As I looked at all the stock show pictures in this week's paper I thought about the fact that many people who have been exposed to urban environments and cultures often seem out of touch with the sources of their food and its production. As a child, I marveled at the seed going into the ground and becoming a head of lettuce in a few weeks. There seems to be some talk of food safety and security and I hope that exposes people to some of the stories that go into food production and how we are all connected in the food chain.

a first hand experience that will give them a lifelong appreciation for the work that goes into animal husbandry and know how it relates to the packages of meat and produce that they will see in the stores and markets. It can be amusing for us who were reared in the rural areas to realize the confusion of someone who has known only city streets and stores and have no idea where their food comes from.

A black and white photograph of a young boy standing next to a large, light-colored dog, possibly a Great Dane, in front of a wooden fence. The boy is wearing a plaid shirt and jeans, and the dog is wearing a collar with a tag.

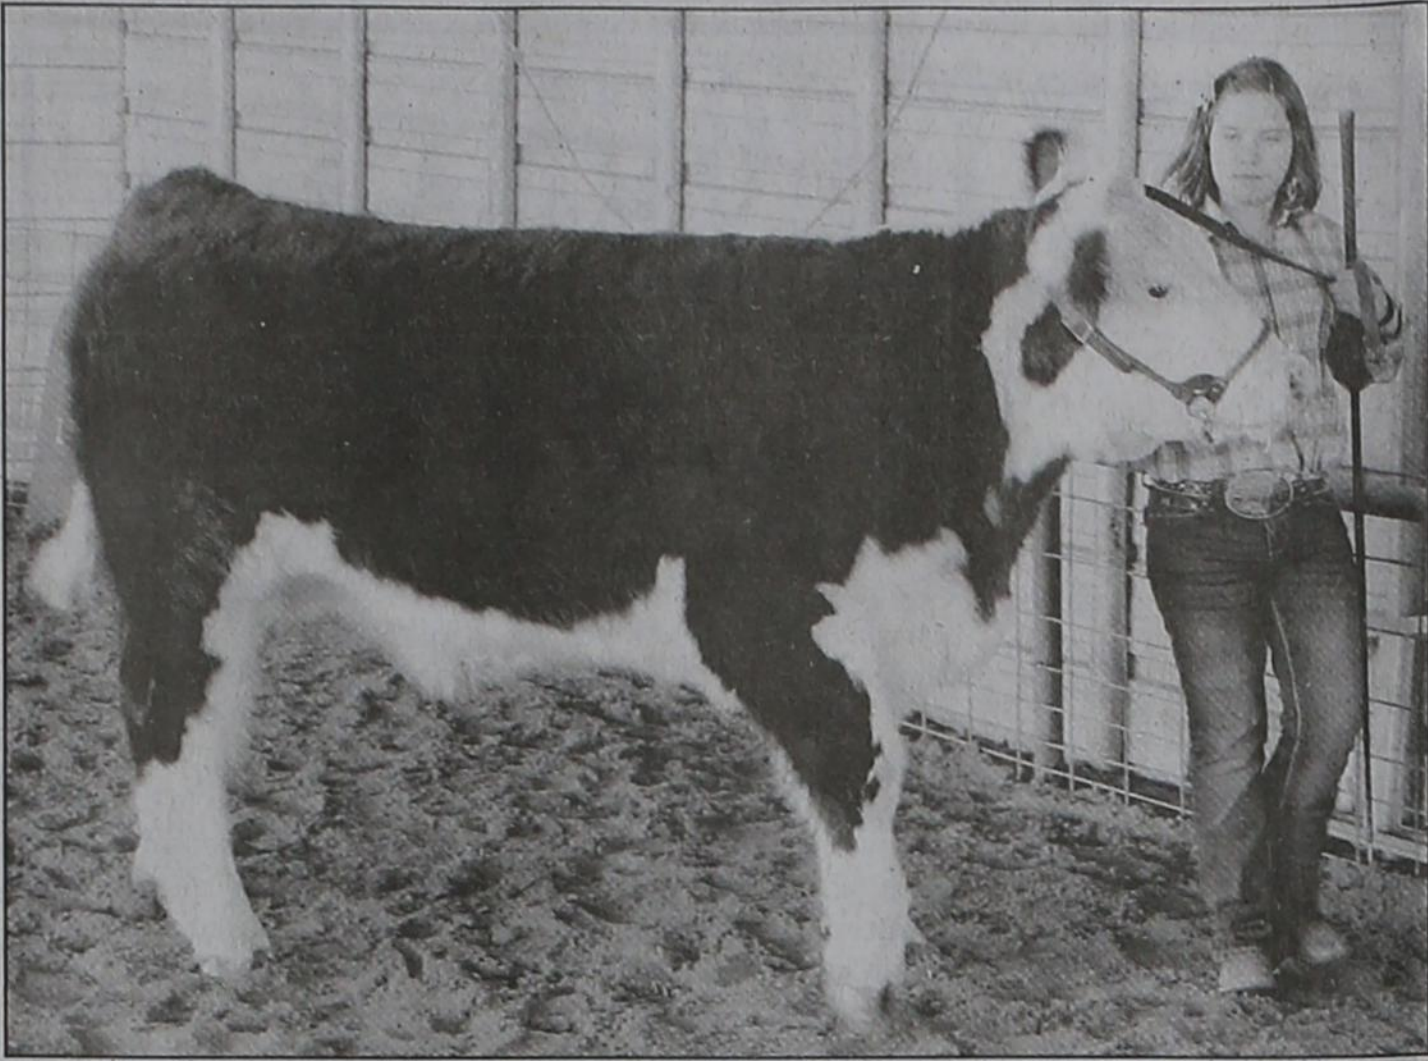

A black and white photograph of a young man standing next to a pig. The man is wearing a dark jacket and light-colored pants, holding a ribbon award. Behind him is a sign that reads "WILEY COUNTY LIVESTOCK SHOW" and a large swastika symbol. The pig is dark-colored with a white patch on its hindquarters.

"PRESSING ON"... IT'S BIBLICAL.

In our journey through this life, "pressing on" is sometimes difficult. We often have to make adjustments as we are faced with each new challenge. It is during these challenges that we find ourselves questioning the purpose of our lives. Our life has been described by some as "a journey from the cradle to the grave." The description is reasonable and helpful for now the concept of "pressing on" becomes easier to understand. There are times on our journey we sometimes find ourselves doing more "looking back" than "pressing on." During these times it would be good if we would give a little time to "old fashioned" Bible reading. Notice this reading:

The Apostle Paul helps us on our journey with instruction from Philippians 3: 13-14 "...But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal..." Paul gives us a clear destination. Remember our goal. That also is our destination. So whatever might be ahead we are not afraid to accept new challenges while maintaining sight of the goal.

Jesus has promised that He would be with us. There is our encouragement for "pressing on." The Author and Pioneer of our faith has charted our course and God has declared, "Never will I leave you: never will I forsake you." (Hebrews 13: 5). With that kind of help, I believe that I will "press on." How about you?

On a personal note

You know you are electronically challenged when you buy a new TV, bring it home and find it has to be programmed by someone who can understand the techie lingo. I see why they advertise a geek squad to come install it. Wasn't it easy when our TVs could be installed by plugging them in and connecting an antenna to 'rabbit ears' or to another larger antenna outside. Viola! You could get as many as five channels in the community where I lived. Now we have all these gizmos, microchips, remote controls, cable which we pay dearly for to get X many channels and have fewer decent programs to watch. That is not progress in my book. We are paying for a lot of trash hopefully we never watch!

To get a channel you really like, Golf, Home and Garden, or local channels you have to purchase package deals that include a lot of unwanted and unsavory programs. Wouldn't it be nice to be able to buy cable service with the few channels we really watch and drop the others? I personally think that the devil is in charge of the media now days and if he can see that we have mentally, morally and peace destroying programming he is dancing around with his fists raised yelling YES, now look what I have done!

Saying that, Kenneth Marshall came and got everything working except the DVD player which has never worked properly anyway. I don't think it is just because we are "so old," as my granddaughter Kenzie asked when we couldn't get her movies she always has to have when traveling to Roaring Springs.

Corky and I attended a birthday party at my son's home on Saturday evening honoring my daughter-in-law, Tracie's mom, Ernestine Mohon of Lubbock on her 60th birthday.

In the community

Roaring Springs has a new family: Scott, Chesle, Emery and Jaxon Raines. They bought Jeff Braselton's home. Welcome to Roaring Springs!

The Roaring Springs Lions Club will meet on Thursday, February 2. The meeting will be held at the Windmill Café at 11:30 a.m.

Ralph Roming was released from the Mangold Hospital in Lockney on Sunday after an eleven day stay battling respiratory problems.

Lorine Jordan is still having problems with a broken wrist.

Kenneth Ashley remains in the hospital near his children in California. He is being treated for problems with his leg.

Josh Elliott, son of Dinah and Ken Young will be going to New Zealand to speak at a conference next week. He will be able to see an old friend there and enjoy time with him.

Jennifer Lawler traveled to Kentucky to attend the wedding of DJ Saltigerald, son of Laverne Zabielski.

Matador News

I am sitting in the convention center in El Paso watching the people go by. I am eyeing a beautiful mirror that has a frame of porcupine quills, and the booth next to us has some very nice hand-crafted knives. There is camouflage clothing everywhere. This is the first of the Safari Club International shows for this spring. Randy has been contacting people all over, and I am going to try to make all of them that my partners will let me off to attend. We are overnighing with Sandy and Ray Pierce. They are the couple with whom we traveled to South Africa.

Thank you, thank you to my sister-in-law, D, for inn-sitting for the weekend. I understand that the guests have not only enjoyed some excellent food she prepared, but she has deep cleaned some areas. D is a generous person who is always willing to step up. We love her and are glad she came into our family.

At the meeting about the city birthday celebration there were enthusiastic people who are already working to make it quite a party. One of the things you need to be thinking about is what kind of float you and your family or group is going to prepare. Alvin Alexander is in charge of that part of the event and will take your entry information.

I'm sure there will be updates in the paper each week.

In town for the memorial service for Stan Hanesworth were Dorothy's sons John and David. John was accompanied by his wife and child. I loved the tribute to Stan that was in the paper last week - what an interesting life he led. We will all miss him.

Daisy Pippin from Amarillo is resting in our town for a couple of days. She thinks this will be a perfect place for some peace and quiet. John and Cloris Thurston, also from Amarillo, stayed with us on Saturday evening. Also stopping in on Saturday night were Butch Marshall and spouse from Wellington, Texas.

If you want to have a booth for food or merchandise during the Matador Birthday Celebration to be held from June 8-10 please call the hotel to reserve a space. This will be a great time to make some money for your group or to add to your Christmas savings account. Call us.

Terry Miller was conveyed by ambulance Tuesday night, January 24, to the Heart Hospital in Lubbock. He had surgery Wednesday.

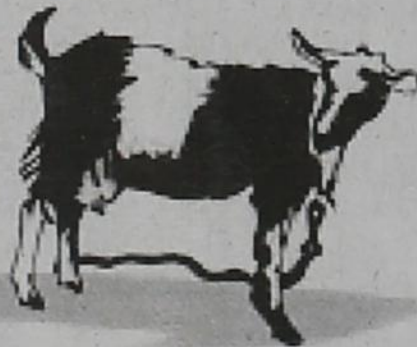

Attending the Memorial Service of Stan Hanesworth and visiting overnight in the home of Mrs. Winifred Darsey was her niece Patty (Pipkin) Alexander from Midland, Texas. Following from Midland, Carol and Lucretia Campbell enjoyed visiting, cake and coffee in the Darsey home.

We have received several donations for our Valentine Sweet-heart fundraiser. The hearts are hanging in our window with the names of those honored. It's not too late for you to get in on the fun and help the Library at the same time. Just make a donation of $3.00 or more and we will write the name of someone you love on a heart and hang it in our front window.

Speaking of Valentines, we will host a "Sweet Afternoon at the Library" on Thursday afternoon, February 9 at 4:00 p.m. All children, ages 3-12 are invited to attend. They will make a special Valentine, enjoy a "sweet" story time and a treat. This will be a fun event and we hope you'll bring your kids for a fun afternoon. The event is sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

We thank Joel and Debra Spray for their donation in memory of Darla Copeland, a sister to Mr. Bob Davis of Matador. We also received memorial donations from Mr. and Mrs. Skeet Jameson for Stan Hanesworth, Ann Seigler, and Butch Hughes. We appreciate donations more than we can tell you. Donations such as these help keep our Library in operation.

Some of you may have recently seen an advertisement on TV about the newly released movie, Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close, starring Tom Hanks. The movie is an adaptation of the 2005 novel by Jonathan Safran Foer. The book's narrator is a nine-year-old boy named Oskar Schell. Oskar is an intellectually curious, and sensitive child, possibly having Asperger syndrome. His father had died two years earlier on 9/11. He is a pacifist, a vegan, musician (he plays the tambourine), academically-inclined, and above all, earnest. Oskar wanders New York, searching for the meaning of a strange key he finds inside a blue vase in his father's closet. Two additional narrators, Oskar's paternal grandparents, tell the story of their childhood, courtship, marriage, and separation before the birth of Oskar's father; much of their story is presented as a series of letters addressed to Oskar or his father. Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close is available for check out at the Motley County Library.

We have a special shelf display with all our most recent arrivals. We also have a shelf for our "Reader's Recommendations". We always have these displays full of the great new books and DVD's or books on CD. So, if you're in need a good book or movie, stop by and check out what we have available.

Several people correctly identified our book for last week's quote. Alice in Wonderland is the classic tale from which the quote was taken. The names of those correctly identifying the title are placed in a drawing for a winner. Doris Moore will receive the prize this week.

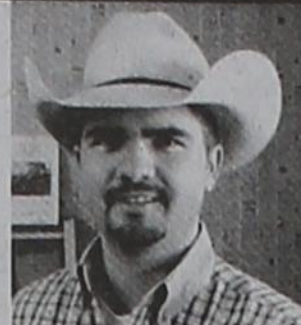

This quote is from another classic tale. "This particular piece of wood happened to live in a little carpentry shop owned by a Mr. Antonio, whose nose was so round and red and ripe-looking that some people called him Mr. Cherry. Mr. Antonio had big plans for that little piece of wood. He intended to turn it into a leg for his coffee table. But just as he raised his ax and was about to chop, he heard a tiny little voice say, "Oh please, not too hard!"

If you think you know the title of the book this quote comes from, give me a call at 347-2717 or email: motleycountylibrary@hotmail.com, or stop by the Library. You may win the prize!

Don't forget our Valentine Fundraiser! Library hours are Monday, 2-5 pm; Tuesday - Thursday, 1-6 pm and Friday, 9 am - 2 pm.

Feed-grains marketing workshop scheduled Feb. 8-9 in Amarillo

AMARILLO — The feed-grains market is in chaos, but a two-day workshop Feb. 8-9 might help producers have a better understanding of what is happening, said a Texas AgriLife Extension Service specialist.

"Changing supply and demand conditions, potential acreage shifts, U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission restrictions, the elimination of the ethanol tax credits/barriers, La Nina, the European debt crisis, among other things will make 2012 one of the most challenging marketing years for feed-grain producers," said Dr. Steve Amosson, AgriLife Extension economist and coordinator of the program.

The 2012 Feed-grains Workshop, which will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day, will be held at the Texas AgriLife Research and Extension Center-Amarillo, 6500 W. Amarillo Blvd.

"Producers attending can expect to get a better understanding of the fundamental and technical factors affecting the feed-grains market for the upcoming year," Amosson said. "The ultimate goal of the workshop is to develop a written marketing plan for the 2012 crop."

Attendees will look at projected impacts of ethanol production, feed use, exchange rates, price levels, weather concerns, industry issues and basis. In addition to the fundamentals, specific attention will be spent discussing the marketing tools that may best fit this year's marketing plan, including pros, cons, how and/or when to use them and potential implications to your credit line, he said.

"If producers just pick up one piece of information that helps them improve their marketing by a dime, that's equal to $10,000 on a section of corn production. I don't see how a producer can afford to miss this opportunity."

Amosson and Dr. Mark Welch, AgriLife Extension grain marketing specialist from College Station, will serve as the primary instructors. A panel of area lenders, brokers and grain merchandisers, as well as special guest analysts will provide additional insights into this year's markets.

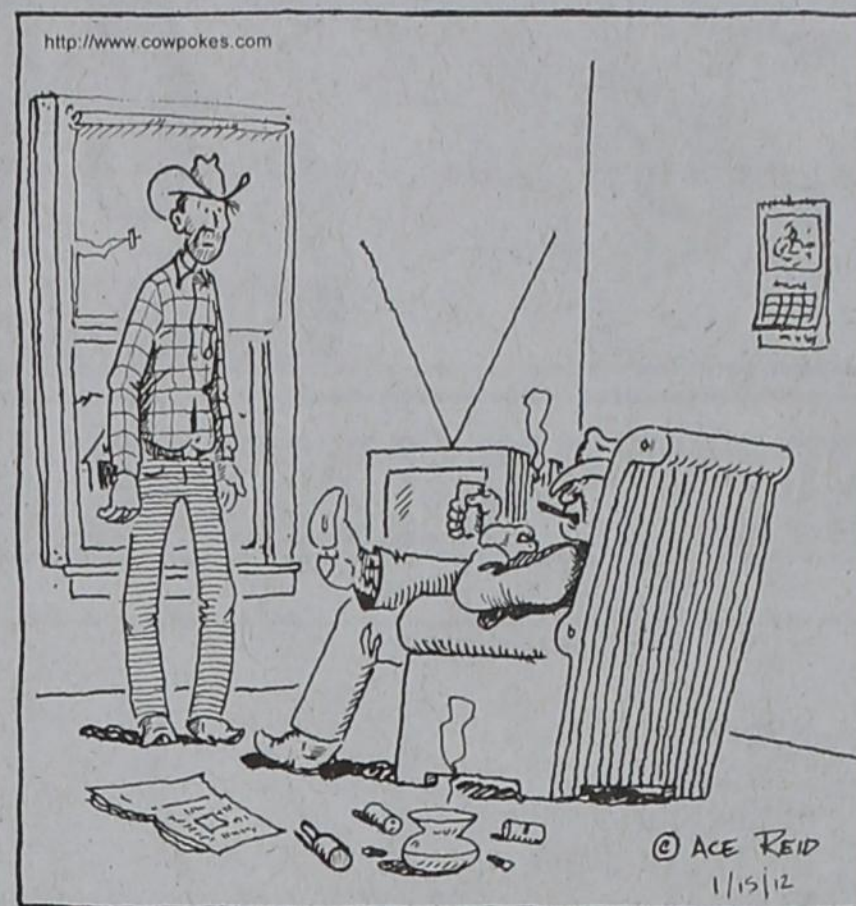

"I can't remember a year where there have been so many unknowns that could impact the feed-grain price," Amosson said. "Producers really need to understand what is and could be happening this year in order to make informed marketing decisions."

He said the goals of this year's workshop are to identify and quantify factors that will be affecting this year's market and discuss what marketing tools and strategies they have available to deal with them.

Preregistration is required and attendance is limited to 60. The cost of the workshop is $125 per participant and covers the costs associated with instruction, breaks, meals and materials. For more information, including the workshop brochure, contact Leon Guerrero at 806-677-5600.
