L. H. Clark Dies Late Sunday Nite; Funeral Tuesday

Lewis Henry Clark, aged 50 years, died at a local hospital late Sunday night, from injuries received when he was kicked by a horse. Mr. Clark was doctoring horses at his farm in the O. K. community Friday afternoon, when a horse kicked him in the stomach. He was rushed to a local hospital where an operation was performed, but his injuries were so serious, no hope was given for his recovery.

Mr. Clark had made his home in the O. K. community since 1922. He was a member of the Baptist Church, having joined in 1917.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, November 3, at the First Baptist Church in O'Donnell with Rev. E. F. Cole, Lamesa and Rev. S. E. Brian officiating. Burial will be made in the O'Donnell Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Clara Frances Clark; one brother, A. B. Clark, Lamesa; children, Mrs. W. T. Snellgrove, O'Donnell; L. G. Clark, Lamesa; Mrs. G. E. Vestal, Lamesa; and Bobbie Roy Clark, Bennie Wayne Clark, and Patsie Audene Clark, all of Lamesa; and two grandchildren.

Ducks Plentiful As Season Opens

Texas duck hunters, swinging into action Monday, Nov. 2 will find plenty of good shooting if this picture, taken near Eagle Lake in Colorado County, is any criterion.

Junior Red Cross Drives Scheduled For November 1

A membership campaign for the American Junior Red Cross is being organized in Dawson County under the direction of Miss Jerry Smart, local teacher. The campaign is planned as a celebration of the founding of the junior organization twenty-five years ago by President Woodrow Wilson who issued the proclamation giving the boys and girls an opportunity to share the duties and responsibilities of services essential toward winning the war.

Objectives of the Junior Red Cross were then, and are now, the following.

1. To develop social consciousness.
2. To guide humanitarian tendencies.
3. To give practice in assuming social and civic responsibility.
4. To teach the social aspects of positive health-physical, mental, and emotional fitness.
5. To promote world understanding.

The campaign will be carried to every rural school in the county and it is hoped that all school children will become a member.

Girl Scouts To Sell Bonds And Stamps Saturday

Special booths will be placed on the streets of Lamesa next Saturday for the selling of war bonds and stamps. The booths will be presided over by Girl Scouts from the local troops.

It is understood that Dawson County is behind in the buying of Bonds and Stamps, and these special booths placed about the city next Saturday is hoped to encourage the public and remind that they must buy more bonds and stamps.

Blanks For Gas Rationing Will Be Available Soon

Blank application forms for securing gasoline rationing books, have arrived at the local War Price and Rationing Board, and will be available to the public as soon as the Gasoline Rationing Board is set up.

Every automobile or truck owner, as well as persons who use gasoline for other purposes will be required to fill out one of these application forms, and then take the same to school house on the rationing dates, which have been set for November 12, 13, and 14.

Notice To Courier Patrons

If for any reason you fail to get your paper you are urged to call the Courier Office before the noon hour on Tuesday and Friday of each week. A paper will be delivered promptly to your house upon receipt of complaint. The Courier is delivered in town by carrier boy on Monday and Tuesday. Call us for better service.

Local Citizens To Vote In General Election Tuesday

Dawson County citizens will go to the polls and vote in the general election tomorrow, Tuesday, November 3. Voting will be carried on at the eighteen voting boxes in the county.

Only a few absentee ballots have been sent out and it is thought that the voting in the county will be light.

The ballot carries the usual five columns, the first one for the Democratic party members, the second for Republicans, and the third for the People's Unity party, and the fourth for Independents and the fifth is a write-in column.

Five constitutional amendment proposals appear at the bottom of the ballot, and a voting space.

Some Types Farm Machinery Now Are Exempt

Certain types of new farm machinery, plus attachments, having a retail value of $25 or less are exempt from the farm machinery rationing program and may be purchased without certification.

Previous to the amendment on Group B machinery, certifications from farmers to dealers were necessary before purchase could be made, according to B. F. Vance, chairman, Texas USDA War Board.

Also included under the new amendment are all hand operated and one and two horse drawn farm machinery and equipment, such as plows and combination corn and cotton planters, he said.

Set in operation several weeks ago, the aim of farm machinery rationing is to route limited farm machinery into channels where maximum contribution will be made to agricultural wartime production.

Divided into three groups, Group A machinery, which includes scarce items, require certificates from county machinery rationing committees before purchases may be made. Group B machinery, which

County Ginned 20,387 Bales Prior To October 18th

A report from the Department of Commerce shows that Dawson County has ginned 20,387 bales of cotton from the crop of 1942 prior to October 18, as compared with 5363 bales for the crop of 1941. This report comes from R. S. Stanfield, special agent.

ENSIGN ROBERT DIXIE KILGORE VISITS HIS PARENTS HERE

Ensign Robert Dixie Kilgore arrived Saturday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dixie Kilgore. Ensign Kilgore has been in training at Notre Dame, and at Northwestern University at Chicago. He will visit here until November 9 and will then report at San Diego, California.

MRS. RALPH FRY RETURNS FROM TEMPLE

Mrs. Ralph Fry, who has spent the past several weeks in Temple where she has received medical treatment returned home Friday. Mrs. Fry was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Alpha Dugger, who has been with her.

ON HUNTING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Crawford and family are spending this week hunting in New Mexico, and will visit relatives at Hachita, N. M.

includes items less scarce, may be purchased upon certification from the farmer to the dealer that the equipment is needed for current production.

Other less essential items fall into Group C and may be purchased without certification, Vance explained.

Frances Sebren Dies Sunday

Nettie Frances Sebren, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Sebren passed away at a local hospital early Sunday morning, November 1. Funeral services were conducted at the Higginbotham Chapel Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. with Rev. E. F. Cole officiating.

Survivors are the parents and one brother, Freddie Hugh, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Norris, Lamesa, and L. H. Sebren, Zwalle, La.

Procedure Given For Gas Rationing Registration

FOR WORTH, Oct. 29 (AP) — Two weeks from today gasoline rationing registration begins.

Here's what the state OPA director, Mark McGee says you'll be expected to do:

On Nov. 12, 13 or 14 go to your designated public school to apply for your ration book. The average driver will receive an A-book giving sufficient gasoline for about 240 miles

OPA OFFICIAL TO TALK TO RATION BOARDS TUESDAY

An important meeting will be held in the District Court Room Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time a representative from the Fort Worth office of Price Administration will explain the coming mileage rationing.

All members of the ration boards, various transportation committee, city, county and school officials and all paid board clerks are to be present. Detailed instructions will be outlined so that local officials will be prepared to begin the gasoline rationing.

Helps Keep 'Em Flying

Miss Adeline Mazzara's knowledge of watches is being utilized by the Army in keeping multi-motored planes in the air. A watchmaker before the war, Miss Mazzara is shown adjusting a delicate piece of mechanism at Ellington Field, Texas. She is a native of Beaumont and formerly lived in Galveston.

Santa Fe Railway Aiding Newspaper Scrap Metal Drive

The Santa Fe Railway deserves credit for its efforts to support the national newspaper scrap iron and steel campaign with its current and timely advertising urging all to get this needed scrap into proper hands "before the snow flies."

The Railway has been keenly alive to the nation's need for this metal since Pearl Harbor. In fact, since the Harbor horror the Santa Fe has collected 210,716,000 pounds of the now precious metal for conversion into essential war materials. That is a huge heap for any scrap but it is the kind that will beat the Jap and our other foes. It was collected from right-of-way, roundhouses, shops, offices and all company properties.

With its own job well in hand the Santa Fe now turns to aiding the nationwide newspaper campaign to dig up every bit of scrap possible to help our Nation and our fighting men.

As a member of the newspaper fraternity of the United States, sponsoring this patriotic campaign, we welcome the Santa Fe's help in spurring collection of vital metals, and with the Santa Fe, urge all—to get in the scrap "before the snow flies."

4-H Club Girls Achieve Goals In Big Way

More than 38,000 Texas 4-H Club girls will lay the results of their year's work on the line for inspection during National 4-H Achievement Week, November 7 to 14.

Their aims, says Onah Jacks, state girls' club agent for the A. and M. College Extension Service, was expressed in the Victory Demonstrator's pledge, and 25,000 of them tried to live by it.

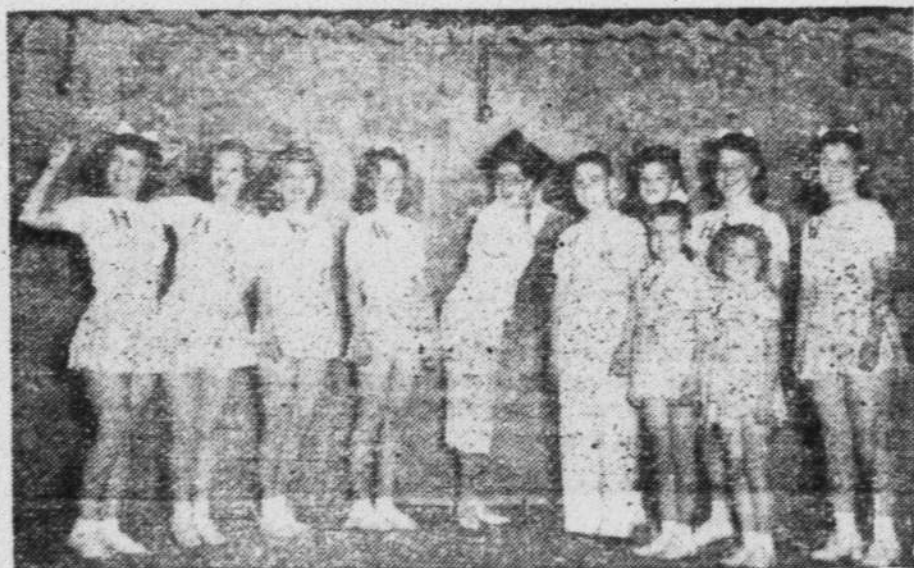

According to Miss Jacks, the major effort of Texas 4-H Club girls was production of food. They took greater interest in controlling garden insects and as a consequence increased food production in some places by 25 per cent without corresponding outlay for land, seed and water. A total of 1,782,856 quarts of food were put up by 4-H Club girls through September. In some counties they used a type of neighborhood leader plan of their own for helping all of the people of a community in economical production of food.

More than 24,000 club members did field work during the year. They drove tractors, plowed and planted with teams, hauled cotton, grain, fruit, vegetables and other crops to tened and placed where it will not rust.

Citing hay deficient areas, stockyards and Army remount stations as the three largest consumers of baled hay, Vance pointed to the necessity of their taking particular pains in salvaging baling wire for re-use.

Conserve Your Old Baling Wire

If this year's baling wire is not conserved and put into re-use, many Texas farmers will not be able to buy baled hay in 1943. B. F. Vance, chairman, Texas USDA War Board, said this week.

According to present indications, only a fraction of a normal year's wire supply will be produced for next year, he said.

"This year our baling wire production was nearly 50 percent greater than in normal times but at that shortages existed in many areas," Vance said in pointing to the necessity of conserving wire.

To conserve wire, farmers should cut as close to the tire as possible and later the wire should be straight-

Bridge To Go Into Scrap Heap

Wildecat Bridge which spans the Brazos River six miles west of Calvert will be demolished by Third Army Engineers to provide steel for the nation's war effort. The abandoned span is 200 feet long and is owned by Robertson and Milam counties. The engineering operations will be conducted under conditions similar to those likely to be encountered in military combat.

market, and worked in dairies. Nearly 5,000 cared for and repaired farm machinery. Many assumed more house work, care of gardens, chickens and cows to enable older members of families more time for work in the fields. About 29,000 girls took the responsibility for the care and repair of home equipment, clothing and house furnishings.

In scrap collection Texas club girls turned in 7,913,274 pounds of metal; 1,189,612 pounds of paper, burlap and rags; 1,036,580 pounds of rubber, and bought $197,193 worth of War Bonds and Stamps. About 4,500 took first aid and home nursing courses, and more than 13,000 are cooperating in some type of war or defense work.

Alaskan Highway Open To Traffic Ahead of Schedule

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP) — The entire Alaskan highway now is open to traffic. Secretary of War Stimson announced today, weeks ahead of schedule.

Motor trucks started this week moving supplies and equipment to the garrisons in the North Pacific outpost, using the entire 1,671 miles of the roadway, the secretary told his press conference.

"Thousands of trucks will operate over the route all winter, carrying soldiers and supplies to Alaska," Stimson said. "Plans are underway to bring loads of strategic materials on their return."

Formal Opening Nov. 15
The formal opening has been advanced tentatively to November 15, instead of December 1. Ceremonies are planned for a point on the Alaskan-Canadian border.

Stimson also announced: A second and larger training school for the WAAC's will be opened December 1 at Daytona Beach, Fla. Hotels and apartments to be taken over by the Army will provide facilities for more than 6,000 trainees. In temporary command will be Colonel Don C. Faith, now commandant at the original center at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Farmer-Executive Heads ACAA

M. Clifford Townsend, who says he'll "always be a farmer," is the new administrator of the Agricultural Conservation and Adjustment Administration. The former Governor of Indiana is contributing his full share to wartime farm production on his farm near Marion, Indiana, which he and his son, Max, operate in partnership. This year the farm will produce twice as much corn and twice as many hogs as in 1941, plus a huge crop of soybeans and an increased number of twice-sheared sheep. Townsend is shown here (a) at the wheel of his tractor, (b) examining his soybean crop with his son, (c) at his desk in Washington, D. C.

Changes To Be Announced

Changes soon will be announced in the Army Specialist corps, set up shortly after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Major General Dwight F. Davis organized the corps to make use of the services of men unable to meet all Army requirements for combat service.

Stimson told an inquirer that criticism of Davis and his staff was "wholly unjustified." He said the changes already had been initiated by the corps and were based on experience but did not disclose their nature.

Although the corps has received upwards of 300,000 applications, only approximately 1,300 appointments have been made thus far, Stimson said, and added that the organization "has been facing certain insuperable difficulties, but has done valuable work."

BEHIND THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31

Pending some further rift in the news blackout that covers sea phases of the battle of the Solomons it would be futile to attempt to assess its trends.

It appears to be agreed in press discussions of the meager reports furnished by the Navy, however, that the enemy enjoys a quantitative but not a qualitative advantage both at sea and on Guadalcanal Island.

It would be difficult in the light of both Navy outgivings and those from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, however, to concede the foe even quantitative air superiority in the Solomons. If Japan has rushed planes in force from China, Burma or elsewhere to the Solomons battle zone, they do not yet seem to have come into action effectively.

Available information does not indicate they have been able to match the American air effort either in numbers or range of action. Army-Marine success in beating off repeated Japanese attacks on Guadalcanal and quickly restoring any dent in the lines defending its vital air fields is in part traceable to that.

There is another factor on Guadalcanal tending to even actual battle odds ashore. The defenders, although cramped in an area roughly six miles or less square, have the advantage of short interior lines. Japanese communications with their reinforcement and supply beachhead, 10 miles westward along the island coast, are not good.

Must Protect Lines

A substantial portion of the total force available on the island to the enemy commander must be continuously engaged along those supply lines. That is particularly true of the southern face of the American defense front. To get men, guns, ammunition and food to that zone promptly in order to exploit a wedge forced into the American front before reserves come up to pinch it off is a difficult job.

There are no roads available to the foe, only jungle trails. The terrain of the island except along the southeast coastal plain is studded with mountain peaks. Their volcanic origin makes for cliffs and dead-end gorges, all concealed from accurate survey by jungle growth.

The perimeter of the airfield held by the Americans is heavily overgrown. The whole terrain problem is so utterly inhospitable to tank attack that success in stemming the initial Japanese efforts to apply armored blitzkrieg technique to the problem is understandable.

Lack Air Domination

The foe has urgent need of air domination to supplement his indicated superiority in warcraft and men. While Henderson Field can be used by the Americans to launch attack planes, evacuate casualties, receive essential supplies and, possibly, personnel reinforcements by air, it must remain a tough nut for the Japanese to crack. Here greater numbers of ground troops is not enough. It would take an overwhelming enemy quantitative superiority, to be thrown in regardless of losses, to crush a determined American defense by weight of numbers alone.

It appears that either exigencies of the sea battle, in which planes are of primary importance both for scouting and for long-distance attack, have forced a concentration of Japanese naval air power at sea, regardless of the Guadalcanal situation, or that the Japanese can not replace air casualties fast enough to permit sustained bombing attack over the airfield. Quite likely both explanations have a bearing. It is also a fact that the rising tempo of Allies air attacks in China and Burma tends to pin enemy air strength to those theaters which otherwise might head southeastward.

Japan is beginning to pay the penalty for wide dispersion of forces too accomplish her conquest dreams. Recent London disclosure that heavy British battle craft and at least one aircraft carrier are now somewhere in the Indian Ocean is another factor. It must compel the keeping of similar Japanese naval units in that ocean when they are urgently needed in the Southwest Pacific.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1

Whatever other blows may be contemplated under the Allied "major decisions of strategy" which President Roosevelt mentioned in his Oct. 12 broadcast, they are an accomplished fact in the Pacific and Mediterranean theaters as October ends.

One such strategic decision "on which we are all agreed," Mr. Roosevelt said, related to the necessity of opening "new offensives against Germany and Japan" to divert their forces from Russia and China "to other theaters."

Diversion In Pacific

At the time he spoke the diversion effect on Japan of the American thrust in the Solomons was obvious but its scope undisclosed. It is clear that the Pacific action has forced the enemy to a major naval and air concentration southward in the Pacific, tending to relieve Russia of the threat of a Japanese attack and to divert Japanese air power from China and Burma.

The British offensive in Egypt seems to be another fulfillment of the President's forecast of diversion efforts. It has been in progress substantially only a week ashore. In the Mediterranean, by naval and air action, it has taken heavy toll of Axis supply shipping over a longer period, particularly of tankers. That gives reasonable ground for assuming that shortage of fuel to power his tank legions is gravely worrying the Axis commander, General Rommel.

The time element must be vital for Rommel at this stage. Successful Allied air disruption of his sea supply line could leave much of his armor stranded and many of his planes grounded for lack of fuel when the main battle is joined.

Affecting Russian Drive

To what extent the Egyptian second front is already compelling Hitler to scale down his air strength in Russia is as yet only conjecturable. There have been frequent Russian reports lately, however, that lack of adequate fuel reserves is beginning to show itself in Nazi operations in Russia, possibly due to redoubled efforts to fill Rommel's requirements in Africa before it is too late.

The Allied diversion program also is operating elsewhere. Anglo-American air attacks on Axis war targets from northern Italy to southern France form one phase. Another is to be found in American-British bomb attacks on the Japanese invaders in Burma and American long distance air raiding of Japan's critical supply sources and communication lines in China.

Sweetheart Packs 'Chutes

As a parachute packer at Randolph Field, Miss Maxine Robinson (left) sweetheart of the University of Texas three years ago, has found one means of striking back at the Axis. She was aboard the Athenia when the ship was torpedoed in September, 1939. Miss Robinson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. ## Sweetwater Wins Over Lamesa 32-6

Versatile Dugie Turner led the Sweetwater Mustangs to a 32-6 triumph over Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes here Friday night before a crowd of some 1,000 fans.

Turner, chief clerk in the Mustangs' running, passing and punting departments, scored three touchdowns and added two conversions, in addition to passing to End Jack Swain for another six-pointer.

The undermanned Tornado eleven badly outweighed by the big Sweetwater squad, fought the visitors stubbornly all the way in a battle that was much more bitterly contested than the score indicates.

Both teams opened up with their passing games, throwing 18 aerials apiece.

Sweetwater rolled to a total of 15 first downs to five for Lamesa.

The lone Tornado score came in the second quarter on a series of Reeves-thrown passes, with Wayne Roberts taking the last of four pitches in the end zone for a touchdown.

The Mustangs held a decided advantage on the ground, gaining a total of 310 yards to 30 for the losers.

Basque whalers are believed to have fished in Newfoundland waters in the 14th century.

Uncle Billy's Boy's In

Staff Sergeant Jack Disch (left) son of "Uncle Billy" Disch, who developed scores of major league baseball players and won a lot of championships at the University of Texas, now is making his "assists" for the Army Air forces at Randolph Field. Young Disch, a former second baseman, became a sergeant in less than a year after joining the army. Also working on the motor of the basic training plane is Technical Sergeant Clarence Potter of Autsin.

Employees of a power generating or transmission facility, public utility, transportation or communication facility, agricultural, extractive, industrial, military or naval establishment employing 100 or more workers will make supplemental application in person to the company's own transportation committee. The committee will carry it on from there.

All other applicants will mail or deliver their supplemental applications to their city board and go direct to an advisory transportation panel. If this application is approved, the driver is notified and may appear at the board and secure A, B, or C-ration book.

Commercial Operators

Commercial vehicle operators apply direct to their local boards as soon as possible after Nov. 14. They will receive T-books.

To secure rations for non-highway use of gasoline, applicants apply direct to the board for E or R-books.

Motorcycle owners, eligible for D-books, follow the same procedure as the average passenger car driver.

Operators of fleet passenger cars (three or more owned or leased by the same person or firm and used principally in connection with the same or related occupation) make application direct to their local boards.

Tire Inspection Report

As a part of the rubber conservation campaign for which gasoline rationing was inaugurated, the ration book holder will find attached to his book a tire inspection record.

Between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31, each A-card holder will be expected to have his tires inspected for cuts, abrasions, breaks, blisters and other conditions requiring repair. Inspectors also will look for evidence of improperly balanced or misaligned wheels, faulty brakes, bent rims and other faults causing excessive or spotty tire wear.

A-book holders must secure such inspections at official OPA stations each four months thereafter and must have fouts repaired. This also applies to D-rationed motorcycles. Cars traveling more than the basic A-book distance must be inspected each two months. Commercial cars each two months or 5,000 miles, whichever comes first.

Inspection Fee

For inspections where no tires are removed from wheels or rims, a fee of not more than 25 cents per vehicle may be charged.

When a tire has become unfit for recapping through no fault of the owner—old age, stretching, unavoidable blowouts the inspector may recommend a replacement. If the tire is suitable for recapping, the inspector will fill out a proper form which the owner will present immediately to his local board for recapping service.

On inspector's signature in the proper space in the ration book is necessary before gasoline may be purchased.

Hint to those who wish to get the jump on rationing: Tanks may be filled to the brim any time before 12:01 a. m. Nov. 22.

PARACHUTE INSPECTORS ARE CAREFULLY TRAINED

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A vital activity of the country's wartime aviation goes on unobtrusively here as classes of men and women learn to inspect, repair and pack parachutes. They are civilians who are paid $75 a month during a four-week training course and then given regular jobs.

The importance of each individual act in their work is accented by slogans such as this: "A mistake in a parachute is murder."

The commonest variety of whale oil is not an oil, but is classified as liquid wax.

Nephew In New Guinea Writes Local Woman

Mrs. J. A. Lynch, who resides in the Key Community brought the Courier the letter below, written by her nephew, Sgt. T. G. Elkins, who is "somewhere in New Guinea." Sgt. Elkins wrote the letter to his grandmother, Mrs. Martha Elkins.

Sept. 4, 1942
New Guinea.

Dear Grandmother:

Thought I would drop you a line and let you know that I'm getting along alright. Haven't been doing very much of anything but don't think it will last too long.

We're somewhere in New Guinea now and you should see these natives here. Don't believe you would care to meet any of them in the dark. They are really mean looking, but are plenty friendly. Just hope they stay that way for I'd hate to have one after me.

We haven't been here so awful long, but we're picking up their language fast. Have to do most of our talking with our hands. Dad should be over here for he's pretty good at that. (Ha).

How have you been getting along? Haven't had a letter from you in a good while now, but I'm hoping you're still feeling good.

Well, Granny, I can't think of anything else to write so will close now. Write when you can.

Love,

TOMMY.

Sept. 13, 1942

Well, our mail hasn't gone off yet so will try and write a little more. Our connection for sending mail isn't so good right now, but I think they will improve in a few days. We're hoping they do anyway. Haven't had a letter in nearly a month now. Sure would enjoy getting a few; some are due in most any time now so it won't be long.

I'm still feeling good and holding most of my weight. Been eating some wild game here the last few days, deer and wild hog; sure was good. Wish you could have cooked it for us. Had some barbecued beef the other night, but it was cooked too fast.

I couple of the boys from home and I went hunting the other day. Shot at a wild boar, but missed him. Glad I did, if it had just hurt him, things could gotten rough, already had me a tree spotted though. Wouldn't you have enjoyed seeing me go up one of these cocoanut trees? (Ha).

We drink lots of the juice from them. Wish you could taste some of it. There isn't any comparison in the green and ripe ones. The green ones are really good. You can get these natives here to kick you down 20 of them for a cigarette.

We've been buying chickens and eggs from them. Just a few of us get together and cook them over a wood fire. They're really better than you think they would be. We really enjoy it. First fried chicken I've eaten since we left home. People in Australia don't fry them.

Will quit now, don't know whether I can get to write again or not.

Goodnight.

'43 Cotton Bagging Plan Announced

About 88,000 bales of cotton will go into cotton-bagging-for-cotton-bales in 1943.

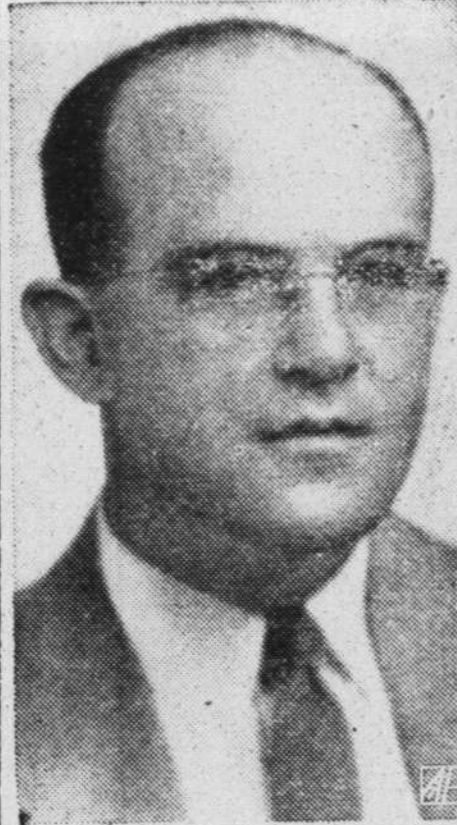

Under the new program, 8,000,000 bale covers will be manufactured for use in 1943 as compared to 4,000,000 patterns in 1942.

Purpose of the cotton-bagging-for-cotton-bales program is to stimulate development of news uses and new markets for domestic cotton.

Texas cotton farmers received a 7-pound per bale allowance for cotton wrapped in cotton patterns this year and doubtless will get the same consideration in 1943, according to Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer of the AAA in Texas.

The 7-pound allowance is the difference in weight of cotton patterns and jute wrappers, he said in pointing out that cotton patterns and ties of a 500-pound bale weight about 14

Subscribers Are Asked To Check Expiration Dates

Courier readers are asked to watch their expiration dates on their subscriptions in order that they not miss a single issue of their home town newspaper.

In other words, if the numbers following your name on your paper read 11-42, that means that your subscription will expire on November 1, 1942, and that unless you renew your subscription will be stopped at that time.

The subscription price of the Courier is now $2.00 per year in Dawson, Martin, Gaines, Borden and Lynn Counties, $1.25 for six months, or $3.00 for two years. The subscription price outside this territory is $3.00 per year.

Ten per cent of all mail for members of the American armed forces is incorrectly or insufficiently addressed.

Flying By Midnight Sun

Speaks Out

Spectator W. A. Braddock, 80, Austin, (above) interrupted E. B. Germany, retiring state executive committee chairman, in his speech before the state Democratic convention at Austin to inquire why Germany tried "to smear the name of one man" as Germany discussed campaign expenditures. Germany answered that his remarks were not aimed at any person. Braddock told reporters his father had fought for Texas at the battle of San Jacinto.

GOOD SHOW, BUT HE DIDN'T MEAN IT

MARION, O. (AP) — Sidney Brown, billed as a "fire eater" in a carnival, went to a hospital when his act went awry. While "swallowing" flames, Brown accidentally spilled gasoline on his shirt front. When the gasoline ignited he leaped from the platform and rolled on the ground. Spectators watched, thinking it was part of the act. The flames were extinguished, but Brown suffered burns about the face, head, hands and chest.

Local Draft Boards Warned to Respect Registrants' Right

AUSTIN, Oct. 29 (AP) — State Selective Service Director J. Watt Page today cautioned local draft boards on two counts — failure to advise registrants of their right of appeal and discourteous treatment of any registrant.

In an advisory Gen. Page said it has come to his attention that clerks of certain local boards were failing to advise registrants of appeal rights.

"In some instances they have informed the registrant that he could not appeal or that it would do no good to appeal or in other instances that he had no grounds for appeal," Gen. Page said.

He added that selective service regulations provided for an appeal agent for each board and it is the agent's duty not only to appeal from any local decision he thinks should be reviewed but also to inform registrants of their legal rights and assist them in appeals where it appears that such persons are ignorant of appellate machinery.

Board members and clerks are required to inform registrants that appeal agents' services are available to them with respect to all appeal matters.

"Sure" Of Appeal Action

The advisory continued: "I also have informed that registrants have been advised by selective service personnel as to what they are 'sure' the action of the appeal board would be on their appeal boards always agree with legal boards . . . .

"This is indeed regrettable and such statements should not be indulged in."

Cautioning against discourteous treatment of registrants he said:

Discourteous Treatment

"I regret to say that in some instances I have received bitter complaints concerning alleged discourteous treatment of registrants by the clerks of certain local boards. Registrants are citizen soldiers who are being called to fight for our country and they are entitled to every right

S. S. Nos. Should Be Changed When Women Marry

In commenting on the heavy increase in the number of marriages within the last year, Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring Social Security Board field office, said that many persons who have been issued social security account numbers have changed their names through marriage and have failed to notify the Social Security Board. "It is essential that when a woman marries and changes her name she notify the Board accordingly in order that we may make our records conform," Adams stated. "It thus prevents confusion and costly errors in recording her wages that could result if her employer reported her wages under her married name while the Board's records still showed her maiden name."

Any individual may apply at the Social Security Board office in the Petroleum Building for "a change in records" form but, he added, they should bring their account number cards with them. It is then possible to issue a new card immediately, showing the changed name under the same number. Women who apply for a "change in records" by mail should enclose the original card but should keep a record of the number until the new card is received. Adams also emphasized that the employer should likewise be informed of the change so that the name reported by him will be the same as shown on the corrected account number card.

The reporting of such corrections and changes is necessary in order that the Social Security Board may maintain accurate records at all times to assure prompt payment of old-age and survivors insurance claims, according to Adams, who stated that there is no charge for the correction of such records.

AMA Pays New Ceiling Price For Lard

OPA'S new ceiling should cause larger quantities of lard to flow into Lend-Lease channels, Emmett McBryde, Austin, AMA District Supervisor and member of the Texas USDA war board, announced this week.

Under a new program announced through the Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural Marketing Administration will buy lard for Government needs at a price not exceeding 14 1-2 cents per pound, f. o. b., Chicago basis.

"This new ceiling is one cent per pound higher than the AMA has been paying for lard," the war board member said.

Other foods which AMA purchases for Lend-Lease and other needs include, dried eggs, dried whole and evaporated milk, skimmed milk, meat products, cheese and canned processed cheese, concentrated orange and lemon juices, canned beans, tomatoes and peas, and canned tomato paste.

HAZEL BARKOWSKY ENTERS DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE

Miss Hazel Barkowsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Barkowsky of Ackerly entered Draughon's Business College in Lubbock, Texas, recently, where she is studying their combined business course. Miss Barkowsky is a graduate of Ackerly High School.

and consideration under the selective service law and regulations, as well as to every common courtesy, at all times.

"It is the duty of all agencies of the selective service system to see that they are accorded such rights. They should be received courteously and promptly given the information they are seeking and referred to the appeal agent when his services are required."

Get A Head Start On Next Years Gardening

Getting a "head start" on next year's vegetable garden is a good idea, especially for people who do not have thriving fall gardens.

Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning for the A. and M. College Extension Service, says there are a number of ways to prepare for successful spring gardens long before the seed catalogues begin to arrive.

First, the family should plan, Miss Camp says, and the garden should be part of the overall plan for the year's supply of food and feed. A guide to planning for the family's food and feed supply can be obtained from the offices of the county Extension Service agents. A family of five, for example, should plan to have at least a dozen kinds of vegetables, 20 bushels of potatoes, plus plenty of dried peas and beans, home-produced grain, berries, fruits, melons, and syrup. Seeds of most vegetables will be adequate for next year's gardens, Miss Camp says.

Second, gardeners can plant a winter cover crop on their garden plots to hold down the soil and increase fertility. This is especially important since nitrates will be scarce and only commercial growers will be entitled to commercial nitrogen. Cover crops planted this fall can be turned under early next spring to build up the soil.

Third, Miss Camp advises, start a compost heap containing autumn leaves, dead flowers, lawn clippings, table scraps. In the spring when the garden plot is plowed or spaded, the compost can be spread over the garden plot.

YANK IN EGYPT TO CALL ON HIS GRANDMOTHER

CAIRO (AP) — One day soon a 93-year-old lady here is going to have a pleasant surprise. Her grandson, who is a corporal rear-gunner on a United States Army Air Corps four-engine bomber, has arrived in the Middle East on duty, and now will be within furlough distance of his parents' old home. The corporal was born in the United States, but his parents emigrated from the Middle East forty years ago.

He was a theater manager in Santa Fe, and elected for the heavy bombardment group in the Air Corps. When he pays a visit to his ancestral home he should have no language difficulties, as he speaks Arabic fluently — he's the only man of his unit who can hold his own in the local bazaars.

Lets Eat More Sweet Potatoes

Mattie Phenix, County Home Demonstration Agent of Extension Service, Texas A. and M. College, says sweet potatoes are good and they furnish vitamin A in the diet. They are one of the low cost vegetables which all people may have. According to the Texas Food Standard, every person should have one serving of potatoes daily. This means either Irish or sweet. So as the fresh potatoes come in, the following recipes will be found very tasty:

FRILLED YAMS

Peel and cut baked or boiled yams in halves lengthwise. Dip in melted butter, sprinkle with salt, sugar and spices if desired. Brown in oven or on broiler or in a frying pan on top of stove. Serve hot with ham, sausage, bacon or chops.

YAM PUFFS

Use 4 large boiled yams, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup fruit juice. Mash yams, add beaten egg yolks, salt and fruit juice. Beat until fluffy. Fold in well-beaten egg whites. Pill in mounds on baking sheet and brown in oven or under broiler. The mounds may be placed on pineapple slices or on sausage cakes. This recipe serves 6.

GRATED YAM PUDDING

One pound yams grated raw; 1-2 cup syrup or honey; 2 eggs; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1-2 teaspoon salt; 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg; 1-2 teaspoon ginger; cup 2 sweet milk. Mix all these ingredients and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a slow oven one and one-half hours, stirring occasionally.

FURNITURE SALE

BONDS VS. FURNITURE

NOT 10% IN BONDS . . . BUT

100% IN BONDS

For our fall sale of furniture we want to make you this proposition: For every dollar taken in during this sale we are going to invest that dollar in United States War Bonds or Stamps

For every dollar collected on ALL accounts during this sale we are going to match the amounts paid with Bonds or Stamps or both.

You want to help your country . . . you also may need some furniture, possibly a bed room suite. It does not matter whether it is a suite or only a window shade, what ever the TOTAL SALE AMOUNT is, we promise you we will invest it in United States War Bonds.
