Shuttle Mission Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The long-awaited test flight of America's rocketship Columbia was scrubbed for at least two days this morning when a computer malfunction occurred as two astronauts waited in the cockpit for their release to fly.

It never came; 16 minutes before lift-off, problems began.

"We are stopping the clock," space agency spokesman Hugh Harris said at 9:59 a.m. — three hours after the scheduled launchtime.

"We're sending out a crew to open the hatch of the orbiter and take the astronauts out to their crew quarters," about six miles from the launch pad.

He said the earliest time for launch now is Sunday morning at 6:50 a.m. EST.

The postponement had to be a severe disappointment to pilots John Young and Robert Crippen, and to the many other employes of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration who had labored through two years' delay in development of the shuttle.

Seventy minutes after postponement, the astronauts crawled from the Columbia, appparently relaxed but their faces strained with frustration. They took an elevator to base of launch pad 39A where a van waited to take them on a trip that they'd hoped not to make.

The Columbia was to make America's first manned space flight in six years; the mission called for 36 orbits.

On a beautiful, sunny day along Florida's Space Coast, an estimated half-million viewers arrived before dawn to see the launch. They moved into long and dejected traffic jams when the order to scrub was announced.

Crowning Of Queen Opens NIRA Rodeo

The crowning of the rodeo queen kicked off the NIRA Rodeo last night in Scurry County Coliseum. The collegiate contests, sponsored by Western Texas College and Howard College, continue tonight at 8 p.m. Performances are also scheduled for Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Pretty Lana Hill was crowned rodeo queen in opening ceremonies. She is a Snyder freshman and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Glasscock. Runnerup was Anita Riveria, a Colorado City Sophomore.

In the bull riding event, an Abilene Christian University cowboy scored 69 points to come out on top. The only other contestant that managed to stay atop his mount the alloted 8 seconds, was Britt Hammons from Ranger Junior College. He scored 58 points.

A Sul Ross student named David Peters did the best in the bareback bronc riding event. He was followed by Britt Cox of Western Texas College.

In calf roping, Wes Smith of Howard College tied his calf in 9.7 seconds. Gip Allen of Sul Ross had a time of 10.76 and Jimmy Smith of Cisco Jr. College was clocked at 19.86.

A pair of WTC cowgirls ran away with the break-away roping event last night. Mandy Tubb looped her calf in 2.86 seconds. Nannette Fine turned in a time fo 4.59.

In steer wrestling, Guy Allen of Sul Ross toppled his foe in 4.13 seconds. Right on his heels was Jimmy Smith with a time of 4.66 seconds. Gary Hickox of WTC had the next best time with 8.83.

Ed Fernandes and Jim Bob McNeil were the only successful team ropers last night. The Howard County cowboys caught their steer in 7.27 seconds.

A WTC cowgirl, Tammy Steward, had the best time in the barrel racing. She made the trip in 13.58 seconds. Next was Kyle Rice of Sul Ross with a 13.89. Tameria Hammons of West Texas State University was timed at 13.91.

Sarah Cash of Tarleton State University was the top goat tyer last night with a time of 9.97. Kyle Rice tied her goat in 10.12 seconds.

Seale Named President Of Local School Board

Snyder School Trustees last night elected Bill Seale president and Mike Reed vice president after returns from last Saturday's election were canvassed and two new board members were seated.

Seale, who served as vice president of the board the past year, succeeded Ted Crenwelge. Roy McQueen and Joseph D. Hinton, winners in Saturday's election, took the oath of office. They replaced Crenwelge and Bill Eiland on the board. The two retiring board members, neither of whom sought re-election, were presented plaques by Supt. Bill J. Hood, who expressed appreciation for their service to the school system. Crenwelge, who served 15 years on the board, and Eiland, who served nine years, said they had enjoyed working with the schools. They praised the administrators, staff and other board members. "I know we are leaving our schools in good hands," said Crenwelge.

During consideration of a brief business agenda, the board instructed the administration to seek estimates on costs of constructing some new tennis courts and resurfacing existing courts. John Gary, athletic director, told the board that the junior high and high schools need more courts to take care of demands, not only for competitive teams, but also for physical education. A survey of facilities presented to the board shows that the high school here has fewer tennis courts than any other school in District 2-AAAA.

Gary also had some preliminary estimates he had obtained from a contractor which indicated that new tennis courts would cost around $15,000 to $16,000 each. Members of the coaching staff and several parents of tennis players joined in the discussion, after which the board voted unanimously to ask for detailed estimates for building up to 12 courts and resurfacing the old courts. At present, Snyder High School has four tennis courts and the junior high has two. There are 16 to 18 students on the high school tennis team, and up to 50 students are enrolled for tennis instruction in one period at the junior high.

In other business, the board approved a request for use of facilities and equipment in the Scurry County Summer Recreation Program on the same basis as last year. The agreement includes reimbursement for liability insurance carried by the school district during the time the school facilities are used.

Board members cast ballots in an election being conducted to name two members to the board of directors of the Region XIV Education Service Center.

Ford Rejects Chrysler Merger

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said today its board of directors considered and rejected a possible merger with Chrysler Corp.

In a statement released by the No. 2 automaker, Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell said the question was considered at a Thursday meeting of Ford's board of directors and was raised "by intermediaries acting on behalf of Chrysler."

"It was unanimously determined that a merger or other similar arrangement with Chrysler should be rejected as clearly not being in the best interest of Ford or its stockholders," Caldwell said.

Ship Hits Sub, Sinks

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese freighter sank after colliding with an American nuclear-powered submarine, the U.S.S. George Washington, off the southern tip of Japan, the U.S. Navy said today.

The Japan Defense Agency said 13 of the freighter's 15 crew members were rescued.

The Pentagon in Washington said there were no injuries aboard the submarine, and Navy officials who asked not to be identified said there was no damage to the vessel's nuclear propulsion system or the weapons systems on its hull. There were no reports of damage to the hull.

Reagan May Go Home Saturday Afternoon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, continuing to recover rapidly from a gunshot wound in the chest, will leave the hospital and return to the White House on Saturday or Sunday, an aide announced today.

Dr. Dennis O'Leary, dean of clinical affairs for George Washington University Hospital, told reporters the president will be examined Saturday morning and if his condition is stable he probably will be discharged from the hospital in the afternoon.

The doctor said he wanted to watch the area of Reagan's lung which was pierced by a would-be assassin's bullet "for another 24 hours before committing to a discharge time."

The president entered the hospital March 30.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes also announced cancellation of Reagan's scheduled trip to Mexico to meet with President Jose Lopez Portillo.

"There will be no presidential travel for the next several weeks," he said. The trip had been scheduled for the end of April.

O'Leary, the hospital's principal medical spokesman since the president was wounded 13 days ago, said Reagan "is in a decent hospital room, but it's not home."

"His access to outdoors and fresh air is limited. We're looking forward to him sitting outdoors and getting a little fresh air," he said.

Reagan continues to receive an anticoagulant intravenously, the doctor said, but that treatment is to end on Sunday. The only other medication Reagan is receiving is penicillin, which he will continue to take orally for 10 days.

"Penicillin is precautionary, like X-rays," O'Leary said, "more in the category of treating the doctor than treating the patient. The patient feels fine but the doctor needs reassurance."

fixing social security

A few weeks ago the nation's Social Security System paid out its one trillionth dollar, says Robert Myers.

Bob Myers is a retread. At 68 he's been a deputy Social Security commissioner a week or two now. From 1947 to mid 1970 he was Social Security's chief actuary. He quit in a now-forgotten political squabble, but that didn't hurt him, or his reputation. He's been teaching ever since, and making a bundle in consulting work. In fact, he's making a financial sacrifice to return to government work.

His reason: "To get the program on a sound basis, maintain its character and restore public confidence in it."

Myers says it took 40 years for Social Security to pay out of its first trillion (one thousand billion) dollars. The second trillion will be paid in "five or six years." That's assuming Congress pulls the major part of the system into balance.

The major part is known as OASDI —Old Age, Survivors and Disability. That's 36 million retirees, survivors of people covered by Social Security, disabled folks. They now get $10.5 billion a month from Social Security. On July 3 the checks mailed to them will rise about 11.5 percent, so that by this year's end about $136 billion will have been paid out to them. That 11.5 percent is dictated by a formula in 1977 Social Security amendments giving these people annual cost-of-living raises. The money comes from working people's pockets, and the pockets of their employers, who match workers' Social Security contributions.

That seems fair enough, except for one thing: Wages of the workers who make the contributions have not risen 11.5 percent in the first quarter of this year. (Those three months are the ones on which the cost-of-living increase is based.) Worker wage increases in the same period turn out to be about 9 percent.

Myers asks: "Why should Social Security beneficiaries get more than workers?"

Good question, and there's no real answer. Closest rebuttal is that there's a "social contract" between beneficiaries and the government to protect the benefits. There may be, but there's also a social contract to assure the system doesn't run into the red. If congress does nothing in the next 18 to 20 months, we'll come to a month in late 1982 when there's not enough money to pay OASDI, Myers says.

But he's confident that Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas and Pickle's Social Security subcommittee (of the House Ways and Means Committee) will fix the system. The likely fix: Pay the annual cost-of-living increase on whichever rise is lower, prices or wages.

Up until 1979 U.S. wage increases invariably outstripped price increases. That's why the 1977 Social Security amendments relied on price increases to calculate cost-of-living raises. No one really thought inflation would do what it's actually done. But in 1979 wages fell 1.5 percent behind prices and last year 4.7 percent behind. This year, says Myers, you can figure on a gap of about 2.5 percent. Over a year that's almost $3.2 billion. And that, with fringe Social Security adjustments President Reagan's already proposed, is enough to assure the system's soundness well into the 1990s.

What does 2.5 percent mean to the average Social Security beneficiary?

Individuals average around $350 a month; they'd lose $8.75 of a cost-of-living raise if the raise were based on wages rather than prices. A beneficiary and spouse, whose joint Social Security income averages around $525 a month, would lose about $13.12 monthly. That's not make-or-break income. If we ever conquer price inflation, these people would revert to getting their annual living-cost increases based on prices instead of wages, as Congress intended in 1977.

The timing couldn't be more effective.

With the nation still shaken by the attempted assassination of the president, along comes the FBI with some more bad news in the latest statistics on violent crime.

To no one's surprise, the G-Men find the national crime rate up. They always do. But even more so this time, a one-year rise of 13 percent that is the steepest in more than a decade. Murder, rape, assault and robbery are all up, the last the most — 20 percent.

When violent crimes are combined with property crimes — burglary, larceny and the like — the overall index is up 10 percent, the most significant increase since 1975, according to FBI Director William H. Webster, and "a continuing cause for concern by law enforcement and the American people."

To say the very least. The stark figures themselves are not the only cause for concern, however.

They are all in the bureau's preliminary report on its 1980 Uniform Crime Index, about which you've probably heard.

But have you head about Criminal Victimization in the United States? Likely not, and that's not surprising. This also is an annual report dealing with crime published by the Bureau of Justice Statistics, like the FBI an agency of the Justice Department. But it does not receive anything like the same attention from the department's publicists or, consequently, from the press and public.

Yet the crime index cannot be properly understood unless evaluated in conjunction with the victimization report.

What's the difference? The crime index records only reported crimes, first reported by the victims to police and then reported to the FBI by more than 12,000 local and other law enforcement agencies. Voluntarily. The FBI does not go digging for its data, it compiles what others provide.

The victimization report is a controlled field project in which 160,000 households throughout the country are checked annually as to their experiences with crime. The sampling is huge, compared with the few hundred or thousand inteviews upon which most public-opinion polls are based. Actually, interviewing is done by Census Bureau personnel, with Justice Statistics processing the results for a comprehensive report covering all criminal incidents, whether reported to authorities or not.

Does it make a difference? Yes indeed, an immense one. Most crimes are never reported to authorities — a current estimate is 55 percent to 60 percent of all committed. Far from revealing a national crime orgy, Criminal Victimization in the United States shows the violent crime rate virtually unchanged since the reports began in 1973 — 33 incidents per 1,000 population. More, there is some evidence of a decline. The robbery incidence in the latest report is below that of 1973.

Statistics in the victimization report are up in one respect, the percentage of reported crimes. A notable category is rape, where public and private agencies have been measurably successful in persuading victims to seek redress.

As some experts in the criminal-justice field read it, the steady increase in reporting of crimes alone largely accounts for the steadily increasing national crime rate that the FBI index appears to be recording.

Don't take this as a dismissal of the problem of crime in the United States, however. We do have a problem. The rates in all crime categories are disturbingly higher than are those of comparable developed societies in Western Europe and Japan.

It is undeniably a bad situation. But not a rapidly worsening one. And it is not only inaccurate but a disservice to the public and to effective law enforcement to suggest that it is.

Crime in America can best be dealt with through a realistic understanding by Americans of its acutual dimensions rather than annually frightening ourselves with skewed statistics.

It is to be hoped that the FBI's release of its preliminary figures for 1980 — the complete report won't be available for months — at a time when the public is hypersensitive on the subject of violence is only coincidental.

But to repeat, the timing couldn't be more effective.

at wit's end

Can I say a few words on behalf of the men and women of this country who try to find some humor out of a grim, terminal condition that stalks every American? Living?

Men and women who walk the fine line between good taste-offensiveness-comic relief-sensitivity every day of their lives...without a net. God help them when they miss a step.

I've missed a few in my time. We all have. We've all resorted at one time or another to the "cheap shot," the borderline taste test and misery overkill, but no one is perfect.

This is not a piece inspired by an attack by anyone on something I've written. On the contrary, it's a concern I have when I read the paper and see the flak being borne by some of my colleagues.

I've always compared humor to a street light. Everyone wants it, needs it, feels safe and secure with it, agrees we should have more of it—but not in front of their house.

Humor makes demands. It demands that the humoree possess security about himself, confidence, assuredness, a bit of the absurd, silliness and an "arrangement" with seriousness.

Ironically, the people who want and need humor the most we cannot administer to. Over the years I have kept a file of people who have begged me to put their situations down on paper so they could laugh at them and give them some perspective: blind women, handicapped people, elderly couples widows and widowers, divorced men and women and ministers' wives and their children. (Other people's children can play in water, but ministers' children have to walk on it!)

They're like everyone else. They need humor to survive their pain and their problems. It's only the rest of the world who would be offended by it.

Since humor is so personal, each must deal with it in his or her own way. but don't let sensitivity smother your capacity to laugh. Whenever you're tempted, think of the following story.

A man with a wooden eye was very self-conscious about going to a dance, but was talked into it by a friend who swore no one would notice.

A girl, very sensitive about her large ears, was also talked into going to the same dance by her friend.

The man with the wooden eye approached the girl with the large ears and said awkardly, "Would you like to dance?"

Stunned by the offer, she shouted, "Would I?"

He yelled back, "BIG EARS! BIG EARS! BIG EARS!"

Your Birthday

April 11, 1981

This coming year you should avoid giving up something good which you have going for you on a gamble for what you think is better. You will come out better in the long run by building upon what you already have.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is not a good day to have too many irons in the fire. It could cause you to go off on unproductive tangents. Do less, but do everything well. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be on guard against a tendency today to worry too much about things which may never happen. Negative thinking will sap your vitality and success drive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It may seem like everything you want to do today will cost you more money than you wish to spend. If so, seek less expensive diversions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to maintain a middle-of-the-road policy today if you find yourself caught between two opposing factions. Don't be the scapegoat for whom each may be looking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Frustrations or problems you may have to contend with today are likely to be of your own making. They'll be precipitated either by neglect or poor planning.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be realistic today regarding your expectations. You'll be severely disappointed if you think others will do more for you than you would for them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons you may have to deal with today will be as anxious to satisfy their ambitions as you will yours. A failure to compromise spells problems.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The principal thing to keep in mind with coworkers today is getting the job done properly, not whose ideas or methods should get the credit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though your intentions may be good today, don't try to manipulate or control friends. They might misunderstand your motives and it could cause bad feelings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Those with whom you associate today may lose respect for you if you try to be all things to all people. Your best course of action is to be sincere and be yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you fail to be helpful where you know you could be, even though the potential beneficiary may never have done anything for you, you might end up with a guilty conscience.

NEW YORK (AP) — During its 41-year history, members of Detroit's Mutual Investment Club have bought $137,038 worth of stocks, withdrawn $257,643 for other uses and now have a million dollar portfolio.

The best is to come, said George A. Nicholson, Jr., usually credited with being the father of the investment club movement. Nicholson, a member, estimates that by 1986 the club may be worth $2.3 million.

The biggest paper profit in its present portfolio of 42 stocks is Moog, Inc., up more than nine times. Trinity Industries has risen seven times, Core Industries five times, Air Products, Avco and Mobil Oil four times. Two stocks have tripled, six have doubled.

Critics sometimes argue the Detroit group isn't typical of clubs in the 3,900-member National Association of Investment Clubs because some of its members are professionals. They concede this, but insist nevertheless amateurs can be properly prepared to make big gains.

Tom O'Hara, chairman of the NAIC board of trustees, tells the story of one of the club's biggest gains. As is the custom, members allowed their wives to pick a stock at the annual meeting. In 1974 they chose Amcord. The purchase price, said O'Hara, a member, was $2.875.

In 1979 Amcord shares were repurchased from shareholders at $34. Suddenly finding themselves with about $54,000, the biggest lump of cash they ever had the opportunity to invest, they bought among other things 1,200 shares of Kennecott Copper at $24 a share. Recently offer from Standard Oil of Ohio was approved by both boards at $62 a share.

O'Hara revealed the club's figures, which showed a portfolio value of $1,039,000 on the morning of March 31 (helped along by Moog reaching a new high) in an effort to encourage people to spur the movement.

He contends there's money to be made by small investors, and he observes that, somewhat under-publicized, "individuals have been making money in the market for the past five years."

During these years, he said in an interview, there has been a gradual rebuilding of confidence in the market. "People view stocks as I do — that stocks are one of the few things that have not risen sharply, and that if there are bargains anywhere they're to be found in stocks."

O'Hara detects a growing enthusiasm that he feels will lift the number of clubs steadily over coming months. In fact, he says, it has begun. Association membership last year fell to 3,600, from a high of 14,000 clubs in 1970, but it has grown now for six straight months to 3,900.

Those figures roughly parallel what the New York Stock Exchange census of shareholders has shown. After reaching a high of 31 million a decade or so ago, shareownership dipped to 25 million, before growing again to 29.8 million in 1980.

CBS will show another of those "new motion pictures for television" movies April 28, called "We're Fighting Back"; an unlikely two-hour bit about a group of New York City youths who are disgusted with crime in their neighborhoods and decide to do something about it.

According to promo material by the network, "The anti-crime effort of the band evolves into a rugged, full-fledged campaign against the vicious street gang...".

Right away, it's easy to see that "We're Fighting Back" is either a pilot that didn't make it or predestined to become seralized by CBS.

The youths include - get this - a guy who works in a hamburger joint, a Chinese-American who hopes to attend veterinary school, a former drug addict from the Dominican Republic, a former waitress of a Hell's Kitchen diner who is accomplished in martial arts and two black brothers who are masters of the martial arts. Obviously these guys intend to fight fire with fire, right? Oh, and there's the token objector, who "initially balks at joining because of his religious upbringing." He'll come around.

I can see it now. It won't be four weeks into the series before these guys parachute from a fire escape or eject themselves up out of a manhole to rescue some half-dressed blonde bombshell who is being followed by a devious-looking, psychotic wino. It's Charlie's Angels youth-style.

While you're waiting for this exciting, brand new feature, here's a list of upcoming shows, with explanations in paranthesis for those who forget to turn on the set.

7:00 p.m. - Ch. 8, [8]: BJ AND THE BEAR- BJ's (scantily clad) lady truckers are kidnapped (through their own stupidity) and held (by a bunch of incompetents) on a marijuana farm in Mexico. (A blending of sex, drugs and violence which ends in a daring, improbable rescue).

8:00 p.m. - Ch. 28 [7]: CHARLIE'S ANGELS- The Angels (pick three, any three - but put one in a bikini) set out (sky dive from 30 feet above shark infested waters) to bust (tackle, karate chop, handcuff) a gigolo (a real klutz of a criminal).

9:00 p.m. - Ch. 9 [9]: CHiPs- When Ponch decides to have a charity bash (his third in two seasons) almost 60 celebrities (which he finds in bikinis walking along the beach) attend (cameo shots) for the benefit of Actors and Others for animals (for the benefit the show's ratings). First of two parts (they'll drag it to death).

If those don't hold you, take heart. CBS reports filming will start April 21 on "The Eagle Rock Rebels Ride Again" another new motion picture-for-television about the revival of a defunct band of now aging motorcyclists.

I can see it now...

20th Century Club Meets

During a recent meeting of the Twentieth Century Club, Henrietta Dupree, leader, elicited one or more suggestions from each member for improvements in the city and county. The Alpha Study Club was commended for its efforts in city beautification.

Lois Bartels talked about the county budget. She showed members a copy and reminded them that it is at the courthouse for interested persons to see. Records of the weekly meetings of the commissioners are also posted in the courthouse.

The 1982 budget is now being planned and suggestions are being considered. The commissioners were in Austin opposing the right-of-way royalty bill in which the state seeks to claim the mineral rights under public roads.

Margaret Miller, president, showed four certificates of achievement awarded to the club at the Mesquite District Convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Merkel March 20.

These were: first, historical people, places and things; first, outstanding Federation Day program; second, Texas heritage; second, creative arts.

Members attending the convention were Margaret Miller, Mattie Wilson, Martha Moore and Luella Stoker.

Twelve members were present at the meeting and Marjorie Tyer was hostess.

Film Kicks Off Cancer Crusade

The 1981 Cancer Crusade kicked off April 4 at the Chamber of Commerce. A group of twenty five met for a brown bag lunch to view two films entitiled "Circle of Caring" and "You Do Make A Difference". Sherry Thompson passed out kits to all volunteers present.

At the meeting, the group was informed of the three prong attack for this year-Research, Education, and Service. The object of the crusade is for volunteers to get information regarding cancer into every home in Scurry County. They may be identified by their crusade badges.

Contributions may be given to volunteers or sent to Mr. Carlyle at the West Texas State Bank. For contributions that need to be picked up, contact Wanda Falls at 573-3075. Memorials may be made at the Snyder National Bank with Edna Anderson any time of the year.

Dr. Knipping To Present Counciling Seminar At WTC

Dr. Paul A. Knipping, associate professor of health education at Texas Tech University will be presenting a six hour seminar on Rational Self Counseling April 21 and 23 in the meeting room of Snyder Savings and Loan Building from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Registration fee for both sessions is $30. Reservations must be made in advance by calling Betty Sandel at Western Texas College, 573-8511, Extension 320. A minimum of 20 persons must be registered for the seminar to form.

Rational Self-Counseling is the process of dealing with the realities of one's life in an emotionally healthy way. It is said to provide a structure one can use to analyze and challenge one's beliefs and values, producing the ability to control one's life in a more positive, productive manner.

Dr. Knipping brings as credentials a Ph.D. in Health Education from the University of Wisconsin, an M.S. from the University of Wisconsin, and a B.S. from Lakeland College in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. He has held his present office at Texas Tech University since 1976 and he has presented and published numerous papers and articles dealing with emotional health.

He has directed many seminars on Rational Self Counseling in the area and across the United States. He is a Fellow in the American School Health Association, a member of the Western Gerontological Association, American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, National Association of Gerontology, and Eta Sigma Gamma.

Cheryl Tiegs told Beauty Digest magazine her way to slim down fast: "I would eat a fairly big breakfast of hot water with lemon, plain yogurt and whole wheat toast. For lunch I would have a salad. For dinner, I would have only one small piece of chicken and a small salad. I would never eat anything after 6 p.m. I always wake up thinner when I haven't eaten after that time."

Dermatologist Dr. Jonathan Zizmor told Beauty Digest magazine how to pick the right moisturizer: "For younger women who may break out, a very light moisturizer with urea in it is best. I also advise this for those with dry skin who are prone to breakouts. For people who are older and without acne, any type of moisturizer is fine."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

South would like to duck the first spade, but it is a luxury he can't afford. Maybe West holds a six-card spade suit. So he is in dummy with dummy's ace of spades.

He counts one loser in each black suit and one potential loser in each red suit. He also has finesse possibilities against both red kings. It would be nice if he could lead four times from dummy and pick up both red kings if they were placed properly, but he is in dummy now and will be there just once more.

He can finesse once in each red suit or twice in one red suit. Obviously, he must concentrate on just one. Which one?

The normal way would be to attack trumps, but that is the wrong way here. The reason why is that if the diamond finessse is going to work everything will be fine if the suit breaks 3-2. But suppose it breaks 4-1. Two finesses won't pick up the king.

Therefore, after this consideration, South takes a diamond finesse. Then he plays ace-10 of hearts.

East takes his king and spades are led. South ruffs when he can, pulls the rest of the trumps, goes back to dummy with the ace of clubs, finesses again for the king of diamonds and scores the game.

Dear Abby

Couple's Celebration Stalls at Countdown

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married May 10, 1956. We were divorced in 1970 and stayed divorced for a year and a half. Then we were married again in November 1972.

We have always celebrated our anniversary on May 10, but now we have a question. Should we celebrate our 25th wedding anniverary on May 10, 1981, and forget about the year and a half we weren't married? Or should we wait until all the time we spent as man and wife actually totals 25 years? This is a small town and a lot of people here know that we were apart for a year and a half. What do we say if somebody mentions it?

We'd really like to have a nice 25th anniversary celebration in May.

TWO ANNIVERSARIES, ONE MAN

DEAR TWO: Have your 25th wedding anniversary in May 1981, and if somebody mentions it, tell 'em it's "new math."

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and have a brother who is 11. We both have our own rooms, although we might as well have only one between us. My problem started last summer when my mother put a cot in my bedroom so my brother could sleep there. The reason was to save energy by running only one air-conditioner instead of two. I didn't put up much of a fuss, although I hated not having my privacy.

It's nearly a year later, and my brother is still sleeping in my room. He uses the excuse that he has nightmares about robbers and murderers. Maybe this is true, but I think he should face this problem and sleep in his own bedroom.

I've talked to my mother about it and get nowhere. She says she can't make him sleep in his own room if he says he has nightmares.

My brother thinks because he sleeps in my room, it's his, too, and he is in it during the daytime. Now I have absolutely no privacy. Don't you think I should have a room of my own?

BROTHER TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: I'm all for conserving energy, but the nightmare excuse is a horse of a different color! Brother should sleep in his own room. Perhaps a night-light would eliminate his nightmares. If it doesn't, he should get professional help.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more "other woman" story? I became the other woman when I was a girl of 19. He was 43 at the time. I worked for him (but don't say doing what). He was married and had children (but don't say how many).

I wasn't particularly sexy-looking, but I was competent, always available and had nothing else in my life but him. He was a workaholic and we spent a lot of time together, in the office and out. If there was any gossip about us, I never heard it. I was like a piece of office equipment.

I never dated anyone else, but it was no sacrifice for me. I loved him. He told me he loved me, too, and when his kids were grown he'd leave his wife and marry me. I never pressured him, and I was content to let time take care of things.

Well, time did. I am 38 now and he is 62. His wife died four months ago and yesterday he married a 27-year-old girl he had known for only six weeks!

Now I know how Jean Harris (the woman who shot that diet doctor) felt.

STILL IN SHOCK

RECEPTION—Dr. Gil Fleer, left, president of the Western Texas College Faculty Association, was among those greeting Dr. and Mrs. Don Newbury during a reception honoring them yesterday. The reception was held in the WTC Administration Building and all campus personnel were invited to attend. Dr. Newbury assumed his duties as president of WTC officially on April 1 and has moved his family here from Fort Worth.

Babysitter Is Captured After Abducting Kids

PLEASANTON, Texas (AP) — Atascosa County Sheriff's Department officers chased a stationwagon at speeds up to 100 miles per hour, captured an 18-year-old babysitter and freed two small children she allegedly abducted in San Antonio.

Atascosa County Sheriff Tommy Williams and deputy Steve Gonzalez, the son of Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, wrestled the suspect to the ground Thursday afternoon and arrested her after an hour-long standoff in which she held one of the children at gunpoint.

A stolen stationwagon driven by the suspect ran across the median of U.S. Highway 281, crashed through a fence and overturned several times at the end of a chase at speeds up to 100 miles per hour, deputies reported.

Atascosa County authorities reported the woman fired several shots at Gonzalez' patrol car during the chase.

Neither the children nor the alleged abductor were reported seriously hurt in the crash.

The abduction was reported late Wednesday night when Oscar Gonzalez and his wife returned home from the San Antonio Spurs-Houston Rockets game and discovered his 1-year-old and 3-year-old children, the babysitter, a pistol and the stationwagon missing.

The distraught father went on local radio stations Thursday pleading for the young woman to return the children, "for the love of Christ."

When the woman's car crashed through the fence, officers said she jumped out, sat one of the children on top of the automobile and pointed a pistol at the child.

Gonzalez laid down his shotgun and talked to the woman for about an hour about a "deal," officers said. Williams and Gonzalez moved closer and captured the woman during the talks.

Court Returns Guilty Verdicts

Six guilty verdicts were handed down this week in county court, presided over by Judge Preston Wilson.

Michael Grant Feltman had his probation revoked when he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated (DWI). He was on probation for an earlier DWI conviction. He was assessed a $200 fine and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Antonio Deleon was found guilty to a charge of resisting arrest and fined $100 and ordered to spend 30 days in jail.

Eward Garcia was found guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana, less than 2 ounces and fined $300.

David Wayne Bolinger was fined $25 for driving while his license was suspended.

J.L. Williams was fined $50 for dumping refuse near highway.

Porfirio Felix Guzman was found guilty to a DWI charge and fined $50 and ordered to spend three days in jail.

Back To Drawing Board For Drinking Age Bill

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Raising the legal drinking age from 18 to 19 to curb drunkenness in high schools didn't seem complicated, but the House and Senate can't seem to get together on it.

Senators rejected the latest attempt at compromise on Thursday, and a third House-Senate conference committee was appointed to try to find the right combination.

Rep. Henry Allee, D-Houston, House sponsor, begged his colleagues to back off on their demand that the bill contain a tough provision forcing sellers of alcoholic beverages to check the identification cards of young customers.

"If we have to be flexible on the ID issue, let me have that flexibility," Allee said, suggesting that the question of enforcing the law against selling to minors should be dealt with in a separate bill.

"I just want a 19-year-old drinking bill," he added.

Senators rejected the latest effort at compromise, 28-1.

The House has insisted that grocers, bartenders and liquor store operators be required to verify a person is not a minor before selling him alcohol.

When the first conference committee gave a seller an out if a buyer "looked 19," the House rejected that.

The second conference committee drafted tougher language, saying a a sale to a minor is done "knowingly" — and, therefore, illegally — if no ID is requested.

Senators said Thursday that was unfair.

"We are not talking about night clubs and taverns, we are talking about neighborhood grocery stores and 7-11s," said Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler.

"Next time this goes to conference committee we will have to have an amendment that is not real strict but somewhere in the middle," said Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, the Senate sponsor.

On Tax Cut Plan...

GOP Not Willing To Talk Compromise Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, calling the Democrats' alternative tax-cut plan "puny" and less than half a loaf," says it is too early to talk compromise.

The Democratic plan, proposed Thursday by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, would scrap President Reagan's proposed three-year, across-the-board tax cut in favor of a one-year program tilted to low- and middle-income Americans.

After reading Rostenkowski's speech outlining the plan and conferring with the hospitalized president, Treasury Donald T. Regan said he wanted to buy the congressman tickets to Neil Simon's production, "They're Playing Our Song." He said the chairman's bill amounted to an endorsement of the chief objectives of Reagan's economic program.

"The president also believes, however, that this new plan is less than half a loaf," Regan said. "The chairman's tax plan simply will not be as effective as the president's program."

Specifically, Regan said, Rostenkowski's proposed cuts in marginal tax rates were "puny" and were not applied across the board. He also said savings incentives proposed by Rostenkowski were "misguided and inadequate."

Rostenkowski called for about $40 billion in tax cuts during the 12 months beginning next Oct. 1. Reagan wants $54 billion.

"The collective effect of these cuts is focused most directly on people earning between $20,000 and $50,000," Rostenkowski said of his plan. "This segment of the workforce makes up 43 percent of all taxpayers — and pays 50 percent of all individual taxes."

Fifty-two percent of the individual tax relief in Reagan's bill would go to the $20,000-$50,000 bracket.

However, because Rostenkowski presented only the broad outlines of his proposal, it is impossible to compare how a typical taxpayer would fare under the two tax reductions.

Rostenkowski said a multiyear tax cut designed to give taxpayers something on which to base spending and savings decision is too risky, with inflation running at 12 percent.

Nondrinker felled by hepatitis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two months ago I started having nausea and just didn't feel good. Then I started turning yellow. First my eyes turned yellow then my skin started getting yellow, too. The doctor put me in the hospital and said I had jaundice. My liver was causing it. He said I have hepatitis. I have had friends who had jaundice from gallstones but I don't have any stones. And I have never drunk a drop of liquor in my life. I'm still tired and worried. What really caused my jaundice since I don't drink? If you have any information on the liver, I would appreciate receiving it.

DEAR READER — Jaundice is caused by an excessive accumulation of bile pigments. These pigments really come from the iron pigment in your red blood cells. There are three main ways to develop jaundice. Hemolytic jaundice, an excessive destruction of red blood cells, will release more pigment than the liver can process. It is seen with some forms of anemia.

Drainage of bile from the liver into the intestine can be blocked. That is usually caused by a stone in the duct or from inflammation of the tiny bile ducts within the liver. Or it can occur with a tumor blocking the bile duct.

Whenever the liver is damaged, as from hepatitis, it may not be able to process the normal amount of red blood cell pigment and jaundice follows. That is apparently what your doctor believes you have. Cirrhosis of the liver may not cause jaundice until the liver is damaged enough to cause this effect.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-8, Living with Your Liver, to give you a better idea about how your liver works and what can happen to it. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Alcohol is damaging to the liver but you can develop liver damage even if you have never had any alcohol in your entire life. Regardless of the cause of liver damage, anyone with a liver ailment should never drink any alcoholic beverages whatsoever.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My family is taking generics for several drugs. Are they as safe and effective as the original drug? We use furosemide for Lasix, cimetidine for Tagament and acetaminophen for Tylenol. These are just a few examples. In some cases the price for the original drug is three times the cost of the generics.

DEAR READER — A generic is the same as the trade name drug. Lasix is furosemide. Tagament is cimetidine and Tylenol is acetaminophen. Therefore, it is like asking if sugar is better or worse than sugar.

There may be instances where a medicine has higher quality because of its purity and the standards of the manufacturer. You might run into this for insulin that is obtained from various sources and may soon be available as insulin manufactured by bacteria.

I would suggest that patients ask their doctor if he can prescribe a generic to help them save money. If there is a reason in your particular case why he thinks that is not wise he would then say so.

If Reagan Has His Way...

Farm Legislation May Divorce Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress accepts the Reagan administration's strategy, farm legislation would be divorced from food stamps for the first time in eight years.

The strategy was made clear Thursday when, after weeks of delay, the administration's farm bill finally reached Capitol Hill. It did not include a provision for food stamps.

Agriculture Department officials said a food stamp bill would be sent to Congress later. It has been known for some time that the administration's primary aim in new food stamp legislation is to curb rising federal costs.

The four-year farm bill initially was supposed to go to Congress on March 24 but was delayed until the finishing touches had been approved by the Office of Management and Budget.

The administration also wanted to give Congress an opportunity to complete legislation to skip an automatic increase in dairy price supports that had been scheduled for April 1. That measure passed overwhelmingly.

For soybeans, wheat, corn and other feed grains as well as rice, the Reagan farm bill would give the agriculture secretary almost unprecedented leeway in setting rates for price support loans for specific commodities.

For cotton and peanuts, the bill prescribes formulas or price guidelines that are more specific than for some other crops, but still falls short of the existing law's detailed loan rates for various commodities.

The loan rates under existing law represent how much money farmers can borrow from the government by using their crops as collateral. The normal practice, when market prices remain above the loan rate, is for farmers to either repay the loans and sell their products for cash, or to use them.

An analysis by the Agriculture Department says loan operations for major grain crops would be carried out "at such levels as the secretary determines to be appropriate, taking into consideration costs of production, supply and demand conditions, and world market prices."

Some major farm organizations and commodity groups have objected to the wide latitude the agriculture secretary would have under the administration plan and have urged that the legislation be more specific.

The House and Senate Agriculture committees are working on their own versions of general farm legislation to succeed the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977, which expires in 1981.

The statutory deadline for committees to report final bills is May 15.

Ellen Haas, director of consumer affairs for the Community Nutrition Institute, a non-profit public interest group, said the administration's separation of food stamps from the farm bill "is certainly an indication that they're turning their back on a large constituency of the food and agricultural system."

Plans for a European economic federation were drafted in 1952 by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. As a result, the European Economic Community, also known as the Common Market, came into being Jan. 1, 1958, and by the end of 1961 six members of the European Free Trade Association had asked for membership.

Reagan Plan In Limbo...

Congress Headed For 2 Week Recess Today

CLIFF HAAS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress headed for a two-week recess today, leaving President Reagan's economic package in limbo: rejected for its deficits by a Republican-dominated committee in the Senate and spurned for a Democratic alternative by budget writers in the House.

"We'll just let everybody see how they feel in two weeks," a disappointed Senate Budget Committee Chairman Peter V. Domenici, R-N.M., said late Thursday after the panel voted 12-9 to reject an economic blueprint drawn to the administration's specifications.

Congress was to begin its Easter recess today and return April 27.

The defeat in the Senate committee was a stunning setback for Reagan. Until then, Republicans had stuck with the president as the panel endorsed various parts of the plan.

Once the package was put together, however, it fell apart. Three Republicans declared the budget deficits too large and joined nine Democrats who didn't like Reagan's three-year tax cut in rejecting it.

Ed Dale, a spokesman for the White House Office of Management and Budget, said, "There is concern about the vote, but it's not irretrievable. We plan to continue to work with the Senate leadership on this."

In the House Budget Committee, meanwhile, majority Democrats pushed their own economic plan, including a one-year tax cut instead of Reagan's three-year package, a balanced budget in 1983 instead of 1984 and more spending on social programs than the administration recommends.

The vote was a virtually party-line 17-13 on the $714.5 billion budget for next year with a $25.6 billion deficit.

All 12 committee Republicans and Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, voted against it, but Republicans insisted they would have enough support from conservative Democrats on the House floor to pass a revised administration package.

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, ranking Republican on the committee, and Gramm, a conservative Democrat, offered a fresh budget proposal that both said was constructed with the blessing of David A. Stockman, the president's budget director.

Democrats only have a 51-vote majority in the House and significant defections by the 44 members of the Conservative Democratic Forum could give Republicans the upper hand.

The substitute drawn up by House Republicans calls for spending $689.2 billion next year with a $38.9 billion deficit. It predicts a modest surplus in 1984, Reagan's target year for balancing the budget.

The Senate panel endorsed Reagan's call for a three-year, 30 percent cut in individual taxes and a host of reductions throughout government, but the committee staff concluded that there still would be a budget deficit of $53.8 billion next year and $44.7 billion in 1984.

Latest Slaying Leaves Clues In Child Killings

ATLANTA (AP) — The discovery of a retarded man's body in an abandoned building has given police "all kinds of fingerprints" to work with in the unsolved deaths of 23 young Atlanta blacks.

The body of Larry Rogers, a 20-year-old who looked like a teen-ager, was found Thursday in an apartment complex less than a mile from his home. He had been missing since March 30.

"We've got all kinds of fingerprints," state crime lab Director Larry Howard said Thursday night. "But the question is, who do they belong to?"

Medical officials were conducting an autopsy today to determine how Rogers died. Fulton County Medical Examiner Robert Stivers said the body bore no gunshot wounds, stab wounds or other obvious external injuries.

The body was partially decomposed, Stivers said, indicating Rogers was killed within days of March 30, when he was seen climbing into a faded green station wagon driven by a lone black man.

Stivers said authorities went over the abandoned building "inch by inch," collecting anything that might prove important. It will be several days before investigators will be able to determine the importance of any of the material, he said.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown refused to discuss possible new evidence when he announced the identity of the body.

Brown would say only that the crime lab, the medical examiners' office and the special 90-member police task force assigned to investigate the slayings and two disappearances would be evaluating the evidence in the coming days.

Field events are slated to start the show at 9, followed by preliminary running events at 9:30. Running finals are expected to start at 2 p.m.

Could Gain Big Edge In 2-4A...

Tigers Aiming At AHS

ANDREWS -- Coach Albert Lewis can move a step closer towards gathering a fifth consecutive district baseball championship with a victory over the Andrews Mustangs here tonight.

The game pits the two loop leaders, 3-0 Snyder and 3-1 Andrews, in a major District 2-AAAA confrontation at 7:30.

Snyder could wrap up at least a tie for the first-round conference title with a win tonight. Losses by Odessa Ector, Monahans and Pecos left the rest of the loop with at least two district defeats each Tuesday.

The Tigers have two more 2-4A games left on the first-round schedule; at home against Pecos on April 21 and at Lamesa on April 24.

"We could assure ourselves of a tie with a win," confirmed Lewis, who indicated he will start left-hander Gerald Don Hicks this evening. "We'd be in pretty good shape for the first round then."

Snyder is in decent shape anyway, when considering Pecos is 1-2 in district and 4-15 on the season and Lamesa is 0-3 and 2-12. But Lewis is skeptical of those records.

"No, you can't look at it that way," he stressed. "They haven't done real well so far, but that doesn't mean they're not capable. There's nothing guaranteed in this."

Also working in Snyder's favor is the fact that Andrews must face Snyder tonight and travel to Odessa next Tuesday.

"Andrews may be one of the best teams in the district, but they're going to have trouble getting by us and Ector both," Lewis said. "But what we want to do is win tomorrow (tonight) and make sure we win one of the next two. If we do that, we've got the first round sewed up no matter what happens the second half."

In other 2-4A games today, Fort Stockton is at Lamesa, Monahans is at Pecos and Ector plays non-district opponent Seminole in Seminole.

Rangers Tumble To Yanks; Dodgers Shut Out Houston

NEW YORK (AP) - It was a baseball fairy tale acted out in front of 55,123 fans - the largest opening day crowd in the 58-year history of Yankee Stadium - and Bobby Murcer turned out to be Cinderella.

Murcer responded to a standing ovation from the record stadium crowd Thursday by walloping a dramatic pinch-hit, grand slam homer in the New York Yankees 10-3 rout of the Texas Rangers.

The fans saluted the veteran with a roar for old times sake when he came up to bat in the seventh.

The count went to 3-2 - just like in the fairy tales - and Murcer connected for the sixth grand slam of his career and fourth as a Yankee. The roar of the fans was a factor, he said.

Until Murcer connected, the Yankees were hanging onto a 5-3 lead, built on a three-run homer by Bucky Dent and a two-run double by Rick Cerone.

Meanwhile, in dire straits for a starter in their 1981 major league opener Thursday, the Dodgers called on a portly left-hander, 20 and the youngest player on major league rosters, to pitch against Houston's Astros.

Fernando Valenzuela, the kid from Navajoa, Sonora, Mexico, who doesn't speak English, shut down the Astros on five hits, 2-0, using an effective screwball at least half of the time. In 10 relief appearances last year and this single start, he hasn't given up an earned run in 26⅔ innings.

Greenes Win Tournament

Carolyn and John Greene were first place winners in a Women's Golf Association sponsored couples tournament, held last weekend. Play for the tourney was "2-Man Scramble"; handicap one-fourth team handicap.

The Greene's fired a 60 net to win the event. Second place winners were Duane and Nancy Richard with a 62. Four teams tied for third with 63s. They were Bear Hardin and Pat Gallagher, Bob and Bobby Hargrove, David and Norma Thompson and Joe Michie and Becky Knipe.

Twenty-three teams participated.

NBA Playoffs Continue; San Antonio At Houston

by The Associated Press

The homecourt has been anything but an advantage in the National Basketball Association playoffs, with visiting teams winning 11 of the 18 games played so far.

In the East, Boston is at Chicago and Philadelphia at Milwaukee, while in the West, Kansas City is at Phoenix and San Antonio at Houston. Boston holds a 2-0 lead while the other three series are tied 1-1.

Chicago tried to slow the tempo in its first two games at Boston, but the Celtics' running game foiled that plan. So Bulls Coach Jerry Sloan is going to try a change in tactics tonight.

Sloan is hopeful that by picking up the pace, the Bulls will be able to put more pressure on the Celtics and disrupt their attack. But Boston's game is running, so any speedup by Chicago will be a calculated risk -- but one the Bulls feel they have to take.

Milwaukee and Philadelphia both ran in their opener, won by the 76ers 125-122, but the Bucks came back to take the second game 109-99.

The Kansas City Kings are still riding high following an 88-83 shocker at Phoenix Wednesday night. That upset came even though the Kings were without their two outstanding guards, Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong, and had been beaten by 22 points in the series opener.

Birdsong, who severely sprained an ankle Tuesday night, is out for the remainder of this series. Ford, who has been sidelined with blurred vision since suffering an eye injury Feb. 22, is a day-to-day proposition. "We won't know about Phil until gametime," said Fitzsimmons, who insists he will not let Ford suit up until his vision is perfectly cleared.

Houston, which upset defending champion Los Angeles in the mini-series, will try to slow down the tempo against San Antonio.

Four Tied At Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Curtis Strange, Johnny Miller, Lon Hinkle and Greg Norman fired 3-under par 69s to tie for the first-round lead in the 45th Masters Golf Tournament.

Jack Nicklaus was in a logjam at 70 with Jim Simons, Japan's Isao Aoki, David Graham, John Cook, low amateur Jim Holtgrieve and Green.

A&M Signs JC Talent; TCU Adds More, Too

by The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies and Texas Christian Horned Frogs each signed promising basketball players to national letters of intent Thursday.

The Aggies signed 6-8 Lonniel Bluntson and 6-6 August "Sonny" Burton, stars who led Blinn Junior College to a 26-6 record and a spot in the finals of the National Junior Collegiate Athletic Association regional tournament in New Orleans.

Bluntson averaged 21 points and 10 rebounds per game while Burton will bring a 16 point scoring average and 7 rebounds per game to Coach Shelby Metcalf.

Bluntson went to high school at Rice Consolidated and Burton attended Waelder High School.

The Horned Frogs signed highly regarded 6-5 forward Willie Ashley of Fort Worth Dunbar, who averaged 16 points and 14 rebounds per game. He was the Tarrant County Player of the Year.

TCU also signed Joe Stephen, a 6-4 guard from Cerritos (Calif.) Junior College. Stephen averaged 14.8 points per game in a play-making role.

Caulkins Smashes Own Record

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Tracy Caulkins smashed her own American record in the women's 400-yard individual medley, her second record-shattering performance in a row at the U.S. Indoor Swimming Championships.

Caulkins' time of four minutes, 4.63 seconds surpassed her own American standard by 3½ seconds.
