The Colorado City Record reports that the Colorado City High School will have to delay moving into a new building for a few days because some needed items have not been delivered and some paving work has not been completed around the new facility.

They had hoped to move next week, but now it looks as if the move will be made during the Christmas holidays, according to Supt. Lloyd McKee.

Speaking of moves, the Rotan Advance and Roby Star Record reports that Nolan County has made arrangements with Fisher County to house some of its prisoners while a new courthouse and jail are under construction at Sweetwater.

Nolan County Sheriff Joe Slater asked Fisher County Commissioners to approve a temporary arrangement during the period of construction. Nolan County voters approved a bond issue several weeks ago to finance construction of a new courthouse-jail, and the sheriff said he could be without a jail by January or February.

In a Bicentennial article dealing with log cabins in the current issue of Farmland News, Grover Brinkman says these pioneer dwellings did not originate in this country.

"The log cabin, unknown to the eastern Indians and the early English settlers, was introduced to America in 1638 by the Swedish colonists of Delaware," says Brinkman.

"It became popular in pioneer America only after 1718 when the Scotch-Irish immigrants adopted and introduced it throughout the backwoods country. By the time of the Revolutionary War, it was the characteristic frontier dwelling."

Angolan Civil War Costs US Nearly $50 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — American military aid to a pair of anti-Soviet factions in the Angolan civil war has cost close to $50 million, says Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Reached by telephone at his home Thursday night and asked about the $50 million figure cited by the Washington Post and the New York Times, Clark, chairman of the subcommittee on Africa, said: "Those are both pretty close."

Asked to elaborate, Clark said: "That's a classified figure, and I'm just not at liberty to give it to you." He said a Senate rule forbade him from disclosing the information.

Today, Clark's press secretary, Pete Smith, issued a statement saying Clark denied describing the $50 million figure as close. He quoted the senator as saying: "I did not make any such statement."

Smith added: "Because of the Senate rules on discussing classified information, the senator is not in a position to say what an accurate figure is."

In a story that quoted unidentified informed sources, the Post said the bulk of the U.S.-supplied military equipment has been sent to the former Portugese African colony in the last six months and that most of it is being funneled through neighboring Zaire.

Recipients of the reported aid are the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) and the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), which are battling the Soviet-backed Popular Movement or the Liberation of Angola (MPLA).

Meanwhile, columnist Jack Anderson asserted today that "the Gulf Oil Co. is supporting the Communist guerrillas in Angola at the staggering rate of $500 million a year."

Anderson, in remarks prepared for ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America," said "CIA officials have complained privately that Gulf is pouring far more money into the Communist movement than the United States is contributing to the anti-Communist guerrillas."

A Gulf spokesman said the company pays royalties and taxes to the Angolan government as part of an oil concession agreement that dates back to the late 1960s.

He said Anderson's "$500 million a year" figure is incorrect. The spokesman said that sum may represent the total of Gulf's taxes and royalties paid

Postal Deficit Tops Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The financially ailing Postal Service says it lost $161 million more during the last fiscal year than the record deficit officials had earlier anticipated.

The Postal Service severely underestimated workers compensation payments to employes injured during the fiscal year, a spokeswoman said Thursday.

The service only recently learned of the higher workers compensation costs from the Labor Department, making the Postal Service deficit $989 million for the last fiscal year instead of the previous estimate of $828 million, she said.

As a result, the Postal Service asked the Labor Department to supply data on workman's compensation claims more frequently than once a year, the spokeswoman said.

"In our financial situation we can't afford to have this happening to us," she said.

The Postal Service has lost money in each of the four years since the old Post Office Department was reorganized into a semi-independent federal agency. The deficit for the fiscal year ending last June 30 was more than twice as high as the previous record.

Postal officials expect a still higher deficit, $1.4 billion, in the current fiscal year despite a rate increase that takes effect Dec. 28. On that date, the price of mailing a first class letter will increase from 10 cents to 13 cents. The Postal Service is losing nearly $7 million per day under present mail rates.

The higher deficit figure was published this week in the Postal Service's annual report. The report has an upbeat tone except for its discussion of finances.

"Fiscal year 1975 was a year in which the Postal Service made substantial progress in the face of severe financial problems," the report's introduction by Postmaster-General Benjamin F. Bailar begins.

Bailar said the Postal Reorganization Act established four major goals for the Postal Service: good service, better working conditions, reasonable rates and balanced costs and revenues.

"Three of these goals were met during the year and only the last was not," he said.

Snyderite Gets West Point Bid

WASHINGTON — Congressman Omar Burleson announces his appointment of Richard Malcolm Medford of 3603 Kerrville Avenue in Snyder to the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Richard will now be given the opportunity to meet the entrance requirements to the Academy. Admissions will take place in July of 1976.

Sara Jane Wants To Plead Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Jane Moore told a judge today she wants to change her plea to guilty on charges of trying to kill President Ford, declaring "I did wilfully and knowingly try to assassinate Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States."

In a calm voice, Miss Moore read a written statement to the judge in which she cited alleged attempted assassinations by U.S. government agencies against foreign dictators.

She declared: "Any country which uses assassination to hide its own oppression must expect that tool to be used against it."

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, apparently surprised by Miss Moore's decision, urged her to reconsider and explained that she was giving up all of her consitutional rights to a trial.

He said he would not allow her to enter the guilty plea until she undergoes further psychiatric examination to determine whether she is sane.

"I nave to satisfy myself that you committed the act with which you are charged and that you have no legal defenses," the judge said.

Conti scheduled a hearing for 11 a.m Monday at which a psychiatrist will be asked to determine Miss Moore's mental state. She had been due to stand trial on Monday.

"I am not now insane in the legal and medical sense," Miss Moore, 45, declared. "I do not believe I was insane in the legal and medical sense on Sept. 22, 1975."

It was on that day that the plump divorcee fired a shot at Ford as he left a downtown hotel after a speaking engagement. A bystander deflected the gun and the shot went astray.

In her statement, Miss Moore, a former FBI informant with connections in the Bay area radical underground, said, "I knew what I was doing. I knew it was illegal, and I made a conscious and deliberate decision to do what I did."

She said her public defender, James Hewitt, had tried to convince her to present a defense of insanity or diminished capacity. But she said she felt this was not "an honorable thing to do."

House OKs Budget Measure

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today gave final passage to Congress' budget resolution setting a $374.9 billion spending ceiling and a $74.1 billion budget deficit for the federal government in the fiscal year ending june 30.

The vote was 189 to 187 on a compromise resolution the Senate passed 74 to 19 on Thursday. The President's signature is not required.

The resolution is binding on congressional spending and revenue decisions for the rest of this fiscal year. It is part of a new congressional budget-making process established under the 1974 Budget Control Act.

The Ford administration has not released new budget estimates of its own for fiscal 1976, the year covered in the congressional resolution. But recent administration spending and deficit projections are close to those in the congressional resolution.

The congressional resolution includes a revenue floor of $300.8 billion, a $408 billion ceiling on budget authority or new appropriations, and of $622.6 billion on the public debt.

The resolution is well above both the spending and deficit figures in an initial measure adopted in May as a target. The earlier target had been for spending at $367 billion with a $68.8 billion deficit.

Irish Gunmen Surrender Today

LONDON (AP) — Four IRA gunmen who held a British postal inspector and his wife hostage in their London apartment for six days surrendered today.

The gunmen, all self-proclaimed members of the Irish Republican Army, walked out with their hands up two hours after they released one of the hostages, 53-year-old Sheila Matthews.

Her husband John, 54, was released safely when the gunmen surrendered after lengthy negotiations with police on a field telephone run into the second-story apartment in Dorset Square in central London.

Scotland Yard had refused the gunmen's demand for safe conduct to Dublin. The Yard believes they are responsible for bomb and shooting attacks in London over the last four months, including the slaying Nov. 27 of Ross McWhirter, coeditor of the "Guinness Book of World Records" who was an antiterrorist crusader.

The strategy of waiting out guerrillas worked last month in Ireland where two Irish guerrillas surrendered after holding a kidnaped Dutch industrialist in a house under siege in Monasterevin. The businessman, Tiede Herrema, had been held by the guerrilla pair — a man and a woman — for 36 days. They were trapped by Irish police in a house 40 miles from Dublin and held out for 18 days under siege before releasing Herrema unharmed and surrendering on Nov. 7.

In Holland, South Moluccan nationalists were still holding 54 hostages in the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam and aboard a stalled train 90 miles away. They want the Dutch government to urge the United Nations to support independence of the South Molucca islands from Indonesia, the pre-war Dutch East Indies.

In the just-ended London siege, Mrs. Matthews was left on the second-story balcony of her apartment by a hooded man. Police officers leaned over from an adjoning balcony and helped her clamber over.

City Sets Up Own Risk Fund

The Snyder City Council, in special session Thursday, approved a proposal for the City of Snyder to withdraw from the Texas Municipal League's workman compensation fund and to establish its own.

At the same time, City Manager George Patterson was instructed to convert the city's health insurance plan to 24-hour coverage.

Also authorized was the purchase of a second ambulance through the Emergency Medical Services System and the State Health Department.

Mayor W.A. Vestal and City Attorney Ernie Armstrong reported on a conference city officials had in Austin with a Railroad Commission examiner concerning Lone Star Gas Company's appeal for higher rates here. They said that indications are now that Lone Star will seek a delay in the hearing on its appeal scheduled for Jan. 9.

Meanwhile, it is expected that the gas company will be represented at the council's Jan. 5 meeting to discuss the basis for evaluating the firm's properties in Snyder. The gas company has based its plea for rate adjustments on an appraisal figure of 85 per cent of replacement value. If the city does not agree to use of the 85 per cent factor, it will be necessary for an inspection of Lone Star properties to be made to determine their value.

Veto Battle Is Set On Tax Cuts

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Congress are girding for a veto battle that will determine whether Americans find their income taxes increased by about 8 per cent on the first day of 1976.

A bipartisan group of senators met with the President late Thursday to discuss differences on legislation to extend last year's tax cuts into the new year, but the session ended in a deadlock. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., told reporters after the meeting with Ford, "We were unable to agree on anything."

Ford told the lawmakers he will veto the tax cut measure if it is sent to him without an attached spending ceiling of $395 billion for the next fiscal year.

If Ford vetoes the tax cuts and if his veto is upheld, most American workers will face an automatic tax increase on Jan. 1. The tax cuts in effect this year expire on Dec. 31 unless extended by Congress.

James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, told reporters after the Thursday meeting that the President had informed the senators that he "respectfully disagrees" with their efforts to continue tax decreases without placing the limit on federal spending and that Ford told them "we'll have to let the system work."

"The President made it very clear that without an expenditure ceiling he will veto the proposal put forth by the Finance Committee," Lynn said.

Ford has said he believes Congress will not override his veto. Congressional Democratic leaders predict "it will be close."

Long said a tax bill is expected to clear Congress early next week and it should be on the President's desk late in the week. Asked about a Ford veto, Long replied, "We'll try to override and we may or may not. Then we'll see what happens after that."

Of the four senators at the White House meeting, only Carl Curtis, R-Neb., supported the President's position. He predicted that the House, at least, would sustain a Ford veto.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., told reporters, "We're not all that far apart," but he contended Ford is asking Congress to violate procedures prescribed by the new congressional budget law. Under that law, Congress won't consider spending for fiscal 1977 until next spring.

"We're being asked to make spending ceiling decisions that could affect millions of Americans in 1977," Long said. "Maybe we can do that six months from now."

Problem Back To Duval Co

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The question of who runs the Benavides Independent school district has been thrown back to Duval County by a decision from the 4th Court of Civil Appeals.

The appeals court ruled Thursday that District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo did not have the authority to declare the makeup of the Benavides school board.

The decision could spark a renewal of a nine-month struggle between factions backed by the Carrillo and Parg families.

The struggle began last March when Judge Carrillo, who has since been convicted on a federal tax charge and now faces impeachment proceedings in the State Senate, removed five members of the board and replaced them.

The appeals court's decision also lifted Carrillo's injunction against four other board members who had been appointed by the two members left in the original board following Carrillo's suspension of the five trustees.

Carrillo first suspended M. K. Bercaw, Luis Elizondo, Joe Garcia, Enrique Garcia and Al Schuenemann. He replaced them with Morris Ashby, Santiago Garcia, Mrs. Wilma Villegas, Peter Hunter and Celso Oliveira. The group then selected Ashby as board president.

'Fear Of Death' Patty's Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst gave prosecutors a lock of her hair and samples of her handwriting after her attorneys revealed her defense against bank robbery charges would be "fear of death."

Before she was returned to her San Mateo County Jail cell after a federal court hearing Thursday, Miss Hearst spent 3½ hours giving the government samples of her handwriting.

She also let them pluck strands of her chestnut brown hair, presumably for comparison with hair found on items of evidence.

The handwriting samples could be compared with written memoirs found in the apartment where Miss Hearst was arrested Sept. 18. The "narratives and chronicles" record events from the kidnaping of the newspaper heiress on Feb. 4, 1974, through the robbery of the Hibernia bank on April 15, 1974.

Authorities have said they do not know who wrote the documents.

The government dropped a request for a sample of Miss Hearst's voice for comparison with tape recordings sent after the bank robbery. The defense apparently will concede she made the recordings.

The key question confronting jurors at the trial set to begin Jan. 26 will be whether she was forced to participate in the robbery six weeks after she was kidnaped by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

F. Lee Bailey, chief defense lawyer, told U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter that "fear of death" would be Miss Hearst's prime defense.

"We'll have a simple defense — somebody put a gun at my head and I did what they told me," said Bailey.

Poster Girl Visits Rotary

Guest of the club was Joe Sentell. Invocation was given by Roy Carter, and Mel Gilbert gave the Rotary news. Bassett Keller, club president, presided over the meeting.

CB Radio Club Meets Tonight

The local Citizens Band Radio Club (SECO) will hold its monthly coffee break at 7:30 tonight in the Towle Park Barn. All members are urged to attend, and visitors will be welcome.

Voter Form To Include Notice

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New voter registration forms to five million Texans must include a notice that turning in the applications is not mandatory, a three-judge federal panel has decreed.

Opponents of the re-registration plan, which is a move toward computerizing the voting system in the state, said it would purge Texas polls of thousands of minority voters.

The court injunction said the required notice, to be printed in both English and Spanish, would read:

"Enclosed is a new voter registration application form for your use. Although you are not required to complete and return this form in order to continue to be able to vote, you are encouraged to do so. If you live at a new address you must complete and return this form showing your current address. If you have any questions, please call our office."

Forms would be mailed out by the state's 254 counties.

The notice was drawn up during a brief recess by the lawyers involved, including Asst. Atty. Gen. Lonny Zwiener of Austin and David Richards of Austin, attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, one of the plantiffs.

The "purge" allegedly threatened by the re-registration was blocked Wednesday when the Department of Justice in Washington decided to object to that aspect of the new registration act.

Texas is among several southern states under a special voting rights law, so the department has veto power over any changes in election laws.

Dad Treats Her Friend with More than Courtsey

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Cathy is my best friend. We are both 15. Cathy spends a lot of time at my house. When my father is home, he has the habit of kissing Cathy on the lips whenever she arrives and goes home. Do you consider this proper behavior for a 38-year-old man?

Also, my father is always trying to get Cathy to sit on his lap. Sometimes she does and sometimes she doesn't. I don't know if this is embarrassing to Cathy or not. As a daughter it doesn't bother me, but I sure wouldn't want Cathy's father kissing me on the lips or asking me to come sit on his lap.

What is your opinion?

DADDY'S DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: I think Cathy is a little too OLD to be kissed on the lips by your father. And your father is much too YOUNG to have a 15-year-old girl on his lap.

DEAR ABBY: Allen and I have been married for four years and have a darling baby girl who is nearly 3.

Allen is an excellent provider, and I am content to stay at home and be a full-time wife and mother.

My problem? I feel that woman was put on earth to serve her husband and bear children, but every time I mention having another baby, Allen explodes. He says, "One is enough and that is final!"

Abby, I've always wanted six children, but I'd settle for just one more. To me a large family means everything. I have literally begged him, but he refuses to hear of it. In fact, he says if I get pregnant, he will divorce me!

I went on the Pill after our first child was born, but I stopped three weeks ago. Allen doesn't know I stopped, and he'd hit the roof if he did.

If I do get pregnant, what is my next move? I hate being underhanded, but it was my last resort.

Please help me.

WANTS ANOTHER BABY

DEAR WANTS: You say a large family means "everything" to you and that your husband has threatened to divorce you if you become pregnant! To compound the problem, you're playing Vatican roulette. You had better level with Allen. You just might be married to the wrong man.

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a girl who refers to herself as a "feminist." I consider myself a gentleman and not the least bit chauvinistic.

Here's my problem: Nancy objects to my doing things like opening doors for her, helping her with her coat and standing up when she enters the room.

These old-fashioned courtesies have become second nature to me, and I feel foolish when Nancy refuses to allow me to perform them.

This is the only thing that bothers me in our otherwise perfect relationship.

I hope you print this, because Nancy reads your column, and I want her to see it.

"S"

DEAR "S": All right, so assuming she sees it—that still doesn't solve your problem. Nancy says these old-fashioned courtesies have got to go, and you feel foolish capitulating. If you want your "otherwise perfect relationship" to get off the ground, either start treating Nancy like one of the boys or find a girl who doesn't regard the old-fashioned courtesies as chauvinistic.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The whole subject of part score bidding has been given very sketchy treatment by writers. There is a good reason for this. Each part score creates its own special problems.

There is one area of general agreement about two bids with part score which is that the strong-suit two bid is a one-round force even though it is a bid of game.

With 60 on score, North elected to open two hearts. South responded two notrump and North decided to pass. His reason was that his hand should take eight tricks and might not take nine.

His idea turned out to be a good one. The defense started with five spade tricks. South discarded the six of diamonds and jack of clubs from dummy and took the final eight.

If North had played at three hearts he might have found some way to make the contract but it would require considerable help from his opponents and we have found that opponents don't always cooperate.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader wants to know the correct rebid with ♠ A K x x x ♥ A Q x x x ♦ x x ♣ x after you have opened one spade and partner has raised you to two spades.

The answer is that you bid four spades. You should want to be in game. Why not just bid it!

Reading Aids Research

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In reading books to help medical research, youngsters 6 to 14 may be providing a big boost to solving the mystery of multiple sclerosis. The book reading is being called a READ-a-thon.

"When I was a kid polio was the big scare. Today it is almost nonexistent. We can wipe out multiple sclerosis as we did polio by providing the means for research to find the answers and this may be one way," declared actress Janet Leigh.

The lovely blue-eyed blonde actress is national chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis READ-a-thon, an educational and fund-raising program that helps children develop reading skills as they raise funds to help support research for MS. The goal is to raise a million and a half dollars in 1975, says Miss Leigh, who has also been active in kidney foundations and in organizations that help the retarded.

"Every child who participates becomes a mystery sleuth (MS) to help solve the mystery of multiple sclerosis. A child reads one or more books for a sponsor — relative, friend or neighbor — and receives a pledge of a donation for each book read. The child is really participating in a project for others, but it is a good way for children to know how wonderful books can be and to start their interest in reading at an early age.

"I've had friends struck by multiple sclerosis. It strikes the central nervous system of young adults between 20 and 40 years of age," she explained.

More than 500,000 Americans are said "to be afflicted with MS and closely related disorders." It affects the brain and spinal cord which control such important body functions as walking, talking, eating, tying a shoelace or opening a door. When the disease hits, patches of myelin, the material which coats the nerves, disintegrate and become replaced by scar tissue. Why this happens is a medical mystery.

READ-A-THON-Actress Janet Leigh hugs the mystery sleuth puppet, symbol of the Multiple Sclerosis Read-a-thon in which children participate to help raise funds and "solve the mystery of MS." Miss Leigh is national chairman of the READ-a-thon.

Schools and libraries welcome the reading plan, Miss Leigh insists. Experimental READ-a-thons were begun in Cleveland and were an instant success. As the national program gets underway already 111 chapters are holding 267 READ-a-thons with an estimated 1,800,000 youngsters enrolled.

Fireplaces Provide Aura Of Romance, Coziness In Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You don't need to tear out a wall to acquire a fireplace. Many free-standing fireplaces can be installed easily by do-it-yourselfers and they are usually less expensive than the built-in kind. In addition, they are available in a full range of decorator colors.

Any size room can be accommodated, whereas a built-in fireplace may run into limitations because of structural problems.

For small rooms, there are fireplaces designed to be used in a corner — one occupies only 39 inches. Cozy lodge-type fireplaces go from floor through ceiling or may be suspended from chains. Some fireplaces are hung from walls; others can be erected so they serve two rooms.

In choosing a fireplace you must decide where you want it to go before you begin to shop for one. If it is to be put in a big room you might want one of the round lounge models that are built into drum bases that provide surfaces for accessories. The fire is contained within the circular screen mesh.

Hanging fireplaces hug the wall for another kind of look. A glass-enclosed, cube-type needs a 30-inch clearance with a combustible wall or a 6-inch clearance with a brick wall.

So-called Franklin stoves (few resemble the original) may provide the warmth and beauty of a fireplace as well as cooking conveniences. One manufacturer advertises a Franklin design with a swing-out barbecue grill. A handsome Franklin-type stove of solid cast iron has handcrafted parts, radiates good heat and can be used for cooking.

A good fireplace for a family room might be one that can be placed within a divider to serve two areas.

For most people a fireplace provides an aura of romance, coziness, relaxation. There really isn't enough heat thrown from some fireplaces to make a great difference in saving energy, although many newer units have been designed for greater efficiency in radiating heat, says the Fireplace Institute, which represents 55 manufacturers.

Fireplaces are generally appreciated for atmospheric effects — people feel warmer and happier when they are in a room with one. And some people are mesmerized by the sight of fire as god worshipers were in ancient times. As Benjamin Franklin observed in his booklet, "An Account of the New Invented Pennsylvania Fireplaces," which has been reprinted for the Bicentennial by the Fireplace Institute, the English "...love the sight of a fire," and would not really accept a heating unit that merely warmed a room. It may also be important to feel the warmth and even to hear the crackle of logs.

New homes usually have fireplaces because the demand is so great, but a house may lack a fireplace though it is suitable in every other respect. Today it is easier to solve that problem either with a standing unit that may require nothing more than a flue through the roof or with a prefabricated one that can be built in.

The pre-fab built-in is a big assist to the do-it-yourselfer. Some are engineered with everything from a factory-built hearth to chimney components. One can vary the installation to suit one's tastes, adding brick work, stone facing or whatever, but expensive masonry work will not be necessary. Some systems may be set on the existing floor requiring no footings or special supports, and may be used adjacent to wood beams, joists or wall materials.

One of the most innovative of the new factory built-in fireplaces uses a triple wall flue and blowers to bring air from the attic or from outside the attic into the room.

COLLECTS $15,000 PRIZE

Scurry Farmer Winner Of Magazine's Contest

Horace Clayton Fowler, Star Route, Box 3, Ira, is a lucky man. He won first place in a sweepstakes contest sponsored by the Progressive Farmer magazine of Birmingham, Ala., out of 1,400,000 entries.

The first place prize of $15,000 was presented to him (a check) by Bill Capps, vice president and circulation director of the magazine, at an informal luncheon held Thursday at the American Restaurant. Another representative of the magazine, O. B. Copeland, vice president and assistant to the president, also was present to offer congratulation.

Others attending the luncheon were Horace's wife, Luvenia, who was reared at Ira; their son, Bob Fowler, 25, who farms at Ira and also works in the oil fields; their friends, Billy and Verline Calley of Ira, who are partners in a farming operation at Ira with the Fowlers; and Bernard and Sadie Longbotham of Snyder. Longbotham is Fowler's accountant.

"Every six months we sponsor a contest, and Mr. Fowler was the first place winner in one of our recent ones," explained Capps. He said a firm from another state was hired by the Progressive Farmer to determine winners in the contest.

"We mailed out 5,000,000 entry blanks and numbers," Capps explained further. "The winning numbers were designated previously by this firm but they had no idea who would get the winning numbers. Out of the 5,000,000 sent out, we received back 1,400,000 entries. The winning number was never returned, so representatives of the firm that selected the winners, drew Fowler's name out of a hopper that contained the 1,400,000 entries.

"In other words, the odds were 1,400,000 to 1 that his name would not be drawn," Capps explained.

Capps said the Progressive Farmer sponsors two such contests each year, and that there are over 1,000 winners in each contest. Prizes vary, but the first place winner always receives his choice of $15,000 or $100 a month for life.

"He (Fowler) chose the $15,000," Capps said.

In making the presentation of the first place check, Capps and Copeland both said one of the most enjoyable aspects of their work is presenting checks to the winners.

"We try to make personal presentations to each of the top three winners in each contest," Copeland said.

He pointed out the second place prize in the contest won by Fowler was a 1975 Model automobile or $10,000. The second place winner, a man from Oklahoma, chose the money.

"At one time we experimented with a different first place prize," Capps said. "We offered either $15,000 or to buy a mountain and name it after the winner. Since the winner was from Dallas, and there are no mountains near there, he chose the money. After that the winners invariably chose the money so we decided to make it the first prize from now on."

Fowler, the Scurry County winner, operates a 60-acre farm at Ira. He has been in Scurry County for the past 28 years but was reared in Mitchell County.

The Progressive Farmer Company also publishes two other magazines, "Southern Living," and "Decorating & Craft Ideas." They recently purchased publishing rights to the latter magazine from the Tandy Company of Fort Worth. Copeland and Capps flew into Lubbock from Birmingham Thursday morning, rented a car, and drove to Snyder for the presentation dinner. They returned to Birmingham late Thursday. Meanwhile, Mickey Nunley, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, escorted them around Snyder. Both had expressed an interest in the Canyon Reef oil field.

Most of the entries in the Progressive Farmers' contest are from Southern states, and Texas averages about 200 or more winners in each contest. Lesser prizes include such things as radios, clocks, cameras, etc.

Dr. Lamb

Inflammation of prostate gland

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—What is prostatitis? Why does a young man in his mid 20s get this? My mother says a man is running around with other women, straining his prostate gland which results in the prostatitis. Please help to clear this up one way or the other. It's on my mind quite often.

DEAR READER—Your mother may mean well, but she is misinformed and her statement could be causing a lot of unnecessary trouble. She is repeating a frequent misconception that has caused other people a lot of unhappiness.

Prostatitis means inflammation of the prostate gland, just as the ending "itis" means inflammation as applied to appendicitis, bronchitis, laryngitis, gastritis, cystitis and so on.

The inflammation can be, and in the case of a young man usually is, caused by some bacteria. The bacteria involved in most cases is not one that is transmitted by sexual activity at all. A common source of the infection is one of the bacteria in the colon which some way escapes and lodges in the crypts of the prostate gland. Some urologists believe that such an injection is more likely to develop in a person who is not having as much sex as might be optimal and the overdistended prostate gland gets boggy and is more likely to become infected.

It is true that the prostate gland can be involved in a veneral infection, but, again, the bacteria commonly involved in most cases of prostatitis are different germs entirely.

The kind of prostatitis that a man commonly gets when he is older is often related to enlargement of the gland. This may be from some hormonal imbalance or from chronic infection. For more detailed information on the different types of prostatitis send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 1-6, Prostate Gland, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter points out, the best treatment depends upon what bacteria is causing the infection. When the proper medicines are used, most acute cases are cured quickly. Some chronic infections remain troublesome to treat.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 13-year-old girl and am 5 feet 2 and weigh 120 pounds. I'm trying to lose weight by eating nothing. I just drink 100 per cent tea and coffee, also water. I take two vitamins daily for energy. My problem is my parents and neighbors. They keep trying to get me to eat. I've tried balanced diets, but they won't work for me. Will my water diet hurt me in any way? Are my parents right?

DEAR READER—You can bet your pointed head your parents are right. I just wish there was some way to get the message across to all you young girls that starvation diets are harmful to your normal development. You are not even physically mature yet and your body needs vital nutrients and proteins to develop a normal, healthy body.

Your diet is deficient in calcium which you need for bone development. It is protein deficient which will affect your normal muscular development. You can do serious damage to yourself.

I think it is particularly important for young people in the development stage of life to have good medical guidance if they are going to be on a diet to lose weight. If you want bad teeth, a poor skeleton, inadequate sexual development, and a host of other problems, just continue with your present unwise course.

THE MOVE to IMPEACH SANTA

CHAPTER FIVE
By Robert J. Boyle

The morning that Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes were to leave for the UN to defend Santa Claus against impeachment charges, a blizzard started.

The pilot of North Pole One, Jumpin' Jack came into the ready room and said to Santa, Jinkersnipes and Juniperperper, "I don't know if we can make it today. That's a humdinger of a blizzard out there."

"We'll have to make it, Jumpin' Jack," Juniperperper said. "If we don't Evel Whone will win by default and there won't be any Christmas."

"Then by all means we'll try," Jumpin' Jack said. "If necessary, I'll use the snow chaser but they use a lot of gasoline."

"What do the snow chasers do?" asked Juniperperper.

"Chase snow," Jumpin' Jack replied. "They're the newest thing. Only Air Force One has them. Instead of snow falling on the plane the snow chasers blow the snow away as we have a tunnel of snow-free air to fly in. But with the gas shortage, I don't often use them."

"This is a red emergency," Santa said. "So if you have to use them it is all right. . ."

"Then thumbs up and let's get aboard," Jumpin' Jack said.

Santa turned to Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes.

"Elves, I'm counting on you," he said. "But even if it doesn't turn out all right, I know that you will have done your best. Lots of luck."

"Don't worry, Santa," Juniperperper said. "I have a plan and I'm sure we will win."

"Yeh, Santa," Jinkers said. "Get your bag ready because on Christmas eve you'll again be traveling around the world with toys for good boys and girls."

"I certainly hope so, I certainly hope so," Santa said.

The elves put on their flight gear and after shaking hands with Santa they boarded the plane.

"Fasten your seat belts," Jumpin' Jack said. "It's going to be a rough flight."

The elf pilot, sitting atop seven pillows, gunned the engine and soon North Pole One was skidding down the runway and plopped right into a snowbank.

"Oh, oh," said Jumpin' Jack, "how will we ever get out of this?"

He looked out the window and saw 18 reindeer racing toward the plane.

"Here comes our rescuers," Juniperperper said.

The reindeer, with their horns, started to push the plane back on the runway. After much huffing and puffing they succeeded.

"Try it again," said Jocular from the airport tower. "And this time gun it real hard. You're cleared for takeoff."

"Hello," she said. "I'm Julia June!"

Again Jumpin' Jack gunned the plane. The huge motors roared against the blizzard. Slowly, this time, the plane began to move and it soon took to the air.

"Smooth takeoff," Jocular said from the tower. "You are cleared all the way to the United Nations. Your ETA will be 2:30 p.m."

"Thank you, tower," Jumpin' Jack said.

He turned the plane into the blizzard, put the "on" button for the show chasers on and headed for New York and the UN.

Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes settled back in their seats.

"It'll be a long flight," Juniperperper said. "We might as well make ourselves comfortable."

Just then the elf stewardess, Juanita, came down the aisle.

"Cherry tea, frosty buns, lemon tang delight, North Pole crisps," she said. "Anything you want, fellows."

"Hey, I didn't know we had a stewardess on this flight," Jinkersnipes said to Juniperperper. "She is a pretty elf all right."

"Keep your mind on our work and not that girl," Juniperperper said. But he looked up at the stewardess and smiled.

Juanita said, "I wish you two the best of luck. I'm sure that two very handsome and intelligent elves such as yourselves will vindicate Santa Claus."

"Now, would you care to eat?"

"Say, Julia June," Juniperperper said. "I'm going to be free tomorrow evening. How would you like to have dinner with me at the El Tora?"

"Love to," she smiled. "Now I'll get your lunch."

"Ah, gee whiz," Jinkersnipes said.

"Miss," said Juniperperper. "If you would like to have dinner with me at the El Tora in New York tomorrow evening I'll be free."

Juanita laughed and replied, "Well, I'll have to ask my husband, the pilot, Jumpin' Jack."

"I didn't know Jumpin' Jack was married," Juniperperper said.

The two elves settled back in their seats and for the next couple of hours studied legal briefs on past impeachment proceedings.

They were so engrossed in their work that they didn't notice another stewardess coming toward them.

"Hello," she said. "I'm Julia June. Are you ready for a sandwich."

"Wow," whispered Juniperperper to Jinkersnipes. "She is beautiful."

"Julia June," he said to the pretty blonde elf stewardess. "I don't believe we have met. I'm Juniperperper and this is my assistant Jinkersnipes."

"I know all about you two," Julia June smiled. "In fact I have often seen you, Juniperperper, at the North Pole."

"I don't remember," Juniperperper said. "And I'm sure I would remember you."

"You were too busy to notice, I guess," Julia June laughed.

Jinkersnipes turned to Juniperperper and said, "You're a caution. Here we are going to defend Santa and you have your mind on Julia June."

"Don't worry about me," Juniperperper said. "I can mix business and pleasure."

"I sure hope so," Jinkersnipes replied.

United Airlines Cancels Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest air carrier, United Airlines, is cancelling all scheduled flights through Christmas Eve because of a break-off in talks with its striking machinists.

Federally mediated talks between the airline and representatives of the International Association of Machinists, which has some 18,000 members employed by United, broke off Wednesday.

The United shutdown raises the possibility that many holiday travelers will find airline seating difficult to obtain during the peak holiday season. United transports an average of 90,000 passengers a day.

National Airlines has been shut down by striking flight attendants since Labor Day.

The dynamics of artificial satellites were first propounded by Sir Isaac Newton.

WTC FALLS 86-71

The tall and talented Frank Phillips Plainsmen handed the Western Texas College Westerners their first conference loss, 86-71, in the WTC gym here last night. It was the first conference loss by the Westerners in over a year.

The visitors hit over 90 per cent of their floor shots in the first five minutes of the game to take a 12-0 lead. The Westerners, on the other hand, missed their first nine shots.

"The big difference was in the first few minutes," said Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerners. "They were hot and we were cold. You can't get that far behind a good ball club and reasonably expect to beat them."

There was 15:17 remaining in the first half when the Westerners got their first bucket, and they trailed by 20-4. It was an uphill fight after that, but the Westerners, using a full court press and forcing numerous turnovers, were able to rally. They actually pulled within two points, at 28-30, on a long shot by Lawrence Butler with 1:18 remaining in the first half. But, that's as close as they got during the remainder of the game.

It was a rough, physical contest from start to finish, but the visitors' better shooting performance combined with their height advantage proved to be the difference in the contest. The Westerners hit only about 30 per cent compared with over 50 per cent by Phillips. Harold Holland led the Plainsmen with 24 points while Henry Crawford put in 17, Charles Smith contributed 13 and Herman Kirven added 11. For the Westerners, Lawrence Butler roped 28 points to capture scoring honors, and Tyrone Clopton pushed in 18 points. Darryl Smith and Larry Orton both barely missed getting in double figures in nine points each. Orton fouled out with 7:52 remaining after Butch Person went to the sidelines with five fouls with 8:19 left.

Butler made a fantastic 30 foot jump shot at the buzzer to pull Western within three points, 34-37, at halftime, but the visitors made the first six points in the second half and regained the momentum. Phillips, holding a big lead, began delaying tactics in the final 3½ minutes while the Westerners were forced into commiting fouls trying to get the ball.

The Westerners' defense is the only thing that kept them in the game. They forced numerous turnovers.

"I was pleased that we pulled within three points in the first half," said Coach Mitchell, "But they had another hot streak in the second half, and we just couldn't get over the hump.

The Westerners now are 9-2 for the season and 3-1 in conference play while Phillips is 6-5 for the distance and 3-1 in league action.

The Westerners will not play again until after the holidays.

CAGE COLLISION--Frank Phillip's Henry Crawford (55) and Western College's Darryl Smith (43) both fell to the floor after a collision during the Western Athletic Conference basketball clash here last night. Tyrone Clopton (34) and J. Lyons (23) appear in the background. The Plainsmen handed the Westerners their first conference loss in over a year, 86-71. The two teams now are 3-1 each in league play.

REEF PLAY SET!

The annual Canyon Reef basketball tournament was expected to begin at noon today with Brownwood meeting Sweetwater in the first game.

The scoreboard clock hanging from the coliseum roof came partially loose yesterday afternoon, and workmen were trying to get the clock secured again this morning. Hopefully, all of the games will be held in the coliseum.

"It's possible the first game could be played at the high school gym, but we're reasonable certain all of the other games will be held in the coliseum," said Tiger Coach Bob Moore.

Moore said this year's tournament has a fine field, and he was expecting some close and exciting contests.

Borger, the tournament favorite, was to meet Big Spring at 5 p.m. The other first round games pitted Lubbock Monterey against Lubbock Estacado at 6:30 p.m. and the host Tigers against Vernon at 8 o'clock tonight.

Coach Moore said probable starters for the Tigers, now 5-4 on the year, are Chester Cobb and Randy Gressett at wing, Kelly Ragland and Ray Brandon at guard, and either Dane Witherspoon, Kenny Thompson or Joey Arnold at post.

"Vernon has four starters returning from last year's team," said Moore, "So we are expecting a tough game in the first round."

If the Tigers win tonight, then they meet the winner of the Brownwood-Sweetwater game at 1 p.m. tomorrow. The other second round winners bracket game is on tap for 11:30 a.m. Saturday, and it will pit the Borger-Big Spring winner against the Monterey-Estacado winner. Losers bracket second round games are set for 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday.

The 7th place tilt is set for 4 p.m., the consolation finals at 5:30 p.m., the third place game at 7 p.m., and the championship contest at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Moore said Brownwood and Sweetwater are much stronger than they were last year. Brownwood won the Lake View Tournament, and Sweetwater has a 6-1 record.

Estacado is one of the co-favorites in District 3-AAA with Tigers while Monterey and Big Spring are both Class AAAA teams. The Steers are improved over a year ago and could surprise the tournament favorite, Borger, in the first round.

Weathford JC Hands Dusters First Loss

A tall, experienced Weatherford Junior College team handed the Western Texas College Dusters their first loss of the season in the WTC gym last night, 68-57.

The Dusters were cold early in the game as Weatherford, led by Sarah Williams under the boards, took a 10-0 lead. The Dusters were behind 38-27 at halftime, but they also got off to a poor start in the second half as the visitors scored six straight points. Western closed the gap but could not keep the pace as the visitors went ahead by as much as 22 points at one point in the second half. The Dusters made a late rally and narrowed the gap to 11.

The Dusters hit only 24 of 67 from the field for 36 per cent while Weatherford put in about 50 per cent of their shots from the floor. At the line, the WTC girls hit 9 of 16 while the visitors connected on 14 of 22.

Marilyn Payton played one of her finest games as a Duster, hitting 9 of 21 field goal attempts and adding two free throws. She also led the local lasses in rebounds with 12 and had six assists.

Only one other Duster, Brenda Jurecek, was in double figures. She put in 10 points. For Weatherford, Sarah Williams, Primrose Miles, Cathy Burns and Len Hinton meshed 19, 15, 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Williams ably demonstrated why she made all-state twice with her shooting and rebounding.

Concerning the game, Coach Sid Simpson said: "Our girls started out slow. Our inability to hit close shots hurt. One pleasing factor of the game was the run we made at them in the latter part of the game. If we're going to win, we need better scoring."

Simpson said Payton and Jurecek both turned in excellent games for the Dusters.

The WTC girls host Eastern New Mexico University in the WTC gym at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, hoping to improve on a 7-1 record. Simpson said the Greyhounds are "real tough." They are 3-1 for the year, have good experience and primarily employ a woman-to-woman defense.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you must decide today between what feeds your ego or what fattens your wallet, don't hesitate. Money easily cures your wounded pride.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others retain a very strong influence on your opinions today. It's not distasteful. Your views and theirs are in harmony.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Regardless of what others may advise, you've got to do it your way today. Once you break loose, you'll wonder why you tarried.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Self-preservation of your goals will be your initial objective today. Fortunately, you'll soon learn aspirations of others are equally important.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you'll forsake the realm of reflection today and get into the arena of live action, you can do anything you set your mind to.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Set your sights high today. You're capable of flattening any obstacle if you're aware of the barriers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's time to shed the cloak of inactivity and move on something to which you've given considerable thought. Nothing's to be gained by pondering.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't be sufficiently appreciative of others' assistance unless you realize their help and counsel are saving you much sweat and strain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will keep your objectives in perspective today, assigning everything to its proper time and place.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Let go of the mundane stresses that bug you today. Have a good time. You're entitled to let your hair down without feeling guilty.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have a way of saying something today that will get a dear friend off the hook. He couldn't have done it himself. Warm feelings result.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Pushing yourself too hard to attain a material goal will only postpone its realization. The moment you ease up, you'll reap the harvest.

Your Birthday

Dec. 13, 1975

Be willing to work this coming year when others lay down their tools. The rewards will exceed your expectations. Those you serve will later serve you.

Reed Resigns

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Higher Education Commissioner Bevington Reed has told the College Coordinating Board he is resigning effective Jan. 31.

Reed, 60, who has held the post for eight years, told the board Thursday he has been under a lot of pressure, is tired and wants to do some traveling.

He succeeded Dr. Jack K. Williams, now president of Texas A&M University. They were Marine combat officers together in the South Pacific during World War II, and Williams hand-picked Reed in 1967 to be his No. 2 man.

A native of Cisco, Reed began a teaching career in 1934, at age 19, in the two-teacher Burned Branch school in Callahan County.

'MURDER' IS NEIGHBOR

Transplanted Americans Find Israel Dangerous

By Phyllis and Herb Kamm
(Third in a series)

METULLA, Israel—What is it like to live with murder as your "neighbor," as it is for thousands of families in Israel who have taken up homes within shouting—and shooting—distance of Arab borders?

Suppose you are an American who pulled up roots and made Israel your home.

What is it like?

Let two young transplanted Americans tell you.

Even while the streets of Beirut, Lebanon, 50 miles northwest of this village, are exploding with internecine warfare. Palestinian terrorists continue their incursions across the border into Israel.

The danger is always there. The sublimated fear lurks in the shadows of the mind, like the terrorists slinking into the darkness of the nearby orchards hoping to strike at the villagers.

"I don't want to say it's something you get used to. But it's not the uppermost thing in everybody's minds. You know, everybody sort of lives their lives. When I go up to the orchards I'm on the road next to the border fence. I take a firearm with me. Maybe the chances are one in a million something might happen. But if there is that chance, you take the gun."

Sandy-haired Eric Jacobs, 29, soft-spoken, pragmatic, B.A. in philosophy, born and raised in Boulder, Colo. with little Jewish training and no Zionist inclinations, shrugged, accepting the reality facing his family and their neighbors in Metulla. Metulla is an agricultural village of a few hundred families, the northernmost point of Israel nestled ag ainst the Lebanese border.

His dark-haired wife Rivka, 30, chubby, pleasant faced, M. A. in English literature, comes from a traditional Jewish home in Utica, N.Y. They met as students at the University of Rochester. They now live with their two small children in a snug little house some 100 yards from the border of Lebanon, beyond which Arab terrorists wait for the chance to strike.

Eric and Rivka spoke to us in their den. It is a booklined room, comfortable, cozy. But there are no windows and the outer walls are encased in eight inches of concrete—an extra inch or so more on the roof.

This is the security room, a part of every house near the border of an Arab country. It is the room where the children sleep and where Rivka joins them to comfort them and allay their fears on nights when Eric is on border patrol and there is a terrorist alert, or the boom of Israeli artillery is frighteningly amplified by the surrounding hills of Lebanon and Israel. It is a room built to withstand shelling from across the border.

The young mother was asked about the psychological impact of the constant tension on the children, Yael, 4, a snubnosed, pigtailed, shy little girl, and Joshua, 5, alert and eager.

"If you raise your children in a dangerous city, they've got in some way to have some fear of people, or some fear of being alone or walking by themselves," said Rivka. "Our kids fears are not any deep psychological thing. They know what they're afraid of. When the shooting starts they're afraid and that's all there is to it.

"And we do the best we can to cope with it. I think it's bad psychology to grab your kids and run. I think it's a bad education for the children and I think it's silly. Our approach is to try to make them accept it and get used to it. But of course you never get used to it."

But they do accept it and often laugh about it. When we asked how the alert is sounded, Rivka chuckled and said the neighbors get out and yell as loud as they can, "'Hey, Eric, Eric.' You can see it's a very sophisticated system." And one night when terrorists were nearby, a member of the patrol called reassuringly to her neighbor: "Don't worry, Ora, it's only terrorists."

And little Joshua haltingly recalls, with wide eyes, the night a Katusha (Russian-made) rocket fell in the town. He tries to tell the story but never finishes. The wide blue eyes finish it for him.

Like their neighbors—some newcomers like themselves, other third and fourth generation in Metulla—the Jacobs are always mindful of the dangers but there is a healthy, light-heartedness about their lives as Israelis, an eagerness to face the challenges head on.

They enjoy their jobs as teachers and fruit farmers. Eric works at a high school in Kiryat Shmona nine miles away, the target of a terrorist attack last year. Rivka teaches at a grade school in a village close by. They are infused with a sense of participation in a vital society.

They have their comfortable, modern home purchased at a minimal cost under the program for new settlers. They also have 10 dunams (2.5 acres) of apple, plum and peach orchards that were planted by the Jewish Agency which sends someone to guide the tyro farmers, who would never get this type of opportunity in the States.

This is the Jacobs' fourth year in Metulla, their seventh in Israel. It is the first year their orchards produced a salable crop—20 tons of fruit. Eventually these 2.5 ares will be capable of producing 75 to 100 tons of fruit a year.

They came because one very cold January morning in upstate New York Eric asked Rivka: "What the hell are we doing here?" They had more or less mapped out their lives to get PhDs, to be teachers, to buy a house, etc., etc. "We looked at each other," Eric told us, "and decided we didn't want it."

It's obvious they found what they want—or almost. They hope that some day, for both Arab and Jew, the border will be open and free as it was from the earliest settlement in 1896 until the 1967 war, when relationships were good, when farmers on both sides of the border exchanged agricultural know how and family chit-chat in each other's homes

CHANGES

Chances are that there is a hamburger stand on the meadow where you played as a child, or, perhaps, a thruway over your secret hide-out.

Life today is filled with changes. People move from place to place, changing jobs, and houses constantly.

There is one thing that does not change, however. In the Bible we read–"Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and for ever." (Hebrews 13:8). Find the security that Christ can bring to your life –attend your church or synagogue this week.
