Mrs. Juanita Elizabeth (Cook) Johnson, 68, was found dead at her home, 736 East 17th St., about 11 a.m. Saturday when a friend, Mrs. Perry Adams, called to see about her.

Ruling death by natural causes, Justice of the Peace Leonard Henderson said Mrs. Johnson, who had been blind for a number of years, probably died Friday.

Friends who were with her Thursday reported her to have been in apparent good health and spirits.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 p.m. Sunday in First Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. Glenn Roenfeldt. Mrs. Johnson was a member of First Baptist Church and active in the Estelle Freeland Circle of the Woman's Missionary Union.

Born in Bell County, Aug. 4, 1900, she had lived in Mitchell County since 1903. She was a former school teacher as a young woman before she lost her sight.

Survivors are one son, Franklin Johnson of Oklahoma City, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Farris Lipps of Colorado City and Mrs. W. B. Gill of Fairhope, Okla.; two brothers, J. C. (Bill) Cook of Looney Community and Elmo Cook of Austin; and one granddaughter.

Burial was in Colorado City cemetery under direction of Kiker & Son Funeral Home.

Dot Mooar Cuts Marker Ribbon

Miss Dot Mooar of Marietta, Ga., cut the ribbon for unveiling the Buffalo Trails marker on Historical Museum grounds here Thursday. Daughter of a famous buffalo hunter, John Mooar who later owned a livery stable, Miss Mooar graduated from Colorado High School in 1905 and moved to Georgia in '18.

Dot Mooar Is Star At Buffalo Trails Site

Lively-eyed Miss Dot Mooar of Marietta, Ga., was star of the Buffalo Trails Historical Marker unveiling and dedication on the Historical Museum grounds here Thursday.

Miss Mooar, named by her mother Lydia Louise, was renamed "Dot" by her father the first time he saw her.

Her father was John W. Mooar, widely known buffalo hunter who later built the first brick building in Colorado City, operated a livery stable here for years, and owned wide ranch lands.

Miss Mooar delighted the audience at the museum dedication by recalling her life as a small girl here. Particularly pleasing to the crowd was her account of her small white donkey, "Snowball," which she rode to school across the Colorado River every day.

"And every time he crossed the bridge going and coming," she said, "Snowball would bray."

Miss Mooar, here especially for the Buffalo Trails historical marker dedication and for Old-Timer Reunion, graduated from Colorado High School in 1905 and moved to Georgia in 1918. She flew to Texas for the Colorado City celebrations.

Accompanying her was a friend Mrs. Walter Smith of Atlanta, Ga.

Included in Miss Mooar's informal recollections of early-day town history were the old Mooar Brothers Co. buffalo hunters, John W. and J. Wright Mooar, who also owned extensive ranches.

Her father John W. Mooar, A. W. Dunn, and W. H. (Uncle Pete) Snyder, she said, "Saved the life of Colorado City in its infancy when the Texas & Pacific Railroad was building west."

She told how the three pioneers bought a whole section of land in east Colorado City and offered it to the T & P, provided the railroad would locate its stockyards here rather than at Abilene as the company had first planned.

Texas & Pacific accepted the offer of 46 acres from the 640 acre plot and did build its stock pens here. Colorado City then became the biggest cattle shipping center in all Texas and south of Kansas.

Flood Control Request For Lone Wolf Creek

Preliminary steps to secure a flood control program for Lone Wolf Creek watershed in this county gathered impetus, Monday.

Mitchell County Commissioners Court and Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District made joint application this week to the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation for a flood control program on the Lone Wolf Creek flood plain in northeast sections of the county.

"If the State Soil and Water Conservation office approves the application it will then be sent to the secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., after State SCS engineers make an on-scene study and survey of the proposed project," said Donald Hodges, work unit conservationist here.

Watershed covers an area of 27,658 acres in this county. Lone Wolf Creek is a tributary to the Colorado River.

Prospectus accompanying the application discussed flood water and sediment damage in the Lone Wolf Creek flood plain.

A major flood occurs once in every two years, according to district SCS supervisors, landowners, operators, and county commissioners.

Major floods, record show, damaged farms in the watershed in 1961, 1963, 1966 and again in 1968.

Total damage is estimated at $30,729 annually. The figure includes $17,240 for loss of field crops; $5,339 for other agricultural damage, $6,000 for damage to roads and bridges, and $2,150 for indirect damage such as interruption of travel, rerouting of school buses and mail routes and losses sustained by businesses.

According to State Highway Department Farm to Market 1982 was closed for nine hours following a flood in June, 1968.

Erosion damage is also discussed. Erosion in the upland areas, says the prospectus, is moderate with sheet erosion accounting for approximately 90 percent of annual gross erosion. Sections of county roads and some farms show severe damage from flood plain scour erosion, but it is not prevalent to condition throughout the area, the application states.

"Water use and management problems complete the application. Approximately 100 acres of seep land is not in production.

"Landowners feel that an improved channel will lower the water table and permit them to farm this land," notes the application.

Objectives and watershed measures needed are listed in two categories—land treatment and channel improvement.

"Lone Wolf Creek," according to the prospectus, empties into Colorado River within limits of Colorado City. From this point the channel extends north-easterly for 13 miles. Beginning at near the north side of Highway 1-20, 10 miles of channel improvement is needed."

Sponsoring agents, Commissioners Court and Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District, offer to provide land rights and right of way and to maintain installed measures.

Sponsors request technical and financial assistance from the Soil Conservation Service for farm planning and application; for preparation of design specifications, and contracts; and for installation of improved channel.

Estimated time to install a complete program on the watershed, including land treatment, is three years.

City Plans Study Sewer Plant Needs, Museum

City Council here voted approval Monday night for an engineering study of Colorado City's sewer plant.

The study, to cost $750, will be made by Parkhill, Smith, Cooper of Lubbock.

Authorization of the engineering study followed a report to City Manager J. A. Sadler, Jr. from the Texas State Health Department.

That report gave the city plant a clean bill of health for now, stating that the Colorado City sewer plant is currently operating at acceptable levels. However, higher standards expected to go into effect in the future make the engineering study necessary, Sadler reported at Council meeting.

The engineering firm will recommend repairs, modifications or additions to the present plant to bring it up to the strictest standards in advance of the State Health Department's scheduled new requirements.

City Council also approved a motion to accept bids for a new street sweeper and two police cars. Bids will be received at the December meeting.

Tabled for a two weeks period of further study was a decision on bids for the remodeling of the old opera house (Cassie Roney Rooming House) as new site for Colorado City Historical Museum.

Bids received by the city for that project exceeded all original estimates, Sadler advised the Council.

Original estimate of architects who blueprinted the remodeling project was set at $23,000 said Sadler.

The figure was to cover phase of the museum building project and will include remodeling of first floor, addition of two rest rooms, refurbishing the exterior walls, and a new roof for the building.

Bids opened by City Council were one for $33,658 from Colorado Lumber & Supply, and another for $32,234.44 from Stone Construction Co.

Received one day after the deadline advertised by the Council was one from Lawler Construction Co. of Lamesa. Lawler's bid was $27,449.

Bids and blueprints are to be studied for the next two weeks by the City's Museum Board of Directors with J. Ralph Lee as chairman.

Kickoff time for Dunbar will be 7:30 p.m. at Wolf Stadium.

McNease, said Braswell, is interested in the growing of 300 acres of watermelons and 500 acres of cantaloupes under contract with county farmers.

Technical Action Panel, Braswell of the ASOS office, Don Hodges, SCS, John Russell, FHA, and Bobby Lemons, county agent, are issuing invitations to farmers to attend the Tuesday morning meeting.

Chamber Agriculture Committee will serve coffee and doughnuts.

Dunbar's Panthers, viewed by coaches around the district as outstanding with all-around ability but not yet matching its full potential, will be bouncing back from a crosstown disaster at home last Saturday night.

The Panthers had the misfortune of colliding with Estacado and 18,000 spectators watched 'em fall, 0-28, and drop from a See WOLVES Page 7

The following resolutions will be presented at the local convention:

1. We recommend that the voters of Mitchell County vote November 5th for Constitutional Amendment to repeal the State Ad Valorem.

2. We favor extension of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 and oppose dollar limitations on individual participation.

3. We oppose any reorganization concerning mandatory consolidation of Public Schools.

4. The exemption from the Federal and State estate tax should be increased in recognition of the reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar since the present exemption was provided.

The number of direct heirs should be given consideration in the computation of estate tax liabilities. The value of farmland for estate tax purposes should be based on its current use.

CONVERSATION CORNER

RAIN for a few minutes the other day while the sun was shining brightly brought back again one of those old-childhood sayings.

Remember? Rain while the sun was shining was a sure sign that "The bad man is whipping his wife."

There used to be all kinds of sayings in the same category.

Remember? "Step on a crack, break your mother's back." "Sing before breakfast, weep before night."

"Dreams told before breakfast will come true." (That one doesn't work. It is not a true saying. Know because I tried it the morning after dreaming all night of finding money in the garden.)

THERE ARE varied versions of old sayings meaning pretty much the same thing. Like "Do not count your chickens before they are hatched. . . Never cross the bridge before you get to it."

Then, there's "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. . . A little thing in hand is worth more than a great thing in prospect."

And "Birds of a feather flock together. . . A man is known by the company he keeps."

THERE are many old sayings in direct contradiction.

Take "Look before you leap. . . and "He who hesitates is lost." Well, at least, that gives people a choice!

One thing that stays fun is finding out that some of the old sayings credited to Shakespeare were taught first by Aesop, who lived 550 years before Christ.

One of the tricks of this age is to turn a phrase around to change its intent. Like making "Flattery will get you nothing over into flattery will get you something or everything."

Lean, personally, toward the latter version. It makes better sense and most of the time works out better.

EUGENE FIELD, who wrote such delightful poetry for and about children, agreed, long ago, that flattery has definite advantages.

Remember? It was in Uncle Eph that he wrote "Strive not to hew your path through life - it really doesn't pay; Be sure the salve of flattery soaps all you do and say; Herein the only royal road to fame and fortune lies; Put not your trust in vinegar - molasses catches flies!"

Course a lot could depend here on whether or not a person is interested in catching flies.

ONE SAYING has brought out the rebel in me all a life long. It's the one that smugly assures everybody "The early bird gets the worm."

Just what does that do for the benefit of the worm world? Industrious worms who get up early get devoured. Lazy, lie-abed worms survive. That's very plain. Good worm mothers should teach all their worm children to sleep late.

Isn't there an old saying around, somewhere, that goes "Better late than never?"

And who was it who said for benefit of all us cowards "He who gets licked and runs away - Will live to fight another day?"

JUST TO keep the Record straight - the Colorado City Record, that is - let it be made clear here and now that Hallie Roddy Wells of San Antonio is not a he. She's a she, a very feminine, vivacious she.

Hallie, here for the 1918 class reunion, got referred to in print by one of the Record's new-fangled machines as "His." She's a her.

When he's big enough to fill these shoes... where will he work?

The job he'll have... where he'll live... the kind of living he'll enjoy. These are part of his future. It may seem a long way off, but it's being shaped by what's happening in the community today. Hopefully, his future will be brighter because people are planning and working today to create additional opportunities for the future. We want to be part of constructive efforts toward community progress. We work with civic groups to promote community development because it's the best way we know to help make the cities and towns we serve better places in which to live. To help make more — and better — job opportunities available. To make his living better and his future brighter. Why do we work at it? We think it's good business. We believe it's part of our citizenship responsibility. And besides, this is our home, too.

"Where Will Johnny Live?", a slide presentation that outlines community action for creating opportunity for youth, is available to civic groups and clubs. Just call Texas Electric Service Company to arrange a showing.

Sponsors for the organization are First Christian Church, First Presbyterian Church and All Saints' Episcopal Church.

WOULD YOUR CONGRESSMAN VOTE FOR GEORGE WALLACE?

Some fine Texans are tempted to vote for the 3rd party candidate because they admire his stand and his statements on some of the major campaign issues.

STOP AND THINK WHAT WILL ACTUALLY HAPPEN...

The best that Wallace supporters can hope for is enough strength to throw the election into the turmoil of a Congressional election by the House of Representatives.

THEN WHAT HAPPENS?

The answer is certain and simple. Wallace supporters are at the mercy of Washington Politicians! Every vote for George Wallace automatically becomes a vote for Hubert Humphrey!

THERE IS A BETTER CHOICE...

A vote for the NIXON-AGNEW ticket is a positive vote for "change" with the definite promise that our National Affairs will take a new direction... the direction you want it to take!

YOU CAN TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT!

second-place tie with Sweetwater, the team they tied in their season opener.

Even A. G. Perryman, the big 215-pound piston at fullback, was shackled by the undefeated, unscored upon Estacado team.

Colorado moved up Steve Vest, a sophomore, from the B-Team into the back-up assignment at quarterback. He fills the injury spot created Friday when little Al Guerrero was carried to the hospital with a broken leg while his mates were beating Snyder, 43-31.

Quarterback Keaton Grubbs was still nursing a sore leg, but will be at the No. 1 spot at kickoff time Friday.

All-State Dan Steakley, who played only three downs in the second half before hobbling on the sideline with his sprained ankle, was being kept out of the usual practice this week in an effort to aid the speedster's healing.

John Bisnette, 160 pound senior, joined the Wolf casualty list this week when his hand was cut by cleats. But he hurried to the doctor, had the wound sewed and was back before the workout was over.

Other games on the schedule this week are Brownfield at Levelland, Littlefield at Lamasa, Sweetwater at Snyder, Lake View at Estacado and Slaton, open.

Last week's results were: Estacado 28, Dunbar 0; Colorado City 43, Snyder 31; Lamasa 23, Brownfield 6; Littlefield 49, Lake View 16; Sweetwater 42, Slaton 0.

Find Strength For Your Life. . .In Church

HEY, FOLKS!
IT'S ME. . . .
IN THE PAPER!

I'm me all right ... my picture right here in the newspaper looking to you.

Little bit different isn't it? Me being here in the paper instead of some football player ... or club woman ... or some fellow from Colorado City or Loraine or Westbrook who is speaking for another meeting?

Sure, I know I have not done anything like that. And I'm not any cuter than all the other kiddoes ... except to you, I guess.

I'll grow up some day, though. When I do, you can bet your boots I will do things then ... things for which

I want you to be proud and tell your friends about. I don't know what I will be. Maybe a doctor ... or an astronaut ... a big business man ... or a congressman. Who knows for sure?

That's why my picture is here in the paper. I'm one of those little kids here in Mitchell County who need to grow up with the right kind of footsteps to follow. I'll need all the strength I can find.

Real strength comes from faith in God ... now and always. So how about it, mom and dad? Take me to Church next Sunday ... come with me ... and my future will be right no matter what I decide to be.

THROUGH THE YEARS
A couple of church items are significant.

First Christian Church Sunday will observe its 80th anniversary and it comes only a few days after dedication of the Texas Historical marker for All Saints Episcopal Church, 86 years on the scene.

We don't intend to emphasize either of these churches solely because they are among our Colorado City pioneers.

It is significant, though, that our churches—and others have impressive anniversary dates, too—came early to our town and all of our community grew up with them.
That's a good heritage and its influence through all the years should make us understandingly thankful.
