTON (AP) — Apollo 14 astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell, 40, one of only six men who have stood on the face of the moon, is being sued for divorce by his wife of nearly 20 years.

Louise E. Mitchell said in her domestic relations court petition Thursday that she and Mitchell, a Navy captain, were married Dec. 21, 1951 and became estranged April 12, 1971.

They have two children, Karlyn Louise, 17, and Elizabeth Randall, 12.

The petition listed a "conflict of interest" among other factors.

Mrs. Mitchell requested that she be awarded custody of the children and that the family residence in Nassau Bay be awarded for the use of her and the children pending final disposition of the suit.

Mitchell landed on the moon with Alan Shepard during the Apollo 14 flight.
