SIX KILLED AS GUNMAN RUNS AMUCK

CRIPPLE RUNS AMUCK SHOOTING WIFE AND FIVE MORE TO DEATH

LAWYER WHO WAS ACTIVE IN SUIT INVOLVING HIS ESTATE IS A VICTIM

SHOT BY OFFICERS

ATTEMPTS ESCAPE BUT IS HEMMED IN ON HIGHWAY

GALT, Calif., March 18.—Six persons have fallen before the murderous frenzy of a crippled Stockton gasoline station owner.

Running amuck with a gun Thursday John M. Goins, 40, shot and killed three women in Stockton.

Escaping from that city in his automobile he murdered three persons here and at a late hour was still at liberty.

Goins' wife and sister-in-law, Miss Minnie Podesta were slain because of the man's failure to effect a reconciliation with the wife, Florence. Mrs. George F. McNoble, wife of one of California's most prominent attorneys, was killed by the assassin's bullet.

Driving to this town on the border of Sacramento county, Goins killed Alex Marengo and his wife and married daughter, Mrs. Mary Petro. The only witnesses to this latter killing were small children who were so terrified that they could give no description of the slayer.

Officers conducting a hunt for Goins under orders to shoot to kill were positive that he was responsible for all six killings, as he had headed for this section. The posse included 100 men.

STOCKTON, Calif., March 18.—While sheriff's posse from two counties were searching for John M. Goins late Thursday, the one-legged gasoline station proprietor added three more slayings to the trio of murders he committed here earlier in the day, according to telephone messages from Galt, 30 miles north of here.

The town marshal at that city communicated with the sheriff here, stating that Goins had shot and killed a man, woman and child there. No names were given.

The man's wife, Florence, was his first victim. He then shot down his sister-in-law, Miss Minnie Podesta. Driving next to the home of Attorney George F. McNoble, now he blamed for his wife's refusal to live with him, Goins killed the lawyer's wife when she answered the door bell.

Goins was employed 15 years ago as a railroad engineer. Two weeks after taking out large accident insurance policies with several companies he lost a leg in an accident at Lodi. Persons who testified at the trial of his $100,000 damage suit against the Southern Pacific Company said that he deliberately put his leg under the wheels of a moving train.

Goins was 40 years old. McNoble, past president of the California Bar Association and one of the state's most prominent attorneys, had handled a suit involving the Podesta estate.

Blood Hounds Used By Yoakum County Sheriff in Locating Two Men Held On Arson Charge

Between 1 and 2 o'clock Thursday morning a home valued at more than four thousand dollars was destroyed by fire at Plains, in Yoakum county, and despite the fact that Sheriff John Keller was not notified of the blaze until 6 o'clock two men were arrested at 9 o'clock and are being held in the Lubbock county jail here to await action of the grand jury.

Immediately upon receiving news of the fire and intimations that the building had been set on fire by someone believed to be unfriendly to D. K. Russell, cattleman, who occupied the house, or W. E. Earnest, its owner, Sheriff Keller telephoned to Lubbock for Sheriff Johnston's blood hounds to aid in search for those responsible.

The call was received here by Deputy Vernice Ford who immediately sent the hounds to the scene of the fire by Policeman Paul Hardy, who lost no time in reaching the scene of the fire.

In the meantime Sheriff Keller had located automobile tracks in the vicinity of the burned building, and had made some headway in ascertaining the direction the car had gone when the hounds were received. The first run was made from the yard of the destroyed building to the place where Sheriff Keller found a car equipped with tires which bore the same tread shown in the soft dirt near the home that was burned, and after discovering that the automobile contained a five gallon can that was half full of kerosene and an empty gallon can, Sheriff Keller went to the house where he arrested Elias Ivey and John Turner of Seagraves. They denied having anything to do with the burning of the house, but were unable to explain the presence of the oil cans.

Turner and Ivey will be able to make bond today, in the opinion of Sheriff Keller who accompanied Policeman Hardy and the two men to Lubbock.

Turner is about 30 years of age and has a wife and four small children. Ivey is about 35 years old and is unmarried.

No insurance was carried on the home and furnishings that were destroyed, according to information received by the Avalanche.

Passiac Strikers Clash With Police

PASSIAC, N. J., March 18.—Disturbances in the textile strike area, which had been comparatively peaceful of late broke out again late Thursday when police and strikers clashed as one of the picketed mills closed for the day.

Police battled for an hour with the crowd of 2,000 strikers and sympathizers before order was restored. Five women and nine men were arrested.

After the rioting had been checked, Albert Weisberg, strike leader, sent telegrams to United States Senator Borah, Wheeler, La Follette, Edge and Edwards asking a senate investigation of "Cossacks" whom he charged with having assaulted hundreds of peaceful women, men and children, some of the latter in baby carriages.

MRS. CHASE MAKING PLANS TO GO TO HOUSTON FOR SIMILAR SCHOOL

BUSINESSMEN HELP

HEARTY COOPERATION IS LARGELY RESPONSIBLE SUCCESS OF PROGRAM

This afternoon at four o'clock the Lubbock Morning Avalanche Cooking School and Home Maker Extension will close, and Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, who has delighted the women of Lubbock and the South Plains with her splendid lectures and demonstrations, will make preparations to go to Houston where she will conduct a similar school for the Houston Chronicle.

Today's session will be of special interest to those who have been attending the regular afternoon sessions because of the splendid prizes that will be awarded by Mrs. Chase.

The success that has accompanied the efforts of Mrs. Chase is creditable wholly to her extraordinary ability and to the hearty co-operation that has been accorded this newspaper in bringing the school to Lubbock by the business men of Lubbock who contributed equipment, funds, and in fact met every need of the school. The management extends thanks to the following firms who so generously assisted in the conduct of the school and the home makers exposition:

Myrick Hardware Company, Rix Furniture and Undertaking Company, Sherrod Brothers Hardware Company, Anderson Brothers, Jewelry Store, McLarty's, M. System, Hemphill-Price Company, Mistletoe Creameries, Baker Furniture Company, and to Dyke Cullum, owner of the auditorium in which the school was conducted we owe thanks and acknowledge our debt of gratitude for the use of his building which was placed at our disposal by Mr. Cullum without charge.

VALIDITY SYNDICALISM LAW ATTACKED FOR ANITA WHITNEY

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Charlotte Anita Whitney's appeal for a rehearing of her appeal from conviction and one to 14 years prison sentence under the California syndicalism law which involves a challenge of the laws' constitutionality was argued before the United States supreme court Thursday.

Miss Whitney, a well known Oakland, California, social worker did not advocate syndicalism and therefore could not be guilty of any crime, her lawyer, W. H. Pollock, New York, said.

The law, however, makes membership in an organization which advocates violence a penalty offense. Miss Whitney's membership in the communist labor party in Oakland, did not constitute a violation of the law Pollock said. He declared that her program at the convention of the party at Oakland in November, 1919, was voted down and she could not be held responsible for the platform which finally was adopted.

Participation in Major Conferences of League of Nations Accorded Uncle Sam as Last Step Thursdays Session

GENEVA, March 18.—The League of Nations council has arranged for invitations to the United States to attend two major conferences on world affairs.

Just before its adjournment Tuesday the council called the preparatory disarmament conference for May 18. This the United States has already agreed to attend. Prior to setting this date the council set September 1 as the day for the meeting in Geneva of a conference to consider the world court reservations of the United States government. An invitation to participate in this discussion will be sent to the Washington government.

The first step taken by the council, after setting the date for the preliminary disarmament conference was to arrange for a letter to soviet Russia expressing hope of soviet participation and renewing assurances that the Russian representatives would receive the same protection at Geneva as accorded other nations. It was considered doubtful, however, that Russia would withdraw her reiterated refusal to attend any meeting in Switzerland.

American acceptance of the new date was taken as assured, in view of the fact that the United States government has officially accepted the invitation to the conference which was postponed indefinitely in February.

It was predicted that the September conference would draft the American reservations necessary for American adherence to the world court and that these would then be attached to the original world court protocol. Arrangement for this conference was made after Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, pointed out the futility of attempting to get acceptance of the American reservations through an exchange of notes. It is understood that the United States government, and other Hague court signatories, will be notified at once of this action on the world court reservations. All powers will be notified of the new date for the disarmament conference. All signatories of the Hague world court agreement will be expected to meet with American representative September 1 to discuss the American reservations. It is probable that the council will ask a group of international jurists to consider the American reservations thus avoiding request of opinion from the league.

Thursday's work of the council marked the greatest accomplishment of the two conferences, the council decided to increase the joint commission which will prepare for the disarmament meeting. Four industrial and transport experts from the United States, Japan, Germany and Russia will be added to this commission. The council also appointed a committee of three to draft and submit to a later meeting two projects regarding security and arbitration.

The council commission to consider re-organization of the league council was ordered to meet at Geneva May 10 at which time a complete report on all claims for admission to the council must be concluded by this commission prior to the September meeting of the league, the council decided.

Previous to announcing the dates of the two conferences, the council decided to increase the joint commission which will prepare for the disarmament meeting. Four industrial and transport experts from the United States, Japan, Germany and Russia will be added to this commission. The council also appointed a committee of three to draft and submit to a later meeting two projects regarding security and arbitration.

Court Battle Over Leiter Millions Disappointing

CHICAGO, March 18.—Bored by two days of over polite oratory, the court fans attracted to the country building by the titles and riches that make up the Suffolk-Leiter trial were disappointed late Thursday when court adjourned abruptly before Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, could be called to the witness stand.

Her attorneys announced that she would begin testifying at the opening of court Friday and that she probably would remain in the witness chair for two or three days.

The countess, representing herself and other English relatives, is seeking to oust her brother, Joseph Leiter, Chicago millionaire, as administrator of the $50,000,000 estate of their father, the late Levi Z. Leiter. She charges that his administration of the estate has been unfavorable to the British interests, including the heirs of Lord Curzon, who married another sister.

SPECIAL TRAIN CARRYING CHIEF EXECUTIVE WAS IN CONNECTICUT

SMALL GUARD ATTENDS AS SINKING SPELL SIGNALS APPROACHING DEATH

BY RODNEY F. DUTCHER, United News Staff Correspondent
PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 18.—As his distinguished son, Calvin, sped north in a vain effort to bid him a last farewell Colonel John C. Coolidge father of the president of the United States died at 10:41 tonight after an illness which had afflicted him intermittently since early in the summer.

Dr. Albert C. Cram, who had watched his patient sink since early in the morning, unable to do more than save the 81 year-old patriarch from pain immediately notified Secretary Sanders at Washington, who relayed the news to the presidential train.

President Calvin Coolidge was aboard a special train at the time, hurrying from Washington to his father's bedside.

The presidential special was passing through Connecticut when word was received of Colonel Coolidge's death.

The end came in a simple, snow-covered farm house in the little Vermont village where Colonel Coolidge was born 81 years ago.

While the special presidential train roared through the night, hundreds of miles away, only the colonel's physician, a nurse and Sheriff Angus who acted as guard at the Coolidge home, were at the bedside.

Colonel Coolidge died peacefully after bulletins issued by Dr. Cram had indicated a steady decline during the patient's last hours.

At 5:45 p. m. a bulletin reported that Colonel Coolidge "had failed quiet perceptibly in the last two hours."

When Dr. Cram next issued a bulletin at 7:30 p. m., it was to report his patient in a semi-comatose condition, comfortable, but with an extremely weak pulse.

Two hours later, a third bulletin indicated that Colonel Coolidge was sinking rapidly. His heart beats had dropped from sixty to fifty per minute, but his general condition otherwise was unchanged. Outside, the villagers who had esteemed the colonel as one of their leading citizens even before his son became the nation's chief executive, received the news with regretful comment that he could not have lived to see his son.

Most of them had tolled during the day, clearing the road from Woodstock to expedite the president's trip over the snow-covered hills.

Three airplanes, bringing newspaper photographers, arrived Thursday afternoon, making perilous landings on the ice and snow of Lake Amherst, a few miles away.

Colonel Coolidge had been failing in health for nearly a year, his rugged Vermont constitution sustaining him against the ravages of heart disease.

Cal Receives Message
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 18.—News of his father's death was given to President Coolidge as his special train drew into the station here at 11:49.

A message from the White House was handed to the train's conductor who took it to the presidential car. The president's train had just passed into his native New England when his father died.

Leaving Washington shortly after 5 o'clock, a record run was attempted in the unsuccessful race with death.

A few minutes at Baltimore and another stop at Wilmington, Del., at Philadelphia and again at New York and the train plunged into the sea and lap of the journey.

JURY TO RECEIVE SILENT SNIPER CASE TODAY

By United Press

OMAHA, Neb., March 18.—Nebraska's strangest murder case will go to the jury sometime Friday afternoon.

Only the testimony of another alienist and the brief final arguments of attorneys remain to be completed before the jurors will begin balloting on the guilt of innocence of Frank Carter, the sniper who killed two men during a reign of terror here.

Carter was on the witness stand again Thursday admitting everything in connection with the slayings and upstating every attempt started by his attorneys to prove him insane.

When the jury gets the case it will be confronted by the unique task of deciding the fate of a man who wants to go to the electric chair to convict himself.

The sniper sat in the witness chair with his eyes half closed answering questions from a memory patient superior to that of attorneys on either side. He even embellished his remarks so that there would be no misunderstanding.

On cross examination he admitted eagerly that he knew right from wrong and insisted on answering questions to which his attorneys objected.

Finally becoming exasperated, his attorneys told him to go ahead and run his own case.

Carter told in detail of the killing of Dr. A. D. Seales and Wm. McDewitt during hold ups. He said he was sorry about the McDewitt affair, "because McDewitt was running away when I fired." The killing of the physician was different. "He had it coming to him," said Carter. "He was scared silly and acted like a coward."

VERA'S STAGE PLAY GETS ROCKS AFTER ONLY ONE WEEK

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Discouraged over her first professional venture on the stage, Vera, Countess of Cathcart has asked her producer, Earl Carroll, to close her play "Ashes of Love" here and not to take it to New York.

The Countess' play opened in Washington simultaneously with its first showing in London. Like its town across the sea, the American production will close Saturday. Earl Carroll produced "Ashes," and it was he who announced its imminent demise.

LONDON, March 18.—The Countess of Cathcart's stage version of her element to South Africa with the Earl of Craven will be withdrawn here after a week's run, it was announced today. The play is "Ashes of Love."

The play opened Monday and was resoundingly received by the press and public. It will go to the store house Saturday.

Upon his admission that he had taken three drinks of whisky before going for a drive, the automobile license of Philip Dalling of Mattoon, Ill., was revoked.

FARM RELIEF - OPPONENTS CRITICIZED BY BLOC LEADER FROM IOWA

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Opponents of farm relief legislation were criticized in the house Thursday by Representative Dickinson, Iowa republican leader of the farm bloc.

Dickinson directed his remarks at members of the House agriculture committee who have shown hostility toward the relief program presented by the corn belt committee and other farm organization.

PROHIBITION ORDERS LONG ABANDONED, TO BE DRAWN IN FIGHT

CHICAGO, March 18.—The American Anti-Saloon League has launched a formidable campaign against "wets" in the coming state primary elections.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent, has announced plans for a series of state rallies throughout the country to revive many local organizations which have been abandoned since the advent of prohibition.

The largest state gathering of drays since the adoption of the eighteenth amendment will be held in Detroit April 22 to 27, McBride said.

"Meetings of this kind in Rhode Island, New Jersey and Virginia showed that the people are not willing to relent in their fight on liquor," the superintendent said.

McBride said the Anti-Saloon League was not in the least disturbed by newspaper polls which indicate considerable sentiment against prohibition.

"It is a fact," he said, "that while the wets have developed majorities in straw ballot contests the drays have consistently won regular elections."

In 1922, the Literary Digest took a poll on beer and wines, in this poll California cast 26,479 votes for enforcement. Yet a few weeks later in a regular election, California adopted a prohibition enforcement law by a majority of 33,943.

The feat of a Los Angeles policeman, who made six bull's eyes shooting from an automobile with motor running full speed, was noted in an advertisement headed: "A Good Car to Shoot From." The advertisement might also make a strong appeal for the bandit trade.

Candidates for the wrestling team of West Virginia University are to be given training in dancing the Charleston, which Coach Harlick believes will aid them in their foot work. A similar effect was produced in the old days by shooting at the bathroom floor in the vicinity of the dancer's feet.

TWO WOULD-BE TOREADORS

Koen & Flanagan and their supporters are showing their spirit, and helping develop the "Tech" spirit by their extensive and clever campaigning during the past few days. It is believed that they are leading in the Toreador race in which four teams have entered.

Koen who is candidate for editor has been connected with the Brownwood Bulletin and Plains Journal. He was associated with the 1925 Radiator of Lubbock High School and is now a member of the Toreador staff, and is also connected with the La Ventana.

Flanagan, his running mate, has heretofore proven his ability and qualifications for the place of Business Manager. Inasmuch as Mr. Flanagan has been manager of the wheel-barrow gang in the construction of approximately 90 per cent of the brick and concrete constructions in this city, the position for which he has announced seems to be a trifle. However Flanagan claims that he has not worked hard since he has been in Lubbock. He says that he merely had to see that the brick got to the third and fourth floors, and the men up there did the work.

Candidly Mr. Flanagan was business manager of the last year's Westerner of Lubbock High School, a year book which ranks among the best High School Annuals of the state of Texas.

These young men are fully capable. They are open minded and democratic. They will greatly appreciate anything that might be done toward their election.

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP IN PROSPECT FOR HELEN WILLS

By United Press

CANNES, March 18.—Only an unexpected form reversal can keep Helen Wills from adding the cote d'Azur championship to the many tennis scalp at her belt. The American champion on Thursday displayed her game at its best, and defeated Miss Padwick of England, 6-0, 6-0.

Approximately 10,000,000 persons had savings accounts in 1918. The next year, under prohibition, the number increased to 18,176,251. In 1924, the American Bankers Association found 38,876,994 savings depositors with 17 states not reporting. —Vermont Issue.

THE KING OF LOVE—"Thou in Thy loving kindness has led the people that Thou hast redeemed. Thou has guided them in Thy strength to Thy holy habitation." Ex. 15:13.

"BOOBERY"—NEW YORK EXHIBIT

New Yorkers delight in jokes about the rustics that dwell in the hinterlands, which includes most of those who read this article. We are called "boobs", "rustics", "provincials", "suckers", and so on.

For sheer boobery we have seen little to beat the latest metropolitan plan to foil robbers. One, Alpheus Geer, a worthy citizen, by the by, founded some years ago a movement to salvage the human derelicts that prey upon society, and we are ready to believe the claim that the Marshall Stillman movement has helped men and women to reform, but on with the boobery exhibit.

In an effort to raise funds for the work a certain silver button is to be given each member subscribing $250 to the cause. Gold and celluloid emblems are also given for greater and lesser donations. The buttons, says the geniuses behind the plan, will suggest sympathy with underdogs, and protect the wearer against bandits. It is suggested that the emblems will aid "the immediate sympathy of many of the bandits who prey upon society," and go far toward reducing crime.

The protection hokum is further bolstered by issuing to each member a card, bearing his name, and these printed instructions on the back: "If bandits should attack you, state you are a member of the Marshall Stillman movement. Show your shield and card if possible."

We are not informed as to the password, mystic sign or grip of the society, and venture to doubt that a bandit, intent on a stick-up job, will melt into an exponent of the Golden Rule, at the mention of the worthy movement.

ELECTRIFIED DAIRIES

In case plans now under consideration can be successfully carried out, as is thought probable, a dozen or more large dairies, will shortly be established in the vicinity of Leeds, Ala., to be thoroughly equipped with electrical appliances.

At the request of local citizens, experts from the state agricultural college at Auburn and representatives of the Alabama Power Company have been working on plans for the installation of these modern dairies, which are expected to be the forerunners of many similar enterprises in various parts of the country.

Throughout the entire United States farmers are beginning to realize that they have so far been deprived of the benefits which town and city dwellers have enjoyed as the result of electrical development, and they are also being convinced that it should be possible for them to share in these benefits.

While isolated farms can hardly expect to be served by the regular electric companies, by banding themselves together in groups the farmers may often secure the establishment of transmission lines and receive service at a price which they are able to pay.

Rural electrification is undoubtedly one of the big problems of the immediate future and by hearty co-operation among the agricultural colleges, power companies and the farmers themselves it seems likely that it may be satisfactorily solved in many communities within the next few years.

WHAT THEY SPEND.

An enlightening lot of carefully compiled figures concerning the percentages of gross receipts spent for advertising by a number of firms doing a nation-wide business has recently been published in Ramsey's "Constructive Advertising."

Sears, Roebuck & Co., spend 10 percent of their gross for advertising. Welch's Grape Juice—Old Cleaner, and Marvis also spend 10 percent; Evinrude Motors, 8 percent; McCray Refrigerators and Champion Spark Plugs, 7 percent; Velvet Tobacco, 6 percent; Betty Wales Dresses, Fatima Cigarettes, Markham Air Rifles and Phonographs, 5 percent.

These are only a few of the concerns whose advertising appropriations run into enormous sums and everyone knows that they do an ever increasing volume of business year after year.

Yet, in spite of such overwhelming proof of the efficacy of intelligent publicity, many local merchants still decide themselves with the idea that they "can't afford to advertise."

WILSON HAD "BIG" HELP.

Most of the men who were closely associated with the late Woodrow Wilson, have been upon themselves to write down the exhibits confirmed their greatness. In the various books which have been thrown to the public mind the impression that the reader gets depends upon the story teller, whose tale usually asserts the great, preponderating part played by the narrator in persuading the President, and advising him.

Mr. Tumulty, in Mr. Tumulty's book, was quite vital to the operations of the Wilson mind. Mrs. McCombs, also, when he talks, tells by the way how valuable was Mr. McCombs to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Lansing, apparently, played a great role, according to the testimony of Mr. Lansing's writing. The late "revelations" of Messrs. Houston and Mause fall into the same category; each was very important, and the war president managed to get along as well as he did by leaning heavily upon the author of the series you happen to be reading. Mistakes were caused, occasionally deponents admit, when the executive ventured away from the precepts so kindly laid down.

WORLD'S CORN RECORD.

Ira Marshall, a tenant farmer of Hardin County, Ohio, last year set a world's record for a corn crop by producing 1,600 bushels of air-dried shelled corn on ten acres, the yield having been vouchered for by officials of the state university, who conducted the ten-acre contests.

This is about four times the average yield in Ohio and is said to be nearly thirty bushels per acre more than any previous record.

Mr. Marshall planted a small-eared early sated variety of corn, checked in hills about three inches apart, with a stand on an average of more than four stalks to the hill.

Four tons of manure and 200 pounds of fertilizer per acre were used on land which had grown alfalfa for seven years previously. The selection of seed was carefully made and Mr. Marshall attribute his enormous yield largely to the quality of seed corn planted.

While few could ever hope to equal this phenomenal result, it illustrates very forcibly the fact that it is not the number of acres planted in any crop which determines the yield but that it is the preparation and fertilization of the soil, good seed and thorough cultivation which makes the really profitable crop.

VALUE OF GOOD WILL.

One of the striking developments of recent years in the business world is the increased value which individuals and corporations place upon the good will of the public they serve.

Good will is really only another name of confidence, for if a business concern has the confidence of the community it has its good will. It often takes years of fair dealing to build up the great asset of public confidence, yet it may be lost by a few shady transactions.

For this reason, everlasting vigilance of a business, to see that not only are their own principles and policies sound, but that the spirit of the establishment is carried out by every person connected with it, even to the lowest salaried employee.

Keen business men of today realize this fact as never before, hence they are exercising greater care in the selection and training of their subordinates, treating those found faithful with greater consideration and frequently encouraging them to become partners or in some manner permitting them to share in the profits of the concern.

FATAL CARELESSNESS.

It is one of the most amazing facts connected with modern life that the appalling number of deaths resulting from carelessness makes no great impression upon the general public.

In spite of the daily record of grade crossing accidents, drivers continue to take a chance with an inevitable percentage of fatal results. The same is true of other practices which take their toll of human life.

Persons who are ordinarily careful in protecting their property or their health appear to throw discretion to the winds the moment they grasp the wheel of an automobile, and positively invite disaster through failing to observe the most elementary cautions.

The jaywalker is equally reckless, taking the chance of being run down for the sake of saving a few steps or a moment's time. Those who are careless of other dangers help to swell the harvest of death.

And the most lamentable fact is that no amount of warning appears to have any appreciable effect.

The supreme court has declared the Pennsylvania law prohibiting the use of shoddy in bedding void and unconstitutional. Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissented. Justice Holmes asserted that if the Pennsylvania legislature believed the use of shoddy was dangerous it had the right to prohibit its use. Twelve other states, having similar laws against shoddy will be affected by the decision.

BURGLAR EXPLAINS HOW TO PROTECT HOME FROM THIEVES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 17.—Having determined to go out of the burglary business, following his arrest for 100 robberies, Al Roth feels free to give advice to housewives on how to prevent future losses.

With Joe Patrick, his partner, Roth claims to have stolen $100,000 in household goods, and clothing, ranging in value from fur coats to a packet of hair pins. Roth's two most important "don'ts" to housewives are:

"Above all, don't leave a note pinned to the mail-box or a post on the front porch, saying you'll be back in an hour."

His one piece of advice to the police on how to reduce the number of robberies is to eliminate the fences where stolen goods may be disposed of.

WESTERNERS WILL OPEN SEASON AT SLATON THIS AFTERNOON IN GAME WITH THE SLATON TIGERS

The Lubbock high school Westerners will journey to Slaton this afternoon where they will play their opening baseball game for the 1926 season. Slaton Tigers have for some past few years been bitter rivals of the Lubbock high school Westerners. Skipper Allen and Coach "Mule" Davis have whipped into shape a fair representation for the early period of the season and are expecting the Lubbock nine to show well in this opening game.

Seventeen have been heralded for the game this afternoon. Many of this number are new material that are showing rare stuff in the daily work outs, some of them of course, are the old vets who have returned for the season. Pitchers, infielders and outfielders are plentiful this year and gives both sides a much needed relief in trying to persuade the lads to hustle for now there is a man to take his place in case there shows up loafing.

RULES COMMITTEE MEET IN NEW YORK; PROPOSE TO RESTRICT THE FORWARD PASSING GAME

By FRANK GETTY
United News Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, March 18.—Members of the football rules committee governing body of the intercollegiate gridiron game, have gathered in New York to discuss and draw up the rules for 1926.

Two changes proposed will be discussed at the first formal meeting which will be held at the Hotel Roosevelt Friday evening. The advisability of eliminating the point after touch-down or changing the conditions under which it is scored will come in for consideration.

More important even than this is the matter of the gridiron mauling, the matter of restriction of forward passes. There is a growing sentiment among coaches and athletic directors in favor of greater restriction of this phase of football.

Many old timers feel that the forward passing game, as played today, spoils the kicking and running game which football originally was intended to be.

It is highly probable that a change will be made in the rules which will reduce the number of passes, although just how the restriction will be imposed is a subject open to discussion during the two day session of the committee.

The members of the football rules committee who will attend the annual meeting are: E. K. Hall, Dartmouth chairman; Tad Jones, Yale; George M. Varnell, Spokane, Wash.; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; Dr. James A. Babbitt, Haverford; Prof. C. W. Savage, Oberlin; William W. Roper, Princeton; Prof. A. A. Stagg, Chicago; Fred W. Moore, Harvard; Hans X. Bible, Texas A. and M.; M. F. Ahearn, Kansas state agriculture; H. H. Hughes and William S. Langford, Trinity secretary.

Election of officers will precede the discussion of the changes in the rules.

Restrict Forward Pass
Referring to the matter of restricting the forward pass, Walter R. Oakeson of Lehigh, who is a member of the advisory committee of the rules committee, has proposed that a team on the offensive be limited to one forward pass to every first down. In other words, if a team tries a forward pass and is successful in making first down on the play, it may pass again. Otherwise, the quarter back may not call for a forward pass until his team has achieved the necessary 10 yards or more by other means.

This plan finds considerable favor among eastern football coaches. Another is that when a forward pass is thrown the ball should become a free ball. This would have the immediate effect of restricting passes for a quarter back who felt his team could gain by any other means which take to toss a free ball out into the territory where defensive half backs were prowling about to scoop it up.

Under this plan a forward pass would be regarded similarly to a fumble behind the line of scrimmage.

Coaches and experts who would restrict the forward pass in 1926 argue that the play should be retained as a threat, but should be limited, instead of being used half a dozen times or more each period. There is no possibility of the 40-play plan which was tried out by Brown university last fall being adopted this year. The football rules committee, however, will sanction games under the plan by any college teams which wish to give it a trial.

FAMOUS ATHLETIC IS GUEST OF FLOYDADA

FLOYDADA, March 17.—"Willingness to sacrifice is essential in life as well as in athletics," says Charles W. Paddock, world's fastest human, who lectured here Wednesday night at the high school auditorium. Paddock's address was the most interesting number of the lecture course that has been sponsored by the senior class this year. Holding the strict attention of his audience, Paddock seemed vitally interested in his work. "The spirit in which you accept defeat has much to do with your future life, defeat being merely the stepping stone to success," said Paddock.

A large number of fans gathered at the high school track when it was learned that Paddock would demonstrate his ability as a foot racer. Track teams representing Plainview, Lockney and Floydada competed in different events. Paddock ran in the hundred yard dash, winning easily with Terry of Floydada second and Boswell of Plainview third. Before the race Paddock instructed the track men in the art of running.

Upon his arrival here Paddock was carried out to visit the ranch home of Frank Dougherty, who is close friend of his. Mr. Dougherty has 12,000 acres of land 17 miles east of Floydada.

President and Mrs. Coolidge had eaten dinner in the dining car with secret service men and reporters, but outside of that respect they remained in their private car with Attorney General Sargent, life long friend of the chief executive and his family.

Closely drawn curtains hid the grief of the couple.

The president scanned the late editions of newspapers which were brought him before he left Washington and United News dispatches relayed to him as the special train sped through the night.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge hoped that once again the great vitality of the aged Colonel would stave off death.

Before the train had reached Baltimore, but fifty minutes from Washington, the president had directed that no attempt to make report speed be exerted. He believed of no avail to arrive in Plymouth before daybreak.

Despite Mr. Coolidge's word of caution, railroad officials instructed speed all along the route. At each stop, police and detectives guarded the train platform from the approach of the curious and railroad officials were on hand to see that no time was lost.

The president's special train will not arrive at Plymouth until sometime tomorrow morning.

Funeral plans were not to be announced pending his arrival.

The aged colonel had spent his last conscious moments, which ended shortly before 7:30 p. m., hoping to see his son, Dr. Cram, told him late in the afternoon that Calvin was on the way and he had nodded his head slightly in grateful acknowledgment.

Dr. Cram said that he would not specify as to the cause of death until he had talked with the president. It was due, he said, to the operations which the colonel had undergone last June, the effect of which were heightened subsequently by complications of the heart.

The colonel he said, was unconscious at the end and died without pain or struggle.

Colonel John died where he wished to die. Dr. Cram revealed—in his old fashioned farmstead in the Vermont valley where he had instilled the principles of manhood into the son who was to bring fame to the family name.

Colonel John Calvin Coolidge, father of the thirteenth President of the United States, was born at Plymouth, Vermont, on March 31, 1845, son of Calvin Galuchia Coolidge and Sarah Almida Bruer Coolidge.

Following the death of the late President Warren G. Harding, there fell to Coolidge, in his 78th year, the unique distinction of swearing in his own son, John Calvin Coolidge, as President of the United States. Calvin Coolidge was then Vice-President.

When the word flashed out of Plymouth that Colonel Coolidge, a justice of the peace, had administered the presidential oath on the Coolidge family Bible under the dim rays of a simple kerosene lamp, he entered into a national prominence seldom if ever attained by the father of a chief executive. The ceremony gripped the imagination.

Quickly, the typical Coolidge homestead at Plymouth became the Mecca for countless tourists. As the years rolled by, their numbers increased until by the early part of 1925, the demands of hospitality weighed heavily on the shoulders of the 80-year-old Vermont farmer and business man. Added to the religiously-observed task of personally greeting every visitor was the labor of answering hundreds of letters, many of which contained eager orders for maple syrup, a product of the Coolidge farm. Colonel Coolidge regarded his suddenly voluminous correspondence as a compelling duty and personally answered each letter.

But in the spring of 1925, a change came. Col. Coolidge was examined by physicians at Boston and found to be suffering from "heart-block," or slow pulse. Shortly after the result of the examination was announced, Colonel Coolidge suffered a fainting spell while entertaining a group of visitors who had come to the farm in search of a stone to be used as a keystone in making a fireplace. While his close associates admitted that he had fainted, the colonel, with typical Vermont stoicism, denied it. His physician later said he might have suffered a fleeting attack of aphasia, but probably did not know that he had fainted.

After the attack, Colonel Coolidge rallied again to his usual good health and was reported "generally improved." There was a feeling on the part of the public, however, that in the pride of his son's achievement, he might fatally overburden himself. This picturesque father of a President received his early education in the public schools of Plymouth and later attended the Black River Academy at Ludlow, Vt., 12 miles from the Coolidge home at Plymouth. He was later to become a trustee of this academy, to which he sent his son, and from which also graduated John Garibaldi Sargent, destined to be appointed attorney-general of the United States by that son.

On attaining his majority, Colonel Coolidge went into mercantile business, connected with which was the Plymouth post office. For forty-nine years he served as assistant postmaster.

On May 6, 1868, he married Victoria Moore of Plymouth, daughter of Plymouth and Abigail Franklin Moore, and on July 4, 1872, a son, John Calvin Coolidge, was born. Three years later, on April 15, 1875, a daughter, Abigail Grace Coolidge, was born. The son later became President of the United States. The daughter died at the age of 15, on March 6, 1890.

Colonel Coolidge's first wife died at the age of 39, on March 14, 1885. Six years later on Sept. 9, 1891, he remarried. His second wife was Carrie A. Brown of Plymouth, daughter of George and Marcella Moore Brown. In 1920 Colonel Coolidge's second wife died without issue. Thereafter, he maintained the Coolidge homestead by the aid of a housekeeper.

During his life as a farmer, following the death of his father, in 1878, Colonel Coolidge was active in local and state affairs, and at various times represented his community as school director, sheriff, tax collector, road commissioner, representative to the general court and as state senator. In private life he served as vice-president of the Ludlow Savings and Trust Company and trustee of the Black River Academy. Politically he was a Republican. His religious preference was Baptist.

The title "Colonel" dated from 1900, when for two years he served on the staff of Governor William W. Stickney of Vermont.

Interest has been on the increase daily and enthusiasm of the throngs of women who attend is indicated by their close attention and the readiness with which they make notes.

"An Interesting Dining Room, including Furnishings and Decorations" was the subject of Mrs. Chase's art discussion Thursday. This room should be cheerful from every angle, and to do this there should be ample light and ventilation, she said. It should be the happy meeting place where every member of the family gathers three times daily.

In her domestic science talk she told how to prepare party dishes for various occasions and executed recipes that are not only easily prepared but inexpensive, she said.

She introduced several new party dishes which she said are simple enough for the hostesses to prepare in advance and serve during her party without having to devote too much time in the kitchen and thus detract from her hospitality.

"All women do not realize the important part the dining room plays in the home. It is made up of more than mere tables and chairs and a buffet which has the approval of authority. It must be a thing apart and reflect the individual taste of the home maker and appeal to the family because of its appointments," declared Mrs. Chase.

"Happiness is necessary to good digestion. Harmonious furnishings in the dining room aid in the enjoyment of the meals. The most elaborate dinner can be marred by an inharmonious scheme of decoration in the dining room, and colors can be irritating or aid in promoting that spirit of good fellowship which every family should strive to cultivate."

"I am not unmindful," continued Mrs. Chase, "of the women of moderate means who must make the pennies stretch almost to the breaking point, but whose right to the attractive and appealing furnishings is as definitely established as that of the women of wealth. Good taste can not be circumscribed by mere money. It is something which can be developed in every woman who seeks information on the subject of home decoration.

"While I recognize that every woman has a genuine love for new furnishings, it is quite possible to make the old table and chairs most presentable with a little thought. It is fascinating to transform a room into a place of beauty, with just a little attention to the best taste. This can be done with little expense."

The domestic science subject, "Party Dishes for Various Occasions make instant appeal." Mrs. Chase emphasized party dishes easily prepared. They must be attractive in their serving.

"Probably the one reason why the homemakers do not entertain more often can be laid to the fact that they have not learned how to do it in the easiest way. No woman feels at her best when the worries of the kitchen are crowding upon her, and the hospitality which she extends may be a bit stunted because of this perplexing complication. Not every woman has a maid and, therefore the serving of simple refreshments must be managed systematically."

Mrs. Chase has studied the subject thoroughly. She knows just how things can be arranged in advance and how easy home entertainment may become if the hostess thinks far enough ahead. She believes that the afternoon affair or the informal evening party does not require an elaborate menu. Simple dishes can be served and enjoyed as keenly by the guests if thought is given to their arrangement and the combination of food.

New delicious recipes were demonstrated. The hot peach pudding with a hard sauce is something so delectable one could eat it any time of the day. Mrs. Chase gave very concise information as to the preparing of this delicious dessert. Lemon ice—not the watery, tasteless kind you sometimes have been served, but pungent and savory and adequate. Rainbow cream is another of the new party dishes Lubbock enough to receive Mrs. Chase's in-housewives who were fortunate instructions in the making of this illusive and delightful sweet. Apricot soufflé will rival with many a thing in the line of good refreshments to serve to discriminating folk.

PLAINVIEW PLANS ACCOUNT OF WORK NEW ATHLETIC PARK SOON OF MISSIONARY TO BE GIVEN

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 18.—Plainview is planning to have another town team this year provided the present plan to erect an athletic park goes through. This plan has been under discussion for the past few years but has never been decided on, but this year will probably see a new park which will amply provide for all forms of athletics. This is one of the greatest needs of the city and if the business men will back it, it will create more interest in athletics which has been one of the drawbacks in the past few years.

A meeting is being planned for Sunday by a few of the old ball players of last year to get together material for a good ball team this year. Among the old players of last year who will more than likely report are: Holt, whose performance at the initial sack was big league stuff. Matlock, who played the Keystone bar, Yates, the big husky slugging left fielder, Helm, the renowned twirler, Presley Barshears, the hot corner guard who will probably form the nucleus. If all these players report back they will form a team that any city would be proud of.

"Ducky" is still hard at it, putting his men through stiff workouts each day, but the players are getting too anxious for a game. "Ducky" is making them hit the offerings of south paws as well as the right handers. He will be a little handicapped by not having any port side pitchers this year, but he believes his right handed pitchers are strong enough to overcome this, and the way they are working now he seems to be about right.

ANTON'S NEW SCHOOL HOUSE HAS BEEN COMPLETED

ANTON, March 18.—Anton's new $60,000 school building was completed and turned over to the school board on March 14. On the evening of that day at 7 o'clock a banquet was given in honor of the school board at the Spade Hotel by Messrs. McButler, the architect, and C. C. Clickner, the contractor on the building. C. J. Mitcham acted as toast master. Interesting talks were made by M. C. Butler, C. C. Clickner, C. J. Mitcham, president of the board, Rev. J. L. Robbins, Ed. Huffman, Supt. Clovis Vaughn, D. L. Griffin, A. Holmes, Mrs. J. T. Smith and others.

Credit is due Mrs. G. W. Chesher, manager of the Spade Hotel, for the excellence of the food and of the service.

Sudan Enters Into Celebration St. Patrick's Day

SUDAN, March 18.—St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in this city in a very appropriate manner, despite the fact that there are many citizens here who claim to be free from Irish blood. Green ribbons and other emblems were to be seen on every hand, though the main attraction was the children's program in the afternoon.

The Sudan News and the local theatre joined in making the day one long to be remembered far as school children are concerned. At four o'clock doors of the theatre were thrown open to all school children, and after they had enjoyed a first class movie program they were served with ice cream cones, Baby Ruths and other confections. Miss Eva Franks, Sudan's "Irish Queen" acted as hostess to the children.

Care of Breeding

LOCKNEY, Mar. 17.—If good healthy chicks are desired, it is very important to have healthy breeding stock, and this can only be accomplished by giving the flock constant care.

Select only good uniform females that have good egg laying qualifications, mate them to a strong and vigorous male, not over ten females to a male, feed them plenty of any good brand of laying mash, this should be kept before them at all times. Fresh water should be available, plenty of grit and oyster shell, and a quantity of powdered charcoal should be placed where the fowls can get to it as they wish. A good commercial scratch grain should be fed about four each evening, this gives them plenty of time to clean up the feed before going to roost, always place the feed in a good deep litter, this makes them work for their feed.

One of the most important items is a good house, free from lice and mites, fowls should be sprinkled at least once each month, whether they have insects or not. Give the fowls plenty of roosting space, do not crowd. Eggs should be gathered regularly, if they are left in the nest, it induces the hens to eat them.

Only good clean eggs of uniform size should ever be used for hatching purposes, as small eggs never hatch well, if they are used for incubation, they should be dusted with some fine powder, and placed in some shady, quiet place where they will not be disturbed, but do not forget to feed and water her at least once each day.

If incubator is used select eggs as described above, and use eggs not over eight days old, turning them each day from the time they are gathered until placed in incubator. Always run incubator three or four days before placing eggs in the trays, be sure that the temperature is even, after eggs are placed in trays do not disturb for at least 48 hours—then, turn them twice daily, 12 hours apart if possible, until the eighteenth day when they will be turned for the last time. When chickens start to hatch do not disturb the incubator, leave it alone, the chicken will take care of them selves, by opening the top and looking in you often ruin a good hatch. Watch the temperature, that is sufficient. Leave the chicks in incubator for 36 hours this gives them time to dry and gain their strength before being placed in the brooder.

PLAIN'S NEWEST TOWN MAKES STEADY GAINS IN BUSINESS LINES

GOODLAND, Bailey County, Texas, March 18.—While one of the youngest towns on the South Plains Goodland gives promise of enjoying a very steady growth. The town is surrounded by many thousands of acres of rich farming land, and sufficient business houses will be established to care for the needs of farmers and others in this section.

At this time Goodland has one large general merchandise store, a garage, filling station, machine and blacksmith shop and a good school. The town is located 40 miles west of Littlefield.

Hot Breads for breakfast in 10 minutes!

SINCE I have learned to make muffins, Johnny Cakes and other things the day before and reheat them quickly in the morning, we have hot breads all the time. And no one realizes that they are not baked fresh every morning.

Just fresh (just a "dash" under the cold water faucet), heat them thoroughly in a covered pan, removing the cover a minute before serving to be sure they are dry.

Graham Muffins

(Or Whole Wheat)

Delicious and wholesome, a perfect muffin when made with Crisco.

1 cup bread flour 1 teaspoon salt
1 cup Graham flour 1 cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar 1 egg (well beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder 2 tablespoons melted Crisco

Mix and sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add beaten egg and milk and mix well. Add melted Crisco. Bake in well Criscoed muffin tins in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. This makes 12 muffins.

I used to think that because hot breads require so little shortening they could be made with any odds and ends of fat I happened to have in the house. But one day I made some muffins with Crisco and they were certainly the best I ever ate. Light, tender, with a wonderful flavor and appetizing smell. They were so much better than any I had made before that now I use Crisco for every hot bread I make, and I do get the most gratifying compliments on all my hot breads. They really could not be any better if made with the best, most expensive butter.

1 egg (beaten) 1/2 cup cornmeal

Cream Crisco, sugar and salt together. Add egg, then sour milk and soda beaten together. Last baking powder, flour and cornmeal sifted together three times. Beat until smooth and turn into Criscoed muffin tins. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

MODERN SCHOOL IS ANTON'S BID FOR MORE PEOPLE

BY RAY McCORKLE
Staff Correspondent

ANTON, March 18.—Although Anton has a population of less than 500, citizens of this city boast one of the best public schools to be found in this section of the state. A year ago two small wooden buildings were used, but so rapidly has the population of the community grown it was necessary to provide additional rooms for the present term.

Just at this time workmen are completing Anton's new high school, and it is a credit to the town and community. Constructed of brick, concrete and hardwood it gives the appearance of comfort and endurance. The class rooms, of which there are 9 large and exceptionally well ventilated. The large study room is of sufficient size to care for all high school students, and as it is connected with the library it will be worth much to pupils who demand reference work.

The auditorium is large and elaborately furnished, there being more than 500 opera seats in the room. The stage fittings and curtains are as nice as will be found anywhere on the South Plains.

The building is equipped with a steam heating plant and an ample supply of hot and cold water is available at all times. Shower baths with hot and cold water are available to both girls and boys. This is one outstanding feature as very few public school buildings have this equipment.

In the halls there are numbers of sanitary drinking fountains, and an unlimited supply of pure water will be found all the time. This feature entirely eliminates the public drinking cup and open water containers.

The building alone will cost approximately $60,000 and the furniture will raise this to at least $70,000. The building is wired for lights though at this time Anton has no electric current. A number of interested parties are now considering the erection of a modern plant and power plant here.

Anton people point to their school with no little degree of pride and it is right they should. For when it is considered that the city is only in its infancy it speaks well for those who have made such an institution possible in so short a time.

Germany's Potash Supply Rivalled On The Plains

BAILEYBORO, March 18.—Potash deposits in Bailey and adjoining counties have attracted considerable attention during recent months, and if a bill now before Congress is finally passed the South Plains will furnish its quota of this product.

It has been known for a number of years that there is considerable potash in this part of the country, though so far private interests have not seen fit to make any efforts to recover or refine it. The deposits are found in lakes of which there are several. On the Brannen ranch it is estimated that there is as much potash as will be found in all the German empire, and if it might be reclaimed it would add many thousands of dollars to the county's annual budget.

The lakes are more or less freaks. None of them have any inlets or outlets and at times no water will be found. Yet one may dig only a few inches anywhere in the basins and find water with a very strong potash content. Some of the wells flow very freely. After leaving the lake only a few feet one may drill a well and find pure water without any trace of potash.

Geological reports also indicate that there are oil and gas deposits in this section and a deep test well will be spudded in sometime during the month of April.

FARM DEVELOPMENT GOING FORWARD IN SLATON SECTION

SLATON, March 18.—That the prospects are better for a good crop this next year than they have been for a number of years in the Slaton territory is the opinion of farmers. They say that the recent rains have prepared the ground very well and most of them have already done their spring plowing. They will have all of their land broken and it will be ready to plant; so that they may wait the exact time for planting.

Although many of them have a bright prospect for a cotton crop that will far surpass anything they have had, due to their ability to secure multiplying seed from the Thorobred Cotton Breeding Industries who are this year establishing a breeding plant in Slaton. One car of seed for the planting of the land that is to compose this breeding farm has already been delivered and W. S. Galloway, President of the Thorobred Industries, was recently in Slaton, said that the cotton crop of seed would soon be delivered there.

The Slaton farmers intend to

NEW PAINT PRODUCT DEMONSTRATION IS BIG FEATURE

The Lubbock Paint and Wall Paper Company has been one of the outstanding contributors to the success of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche cooking school conducted by Mrs. Chaise, and to which homekeepers from throughout the south plains have given their undivided attention.

The exhibit of Rogers Brushing Lacquer, a new Sherwin-Williams product that is highly desirable in home decorations because of the rapidity with which it dries and the wide variety of colors and shades in which it is made.

Rogers Brushing Lacquer is highly desirable also because of its water resistance qualities, and the demonstration that was a feature of the opening of the school and which was conducted by Mrs. Jack Rausin of the Lubbock Paint & Wallpaper Co., assisted by Mrs. Meade, both of whom wore Chinese costumes carrying out the Chinese effect that is shown in the school on reduction of floor and which was carried out in all features of the demonstration, was given much attention.

A chair, painted with the new product, and over which a constant stream of water was poured from a cleverly concealed source, attracted more than unusual attention and proved the water resistance of the product.

The Lubbock Paint & Wallpaper Company is taking a prominent place at the head of the institutions that are working for expansion of business, and the part Mr. Rausin and other members of the force have played in lending to the value of the cooking school and home makers exposition here has reflected credit upon the institution and the progressive policy that was adopted at the early development of that business.

LEVELLAND C. OF C. IN ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

LEVELLAND, Mar. 17.—At a meeting of the Levelland Chamber of Commerce, held at the court house Monday night, the list of standing committees was read by President W. D. Cope who outlined the work of the various committees and made a very interesting talk along the line of co-operation, pointing out in a very forcible manner many important achievements which can be attained by the active co-operation of all these committees.

All lines of business and practically all individual business establishments of the town were represented on this occasion and the meeting was enthusiastic and harmonious. A number of talks were made and some timely suggestions were offered by the speakers. All ideas introduced seemed to strike a responsive cord in the minds of all present and no doubt this meeting will result in much good to Levelland and to Hockley County.

Crop diversification, good roads and the establishment of first class marketing conditions in Levelland were discussed, and a hearty co-operation on the part of the organization with the farmers of the entire county in every way possible was the prevailing sentiment of the meeting. The next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will probably be held at an early date, at the call of the board of directors. The farmers are invited to attend these meetings which are of vital interest to them as well as those of us here in town. Watch for announcement of the next meeting and be prepared to attend.

LEVELLAND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LENDS AID IN FARM DEVELOPMENT; INSISTS ON INTENSIVE CULTIVATION SMALL ACREAGE

"No section of West Texas is in farm development that is under way in the vicinity of Levelland," W. R. Cope, president of the Levelland Chamber of Commerce and a leading business man of that city declared yesterday while visiting in Lubbock and looking after business connected with some plans for the future of that organization.

Mr. Cope was accompanied on the visit to Lubbock yesterday by T. D. Dougherty, real estate and abstract man, and O. M. Ray, hardware man, who compose a committee that is working on an expansion program that was launched some weeks ago by the Levelland chamber of commerce.

People United

The developments that are being made at Levelland and in that vicinity are traceable to the fact that all of the people of the community are united and working harmoniously for the general good, according to Mr. Cope.

The business men of Levelland, through their chamber of commerce some weeks ago launched a campaign to carry out the diversification program championed by President R. Q. Lee, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and through meeting with farmers of Cochran county and discussing the need of diversification, such headway has been made that practically all crops that are grown on the plains will be planted in such quantities as to make co-operative marketing most profitable and to demand for that section some special attention in the market centers of the country.

Farmers Busy

Farmers throughout the large territory served by Levelland are busy with their crops, teams are in fine condition as on all of the old farms enough feed was produced last year to meet all the needs for this cultivating season with many cars of surplus grain being shipped at this time to the drought stricken areas of East Texas where planting seed of the better varieties are much in demand.

Much New Land

But for the unusually large crops of feed that were produced in that section last year it would be difficult to carry on the development program that is seen in all directions from Levelland. Mr. Cope declared.

While the farms in the most part are composed of but 177 acres each, more intensive cultivation will give that vicinity a lead over those sections where large acreage is resorted to for quantity production. Much of the new land that is being put in cultivation at this time is tracts of land that was bought during the last winter and on which homes, modern barns, and other improvements have already been placed.

Business at Levelland, Mr. Cope said, has been stimulated by the development program that is being carried on in the territory, and the slump in business that followed the shortage of the 1925 crop in many places has not been felt to such marked degree there.

Schools, churches, modern homes, numerous brick business houses and other improvements have been made at Levelland during the past several months, all of which is giving the new town an atmosphere of brightness and an appearance that the visitor readily appreciates. Mr. Cope pointed out.

COUNTY SCHOLASTIC CENSUS OF HALL TO BE TAKEN

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 18.—Hale county authorities are making arrangements to take the scholastic census of the county for this year first. The total scholastic enrollment for last year was 4309 students and it is predicted by Mrs. Ola Legg county superintendent, that the 1926 census will show a marked increase over that figure. Supplies have been sent to all the enumerators. S. W. Meharg of Plainview will have charge of the work in the four independent districts of the county. Aid Is Given Boys and Girls Club Work

CHICAGO, Mar. 17.—Champion club members in the livestock projects of sixteen states are to receive education trips to the Fifth National Boys and Girls' Club Congress to be held in Chicago next December, as the result of an offer of Armour Company to runz boys and girls doing outstanding 4-H Club work.

Texas is one of the states to be awarded a trip and members enrolled in the Baby Beef club project and completing their work are eligible. The Agricultural College Extension authorities will determine the winners from the counties scoring highest in enrollment of boys and girls in good standing at the end of the season and doing the highest quality of work applicable to the greatest agricultural needs of the county.

Armour & Company is definitely interested in the well being and prosperity of the farm boys and girls of this country which is evidenced by the fact that each year since 1920 they have offered prizes. They have watched these young people from the rural districts learn of better practice in agriculture and home economics in their 4-H club groups guided by extension agents of the Agricultural Colleges; they have seen the results of their efforts when the sectional champions come together in competition at the various state fairs and later at the National Boys' and Girls' Club Congress in Chicago each fall in connection with the International Live Stock Show and they are convinced that the movement is fundamental in promoting agricultural efficiency and prosperity and a happier countryside.

Some 600,000 rural boys and girls between the ages of ten and twenty are now enrolled in this nation-wide 4-H Club movement under the supervision of the State Agricultural Colleges, the United States Department of Agriculture co-operating. But there are approximately 11,000,000 rural boys and girls who should be obtaining these advantages to develop themselves educationally, economically and socially. Those who are already aware of this opportunity are anxious to further the efforts being made in each state to reach

GOVERNMENT FROWNS ON MERGERS; NEW COOLIDGE ATTITUDE IS SEEN IN PERFECT FEDERAL DECISIONS

By S. P. HOLLINGSWORTH
WASHINGTON, March 17 (U. P.)—The Federal Government has become skeptical of giant mergers born during a wave of unprecedented prosperity in the country and nurtured by financial genius.

Every agency of the government whose business it is to guard the public against the activities of trusts, has taken a stand recently on the issue of huge combinations, which have been forming for the past year with little or no interference.

These agencies, including the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Department of Justice, have awakened to a sudden militancy which has caused no little surprise and some considerable chagrin in the financial world.

The biggest surprise of the year was the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission against the proposed Van Swearingen railroad consolidation which every authority believed would be approved with certain conditions.

The vigorous opinion of the commission against promotion of the Nickel Plate merger by the plan of financing proposed by the Van Swearingens, has put promoters of consolidations on their guard. The belief prevails that the opinion sustained the argument of intervening stockholders, that the merger was largely a financial scheme, and not a plan for running the five railroads properties more efficiently.

The first decisive blow to the $2,000,000,000 bread and food combination came after persistent effort on the part of the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice both in and out of court, when the National Food Products Corporation subscribed to a consent decree to withdraw its ownership in stock of competing companies.

The Federal Trade Commission has not finished with the bread trust investigation. In fact, counsel for the commission insist the real investigation is yet to come when the commission opens hearings in Chicago to probe the affairs of the United Service Corporation, an alleged subsidiary of the Ward and Continental combine operating as a feeder for the network of bakeries in every important city of the United States.

Combinations, mergers and consolidations in the business world are considered harmful only when they are designed for price control and stock speculation, according to one administration authority with a hand in the regulation of big business and the encouragement of legitimate activity.

In the field of railroad consolidation, the administration view was understood to be clear cut between better service and as a carrier and promotion of that carrier's system's securities.

According to one view expressed, there is no limit as to size in consolidations so long as relative competition is preserved to prevent price boosting. In the case of the railroads, it was pointed out, there is no chance for rate increases under arbitrary power of the consolidated system, because the government is the rate making body. There is more chance, it was said, for lower costs of transportation under more efficient management.

The watchful attitude of the Federal Trade Commission stimulated by a cloudburst of criticism of its inactivity last fall when nothing was done in the bread merger, the aluminum case, and the radio monopoly complaints, has had the effect of changing the attitude of Senators who sought to have the commission abolished.

At the present time the commission has under active investigation eight major inquiries all directed at big business for apparent trespasses upon the rights of the public.

In addition to the bread, radio, motion picture, and aluminum investigations, now under review, there are hearings in progress on complaints against the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, The Royal Baking Powder Company, on charge of unfair methods, the National Cash Register Company, in contempt proceedings and the newly formed Tide Water Association Oil Company.

TEACHERS TO ENJOY APRIL MEETING AT SHALLOWATER

The Lubbock County Teachers Association will be entertained at Shallowater on April 17th, according to an announcement made here yesterday by P. F. Brown, county superintendent of public instruction, who is president of the association.

H. G. Robinson, principal of the Carlisle school, where the last meeting of the association was entertained, will deliver an address, using as his subject, "How to get vocational subjects in a rural school." The teachers will be especially interested in this talk inasmuch as the establishment of this department in rural schools is sought by practically all Lubbock county schools not already having it.

Miss Verna McGlothin, of Woodward, will speak on "English in the first three grades in the rural school." This subject is closely connected with a phase of the last meeting that was considered very valuable.

At the noon hour basket lunch will be spread.

The opening of both the morning and afternoon sessions will be arranged by the principal of the Shallowater school.

M. E. Witt, professor of chemistry in the Lubbock High School and who is intensely interested in having science taught in the rural schools of this county, will speak on the subject, "The Teaching of Science in the Rural Schools."

"Libraries for Rural Schools: How to secure, select material for and maintain them," will be discussed by Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, of Lubbock.

Mrs. E. P. Lewis, of Monroe, will talk about "Foreign Languages in Rural Schools," following which a business session will be held.

WICHITA FALLS TO INVITE SHIPPERS BOARD MEET

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Mar. 17. Members of the Southwest Shippers Advisory Board, meeting this week in Brownsville, will be invited to hold their next meeting in Wichita Falls, J. W. Chatham, industrial and traffic commissioner of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, is attending the meeting and carried the invitation from the Wichita Falls business men.

BROWNFIELD OWN ITS LIGHT AND POWER PLANT

BROWNFIELD, Tex., Mar. 17.—Brownfield is one of the few cities on the plains and in West Texas that owns its own electric light and power system or that furnishes any better service and is at the same time a paying investment.

The plant was made ready for operation in February 1923 with a 75 h. p. Fairbanks Morse engine with thirty-five consumers operating only at night.

Within the year it was found necessary to add more power and a 100 h. p. engine was installed and twenty-four hour service furnished. At the time of the installation of the second engine it was thought that no further addition would be needed for two or three years but it was soon found that additional power would have to be arranged for and after a thorough investigation of the present demand and future development estimate, the city Commission has purchased a 240 h. p. engine which will be installed as soon as shipment can be made by the factory which is expected within the next few weeks. In the meantime the present plant is carrying a peak load having over three hundred consumers the majority of whom use heat and power.

Up to the present time the plant has been a paying investment as no other money has been used for its upbuilding aside from profits and the first bond issue of $16,000.00. However with all of the above expense we believe that we have as low a rate as any town of a like size in the state.

ARCHITECT NAMED FOR WAYLAND COLLEGE

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 18.—E. F. Rittenberry of Amarillo was named architect for the new Wayland College girl's dormitory, Jack Hefflin Hall, at a meeting of the building committee for the College Tuesday evening composed of F. M. Butler, C. A. Pierce, Frank Day and W. C. Clement.

On the same date Mrs. Jack Hefflin who had made a tentative gift of two sections of land to the school, signed a deed to the property. Mrs.

Hefflin's gift was on the condition that her gift, the equivalent of $50,000 should be matched by local people. Dr. L. J. Mims of Dallas, Stewardship Secretary of the Baptist Denominations, has been in the Panhandle raising the additional fifty thousand dollars for the past eight months, and now the work is ready to proceed. H. L. Gunter of Plainview has been named as chairman of a sub-committee to arrange for the disposal of the several gifts of land that have been received by the College.

New York Finance
By E. WALTER MOCKLER
Financial Editor New York Contributor

NEW YORK, March 18.—Stocks encountered one more day of scattering, but persistent liquidation Thursday and at the close of the general list was easy and lower.
There were a few exceptions to the general rule, these exceptions including Chesapeake and Ohio which moved higher in reflection of the extra and increased dividend payment declared long after the close of previous session.

Few in the street had expected more than an increase to $7 per share from the old 4 1/2 basis and there was no advance discussion of the possibility of an extra. Declaration of $4 per share virtually made the dividend retroactive one year.
Other issues directly concerned or linked by inference with the Chesapeake & Ohio group, held their own.
In general, the market weakened along the lines laid down over the past several days. There was a distressing lack of support available and the moderate selling was more than sufficient to flood the market. Necessary sellers were forced to drop their price ideas in the effort to attract buyers. Again there was nothing special in the day's news to account for the lack of interest on the part of buyers.

It is known that European interests have favored a short term obligation presumably about three years, whereas the Belgians demanded a long term issue. This development, added to the very poor results at Geneva, eliminates the cables as the source of anything but bearish information at this time.

Domestic reports continue to reflect gloomy conditions but all of the spark has gone out of the domestic trade boom so far as its power to inspire the stock market is concerned. Individual factor such as the Chesapeake & Ohio dividends serve to throw into bold relief outstanding prosperity in individual companies, but the bullish effects have been likewise entirely individual. Furthermore it has been apparent that the only real effects upon the general market has been an increase of pressure on the temporary firmness afforded.

The lack of confidence in securities is accentuated by the action of the bond market at this time. High grade bond increase in value and decline in yield return as buyers concentrate activities in this group.
Less desirable groups, including government entirely speculative bonds, are meeting with liquidation and show the same lack of support as is evident in the stock market.

Stocks and lower grade bonds are forced to make a readjustment to general yield basis in order to co-form to known money conditions.
During the long period when the money markets were flooded with offerings from interior points, the receding yield basis was still above the going rate advances, it became unprofitable to buy securities yielding less than the open market yielding money. Naturally the securities were forced to make the readjustment inasmuch as further use of credit would have meant inflation, the bughair of the country since the war, and additional funds were not forthcoming.

CLEAN UP WEEK IN TEXAS

Program Suggested by State Board of Health

The following program is suggested by the State Board of Health. Each community is expected, however, to arrange a program suitable to its own needs or requirements. If for any reason the community as a whole can not or does not put on the campaign we suggest and urge each individual or each household or individual firm carry out the outlines suggested. The date is designated as March 28th to April 3rd.

Sunday, March 28—Health Sunday. Health sermons and talks should be given before congregations and other gatherings. Nothing can conform more closely to the teachings of the Master than to instruct people in the important matter of healthful living.

Sermons and lectures might also be delivered on specific health improvements and protection topics, such as:

Mosquito Control.
Garbage Disposal.
Hookworm Infection and Its Control.
Personal Hygiene.
Smallpox Vaccine.
Anti-Typhoid Serum.
Diphtheria Anti-Toxin.
Safe Water.
Milk Sanitation.
Swimming Pool Sanitation.

Monday, March 29, Health Examination Day
(This Means You)
This day is designated for physical examination day.

Take an inventory of yourself and see what your assets are.
Go to your family physician and have a complete physical examination made.

Especially is it imperative that those who have reached the age of 40 years or more have periodic health examinations.
Health examinations are now regarded as one of the most important weapons that can be employed against such fatal disorders as high blood pressure, heart disease, cancer, and nephritis.

Bad teeth may effect your health seriously.
Go to your local dentist and have a complete examination made of your teeth.

Tuesday, March 30—General Clean-Up Day
(Start in your own back yard)
It is suggested that in community clean-up campaigns the town be divided into districts with captains for each district, and that competition be made the keynote of the campaign.

Do you use covered, non-leaking garbage pails?
All rubbish and refuse should be collected and reduced to ashes. Tin cans, broken glass, etc., should be collected and buried or used for filling low places.

Witches and vacant lots should be cleared of weeds; and culverts opened to permit free drainage.
Vacant lots may be placed in cultivation.

Advocate the use of paint, varnish and whitewash.
Roof gutters and cisterns cleaned and gone over for repairs.
Horse and cow lot relieved of manure, then filled and drained.
Surface closets cleaned and disinfected with lime or some strong disinfectant.

Wednesday, March 31—Safe Milk and Water Day.
(Visit your Water and Sewage Treatment Plant)

The first thing is to ascertain the safety of your individual water and milk supply by a personal investigation.

If your town has a common water supply, has it been given A-1 rating by the State Board of Health?
Is your local water supply under ortho-tolidin control?
Is your sewage treatment plant under methylene blue control?
Many of the streams are used for bathing during the summer—is the effluent from your sewage plant fit to be discharged into these streams?
Each year water-borne and milk-borne diseases take a large toll of life.

Typhoid fever and dysentery are both water-borne and milk-borne diseases. Scarlet fever, diphtheria, and tuberculosis are also milk-borne diseases.

Arrangements should be made for Child Health Conferences. Where physical examinations are made, local merchants should be induced to offer prizes for the nearest physically perfect children of age groups.

Lectures in schools and child health centers should be given on birth registration is very important. Arrange for local publicity on this and other health subjects.

Parents who do not know whether their children are registered, can get this information by writing the Bureau of vital statistics, State Board of Health.

Friday, April 2—Pure Food Day
Be sure that all food in your home is protected from flies, dust and dirt. Filthy food means food not securely protected from flies, dust, dirt, and all foreign and injurious contamination.

Thursday, April 1—Child Health and Birth Registration Day
The increase in life expectancy goods, should not be displayed on the sidewalk nor in unprotected containers inside an establishment. Such exposure make filthy food.

Milk produced at an insanitary dairy is filthy food.
Appoint a committee to inspect the slaughter houses, dairies, meat markets, bakeries, ice cream factories and other food manufacturing establishment. Write reports and make recommendations for approval.

Civic organizations should co-operate with the city administration in this movement.
Introduce any sanitary innovation that may be adaptable to your community.

Saturday, April 3—Rural Sanitation Day
Rural sections were once considered more healthful than urban districts, but today the contrary is true due to the improved methods of sanitation used in cities.

Typhoid fever, malaria, hookworm and intestinal troubles are primarily rural diseases.
Each school district should have a community meeting where methods of prevention against the foregoing diseases should be discussed. If necessary, near-by towns should furnish speakers. This is a good way to show interested co-operation.

Farm home premises should be given a thorough cleaning. Barn yards cleaned and excess manure hauled away. Rubbish that can not be burned should be hauled away or buried.

Every farm home should be screened with 16-mesh wire.
No standing water should be allowed on premises, allow places being filled or drained, to prevent mosquito breeding.

Tanks, underground cisterns, and other standing water should be stocked with minnows.
Write your state board of health for plans of sanitary privy.

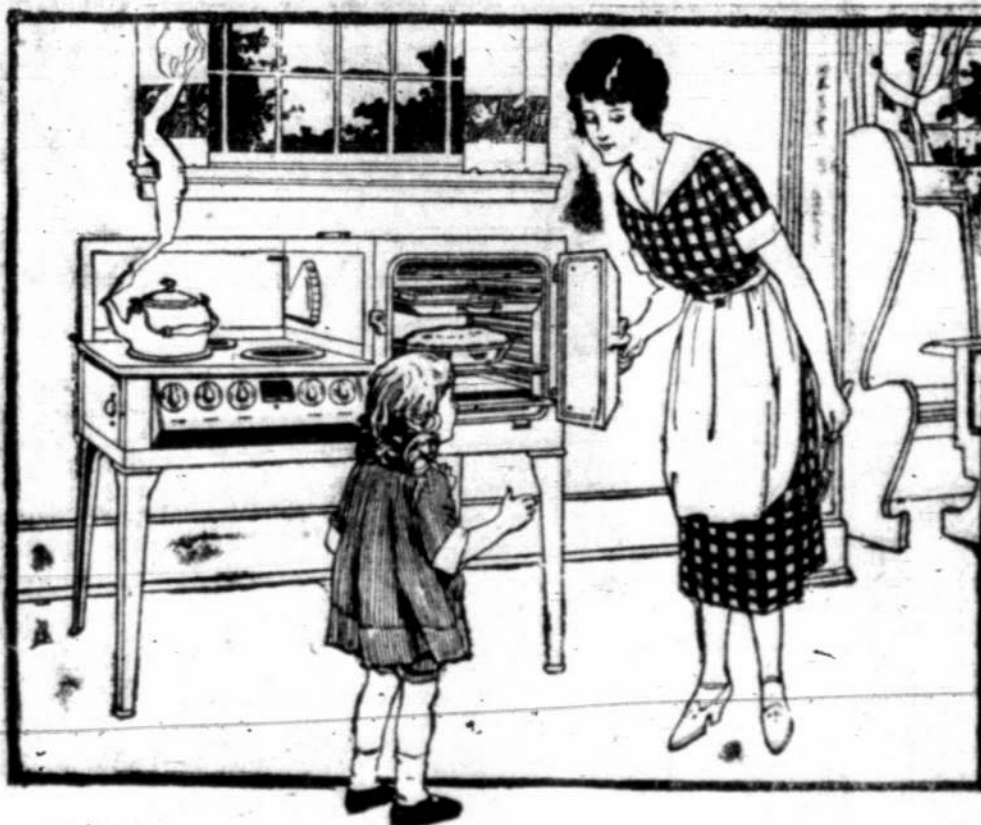

REGIONAL EDUCATIONAL MEETING AT WICHITA
WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Mar. 18.—State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs has announced the program for the regional educational meeting to be held here April 16 and 17. All county school superintendents and school principals from all adjoining counties are expected to attend. Special stress will be placed on the needs of educational facilities in the rural districts.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creosolium Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)
