40,000 ATTEND WICHITA FALLS MEETING FLOODS TAKE FIRST TOLL OF LIFE IN LOUISIANA

ENTIRE FAMILY WEPT AWAY BY AGING WATER

MORE PARISHES ARE THREATENED; BREAKS IN LEVEES WIDEN

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—Nine flood deaths, the first in Louisiana, were recorded today as waters, speeded by the Mississippi into lowlands continued their usual sweep across south central Louisiana to the Gulf of Mexico.
A widow and her eight children, taken by the invading waters to the little home she had used to abandon, were the first victims as the flood widened its path and inundated Plaquemine, near the Bayou des Glaises, breaking along Big Bend.
Twenty miles apart already had been eaten away in the Bayou des Glaises levee line and engineers said that they expected the entire mile stretch to crumble before the impact of the flood today. The Bayou des Glaises is approximately 10 miles northwest of New Orleans on the west side of the Mississippi.

Other Hundreds Marooned
Along with the news of the first deaths, there came news of hundreds marooned on house tops, in trees and on other high places. French speaking Americans of the section, discredited news of their own and clung tenaciously to their homes until the water came so swiftly upon them that the skiffs were useless and motor boats were being dispatched to rescue.

Meanwhile couriers were speeding the flood to Melville, Port of America, and Breaux, to warn the inhabitants to get to a concentration camp was being set up for them at Opelousas. Hundreds of refugees continued to come into other camps in the vicinity.

ROBBERS LOOT VALERA BANK

Watchman Chained To Tree And Vault Lock Jammed; Loot Yet Unknown

(By The Associated Press)
COLLEMAN, Texas, May 16.—After kidnapping George Mulanax, night watchman at Valera, eight miles south of here, and fastening him with a chain to a tree, two men in a speedy automobile attempted to rob the safe of the Valera State bank early today. The lock of the safe was found jammed and it will not be known whether the robbers got into it until experts open the box.

Mulanax said the men got some gasoline from him, and then at the point of a pistol forced him into their car. They drove a mile from town, and chained him to a tree in a pasture, the chain was put around his neck and his hands tied behind him. He said at his request the rope on his hands was loosened somewhat. He was cautioned that a third man would watch him and not to attempt to get away. Several hours later he was able to get his hands free, broke a limb from the tree and using it as a lever was able to break the chain. He immediately gave an alarm.

The bank is the same one robbed of about $2,500 a little more than a year ago. Two men were convicted for that robbery but were pardoned by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

TEXAS SOLONS WRANGLE OVER TAX ON MALTS

RESOLUTION TO HAVE GOVERNOR SUBMIT MALT TAX BILL

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, May 16.—After a lively half hour in which anti-prohibitionists were charged with trying to put legal sanction on beer, the house today left hanging in the air a resolution seeking taxation of "malt syrup" 50 cents a gallon for benefit of the public schools.
The house was plunged into confusion when it developed that time for consideration of resolutions had expired and the matter was carried over until Tuesday.
Would Have Question Submitted
Governor Moody would be asked to submit the question of taxing malt syrup under the resolution, by Representative Sam Gates of Ringer who declared that "there are millions of bottles of intoxicating home brew being made daily in Texas," and that "Dallas alone made over eight million bottles last year."

Representative J. F. Wallace attacked the attempt as one that would give "semi-official recognition of an unlawful practice." He offered an amendment to make the tax 25 cents.
"It's just another idea of the anti-prohibitionists to put legal sanction on beer by taxing it under the guise of helping the schools," he declared.
Representative Finlay offered a substitute amendment to make the tax 10 cents.

Says Is Embarrassing
Representative George Furl declared such a resolution would "put the governor in an embarrassing position either way he should act." His attempt to refer the resolution to the liquor traffic committee was deferred, however.

Representative Holland of Houston wanted to know if Furl would support an amendment include taxation of "corn."
Furl asked him what he meant by "corn." The house laughed.
Furl asked him what he meant by "corn." The house laughed.
Holland argued for a 25 cent levy to "tax malt out of existence," and drew the fire of Representative Holland and George Kemble of Fort Worth. The latter asked if there is any law against selling malt syrup. Holland made the point that a prohibition tax "would be unconstitutional."

Defense Rests In Mrs. Bishop's Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 16 (AP).—Defense counsel for Mrs. Edith Bishop rested their case today.
Mrs. Bishop was recalled to the stand twice this morning as defense and state picked up odds and ends of testimony preparatory to submitting the case to the jury.

Bert Meredith, ex-convict, whose testimony last involving Ray Terrell, fugitive bank bandit, as Bishop's slayer, was ruled out, also was recalled. Meredith admitted that he went under the assumed name of Bert McCormick when he was in Amarillo recently. Defense attorneys admitted, after Meredith said he did not know that Meredith had gone to the Bishop home here and looked it over before he testified as to Terrell's alleged version of the killing.

Threatened Revolt In Philippines Under Demented Leader Is Averted

Highlights On C. C. Convention

(By Staff Correspondent)
WICHITA FALLS, May 16.—The Junior Cowboy band from Post goes the certain honor of being "the hit of the convention." Thirteen boys and two girls, in cowboy costumes and averaging 10 years of age, and led by Ted Knott, 18, are drawing more applause than any other organization at the convention.

A flat wheel on the Lubbock pullman forced the Hub city's delegation into a regular Pullman at Abernathy yesterday, but another car was tendered at Amarillo and everyone was happy.

When the Lubbockites landed in Wichita Falls everybody from the Mayor to the white wings greeted J. A. (Judge) Riley, a former resident here. Judge is the "fixer" for the home town folks and he's doing a big job of it.

Spencer Wells, in his zebra suit is cutting a prominent figure. He's a vice president in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. J. O. Smith of Lubbock, who is visiting relatives here, met the delegation at the train this morning. She immediately donned the Lubbock regalia.

There are more national nobles here than ever before gathered in Wichita Falls everybody from the Mayor to the white wings greeted J. A. (Judge) Riley, a former resident here. Judge is the "fixer" for the home town folks and he's doing a big job of it.

Judging from the demeanor of the crowd the convention is a surprisingly "dry" one.

Miss Ruth Dunn, sponsor, a sparkling brunette and "made to order" for Spanish senorita role which she plays, is outstanding as the beauty of the West Texas patrol the streets in lavishly decorated cars.

400,000 Natives Affected By Utopian Promise For New 'Empire'

(By Associated Press)
MANILA, May 16.—The "Empire" of the Insular Fil Intrenchado, self proclaimed "Emperor of the Philippines," whose domain, though not recognized by any government, included perhaps as many as 400,000 subjects, seemed today to have fallen. And with its fall what threatened for a time to be a serious revolution apparently had been averted.

Constitutional advisers from Iloilo, principal city of the island of Panay, south of here, said 58 of the leaders of the Intrenchado's armed bodyguard which surrounded his "palace," a "palace" which was near Iloilo, for the avowed purpose of resisting with their lives any attempt to remove their leader to an asylum, had been arranged, and the menacing situation brought under control.

487 Followers Arrested
In addition, 487 of the demented leader's followers have been arrested in the province of occidental negros in connection with an attempt to seize control of four towns last week. The two acts are believed by the constabulary to have crushed the revolutionary move. Although Intrenchado took no part in the occidental negros disturbance, the authorities look upon him as having unwittingly been the spirit behind the movements.

Despite the objection of his followers to his confinement in an asylum, Intrenchado himself has expressed a desire to receive treatment as soon as possible, and it is expected that he will leave for Manila within a few days. His personal guard is to be disbanded and told to go to work, leaving the old man alone with his private secretary, a young high school student.

Premised Utopia
According to the authorities, Intrenchado built his "empire" upon promises of an immediate Utopia in which it would not be necessary to labor, his subjects merely having to eat, sleep and enjoy themselves. Intrenchado's activities included no holism, and no threat against Americans, being confined merely to deluding the always credulous and excitable mobs. It is expected that most of those who participated in the occidental negros attack will be freed.

The ring leaders, however, will be tried for murder as well as for sedition, an officer having been killed in the fighting.
The 58 arrested at Iloilo will be tried for sedition.

TAX SYSTEM IN TEXAS RAPPELLED AT CONVENTION

MEXICAN IMMIGRATION AS CHEAP LABOR IS RAPPELLED BY DAVIS

(By The Associated Press)
WICHITA FALLS, May 16.—Reform of the state taxing system and the state courts and curtailment of Mexican immigration were urged by high state and national government officials at the opening session of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here Monday.

Before a crowd which packed a large circus tent serving as the convention meeting place, Governor Dan Moody and James J. Davis, secretary of labor from Washington, laid before the convention its most important matters.

Moody criticized the present Texas system of collecting revenues as "antiquated, just and uneconomical," and declared that the system of dispensing justice in the courts had failed to keep abreast of progress in other lines.

Mr. Davis denounced attempts of "short sighted employers" to obtain cheap labor, and said Mexican immigration should be put on the same basis of restriction as European immigration.

Wichita Falls was full of bands and boosters from all sections of West Texas.

WICHITA FALLS, May 16.—A plan for further diversification of crops as the only salvation for the farmer was made by Arthur P. Dugan of Littlefield in his annual address as president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here on Monday.

Especially did he appeal to West Texas farmers to develop the state's dairy industry.

The total value of American exports for the year was $4,713,553,000, a drop of about $100,000,000 from 1925. The decrease was said by the commerce department to be due to declines in cotton, petroleum and wheat during 1926.

MINNEOLA, N. Y., May 16 (AP).—Chances of any one of the three New York to Paris airplanes getting away from Roosevelt field tomorrow seemed remote today, as unfavorable weather showed an obnoxious distressing to the flyers, anxious to be away on the long trail across the Atlantic. It was hoped that Wednesday morning would bring an opportunity to hop.

Cotton Seed Flour New Texas Product

SCHULENBURG, Texas, May 16 (AP).—Being credited with being the only one of its kind in the world, a mill here grinds cotton seeds into flour for human consumption. The hulls first are eliminated by machinery. Then the meat is ground to a fine powder which undergoes a process to remove the gum and other undesirable properties. The resulting flour is bright, yellow in color, has a sweet taste and agreeable odor similar to nuts.

Its protein and fat content is high, according to Dr. S. G. Frapps, state chemist, who found that bread and cakes made of 80 per cent wheat flour and 20 per cent cotton seed flour was from two to six times as rich in protein as those made entirely from wheat.

Grace And Expressive Body Needed To Give Woman Real Charm, Beauty

BY HASKELL COFFIN

For NEA Service

Given perfect features and charming expression, what more does a woman need to be beautiful? She needs grace and an expressive body!

The beautiful woman seems tall, one piece of loveliness: head on slender neck and held well, hands and feet shapely and her every move co-ordinated and graceful. She may be large or small, but must be perfectly proportioned.

Grace is somewhat a matter of bone formation. Some women's spines are supple and their limbs and arms naturally expressive of grace. Others can learn by hard work to co-ordinate their movements. For carriage is a tremendous aid to beauty.

Recently an article was written about the walks of different actresses. Frances Starr, my wife was described as the "actress with the perfect walk of lightness and grace." Mention was made that every character she portrayed was made real by the characteristic walk she gave them.

The perfectly poised, graceful woman has a quality about her that suggests potentially lovely motion even when she is in repose. Illustrative of this are Pavlova and Irene Adelle. Grace is the outward expression of an inner, indefinable, subtle thing that directs the body in a way that is pleasing to behold. The body will do nothing unless told to. It may be a subconscious direction. But if a woman has no real sense of grace in her nature she cannot be graceful. This is another example of how the inner soul controls beauty.

Dances Rhythm The dancer usually has an appealing carriage because her whole body speaks in terms of rhythm. A model pose once for me with few of the natural requirements of beauty. But I had seen her run for a street car, and she carried a secret of grace in her body that gave her a semblance of beauty.

The bed-sit, slenderized form was dieted into today's model. For it looks like the natural curves that give charm and grace. The flat-chested, thin woman looks consumptive and can never have the beauty she might.

develop, if her figure had more natural curves. Hands contribute much to grace and beauty. They should be well shaped and have all expressive. Some women's hands mean so much to their character that in thinking of them, I recall their hands first. Feet seldom are as expressive as hands. But a beautiful foot, shapely and with that quality that enables a woman to skim the earth as she walks, has a tremendous appeal.

Conspicuous! Feet are important in the short-skirt era. Shapely legs are a real asset these days. Flexible ankles, too, are a joy to the beholder. For a woman's carriage often gives her beauty.

Beauty, then, is a composite of many things. Carriage is all important to recognition for physical beauty. But a body on face that gives charming character have a universal appeal. Personal character begins and physical beauty ends. They are twin rulers in the realm of beauty.

The debonair slouch is no longer attractive, as women are becoming more "inner" athletes. So girls, hold your head erect and chest up and you will be more charming and healthy.

Finally, beauty of today and character, or temperament, as you will, are subtly co-mingled, and while you study physical beauty don't forget to make yourself agreeable and gracious to all. This will add much to your beauty.

HISTORY BACKS RANGER GUARD

Here, Of Many Gun Battles On Guard At Houston Bank Daily

(By The Associated Press) HOUSTON, Texas, May 16.—J. L. Anders, probably wouldn't attract more than a passing glance from pedestrians as they march in front of one of the important Houston banks, where he is a guard. As he idly leans against one of the large columns of the structure, he does not in the least look like the popular conception of a Texas ranger, but that is what he has been, even though he is short of stature, slender and weighs only 140 pounds.

He is the hero of many gun-fights, a former captain of rangers with many notches in his pistol handle and the bearer of the scars of half a dozen bullet wounds.

Anders closed call he believes, was in 1915 when a Mexican jammed the business end of an automatic pistol against his temple and fired. The bullet grazed his eyelids but Anders, quick on the draw, shot him four times.

There were other episodes. The rangers were called to Slocum, near Palestine, in 1910, on account of racial trouble. Anders remembers helping to bury six persons in one grave.

He commanded a ranger detachment which went into the thickets of Angelina County in East Texas in 1917 in quest of army deserters and saw Ranger Dudley White killed and Walter Rowe badly wounded.

Mr. Anders readily gave his names and dates of some of the exciting episodes in which he has participated but he was more reticent than colorful. With the "thunder" omitted, the list ran something like this:

Chickville, negro trouble, 1917—Red river riots which "put Chickville on the map."

Remus, local trouble, of 1909—1910; a negro shot at Anders from ambush, but it was his last shot.

Coshoima, Howard county, local trouble in 1910, when nine persons were shot and several killed.

Groveton, where plans were laid to capture Ed. Chandler, charged with murder. Chandler was wounded later captured and sent to prison.

Anders got a job as a ranger because he was quick "on the draw." When he was living in the Brazos River bottoms near Bryan, Anders was called with other private citizens to help quell trouble. It grew so serious that rangers were called in. Observing that Anders was carrying a pistol, one of the rangers attempted to draw his own weapon and disarm him. In a split second Anders had him covered. "Who was this quick individual, anyhow?" they asked and soon heard that he was "hot" and was without fear, was the best pistol and rifle shot in thirty days later he had a job as a private and ended with the rank of captain under Governor W. P. Hobby.

Mr. Anders returned to Abilene yesterday after spending several days in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bean, 1616 10th street. She came home to assist in operation for the removal of her tonsils.

MEXICAN ARMY FIGHTS CALLES

Huerta Says Rebel Generals Have Selected Him As Leader In Rebellion

TUCSON, Ariz., May 16 (AP)—The Arizona Daily Star today published a statement received from Adolfo de la Huerta, former president of Mexico, in Los Angeles stating that "more than 30,000 armed men now are engaged in fighting the Calles government in Mexico."

De la Huerta was quoted as saying the bands of Yaqui Indians which recently entered the United States at Nogales and were interned, did so "by mistake" and that only the interception of Yaqui couriers saved Nogales, Sonora, from an Indian attack.

De la Huerta said that the bulk of the Yaqui army remains in southern Sonora. He said that he had recently been visited by a representative of the rebel generals, all of whom have proclaimed him their leader, operating in several Mexican states, who informed him that the revolutionary movement has become intensified.

GIANTS AND YANKS FORGE STEADILY AHEAD IN PENNANT CHASE

GIANTS RIDDLE
REDS AS YANKS ARE HELD IDLEGIANTS BEAT ROBINS TO TAKE LEAD OVER
WORLD CHAMPS

(By Associated Press)
Under gaps separated the league's New York baseball teams their pennant rivals today as the Giants drew a few notches ahead of the field by beating the Cincinnati Reds for the second time in a row, while the Yankees added to their lead, though through defeat of the White Sox and Athletics, their nearest rivals.

Red Pitchers Riddled.
Led by Hornsby and Terry, Giants riddled the Reds' best pitchers in this latest victory while the Yankees pitched a steady and of ball. Most of the damage was done in the third when five bunched hits off Rixey made four runs. The final count was 6 to 3. Pittsburgh's Pirates, who with the Cardinals have been pressing the Giants most closely for the league lead, moved ahead of the world champions to second place, when they defeated the Robins 9 to 5. The Cardinals were having a day.

rejuvenated Brooklyn team which has risen out of the cellar the last few days gave the Buccaneers a hard tussel for their victory. Making five runs in the fifth, the Robins knocked Lou Johnson out of the box and tied the score, only to lose out later when the Pirates heavy hitters reaped their onslaught on five of the best pitchers Uncle Bobbie had to produce.

Upsets Mark American.
Upsets marked both of the games played in the American league and one of them benefitted the Yankees who were rained out of their scheduled game with Detroit.

Their nearest rivals, the White Sox, lost a close decision to the St. Louis Cardinals in a game which was a costly Chicago error. The winners of the real home made only one safe blow out of nine for the Sox, who were bunched in the first inning.

Those hits, plus a sacrifice fly, were enough to throw the Sox into a rout. The Yankees, who were badly needed by Currier's charges to help them out of the cellar.

Another team that outlived the Yankees was Connie Mack's Athletics, the next nearest rival of the Yankees. With the home field, Mack's team was out to win in the third and the advantage was too much for the Athletics. Cochrane and Collins hit for the circuit, but no one scored either time. The home team won 5 to 6.

Billy Evans Says:
Plenty of Reserve Power
If the Philadelphia Athletics win the American League pennant, reserve power will have played a most important part in the result. A sport axiom is that no team is stronger than its substitutes. It has long been an accepted truth that being the case, Connie Mack would have no reason to worry about ultimate success.

No team in the major leagues boasts more capable substitutes for every position than the Markmen. In a recent game with the Boston Red Sox the Athletics went in to the sixth inning trailing 7-1, a mighty tough handicap even though playing against the tallest.

At this stage of the losing battle Manager Mack began rubbing in his reserves any time it seemed there was an advantage to be gained by a substitution.

Plays for Love of Game

DUDLEY BRANON, FIRST BASEMAN OF A'S

ONE of the richest men in baseball today is Dudley Branon, new first sacker for Connie Mack's Athletics. Branon owned his own club in Oklahoma. His wife is the daughter of one of Oklahoma's wealthiest oil men Branon, obtained from Kansas City, is holding down the initial bag for the A's in grand style, and admits he plays baseball for the sport of it.

At the finish of the contest he had used 29 men and in so doing had pulled a game out of the fire, winning 3-8.

Every position on the Athletics has one or more capable substitutes should anything happen to the regular. In many cases there is but little to choose between regular and sub.

Many Infield Combinations
At second base, Mack has shown Eddie Collins, Max Bishop and Jimmy Lynch. All are sure enough big leaguers, able to win a berth on any major league club.

For shortstop there is Joe Moley, also Chick Galloway, who for years until the coming of the Baltimore star had held down that position.

Jimmy Dykes played third as well as second, and should be able to step right into the picture and everything will move along smoothly.

At first base Mack has Jim Poole and "Doc" Branon, with Jimmy Fox, substitute catcher, also able to perform most acceptably around the initial sack.

No other club in the majors can offer such a variety of strength around the infield.

A fine assortment of right and left-handed batters is sprinkled around the various infield combinations that Mack can put in the field.

Outfield Well Protected
The outfield positions are just as well protected as the infield. Mack has a particular style outfielder for practically any emergency that may present itself.

He has started the season with Lamar in left, Simmons in center and Cobb in right. It's a mighty hard combination to improve upon.

However, should Mack desire a speed merchant at some critical stage of the game, he has Walter French, former West Point star, to fall back upon. French is one of the fastest men in the game.

If a heavy hitting left-hander is desired, the veteran Zach Wheat is sitting on the bench awaiting the call of Connie.

Back of the bat the Athletics have two of the best catchers in the game. Cochrane and Perkins, while Jimmy Fox is a great prospect.

With a pitching staff that can serve most anything desired to the opposition, right and left-handed pitchers for varying occasions, Mack hasn't a worry as to his reserve power.

If every ball team is only as strong as its front line of substitutes, the Athletics are sitting pretty, for Mack has nothing to desire along those lines.

TENNIS LACKS
ITS OLD DASHSpeed Of Game Seems To Be Lacking As New Stars
Begin To Shine

NEW YORK, May 16.—The reign of speedy stroke on the American tennis courts apparently is near an end.

On the comeback attempts of the "two Bills," Tilden and Johnston, will depend its survival for another year under the pressure of increasing faith in the machine-like, efficient game that received such strong impetus last summer in the triumphs of the French ace, Henri Lacoste. For with the passing of the "Bills" will go the last of a line of American stars whose endowments of offense has been a "king shot" of terrific pace—a mighty stroke which baffled the greatest racketmen of three continents.

In the fifteen years that the highly paced ball has dominated American tennis, the outstanding players have set the style. The California comet, Maurice McLaughlin, first blazed the speed trail with his blazing, fast spinning service. Then came Johnston with his terrific forehand drive, and later H. Lindley Murray with another scorching service which bounded so high and so far that opponents had to play the ball from ten to fifteen feet behind the base line.

Just as netdom was becoming accustomed to the high bounding service Tilden came along with a new and faster variety than had ever before been seen. Developing a "cannonball" of low trajectory, the former national champion for five years ruled his service games with a shot which was virtually unreturnable.

Vincent Richards, who drew many of his best strokes from the tennis kit of Tilden, developed a first service ball much similar to that of the Philadelphia. But his "king shot" were matchless smashing.

California, cradle of great players, once more has produced a budding Davis Cup star in Bud Chandler, but the inter-collegiate champion is more the Lacoste type than the McLaughlin.

No outstanding shot maker of the "high powered school" has come to the game in the rise of such promising all around players as Lewis N. White of Texas, Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., John Van Ryn of Princeton, George Lot of Chicago, among others. Each has rounded out, however, a sound and effective allcourt game.

Boy Scouts Back
After Spending
Week-end In SpurTroop four of the Lubbock Boy Scouts returned last night from a three days visit to Spur which the boys voted the best ever.

Spur has recently organized scouting and the trip was made to promote interest in the drive for finances which will be made this week.

A model camp was pitched in the town center. Camp fire programs were given Friday and Saturday nights in which the Spur scouts joined. On Saturday afternoon an exhibition was given of signaling, fire building, archery, first aid and knot tying. Large crowds attended all three entertainments. At the Saturday night campfire the Spur scouts drew great applause when they stepped out and each succeeded in making fire with flint and steel. The Lubbock boys had taught the Spur scouts the art during the day and banned them their outfits.

The boys had few idle moments. Picture shows were open to them, swims were taken, and nothing left undone to show the boys a good time. They are enthusiastic over the hospitality shown them and say Spur is the best town they have ever visited.

Texas Capitol Is Largest Building
Of Kind In U. S.

AUSTIN, May 16 (AP)—The Texas capital building continues to claim the record as the largest statehouse in the United States and the seventh largest building in the world.

Counting the statue on top, the building is 7 feet taller than the national capitol at Washington, although the latter is larger.

The Texas capitol covers three acres, has 18 acres of floor space, and is a ninth of a mile across the long way, 566½ feet to be exact. It is 233 feet and 10 inches across the other way. There are 258 rooms, 500 windows and 500 doors. The height is 317 feet from the grade line to the top of the statue on the dome.

Started in 1882 the building was completed for dedication May 16, 1888, at a cost of 3,000,000 acres of public land now worth about $60,000,000. Red granite from the immense quarries of Burnet county were brought over 15 miles of railroad.

The capitol is shaped like a Greek cross, fronting south, with projecting center and flanks, having a sound-and-dome at the intersection of the main corridors.

Facts and figures on the massive structure are printed for visitors on a card distributed by the Austin Chamber of Commerce.

BANK EXPANDS
TO NEW FIELDDepartment Of Soil Conservation And Terracing
Is Opened

HOUSTON, Tex., May 16 (AP)—Judge H. M. Gossett, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, announces a new bank policy. It has created, he said, the Department of Soil Conservation and Terracing. A. K. (Dad) Short, who for many years was connected with the A. & M. College, but more recently employed by a Dallas firm, has been named to head the new department and will take up his duties with the bank today.

Judge Gossett regarded creation of the department important, both from the standpoint of agriculture and of the bank in its capacity as a money lending agency of the Federal government.

In the field, he said, after noting that the bank regarded it highly desirable to employ a man of broad agricultural experience and acquaintance to work on soil conservation problems, "the soil is the security for farm loans and to maintain the high record this bank has made the land must be protected from loss by erosion."

"In the second place, this bank is one of the greatest factors in farm financing and it is desirable that the bank establish a department to further aid agricultural development and conservation."

"It is recognized by all that the loss of soil and plant food by erosion is the greatest factor in the depletion of soil fertility. This being true, the new department will have for its primary object the enforcement of the high part of the borrower's contract pertaining to terracing."

"If farm loan credit is preserved, it will be done through preservation of the soil. Consequently this bank will insist that the borrowers make their loans secure by terracing all lands that are inclined to wash. In addition this bank will assist and co-operate with all existing agricultural agencies in the state in helping to promote a better agricultural system in Texas."

House Of David
Case Called In Michigan CourtBENTON HARBOR, Mich., May 16 (AP)—The state's move to bring about dissolution of the House of David colony, on the grounds that it is a "haven of vice and nuisance," pending under the guise of a religious organization, got under way in circuit court today, in the form of receivership proceedings.

More than 100 witnesses were to testify for the state as to the character of the institution and its leaders. Benjamin and Mary Purnell, in whose name the colony property, valued at more than a million dollars, is listed.

The witnesses included a number of former colonists, by whose testimony it was expected an attempt will be made to show that the colony was not a religious organization, but a haven of vice and nuisance.

Too Much Luxury

A 15-year-old New Jersey boy, son of a wealthy business man, left home the other day and went out to seek his fortune. Departing, he left word that he was running away to get away from the luxury that surrounded him. His parents had been keeping him in an expensive preparatory school; he wanted to go out and get a job.

And so, being apparently a youth of spirit he went. He is now presumably working somewhere as he wanted to do, his father, searching for him, says he can keep his job if only he will communicate with home.

There are very few boys who ever run away from home because the parental roof is too luxuriously peddled. Likewise there are very few of us older ones who would ever take flight from the ease of riches. Yet we all sympathize with this New Jersey lad and we can't help feeling that he must have the right sort of stuff in him.

Luxury such as great wealth makes possible doesn't hurt a grown person. But after all it is hardly the best environment for a growing boy. Youth needs a certain amount of hardship, a certain amount of privation, if it is to mature and develop properly. It must not be shielded too carefully. In that respect this Jersey youngster had the right idea.

Nor is this a problem which need concern only the rich. The rest of us folk of moderate—or less moderate—means can ponder on it for a while with profit.

For we all have a tendency to pamper our children. It's the most natural thing in the world. We want to shield them from the bumps and hard knocks we took at their age; we want to make life as easy and soft for them as we possibly can.

It is a good thing that we so often fail. Youth that is shielded is handicapped. There is only one way to learn how to meet life's problems and that is to receive a few of life's jolts.

So all of us can bear that in mind, even though we aren't rich. Without thinking we try to give our children too much luxury. It is wiser for us to spend our time teaching them how to meet difficulties, not how to avoid them.

Service

In this age of press agents, when even scientists and philosophers can gain both fame and money, it is a good thing for us to remember that not many years ago the most serviceable citizens might work all their lives in comparative obscurity.

We are referring to the late Prof. Josiah Willard Gibbs of Yale, whose name that University is now honoring with a special endowment fund.

Probably not ten people in a million have heard of Yale's American-born physicist. There is only one Prof. Gibbs work is unintelligible to one not a chemist; but it served as a basis for all that has been done in the last two-score years in metallurgy. This "unheard-of" professor contributed to pure science and, at the same time, to American industry.

Yale is wise in doing his memory justice.

A Good Sign

We have had a bunch all along that our government was acting pretty wisely in the Chinese crisis. Now we know it is.

What makes makes us sure? Simply the fact that the North China Daily News, leading British newspaper in Shanghai, is bitterly attacking our policy.

The North China Daily News would like nothing better than to see British and American soldiers and sailors swing the mailed fist about China without regard for the rights of the Chinese, or the tenets of common justice. It frankly would continue the old system of inequality and racial discrimination by force of arms.

So it is that major is displeased with our conduct, we may congratulate ourselves heartily.

THE PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman seriously hopes that the American legion drops its plans to meet in Paris. The actions of the French people have not been along the line of friendship ever since our boys, backed by our money, went across the seas and saved their hides from the obstreperous Hun. More recently outward demonstrations have been made in Paris against Americans in general just because a couple of French aviators were lost at sea in an effort to fly the Atlantic. Why felicitate with such a nation? Let's keep our dollars at home and stay out of trouble at the same time. Suppose the legion does go to Paris what will happen? There'll probably be more fights in the square between Yank ex-soldiers and the French than there was to the square mile in Belgium in 1918. And don't you worry—those Paris shopmen will be waiting for our boys and their wives and while they may not soak 'em in a physical sense they will in a financial one. They'll have prices sky high and might take advantage in making change with strange money to boot. Don't you kid yourself about this "second invasion of Paris". It may be an invasion, all right, but the invaders will probably lose when the shekels are counted.

The world is changing—changing rapidly.

In the recent past The Plainsman, in conversation with three pastors, shepherds of three different flocks, heard them say, with reservations, that they believed in the theory of evolution.

New you may take this as a change for the better or a change for the worse—whichever way you look upon the question. The Plainsman takes it as a change for the better in that it bespeaks tolerance on the part of the pastors. It used to be that churchmen staunchly claimed that anyone who believed in the theory of evolution did not believe in the Bible, which claim of course was a foolish one. The real theory of evolution—one which is not generally known—is compatible with the Book of Genesis. In other words a man can believe, word for word, everything that is in the book of Genesis, which opens "In the beginning, God made Heaven and Earth," and still believe the scientific opinions on the origin of life. An admission from the pastors that they recognize this fact shows that they have made a study of the real situation and furthermore it shows that they realize that this truly great religion of ours, which we have called Christianity after the teachings of the Man who brought it to us, cannot be weakened by any theory, no matter how scientific.

WASHINGTON LETTER

A TRIP WITH THE PRESIDENT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three daily articles telling just what happens when the president of the United States decides to go somewhere on the train.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 16.—When John Gooch obtains his wife's permission to go to New York he buys himself a ticket and boards a train. But when Calvin Coolidge takes the same trip it is a major operation in railroading.

The story of what happens when the president goes traveling is all the more interesting because he is a man of simple tastes and puts on little dog. Although no new gold-plated rails are laid and eastern railroad trains do not stand at attention for hours like automobiles when the fire wagons dash by, the president gets more real service than a drunken millionaire at a waiter's convention.

When it appears that Mr. Coolidge is about to journey out amongst his people, for speech-making or other worthy purpose, Mr. Doc Smithers, veteran chief key-whacker of the White House telegraphic force, hastens to telephone the railroad office and announce a tentative schedule.

The railroad promptly scans its equipment and its personnel. Where's that new engine with the latest improvements and the trick color scheme that the company bought last week? Perhaps this one of locomotives is in Chicago. If it's promptly ordered to Washington. So in the latest and best of all compartment-observation cars, and of dining cars. The same method is used in selecting the personnel.

On a short trip like that to New York during which President Coolidge addressed the United Press dinner, some 25 or 40 persons generally go along with whom about 20 are correspondents. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are always accompanied by Dr. John F. Coughlin, Colonel Sherwood A. Cheney and Captain Wilson Brown, respectively the presidential physician, military aide and naval aide.

Six secret service sleuths are detailed. Two travel ahead of the party to teach local plain-clothes men their duties after the train pulls in. The other four stay with the president. During night trips one sits through until morning, his eyes constantly upon the corridor outside the door to the president's compartment.

That comprises the official party unless the president takes along a friend or two such as Frank Stearns. The president's train is made up like this: A special coach for the train crew comes after the engine, then a club car, an open section car of upper and lower berths, a compartment car and finally the president's own observation car with its half dozen compartments and drawing-rooms. The club and next two cars are used by correspondents and the president seldom leaves his own except when a dining car is inserted.

All along the line, relay engines are ready—in Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. Working crews are kept on hand full strength and prepared for action. On the New York-Washington presidential run, the engineer—an old-timer with perfect record—and the rest of the train crew are changed at Philadelphia, so that the personnel will always be at top strength and not suffer from the strain of unaccustomed responsibility.

Contemporaries

NONE WAS, OR WERE?

A "Feminine Subscriber, near but not of Baylor," wrote the Telegram recently to complain:

"There is a certain error that has occurred so repeatedly in the April issues of the Telegram in articles descriptive of the havoc made by recent storms and floods that the use of the term has assumed the nature of being deliberate rather than accidental.

"None was hurt.

"None was killed.

"None was seriously hurt.

"Mr. None seems to have been favored by nature with more lives than the proverbial nine granted the cat."

None may be used either in the singular or plural form as the subject of a verb, as the head of the department of English would probably advise our Baylor reader, though as a subject, none with a plural verb is the commoner construction. The word is the contraction of no-one, not one. It is therefore regarded as a good form to say "none was."—Temple Telegram.

Don't Pause Now

Progress in the last hundred years has exceeded even the imaginative anticipations of Jules Verne, says a magazine writer. Did Mr. Verne ever write anything about old razor blades? The great waste places of the world have been explored. True enough, but nothing has been found to make hair grow there.... Artificial gasoline can be taken from coal. Now if we can just find somebody to dig it! Fuels are made even from molasses. There's no fuel like an old one, however.... Serums have been found efficacious against almost every known ailment—except the bite of the deadly dog bug.

More than 50 per cent of the population of the United States had dental troubles last year. A tooth on the dresser is worth two in the mouth.

Just a jingle

"Will your boss be back after lunch?"

The question brought forth laughter.

"Of course he won't," the girl replied.

"That's what he went out after."

away if a stop is forced.

Meanwhile every precaution has been taken along the way. The engine and the president's car have been thoroughly overhauled in the first place, of course. On ordinary trips over eastern lines, no pilot engine is needed to precede and test the track, as the railroad always has another regular passenger train a few minutes ahead traveling on schedule.

All along the line, relay engines are ready—in Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. Working crews are kept on hand full strength and prepared for action. On the New York-Washington presidential run, the engineer—an old-timer with perfect record—and the rest of the train crew are changed at Philadelphia, so that the personnel will always be at top strength and not suffer from the strain of unaccustomed responsibility.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and down BROADWAY

NEW YORK, May 16.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw Harry Lauder in a supper club. And some wag related the tale that Sir Harry had arrived and, picking up the bill of fare and holding the $2 cover charge, commented in his best Scotch: "If yer na mindin', I'll hae my dinner w/out any cover."—But then there are so many such tales about Sir Harry.

Saw Ed Howe in from Kansas to be banqueted by prominent Manhattanites. And, somehow, in the company of exclusive hotel atmosphere, it seemed anything but a birthday party, though all made every effort to push informality through the gilded doorway.

Saw Charles Journal stepping from a fine looking car and sauntering into a certain cafe—"ad if the guests—And they tell me this maestro of the dining halls started a place of his own last winter and defied all traditions, in that he had no music, no dance floor and served no liquor, returning to that fine tradition of dining for the purpose of eating, and that he did a mighty business with this innovation.

Saw Senator Capper, whose several publications are mighty in the mid-west, stepping about the annual newspaper convention and, they do say that since out of ten New Yorkers when questioned on the subject have never heard of the Capper publications—Yet had the senator or any of his state folk confessed to knowing nothing of The New Yorker, let us say, Manhattanites would seriously refer to them as "bitches" and such.

Saw Maxwell Anderson, whose play, "Saturday's Children," they tell me, will get the Pulitzer prize, and I hope so for here is a young man who has long devoted himself to worthy creation—And I remember the time out in San Francisco, when he was writing editorials for an afternoon newspaper and a most conservative paper it was—And Anderson one day put some liberal thought into the columns and met with dignified rebuke, whereupon he kissed the place farewell and came to Manhattan with his family.

And for a long while it was "not so good," since his esthetic impulses took him to editing a poetry magazine. Just try to raise a family on a poetry magazine—So he took to writing editorials on The World and there he met Laurence Stallards, who was running a book review column, and together they wrote, "What Price Glory?" a play for which, it seemed to me, the Anderson half of the combine never received sufficient credit for some reason or other—Vername it was because Stallards wrote another war scenario for Hollywood.

Saw John Ringling about town. But, strange to behold, he was not behaving a bit according to ancient tradition of circus folk—He was up in the 57th street art bell—and, later on, I found that this member of the Ringling Brothers (count them etc.) had been prowling about the John Fisk art collection and had purchased a Lippi for $1600 and a 15th century portrait of Petrarch for $650—Which, doubtless, would cause the late P. T. Barnum to turn in his casket.

TRUE CYCLONE DIFFERS FROM LINE SQUALL

Whirling Momentum Leaves Vacuum Close To The Ground, Claim

By NEA Service

EL DORADO, Ark., May 16.—The difference between a line squall and a true cyclone, with which it is often confused, is illustrated in a doubled-headed thunderstorm which on May 3 struck two towns in the Arkansas oil district one hour apart, killing 24 persons and severely injuring 72.

Strong, a little farming community of 1500 people, was hit by a cyclone that left 23 dead and 67 injured. The brick business district was ruined, and every house in town, whether brick or frame, was shattered.

Norphlet, oil town of 3000, where the wind velocity was just as great, lost many board shacks, but only one person was killed, and there were only five injured. The brick and substantial frame buildings in Norphlet stood—the cause were all from falling derricks, uprooted and thrown into dwelling places.

Tears from inside This explains why cyclones are so destructive and so feared. A straight wind is spent against a strongly braced wall, but the fiendish habit of a cyclone is to blow up a house from the inside.

A cyclone's whirling momentum around a perpendicular axis naturally sucks up the center, leaving close to the ground a near-vacuum. Buildings, like the human body, are constructed to withstand pressure from above and from the outside. When the pressure is reversed, when, for instance, a rapidly ascending elevator is suddenly stopped, the sensation of what happens to a building that happens to be licked by the hungry tongue of an unfed cyclone.

Like Vacuum Cleaner According to Lyons, a cyclone is a fragment broken off from a large thunderstorm area. Thunderstorms, if you don't happen to know, are supposed to roll along in the lumbering fashion of a hairy ape turning handwringers.

When a cyclone breaks away from its parent body it is like a thin slice off a rapidly rolling banana—too thin to stand on edge, and pretty soon it flops like a spinning coin.

Its rotation, now horizontal instead of vertical, keeps up at a high rate, and then centrifugal force causes the dreadful suction to set in. As the cyclone moves across the country things disappear up that windy, invisible chute, like dust up a vacuum cleaner—houses, trees, cattle, men.

That is the phenomenon which makes the cyclone the most fearful of all Nature's aspects. Next to predicting when a cyclone is due, weather men look at the barometer. It is the impossibility of seeing it falling, know that a storm due; then they compare barometer readings from different parts of the country; and tracing the low-pressure area can tell you within hours when a storm is due and how long it will last. But barometer readings don't mean a thing in the life of a cyclone.

The cyclone, it appears, is a killer hyena that loafs around under the protecting shadow of a big wolf brother, the low-barometer area. That gives Nature two advantages with which to bedevil man with she can either fling a line squall at him, or a cyclone. One is bad and the other is worse.

The circulation of the County Library for the month of April was over 6,000 books, according to Miss Frances Ford, librarian.

The Twentieth Century club at Lubbock recently donated 50 children's books, bringing that department of the library to a creditable showing. There are now about 5,000 books in the Lubbock County Library.

Firestone Dealers

Have Purchased 100% More GUM-DIPPED TIRES

(This Year Compared With Same Period Last Year)

THE demand from car owners for Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume enabling them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in history.

On the cars of motorists everywhere, these wonderful tires are delivering unheard-of long mileage with greater safety and comfort.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today, follows the contour of the tire carcass with no excess rubber at the edges to cause "shoulder breaks". Narrower strips permit the tread to yield to depressions, and cling to the road, preventing skidding. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities for thousands of extra miles.

Such a tread must be placed on a carcass with the qualifications to withstand the terrific flexing that this design permits. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, avoiding separation under the extreme flexing.

Many Firestone Dealers are prepared to offer you a liberal allowance for your old tires, on a new set of Gum-Dipped Tires to start the motoring season.

To meet a demand for a low price tire and tube, Firestone designed and manufactures, for Firestone Dealers only, Oldfield Tires and Tubes, which carry the Standard Manufacturers' Guarantee.

FAITH, darling, thank you! I love you! I'll never be selfish and an to you again!" Cherry sobbed, and Faith had to hold her in his arms. But Faith had never had a witness for the state. The court will recess for lunch. The Grimshaw announced, as Faith rose to call his next witness. "You were magnificent, Miss Faith, magnificent!" Faith looked at the trembling, over-joyed girl.

He rather die than go through a trial like that again," Faith averred, her eyes imploring Bob. "Banning is terrible! I made me feel as if I were the defendant, as if I had committed a frightful crime and he was punishing me before all these people. But if I helped Cherry—" "You did, darling! The jury loved you! Even the red-headed foreman who has been scowling and frowning at me since the time I testified. Tears out of his eyes. But along now and get some luncheon, or you'll be sick all day again," Mr. Lane said. Bob turned to his father, who was hanging humbly, his meek brown eyes with tears of sympathy for his favorite daughter.

Blackout not," Jim Lane refused. "I promised Junior. I'll have a snack with me at the cafeteria across the street. Take care of yourself, daughter. Don't let her catch cold, Bob." Bob guided Faith out of the courtroom and across the street to the cafe. He was out of the train about Courthouse Square.

Faith suddenly collapsed, her body sagging against Bob's shoulder, the tears falling thick and fast down her pale cheeks.

"Thanks, Bob!" Faith's voice quivered, but her tears had almost ceased to flow and her tired eyes were opened. "Oh, there's Lincoln Park, just ahead. Drive past Kelly's newsstand dear. There's just a chance that our phantom cripple will be out begging today and we'll get a look at him at last. I feel that we're going to find him, Bob."

"By George! There he is!" Bob exclaimed. "Wonder why old Kelly did not get word to me that Phil was at his old stand today? He promised. I'm going to park the car here and we can decide what to do." Faith snatched the twisted, stooping, dirty, gray-haired old cripple, who peered through smoked glasses at the crowds which screamed past his outstretched box of lead pencils and chewing gum. He was leaning against the lamp post at one of the four entrances to the park, his body so contorted that it was impossible even for Bob Hathaway, hardened as he was to the sordid sights of the city, to repress a shiver of pity.

TOMORROW: The cripple, in a taxicab, leads Faith and Bob on a wild goose chase.

Document Sought In Police Raid On Soviet Holdings

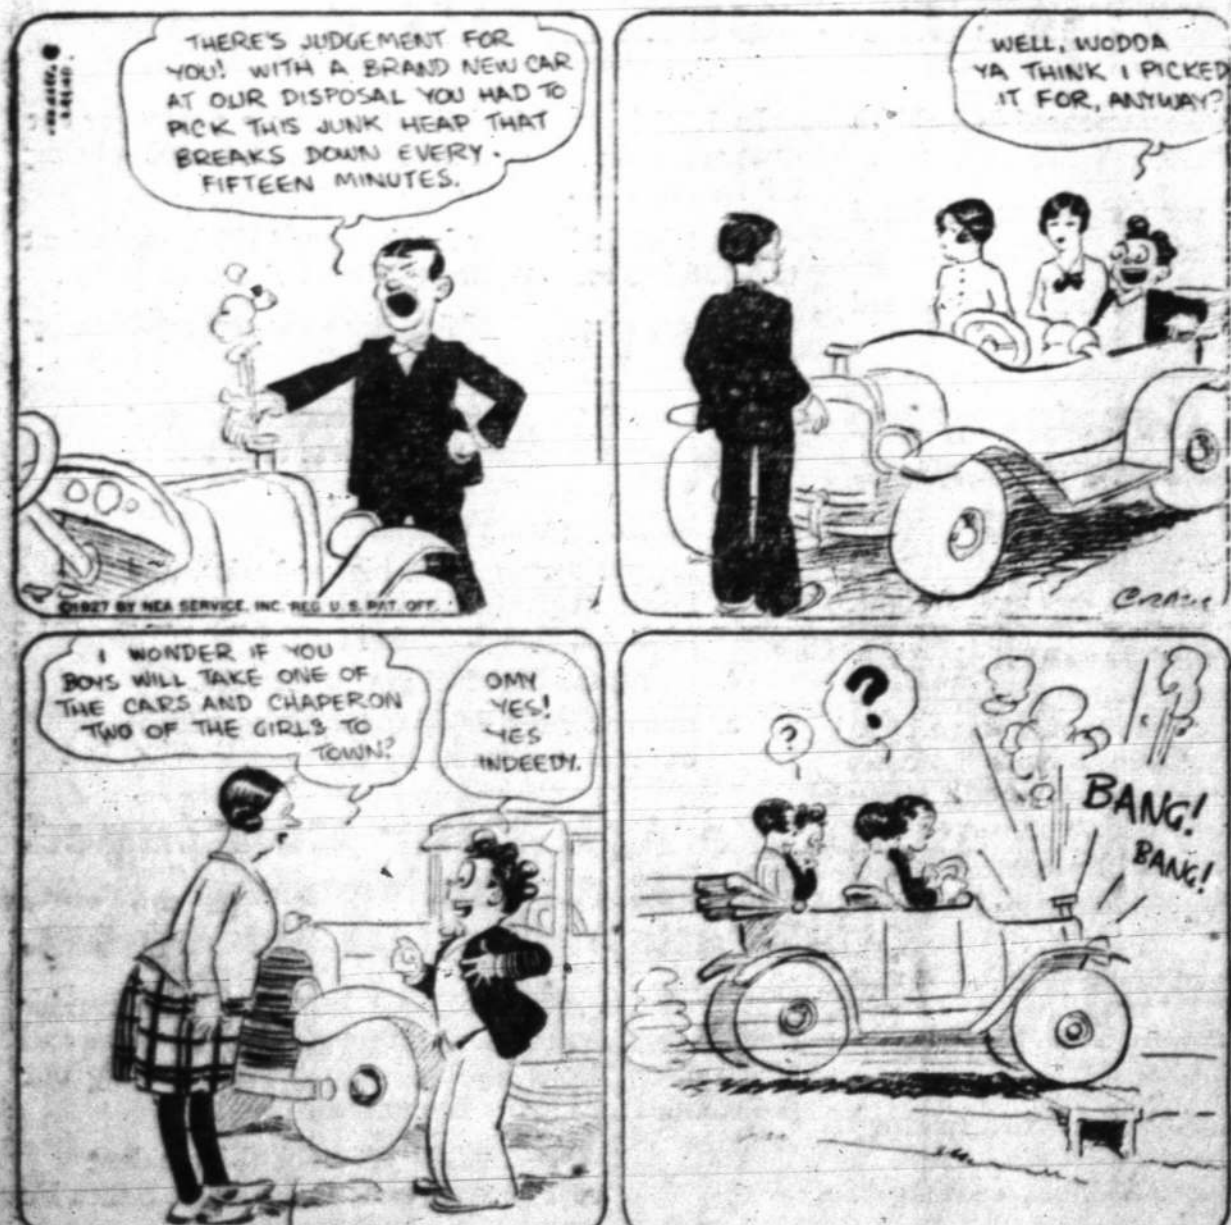

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Questioned regarding the police raid on Soviet house, Sir William Johnston, Hicks, the home secretary, told a crowded "and animated session of the house of commons today that information sent to him by the secretary of war last Wednesday had notified him that an official document was or had been in the possession of some one of the premises occupied by Arcos, Ltd., the soviet commercial organization. The police had taken possession of certain papers which might bear upon the matter, and the examination of these was still proceeding. "SAYING UP, the information sent by the secretary of war, the police had been authorized to search the premises under a warrant duly obtained. The search was carried out strictly in accordance with the warrant, and was terminated at 12 o'clock last night. The document in question was not found but Sir William reiterated that he was satisfied that it is or was in soviet house. The document was one of which unauthorized persons were known to be attempting to obtain copies. His action in authorizing the warrant, he continued, was with the knowledge and consent of the premier and foreign secretary. Referring to the soviet charges that soviet employees had been roughly handled, he declared that no woman on the premises was searched, and that had happened was the wear of their handbags. He hoped to be able to make a full statement on Thursday, to which date the discussion was adjourned. J. L. GRAY AND RUTH ON DEATH RIDE

Leave For Sing Sing To Await Death In Murder
Of Woman's Husband

OSSENING, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—The gates of Sing Sing prison swung open today to admit Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, and changed shut behind them, barring successful appeal. The Queens Village house wife and her corset salesman paramour, jointly convicted of the murder of her husband, will never pass through these again alive.

The trip from Queens county jail to Long Island City was made at break neck speed and with a heavy escort. As the two closed automobiles bearing the guarded prisoners swung away from the jail half a dozen armored motorcycles led the way through traffic held up at every intersection to let the party through. A dozen cars full of reporters brought up the rear and were hard put to keep the pace.

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 16.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray today began their journey to Sing Sing's death house, where they are under sentence to die for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor. Mrs. Snyder, having said good bye to her mother and her 9-year old daughter Lorraine, was hurried into an automobile where she sat between two women deputy sheriffs. Gray, her former paramour, was taken in a second automobile managed to two under sheriffs. Their automobiles were escorted from the jail in Long Island City and through New York by a squad of motorcycle police.

Both Bear Up Well Mrs. Snyder dressed in the black coat and hat she wore during the trial. Her face was pale, but she seemed to bear up well.

Gray walked with brisk steps, his head erect, as the sheriffs led him from his cell. The route to Sing Sing led them over a road they travelled in 1925, when they made an upstate trip in Gray's car. At that time, Albert Snyder was at the Snyder home in Queens Village, keeping house and caring for little Lorraine. But Albert thought his wife was visiting friends, and Gray's wife, in her East Orange, N. J., home with their daughter, thought the little corset salesman was calling on the trade.

FLOODS

Waters Nearing Two More Parishes

NEW ORLEANS, May 16 (AP)—Rolling relentlessly down the fertile west side of the Atchafalaya basin, flood waters from ten major crevasses in the Bayou Des Glaises today drew closed to St. Mary and St. Martin parishes, spreading devastation on its way to the Gulf of Mexico. The threatened section is in the center of "Evangeline country" made famous by Longfellow.

The Bayou Des Glaises crevasses are approximately 150 miles southwest of New Orleans, on the west side of the Atchafalaya river. Thousands Leave Homes. Avoyelles and Saint Landry parishes, with their green crops of corn and sugar cane, already have been submerged by the torrents tearing through the Bayou Des Glaises levees and thousands of persons have been driven from their homes. Other thousands are preparing to seek safety.

Work on the protection levee between Port Eglise and Route la Rose in St. Martin parish was abandoned last night when it became apparent that the flood moving down the basin through the Bayou Des Glaises levees would be from two to three feet higher than the dike.

Workers Abandon Levees For thirty days, crews have been strengthening embankments. Scores who had volunteered to aid in the work left for their homes to prepare to flee before the advancing tide. Army engineers estimated that the water flowing from Bayou Des Glaises had covered 600 square miles, but that the rapidity with which it spread would be lessened somewhat from now on. Engineers also said that the entire stretch of fifty miles of levees along Bayou Des Glaises probably would be carried away.

Levees Nearly Submerged. Arriving returning from trips over the dikes said that the Big Bend levees were practically submerged for twenty miles. The stream of refugees into Mansura and Marks-ville continued unabated as the flood-tilla of fifty coast guard surf boats jammed by trained life saving crews from the Atlantic, Great Lakes and Gulf coast states, combed the area, bringing marooned residents who had stayed in their homes in the face of repeated warnings.

Senator Asks Probe Of Marr's Affairs

AUSTIN, May 16, (AP)—Demand for investigation of S. M. U. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction, was made in the senate today by Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, who charged Marrs with "openly advising himself as a candidate for governor."

"He spent the state's money in going to Rock Wall to advise school trustees whether they should use local funds to subscribe to a newspaper," Moore declared, "and has bought hundreds of dollars worth of stamps with state money to circulate letters telling how certain senators voted on certain questions."

He demanded a halt in senate business for "a complete investigation of the department." No action was taken, however.

Moore was successful with an amendment striking out a $5,500 item in the department of education's biennial budget for a "college examiner." He attacked several other items charging that some created "need and useless jobs."

KANSAS LAW ON SYNDICALISM IS HELD AS VALID

CALIFORNIA LAW ALSO IS UPHELD IN RULING
OF SUPREME COURT

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Kansas criminal syndicalism law was upheld today by the supreme court.

The question reached the court in an appeal of Harold E. Fiske, convicted under the statute because of his activities at Geneseo, Kansas, as an organizer of the I. W. W. The court held, however, that membership in and work as an organizer for the I. W. W. did not constitute an offense under the statutes which the state could punish, and that Kansas therefore had failed to prove that Fiske was guilty of advocating criminal syndicalism.

It was not sufficient, the court asserted, to show that the preamble to the constitution of the I. W. W. was in Fiske's possession. The question, it said, was whether the preamble was sufficient to show intention to use unlawful method, and the court declared a review of it showed it was not sufficient to warrant the conviction.

California Law Upheld

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—criminal syndicalism law of California today was declared valid and constitutional by the supreme court, in a case brought by Charlotte Anita Whitney. Mrs. Whitney's conviction for participation in the organization of the communist labor party in California was approved.

Justice Sanford in delivering the opinion said the law was within the discretion of the legislature and that freedom of speech and assembly asserting that she participated in the meetings in a position to the extreme radicals at that she did not favor the change in industrial or practical conditions through the exercise of force. The state contended that she had continued her affiliation with the California communist labor party, and it had adopted the Chicago platform of the national organization of the party and after it had committed itself to advocacy of radical methods, including the use of force.
