CIO And NAM Clash Over Wage Question

Mosher Assails Murray Resolution Setting Up Proposal By President

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Top spokesmen for the CIO and the National Association of Manufacturers clashed publicly tonight on whether President Truman's labor-management conference should consider the question of national wage levels.

A few hours after CIO President Philip Murray succeeded in getting a wage resolution before the conference's powerful executive committee—which would have to clear it before it reached the conference floor—NAM President Ira Mosher declared his opposition.

Mosher's Retort

"The labor-management conference is not itself a collective bargaining conference," Mosher said in a public statement.

Mosher said it would be putting "the cart before the horse" to take up the wage question without first having found agreement on the collective bargaining principles by which wage and other questions are to be settled by unions and management.

His stand, understood to represent the opinion of the management delegates generally, was believed to have virtually removed any chance that the wage question would reach the conference, since the AFL also opposed its consideration.

No Committee Action

Murray's resolution, mildly phrased but calling attention to President Truman's broadcast statement last week that wage increases are "imperative," has not been acted upon by the 16-member executive committee.

After two days of speech making, the conference which seeks to set a course of industrial peace, broke up into committees to study the several items on the agenda. It was the powerful and newly enlarged executive committee which got Murray's resolution.

Murray's action underlined his contention that wages are the basic cause of all major labor disputes and for that reason should be recognized by the conference.

The CIO leader said he did not intend to propose that the conference agree on any fixed percentage increase for all workers, because such details could be worked out by each industry, but it thought the conference should agree that general wage increases could be granted without increasing prices.

CIO May Stand Alone

Preliminary indications are the CIO will stand alone on this issue of putting wages into the conference agenda. The CIO has three of the executive committee's 16 votes. A three-fourths vote of the committee is required for submission of reports to the confer-

Curfew Checks Bloody Tripoli Rioting After 74 Jews And One Arab Are Slain

By FRED KRIEG
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Nov. 7—Seventy-four Jews and one Arab were killed in bloody anti-Jewish rioting the past three-days in Tripolitania, but a curfew and stern shoot-to-kill orders to troops tonight had suppressed disorders in most of the Mediterranean colony.

Arab mobs looted and gutted Jewish quarters and assaulted Jews in Tripoli, Souk El Juma, and Tagiura "in a serious outbreak of rioting, violence and arson" started on Sunday night, British headquarters declared.

Many Are Hospitalized

The rioting, blamed by the British on "irresponsible elements who in a large majority of cases came from the Arab section of the population," hospitalized 183 Jews, 36 Arabs, and two Italians.

The new Arab-Jewish clashes followed rioting last week in Egypt, in protest of a national home in Palestine for Jews, in which 10 persons were reported killed and 520 injured.

Troops and police in Tripoli were ordered to "shoot all looters and fire if necessary to disperse groups of more than five persons." A 9 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew was imposed there Monday, and then extended from 5 p. m. to 6 a. m. throughout all of Tripolitania, the Italian colony where Allied and Axis armies battled in the North African campaigns.

Arab Mob Attacks Jews

The riots started in Tripoli when "an Arab mob attacked the Jewish quarter" there, the communique said, and despite heavy guards looting, incendiarism and "isolated brutal assaults of Arabs upon Jews" flared again Monday morning. Rumors were spread charging Jews with crimes against Arabs, the British said.

On Monday, "undisciplined Arab mobs looted and gutted the Jewish quarter at Souk El Juma and Tagiura," the communique said.

Subversive Arab elements have been arrested, the British said.

Tripolitania and Cyrenaica to the east make up the great Italian colony of Libya, whose people have been demanding independence from Italy. The Arab league is supporting their demand. Tripolitania is being administered temporarily by the British on behalf of the Allies.

The British statement declared: "These acts of violence which are unprecedented in the history of Tripolitania (which had always been characterized by friendship and mutual goodwill between the

Wallace Award To Be Made This Afternoon

The Congressional Medal of Honor—the nation's highest award for military service—will be presented posthumously to Pfc. Herman C. Wallace of Lubbock at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon by Brig.-Gen. George Forster of Fort Bliss, El Paso, at the American Legion hall. The parents will receive the award.

The 19-year-old combat engineer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wallace of 2615 Elm, deliberately smothered the explosion of a land mine with his body and saved the lives of two of his buddies at cost of his own Feb. 27 near Prumzurley, Germany, while they were clearing a mine field. He died in a field hospital the same day.

He was the first Lubbock man to qualify for the honor in World war II.

In 1942 Wallace was graduated from Lubbock high school, studied civil engineering at Texas Technological college one year, and entered service June 16, 1943. He landed in France Jan. 9, 1945, and was in three major engagements, including the battle of the Saar river crossing on Feb. 9.

A few days before his death his First Platoon was attached to a combat unit with the mission of spearheading an attack that was to lead deep into Germany. Wallace was leading the platoon with a mine detector. His company was part of Gen. George S. Patton's famed Third Army.

Came Here When a Baby

Wallace was born June 12, 1924 at Marlow, Okla., but was brought to Lubbock when a baby by his parents.

An older brother, Ralph, with the Army Air forces at Alexandria, La., is due here by plane this morning. Other relatives are two brothers, Wayne and Orville, and a sister, Marcine, all of Lubbock.

The official citation:

"Private First Class Herman C. Wallace, Company B. 301st Engineer Combat battalion, displayed conspicuous gallantry and interpidity on Feb. 27, 1945, near Prumzurley, Germany.

Muffles Mine With Body

"While helping clear enemy mines from a road, he stepped on a well-concealed S-type anti-personnel mine. Hearing the characteristic noise indicating that the mine had been activated and, if he stepped aside, would be thrown upward to explode above ground and spray the area with fragments, surely killing two comrades directly behind him and endangering the lives of other members of his squad, he deliberately placed his other foot on the mine even though his best chance for survival was to fall prone.

"Private Wallace was fatally wounded when the charge detonated, but his supreme heroism at the cost of his life confined the blast to the ground and his own body and saved his fellow soldiers from death or injury."

Britain Suspicious Of Soviet, Urges Frank And Open Dealings

Bevin Fears Territorial Demands; Churchill Urges Secrecy On A-Bomb

By JOHN A. PARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 7—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, hinting that Britain was suspicious of Russia's territorial demands, appealed tonight to the great powers to "really put the cards on the table face upwards."

Bevin spoke in a fulldress debate in Commons on foreign affairs after Winston Churchill had urged that Britain support the United States in refusing Russia the secret of atomic bomb production. Russia, Churchill argued, would not share the secret if she alone possessed it.

Causes Of Suspicion

While Bevin did not name Russia, he said:

"You cannot help our being a little bit suspicious if a great powers wants to go right across the throat of the British commonwealth."

He apparently was referring to reported Soviet demands for sole trusteeship of Tripolitania, former Italian colony on the Mediterranean's southern shore, and a base in Eriterea—two steps which would leave Russia straddling British communications to the Middle and Far East.

Endorse Truman Program

Churchill and Bevin both endorsed President Truman's 12-point foreign policy program and said if this plan had existed in 1914 or in 1939 neither World war would have occurred.

Both men, speaking plainly and bluntly, repeatedly stressed British desire for even closer relations with Russia, and expressed belief that hope for the future must rest on a strong world security league. And both emphasized that the Labor majority and Conservative minority must see eye-to-eye on Britain's foreign policy.

Churchill urged the Labor government not to put "pressure" on the United States, in Prime Minister Attlee's forthcoming Washington talks, to make the secrets of atomic bomb production available to Moscow.

"During the war we imparted many secrets to the Russians, especially in connection with radar, but we were not conscious of any adequate reciprocity," he said.

At the same time Churchill praised Generalissimo Stalin and warned against any "state of mind" which might lead to a rupture of British - Russian associations. He said the world outlook in many respects was darker than in 1918 and 1919.

Bevin disagreed with Churchill on the future outlook, expressing hope that the United Nations organization would be able to maintain peace.

Spheres Of Influence

The foreign secretary declared that the "great difficulty in achieving international cooperational rests in "whether or not you can entirely obliterate what are called spheres of influence and power politics.

He appealed to the world's great powers to "put their cards on the table face upwards" in an effort to establish international peace.

"We are ready to do it," he cried.

Then referring to territorial demands, presumably those of Russia he said:

"We have met territorially al-

Dardanelles Plan Offered

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The United States today unveiled a four-point program for decreasing Turkish authority over the Dardanelles and giving the United Nations a voice in its military use.

The program would result in greater rights for Russia in the use of the vital straits between the Mediterranean and the Black sea, but would not give Russia all she wants. Particularly, it withholds American approval from a Russian proposal for Soviet military bases on the straits.

Russo-Turkish Treaty

The disclosure came from Secretary of State Byrnes on the very day on which Russia's long-standing treaty of friendship and nonaggression with Turkey expired after being denounced several months ago.

There was a general assumption at the State department that one of Russia's primary objectives in knocking this treaty on the head was to bring psychological pressure on Turkey in order to win concessions over the Dardanelles.

The straits at present are governed by a treaty made at Montreux, Switzerland, a decade ago. Byrnes told his news conference that the United States had written the Ankara government a letter saying that the United States favors these four steps for revision of the Montreux convention:

Open To Merchant Ships

1. The straits should be open to the merchant vessels of all nations at all times. They are generally open now except that Turkey may limit passage of merchant vessels in time of war or threat of war.

2. The straits should be open to the warships of the Black sea powers at all times. At present the warships of any belligerent power may be barred by a neutral Turkey. This puts Russia, as the foremost Black sea power, at a considerable disadvantage in wartime.

3. Expect for limited tonnage in peacetime, warships of non-Black sea powers would be denied passage through the straits unless the Black sea powers consented or the United Nations granted authority for passage. The peacetime tonnage figure would have to be decided at an international conference. The present maximum for

World Security Plan Advances

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Legislation to put substance and force behind American adherence to the United Nations peace organization cleared its first congressional hurdle today.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee approved a measure authorizing the President to negotiate an agreement with other members of the World Security council as to what armed forces this country will allocate for maintenance of the peace.

Restriction Written In

The committee wrote in a restriction that no American forces, other than those covered by the agreement with the security council, are to be used for peace enforcement without specific approval from Congress.

The agreement itself also is subject to congressional approval.

Once the agreement is approved, the President could order the armed forces covered by it into action without asking Congress for further authority.

Other Provisions

Other provisions of the "implementing" legislation would:

1. Authorize the President to appoint, subject to confirmation by the Senate, a United States representative on the security council with the rank of ambassador and annual compensation of $20,000, and a deputy representative with rank of minister and compensation of $12,000. President Truman has said he intends to appoint former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius to the No. 1 post.

2. Authorize the President to appoint representatives to other agencies of the United Nations with annual salaries not to exceed $12,000.

3. Direct that the representatives "shall at all times act in accordance with the instructions of the President."

4. Direct that the President make reports to Congress at least once a year, on activities of the United Nations, and make "special, current reports on decisions of the security council to take enforcement measures."

Economic Relations

5. Authorize the President, when called upon by the security council, to regulate or forbid economic relations or communications between any foreign country and any person in the United States.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), for one, told reporters he objected to letting the President send any troops into action without specific approval from Congress.

However, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said he expected no major difficulty in the Senate.

Reds Hold Two Chiang Generals

CHUNGKING, Thursday, Nov. 8. (AP)—Chinese Communists have captured two Central government army commanders—one reportedly committed suicide—in southern Hopeh province and forced the government armies to retreat, a military spokesman acknowledged today.

The scene of this reversal in China's undeclared civil war is the same one where the Communists claim they have routed 70,000 government troops.

Suicide Is Reported

The spokesman said one of the captured generals was Ma Fah Wu, commander of the 41st army. He is understood to have committed suicide. The other was Kao Shu Hsun, commander of the Eighth Army.

The spokesman accused the Communists of circulating unfounded rumors about the two generals "in an effort to throw dust in the eyes of the public."

The Communists had claimed a number of generals and the bulk of their troops had surrendered.

The spokesman's version was that the 8th and 41st armies were attacked north of Tzehsien in Hopeh by several tens of thousands of Communists, were "taken unawares and were unable to concentrate in time to ward off the assault."

Armies Withdraw

He said their commanders were captured the night of Oct. 30 at different points and their armies subsequently withdrew southward

Texas Labor Picture Dark

(By The Associated Press)

Efforts are to be made today to get Greyhound buses rolling again in Texas as negotiations are resumed in Fort Worth.

In four other Texas cities the labor picture darkened.

Greyhound bus drivers struck Sunday midnight, demanding more pay. Approximately 2,000 drivers, ticket agents and baggage room attendants are idle in the Southwest.

Others Doing Big Business

Other bus lines have been doing a heavy business.

Resumption of service by the week end was indicated as possible by both management and labor as they planned the conference.

At Borger, workers in six Phillips Petroleum company plants and departments have voted an intent to strike. They have notified the company and petitioned the National Labor Relations board for a strike vote.

Joe Rigdon, business representative of the international union of operating engineers, said the vote was taken at a general meeting Oct. 23. That means Nov. 23 is the earliest possible time a strike may become effective.

Job Classification

Dispute is over what Rigdon said was company refusal to arbitrate job classifications at the Plains butadiene plant, and a reconversion program advanced by the union.

Involved are the Borger refinery, Plains butadiene plant, Phillblack carbon plant, district gasoline department, district production department and district warehouse and salvage department.

The work stoppage by Garment Workers of America is in its fourth day at Sherman, but yesterday 38 machine operators crossed picket lines and returned to their jobs at the Pool Manufacturing company. About 150 workers quit Monday when negotiations on a revision of a work contract broke down.

Ford Workers Vote

Employes of the Ford Motor company plant at Dallas voted yesterday on a strike ballot called by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in 37 cities where Ford employes are represented by the UAW.

The union is seeking a 30 per cent wage increase.

At Hillsboro, B. B. Powers, president of the Hillsboro CIO union who was injured in a fight at the cotton mills there Monday, filed complaints yesterday against a fellow worker and a taxi driver.

The fight occurred when workers of the Hillsboro cotton mills were returning to their jobs after a three-week strike.

Workers Reject GM's Proposal

DETROIT, Nov. 7. (AP) — General Motors Corp. today offered a cost of living wage increase to its workers, and the CIO United Auto Workers union promptly rejected the proposal.

The corporation had formally and flatly scorned the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate boost, terming the demand "excessive." Instead the corporation offered increases in classifications where, since 1941, wages have not been raised in proposition to the cost of living.

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the UAW-CIO, declared that the union "flatly rejects the corporation's bribe offer because we will not be a party to sandbagging the American consumer."

At negotiation sessions today, Reuther said he asked corporation representatives "if they would offer us any increase — even one per cent — with the agreement that they would not seek price increases on the basis of the wage raise, and the corporation's answer was 'no'."

The corporation's position was stated in a 34-page brief. The exact amount of increases would be determined through future negotiations with the UAW-CIO, General Motors said.

The labor leader also said GM had renewed its proposal that the UAW-CIO join with the corporation in seeking a revision of the wage and hour act to provide for a standard 45-hour work week instead of the present 40.

Spruill Baby Burns To Death At Slaton

SLATON, Nov. 7 (Special) — Reba Maxine, 18-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Spruill, burned to death about 2 o'clock this afternoon when fire of unknown origin swept through their home.

A 14-year-old brother caring for the baby was overcome by smoke when he attempted to rescue the child, which was upstairs. Another child, about 3 years old, escaped. The three were the only ones at home at time of the fire, it was reported.

Besides the parents, five brothers and sisters survive. Funeral services have been set tentatively for 4 p. m. today, but plans had not been completed, Williams funeral home of Slaton reported.

50-Point GIs To Get Discharges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — The War department tonight announced that enlisted men who have 50 or more discharge points and are now on furlough in this country will be released as they report back to the Army this month.

The new rule also applies to enlisted men now on temporary duty in the United States. They will be classed as surplus and discharged upon their return to a reception center.

At present, the general discharge score for enlisted men is 60 points.

Chief Beneficiaries

Chief beneficiaries of the action, the War department said, are men who returned from Europe with units originally earmarked for duty in the Pacific.

During the day, the department also:

1 — Authorized the immediate discharge of soldiers who were prisoners of the enemy for at least 60 days. Approximately 25,000 are affected.

2—Put new restrictions on overseas duty for enlisted men and officers—a step affecting approximately 125,000.

The department announced that, with a few exceptions, no enlisted man with 21 or more months of honorable service since Sept. 16, 1940, will be sent overseas for permanent duty.

The exceptions are those who

Lt. Ernest Peschau Dies In Jap Prison

First Lt. Ernest J. Peschau, jr., died a prisoner of war in Japan June 7, 1944, according to a telegram from the War department to his wife, who lives with her parents, Co. and Mrs. Thos. L. Gilbert, 2201 Broadway.

The fact of death was learned from records captured from the Japanese. The telegram explained the long delay in reporting the death was because the Japanese had not listed him among the prisoners.

Lt. Peschau was bombardier on a B-24 which went down while returning to a Marshall island base after a raid on Saipan May 29, 1944. A co-pilot of the plane later told Peschau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Peschau of Wilmington, N. C., that Peschau was injured in the crash. The Japs picked them up from a raft.

Lt. Peschau, who was 26 years old on the day he crashed, is also survived by a daughter, Lani, 26 months old.

Another Body Found After Bomber Crash

CHICO, Calif., Nov. 7. (AP)—The fourth crew member of a B-29 which crashed and burned last night six miles northeast of here was found dead today, bringing the total fatalities to three. The other crewman is seriously injured. Names of the men are to be released at Love Field, Tex., the big plane's home base.

The Superfort, en route here from Denver, was in radio contact with the Chico Army air base just before it crashed.

The crash occurred at 7:15 p. m. Col. A. W. Tyer, commanding officer of the Chico field, said the B-29 was to have been stationed here, a staging base for Superforts.

Nazi Squeals To FBI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Attorney General Tom C. Clark disclosed today that one of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed on the east coast in June, 1942, tipped off the FBI about the Nazi plot.

George John Dasch, one of the four Germans who landed on Long Island, came here from New York and gave the details of the sabotage mission to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, lark said in releasing the record of the trial of the sabtoeurs.

Dasch, who illegally entered the United States in 1922 and returned to Germany in 1939, testified at the trial that his sole purpose in entering the German sabotage school, where the eight were trained for their mission, was to get out of Germany again. He said he had no intention of carrying out his mission.

Dasch is serving a 30-year sentence in federal prison. Six of the saboteurs were executed after trial before a military commission. Ernest Peter Burger, who landed with Dasch, received a life sentence.

Clark in a statement said:

"Dasch told of the sabotage mission. He explained that he and Burger had agreed to notify the FBI and that Burger had full knowledge of his purpose in com-

China's Internal Strife Gets Hotter . . .

Marines To Pull Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—The United States is planning to withdraw its Marines from hot spots in China, Secretary of State Byrnes said today.

His disclosure at a news conference coincided with word from Chungking that a full scale war appears imminent between the government forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and the North China Communist armies.

The Marines, reported to total two divisions, went into North China several weeks ago to take over strategic spots from the surrendering Japanese and hold them for release to Chinese government forces. The U. S. Navy and Army air forces then began transporting these government forces to the places where the Marines were holding out, notably such cities as Peiping and Tientsin.

Officials amplifying Byrnes' terse announcement said that it did not reflect any basic change in American policy toward China—a policy which strongly supports Generalissimo Chiang—but means that the northern cities soon will be turned over to Chinese government forces.

If full-scale war does break out in China the fact would have to be taken into consideration on each new policy development affecting that country.

Japs Resent Girls Dating Americans

TOKYO, Nov. 7. (AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today a Japanese sailor struck a Japanese girl in downtown Bibiuya park for dating an American soldier, and called it the first open show of resentment against fraternization.

The sailor, Seaman Hisamatsu Masaharu, 19, was taken to provost marshal headquarters by a group of American soldiers and was turned over to Tokyo police. The girl was given treatment for a split lip.

The American soldiers said Masaharu was one of nine Japanese sailors he saw slapping the faces of Japanese girls with Americans, but a military police patrol failed to locate any other reported face-slappers.

A Japanese police official said Masaharu was booked and released to return to his ship. He said the sailor was engaged in repatriation duty and would be questioned later.

State Loses Another Attempt To Claim Title To Part Of Island

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—The State of Texas today lost another attempt to claim title to a part of Padre island, potential oil territory paralleling the Texas coastline in the Gulf of Mexico from Corpus Christi to Brownsville.

A rehearing was refused, which leaves in effect a 1944 decision in favor of present occupants of the long narrow island.

Three dissenting opinions were filed in the most remarkable divergence of views that has occurred in the State Supreme court in recent years.

State Lost In 1944

The case was decided adversely to the state claim Dec. 20, 1944, when a majority of the then three-member court adopted an opinion by Commissioner C. S. Slatton holding that the government of Mexico in 1829 had granted the entire island to Padre Nicholas Balli. Today a state motion for rehearing was overruled.

The dissenting opinions today were by Chief Justice James P. Alexander and Associate Justices John Sharp and Gordon Simpson.

Sharp had dissented when the Slatton opinion was adopted last year, and Alexander had agreed with Slatton. Simpson was not then a member of the court, having taken office Jan. 1 as successor to Justice Richard Critz who had agreed with Slatton's view.

State Hoped For Change

The state motion for rehearing had been made largely in the hope that the change in court membership would give the majority to the state side with Simpson's addition.

Then came the amendment to the state constitution last Aug. 25, making the six former commissioners who aided the court full voting members.

In today's decision the court as made up prior to Aug. 25 change was overridden by the commissioners. No new affirmative opinion was filed. The one written by Slatton as a commissioner in 1944 therefore stands.

Gist Of Court Ruling

Gist of that ruling was in one sentence when he wrote:

"It seems clear to us under the record in the case, Nicholas Balli and his nephew Juan Balli sought to acquire and the officials of the state of Tamaulipas intended to cede to them an entire island."

The state first sued in 1940 for all of the island, then shifted its prime contention to all in excess of 11½ of the estimated 30 leagues in the island. The basis of this claim was that the descriptive matter in the grant called for much less than the entire island.

Besides members of the Balli family, there were about 240 other defendants named in the state suit. These included persons who from time to time had acquired interests in the long, narrow island, parts of which are in Caremon, Kleberg, Willacy, Kenedy and Nueces counties. Among those with such interest are Sun and Sinclair-Prairie Oil companies and the King ranch.

The fight over Padre island was started when former Gov. James V. Allred questioned validity of the grant in vetoing a 1937 bill of the state legislature authorizing state purchase of the island for development by the state parks board. The matter became a controversy between Allred and former Atty. Gen. William McChaw. The suit was filed by McCraw's successor former Atty. Gerald C. Mann.

One of the colorful occupants of the island was the late Pat Dunn who used a large part of it for an unfenced ranch and was popularly known as the "Duke of Padre Island." After Dunn's death an eastern syndicate contracted for his ranch for $550,000 with an announced plan of opening a tourist resort.

Oil operations on the island were delayed both by litigation and war restrictions, so its oil possibilities still are undetermined.

Details were brought out at a coast guard hearing here today on the petition of Capt. A. H. Miller of the Newberg asking revocation of the license of First Mate Charles L. Moes, 55, of Los Angeles.

The hearing is before Lt. Comdr. Maurice D. Melanphy, officer in charge of marine inspection of the port of Corpus Christi. It is being held aboard the Newberg.

While the hearing was underway, the tanker was seized by U. S. Deputy Marshal William W. Ainsworth on an order issuing from the U. S. district court after Maes filed the $30,000 libel.

The Newberg, owned by the Los Angeles Tank Operators, Inc., may not leave port until the company posts bond.

Capt. Miller logged Maes for insubordination on the high seas and threw him in chains as the tanker was approaching Balboa Oct. 18. He said Maes refused to "butterworth the tanks" at his order. This is a cleaning operation.

Maes remained in chains for 15 days, he said in his charges. When the ship docked here Nov. 2, he was transferred to the Nueces county jail.

Maes was released Monday following an investigation by the FBI, asked by Capt. Miller when Maes was placed in jail.

No criminal charges have been filed against him.

Dallas Man Says He Will Prove Innocence

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (UP)—Denial of guilt and readiness to go to trial to prove innocence was the rebuttal to a charge of income tax evasion made today by Joe H. Jones, former assistant district attorney.

The indictment charging Jones with income tax evasion will be heard at the January term of court, said Federal District Attorney Bob Young.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson said yesterday that he would have another judge sit in his place during Jones' trial. "After working eight to ten years with a man I feel no inclination to sit in judgment upon him," he added.

Jones posted a $2,500 bond before United States Commissioner John Davis yesterday. Denying charges of income tax evasion, he said, "on February 14 I voluntarily filed an amended tax return set out in the indictment and paid the full amount."

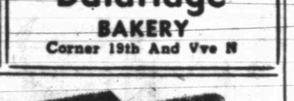

"This was five days before an investigation of any sort got underway. I had been unaware of the tax discrepancy but paid it as soon as it was called to my attention," he added.

"I am innocent and the sooner I can get this matter into court the sooner I will be vindicated," Jones declared.

Taxi Drivers Charged With Rape, Assault

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (UP)—Two taxi drivers were charged with statutory rape and aggravated assault today after police heard statements from a 12-year-old girl who had been missing for a week.

The girl, who disappeared Oct. 27 following an all-night party at the apartment of one of the drivers, appeared at court yesterday with her father.

Joe C. Erickson, 33, was charged with statutory rape and J. P. Anderson, 35, with aggravated assault. Previously both had been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The girl said that after she left Erickson's cab on Oct. 28 she visited the home of a girl friend in Beeville, Tex., while a statewide search was being conducted for her.

Molotov Makes Bid For Further Cooperation, Sounds Warning

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

There is ground for hope and also a note of warning in Soviet Russia's position toward pressing world problems, as set forth by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov in his Red anniversary speech.

Molotov refrained from saying anything provocative, but he plainly challenged the American policy of maintaining secrecy on the atomic bomb. He also stressed the "great importance" which Russia attaches to having a voice in international control of Japan.

Demands Reparations

The foreign commissor reiterated Russia's demand for large reparations from the defeated nations. He chided the western powers for past policies of working in blocs directed against others and indirectly accused them of veering again toward power politics.

Such plain talk, in the opinion of many observers, is badly needed in the present state of international relations. It helps clear the air of suspicion and paves the way for a better understanding of the other fellow's position.

Molotov was not threatening but he was emphatic on the subject of the atomic bomb.

Also Asks Cooperation

After declaring that no technical secrets of the bomb on a large scale could remain the property of any one country or small group of governments, he said Russia also "shall have atomic energy—and much other energy." To that he added a warning against its use in "the game of foreign power politics" and pointed to the dangers of an armament race among the great powers.

Despite these evidences of thunder, Molotov was distinctly encouraging in his refernces to Russia's support of the United Nations, and his hope that a continued Anglo-Soviet-American coalition, born during the war, will be possible. Good wishes, he said, are not sufficient, and Russia is willing to prove her intentions both in words and deeds.

May Be Discussed

That part of the speech warrants special attention, rather than the veiled threat about the atomic bomb. From the testimony of reputable scientists, it seems quite possible that Russia could develop the atomic bomb within four or five years, if the secret of its manufacture is not imparted to her.

Molotov's statement undoubtedly will be taken into consideration during the discussion of the atomic bomb in Washington by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee a few days hence. It has been reported unofficially that Britain is not entirely in agreement with Washington on the idea of confining the secret to the United States, Britain and Canada.

Confident Of Solution

In other matters, Washington still appears confident that a formula on control of Japan will be found which Russia will accept, without at the same time sacrificing the seniority of the United States in occupation affairs.

Molotov's remarks about continuing the Big Three coalition may be interpreted by some as an indication that a proposal for another Truman-Stalin-Attlee meeting would not be rebuffed.

Use Of Church Power In Politics Scored

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—In the opening address of the Texas Methodist conference Tuesday night in the First Methodist church, Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, warned the church against using its power for political pressure. "God save the churches in America from becoming a power bloc," he said

Bishop A. Frank Smith opened the conference, in its 105th annual session.

"I hope all church people will vote right, but if the day ever comes when you can deliver the Methodist church or the Protestant church as a bloc, our glory is departed," the Christian educator said.

With powerful appeal Dr. Lee warned against the deadliest perils that threaten America—group politics and the lust for power.

"For the first time we have stepped out with power in our hands—we are now the one great world power, and God help us, if we go the way some of the boys are talking."

The college president termed dangerous boasts the talk—"do we not have the atomic bomb—do we not have six miles of war ships we can line up the Hudson river—let's make the boys come to taw."

Death Of Brownsville Man Is Being Probed

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 7. (UP)—Police today were investigating the death of Juan Morales, 64, who died after drinking the contents of a bottle labeled "Mescal" which he found in his back yard.

Morales' companison, Jose Pena, 55, was released from Mercy hospital today after his stomach was pumped out. Pena's body was found near the Missouri Pacific tracks last night and rushed to the hospital. Morales managed to get home from the place where he and Pena had been drinking near the tracks, but later died at his home.

Police Capt. J. B. Guerrera said an autopsy was being conducted to determine what the bottle contained.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

WE'VE heard nothing but praise for the Balfe opera, "The Bohemian Girl," presented here Tuesday night by the School of Music of North Texas State Teachers college, Denton, at Senior High school auditorium and thanks to the Lubbock B-PW and Allegro Music club for bringing the students here.

The only criticism we would voice of the evening was the long waits between acts in an overheated hall and with nothing to do except watch the teen-agers race up and down the aisles and the promenade of those going to the foyer for smokes.

• • •

You may be glad to learn that Anne Weeks of Longview, tiny and good-looking soprano who had the role of "Arline," is planning a career in opera. As E. Clyde Whitlock, Fort Worth critic, said of her after hearing the opera last summer, "She was the outstanding vocal performance, displaying a voice of brilliance, volume and an appealing string-like quality."

We have an idea the winsome little heroine will get to realize her dreams.

• • •

Helen Hunter, Wichita Falls student, who played the Queen of the Gypsies, was impressive in her dramatic part and seemed to have more experience than other members of the cast.

• • •

E. C. RICHARDS of Jacksboro who had the role of Florestein, the foppish and effeminate candidate for Arline's hand, seemed to stand highest in audience interest. While we thought Merl Cornelius as Count Arnheim was visually convincing, he sank with such varying degrees of understandibility we understood him only part of the time.

• • •

The musical performance was as skillful as any scores that have been played in Lubbock. Dr. W. C. Bain, head of the music school, is a past master at achieving clean, musical performances from either singing or playing students. His conducting is dynamic to the slightest shrug of the shoulder. And last, but certainly not least, mention should be made of Miss Mary McCormic, formerly of Chicago and Paris operas, who put her impress upon the production in stage action, in designing the sets and the costumes.

This will be an occasion long to be remembered by town and Tech audiences and let's not overlook little Sandra Hendrix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holman Hendrix, 2629 Twenty-third, who made her first stage appearance in playing the role of Arline as a small girl. She possesses poise and understanding of one years beyond her age. Sandra studies dancing with Barbara Hale.

MOVIE NEWSMEN

NOTING there is to be a deluge of newspaper pictures again, we find ourself wishing the producers would have a real newsman to serve as technical adviser in order that a few tips would prevent the boners you always see in such pictures.

For instance, no matter what he discovers on the police blotter on his early morning run, our astute reporter, R. C. Hankins, never telephones the managing editor and yells, "I've got a scoop that'll bust this town wide open." It just isn't done.

• • •

If an error crops up or the front page must be changed after the papers are rolling, you don't scream at the mechanical superintendent, "Stop the presses." In the first place, the presses are making so much noise you can't hear yourself scream and in the second place if you rushed over to the copy shoot and pressed the bell a dozen times the superintendent couldn't hear it. So what you do is to grab a paper, take a few quick turns down the winding stairs, point out the error and rush away before you get the verbal reaction that always follows.

• • •

NEWSPAPER reporters don't take a taxi when they can take a bus (especially reporters like our conscientious C. W. Ratliff, who is of the old school of employees who thinks more of his job than whether or not he may be working overtime) and they don't pad expense accounts because our business manager wouldn't share in that fun, if it were attempted.

• • •

And last, but not least, no one in the editorial department ever calls the editor, "Boss," although that has been done in every movie we've ever seen. And we don't go in and sit with our feet on his desk and tilt a chair back and "get him told." If there are any feet placed on the desk, they belong to the editor, although he is always willing to listen to complaints and is a past master at pouring oil on the troubled waters. Most of us who have worked down here for any length of time call him by his first name, except Mr. Ratliff who calls Mr. Guy "Colonel" on account of he is an honorary colonel on the staff of the governor of New Mexico.

• • •

And so it goes. But seriously, if the film producers would eliminate the corny sequences, they would have the newspapermen in the audiences rolling the aisles and not because they are ridiculous but because a newspaper person usually likes a story about his life; it is always so glamorized.

OES Pays Respects To Worthy Matron

A program honoring the worthy matron, Mrs. Pearl Metcalfe, for her services during the past year, was given by Lubbock chapter 76, Order of Eastern Star, following a stated meeting Tuesday night at Masonic hall. The program consisted of special music and songs written in Mrs. Metcalfe's honor with a drill in her chosen colors spelling her name. Poems of love and appreciation from the other officers followed and the program was climaxed with the presentation of a gift and corsage to the honoree.

For the first time this year a retiring drill was used to honor the worthy matron and worthy patron. In the dining room after the drill, Mrs. Metcalfe was further honored by a refreshment committee. She presided at a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with a floral arrangement carrying out a red, white and blue theme. The refreshment committee was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Burton S. Burks and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Chappell.

Ninety-six members, visitors and guests were in attendance.

Mrs. Frederick Ingram, State Regent, Is Speaker At DAR Guest Day And Tea

Mesdames A. H. Douglas, J. L. Barstow, and Robert W. Wright were hostesses at a Daughters of the American Revolution guest day and tea honoring Mrs Frederick Brewster Ingram of Dallas, state regent, Wednesday in the parlor of the First Methodist church.

The receiving line included the hostesses, honor guest and Mrs. Marvin B. Hilburn, Lubbock regent. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Sam Jones.

Mrs. Ingram gave reports on the DAR War Service which has purchased mobile and portable x-ray units, sponsored LCI ships and bought an organ for an aircraft carrier. She discussed the two DAR approved schools, Kate Duncan Smith and Tamasse. In describing the Texas project, the furnishing of the old documents and papers room at Stephen F. Austin State Teachers college, she asked that members of the Lubbock chapter send old letters, books and mementos to the project.

The state regent pointed out that there are now 149,122 members of the DAR at present, with 12,000 new members added last year.

Quoting an interview with Mrs. Julius Young Talmage of Athens, Ga., president general of the DAR, Mrs. Ingram said that "the controversy over meetings in Constitution Hall, Washington, D. C., is a local as well as a national DAR problem." She explained that Negro artists' appearances in the hall are contrary to a ruling adopted by the national organization in 1932 that specified the hall was for the use of white artists only. Since the hall is financed, controlled and managed by the national society, the president general stated that the organization reserves the right to grant or deny requests for its use.

Following Mrs. Ingram's informal talks, Mrs. C. E. Hereford accompanied Mrs. Fred Stanley who sang, "Ave Maria" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Chloe T. Dawson played "To Spring" by Greig. Mrs. Clayton Carter made the introductions.

At the tea hour, Mrs. W. L. Baugh and Mrs. Hilburn presided at the silver tea and coffee services.

Forty-five were present.

It's Calendar Day!

Today's the day for club reporters to call their club meetings in for next week's Today's Events calendar and for the Sunday Social Calendar. We want them all in by six o'clock tonight — but the deadline is noon Friday.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results

People don't like to talk about Pin-Worm infection. Sometimes they are too embarrassed to mention the tormenting rectal itching. And in many cases they have not known of any effective way to deal with this pest that lives inside the human body.

Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug (gentian violet), a highly effective treatment has been made possible. This drug is the vital ingredient in P-W, the Pin-Worm tablets developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son.

The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms.

So if you suspect Pin-Worms in your child or yourself, ask your druggist for a package of JAYNE'S P-W right away, and follow the directions. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

It's easy to remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

Poland's Search For Deadly Gas Leads To Rat Poison Discovery

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The search for a deadly poison gas by Polish chemists led to discovery of 1080, the new wonder rat poison.

In their search for weapons to combat the Germans, the Polish chemists accidently found a poisonous compound containing fluorine.

The secret of the new poison reached England in the hands of a Polish refugee scientist. This information in turn was cabled to the United States.

U. S. imports of rat poisons had been heavily reduced because of the war.

Dr. Ray Theichler, then a research chemist for the Fish and Wildlife service, had appealed to all United States chemical concerns for samples of chemicals which had shown themselves to be toxic.

In a conference between Dr. Treichler and Dr. Walter Kirner of the National Defense Research council, a number of new formulae were selected for trial. One of them was a compound related to the substance which had been discovered in Poland.

More laboratory tests were arranged, and test 1,080 arrived.

The substance was a fluoracent acid derivative. Although deadly in small quantities, it was too volatile and dangerous to handle. Chemists put their heads together and decided to make a "salt" of it.

Rats Like It

Small quantities of the salt, sodium fluoracetate, were sent to the Patuxent, Md., laboratories of the Fish and Wildlife service.

The scientists were amazed. Tiny amounts killed rats more quickly than any of the commonly used rodenticides except strychnine. It was stable and did not lose its toxicity even when mixed with other substances. And, almost miraculously, rats seemed to like it.

So 1080 came into being.

Oklahoman Criticises Public Utility Deal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Chairman Boren (D-Okla) of a House Interstate commerce subcommittee criticized Acting Chairman Leland Olds of the Federal Power commission today.

"I am surprised at reports that he has sprinkled holy water on a deal that stinks to high heaven," Boren said during a committee hearing on possible revision of the Public Utility Holding Company act.

Boren said he was "personally amazed" to hear of a meeting which he said was held in Olds' office recently to discuss the proposed purchase of the electric system of the Puget Sound power and light company by public utilities district.

Boren later told reporters he based his comments on an article published in the Washington State Grange News of Nov. 3. He said this stated that prospects for early completion of the purchase of the company's electric system appeared brighter following a meeting of representatives of the Bonneville Power administration, Puget Sound utility districts, Federal power commission officials and members of the Washington Congressional delegation.

The article stated that one of the conferees said that "an informal agreement was expressed by all parties present" as to the soundness and feasibility of the purchase, and that the meeting was in Olds' office.

Boren told a reporter later the article left the "inference" that Olds was not opposed to the "informal agreement," although it did not say Olds personally commented on the case. Olds was out of town and could not be reached for a statement.

In a recent House speech, Boren criticized the proposed purchase of the Puget Sound company.

Veteran Texan Death Victim In Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 7. (AP)—William Hood, 86, native of Scotland who came to Texas in 1882 on a bid to build the state capitol at Austin, died in a hospital here last night.

A shift in the capitol's building materials from limestone to granite prevented Hood from constructing the building. He was contractor for the present Brown county courthouse, Brownwood city hall and many Howard Payne college buildings here. In addition he had constructed buildings in Fort Worth, Childress, Del Rio, Hillsboro, Daingerfield, Coleman and Ballinger.

Funeral services and burial will be held here tomorrow afternoon.

Survivors include his widow, Martha Fisk Hood; son, William Jr. of Brady; daughter, Mrs. Stayton Pouns, Brownwood, and three grandchildren.

During early coast to coast air mail flights, farmers along the route were enlisted to build bonfires to guide pilots in their first night flights.

Man Talks Self Out Of Fine Into Another

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (U.P.)—A 45-year-old man talked himself out of a goo goo violation in court today but talked himself into a $5 fine for contempt.

The man was charged under Houston's goo goo law, which forbids winking, staring or wiggling the body at a woman, with tickling the ribs yesterday of a 24-year-old girl in a Greyhound Bus station while he waited for the strike to end.

He told the judge today he just accidentally nudged the girl with his elbow. He said he was unhappy about being stranded in Houston due to the bus strike. He said he didn't like spending the night in jail. He said lots of other things too.

The judge freed him of the goo goo charge but decided he'd talked too much and imposed the contempt fine.

TELEPHONE FACTORIES Now... ARE WORKING FOR YOU

More than 246,000 people in the Southwest have had to wait for telephone service for one reason:

Telephone factories were working for war.

Now those factories are turning from war to peace. All the facilities and know-how that did the war job are beginning to produce the mountains of telephone equipment—switchboards, dial apparatus, cable, wire, and instruments—needed here at home.

The task ahead is not easy. In the next 12 months we expect to be able to add one telephone for every 10 now in service. They will serve most of those who are waiting. For others, in localities where heavy construction and installation is necessary, it may take longer.

But we've made a start; we're on our way. Now all our efforts are aimed at making the wait just as short as possible—to provide telephone service to all who want it, when they want it.

Informed Americans Give OK To Army-Navy Merger By 3-1 Tally

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8. — American voters who have heard or read about the proposed unification of the War and Navy departments favor the move by a substantial majority, a public opinion survey finds.

Approximately half of the voting population has heard or read enough on the subject to be able to tell what the term "unified command" means and among that group three times as many favor the merger proposal as oppose it.

In Washington the issue of unification is charged with high controversy, important officials of the Navy Department being opposed to such a step while top officials of the War Department favor it. Both sides have given lengthy testimony before a Congressional committee.

Further discussion and debate will undoubtedly have its effect upon public sentiment, but at this stage in the discussion the proponents of the measure seem to have substantial support from people who are in some degree familiar with the issue.

The survey was conducted on the following questions:

"Will you tell me what your understanding is of the term 'unified command' for the armed forces of the United States?"

The results of this question showed that 52 per cent had a reasonably correct idea, while 46 per cent either said they did not know or gave answers that fell wide of the mark.

The group indicating some knowledge of the matter was asked:

"Do you approve or disapprove of a unified command for the armed forces of this country?"

The vote of this informed group:

Approve	64%
Disapprove	23
No Opinion	13

While the issue of a merger has many technical and administrative aspects, the opinion of the man in the street on the proposal is of vital importance for two reasons—it is the people who have to support the army and navy by taxation; and the security of the nation, by whatever means, is a matter of paramount importance to all citizens. In any case, whatever decision is reached must eventually meet with the acceptance of the people.

The better educated and better informed citizens throughout the country tend to be the most in favor of the unification idea. People with a college education are not only most likely to have an understanding of what the term unified command means, but also are for the merger by a higher ratio than other groups.

Vote on merger by education

	Approve	Disapprove	No Op.
College	75%	11%	10%

Social Problems To Be Talked At Meet

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (U.P.)—Ways to combat the inevitable social problems which will now confront Texas will be discussed here by some 200 welfare workers who are convening Thursday for the first regional meeting since Pearl Harbor of the Texas Social Welfare association.

Dr. Luther E. Woodward of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, New York, will speak at 10 a. m. tomorrow, opening the all-day conference "mental hygiene for returning veterans." Dr. Luther has been brought to Dallas by the Hogg foundation of the University of Texas. Downing Proctor, executive secretary of the Texas Social Welfare association in Austin, will also address the morning session.

Luncheon speakers include Miss Madeline Surdevant, executive secretary of the Texas Hospital association, discussing "general hospitals as community service projects," and Dr. Robert J. Anderson of San Antonio, tuberculosis consultant with the U. S. Public Health service, speaking on "cooperative federal, state and local tuberculosis program."

Three round-table discussions at 2 p. m., will take up such general themes as employment, city planning and deficiency in state resources.

And, at 8 p. m., three Dallas judges, Sarah T. Hughes, Al Templeton, and John A. Rawlins, will analyzie a recent report on local juvenile facilities.

The public has been invited to participate in all sessions.

Split Ticket Elected In Brownsville Vote

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 7. (AP) — The first split ticket since 1937 was elected here yesterday in a hotly contested race.

Herbert Stokely was elected mayor to succeed Dean Porter, who did not run for reelection.

O. B. Garcia and Dr. Vidal Longoria, incumbents, and A. A. Champion of one ticket were elected commissioners. Arthur Hipp, who was running on Stockely's ticket, was named the fourth commissioner.

Decision Allows Pipeline Refund

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — The Federal Power commission today accepted a new wholesale rate schedule for the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company, Chicago, which will result in a refund to the company's wholesale customers of about $24,000,000.

The new schedule is 32 per cent below 1944 billings. It has not been determined whether the reduction will be passed on to retail customers.

Acceptance of the new schedule stems from a supreme court decision of last April 2, upholding a commission order which directed Panhandle to reduce its rates by "not less than $5,094,384" under 1941 rates.

Sales Volume Increases

The commission said that, due to increased volume of sales since 1941, the reduction under 1944 rates would amount to about $9,500,000 and that total reductions, retroactive to bills of November 1, 1942 and later, will total $24,000,000.

The Panhandle system supplies the natural gas used in more than 200 cities, towns and communities with more than 700,000 retail customers in Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Up to Oct. 1, 1945, Panhandle and its subsidiaries had deposited with the Eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals $23,647,413, to be refunded to its customers if the commission's order was upheld by the courts.

The commission said that today's order amounts to a denial of a petition by Detroit to reopen the hearing.

Improved Parking In Texas Cities Urged

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—The parking problem will make trouble for city officials unless they prepare for future needs, State Highway Engineer Dewitt C. Greer told members of the League of Texas municipalities.

Addressing the league yesterday on road and street development Greer thought there was need to develop some type of off-street parking.

He outlined state facilities availabl to cities in planning through trafficways to aid in handling increasing traffic.

Twenty seven city plans have been completed with the assistance of the department.

Development of airports by cities must follow the pattern of highway development, that is, planned primarily for private use rather than commercial use, said S. E. Travis, jr., of Fort Worth.

Travis, supervisor of airports for the Civil Aeronautics administrator, said the CAA anticipated 400,000 planes operating in the nation in three or four years and that no more than 2,000 would be operating on scheduled routes. The others will be operated by individuals or business interests, he said.

Administration Still Pushes Its Efforts For Purported 'Gag' Bill

By DOUGLAS SMITH
Scripps Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The administration is still trying to get through Congress a broadly worded "gag" bill which Republicans say would enable the government to keep from the public many important facts about the war.

The bill was written by Army and Navy officers, ostensibly to protect codes.

It would provide severe penalties for anyone—war veterans, government employe or former war plant worker—who wilfully discloses any information about the government's codes or "any material which has been or purports to have been prepared or transmitted in or by the use of any code" of this or any other government.

The person who discloses any such information would be subject to $10,000 fine and a 10-year prison term.

The bill has had a long and hectic life. It was passed by the Senate in April, when the war was still on. After it passed, Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) requested reconsideration. He contended the bill threatened censorship of the press, would prevent disclosure of information to which the public is entitled, and would permit the executive branch of the government to conceal "any matter it desires to conceal."

Amendments Tacked On

Mr. Ferguson's action pigeonholed the bill for several months. A few weeks ago it bobbed up again. It passed the Senate, but only after Mr. Ferguson had tacked on amendments providing that disclosures to come within the scope of the bill must be wilful and that the law not restrict the furnishing of information to congressional committees. Mr. Ferguson opposed the bill even after his amendments had been accepted.

When it reached the House floor, Republican members of the rules committee led the argument against it, declaring that it was still too broadly worded, and that it might hamper the Pearl Harbor and other investigations. The House voted 165-162 to consider the bill.

After the vote, Republicans continued their opposition. Finally Rep. Kefauver (D., Tenn.) suggested that "in view of the confusion about the matter" the bill should go back to committee for further hearings.

That left the bill in the category of unfinished business before the House. Monday of this week the administration attempted to call it up again, but Republicans objected. The objections prevented consideration. It remains "unfinished business," and Republicans hope to keep it in that status.

Rep. Hancock (R., N. Y.) called the bill the "most thorough job of gagging I have ever seen attempted in the Congress."

Senator Urges Solons To Stop Draft Now

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP) — Senator Revercomb (D-WVa) said today that unless the Army and Navy quit drafting men "this week" Congress should proceed immediately to end Selective Service itself.

Revercomb, a member of the Senate Military committe, told a reporter figures show that the draft—which took millions of men into service—can now roll to a dead stop without impairing occupation forces.

This comment was in amplification of a Senate speech in which he said the voluntary enlistment program is getting all the men the Army and Navy need. Revercomb added on the floor that unless the services act promptly, "there will be legislation offered."

Around 1900, when it was thought mistakenly that "yellow jack" was contagious, the New Orleans post office punched holes "for fumigation" in all letters and parcels handled at the post office before it was learned definitely that the fever was transmitted by the mosquito.

Homecoming celebrations at Texas Tech will get under way at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow when students, exes, and faculty members meet at the gymnasium for a pep rally. Football players, coaches, and visitors will make impromptu speeches, the Saddle Tramps and cheer leaders will lead college yells. Immediately following this a huge bonfire will be staged by students. Members of the Lubbock county chapter of the Tech Alumni association will direct activities of the two-day observance. Tech will play Texas Christian university at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Tech stadium.

Classes will not be dismissed Monday at Texas Tech in observance of Armistice Day, college officials said. First scheduled holidays this semester will be Nov. 29-Dec. 2, when students and faculty members will observe Thanksgiving.

Texas Tech's Artist Course will present Nadine Conner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, in a solo performance at 8 p. m. next Wednesday, Lubbock Senior High school auditorium, R. A. Mills, chairman of the committee, said. Single admission tickets, $1.50 plus .30 federl tax, on sale at South Plains Music Co., 1214 Broadway. General admission tickets, for students and children only, are $1.25 plus .25 federal tax.

Three former Texas Tech students visiting on the campus Wednesday were Capt. and Mrs. L. D. Whiteley and Ens. Tom Rollins. Capt. Whiteley, who is on terminal leave before being discharged from the Army Air Forces, recently returned from three years duty in South Pacific area. He served 18 months with the Air Transport Command in the Pacific theater and will report back to San Francisco at the end of his leave. His wife is the former Miss Doris Peavy. Ens. Rollins, USNR, who was employed in the college purchasing office while attending Tech, hopes to be on the campus this weekend for homecoming celebrations. He recently returned from a tour of duty in the Pacific and will report to San Diego for re-assignment with Naval supply.

A barbecue and musical program last Thursday night at the Shallowater club house honored returning service men and women, some recently liberated from prison camps. An estimated 700 persons attended, including about 100 veterans. Lubbock Kiwanis club Hot Shot orchestra played and Chas. Whitacre of Lubbock was master of ceremonies.

The local war price and rationing board will observe Monday, Nov. 12, as Armistice day, according to an announcement by George Wilson, chief clerk. Wilson said this would force the board, located in the Owens building at Tenth and Ave. K, to be closed from Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock until Tuesday morning. A government rule sets up a 40-hour work week.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Moore of Hico, mother of Mrs. Alfred Eubanks of Lubbock, will be held at Hico today, Lubbock friends have been advised. Mrs. Moore died early Wednesday morning at her home. Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks were at Hico when she died. Eubanks is employed at the Avalanche-Journal.

Truman Gets Down To Job, Cuts Down On Appointments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—President Truman is trimming his White House calling list sharply this week to permit him to grapple with grave home front and diplomatic problems.

In contrast to the 15 or more separate engagements that normally crowd his calendar each day, Mr. Truman had only four each Monday and yesterday.

More Aggressive Course

Associates spoke of this as evidence of a second phase of his administration. They told a reporter it was a further indication of Mr. Truman's determination to assume a more aggressive course of administration and party leadership as contrasted with greater emphasis in the past on delegated authority.

The calling list decision followed previous cancellation of a series of scheduled presidential trips this month and next.

A White House aide, who asked that he not be quoted by name, told a reporter the President cut his calling list to devote more of his time to:

Confer With Advisers

1. Telephone and other conferences with administration advisers watching the labor-management conference for any possible spark of agreement.

2. Preparation for his weekend discussions here with Prime Ministers Attlee of Great Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada concerning future use and control of atomic energy.

3. Reports on the Far Eastern advisory commission which met here for the second time yesterday with Soviet Russia still absent.

There are other problems at home—the stalemated administration legislative program, including Mr. Truman's call for universal military training, increased unemployment compensation, and so-called full employment legislation.

Abroad, too, many issues remain to be settled. One of these is the Palestine question, which some observers think may be discussed with Attlee.

MOVING DAY — This workman did not care to be seen coming out of the front door and so is emerging from the servant's entrance of the former German embassy in London, which was occupied by Joachim von Ribbentrop. All traces of Hitler's Nazi Germany are being removed and the building will be converted for the use of the British Foreign Office.

Moslems observe a month of fasting each year, during which they do not eat, drink or smoke between sunrise and sunset.

The porcupine is slow and stupid and their characteristics have been the salvation of more than one lost hunter and woodsman. Of all the forest animals the "porky" is the only one which an unarmed man, sick from hunger and exposure, can kill with a stick or a stone.

HST Congratulates Reds On Anniversary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman had sent a message to Moscow congratulating the Russian government on the 28th anniversary of the Socialist revolution.

Reporters brought up the question of the presidential message at a news conference with Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, on the basis of dispatches from Mocow that no anniverary greeting from either Mr Truman or Secretary of State James J. Byrnes had been published in the Moscow newspaper.

At the State department, it was said that Byrnes did not send a message because the occasion called for greetings from a chief of state rather than from the secretary of state.

Ayers also was asked about reports, some emanating from the west coast, that generalissimo Stalin is or has been in the United States.

"If it is so," Ayers said, "we know nothing about it. The President has no knowledge of it."

In response to another question, Ayers said he had no knowledge of a contemplated visit to this country of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. A reporter had inquired about a report the Chinese leader was enroute here.

He said he had nothing to report either when asked whether there was anything to a report that American troops might be withdrawn from China.

If you put in Du Pont anti-freeze
You'll never have to worry,
'Cause freeze-ups will not bust your car-
But, man, you'd better hurry

Du Pont warns all car owners to get anti-freeze protection before it's too late. This year a freeze-up can be more than an inconvenience. It may be the "death" of your car. Engine blocks, radiators, and cylinder heads are still hard to get and always expensive.

Have your dealer check the cooling system thoroughly. It pays to stop leaks, replace rotted hose connections, clean a clogged radiator or repair other defects before they cause trouble. Avoid a last-minute rush. Give your dealer time to perform this needed cooling system service.

$1.40 a gal. War Emergency "Zerone"* gives thorough protection against rust and corrosion as well as freezing. Until regular "Zerone" comes back (this season's production went to war), there's no better buy at the price. Remember, it's made by Du Pont.

$2.65 a gal. A limited supply of "Zerex,"* Du Pont's non-evaporating anti-freeze, is now available. "Zerex" won't boil out. One filling lasts all winter. Nothing to worry about. Gives complete protection against rust and corrosion—won't form sludge or clog radiators.

Soviet Operation Of Railroads Slowing Movement Of Supplies

By C. E. PALMER
Publisher Texarkana Gazette and Daily News Written For The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Russian operation of railroads into Berlin is delaying American and British movement of supplies into the area.

U. S. and British zones end some hundred miles from Berlin. Russians in control have removed much equipment and some signaling apparatus and do not know how to operate what is left, but they will not employ Germans who are familiar with the lines.

Soviets Slow Up Work

The Russians are very demanding and difficult to deal with.

Our planes and trucks, however, are permitted to go on through.

A train operates from Frankfurt to the Russian occupation zone, and passengers are carried on in cars.

Fuel and food present enormous problems to Germany this year. It is fortunate the fall weather so far has been unusually mild. The people are praying for a mild winter.

Situation Said Critical

Germans are permitted to cut wood in the forests, and those who possess saws consider themselves lucky. Many work at woodcutting one or two days of each week.

The wood is hauled in hand carts pulled by men or women, sometimes horses, oxen or even cows. I saw one cart pulled by a team composed of a horse and a cow. They seemed to be doing all right.

In some agricultural sections, such as around Heilbronn, the food supplies may be sufficient. But over the occupied zones as a whole, the situation is very urgent.

Americans Due Surprise

The story developed by Louis P. Lochner, noted Associated Press correspondent, that the master rolls and files of the Nazi organization, containing over ten million names, have been found has been held up for some reason, but this information will prove very important in eliminating them from government and industry. There are many names of Americans in those files—names which will surprise the American people.

Corporal H. B. Yarbrough, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Yarbrough, lives in Chidester, Ark., is in charge of the officers' mess at the press camp in Berlin. He was inducted in February, 1943, and was in the air corps until last January when he was transferred to the infantry. He was in combat in the Third Army in Southern Germany and Austria. He has but 42 points, but hopes to get home by next March.

Dairy Producers To Halt Delivery Until OPA Adjusts Prices

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 7. (U.P.)—In a statement issued today, the Las Vegas Dairy association announced it will be unable to deliver milk to anyone, including hospitals, until the OPA makes an adjustment in milk and butterfat prices.

The last delivery was made to distributors today, and the dairy association will shut down completely.

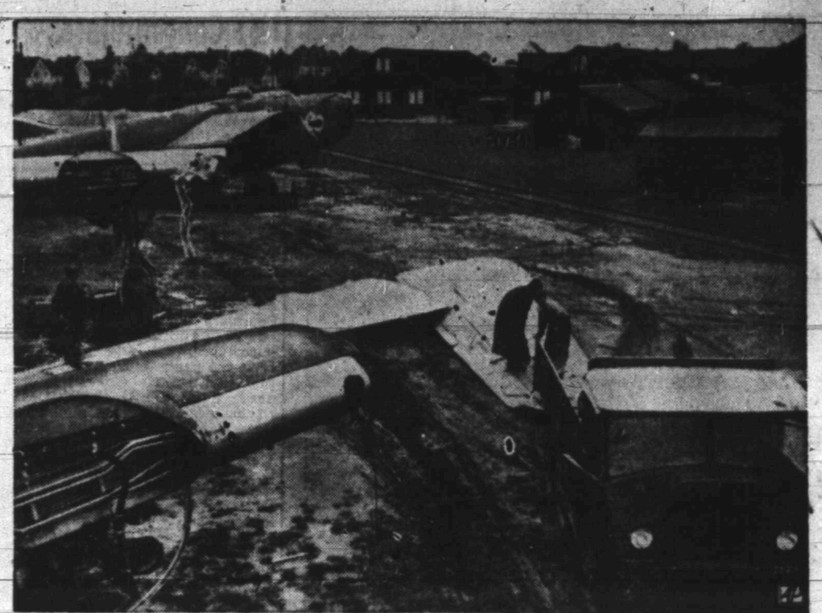

Charles R. Keyes of Las Vegas, telephoned John Bingaman of the OPA in Albuquerque, asking that action be taken, and Bingaman said the final adjustment must be made by the department of agriculture.

However, a call to Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson was made, and Anderson said the present rate was established by the OPA, and adjustment must be made by the Office of Price administration.

Meanwhile, George W. Gifford, president of the San Miguel County Farm and Livestock bureau, endorsed the stand of the dairy association in a telegram to Elmer Moore, president of the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, who is now in Washington.

The dairy association has adopted a resolution to half production until a price adjustment is made.

According to the association, ceiling prices in San Miguel county have been fixed at 87 cents per pound for butterfat, and dairymen have been producing milk at a loss, whereas producers in Taos and Santa Fe counties receive $1.05, with the cost of production the same in all three counties.

WAR-INTERNED PLANES — At Duebendorf airport, Switzerland, some of the 130 Allied aircraft forced or shot down during the war are prepared for removal or use as scrap.

Man Wins Election, But Can't Hold Post

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7. (AP)—Bert T. Baker, 73-year-old Republican city judge, won reelection yesterday, but it was a hollow victory—he will not even begin his new term.

The mayor of Ithaca will appoint a new city judge Dec. 31, under a 1945 amendment to the state judicial law prohibiting the holding of office by a judge who has reached his 70th birthday.

The amendment was brought to the attention of Tompkins county election officials last week—too late to remove Baker from the ballot.

Until just before the war broke oue in Europe, the United States was dependent on outside sources for cigarette paper, then made from linen rags.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. today at the Southside Church of Christ for R. H. Bates, 65, well-known Lubbock and Lynn county farmer, with the pastor of the Wolfforth Church of Christ officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery, Rix Funeral home reported.

Bates died of a heart attack about 8:30 a. m. Tuesday at his home eight miles southwest of Lubbock on the Brownfield highway.

Thanksgiving Day Is Proclaimed Nov. 22

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Thanksgiving Day this year presents an unusual opportunity for public expression of gratitude for peace, Gov. Coke Stevenson said today in his formal proclamation setting aside Nov. 22 as Thanksgiving Day.

The text of his proclamation:

"Since the earliest days of our country, it has been customary to set aside in the harvest season of the year a day of Thanksgiving for the blessings and bounties of Almighty God. The observance of a day of Thanksgiving is the oldest and one of the best of our American traditions.

"Thanksgiving Day, 1945, offers an opportunity for public expression of gratitude because our country is no longer at war. For the past three years the day has been observed in a limited sense; our prayers of thankfulness have been mingled with prayers of supplication for peace. The day of victory has dawned and our hearts are humbly grateful that the holocaust of world War II is at an end. The long awaited day for many has arrived, the day when absent loved ones can return to families and friends, to a land filled with peace and plenty.

"Parts of the world recently devastated by war will see no harvest season. Our own people are thrice blessed, in a land of bounteous harvest, where freedom abounds and liberty of conscience holds sway.

"The fourth Thursday of November in each year has been set aside by our National Congress as Thanksgiving Day and is a legal public holiday, throughout the country.

"Now, therefore, I Coke Stevenson, governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 22, 1945, as Thanksgiving Day and a legal holiday in Texas. I invite the citizens of Texas to observe this holiday in such manner as will show our appreciation for the blessings which are ours. I urge that the United States and Texas flags be displayed in public places and on public buildings to signify our gratefulness for the privilege of living in this land of freedom and opportunity."

Parsons Gets Year In Second-Offense Case

Sentence of one year in the state penitentiary was assessed Joe Parsons, who was tried in 99th district court yesterday before Judge G. V. Pardue and a district petit jury on a second-offense drunk driving charge.

Curtis Shedrick, 24, Slaton negro charged with forgery and passing, entered a plea of guilty and was given a five year sentence, suspended. Stylish Ridley, 29, also a Slaton negro, and similarly charged, was not tried and the case was passed.

Lish Dansby, 31, a negro, was found guilty of assault with intent to murder Eva Barnes, by a jury that reported about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night. Dansby did not waive a statutory two-day period for accepting sentence, and Attorney Ben Kucera did not indicate to court officials whether he would appeal the conviction after sentence is passed.

The petit jury panel was dismissed after the day's trials. A panel will report back Nov. 15, when a forgery case naming L. T. Crawford is specially set. A grand jury will be impaneled by Judge Pardue Nov. 19.

Speed Mark Is Set In Britain

HERNE BAY, England, Nov. 7. (AP)—Test pilot Eric Greenwood raced a jet-powered Gloster Meteor over an official 1.86-mile course four times today at an average speed of 606 miles per hour to establish an unofficial world air speed record.

His best time—612 miles per hour—did not equal the 613 miles per hour mark set by RAF group Capt. H. J. Wilson a few minutes earlier. However, Wilson's average for four runs was only 602 miles per hour and official said that the average speed and not the speed on any one run would stand as the record.

Timed With Cameras

Greenwood built up momentum in a 60-mile flight from inland before roaring down the official course, which was marked by ground lights and barrage balloons moored at 250 feet altitude. High speed cameras and radar devices timed his flight.

Officials said that if the weather does not permit further tests within a week, today's mark for the combat-tested meteor would be submitted for confirmation.

The Meteor, which was first used by the RAF against robot bombs Aug. 4, 1944, received its first test today from Wilson.

Hits 613 MPH

Wilson said he was not flying at full throttle when his meteor, named "The Brittania," reached 613 miles per hour.

The record, which was announced after a quick check of the timing apparatus, has not yet been officially confirmed.

The previous official record was 481.84 miles per hour, set in 1939 by Capt. Fritz Wendel of the German Luftwaffe. Wilson's flight today also topped the unofficial 570 miles per hour record claimed for the Lockheed Shooting Star, U. S. Army Air Forces jetpowered fighter.

Chinese Fighting

to await orders from Chungking.

A semi-official dispatch claimed government successes in clashes with Communists in southern Honan and northern Hopeh.

The dispatches said Communists attacking Tangho and Sinyeh in Honan and the Han river towns of Siangyang and Fangshan in Hopeh were driven into the mountains where the Reds "say they will make a first stand."

The dispatch said about 30,000 Communists are concentrated at Tsaochow in western Shantung province, preparing to attack the Lunghai railroad.

Fighting Flares Anew

Intensified fighting flared on several fronts and both Chinese and foreign quarters in Chungking agreed that the situation is nearly beyond repair and full-scale war is almost inevitable.

The Communists claimed:

1. Decisive defeat of eight government divisions, totaling 70,000 men, during which the Reds tightened their grip on the Peiping Hankow rail line and recaptured the Hopeh province rail junction of Tzehsien on Oct. 25—blocking the northward movement of Chiang's troops along that route.

2. Under able Gen. Ho Lung, the Communists drew their fiery siege ring tighter around Kweisui, capital of Inner Mongolian Suiyuan province.

Reds Attack Railroad

3. To the south, Communists attacked in force several points along the Tatung-Puchow railroad, including Hwohsien in southern Shansi province.

4. Large Communist reinforcements are pouring into Suiyuan province, and surrender of many of the 70,000 Nationalists along the Peiping - Hankow railroad brought the Reds new weapons.

(The government contended that the Communists were forcibly conscripting manpower in Shansi province, inducting all males between 15 and 40).

Asked for comment on the Communists claims of victory, K. C. Wu, minister of information, declared: "Communists have circulated so many fabrications that it's no use denying one after another."

Government Claims

The government claimed:

1. Communists had breached dikes and flooded hundreds of square miles near the highway junction of Taikang in eastern Honan province.

2. Communists' operations west of Kweisui have left 100,000 Chinese homeless; the Reds, said Nationalist Gen. Fu Tso-Yi have burned villages for miles in all directions around Kweisui, as well as destroyed most of the Peiping - Suiyuan railroad between Paotow (west of Kweisui) and Tatung (east of Kweisui.)

3. Communists are planning a drive on Taiyuan, capital of Shansi province (east and south of Suiyuan) if they capture the Suiyuan capital, Kweisui.

Communist headquarters at Yenan meanwhile made no reply to the government's week-old peace proposals—a fact viewed here as ominous.

Suspicious Britain

most every demand that we ever thought we should be asked. And not taking one inch of territory or asking for it," he said, it was inevitable that the British government should be suspicious if new demands are presented.

Bevin, obviously irked over repeated protests from Moscow over formation of a so-called "western bloc," said " I am a little resentful and I think the house will agree I am entitled to be."

He said Britain's relations with France, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia and other countries did not constitute "a western bloc for all purposes."

"But," he added, "they are our cultural friends."

He added, however, that "we will take no step, we will do nothing nor allow any of our diplomats or agents to do anything to stir up hatred or to provoke a situation detrimental to Russia in the eastern countries."

Annual Banquet Held For County Teachers

Seventy-six persons were in attendance at an annual Lubbock county teachers banquet Wednesday night at the Hilton hotel.

Eight schools of the county had representatives at the banquet, and several guests from the county also were on hand.

Rev. Raymond Partlowe of the Presbyterian church in Lubbock made the principal talk of the evening, emphasizing the part schools played in character building for students.

"Many of our teachers could make more money at other jobs, but the people that stay with our job of training the citizens of tomorrow are to be complemented," he told the group.

Also on the program was E. H. Boulter, deputy state superintendent, who discussed plans for a new curriculum for elementary schools and the possibilities of a 12-month school term. The remainder of the program included group singing led by Neil Denning of Idalou. B. H. Baldwin of Idalou gave the invocation. Mrs. Ruby Wilson told the group about T. B. tests to be given in the county. M. S. Kavanaugh, superintendent of Slaton's schools, also was among the guests.

The eight schools represented at the banquet included Cooper, Frenship, New Deal, Roosevelt, Shallowater, Idalou, Posey and Estacado.

Should Modernize Pact

4. The Montreux convention should be modernized by eliminating Japan as a signatory nation and by substituting the United Nations for the old League of Nations at various points.

Asked whether the United States which has no direct interest in that area would like to become a member of the international combine controlling the straits, Byrnes said that this government is entirely willing to become a member.

Dispatches had come from Ankara last Sunday saying in effect that the United States had assured Turkey she would refuse to support any action which might jeopardize Turkish independence or territory.

Byrnes said the Ankara stories were incorrect and it was for that reason that he was giving out the American position. He said he was setting something of a precedent in giving out the substance of an American position before a foreign government had replied to the message informing it of that opinion.

New Plans For Officers

Officers who have 33 or more months of honorable service, or 30 months in the case of medical department officers, likewise will not be sent overseas for permanent assignment. This will not apply to reserve officers who have chosen to remain on active duty, to regular Army officers or to those classed as scarce specialists.

The scarce specialists include military government officers, contract termination and property disposal officers, renegotiation officers, legal officers with admiralty law experience, highway traffic engineer officers, and officers classified as superintendent of water division in transportation corps.

Army nurses will not be sent overseas if they have 12 points or are 30 years of age. No WAC officers are being sent on permanent assignment.

Capital Bus Service Partially Resumed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Washington's homeward bound throngs found bus and street car service partly restored tonight after 4,000 Capital Transit company employes voted to end their walkout.

The carriers, completely idle for more than 30 hours, began lumbering back into operation before midafternoon under a back-to-work agreement that provides a 14-day truce for negotiation of union demands for a 30 cents an hour pay increase.

Speakers made it clear at a union rally that failure to reach accord within the next fortnight might prompt another vote on whether to walk out again.

Indonesian Leaders Submit Peace Plan

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 7. (AP)—Indonesian leaders today submitted to the British a plan to preserve peace in strife-torn Java while British troops finish disarming the Japanese and rescuing thousands of European internees menaced by extreme nationalists.

President Soekarno and Foreign Minister Soebardjo of the "Indonesia republic" proposed the plan during a meeting this morning with Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Dutch East Indies.

Soekarno suggested to Christison that Java be divided into a number of regions where contact bureaus would be set up consisting of Indonesian local leaders and British officers. This, Soekarno said, would permit the British to carry out their task without further clashes with the Indonesians because the way would be paved in advance by cooperation in the contact bureaus.

Former Texas Oil Man Dies On Coast

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7. (AP) — Frederick Lee McCoy, 54, former Texas oil man and bank executive, died at his home here last night following a heart attack.

McCoy was engaged in West Texas oil operations in the early 1920's. He became vice president of the First National bank of Wichita Falls in 1925 after serving in the First National bank, Dallas.

He began a newspaper career here in 1930, later becoming editor and publisher of three weekly newspapers.

Sharp Hike In Tire Production Is Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — The Civilian Production administration estimated today that 66,000,000 passenger tires will be made next year.

This is more than double this year's expected output. About 50,000,000 were made in 1941.

Search For Bombers Shifts To New Area

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7. (AP)—Report of a crippled bomber seen over northern Klamath county Thursday night put search parties in that area on the alert today for clearing weather to hunt two Liberators missing with ten men aboard.

The wife of an Army Air corps colonel, driving north from Klamath Falls, Ore., the night two of four Liberator B-24's on a Tacoma-Portaland flight were listed missing, said she saw a plane wandering north through ragged storm clouds. She reported about an hour later she saw a big fire blazing fiercely on a mountain top near Chemult.

All Aboard Survive Crash Of Transport

MANILA, Nov. 7. (AP)—All 13 passengers and seven crewmen escaped death in the flaming crash of a long-overdue C-54 naval transport plane on the shore of isolated Lamon bay, the Naval Air Transport service reported today. Most of them, however, were injured.

An Army outpost on eastern Luzon telephoned news of their safety after two of the survivors had reached the post through dense jungle. No further details were reported.

The plane had been unreported for many hours after it was due at Manila from Guam Monday night.

Schedule Is Set On Youth Rallies

Arrangements have been completed for the first of four youth rallies to be held in Lubbock beginning Sunday at 2 p. m., in the First Presbyterian church, according to an announcement by Rev. Jimmie Bell, youth evangelist of Clovis, N. M., who will be the speaker at the gatherings sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Musical entertainment is to be furnished by a trio from the First Presbyterian church. The three singers are Miss Joyce Yoakum, Miss Nora McMurry and Miss Peggy Johnson. Miss Johnson will also render a violin solo.

The high school glee club under the direction of Mrs. John Watson will constitute the choir.

Harry Minor, educational director of the First Baptist church, will give the invocation and briefly address the assembled youth.

Victory Bond Is Offered

Roy Furr, local business man, is offering a $25 Victory bond to the church group who bring the largest group of non-church youth to the assembly. The bond is to be used for religious purposes only, according to Rev. Bell.

A young lieutenant from Clovis was to be here for the rallies to lead the singing but a last minute cancellation of his visit here has been announced. He may be present for the other rallies, Bell said. In his place, if present arrangements are completed, will be a Tech student.

The second meeting is scheduled the following Sunday, Nov. 18, in the First Methodist church. The third will be in the First Christian and the fourth in the First Baptist church. All will begin at 2 p. m., Bell said.

The youth speaker also announced endorsement of the Jaycee-sponsored "better youth movement" by the Lubbock Parent-Teacher association council, the Ministerial alliance, the High Religious council, the Tech Religious council and the American Business club.

Westerners, Raiders Prep For Weekend Grid Classics

Both the Lubbock Westerners and the Texas Tech Red Raiders continued to put in overtime sessions, getting ready for the gala weekend that will mark the close of the home schedule for both teams, and send the Westerners against the Pampa Harvesters on Friday and the Red Raiders against the Texas Christian Horned Frogs on Saturday. Both games will start at 2:30 p. m.

The prospects are bright for the biggest high school grid crowd of the season at Tech stadium for Friday's game. Saturday's battle, the annual homecoming game for Texas Tech, is already a sellout, with only a few endzone seats at the north end, and standing room left for the ticket buyers.

Parade On Friday

A big parade, headed by the Pampa delegation, has been scheduled for Friday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, and will start the city into the football weekend that has brought more grid interest to the city than any other games on the schedules of the two schools.

Both the Westerners and Red Raiders will be facing top opponents this week, and both home clubs will go into the games as decided underdogs.

Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick spent the long session Wednesday afternoon setting a defense for the Pampa T formation plays that have been so successful this year in cutting loose Randall Clay and company for long gains, and an undefeated, untied season.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools, reported that ticket sales Wednesday continued brisk, and indications are that the stadium will be filled for the Pampa battle Friday afternoon.

Calls continue to pour into Lubbock for tickets for the Saturday game, but none are available. The only tickets left unsold are for the north endzone seats and standing room, which will go on sale at the north gate on the day of the game.

Midweek found the chances of the Westerners being at top strength for the Pampa battle, but the Red Raiders remained a question mark.

Walt Schlinkman was still favoring his injured shoulder, R. W. Moyers was nursing a bruised hip, while two linemen, Co-Captain Otis Turner and Bernie Winkler were still bothered with throat ailments.

Several other Red Raiders are slowed with injuries, and many of those who will have to be used will not be free from injury.

An expected grape crop of 2,312,000 tons for 1945 may be the largest ever produced in America.

Meyer Worried About Raiders

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—T. C. U.'s Horned Frogs, who play Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday, have learned (the hard way) that a trip to the South Plains is hard on football victories. Three times in the history of competition between the two schools the Frogs have played in Lubbock, and twice they have come away with the short end of the score.

The two teams have met nine times since the series started back in Fort Worth in 1926. T. C. U. has won six, Tech three, and there have been no ties. Only three of the contests have been staged in Lubbock and the Red Raiders have won two of the three—in '36 and '42.

That's one of the reasons Coach Dutch Meyer is warning his team not to get overconfident just because the Raiders have lost to three Southwest Conference teams and have been tied by another.

Trouble On The Plains

"I look for the Raiders to play their best game against us Saturday," Meyer says. "If the Frogs get to thinking they're good because they beat the Texas Aggies and Baylor and Tech didn't, then we're going to find trouble on the plains!"

The stage is set for rough going for T. C. U. when the Frogs play Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday. The contest will be Tech's last home game of the season and the Red Raiders' last chance to win one from a Southwest Conference opponent this season.

The Raiders scheduled five of the seven Southwest Conference members this year and have already played four of the games. They got a 7-to-7 tie with Baylor, but lost to Texas A. & M., Texas and Rice.

Coach Dutch Meyer is warning his Horned Frogs not to be fooled because Tech has dropped a few games.

Lost Twice Here

"We've been defeated a couple of times too!" he reminds them pointedly. "We've had plenty of trouble with Tech in recent years. They beat us the last two times we played in Lubbock—7 to 0 in 1936 and 13 to 6 in 1942, and any footballer who thinks he can take it easy against those Raiders is in for the surprise of his life!"

T. C. U. will still be minus the services of Capt. Merle Gibson, pass-catching end, who has played only a few downs since the Baylor game Sept. 29. George Mitcham, 165 pounds of dynamite at half who rolled against Oklahoma last Saturday, will be out with a knee injury from that game. Norman Morrill, who hurt his elbow in the Oklahoma A. & M. contest, may be able to play some, but he'll not be in top form.

The T. C. U.-Tech scores by years:

Year	TCU	Tech
1926	28	16
1927	16	6
1928	28	6
1929	22	0
1930	26	0
1936	0	7
1942	6	13
1943	20	40
1944	14	0

SWEDE STARS INVESTIGATED

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 7 (AP)—Interest of Swedish sports fans centered tonight on a meeting of the Swedish Athletic association, called to investigate charges of professionalism against a number of Swedish track stars, including Gunder Haegg and Arne Anderson.

Attendance For SWC Tilts Soar

DALLAS, Nov. 7 (U.P.)—One of the Southwest Conference's closest football campaigns, the end of gasoline rationing and peace's natural boost to sports have combined to increase Southwestern gridiron attendance sharply over last year, a survey disclosed today.

With many of the best games still to be played—games destined to decide the championship of a conference which only once has had the same school win twice running — attendance at Southwest Conference games is up more than 100,000 over this time in 1944.

One More Team

Even without counting customers paying to watch Baylor, which did not play conference football last year, the gain in attendance is 65,000 persons.

Only one school of the seven conference members—Rice Institute—showed a decrease, and it was only 3,500.

In home games to date, conference teams have played to more than 266,000 fans. Last year in a comparable number of games there were 166,700 in the stands.

Each reporting 18,000 more customers this year than last, Texas Christian and Arkansas universities led the conference in increased attendance. Southern Methodist attendance was up 16,000.

Other Big Crowds

One new all-time record has been set, by Texas, but it does not count in this survey because the game was with a non-conference school. At Dallas, on Oct. 13, there were 45,003 persons in the Cotton Bowl to see Texas win its sixth straight game with Oklahoma. It was the top crowd in the long series between the two schools and one of the biggest Cotton Bowl crowds.

Biggest crowd at a conference game undoubtedly will be the 40,000 who will squeeze into the stands at College Station on Nov. 29 when Texas and the Aggies clash in a game which may decide the Southwest championship.

Advice from A. and M. is that if the stadium was big enough there would be 60,000 at the game.

Hackenschmidt Cops Victory Over Olsen

History repeated itself Wednesday night at the Lubbock Horse and Mule Auction arena, and George Hackenschmidt proved to the grunt and groan fans here that his victory over Milt Olsen last week was no fluke, and did it again.

After battling 20 minutes of the third session, Hackenschmidt threw Olsen out of the ring. Olsen's back struck the edge of the ring, and injured him too much for him to return. He was counted out while outside the ring, and the victory awarded Hackenschmidt by Referee Babe Ritchie.

Hackenschmidt had won the first fall in 16 minutes with a body slam, and Olsen evened the count in another 30 minutes with a series of flying tackles off the ropes.

Tony Ross and Johnny Atkins battled to a draw on the semi-final of the card, each winning a fall in the allotted 45 minutes, then finishing the session without breaking the deadlock.

Atkins won the first fall in 16 minutes with a leg stretcher, and Ross evened the count in another 12 minutes with a dominoe stretch.

The Hood, masked grappler, won the preliminary bout on the card, beating Charley Trijo in eight minutes with a body slam and pin.

About 10 to 20 million pounds of dried roasted chicory is produced in the U. S. every year.

Eddie Dyer Signed To Pilot Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Sam Breadon put his finger today on 45-year-old Eddie Dyer, who is without previous major league managerial experience in 24 years with the St. Louis Cardinals organization, to steer the Redbirds through their next two seasons.

The 45-year-old former director of the Cardinal's farm clubs succeeds Billy Southworth who after four and one-half seasons has left for more money as manager of the Boston Braves.

Baseball's David Harum

Breadon, who has exploded more "baseball bombshells" than any other major league owner during his 26 years of directing the St. Louis Cardinals, today summarized his "David Harum" career in two brief sentences:

"I've been a very lucky man. I hope I can continue to be."

Surprisingly jovial for a man who has just lost "the best manager in baseball," the Cardinal owner beamed as he talked of the 1946 season.

"Eddie Dyer is a fine man with a splendid record. I'll have no worries about my manager next year. When Billy (Southworth) told me he wanted to leave, I didn't know what I was going to do. I was left high and dry. But we're all set now."

Surprises Are Common

Surprising announcements such as Southworth's release, have been coming from Breadon's office ever since he fired Branch Rickey as manager in 1925 and then set him up as director of what was to become baseball's first and most extensive farm system.

At the peak of his success in 1942, Rickey was let out of the Cardinal organization.

Between those Rickey deals, Breadon hired and fired Rogers Hornsby although the "Rajah" had led the club to its first National league pennant. Bill MacKechnie was in and out with a pennant in between. Frankie Frisch and his "Gashouse Gang" became a baseball byword and then Frisch later was fired as manager in mid-season. Finally, Dizzy Dean and his sore arm was peddled to the Chicago Cubs for $185,000 and three players.

"I've done so much 'horse-trading' that I was bound to make some boners and get some good ones. When I do get a good one, I know I've been lucky," Breadon said.

Texas A. And I. Set To Resume Grid Play

KINGSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 7. (AP)—Football will return to Texas A. and I college in 1946.

The college board of trustees has voted to restore the sport as an intercollegiate activity after being discontinued during the war.

Veterans already are beginning to trek back to school, and it is expected that a majority of the members of the strong 1941 eleven will be on hand next fall. More than half of the squad had unexpired eligibility for additional collegiate play.

During the last few years before the war, the Javelinas had built the reputation for being one of the best small college teams in the nation.

Coach A. Y. (Bud) McCallum, who had headed the A & I sports program since 1929, was given a leave of absence in 1943 and has coached at the Corpus Christi High school the past two years. He has not indicated as yet whether he will take advantage of his leave from the college to return to the top coaching spot here, or will stay on in Corpus Christi.

More than 2 million pounds of chicory was imported from Belgium in 1938.

Dyer Well Known In Texas Sports Field

HOUSTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Drawling Eddie Dyer, expressing pleasant surprise at being named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, said today "if all the kids come back and we don't make any mistakes in placing them, we'll be the club to beat next season in the National League."

The 45-year-old Dyer, former Cardinal minor league executive and once manager of the Houston Buffs in the Texas League where he led the club home first three times in three seasons, winning the pennant in the Shaughnessy play-off in 1940, declared "it was a big surprise to me althoug I always have wanted to manage a big league club. I certainly am glad to get back into baseball."

Been In Business

For more than a year Dyer has been in the oil business in Houston, making enough, he grinned, "to pay all my bills."

Dyer succeeds Billy Southworth, who resigned to become manager of the Boston Braves.

"Since Southworth had a contract with another year to run I was surprised at his leaving the Cardinels," Dyer said. "I made certain he hadn't taken the step because of any disagreement with the club before I accepted the managership. I wouldn't have taken the job under such a circumstance."

Dyer, who managed Houston in 1939, 1940 and 1941, producing such top-flighters as Howard Pollet, Ted Wilks, Howard Krisp, Harry Brecheen, Johnny Hopp and Murray Dickson, also managed Rochester in the International League and Columbus in the American Association in addition to serving as director of minor league clubs of the Cardinal chain for a time.

Praise By Gardner

His being named manager at St. Louis was gratifying to President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League who said at Dallas that "Eddie Dyer is a fine baseball man and a gentleman of the highest order."

Gardner declared this would react favorably for the Texas League, that Dyer was one of the best known men in this state, was rated highly on all sides as a baseball leader and football official and that "this will bring many more Texas fans to the Cardinals' side."

Dyer, while making his start in minor league baseball, was with Wichita Falls when Gardner was owner of the club.

Dyer, a native of Morgan City, La., has lived in Texas since 1917. He was a ten-letter athlete at Rice Institute, playing varsity football four years, baseball three and in track three.

"We won't do anything about players until the major-minor league meeting but I plan to direct the Cardinals just as I did the club at Houston," Dyer said.

Irish Guard Is Top Line Star

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—It was generally agreed after last week's Notre Dame-Navy game that the outstanding feature of the battle—not counting the daffy finish—had been the magnificent play of Notre Dame's two guards, Fred Rovai and John Mastrangelo.

So it came as no great surprise when the country's sports-writers, doing a great job of splitting hairs, decided that Mastrangelo, a 19-year-old, 200-pound sophomore, had won the week's Associated Press award as "lineman of the week."

The youngster not only did much to pile up Navy's running game, but supplied many of the holes through which the Irish backs plunged for their touchdown on straight running plays in the opening period.

Another lineman upon whom much praise was heaped by coast observers was Ed Ryan, an end for the unbeaten, untied St. Mary's Gaels, who played a big part in routing U. S. C. In addition to playing a spectacular defensive game he recovered a U. S. C. fumble to set up a touchdown, caught several passes and gained 20 yards on an end around play.

Southern writers voted early and often for Kelley Mote, Duke end; Knox Ramsey, William and Mary tackle, and Gaston Bourgeois, Tulane guard.

Mid-West observers said Max Morris, Northwestern end, played an outstanding game against victorious Ohio State. R. E. Blount, Texas end, caught a 33-yard pass for the game winner against S. M. U.

Other linemen who received at least one vote for sectional honors included Ends Eugene Wilson, S. M. U. and R. W. Moyers.

Bowl Minded Sooner Clubs Play Saturday

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 7. (U.P.)—It's roundup time again in the rolling Osage pasture country of northern Oklahoma, but calf-roping and coralling this weekend is going to have to wait. The cowpokers are all going to Stillwater to see their boy, Bob Fenimore, the nation's busiest backfield star, lead Oklahoma A. & M. into its game of the year with Tulsa.

The Midlands are abuzz with reports that the winner of this game is going to get a ticket to the Orange Bowl sociable at Miami on New Year's day and the more enthusiastic fans aren't even excluding the possibility of a Rose Bowl invitation. That the game belongs in the "classie" category is emphasized by the past records of the teams.

A. & M. is unbeaten and untied this year and has dropped only one game in 15 starts in the past two seasons, while Tulsa has been topped only by Indiana this year and lost only two games, one of them to the Aggies, last season.

But what interests the cowpokes most of all is that Fenimore, one of their own from the tow town of Woodward, is likely to get recognition again as an All-American player if he comes through with a typically fine performance in the Aggie homecoming game that also will decide the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

The big blond is the leading ground gainer among collegiate ball carriers and passers in the nation today. In five games he has compiled 1,162 yards gained in rushing and passing and has scored 54 points. He leads his team mates in every department, having carried the ball 90 times for a net gain of 779 yards or an average of 8.6 yards per trip. And he had found pass receivers 20 times on 45 attempts for 383 yards an average of more than 19 yards per completion.

JURGES RELEASED

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — Billy Jurges, 37, infielder for the New York Giants, said today he had received his unconditional release.

Central Ward Rallies To Nose Bean, 12-6

Central Ward Silver Spurs came from behind Wednesday afternoon to nose out the Bean Bronchos, 12 to 6, in a grade school touch football game at Dupre field.

The Bronchos broke into the lead in the first quarter on a pass play from L. Sinclair to D. Arkins.

The Spurs struck back in the second period, knotting the score when Gene Blagg fell on a fumbled punt over the goal line for a touchdown. Billy Smith then took a pass from Don Johnson for a 40-yard touchdown play and the winning score.

The two teams battled on even terms through a scoreless second half.

It's Reconversion, Too

Let War Installation Aid Peace

THE prospect that the 16,000-acre, $35,000,000 Pantex plant near Amarillo may become available to Texas Technological college sounds, at first blush, at least, almost too good to be true. The huge installation, which during the war served as a shell loading plant, seems "ready-made" for the type of institution we have in Lubbock, a school which seeks to graduate students prepared then and there to go about the business of earning a good living without long years of apprenticeship. It would offer an ideal "laboratory" for the Tech brand of training.

It should be borne in mind, however, that the plant is by no means in the bag for Tech. Not yet. That will be up to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which may not be inclined to relinquish the plant without getting back some of the money Uncle Sam put into it. But Tech wants it "for free"—and with no strings attached to its future operation.

However its addition to Tech facilities is a definite possibility and the college has a good case.

Tech directors, President W. M. Whyburn and other officials of the college, after recovering from their surprise at Amarillo's fine gesture in attempting to "promote" the plant for arch-rival Lubbock, hurriedly mapped out plans for its possible immediate and long-time use which would multiply, manyfold, the educational service that the institution could offer to West Texas and the state.

Under tentative plans, the plant would first be employed to offer returned veterans short courses in various phases of agriculture. This would appeal to those men who feel they need additional training but who, for one reason and another, are unable or not inclined to go through years of schooling.

If the veteran wished to make an early start in some part of, say, the dairy business, he could take a one or two-year course in practical dairying; or, if he chose, brief training in animal husbandry, plant industry, poultry and other phases of agriculture. Here would be opportunity, too, for the school to give "refresher" courses to established farmers, poultrymen and stockmen.

Eventually, the layout would be employed as a "proving ground" for agricultural and engineering research projects. The plant has sewage, water, light and power systems and other facilities for almost any type of research work in engineering. Pantex's many thousands of acres would offer possibilities for cattle feeding research and plant industry work.

The whole project would be keyed to giving practical application of classroom theory, something which too often is lacking in our educational intitutions.

As it stands now, the Pantex plant and site is a "super" white elephant for the government. All the government can hope to get out of it is but a fraction of its investment. Salvage of the buildings and equipment possibly would cost almost as much as it did to build and install them. The government could sell the land, but probably not for the price that it paid.

Uncle Sam has similar white elephants all over the country. Another specifically, may be Lubbock Army Air field, probably destined sooner or later for complete abandonment. Most of these plants will have to be written off as a necessary cost of victory. Wherever possible, the government should adopt a policy of making its facilities available for peacetime good.

The Lubbock Army Air field installation, it appears might serve also for extension of Tech's engineering training.

In wartime, essential cogs in the machine for victory, the Amarillo and Lubbock installations might easily be made into important adjuncts of education in peace.

Opportunity Is Knocking

WHILE opium has medical qualities, it has been a curse on mankind for a long time. Addiction to it is the surest and quickest route to complete degradation. It has caused all sorts of international difficulties, including war.

General MacArthur has set about to wipe out the evil in Japan with orders to destroy the opium crop on the Nipponese islands. Presumably, the general will take the next logical move and extend the eradication campaign to Manchuria, Korea and parts of China. Though opium is grown in several other countries of the world, East Asia has long been the main producer and has provided a higher percentage of addicts.

For the first time, perhaps, there exists an opportunity to wipe out completely, maybe for good, the opium plague in Japan and East Asia.

The opportunity should not be missed.

APPLAUSE FROM ROYALTY
XXIII

Back in Paris, my next engagements were the Concert Mayol and a cabaret date at Le Jardin de ma Soeur.

Every night at the Jardin I received invitations from people who wanted me to join them for champagne, which I continuously refused, being too tired to care about meeting anybody; besides I never touched alcohol on account of my work.

Oscar Movet, the owner of the Jardin, used to tell me who everybody was and whom I should meet.

One evening I received a perfectly magnificent bouquet of pink roses from a table where I had noticed a large group of people applauding me. The card attached to the bouquet had a coronet on it and the name Princesse Eugene Murat.

The next evening, almost as soon as I entered the restaurant to dance, I noticed the same party sitting there and applauding me. I bowed to them and as I returned to my dressing room I remembered I had discourteously forgotten to send a note of thanks to the Princesse Murat. Just as I was scribbling a memorandum about it, Oscar Movet arrived at the door with a message from the same lady, inviting me to join her party for supper. I told him I had an engagement, and he literally shouted, "What is the matter with you? Princesse Murat is one of the most important people in Paris for an artist! First you never thank her for the flowers, then you refuse an invitation to meet her—it is preposterous!"

I tried to make him understand that Nina (Nina Hammet, author of the sensational "Laughing Torso" and my friend since art school days) was coming to fetch me for a quiet supper, and that I was wearing a tweed suit and therefore could not possibly appear in his restaurant among women in elaborate evening gowns. Fortunately, Nina arrived at the height of the discussion, and when I told her what it was all about, she said Violette Murat was one of her best and oldest friends and immediately sent a waiter with a note arranging for us to meet the party at the Boeuf sur le Toit, a more bohemian restaurant where evening dress was not enforced.

I was cross and tired, and Nina practically had to drag me to my car. As we drove to our rendezvous, she pounded into me the same thing Oscar Movet had said. Princesse Murat, it appeared, was a person who, if she wanted to made an artist famous, could do so almost overnight. She was very wealthy, very charitable, and considered eccentric, for she lived her own life with a superb disregard for the narrow conventions of her snobbish social set.

She sounded all right, but I was tired, sulky, and not the least bit receptive to meeting wealthy art patrons, yet when I rose to greet Violette Murat as she entered the restaurant, I forgot my fatigue under the great charm and genteleness of the most remarkable woman I have ever met. She was to become my closest friend.

* * *

Several days later, Oscar Movet was thrown into another paroxysm of indignation because I did not want to dance at a party given by the Comtesse de la Beraudiere. She had written him a note asking for me and a colored orchestra called the International Five, all excellent entertainers. The evening meant not only extra fatigue for me but very late hours, for we were supposed to work first at her house about 1 in the morning while another orchestra filled in at the Jardin, then come back there when we finished at 2. The next day, Comtesse de la Beraudiere called on me at the apartment and found me in the middle of rehearsing a new number with Morgan. She had brought with her two untrasmart Frenchmen, the Comte de Morny and the Vicomte de Janze, and while I was dressing, Morgan interviewed them. He came and told me that the "Marquis de Consomme Froid, and the Vicomte de Consomme Chaud" were both disposed to go fairly high in their fee, because, they said, the fete was for a very distinguished personage from England who was crazy about the Charleston and colored bands. I realized in a flash they meant His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, and thought I had better accept.

The fete at the Beraudiere house was a brilliant social function and most uncomfortable to work in. The staff of servants had, with praiseworthy thoroughness, polished the floor of the ballroom until it was positively dangerous to dance and tumble. I was far too busy trying not to break my neck to take much stock of what was going on around me, until the moment when I could stand still and take my bows; then I saw that the room had been arranged like a cabaret restaurant with a floor show, and at one of the tables was the guest of honor, the center of a group of flattered guests, but like his royal parents, he seemed to be a long way off and not particularly interested in anything.

I was in error about this, however, for after the performance, Comptesse de la Beraudiere's son came to my dressing room and great success, that some of my told me that I had achieved a great success, that some of my steps made a hit with the Prince, who was simply crazy about the Charleston

Home Economicist To Speak At Tech Today

Miss Anna Bines, regional home economist of the National Livestock and Meat board, will discuss ways to prepare meat when she lectures before students and faculty members of Texas Tech division of home economics from 9 until 11 a. m. today in annex K of the home economics building.

She is scheduled to speak again at 11 a. m. Friday in annex K. Miss Bines will demonstrate the variety of meat dishes, illustrating the basic principles of meat cookery, and give suggestions on the preparation and use of less familiar cuts of meat.

These special studies are sponsored by the Live Stock and Meat board at leading colleges and universities. "Tech is fortunate in obtaining the services of this specialist," Margaret W. Weeks, dean of home economics division, said.

Tech Alumni News Is Sent Former Students

Nineteen hundred copies of the Texas Tech Alumni News, third homecoming edition which carried details of 20th annual celebrations on the campus Friday and Saturday, were mailed this week to former students.

Names and addresses of all exstudents were unavailable. The old mailing list was inadequate but volunteer workers expressed the hope they "covered a great territory."

Miss Barbara (Bea) Green of Lubbock, Tech student, edited the homecoming edition.

Persons who helped mail the Alumni News were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Senning, Mr. and Mrs Hugh Roland, Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Tilson, Mr. and Mrs Brode Puckett, Jason Gordon, Arch King, George Long, Dorothy Rylander, Murvel Rankin, Eloise Nettle, Bill Griffin and Ruth Craig.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

A TWENTY-ONE-YEAR old robber is receiving visitors in the New York City jail. So far eighty of them have called on him, all people who have been held up or robbed by him during the last few months.

But the young fellow isn't satisfied. There should be many more, he brags, he committed at least a hundred and fifty robberies and holdups during the year.

BRANDEIS

Why don't they come and identify him, too?

There is pride of accomplishment in every humanbeing. The millionaire is proud of his wealth, the writer of his books, the scientists of his discoveries.

And the criminal, to whom his calling is perfectly legtimate, wants to be the biggest and the best criminal of them all.

* * *

I talked to a newcomer here in Connecticut the other day. He has bought an old farmhouse and is remodeling at tremendous cost. When he gets through it will be the biggest and the most elaborate estate for many miles around.

There are just two in the family, but the house has fifteen rooms, five baths, acres of lawn, a swimming pool and terraces.

"Beautiful," I said, as he showed me through, "but isn't it much more than you need?"

"My boy," he replied, "what a bleak world this would be if we were all satisfied with just what we need. We work to have more than we need. Isn't there satisfaction in having more baths than you need, more rooms than you need, a swimming pool that you will probably never use and a garage for more cars than you will ever need?"

Well, I didn't want to disillusion the poor fellow, as long as that was his idea of success. So I just said "how wonderful" and let it go at that.

But yesterday I heard that he had contributed a measly fifty dollars to the National War Fund, while he spent more than five thousand dollars for his swimming pool.

* * *

OF COURSE, you will condemn the little burglar in jail. He had no right to steal that money and it serves him right to get a long prison sentence.

But sometimes I wonder what right people have to waste so much money on themselves, to have so much more than they need, when there are so many millions in this world who would thank them on their bended knees for one of the many pairs of shoes that are rotting in their closets.

I don't begrudge anyone his success.

I think that ability should be rewarded and that the capitalist has just as much of a right to live as the working man.

But sometimes I see a strange analogy between waste and want.

And that is the stuff strikes and wars are made of.

An Old Feud Reopens

It's White House, Vs. Capitol

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

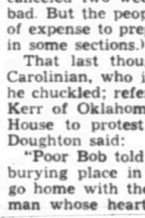

A first-class and personal feud is brewing between President Truman and the statesman he can least afford to antagonize on Capitol Hill. The legislative partner to the disagreement is 82-year-old "Bob" Doughton of North Carolina.

He is chairman of the House Way and Means committee and second only to Speaker Sam Rayburn in his influence with both the Democratic and Republican memberships of the House.

It is his committee—which the veteran North Carolinian carries around in his vest pocket—that the Chief Executive assailed in his radio speech for not acting favorably on the expended Unemployment Compensation bill. Mr. Doughton, who is known as "Muley" for his stubborn temperament, was aggrieved by the criticism, but he has had too much experience on Capitol Hill to let it worry him seriously or permanently.

* * *

DISAPPOINTED: What now irritates him to the point where he is sputtering and fuming to Speaker Rayburn, Majority Leader John W. McCormack and other bosses of the Democratic machine is Mr. Truman's late cancellation of the visit he was to make to Raleigh and other cities in North Carolina. The circumstances in connection with the President's refusal to make the trip, which was to have taken him also to Georgia and Oklahoma, have embarrassed Mr. Doughton as well as Sen. Clyde R. Hooey.

TUCKER

Nor did HST placate the disappointed politicians of those three states, and their friends in Congress, when he cited the pressing labor problems as the reason for his not leaving Washington.

At the very time he was supposed to have been shaking hands with Mr. Doughton's constituents back home he was conferring with Sidney Hillman, Philip Murray and John L. Lewis—three gentlemen whose popularity below Mason and Dixon's line is on a par with that of the carpetbaggers in the 1870s.

* * *

POLLS: President Truman's cancellation wounded the veteran Carolinian in many ways. It is a feather in any Congressman's campaign hat to parade a President before his own folks. But aside from his disappointment in that respect, there are other reasons for the legislator's bitterness and his disparaging remarks about his Chief Executive and party leader.

Mr. Doughton had hoped that the Presidential sign of friendship would tend to counteract the scolding which Mr. Truman administered over the radio and at a White House conference several weeks ago. Moreover, despite the chairman's long service in the House and his position of eminence, there have been reports that he may meet opposition at the primary polls next year. And he knows that the slogan "It's time to give a younger man a chance" has often proved effective.

Mr. Doughton, in talking with Speaker Rayburn and with Mr. McCormack and friends indulged in language rarely heard from the lips of a leader when he is discussing his President. Frankly, he doubts whether it was Mr. Truman's concern over the labor situation and preparation for the labor-management conference which led to his calling off the elaborate celebrations.

* * *

BURY: "That labor stuff is just an excuse," growled "Muley Bob," who is ordinarily a somewhat taciturn individual. "I don't think the labor situation is any more serious now than it was before. Anyway, why couldn't he have met these labor leaders on some other days beside those he was supposed to spend with us!

"I don't see why he has to interfere in that question. I thought he was going to leave those troubles to Schwellenbach.

"I don t see why he can't visit North Carolina, in view of the fact that he has been to Missouri, New York, Tennessee and Kentucky. If he had canceled two weeks ago, it wouldn't have been so bad. But the people down home have gone to a lot of expense to prepare for it." (As much as $100,000 in some sections.)

That last thought appeared to hurt the North Carolinian, who is known for his thriftiness. Then he chuckled; referring to the plight of Gov. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, who had rushed to the White House to protest the change in travel plans Mr. Doughton said:

"Poor Bob told me that he 'would have to get a burying place in Washington' because he couldn't go home with the bad news. So, I'm not the only man whose heart is in the grave!"

* * *

SYMPATHY: Politicos from the three states descended upon "Bob" Hannegan in an effort to get him to persuade Mr. Truman to change his mind again. Scores of telegraphed pleas and protests were also forwarded to the national Democratic chairman. But even the political adviser was unable to move the Chief Executive out of the White House.

The President's friends deny that he canceled the North Carolina visit, which would have kept him out of the capital for only a day, because of personal resentment against the Ways and Means committee's recalcitrancy. They say that he oes not operate that way; that he does not let personal feelings influence his public behavior. But it is difficult to convince Mr Doughton on that score, as his remark about the labor situation being just an excuse seems to suggest.

Incidentally, although they don't want to leap into the middle of the argument, every key leader in the House sympathizes and sides with the dean of the Tar Heel delegation.

* * *

RESPONSIBILITY: Although President Truman is a respected and well-liked alumnus of Capitol Hill, his troubles in attempting to force wanted labor legislation out of blockading committees spring from his awkward handling of some of his old colleagues. His chastisement of them in his recent radio address has not improved the relationship between the White House and Congress.

When HST called the Ways and Means committee to the Executive Mansion to rebuke it for not acting on the expanded Unemployment Compensation bill, he failed to notify Speaker Sam Rayburn of his plan, although it is customary to keep the House boss informed of these family tilts. Moreover, Mr Truman blamed the Democrats on the committee instead of assessing some of the responsibility on the Republican minority.

* * *

RESENTMENT: As a consequence, Ways and Means Chairman Doughton has made no move to report the measure to the House. Meanwhile, Mr. Rayburn took the unusual step of referring the Full Employment bill to the Committee on House Expenditures, although he realizes that it has only a small chance with this hard-boiled and conservative bunch.

Again Mr. Truman administered a spanking to the Expenditures chairman, Carter Monasco of Alabama, and to the second top Democrat, "Dick" Whittington of Mississippi. They revealed their resentment by deciding to hold three weeks of hearings after their visit to the White House.

* * *

DEFY: Another reason for the President's setbacks is that his leaders are not rounding up Democratic supporters of administration proposals. The numerically powerful New York bloc spends hardly any time in the capital, and rarely attends committee meetings when it does. Party whips are not driving lazy or uninterested MCs to the floor when important matters are up for discussion and vote.

The war's letdown has had the same effect on them as it has on the general public. Meanwhile, the GOP sticks to the job and combines with Democratic reactionaries to defy HST.

Overhead: "The saleslady told me this lipstick wouldn't come off, and I'm going to give it the acid test tonight by having a date with a Marine."

Today's couplet: The girls aren't wearing much in front and very little behind; and so we pause and shed a tear for all men who are blind.

Businessmen Look To Better Days Again

Business "In The Saddle" Again

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Riding the trains these days the traveler gets a vivid impression of the return to normal in one sure sign.

The businessmen are back in the club cars again talking shop over whisky and soda.

STOKES

The chatter is lively and enthusiastic about peacetime business. Their business was once the government's business, and businessmen you met on the trains were serious and glum and not talkative.

Now it's their own business again, and the whole psychology has changed. The smiles are back. They ramble on and on, swapping stories about reconversion problems, labor troubles, bemoaning taxes and continued government regulations, but good naturedly, as something to be borne.

It's easy to be cynical about it. Occasionally you spot a cynic, not of the business fraternity, who throws a bored and annoyed glance over the top of his highbrow magazine toward a noisy group.

But it's wiser—and more comfortable—to be realistic.

This is, after all, a businessman's country. They buckled down to win the war. Now they are joyfully throwing off the bonds to enjoy the peace, in their own way.

* * *

Business is ready to take over again, to set the style, the pace, and the customs. Businessmen are looking forward to prosperous times—like the '20's, they hope. The literary satirist undoubtedly will get to work on them again, for we seem to be headed into one of those eras, and perhaps give us another Babbitt of the '40's.

There doesn't seem to be a great deal of change over the years.

Here in Washington, as then, the atmosphere is favorable. The top New Dealer, the man "who betrayed his class," who came to be such an ogre to businessmen, is no longer at the White House. A fellow they can understand is there. And more easy-going and amiable gentlemen occupy the other seats of power, by and large, solid fellows of the South and Middle West.

* * *

THERE very likely will be the usual number of scoffers as the nation goes back to normal and the earnest businessman type again assumes his place in our society.

A young soldier came into the the club car on one occasion. He was the merry, happy-go-lucky, audacious Italian - American type. He came in like a breeze, bearing a big paper sack in each hand. He passed them around with easy hospitality. One held cakes, the other peanuts.

* * *

They're Talking Again

Back in the end of the car one businessman was in the midst of a long address to another who could do nothing but nod occasionally. The victim was effectively pinned down. The other's voice carried through the car. The soldier listened for awhile, enraptured. Then he stood up and pointed his finger at the orator who sat about ten feet away.

"Slave-driver!" he hooted, and he thumbed his nose with his voice.

He grinned. The man was too involved in his own rhetoric to hear. The soldier watch and listened again.

"That other guy hasn't said a word yet," he finally blurted out.

* * *

LATER, in the dining car, an earnest conversation across the table.

"And we'll sell them for fifty cents apiece—"

Later still, in another club car. A man stopped beside another who was reading.

"Aren't you Mr. So-and-So?"

The other beamed appreciatively, and nodded.

"Have you made any valves yet?"

"Yep, got some on the line now."

Then they comforted one another about taxes.

The businessman is riding again.

Texas Men To Receive British Decorations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—On behalf of King George VI, the Earl of Halifax will confer decorations on 35 United States officers and others in a ceremony at the British Embassy today.

The awards and recipients include:

Honorary Commander of the military division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (C.B.E.):

Honorary Officer of the military division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (O. B.E.):

Col. John B. Cornett, 302 East Craig Place, San Antonio, Tex. "His able cooperation with the Royal Air Force and his enthusiasm inspired confidence and contributed much to the success of the Italian campaign."

Col. John H. Foster, 111 Sheraton Drive, San Antonio, Tex. ". . . Responsible for the evacuation of prisoners of war from Austrian prison camps and for transporting food and medical stores."

The British Empire Medal (civil division) was awarded the following American field service volunteers for evacuation casualties under fire:

Walter Bradley, 1100 Main Street, Houston, Tex.

EXTRADITION WAIVED

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP) — Lawrence J. Theis, former Detroit factory worker, today waived extradition for return to Michigan where he was charged with the first degree murder of Mrs. Alberta Rose Young, wife of an Army officer, who was slain last week near Pontiac.

The output of Borneo's oil fields in one prewar year was 9,000,000 tons.

DEATH IS CHEATED—Death in the waters of Lake Ontario seemed certain for the occupants of this car when it plunged down the sheer sides of Scarboro Cliffs at Toronto, Canada. Instead, the car wedged in a crevice 30 feet above the water. Two men and two women in the auto were only slightly injured.

Germans Thought War Averted In '38 When British Backed Down

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(Copyright, 1945, By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Records of secret telephone conversations which took place between Nazi leaders while German troops were marching into Austria in 1938 indicate they believed that war was averted at that time only because Britain failed to support France in a threat to fight.

On Sunday, March 1938, the occupation already was well under way and Adolf Hitler was in Linz, preparing for a triumphal entry into Vienna.

Planned To Trap Chamberlain

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, excited by receipt of what he believed authentic information that France had backed down in her threat to fight for Austria's integrity, hastily telephoned his chief lieutenant in Vienna, Maj. Karl Bodenschatz.

Repeatedly emphasizing that Britain had rejected a French proposal for action, he admonished Bodenschatz to be certain Hitler read the "brown papers" being sent him at Linz.

Goering and suave Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop already were laying the groundwork for trapping Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, at Munich.

Britain Rejected Plan

Records of the telephone conversation between Goering and Bodenschatz were salvaged from the blasted ruins of the air ministry building in Belrin. Here are some extracts from the conversation:

Bodenschatz: "From tonight Austria and Germany will be one Reich. All Austrian troops will take the oath to the Fuehrer tomorrow."

Goering: "Tell the Fuehrer reports have just come—the brown reports — which are completely clear because they were seized. From these it can be seen that action only miscarried because England rejected it. . ."

Documents Sent Hitler

"The Fuehrer will get them tomorrow morning. The situation was thus: The French indeed wanted to get into an action without any reservation, and so pressed most hard on the English. I can send you all the decoded cables. And only because England declined, the whole action was blown up . . . Today it is thus with the great powers: France tells its ministers in the various countries it cannot do anything because England held out, and above all because England refused . . . The Fuehrer will have proofs tomorrow morning that England did not encourage him in resistance, but plainly declined to take over a guarantee."

Bodenschatz: "Jawohl, I'll tell him that."

Goering: "The Fuehrer should read over these cables—the ones in the brown sheets. From these one can incontestably ascertain that France wanted to act first with Italy and England and then only with England. . . . England's behaviour was decisive here. Just because of that I want to be a little friendly to England."

Texan Almost Bleeds To Death In Japan

TEMPLE, Nov. 7. (UP)—Seven days before the fighting stopped Staff Sergeant Alfred Haws of Friona, Tex., nearly bled to death because Japanese civilians refused to put a tournquet on his arm mangled during a B-29 bombing raid which destroyed a factory where he had been forced to work.

Sgt. Haws, now a patient at the McCloskey General hospital here, told how after more than two years in Japanese prison camps in the Philippines where his brother, Claude, died of malarial fever, he was shipped to Japan to become a forced laborer.

Sgt. Haws, who expects to return to Friona upon his discharge from the Army, was a member of the 2nd battalion, 200th Coast artillery. His brother, Claude, was in the 1st battalion of the same unit. Both were taken when Bataan surrendered and both made the infamous March of Death.

The sergeant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Haws, live in Clovis, N. M.

Blue, symbolic of dark sea waters, and gold, representing the Naval uniform ornaments and braid, have been the official colors of the U. S. Naval Academy since 1892.

STOCKS SET NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Steels, utilities, motors and other industrials led a general advance of fractions to around 5 points to new 8½ year peaks in today's stock market.

After the election day layoff yesterday, volume of 2,380,000 shares was the best since last June 28 and compared with 1,650,000 on Monday.

The 1,061 issues dealt in were the largest in modern history and compared with 1,049 on May 14, 1940, and 1,045 on Sept. 19, 1937. Of this total, 688 advanced, 213 declined and 160 were unchanged.

Establishing summits for 1945 or longer were American Telephone, up 4; Chrysler, up 5⅝; Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Sears Roebuck and Union Pacific. A few stocks, however, were down from tops for the session.

The pressure to invest idle funds, prospects for an improved tax situation for some companies in 1946 and the possibility of limited inflation were factors in the rise.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite rose .7 of a point to 75.0 — best since March 10, 1937, when it stood at 75.3. Industrials, rails and utilities all touched new peaks since 1937.

Higher were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Caterpillar Tractor, Western Union "A," International Nickel, American Can, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ) and National Distillers.

Bristol-Myers soared 10⅛ points at the finish on news of a proposed two-for-one split-up of the common stock.

Bonds moved ahead sharply on broad investment demand. Chicago wheat was unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel down, corn unchanged at the ceilings, oats ¼ to ⅜ off and rye ¼ up to 2½ lower. Cotton ended 35 to 65 cents a bale higher.

Gaining in the curb were American Cyanamid, Colonial Airlines, Northeast Airlines and Raytheon Manufacturing. Traffic here aggregated 1,230,000 shares against 870,000 on Monday.

Cotton

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Cotton futures rose $1.20 a bale in broad trading today to establish new season's highs before gains were pared on commission house profit taking and considerable hedge selling attracted by the advance.

Final prices were 35 to 65 cents a bale higher. Expectations of a lower cotton crop forecast tomorrow, aggressive demand for spot cotton at the primary markets and indications of a broadened export demand soon, supported the upward movement. The average guess of 51 members of the New York cotton exchange placed the crop at 9,654,000 bales compared with the October 1 government forecast of 9,779,000 bales and 1944 production of 12,228,000.

A French buying mission was expected to ask offrs of American cotton shortly. The export-import bank has about completed its credit drafts to implements of cotton exports. The weekly weather report was generally favorable to picking operations on the cotton crop making rapid headway.

Houston Girl Comes Up With Something New In Collections

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (UP)—Girls collect a lot of things but police said they held one today with a new record.

The 19-year-old girl was found in a park with a bus driver. A sweet, young thing, the police decided she'd been led astray and took her to the station for a fatherly talk.

There she showed them her little book with the heading: "Bus drivers I have known." Then followed 51 names with corresponding phone numbers and routes.

During the past 10 months, shipment of the major fruits and melons that compete with citrus fruit throughout the nation exceeded 150,000 railway carloads, an increase of 23,000 over the previous season.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP) — Most grain futures prices slipped in late trade today although the tight December rye contract was up more than a cent a bushel most of the time on short-covering after it had opened as much as 2½ cents higher.

Prices mostly were firm at the start, but profit-taking on yesterday's upturns caused reactions in most cases, with September rye dropping more than 2 cents. Wheat prices showed little change most of the time and trade was quiet.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ lower than the previous finish, December $1.80¾, corn was unchanged at ceilings, December $1.18½, oats were off ¼ to ⅜, December 07⅜-⅛, rye was ¼ higher to 2½ cents lower, December $1.73⅜-¼, and barley was ⅛ up to ½ down, December $1.20⅝.

Chinese Newspaper Offers Plan For Solution Of China's Trouble

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7 — He who sows civil war in China will reap the whirlwind, warns the liberal Chungking newspaper, the Ta Kung Pao.

In a remarkable editorial cabled here by the Chinese news service, this newspaper suggests a way for the Central government and the Communists to settle their differences. Here is a condensation:

WHITE

"If I were Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, as director general of China's foremost political party (the Kuomingtang) and as president of the National government, amid cheers of victory, I would resolve to lead the nation toward democracy and constitutional government.

"I would immediately announce the end of one-party (Kuomingtang) rule and ask the national government to end the period of (Kuomingtang) political tutelage and return government to the people.

Would Call Convention

"I would call a convention of the proposed political consultative council (which Chiang reportedly is postponing, the Reds want soon) to discuss national affairs.

"I would expedite convocation of a national assembly, with new members, to elect a government and promulgate a new, democratic constitution so the people may make known their desires.

"I would give no thought to whether I or the Kuomingtang could remain in power.

"I would emulate George Washington, and, pending the election of a people's government, I would be the nation's leader, responsible for order and safety.

Would Recognize Situation

"Now," continues the Ta Kung Pao, "if I were Mao Tze-Tung, (the Red leader) as leader of the second largest political party, with my people and their record of participation in resistance behind me, and with the right to hold my own views and express them, I would recognize that Communism does not suit China.

"I would harbor no ambition to destroy the nation and no desire to form a government similar to the Soviet regime.

"I would strive for democracy and demand that the Kuomingtang end the period of political tutelage but not demand that Communist party rule replace it.

"I would demand re-election of the national assembly and call upon my followers to support it, and demand a liberalization of the 1936 draft constitution.

Equality For Parties

"I would demand equality and legality for all parties, and fundamental rights for the people.

"And, were all these demands recognized, I would then announce the abolition of my border government and nationalization of my Communist troops."

After thus putting the issue up to the dissident leaders, the Ta Kung Pao says that if both acts in these suggested ways a solution will be easy.

If one does, the other does not, it says, it will be easy to make out who is right and who is wrong.
