

Poles Get Hint Of Soviet Intervention

GDANSK, Poland (AP)—Poland's Communist regime, under growing pressure from striking workers, today issued a veiled warning of possible Soviet intervention and "incalculable consequences" if order is not restored.

The threat came as the 14-day-old strike wave on the Baltic coast was reported to have spread to the giant Ursus tractor factory outside Warsaw and to industries in southern Poland. Estimates of the total strikers rose to more than 300,000.

In a front-page editorial in the Communist daily Trybuna Ludu, the regime reminded Poles that their country lies "in the direct sphere of security of the world Socialist power - the Soviet Union."

"We are a member of the defensive Warsaw Pact and we belong to the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance," the East Bloc Common Market.

The commentary was entitled "Line of Partition," apparently reminding Poles that their country was carved up by Austria, Russia and Prussia in 1796 and did not reappear until November 1918 at the end of World War I.

"We, Poland, in our current system of Communist government, are one of the basic elements of peaceful order and stabilization in Europe," the commentary said.

"Any disturbance of any of these factors making up the Polish 'raison d'etre' must lead to incalculable consequences."

"These factors include the place of our party in the political life of the Polish state as well as the basic structure of people's rule."

Lech Badkowski, spokesman for the Inter-Factory Strike Committee, said talks in Gdansk Tuesday between a working group of five strike leaders and five government officials produced agreement on many "serious points" and were "very promising." He declined to give details, but said the government planned to contact the committee for more talks today.

The government's chief negotiator, First Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski, went back to Warsaw to report to the Communist Party Politburo. He was expected to return to Gdansk today.

Jagielski held an often-noisy exchange Tuesday with a delegation of the strike committee at the V.I. Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk, where the mass walkout began Aug. 14.

Jagielski said in addition to the secret, democratic election of trade union officials promised Sunday by Communist Party leader Edward Gierek Sunday, the revision of the labor laws would permit strikes in the industrial coastal region if all other means of solving disputes failed. But he refused to budge on the workers' demand for independent labor unions free from government controls and said he was negotiating only for the Baltic industrial area, not other parts of the country.

Senate Passes Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest military spending bill in American history has been overwhelmingly approved by Congress and sent to President Carter.

The Senate passed the bill Tuesday night 78-2. Earlier, the House had passed it 360-49.

The measure authorizes $52.9 billion for military procurement, research and development, civil defense and educational benefits for military personnel. The figures is $5.9 billion above what Carter asked.

The bill also authorizes about $1 billion in increases in military compensation and benefits in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

About $2.2 billion, an increase of 35 percent, was added to the president's shipbuilding program.

Await Word From Extortionist

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Nevada Gov. Robert List today appealed for further word from an extortionist who planted a mysterious homemade bomb at a glittering highway casino and reportedly threatened to "bring the hotel down" unless officials come up with $3 million and a helicopter.

Frustrated authorities worked until 4 a.m. trying to figure out how to defuse the device, described by its makers as containing 1,000 pounds of TNT, which routed 3,000 people from Harvey's Resort Hotel-Casino on Tuesday. They said they would try again later in the day.

Okays Report On Tuition Hike

AUSTIN (AP)—A blue-ribbon committee voted final approval today to a report that says state college tuition should be at least doubled, with most of the proceeds going to construction and remodeling at schools outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems.

Another Airliner Forced To Cuba

MIAMI (AP)—Three Spanish-speaking men hijacked an Eastern Airlines jet to Cuba overnight after terrifying the 241 people aboard by splashing what appeared to be gasoline around the cabin and then lighting matches, officials said.

The hijacking came 10 days after federal officials announced that armed marshals would take to the air to ward off potential hijackers. It was the seventh case of air piracy in two weeks.

The hijackers were taken from the plane in Havana, passengers said, and the plane made it safely to Miami this morning.

FBI agent Bill Nettles said "the possibility is pretty good" that the hijackers were Cubans. Several of the recent hijackings were staged by Cuban refugees who had recently come to the U.S. and wanted to return to Cuba.

But he added, "We haven't come up with anything like a reason" for the latest hijacking.

Nettles said the hijackers were carrying containers of an unidentified liquid, and when they hijacked the plane spilled it over the cabin's carpeting.

"Some of it got on one of the passengers," he said.

"It was gas," said passenger Jerry Steindam, who said he could tell by the smell.

The hijackers then "started lighting matches and yelling 'Cuba, Cuba, Cuba,'" said Nettles. "The young one was even smoking a cigarette through the whole thing."

He said one of the hijackers was in his mid-40s, one in his mid-30s and one was described as a teen-ager.

No one was hurt, officials said.

Fish Succumb To Oxygen Shortage

The fish in Towle Park pond are dead.

"We're raking them up by the barrelsful and hauling them off," said Scurry County Parks Superintendent J.K. Ward. "Whenever they run out of oxygen they're not going to last."

The fish deaths were first noticed Monday morning. Experts were called in yesterday to test the water and the tests revealed no oxygen was found in the water from below one foot of the water's surface, Ward said.

The next move is to have the pond restocked, but Ward said he didn't know when that could be done.

Ward later amended the fish obituary and said there may still be a few small mudcats left, but added that mudcats are not good for eating and even they should be disposed of before the restocking.

"They just ran out of oxygen," he said.

Classes Begin Today At WTC

Classes were underway this morning at Western Texas College as approximately 950 day students began the fall term.

Dr. Duane Hood, registrar, said registration figures were expected to hit the 1,000 mark by the end of the week as late registration will continue. Also, registration is yet to be conducted at extension centers in Colorado City.

1-On-1 Debate Plan Rejected By Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ronald Reagan, rejecting President Carter's terms for a debate, insisted today that independent candidate John B. Anderson have a chance to join the first Carter-Reagan debate of the 1980 campaign.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, notified of Reagan's position, told reporters: "They're afraid of a one-on-one debate." But a Reagan spokesman said that "we very much want a one-on-one debate."

Asked why the White House does not want a debate involving Anderson, Gerald Rafterson, Carter's media adviser, replied: "We don't want to debate two Republicans at the same time."

Reagan made his position known in a message to the National Press Club, which had extended an invitation Tuesday for a two-man debate between Carter and Reagan, the Republican presidential nominee. Carter quickly accepted the offer.

Carter suggested holding the press club debate in early September, some time before the inaugural Sept. 18 debate in Baltimore which would be sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

The league has insisted that if Anderson, the Republican congressman from Illinois who is running as an independent, be included in the first debate if he has demonstrated by his standing in public opinion polls that he is a viable contender for the White House.

"It would be just basically wrong to squeeze Anderson out of the first debate," said James Baker, the Reagan campaign aide who is handling debate negotiations.

and Ballinger. WTC is reopening its extension center at Colorado City this year at the request of residents there.

Meanwhile, registration for evening classes was moving slowly this week, but is expected to pick up after the first of the month and after the Labor Day weekend.

Personnel will be on hand each evening and throughout each day to register students, said Dr. Hood. He said the full-time student enrollment is running at about the level projected.

"If we can get our night classes for adults filled, we will be in good shape for fall," the registrar said. Campus housing is filled, and so far, students from out of town coming in to register have been able to find housing.

Wah Chang Takes Option At Odessa

Teledyne Wah Chang, a Snyder industrial prospect for the past two years, Tuesday announced that the company had taken option on 600 acres 12 miles west of Odessa.

Admiral Vincent dePoix company president, was in Odessa Tuesday afternoon to sign the option and to make the announcement at an afternoon news conference.

The land is located west of Odessa near Penwell. dePoix said the company had not made a definite decision to build a plant, and that the decision depends on the rare metals market which is currently down.

A—Readers seem to like it. Spontaneous comments we have received since "Ask Us" began indicate it is the first thing many people read in the paper. Appraisal District Okays '81 Budget

A budget was adopted for the Scurry County Appraisal District and a new member installed for the district's board of equalization in a special noon meeting Tuesday.

Approved was the 1981 budget of $230,740. Of that sum, slightly more than $100,000 was budgeted for salaries for the chief appraiser, appraiser for personal property, four full-time clerks, plus two part-time clerks.

Also, $59,000 was budgeted for the firm providing valuation engineers, and $10,000 more went for legal expenses. The remaining money went for such sundry things as telephone and postage costs.

In the meeting yesterday, W.O. Mathis was installed as the equalization board's new member. He replaces Dale Stuard who resigned his position. Mathis is a farmer and rancher in the Fluvanna-Dermott area.

Schools Show Gains...

Elementary Total Runs Ahead Of Last Year's

Although no system-wide totals will be available until next week, the possibility of an increase in public school enrollment here loomed following registration Tuesday in elementary schools.

The city's six elementary schools registered a total of 1,579 pupils, a gain of 72 over the total for registration day last year. This total is expected to increase next week, since some parents always wait until the first day of classes and/or after the Labor Day holiday to enroll their children in school.

It was not known immediately whether the increase of 72 on elementary registration day indicates an actual gain, or whether more than usual simply registered before the first day of classes this time.

Biggest gains yesterday were in the fourth and sixth grades. The over-all total for the fourth grade was 241, compared to 189 at this time last year, while the sixth grade had 218, compared to 179 last year. First, third and fifth grades were down from last year, but there were moderate gains in second grade and in kindergarten.

By schools, North Elementary registered 250, compared to 221 last year; Central Elementary, 256 compared to 252; East Elementary, 272 compared to 248; West Elementary, 319 compared to 340; Northeast Elementary, 256 compared to 203; Stanfield Elementary, 226 compared to 243.

At the same time, 33 students new to the senior high school have registered and 14 students new to the junior high school have registered. Nine pupils have registered in the early childhood program, compared to 14 last year. Following are the figures by grades for the first day of elementary school registration:

Grade	1980	1979
Kndgtn.	241	245
First	227	231
Second	225	200
Third	218	233
Fourth	241	189
Fifth	200	227
Sixth	218	179
Early Ch.	9	14
Totals	1,579	1,507

The SDN Column

Despite the return of 100-degree temperatures this week, there is a hint of autumn in the air during early-morning hours. It gives us a good range of temperatures, usually from the high sixties to near 100 degrees or more, and it makes the hot afternoons more bearable.

Fall, which will begin officially on Sept. 22, is our favorite season. Not that winter, spring and summer don't have their good points, but fall seems to put it all together.

We mentioned this to a friend one time and he said that our preference for fall probably means that we will enjoy post-middle-age life best of all—more than the teen period, young adult or middle-age.

We have no idea whether this is true, but we have reached the point where we hope it is.

We used to like fall because it brought on cooler weather after the summer heat. This meant more than it does today because there was no air conditioning in homes and very little anywhere else, except the movie house. It also is the season when most people get back into the groove following their vacations and then doubling up while their fellow workers take their annual respite from the daily grind.

Times change, of course, and vacations are not necessarily limited to the summer months anymore. It used to be that the summer resorts in mountain areas were virtually abandoned as cold weather began to arrive. Now, they simply change specialties from summer-type to skiing and other winter activities. But, all in all, we'll still take fall.

Another newspaper reported it got the following question for its question-and-answer column: "I noticed that some household columns suggest that people use elbow grease for cleaning. After a long and fruitless search, I still have been unable to find this amazing product. Could you tell me where to buy it?"

NEW YORK (NEA)—Jimmy Carter possesses the Democratic presidential nomination, but the party's heart and soul belong to Ted Kennedy.

That inescapable conclusion emerges from a Democratic National Convention that saw President Carter win a notably passionless victory in his bid for renomination to a second term.

But the frenzied emotional outpouring on behalf of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., does not necessarily support the popular notion that he is willing or able to mount a successful campaign for the party's presidential nomination in 1984.

Kennedy, a thoroughly professional politician, completely outclassed — and probably humiliated — Carter with a series of dazzling maneuvers during the four-day-long convention.

The senator constantly dangled in front of the president gestures of reconciliation — his prompt withdrawal from the race once it became obvious that Carter was unbeatable, a speech that barely mentioned his bitter feud with Carter, a motion to renominate the president by acclamation proffered by Kennedy's home state delegation from Massachusetts and a joint appearance with Carter to promote the facade of unity at the end of the convention.

But interspersed with those occurrences was a series of events that kept Carter constantly off balance — a Kennedy speech so powerful that the president didn't even try to match it, the senator's presumed tacit approval of the decision by virtually all of his delegates to defiantly vote for him during the nomination roll call and Kennedy's painfully obvious refusal to embrace Carter or even clasp his hand during the closing ceremony.

Perhaps the most devastating critique of Carter's performance here was the widely accepted assessment that his acceptance speech was only the third best address delivered to the convention — ranking behind the performance of both Kennedy and Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

Carter clearly lacks Kennedy's flair and his competence as an administrator remains a matter of considerable dispute, but his instincts for political self-preservation never have been seriously questioned in recent years.

Kennedy obviously cannot be counted upon to be a strong helpmate in the president's forthcoming campaign, but he presumably will do nothing to embarrass himself or Carter and can be expected to offer at least nominal support.

Kennedy's widely acclaimed convention speech went a long way toward encouraging his most zealous supporter's belief that he will make another pass at the presidency in four years.

Of special note in that regard was his eloquent peroration: "For all those whose cares have been our concern, the work goes on, the cause endures, the hope still lives and the dream shall never die."

But during his bid for the presidency, Kennedy too often was tongue-tied and too seldom was able to soar to the rhetorical heights he reached both before and after the campaign — a phenomenon that suggests there may be some credence to the theory that he subconsciously (or consciously) never really wanted to be president.

Even if that's true, however, there's no reason to discourage speculation about his 1984 aspirations because being seriously considered as a potential president enhances anyone's stature, reputation and influence — and those are the coins of the realm in the political world that Kennedy inhabits.

biggest federal scam

When Liz Carpenter, who had come out of brief retirement in her native Texas to accept a responsible position with the U.S. Department of Education, met with Texas newsmen in Washington a few months ago she suggested that the agency was going to set a good example for efficiency and fiscal restraint.

What the honchos within the department vowed and what the new bureaucracy has accomplished bear very little similarity.

The Carter administration had promised that the department would create no new jobs and no new costs when it was separated from the old Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Now look at the facts: More than $7.8 billion has been earmarked as expenditures by the agency. In addition, since the department was organized, more than 1,000 new people have been added to the payroll. Editor David Cullen, who shepherds the Ada Report, a newsletter that pokes fun at government efficiency, calls the Department of Education "the scam to end all scams." He explains how the agency deftly dodged Congressional mandates to cut its staff by 500. Instead, the bureau wound up with an increase of 621 employees.

When President Carter proposed that a separate agency be formed to administer to the needs of education, he projected elimination of 350 to 450 positions with the consequent savings of upwards to $19 million a year.

"Creation of the Education Department will require no new funds," Congress was assured by the Office of Management and Budget. That was of course, before the new department set up its unique multiplication table.

By Sept. 20, the Department of Education will include 157 more people than a year ago and 1,121 more people than two years ago. Personnel compensation and other management costs will zoom $2 billion.

Based on the original hold-the-line projections, Congress wrote into the law that "not later than the end of the first fiscal year, the number of full-time equivalent personnel positions...shall be reduced by 500."

The bureaucrats in Education obviously learned to add but not to subtract. They interpreted this provision to mean the 500 should be subtracted from the total number employed Sept. 30, 1980.

That number is estimated at 7,581 or 1,121 more than were on the payroll in the agencies which make up the department. Therefore, using Department of Education math, the subtraction of 500 becomes the addition of 621. Worse, most of the 500 removals will come from the ranks of temporary rather than full-time permanent staff.

Its obvious most of the people in the Department of Education can read and write. As far as learning math, it's obvious they mastered multiplication long before they learned addition and subtraction. The government just doesn't believe in subtraction as a knowledgeable science.

Colors describe mood, emotion, personality or state of mind. To each color in the visible spectrum, we assign, consciously or unconsciously, shades of meaning. We incorporate these meanings into our everyday speech and lives.

For example, blue is a restful color, but it can indicate despair, depression or something unexpected. "Mary felt blue today." "The car disappeared out of the blue." "It happens only once in a blue moon."

Red denotes passion and vitality and feelings of anger. "She was so angry she saw red."

Black is a silent, somber fellow who paints scenes in darkness and death. "A black look was on her face." "Terror overcame her, and she blacked out."

White represents the opposite of black, exemplifying peace, purity, and the military gesture of surrender. "Her wedding gown was of purest white."

Green sports many hues, but is often linked to three unrelated concepts: glib immaturity, the earth, and the bitterness of jealousy. "He comes to us a green young man, just out of school." "She is green with envy."

Purple is, historically, the rich color of royalty. Yellow carries many associations, it may be bright, light and imaginative, or it may mark the disgraceful taint of cowardice.

"The dazzling yellow radiance of the sun foretold a perfect day." One little boy tags another little boy with "yellow-belly."

Colors produce definite effects on our psychological health, as psychologists and other researchers are discovering.

One environmental psychologist contends a person's mental state is responsive to a range of colors, which are divided into what he calls pleasure and arousal sequences. The pleasure sequence, from the most pleasant to the least pleasant, comprises the colors blue, green, purple, red and yellow. The arousal sequence consists of red, orange, yellow, violet, blue and green with red the most highly arousing color in the sequence.

"If you always feel slightly uneasy or uncomfortable in a particular room he says, 'then it's quite probable that its colors are disturbing you. You might try choosing colors for a room according to its function — stimulating, if it's to be a work room, soothing for relaxing."

People are evidently taking this theory seriously. A football coach in a university has had two dressing rooms designed for his players — one was painted red for pep talks; the other blue for rest periods. The college library followed the same idea only with little different color scheme. It was painted both blue and red, on the basis that many students need the serenity of blue while studying, but others need the stimulation of red to keep awake.

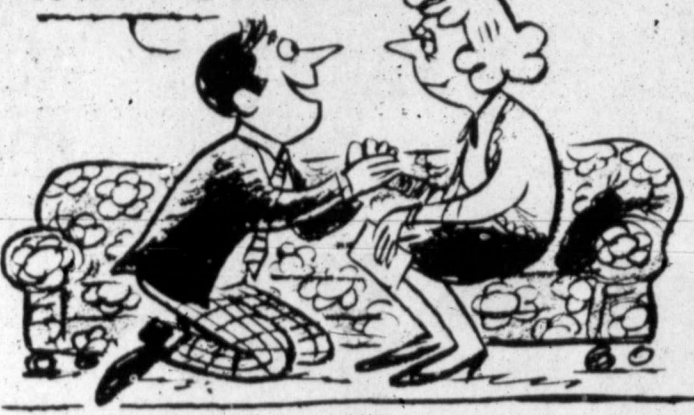

Awareness of the effect of color on the human psyche has initiated a growing trend being used in hospitals, doctor's offices, elementary schools and even the homes.

My husband and I were sitting around the table after dinner the other night when he broke the silence by asking, "what's your feeling about blowing up Jack-in-the Box?"

I slammed down my coffee cup and shouted, "Can't we have one meal in this house without pressure? That's not a decision to make in a day. A person needs time to think about something that important. Give me a break!"

Now, for those of you reading this column in the cool pines of the mountains where the air is fresh and a little fire takes the chill off the house in the evenings, you will not understand a word of this piece.

But those in the Southwest deserts, the plains of Texas, the East and the Midwest in temperatures that exceed 105 degrees will marvel at my self-control.

Excessive cold weather isn't pleasant. It makes you move faster, seek crowds for warmth and actually creates a camaraderie of discomfort.

But people in hot weather are sure they have been singled out by God for (a) not tithing (b) not tipping,

Hot weather makes you mean.

As I crawled into bed, I said to my husband, "I've thought about Jack-in-the-Box and I think we should waste him."

"Good night," he yawned.

I yelled, "What do you mean by a crack like that?"

fine tuning failure

NEW YORK (AP)—Politics and economics are like a couple who cannot live apart, and cannot live together without constant fighting.

Conflict and contradiction cement their union. Rare moments of mutual interest and cooperation erode into verbal violence. And promises to "make it work this time" remain just promises and nothing more.

Do you remember economic fine tuning? Do you recall how in the early 1960s economists and politicians announced they had learned to tame the economy, to train it to do their bidding, to produce what they wanted?

It was as if genetic experimenters had developed a new cow that forever more would provide all the milk mankind could want, and do it with the happy disposition of Elsie, an old Borden bovine.

Fine tuning was supposed to allow the nation to force its economy to the limit — to provide maximum production and maximum jobs while skirting the edge of inflation. The only trouble was it didn't work.

It didn't work because, as we learned, you cannot constantly flirt with inflation without falling for it, especially if you are a politician seeking election and feel more spending means more votes.

Some economists still say the reason fine tuning failed wasn't because the economics were misunderstood but because the politicians weren't tamed.

In the 1960s, President Lyndon Johnson proclaimed his belief that the country could fight a limited war in Vietnam and serve Americans too. We could have guns and butter too. But not fine tuning as well.

Nevertheless, nostalgia for fine tuning resulted next in concepts of "full employment," which some advocates put at less than 4 percent.

Four percent unemployment became a goal, for a while. Then 5. And now nobody knows what should be called full employment, that is, the minimum unemployment rate that can be supported without inflation.

You don't hear about these notions today, but others have taken their place. Remember budget balancing? Why how could you forget when it was only weeks ago that President Carter said he was balancing the budget. The announcement, of course, was all there was to it.

As the country faces another deficit of $50 billion a year, or roughly the same as the 1980 fiscal year deficit, as voters complain that living standards are falling, as industry is threatened with collapse, a new catchword is circulating. It is reindustrialization.

Reindustrialization, as interpreted by politicians, seems to be little more than an awareness that, having violated economic sense for years, we must now get back to producing something other than inflation and taxes.

Economists and politicians have that oldtime zeal. "We need each other," they promise. "We must work together for the country's good." Bliss again.

You need not be cynical to wish them well and hold your doubts, to wonder when they'll just forget the whole thing.

Raising Squabbling Cranes Separately

TYLER (AP)—Typical sibling rivalry has forced the separation of three untypical baby cranes, born recently in this East Texas town.

The three East African

Crown cranes, the first of their species born in captivity in Texas, will be raised separately because of a tendency to squabble and fight among themselves, said Cauldwell Zoo keeper Bob Smith.

When you use Jacoby transfer you don't have to transfer merely because you have a five-card suit. Thus, North elected to respond two clubs to find out if his partner held four spades with him.

South did and North merely bid three. He might well have jumped to game, but he knew his partner hated to stop at three and would go on to game with any excuse, or even with no excuse at all.

A transfer bid would also have led to the same spade contract.

South won the diamond in dummy and led the king of spades. West took his ace and led the jack of diamonds. South won with the ace and led a trump to dummy and played the jack of clubs. East covered. South played his king and noted that West followed with the three.

Now South played his ace. West played the five. Now South ruffed a club and noted the fall of West's seven.

South knew that West was careful to show an even number of cards in a side suit by playing high-low and thus decided that West did not hold another club. So South simply led dummy's remaining diamond. West was in with the 10 and had to lead a heart to establish South's king as the 10th winner.

If South had stripped the clubs completely, West would have been able to avoid the end play by chucking his 10 of diamonds.

Common Sense Cooking

By RUTH McDANIEL

Dear Ruth,
I'd like to share a couple of good Beef Recipes with you. We're ranchers and beef is a staple at our house.
Eva, Deer Lodge, Mont.

Dear Eva,
With meat so expensive today, when we serve it we want it to be a special treat. Both these recipes are special. I hope other readers will share their favorite recipes with us - and remember, if you have a cooking problem, or are looking for a special recipe, write me and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a prompt personal reply.

ROAST BEEF

Select any size beef roast. Leave at room temperature for an hour or so. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Rub meat with salt and sprinkle with pepper. Place fat side up in shallow roasting pan. Bake 1 hour. Turn off heat and let stand in oven. Do not open oven door! This part can be done earlier in the day to serve for an evening meal. Thirty to 40 minutes before serving time, without opening oven door - turn over to 375 degrees. Do not cover meat or add water. This is especially good for a Prime Rib Roast.

CUBED BEEF

This is a dish men like because it has lots of meat and is deliciously seasoned.

2 lb. round steak cut into ½" cubes
3 Tbsp. shortening
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 can browned mushroom and broth
½ cup chopped celery
8 oz. can tomato sauce
1-8 tsp. pepper
1 large chopped onion
2 Tbsp. flour
1 cup sour cream
1 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire Sauce

Brown meat in hot shortening. Add onions and garlic. Cook till golden. Stir in flour. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Put in 3 qt. greased casserole and bake uncovered at 350 till meat is tender, about 1½ hours. Serve with rice, noodles or mashed potatoes.

Tired of the same old meat dishes? Spice up your meals with new ham, chicken, beef and pork dishes, over 25 recipes your family will love! Send Today: $1.00 plus 25c postage to Ruth McDaniel, Dept. F c-o this paper, 11409 116 Ave. N. Largo, Fla. 33540.

It seems that the "Make Ahead" recipes that can be stored in your cupboard or refrigerator are among the most popular recipes in my column.

Here's a new one to me. A reader in Girard, Pa., found it in an old church cookbook and sent it to me.

REFRIGERATOR GINGERBREAD

½ cup vegetable shortening
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup buttermilk
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. ginger
2 eggs
4 cups flour
1 cup molasses
Cream together the sugar and shortenings. Add molasses. Add eggs, beating well. Mix flour, baking powder, soda, salt and ginger. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk to the first mixture. Store in a covered container in refrigerator till ready to use. Makes 2 8"x8" pans. Bake one now, and bake the other one in a week or two! This batter can be stored in the refrigerator for 2 weeks. Bake at 350 for about 40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream, lemon sauce, or for a special treat, Fluffy Butterscotch Sauce. It makes plain gingerbread into gourmet's delight!

FLUFFY BUTTER-SCOTCH SAUCE

Cream together well: 1 cup brown sugar and ½ cup butter (don't substitute margarine). Add 2 beaten egg yolks and beat real well. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Fold in 3 Tbsp. Brandy or Whiskey. Really terrific piled on gingerbread. Use only Butter in this recipe. Make shortly before using. Don't let stand for more than an hour. Refrigerate till used.

The revised & enlarged 2nd printing of my book "From Homemaker To Moneymaker The Easy Way" is fresh off the press! I've added a lot more recipes and a complete new chapter of valuable cooking tips and money-saving hints! Plus E-Z to follow instructions for making your own mixes plus a plan I guarantee will cut your food bills by 1-3 and more! Money-back guarantee if you don't agree. Send just $4.95 (includes postage & handling) to: Ruth McDaniel, Homemaker Book, c-o this paper, 11409 116 Ave. N., Largo, Fla. 33540.

Leftover juice from canned fruit can be frozen in ice-cube trays for future use in drinks and sauces.

Tigers Defeat Central; Preserve Home Streak

Snyder High School opened competition for the 1980-81 school year with a win here last night, defeating San Angelo Central's Bobcats in varsity volleyball action, 15-11, 15-11.

Snyder junior varsity also trimmed the visiting Cats, 15-12, 15-6.

The victory sets Snyder's varsity volleyball at-home winning streak to 42 straight. Coach Joyce Elrod's Tigers last lost here on Sept. 9, 1976 to Central.

"It was the usual Snyder-Central match," Elrod said of last evening's encounter. "It's always a battle with them. We were a bit slow getting started, but I think it was just first-game jitters. San Angelo's block was what hurt us in the first game. They had a lot more height and a quick backline defense. We were finding it hard to put anything down on their floor," she added.

In the second game, Snyder jumped out to a 10-2 lead only to have Central rally and go in front 10-11 before the Tigers turned the momentum back around.

"Both games were tough, hard-fought games," noted the coach. "These are the kind of games we need right now before district play."

Elrod pointed out the efforts of returning all-district talents Lisa Cobb and Sherry Mayes on the front line, especially hitting, and praised Shana Koonsman, also.

"We've got a lot of work to do on our blocks and our backline defense," she added. "But everybody played well after we got going."

Serving for points were Sherri Rich, 9; Koonsman, 6; Kathy Northcott, 4; Cobb and Toni Elrod, 3; Mayes and Shauna Pate, 2; and Ann Melton, 1.

For the junior varsity, Sabrina Robinson served for 18, Becky Harrell for 6, Susie Lee and Lisa Loyola for 2 each and Becky Pylant and Lisa Waller for 1 apiece.

Snyder varsity will host a 16-team tournament at the high school and junior high gyms beginning Friday. Action gets underway at 9 in the morning as Snyder takes on Abilene High in SHS Gym.

Golf Land To Host MDA Putt-A-Thon

Western Golf Land will sponsor a Putt-A-Thon from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. Aug. 30 to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Kids of all ages are invited to participate in the event which will send its proceeds to benefit the MDA prior to the Jerry

today's sports

Lewis Labor Day Telethon Aug. 31 through Sept. 1.

Those who would like to participate are urged to pick up information packets from 9-5:30 at Richardson Home Center or after 6 p.m. at Western Golf Land.

Members of the Snyder Jaycees will co-sponsor the Putt-A-Thon, in which golfers gather pledges for every hole they play.

Trophies will be given to the top three money raisers.

Cats Scrimmage Cooper Thursday; JV Competes, Too

Defensive coach Wes Poarch says the Tigers have one major goal for tomorrow's scrimmage with Abilene Cooper, and that is to "improve from last Thursday."

Snyder junior varsity will scrimmage Cooper at Rose Park in Abilene at 5 p.m. The varsity workout will follow immediately, about 6:30 or 7.

"We know Cooper is going to give us a solid scrimmage," added Poarch. "They are going to come out after us. It will be a good, solid learning experience for us and that's why we scrimmage teams like this."

Cooper, ranked No. 1 most of the season last year, is generally pre-season picked to finish first or

Don't Count On Harris; Laidlaw Sent Packing

DALLAS (AP)—Don't look for retired Cliff Harris to abandon the oil business to play free safety for the Dallas Cowboys.

At least that's the opinion of Coach Tom Landry, who has talked to Harris about the possibility of replacing the injured Randy Hughes, who will miss at least two months following shoulder surgery.

"In a general way, Cliff confirmed what I feel (on the matter)," Landry said Tuesday. "Cliff has given his heart and body to the Cowboys for 10 years and he was regarded as the best in the business."

"Now he has a new career and he likes his job. Of course, he has been bombarded by people wanting to know if he plans to comeback."

Landry said he got the feeling Harris "wants to continue on the road he is on. I would never do anything to make him do something he doesn't want to do... I would not want to jeopardize his new career."

Landry said flatly "There's nothing to be done at this moment."

Pressed about the future, Landry said "I'm not expecting it (Harris' return)."

Landry praised the current free safety, Dennis Thurman, saying "he has played extremely well as good as any of our defensive backs. The only limitation is his size (170 pounds)."

The Cowboys axed veteran backup fullback Scott Laidlaw Tuesday to make room for rookie fullback Tim Newsome and halfback James Jones, who have made the squad.

"It was difficult to cut a veteran who had contributed to the success of the Cowboys, but we had to do what was best for the team," said Landry.

Jones, a third round draft pick from Mississippi State, and Newsome, a sixth round pick from tiny Winston-Salem College, both have been impressive during training camp.

Landry also said that No. 1 tailback Tony Dorsett, who suffered a bruised thigh last week against Houston, may not play Saturday night in an exhibition game against Pittsburgh in Texas Stadium.

Hough Keys Rangers Win

TORONTO (AP)—Charlie Hough gained his first complete game victory in the American League on Tuesday with a stellar nine innings of "relief."

Hough was the starting pitcher for Texas Rangers, but he was a last minute replacement for Ferguson Jenkins, who was scratched from the lineup on the suggestion of AL president Lee MacPhail.

Jenkins, a native of Chatham, Ontario, was arrested Monday and charged with possession of cocaine, hashish and marijuana after Canadian police found the drugs in his luggage at Toronto International Airport.

Hough, who was informed he would start after he reached the stadium, checked the Toronto Blue Jays on five hits in the Rangers 8-0 victory.

"It's kind of a sticky situation," Hough said. "I really don't want to start under these conditions. This club needs Fergy and I hope he gets back in there soon."

Hough, a knuckleball specialist, had his "out" pitch dancing as he logged seven strikeouts against just two walks.

"I had a good one going all right," Hough said. "I wouldn't want to turn it in for anything else today. It was as good a knuckler as I've ever thrown for getting over the plate. I mean it's no good if it's moving all over and the catcher can't catch it."

Cedeno Slams Jays, 7-2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Much to his credit, Joe Niekro made no attempt to muscle up against a pitching opponent who took him downtown for a home run.

Instead, the Houston Astros knuckleballer settled for a single Tuesday night. The result was just as devastating, touching off a six-run rally which included Cesar Cedeno's grand slam and carried the leaders in the National League West to a 7-2 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I just tried to get up and put the ball in play," said Niekro, 14-11, who two innings earlier yielded a solo homer to Jim Kaat, 5-6.

"He hit a knuckle ball up. He's a pretty good hitter," the Houston hurler said of the 41-year-old Kaat. "I've got a brother that's 41, and he hits home runs. It's not the first time I gave up one to a pitcher, and it probably won't be the last."

Against Niekro, whose older brother Phil pitches for the Atlanta Braves, St. Louis grabbed a 2-1 lead on Kaat's 16th career homer and first in four years.

But in the fifth, the Astros right-hander responded with his 17th hit of the year, a single up the middle. After three more singles in a row produced a 2-2 tie, Cedeno teed off for his ninth homer of the year and first with the bases loaded since 1974.

"The last time I remember anything big was when I hit for the cycle right in this park three years ago," Cedeno said.

"I'll take another any time. I think it was a slow breaking pitch. You have to be patient. He (Kaat) knows how to pitch. Not everything he throws is slow. He just happened to throw a pitch that I could handle."

Wear and Tear Hard On Family's Genes

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In your answer to KNOWS TOO MUCH, who resented the tell-it-all aunt who had compiled the family history, exposing all the skeletons in the closet, you supported the aunt with, "Facts are facts!"

Come on, Abby. My family learned the hard way. Our family history was written around 1910 and contained all the "facts." That wonderful record, dating back to the 1700s, was so factual that it was "lost" for 70 years because a few grandmas gave birth a few months early.

I am now rewriting and updating our genealogical records, but omitting some current details. Those facts can be sealed in a safety deposit box to be opened 50 years after my death. In a few generations, an illegitimate baby, a suicide, a family feud, a prison record, etc. will be understood as human experiences. Right now, they may be regarded by some as an embarrassment. When those "facts" are revealed, I hope I will not be regarded as a brittle old uncle who placed accuracy and truth above sensitive human emotions. Far too many valuable family historical facts have been lost because at the time they were considered embarrassing.

FAMILY HISTORIAN

DEAR HISTORIAN: You're right. While facts are indeed facts, keeping them buried until all the "horse thieves" are dead seems reasonable and fair.

DEAR ABBY: Is it considered good manners, upon being invited to a party, to ask, "Who else are you having?"

This has happened to me several times, and I am always annoyed but don't know quite how to handle it, so I go ahead and recite the guest list.

When I extend an invitation I always give the details, such as what kind of party it will be, approximately how many are invited, etc., but I don't think I should have to tell who else will be there. What is your opinion?

DEAR L.A.: It is not good manners to ask who else will be there. And you're right, you are not obligated to recite the guest list.

DEAR ABBY: I'm almost 18 and have a strange question. My boyfriend and I are on the brink of a breakup. We've simply lost our love — but that's not the problem. We gave each other expensive graduation gifts, and now that we're breaking up, he insists on giving back the gifts. I spent about $100 for his gift, and he spent even more on mine. I want him to keep my gift, because when I gave it to him I loved him. However, he wants me to return the gift he gave me.

What is proper?

GIFT PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: A high school graduation gift is a gift — unlike an engagement ring that carries with it a commitment to marry. Tell Big Spender that you do not want your gift returned, and you want to keep his. Period.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Two Snyderites On Honor Roll

AUSTIN (AP)—Two students from Snyder are among those making the spring semester honor roll in the College of Business Administration at the University of Texas.

They are Don Cameron Burns, 807 27th St., and Robert Clay Youngkin, 4501 El Paso Ave. To qualify for the honor roll a student must have 12 or more semester hours of graded work, pass all courses and compile at least six hours of A and have a B average in all courses taken.

Any rabbit can swim if it has to. But some, such as the marsh rabbit that inhabits the Atlantic and Gulf coastal states from Virginia to Alabama, take to water quite readily. Marsh rabbits have been known to out-swim dogs.

ABC Nudges Out CBS In Nielsens

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS had seven of the week's 10 most-watched shows, including No. 1 "Circus of the Stars" and back-to-back episodes of "Dukes of Hazzard," but ABC won the prime-time competition for the third week in a month, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

ABC's triumph was by the narrowest of margins — one-tenth of one point. Limited to three of the week's Top 10 shows, including the premiere episode of "Those Amazing Animals" in second place, ABC bounced back with seven of the next 10.

ABC's rating for the week ending Aug. 24 was 15, to 14.9 for CBS and 11.3 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 15 percent of the country's TV-equipped homes were tuned to ABC.

"Those Amazing Animals" was one of two new prime-time series unveiled during the week. The ABC show finished second to CBS' repeat of "Circus of the Stars," which registered a rating of 22.2. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television 22.2 percent saw at least part of the show.

The other new show, NBC's "Games People

Play," finished the week in 30th place.

As is common this time of year, the week was dominated by reruns, and only a handful of original shows were even moderately successful in the ratings. "That's My Line" on CBS was No. 35, "Nobody's Perfect" on ABC finished 42nd, NBC's "Speak Up America" was No. 45 and "Friday Night Fights," also on NBC, finished 47th. Two movies, "Final Chapter-Walking Tall," No. 11 for the week, and "Heroes of Rock 'n' Roll" in 13th place, scored for ABC. Two CBS movies did not do as well — "Perfect Gentlemen" in 36th place, and a first-run screening of "Islands in the Stream" No. 39.

NBC listed three of the week's five lowest-rated shows, including "Here's Boomer" in 58th place, "Man's Greatest Sports" 61st and "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century," No. 62. A "CBS Reports" presentation, "The Baby Makers," was No. 59, and an "ABC News Closeup" called "The Killing Ground: An Update," was No. 60.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"Circus of the Stars," with a rating of 22.2 representing 16.9 million homes, CBS; "Those Amazing Animals," 20.9 or 15.9 million, ABC; "M-A-S-H," 20.6 or 15.7 million, CBS; "Alice" and "The Jeffersons," both 20.1 or 15.3 million, both CBS; "Dukes of Hazzard," 9 p.m., 19.8 or 15.1 million, CBS; "Dukes of Hazzard," 10 p.m., CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 19.2 or 14.6 million; "60 Minutes," 19 or 14.5 million, CBS, and "Vegas," 18.9 or 14.4 million, ABC.

The rest of the Top 20:

Movie—"Final Chapter-Walking Tall," "Charlie's Angels," Movie—"Heroes of Rock 'n' Roll," all ABC; "House Calls," "Lou Grant" and "Trapper

John, M.D.," all CBS; "Taxi" and "Hart to Hart," both ABC, and "Love Boat" and "That's Incredible," both ABC, tie.

The otters' 60-pound bodies, from 5 to 6 feet long, are clumsy on land. But webbed feet and powerful tails drive them quickly through small tropical rivers. Natives call them "bigi watra dagoo," or "big water dogs."

Willing To Compromise On Rail Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bob Eckhardt claims he's willing to compromise on the stalled railroad deregulation bill, if anyone would ask him. "I would consider any of these things an opening point," he said.

The Texas congressman said the bill's sponsor, Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., instead has attempted repeatedly to break up the coalition that passed by a narrow margin Eckhardt's amendment designed to protect so-called "captive shippers."

Florio pulled the bill from further House consideration last month after the amendment passed, claiming it would increase regulation.

The latest twist in the bill's lengthening history took place Tuesday when Florio left a White House meeting claiming he had President Carter's support for a new compromise proposal.

He said the bill was set for another go on the House floor Sept. 4 and he was optimistic he could attach the compromise to it.

The New Jersey congressman only last week said the bill apparently was dead for this session, but he made another attempt over the weekend at White House request to come up with a new proposal.

Congress has passed airline and trucking deregulation measures so far this year and Carter reportedly is anxious to add railroad deregulations as the final touch.

"I understand that he (Florio) asked for a meeting with the president and went over there with his position," Eckhardt said late Tuesday.

"It's always a strange thing. He (Florio) is talking about a compromise but, you know, you've got to compromise with somebody and I've never seen Mr. Florio compromise with anybody but Mr. Madigan," the Houston congressman said. "I have never been offered a compromise."

Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., is one of the chief supporters of the bill as written by Florio.

Eckhardt said Florio's latest plan is unacceptable because it still would allow the threshold to rise too high before the Interstate Commerce Commission could review a railroad rate case.

The amendment that Florio objects to lowered the threshold to approximately 160 percent of a railroad's variable costs for shipping cargo on routes where it has no competition. The figure was about 200 percent in the original bill.

Florio's latest plan would phase in a higher threshold, starting at 160 percent and raising it to 175 percent by the fourth year the bill is in effect.

Eckhardt said, however, that other provisions would allow it to rise to 181 percent by the fourth year.

Supported by almost all of the Texas congressional delegation and by state officials, Eckhardt has claimed higher thresholds before the ICC could step in would allow railroads too much freedom in raising rates for their captive shippers.

The most frequently mentioned cases are the battles between South Texas utilities and the railroads over the rates charged for hauling coal from Montana and Wyoming.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

A serious disease

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm in my middle 30s and have been afflicted with low back pain off and on for 20 years. Seven years ago I had a short bout of iritis but have been unaffected since then. About two weeks ago I got iritis again and I'm being treated with eye drops but I still have some bloodshot eyes and difficulties. I was told that the iritis was not uncommon in people like myself who have confirmed ankylosing spondylitis.

I have a fusion of the sacroiliac joints. What causes such a fusion and can the effects be minimized through changes in diet and exercise or other living habits?

DEAR READER—Your letter suggests that your disorder began in your late teens. That's not unusual for the kind of arthritis you are describing. It's also called rheumatoid spondylitis. It is prone to occur in young men. The usual first complaint is low back pain. In the early stages of the disease, the physical findings are minimal. As a result, such young men are often called malingers when, in fact, they have a serious disease.

There has been a lot of changes in our understanding of this disorder in the past few years. While we used to think it was a rare disease, recent studies show that it occurs in about 1.5 percent of whites. Also it is not just a disease of men. It is about as frequent in women but they tend to have a milder form of the disease.

The diagnosis can be made in a person who has characteristic back pain and has X-ray evidence of the changes in the sacroiliac joints. X-rays of the spine without examination of these joints may reveal nothing in the early stages of the disease.

The sacroiliac joints are where the sacrum from your spinal column join the large pelvic bones. The early changes are those of inflammation of these joints. The fusion you asked about is the result of the inflammatory process.

Being diagnosed early is half the battle. It is important to maintain the mobility of the spine. To do this you need to have the pain controlled, which can be done with medicines in most cases. The two medicines commonly used for the arthritis are indomethacin (Indocin) and phenylbutazone (Butazolidin). Indocin is usually the drug of choice.

Exercises should be designed to strengthen the back muscles and maintain flexibility. Postural training is important. You should sleep on a firm mattress to keep the spine straight and use a small pillow. Pay attention to your posture at work and play. Incidentally, swimming is a very good exercise for most people with your problem.

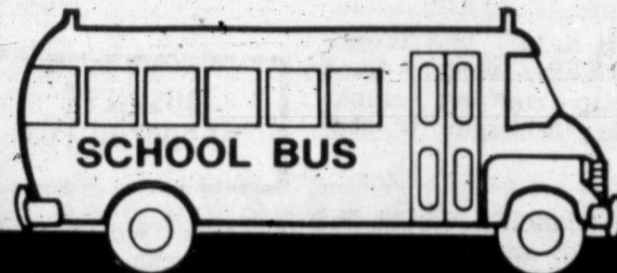

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache and What to Do About It. It includes exercises commonly used for back pain which will be of use to you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There is not much you can do through diet to help your problem but I would caution against getting overweight. Be sure that your furniture fits you so you can sit properly with your back straight and well supported.

Continue with your ophthalmological treatments. About one-fourth of people with this form of arthritis develop such eye problems.

Even With Lack Of Loafers Hondo May Get Some Funds

HONDO (AP)—Although this South Texas city's unemployment rate continues at a low 3 per cent, maverick Mayor Woody Glasscock says it may finally qualify for some federal funds.

Glasscock drew national headlines and received thousands of letters and telephone calls in June 1977 when he wrote President Carter asking that bonafide hardcore loafers be sent to this South Texas town to qualify it for federal funding.

"I want a list of people who won't work under any circumstances," Glasscock told the president. "I intend to write them letters to move here in sufficient quantities to enable us to qualify for some of your programs."

Glasscock wrote the tongue-in-cheek letter
when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare refused to help the city build a $1 million civic center, although he said Medina County has one of the lowest per capita income levels in Texas and could not afford to approve a bond issue.

"I got a letter back from the assistant secretary to the undersecretary of HEW. It said that the City of Hondo was 'not of sufficient quotient to merit countercyclical stimuli,' laughs Glasscock.

Three years later, Glasscock reports that four people eventually did come to Hondo looking for work in response to the letter and "they've all got jobs. The longest anyone was unemployed was nine days."

His letter was meant as sophisticated humor to criticize the government's

Thefts, 3
Accidents Reported

A theft and three minor traffic accidents were reported to city police officers Tuesday.

The theft was reported at Snyder Electric by Mrs.
Vernon Rannefeld. She told officers $75 in cash had been stolen.

The first traffic accident was worked by Buddy Kinney at 12:10 p.m. in the 1100 block of College Ave.
Involved in it were a 1965
Ford driven by Bernanda Sanjuan and a 1972 Pontiac driven by Margie Thompson.

The second was at 9:30 p.m. at the intersection of 26th St. and College Ave. It was worked by Don Cheek and involved a 1979 Ford driven by Tina Hataway and a 1966 Ford pickup driven by Douglas Procter.

The remaining accident was reported at 9:20 p.m., but occurred on Aug. 10. It involved, according to reports, a parked 1977 Pontiac owned by Asencion Rios and a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Roman Martinez. The accident took place in North Park.

Not Jail Terms...

Panel Says Skid Row Drunks Deserve Help

AUSTIN (AP)—Skid row drunks are sick and should be treated, not jailed, a House committee said Tuesday in a report to the 1981 Legislature.

The House Committee on Health service said Texas should join the 36 other states that have de-criminalized public intoxication.

The report recommended spending $10 million a year in liquor taxes for treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

"Criminal processing of public inebriates, under the current public drunkenness statute, does not recognize alcoholism as an illness or severe inebriation as a life threat," the report said.

Susan Groman, coordinator of the Houston municipal courts' Public Inebriation Diversion Program, said treatment is cheaper and more productive than repeated arrests.

Ms. Groman said her agency has placed a number of skid row alcoholics in halfway houses for rehabilitation.

"Some have been able to adjust. It has taken several placements. But it is a lot cheaper way to go," she said.

The report said "revolving door alcoholics" can sometimes "become productive citizens and taxpayers" if given rehabilitation instead of time in jail.

The committee also recommended:

- Passage of a law banning possession of open containers of alcoholic beverages in automobiles as a means of reducing the number of accidents caused by drunken drivers.
- Education about the symptoms of alcoholism as a requirement of obtaining a Texas medical license.
- Required blood alcohol tests of all victims of fatal auto accidents and of all drivers of cars involved in fatal accidents.
- A requirement that all group health insurance policies issued in Texas cover treatment for alcoholism.

It cost taxpayers $13.6

million to arrest, jail and try persons accused of public intoxication in 1979, the report said.

The committee also approved, 5-2, a report saying the state's Child Care Licensing Act, repeatedly attacked by evangelist Lester Roloff, does not violate the constitutional right of free exercise of religion.

Driver In Fatal Wreck Is Charged

A charge of negligent homicide was filed yesterday against John Lewis Milliken of Snyder, involved in a traffic accident last month in which one man was killed.

Killed in that accident was William Peyton Weaver Jr. of Sweetwater. The charge alleges that Milliken, the driver of the car that collided with Weaver's auto, failed to stop at a stop sign and wait until traffic was clear and failed to yield the right of way.

The accident occurred July 21 at Highway 84 and Ennis Creek Road.

Negligent homicide is a Class A misdemeanor.

400 Rally For School Prayer

LUBBOCK (AP)—Even a sign-carrying, prayerful crowd of 400 students and parents did not prevent the Lubbock school board from voting to curb prayers in school.

About 400 people rallied Tuesday at 6 a.m. on the parking lot of the Lubbock Independent School District building, carrying signs promoting prayer at the public schools.

"Practice what you teach freedom of speech," "You vote out prayer, we'll vote you out," the placards read.

Drought, High Prices Take Toll On Farmers

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A scorching summer heat wave, soaring interest rates, rising production costs and sinking profits have many West Texas farmers ready to throw in the towel.

"Many of our farmers and ranchers are borrowed up to their necks, and there is very little margin for a producer to have a bad year," said Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan Brown in an interview with the San Angelo Standard-Times.

"The level of farm debt is up substantially this year, with much of the increased borrowing due to higher operating costs," he said.

"What they need now more than anything are commodity prices that reflect the true value of the products."

A senior vice president at Bank of the Southwest in Amarillo said farm loans for first quarter of 1980 are up 22 percent over last year.

Poor harvests resulting from the Texas heat wave mean much of that debt won't be repaid soon, said Lee Russell, president of the Texas Production Credit Association.

"Normally, by this time of year, milo crops are in and we begin collecting hundreds of thousands of dollars in debts," Russell said.

"This year we're collecting very little."

Most farmers have given up on their cotton and milo fields, saying rain from Hurricane Allen was the last hope for their wilting crops and it failed to materialize.

It's really tough and some farmers have just about had it," Russell said.

said.

"We'll try to stick by them even during their hardest times, but we have certain limits, too," he said. "We can't drop the strong to take care of the weak."

Russell said the current situation is the worst he's seen since the drought of the middle and late 1950s, "but in the drought of the late '50s we didn't have the inflation or high cost of products we have now."

Loans from federal land banks, commercial banks and production credit associations, which account for 90 percent of the credit to farmers, increased by $11.4 billion in the first quarter of this year, Brown said.

He is urging farmers to seek federal assistance from the Small Business Administration, the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Farmers Home Administration.

"In 1980, fuel prices and farm equipment prices - the highest ever - along with dry weather, caused unusual problems," Brown said.

Farm equipment prices are two to three times higher than five years ago and everything has soared in price - except farmers' profits, Russell said.
