Standing of Dublin Banks.

The Progress this week publishes the quarterly statements of both of Dublin,s excellent financial institutions.

The statement of the Citizens National is an extraordinary showing of growth within the past three months, covering a period of the dullest season of the year. On April 6th, the date of the last statement, the loans and discounts were nearly $40,000 less than at the present time, the individual deposits nearly $30,000 less and the business shown by the statement published today reaches a considerable way toward a quarter of a million dollars. Progressive ideas have had quite a bit to do with the success achieved by this bank, a prominent one of these being the inauguration of a savings department in which the bank pays an interest of three per cent on time deposits. This is an attractive feature for idle money in large amounts as well as on small savings and is a policy gradually being adopted by the best bankers. The success already attained by the Citizens National is proof that there is ample room in Dublin for profitable business for two first class and conservative banking institutions.

The statement of the old reliable Dublin National this week shows a comfortable margin above a quarter of a million dollars of business, indeed a good advance toward the half million mark. The bank has a capital of $60,000, a surplus fund of $12,000, undivided profits of nearly $80,000 and individual deposits of close on to $200,000. The directory of the bank is composed of some of our strongest business men whose combined personal responsibility reaches far above a million dollars.

Big Sale of Nursery Stock.

The Dublin Floral & Nursery Co., though a comparatively new institution here, is assuming proportions to make it one of our most valuable enterprises. The company now has seventeen salesmen constantly at work and all are meeting with wonderful success in securing orders for nursery stock. The company is proud of the record being made by their various salesmen, but particularly so that of E. E. Vandyke, a son of Mr. Vandyke of near Bunyan. Mr. Vandyke has made many excellent sales since the first of the present year but he last week eclipsed all former records of himself and the other sixteen salesmen in making up a single bill for a single individual last week amounting to $613.50. This bill of trees and shrubbery was sold to C. H. Kenwood of Thurber who is anxious to secure some of the best stock for the nucelous of a nursery on his own account and hence purchased this large order from the Dublin Floral & Nursery Co.

WAS PARDONED

After this Death Claimed Ed Goodman a Victim to the Ravages of Dread Tuberculosis.

Ed Goodman, who was given a five year sentence last year in the district court for Erath county in connection with the killing of Mr. Pittman in the Greens Creek country in 1904, was pardoned by the governor recently and arrived home on Wednesday of last week badly broken in health and in a dangerous condition from the effects of tuberculosis. The confinement proved too much for the constitution which had already been broken by disease and Mr. Goodman peacfully passed away Wednesday at the home of his father some miles north of Dublin. Burial took place at the cemetery at Stephenville yesterday. Miss Monnett, a sister of the deceased, is also reported dangerously ill with the same dread disease and her death is hourly expected. The deceased man had many good traits of character and the unfortunate turn of circumstances that caused the violent death of one good man, the wasting away of another and the widowhood of two good women is to be deplored rather than to cast a stigma upon the character of the two men, whose intentions were altogether apparently good, but whose judgments were at fault in permitting their differences to go so far.

Negro's House Burned.

A resident building near the Frisco passenger depot and across the alley from Powell's livery, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night about 11 o'clock. The building was occupied by the family of Caleb Riley, a well thought of colored man who has for some years been engaged with the wholesale house of Cooper Grocer Co., but who left here a short time ago to take a position with a gas company in Dalias. The family lost all their household goods and all their wearing apparel except that they had on at the time of the alarm and it is said a sick woman in the house barely escaped suffocation. Some of the colored people claim that a trunk in the house was rifled of a sum of money which was tied up in a garment in the trunk and the house set fire, as it is claimed the garment was found after the fire in the yard with the sleeves cut off and the money gone. A subscription list was circulated on the following day for the assistance of the family and a sum amounting to $17.65 in money was donated, besides a quantity of clothing. The building was a total loss but we are informed it was insured in a small amout.

City Will Redeem Bonds.

The city council held a long drawn out meeting last Tuesday night, adjourning about 2 o'clock the following morning. The occasion was the regular monthly meeting and besides the regular routine business the matter of redeeming several oustanding bonds, which has been under consideration for some time, occupied the attention of the body. The idea has been for the city to take up two of the outstanding one thousand dollar bonds with the accumulated monies of the sinking fund, in order to stop interest on them, but as the bonds are not due they have to be taken up under a ten year option provided in the bond ordinance and it is necessary to spend two hundred dollars in advertising in two New York papers to force the holders to give up the bonds. More of these bonds, which draw six per cent annual interest, can be taken up without any additional expense in the mattter of advertising and the school board wished to take up three of them as an investment for $3,000 of the sinking fund of the school. The bonds could not be secured by the school except through the city and the absence of any authority of law whereby the school fund in any sum could be turned over to the city authorities in order to provide the city with the funds to take up for the school the three extra bonds, has presented a problem with which the board and the council have been wrestling. At Tuesday night's meeting the city directed their treasurer to advertise for only two bonds on their own account. Wednesday morning the school board met and after considering the matter a joint meeting of the council and the board was arranged and held at the city hall at 4 p. m. At this meeting the matter was arranged in a satisfactory manner to all and the city treasurer authorized to secure five of the one thousand dollar bonds, two for the city and three for the school. This action will result in a mutual saving to the city and school, the city saving outright six per cent annually on $2,000 and paying six per cent on the other $3,000 to the local school fund instead of to the present holders of the bonds in New York. Several other matters of importance relative to a general cleaning up of the city was also considered by the council Tuesday night and the matter was even carried so far as a suggestion by one councilman that it be made an offencse to empty quantities of clean water in the street gutters. This action of course was not taken, but a general movement has been properly inaugurated toward enforcing the law in the matter of not permitting filth, old cans, bottles, paper and other trash dumped indiscriminately in the streets and alleys. Hurrah for the council. Let the good work proceed and condemned be he who first cries hold, enough!

Another item accomplished by the council was the designation of a depository for the city funds upon a basis of the highest bidders on daily balances. The Dublin National Bank bid five per cent and was designated as the official depository of the funds for one year.

South Texas.

The conclusion of the article about South Texas, which was to have appeared this week, has been deferred until next issue.

Erath District Court.

The arson case of T. R. Dunlap, charged with the burning of Jarvis college at Thorp Springs about a year ago, which occupied the attention of district court last week, resulted in a verdict of guilty and punishment was assesed at five years in the penitentiary, which verdict the jury brought in Friday. Notice of appeal was given.

Masonic Picnic at Bluff Dale.

The local committeee at Bluff Dale requests us to say that there will be a big Masonic picnic at that place on Saturday, June 30th. Many speakers of state reputation have promised to be present. Plenty of good shade, cool water and a generous welcome. Invitation is extended to everybody to be present and bring with them a basket well filled with eatables. A big time is anticipated.

Disastrous Fire at Cisco.

A destructive fire occurred at Cisco early last Wednesday morning, entailing a loss estimated at $12,000 with aggregate insurance of about one third that sum. The destroyed property is the large furniture store of the Eppler Furniture Co. and two meat markets. The fire originated in an adjoining restaurant and while the firemen were fighting the flames in this building the others caught and got beyond control.

Mammoth Egg Exhibited.

M. N. Jones who resides three miles out of Dublin on the Hazel Dell road brought in a mammoth egg today, which was the product of an industrious hen on his place. The egg balanced the scales at even a quarter of a pound and measured seven inches in circumference around the smallest way and eight inches around lengthwise. Eggs like this one are not quoted in the market separately, but if they were and quantites of like kind were to be had, they would command a big premium over the regulation sizes.

Hail Near Purves.

J. D. White, who resides two miles west of Purves, was in yesterday and reported a heavy hail in his locality about 3 o'clock last Wednesday evening. A light shower, sufficient to cause water to run in the ditches, accompanied the hail. Mr. White said the hail cloud came from the northwest and that it covered a strip of territory about three quarters of a mile wide. Some of the hail stones were very large, some being the size of a hen egg and that here and there window panes were broken and in several fields crops were considerably damaged. One of the fields damaged was that of Kern Barbee.

More Conservative To-Day.

Mr. H. B. Keyser of near Alexander has been a constant reader of the Progress for more than sixteen years and in making a recent remittance on subscription sent us the following very much appreciated commendatory remarks: Mr. Keyser said: "Allow me to congratulate you for the conservative stand you have of late years taken, for the correctness, variety and quantity of your local news and for the success that has attended your efforts. When I first began to read the Progress it was a very small and radical sheet, but age and experience have greatly improved the tone of its comments and its value as a purveyor of the news."

ON STATE BOARD

Dublin Citizen Appointed by State Superintendent on Board of Normal Examiners.

Prof. E. I. Hall this week received from State Superintendent R. B. Cousins, an appointment to be one of the three members of the Summer Normal State Board of Examiners for the present year. The appointment, coming to Prof. Hall as it does without solicitation, put over the application of many other prominent and able educators of the state, is a neat compliment to a deserving citizen and teacher, as well as a recgonition by the state superintendent of nearly a quarter of a century of highly meritorious work in educational work and interests, peformed by our citizen upon whom this honor falls.

The work of the state Board of examiners takes in a general survey and consideration of the labors and papers of every school teacher in every summer normal held in the state this year, probably three thousand to five thousand, and a passing upon their various grades and the duties will require the presence of Prof. Hall and the other two members of the board at Austin for a month to six weeks and possibly two months during this summer.

County Union Meeting.

The Erath County Farmers Union held a call meeting at Stephenville last Saturday morning to consider further regarding the warehouse question in this county and it was announced that three thousand dollars had been thus far secured toward building the warehouses at Dublin and Stephenville. Agreeable to the plan to have a trained man in charge of the warehouses as a sampler of the stored product, Claud Woolverton was chosen to go to Dallas to attend the school of instruction along that line, which is to begin on July first. The county committee will meet again in Stephenville tomorrow.

Commissioner Kiker on Roads.

Editor Progress:—Again I wish to use your columns to insist that persons living on county roads within this commissoners precinct whch is without an overseer and needing attention, will please notify me by mail or in person, giving the name of the road, the name of the last overseer and suggest some one for the place, giving the postoffice address of the person suggested. If they do this I will make the appointments and send out the commissions at once and this is the only means by which such roads may be looked after. The road tax proposition was badly snowed under and the only chance now to get roads worked that need working, is to get out and work them. Crop work is nearly all done and before you get out on your fishing and prospecting trip, you had better take a round on the roads over which you shall have to haul your crop to market. Three or four days on the roads now with wagon and team and proper tools will be rewarded many fold when you start into marketing crops this fall. Last summer I had thirty-six wagons out hauling gravel at one time and the roads where they placed the gravel are in far better condition than where no gravel was hauled. I will assist in every way that I can in the matter of good roads. I believe in them, and now as the road working is to soon begin, we expect every person to do their part, regardles of age. Especially do I want to hear at once from some one on each road which has no overseer.—Jno. M. Kiker, commissioner.

Boy Drowned in Tank.

John Love, a 12-year old son of S. O. Love of Cisco, was drowned in a tank two miles north of that place last Monday. The boy with several playmates, were in a leaky boat in the tank and the boat sunk in about seven feet of water. The other three boys swam out, but the Love boy was unable to swim and was drowned before nearby workmen could rescue him. A sad feature of the accident was that the boy's father was on a prospecting trip in the Territory and could not be reached by wire until after the child was buried.

Reaper Injures Two.

A 12-year old son of Anderson Ruff, living about 14 miles north of Dublin, jumped in front of a reaper to catch a rabbit last Friday and the sickle cut his leg almost entirely off just above the ankle and as it was impossible to save the foot it was ampntated.

A. M. Carter, living near Indian creek school house, got his leg caught in the sickle of a reaper and resulted in the bones being sawed completely in two and the other leg so badly mangled that the limb had to be amputated.

Bought Property in Dublin.

Dr. W. B. Goodner, late of Harbin, last week purchased the C. S. Valliant residence property on north Patrick street at a consideration of $1,250. The doctor moved in with his family the latter part of the week, occupied the newly acquired premises and have become permanent residents here, for which we are glad. The doctor has spent the greater portion of his life in the practice of medicine and has attained more than usual prominence and success in his profession. Some months ago, however, he retired and informs us that he will not again enter the practice.

Time For School Transfers.

Supt. E. I. Hall of the Dublin schools has now undertaken the work of securing the transfers to the Dublin school for the present year and is desirous of completing the work as quickly as possible. To that end he asks us to request that all persons wishing to transfer their children to the Dublin district should see him at once and sign up the tansfers in legal form or call upon the secretary of the board, J. S. Daley, and do so. It is essential that this be done, and at once, in all cases where transfers are to be made and parents or guardians in such cases should take due notice and not delay.

Following the Flag.

When our soldiers went to Cuba and the Philippines health was the most important consideration. Willis T. Morgan, retired Commissary Sergeant C. S. A., rural route one, Concord, N. H., says: "I was two years in Cuba and two years in the Philippines, and being subject to colds I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which kept me in perfect health. And now in New Hampshire we find it the best medicine in the world for coughs, colds, bronchial troubles and lung diseases. Guaranteed at Overton Drug Co. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Fortune in Whales.

Ambergris is one of the most valuable products of sea. The mariner who spies floating on the waves of grayish mass, fatty in appearance, will, if he knows what ambergris is, betray considerable excitment for the substance fetches high prices.

Captain James Earle of New Bedford, Mass., is said to have been the luckiest of all skippers in the old whaling days.

From a single sperm whale he realized over $100,000. It was not the ninety barrels of oil which gave the leviathan its extraordinary value, for that was sold for something like $4,000; but within the whale's vast interior there was found a solid piece of ambergris, weighing 780 pounds.

This was the largest single piece of ambergris ever found, and that it came from one lone whale made the discovery more interesting to the scientific world.

This 780 pound piece of ambergris was sold in chunks in all markets of the world for about $100,000 and it laid the foundation of wealth for almost every man interested in the whaling expedition which originated in New Zealand.

The finest piece, if not the largest, obtained in recent years, weighed one hundred and sixty-three pounds. It was sold in London in 1891.

There is no longer any mystery as to the origin of ambergris. It is a morbid secretion due to a disease of the liver of the sperm whale, in the intestines of which animal lumps of it are occasionally, though rarely discovered. Dr. C. H. Stevenson of the United States Fish Commission, who has made a special study of the subject, says that the whales which hold ambergris are invarably sickly and emaciated.

Anciently, the substance was known as amber—a name which was subsequently applied also to the fossil gum now commonly so called.

But, to distinguish the two, one was called "ambergris" (gray) and the other "amber jaune" (yellow.)

So it appears that ambergris means simply gray amber. Like the fossil gum pieces of it were found now and then on the seashore, where they had been cast up by the waves; hence doubtless, the giving of the same name to both.

Dr. Stevenson says that ambergris usually contains the beak of cuttlefishes, on which the sperm whale feeds. Sometimes it is black, but the finest is gray in color. When dried, to cure, it, it is light and inflammable, and yields an odor faintly resembling honey. On being melted by heat, it evaporates slowly, leaving no trace behind.

The substance has been used for centuries in sacredotal rites of the church, and with fragrant gums was formerly burnt in the apartments of royalty. To some extent it was employed as a medicine and to flavor certain dishes. Nowadays it is utilized almost exclusively by perfumers, in the preparation of fine scents, being first converted into a tincture by dissolving it in alcohol.

THE OLD PLEA

He "Didn't Know it Was Loaded."

The coffee drinker seldom realizes that coffee contains the drug Caffein, a serious poison to the heart and nerves causing many other forms of disease noticeably dyspepesia.

"I was a lover of coffee and used it for many years and did not realize the bad effects I was suffering from its use.

"At first I was troubled with indigestion but did not attribute the trouble to the use of coffee but thought it arose from other causes. With these attacks I had sick headache, nausea and vomiting. Finally my stomach was in such condition I could scarcely retain any food.

"I consulted a physician; was told all my troubles came from indigestion but was not informed what caused the indigestion, so I kept on with the coffee and kept on with the troubles too, and my case continued to grow worse from year to year until developed into chronic diarrhoea, nausea and severe attacks of vomiting so I could keep nothing on my stomach and became a mere shadow, reduced from 159 to 128 pounds.

"A specialist informed me I had a very severe case of catarrh of the stomach which had gotten so bad he could do nothing for me and I became convinced my days were numbered.

"Then I chanced to see an article setting forth the good qualities of Postum and explained how coffee injures people so I concluded to give Postum a trial. I soon saw the good effects—my headaches were less frequent, nausea and vomiting only came on at long intervals and I was a changed man, feeling much better.

"Then I thought I could stand coffee again, but as soon as I tried it old troubles returned and I again turned to Postum. Would you believe it, I did this three times before I had sense enough to quit coffee for good and keep on with the Postum; result is I am now a well man with no more headaches, sick stomach or vomiting and have already gained back to 147 puonds." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BROWNWOOD DISTRICT COURT.

The following proceedings were had in Brown county district court last week:

W. H. Thompson vs. Mrs. Jane Evans, to foreclose a mortgage, on trial last Thursday.

Monday of this week the case of Henry Medor charged with criminal assault came up for trial at 1:30 p. m. A special venire of seventy-five men was ordered. The defendant employed Messrs. Jenkins & McCartney as his council.

The case of H. L. Dyer vs. the Santa Fe for damages for putting him off the train near Bangs two years ago, was decided in this court last year giving plaintiff judgment for $350. The case was carried to a higher court and the decision affirmed. The court of appeals at Austin refused a new hearing. The railroad will have to pay the damages and the costs of the suits.

The case of L. M. Stubblefield vs. The Brownwood Oil Mill consumed the first three days of last week and resulted in a mistrial, the jury standing eleven for and one against giving the plaintiff a verdict. Mr. Stubblefield is the man who had his right hand crushed off last year by getting it caught in the cogs of a seed crusher at the oil mill. He is suing for $10,000 damages. His attorneys are T. C. Wilkinson and G. N. Harrison. C. S. McCartney represents the oil mill in the case.

EASTLAND COUNTY COURT.

Sam Edwards, violaing local option law, contiuned.

Marion Glenn, gaming, passed until Saturday of second week.

Owen Hinman, giving minor whiskey, set for last Monday.

J. W. Flourney, aggravated assault, on trial Thursday of last week.

Three cases against John Walker, violating local option law, continued.

John Carlile, petty theft, plead guilty and fined $5 and half day in jail.

The following business was transacted in county court at Eastland last week:

B. B. Whitehead, aggravated assault, continued and L. B. Thomas, same offense, dismissed.

F. O. Ellis, violating local option law, failed to appear and bond was forfeited and alias capias ordered for defendant and case set for Monday, June 18th.

Six cases against J. J. Hammock, violating local option law, dismissed. He was indicted about a year ago in ten cases, pleading guilty to four, the remaining six being dismissed as stated.

Lee Burkett and Charlie Webb, charged with disturbing religious worship, acquitted by the jury. The cases of Willie Dolberry and Filmore Decker, charged with the same offense, were passed until Tuesday of the second week of court.

Death From Lockjaw

Educated Rats.

By Neal Dow.

In the Congregationalist is a curious story about rats, which seems to indicate that they will not remain where their company is not desired if politely invited to change their quarters, though everybody knows that they are driven out with difficulty. Here is a perfectly true story which corroborates that one.

My house is supposed to be ratproof, and was so when quite new, but at one time, more than twenty years ago, we had a large colony of the rodents, greatly to our annoyance and it was with us a matter of daily wonder where they found a weak spot in our defenses among them. One evening a young lady from a friend's family, living in a large, fine house, nearly a mile away was with us and the talk turned on rats, as we heard ours scampering up and down the walls.

The young lady said that none had ever been in their house, and she did not think there was any point at which they could enter. My eldest daughter, a great wit, said: "I've heard that if politely invited to do so in writing, rats will leave any house and go to any other to which they may be directed and I will tell ours that at your house they will find spacious quarters and an excellent commissariat."

At the moment, before us all, she wrote the most grandiloquent letter to the large family of rats that had so favored us with their presence, pointing out to them that at No. 65 Pearl Street was a large, fine house which had never been favored with the residence of any of their family, where they could find ample quarters and a fat larder. When finished, she read the missive to the company and we had a great laugh over it. As an old superstition she then put lard upon it and carried it into the attic, where it would probably be found by those to whom it was directed.

A few days later the young lady was at our house again and burst into a laugh, exclaiming: "Our house is overrun with rats!" That recalled to us the fact thta we had heard none in our walls. My daughter went to the attic and the letter was gone. While they were talking and laughing over the curious affair, a friend came in and hearing the talk said that two evenings before, in the bright moonlight, he saw several rats running down Congress street, which was the straight road to Pearl street. We have never been troubled with them since, but I have not heard how it has been with the house to which our beneficiaries were directed.

I have 170 acres of fine unimproved sandy land located five miles southwest of Carbon that I will sell at a bargain on easy terms. Also eighty acres northeast of Carbon.—J. E. Spencer, Carbon, Texas. 42-tf.

Acting Beyond "Dead Line."

Look around the world today and see what some of the men who have long passed the "dead line" are doing and what they have accomplished. Look at the young military leaders in little Japan who conquered great Russia. Omaya was twenty years past this fatal line when he won his great victories and all of his corps commanders were past fifty. The Marquis Ito the Grand Old Man of Japan, her greatest statesman and one who has done more than any other to make Japan what it is today is still active in the service of his country.

Look at Diaz president of the Mexican republic. Much of his best work has been done since he was sixty. The emperor of Austria, one of the greatest statesmen on the continent, is about seventy-seven. Clement Armand Fallieres, recently president of France, is sixty-five.

The leaders, the men of the greatest influence in our United States senate have worn gray hairs for a quarter of a century. Senator Morgan of Alabama, eighty-four years old, recently made one of the best and most vigorous speeches on the Panama canal question that he has ever made. Joseph Chamberlain, nearly seventy years of age, is still the most brilliant staesman in England. He was sixty-seven when he initiated his plan for fiscal reform.

President Elliot of Harvard university, everything considered, has, perhaps been the greatest university president of his day, and nearly all of his greatest work has been done since he crossed the line of the comparatively "useless age." His mind is still strong, alert and creative.

Charles Hazelitt, consulting engineer of the city of New York over ninety-five years of age, works in his office every day at drawings and plans the most intricate work. He is such an efficient worker that he has been held in office by every administration, republic democratic alike, for over a quarter of a century.

From Julia Ward Howe, in her eighties to Sarah Bernhardt in her sixties, women workers in all fields of endeavor might be cited by hundreds who are doing great work in the world, their very best though they have long passed the "dead line." Sarah Bernhardt during this season in America achieved as brilliant successes as she did twenty years ago—she positively refuses to grow old.

Robert C. Ogden, at eighty, is one of the most active members of the great Wanamaker firm. In fact, judging from the abundance of his ideas, his creative ability and freshness of view, he is one of the youngest men in the whole institution.

Marshal Field was really in the prime of his manhood when he was stricken with pneumonia at seventy-one, and by far the most important parts of his remarkable career came after he had passed the half century mark.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

For that Dandruff

There is one thing that will cure it—Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is a regular scalp-medicine. It quickly destroys the germs which cause this disease. The unhealthy scalp becomes healthy. The dandruff disappears, had to disappear. A healthy scalp means a great deal to you—healthy hair, no dandruff, no pimples, no eruptions.

Delivery Boy's Experience.

A delivery boy for one of the prominent firms of Brownwood had an experience the other morning that he does not care to repeat again soon. From the story as told to a reporter it seems that a negligent husband had been told the day before to send up a lot of groceries, but was a day late and when the delivery boy arrived with the goods the following morning he was met at the door by the lady of the house who was not in the best of humor. She watched him put out the groceries and said not a word until a tiny little cabbage head, about as big as your fist, was set out, then without a word of warning she gathered up the cabbage and with a well directed throw hit the boy between the eyes. The lick, the fright and an attempt to get away caused the boy to fall down. By the time he got up the lady had the cabbage again and threw another strike, the boy was running by this time, but before he could get out of the gate the little cabbage had landed three times upon him and he started to run off and leave the wagon, but he saw that his assailant had given up the fight and he went back and took the wagon and hurried away.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendations to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

Mule Struck by Snake.

While J. C. Faubian was cutting wheat for LevBaugh last Friday afternoon on the latter's farm upon the Bayou, a large rattlesnake struck one of the mules hitched to the binder. The snake first struck the mule just above the hoof on the foreleg, and the second time its fangs hung in the skin of the animal just over the shin bone. The mule with a frightened jerk of his leg, threw the snake twenty feet or more away from the binder, and upon being killed it was found to have nineteen rattles and a button. Mr. Faubian drew two of the snake's fangs from his mule's leg with his pocket knife and immediately brought the team to town. By the time he reached home the mule could hardly walk and the leg was swollen to the shoulder. Mr. Faubian managed to get some whiskey, with which he dosed his mule liberally. The animal however, is still in a bad way.—Brownwood News.

God in the Mountain.

...William J. Bryan writing to the ...n News from India tells of his ... to the Himalayas Mountains. ...says:

"The mountain view from Darjeeling is unsurpassed. The Kinchinjunga peaks rise to a height of 28,156 feet above the sea or nearly twice as high as Pike's Peak and though forty-five miles distant are clear and distinct. The summits seen above the clouds seem to have no terrestrial base but hung as if suspended in midair. The best view is obtained from Tiger Hill, six miles from Darjeeling, and two hundred feet higher. We made this trip one morning, rising at 3 o'clock and reaching the observation point a little before sunrise. I wish I were able to convey to the reader the impression made upon us.

"While all about us was yet in darkness, the snowy robe which clothes the upper fifteen thousand feet of the range caught a tint of pearl from the first rays of the sun, and, as we watched, the orb of day rising like a ruby globe from a lake of dark blue mist gilded peak after peak until at last we saw Mount Everest earth's loftiest point 120 miles away and nearly a thousand feet higher than Kinchinjunga. We saw shadows fleeing from the light like hunted culprits and hiding in the deep ravines and we marked the triumph of the dawn as it swept down the valleys.

"How puny seems the work of man when brought into comparison with majestic nature. His groves what pygmies when measured against the forest. His noblest temples how insignificant when contrasted with the masonry of the hills! What canvas can imitate the dawn and sunset! What inlaid work can match the mosaics of the mountains!

"Is it blind chance that gives these glimpses of the sublime. And was it blind chance that clustered vast reservoirs above inaccessible summits and stored water to refresh the thirsty plains through hidden veins and surface stream?

"No wonder man from the beginning of history has turned to the heights for inspiration for here in the spirit awed by the infinite and here one sees both the mystery of creation and the manifestations of the Father's loving kindness. Here man finds a witness unimpeachable though silent to the omnipotence, the omniscience an the goodness of God."

Thousands are turning anxious eyes toward the earth at this season seeking a reward for their labors. As the plowman passes up and down between the furrows cultivating corn and cotton, he gazes intently at every passing stalk as he walks steadily on very much alert and mind busy with the expectations and hopes of the coming harvest. But beyond this plowing farmer there stand countless thousands whose feet have never trod plowed land, and they, too, watch the farmers' exertions. "What if his efforts fail?" The commerce of the nation, its financial institutions, its colleges and uni ersities, its law courts and its chruches exist because the man with the hoe wrings success from the land. He alone, among all who tread the globe has power, knows the art of turning dead soil into living crops. Let the waiting thousands who are fed by the farmers' bountiful stores pay willing tribute to his skil. The men who feed and clothe the nations of the earth deserve to be, and must be, more than mere peons or brothers to the ox.—Farm and Ranch.

CONVICT'S DEFT WORK.

Made Horsehair Bridle to Sell For Money For an Appeal.

An elaborately worked horsehair bridle made by J. C. Rand, a prisoner in the Montana state penitentiary, has been received in Denver by Theodore Taylor, a resident of Englewood, says a Denver dispatch. The bridle was made by Rand to raise money to appeal his case. About a month ago he wrote to Mr. Taylor asking if he would receive it and sell it for him.

Denver horsemen place the value of the bridle at $150. It is a wonderful piece of work, requiring long months of patient application. Intricate designs in color are woven through the different parts of the bridle, while every strap and line is made of horsehair. A heavy bit is included, with side chains that add greatly to the appearance of the outfit.

Underground Age Predicted.

A subterranean age, when theaters will be built underground and the busy hum of factories will resound from far beneath the sidewalk, was forecasted the other night by John M. Ewen, an engineer, in an address before the Men's club of St. Peter's Episcopal church in Chicago, says a dispatch from that city. Mr. Ewen's subject was "Erecting a Chicago Skyscraper," but while he pointed out that the erection of buildings fifty stories high is perfectly feasible, he said it is also probable that in the future more attention will be paid to digging habitable holes beneath the street level.

The Coming City of the Pacific.

Seattle has a brighter future than any other port on the Pacific coast, says Leslie's Weekly. Situated on Puget sound, it has one of the finest harbors in the world. Its population jumped from 3,500 in 1880 and 42,000 in 1890 to 80,000 in 1900. In the past half dozen years, however, its growth has been larger absolutely and proportionately than it was in the same time in the decade ending with 1900. The present prospect is that Uncle Sam's census takers in 1910 will find more than 200,000 people within Seattle's limits. The character of its population, too, is a credit to the town.

Rates to St. Louis Convention.

Abilene, Texas, June 16th, 1906.

My Dear Sir:—Will you please announce that the Central Passenger Association has granted us for St. Louis conference a fare and a third rate under the usual rules. The territory covered by the Central is bounded on the east by Pittsburg, Salamanca, Buffalo and Toronto; on the west by the Mississippi from Cairo to Burlington; on the north by Burlington, Chicago and the Great Lakes and on the south by the Ohio river, both sides. Purchasers of first class tickets must get certificates from their ticket agent when purchasing. National Chairman Ferriss is in correspondence with the other associations and feels sure that he will get the same rates from these also. We will need to get one hundred first class tickets to the conference to get the rate.

Chairman Ferriss writes me that from the number of replies he is receiving he feels quite sure that we will have a good meeting, and that the delegates will be quite enthusiastic also. Yours truly.—H. L. Bentley, National President.

Colored Farmers to Form Congress.

E. L. Blackshear, principal of the Prairie View State Normal and Industrial college at Prairie View in Waller county has called a state convention of the negro farmers of Texas to meet at Houston on July 4th to the 6th inclusive to organize a Colored Farmers Congress, with the object in view of increasing the efficiency of the negro farmers of Texas. Reduced rates have been announced on all lines leading into Houston.

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building plan of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce, is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies, that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Black Cherry-bark, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot and Stone root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "Discovery" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's say-so alone as to this; what he claims for his "Discovery" is backed up by the writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession. A request by postal card or letter, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicines, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent so anyone sending 21 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

Paint "Mixed on the Premises"

The best architects always specify: "Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil in original kegs to be mixed on the premises." There are two reasons: first, to make sure no substitute is used in the White Lead; and second, that the Linseed Oil shall be mixed to suit the particular job and the climatic conditions of the locality.

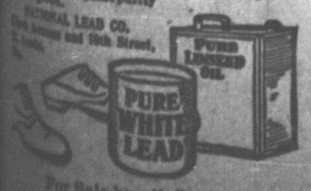

If architects with scientific knowledge and professional reputation are so careful to make sure that only the best materials shall be used, is it not quite as incumbent on the house owner to do as much for himself, when not employing professional aid?

Painters of reputation never quarrel with the specifications, because they realize that the materials called for are necessary to a satisfactory job. If a painter is conscientious, he will of his own accord use nothing but White Lead which is known to be pure. The standard is

ALIENS FOR THE SOUTH

She Must Offer More to Get Immigrants, Says Watchorn.

ADVISES AN INCREASE IN WAGES

Commissioner of Immigration Says Europeans Coming to the United States Have a Definite Aim—As an Experiment Members of Southern Commission Try to Change Their Minds, but In Vain.

"If the south wants immigrants she will have to raise wages to the level that prevails in the north and west."

This was the blunt advice given to the southern states immigration commission by Robert Watchorn, commissioner of immigration. He welcomed some thirty members of the new organization to Ellis island the other day, showed them the workings of the place and told them what they would have to expect in the attempt to deflect immigration toward the south, says the New York Times.

"You may think that immigrants come to this country without knowing where they are going," said Commissioner Watchorn, "and that you can get them as they land from the boats. It is not so. Out of every 400 that come here 399 know exactly where they are going. If you try to make them change their minds by telling them how superior the south is they are apt to think you are 'confidence men.' If you don't believe it just come downstairs and see how many you can persuade to alter their course."

The commissioner and the visitors trooped into the "railroad room," where dozens of swarthy Europeans were waiting to be shipped off. The Louisiana representative approached a staring Italian, and the other southerners crowded around to listen.

"What is your business?" asked the Louisiana man through the interpreter.

"Bricklayer," answered the Italian.

Then the southerner began to tell of the manifold advantages of living in Louisiana, how an immigrant could get ten acres of land, a house, farming implements and many other things. The Italian listened stolidly. When he had heard the tale to the end he said:

"Farming—it is not my business."

That was all he had to say. The man from Louisiana said he hadn't had a fair chance. He was looking for a farmer. Commissioner Watchorn found five Greek farmers all in a row. To one of them, who said he was bound west to meet a cousin, was told the manifold advantages of Louisiana. The interpreter told him about the pigs and the cows and the green grass and the kind treatment he would get. Looking at the stout man from Louisiana, the Greek asked abruptly:

"Who are you? Whom do you represent?"

The answer did not make the foreigner enthusiastic.

"I'll go to my cousin," he announced.

"That's the way it is with 399 out of 400," said Commissioner Watchorn. "The best chance you have is to get them after they reach their destination—if they are disillusionized."

Several immigrants who had been excluded by the board of special inquiry were brought into the commissioner's office on appeal, so that the visitors could see how the system worked. Three little Swedes, a boy of fourteen and twins of eleven, were the first comers. Their brother wanted them out in Minnesota, but his affidavit had not satisfied the board. When they filed in a big Georgian said:

"I'll take 'em right now."

"I'll give 'em a home and take care of 'em," volunteered a Tennesseean.

Their offers were not in order, though, and the commissioner proceeded to question the children. Finally he decided to overrule the board's decision and let them go to Minnesota. That pleased the audience, and everybody applauded. The immigrants who followed the Swedes, though, were evidently unfit, and the board's decisions were upheld.

Luncheon was served on the Ellis island roof garden, which is the coolest anywhere around New York city. Then the commissioner told the southern states immigration commission that he would always aid them in their work, and he invited them to visit Ellis island whenever they could. They left vowing that Robert Watchorn was unsurpassed both as an official and a host.

At a business meeting of the southern states immigration commission in the afternoon T. K. Bruner of North Carolina was elected president, D. W. Coons of Kentucky vice president and David Robinson secretary and treasurer.

Diamond Key Rings a New Fad.

Women whose brothers, husbands or sweethearts are so wealthy that to remember their birthdays with the ordinary gifts of silver match boxes or cigarette cases is out of the question have taken to presenting them with little key rings incrusted with diamonds, says the New York Press. Any one in doubt as to what to give a man friend will find these attractive although not inexpensive trifles exactly fill the bill. "Of course," said one young woman who had just purchased one for her fiance, "he will think more of the spirit of the gift than its actual value."

Piping All Hands to the Pole.

The new balloon to reach the pole
Is shaped like a cigar;
So "puffing," if it's strong enough,
Should carry it afar.

"The chances are 'twill end in smoke."

Well, let the airship for the trip
Be like a pipe in form,
With a supply of good "returns"
To bring it back through storm
And stress and help its gallant crew
To take of things a birdseye view.

CHILD POPE'S PLAYMATE.

His Holiness on His Knees Hunts For Little Girl's Medal.

The five-year-old daughter of Dan Hanna of Cleveland came from Europe with her mother the other day declaring that Pope Pius X. is a fine playmate, says the New York World.

During her stay in Rome Mrs. Hanna had a special audience with his holiness and took her little daughter along. At the termination of the audience Mrs. Hanna withdrew. In the antechamber she missed her daughter. Retracing her steps, she was amazed to find the head of the Catholic church of the entire world down on his hands and knees, with the child in a similar position, both apparently searching for something.

Little Miss Hanna doesn't speak Latin or Italian, nor does his holiness speak English, but the little American miss was giving minute instructions to her distinguished playmate in a baby patois that he pretended to understand. For two minutes his holiness and little Miss Hanna, both oblivious to the presence of a number of cardinals and Mrs. Hanna, groped about the floor, turning up the edges of rugs.

Finally the pope held up a tiny medallion.

"Oh, that's it!" cried little Miss Hanna. The pope patted her head, and after expressing thanks Mrs. Hanna led her venturesome little daughter away.

"Why, papa," she said in describing her experience at the Gotham hotel on her return, "I losted my medal and went back after it. I told the nice old gentleman about it. He shook his head like he understood, and when I began to look on the floor he got down on his hands and knees and helped me. He found it first. He is a very nice man, papa. Don't you think so?"

Mr. Hanna replied that he was sure of it.

RIGID MEAT INSPECTION.

Regulations Packers In Germany Must Follow.

We do not pretend to be letter perfect on German regulations, but we happen to know a little about the lordly butcher and the lordly packer who undertake to do business under German rule, says the Hartford Courant.

If he ventures to kill a steer or a hog before it has been duly inspected and he is caught—as he is sure to be sooner or later—the carcass of the animal, whether healthy or unhealthy, is taken away from him and burned to a cinder. Two or three experiences of this sort teach him that the regulations in this field are not made for show or for the delusion of meat eaters, but for plain, everyday use, seven days in the week. And the inspection before the animal is slaughtered is only the beginning.

After it is slaughtered the carcass is inspected from the inside, and when a doubt arises as to its condition it also is taken away and burned. Finally those carcasses that are in sound condition are quartered and otherwise cut up for the butcher's stall where the people go to buy their meat. Here a third official guarantee of the purity of the product is given to the consumer. Every piece of the carcass thus prepared for sale, no matter into how many pieces it is divided, must have a little official label on it before an ounce of it can be sold.

BOY SOLD FOR JUNK.

Wriggled Out of Bag After His Companions Got the Price.

Eddie Gallagher, aged eight, of Saco, Me., was sold the other day at a quarter of a cent a pound, says a special dispatch from Bangor, Me., to the Philadelphia Press. It was all a joke on Solomon Solmer, a junk dealer.

Some of the boys of the town wanted to raise a stake, and into Solmer's shop they brought what appeared to be a bag of old rags and iron. It weighed forty pounds. Solmer gave the boys a dime, and they retired, grinning.

Presently there was a strange wriggling inside the bag; then it moved toward the door. Solmer overcame his terror sufficiently to untie the bag, whereupon out jumped Eddie Gallagher. He fled amid the lamentations of the junk dealer.

Insubmergible Ships.

Some interesting experiments have been conducted at Kiel during the past few days in the practical testing of insubmergible steamers, says the London Globe. The operations were conducted in the presence of some of the chief naval authorities and of leading representatives of the great German shipping and shipbuilding companies. A cargo steamer built upon the insubmergible patent of the New Navigation company was fully loaded, and a crew was taken on board. Water was then let into the engine room until the water in the vessel rose to sea level. As the ship's deck then remained still eighteen inches above water, its insubmergibility was held to have been fully demonstrated. The company has now five of these steamers under construction.

A Revolver Competition.

A revolver competition will be held at the United States armory in Springfield, Mass., in September to select a weapon for general use in the regular army and to determine whether an automatic model is feasible, says a Springfield dispatch. The trial will be conducted by ordnance department officers. It is understood that the war department considers that the caliber of automatic revolvers now in use is not sufficiently large and that the patents are not up to date. The test will be open to all the revolver manufacturers in the country, and models will be thoroughly tested by experts. Army men all over the country are much interested in the outcome of the tests.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

PURVES.

Regular Correspondence.

June 19th.—The corn in this section is needing rain.

The Missionary Baptists will dedicate the church at this place the first Sunday in July.

Rev. Williams of Hico preached at the Christian church last Saturday night and Sunday.

Prof. Frank Stephens, who is attending the normal at Stephenville, was visiting home folks Saturday.

Martin Weaver, who has been visiting his brother, Dr. H. C. Weaver at Rule, is again among old friends at Purves.

The telephone line being constructed by Dr. O'Brien of Dublin, has found a welcome in almost every home in and around this place.

Prof. J. T. Russel who has been superintendent of the school here for the past few years, will leave tomorrow for Proctor, where he will teach next term.

The Purves board of school trustees have been successful in securing Prof. L. Powell as superintendent of their school and his wife as assistant teacher. We learn they will soon be among us to look after the interests of the school.

The ladies of Purves will prepare a dinner the 28th of July especially for the voters and all others who wish to come, the proceeds to be divided between the churches that take part. The young folks are also preparing an entertainment for the evening which will be free for all. The program will be announced later.

A Happy Mother

will see that her baby is properly cared for—to do this a good purgative is necessary. Many babies suffer from worms and their mothers don't know it—if your baby is feverish and don't sleep at nights it is troubled with worms. White's Cream Vermifuge will clean out these worms in a mild pleasant way. Once tried always used. Give it a trial. Price 25c. Sold by Overton Drug Co.

POINT LOOKOUT.

Regular Correspondence.

June 19th.—The writer is almost sick from over work. He has just finished up assessing the taxes and finds in his rounds over a good portion of the county that the crop prospects are exceptionally good and crops well worked. While many are in fine spirits, some are wearing long faces and say if we don't get rain in a few days corn will be ruined. We noticed but little corn that we consider was in need of rain, but of course if rain should fail to fall soon corn will be cut short. But let us hope to see a rain soon, which in my opinion will come in time to make plenty of corn. Cotton looks bad from the ravages of lice, but that has always been a good indication for a good crop of cotton. The fruit crop is considered a failure. The grape and black berry crop is unusually good. Many are canning and storing them away in place of peaches.

Mrs. S. A. Greaves has gone to Hopkins county.

There are a few water melons large enough to thump.

Rabbits are trying to eat up the cantaloupe and peanut crop.

Mrs. S. D. Greaves of Cumby was on a few days' visit to relatives last week.

We noticed and read with pleasure about the enjoyable trip of the Progress editor and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pack from near Pigeon is expected to visit this scribe and relatives Friday.

"Uncle" Jack McClesky was around seeing the people who needed eye glasses last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird of Resley's Creek was visiting J. M. R. Stephen last Friday.

Henry Clark, candidate for district clerk, was around seeing the good people and spent the night with the writer.

A wolf caught a turkey near the yard fence Wednesday night. Wolves are quite plentiful and we loose lots of turkeys by them.

The health of the country is improving and the toil and labor on the farm is about over for the summer meetings and other enjoyments.

Don't! ! ! !

Don't let your child suffer with that cough when you can cure it with Ballard's Horehound Syrup, a sure cure for coughs, bronchitis, influenza, croup and pulmonary diseases. Buy a bottle and try it.

B. B. Laughter, Byhalia, Miss., writes: "I have two children who had croup. I tried many different remedies but I must say your Horehound Syrup is the best croup and cough medicine I ever used." Sold by Overton Drug Co.

LAMKIN.

Regular Correspondence.

June 21st.—We are needing rain very badly for corn. Cotton is doing nicely.

Ira B. Nash of Wilson was in Lamkin last Thursday.

J. A. Hamilton sold his place three miles northeast of here to J. L. Talley, consideration not known.

J. W. Corrigan, who has been attending the normal at Comanche, was at home on a visit last Saturday.

Dr J. H. Eargle and family came in from Hico yesterday where they have been visiting friends and relatives.

Yank Robinson's house and contents were burned near Energy last Friday night. We do not know as to whether there was any insurance.

"Uncle" Charley Carson has bought the residence and storehouse of J. E. Miller of this place and will move his family to Lamkin soon and may possibly put a stock of goods in later.

The Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. has bought the telephone line running from here to Dublin, via Wilson, Purves and Edna and will put it in good order and make it a part of their system.

The various threshing machines over the country are starting to work this week and of course all the idle hands have them a job now. Jim Stevens, John Stevens, Hedley Stevens, Will Cooper and Braxton Neel left yesterday for Wilbarger county, where they are to work with S. C. Carlton's independent threshing outfit. They expect to have a great deal of fun also.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Trouble.

Mr. M. F. Borroughs, an old and well known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used this remedy in my family for several years. I am never without it." This remedy is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? For sale by Overton Drug Co.

CLARKSON.

Regular Correspondence.

June 18th.—We are needing rain. Sandy land corn is looking fine but if is doesn't rain soon tight land corn may suffer.

Mrs. W. M. Carr was very sick Sunday.

Mrs. H. A. Groves visited Mrs. Pedigo Monday.

Mrs. D. M. Bates visited Mrs. W. M. Carr Monday.

J. M. Carr and family of Alarm Creek visited home folks last week.

Miss Della Carr and Mrs. Brantley made a pleasure trip to Dublin Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hair of Dublin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Bates.

Ed Chandler has returned home from Nashville, Tenn., where he has been attending school.

Ulpian Holt left Tuesday morning for Amorilla, where he will take a position as prescription druggist.

Miss Adule Davis, who has been visiting Miss Bess Ballentine, returned home Wednesday afternoon.

H. L. Kight and family, L. W. Bellamy and family and Mr. Bartell and wife returned from their fishing trip Thursday.

Mrs. T. H. Holmes and little sister, Irene Hall, left Thursday afternoon for a visit to friends and relatives in De Leon.

Henry Counts of Merkel, who is now attending the Metropolitan business college at Dallas, visited relatives here Sunday.

Miss Lou Singleton left Monday afternoon for Stephenville, where she will spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. W. L. Griffith.

Mrs. E. H. Chandler was called to the bedside of her sick daughter a few days back, but has returned, her daughter, Mrs. Paul Harris, returning home with her.

How to Break up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose and a thin white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

HIGHLAND

Regular Correspondence.

June 19th.—Crops are needing rain.

PALMER.

Regular Correspondence.

June 21st.—Dry weather prevails. There was a light shower here yesterday, enough to lay the dust. If it don't rain in a few days the corn crop will be almost an entire failure. This dry weather however, is an advantage to cotton, as it is killing the lice with which it was badly infested. Farmers are about up with their work.

Mr. Sheats is attending court as a juror this week.

There will be a Baptist protracted meeting begin here Saturday before the third Sunday in July.

The Palmer boys played a game of base ball with the Purves team last Saturday and were defeated.

Andrew Jordan has gone west on a prospecting trip and will probably move this fall if he finds a suitable location.

I have some choice farming lands in the Panhandle for sale at low prices and long terms. Also several large tracts that I can subdivide or sell as a whole.—A. L Cole. 6-tf

HASSE

Regular Correspondence.

June 20th.—The farmers are about up with their work. However there is considerable late cotton yet to chop. Cotton is fruiting well and bids fair for a good yield. Corn is flattering at present, but a good rain is badly needed on corn and other feed crops.

C. O. George reported the first cotton blooms on the 14th of June.

Rev. Canefax filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

The Methodist revival meeting will embrace the second Sunday in July, commencing Friday night before.

On the night of July 14th there will be an ice cream supper at the tabernacle, the proceeds of which will be used to settle the outstanding indebtedness against the tabernacle. Everybody is invited and a good time is expected.

Tommy Gaines is quite sick.

Judge Cooper of Harbin is here helping Will Taylor chop cotton.

Ira Hughes visited homefolks at Blanket Saturday.

DUFFAU.

Ben Burks of Clairette was here Tuesday en route home from Fort Worth, where he took a car of beef cattle to market Monday. Mr. Burks reports the market in exceedingly bad condition, alleged to be due to the late scandalous disclosures of the methods of the packers brought out by the beef trust inquiry instigated by President Roosevelt. It is said that the developments have greatly lessened the consumption of packery products, especially of canned meats and that the export trade has been given a material set back, as a consequence of which the market is dull and prices are extremely low. Mr. Burks had a mixed car of twenty-eight head of steers and cows, all in good shape, and they commanded a price of from $1.25 to $2.05 per hundred, or an average of but $1.65. His cattle were put on the cars at Stephenville.

The school board last Tuesday elected Miss Minnie Crom of La Grange as a member of the faculty of the school for the term of 06-07, to have charge of the sixth grade in the school. Miss Crum has taught for a number of years in the public schools at La Grange and is a teacher of exceptional ability. Her election, which was brought about by the resignation of Miss Lona McGuire of Comanche, completes the faculty for the coming term.

Hon. Jess Baker of Granbury, candidate for flotorial representative, was in Dublin this week seeing the voters respecting his candidacy. Mr. Baker is one of the elder class of men who were pioneers in west Texas business affairs and has been a merchant in Granbury for many years. He is ruggedly honest as fits the character of the pioneer and has proven successful in his every field of endeavor.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Anderson, late of Comanche have leased and occupied the N. S. Moseley place in west Dublin from Mr. Tidwell, who has lately rented the McLemore property south of the Central depot and opened a rooming establishment. Mr. Anderson is related to G. S. Thompson of this city and will be associated with him in the real estate business.

A somewhat pessemistic farmer was heard to remark in the sweltering afternoon of yesterday that if it did not rain within fifteen minutes the corn crop would be totally ruined. It is not quite so bad as this however, some corn will be made without any additional rain, but if rain should come within the next few days the corn crop will be good.

The colored people in various parts of the state celebrated emancipation day last Tuesday, the day being the anniversary of the signing of the emancipation proclamation by President Lincoln. The colored population in Dublin is so small that no celebration was held here, but a number of them went to Waco to help swell the throng there.

Mrs. L. N. Franks left Stephenville Wednesday for a visit at San Antonio, being accompanied by her son R. T. Franks, who now resides in San Antonio and is engaged in the real estate business there with the firm of J. N. Groesbeeck & Co. Judge Franks accompanied them as far as Dublin, returning home Wednesday evening.

The annual Walnut Springs picnic last Wednesday was attended by a considerable number of people from Dublin and west of here, the morning east bound passenger being somewhat delayed in reaching Dublin on account of the heavy rain. All report a very pleasant time at Walnut.

Dr. and Mrs. Henthorn left Tuesday for Loraine to spend the remainder of the week, where Mrs. Henthorne will visit relatives while the doctor angles for the finny tribe in the clear waters of a nearby stream. Their son Robert has been out there for several weeks.

Chas. W. Rogers, well known in Dublin, a son of Capt. Rogers of this city and who has at various times been connected with the Progress, is now located in Washington City and is engaged in the government printing office.

A fire alarm turned in from the east part of town during the sweltering afternoon of last Wednesday created some excitement and gave the fire department a hot chase of several blocks only to find that there was no blaze.

L. J. Long of Bessemer, Ala., accompanied by his family of wife and three children, are here this week visiting relatives and will spend ten days or two weeks. Mr. Long is a brother-in-law to D. P. Lester.

Judge Templeton of Waxahachie was in Dublin Wednesday, having come over from Stephenville where he appeared in behalf of the Dublin Gas & Electric Co. in a suit against the company.

G. E. Ramsey and family left Wednesday for Sweetwater, where Mr. Ramsey has recently bought a resident lot and will shortly build a home They expect to locate permanently at that point.

Church Announcement.

There will be preaching at the Methodist church next Sunday. Those desiring to join the church will please be on hand at the morning hour. Some have handed in their church letters or given their names for membership and are to be given the public fellowship. Also if there are children to be baptized let parents have them present at the morning service.

And now concerning the collections. After a gracious meeting and the Lord blessing the church by good increase it is an appropriate time to give liberally to enterprises in hand. Our parsonage is now before us and by your liberality we hope to at once arrange for same. The church should rally to the last member to the cause and by all doing their part we will be able to pay cash for the splendid property we are buying. Likewise we will appreciate all donations given by those not members of our communion. Next week we will publish a list of those contributing to the parsonage enterprise.

And lastly, above all let us present our bodies a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable unto God which is our reasonable service. Yours in the work.—O. P. Kiker, pastor.

First Christian Church.

The subject of the Sunday morning sermon will be "What Christ Expects of Us" The Sunday school is growing in numbers and in efficiency and solicits the attendance and support of the entire congregation.—A. L. Clinkinbeard, Minister.

Baptist Meeting in Progress.

The Baptist meeting began last Sunday with big crowds and good interest Rev. George W. McCall came on from Brownwood Monday morning to do the preaching and he has been doing it since to the glory of God and the good of all that would hear and heed

The meetings since Sunday night have been held under the tent across the street from the Baptist church. The crowds have been large, the people have been prompt in coming, many coming before the time for meeting and the order was never better anywhere. While not half of the people can get under the tent at night, yet, those on the outside and even in buggies are quiet and hear the message of the preacher.

The music, which is always an attractive feature is ably lead by Prof. R. H. Cornelius Many have spoken of the good music and especially do they speak of it in the highest terms because of the fact that the good old songs that were dear to our fathers and mothers are sung to the glory of God. Some of the new songs are good, but none of them are better than many of the good old songs, and none of the new are so good to move a congregation as the old gospel songs. Prof. Cornelius is ably supported by a larg number of consecrated singers, who sing the gospel from the heart to the glory of God. A half dozen prayer meetings are being held in different parts of town each afternoon at five o'clock.

The interest is growing in the meeting each day and the crowds are getting larger at each service. Quite a number have confessed Jesus as a personal Savior and many others are very deeply concerned. Ten were received into the church Thursday night, seven of whom were for baptism. The meeting will continue through next week at 10 a. m. and at 8:15 p. m. and all are invited to help and be helped.

The meeting Sunday morning will be held in the Baptist church house if the tent is too small to hold the Sunday morning crowd. It is possible that the church will be too small to hold the people, but if it is arrangements will be made for an overflow meeting either in the tent or in a nearby church. Don't let anybody stay away for fear they can't get in. Room will be made for all. —Communicated.

STEPHENVILLE.

From the Tribune.

June 15th.—Everett Keith and Miss Sallie Roberts visited friends in Dublin Sunday.

The election held at Bunyan Monday failed to secure the two-thirds vote necessary to make the levy of fifteen cents on the one hundred dollars for school purposes, the vote standing 15 against and 29 for.

G. W. Oakes has one hundred acres of cotton on his farm near Bluff Dale that had been chopped out and plowed twice. When the big hail storm was over he found the leaves and buds of the plants had been knocked off and that there was but little hope for anything like a stand, so he put in five teams Saturday and replanted fifty acres of the damaged field.

City Marshall Crane arrived in the city Tuesday with his father, A. J. Crane, who was severely hurt several weeks ago, and who has not yet recovered. The old gentleman was sitting on a high gallery with his feet resting on a post. It was rotten at the bottom and gave way and Mr. Crane was precipitated to the ground, falling on his armless side. His collar bone was broken and his ribs were torn apart, but not broken. He has been in such a critical condition that he could not be brought to Stephenville until now.

Grape growing in Erath county has not met with pronounced success simply because it is a branch of horticulture requiring more knowledge and attention than the average man can bestow. The grape is affected by various funguous diseases to combat which copper antidotes must be applied, with the addition of arsenical poisons for leaf eating enemies. Without the application of sprays it is quite impossible to raise perfect bunches of grapes, but with their use the result is astonishing and most gratifying. This has been thoroughly demonstrated by H. H. Hathaway, a progressive fruit grower east of Stephenville. Befcre spraying his bunches were small and ragged and straggling. This year the bunches are full, and compact and solid, and the berries so tightly pressed one against the other the fruit is slightly flattened. He sprayed and it's the first year he has ever had grapes of a salable nature.

Ben Burks was in the city this week from the farm on the Bosque and told of an interesting encounter with a fine Jersey bull a few weeks ago which came very near finishing him up. The animal is one of the best in Texas, having been purchased by Ben recently at Waco, and on the day of the accident the owner was leading him by a ring in the nose. The animal was not satisfied with Ben, his new home, nor his associates that his new master furnished him, so he bowed up his neck, flashed fire from his eyes, pawed the ground, gave a mighty snort, and went for Ben "red eyed." The thing was all done so quickly and so nicely that Ben never knew he was hurt until he tried to use his arm and discovered it was broken in two places. The bull was hornless and contented himself with butting Ben against a post and into a wire fence, and when he was down he walked all over him, blew a mighty puff of wind into his face, curled his tail and walked proudly away, glad no doubt, that he had conquered his foe and left him to die an ignoble, miserable death in the grass and weeds. But Ben was not ready to die. He had his broken bones set and is getting ready to give this bad bull of the Bosque a taste of real life if he makes another bad break.

THEY LAUGHED

At the Arguments an the Packages.

The husband of an Ohio woman brought home some packages of Grape-Nuts one evening and there was much discussion, but let her tell the story.

"Two years ago I was thin and sickly and suffered so from indigestion, was very nervous and could not sleep at night, I was not able physically or mentally to perform my duties and was constantly under the care of our physicin. I had tried plain living and all the different remedies recommended by friends but got no better.

"One day my husband brought home two yellow boxes and said: 'The grocer wants us to try this food and report how we like it, he thinks it will help you.' I read all it said on the boxes about Grape-Nuts and I remember how I laughed at it, for I thought it foolish to think food could help me. But the next meal we all ate some with cream. We liked and enjoyed the deliciously crisp and new flavor so we kept on usingGrape-Nuts, not because we thought it would cure me, but because we liked it.

"At that time we had no idea what the results would be but now I am anxious to have the world know that today I am a well and strong woman physically and mentally. I gained over thirty pounds, do not suffer from any of the old ails and I know that it is to Grape-Nuts alone that I owe my restored health. They call me 'Grape-Nuts' here in the home and all of my friends have asked me the cause of it all. I have persuaded several of them to use Grape-Nuts and every one of them who has done so has been benefitted and I wish it were in my power to induce every one who is sick to give this wonderful food a trial. We still have Grape-Nuts three times a day and never tire of it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days on this nourshing and completely digestible food will show anyone who is run down from improper feeding a great change, sometimes worth more than a gold mine because it may mean the joy and spring of perfect health in place of the old ails. Trial proves. "There's a reason."

Look in packages for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

GRANBURY

From the News.

June 14th.—Henry Holderness and children left yesterday morning for De Kalb, Ill., the home of his mother, where he will make his home in the future. He was accompanied by his neice, Miss Maude Holderness, who will spend the summer in the north.

G. W. Shaffer of Waples last week marketed his potato crop, hitting a bad market and receiving only sixty-five cents per bushel. Even at this price the crop paid him $35 per acre, which he considers beats cotton. He has planted his potato ground in June corn, from which he expects to realize enough value to pay for the expense and labor on both crops.

Ed Browning showed us this week a cotton stalk on which several yellow bugs were at work, sapping the life from the stalk. This bug has appeared in various parts of the state and from the way it begins operations promises to be a greater pest than the boll weevil. Samples of the bugs have been sent to the department head at College Station.

The remains of Miss Bertie Martin, who committed suicide at Fort Worth, were shipped to Granbury for interment last Thursday. Deceased was a sister of Mrs. Wesley White and spent some time visiting here last summer, making many friends among our people. Nothing very definite as to the cause of her suicide is known.

The building committee of Add Ran Jarvis colege decided not to contract their work, but employed Sam Elliot as foreman who has organized a crew and began work on the east wing of the main building. It is estimated that it will require nearly two months to complete the work on the college building and boarding house, hence everything will be completed by the middle of August and ready for the school opening in September.

WHITNEY.

From the Messenger.

June 15th.—Miss Mamie Greer went to Dublin Wednesday afternoon for a visit to her aunt, Mrs. M. J. McAllister.

C. G. Hunter of Chalk Mountain attended the obsequies in this city last Monday of his mother, Mrs. S. D. Cowan.

J. H. Myers of Dublin has been visiting his sister, Mrs. W. C. Hatter, and other relatives and friends here the past week.

Mrs. M. J. Riden, after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Urban Walker, left Sunday morning for a visit to another daughter, residing at Dublin.

W. W. Johnson left Tuesday morning for Temple to again undergo an operation at a sanitarium there for the maglignant growth on his shoulder, the malady having returned after it was removed and thought to be permanently healed. A letter received yesterday stated that the hospital surgeons assert that it would be necessary to remove the entire shoulder blade and arm to permanently remove the trouble. The family are yet undecided as to whether to proceed with the operation or not, which they fear the patient could hardly undergo.

Brown of Bennettsville, N. C., says: "They restored my wife to perfect health after years of suffering with dyspepsia and a chronically torpid liver." Electric Bitters cures chills and fever, malaria, biliousness, lame back, kidney troubles and bladder disorders. Sold on guarantee by Overton Drug Co. Price 50 cents.

GUSTINE.

From the Gazette.

June 15th.—C. L. McDonald and wife and daughter left Saturday for a visit to relatives at Dublin.

D. E. Renfro left Thursday for Austin, where he will attend the State University during the summer session.

J. F. Bolton went to Dublin Monday to meet his daughter, Ethel, who was returning from Austin, where she attended the Deaf and Dumb institute during the term just closed.

In the election held here Saturday to determine whether Gustine school district should be incorporated, only seventy-six votes were polled, the count showing sixty-three of them in favor of incorporation and thirteen against. This gives us an independent school district of sixteen square miles.

There Are Few

people who know how to take care of themselves—the majority do not. The liver is a most important organ in the body. Herbine will keep it in condition. V. C. Simpkins, Alba, Texas, writes: "I have used Herbine for chills and fever and find it the best medicine I ever used. I would not be without it. It is as good for children as it is for grown-up people and I recommend it. It is fine for la grippe." Sold by Overton Drug Co.

IREDELL

From the Sentinel.

June 15th.—Tom McDonald Jr. of Dublin spent a few days here this week with relatives.

Dr. T. F. Bryan and his lady visited in Dublin the first of the week.

Mrs. Henry Ray, is visiting her parents in Dublin this week, Mr. and Mrs. John Boynton.

Ed Ray of Dublin visited his brothers here this week, Francis and Henry Ray.

H. Miller has resigned his position here as station agent for the Texas Central and was relieved by J. R. Boston of Leuders, who took charge Monday. We understand that Mr. Miller will give his attention to the grocery and produce business.

C. F. Strong, we understand, has sold his sheep and other stock to his son, Harry and also leased him the land and Harry will continue to run the ranch. We have not learned what Mr. Strong expects to do only that he wans to retire from business for a time at least.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Dublin Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorder, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. It has cured many stubborn cases in Dublin.

No need to experiment. Follow the advice of a Dublin citizen and be cured yourself. Edward Armstrong, farmer, living on Proctor road, Dublin, Texas, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of severe suffering from kidney trouble and backache. I had tried all kinds of remedies but nothing gave me permanent relief. At times my back was so weak I would awaken at night feeling as if there was a terrible load on my back and would be afraid to move on account of the acute twinges that would catch me. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Overton Drug Co. and kept on taking them until completely cured. The trouble has never returned. Other members of our family have used this remedy with the same good results that I obtained."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Finger Prints Betray Negro.

A dispatch from San Antonio last week says: Another negro has been arrested charged with the murder of the Conditt family near Edna in Jackson county last September, of which Monk Gibson is awaiting trial.

Captain McDonald of the Texas state rangers was instrumental in this last capture. Ever since the crime was committed by which Mrs Conditt and her children lost their lives, the officers have been working on the case. Captain McDonald on a recent visit to San Antonio said that he believed that Monk Gibson, now in the Bexar county jail had at least a guilty knowledge of the murderer of the Conditt family.

Before the trial of Gibson here last November Captain McDonald brought a panel with him containing the bloody finger prints of the assassin found on the wall. An impression of the right hand of Gibson was made but it did not tally in any way with the print on the panel. The hand that had made the impression on the wall was much larger than that of Monk. The index finger on the right hand was also crooked.

A few weeks ago Captain McDonald approached a negro suspect and taking up his bloody finger prints he asked the man to place his hand on the panel. When the man suspected the object of the experiment he almost fainted with fright. It was found it is said, on comparing the hand of the suspect with that of the bloody prints that it tallied in every way, even to the crooked index finger on the right hand. The man was at once locked up in a county jail adjoining Jackson county and held there until an indictment found against him by the grand jury of Jackson county.

Another important link in the chain of evidence being thrown around the accused, it is said, is the discovery that the bloody shirt worn a half mile from the scene of the crime was worn by the man now in jail.

It can be said that the negro arrested was here as a witness against Jackson county in behalf of Monk Gibson. While he was on the witness stand the attorneys for the defense crowded him so closely as to his whereabouts on the day of the murder that it is said he almost contradicted himself with his answers.

When he left the witness stand he was so angry that he made open threats in the court room against the negroes and almost precipitated a race riot. He was searched for a pistol while in the court room but none was found on him.

CARBON

From the Herald.

June 15th.—Mrs. J. F. Edmondson visited sick relatives at Alexander this week.

Miss May Williams of Dublin is visiting her sister, Mrs. Young Ayers.

The normal school opens here Monday and a good attendance is expected.

Miss Sallie Towler returned Saturday from her visit at Dublin and Purves.

U. A. Dingler made his regular visit to Dublin Sunday to receive treatment for his eyes.

Prof. J. T. Russell and family of Purves are spending this week here visiting E. G. Towler and family.

Mrs. Ethel Cage of Stephenville, who had been here visiting her parents, J. H. Cox and wife, returned home this week. Her sister, Mrs Mary Jones of Colorado City, who had also been visiting here, went to Stephenville with her to visit a few days.

A Curious Snake.

Most remarkable tales are related of Ananias Johnston's pet snake, which died the other day in Moultrie county. This snake was a cross between a rattler and a hoop snake and was almost nine feet long.

Mr. Johnston taught it to eat at the table. Johnston was a humorist, and at some of his jokes the snake would shake with mirth and rattle its tail with pure joy.

The reptile took a fancy to the children. Many an afternoon it would glide to an elm tree and wrapping its tail and neck around a limb form an ideal swing on which the youngsters enjoyed themselves for hours.

It was a useful snake. At sunset it went after the cows and there are two authenticated instances of where it killed milk snakes that sought to deprive the Johnston family of its sustenance.

The ending of this pet was particulary sad. One day while one of the little girls was using it as a hoop it rolled against a tree. The tail was forced deep into the throat and the snake choked to death.—Telegram.

IMPROVING MAIL DELIVERY.

Rural Carriers to Examine Only Boxes Displaying Signals.

In view of the great loss of time necessarily involved by requiring rural carriers to examine every mail box on their routes each day, an exhaustive inquiry, covering a period of several months, has been conducted by the postoffice department to determine whether or not a change in the regulation is advisable, says a Washington special dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This inquiry has brought out the fact that for the purpose of delivering and collecting mail at those boxes with which they have actual business carriers would only be required to make daily visits to about one-half of the total number of boxes on their routes.

Figuring the average number of boxes on a standard route at eighty and the time taken to serve each box as two minutes, it is shown that by the present system of calling at and examining every box on each route a total of about two and three-fourths hours is consumed per route, whereas if carriers are required to call at and examine none except those boxes with which they have business to transact the service of each average route will be expedited more than one hour's time. In other words, the people living at the farther end of a route will receive their mail that much earlier in the day.

It has therefore been decided that after July 1, 1906, carriers when making their trips will visit and examine only those boxes for which they have mail for delivery and those on which the signals are displayed to indicate that there is mail for dispatch. By the new ruling patrons will need to display the signals on their boxes when they deposit mail therein for carriers to collect, and the carriers will be required to raise the signals on patrons' boxes when they deliver mail.

Those patrons who are now maintaining mail boxes on which there are no signals will need to fix up or procure some sort of device which will serve as a signal to carriers.

SKIM MILK AS FERTILIZER.

Farmers Find Fluid More Effective Than Other Kinds.

Skim milk as a fertilizer for crops is interesting the farmers in the vicinity of Halsey, N. J., and several declare that astonishing results have come from its use. Several weeks ago a creamery of that place had a lot of skim milk that could not be used, says a special dispatch from Middletown to the New York World. W. Clark Mains and John A. Segler, farmers, took the milk and poured it on their lands as an experiment. Mains emptied seventy-five cans on a timothy sod lot. Segler emptied 150 cans on a piece of meadow land. Remarkable results have been obtained.

Their grass is now seven times as vigorous as on adjoining fields where the milk was not used, but which were covered with commercial fertilizers. The farmers predict that milk will be used henceforth.

The Dream Hoe.

John Crawford had a peculiar dream a few nights ago, which resulted in the discovery of a grubbing hoe which was stolen from him recently, says the Wheeling Intelligencer. Mr. Crawford entertained suspicion against a person who later proved to be entirely innocent of having any connection whatever with the case. Mr. Crawford states that in the dream he saw a person in possession of the hoe, but of whom he always had the greatest respect owing to his close connection with the church and his seemingly high ideals. The dream impressed itself so forcibly upon Mr. Crawford's mind that he determined to investigate the matter, with the result that every detail of the dream came true.

Night Test For Submarines.

The French naval authorities at Toulon are making preparations for putting submarines to a new test, says the London Globe. Recent experiments have been so successful that practical experience is to be sought as to the suitability of submarines for night attacks. A night will be chosen when the sea is calm, and the first object sought will be to ascertain whether it is possible for submarines, with just the kiosk above water, to approach an enemy's ships outside the harbor near enough to fix the striking point, submerging the boat as soon as this is determined.

Resurrection.

[Tribute paid to San Francisco's spirit.]

As souls rise from a shattered form of clay
In fairer guise upon some higher plane
Does San Francisco's spirit rise today
In newer strength to rule the west again.

This blackened corse men shed their tears upon
Is but a tattered garment, cast aside
For fairer robes to celebrate the dawn
Of new ascendency to might and pride.

An empty sepulcher is gaping where
The fair young body of our city lay—
Slain, sundered and distorted by despair,
The hero martyr of an awful fray.

Three days and nights, e'en as the Saviour's form
Reposed amid the grief of Calvary;
Then, lo, above the ruin of the storm
She rose to find a greater destiny.

And men who came to mourn for what had been
Found nothing, but were summoned by a voice
That rang as from a mystic realm unseen
And bade them grieve no longer, but rejoice.

Half dazed and full of wonder, they beheld
A radiant vision crowned with peace, that said:
"Let all this chaos, fear and woe be quelled.
I am your city, risen from the dead."

ANECDOTES OF GORMAN

Why the Maryland Senator Interceded For a Page.

EVER KIND TO CAPITOL EMPLOYEES

How He Shared In Making One of Them In the Senate Happy—Gallant Reply to a Woman—A Story of the Trust Placed In His Judgment—His View of Newspaper Retractions.

The late Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland a little while before the adjournment of the United States senate one March, says Success, heard Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island scolding a page for carelessness in delivering cards.

"I will have you dismissed," said Senator Aldrich to the boy. "This card was given to you to deliver more than two hours ago, and I have been here in my seat all the time. What is your name?"

"Gently, gently, Aldrich," Senator Gorman interrupted, laying his hand on the angry Rhode Islander's shoulder. "Give the boy a show. I often made the same mistake myself. Let it pass this time."

"You often made the same mistake!" echoed Senator Aldrich.

"Often," Senator Gorman replied. "Don't you know that I first entered the senate as a page nearly fifty years ago? I have never forgotten those days. You have no idea what a hard time a page has with a half dozen senators calling him at the same time and all of them in a hurry. He is bound to make mistakes. If I had been dismissed for a little delay in delivering a card I should not probably be in the senate today."

Senate employees speak in the warmest terms of Mr. Gorman's constant kindliness toward them, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Post. Having started his career at the capitol as a senate page and having served in 1866 as a senate postmaster, he had many feelings in common with those who in later years have served in those positions after he had become a senator.

This incident was recently told by a senate employee who first knew Mr. Gorman four decades ago:

"It was forty years ago today that I began my duties at the senate. Gorman was then the postmaster and learned that letters which came to me with unfailing regularity were from my sweetheart. After that he always brought those letters to me himself, with some personal comment. In later years he often referred to his share in making my life happy. He never forgot the men he had known in his early struggles to reach the top of the ladder."

On one occasion while Senator Gorman was speechmaking in Maryland he met a lady, who told him how disappointed she had been the week previous, when the crowd was so great that she could not get near enough to hear what he said, says the New York Times.

"The truth is," complained the fair admirer, "I drove fourteen miles to hear you speak, but I was so completely wedged in by negroes I could not move a step."

"Madam," answered the senator, with a gallant bow, "I am sorry for your disappointment, but you must remember you are not the first jewel which has been set in jet."

Senator Gorman's friends (and foes) knew that his qualities as leader were at least masterly, but how far they trusted to his judgment may not be so well known to the reading public. One of the statesman's friends had a dream not so long ago which he told, and it made clear the whole Maryland political situation at that time, says the New York Times.

He was standing before heaven's gate and St. Peter was just opening it. As it swung back the venerable warden asked the name of the new arrival and proceeded to look up his record in a great book. Then he said, "Enter!"

The Marylander hesitated. He looked all around him and scratched his head, but he did not advance toward the open gate.

"Why do you hesitate?" asked the saint. "Enter!"

"Well, I hope it's all right," said the other slowly, "but I do wish I could have a word with Gorman before taking so important a step."

Senator Gorman evidently had some unpleasant experience in the matter of newspaper corrections. At any rate, he had this to say:

"When an editor has printed an untrue story he should be willing to retract it. Some editors, though—benighted, stupid fellows—will print no denials unless the untruths they have uttered have been libelous. If they have not been libelous the editors refuse to make denial. They pretend to believe that their stories have been true, after all.

"They are as pigheaded as the Arkansas editor who issued an obituary of the leading citizen of his town. When the leading citizen called at the office the next morning and requested that the report of his death be denied the editor refused to accommodate him.

"'We are never wrong here,' he said in a lordly way. 'We never print denials or retractions in our sheet.'

"But the leading citizen protested and protested, and finally the editor said:

"'No use talking, sir, we can't deny your death. The best we can do for you is to put you in tomorrow's list of births.'"

ALIENS FOR THE SOUTH

She Must Offer More to Get Immigrants, Says Watchorn.

ADVISES AN INCREASE IN WAGES

Commissioner of Immigration Says Europeans Coming to the United States Have a Definite Aim—As an Experiment Members of Southern Commission Try to Change Their Minds, but In Vain.

"If the south wants immigrants she will have to raise wages to the level that prevails in the north and west."

This was the blunt advice given to the southern states immigration commission by Robert Watchorn, commissioner of immigration. He welcomed some thirty members of the new organization to Ellis island the other day, showed them the workings of the place and told them what they would have to expect in the attempt to deflect immigration toward the south, says the New York Times.

"You may think that immigrants come to this country without knowing where they are going," said Commissioner Watchorn, "and that you can get them as they land from the boats. It is not so. Out of every 400 that come here 399 know exactly where they are going. If you try to make them change their minds by telling them how superior the south is they are apt to think you are 'confidence men.' If you don't believe it just come downstairs and see how many you can persuade to alter their course."

The commissioner and the visitors trooped into the "railroad room," where dozens of swarthy Europeans were waiting to be shipped off. The Louisiana representative approached a staring Italian, and the other southerners crowded around to listen.

"What is your business?" asked the Louisiana man through the interpreter.

"Bricklayer," answered the Italian.

Then the southerner began to tell of the manifold advantages of living in Louisiana, how an immigrant could get ten acres of land, a house, farming implements and many other things. The Italian listened stolidly. When he had heard the tale to the end he said:

"Farming—it is not my business."

That was all he had to say. The man from Louisiana said he hadn't had a fair chance. He was looking for a farmer. Commissioner Watchorn found five Greek farmers all in a row. To one of them, who said he was bound west to meet a cousin, was told the manifold advantages of Louisiana. The interpreter told him about the pigs and the cows and the green grass and the kind treatment he would get. Looking at the stout man from Louisiana, the Greek asked abruptly:

"Who are you? Whom do you represent?"

The answer did not make the foreigner enthusiastic.

"I'll go to my cousin," he announced.

"That's the way it is with 399 out of 400," said Commissioner Watchorn. "The best chance you have is to get them after they reach their destination—if they are disillusionized."

Several immigrants who had been excluded by the board of special inquiry were brought into the commissioner's office on appeal, so that the visitors could see how the system worked. Three little Swedes, a boy of fourteen and twins of eleven, were the first comers. Their brother wanted them out in Minnesota, but his affidavit had not satisfied the board. When they filed in a big Georgian said:

"I'll take 'em right now."

"I'll give 'em a home and take care of 'em," volunteered a Tennesseean.

Their offers were not in order, though, and the commissioner proceeded to question the children. Finally he decided to overrule the board's decision and let them go to Minnesota. That pleased the audience, and everybody applauded. The immigrants who followed the Swedes, though, were evidently unfit, and the board's decisions were upheld.

Luncheon was served on the Ellis island roof garden, which is the coolest anywhere around New York city. Then the commissioner told the southern states immigration commission that he would always aid them in their work, and he invited them to visit Ellis island whenever they could. They left vowing that Robert Watchorn was unsurpassed both as an official and a host.

At a business meeting of the southern states immigration commission in the afternoon T. K. Bruner of North Carolina was elected president, D. W. Coons of Kentucky vice president and David Robinson secretary and treasurer.

Diamond Key Rings a New Fad.

Women whose brothers, husbands or sweethearts are so wealthy that to remember their birthdays with the ordinary gifts of silver match boxes or cigarette cases is out of the question have taken to presenting them with little key rings incrusted with diamonds, says the New York Press. Any one in doubt as to what to give a man friend will find these attractive although not inexpensive trifles exactly fill the bill. "Of course," said one young woman who had just purchased one for her fiance, "he will think more of the spirit of the gift than its actual value."

Piping All Hands to the Pole.

The new balloon to reach the pole
Is shaped like a cigar;
So "puffing," if it's strong enough,
Should carry it afar.
"But," say the folk who love a joke,
"The chances are 'twill end in smoke."

Well, let the airship for the trip
Be like a pipe in form,
With a supply of good "returns"
To bring it back through storm
And stress and help its gallant crew
To take of things a birdseye view.

IMPROVING MAIL DELIVERY.

Rural Carriers to Examine Only Boxes Displaying Signals.

In view of the great loss of time necessarily involved by requiring rural carriers to examine every mail box on their routes each day, an exhaustive inquiry, covering a period of several months, has been conducted by the postoffice department to determine whether or not a change in the regulation is advisable, says a Washington special dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This inquiry has brought out the fact that for the purpose of delivering and collecting mail at those boxes with which they have actual business carriers would only be required to make daily visits to about one-half of the total number of boxes on their routes.

Figuring the average number of boxes on a standard route at eighty and the time taken to serve each box as two minutes, it is shown that by the present system of calling at and examining every box on each route a total of about two and three-fourths hours is consumed per route, whereas if carriers are required to call at and examine none except those boxes with which they have business to transact the service of each average route will be expedited more than one hour's time. In other words, the people living at the farther end of a route will receive their mail that much earlier in the day.

It has therefore been decided that after July 1, 1906, carriers when making their trips will visit and examine only those boxes for which they have mail for delivery and those on which the signals are displayed to indicate that there is mail for dispatch. By the new ruling patrons will need to display the signals on their boxes when they deposit mail therein for carriers to collect, and the carriers will be required to raise the signals on patrons' boxes when they deliver mail.

Those patrons who are now maintaining mail boxes on which there are no signals will need to fix up or procure some sort of device which will serve as a signal to carriers.

SKIM MILK AS FERTILIZER.

Farmers Find Fluid More Effective Than Other Kinds.

Skim milk as a fertilizer for crops is interesting the farmers in the vicinity of Halsey, N. J., and several declare that astonishing results have come from its use. Several weeks ago a creamery of that place had a lot of skim milk that could not be used, says a special dispatch from Middletown to the New York World. W. Clark Mains and John A. Segler, farmers, took the milk and poured it on their lands as an experiment. Mains emptied seventy-five cans on a timothy sod lot. Segler emptied 150 cans on a piece of meadow land. Remarkable results have been obtained.

Their grass is now seven times as vigorous as on adjoining fields where the milk was not used, but which were covered with commercial fertilizers. The farmers predict that milk will be used henceforth.

The Dream Hoe.

John Crawford had a peculiar dream a few nights ago, which resulted in the discovery of a grubbing hoe which was stolen from him recently, says the Wheeling Intelligencer. Mr. Crawford entertained suspicion against a person who later proved to be entirely innocent of having any connection whatever with the case. Mr. Crawford states that in the dream he saw a person in possession of the hoe, but of whom he always had the greatest respect owing to his close connection with the church and his seemingly high ideals. The dream impressed itself so forcibly upon Mr. Crawford's mind that he determined to investigate the matter, with the result that every detail of the dream came true.

Night Test For Submarines.

The French naval authorities at Toulon are making preparations for putting submarines to a new test, says the London Globe. Recent experiments have been so successful that practical experience is to be sought as to the suitability of submarines for night attacks. A night will be chosen when the sea is calm, and the first object sought will be to ascertain whether it is possible for submarines, with just the kiosk above water, to approach an enemy's ships outside the harbor near enough to fix the striking point, submerging the boat as soon as this is determined.

Resurrection.

[Tribute paid to San Francisco's spirit.]

As souls rise from a shattered form of clay
In fairer guise upon some higher plane
Does San Francisco's spirit rise today
In newer strength to rule the west again.

This blackened corse men shed their tears upon
Is but a tattered garment, cast aside
For fairer robes to celebrate the dawn
Of new ascendency to might and pride.

An empty sepulcher is gaping where
The fair young body of our city lay—
Slain, sundered and distorted by despair,
The hero martyr of an awful fray.

Three days and nights, e'en as the Saviour's form
Reposed amid the grief of Calvary:
Then, lo, above the ruin of the storm
She rose to find a greater destiny.

And men who came to mourn for what had been
Found nothing, but were summoned by a voice
That rang as from a mystic realm unseen
And bade them grieve no longer, but rejoice.

Half dazed and full of wonder, they beheld
A radiant vision crowned with peace, that said:
"Let all this chaos, fear and woe be quelled.
I am your city, risen from the dead."

ANECDOTES OF GORMAN

Why the Maryland Senator Interceded For a Page.

EVER KIND TO CAPITOL EMPLOYEES

How He Shared In Making One of Them In the Senate Happy—Gallant Reply to a Woman—A Story of the Trust Placed In His Judgment—His View of Newspaper Retractions.

The late Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland a little while before the adjournment of the United States senate one March, says Success, heard Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island scolding a page for carelessness in delivering cards.

"I will have you dismissed," said Senator Aldrich to the boy. "This card was given to you to deliver more than two hours ago, and I have been here in my seat all the time. What is your name?"

"Gently, gently, Aldrich," Senator Gorman interrupted, laying his hand on the angry Rhode Islander's shoulder. "Give the boy a show. I often made the same mistake myself. Let it pass this time."

"You often made the same mistake!" echoed Senator Aldrich.

"Often," Senator Gorman replied. "Don't you know that I first entered the senate as a page nearly fifty years ago? I have never forgotten those days. You have no idea what a hard time a page has with a half dozen senators calling him at the same time and all of them in a hurry. He is bound to make mistakes. If I had been dismissed for a little delay in delivering a card I should not probably be in the senate today."

Senate employees speak in the warmest terms of Mr. Gorman's constant kindliness toward them, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Post. Having started his career at the capitol as a senate page and having served in 1866 as a senate postmaster, he had many feelings in common with those who in later years have served in those positions after he had become a senator.

This incident was recently told by a senate employee who first knew Mr. Gorman four decades ago:

"It was forty years ago today that I began my duties at the senate. Gorman was then the postmaster and learned that letters which came to me with unfailing regularity were from my sweetheart. After that he always brought those letters to me himself, with some personal comment. In later years he often referred to his share in making my life happy. He never forgot the men he had known in his early struggles to reach the top of the ladder."

On one occasion while Senator Gorman was speechmaking in Maryland he met a lady, who told him how disappointed she had been the week previous, when the crowd was so great that she could not get near enough to hear what he said, says the New York Times.

"The truth is," complained the fair admirer, "I drove fourteen miles to hear you speak, but I was so completely wedged in by negroes I could not move a step."

"Madam," answered the senator, with a gallant bow, "I am sorry for your disappointment, but you must remember you are not the first jewel which has been set in jet."

Senator Gorman's friends (and foes) knew that his qualities as leader were at least masterly, but how far they trusted to his judgment may not be so well known to the reading public. One of the statesman's friends had a dream not so long ago which he told, and it made clear the whole Maryland political situation at that time, says the New York Times.

He was standing before heaven's gate and St. Peter was just opening it. As it swung back the venerable warden asked the name of the new arrival and proceeded to look up his record in a great book. Then he said, "Enter!"

The Marylander hesitated. He looked all around him and scratched his head, but he did not advance toward the open gate.

"Why do you hesitate?" asked the saint. "Enter!"

"Well, I hope it's all right," said the other slowly, "but I do wish I could have a word with Gorman before taking so important a step."

Senator Gorman evidently had some unpleasant experience in the matter of newspaper corrections. At any rate, he had this to say:

"When an editor has printed an untrue story he should be willing to retract it. Some editors, though—benighted, stupid fellows—will print no denials unless the untruths they have uttered have been libelous. If they have not been libelous the editors refuse to make denial. They pretend to believe that their stories have been true, after all.

"They are as pigheaded as the Arkansas editor who issued an obituary of the leading citizen of his town. When the leading citizen called at the office the next morning and requested that the report of his death be denied the editor refused to accommodate him.

"'We are never wrong here,' he said in a lordly way. 'We never print denials or retractions in our sheet.'

"But the leading citizen protested and protested, and finally the editor said:

"'No use talking, sir, we can't deny your death. The best we can do for you is to put you in tomorrow's list of births.'"

HARVARD'S GREEK PLAY

Students to Give "Agamemnon" In the Stadium.

ELABORATE COSTUMES PREPARED

Stage Scenery and All Other Accessories to Be Accurate Reproductions of What the Greeks Saw Nearly 2,400 Years Ago—Small Norwegian Horses to Draw Chariots—Costly and Varied Properties Provided.

The classical department of Harvard university will produce in the Stadium at Cambridge, Mass., on June 16 and 19, the "Agamemnon" of Æschylus, one of the greatest of the ancient tragedies, says the New York Post. The play will be given out of doors as it was at Athens in the year 458 B. C., when it was originally produced as one of a series of three connected tragedies which together won the first prize in the dramatic contest. The stage scenery, costumes and all the other accessories will be accurate reproductions of what the Greek spectators saw almost 2,400 years ago, and everything that the research and learning of Harvard university could suggest has been done to make the performances correct in every detail.

Just twenty-five years ago, in May, 1881, the teachers and students in the classical department of Harvard gave in Sanders' theater the "Œdipus Tyrannus" of Sophocles. That production was the first of the kind in the United States, and it excited widespread interest not only in this country, but in Europe. The role of Œdipus was taken by George Riddle, who was then the instructor in elocution in the college. In 1894 a performance of the "Phormio" of Terence was given in Latin in Sanders' theater, and in 1901 members of the classical club gave a spirited reproduction of the extravaganza of the old comedy in selected scenes from Aristophanes' "Birds." In 1902 a considerable portion of Euripides' "Iphigenia Among the Taurians" was rendered by students of Radcliffe college.

Rehearsals for the "Agamemnon" have been going on since the beginning of the current college year. The entire classical department at Harvard university has joined in the work, but the general committee in charge consists of Professors Herbert Weir Smyth, Charles Burton Gulick and William Fenwick Harris. A special libretto of the play, giving both the Greek text and the English translation, has been prepared by Professor W. W. Goodwin, who has for many years made a special study of the "Agamemnon." The music for the performance has been composed by John Ellerton Lodge, a son of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. It seems certain from the rather defective knowledge of ancient Greek music that all the choral odes were sung in unison. This style of composition has been retained to some extent, but in order to avoid the monotony of unvaried unison singing Mr. Lodge has arranged the formal choral stasima in harmony. The music is designedly simple in order to suggest an original accompaniment quite subordinate to the words of the poet. In the instrumental accompaniment instead of the single flute or harp which were usual in ancient times there will be three clarinets and one bassoon. A dummy flute player also will appear from time to time and pretend to accompany the chorus. Besides the chorals there will be a vocal duet between Clytaemnestra and the leader of the chorus. The chorus is composed of members of the University Glee club. They have been trained by B. G. Willard, instructor in public speaking. Mr. Willard and George Riddle, assisted by A. S. Hills, instructor in public speaking, have coached the principals.

The spectators of the play will be seated in the curve of the Stadium. Fronting them will be a simple structure representing the palace at Argos occupied by Queen Clytaemnestra during the absence of the king at Troy. This palace will serve also as a sounding board. The back scene will be of moderate height, and its temporary character will recall the primitive Attic drama. In a circular space in front, about sixty-five feet in diameter, the chorus and actors, standing on the natural earth, will perform their parts. In the center of this circle will be erected the thymelie, or altar of Dionysos, under which—not near which, as in ancient times—the musicians and the prompter (a personage unknown to the Greeks) will be stationed.

The costumes are elaborate. The queen, Clytaemnestra, appears in purple and gold, Agamemnon in the panoply of a Greek general. In his train follow Cassandra and other Trojan captives, both men and women, wearing oriental dress, which contrasts sharply with the simple costume of the Greeks. The old men of Argos, who make up the chorus, are in stately robes of white and subdued colors. The properties are equally costly and varied. They include sacrificial vessels, wands, wreaths, helmets, spears and shields, all specially prepared after designs based on Greek vase paintings of the best period. Finally there are two chariots constructed on the basis of the rather meager evidence concerning practical details which the ancient monuments, especially the frieze of the Parthenon, furnish. These chariots will be drawn by small cream colored Norwegian horses with bogged manes. These animals, which closely resemble those used by the Greeks, will be provided by Warren Delano, Jr., of New York, a Harvard graduate, who breeds them. They have been trained to the yoke. The care and attention given to these details indicate the accuracy of the whole production.
