FLIERS ARE HONORED

Gov. Moody Absent When Committees Report To His Office

AUSTIN, June 3. (AP)—The second called session of the 41st legislature convened today under proclamation of Gov. Dan Moody with its principal business the enactment of appropriations to sustain the government during the biennium beginning Sept. 1 and found itself sharply divided on the amount necessary to finance the state.

There exists a difference of $11,603,613 between the senate and house in aggregate amounts proposed to be appropriated. The senate would appropriate $57,711,013 and the house $46,107,400.

There was no message from the governor. The proclamation calling the legislature today was read and committees from each house which went to the chief executive's office to notify him that the legislature was ready for business found him gone. He was in Georgetown, where he went to participate in ceremonies incident to induction of Dr. King Vivion to the presidency of Southwestern university.

Parrish Heads Senate

Sen. Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock was elected president pro tem of the senate by unanimous vote, and little time was spent in formalities in either house.

A concurrent resolution proposing a joint session to honor Reg 11 Robbins and Jim Kelly, pilots of the Fort Worth sustained flight endurance ship, was adopted and soon after the airmen had made their appearance both branches adjourned until tomorrow.

Repeal of the search and seizure act was among the 31 bills introduced in the senate. The house received 22 bills.

Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio put in his bill appropriating $1,000,000 and providing for a commission of three members to purchase land adjoining the Alamo in San Antonio. It was signed by every member of the senate.

'Thrift Foundation of Self-Respect,' Kell

Frank Kell, outstanding citizen and civic leader of Wichita Falls and Texas, said: "I am pleased to encourage an effort that serves to promote a spirit of thrift. Thrift is the foundation of self-respect. The happy individual is the one who does the worthwhile to the full extent of his ability. To so live within our incomes that we may provide for the future, to learn to spend wisely of our time and money, and to learn that dollars and the fruits of time grow rapidly if properly handled, should be of the greatest concern to everyone."

Flooding of Wichita Falls Streets Involves Council in Long Debate

T. A. Hicks Protests Inundation of Avenue E Property; Temporary Relief Promised by City

Promise of ultimate relief from inundation of residence property and from traffic-blocking lakes on prominent streets at times of heavy rainfall was seen by local property owners Monday night in the action taken by the city council for the protection of properties located on Avenue E at Polk street.

T. A. Hicks, owner of a house at 2206 Avenue E, appeared before the council and declared that the recent rains again had precipitated a condition in that locality, as in several others in the city, which required prompt action for the protection of the residences concerned.

Inadequate drainage, particularly in the section between Tenth street and the Country Club estates, has resulted during the last three weeks in the overflow extending over many properties, it was said, and in the accumulation of water on Brook, Harrison, Taylor, Polk and Monroe to a depth which almost completely forbade automobile traffic, and made passage by pedestrians practically impossible for long periods.

Lots Ordered Filled

By unanimous vote, the city council authorized City Manager George D. Fairtrace to have the lot at 2206 Avenue E and that at 1415 Polk street filled to a sufficient level to prevent their inundation by waters from the street, provided the property owners raise the houses on these lots to permit the fill.

The action taken by the council followed a lengthy discussion of the matter between Mr. Hicks and all members of the city's governing body. The original petition put by Mr. Hicks asked for the paving of Avenue E between Monroe and Polk streets, setting forth that resistance offered by the present street surface renders speedy drainage impossible, and that residents in that area cannot drive in and out of their garages in a rainy season.

All councilmen concurred in the opinion advanced by Mayor Akin and the city manager that it would be impossible at this time for the

H. F. SINCLAIR MUST STAY IN JAIL 9 MONTHS

Supreme Court Upholds Sentence of Six Months For Shadowing

H. M. DAY MUST PAY

William J. Burns Cleared But Son Must Remit Stiff Fine

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

WASHINGTON, June 3. (US)—Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, turfman and central figure in the Teapot Dome naval oil scandal, received another blow from the United States supreme court today, when that tribunal ruled he must serve six months in prison for jury-shadowing.

The high court affirmed the conviction and sentence of Sinclair by the District of Columbia court on charges of employing detectives to watch jurors during the trial of Sinclair and ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall for fraud against the government. The case followed an expose by the Washington Herald, of alleged jury tampering.

Burns Fined

Henry M. Day must serve four months in prison and W. Sherman Burns pay a fine of $1,000, under the same ruling of the highest tribunal.

The supreme court reversed the lower court's conviction and sentence to 15 days in jail given to William J. Burns, international detective and former chief of the department of justice bureau of investigation, who was also charged with being a party to the jury shadowing.

W. Sherman Burns is a son of William J. Burns and was in active charge of the Burns International Detective agency, which supplied detectives for Sinclair's shadowing.

Sinclair Now Serving

Sinclair probably will begin his six months' term immediately after he completes his present 90-day jail term for contempt of the senate.

The mandate of the supreme court will be sent to Justice Siddons, in whose court Sinclair and the others were convicted and sentenced, in 25 days, under the usual practice of the court.

Then Day will be called upon to surrender for his term in prison along with Sinclair, while the younger Burns will appear to pay his $1,000 fine.

Justice McReynolds delivered the opinion of the court. Justice Stone did not participate.

Mistrial Ordered

It was on Oct. 17, 1927, that Sinclair and Fall came up for trial on the charge of defrauding the government in the celebrated "Teapot Dome" oil case.

After the Washington Herald had revealed evidence tending to show that jurors were being tampered with, a mistrial was ordered. Counsel for the government then moved for conviction of Sinclair and his aides.

Statements made by William J. Burns might cause suspicion that he was a party to the surveillance, said the supreme court decision.

"But he emphatically denied this and we can find no material evidence to support the charge against him. As to him the judgment of the lower court must be reversed," said the court.

Judge Upheld

The opinion read:

"We thing the trial judge rightly held it unnecessary to allege or show actual contact between an operative of the detective agency and the juror, or that any juror had knowledge of being observed. The reasonable tendency of the acts done is the proper criterion. Neither actual effect produced upon the juror's mind nor his conscious-

HOOVER'S OIL CONSERVATION GETS IN COURT

President's Lease Policy To Be Tested in Suit By Californian

WILBUR IS SILENT

Secretary of Interior Cited To Appear at Hearing To Test Plan

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—President Hoover's oil conservation program faces a court test with the filing in the District of Columbia supreme court today of a mandamus suit by Ethel M. McLennan, of Sacramento, Calif., challenging the legality of Secretary Wilbur's action in canceling her application for a permit to prospect for oil and gas without having given her a hearing.

In her suit, which named Secretary Wilbur as defendant, the Sacramento woman maintained she was duly qualified under the leasing act to hold a prospecting permit and argued that the interior secretary had exceeded his authority in directing that her application be rejected.

The interior department on Mar. 12 ordered that all pending applications for permits to prospect for oil and gas on government land be returned.

Department officials at the time held the leasing act gave the department permission to grant permits, but that it was a matter of discretion with the secretary when and how such permits are granted. The McLennan suit directly questions that phase of the department's policy.

The cancellation of applications for permits to prospect on government land has been the backbone of the conservation policy of the administration.

Justice Stafford of the District of Columbia supreme court ordered Mr. Wilbur to appear June 17 and show cause why the writ sought should not be issued against him. Advised of the court action, the interior secretary declined comment.

NEW WORRY FOR GOLDEN STATE

Increased Filipino Immigration Offers Problem

Sacramento, Calif., June 3. (US)—Warning that California must shortly give serious heed to the increasing immigration of Filipinos into this state is given in a report to the governor's office by the state department of industrial relations.

Figures included in the report show that 2,676 Filipinos entered California through the port of San Francisco alone during the five months ending on May 1. The islanders also are coming in through Seattle and Los Angeles the report declared.

"The absence of women in any number of like proportion is causing some anxiety," the report remarks.

"California can well afford to find out the exact legal status of this immigration and statesmanlike methods should be considered to meet the condition.

"There seems to be a susceptibility to meningitis on the part of the newcomers and this is troubling some of the districts in which Filipinos are employed.

For the first time in history, Filipinos outnumber Mexicans in the labor camps of the state. Out of a total of 9,221 persons in these camps 2,199 are Filipinos. Since virtually all of the Filipinos are men, they comprise approximately one-third of the total male population of 6,569.

Two of the bandits kept the customers lined up in an ante-room, occasionally firing a few shots in the ceiling while the third bandit collected cash and jewelry to the value of $1,500.

The bandits and their girl friends escaped in an automobile.

At about the same hour, another trio of gunmen met Alex Bimemfeld, manager of the Pershing theater, as he was getting out of his car at his home, forced him to drive back to the theater and open the theater safe. They took over $2,500, the week-end receipts. Bimemfeld was thrown from the bandits car at an isolated corner.

Summer . . . is the favorite season

with those who live in Southern California

. . . come and see why. Take a refreshing 2-weeks vacation trip from the South and return home on the dot

MORE scenic and climatic attractions are probably packed into Southern California than in any one section of the country—or world.

Cooled by breezes that sweep in from the boundless Pacific, summer days are delightful. Nights are so refreshing that light wraps are a necessity and dances are held indoors. You'll sleep under blankets.

Rain, thunder and lightning are practically unknown here in summer. Not a moment of precious vacation time will be lost.

And, here's the best kind of news for vacationists who have but a 2-weeks holiday. Now—you can leave principal Southern points, be in this wonderland one week of your vacation and return home again, refreshed, on the dot!

Think of all that is new and delightful to see and do in these joyous days if you cannot spare more time. Realize what it means—the peak-trip of a lifetime on your vacation this summer!

Send for a special 2-weeks summer itinerary showing exactly what you can see and do in the specified time, then start planning immediately. Enjoy the special low round trip fares that prevail from May 15 until October 31.

Change the itinerary to suit your whim. Perhaps the 270 miles of ocean beaches will be the lure—or the High Sierra's summer snow peaks. Or pack into the highest mountain range in the country. And, the trout!

Ever see a billion dollars worth of oil wells? Los Angeles County has them. Agricultural products approximate $95,000,000 annually. From Los Angeles all interest points are but a matter of a few miles or hours. Everywhere are groves of ripening oranges, walnuts, avocados. Enroute to Southland cities you visit Old Spanish Missions. Los Angeles offers many of the finest resort hotels in the world; its theatres and cafes are truly metropolitan, for here is the fifth largest city in the country!

WOMEN SOLONS IN MATE'S JOBS

Six of Eight Congresswomen Listed

By CHAS. S. HAYDEN
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The announcement that Mrs. John J. Casey, widow of the late congressman from the 12th Pennsylvania district, plans to offer herself as a candidate to fill out the unexpired term of her husband and revived a suggestion that the house of representatives should be rechristened the "house of widows." There are now eight women members of the house and of these six are widows, while one of the two others, Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky, was elected while her husband was an enforced guest of Uncle Sam at Atlanta, which gave her a semblance of widowhood.

Oddly enough the first women elected to congress after suffrage was enacted were spinsters. Jeanette Rankin of Idaho led the van, being followed soon after by Miss Alice Robertson, the kindly and wholesome old maid—she admits to the latter characterization herself—from Oklahoma. The retirement of "Miss Alice," as she is familiarly known, however, saw the end of the spinster dynasty. Since then the voters appear to have shown preference to wives and widows, particularly the latter.

Of the eight women now serving as members of the house only one can with strict justice claim to have won her place entirely by her own efforts. This one is Mrs. Mary T. Norton of the 12th New Jersey district. Incidentally she was the first Democratic woman to win this honor, having been chosen in 1924, and is the dean of the feminine contingent in the house in point of service. If Mrs. Morton's husband ever participated in politics he didn't rise very high and his wife won her place entirely through her own efforts. Moreover, it is a fairly safe assumption that she knows how to play the game or she wouldn't continue to represent the Hudson county district from Jersey, where politics has been developed into a fine art, if you want to call it that.

Now all the others owe something for the honors they now enjoy to their men folks, either deceased or disgraced. Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, from San Francisco, succeeded her husband, the late Julius Kahn, a man of rare attainments and repeatedly honored by his constituents. She was followed the same year, 1925, by Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, elected to fill out the unexpired term of her husband, the late Representative John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts and since then twice re-elected.

The next was Mrs. Langley from the mountains of Kentucky. There was genuine sympathy for John Langley, both in Washington and his district when he became involved in difficulties growing out of the withdrawal of a quantity of pre-Volstead liquor from certain warehouses down in the Blue Grass state. There was a general feeling that if he had erred it was an error of the head and not of the heart and no doubt this sympathy played a substantial part in the first election of Mrs. Langley. There was talk that when Langley, pere, returned from Atlanta he would resume his place as head of the household, taking both the honors and the emoluments thereof. That is exactly what did not happen, however, and it appears that the people of the 10th Kentucky district are better satisfied with the services performed by Langley, mere, than those of Langley, pere.

On the death last fall of the late Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, his widow, Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, was elected to fill out his then unexpired term as well as the new term, which began March 4 of this year. She has given it out that she does not expect to again seek the honor and, unless she changes her mind—a woman's privilege regardless of her position—probably will retire as a national legislator March 4, 1930.

The present congress has seen the admission of three new feminist members, Mrs. Ruth Pratt, 17th New York district; Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen of the fourth Florida district, and Mrs. Ruth McCormick, member at large from Illinois. Mrs. Pratt's husband, John T. Pratt, was a leading Republican of New York and her first appearance, in a public way, was when she came to Washington several years ago in an effort to clear his memory of a charge that he had participated in the proceeds of the Continental Trading company, a concern organized in connection with the Tea Pot Dome lease.

Mrs. Owen, the widow of an English army officer, is the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, the "Great Commoner," and his fame and name undoubtedly contributed no little to her election last fall. Just what he would say if he knew that she had voted for a Republican tariff bill as she did last Tuesday, is a matter of conjecture. However, it may be said in her defense, that it carried duties on citrus fruits and green vegetables which, excepting real estate, constitute the leading industry of the Miami district.

Finally, there is Mrs. Ruth McCormick, daughter of one senator, the late Mark Hanna of Ohio, and widow of another, the late Joseph Medill McCormick of Illinois. It is her ambition to succeed to the honors which they held and to that end has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination against Senator Charles S. Deneen, who comes up for re-election next year. Mrs. McCormick is credited with being a very astute politician and, through her husband, is a substantial owner of stock in the Chicago Tribune, one of the powerful newspapers of the country. More than that, she is a bona fide farmer, owning and operating a 1,000-acre farm "down state" and, what is more, making it pay. The fact that Deneen wrested the Republican nomination from her husband gives Mrs. McCormick a double incentive in the coming race.

SECOND PRIZE

Federal Commission To Enforce Dry Laws Is Proposed

NEW YORK, June 3. (UP)—The placing of the enforcement of the 18th amendment in the hands of a federal commission after repeal of the Volstead and Jones laws is the crux of the plan which won second place in William Randolph Hearst's contest for "the best practicable substitute for prohibition."

The plan was submitted by Brig. Gen. Albert Clayton Dalton, U. S. A. retired, who lives in Washington. Its publication followed the announcement on Saturday that Franklin Chase Hoyt, presiding justice of the children's court of New York City, had won the first prize of $25,000 with a proposal to legalize the sale of wine and beer under state control. Dalton received $5,000.

DEMOS' HOPES BLOOM AGAIN

Dinner in Washington to Honor Jouett Shouse

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, June 3. (UP)—After a long winter of discouragement the Democrats have blossomed again like a garden full of June roses.

They sent up an official cheer today over the recapture of the congress seat for the third Kentucky district which went Republican by 4,000 in the Hoover landslide six months ago.

They also announced a big party dinner to be held here Monday, June 10, at which speakers will include John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Speeches will be broadcast over the national network of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Nominally the dinner is in honor of Jouett Shouse of Kansas, newly installed here as chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee. Actually, according to the announcement, "the dinner is expected to prove the initial assertion of the active offensive by the Democratic party in the confidence of recapturing control of congress next year."

Organization of a program for "militant and effective year-by-year and day-by-day furtherance of party principles will be outlined at the dinner," the announcement explained.

Giving of a big Democratic dinner at this time was regarded by some as a bold step in view of the agitation stirred up this week by extreme drys and who are seeking to oust Raskob from control of the party's national organization.

Bishop James Cannon of Virginia made public last week an open letter urging dry Democrats to refuse to vote the regular party ticket until the Raskob leadership had been repudiated.

The hostility which this class of Democrats registered against Smith last fall is now concentrated to some degree on Raskob, creating a first class party problem. Opposition is somewhat tempered, however, by the fact that Raskob's financial genius is melting away the $1,500,000 party deficit until now only some $350,000 remains.

SARGON BROUGHT HEALTH TO CHILD, STATES MOTHER

"I am deeply grateful to this wonderful Sargon treatment for it quickly built my little daughter right back to splendid health and filled her with new strength and energy. She has gained six pounds.

MARTHA WELCH

"Martha is 12 years old and was weak and underweight for months. She was so dreadfully nervous that I had to keep her out of school. Often she would sit and cry for hours because she had to stay home and couldn't play basketball and other games with her schoolmates. I knew she was not strong enough for athletics. Her complexion was a yellowish, unhealthy color. Her feet and ankles would swell so at times that she couldn't wear her shoes. We were distressed for we did not know whether she had rheumatism, or her kidneys were out of order.

"We tried many treatments for her and she was not benefitted in the least. After hearing so much about other people being helped by Sargon and Sargon Salt Mass Pills, I decided to let Martha try it. In two week's time I could see a remarkable change in her health. Now she has color in her cheeks and her complexion has cleared up. She is not troubled with swelling in her feet now. I am sure she is as strong and healthy as any girl her age. All our family are grateful to this remarkable treatment and will never stop praising it."

The above enthusiastic statement was recently made by Mrs. W. J. Welch, 1282 Peter Smith St., Fort Worth. She is highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends.

Dix Advises Change Of Mind for Hubby

Straight Talk to a Disgruntled Husband—Why Employers Discriminate Against Married Woman—Folly of Marrying a Slovenly Girl

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married three years and we have a baby. Now here is the trouble. I am getting tired of domesticity. I love my wife and baby, but having to stay at home bores me. We have a nice home, a car and enjoy ourselves to a certain extent, but when we come back from a ride or a show and I sit down to read a paper or study and smoke, the baby starts its song and its mother starts hers, and this gets on my nerves, and when I get up and get out of the house it causes an argument. I feel myself changing. My voice is getting harder and I am losing my love for my home and family. I have tried sending my wife away, and it works for a day or so, but then it goes back to the same old thing.

If you can give me any suggestions, I sure am open for a few.

—TIRED HUSBAND.

Answer: My suggestion to you is that you change your mental attitude toward your home. You know happiness and content depend pretty much upon our point of view. It is the way we look at a thing that makes it a pleasure or a hardship, a blessing or a curse.

Certainly this is true of domesticity. You can look on your home as a prison until you get so that you can scarcely scourge yourself to return to it of an evening and you will be as eager to get away from it as you would be to break out of a jail. You can look upon your wife as a ball and chain, some one who hampers your liberty and keeps you from doing the things you want to do and as burden that you have to support until you can see in her only an old woman of the sea that you have saddled around your neck for life.

You can look upon your child as a bothersome brat that raspe your nerves with its squalls and that ties you and your wife down at home when you would like to be stepping out and that takes up her attention when you would like to have it concentrated on yourself.

Or you can look on your home as the sweetest place on earth, a place of refuge from the cares of life. You can find a never-ending interest in every blade of grass that grows about it, a never-ending interest in adding to it and beautifying it. It can be a santuary to which you will flee with eager feet at the end of every day's work.

You can think of your wife as the dearest woman in the world. She can be the one who makes life worth while for you, the one of whose companionship you never tire. And you can think of your baby as something that gives point and meaning to life, the handing on of the torch of life, the one in whom you will find your immortality and in whom you will live your life over again.

Home and wife and child—you can find in them the circle that completes a man's life. Or you can find them a burden and a bore. It is up to you. You think you are tired of them, but if you will not give in to this tired feeling, if you will struggle against it you will get what William James used to call "the second wind," and that will carry you on to the end.

The danger time for young husbands is when the novelty of being married and being a father has worn off and they have not settled down to finding their real happiness in domestic life.

Take the same attitude toward your marriage as you do toward your business. You know very well that there come times when you get deadly weary of whatever occupation you are following and you feel that you cannot endure it for another day. You have lost intdrest in it. All your pep is gone. Everything connected with it is a bore.

But if you have any stamina in you, you dig in and carry on, because you know that the men who are always changing from one thing to another just because they get tired of their job never get anywhere in life, for the same thing happens to the new job. And that is the way with marriage. You can make a success of it by sticking it out through the times of discouragement and by putting your heart in it and your back in it and making the best of it.

As for your child's crying getting on your nerves, surely you are not coward enough to run away from a baby. My advice to you is to get a good baby book and study it. That will teach you how to keep the baby so healthy and train it so well that it will reduce the crying to a minimum. Crying simply isn't done by the well-brought-up modern infant.

Don't forget that marriage and baby-tending are just as hard on your wife as they are on you. Help her out with the youngster. You have no idea what a fascinating companion a baby can be if you will only get acquainted with it.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Why is it that married women are discriminated against by employers? Surely they must know that a married woman who seeks a position needs it in order to make ends meet and generally to feed her children and is humiliated by the fact that she must help earn the living. Also, I should think that employers must realize the fact that a married woman who needs work would work harder than a flapper who just wants her earnings for finery.

—A DISCOURAGED MARRIED WOMAN WHO IS HUNTING A JOB.

Answer: There are many reasons why many employers discriminate against married women. Some contend that unmarried women should have the jobs because they have to depend on themselves alone and have no husband to support them, and you must be just enough to admit that there is much to be said for this view of the subject. Also, these employers contend that it weakens a man's morale for his wife to work outside of the home, and that if Mary can make the living, John is apt to sit down and let her do it. And this is also true in a number of cases.

During the business session, the following reports were made: total money, $340.15; number of reading points, 2700; number of calls made 596.

One of the most interesting reports made was that of Mrs. J. Lem Keevil on the work done for the Day Nursery. The First Christian church has taken care of the nursery during the past month.

Mrs. C. O. Sergeant's division had charge of the program and a resume of the missionary study of the past year was given in the form of a pageant with the following women taking part in costume of the country of which they spoke: Miss Madge Davis, Jamaica; Mrs. T. T. Kelm, India; Mrs. O. Carrico, Japan; Mrs. Van Leslie, China; Mrs. C. E. Bailey, Africa; Mrs. J. E. Strong, Porto Rica; Mrs. H. M. Campbell, Philippine Islands; Mrs. Jack E. Dale, South America; Mrs. Joe Hilburn, Mexico; Mrs. C. O. Sergeant, Tibet; Miss Dorothy Reed, Spirit of Missions. The theme of the mission talk was likening the workmen in foreign fields to workmen on tall buildings; the workers at home to the workers on the ground who pass up building material.

Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth conducted a devotional on cooperation in all its phases. Mrs. W. W. Harrell gave some lovely songs, accompanied by Mrs. R. E. Strange.

No refreshments were served, the money going to the self denial fund, a nice collection being made for this fund. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Floyd A. Bash.

COOKS FIND NEW VALUE OF SUGAR

Vegetables More Delicious When Cooked New Way

Two groups of women, all famous cooking experts, recently conducted a series of tests to find the most tasteful way of preparing vegetable dishes. In every case, after the various ways of cooking vegetables were tried, the experts unanimously voted in favor of using only a little water and adding sugar in cooking vegetables.

One group of experts recommends this unusual recipe for baked apples and onions. Slice 3 medium-size apples and six medium-size onions into a greased casserole in alternate layers, seasoning with salt, pepper, ½ cup of sugar, and 2 tablespoons butter. Add ½ cup water and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about ½ of an hour.

The sugar adds not only to the taste but also to the food and energy value of the vegetables, so that they are not only valuable vitamin foods, but foods that furnish working power to the individual. Use a liberal dash of sugar, depending on the quantity cooked, with peas, lima beans, string beans, corn, carrots, beets, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions and tomatoes. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—A New York paper announces in its society column with a photograph, that "Miss Eichelberger" was among the Park avenue strollers and that her parents are "Mr. and Mrs. Eichelberger".

But in this day and age it is news even if they can't identify the Eichelbergers. Usually Miss Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Brown and Mr. Smith.

And the women are wearing theirs a little at a time.

Rockaway Beach officers have announced that the new rules lay stress on modesty. Petting will be permitted but no baseball playing. So if you are caught hitting a lady with a baseball bat you can't say you were petting her. There's no excuse for a bat.

You've got to do your petting on the beach, not in automobiles. Then the police can be everywhere at once and censor you.

That's employment.

Snappy young thing at the notion counter: "Lady I can't hear yah. Talk louder will ya? One of us ain't bright."

"Oh, I'm sorry", said the lady in an apologetic tone. "I didn't know that," and she spoke right up, sympathetically.

NAVY PROGRAM IS UNALTERED

Hoover Will Maintain Cruiser Tonnage

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—President Hoover has no intention of either modifying or abandoning the American cruiser building program as has been indicated by some of those who have sought to interpret his Memorial day address and the subsequent statement on disarmament issued by Secretary Stimson.

Construction of the 15 additional 10,000-ton fighting ships was made mandatory by congress, at least until an agreement for reduction of sea power has been reached by the leading nations and ratified by the senate.

Such an agreement apparently is little nearer realization than it was before the adjournment of the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference and officials here hold that none was nor could be contemplated for the near future.

They considered that the main essential was to get before the various naval powers through the Geneva commission a new basis for evacuating relative naval strength, and that was done by the American representative—Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson. That basis is under consideration by the admiralties at London, Tokio, Paris and Rome.

So far as the American cruiser program is concerned, it will be carried forward as contemplated by congress and provision for additional ships will be made in the next annual federal budget. The cruiser tonnage contemplated by that program is within the maximum limitation which the American government has proposed at Geneva, although it could and perhaps would be modified if an agreement for a less maximum cruiser tonnage for the leading sea powers should be reached.

Reports that the Hoover administration would seek an answer from the principal powers on the subject of naval reduction within the next 60 days, or before the time for the making up of the new American naval budget, were denied today as were those that the president and Secretary Adams had discussed the subject at a recent White House conference.

The men held up the night clerk, Frank J. Murphy, and took $60 from him, but he didn't know the safe's combination. They asked him who did know it and he told them the day clerk, Joseph Hirsch, who was asleep in his room. They aroused Hirsch, waited for him to dress and took him downstairs, where, at gun's point, he opened it for them.

Wilbur Will Speak For Hoover at Oil Meeting

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—It was announced today at the White house that President Hoover would send no communication to the meeting of the representatives of the Western states which is to be held at Colorado Springs next week for a discussion of the methods of combating the problem of over-production of oil, but would empower Secretary Wilbur to express the views of and speak for the administration.

Letters May Be Telephotoed In Original Script With New Device

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 3. (UP)—A new method of telephoto transmission by which a picture four by six and a half inches can be transmitted and delivered ready for use in four and one half minutes was demonstrated today at the National Electric Light association convention here.

It was shown by the Westinghouse Electric company, having been developed in their laboratories by Dr. Vladimir Zworykin, a Russian.

Wire, Cable or Radio

The method of transmission works with equal facility over a telegraph wire, a cable, through an ordinary radio broadcasting station and even will utilize a beam of light as its vehicle of transmission.

The distance which can be covered in transmission is dependent only on the power of the radio station or length of the wire. Photographs, messages in the original handwriting or any pictured, written or printed material capable of being rolled around a cylinder can be transmitted.

The copy can be received upon ordinary paper or upon photographic paper if photographic effects or sharper contrasts are required.

It was pointed out that the device still is in the research stage but has been developed to a point where its entry into the commercial field may come at an early date. While the laboratory models transmit facsimiles four by six and one-half inches, the apparatus may be built to transmit and receive facsimiles in any size desired.

Message on Cylinder

To operate the device an ordinary photograph, letter, or written or printed sheet is placed upon a cylinder which rotates slowly and at the same time moves longitudinally.

A sharp beam of light is focused on the surface of the picture and when the cylinder has moved for four and one-half minutes this beam has played upon every bit of the surface of the picture or message.

The beam of light has been reflected by the surface of the photograph or writing being transmitted, gathered up by a parabolic reflector and carried to a photo electric tube or "electric eye" which issues an electrical impulse varying in power to the shading of the original photograph or letter.

This impulse is translated into whatever form of energy is required depending on whether the transmission is by wire, radio or upon a beam of light, and is picked up at the receiving station.

The paper receiving the image passes over a revolving cylinder. There is a spiral edge raised upon the surface of the cylinder and a knife edge bears down upon the paper from above. These edges form the electrical contact and pass the current through the paper. As the paper slowly moves over the cylinder, the image unfolds.

FINAL DEBT AGREEMENT UP

Germany Agrees Negotiate With Belgium

PARIS, June 3. (US)—The last obstacle in the rocky path toward the "complete and final settlement" of the reparations problem was blasted from the way tonight by Germany's frank pledge to negotiate an agreement on the troublesome Belgian mark controversy.

The pledge was contained in a letter addressed to Owen D. Young, chairman of the experts committee, from Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegates. The letter stated definitely that Germany agreed "these negotiations should be concluded before the new reparation plan has been put into force by the government."

Schacht also advised Young of the appointment of Dr. Ritter, of the Berlin foreign office, as special representative to handle the matter, and stated:

"The substance of this has been communicated to the Belgian minister to Berlin, whose reply the German government now awaits."

By this action, Germany with one blow cut the ground from under the Franco-Begian stand refusing to sign the experts' report pending settlement of the political controversy over the paper marks left in Belgium by Germany's retreating armies more than a decade ago. Simultaneously, it was officially announced that Young, and others of the American delegation, will sail homeward Saturday aboard the Aquitania.

The new stamps are the same size as the ordinary two-cent stamp, and are printed in red ink with a central design showing the original lamp with rays issuing from it. What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without gripins and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.—Adv.

CUBA TO HELP CURB LIQUOR

President Machado Assures His Cooperation

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
(Copyright, 1929, by United Press)

HAVANA, Cuba, June 3.—President Gerardo Machado of Cuba declares his purpose of cooperating fully with the United States in suppressing the liquor smuggling traffic from his country to the United States as he takes up the reins of government for his second six-year term.

Cuba will carry out her part of the liquor smuggling treaty, though with full knowledge that it constitutes a sacrifice to important economic interests, the president said in an exclusive interview with the United Press in which he also discussed other common interests of the two republics.

Traffic Curbed

The illegal liquor traffic between Cuba and the United States which was formerly a serious problem, has been reduced materially by the treaty covering liquor and dope smuggling, signed during the Coolidge administration, to which Machado referred.

The Cuban president did not discuss the tariff particularly, now a pressing problem between the two countries because of the proposed increased duty on sugar and proposed tariffs on tomatoes, avocados and other Cuban products, but in answering inquiries regarding the basic economic policies that should govern relations between the United States and Cuba, he explained that "just and equitable" treatment would be of the highest advantages to both countries. This was a veiled reference to the delicate tariff problem.

The United Press submitted four inquiries to the Cuban president. That referring to prohibition was as follows:

"From observations of previous and present national experiments aimed at reducing popular consumption of alcoholic beverages what in your opinion is the rational policy for a government to pursue in dealing with this problem?"

Sacrifice in Trade

Machado replied:

"Cuba, happily, is not faced with the problem of popular consumption of alcoholic beverages, but she warmly applauds any steps which may contribute to decreasing such consumption until it finally is completely extinguished. This point of view as to public morality, and a real desire to cooperate with the United States in every good work, as proof of the loyal and frank friendship which we profess, induced us to sign with the United States, the treaty for the suppression of the smuggling of alcoholic beverages and of noxious drugs. The provisions of this treaty are being carefully observed, with the full knowledge that there are being sacrificed to that friendship, in reality, important interests of Cuban industries, for it is well known that alcohol, the basis of spiritous beverages and especially of our rum, is, with the sole exception of sugar, the most important product of the cane cultivated so extensively in this country."

Economic Relations

The questions submitted to ascertain the president's views regarding the future economic relations between the two countries were:

1. What basic economic policy should govern United States-Cuban relations that both countries may derive the most mutual benefits?

2. How would such a policy benefit Cuba and how would it benefit the United States?

In answering the first, Machado said that American intervention to protect Cuba and the many acts of friendship since that time "seem to me sufficient answer in themselves, in the case of a loyal country like Cuba, to this question, and to give assurance, with no reservation whatsoever, that the basic economic policy which will continue to direct the relations between this republic and the United States will be that of the strictest reciprocity and that of the highest esteem."

In answer to the second, the president said that "just and equitable treatment, one of cordial reciprocity, such as that indicated, must be, without doubt, of the highest advantage to the two countries so closely connected by natural ties, by history and by culture."

The United States, he added, would win "results of great importance and of inestimable value through the sympathy with which the whole world" would regard its treatment of a small country.

HOOVER ENDS FIRST QUARTER

Tariff Hike Main Problem For President

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, June 3. (US)—President Hoover concludes his first three months in the White House this week with a substantial record of accomplishment behind him and a host of important problems awaiting his solution.

On the domestic front, the outstanding task is to have congress confine itself to the "limited" tariff revision which the chief executive recommended in convening the special session.

The Hawley bill, as it passed the house, undoubtedly went much further in revising rates upward than President Hoover desired, in several instances at least. Whether these rates are reduced by the senate remains to be seen.

Tariff Is Task

Should the unexpected happen, and the senate vote for still higher duties on some commodities, the president undoubtedly would find himself in an embarrassing position. A tariff wall too high will inevitably bring foreign reprisals already threatened and produce a wave of resentment at home, it is declared.

The task of the president, therefore, will be to keep the tariff revision "within reasonable bounds" which means limited revision only.

This week probably will see the chief executive victorious on two other important legislative matters which congress is about ready to pass on for his signature. The farm bill undoubtedly will be accepted by both senate and house, without the objectionable debenture plan.

The house will pass the combined census and reapportionment bill and thus ensure one of the major purposes which Mr. Hoover had in mind when he convened the special session.

Crime Commission

The appointment of the commission to study crime and law enforcement stands out as a major accomplishment of the new administration, arousing more direct popular interest perhaps than any other one thing that has been done since March 4. That commission already has organized and outlined a definite program for a searching inquiry into every phase of the problem before it. This week it will launch into its active research.

On the foreign front, President Hoover has undertaken an Herculean task in trying to persuade the great foreign powers to live up to the Kellogg treaty which they signed by reducing their naval armaments.

Thus far President Hoover has had public sentiment behind him to an unusual degree. His outstanding act was the withdrawal of the public domain from further oil exploitation and his efforts to end the appalling waste in the oil industry.

FALLING TREES CRUSH THREE OKLAHOMANS, KILLING ONE

WOOD CHOPPER FATALLY HURT

Two Injured as Wind Blows Trees Down

MIAMI, Okla., June 3. (AP)—John Bearskin, 55, Indian woodsman was killed instantly today by a falling tree near Wyandotte, 11 miles southeast of Miami. He was attempting to dislodge the tree he had cut from the branches of another tree.

Bearskin, who lived near Wyandotte, is survived by his widow and five children.

TWO BADLY HURT IN WINDSTORM

POTEAU, Okla., June 3. (UP)—Two men were crushed by a tree that was uprooted by a strong wind near Red Oak today.

Marshall Tawry, Poteau, was in a serious condition with internal injuries and several ribs broken. Ray Barnett, his companion, was knocked down and bruised. The men were just getting into their automobile after a visit to a gas well when the tree crashed down on them.

Girls Strike Back At Male Critic

LAWRENCE, Kan., June 3.(UP)—The student editor of the Kansas university "Sour Owl" invited competition for his journal when he delivered himself of the casual opinion that girls have no sense of humor.

The girls considered the assertion a bit too "sour," and launched a humorous publication of their own which they aptly named the "Yellow Hornet." The Hornet was the answer of a girls' organization to the attitude of the Sour Owl staff in refusing them the privilege of putting out an issue of that magazine and to the comment that they were humorless.

It remained tonight for the student editor of the Sour Owl to employ the humor he had claimed as a male monopoly. All 800 copies of the Yellow Hornet had sold quickly and everywhere the Owl staff turned was to be seen a yellow-backed argument in support of female humor.

Artists' Model And Count to Marry

NEW YORK, June 3. (US)—An artist's model who has been admired by millions of magazine readers for the beauty of her face on their covers today, accompanied by a French count, applied for a marriage license at the municipal building.

Maxine Martin, 23, with Marcel de Muller, 27, of the same address who said he was attached to the French consulate here, said they would be married sometime in July.

Miss Martin, who was born in Chicago, and is the daughter of William E. Martin, was formerly dancing partner with Harold Kolb, ballet master at the Metropolitan Opera house. De Muller was born in Epinal, France, and is the son of Marc de Muller, a justice of the peace and a member of the French nobility.

Operation Performed on Brain Of Injured Grid Star May Bring Health

NEW YORK, June 3. (US)—Widespread public interest was manifested today in the outcome of an operation performed upon the brain of Alfred E. Lassman, New York university football star, who suffered a severe head injury.

The possibility is now being entertained that Lassman will completely recover it was revealed today by Dr. Frederick Tilney, who is in charge of the case. The operation was performed by Dr. Charles A. Elsberg, neurologist at the Neurological institute.

Since he suffered a severe concussion of the brain and a fracture of the skull during the Carnegie-Tech game last Nov. 24, Lassman's prodigious strength has aided him toward recovery.

Lassman's full recovery depends upon whether the injury was restricted to the surface of his brain, Dr. Tilney disclosed. The sensory area back of the central fissure was the one affected.

Lassman is six feet four inches tall, and weighed 225 pounds at the time he was hurt.

In performing the operation, to drain an amount of fluid from Lassman's brain, Dr. Elsberg used only a local anaesthetic.

College Girl's Death Called Poison-Suicide

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 3. (INS)—Suicide by poison was the verdict this afternoon of Medical Examiner Dr. Frederick Stanwood in the death today of Miss Louise M. McBride, 18-year-old Wellesley college sophomore and resident of Weston, W. Va.

After the medical examiner's verdict, the Wellesley college office stated that the reason for the self administered poison was probably due to the fact that Miss McBride had been known to have been worrying over her examinations—that the college work was too hard for her nervous temperament.

British Labor Party May Influence U. S.

CHICAGO, June 3. (AP)—Mrs. H. M. Barnes, acting national executive secretary of the Socialist party today predicted that the success of the Labor party in the recent British elections would have marked influence upon labor organizations in the United States.

"The British labor successes," she said, "will hearten the thinking labor men of this country to abandon old outlooks and methods so that American labor will also advance with the labor movement in other parts of the world."

Field Artillery Chief Visits Fort Sill, Okla.

LAWTON, Okla., June 3.—Major General Fred T. Austin, chief of field artillery, arrived at Fort Sill by airplane from Dobbs field, San Antonio, Saturday for the purpose of making his annual visit to the field artillery school. A reception was held at the army post last night in honor of General Austin.

TAX APPEALS RULING MADE

Cases May Be Taken Direct To Circuit Court

WASHINGTON, June 3. (INS)—The supreme court today ruled that appeals in tax cases may be taken directly from the United States circuit court of appeals, foreclosing the right of both tax payer and government to litigate the cases in the federal district courts.

The decision was given in answering a certified question in a tax dispute with the Old Colony Trust company of Boston.

The case was regarded as of extreme importance in the administration of the federal revenue laws. Under the law before 1926 both the government and tax payer were given the right to press their claims in the lower federal courts after the board of tax appeals had acted. In 1926 an amendment was enacted providing for direct appeals from the board of tax appeals to the circuit court.

The high court decided the case on the ground that such appeals may be taken from administrative bodies.

DAWES OFF TO ENGLAND SOON

New Ambassador to Urge Naval Disarmament

WASHINGTON, June 3. (US)—Gen. Charles G. Dawes, new ambassador to Great Britain, will sail within a few days to formally submit President Hoover's plan for drastic naval armaments reduction to the British government, it was learned today.

In the meantime, the United States has temporarily halted plans for the construction of 15 cruisers as a challenge to the sea powers to lay aside their building programs.

It was made plain, however, that the suspension of the American government's plan for the building of fast, modern cruisers is only temporary. It is described in diplomatic circles as an evidence of good faith on the part of the United States. General Dawes, it is learned, is to inform the British that they must adopt a similar course, or the ships will be rushed to completion.

General Dawes is also to point out to the British that in the previous conference for the limitation or reduction of armaments this country is the one which really sacrificed tonnage which cost approximately $300,000,000. In the next conference, he is to inform the British that country must be the one to scrap tonnage.

Although the new Labor party in Great Britain is known to be favorable to material reductions, it is generally believed in official circles that it will not meet the American view, it is learned. This is because this country will insist that merchant ships, particularly the fast passenger and freight ships, be considered as craft which are easily convertible to cruisers and should be weighed in any conference to fix relative naval strength.

Because of the tremendous differential in favor of the British, amounting to several millions of tons of merchant ships, experts say, they will be placed in the position of being forced to make a compensatory reduction in their cruisers and auxiliary craft, such as submarines, mine sweepers and destroyers.

No one in official circles believes that the British could agree to this and the opinion of naval and diplomatic experts today is that after the first conference between General Dawes and the British foreign office and admiralty this country's naval building program will be vigorously prosecuted.

FARMERS IN STORM SWEPT AREA SEEK SEED TO REPLANT

WIDE SECTION SUFFERS LOSS

15-Inch Rain and Hail Is Reported

Special to The Record News.

RULE, Texas, June 3.—With their second cotton planting washed out of the ground by Sunday's heavy rain and hail storm, Haskell county farmers between Stamford and Rule Monday renewed their efforts for new seed with which to make a third bid for a crop this year.

One car load of "half and half" arrived from O'Brien Monday morning, and the planters waited only long enough for the water standing in their fields to drain away, before the fresh struggle for a cotton crop began. The seed shortage was severe after washout two weeks ago, but Sunday's cloudburst, with its heavy damages and complete seed losses, have brought conditions to a crisis.

Wheat and oat losses from the wind, hail and rain Sunday were estimated at about 30 per cent. As the flood waters receded, and the winds that brought destruction to several Center Point homes died away Sunday, the residents of town and county alike set about the work of rehabilitation and salvage.

Property damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars was caused Sunday from wind, hail and rain storms in scattered districts of West Texas, Associated Press reports said.

Heaviest damage was inflicted along the southwestern and western borders of Haskell county. In the Center and Plainview community houses were destroyed by a tornado which raged for 15 minutes. A strip from Tud to Rule in Haskell county was riddled by hailstones as large as baseballs, with crops destroyed on 20,000 to 30,000 acres. Small livestock, chickens and birds were killed.

On an eight-mile belt lying between Rule and Haskell a 40-minute rain was estimated up to 15 inches, causing heavy damage. Farm houses were flooded and water stood two to four feet in depth along six miles of highway No. 120, connecting Haskell and Rule. More than 100 automobiles were marooned in that section all Sunday night. Many of the cars were abandoned by occupants.

A heavy hail storm was reported from the Ira and Duan communities of southwestern Scurry county, it was reported. Fruit trees were stripped, roofs punctured and automobiles dented as if sledge hammers had been used, according to the reports.

At Richland Springs, San Saba county, Jesse Ransom Munsell, 20-year-old linotype operator, was killed when he came into contact with a high tension wire during an electrical storm.

HOUSTON REPAIRS FLOOD DAMAGE

HOUSTON, June 3. (UP)—While Houston worked to remove the wreckage caused when Buffalo Bayou surged over its banks last week, residents of coastal counties tonight were watching with a wary eye the rise of the major streams as they bore flood crests to the gulf of Mexico.

Farmers were busy moving livestock and household goods to higher ground as the Brazos and Trinity rivers rapidly inundated lowlands. Highways were disappearing under the water and entire villages were reported isolated.

The river crest which passed Navasota and Hempstead yesterday was expected to reach coastal counties tonight. The stage at Hempstead was higher than the waters of 1922 which flooded the lowlands.

There was little excitement or panic in the threatened districts tonight, however, farmers living in the sparsely settled counties had all been warned ahead of time and were going about their preparations calmly.

Mary Patricia Webster, 22-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Webster, 1665 Dayton, died at 9:30 o'clock Monday night at the Webster home. The child had been ill for some time. Definite funeral arrangements were to be made Tuesday morning.

Says Memory's All That's Left Of Old Trouble

Mrs. Given's Health Restored by Orgatone—Suffered With Stomach Trouble and Indigestion

"About all that is left of my many months of suffering is the memory of it," said Mrs. W. W. Givens, residing at 712 N. Scott, Wichita Falls, Texas, in relating her experience with Orgatone.

"If I could have only found Orgatone a long time ago," she continued, "I would have been feeling better today, and I would have saved many a dollar besides for I've spent several hundred dollars with doctors and trying to find something that would help me. My doctor doctored me for a long time and said that I had heart trouble but it didn't seem to help me much. I was nervous and restless most all the time and couldn't eat anything but what it would cause my heart to palpitate and I was afraid that sometimes it would result to be serious for me. I was just in a very badly run-down condition.

"I saw where Orgatone was advertised so highly and so many local people were taking it and what it was doing for them that I decided to try it and I am certainly glad I did for I am feeling like a different woman. I have a good appetite now, and rest and sleep better and my food digests better now. My heart doesn't bother me now, and I know that it must have been my stomach with gas formation for I noticed the improvement right away. Orgatone has helped me so much I am buying two bottles now in order that my husband may take it. I am glad to recommend it to my friends for it has certainly proven its worth to me."

City Supervisors Begin Programs For Children at Playgrounds

Supervision of playground activities for the children of Wichita Falls began Saturday at Scotland and Bellevue parks, C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent, stated Monday.

Miss Charlotte Kennedy is in charge of Bellevue park, and Miss Frances Hyland is supervising Scotland park. They are on duty from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock each morning and from 4 until 5:30 each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon. The Camp Fire girls are co-operating with the supervisors, making it possible to carry on a much broader program and adapt the training to all different ages.

The purpose of the training is to develop the abilities of the children and to provide proper diversion and activity for them during the summer months, Mr. Bunnenberg said. Antoher purpose is to provide acts for the regular Thursday night vaudeville programs at Bellevue park. The children will be divided into groups so that all ages will get the proper amount of activity and training. Handicraft will be graded according to its difficulty, and even the small tots will be given a chance to take part. In addition, the small children will be given story telling, picture cutting, simple games and dramatics.

For those not quite old enough for junior baseball, training in handball, running, jumping, and other exercises will be given, in addition to the study of nature, handicraft, and dramatics in accordance with the age and ability of the children.

Two other playgrounds will be supervised in the near future, with the same programs as at Bellevue and Scotland parks. These will be Carrigan school ground, to open June 11 under the direction of Miss Clarice Clark, and the North Side Community house, to open June 12, supervised by Mrs. Maude Batholomew, who will be at the community house most of the time. All of the supervisors have had former experience, having been connected with similar activities while working with the Camp Fire girls.

city to attempt the paving of this particular low area. It was stated that Mr. Hicks was the only property owner involved who was willing to assume the customary portion of the expense of paving, inasmuch as the properties on the south side of the avenue are on higher ground and escape the inundation.

"I am willing to accept any arrangement that will protect my property," said Mr. Hicks, "and I feel that such protection is due me. The erection of a house on Monroe street some years ago stopped the natural watercourse from the higher ground to the north and west of this location, and permission for the erection of that house was obtained only through the definite promise of the city council and street commissioner of that date that adequate provisions would be made for diverting the flow of water around our properties in a satisfactory manner. Nothing as yet has been done to relieve the heavy overflow from Avenue E, from Polk street, and from the alley between Avenues D and E, after each hard rain."

Alderman J. H. Patton confirmed Mr. Hicks' statements relative to assurances given by former administration that satisfactory drainage would be provided, and originated the motion which was put by Alderman R. O. Harvey providing for the filling of the properties by the city.

Mr. Hicks declared his willingness to raise the house on Avenue E, and expressed the belief that the owner of the adjoining lots on Polk street would follow the same course.

Ordinance Passed

Urgent recommendations were made by Aldermen Hunt and Spoonts that Avenue E and the alley in question be deepened at the same time that work of filling the lots is done. The discussion involved considerable comment on other areas in the city where it was said the streets cannot hold the amount of water with which they are burdened at times of heavy rainfall. Pearl avenue, McGregor street, and Brook avenue being singled out for future attention.

Two permits for the erection of business property were granted Monday night. C. F. Kollmans received permission to put up a filling station at 1900 Holliday, and Arthur Wilson, now of Waco, was authorized to build an 18 by 18 structure on the northwest corner of Ninth and Grace for the manufacture of "frozen custard," an ice cream product.

An amendment to ordinance No. 241, exempting wholesale produce, vegetables, fruit, etc., contained in baskets, boxes or crates, or in process of loading or unloading, from the provisions of sections 4 and 5 of the ordinance in question, was passed on the third and final reading. The sections referred to require all such merchandise to be at least 12 inches off the floor, and were said to refer particularly to retail display.

All members of the council were present at Monday night's meeting.

Quarantine Releases Exceed New Cases

Releases from quarantine exceeded new cases of contagious diseases during the month of May, according to the regular report of the city health department released Monday.

The report shows 81 releases as compared with 63 quarantines, with chicken pox leading in both, closely followed by smallpox. The health department made 697 food inspections and 222 cleanup notices during May, the report shows. Inspection of 231 calves, 25 cows, 225 hogs, two sheep and 146 dairies was made during the month.

20 TESTIFY FOR HEALERS

Revival Services Here Draw Good Crowds

Constantly increasing attendance at the Cotnam-Gray evangelistic meetings, being conducted nightly in the tabernacle at Twenty-second street and Yale avenue, and numerous petitioners for healing prayers and anointments are featuring the second week of the meeting, according to its leaders.

More than 20 persons testified at the service Monday night that they had been healed of various afflictions, including deafness and disease, during the 30-minute period of prayer which preceded the public meeting of the evening.

Rev. George E. Gray preached on the subject of the boy Jesus' visit to the temple, becoming lost from his parents, and likened the situation to that of many modern men and women who have strayed away from their heavenly Father.

Rev. R. L. Cotnam will speak Tuesday night on "The Second Coming of Christ," and on Thursday night Rev. Gray will illustrate his sermon with an historical chart of the ages of the world.

'DADDY'S GIRL' SEEKING GOLD

Banker's 'Darling's' Petition Says Cruel Things

NEW YORK, June 3. (US)—Mrs. Vera Leightmer Brody, Follies beauty at the age of 16, introduced into the mellowing archives of the supreme court today a primrose story of "an old man's darling."

She filed a transcript of her testimony before trial in her $100,000 suit against Jefferson W. Seligman aged and wealthy banker.

According to her story he kissed her an hour after they first met. He became her guardian. Then she found herself living in an apartment at the rate of $1,000 a month.

They became engaged. But when the subject of marriage was mentioned Seligman told her that he was too old for her and advised her to find happiness with a younger man.

He even selected the younger man in Henry Clews Jr., grandson of the late Wall street broker.

Vera accepted a trip to Europe and a promise of $100,000 in installments with the agreement that all would be forgotten.

She is married now, but she still wants the $100,000.

That is a brief outline of her testimony as she gave it under examination by her attorney, T. John McKee, and cross-examination by Seligman's attorney, Carruthers Ewing.

This is from the text of Vera Leightmer Brody's own story as found in the transcript of testimony:

Q.—When did you first meet Seligman?

A.—In 1919.

Q.—Under what circumstances did you meet him?

A.—I was sitting in the hotel Biltmore, waiting for a girl friend, when a lady came up and spoke to me.

Q.—Who was the lady you met?

A.—Mrs. Vera Brandt. Mrs. Brandt asked me if I lived in New York and invited me to have tea with her the next day. She said she would introduce me to a very nice man.

Q.—How soon after you met Seligman did he begin supporting you?

A.—A few months.

Q.—Did you take an apartment at his suggestion?

A.—I did. At the San Jacinto, No. 15 East 60th street.

Q.—Did Seligman ever stay in your apartment at night?

A.—You mean the whole night?

Q.—Yes.

A.—No.

Q.—You understood that you were his mistress?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Seligman offer to marry you?

A.—He did. He said he was tired of posing as my guardian and wanted everyone to know what I was to him.

Q.—How long did your relationship continue?

A.—Until I went to Europe. In 1925 he said that he felt he had done me an injustice; that he was too old to marry me; that I should go to Europe and forget him and marry some man nearer my age.

Q.—Did he ever give you an engagement ring?

A.—No, he said jewelry was not becoming to me.

Q.—Did he pay all your expenses?

A.—He did.

Q.—Did he supply you with money in addition to your expenses?

A.—Oh yes.

Q.—During this period what was the average amount you received each month from Seligman.

She Receives $6,700

A.—Around $1,000 and generally it was more including my clothes.

Q.—He promised to give you a home and jewelry?

A.—He said he would take care of me for the rest of my life.

Mrs. Brody said that she received about $6,700 from Seligman after she went to Paris and then the payments ceased. She married Illes Brady, Hungarian portrait painter, in 1927. They are now living in a private house in the Washington Mews, she said.

Seligman denies that he ever asked Mrs. Brody to marry him or that there was anything in their relations to warrant such an expectation on her part. His gifts to her he characterizes as "charity."

Early Peaches Bring Officer Trouble

Boys Will Take 'Em, Opines McDonald

The lure of ripening peaches, hanging just within reach in the neighbor's back yards, is proving too much for the resistance of many young Wichitans, says J. A. McDonald, juvenile officer, who has been called from orchard to orchard in ceaseless pursuit of young marauders during the past few days.

There were 10 such calls Monday morning, keeping the officer rushing from one despoiled fruit tree to another, counting peach stones and watching for hiders among the shrubbery.

In spite of his whirlwind of calls, Mr. McDonald was philosophical, and advises distraught fruit growers to take counsel of themselves and their own youth.

"There's something about half-ripe fruit that acts on a boy, just out of school, like a powerful magnet," he said. "Let that fruit be forbidden, and lie just over a fence or around a hedge, and temptation becomes overpowering. I can only suggest that the fruit owners 'beat 'em to it,' gather it as it ripens and remove the strain on young honesty. When the peaches are really ripe and are to be had everywhere, appetites will become more normal and orchards can be left in peace."

Jewish Publisher Praises Friendly Relations of Two Races Here

Good will between the Jews and Gentiles in Wichita Falls is everywhere apparent, according to Leo Altman of Dallas, publisher of the Jewish American, a southwestern weekly for Jews. Mr. Altman is visiting here in the interests of his publication.

"A Jew can be proud to live in your city," he said, "because of the existence of harmony which results in the betterment of both races. The Jews here are great Zionists and have just completed a quarter of the United Palestine appeal.

"The Jews in Wichita Falls all give to worthy causes, and all organizations co-operate in work of this kind more than in any other city of this size in the state," Altman declared. He indicated his pleasure at finding conditions so favorable here, and announced that he intended devoting a section of a forthcoming special edition of his publication to Wichita Falls and the local activities of members of his race. The special edition will be published in the interests of the Herzel Memorial, Herzel having been one of the first leaders of Zionism.

RAMSEY WAITS SENTENCE HERE

Former Sunday School Head Returned to Jail

His five-year suspended sentence here automatically revoked by a new conviction in Abilene, E. G. Ramsey, former Sunday school superintendent, was brought back to Wichita Falls Monday night to be re-sentenced. He was brought from Abilene on a bench warrant issued Monday morning by Judge P. A. Martin and executed by Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff. Wichita county was represented in the Abilene court by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, who accompanied Gant.

Ramsey was convicted on forgery charges in Abilene last week and was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary. His five year term was imposed here upon a conviction for swindling by passing a $110 hot check. The charges at Abilene were pending at the time of his trial here, and he was taken into custody immediately after his trial in the 30th district court.

In his trial here, the defendant, now facing a seven year prison term, claimed that he thought the check would be met from funds belonging to his divorced wife. The former Mrs. Ramsey appeared as a witness for him during the trial and kissed him good-bye at his departure.

STATE SCORES AT ABINGDON

'Reign of Terror' Trial Is Opened

ABINGDON, Va., June 3. (US)—The prosecution scored a telling victory at the opening of Abingdon's "reign of terror" trial today when Judge A. C. Buchanan denied a motion for postponement, sought on the ground that the two important witnesses for the defense have mysteriously disappeared.

A few minutes later, a jury was being selected to pass upon the the guilt or innocence of Policeman James McReynolds and Deputy Sheriffs James Crowe and William A. Worley, dry raiders, on trial for the slaying of J. M. Kendrick, young Emory and Henry college student.

The witnesses alleged to have disappeared are Otis Smith and Robert Lloyd, who are supposed to have been with young Kendrick before the shooting.

Young Kendrick was killed on the night of May 6, when the officers fired upon the coupe in which he and his two companions were riding. The raiders explained that they thought the youths had been drinking and were transporting liquor. No liquor was found in the car and hospital authorities will testify that the boys had not had a drink.

Attorney Charles Warren, chief of the defense counsel, elected to have the men tried separately, and Commonwealth's attorney choose Crowe as the first to stand trial for his life.

Crowe is a swarthy, husky mountaineer, past middle age. A badly matched pair of eyes—one of which is glass—lends a touch of picturesqueness to his appearance. He chews continually and vigorously upon an ample cud of "eatin'" tobacco, and is plainly worried over his predicament.

Worley, on the other hand, appears confident of the outcome. He sat next to Crowe throughout the day and sought to cheer him with smiles and "wise cracks." He is the youngest of the trio.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in obtaining a jury. The first panel of 20 men was exhausted without a juror being selected. The court then recessed until another panel of 20 men could be rounded up.

State Solons To Vote Funds

ably dismantled; authorize the highway department to audit fees collected for registration of motor vehicles in the various counties, and relating to transfer of second-hand or used vehicles.

The senate passed the mileage and per diem bill, appropriating $100,000 to defray expenses of this session.

Both the senate and house appropriation bills are in excess of the recommendations contained in the board of control budget. The budget called for the appropriation of an aggregate sum of $46,843,220, exclusive of rural aid. The senate would appropriate $6,000,000 for rural aid and the house $8,000,000. Senator Julian P. Greer of Athens, introduced a bill appropriating $2,000,000 for each year of the biennium for rural aid.

Totals of senate appropriation bills: judiciary, $4,758,813; departmental, $12,793,690.55; eleemosynary, $12,311,880; educational, $20,846,909.95. House bills: judiciary $5,016,375; departmental, $11,746,344; eleemosynary, $10,039,506; educational, $18,978,494.

Rep. Leonard Tillotson of Sealy introduced bills providing for a four cent tax on gasoline, three-fourths of which would go to the state highway fund and one-fourth to the available school fund and declaring it to be the policy of the state to build and maintain all designated state highways from an independent state fund, and providing for a state policy in the distribution of state waters.

Atlantic's Wild Waves Laugh As New Bathing Restrictions Appear

NEW YORK, June 3. (UP)—That hilarious sound along the Atlantic seaboard may be the wild waves getting their annual laugh out of the new crop of bathing restrictions.

Millions of people sunned themselves Sunday along the 200 miles of coast line between Atlantic City, N. Y., and Southampton, L. I., but hardly two of the more than a dozen larger beaches along the way were in accord as to what constitutes legal modesty.

Woman at New York city beaches were forbidden by a Grover Whalen edict from the new-fangled bare-back bathing, for instance, but were allowed to kiss their husbands when the latter showed up with ice cream cones or a cold bottle of pop. But at Long Beach, only a flip up the coast as the waves flop, the kissing of a husband was as dangerous as talking back to a traffic cop, whereas, no matter what the aesthetic condition of her vertebrae, women could expose as many as fancy dictated.

"The sun beating on the bare back is good for the system," is the way chief of police J. F. Sweeney of Long Beach explained it. "But the seashore is no place for kissing."

Coney Island, always a stronghold of beach morality, came out unequivocally against the new bare-back or, as they are vulgarly known, "see-more" suits.

"We'll have no bare backs down here and we'll have no one-piece suits either," said Capt. James H. Gillen.

The only relaxing of Coney's restrictions came in the matter of permitting tucking the shirt down into the pants of a two-piece suit. Police Commissioner Whalen himself, when at Palm Beach last winter, was photographed with his shirt tucked in. The new police commissioner, unbending in the matter of sunlight on the spine, cannot bring himself to believe that tucking in the shirt endangers the public morals.

It is still, however, a crime to wear a white bathing suit at Coney although most of the other beaches philosophically have accepted the dictum that the white bathing suit has come to stay.

Open Tariff Hearings Voted by Committee

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—The senate finance committee agreed unanimously today to hold open hearings on the house tariff bill beginning June 12 and ending July 10 allotting the taking of testimony on various levies to three or four sub-committees of three Republicans and two Democrats.

The committee also considered the fixing of a time limit for a final vote on the bill and a later date for completing action on the conference report, but deferred a decision until tomorrow.

Doctor Denies Giving Narcotics to Actress

LOS ANGELES, June 3. (UP)—Dr. I. Jesse Citron, fashionable Beverly Hills physician, pleaded not guilty to a charge of issuing false narcotics prescriptions to Alma Rubens, film actress, in federal court here today. Date for trial will be set July 29.

An indictment charged that Dr. Citron issued morphine prescriptions to the actress, using the name of her mother and others to cover his records. Miss Rubens, held at Patton institution, attracted wide attention during her recent breakdown.

SINCLAIR MUST SERVE TERM

Supreme Court Upholds District Judge

ness of extraneous influence was an essential element of the offense.

"That the acts here disclosed, and for which three of the appellants were certainly responsible, tended to obstruct the honest and fair administration of justice we cannot doubt.

"The jury is an essential instrumentality—an appendage of the court, the body ordained to pass upon guilt or innocence. Exercise of calm and informed judgment by its members is essential to proper enforcement of law. The most exemplary resent having their footsteps dogged by private detectives. All know that men who accept such employment commonly lack fine scruples, often wilfully misrepresent innocent conduct and manufacture charges.

Jurors Upset

"The mere suspicion that he, his family, and friends are being subjected to surveillance by such persons is enough to destroy the equilibrum of the average juror and render impossible the exercise of calm judgment upon patient consideration.

"If these fit for juries understand that they may be freely subjected to treatment like that here disclosed, they will either shun the burdens of the service or perform it with disquiet and disgust. Trial by capable juries, in important cases, probably would become an impossibility. The mistrial of Nov. 2 indicates what would often happen. We can discover no reason for emasculating the power of courts to protect themselves against this odious thing.

"The acts complained of were sufficiently near the court. Most of them were within the court room, near the door of the courthouse or within the city. There was probable interference with an appendage of the court while in actual operation the inevitable tendency was towards evil, the destruction, indeed, of trial by jury.

"During the hearing and before conviction of guilty counsel proferred many witnesses by whom they proposed to show a practice of the department of justice to cause its officers to shadow juries. This evidence was rightly excluded. The department is not a law maker and mistakes or violations of law by it give no license for wrongful conduct by others.

"Considering the whole record, we think appellants had a patient hearing upon adequately defined issues, with abundant opportunity to put forward all proper defenses and explanations. With the exception already stated, there is ample evidence to support the judgment; the punishments imposed are not excessive; the court kept within the limits of its reasonable discretion and did nothing which injuriously affected the substantial rights of the parties."

SNOBS GAIN

Tech School Grads Told To Carry Noses At High Elevation

BOSTON, June 3. (UP)—Massachusetts Institute of Technology seniors were advised to be "snobs" to succeed in life by Prof. Robert E. Rogers at the banquet of the graduating class in a Boston hotel last night.

"Be a snob. You will find it just as easy to marry the boss' daughter as the stenographer. Dress, speak and act like a gentleman and you will be surprised at the amount of murder you can get away with.

"Never buy a suit of clothes unless you can get an extra pair of trousers. Keep one suit of clothes pressed every week. Never buy shoes unless you buy shoe trees for them. Keep them shined, shave yourself and never wear the same collar at night which you wear all day."

Senate Bill Raises Allotment Question

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—The question of allotting its seats among the states to correspond to the changes in population since the 1910 census stirred the house today as it took up the senate census and reapportionment bill.

Various proposals for changes were made but there were no indications of what support could be mustered for them. Advocates of the combined bill described it as largely similar to the two authorizing the census and reapportionment passed separately by the house last year.

The bill provides for a report on the 1930 population count to be made at the opening of the second session of the 71st congress and for an automatic re-allocation of house seats if action is not taken by congress.

Gila River May Not Be Included in Pact

WASHINGTON, June 3. (UP)—Whether the waters of the Gila river in Arizona shall be added to those of the Colorado in determining the total to be divided among the lower basin states perplexed commissioners from Arizona, California, and Nevada today as they opened formal negotiations for a tri-state compact.

Arizona's commissioners were adamant in their contention the Gila should not be considered a part of the Colorado for purposes of water distribution. Representatives of the two other lower basin states were equally firm in the opposite opinion.

France's Payment Of War Supplies Delayed

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—The senate finance committee agreed today to report favorably the Smoot resolution to authorize postponement of payment by France of the $400,000,000 war supplies debt from Aug. 1 to May 1, 1930, provided the French parliament should ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement while the American congress was in recess.

Committee Strongly Urges Control Of Muscle Shoals by Government

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, June 3. (US)—Government operation of the $150,000,000 Muscle Shoals property as one of the greatest power development projects in all history, and the greatest experiment ever made in the production and use of cheap fertilizer, was urged upon the senate today by its committee on agriculture and forestry.

Erection of a 225-foot dam at Cove Creek, Tenn., also was recommended. This dam would protect the Tennessee and lower Mississippi valleys from floods, make the Tennessee river navigable for several hundred miles, and add about 300,000 horse-power to the electric power outfit, according to the committee's report.

Resolution Asked

The committee, through Chairman George W. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, called for the adoption of a joint resolution for these purposes. The resolution is essentially a duplicate of the one pocket-vetoed by former President Coolidge after its passage by both houses of the last congress.

Provisions have been added to give Alabama and Tennessee five per cent of the gross proceeds of the sale of power developed in these states. On excess power developed in Alabama due to the building of the Cove Creek dam in Tennessee, each state would be paid two and a half per cent.

The new measure was reported with high hope of breaking the 10-year deadlock which the committee laid squarely at the door of the power trust. The power group repeatedly has blocked programs to harness the Tennessee river, the committee pointed out, by "secret and underhanded" methods.

"Prevent Gouging"

Carrying through the program now, in the committee's opinion, will prevent "private monopoly from gouging the people of the country in the charging of exorbitant rates for electricity."

Providing cheap power for a large area in the south, and a yardstick by which consumers in other parts of the country can measure the fairness of electric charges were characterized, however, as incidental benefits.

Manufacture of explosives for the army and navy in time of need, "cheapening of fertilizer for our farms," and protection of the people from the damage of flood waters were emphasized as primary objects.

Attacking the power trust for preventing the government from developing and using the great plant the committee said:

"It is no secret that this delay has in the main come about through the activities of combinations of great power and financial concerns which are primarily interested in getting control of Muscle Shoals for the power possibilities involved."

Colonial Dance On New Vaudeville Bill

A colonial dance by 12 girls ranging in age from 10 to 12 years will be a feature of the vaudeville program at Bellevue park next Thursday night, it was announced Monday. The girls are students of Mrs. J. S. Pitman. The dance will be in costume, and accompaniment will be played by Miss Eleanor Pitman. A piano duet and selections by the Municipal band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will also be included on the program.

Phosphorus in its natural state is never found uncombined.

'Wet Press' a Menace Dry Leader Claims

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 3. (AP)—The Rev. F. Scott McBridge, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league speaking at the United Presbyterian general assembly today assailed the "wet press" as a menace to prohibition. He also attacked the Hearst prohibition substitute plan, as insincere.

"Since when did William Randolph Hearst become interested in a plan to enforce prohibition?" McBridge asked. "And from where did the $25,000 prize money emanate? the so-called Hearst plan is nothing more than a liquor selling plan."

"The church is not ready for any plan that may be offered, from any source, as a substitute to prohibition," he said.

The assembly went on record as "showing its strong disapproval of the boldness of the tobacco interests in advertising their wares over the radio, in newspapers, magazines, and on bill boards." It was voted to protest to the radio companies.

Herbert Kaufman's ◆ ◆ ◆ SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN ◆ ◆ ◆ Daily Editorial

AMERICA'S playground expenditures in 1928 exceeded the entire revenues of the United States for 1921. The future cannot build high with flawed material. Weak, anemic stunted children are not worth their weight in government overhead.

School hygiene dental supervision and gymnasium aren't expensive but investments, while bodied men and women are so much more efficient and productive, that state and federal tax collections will later replevin all the enormous sums we are spending.

And at compound interest.

Experience finds it cheaper to keep a citizen sound than to keep him in a hospital or sanitarium.

Phylanthropy has the same idea. The several billions of dollars which various foundations now devote to community benefit are aimed at the roots, not the fruits, of incorrect social systems.

Their purposes are primarily preventive, rather than corrective.

Rockefeller oil profits, Carnegie's steel earnings, and Rosenwald's mail order dividends are banishing disease, ignorance and illiteracy, the three forces that have oftenest thwarted human development. Charity no longer conceives its primary duty to the dole, but is determined to eradicate the conditions that have cluttered the earth immemorably with incompetents and invalids.

FOLK in clean surroundings and schooled in sanitary habits, if given the opportunity for education and access to useful training, will inevitably account for themselves, increase the area of potential geniuses and contribute their proportionate share to the common interest.

The fittest will continue to survive the rest, but intelligent management can steadily decrease the percentage of misfits and drop backs.

The twentieth century differs from its predecessors, not so much in ingenuities, as in conscience.

The ancients and the medievalists can boast of master minds comparable to any of our time but it would give history a headache trying to remember a dozen instances where early strong boxes were heart-wrenched open.

No orphan's or pauper's plight ever emptied the coffers of Croesus, or notably unlocked the audience room of a king.

The incredible callousness and brutality which once pervaded the earth, alone establishes measures of humanitarian progress; imprisonment for debt, death penalties for petty theft, are not the greatest atrocities to which yesterday must confess.

Renaissance records admit the wide spread sale of babies to professional mutilators who malformed their limbs, reconstructed their features and supplied them to Montebanks as clowns and freaks.

Under Charles II kidnapped children were permittedly shipped to Virginia and Maryland plantations, and foundlings put in service when eight years old.

And kindly recall the bound boys of your father's youth before you lift your hand too high in horror.

"The surest preventative for drunkenness" says the Chinese "is the spectacle of a drunken man."

And the best remedy for impatience is an occasional glance behind.

We Can't Be Amateurs

PUBLIC interest in sports being what it is, the expulsion of the University of Iowa from the Western conference is a "big story" everywhere; but there are implications in the thing that go far beyond the circle of football and make the whole affair an illuminating commentary on American life.

The outline of the case, of course, is familiar to everyone. Iowa is accused of subsidizing its star athletes, paying them money to keep them in school. The taxpayers of the great corn belt empire, apparently have been helping to provide their university with winning football teams, much as an independent nation pays out its money to maintain a standing army.

Nobody in America, probably, is especially shocked by the affair. The sensation lies in the fact that Iowa was dropped by the conference, not in the fact that Iowa paid money to its athletes. That part of it won't cause anyone to lift an eyebrow. We are altogether too used to the subsidizing of "amateur" athletes; it is one those delightful things about which nobody talks but about which everybody knows.

But the rumpus is worth thinking about, just the same. It illustrates perfectly the hazy, illogical way in which we confuse amateurism and professionalism in athletics generally. And our confusion there, in turn, is an illuminating side-light on our national character.

We confuse amateurism and professionalism for the simple reason that we are a nation of professionals. Amateurism is foreign to us. We don't see anything illogical in a college paying brawny youths to enter its portals, because we are thoroughly committed to the doctrines that the end generally justifies the means. We are out for success at any price; and since athletic prestige is a desirable thing for an educational institution to possess, why should not the young men who provide that prestige get paid for doing it?

The amateur is a man who devotes his spare time to some game or hobby for the sheer love of it, without any thought of the reward; and we aren't that way about anything. We don't have any spare time, for one thing; and we refuse to spend our energies on anything that doesn't bring some definite and tangible kind of reward.

This is very likely quite deplorable, but it can't be helped. For this spirit of professionalism, which pervades every part of American life, is the thing that has built all of our railroads and factories and tall buildings and has given us the prosperity that we like to talk about so much.

We are professionals by nature. We have to be, because we have so much work to do. The business of paying football players to go to college is just one angle of a national trait.

A Noteworthy Achievement

THE FEAT of Reginald Robbins and James Kelly in keeping their monoplane Fort Worth in the air for 172 hours makes one wonder which part is more worthy of admiration—the reliability of the ship, which stayed away from the ground for more than a week, or the skill and endurance of the two men who kept it up there.

The builders and designers of our airplanes and motors must have their jobs pretty well in hand when they can build ships that will do what the Fort Worth did. Similarly, our airplane pliots must be a pretty sturdy breed when two "unknowns" can do the work that Robbins and Kelly did.

All in all, the achievement speaks volumes for the advance of aviation. It may be, as prominent flyers have said, that we still have a lot to learn about the science of building and flying airplanes; yet, at the same time, it is obvious that we at least have the elementary stages. Between Orville Wright's early flights of 30 minutes duration and 172-hour jog of the Fort Worth there is an extremely wide gap.

Germany's Merchant Fleet Revives

YOU CAN'T keep a good man—or a good nation—down for long.

The world war practically wiped out the German merchant marine fleet, once one of the greatest in the world. After the armistice, merchant ships flying the German flag were scarce.

Now however, the German merchant fleet is four-fifths as large as it was in its palmy pre-war days. It had in 1914 a tonnage of 5,200,000; now it has more than 4,000,000 and is growing fast.

Only the British and American merchant fleets surpass it in size; and a writer in the current World's Work predicts that Germany's fleet will pass America's in the next few years and press hard on the heels of Britain.

This fact is a high testimonial to German industry and efficiency.

A Mob Causes Disaster

FEW THINGS are more terrifying, or dangerous, than a mob of excited human beings who have temporarily lost their heads.

When several thousand people tried to hurry out of the bleachers in the Yankee stadium at New York the other day because of a sudden shower, they seem to have transformed themselves into such a mob. As a result, two people were trampled to death and 50 more badly injured.

Every individual in that mob, taken by himself, was doubtless a person of sufficient sense to realize the danger of trying to jam a big crowd through narrow passageways. But a moment's panic caused each individual to surrender his own judgment and move with the crowd. The result, as always, was disastrous.

Quotations Worth Noting

"Mussolini's methods have been called dictatorial, domineering and even despotic. It is scarcely within the premise of a business visitor to Italy to judge the truth of these assertions, yet the fact stands that Mussolini has snapped Italy into high gear in the field of world commerce and has accomplished an improvement that is outstanding among European nations."—G. M. Williams, president Marmon Motor Car company.

"If the new age finds new physical powers, it will find also hitherto undreamed of energies in men's minds and hearts, able to produce a philosophy of life which will enable man to achieve inner happiness even amidst such a high-pressure pageant."—Francis H. Bellamy. (Outlook).

"Although there are no more farmers in the United States now than in 1900, the same index number today, as shown by the index of agricultural productivity, have an output 47 per cent larger than at the beginning of the century."—William O. Scroggs. (Outlook.)

The Once Over

IF THE TALKIES DO "ROMEO AND JULIET"

(The scene in Capulet's orchard in the moonlight).

Tramp—tramp—tramp—tramp, (Romeo's footsteps in the garden).

Romeo: He jests at scars that never-r-r-r felt-t a wound-d-d. But soft-t-t! What light through yonder window. Juliet coughs like a barking seal and as she opens the window there is a noise like an explosion in a glass factory.

Oh-h-h, that I wurruh a gluv upon that hand, that I my touch that jeek!

Jul.—O-O-O-O. Rome-meow, Rome-meow.

Rom.—I take thee yat thy yord! Call me but luv; and I'll be new baptiz-z-z-zed.

(Close-up of Romeo showing him breathing rapidly to accompaniment of noise like a locomotive getting up steam. Close-up, too, of Juliet, showing her bosom rising and falling as she inhales and exhales with the audible effect of a big wind howling through an alley).

Jul.—How cameth thow hither, and wherefore?

(There is a noise like a steam-shovel digging through loose plumbing. It is put in to denote Juliet's nurse moving about inside in her boudoir slippers).

If they do thee thee here they will murder thee!

(Here there is a sound of a caboose being shunted against a row of empty freight cars, a truckload of dishes going over a cliff, a cavalry charge down a cobbled street, or something).

Jul.—I hear them moith within; dear love, adieu!

(At this point there is a sound like somebody screaming up an elevator shaft. It represents the nurse calling for Juliet).

Jul. (reappearing and holding finger to lips)—Hist. Romeo, hist.

(Juliet closes the window with a noise like a runaway taxi going through a plate glass door. Romeo tiptoes through the garden to a sound similar to a flat-wheeled surface car going off the tracks. There is quiet and suddenly a terrific crash like a ball making a ten-strike in a bowling alley. It is the nurse putting Juliet to bed.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker

◆ ◆ ◆ Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon ◆ ◆ ◆

NEW YORK, June 3.—The dramatic critics never seem to visit the Bowery's Chinese theater, a novelty, to be sure. It is housed in a building dingy past the point of dilapidation. The scenery is strangely assorted of old stock company sets eked out with chairs of uncertain lineage, brocaded, cushions and other stage properties. The members of the orchestra sit in plain view on the stage. They appear in their shirt sleeves, their hats hung upon the scenery at the side. They play to lend "motif" to the drama.

An interesting point about these Chinese audiences, too. They are so steeped in the play that they readily prompt actors. If an actor hesitates for a second, his cue is like to be shouted from the gallery.

I imagine all this would baffle our critics—particularly the fact that one show is apt to take a week or more before its presentation is completed.

Sunday Shows

There's another controversy on in the show business. Florenz Ziegfeld wants Sunday shows, believing they are necessary for the life of the stage and the entertainment of the public.

On the other hand, Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors Equity, feels as fervently that Sunday plays are not good. He tells of one occasion when dramatic shows were given twice a day. Very soon the actors went to pieces and understudies had to be employed and later the experiment collapsed.

Just why they want actors to work overtime here I don't know. Particularly when you hear so much talk about hard times in the theaters. They need a few more good plays before they think of more performances. Too many performances of bad plays and the next thing you know the audiences will collapse.

Barrooms and Courtrooms

For a long time we've been puzzled—when ever we thought of the problem at all—as to the authorship of "The Face on the Barroom Floor." The other day John Henry Titus, now 81, was brought into a municipal court on the eviction charge, and claimed he was the author.

He claims that the Simon pure version of the poem is based upon the experiences of one Bob Delcanor, an artist, who was a friend of Titus' father. Critics maintain the work was written by the late H. A. D'arcy, but Mr. Titus said D'arcy wrote a parody entitled, "The Face Upon the Floor."

All this, mind you, was told by Titus in court, and whether his story was true or not—certainly it had nothing to do with the eviction case—Titus was released by the court and given the proceeds of a hurried collection.

She Is Now a Tradition

The stage does not forget its own. At the funeral of Mary Shaw the other day few paid her attention—few outside the stage. The newspapers, even, gave her scant attention, though along with Modjeska and Mrs. Fiske she was one of the pioneer interperters of Ibsen on the stage. She once startled Broadway in "Mrs. Warren's Profession," "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," "Ben Hur," "Tess of the D' Urbervilles" and "A School for Scandal."

At her funeral were to be found Daniel Frohman, David Belasco, Arthur Hopkins, Frank Ferguson, Robert Campbell, and James O'Neill. Professor John Dewey of Columbia university also was present.

Tuning Up

The various air fields in and about New York are alive these days with bustling plans for long distant flights. Until Lindbergh and the others achieved fame across the Atlantic there was but a sparse interest in the nearby airfields. People usually visited them through curiosity.

Now, any visit on a Sunday to Roosevelt or Curtis field, or to the Newark airport, Teterboro or Hadley field reveals huge crowds hanging about just to see planes take off and land.

And another thing, just to show our air-mindedness, detectives chased a crook in an airplane a few days ago, through New Jersey and forced him to land, capturing him.

Mr. Hudspeth also introduced a bill to authorize the expenditure of $100,000 for the purchase of 20,000 acres of land in Jeff Davis, Brewster, Presidio, Pecos, Culberson, and Hudspeth counties in Texas, for a national park.

Snuffles and Adenoids

Adenoids are a common affection of children between the ages of 5 and 10 years. At least 10 per cent of these children are estimated to have enlarged adenoids. Adenoids are really an overgrowth of the adenoid tissue in the pharnyx. This is really lymphatic tissue similar to the tonsils. It is only when this tissue becomes enlarged that it may be considered dangerous to the child's health.

There is usually also an enlargement of other lymph glands and the tonsils. Adenoids may seriously affect the body growth, the metabolism, and facial expression of a child. Almost all children having snuffles are really troubled with enlarged adenoids.

The most noticeable thing about adenoids is mouth breathing, which sometimes causes a deformed chest, stupid facial expression, stunting of growth, and even deafness. Sleep is greatly disturbed, usually accompanied by loud snorting, breathing and nightmares.

When adenoids are present, the child will usually be troubled with other disorders of a catarrhal nature, more especially bronchitis. Often children are accused of being stupid or cross when they are simply troubled with adenoids.

The teeth are sometimes greatly misshapen because the bony framework does not form properly. Pigeon breast, barrel chest, or funnel breast are three types of deformity affecting the chest of the mouth breather who has adenoids.

There are two ways in which the body may be injured when these growths occur. Either from poisonous toxins caused by their infection, or from mechanical interference of the air passage from the nose. Children with adenoids are often unable to blow the nose. The voice becomes hoarse and muffled and there is often a loss of sense of smell.

When the adenoids become infected, the inflammation may spread to the inner ear and cause deafness. The skin usually is pale and anemic. The adenoids cause a disfiguration by broadening the root of the nose and causing the teeth of the upper jaw to stick out. And the roof of the mouth becomes narrow and highly arched. Often the teeth do not meet together properly.

The treatment or adenoids should not be delayed once the discovery is made, as they not only endanger the child's health but may lead to almost incurable malformations of the jaws, palate, nose and face. An examination for adenoids should be made whenever the child shows any symptoms, such as mouth breathing, deafness, stupid expression, disturbed sleep, muffled voice, or frequent colds.

In most cases the large adenoids can be reduced to normal by short fruit fasts followed by a non-starchy diet, but if the adenoid tissue has become greatly enlarged it may be sometimes advisable to use surgical measures. However, before an anesthetic is considered, death may occur during an anesthetic. An enlarged thymus is frequently found with adenoids.

During the treatment with the fast and diet to bring about a cure, the child should be trained to breathe through its nose rather than its mouth and it is a good plan also to increase the breathing capacity by systematic exercise.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Suffers With Limbs

Question: Mrs. P. writes: "I am 53 years old and am suffering with what the doctors call drying out of the cartilages, and gives me no hope to get better or even find relief. I get around only with the aid of a cane. Will you please tell me whether there is anything I can do?"

Answer: This drying out of the cartilage, as your doctor supposes your trouble to be, is probably due to some chronic irritation from toxemia and there is no better method for eliminating this from the body than the fastening regime, instructions for which I will be glad to send you. Hot applications over the affected joints would also be helpful.

Popcorn

Question: Mrs. W. M. asks: "What do you think of popcorn as a food, and with what other foods should it be eaten?"

Answer: Popcorn is a form of starch which is easily digested when it is cooked in the usual way that is, by heating the popcorn till it pops open, splitting the kernel and exploding the starch cells. It should be used as the principal starch part of a meal, and may be seasoned with butter and salt. Use it with the non-starches, but not protein.

Falling Hair

Question: P. F. writes: "I am 23 years old, general health fairly good, and I use an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables; I have no scalp disease, such as dandruff, but my hair is coming out very fast, having already one small bald spot. What is your advice?"

Answer: If the loss of your hair is not due to some glandular deficiency you should be able to prevent further loss by a daily massage of the scalp to increase the circulation. Ultra-violet light treatments are also helpful.

World Federation Trade Unions Urged by Woll

WASHINGTON, June 3. (UP)—A world federation of trade unions is urged by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American federation of labor, by combining the pan-American federation of labor, with headquarters here, and the international federation of trade unions, with headquarters in Amsterdam.

Woll, who advances the proposition in an editorial in the current issue of the American Photo engraver, of which he is editor, said he suggested it at this time so that labor movements of the world might consider it before the next pan-American federation meeting in Havana, next January.

Hoover Will Officiate At Cornerstone Laying

WASHINGTON, June 3. (INS)—President Hoover will officiate at the laying of the cornerstone of the new department of commerce building on Monday, June 10, it was announced today. His address will be broadcast over the combined networks of the National Broadcasting company between 4 and 5 o'clock, eastern standard time.

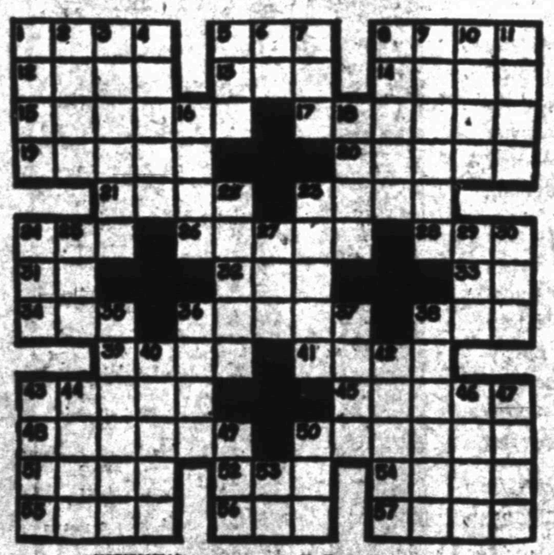

Erection of the commerce building marks the first step in the gigantic building program which ultimately will carry out the L'enfant plant for the "city beautiful" and place all of the government buildings along Pennsylvania avenue between the White House and the capitol.

VINEYARDS DAMAGED

TOULOUSE, France, June 3.(UP)—A violent windstorm which swept this region yesterday damaged the Aude vineyards. It was estimated that wind and rain destroyed 20 per cent of the crop.

SPUDDERS TROUNCE STEERS IN OPENER OF SERIES, 10 TO 6

WICHITA WINS IN BIG INNINGS

Rabbit Benton Latest Victim of Malignant Jinx

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders play no favorites in the matter of knocking off the leaders. If they can't get to the top, or at least aren't up there at this writing, they can wreak havoc to the pacesetters. Sunday the Spudders pulled the Shreveport Sports from first place and yesterday they hauled the Dallas Steers from that high post.

The Spudders returned home yesterday for a five-day stand and opened a two-game series with the Bovines by tallying a 10 to 6 victory. Two big innings in which they scored all their runs gave the homelings the decision in a pastime marked by loose defensive play and frequent hitting, in which fluke blows were prevalent.

A high wind that almost attained gale proportions blew directly from the center field flagpole to the plate. Instead of aiding the pitchers, who were Hal Wiltse and Whitey Glazner, the brisk breeze twisted a flock of hits which ordinarily would have been fielded, into safe knocks.

Wind Helps Batters

This accounts largely for 13 blows by Dallas and 10 by Wichita Falls, although some of the smacks were legitimate.

Wiltse was accorded some very wobbly support, in addition to luck being against him on other occasions when easily hit balls blew safely. And so despite the dozen and one hits made off him the blonde boy chucked a pretty good game of ball. His control was superb, as not a single base on balls shows, and this enabled him to keep ahead of the hostile hitters.

Glazner also suffered from the elements and poor support, though not to the extent of Wiltse. After yielding six tallies in the second round Whitey acquired steadiness and turned back the Spudders with dispatch, including three rounds in order, until the seventh. With the Steers trailing 6-5, Glazner lost effectiveness and allowed four more tallies in the seventh.

Flaskamper Banished

The Spudders played without the services of Rabbit Benton, one of the most valuable ball players in all the minor leagues. An injury to a toe, sustained Sunday when he slid into Frank Tobin, put the Rabbit on the shelf for a few days, and continued the streak of ill fortune that has beset the Spudders from the very start of the championship campaign.

Dallas also played without its regular shortstop after a few innings yesterday, the second, to be explicit. Ray Flaskamper, the very excellent shortfielder of the Bovines, was banished from the pastime by Umpire Cecil Griggs for too strenuous protest over a decision.

Steers Score in First

The Steers tallied in the first inning. Jim Moore singled to short right-center after two were out. Randy Moore beat out a roller to Swenson and J. Moore advanced to third on Wally's low throw to Stapleton. Davis looped a hit to short left, scoring J. Moore. Andrews made a fast play on Jeffries' bounder and forced Davis at second on a toss to Turgeon.

Wichita Falls scored six runs in the second, in which Ray Flaskamper was benched. Swenson, first up, was safe when Morse fumbled his grounder. Sullivan walked. Lapan singled to left, scoring Swenson. Wiltse forced Sullivan at third, Glazner to Jeffries. Andrews singled to left, filling the bases. Turgeon walked, Lapan ambling home. Fitzgerald doubled to left, scoring Wiltse and Andrews and sending Turgeon to third.

Bennett hit sharply to right-center, scoring Fitzgerald. Bennett stole second. Flaskamper hurled the ball to the ground as a gesture of derision over Umpire Griggs' decision, and was out of the ball game. Skipper Milt Stock went to second and Morse to short. Turgeon fouled to Davis. Swenson lifted to Johnson.

Dallas Tallies in Fourth

Dallas scored two in the fourth. Davis led off with a single through second to right and went to second on Jeffries' infield hit. Andrews threw wild to second on Bischoff's grounder. Davis scoring, Jeffries going to third and Bischoff to second. Andrews took Johnson's pop. Swenson threw out Glazner, Jeffries scoring. Stock grounded to Swenson.

The Steers scored two in the sixth after two were out. Glazner singled to left and scored on Stock's two-base smash to center. Swenson let Morse's grounder go through him, Stock tallying. Fitzgerald took J. Moore's hoist.

The Spudders scored four in the seventh after two were down. Bennett and Stapleton singled and the bases were filled on Morse's boot on Swenson's grounder. Sullivan singled to right, scoring Bennett and Stapleton, and advancing Swenson to third. Lapan hit through Stock, scoring Swenson and sending Sullivan to third. Wiltse singled to right, tallying Sullivan.

Stock's men counted their last run in the ninth. Stock and Morse led off with hits to center. J. Moore forced Morse, Turgeon to Andrews, and Stock scored when Ray threw wild to first for a double play.

Chick Galeria or Ed Tuber probably will hurl for the Spudders today, while Walter Tauscher of Vic Frasier will be Milt Stock's choice.

State Amateur Golf on Today

DALLAS, Texas, June 3. (AP)—Ideal weather has been promised for the start of the twenty-third annual state amateur golf tournament over the Brook Hollow course tomorrow. Some 200 of the state's leading golfers will wade through the first half of the 36-hole qualifying round.

Practically all of the contestants tuned up their games over the championship course today. Fairways and greens are in almost perfect condition for the five-day battle for the sceptre now held by Jack Speer of Houston. Playing the 6,655-yard championship course, nobody today could equal the par 70.

The field tomorrow will include all but two of the state's crack players. They are George Rotan, Houston veteran and five times champion, and Reuben Albaugh, sensational San Antonio youngster, who had been established among the favorites.

CHICAGO, June 3. (UP)—Iowa's fate as a member of the Western conference will go into the hands of a big ten faculty subcommittee here tomorrow and the specific instances of alleged rule violation which caused the Hawkeyes to be suspended more than a week ago may be explained.

So far the general charges of "maintenance of a slush fund to care for athletes" and "alumni interference with athletics" have been given as the reasons why the athletic committee, a week ago Saturday night, voted to oust Iowa after Jan. 1, 1930.

Lighties Occupy Fistic Spotlight

Canzoneri and Fernandez To Battle Tonight

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—The lighter divisions hold a major portion of the fistic spotlight this week.

New York's outdoor season opens Tuesday with the third meeting of Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, and Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines. Canzoneri holds two decisions over the Filipino, but both battles were close. Canzoneri will be the experts favorite.

Al Singer takes on Leo Kid Rey, clever and hard hitting Canadian, in a 10-rounder. At San Francisco, Friday night, Young Corbett, another leading contender for the 147-pound crown, tackles Al Van Ryn of St. Paul over the 10-round route.

Detroit's weekly card on Thursday night offers as a main attraction, a return meeting between Ray Miller, the knockout star from Chicago and Billy Petrolle, the Fargo express. Miller took the decision in their first meeting several months ago.

Heavyweight action will be confined almost exclusively to a 10-round bout between George Godfrey, the current "black menace" and Jimmy Byrne of Louisville at Philadelphia, tomorrow.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, June 3.—After looking over the walloping budgets and balloon referendums for 1929 we realize that being a government is a very unhealthy occupation.

Even though President Hoover has reduced his monthly gas bills by selling the Mayflower, we still have big milk bills for a couple of Zeppelins.

Queer thing about otherwise stationary citizens is the motto that whatever you do to a government is perfectly legal.

In peace, we claim rebates. In war, we claim exemption. We skin it on our income blanks and stuff it with demands for pensions. We sell paper shoes for soldiers and cheer when the boys march to wear them out in two steps.

When we are in the bunkers of depression we blame it on the government. When we are sailing along the masterdinas and contours of prosperity we forget who is vice president.

When there is snow on the ground we know it is the fault of the administration. But when the violets are twittering in the dells we say ain't nature grand?

There are more ways of skinning a government than there are of teasing a monkey.

The newest method is washing stamps.

When a man washes a stamp he ain't trying to remove the glue.

What he is trying is to erase the cancellation marks, thereby making a new car out of a used job.

Since the parcel post has infested this country with sudden deliveries of large areas of merchandise, stamps have been printed in large denominations.

Washing a two-cent stamp would not pay for the soap. But you can afford to send a ten-dollar stamp to a Turkish bath for a shave, shampoo and massage and still make seven dollars on the transaction.

Each year old Jonathan Government loses one million dollars because the patriotic zippers have inaugurated a clean stamp week.

The boys have turned petty larceny into big business.

The stamp-scrubber first takes the battle citations off the valuable plaster and then sells it again for its face value.

We had always thought that ice cream cones and stamps were two articles that could only be used once.

This information strikes us in a third-class but vital post-office.

The government is making appropriated efforts to track the stamp-washers to their laundry.

But it is a difficult task as the only clues are soap bubbles which evaporate in a most annoying and personal manner.

To An Oldtimer

You may now know again the younger years,
You may not feel again the ancient thrill
As step by step you know the sunset nears
And restless Time refuses to stand still.

You may not feel the keenness of the chase,
You may not leap to meet the winning run,
You may not stand the swiftness of the pace
That's part of morning—and the rising sun.

But you at least can sleg along the way
And hold the stride that's known your oldtime tracks,
Matching your brain against the swifter play,
Till youth, exultant, quivers, slips—and cracks.

Summer Observations

"Pauline will test the punching power of Schmeling's right hand." Almost any one could think of pleasanter ways for the human jaw to spend a June evening.

All may be quiet along the Potomac, but the Potomac doesn't spin through the territory occupied by the Western conference.

"Why," asks a duffer, "do they give more space to rough and bunkers on a golf course than they give to the fairways?" It isn't actually that way. It only seems that way because the fairways are generally straight in front of you.

A certain duffer sliced his tee shot almost over his own right shoulder. "How did I do that?" he asked Johnny Farrell. "I don't know," said Johnny, "and I don't want to find out."

One of the best paragraphs ever written about a prize fighter came from "Punch" in the days when Battling Siki was a champion: "Battling Siki entered a restaurant in Paris, accompanied by a lion, and the diners were all much alarmed until they saw that the lion had Siki on the leash."

After waiting 14 years to win another pennant Connie Mack seems to be getting a trifle restless, thereby disproving the stoical qualities he was said to profess.

If Max Schmeling can stop Paulino he may retire from the ring and get a job cracking concrete with his bare hands.

Nineteen Years Ago

In the fall of 1910 the two world series were the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics. There is a good chance these same two ball clubs will take over the job of collecting the winners' and the losers' end in 1929.

That old series was the party that saw the twilight of Miner Brown, Tinker, Evers, Chance and others, as McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker came on, riding the morning sky. Now they have long since been supplanted. In that old series a great young ball club crushed a great old ball club and it is doubtful if the game has known any stronger teams. The Cubs won four pennants in five years.

From 1906 through 1919 these two clubs won eight pennants, which is about all the testimony one requires. They have not yet won the two pennant races of 1929. But they have been practicing quick starts in that general direction, and the odds are beginning to lean that way as the June campaign gets warming up.

Our athletes are supposed to get better and better, but few would contend that the Cubs of 1929 are stronger than the Cubs of 1906, or that the Athletics of 1929 are stronger than the Athletics of 1910.

Today's Golf Dope

"Too many golfers," says a golf critic, "overconcentrate rather than underconcentrate."

The trouble is that too many golfers think of too many things, rather than the one or two essential things.

"The idea," says Jim Barnes, "is to think of the right thing at the right time." The idea also is to do this thinking before the club gets into action, for a mental interruption here is as bad as a physical fault.

Concentration should mean the elimination of all useless thought. If, for example, one is hurrying the back swing, he should make it a point to see that his back swing speed is reduced to a smoother flow of motion, and for the moment attempt to think of nothing else.

Runyon Tells of Unique Incident In Pugilistic Arena at Bawston

Fighter's Manager Tosses in Towel With Other Scrapper Out On His Feet, and Hub Fans Wonder

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1929, by National Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 4.—Up in dear old Boston town, the home of the bean, and the strange decision, the boys put on one "for the book," as we say, the other night.

A large local Longan entitled Big Boy Rawson was battling Ralph Smith, the Californian who is so tall that he falls a story at a time, a year in Boston, and so seldom sees anything wrong that one wonders if his glasses do not need trueing up.

Mr. Lawrence Blameless

And yet, I wouldn't for a minute suspect George Lawrence of any wrongful thought or intent in heaving that towel. It is my opinion that he let 'er fly out of sheer nervousness.

You see, Mr. Lawrence is so seldom behind gladiators who remain upright after being pegged a few that he probably thought Ralph had died standing up and that instanter rigor mortis had ensued in a perpendicular pose. I do not blame Mr. Lawrence for getting nervous and throwing anything he had in his hand. I have no doubt it would have been the same thing if he had been holding a 50 dollar bill, instead of a towel.

I can recall when a similar fit of nervousness overtook the good M. Jacques Armand Curleycues, now a wrestling entrepeneur, but once implicated in what Mr. Tunney calls the dignified profession. M. Curleycues was managing one Andrew Chiarigliono, otherwise Andrew Haynes, otherwise Jim Flynn, of Pueblo, Colo., some years ago, and he had Mr. Flynn a-fighting of Jim Coffey, the Roscommon Jint, down Brighton Beach way.

History Is Recalled

Now Jim Coffey, at that period, was in danger of being matched with old Jest Willard, the Pottawatomie pounder, while Mr. Flynn sometimes known as the fighting fireman, was on his way out. Out where? Oh, just out. There were about two strikes on him as a pugilistic attraction.

Mr. William Gibson was the manager of Jim Coffey, and Mr. Gibson and the good M. Jacques Armand Curleycues were dear friends. Very dear friends, indeed. In fact, their friendship was such that the good M. Jacques had merely loaned Mr. Flynn to Mr. Gibson that evening so Jim Coffey could practice a few punches that he might require in fighting old Jest.

To the utter astonishment of all hands, Mr. Flynn proceeded to knock the daylights out of Jim Coffey. He hit Jim with everything but the good M. Jacques Curleycues, and Mr. Flynn was reaching for M. Jacques for that very purpose when M. Jacques withdrew from range.

The spectacle of his friend, Mr. William Gibson's gladiator, being slaughtered by Mr. Flynn made the good M. Jacques very, very nervous. So nervous, in fact, that just as it looked as if Mr. Flynn was about to flatten Jim Coffey, M. Jacques nervously let fly with a towel and saved Coffey's life.

"Mr. Flynn had a broken hand," the good and nervous M. Jacques announced after the fight.

"I saw you fight old Joe Cotton 20 rounds with both hands broken," I remarked to Mr. Flynn. "How come one broken hand winds you up tonight?"

By way of answer, Mr. Flynn slowly winked an eye.

Suggestion

Suggestion is a great thing in golf. Some one suggests that you are hooking, and you start hooking. Some one suggests that you are slicing, and you start slicing. Some one suggests that you are topping, and you start topping. Some one suggests that you are missing the ball entirely, and you start missing the ball entirely.

Suggestion is a great thing in golf.

Helen Retains French Hard Court Net Title

PARIS, June 2. (AP)—Helen Wills successfully defended her French hard court singles tennis championship today, when she defeated Mme. Rene Mathieu of France, in the final round, 6-3, 6-4.

Jean Borotra, of France, surprised the gallery with a five-set victory over Henri Cochet, his fellow musketeer, to gain the right to meet Jene Lacoste for the men's singles championship tomorrow. The scores were, 6-3, 5-7, 7-5, 5-7, 6-4.

The moisture evaporated from a single white oak in a day has been estimated to be 150 gallons of water.

A FRIEND of mine who is quite a baseball enthusiast was lamenting the other day that the so-called rookie rule has slowed up play in the Texas league. While he offered some vague arguments to support that contention, I think his main grievance was because the Spudders were at that time in the throes of their recent five-game losing streak. Though that sad occurrence was no more the fault of our rookies than veterans.

In the first place, to call it the rookie rule is a misnomer. It is NOT a rookie rule, it is a class rule. There is a vast difference. The rule as applied in the Texas league is that each club must carry five class men, to include players who were in this circuit last year for their first campaign in class A baseball. In that classification are Whelan and Holman of Shreveport. Had Stanton and Roetz been returned to the Spudders by the St. Louis Browns, they would have been included in the five-man class rule.

Stanton and Roetz would be pretty good rookies, wouldn't they? And Whelan and Holman are doing quite a bit for the Sports, aren't they?

THE CLASS RULE, or rookie rule, or call it what you will, has NOT slowed up the Texas league. To the contrary, rookies or first-year men are proving among stars of the circuit.

F'instance, take the Spudders.

Jack Crouch and Dick Sullivan are rookies. Crouch is a "find," a big league prospect. He already is one of the best catchers in the Texas league. Sullivan continues to bat well over .300 and to field splendidly. He is as valuable or more so than Lamb or Eldred, who played right field last year for our nine. Indeed, Eldred is still with the club and can't get Dick out of the lineup.

None of the Wichita Falls kid pitchers has delivered sensationally. But neither, for that matter, have any of the veteran chuckers.

SHREVEPORT owes its high place largely to class men. Catcher Starr is one of the league leaders in batting. Stewart has played brilliantly and consistently at second base. McClanahan and Hutson, before their injuries, indicated that they were excellent outfielders. Cashion, another rookie gardener, has made good. These in addition to Whelan and Holman give the Sports a classy array of juveniles.

Sanguinet, outfielder and Luebbe, catcher, of Waco; Ballew, second baseman, and Leon Baker, pitcher, of San Antonio; Akers, shortstop; Petrie, outfielder, and Stiely, pitcher, of Beaumont; Myers, pitcher, of Houston; Jeffries, third baseman, of Dallas; Cox, right fielder; Pierce, shortstop, and Rensa, catcher, of Fort Worth, are among other class-men named off-hand who have been important factors in the play of their respective teams.

ON THE OTHER hand, several veterans have been woeful flops. Dick Burrus, one of the highest-salaried men in the Texas league, failed dismally for Houston and has been sold conditionally to Atlanta of the Southern association.

The Texas league is enjoying one of the closest races of its ancient and honorable history. And this is due in a large measure to the hustle and competent play of many of its young men.

Perhaps no club in the circuit this summer is as strong as the Spudders of 1927 or the Spudders and Buffs of 1928. But as a whole, the league is faster.

Thanks a lot to the rookies.

Jack Again Denies 'Comeback' Planned

LOS ANGELES, June 3. (US)—Although unwilling to discuss reports that he will soon re-enter the ring, Jack Dempsey, upon his arrival here today by airplane from Kansas City, was positive in declaring that he does not plan any "immediate return" to the noble pastime or give and take.

The former heavyweight champion is here for a two-week visit with his wife, Estelle Taylor, film star. At the end of that time he will return East to take up the promotional reigns of a fight between two choice heavyweights in Chicago.

Tush! Tush! (or something like that) said Dempsey in regard to rumors that he and his wife are on the verge of parting.

FLAX CROP IN VALLEY GOOD

Tests Here May Show Way To New Industry

By O. K. BARNES
Agricultural Agent, C. of C.

The farmers and landowners who have been trying out flax as a new cash crop for the Wichita section are feeling very much encouraged over the growth of the crop so far. There are about 15 acres planted in various tracts under irrigation. There is a good stand on all of the tracts and if this one year's results can be taken as a guide, this crop is going to be a much better one in this section than it has ever been in any part of Texas.

It will be only a short time until the crop will be harvested and some definite knowledge of the possibilities of the crop will be known. Samples will be sent to the textile mills to determine the quality of the fiber and this and the yield per acre will determine the value of the crop.

Charles Mangold of Dallas, who is a large landowner in the irrigated section, has been one of the most enthusiastic advocates of the flax industry for this section. It has been proven to his satisfaction, as well as to many other landowners, that some other crop than cotton must be depended on for the irrigation farmer to build up an enduring prosperity. The yield of cotton is decreasing and the farmer must have some crop that has a more stable value on the market. The demand for flax is increasing with the increasing use of linen and if flax proves to be a profitable crop from a production standpoint, it will not be subject to as violent fluctuations as cotton.

Mr. Mangold is going to try to get a representation of the eastern textile mills to come to Wichita Falls and go into the matter of future development in the valley.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on buying by western and Wall street interests, together with some trade and commission house demand promoted by the firmer ruling of grains and stocks and some nervousness over the weather outlook. After selling up to 18.52, October contracts reached to 18.40 under realizing, but later advancing to 18.57, and closing at 18.55. The close was steady at net advances of 31 to 38 points.

The opening saw a decline of 1 point on July, but generally 3 to 8 points higher in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. The better tone reported in stocks and grain seemed to encourage buying but offerings increased slightly around 18.37 for July and 18.68 for December.

The continued firmness of grain and the better ruling of the stock market seemed to bring in some fresh buying during the afternoon and the highest prices of the day were reached in the late trading. July sold up to 18.43 and December to 18.74, making net advances of about 32 to 37 points on the active positions.

The close was a point or two off from the best for some months under realizing.

After advancing about ½c, the market eased off somewhat on profit-taking in the late morning. Afternoon prices were firm. The close was 35 to 46 points net higher. With cables 16 American points better than due, first prices here were 2 to 10 points up. News from Washington on prospective stabilization of grain prices had an indirect sympathetic bearing on prices.

AMERICAN SAFETY RAZOR CORPORATION.

5 Year Record

The American Safety Razor corporation is the second largest manufacturer of safety razors in the United States. It was formed in 1919 to take over the control of the American Safety Razor company, the Gem Safety Razor corporation and the Star Razor corporation. Later it acquired control of the British American Safety Razor company, Ltd., the Jay and Johnson Box corporation and the Lightfoot Schultz company.

The corporation makes and sells razor blades, brushes, cream and allied products. The plants of the company and its subsidiaries are located in Brooklyn and in and near Hoboken, N. J. and in London, Eng. The latest available figures, those for 1926, show an output of 3,558,000 razors, 118,917,000 blades and 1,465,000 brushes. Largely increased production was indicated in 1927.

The low point of earnings was in 1921. Since then they have improved. Net in 1926 was $1,014,843; in 1927, $1,047,403 and for the first nine months of 1928, $924,593.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 28,112 shares of no par value. The regular dividend rate is $4 per annum with an extra of 25 cents quarterly. The president of the company estimates $6 a share was earned in 1928. The company has made an arrangement to distribute its products through the United Cigar stores and has added about 4,000 dealers to its list.

As of June 30, 1928, total current assets were $4,609,229 current liabilities were $687,981 and net working capital was $3,921,248. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $33.43 a share. In the early part of 1928 the company used over $1,000,000 of its current assets by placing it in the call loan market.

Railroad and Oil Shares Foremost In Stock Climb 'Spite June Squeeze

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 3. (US)—Tightening in money failed to halt the recovery in the stock market today. The expected June squeeze started without causing much uneasiness so that short covering helped the Industrials while new buying pushed the Rails and Oils higher.

Utilities met profit taking but evidenced good support. Shattuck shot up 8⅛ to a new high, Allied Chemical gained 8½, Bendix climbed 6, Combustion recovered 3⅜ and Chrysler 3⅛. Steel, General Motors and other standard industrials held to narrow range.

Erie stood out in the transportation group with an advance of 2⅛. Pan American B gained 2¼, Simms 3¾ and other oils advanced from 1 to over 2 points.

The call money rate moved up from renewal of 6 to 7 per cent cent with scarcity of funds reported that indicated a higher charge for the immediate future. The turnover increased to near the 4,000,000 share level.

For the first time in several months the money market shows normal characteristics. Advance in the call rate was natural. Instead of the rate being pushed up without reason before the month-end payments the banks waited for the actual demand and as they needed funds they called loans in. Unless the stock market shows signs of running away again, it is believed, the reserve authorities will permit banks to follow such normal course and maintain a fairly sane money market during the huge turnover of funds that is scheduled for this month.

Higher rates are probable at periods over the next 30 days but the fear that the charge would be skyrocketed in panicky fashion has been wiped out because of the volume of liquidation experienced in the stock market during the past fortnight.

Durant stocks and other pool specialties recovered but there was an absence of that aggressive demand that featured such operations until recently. It is learned that the worst sufferers from the Durant debacle were the westerners, particularly in Combustion and Chrysler. Some of those west of the Mississippi were following the group operations blindly so that when the collapse came were caught and had no chance to unload.

Practically all these stocks are harboring a substantial short interest and covering could influence quite a rally. However, it will be difficult to attract a real following for every two or three points rally will witness belated liquidation by those who have learned a lesson.

Shattuck's new high price level reflected the expectation of further increase in earnings as a result of expansion program that has been outlined here. Another new store, it is reported, will be opened within the next week and some brokers advise of the outlook for a stock dividend.

Murray corporation group is prepared for greater activity expecting record breaking income this quarter. Utility and power shares' sustained prominence is due to expectation of recapitalization and merger announcements soon. Electric Investors is expected to announce important action that would mean higher return for stockholders in the near future. American Water Works split up is looked for very soon also.

Railroad and oil shares were the favorites in most bullish advices. Most railroad leaders adhere to the belief that the O'Fallon decision will result in a more liberal accounting method by the "goldplated" roads and lead to expectation of higher returns by such roads as Central, Atchison, Union Pacific and others.

Realization of expectations would mean splitting up of the shares of several carriers also. Oil men expressed the belief that further advance in the price of crude oil would be made in the next fortnight. Plans for mergers also are being discussed. In this connection Prairie oil and Sinclair are mentioned and there is rumor that Marland and Simms interests have held several meetings.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, June 3. (AP)—Cattle trade around 11-market circuit was marked by further upturns on better grades of fed steers and yearlings. Packers were somewhat bearish on the lower grades of slaughter cattle but with supplies moderate were unable to shave prices. Choice long yearling steers in Chicago reached $15.20. Kansas City had a $14.85 top on strictly choice 715 pound yearling heifers. Replacement stock was offered in too limited numbers at most points to test values. Aggregate receipts were estimated 50,200, a decrease of 7,500 from last Monday and 15,500 short of the corresponding day a year ago.

Hogs found a moderately active outlet at generally 10@15c higher values. The day's extreme top of $11.50 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were around 111,400. The sheep supply approximated 43,400. Trade on fat lambs and yearlings at most centers ruled steady to strong, with Chicago on a strong to 25c higher basis.

FORT WORTH, June 3. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 1,400; 10c higher; top $10.75; medium to choice 180 to 220-pound rail hogs $10.50@10.75; packing sows $8.75@9.25.

Cattle and Calves—Receipts 2,600; fed steers $14; caked grassers $11.25@11.50; straight grassers $9.75@11.00; yearlings $14; cows $8.75@9.90; stock steer yearlings $12.25; heavy calves up to $11.

Sheep—Receipts 3,500; fat lambs and wethers steady; fat yearlings weak to 25c lower; yearlings $11; wethers $8.50; aged wethers $7.50.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—Cotton gray goods opened the week firm in price and unchanged from Saturday. A fair call for some print cloths was noted, an advance in cotton giving the market substantial support. There was more inquiry for fine goods. Burlap markets were quiet. Japan raws were weaker, New York spot raws 5 cents lower, new crop silk unchanged, and the market quiet. The wool institute released its first style analysis of 95,000 pieces of suitings sold in April, with grays, browns, tans and stripes popular for fall.

Peru and Chile Sign Tacna-Arica Settlement

LIMA, Peru, June 3. (UP)—Peru and Chile signed the Tacna-Arica province settlement today, ending a 45-year old dispute over possession of the two border provinces.

The treaty was signed by Ambassador Emiliano Figueroa-Larrain for Chile, and Pedro Rada Y Gamio, foreign minister, for Peru. The treaty, which was handled through the offices of the president of the United States as mediator, settled a question arising after the Chilean-Peruvian war of 45 years ago. The main provision of the treaty returns Tacna province to Peru and permits Chile to retain Arica.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 3. (AP)—Reports that $100,000,000 federal government money is about to be directed immediately toward the purchase of surplus wheat sent grain values flying skyward today. Amid tumultous bidding, wheat gained nearly 9c a bushel and although subsequently fluctuating held about two-thirds of the advance. Rye, corn and oats scored extreme jumps varying from 3⅛@6c a bushel.

Wheat closed at 5⅜@6⅛c up. Corn closed 3⅞@4⅜c up, oats 1⅜@1⅞c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

At the opening of business it became apparent that a run-a-way market was in progress. Excited brokers were frantically trying to get quick ownership at as much as 5c above the price obtainable only a few feet away if the confusion prevailing would have permitted.

Even after nearly an hour of wildly swinging prices, the market was still switching violently, changes of a cent a bushel being frequent. No such experience was recalled except during the world war and on other occasions when the market suddenly had been confronted by unlooked for developments.

Unofficial monthly crop estimates issued today contained various features which ordinarily would tend to bring about lower prices. But so far as they received notice they were construed as helpful to an advance. The principal stimulating aspect was that the average of the estimates, although pointing to a likelihood of 53,000,000 bushels larger domestic winter wheat crop than a year ago, was more than counterbalanced by a prospect of 72,000,000 bushels decrease in United States spring wheat yield. Further unwelcome rains in the harvest region southwest counted also on the side of higher prices.

BOSTON, June 3. (AP)—A few lines of domestic wool are showing a little firmness, as a result of some fair sized sales last week on the limited volume of offerings available. SWAMP MURDER LETTER FOUND

Mrs. Cassler's Farewell Note Disclosed

VALPARIASO, Ind., June 3. (UP)—A farewell letter written by Mrs. Catherine Casler while she awaited execution in a Chicago death cell reappeared today—one month after she had escaped the noose—to throw suspicion on her in the "swamp murder" of Cameola Soutar, "butterfly girl" who stole the love of her husband.

The letter, apparently intended by the writer to have been published after she was to have been hanged for the murder of William Lindstrom, bared the bitterness of the 40-year-old wife, scorned by her husband for the youth and attractiveness of the 24-year-old stage dancer and skater.

While Mrs. Cassler definitely denied all responsibility for the young woman's death, the letter was turned over to Coroner E. H. Miller to be used with other circumstantial evidence as a basis for holding Mrs. Cassler.

Coroner Miller opened the inquest today into the slaying of the young dancing girl whose body with a bullet in the heart and the head crushed, was found last Thursday in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., former home of Mrs. Cassler.

Suspected with Mrs. Cassler is her adopted son, Edward, 14, who was left on the Cassler porch in a basket when he was two weeks old.

The letter has only accusation for the unfaithful husband and Cameola who "had the courage and the nerve to come to the jail and tell me of her relations with my husband when there was two feet of screen between us."

HIDING PLACE OF 'WE' FOUND

Lindy and Anne Honeymooning on Yacht

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 3. (AP)—The honeymoon trail of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is a path across the waters of Long Island sound.

This was revealed today when Louis Rounds, skipper of a motor boat that plies between New London and Block island, told of helping the flying colonel dock a new motor yacht at Block island to take on supplies Saturday.

Rounds' report led to discovery that Colonel Lindbergh had bought a small yacht just a week before his secret marriage to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador to Mexico Dwight W. Morrow, a week ago today in the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J.

While reporters were searching for the famous flier and the Ambassador's daughter on land and in the air or on board the yacht of one of his wealthy friends, the honeymoon pair slipped quietly down to the water front and sailed away in their own boat, purchase of which had been kept a close secret.

The trail picked up today was cold, two days old, so the Lindbergh's still enjoyed their hard won privacy today.

When Lindbergh purchased his yacht, a 32-foot double cabin craft designed for owner operation, he enjoined the builders to secrecy. They acknowledged today, however, that a recently built boat of the name Mouette, the name noticed by Rounds, had been sold, although they were not at liberty to tell to whom. From other sources it was learned that Lindbergh had not only bought the boat from the Elco works in Bayonne, N. J., but that he had taken instruction in its operation from the company, for, despite his proficiency operating planes in the sky and automobiles on the ground, he was a novice at a yachtsman.

Nicaragua Has New Rebel Leader

The new general, she declared today, began his depredations shortly after the election in which Machado was made president. He is now said to be in a well fortified fastness in the San Marcos mountains.

NEW CURRENCY SHOWN HERE

Bank Displays Small Bills For Use July 10

Speciments of the new type of currency which will enter into general circulation on or about July 10, according to the federal reserve bank at Dallas, are now on display in the lobby of the City National bank.

The new bills are 2 11-16 inches by 6 5-16 inches in dimension, representing a decrease of about one-third in size from the currency now in use. They will be issued in 11 denominations, each bearing the portrait of a noted American, as follows:

George Washington, $1; Thomas Jefferson, $2; Abraham Lincoln, $5; Alexander Hamilton, $10; Andrew Jackson, $20; U. S. Grant, $50; Benjamin Franklin, $100; William McKinley, $500; Grover Cleveland, $1,000; James Madison, $5,000; Samuel P. Chase, $5,000.

The issuance of all bills of a given denomination with the same portrait will be of great assistance to bank tellers, it was stated here, in avoiding confusion of various denominations.

The bills received here are for exhibition purposes only, and are of $1, $2, $5, and $10 denomination. Replacement of the old currency by the smaller paper will begin generally about July 10, it was stated, and will be governed by the condemnation of the present bills as unfit for further use.

It has been stated by officers of the United States Treasury department that several millions of dollars annually will be saved through reduction of size, standardizing of engraving plates, and greater life of the currency through the use of a superior grade of fiber paper, perfected after a long period of laboratory experimentation to withstand the effects of frequent contact with oil and gasoline, a feaure of the "automobile age."

Steps Are Taken Instituting Formal Query on Handling McCormick Estate

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 3. (INS)—Steps were being taken today to institute a formal investigation of the administration of the estate of Stanley McCormick, multimillionaire, following accusations of his wife that Harold McCormick and Mrs. Anita Blain, co-guardian with Mrs. McCormick, had employed Dr. E. J. Kempf to administer psychological treatments to her husband.

Mrs. McCormick holds that the treatments have been directed toward the alienation of her husband's affections, rather than his cure.

McCormick was declared incompetent by a Chicago probate court in 1928.

The court held that Mrs. McCormick's accusations justified a court of inquiry into the mode of treatment being prescribed for her husband, but also ruled that her charges did not constitute grounds for removal of the co-guardians.

COUNTY COURT MAKES AWARDS

Contracts Let for Road Equipment, Funerals

The Burris Funeral home was awarded the contract for handling the county's indigent dead for the coming two years by the action of the county commissioners court during its regular session Monday afternoon. The undertaking company offered a bid of $9.25 a funeral, with a standard charge of $2 for ambulance service to any part of the county. The bid was $2 per funeral under the next lowest offer.

Bailey-Moline offered the lowest price on a rotary scraper bought by H. H. Haynes for road work in precinct No. 4. The scraper was ordered purchased for $200.

E. P. Walsh, county auditor, turned in to the court the annual 1928 report of Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, showing receipts totaling $10,858.69 and disbursements amounting to $9,818.35, leaving $1,040.25 to be turned in to the county treasury.

The court finally approved a new bond offered by L. S. Tinnon, Electra constable, whose former security was recently cancelled.

At the invitation of Louis Jernigan, superintendent at the county farm, the court went in a body to inspect the new superintendent's home which is on the point of completion at the farm. The new building is expected to be ready for occupancy early this week.

Members of the court will meet again Tuesday to complete their work as the county board of equalization.

YOUNG COUNTY COURT OPENS

Montgomery to Call Docket June 17

The 30th district grand jury for Young county, impaneled by Judge Allan D. Montgomery in Graham Monday morning, is expected to bring in its report Tuesday afternoon, George Berry, assistant district attorney, announced Monday evening. Complaints charging burglary, theft and violations of the liquor laws are being investigated and around a dozen bills of indictment are expected in the final report.

The criminal docket will be called for trial on the week beginning June 17, Mr. Berry said. Except for a few juvenile cases, no criminal trials are expected until that time.

After his charge to the grand jury Monday morning, Judge Montgomery called the civil docket for the term and began the hearing on a receivership suit involving a small oil lease in Young county.

Only Cadillac and LaSalle provide this Safety and Handling Ease

The indispensable protection of the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission, Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, and non-shattering Security-Plate Glass in all windows, doors and windshields, is standard equipment with every Cadillac and LaSalle

THE exclusive safety and handling ease factors cited above almost compel the choice of Cadillac or La Salle. They place these cars so far in the forefront that the selection of Cadillac or La Salle becomes only a matter of the elimination of cars not so equipped.

The Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission has won enthusiastic, nationwide approval—for the very excellent reason that it eliminates one of the most annoying phases of driving.

With this new transmission gear-shifting becomes almost an unconscious act. There is never any clashing—no noise. With your finger-tips you make just one gentle movement from gear to gear with the lever. You can shift from high to second as readily as from second to high—at any speed—a feature you will especially appreciate on steep hills.

Experts are finding it a revelation; it is indispensable to the inexperienced; and women in particular acclaim it a welcome boon from the old method of "tugging" and "timing" to keep from clashing the gears. This transmission is exclusively Cadillac's and it is protected by basic patents.

The Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes (also exclusive because of basic patents) are of inestimable value in any traffic emergency. No other car has brakes so powerful, so positive in action, or that operate with so little pedal pressure. The lightest touch of the toe on the brake pedal gives instantaneous, velvet-like deceleration. Increased pressure enables you to stop your car in the shortest possible space. Also, a thorough examination would reveal that when the brake pedal is released there is never any tendency to drag—the cause of much needless friction and wear in cars not so equipped.

The protection afforded by Security Plate Glass, with which all Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, is of too great importance to be lightly brushed aside. This glass remains intact if broken through impact or collision. It will not fly into fragments. It is Cadillac's conscientious conviction that every motorist is entitled to this protection in these days of high speed and congested streets and highways.

These three safety factors are standard equipment in every Cadillac and La Salle and are offered at no extra charge.
