Partial activities were started today in observance of National Fire Prevention Week when an inspection committee began investigation of business houses in downtown Lubbock.

The committee is composed of Fire Marshal Wiley Metcalfe, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, Building Inspector D. J. Schiag and Electrical Inspector J. A. Pressley.

During this week this committee will make an inspection of every business establishment in the city in an effort to locate all fire hazards. When found these will be called to attention of the owner and cooperation is asked in having them removed. Later a re-inspection will be made by the committee.

Announcement was made this morning by city officials that the committee will be glad to visit any home and make a thorough examination with recommendations.

Woods Is Chairman
A committee appointed by Harley D. ## MAN CHARGED IN BURGLARY

DETAILED CONFESSION MADE TO McDONALD PLANT ROBBERY

Before the crime was two hours old, Lubbock county officers had lodged Joe Oberlechner in jail early Sunday morning, charges of burglary being filed against him today in connection with robbery of the McDonald Packing company late of approximately $600. The robbery was committed about midnight Saturday and at 3 o'clock yesterday morning two men were in jail. The second suspect was released at noon today.

A detailed confession was made by Oberlechner who was arrested near Brownfield while making a flight for the Mexican border. He had hired a taxi from the Ramo Rest Car station in which he was attempting to make his get-away. The second man was arrested a short time later in Lubbock. In his confession the man stated he was under a 12-year suspended sentence for hi-jacking at Sterling City.

Lubbock county officers began a search for the man when rumors were received that he was attempting to get out of the city and that he had told someone he had to shoot man. Trace of his route was found when officers queried all bus stations. No reports of a shooting were received but shortly afterwards many drove a truck up to the plant and discovered a side door open. Going inside to investigate he found the large safe practically demolished with a grubbing hoe, a sledge hammer and a large wrench lay nearby.

The door to the safe had been literally hacked to pieces with the hoe and hammer by the robber who gained an entrance through a window.

The loot included about $150 in cash and the rest in checks. Only $48 in cash were recovered while the checks are still missing.

Woman's Shoe Found
From the police figures it would appear that there were 3 more persons aboard. Discovery of a woman's shoe with a buckle still attached made it appear possible that this fifty-fifth person was a woman.

WHOLESALE OF SOUTHWEST TRAIN EYES ON LUBBOCK AREA AS RESULT OF CREATING MARKET WEEK IN CITY

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Of The Journal Staff

Enterprise of Lubbock business men in starting the project of a market week last spring, has brought this city into prominence among manufacturers of all kinds of ladies clothing, as no other single project of recent years has done. Not only has the move opened up a wider market for Dallas wholesale men and manufacturers, but it has brought to them a class of business from a rich territory that is at the present "the best in the southwest" and also enabled them to better serve West Texas merchants.

In Permanent Institution
As far as Dallas is concerned, Lubbock's semi-annual market week is a permanent institution. The wholesale men and manufacturers are thoroughly "sold" on the proposal, they are also "sold" on Lubbock as a town and they believe that Lubbock institutions are just a step ahead of some other towns in the state.

These are some of the ideas gleaned in conversation with executives of some of the larger companies who are here with a staff of officials and salesmen. Financial conditions in West Texas are much better than in other sections of the state. Business men

Cotton Not Hurt

Cotton was not seriously damaged by the rain. Most of the fall was gentle and did not injure the opened bolls. There may be some sand in the bolls but not enough to do any serious damage, it was added.

Some delay was occasioned in the operation of buses Monday morning but the delays were not serious.

SOUTH PLAINS AND LUBBOCK BENEFITED

MORE THAN HALF-INCH FALLS IN SECTION IN TWO DAYS

Lubbock and the entire South Plains Saturday and Sunday received good rains that averaged as high as half an inch or more according to reports received Monday from points all over the territory.

The State Experiment station east of Lubbock, reported 52 of an inch for both dates. Sunday's rain amounted to 47 of an inch and Saturday's rain was but five hundredths of an inch.

Continuation of the rainfall was expected today as threatening clouds and an overcast sky gave indications of more rain.

Rain Is General

The rain was general, extending from Amarillo and north, south to Sweetwater, Big Spring and other towns. From Spur and Dickens on the east the moisture was reported as extending westward into New Mexico.

Brownfield and Littlefield reported splendid rains Sunday, the former having what was described as a "good rain" and the latter a fair rain.

Clovis and intermediate points had good rains all during the afternoon and evening it was reported to the union bus terminals by drivers arriving Sunday night, James E. Marlow, agent, said. Every car arriving Sunday night, was covered with mud and the drivers reported that they had to drive slowly for most of the distance.

Santa Fe Reports

At the State Experiment station it was said that farmers probably would begin planting of wheat, as soon as weather conditions permitted. While more moisture will be needed to bring on a good stand, it is believed that the rainfall so far will start germination of wheat already sown or that planted this week.

DAMAGE LOSS MOUNTING AS WATERS RISE

RAMPANT CREEK TURNS MANY OUT OF HOMES; HOUSES GO DOWN

(By The Associated Press)
BRADY, Oct. 6.—More than $100,000 property damage had been wrought by flood waters from the Brady river, which flows through town, and about 250 people were homeless here today. The water was from three to seven feet deep on the court house plaza two blocks from the river. There were eight feet of water in the chamber of commerce building.

A score or more small homes along the banks of the river were washed away and their occupants were being cared for by the local Red Cross. No loss of life had been reported.

Houses Floating Around
A frame business house was floating around on the surface of the water through the streets, bumping itself against more substantial structures.

Scores of automobiles had been washed down the river, it was reported.

The stream, normally with barely enough water to run, had been fed at its origin in Concho county, near Eden, by rain that measured ten inches.

At noon the water was steadily rising and a report came from upstream that a seven-foot rise was on its way.

Most of the damage will be to merchandise stocks, although some of the merchants rushed their wares to higher ground ahead of the rising water.

Dame Fashion Is Wool Gathering

BY JOAN SAVOY
NEA Service Writer

When the first chill of autumn blows about us, sheer wool frocks and suits step out with perfect assurance of their high favor in fashion's eyes.

The "little frock" of worsted is with us again after many years' absence. For office wear, school, smart street, and country wear it is perfect for Indian Summer days; without a coat, it is equally good later on under furs.

The soft sports outfit of jersey—that classic material—is the best possible bet for sports wear. If you are going to the country for a week-end, you will need one.

New woolen frocks and suits adorn themselves admirably this fall. "Little frocks" show ingenious lingerie touches, bolero yokes and gored yoke treatments. Many of them affect surplice blouses, in hand-embroidered or lacy wool patterns.

It is quite the thing to have your best made of your suit or frock's material. Many of them have the same touches of embroidery or color that the frock or suit has.

Admirable for autumn wear for a cross-country walk, a day's work or a shopping spree is a black and white semi-sheer tweed frock made with a bolero, hip yoke and gored skirt which has box pleats in the front, on both sides and in the back.

There is a tricky little collar and bow touch of white pique which shows under the bolero where it buttons down over the belt of the skirt.

Soft as down is a little blue jersey suit with jacket that has monogrammed sleeves and a little surplice overblouse of matching material. This overblouse has diamond motifs of black and gold yellow. This overblouse ties at the side, with ends hanging.

The best is of the bright blue of the jacket and has the black and gold yellow embroidered in a little design on the top of it.

A Defect
 Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania complains that "the greatest material need of civilization is a solution of the distribution problem" and it is not hard to see why he should think so.

The world today is suffering from a tremendous shortage of goods in which all countries are faring poorly.

Yet, at the same time, there never was a time in the world's history when it had the capacity to produce so much at so little expense.

There is—either actually in existence or immediately available—a great plenty of everything that men all over the world need.

Yet, because of some defect in the machinery somewhere, this very surplus, this still with which humanity can meet all of its wants, simply operates to make a bad situation worse, and a great many people, cotton growers and textile manufacturers all the way from the United States to China and from the Argentine to Scotland, do not have nearly enough of anything.

The American farmer finds himself going bankrupt because there is a "surplus" of wheat—and hundreds of thousands of Chinese are dying of starvation.

American automobile manufacturers cut down their schedules because of overproduction—and countries like Russia suffer acutely because they are not able to mechanize their transport fast enough.

Cotton growers and textile manufacturers are hit by a supply that exceeds demand—but in every city in the world you could find dozens of people who do not have enough clothing to keep them in good health.

Now is that all? Producers of various kinds, from farmers to manufacturers, complain that they are not able to make money—but retail prices remain high. The price of bread, for instance, has not followed the price of wheat down the toboggan. The farmer's hard luck is not the consumer's gain.

Somewhere back of all of this there would seem to lie a major defect in our machinery of distribution. From foodstuffs to radios, from blankets to sewing machines, mankind at last is able to produce far more than enough to go around; but this ability is beginning to look more like a curse than a blessing.

What is the answer? As Senator Reed remarks: "It is a question which demands the best brains not only of our country but of the world."

The Cleveland man who drank 11 tumblers of water and then invited all comers to compete for the water-drinking championship must be credited with some discrimination. He might have issued his challenge during the drought.

Football players at an eastern college are charged with beating the lowest marks of anyone in the school. Small worry to them.... They'll kick and pass.

A Chicago judge has ruled that adding water to good whiskey does not damage it. The decision, with- out question, reflects on his poor taste.

Who can tell but what those Boy Scouts competing in a baking contest in England are planning to become husbands some day? The secret, you recall, is the "Prepared."

Chicago is now investigating the gambling racket, reputed to be controlled, is another manifestation of the beer business.

THE PLAINSMAN
 Says:

That Girl on Broadway gets leading a double life is what gets lots of people through it twice as quick.

If all the prohibition arguments were laid end to end, they'd supply enough hot air to float Dr. Graf Zeppelin.

Another fair has passed into a history and for the third—or maybe it's the fourth straight year, attendance figures have slumped. If the Plainsman's memory is as good as it should be, the high water mark in fair attendance came in 1926, but if, instead, it came in 1927, it makes no difference. The example is the same.

There are more people in Lubbock today than there were in 1926. There are more people on the South Plains today than there were then. The fact that fair attendance is slumping, year by year, means just one thing. That is, the interest isn't being sustained. Very plainly, something must be done to re-arouse interest in the fair. Use it will dwindle away until we may just as well close up shop.

ASIDE from adding to types of exhibits, here and there, and bringing in more of them, there is little that can be changed about a fair. They are a good deal alike, all the way from the big ones to the little ones. There seems to be but one way out. That is, add to the amusement features—something which may be easily done in Lubbock.

Take the carnival, for instance. Ever since "The Plainsman" can remember, the Bill Hames shows have been here for the fair. Now the Hames shows are probably as good as the average carnival organization, but for the sake of a change, why not bring in a bigger carnival, such as Beckman and Gerrity, a 50-car show as compared with the Hames 15 cars here this year, that played the Amarillo fair the week before the Panhandle-South Plains exposition opened.

The Plainsman knows that Beckman and Gerrity wanted to come to Lubbock this year and can be secured for next year. It certainly wouldn't hurt anything to offer the customer something bigger and more varied in the way of a carnival. That would help pull additional pleasure-seekers through the gate.

Then take the free attractions. For the most part, Lubbock free attractions have been stereotyped ever since "The Plainsman" has been watching the fair. Fireworks every night, some wire stunts and similar attractions have been very good, but the public has burnt out on them. Here's an opportunity to bring Ernest Young's crack review to Lubbock next year to add something else new and different. The Young review has been a highly popular feature at the West Texas fair, Abilene, and there is every reason to believe that such a high class attraction would "click" here.

These suggestions are not to be taken as a criticism of the Panhandle-South Plains fair, but as a suggestion of management or direction. Everyone knows that in the past seven years it has been raised from a "pumpkin show" to a fine exposition. But "The Plainsman" fears for the future of the fair if steps are not taken to furnish new and different features. In order to safeguard attendance in the years to come, something will have to be done.

Of course, it is not entirely fair to compare fair attendance this year with ordinary years. For one thing, inclement weather has hurt. For another thing, times have not been of the best, exhibits have not been as varied, due to climatic conditions, and attendance at all fairs has fallen off. But we may go back to last year, and the year before that, and the question of crumby attendance is still paramount. A stitch in time will likely react to the benefit of the Panhandle-South Plains fair of the years to come.

"The Plainsman" doesn't take the stand that the Panhandle-South Plains fair is facing a crisis. As a matter of fact, with more than 10,000 customers on opening day this year, the local exposition paced the West Texas fair by about 3,000 people, and Abilene Morning News announced that its opening crowd of 7,500 was the best opening day through in West Texas fair history. Lubbock, with more than 10,000 persons present, was 3,000 below its banner opening day crowd, yet still had a long lead on Abilene.

However, the success of any fair is measured by attendance and if more people can be attracted to the fair here they should be attracted—even if it takes a departure from the normal to do it. After all, the day has passed when people attend fairs principally to visit one another and see the exhibits of various nature. These points still have their drawing power to a certain extent, but the amusement features, in the final analysis, will make or break a fair. For that reason

Washington's Bicentennial Commission Discovers Firms Of Patriot's Time Are Still In Business Today—Dutcher

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The George Washington Bicentennial Commission, which is vigorously applying itself to the task of working the country up to a white heat of patriotic emotion by 1932—the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington—has undertaken an informal compilation of still existing companies or firms which were doing business in Washington's time.

Apparently there are hundreds of them. Banks, insurance companies and drug stores are most numerous among those which the commission has heard about since it sent out a call for information on such institutions.

Already there are a couple of firms which claim to have been established back in the sixteen-eighties or nineties. Philadelphia and Boston, thus far, have offered the largest number of interesting exhibits.

Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, an associate director of the commission, suggests that there be some kind of a meeting or organization of old establishments, dating back to the eighteenth century and that their records be preserved and examined for their historical value.

Someone will doubtless propose appropriate tablets for such emporiums, and it is probable that George Washington himself used to be one of the customers. The commission is especially anxious to learn of places where the Father of His Country bought his razor blades, radio tubes, cracked ice, bromo-seltzers, kodak rolls, ginger ale and other day-to-day necessities.

Store Opened in 1792. One such place is to be found over across the Potomac in Alexandria, Va., where the Alexandria Gazette, born in Washington's time, still flourishes.

One refers to Leadbeater's drug store, whose ancient records show that Washington and members of his family often sent slaves or came themselves to buy castor oil and other remedies. The Washingtons apparently never ate ham sandwiches and drank chocolate malted milk over the counter, however. Leadbeater's didn't serve them and they ate at home, anyway.

Leadbeater's was opened in 1792 by Edward Stabler, who borrowed $600 pounds for the purpose, and is still in possession of his descendants and those of John Leadbeater, who married one of his daughters in 1831. Stabler was an accomplished pill-roller and mixer of liquid concoctions. Having no chain store competition, he made plenty of money at his corner on King and Fairfax streets.

Diet and Health
 By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

CLENDENING LAUDS FIND OF NEW FOOD
 Who ever introduces a new vegetable confers an inestimable boon on his fellows. Personally, I do not care who is president or who writes the nation's songs, so long as there are a few good vegetables introduced to the human diet, especially in the ways and by-ways.

Within about the last four years broccoli has become one of the most distinguished newcomers. So far as I can remember it was not generally used before.

The great virtues of broccoli, from the standpoint of the science of nutrition, is first its high pigment content. Pigment is a necessary part of the human dietary, especially in infancy. The coloring of the red blood cells comes from pigment in the food. This is the reason for the popularity of spinach and carrots with children's doctors. The trouble with most pigment-containing vegetables is their utter insipidity. Personally I should exactly as soon eat a mouthful of cotton as either carrots or spinach. Broccoli has the advantage that it does taste like something. It tastes like cabbage, but it tastes like a vegetable, starting in the world.

In New York
 With Swag
 Gilbert Swag

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—And, even as Scheherazade had said, it was the thousand and fourth night.

So going about the Bagdad-on-the-Subway, which O. Henry so well described, I came upon Michael, a creature of wheels and metal, who stood sentry at the Radio Show doorway.

And to meet a creature so obviously and honestly mechanical in a city where so much is mechanical and not so honest struck me as having ingredients for a modernesque O. Henry tale. You'll have to invent your own plot. I've thought of several. One would have to do with a gent who attended a masquerade ball in the costume of an ancient monarch, drinking too much hip fluid, staggers into Madison Square Garden lobby and is mistaken for the Robot.

To be sure, I've met this Robot before. He's been at banquets, where he made canned speeches from a phonographic device secreted somewhere down in his bowels. At the moment standing at the doorway of the Garden, his mechanism causes the Robot to bid everyone a polite good evening while another Robot takes tickets and clicks off the number of them.

Somehow this occurs to me to be just about as things should be. Everyone has been a guest at banquets where "stuffed shirts" spouted just such mechanical hokey as Michael the Robot. And the other Robot is at least polite about matters of tickets, and unless something goes wrong with his mechanism, he's bound to be honest.

And so, growing a bit fond of Michael, the Robot who acts as master of ceremonies in the best master of ceremony fashion, I find he is able to spring into life, thanks to a beam of light. When anyone passes, the beam is interrupted and this affects a photo-electric cell upon which the beam has been falling. Thus his mechanism gets going.

Somehow, when Mike says: "Hello, hello, there, glad to see you. How's everything?" one gets the uncanny feeling of having heard the same thing a thousand times at that exact spot.

One recalls Tex Rickard standing at the door and issuing about the same greeting, or some prize fighter, rodeo gent or hockey player. Mike for all this armor, is a truly uncanny personality.

And so, feeling a bit disturbed, we wandered down into a cellar where there is beer that is sometimes near and sometimes far.

And while we stood there nibbling on a pretzel, there came a small, piping voice at our right elbow.

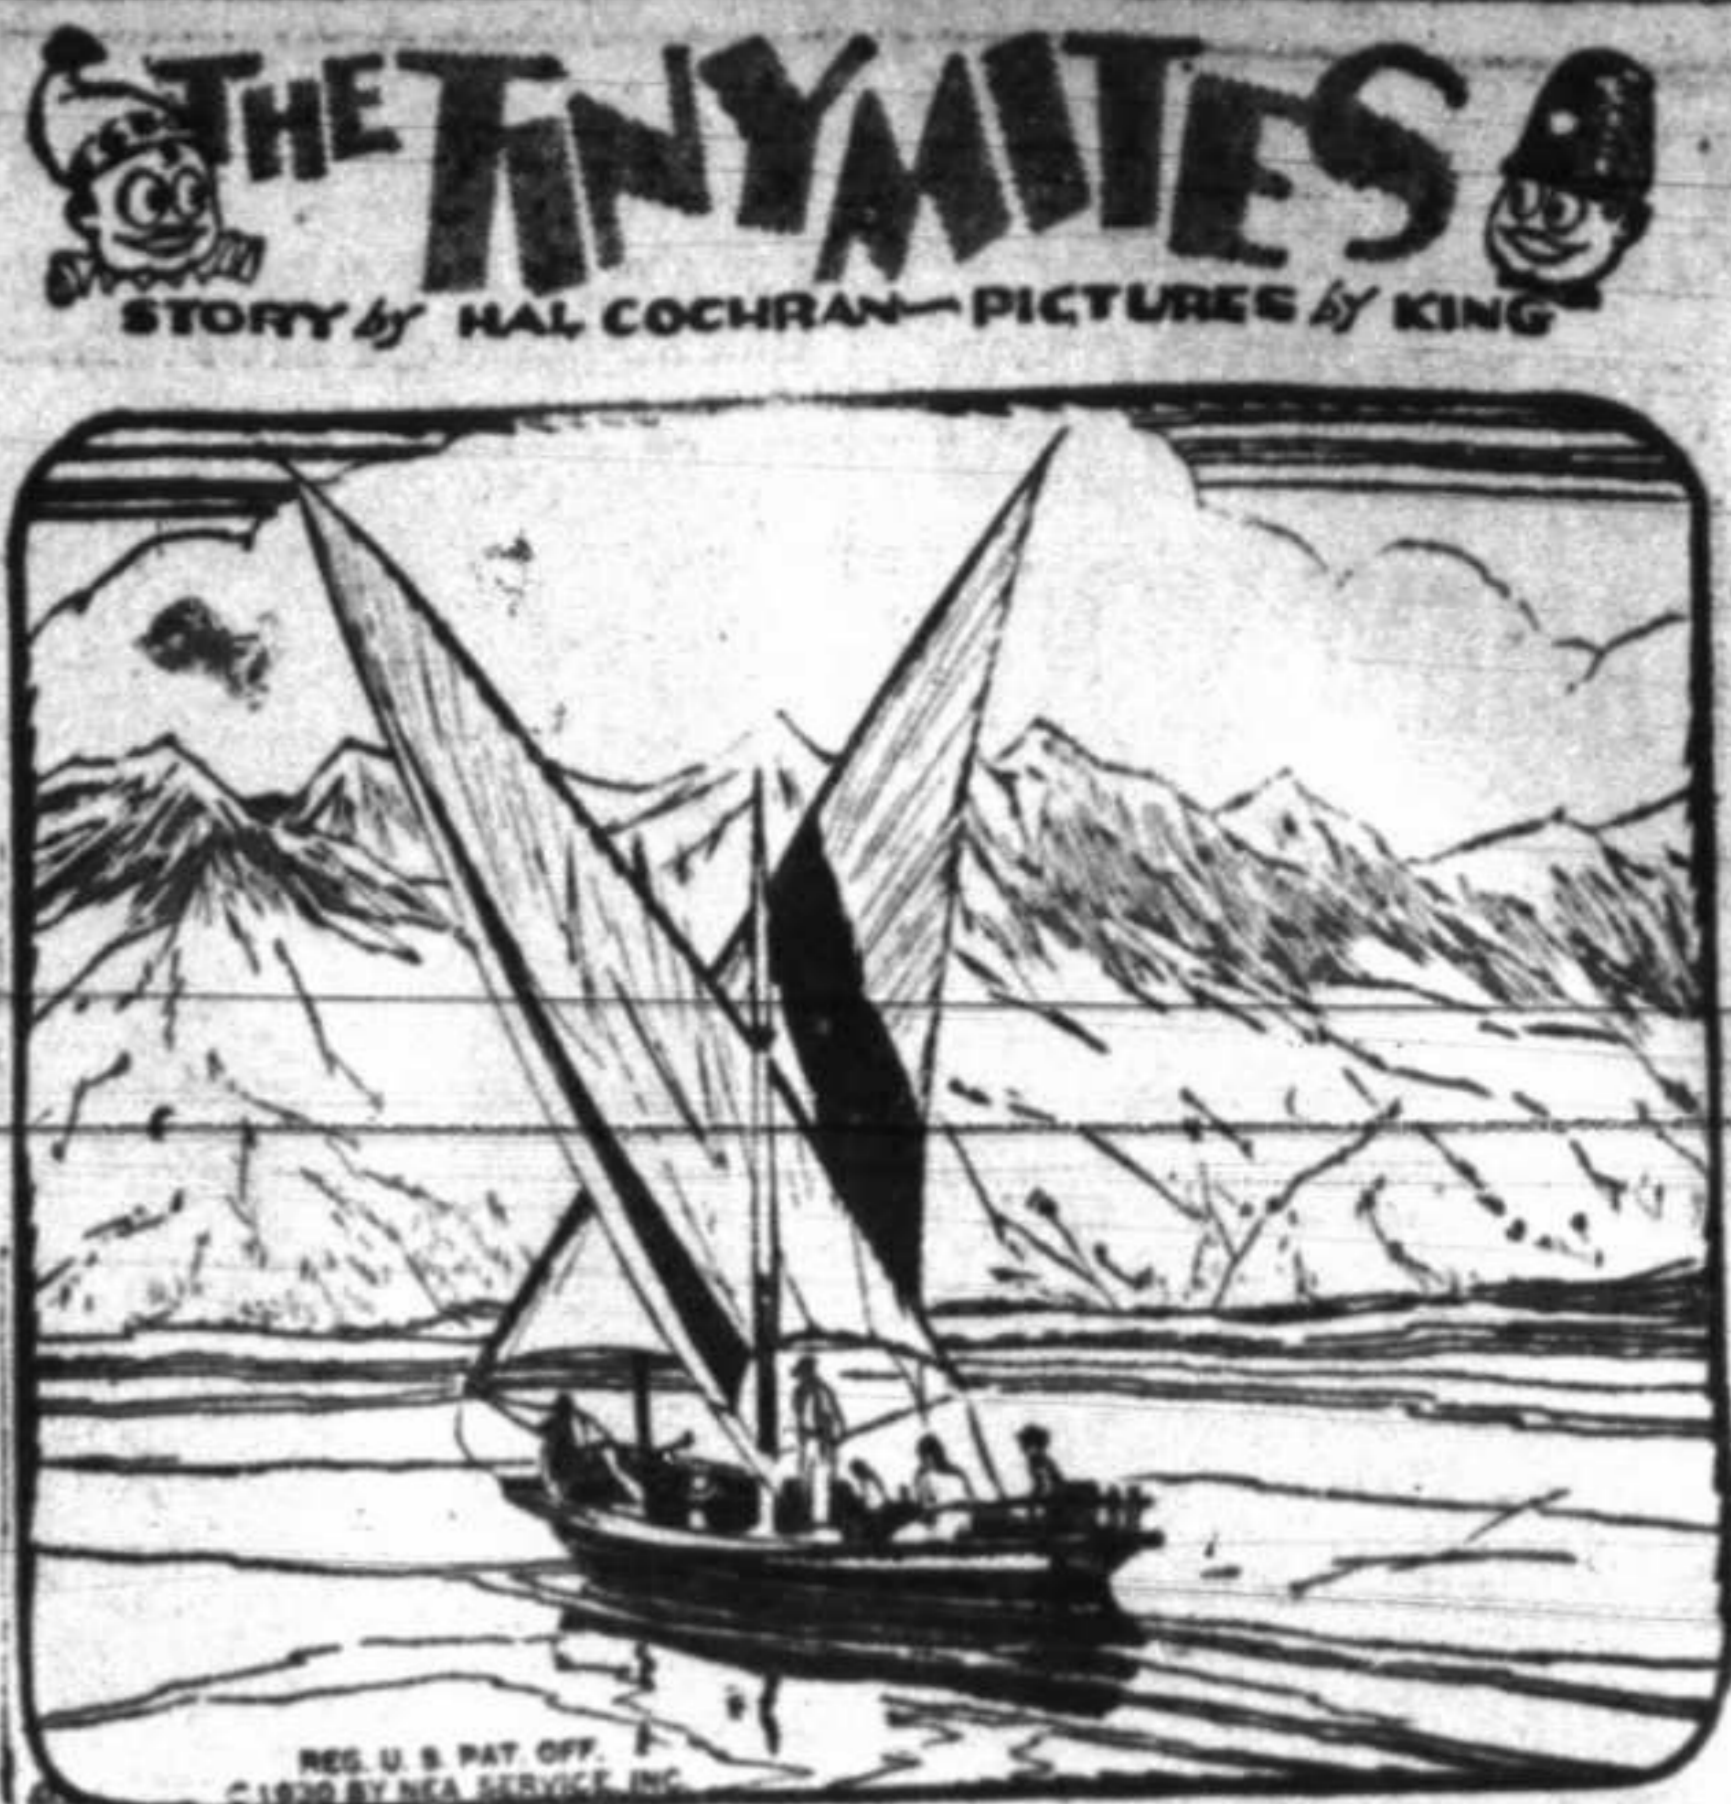

And looking down there stood a barefooted, ragged-looking urchin with a basket on his arm. In the basket were a few dozen home-made cakes—flowers—scarlet roses and pink roses and little clusters of violets and forget-me-nots.

A crudely printed sign was atop the basket and the lad, whose face was pale olive, colorless and thin, passed it about.

It read: "These flowers were made at home by a sick mother trying to support her three children."

"And you all sell flowers?" I asked.

"No, only me, my brother and sister stay at home and go to school. Really mister—I my mother makes these. She makes 'em sitting up in bed."

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinies were surprised to see the laundry boat and one said: "Gee, why do they have such things as that? Do folks live on the boat? Why I should think that they would try to hang them in some yard to dry. They might lose all those clothes, if out to sea the boat would float."

The Travel Man just smiled and then explained a lot of things again. Said he, "Well, son, they wash the clothes right here upon the shore. Right in the stream the washboards go and clothes are rubbed to and fro. The clothes are shortly clean, cause that is what the boards are for."

"And then, you see, the real fresh air is stronger here than anywhere. It blows along atop the stream and dries clothes mighty quick. That's why right on the boat they're hung. Out in the breeze they're promptly flung. It dries them in a short time and it's quite a clever trick."

"I guess you're right," wee Clowny said. "It seems we do not use our head, but ask you silly questions. I replied the friendly Travel Man, and then he added, "I suppose that all those line of nice, white clothes are taken down and packed away ere day drifts into night."

"Sure, that's exactly what they do. That's to avoid the morning dew," replied the friendly Travel Man. "And now, let's be along. I know where we can have some fun. Now, kindly walk! Don't start to run. We'll go out in a sail boat while the wind is good and strong."

They found a sailboat house nearby and Clowny let out quite a large sail. "Oh gee, just look at that large sail. I'll bet we'll go real fast." And then they climbed aboard the craft. The townsfolk, watching them, just laughed. They whirled around. Then Clowny cried, "We're on our way at last."

Clyde, Texas, Farmer Suffered From Eczema; Also Stomach Trouble—Orgatone Restoring Him

"I am being entirely relieved of all my troubles that lasted for three years, and I will never cease to be grateful to Orgatone as long as I live," said H. C. Anderson, a well known farmer of Clyde, Texas.

"About three years ago my hands started breaking out with some kind of rash. I thought it was eczema, and took every remedy that was recommended, it wasn't long after that until I started breaking out all over my body then my feet. I had gone to several doctors but they couldn't help me at all. I think this trouble was the direct result of suffering from gas and other stomach disorders. I had such pains in my stomach that I sometimes suffered torture after eating, and I couldn't do my work. I had been trying to find relief for three years, but nothing helped me and I was about to give up hope when I heard about Orgatone."

"I'm being restored to health now, and make this statement so that others may know my case and be saved from the pain and suffering I had to endure for so many years. I hadn't finished my first bottle of Orgatone before the breaking out of my feet stopped. Also my appetite came back and now I eat three hearty meals a day and don't have a bit of trouble with gas or palpitation or pains in my stomach. I retire early every night, go to sleep peacefully all night long. I am so happy to be feeling so well again that I could just shout for joy and I never get tired telling people about the wonderful power of Orgatone to bring back health and strength. From the bottom of my heart I thank the man who made this grand medicine."

Genuine Orgatone may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

HAINES' MASTERFUL HURLING GIVES FOURTH TILT TO CARDS

LEFTY GROVE IS BEATEN AND SERIES IS SQUARED; GELBERT SAID TO ST. LOUIS VICTORY

GRIMES AND EARNSHAW LIKELY TO PITCH TODAY'S GAME

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics and Gabby Street's St. Louis Cardinals today were right back where they started from at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, last Wednesday. With four games behind them, the champions of the National and American leagues stood all even, with two victories each—the home team winning every contest played.

The two St. Louis victories made a new National League "high" since 1928, when the same Cardinals won the series.

St. Louis Today
After the fifth game today, the battlefield will again be transferred to Philadelphia for at least one contest, and possibly two.

The Cardinals leveled the series by giving 37-year-old Jesse Haines their knuckle-ball expert, support in keeping with his mastery pitching. The score was 3 to 1 and Lefty Grove, Connie Mack's left-handed ace, was the victim, although the defeat was not entirely the fault of the tall southpaw.

Hits Are Scarce
Grove held the Cardinals to five hits, only one more than the total allowed by Big Jesse, but all the safeties were scored in two innings, two in the third and three in the fourth. With perfect support, however, Grove would have escaped with one run scored against him, a bad throw by the usually reliable Jimmy Dykes, permitting the winning run to score. The player put on by the error also scored but this was an unnecessary run. Dykes, as a matter of fact, did not have to throw the ball at all as he could have tagged a base runner in front of him for the third out.

Haines pitched good enough ball to win most games, World's series or just common ordinary contests during the season. He was nipped for three hits and one run in the first inning, but after that he yielded only one isolated single. He was wild, issuing four passes, but he had control in the pinches when it counted.

Gelbert Is Star
Smart fielding by Charlie Gelbert, the Cardinal's young shortstop, gave the Ohio pitcher, who is the senior of the St. Louis staff, much satisfaction. Gelbert started a fast double play, after a sensational stop, and converted a near-hit into an assist when a hit would have been painful to the feelings of the St. Louis fans. Ray Blades, who was carried on the Cardinal roster as a coach but plays right field when a left hander pitches for the opposition, made a brilliant running catch at the expense of Mickey Cochrane, the hard hitting catcher of the Athletics, who was stopped in his tracks by Haines.

The fifth game of the series was expected to bring two former starting pitchers back into the lineup, Burleigh Grimes, the veteran spitballer for the Cardinals, and George Earnshaw, the Athletics' right hander. Grimes pitched the first game for the National leaguers at Philadelphia and was defeated, 5 to 2. Earnshaw won the second game of the series, 6 to 1. Today's probable line-up:

Philadelphia	St. Louis
Bishop, 2b	Douthitt, cf
Dykes, 3b	Adams, 3b

Simmons, 1b	Bottomley, 1b

GAS COMPANY TO EXPAND

TWENTY MILLION TO BE SPENT IN PROGRAM OF EXPANSION

(By The Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—A $20,000,000 expansion program, of which approximately $8,500,000 already has been authorized, has been announced by the Houston Gas System, of which the Houston Gas and Fuel company is a part. The $8,500,000 will be spent on improvements on transmission and distribution facilities.

The transmission line from Refugio to the Houston Gas and Fuel company distributing system will be tapped in two sections, doubling the capacity of natural gas that may be brought to Houston homes and industries through this system.

The program includes new pipe lines for conveying natural gas from fields to the centers of distribution, new compressor stations and new distribution systems for service to south Texas towns that heretofore have not had the advantages of natural gas.

More than 300 miles of new lines will be laid at an expenditure of approximately $7,300,000, it was announced. New distribution systems will be placed in eight towns and three new compressor stations will be constructed under the plan outlined by the company for immediate attention.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

With the tide of victory turned Lubbock way, coaches of the local high school and college teams will strive to keep up the winning spirit by starting the week off with brisk practice this afternoon on the practice grounds at Tech and at Fair Park.

At the time of this writing, we have not conversed with Coach Frnka of the Lubbock High Westerners, nor did we attend the game in Wichita Falls, but we are certain that the Westerner mentor will have plenty to gloat about today when he rounds up his charges in the dressing room and re-plays Saturday's game. We would wager the roommate's that he will find more to denounce in his club this afternoon than he ever has found before. And probably he'll be right.

We did see the Tech Matadors defeat the New Mexico Aggies and we have talked with the coaches since the game. We KNOW they will find plenty to fuss about this afternoon. Although the Matadors showed a world of improvement in their game Friday over the game of the previous week, there is still plenty of work to be done by the coaches. The team showed lack of experience, though a good knowledge of the game. There were many mix-ups in the line. And oh, those ends! Coach Cawthon tried half a dozen ends in last Friday's game and then did not find a pair who could cope with stronger competition than that offered by the Aggies.

Teal and Vinzant appear to be the leading contenders for wing positions, but their work Friday was not altogether satisfactory. Tadlock, as an end, might make a good tidgler, but needs player, but he would need lots of practice. The big fellow means well, but can't seem to catch on. If he is used in the second team in heavy scrimmage against the first stringers for within seven days he might develop into a great end. He is built for an end. Whitesides went in the game Friday, started running before the ball was snapped on the second down, and kept running until he passed the bench and arrived in the shower room. He is heavy, and with a little trimming should make a go of it. Howell showed up well, but his work is still a good way from pleasing. Teal and Vinzant need lots of practice.

Cawthon's backfield contains some able men. The work of Woolfbridge in the first half Friday was outstanding, but he was overshadowed by Franz play in the same position in the last half. Franz shows promise of developing into a real backfield star. His work at safety Friday was exceptionally good. Were he heavier his worth would be indescribable. Doose showed up much better against the Aggies than against Wayland. He has improved wonderfully, and is due to go places before his college football days are over. He is a sophomore, coming up from the freshman grid ranks of last year with something of a reputation. He did not start Friday, but went in in time to grab a bunch of honors. Buddy Brothers, a veteran, was a glittering light Friday. He has been shifted from half to fullback, and was the same old Buddy, much improved, in the Aggie game.

In spite of the unpleasant playing conditions over this section last week-end, caused by heavy rains which left the gridiron ankle deep in water and mud, our guesses on football results ran almost true to form. We made 27 prognostications, covering the important games of this section only.

INTEREST SEEN IN GAMES OF THIS WEEK

FIRST TILTS AGAINST TITLE RACE SET TO PLAY ON SATURDAY

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Somewhat recovered from an hilarious weekend, in which it watched its favorites wage a brilliant but unsuccessful campaign through the Middle West, the Southwest conference settled back today to contemplate the approaching battle in its own back yard.

The opening gun of the championship race was to be fired Saturday at Fort Worth, when the reigning Texas Christian university Horned Frogs will engage the University of Arkansas. Two inter-sectional tilts were carded the same day, Texas A. and M. college meeting the Tulane Green Wave in the new Fair Park bowl at Dallas, and Rice Institute entertaining the University of Arizona at Houston.

Other Games Easy
Three remaining conference members, two smarting from defeats in Indiana and a third recovering from a scoreless struggle, were aligned against minor opposition. Southern Methodist, heroine in its 20-14 loss to Notre Dame, hoped to recuperate against the Austin College eleven here Friday. Baylor, only slightly less heroic as it fell before Purdue, 20 to 7, was scheduled against Trinity university Saturday at Waco. The Texas Longhorns, who emerged from their combat with Centenary with a scoreless tie and a bad scare, were to play host to Howard Payne college at Austin.

As a result of their last period 20 to 0 victory over St. Edward's, the Rice Owls stood today as the only undefeated outfit in the conference for the year. Southern Methodist's loss to the Ramblers was the first sustained by the Mustangs since 1928, and the Horned Frogs' scoreless draw against Simmons at Breckenridge was the first time the Christians had failed to score since 1923.

Edge Taken Off
Some of the edge was taken off the conference opener between Arkansas and Texas Christian as a result of the Razorbacks' poor showing Saturday. Losing to Tulsa university, 26 to 6, the Porkers failed to live up to the hopes entertained for them. The Frogs will be heavily favored to open the defense of their title with a victory. They came out of the Simmons clash without an injury of consequence.

Little relief was in sight for the Aggies, meeting their second toughest inter-sectional for within seven days. Coach Matty Bell's men held the Nebraska Cornhuskers even for two periods, but succumbed to the Huskers' powerful running attack before the close, 13 to 9. Tulane's 14 to 0 loss to Northwestern, however, would indicate that the Green Wave is not as strong as last year.

Two Schools Are Dropped From List
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—The board of directors of the American Society of Civil Engineers, in session here, has voted to drop from the list of accredited engineering schools the engineering units at the University of Mississippi and the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical college, it was announced today.

The action was taken, a statement said, "in view of the summary dismissal of so large a number of the faculties" of the two schools "as not to make suitable instruction in engineering."

Tech And Lubbock High Prepare For Next Foes

MATADORS TO BATTLE McMURRY ON HOME FIELD SATURDAY

With damp, chilly weather prevailing, Tech's Matadors gathered around their coaches this afternoon in high spirits to start the fourth week of the season's work on the Tech practice field. Their victory last Friday over the New Mexico Aggies served to pep them up and give them a determination to reap richer trophies.

While the coaches were pleased with their new enthusiasm today, nevertheless they set about to correct numerous errors that made themselves evident last Friday, and announced a scrimmage session for tomorrow.

The next game on the program is with the McMurry College Indians of Abilene. The Indians come to Lubbock next Saturday for Tech's third game. The showing of the Abilene Tribe so far this season has branded it as a rather powerful team, capable of putting up a strong fight both offensively and defensively. Assistant Coach Crip Goughly scouted the McMurry game Saturday and reports that a number of the Indians players are worked up to perfection, and if they start going right against the Matadors, the results will be disappointing to Tech fans.

With the assistance of Goughly, Freshman Coach Dutcher Smith will instruct the Pioneers in McMurry's plays, and run them against the varsity nearly every day this week. This afternoon's workout will consist of a tough drill on offensive plays which the Matadors hope to use next Saturday. Coach Pete Cawthon and Line Coach Del Morgan were far from satisfied with the showing made by their charges last Friday against the Aggies, and will drive them through a week of earnest practice and drill.

Coach Pete Cawthon still hesitates to name a first team. He is having difficulties in finding a suitable combination, either in the line or in the backfield, and it may be the middle of the season before he has lined up a definite starting team. The Tech mentor made more substitutions in Friday's game than has been made in a Matador game in the last two years. Not since the Matadors of 1927 defeated Panhandle A. & M. 59 to 0 has a Tech coach used as many substitutions as Cawthon used Friday. In only one other game since Tech was organized were as many substitutions made. That was the first year that Tech played Wayland College, when the Matadors won a 120 to 0 victory. Cawthon used 18 substitutions Friday.

Considerable interest is being shown toward the game with Cisco Bulldogs, strong Class A team of the Oil Belt district, Saturday night at Cisco. It will be Spur's first night game.

The first conference game for Spur will be played here Friday, with Ralls High school's Jackrabbits. The team will leave for Cisco immediately after the game.

Day against the New Mexico team. Tickets for the Tech-McMurry game went on sale today at the Hilton and Lubbock Hotel drug stores.

Considerable interest is being shown toward the game with Cisco Bulldogs, strong Class A team of the Oil Belt district, Saturday night at Cisco. It will be Spur's first night game.

Although he was visibly pleased with the victory, Coach Frnka stated that he was not yet satisfied with his team, and hoped to work out a number of kinks in his lineup this week. ### The Frock Sensations of the Season

Janelle FASHIONS

Janelle Frocks

$14.85

The Jewel Frock fashioned of canton crepe, drapes beautifully to the figure in graceful clinging lines. It has cape sleeves, and cool neckline with vestee of contrasting canton. The skirt is circular and built with a jeweled motif.

Paris dressmakers originated the styles. These were faithfully copied by foremost American manufacturers at one-fourth the price of the original importation.

The Frocks are in delightfully new modes—sponsored by smartly dressed women.

Only the best of dressmaking will be found in Janelle Fashions as you will note when you view these frocks.

The Tunic Frock is all over embroidered and has an accordion pleated underskirt. A draped collar of contrasting canton crepe and modified "leg o' mutton" sleeves, completes the picture.

BRIDGE WORK TO BE CONTRACTED

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Bids will be taken by the state highway commission at a meeting October 20 and 21 for the construction of three bridge projects at an estimate aggregating $1,700,000. George Wickline, bridge engineer said today.

The general committee of the institute's division of refining approved the report yesterday and urged its members to attempt to reach the minimum level and maintain it during the rest of 1930.

FLASHES OF LIFE

This One Fights

NEW YORK—Knockout by Tunney! A thug was about to shoot at another policeman when Detective Thomas Tunney, brother of Gene, landed a very effective left.

Two Dodo Birds

MONTREAL—Amid rejoicing over perfection, violation of golf etiquette has been forgotten in this instance. H. E. Walker, playing in a singles match at the St. Margaret Country club, holed his tee shot at the 181-yard eighth hole. Taking his ball gleefully out of the cup before his opponent had putted, he waved excitedly at two players on the tee. They thought it was an invitation to go through. W. E. Baldwin proceeded to hit right into the pair on the green, right into the cup in fact.

The Ladies Win

VIENNA—Vanished is an organization known as the World League for the Rights of Men, which proposed to save males from the wiles and economic cleverness of women. What was the league's headquarters is now a store that sells women's shoes only.

Change Of Ideas

EAST ORANGE, N. J.—Ten girls of social prominence got jobs as saleswomen in a new store. The Y. W. C. A., in its protest over poor girls being deprived of jobs, urged that the society girls turn over their salaries to charity. Now comes Edmund Williamson, secretary of the chamber of commerce: "Many girls socially prominent are working today because their once wealthy parents are holding purses well nigh emptied by the stock market crash."

This Is Fine

NEW YORK—Abbe Ernest Dimmet, French priest, philosopher and author, has arrived to debate Clarence Darrow on "Is religion necessary?"

PARIS, (AP)—Four hundred children from French families living overseas were government guests this summer, being shown the wonders of Paris and entertained elsewhere in the mother land.

Tractors shipped from the United States to Mexico in the first half of this year were valued at $863,000 as compared with only $282,000 in 1929.

May Be Movie Star Before Long

With the expectation of entering the movies, Lenore Lafount, of Logan, Utah, 20-year-old daughter of Federal Radio Commissioner and Mrs. Harold Lafount, has been taking screen tests in Hollywood. After attending the University of Utah and George Washington university she entered the American laboratory of dramatic art in New York City last year where she was awarded high honors in public speaking.

A Perfect Courtship

Every day is courting day—on and off the tennis court—for these two racket stars. John Van Ryn and Marjorie K. Gladman, who fought a love set with Dan Cupid, are shown here at the Westchester-Biltmore Club, Rye, N. Y., in the first picture taken of them since the recent announcement of their engagement.
