Six Dallas Suspects Are Held In Bouchie Wallace Escape

POLICE THINK CONVICT WILL GO OUT WEST

Six are Held by Police In Connecton With Get Away

NO DETAILS LEARNED

Believe That Outside Help Made Escape of Man Possible

DALLAS, July 27.—Six men are being held here by Dallas police for questioning in connection with the escape Sunday of Bochie Wallace from the Rosenberg prison farm. Wallace was a Dallas man convicted for burglary of a drug store here.

Announcement of Wallace's escape was made today by Warden Speer of the Huntsville penitentiary.

Police in Dallas believe that local friends assisted in the escape and have questioned a number of Wallace's friends, including a young woman who is said to have written to him at the prison. Mrs. Wallace is said to be in Dallas.

Wallace was sent to the penitentiary after conviction of having robbed Marvin's Pharmacy here. He also was charged with complicity in a number of other robberies. Dallas officers do not believe Wallace will try to hide here. Rather it is believed he will head for the west, where his wife was for some time after he was sent to the penitentiary. Authorities at Los Angeles and other cities have been advised to maintain a lookout for him.

No details of the escape were learned.

Wallace was convicted for robbing the safe of the drug store here and obtaining over $500. He was captured after a chase in the business section.

Bouchie Wallace was a witness in the Frank Collier trial in Wichita Falls, and testified to having accompanied Mary Frances Collier and Buster Robertson into Oklahoma to aid them in securing their marriage license.

JUSTICE, DRUNK, LEVIES A FINE ON SELF IN COURT

OKMULGEE, Okla., July 27.—(AP).—T. E. "Ernie" Jones, former mayor and now a justice of the peace at Beggs, sentenced himself to 15 days in the county jail today and assessed a fine of $1 and costs on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Jones then gave himself into the custody of Deputy Sheriff George Bowman, who placed him in the county jail.

Jones admitted to jailers that he had "been drinking for the last three weeks."

Pistol in Auto Seat Is Fatal to Driver

VERNON, Texas, July 27.—Ira H. Bresha: died here today following the discharge of a pistol in an automobile seat while removing the cushion to fill the gasoline tank. Shot through the stomach, he lived only an hour. He was apparently unaware that the pistol was in the car. He is survived by his mother.

WRECK FATAL TO DRIVER.

Houston Man Dies When Car Rolls Over Three Times.

HOUSTON, July 27.—Robert Edmiston, 70, died at a local hospital about 7 p. m. Monday from injuries sustained at 2:20 p. m. Monday when the automobile he was driving rolled over three times on the Lynchburg road between San Jacinto Battle Ground and the ferry.

Edmiston lived at Lynchburg and the accident occurred within a short distance of his home. No one was with him at the time of the accident, according to ambulance attendants, but his wife arrived at the scene immediately from the nearby residence.

JACK BACK TO TRAINING

Varied Assortment of Exercises Feature Day.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(AP).—A pale but hearty Jack Dempsey resumed gymnasium training here today in preparation for his forthcoming return to the prize ring.

The heavyweight champion worked for about one hour, spending a few minutes with the pulleys, another brief period at the punching bag, another with the big sand bags, and still another in the ring where he knocked out one man, sparred with another and wrestled with a third.

Wichita Bridge Law Valid, Says Moody In Letter

More Conferences to Be Held Today on Matter At Austin

AUSTIN, July 27.—Joseph Weldon Bailey of Dallas, former United States senator and reputed defender of state rights, will argue before the state highway commission Tuesday against the rights of Texas jointly to construct a bridge across the Red river at Burkburnett with Oklahoma, Joe Burkett, commissioner, said tonight.

This announcement follows the opinion by Attorney General Dan Moody late today which ruled that Wichita county and Oklahoma had complied with the provisions of the federal law wherein authority of congress had to be obtained before two states could jointly build a bridge.

Mr. Bailey will appear for W. T. Willis of Burkburnett, one of the owners of a toll bridge across the river which the proposed free bridge will parallel.

AUSTIN, July 27.—The attorney general issued an informal opinion by letter to Judge B. D. Sartin that the special Wichita county bridge law is valid; and further held that the federal highway act had delegated authority to the public roads bureau to spend funds on interstate projects so that both questions were solved. Willis, Judge Sartin said, is here representing the toll bridge interests.

Further Conferences.

Further conferences were arranged with the Wichita county delegation at 10 o'clock Tuesday, pending completion of the attorney general's ruling. The delegation besides Judge Sartin includes County Engineer Isbell, C. C. McDonald, C. B. Cowles, secretary of the Burkburnett chamber of commerce, J. E. Mills, A. H. Britain of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, R. E. Huff and Porter Whaley, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Sartin said the highway commission had promised the aid originally allotted as soon as the questions had been cleared up and that they are now ready to proceed. They plan to call for bids immediately on return to Wichita; and it may be the state highway department will also advertise for bids, to obviate any question of jurisdiction. The state originally

FEAR BALANCE OF POWER

U. S. Must Combat Situation in Latin America, He Says.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 27. (AP)—The assertion that a growing trend toward a balance of power in the Latin American countries must be combatted by the United States to avoid the same disastrous consequences which resulted from the European balance of power, was made here today by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union at Washington.

Dr. Rowe was conducting a round table discussion at the institute of politics on outstanding problems of inter-American relations.

NINE HURT IN TRAIN WRECK.

Derailment in Atlantic City Affects Nine Cars.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 27.—Nine persons were severely bruised and shocked when a Pennsylvania bridge train due here at 3:06 p. m. was derailed just inside the city limits soon after crossing the drawbridge at the thoroughfare.

Nine coaches of the twelve-coach train were derailed.

MAIL PLANES IN UTAH.

Six Machines Going Over Air Mail Route.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 27.—The six United States army planes flying over the air mail route reached Salt Lake at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the return flight from San Francisco to Mount Clemens, Mich. They are expected to hop off for Rock Springs and Cheyenne, Wyo., about 2:45 p. m.

Slain Man Buried Monday Afternoon

The body of J. E. Swayze, shot and killed Sunday by J. L. Marshall, was taken overland by the Merkel company Monday to Lake Creek, 12 miles southeast of Wichita Falls, where funeral services were held at 3:30 o'clock, at the Lake Creek church. Interment was made in the Lake Creek cemetery.

THE WEATHER

"I had to walk up the street with a tore place in my pants, but I rubbed dirt on so I wouldn't show white."

By Douglas Malloch,
Go Back Sometime.

Go back sometime and visit it again,
The little neighborhood of long ago,
Chat with the women, visit with the men,
Look up the people that you used to know,
Just see the way the children all have grown,
And more politely answer than your own.

Go back sometime. I don't care who you are,
How rich you've got, how great you've come to be,
Go back sometime before you get too far
And see the things that still are there to see.
You've been abroad, you've traveled lots of ways,
Now see the place you spent your happiest days.

Go back sometime, but not to pity those
Who walk the paths that you have left behind.
You've got them beat on money, I suppose,
But I don't know about content of mind.
It seems to me the richer that men get
The poorer that they are, and more in debt.

Go back sometime, but not to condescend:
They may have heard of you, and they have not.
He's famed indeed who's famous to a friend;
Be mighty glad to find you're not forgot.
Go back sometime to some old neighborhood—
If you're puffed up, 'twill likely do you good.

Weather for Wichita Falls, Monday, July 27, as reported at 5 p. m. by the Wichita Falls Electric company follows. Maximum temperature 107 degrees (after 5 p. m. Sunday); minimum 79; present 91; trace precipitation; northeast breeze; cloudy; maximum wind velocity 15 miles per hour; average 11; barometer 29.14.

OKLAHOMA, EAST TEXAS AND WEST TEXAS; Tuesday and Wednesday partly cloudy.

Begin Work on New Childress High Line

CHILDRESS, July 26.—J. F. Handback of San Antonio arrived in Childress Wednesday morning for the purpose of beginning work upon the high line which is to be built by the Childress plant to Kirkland. Mr. Handback is from the San Antonio office of the company and is in charge of that kind of work.

The line between Childress and Kirkland will follow the highway. It is expected the line will be completed into Kirkland about the 20th of August, as the contract calls for the line to be ready for service by the first of September.

The work will give employment to a number of men for a month or six weeks. By that time it is expected that work will be started upon the ine between Childress and Clarendon.

ENGLAND FIGHTING STRIKE

Government Determined to Bring About Peaceful Settlement.

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—Proof of the government's determination to leave nothing undone to bring about a peaceful issue of the mining dispute, which threatened a serious industrial calamity was afforded today when after conferring with a trade union committee, Premier Baldwin decided to take a leading role in the negotiations. The minister will be in a sort of permanent session throughout the week, ready at any moment to deal with the trouble.

CLOUDS HANG OVER COUNTY BUT NO RAIN

Childress Reports Best Rain, Quanah Also Gets One

WICHITA IS LEFT OUT

Plains And Panhandle Report Downpours During Night

With overcast skies that spoke promisingly of rain, Wichita county waited in vain last night for something more than the few drops that fell, just by way of showing there really was water in the clouds. So far as could be learned last night no rain fell anywhere in the county.

The Plains got rain, and in some instances plenty of it. The Panhandle reported downpours, even down to the southern edge. Amarillo stated that it had gotten a hard shower earlier in the evening, with dark clouds that had failed to develop into further precipitation.

The Katy reported nothing but clouds east of Wichita Falls. The Northwestern said that Comargo and all points north had received good showers late in the evening but nothing south. Frederick and Altus both reported overcast skies.

The Southern reported nothing. The Denver reported rains at Quanah, Chillicothe and Acme, but that all other points on the line in the Wichita territory had escaped the water. Quanah seemed to have the best rain.

The telephone office reported a heavy rain at Childress and still raining at 12 o'clock after three hours. No other operatorg turned in rainfall, though conditions were said to be favorable on the entire northwest for heavy rains by morning.

Cotton Hopes Boom With Lubbock Rain

LUBBOCK, July 27.—General rains were falling over Lubbock and the South Plains today insuring maturity of cotton and feed. The biggest cotton crop in the history of Lubbock county is anticipated by farmers.

Late feed, planted in most instances to replace ruined small grain crops will make a heavy yield while some of the earlier feed is so badly hurt by the drouth that heavy production is not regarded likely.

ALIENISTS PROBE SCOTT

Twice Saved from Gallows Ex-Author's Sanity Is Tested.

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP)—Alienists today began their examination of Russell Scott, former Canadian financier, twice saved from the gallows during the last fortnight within a few hours of his execution.

Scott sentenced to hang for the murder of the drug clerk in a holdup now bases his hopes of escaping the gallows on the plea that he has become insane since his incarceration in jail.

OLD COUNTY RESIDENT DIES

F. T. Jenne to Be Buried From Merkle's This Morning.

Frank T. Jenne, 69, long time resident of Wichita county and living northeast of the city, died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. He is survived by a wife, two sons, one daughter, a brother and one sister. Funeral services will be held today at the Merkle undertaking chapel at 10:30 a. m., Rev. J. H. Snare officiating, and interment at Rosemont.

MOROCCAN FRONT IS CALM.

Enemy Understood to Have Abandoned Offensive.

FEZ, French Morocco, July 27.—Calm reigns along the front in Morocco where the French troops are facing the rebellious Riffian tribesmen. The enemy is understood to have abandoned all idea of an offensive and the French are not yet ready to begin their move with a view to bringing the forces of Abd-el-Krim to terms.

Oil Merger Plans Admitted to Be Off

TULSA, July 27.—(AP).—Two statements to the effect that huge oil merger negotiations between the Independent Oil and Gas company and the Waite Phillips company were off were issued today. The status of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company in connection with the merger was not announced.

Noble Lady Sent To Jail in Tampa For a Hot Check

TAMPA, Fla., July 27.—From a surrounding of luxury where she was pampered with the attention of many servants, to a single room cell in a black stone and iron jail, where she today was doing her own laundry, is a far cry, but Lady Grace Esme MacKenzie has made the change.

Lady Grace, who also is Mrs. Frank T. Jennings, was arrested Friday night by a deputy sheriff on a warrant taken out by G. E. Bray, charging her with issuing a worthless check for $200.

Today she could not be seen but made an appointment for a few hours later when she said she would be through washing her clothing.

Her rather unexpected incarceration came about, according to officials, when she failed to make arrangements to care for a draft drawn on a New York bank and endorsed by Mrs. Bray. It also was learned she came here particularly to care for the alleged bogus paper, arriving from Miami on the yacht of a friend.

ONE HELD AT VERNON AFTER DEPOT HIJACK

Aged Victim Identifies Him As Assailant Of Night

VERNON, July 27.—Ike Pippin, 73, was hijacked and robbed last night in the Denver depot waiting room just before the midnight hour and is in a serious condition at a local hospital. Physicians believe he will not last through the night.

A man giving his name as John Baxley was taken into custody by Policeman W. W. Gilbert, and was identified by the aged man as his assailant. Baxley claims to be from Haskell county. The injured man is from Rockwall county.

GENEROSITY AT ITS BEST.

DALLAS, July 27.—Donald Ball, 18, messenger boy for the Western Union Telegraph, found a bank book containing $3,800 in currency and $1,600 in checks today while making a call. He promptly returned the money to a produce firm, whose employe had lost it while going to make a deposit. He received $1 as a reward.

CAL TOLD FARM CONDITION

Rep. Parnell Says Agriculture Favorable in the Nation.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 27.—(AP)—A favorable report on agricultural conditions generally was given to President Coolidge today by Representative Parnell, republican, of Indiana, ranking member of the agricultural committee.

Mr. Parnell joined with Senator Curtis, the republican leader, in asserting that the principal legislation which now seems necessary for the farmers was along the line of cooperative marketing. A bill which would give government assistance in this, he believes would place agriculture on a substantial basis.

Farmers generally are working out their own problems, the Indiana representative said.

CAR OVERTURNS, KILLS ONE

Galveston Accident Occurs When Auto Hits Sand.

GALVESTON, July 27.—Angelo Grapelli, 18 years old, sustained injuries from which he died two hours later when the truck he was driving overturned on East Beach this afternoon. According to eye witnesses, Grapelli was driving about 30 miles an hour when as he turned to pass another car, the truck struck a bit of soft sand, and turned over twice, hurling him about 20 feet. His head was crushed and his neck badly lacerated.

SUNDAY PRAISES BRYAN.

Evangelist Calls Commoner an Enemy of the Devil.

HOOD RIVER, Ore., July 27.—Rev. William A. Sunday, spending the summer at his country home here today, paid the following tribute to William Jennings Bryan:

"The friend of God: the enemy of the devil. To know William Jennings Bryan was an invitation to do right.

"Although he chose politics as a career, he was essentially a crusader for christianity."

BRYAN'S BODY WILL REST ON SACRED SLOPE

By Right of Spanish War Service He Enters Arlington Cemetery

NEAR LINCOLN'S GRAVE

Visible From His Resting Place a Panorama Of History Landmarks

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—Near the crest of a swelling slope, where sleeps a great company of the dead of many wars, the American government today marked out in Arlington national cemetery a final resting place for William ennings Bryan.

His burial there late Friday afternoon with simple ceremony will fulfill his own oft-repeated wish. In life a crusader for peace, he chose in death to lie where the tombs of military men look down upon the capital amidst the beauties of the Virginia hills, near the towering memorials reared to Washington and Lincoln.

Right by '98 Service.

The right to be thus assigned to a place in the nation's citadel of military dead, was his by virtue of those stirring days of '98 when he wore the uniform as a colonel of volunteers. His grave will be in that community of death where sleep many comrades of the Spanish-American war, not far from the Dewey masoleum and the monument that honors those who died on the Maine.

Not all of the plans for Friday's funeral services had been arranged tonight but it seemed certain that the Commoner would be committed to his tomb with only those ceremonies which are fitting for a plain and humble citizen. No plans had been made to sound for him the bugle call that says a last farewell to the soldier nor to heap upon his bier

Last Bryan Speech To Be Made Today Through the Press

DAYTON, Tenn., July 27.—(AP) The last speech of William Jennings Bryan will be delivered tomorrow afternoon.

Instead of being enunciated in the ringing tones of the "boy orator of the Platte," however, it will reach the public through the medium of the newspapers.

Prepared by Mr. Bryan for use during his participation in the prosecution of John Thomas Scopes in the evolution case, he was twice cheated of opportunities to deliver it.

The first chance passed by a freakish twist of the Scopes trial as the attorneys, after expert testimony was ruled inadmissable, agreed to confine their remarks to the jury to a brief appeal for a verdict of guilty to speed the case on its way to the higher courts. Death intervened the second time.

FIVE IN FAMILY KILLED.

Train Hits Auto With Fatal Consequences.

VINCENNES, Ind., July 27.—Five members of one family were killed or died from injuries received today when a north bound Chicago and Eastern Illinois passenger train struck an automobile at a crossing 15 miles north of here. All were from Boxville, Ky. The dead:

J. H. Divine, Mrs. J. H. Divine, 42; Courtney Divine, 5, a son; Thomas Divine, 3, a son, and Dorothy Divine, 11, a daughter.

SEVERAL INJURED IN WRECK.

Nine Believed Seriously Hurt in Train Derailment.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A number of passengers were injured when a Pennsylvania train was derailed at Absecon, N. J., this afternoon, according to a report to the railroad's headquarters here.

A dozen injured have been sent to the Atlantic City hospitals. None are believed to have been seriously hurt.

MORE DEVICES AUTHORIZED.

Governor Approves Additional Headlight Schemes for Autos.

AUSTIN, July 27.—Four additional headlight devices were approved today by the state highway commission, making a total of 35 that have been approved under the provisions of the anti-glare headlight law passed by the 39th legislature.

Bryan Predicted "Death in Climax" Three Years Ago

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP).—The New York Sun recalls today that less than three years ago William Jennings Bryan predicted that he would die at the climax of a struggle.

During a prohibition address at Peoria, Ill., he said:

"Some day I will be fighting for a cause like this and some inner weakness of which I have no knowledge may stop me. When history is written I want my children to know that I died fighting.

"I am an old man (he was 63) and the work of the day has carried me beyond what a man of my age should bear. But I will take the risk."

Again during the last democratic convention he expressed the same thought.

"This is probably the last democratic convention to which I shall be a delegate," he said, adding humorously:

"I may come back and fool 'em."

2,000 TON BOAT RUNS RUM ROW AND "SELLS IT"

$250,000 Booze Cargo Is Unloaded Before Customs Gets Wise

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—The 2,000-ton steamship Augusta was captured by custom officers in the Hudson river off Dyckaman street today after the ship had run the gauntlet of the rum blockade and her crew unloaded and disposed of a cargo of liquor worth $250,000 at bootleg prices, leaving only 15 bottles aboard. The crew of 24 men was arrested and the captain admitted having turned the liquor cargo over to "retailers" for distribution.

This is the first known case since the coast guard blockade started that a ship of such size has successfully eluded the rum chasers and slipped into the harbor.

U. S. GOBS ENTERTAINED

One Thing After Another for Fleet's Officers and Men.

MELBOURNE, July 28.—(AP)—Innumerable entertainments all day and all night still continued to hold the attention of the visiting officers and men of the United States fleet here today.

Fourteen hundred people including Admiral Robert E. Coontz and his party attended the English speaking union's ball last night, which was a spectacular scene. A riot of color and tropical foliage.

FIGHTS PASTOR, IS FINED.

Row Starts When Minister Says Daughter Disturbed Service.

MACON, Ga., July 27.—(AP)—A fight which occurred in the East Macon Baptist church yesterday between Rev. J. E. Tallant, the pastor, and Henry Griffin, father of a young woman in the congregation, who was accused of hissing at the pastor today, resulted in Griffin being fined $25 for disorderly conduct and his wife assessed a $5 fine on the same count. Charge against Rev. Tallant was dismissed.

The fight occurred as the pastor was shaking hands with his congregation in the rear of the building, Griffin having called him a "liar," witnesses said, when the pastor told him that his daughter disturbed worship.

World Golf Title Matches Arranged

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP).—Willie MacFarlane and Jim Barnes respectively American and British open champions, have agreed to play a series of matches for the world title, starting immediately after the western open championship in Youngstown, Ohio, August 18 to 20.

FATALLY BURNED.

Memphis Resident Dies From Effects of Fire in Home.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 27.—J. C. Norfleet, widely known cotton factor, was burned to death in his home here early today. A fire which started in an adjoining room spread rapidly to Mr. Norfleet's bedroom and he was so badly burned that he died while being taken to a hospital.

ROAD BOARD IN ACTIVE AWARDS OF PAVING AID

Contract Let for Clay Co. Work by Commission In Session Monday

BOWIE PLEA REFERRED

Total of $1,180,000 Doled Out by State for Improving Highways

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—State highway aid granted today by the Texas highway commission totaled $1,180,000, while contracts let reached $379,227, marking one of the most active days in the history of the commission. Too, a large number of roads were designated state highways by the commission.

Hardeman county was granted $600,000 with which to build a 32-mile road of brick, concrete or asphalt from the Wilbarger county line to the Childress county line. One hundred thousand dollars of the total grant will be available in 1926, while $250,000 will be available in 1927 and in 1928.

Atascosa county was granted $400,000 with which to construct a macadam base, asphalt top roads from Pleasanton to the Live Oak county line and Pleasanton to Jourdanton. The two roads will reach a total of 30 miles in length. Ninety thousand dollars will become available for Atascosa before July 1, 1926, while an additional $110,000 will be available in March 1927, and $200,000 available in November of the same year.

La Vaca county was granted $165,000 in aid; half available in 1926 and the remainder in 1927.

Kent county was granted $15,000, all available in 1926 for building a road four miles and a half long from highway 84 to the Stonewall county line.

The application of Bowie county for $5,021.25 with which to build a six-mile road from New Boston to three miles north of Corley was referred to H. J. Hanks, state highway engineer.

McGuire and Cavender, Sherman firm, was awarded contract, $301,201, to construct concrete roads 18 feet wide and 10.2 miles long in Bowie county.

The Ribetta Construction company, Fort Worth, was awarded two contracts in Clay county, one at $25,192 for building road 6.38 miles long and the other at $52,823 for a road 10.24 miles long.

New highways designated were roads from Williamson county line through the east end of Travis county to Bastrop county line, no funds to be spent on the road until 126, and the Taylor-Copeland road in Williamson county.

HEADS WORLD EDUCATORS.

Maine State Superintendent President of World Foundation.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 27.—(AP)—Augustus O. Thomas, state superintendent of public schools in Maine, today was re-elected president of the World Foundation of Education associations.

The federation closed its biennial conference today.

The leaders of the American delegation in Edinburgh pronounce the conference unusually successful. President Thomas said it was increasingly evident that the world's educational forces were determined to develop closer relation.

CLAIM CHURCH RECORD.

Galveston Woman Disputes Laurels Of Austin Goer.

GALVESTON, July 27.—Galveston has a marathon Sunday school attender who can answer the challenge of J. W. Farris of Austin, who recently admitted that he thought his record of 32 years without missing a Sunday was unequalled in the United States. In fact, the record of the Galveston champion outdistances Mr. Farris by 20 years.

Mrs. William Perkins has been to Sunday school every week since November 6, 1873, the day she joined the St. James Methodist church here.

HOSPITAL ACCUSED.

DALLAS, July 27.—Habeas corpus proceedings to obtain release of a young woman patient at Timberlawn hospital were filed here today by her attorney. It is claimed she is being forced to remain in the hospital.

Dr. Guy T. Witt, co-manager of the institution, was cited to appear tomorrow to show why the woman is restrained of her liberty.

"We Are Simple People, We Want All Arrangements Simply Made" —MRS. W. J. BRYAN

BODY OF GREAT COMMONER LIES A DAY IN STATE

Meanwhile Invalid Widow Works Out Funeral Arrangements at Dayton

DAYTON, Tenn., July 27.—(AP) Watched by his Dayton friends, the mortal form of William Jennings Bryan whose spirit fled away as he slept yesterday, lay in the front room of a simple southern home tonight while the invalid widow worked out plans for bearing the body of the former secretary of state to Washington for ultimate burial in the resting place of the nation's military heroes, Arlington cemetery.

Humble followers of the great Commoner came from the tree clad Cumberdand slopes late today to gaze for the last time on the face of him who was their champion of Christian faith and pay their last tribute of honor and high esteem.

Tomorrow afternoon, under a spreading maple on the lawn of the Richard Rogers residence where the former democratic chieftain spent his last days and breathed his last breath, a more formal ceremony will occur when the public is invited to view the remains of the dead leader as he lies in state within a casket of bronze.

Rites to Be Simple.

All details of the last rites for Mr. Bryan will be simple and without display, in accordance with the express wishes of Mrs. Bryan. The bereaved woman has borne her sorrow with unflinching courage and has at all times directed the arrangements for the care and burial of her husband's remains.

The schedule of the funeral party, as tentatively outlined late today by the widow and her group of solicitious advisers calls for the departure of the body from Dayton on a special railroad car Wednesday morning at 8:40 o'clock. After the first part of the long journey, the 40 miles to Chattanooga, has been made, the funeral car will be attached to the regular train of the Southern railway, which leaves for the nation's capital at 11:20 of the same morning. Knoxville, Bristol, Roanoke and Lynchburg are scheduled stops for the processions before the body of the dead statesman is brought to Washington.

In Washington it is planned to have the body lie in state for another period while thousands of friends and admirers march by to view the face of the man who fought so boldly in behalf of causes he held to be true and honorable.

Funeral on Friday.

On Friday at an hour to be determined as the events of the intervening days unfold, Mrs. Bryan believed tonight the bones of her husband, thrice

Mrs. Bryan Wanted Her Husband To Be Left for a Few Years Longer; The World, She Thinks, Needs Him

Her First Duty Was to Arrange for His Burial In Arlington Cemetery

DAYTON, Tenn., July 27.—(AP)—Speaking of her husband's death today Mrs. William Jennings Bryan said:

"My husband and I often used to talk about what should be done in such an event. He wanted to be buried in Arlington if it could be arranged. I am trying to arrange it. It was his wish and I think it is proper and fitting, for he battled for America, too, as he battled for the God of his fathers, courageously, unafraid.

Writing Memoirs.

"Oh, I so wanted him to be left to me for a few years. There are so many things that he was needed for. He was writing his memoirs. The world needs his memoirs. They told of the great stretch of American history and we so wanted to make his trip to the Holy Land next February."

One of Mrs. Bryan's first duties was to telegraph the great commoner's former secretary and intimate friend for many years, Ben G. Davis. He is now at Takoma Park, a suburb of Washington. She wanted him to go through the necessary formalities for the Arlington burial. She also telegraphed her husband's present secretary, Walter Thompson, who was in Dayton with him through the Scopes trial.

Son Is Informed.

She reached her son, William Jennings Bryan, Jr., over the long distance telephone and gave him what encouragement she could. She told him to meet her in Washington unless plans had to be changed.

While in Chattanooga Friday Mr. Bryan arranged for the printing of his undelivered address which he had planned to release to the press the end of this week. He read proof late Friday night and left early Saturday for Winchester. Saturday night he returned to Chattanooga for a last reading of the proofs and then came to Dayton.

OFFICIAL NOTE TAKEN BY U. S. OF BRYAN LOSS

Coolidge Directs Kellogg To Make an Official Announcement

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—By direction of President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg today formally announced for the government the death of William Jennings Bryan. The announcement follows:

"By direction of the president, the undersigned is charged with the sad duty of announcing the death on July 26, 1925, at Dayton, Tenn., of William Jennings Bryan, a distinguished citizen of the United States formerly a representative in congress from the state of Nebraska, a colonel in the Spanish-American war and secretary of state.

In all these capacities his services were characterized by a faithfulness to duty and a devotion to public interest. His private life was one for the emulation of all American citizens. Thrice the nominee of a great political party, his death will be especially mourned by a large personal following who held him in affectionate esteem.

"As a testimony of this respect it is ordered by the president that the national flag be displayed at half-staff on the national buildings at Washington on the date of the funeral.

(Signed by)

"FRANK B. KELLOGG."

BRYAN WANTED ARLINGTON.

Burial in Cemetery in Accordance With His Wish.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—William Jennings Bryan's burial in Arlington national cemetery, Virginia, will be in accordance with wishes expressed by him in his last visit to the national capital more than a year ago. That time Mr. Bryan went to the home of his intimate friend, Ben G. Davis, in a suburb, and requested that Mr. Davis do the favor of arranging his burial in Arlington.

"It matters not where I may die," the commoner said, "I want to be buried in Arlington. Will you remember this request?"

Mr. Bryan told his wife of the talk with Mr. Davis and it was to the latter Mrs. Bryan turned yesterday, authorizing him in a telegram from Dayton, Tenn., to carry out the request of her husband.

Mr. Davis obtained permission today for the interment in Arlington. Details as to the time of the funeral and the selection of a site in the great cemetery have not been completed.

TRUST IN FAITH OF PROVIDENCE URGED BY CAL

President's Condolence Is Forwarded Late Monday To Mrs. Bryan

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 27.—(AP)—President Coolidge late today sent the following letter of condolence to the widow of William Jennings Bryan:

"My dear Mrs. Bryan:

"The sudden death of Mr. Bryan brought a sense of personal loss to Mrs. Coolidge and myself. It was only the other day that he had been our guest at the White House. We wish to extend to you and your family our most heartfelt sympathy.

"Mr. Bryan has been a prominent figure in public affairs for a third of a century. He has been a leader in the advocacy of many moral reforms and was urgent of the purity of our political life.

"He was endowed with the great gift of eloquence. The sincerity of his motives was beyond dispute. He was three times chosen head of a great political party and held the exalted office of secretary of state. His career was another example of what American opportunity affords to those who have the will industriously to apply themselves. It would be difficult to find among his contemporaries any one with so large a circle of friends and acquaintances who had so generously bestowed upon him their esteem and confidence.

"I trust that you may be given great consolation in remembering all his worth and in the abiding faith that a Devine Providence has ordered all things well."

MA CONDOLES MRS. BRYAN.

Texas Governor Sends Message to Dayton.

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today sent the following message to Mrs. William J. Bryan at Dayton, Tenn., expressing condolence over the death of William Jennings Bryan.

"With deep regret, I learned of the passing of the great commoner, William Jennings Bryan, who has been such a vital factor in the political and religious life of our nation, and who fought for the teachings of Jesus Christ to the end. He was loved and admired throughout all Texas. Permit me to extend to you the heartfelt sympathy of this state."

Obituary of Bryan Came Near Being Written 29 Years Ago When Beetle Was Sucked Down Into His Windpipe

Accident Occurred on His First Tour for Presidency; Doctors Were Forced to Work Quickly

RALEIGH, N. C., July 27.—(AP)—But for the quick work of surgeons the obituaries of William Jennings Bryan would have been printed 29 years ago and they would have carried the date line "Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 26, 1896." The story is printed for the first time in today's Raleigh News and Observer, of which Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the Wilson administration, is owner.

Bryan, then the youthful demigod of democracy, was swinging through the south in his first campaign for the presidency. He spoke to twenty thousand people here that night and but few noticed the sharp convulsion of pain that overspread his face as he concluded or that he slumped toward his chair. Those near him saw it and sensed that something was wrong. They moved instantly to him and discovered he was unable to speak.

He was hurriedly removed to his room where an examination disclosed that with his last inhalation as he concluded his speech he had sucked into his windpipe an enormous beetle. It was a hard winged, sharp-legged night flyer of the species still common to this section. The presidential candidate suffered painful lacerations of his throat, but he quickly recovered and the next day continued his trip throughout the southern states. The press dispatches of that night bore no reference to it, but for the timely aid of those close to him he would have choked to death.

JAPAN MOURNS COMMONER.

Prime Minister Expresses Words of Regret.

TOKYO, July 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Shidehara, when appraised of the death of William Jennings Bryan, said:

"The death of Mr. Bryan is a great loss not only to his own country, but to the whole world. His courage in supporting the cause of international peace and friendship has been inspiring and we in Japan while continuing to benefit from his example, feel a deep sense of loss of the active sympathy he always displayed towards Japan."

GULF GETS AN EXTENSION IN SOUTH ARCHER

Number One Weir Comes In As a Small Well At 1284 Feet

Effecting a quarter mile extension to the north and west of the Muse pool on the Lowe land in section 2, Crawford Pasture, the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Weir, came in Monday as a mall producer, swabbing 35 barrels from sand 1,284 to 1,286 feet. The well, although small, extends production several locations in this new south Archer pool and is therefore of more or less interest to the oil fraternity.

White Eagle-Wilson

In the Burns-Maxson pool and located 450 feet north and 150 feet west of the southeast corner of the west half of lot 1 the White Eagle Petroleum corporation rae setting casing and bailing a sand showing plenty of oil which was topped at 1,422 feet. Burns has made location to offset and will be rigging up in the next few days.

WOULD DISMISS MONKEY CASE

Wittner Action Asked to Be Thrown Out of Court.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Washington authorities asked the District of Columbia supreme court today to dismiss the action of Loren H. Wittner, who charged school authorities with teaching disrespect for the Holy Bible. The court was asked to set Friday as the date for hearing on the motion and this probably will postpone the hearing on Wittner's complaint which was scheduled for tomorrow.

GLASS COMPANY POSTS CUT.

Foreign Competition Is Cause of Decrease.

PITTSBURGH, July 27.—Foreign competition caused the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company to announce today a 25 per cent cut in price of its product, effective at once. The announcement reported "large and increasing importations of plate glass from Belgium, France and England and a decreased domestic demand at irregular prices," adding that the price reduction was ordered in an effort "to meet foreign competition and stimulate distribution of plate glass of the company."

POISON VICTIM TO FT. WORTH.

Body of Girl Who Died at Muskogee Is Sent Home.

FORT WORTH, July 27.—The body of Louise Poston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Poston, 2211 Washington, who died at Muskogee, Okla., Saturday night of the effects of poisoning, was returned to Fort Worth Monday. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Miss Poston was removed from a passenger train at Muskogee a week ago when she became ill. Hospital attendants learned her name and notified her parents.

News Of The Fields

George Pace-Wilson

To the west of the Burns-Maxson pool on the Archer City road and in the southeast corner of the Wm. Walwer survey, George Pace has abandoned his No. 1 Wilson as a dry hole at 1,450 feet. The well had a slight show about 1,400 feet, but was not considered sufficient to warrant a warrant a test.

Lomax-Wilson

To the west of the Barkley Meadow pool Lomax and associates are drilling at 1,300 feet on their No. 2 Wilson, located 1,110 feet south and 150 feet west of the northeast corner of lot 1, section 88, A. T. N. C. survey, Archer county.

Burns-Wilson

Burns & Maxson have what is estimated as a 60-barrel well in their No. 5 Wilson, located 300 feet to the northwest of No. 4 in block 75, A. T. N. C. survey. Sand topped at 1,406 feet was but scratched when oil rose rapidly in the hole. The well will be cleaned and equipped to pump. The rig will be skidded to the second location in the southwest corner of the lease for No. 6.

Staley et al-Waggoner

On the J. Waggoner land in the G. H. survey, Wichita county and about 4 miles south of Fowlkes station, Staley & Wynne have to all appearances a 20-barrel well in their No. 1 wildcat from sand 1,540-46 feet.

Texhoma-Portwood

On the Jortwood land and located in the northwest quarter of section 1,587 T. E. & L. survey, Baylor county the Texhoma Oil & Refining company are abandoning their No. 2 after testing salt water from sand topped at 1,404. This test which is to the south of the Magnolia's abandoned producer marks Texhoma's third attempt to get production on their Portwood lease. The bottom of the hole is 1,415 1-2 feet.

Cullen & Perkins-Anderson

In the Norday pool and to the south of their No. 1 producer, Cullum & Perkins have sands on their Nos. 2 and 3 which they are setting casing on and cementing. Sand in No. 2 which is located in the southwest corner of the lease was topped at 1,425 feet, while in No. 3 which lies between Nos. 1 and 2 sand was topped at 1,415 feet. The sand in both wells is showing lots of oil and will undoubtedly make nice producers when drilled in the later part of the week.

Empire-Anderson

Offsetting Weldon and associates small producer to the north and in section 21, S. A. R. survey, the Empire Gas & Fuel are feeling for sand in their No. 4 Anderson at 1,400 feet.

Maer & Staniforth Mills

In the Mills Pool, Baylor county, Maer & Staniforth are drilling at 1,200 feet in their No. 3, located 300 feet to the east of their No. 2 producer in the southeast quarter of section 2,428, T. E. & L. survey.

BODY OF

the presidential nominee of his party, would be laid to final earthly rest. These plans, it was made clear tonight were subject to revision.

From far western states two daughters and William Jennings Bryan, the younger, hastened tonight to join their mother in Dayton or in Washington. Their messages of tender sympathy and love soothed her aching heart today. From Los Angeles the younger Bryan and his sister, Mrs. Richard Hargreaves, were on their way to the chosen site of burial. Mrs. Ruth Owen was looked for here early tomorrow. She left a scheduled chautauqua performance to rush to her stricken mother's side.

Upon the wishes of these three the final decison and plannng depends. More definite announcement is expected as to funeral and interment arrangements when Mrs. Owen reaches Dayton.

Prosecution Sorrows.

Gathered around the house of death today, where the spirit of the Commoner left his body, were members of the prosecution counsel in the Scopes evolution trial, in whose association Mr. Bryan spent his last days and efforts. They never left his sleeping form nor removed themselves far from the sight of that placid face whose determined lines had sotfened into the untroubled calm of perfect rest.

The dead man's constant companions today were the local lawyers, Sue K. Hicks, Herbert Hicks, Dan G. McKenzie, Gordon McKenzie and Wallace Haggard. Repeated visits were paid to the Rogers home by Attorney General A. T. Stewart, official head of the recent Scopes prosecution and by Judge John T. Raulston, who presided at the noted case.

His friends talked among themselves of the vigor which Mr. Bryan had showed in the days preceding his unexpected death. At Winchester on Friday the Commoner had spoken to a vast throng of cheering men and women, with his accustomed eloquence and power. On the return trip he had declared to the attorney general that he "felt fine."

They spoke, too, of the heat of the long and bitterly contested fight over the Tennessee evolution law. They felt that the strain of the trial with its oppressive weather and intensity of excitement had weakened the fundamentalist leader's system and sapped his strength. They recounted the last utterances of Mr. Bryan and showed their deep grief at his departure.

"There lies the noblest hero of these times," was the tribute of his associates as voiced in muffled tones by Ben McKenzie.

Telegrams Pour In.

From all parts of the United States telegrams poured in by hundreds today to tell the widow of the sorrow of millions and the sympathy of uncounted thousands in her loss.

Mrs. Bryan, seated in her rolling chair, at intervals throughout the day listened to the reading of these messages by her constant attendants. Her well controlled grief seemed assuaged by the assurance of loving hearts which turned to her in condolence.

It had been first planned to place the body in state for public viewing this afternoon and announcement was made to this effect. Later, when it became evident that thousands who would wish to see once more the face of their loved leader could not arrive today, Mrs. Bryan directed that this opportunity be delayed until tomorrow afternoon.

As a guard of honor at the viewing of the remains tomorrow, the local post of the American Legion has chosen a detail of six former soldiers and sailors who will be on duty in uniform and without arms.

Mrs. Bryan earlier today declined with expressions of deep appreciation the offer of Dayton men to form a military guard of honor to attend Mr. Bryan on his last earthly journey. She urged that all ostentation and show be avoided.

Flags at Half Mast.

"We are simple people," the widow of the Commoner said, after a brief pause in which she considered the kindly proposal, "and we want all arrangements simply made."

In tribute to the honored dead Dayton's flags were flown at half staff today and Dayton merchants dispensed with the customary business until the late afternoon. The business holiday was by proclamation of Mayor Haggard who called on the citizens to refrain from their usual duties for a period of hours. Pasted on the front windows of Robinson's drug store, the proclamation said of Mr. Bryan:

"He fell while in line of duty to the cause dearest to his heart. * * *

"All Dayton mourns his untimely death."

WICHITA BRIDGE

granted $163,000 state aid on the bridge, the bridge to cost a total of approxillately $430,000.

Three Bridges.

Interstate bridges will be built at Orange, Paris and Burkburnett, it was indicated at the highway department Monday, despite rulings that Texas funds could not be used on projects outside the state.

The Paris-Hugo bridge, first stopped because of this ruling, is to be built in two separate projects, contracts to be let in each state. Federal can and will be applied to the two projects, according to information received by the Texas authorities.

A request for an opinion is now before the attorney general on the Texas-Louisiana bridge at Orange, whether the entire turn bridge can be constructed on the Texas side of the river. Local financing is said to assure completion of the Louisiana side of the project.

County Judge B. D. Sartin and W. T. Willis of Wichita county were here Monday and appeared before Attorney General Dan Moody for a ruling on the local law specially authorizing the county to participate in building the Burkburnett bridge. Regardless of the efficacy of this special law, under the means which have been found in the two other interstate bridges, construction of the Wichita-Cotton county bridge is considered assured. The opinion has not yet been rendered the Wichita county officials.

Protest to Be Filed.

Protest was to be filed today by W. T. Willis of Burkburnett, against the proposed construction of a free bridge across Red river. Willis, who said he has been operating a toll bridge at Burkburnett for 15 years for J. E. Harden, J. I. Staley and J. A. Staley, said he will tell the highway commission that another bridge is not necessary. He said the toll bridge accommodated all the traffic and that no emergency existed.

Wichita county citizens in favor of the construction o fthe proposed $300,000 bridge, contend that the bridge would complete an artery of commerce through that section and tap a rich cotton growing region of a 30-mile radius.

Through a special act of the 39th legislature, Wichita county was authorized to negotiate with Oklahoma for the construction of the bridge. Later, Attorney General Moody ruled that state and federal funds could not be used in construction of bridges beyond the territorial limits of the state, and following that, was an opinion b ythe attorney general stating that the Wichita county bridge did not come under the general law.

Thus the project was cleared up to the federal law question, on which Attorney General Moody and the Wichita county authorities will confer late today.

The contention of Judge Sartin of Wichita county that the county had obtained "implied" authority from congress through enactment of the federal highway act and the federal bureau of public roads was upheld by the attorney general.

Immediately upon receiving the opinion, Judge Sartin and a large delegation of Wichita county citizens urged the highway commission to reaffirm its allotment of $163,000 state and federal aid and to authorize Wichita county to let the contract for the bridge which will cost approximately $400,000. Action was postponed by the commission.

Judge Sartin said the attorney general's opinion will mean the end of toll bridges.

Construction of the bridge was authorized by special action of the 39th legislature and the attorney holds in his opinion addressed to Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the commission, "that the highway commission has authority to provide state and federal aid for this bridge project under similar terms and conditions as is authorized by general law for the granting of state and federal aid to road and bridge projects in the state.

Congress' Intent Plain.

"The intention seems plain on the part of congress," the opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General L. C. Sutton, read, "that states should build interstate bridges with the aid of federal government, and an appropriate means to that end is, in our opinion, agreement between the states after securing, of course, the proper state legislative authority. Congress is presumed to have known that it would be necessary for states to agree with each other in order to construct interstate bridges, and while state authorities do not look to congress for their authority to act as agencies of the state, the latter may give its consent as provided in the federal constitution. We think congress did in the enactment of the highway act."

Mr. Sutton stressed the fact the opinion was not written under the general law, but under the special act of the 39th legislature.

BRYAN'S BODY

the pompous tribute of a great government for a fallen leader of the people. Those of his friends who are doing for him the last earthly service believe he would approve of no funeral program but the simplest.

Nation to Pay Honor.

In other ways, however, the government and the nation will do what they are permitted to do to honor him. By direction of President Coolidge flags on the government buildings fly at half mast on the funeral day. His body will lie in state for a time, too after its arrival here Thursday morning, but it is doubtful whether this final public tribute will be paid in any public building.

Not until Friday will the family circle be complete and the funeral services that afternoon probably will be held in the Washington place of worship where Mr. Bryan was a constant attendant during the days of his service in the cabinet.

The place of his entombment at Arlington was chosen today by a friend of many years, Ben G. Davis, to whom the former secretary had expressed more than once the desire to sleep in the historic national burying ground. He loved the serenity of the sweep of wooded ridge, rising in gentle folds from the Potomac. He wanted too, to lie close to the nation's memorial to Abraham Lincoln, whom he loved and that wish will be fulfilled.

A Beautiful Spot.

The chosen place is one of the most beautiful in Arlington.

Within a stone's throw of the summit of the highest ridge, his grave will be upon the bosom of a wide, unshaded sweep, grass-grown and fringed far off with old oaks. Clearly visible across the placid river lies the capital city, a panorama of historic land marks; the shore shaft of the Washington monument. The austere colonade of Lincoln memorial and the majestic grey-white dome of the capitol.

Nearer by, rising in beauty the great and small stones of remembrance set above the rust of those who have served their country in high places and low, at home and in far corners of the world, on land and sea, long since and yesterday. Within sight is the central memorial of them all, the tomb of the unknown soldier, rising before the marble facade of the memorial amphitheater. Only a sew steps away is the vault wherein Dewey rested until recently.

Further along the crest Sheridan sleeps almost at the door step of the old memorial mansion that once was the home of Lee. Each in his own appointed place of bivouac, Joe Wheeler, Phil Kearney, PoPrter, Sampson and Miles keep the watch of eternity. There is among them one other, General Walter Q. Gresham, who in his time was both soldier and secretary of state.

Until the thoughts of the dead Commoner's friends have travelled on to the erection of an enduring monument to him, only a small and homely marker will inform the passing world who lies beneath.

One Killed; Another Boy Shot on Road

SULPHUR SPRINGS, July 27.—Clarence Smith, 19, was shot to death and his companion, Clyde Underwood, was seriously wounded when they were fired upon while walking together on a highway five miles southwest of here last night. A man was arrested near the scene by Sheriff Smith and is held pending preliminary trial. A shotgun was said to have been used.

The young men had been forbidden by the man held from associating with his daughter, it was declared. Underwood was brought to his home here and was in a critical condition tonight.

THE RIGHT PLAN.

Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, who heads the democratic congressional committee, has the right plan of campaign for the party to win in the elections of 1926. To the party meetings soon to be held throughout the west, he will carry the slogan, 'Educate, organize, Fight." Those who follow the symbol of the donkey need scarcely be told to fight. Their reputation as stubborn political controversalists should remove any doubt upon this score. But perhaps it is well to combine the needless exhortation to fight with necessary admonitions to educate and organize. In a word, the democrats, in order to win, must learn how to conduct an ably directed and thoroughly organized fight.

The essential militancy and correctness of democracy have too often blinded its advoates to the value of informative campaigns and of solid political organization. They have depended almost wholly upon the sincerity of their belief and the worth of the basic principles to which they adhere. Having so much the better cause to defend, they have frequently lost through over-confidence and neglect of supplemental measures. They can repair their errors by learning from a party which is very poor in principle and aggressive belief but strong in organization and educational campaigning.

To keep up their political fences, to continually inform the people of whatever they have done in office, no matter how small may be its merit, has been the winning policy of the republicans during the last five years. They have been administrators and party organizers rather than statesmen and political philosophers. Able rather than wise, they have enjoyed a degree of success which does not seem to have been their due. Unquestionably, they would not have fared so well had not the democrats been weak in the very respect in which the republicans were strong. Their victories have been won largely on the failures of the opposition. In their triumph they have remained disunited and without the control of a directing aim.

By borrowing the republicans' methods without losing the force of their own convictions or the superiority of their political faith, the democrats can win a victory which will not be qualified by subsequent schisms proceeding from the lack of a great central purpose. If the right kind of organization is once acquired and thorough campaigning undertaken, such advantages should be retained without the sacrifice of those ideals which so powerfully appeal to popular sentiment and make the democratic party the party of the people. But to graft republican methods upon the stock of sterling democratic principle requires the greatest capacity which can be commanded. As always, the people look for leadership, and unless they find it they will refuse to support any movement, whether it be political or otherwise.

Representative Oldfield knows what is needed. He urges his party to nominate its strongest men for congress. He deprecates the undervaluing of the congressional career. "No man," he insists, "is too big to run for congress." The unfortunate thing is that many men of large caliber think they are too big for congress. They devote themselves to private occupations and leave the laws of their country to be made by second-rate men. The democratic party, of course, suffers from this neglect more than the republican party because it puts greater dependence in the individual political convictions and personal worth of its leaders. Party loyalty and devotion to the country's welfare alike should induce the most capable men to offer themselves in the 1926 campaign to carry the democratic cause to victory.

MOVIES AND THEIR MILLIONS.

New York is the wonder city of the world. New York will have a fifteen million dollar cathedral when St. John the Divine has received its finishing touches. Now New York is to have the largest movie theatre in the world. It will be known as the Roxy and its cost will be seven million dollars. Its builder, S. L. Rothafel, is one of the kings in the movie world. He has planned to build in the near future six film houses or huge motion picture houses. The Roxy is to have a seating capacity of 6,212 and it will be one of a string of the largeest show houses in America.

It is useless to criticise. It is useless to bark at the moving picture. It is here to stay. It is one of the great educators. Like the auto, it has revolutionized the civilized world and has aided in the creation of a new civilization. This old world is going forward. Revolutions never turn backward. In staging the Scopes case in Tennessee the promoters unwittingly ushered in a part of a new civilization. Now the millions who never gave evolution a thought are buying and reading books. Now the boys and girls of America who thirst for knowledge are adventuring into a new field.

Men are mere accidents. Knowledge is everything. It is impossible for the faults to survive the final test. It is impossible for truth to be crushed forever.

JOHN BULL IS WORRIED.

A London cablegram says no improvement in the general trend of Great Britian's foreign trade is noticeable. The high level of imports with failure of exports to expand means that this year England shll, fo rthe first time in history, have a balance on the wrong side of the ledger. In the month of June, this year, exports declined to 69,500,000 pounds sterling while imports rose to 111,000,000 pounds sterling. All this spells commercial decay.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Something to Be Doing.

I know a hard headed business man who is worried because his collegiate son is more interested in making sure that his trouser legs shall be exactly twelve inches wide than in making sure that he will pass his next examinations.

I also know an old-fashioned mother who is much troubled because her daughter insists on wearing a skirt which is about as wide as one collegiate trouser leg.

Most of the ideas about dress and dances and manners generally possessed by children give their parents a great deal of unnecessary sorrow.

But this is no more true today than it was fifty years ago.

To all parents all children are strange and surprising.

Watch the distress of a mother bird as she sees her nestlings trying to fly, and her manifest astonishment that they cannot at will soar in the air exactly as she does, and you will have an excellent example of excessive parental solicitude.

Unless children are actually vicious, their idiosyncracies are nothing to lose sleep over.

They are something to think about and something to be doing.

And though they may be strange in adult eyes, are wholly harmless.

The knowledge of the world that boys and girls have today shocks and grieves their grandmothers, yet it is really a protection.

Innocence was not nearly as securely guarded in the so-called "age of innocence" as it is now when children discuss subjects frankly whose mere mention would have caused them to be sent to bed fifty or sixty years ago.

Naturally they are interested in life and all of its manifestations.

One of its manifestations just now happens to be jazz music. Another is the craze for wide trousers.

Jazz music may not be music at all to the ears of people who were brought up on "Annie Laurie" and "Ben Bolt," but it is real music to the younger generation, and music still means inspiration even though it be syncopation as well.

Boys and girls need not only something to do, but a great deal to do.

Their minds are alert and active.

They take their food for thought as it comes, without being especially careful about the bill of fare.

They interest themselves mainly in things which may seem queer and bizarre, and come to no harm by it.

College scholarship is today higher than it used to be. Vice among children is not so prevalent.

And underlying all the seeming folly is a vein of common sense which increases by contact with the world, and which will save them in the end even if they do seem to their elders to be temporarily insane.

The children will be the elders by and by, and will have worries about theor own children. Till then it is just as well to let them have their fling.

BRITAIN AGAIN REPENTS.

Great Britain is again repenting the bargain with soviet Russia by which she granted political recognition in exchange for trade privileges that are non-existent. She has gone through an election upheaval and a diplomatic crisis to partially cleanse her house of Russian propagandists. Now she is faced with the consequences of a positive break with Russia, which probably will mean an intensification of the sort of war of propaganda which Russia wages against those countries that have foolishly been her friends. Britain is pausing to consider the matter before she takes a step beyond recall. But the alternatives seem clearly to be those of accepting a new danger at home or seeing her eastern possessions and interests threatened by soviet agitation.

Always concerned for the security of her commercial empire, Britain will likely choose to defend her far flung eastern possessions even at the cost of neglecting safety measures at home. Russia has been able by secret means to spread the zone of trouble in south China until far eastern British interests which center in that section are in imminent peril of extincion. The Chinese there, who are nationalists rather than communists, have listened to the soviet agitators because they have found in the voices of the latter a protest against the aims of the great powers that agree with their own sentiment of opposition to foreign control. The bitter secret hatered of the soviets for organized authority has worked havoc with this sentiment until it has become a flaming hatred threatening a general confragration.

Britain is forced to take cognizance of this major disturbance at the very doors of India and her Pacific possessions. If she does not act soon she may find that she has suffered mischief beyond repair. India and her interests in the east are none too securely held by Britain. Almost anything, in fact, might cause their loss. A profound stirring of eastern feeling, a wide revolt against the west or even a general awakening might dissolve the bands which bind them to Britain. Then there is the hidden menace that in such a disruption Russia might gain the predominant position, becoming the successful rival of Britain for the possession of the east.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

This is the electric age. And now the farmer is coming into his own. A generation ago he made no use of electricity. Now the master of the National Grange says the last decade has seen a transformation along the lines of the use of electricity in farm houses and farm work. His verdict is the farm electrical plant has been most valuable and he declared the farmer in many sections will be vitally concerned in the development of high tension power lines and proper transmission of electrical current for rural uses.

And Texas is not behind in the procession. Texas water-ways are being harnessed. Texas power companies are spreading their lines over the commonwealth. It is a long call from the ox-cart and the tallow dip to the motor truck and the electric current. In the near future the rivers of Texas will be damned and cotton and woolen mills will dot the banks of the rivers.

Power can be transmitted any and everywhere. Texas has all the raw materials. Texas has the soil and the climate. Texas has the labor. There is no reason why Texas, the Texas of the electric age, should not be among the chief manufacturing states.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Leo—July 28th.

The very favorable aspects that prevailed toward the latter part of yesterday continue in full force until about noon today. A rather sudden change is then evident, and they become drab and negative. During the morning, you can travel "full steam ahead," in the assurance that all intelligent effort, backed by concentration and driving power, will lead ultimately to success. After mid-day, it is advisable to "let up" a little, as the results cannot be prognosticated with any degree of certainty. While a "do nothing" policy cannot be too strenuously condemned, more deliberation, added caution ,and a more careful analysis of conditions will be required in the afternoon than in the earlier period of the day.

A child born today will not, at birth, display that sturdiness and generally sound physical conditions which all parents hope to see in their offspring. This, however, need not cause either worry or anxiety, as with proper care and nutrition, and as a result of latent force and recuperative power, this child will, with the passing years, attain physical normalcy. Its dispositions, while generally attractive and pleasing, will, at times, show signs of selfishness, and it must be taught in its early youth the compensations and blessings of consideration for others. It will be persevering and ambitious, and more devoted to reading and study than to outdoor pastimes or recreations.

If today is your birthday, you have a very keen mind, so long as you keep it intent on one subject. You lack versatility, and, as a result of obsessions, very frequently fail to take full advantage of opportunity when it knocks at your door. The matter you have in hand engrosses your attention to such an extent that you can neither look to the left or the right. You are energetic, somewhat nervous, and inclined to be petulant, especially if working under a mental strain. On the other hand, if everything is going well with you, and your mind is free from anxiety, your disposition is winsome, your nature kind, and your inclinations sympathetic.

You have a horror of everything that is ugly, and all your tendencies are in the direction of culture and beauty. You have a wonderful love for children, which is reciprocated, and the strong probability is that you will find your greatest happiness in the home.

Successful people born on this date are:

Charles Stewart, naval officer.
William Mathews, author.
John H. Brown, inventor.
Balington Booth, reformer.
Mary Anderson, actress.
Elisha S. Converse, capitalist.

HOW IT STARTED

The "Mall."

One of the most famous "malls" in the country is that in Central park in New York City. But the term is commonly used all over the country for a public promenade and names usually the broadest and most beautiful walk in a park.

"Mall" is derived from the Latin "malleus," meaning a mallet, and our use of the word in the modern sense goes back to the old English game of pall-mall, which literally meant "ball and mael." It was from the circumstance that the open space where the game was played was called in London a "pall-mall alley," then just a "pall mall" which abbreviated, became "mall," that the word came to be applied to any open walk and later to the most popular promenade of a city or the broadest walk in a park.

IRRIGATION

The Road From Mabelle to Lake Kemp.

We recently pointed out the limited rights the district has in the 40-acre tract on which the caretakers' house is located at Lake Kemp. The purposes for which this land may be used are strictly limited and the public has no right on it at all.

The rirghts of the public road leading from the main Wichita Falls-Seymour highway at Maybelle to Lake Kemp are better protected. At least there are no restrictions as long as you stay on the road.

The first part of the third paragraph of section three of the contract between Mr. Waggoner and the district governs this and reads substantially as follows:

"The party of the first part (Mr. Waggoner) grants to the party of the second part (the irrigation district) a right of way for a road sixty feet wide, leading from a point on the Wichita Valley railroad, near the station of Maybelle, in Baylor county, Texas, to the camp site above referred to, by the most practicable and direct route over the lands belonging to the party of the first part."

Here at least is one section of the Waggoner ranch granted to the irrigation district on which the public apparently has all the rights granted on any public highway.

You have a right of way which allows you to get to Lake Kemp, but once there your rights cease unless you have the dollar to dig up to get through the big fence.

ROCK ISLAND PROFITS GROW.

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP)—Net railway operating income of the Rock Island lines for June, 1925, was $1,194,274, an increase of $1,012,554 over the preceding month and an increase of $687,118 over June last year.

Letters From The People

CORRECT PRICE ESTIMATE

Editor Record News:

Your paper of Sunday morning carried a report of my talk touching on our irrigation problem here, made before the realty board last Saturday noon. One point I must correct.

You quote me as saying that I now believe land to be worth (with water, of course) any where from $150 to $175 per acre. What I did say was that I believe the land to be worth any where from $100.00 to $150.00 per acre. It would be as regrettable a fact to get our land prices too high as it is to keep this irrigable land in too large individual holdings.

For the success of our irrigation system, and that means the success our city and outlying country, we must get the ownery of large farms 40 to 80 acres for individuals to farm, which is about all one man can successfully handle in this country alone.

Very truly yours,
T. B. NOBLE.

WOMAN FLEES FROM BLACK.

Negro Chases Her Several Hours in Woods.

SAN ANTONIO, July 27—Her body badly scratched from thorns, barefooted and with clothing almost torn off, Miss Katherine Smith was taken to police headquarters at 5:30 a. m. Monday, where she told of having fled from a negro bandit who chased her through woods for several hours after robbing her and her companion.

Miss Smith finally fell exhausted at the home of August Petterman at Water street and Southern Pacific tracks, where she reported her experience.

GAS DOWN TO 18 CENTS

That Is, in Fort Worth, Not in Wichita Falls.

FORT WORTH, July 27.—Eighteen cents a gallon was the new price that greeted autoists Sunday at many small filling stations.

Most of the larger "chain stations" still are selling at 20 cents.

Of course, he adored the baby, but his wife still meant more to him than anything else in the world. He began to wonder if Enid had quarreled with Ronald: he even wondered if they were meeting clandestinely, but he dismissed this thought when he met Ronald one day on the street, and saw that he was looking really ill.

CHAPTER XLVI

Facing It.

One night Lucien returned home and went as usual directly into the nursery. When he came out and entered the living room, he found Snid buried in a book. She did not look up as he entered, she affected not to hear him and he looked at her for a moment without speaking. She knew, of course, that he was there, but her eyes remained fixed on the pages of her book. After a moment she turned a page, still without looking up. It was then that Lucien spoke:

"Enid."

She raised her violet eyes absently.

"Yes. Oh, good evening, Lucien: I didn't know that you were there."

He dropped into a chair and without preamble went on evenly.

"It's getting warm in the city. Would you like to go away somewhere? It might be better for Zell?"

"It might be a good idea," Enid returned quickly. She was thinking that at last she could escape and be alone with the baby. For a lot of reasons she would like to leave town: the situation would not be so unbearable once she was away.

"I'll make arrangements to get away Saturday," Lucien went on. "I'm in need of a vacation myself."

"You mean that you would go with us?"

"Of course."

It was on the tip of Enid's tongue to flame out at him, to say that under such circumstances she would not leave the city, but, strangely enough, she kept silent, and it wasn't until later that she realized why. She had been afraid of Lucien's retort. She felt felt that whether she left the city or not, he would insist upon taking the baby away. She felt that it made no real difference to him whether she went or not, and she was quite well aware that in a battle with him she would come out worsted with her pride trailing in the dust.

The matter was left indefinite, as Enid had not answered Lucien's last remarks. But that night alone in her room she reflected for the first time on the change in his attitude. He hated her now as much as she hated him. He cared for nothing but the child; it was the one thing that kept him near her. For the first time in her life Enid Austin Grant knew what it was to be lonely. She realized that she had no one to confide in, no one who would be interested in her affairs. Even her parents had taken a strange attitude of late. Her father had been particularly disinterested in her affairs, and he had gone out of his way to praise Lucien and to say what a fine man he was.

"I'm glad you've decided to be sensible, Enid," was the nearest he had come to a personal remark, and, although Enid had been tempted to cry out that she had hne nothing to do with Lucien's return, and that he had literally forced himself on her, she checked the impulse because she felt that her father would not sympathize with her, his sympathies were with her husband.

For the first time she realized how deteminedly she had kept her friends from touching anything but the surfacce of her life. With the women she knew she had never encouraged confidences. Never offered any. There had never been any cozy intimacies, any exchange of women's casual prattle. Always she had preferred to remain aloof and while she knew people liked her and liked being with her, she knew that she was not loved. Once she had rejoiced in this knowledge; now, because it isolated her, she felt the lack of human contacts.

She felt that she might have found happiness in living for Zell, but now even that privilege had been taken from her. Lucien stood between her and the baby. Zell was no longer her own possession—she was shared. It hardly seemed fair, but it was true.

And now Lucien wanted to take the baby away somewhere, and because he wanted it, and because she must be with Zell, she would have to trail along. The very thought was intolerable.

CHAPTER XLVII

More Revelations.

For the first time in her life, Enid, who had always had her own way and had accepted as her right the fact that other people would see things that way, was being swept along by an irresistible force.

To be sure, the matter of leaving town had been left indefinite, nothing had been settled, but on Thursday of that week Lucien calmly announced that everything was arranged for them to get away on Saturday. Enid opened her mouth to speak, and promptly closed it again. The thought of battling against Lucien's will was more than she wanted to contemplate. If, in an argument with him, he would come out in the open to conduct his warfare, things might have been easier. But his manner of taking it for granted that she would obey him, his quiet forcefulness, left her at a loss. It was too much of an effort to protest, particularly when she realized how utterly indifferent he was to her wishes. It was no longer what she wanted that mattered. He decided, and there was nothing left to her but to obey unless she wanted to sacrifice her pride and dignity.

And so when Lucien remarked evenly, "Our train leaves Saturday at 2 o'clock," she writhed inwardly, but made no comment. It was better in her estimation to seem mysterious and say nothing than to give him the satisfaction of knowing how much she resented his attitude.

She did not even ask where they were going, although she was filled with curiosity. She did hope it was some jolly, lively place where she could count on having a pleasant social time. Things would not be so bad if she could establish a small court and rule over it. At any rate, she would not be forced to see so much of Lucien. It would be better than living in the apartment together.

It wasn't until the night before they were to leave that her curiosity got the better of her discretion, and she asked a direct question as casually as possible.

"Oh, by the way, in imparting your wishes to me, you have said nothing about where we are going."

Her manner was cold to frigidness, all her bright hardness had vanished and her face had taken on certain lines of haughty restraint, as though she wished to keep him from reading her thoughts.

As he looked at her across the perfectly appointed table, despair crept into his eyes, but he answered, as usual, with a firmness and a deliberation that was maddening.

"Oh, didn't I tell you? I thought I had. Why, we are going to take Peter Burton's camp in the Adirondacks. You remember he offered it to us as a possible place to spend our honeymoon."

She started as a wave of memory rushed over her. As though it were yesterday, she could hear Lucien's eager voice telling her that good old Peter had offered them his camp.

"We can be absolutely alone. We can tramp and fish together, and think of the nights, darling, out under the stars, the smell of pine everywhere and not a sound."

As though it were yesterday, Enid could remember the wave of repugnance that had swept over her at the idea of being so utterly alone with Lucien, but she had been guarded lest he suspect the truth. With her bright, hard smile and her carefully chosen words, she had suceeded in getting her own way. In those days he had been putty in her hands—now everything was different.

She thought of the lovely clothes she had bought to take away with her, delicate cobwebby stockings, high-heeled, buckled slippers, summer frocks in pastelle shades. Now she would have no use for such things; they would be out of place in a camp. To be sure, she had some sport clothes, and what she had would do, inasmuch as they would see no one. But she hated the thought of being isolated with Lucien, and it rankled that he had not considered her of enough importance to consult her wishes.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

The Camp.

Peter Burton's camp in the Adirondacks was as isolated as Enid feared it would be. The nearest postoffice was eight miles away and provisions were delivered three times a week by a concern in the nearest town.

The camp itself, however, was not only comfortable but charming. It was of the log cabin variety, built long and low with a wide veranda. Inside there was a large living room and three bedrooms. There was a kitchen as well as a bath room, and the whole place was comfortably furnished with deep easy chairs and Indian rugs on the floors. At the back was a large pile of wood neatly stacked for use in the huge fireplace, and all around the little cabin which stood in a small clearing were the tall, whispering pines.

At Lucien's suggestion Norah had been substituted for the nurse who had taken care of Zell.

"We can give her a vacation with pay," Lucien had said in his deliberate way, "and Norah can attend to the cooking as well as take care of the baby."

It was a manifestly sensible arrangement, but even if it hadn't been, Enid would not have dreamed of finding fault with it. She never combated anything Lucien suggested; she merely accepted.

On that first night when she had left Norah with the baby, a feeling of desolation swept over her. Through the open window of her bedroom she could hear the wind in the pines and the soft swish of their branches. She had never before been so far away from civilization, and the feeling of isolation depressed her. She wanted to be near some one, she wanted to talk to some one, any one, excepting Lucien, who was at this minute sitting in a big chair before a blazing fire reading a book. Of course she, too, might have enjoyed the firelight in the cheerful living room, but she preferred the privacy of her bedroom to sharing the fire with him.

When she awoke the next morning, however, the sun was streaming into her room, and mingled with the fragrance of the pines, there was a delicious aroma of coffee and frying bacon. She realized not only the fact that she was hungry but that she felt extraordinarily well. The air was so fresh and pure and she had slept all night with the wind blowing across her face. She felt tinglingly alive, eager to be up and doing.

She was hardly conscious of it, but she hummed a little tune as she bathed, and then when she was dressed in the simplest of her sport clothes, she went through the living room and on to the porch.

Norah had made a creditable baby crib out of a large box, and in it on a soft nest of pillows Zell lay asleep. Enid hung over the baby adoringly, crooning soft little words to her, touching her velvet cheek with her forefinger. Asleep, Zell did not look so much like her father. It was only when she opened her great dark eyes that she resembled Lucien so extraordinarily, and as this thought drifted through Enid's mind she wondered suddenly where Lucien was.

Norah came to the door and stood looking critically at her mistress. In spite of the fact that she did not approve of Enid, she could find no fault with her attitude toward the baby. She was an exemplary mother, resenting everything that other people did for Zell and permitting it only because she saw how much better they managed.

"Breakfast is ready, Mrs. Grant," Norah said at last, and Enid whirled around, her face still tender.

"Thank you, Norah," she said with unexpected sweetness, and Norah's expression relaxed somewhat.

"Mr. Lucien has gone fishing," she volunteered, as Enid passed into the dining room. "He said he'd be gone all day."

CHAPTER XLIX

Revelation

Enid was thoughtful as she ate breakfast alone, thoughtful and a little depressed, and she searched her mind for the cause of her sudden sinking of spirits.

When she had first awakened she had felt exhilarated, almost carefree. She had wanted t oskip like a little girl for no other reason than the pure joy of living. What had changed her, why did she feel so different? A slight frown wrinkled her forehead as she sought an explanation and then suddenly as she was raising her coffee cup to her lips, she set it down quickly and the hot color flooded her face.

PICKFORD PLOT GANG FEARED DOUG'S ABILITY

Testimony in Kidnap Trial Brings Out Detail Of Obstacles They Faced

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Difficulty which might be experienced in kidnaping Mary Pickford, screen star, were entered in court records today where three men are on trial charged with a plot to kidnap the actress and hold her for $200,000 ransom. The obstacles which the state charged the men discussed were contained in the alleged conversation of the trio, obtained by police through the use of a physician's stethoscope.

Gleen Gravatt, police shorthand reporter, declared he took notes on conversations three different nights with the aid of a stethoscope inserted under a door in a downtown hotel where the men are alleged to have finally agreed to kidnap the actress.

The major obstacles, according to the documents, was in "picking up" the actress, and the effectiveness of the athletic ability of Douglas Fairbanks, her husband, if they had to tear her away from him. Then again, the alleged conversation said, if Miss Pickford carried a gun and drew it on them "things would not be so good."

The first witness for the prosecution, M. T. Harney, a former roommate of C. E. Stephens, one of the accused, declared the plot to kidnap film notables was hatched three years ago. Pola Negri was discussed as a possible victim, he said, but the idea was abandoned when they feared she could not raise funds to obtain her release.

He also told of a plan to kidnap Jackie Coogan, which was dropped because Coogan was a court ward.

The two on trial with Stephens and Adrian Wood and Claude Holcomb, truck drivers. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

SAVED FRIEND FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Heckman Decided to Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Note Results—

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—"I had pains in my back and sides and headaches, so that I could not do my work. Once in a while I would be sick a week. A friend told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had kept her out of the hospital, so I thought I would try it, as I had tried a number of other medicines. Now I feel like a different person and am telling my friends about the Vegetable Compound helping me, hoping they will let it help them, too."—Mrs. ETHEL HECKMAN, Box 21, R. F. D. No. 1 Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Saved From An Operation

Monessen, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious case of female trouble. The worst pain I had was in my right side and back with swelling in my side so that I was unable to walk at one time. I was ordered to go to the hospital, but here I am, still without an operation. I saw your advertisement and have taken the Vegetable Compound with splendid results."—Mrs. J. NELSON, 842 Donner Ave., Monessen, Pa.

Donley Co. Opens Season for Melons

CLARENDON, July 27.—Clarendon received her first local home grown melons and cantaloupes last week when a truck farmer of this county disposed of a good sized load of fine watermelons and cantaloupes to Shelton & Sanford, local grocers of Clarendon. The crop bids fair to be rather large here this year on account of good rains in the different parts of the county. More attention is being paid this year to the growing of commodities that bring in a good deal of money during the spring and early summer than has been done heretofore. The people of Clarendon have been supplied with the very best quality of roasting ears from Donley county farmers since early in the season.

A monthly cream check amounting to more than fifteen hundred dollars is being paid to farmers each month in Donley county by Amarillo and Denver creameries for butter fat sold through local produce men in Clarendon.

BANKS SHOW A BIG GAIN OVER 1924 WEALTH

Eleventh Federal Reserve District Has Improved Rating, Report Shows

DALLAS, July 27.—Member banks of the eleventh federal reserve district report a total liquid wealth of more than $80,000,000 over the same periods in 1924, Lynn P. Tally, governor of the federal reserve bank, said today. He said the banks were standing behind agricultural interests in sections threatened by drouth. The liquid wealth represents uninvested capital and reflects a steady increase in financial resources of the southwest, Mr. Tally said.

GROWERS AND FACTORY MEN IN CONFERENCE

Agreement Reached to Issue Stample Standards Of Uniform Medium Quality

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP).—Cotton growers and manufacturers at a conference here today with officials of the department of agriculture agreed to issue staple standards for American cotton of uniform medium quality instead of mixed quality as the present standards provide. The new standards will be placed in use in August, 1926.

Ward Thoron of the Ackwright club, Boston, told the conference that congress and the secretary of agriculture will be petitioned to suppress part of the government crop reports on the grounds that they are merely guesses.

"Guesses on the size of the crop has almost made it impossible for us to manufacture any cloth," he asserted. "People are afraid to buy goods on account of the speculation which immediately springs up when the crop guesses come out. Up to September 15, no one is able to make a reasonable guess.

"We don't want any standards of cotton character whatever. They can't be established. Eastern mills don't use standards at all. The feeling of the eastern manufacturer is that the interference of the department of agriculture with our business is ruining it. We wish the department would give a little consideration to the problems we are up against."

THE ROAD OF TRAVEL LUXURY

Through The Night!

THE harvest of the day's news is reaped at night. Its myriad sheaves are gathered by workers that cover the world. Under the mingled chattering of telegraph keys and linotype machine they are threshed and winnowed, and their essence in all its fullness and vitality, is served to million of families at breakfast time.

News, like wheat, is not ready for the harvest until fully ripened.

While the morning newspaper has its own exclusive hours of news coverage—normally from three o'clock in the afternoon until one o'clock in the morning—it is, because of its production time, in prime position to deliver ALL the day's news correctly and completely.

Pin Down That Elusive Buying Impulse

Recognizing the news and editorial excellence of morning newspapers, the "leadership" element of most communities is found in the ranks of morning newspapers.

The sale of merchandise to the individual is the first mark of advertising success. But that individual's influence in a group of buyers widens the scope of each advertising message and reduces selling costs.

Morning newspaper readers are in the "consumer-salesmen" class.

Merchants are swinging around to the realization that morning newspapers convey the last selling suggestion before the day's buying act. While the mind of the woman is fresh and open to impression the morning newspaper delivers the buying impulse. And the store is open. There is no interval of wait to dull the keenness of the buying desire.

USE MORNING NEWSPAPERS

THE LAST WORD

that assures a sale is delivered by Morning Newspapers.

"Newspapers are the most active force for the development of the economic welfare of the American family. I advise women to stick closely to the morning newspaper habit."

MRS. JOHN LANGDON,
State President Arizona Parent-Teachers' Association.

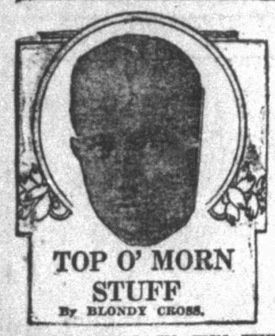
Jim Wins Number Five As Spuds Sweep Sport Series



TOP O' MORN STUFF

By BLONDY CROSS.

WHO'S GOING TO WIN THE PENNANT?

WHY, STRANGE TO SAY, NONE OTHER THAN THE PROUD SPUDDERS!

SURE, AS 'EM YOURSELF.

General Tanner and his forces entrained for Dallas last night, the initial jump of a scheduled 16-day road trip. The detachment departed with more real enthusiasm, more fighting spirit and a stronger victory complex than has been the case all season.

ROSTER INTACT.

For the first time this year the squad answers the roll call intact. The pitching staff—there is no better corps of hurlers in the league—is all to the okeh. Infielders and outfielders alike are in great condition, and the spirit is there, the determination and the will to win.

ASK WRAY.

As Wray Query put it last night just before the club left: "There isn't a team in the league we look up to. We can beat any of 'em. Will we win a pennant? Well, just watch us!"

* * *

The gang has its fighting ire aroused. They're just like a bunch of college gridsters just before the crucial game of the year, the game with their bitterest rival. They're talking about little other than the grabbing off of a substantial lead on the road jaunt, holding that lead and then whipping up on Atz's champion Cats in the final series of the year, two games of which are billed for Cowtown and four for Wichita Falls.

THE OLD CONFIDENCE.

The Spudders have confidence, and confidence sometimes is a large portion of the battle. The hitting isn't as regular as it should be, but there's the possibility of the sluggers unlimbering more. And let us repeat: that hurling staff is the BEST in the league. Nobody can complain of the Spudders' fielding ability. All right, what else do you want?

* * *

If you think you're going to win, all other things being fairly equal, you're going to be mighty hard to stop. Now sit back and watch those babies step.

SAYS BUD.

The words of Skipper Tanner: "We're going to win that rag. We xpect to get away to a good start on his trip, and if we do bet by in good hape there won't be anybody who an stop us." The Skipper's jaw was rim but an enthusiastic smile leamed from his eyes.

SERIOUS BUSINESS.

And then up and arises Buddy ardner (sure, he's the Spudder resident while Harvey's in Minneota) to give his version. Gardner is n old baseball head, knows the game side and out, and rarely goes rong. Says Buddy: "Those boys ave more fight right this minute than ort Worth ever did. They're out here scrapping on the diamond, and hen they're in the club house most f the time is taken up discussing nd planning how to topple the next ub comes along. That's all those oys are talking about is winning the nnant. And they're going to do it, o."

DON'T GET EXCITED.

All right, all right, let's don't argue bout it. The Spudders right now are it one game behind first place. ey're in better shape possibly than y team in the league and the team a man declares it's going to win. hat else would you ask for at this age of the race?

ROSY ROAD OUTLOOK.

They play in Dallas this afternoon d jump to San Antonio tomorrow r three. The Bears, by the way, ve just been wallowed in three raight by the lowly Beaumont crew. leman's cohorts certainly must be y pickin's these days.

* * *

After San Antonio series, the Spudrs storm Waco for three. The azos river outfit has been able to omplish little with Wichita Falls date. This series looks soft, also.

Tanner hits Houston for three August 4. The Buffs look like they're about to crack. They should be slipping fast by that late. The series may be tough, ut—

Then Beaumont for three. They ght not to make 'em play these nes. Too easy. They wind up the o with three in Shreveport August 11, 12. And Shreveport just yesday bowed to the Spudders in third aight defeat.

* * *

The situation seems well in hand.

Rawls Looks Like Best in Twilight

Riley Rawls proved himself the t outfielder in the Twilight loop day with a number of great runng catches, mainly his shoestring of Sid Stanfield's smashing drive left center. To back this up, way of batting Riley poled out hits in six tries, including two bles and a home run. It might be added that none in the ue has a better peg than Riley wls. Of Rawls' six hits one was the scratch kind. A low hit ball s a bad hop over Mathis at sec- for a bingle.

FATS MATHIS WORRIED

GANG MAKES FIVE BINGLES STOW AFFAIR

Fitz, Turgeon, And Golvin Furnish Punishing Wallops

By TURNER

Big Jim Roberts scattered nine hits throughout as many innings, was in trouble but once, and made good his fifth victory since joining the Spudders the early part of this month, defeating Shreveport, 4 to 2, and sweeping the three-game series Monday.

The Spudders connected for but five bingles. Three of these were bunched in the fourth with a base on balls off Lefty McCauley. This and an infield out with Joe Gleason pitching brought home three runs. The other Wichita Falls marker came in the fifth on a single and two errors.

Sports Score First.

Shreveport started trouble in the second by shoving a pair of tallies over the rubber. Kirke led off with a single through short. McCarty dropped a Texas Leaguer back of second. Kirke halted at second. Schick forced McCarty at second, Turgeon to Distel. Kirke took third. Schick stole second. Westerzil lined a single between short and third. Kirke scored and Schick pulled up at third. Burns fanned. McCauley singled to right center, and Schick tabulated. Benton fouled out to Dorman.

After being held hitless for three frames the Spuds go to McCauley for a trio. Bodie drew his second base on balls. He went to third on Fitzgerald's single to right. Fitz took second on the throw in. Turgeon singled to left scoring Bodie, and sending Fitzgerald to third. Fitzgerald spiked the rubber and Turgeon went to third on Golvin's single past first. Golvin was thrown out trying to make second, McCarty to Benton to Westerzil. Smith gave McCauley the hook at this stage, and Gleason was sent to the hillock. Dorman smashed a hot one to Kirke, who stepped on the base, retiring him. Turgeon scored on the play.

Cal Catches One.

The Sports threatened to score in the fifth, but Roberts tightened up and held them at bay. Callaghan made a nice running catch of Burn's drive to deep left. Gleason walked. Benton forced Gleason at second and romped to second when Turgeon threw wide and low to first in an attempt to complete a double killing.

Roberts poked a fast one to Bonowitz's back and the Sport center gardner stretched out on the ground, but revived in a moment and went on with the game. Ostergard whiffed.

The Spuds sent their lead up another notch in their half of the fifth. Roberts and Distel both went out pitcher to first. Callaghan was safe on Westerzill's bobble. Bodie singled to left sending Callaghan to third. Westerzil dropped Fitzgerald's pop fly and Callaghan spiked the rubber and Bodie went to third. Turgeon forced Fitzgerald at second.

After that the game settled down to a pitchers' battle between Roberts and Gleason, the former holding the edge.

REDS 4-3; CARDS 2-0.

CINCINNATI, July 27.—(AP) — The Reds went into undisputed possession of third place when they swept the Cardinals in a double header today, 4 to 2, and 3 to 0. Two second string pitchers, Rube Benton and Jacky May, southpawed the visitors to death and the latter fanned eight, permitting but six hits in the second game. The Reds took three straight games from the Cardinals.

Wilder Fights Jack

FREDDY WILDER

The Pacific Coast lightweight who dropped into town the past week and challenged any and everybody, wants Tommy White especially. Wilder declares he has been training diligently with hopes of getting a crack at White by next week, at least. Meantime, the Coast battler takes Jack Denton on in the eight-round semi-final Thursday night to the White-Trammel bout for the purpose of displaying, if any, his right to a mill with White.

Freddy has fought and whipped a number of the better boys on the coast. He is more of the slugger type of battler than he is boxer.

Steers Dump Cowtowners In Extra Session

DALLAS, July 27.—The Dallas Steers defeated their traditional jinx, the Fort Worth Cats, in a hrd fought ten inning contest by a score of 8 to 7 today, sending across the winning run in the tenth inning.

It looked like the Dallas nine was going to take three beatings in succession from the Panthers when they went into the fourth inning four runs behind. Aided by Jack Miller's home run in the fourth frame with two on bases, the Bovines put six runs across. The Steers tied it up in the ninth, and in the tenth Gross singled, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on Griffith's safety to left.

BEAUMONT 11; SAN ANTONIO 8.

BEAUMONT, July 27.—Beaumont made it three straight from the San Antonio aggregation here Monday by taking the long end of an 11 to 8 slug fest. Gus Forman allowed but seven hits, but two of these were homers by Wasnburn and Khadot, accounting for five tallies. Jack Johnston, veteran Exporter outfielder, whipped out five singles in as many trips to the plate.

MACKS SWEEP SERIES.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—(AP)—The Athletics made a clean sweep of the series with Boston by winning the fourth game of the series here today, 2 to 1. Quinn pitching his first game against his old team mates, held them to six hits and no runs, until the ninth inning when Boone and Carlyle hit successive doubles. Today's triumph marks the fifteenth victory the Athletics have scored over the Red Sox in nineteen games. Socre:

The Passing Hour

By William B. Ruggles

There are plenty of lads with speed to spare—
Enough who can step to the plate and hit—
With fielding skill that is passing fair
At judging a fly and grabbing it;
You look on their like as you pick your way
Why they stick around on a bush league job;
It isn't the skill in the daily play
But the heart and soul that makes a Cobb!

Leaders of men from common clay
Spring like the rest of the race you know—
You look on their like as you pick your way
Through the marts of trade where the world may go;
They look alike as their ways they tread,
But one is a master and one is a slob—
It isn't the arm, nor the foot, nor the head
But the heart and the soul that makes a Cobb.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Riley Biggs, giant guard on Baylor's 1924 championship eleven, has been selected to coach Montezuma college at Las Vegas adds only another to the list of southwestern trained athletes who are being entrusted with the tutoring portfolios of their chosen sports. Perhaps the most conspicious example is Gwin Henry, once a Pirate star at Southewestern university, Georgetown, now head coach at Missouri and developer of the valley champions of last year.

Your young man like Riley Biggs has not been advertised abroad. He earned his honors by hard work and he has ingrained in his soul the knowledge that he must put in a lot more hard work in learning the coaching game which is radically different from the playing end.

There is another factor that should help the southewestern youngster in going in for coaching nowadays. At any conference college of today he is grounded in his game under very competent coaching instruction. And by no means the least competent of it is that school of play in a style all its own headed by the little ginger genius, Frank Bridges.

In All Fairness.

IF the Philadelphia Athletics win this year's American league championship, look for a revival of the old argument that has been going the rounds since Connie Mack signed his 10-year lease on the American league cellar. Those who in the days of Macklan greatness hailed the toothpick tatician as the greatest of them all, have for the last eight years of the 10 been apologizing for their views. They candidly confess they were in error and that Mr. Mack was really a dub.

They succeeded in doing one thing by their consistency of voicing—they made Mr. Mack wonder himself. "I had to send for Harry Davis," he said once in a Dallas interview, "to find out whether the trouble was with me or the team." Davis or his own introspection convinced him that the trouble lay with the ball club, and he has lived to see his club come back.

Success on the field does not necessarily reveal the real manager. But the men who have worked under that elongated Philadelphian will tell you there is a keen baseball brain behind the homely map of McGillicuddy.

Mack has never had a big bankroll to build upon. His great team, which lasted from 1909 through 1914, when he himself broke it up, was collected at a minimum expenditure, and even with the money that it made and the prices the sales brought, remember that the Athletics were immediately to fall into a losing streak and that with it was the war period when there was no money in baseball.

The fact remains that by 1920 Mack had mortgaged his own holdings to the guards and was getting no help from the Shibes, who have never been interested in anything but the dividends. In 1922 Mack stood to lose his lifetime investment in the club.

What chance did he have in these years to build up? He could not hold onto a few stars he developed because their sale price was needed to meet notes. He was constantly trying to turn young and untried semi-pros into stars. And sometimes he succeeded.

The Athletics for the last three years have been a threat. This season it looks as if they will deliver.

MINDFUL of the return to these shores of one of our best stars with the information that the dazzling Suzanne Lenglen is the greatest woman tennis player in the world, the thought obtrudes that when young Miss Poker Face annexes the world championship on the courts—as she will ultimately—there will be the old tennis fan in the offing to say, "Ah, but had she met Suzanne at her best!"

Old Doc Time seldom, if ever, permits a fair test of mastery of a given line of athletics. Always it is youth meeting age when the old boy is no longer good.

Suzanne was coming up out of the cradle just as Molla was swearing to love, honor and obey and take care of her new husband's readymade family. And as Suzanne, shaking off her adenoids or bum tonsils or whatever ails her, flashes again as the comet of continental courts, Helen Wills is trying to pass French A at Berkley. And when Helen reaches the zenith, Suzanne will be sliding gracefully into the limbo of forgotten tennis stars.

They ought to match athletic stars like horses—by the age.

Seeded Players In Southwestern Tennis Opener

DALLAS, July 27.—Seeded players were successful in the first day's play in the Southwestern tennis tournament which opened here today. A bracket of 64 players from all parts of Texas and Oklahoma started play.

The champion, J. B. Adous of Dallas, with a bye in the initial round disposed of John Hill, McKinney, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, in the second round.

More Truth Than Poetry

GROUNDLESS APPREHENSION

In the land of the 'ricksha and fan,
  In the land where the samaurai fought—
Let us be more direct—in Japan
  People always behaved as they ought.
The maidens, to whom coquette was taboo,
  Were under their mothers' protection—
And when their young lovers hung 'round them to woo,
  They wooed with minute circumspection.
They danced—but they danced by themselves
  Instead of—as we dance—by twos,
With the dainty aloofness of elves
  In the dawn and dusk and the dews.
They cast on their lovers the timorous gaze
  That maidens demurness befitted,
They never took joy rides or went to cafes—
  And petting was never permitted.
But jazz has benighted the land,
  And the elders, distressed and perplexed,
Confess that they can't understand
  What the youngsters are coming to next.
The tea rooms are flooded with heathenish sounds,
  That breaks all legitimate tether,
And the lads and the damsels go dancing around—
  Not alone—as they should—but together.
They will worry a bit for a while
  These elders, but later, like us,
With a calm, philosophical smile
  They will see that it's no use to fuss.
Time was we regarded with shuddering fears
  The thing that is called syncopation.
But our youngsters have danced that way years upon years—
  And it hasn't yet ruined the nation.

LOWER RATES ON FEED STUFFS URGED ROADS

Rail Agents in Central Texas Ask Other Carriers To Reduce Tariff

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP).—Railroads in the drouth-stricken area in Texas will ask carriers shipping feed stuff into central Texas to reduce rates during the emergency, representatives of these lines informed the conference of railroad men and agriculturists called here today by the Texas railroad commission. The action was approved by the conference.

This was in answer to a request by a committee named by the conference for a 50 per cent reduction in freight rates on feed for livestock in the affected territory. Resolutions were adopted by the railroad representatives in executive session asking F. S. Leland, head of the southwestern traffic bureau at St. Louis, asking co-operation in the movement.

Following a lengthy session this afternoon, the committee presented a report to the conference, detailing the action taken and its approval of the railroads' offer for co-operation which was adopted. A vote of thanks was given the railroad commission.

In its report the committee said it was of the unanimous opinion that a 50 per cent reduction of freight rates on all feed stuffs for livestock and planting seed going into the drouth-stricken area would bring immediate relief to that territory; that this reduction should be made generally applicable to feed stuff and planting seed destined for the area, without restrictions as to persons or purposes.

The proposition was submitted to the carriers' committee composed of Horace Booth of the I. and G. N. and Gulf Coast lines; J. F. Hershey, G. C. and C. F.; J. F. Garvin, Katy; J. F. Lehane, Cotton Belt; J. E. Hulen, Fort Worth and Denver, and T. and B. V., and S. G. Reed of the Southern Pacific lines.

TEXAS AUTOS BURN GAS FOR A NEW RECORD

40,000,000 Gallons of Fuel Consumed During Month Of June

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP).—All records for gasoline consumption in Texas were smashed in June, when 40,000,000 gallons of gasoline were burned in cars traversing Lone Star highways, report from the state comptroller's department shows. Oil companies paid today into the state treasurer $400,000, representing the one-cent-a-gallon tax on 40,000,000 gallons of gasoline sold.

Some of the companies paying large amounts into the treasury were Gulf Refining company, $101,407.63, an increase of $3,418.76 over the May total; Texas company, $65,190.88, an increase of $1,213.19 over the May total, and the Magnolia Petroleum company $73,996.84, an increase of $553.97 over the May total.

Cream Carrot Rouge, Fresh Apple Softener for Skin, Cow's Vanishing Cream Called the Best Cosmetics

English Girls Told How to Restore That Schoolgirl Complexion and "Skin You Love—"

MANCHESTER, England, July 23—(AP)—"Nature's Vanity Case" is the title of an ingenious and entertaining beauty pamphlet issued by the British National Milk publicity council recently to enlist the interest of people in wholesome food. The little booklets are sent particularly to girls' clubs and to factories throughout the country where young women and boys are employed. Lecturers from the council visit the clubs and recreation centers of the factories from time to time, to emphasize the importance of good health.

"Beauty Products."

The octure takes as her model those indefatigable saleswomen placed in large shops to interest the passerby in some special article. Assembled upon a table in front of her are her "beauty products," or samples of natur's vanity box.

"No dressing table is complete without rouge these days," says the lecturer, "but the best kind consists of creamed carrots, which we call nature's own paint or complexion brush. Eat them cooked or raw. No matter how tender or delicate your skin, you can use yellow carrots cooked in milk twice a week. By mixing these two colors within the body, a promising color will appear upon the cheeks of almost any person whose health is anyway near normal."

Eat Apple Skin.

Continuing on the question of the complexion the lecturer goes on to say: "If you are pale and sallow, try our highly recommended skin softener, an apple hanging from the bough of the fruit tree. It is delivered in an air tight package, but be sure and always eat the package itself, the apple skin.

"Our most important product of all is cows' vanishing cream. Kings, queens, princesses, actresses, film stars and mothers all recommend it. It gives you good bones ,white teeth and sparkling smiles. There is enough produced in England for every one to have four or five glasses each day, or even more if he desires it.

"Here is our complexion powder extracted from wholesome cereals—porridge, rice and barley; equally well suited to blonde or brunette. The best powder puffs ar fluffy potatoes baked in their skins, but always be sure and eat the skin too. Eye sparklers, made from the phosphorus in creamed onions, are excellent.

New Books At the Kemp Library Added During the Past Week

"The Broken Bow," by L. A. Harker—The principal character are Julia Mainwearing, a beautiful, wealthy, egotistic young woman; her cousin, Susan Collet, who has great charm and a dash of coquetry but no money; and Alfred Stowe, an editor and novelist who has burst into prominence through the success of his first novel. Julia lent a much-valued copy from the author to Susan—who lot it! Upon this is based the theme of the romance.

"The Divine Lady," by E. Barrington—The novel is founded on the earlier life of the beautiful Lady Hamilton and culminating in the story of the immortal passion which made Lady Hamilton the love and inspiration of the greatest sailor of all time—Lord Nelson.

"Drums," by James Boyd—"If you like an adventure yarn, in that moves with a fine, even pace and one that pictures a remarkable background, then Mr. Boyd has been watching out for you. 'Drums' is a historical novel blended with exciting adventure. It sees life whole and with deep feeling."

"Iliana," by Konral Bercovici—Stories of a wandering race. Every story in this book was awarded three stars—the highest ranking in the annual listings by Edward J. O'Brien in the Boston Evening Transcript. Some of the stories are: Iliana; "Happiness"; "The Woman"; "Wisdom of Youth"; "Revenge"; "The Master"; "Murder."

"The Little Dark Man," by Ernest Poole—This new book of Poole's contains: "The Dormeuse"; "The Little Dark Man"; "Stories That His Mother Told" and "Mother Volga." These tales, now mystical, now humorous, are all filled with the atmosphere of Russian folklore and peasant superstition. Now together they create a vivid impression of simple life in the little Russian villages.

"London From Laramie," by J. B. Ames—The setting of this novel is in Wyoming. Into this western story is woven cattle thieving, kidnaping, highway robbery and a cowboy detective which spins out a swift moving story.

"The Man in the Brown Suit," by Agatha Christie—Charming Anne Beddingfeld, who had always yearned for romance, became involved in a search for a criminal who for years had successfully evaded the most clever men in England's secret service. It is full of exciting and dangerous events which are constantly encountered by Anne in her attempt to solve the mystery of the murder in the Mill House.

"The Monarch," by Pierre Mills — The hero, called The Monarch, because, like a king, he lived well without having to work, ensnared a rich widow, borrowed a great estate on which to entertain her relatives, won a famous riding wager; all these exploits, and many more, provide material for an evening of smiles and of outright laughter. The book gives a glimpse of the countryside of Southern France as it really is.

"Mother Mason," by B. S. Aldrich—A novel of family, home and happiness in a Mid-West setting. About Mother Mason are the problems, love affairs and marriages of her young people and the kindliness and good sense of humor makes her a very lovable character. It is the sunny side of the street that the Masons live on and the home life portrayed makes the story an interesting one.

"The Mysteries of Ann," by Alice Brown JAnn Hale, a New England spinister of sixty, had developed a passion for mystery stories. She decided she could be a murderer and cover her tracks far more cleverly than the ones she read about so she plans out a murder on paper and discuss how she would manage it. When her skinflint cousin, Jason, is suddenly killed, suspicion falls on Ann and the story tells how she carries through her mystery with a high hand and a joyous imagination. Hen. love of the unknown, her sense of humor and her love of beauty makes her a puzzle to her village neighbors.

"Sandoval," by Thomas Beer—Sandoval is a novel of Old New York. Mr. Beer has revealed a period of American life, Christian Coty de Sandoval, one of the most fascinating scoundrels, comes mysteriously into the lives of a newly rich family in the days when society lived at Dobbs Ferry, when the Civil War was still fresh in the minds of the people and California was a golden legend of wealth. He upsets every respected tradition of the code of a gentleman, and in the end brings disaster upon himself. Around Sandoval are grouped a series of unforgeable characters acting out what Mr. Beer labels "A romance of bad manners."

"Sea Horse," by Francis Brett Young—A thrilling story of the sea and of Africa. Mr. Young's experiences of eight years at sea life as a doctor makes him capable of writing this sea story that would rival any of Conrads. This novel is praised by some of his English friends for its literary merit as well as being a most interesting novel.

"The Shining Pyramid," by Arthur Machen—A collection of writings of Machen done at different periods. The content are: "The Shining Pyramid"; "Out of the Earth"; "The Happy Children"; "The Secret of the Sannzai" and others.

"This Mad Ideal," by Floyd Dell—Judith Valentine, in search of the mad ideal, will take her place beside Felix Fay, the Moon-Calf, and Janet March, the rebel.

"Three Pilgrims and a Tinker," by Mary Borden—Into the land of the Centaurs, an English hunting country where men and women alike live on horseback and the master of fox hounds is the most important person in the countryside, come Jim and Marion with the Three Pilgrims and Tim the Tinker. There in the great problem of Jim's and Marion's lives is posed and solved with the aid of the four interesting children. The atmosphere of England and of the chase is felt all through this interesting novel.

"Weeds," by Tio Barola—In this novel Barola takes up his main character, Robert Hastings, an Englishman and weaves his story from an incident in real life which created considerable stir in Spain some years ago.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—Bullish operations were conducted on a large scale in today's active stock market, nearly fifty issues being pushed to new high levels for the year. The day's sales ran well over one and one-half million shares. The demand embraced a wide list, but the best gains were recorded by a selected list of motor, rail, public utilities, mail order and amusement shares.

Speculative expectations of a splendid quarterly report by the U. S. Steel corporation tomorrow publication of additional railroad earning statements for June and rising commodity prices were all factors in the buying movement.

Selling pressure was renewed against the Pan-American Petroleum issues, which were forced to new lows on the current movement but it failed to unsettle the general list and substantially short covering practically wiped out the early losses in these stocks. Rumors that bad feeling has arisen between the executives of the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and Indiana was a result of the latter's purchase of a controlling interest in the Pan-American company was held in some quarters to be responsible for the recent selling of the former Doheny stocks. Marland showed independent strength by climbing to a new peak at 46¼.

Despite recent price cuts, several of the motors touched new high levels. White Motors soared over eight points to a record top at 90. Mack Trucks crossed 204 for the first time and General Motors attained a new maximum figure at 87½. Individual developments accounted for the strength of several specialties. Remington Typewriter responded to reports of record breaking earnings by touching a new top. A sudden revival of activity in H. R. Mallinson was based on reports that the Dupont interests were negotiating for a large block of stock in connection with a plan to secure wider distribution of their rayon products. Coca Cola shot upward on rumors that the preferred stock would be retired.

Heavy accumulation of Frisco common which rose three points to a new record price at 92 in anticipation of an early increase in the dividends, featured the railroad group. Other southwestern rails moved up in sympathy, bith the Wabash issues mounting to new high levels. Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A sensational jump of 135 points in Danish kroner which attained the highest price in several years at 23.36 cents featured the foreign exchange market. Other European rates were firm demand sterling being quoted around 4.85⅛ and French francs at 4.72½.

COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—The cotton market was fairly active today and after advancing in the early trading to new levels on the present movement mainly on good Liverpool cables and continued hot, dry weather in the west, turned somewhat easier on liquidation and on a forecast promising showers in the western belt.

At the highest of the early morning, October showed gains of 28 points over Saturday's close and a total advance of 203 points from the prices ruling just prior to the publication of the government report last Saturday. This high level induced profit taking and prices eased off 20 points from the top but recovered moderately during the afternoon and the close showed net gains for the day of 3 to 13 points.

Liverpool cables indicated that the English market was largely influenced by the serious Texas situation. As a result of the cables and the generally pessimistic advices from the western belt coupled with continued lack of rain there, October advanced to 25.03 and December to 24.73, or 25 points on both positions, above the close of Saturday. Profit taking lowered prices and the tendency to react was increased when the official forecast promised somewhat unsettled weather and possible showers for the western belt. Reports of rain in western Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle also increased reactionary feeling. The decline carried October down to 24.73, and December to 24.87, or 28 to 30 points below the early highs and 3 to 4 points under the previous close.

The market rallied some around midsession and for the remainder of the day prices fluctuated moderately within the earlier range. The final results showed moderate recovery from the lows and a small net advance for the day, the late positions developing more strength than the earlier ones.

TWO NEGROES SOUGHT AFTER FARM ESCAPE

Neither Convict Had Been At Neff Honor Prison But Short Time

HOUSTON, July 27.—The bottom land and brush districts of Brazoria county were being searched today for two convicts who escaped Sunday night from the Pat Neff honor farm near Sugarland.

One of the prisoners had not been at the farm 24 hours. The other had only been there a few days.

Joe Vance sent up from McLennan county for four years on a burglary charge, was transferred from the Basset Blakely farm Friday, arriving at the Pat Neff farm Saturday morning.

J. B. Shoemate sent up from Stephens county on a two-year sentence for burglary arrived at the Pat Neff farm Saturday night from the Harlem farm.

DALLAS MOTORMAN ROBBED.

Safe Cracking and Other Thefts Reported Over Sunday.

DALLAS, July 27.—(AP)—Holdup of a street car motorman, two robberies by negro highwaymen and a safe robbery were among the week-end thefts reported to the police in Dallas.

Two armed but unmasked white men boarded a Forney avenue car and at the end of the line held up C. A. Hill, motorman and conductor, and took $23, most of it being car fares.

WACO MINISTER IS DEAD.

Prominent Waco Pastor Succumbs to Long Illness.

WACO, July 27.—Rev. L. W. Duke, 82, prominent Baptist minister of Texas and Confederate veteran died at his home here Sunday morning following a long illness. Mr. Duke was a Baptist preacher for 57 years and a Mason for 53 years. He had held pastorates in Reagan, Calvert, Hopewell, Lexington, Mexia and other places. Burial took place here this morning.

REVALUE CULBERSON LAND.

Over Half Million Acres of New State Property to Be Involved.

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—J. T. Robison, state land commissioner, will leave Tuesday morning for Culberson county where he will begin revaluation of 500,000 acres of public lands in nine counties west of the Pecos river. The half million acres were forfeited to the state because of failure of owners to pay interest.

Former Presidential Cabinet Pays Tribute Also to Bryan.

MIAMI, Fla., July 27.—(AP)—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and democratic presidential candidate in 1920, said:

"Mr. Bryan will take rank as a great American, but history will mark against him as others some errors. He would have been president in 1900 except for his Madison Square Garden speech; he should not have left the Wilson cabinet and he lost much in fame by opposing the Jeffersonian principle of keeping state and religion apart. As a preacher he would have excelled Henry Ward Beecher. The most beautiful thing in his character was his devotion to his invalid wife and the whole country will give unaffected sympathy to her who lost not only the lover of her school days, but of her mature years as well."

GERMAN PRESS KNOCKS W.J.B.

Commoner's Attitude Toward Evolution Is Cause.

BERLIN, July 27.—(AP)—Severe criticism of William Jennings Bryan's attitude regarding evolution at the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., is expressed editorially by some Berlin newspapers in commenting upon the death of the great commoner. Differing judgments of the man aside from his position in that trial are expressed by various papers.

The Vossische Zeitung says:

"The great commoner died in harness after battling for thirty years. Just as he opposed the evolution theory of the creation of this world, so he ignored the evolution of the American government and of its citizens and therefore he was outstripped by a majority of his countrymen."

INCINERATOR FOREMAN CUT OFF BY CITY

J. L. Marshall Is Released After Killing of Fred Swayze

City council last night decided to release J. L. Marshall, foreman of the city incinerator. Action was taken over the protest of Commissioner J. H. Patton who stated that Marshall had been filling his job in a satisfactory manner.

The council expressed the belief that it was a reflection on the city to keep Marshall in its employ after the fatal shooting of Fred Swayze east of the city Sunday morning, for which Mr. Marshall is held under a $5,000 bond.

Mr. Patton asked that the foreman be retained but he was instructed to look about for another man to take charge of the burning plant.

Plumber License.

The city dads took action on the reports that plumbers in the city were not staying inside the city ordinance governing them. A special board was appointed composed of Dr. J. M. Whitworth, F. M. Ruggley, F. J. McCulloch, W. D. Griffin and C. A. Kaufman, who will inspect all plumbers operating in Wichita Falls, granting a license to those it finds fit to do the work.

With the "jake" ordinance safely passed on its third reading, Mayor Shepherd sounded his opening gun in what will probably be his chief fight for the next several months. The mayor brought the matter of unmuzzled dogs running around the city. This constitutes a menace that should not be allowed to exist, he said, and at his suggestion the council voted to have City Attorney W. E. George write to Paris, Texas, for a copy of that city's ordinance, with a view to having all dogs in the city muzzled or shot.

The city council also voted to:

Have the city attorney obtain information on how other Texas cities handled the traffic of high explosives through their limits.

Passed the "jake" ordniance on its third and final reading.

Accept the bid of 4.05 per cent interest on daily deposits of the city, made by the Security National bank. The City National bank bid 4.0403 per cent. This action makes the Security bank the city depository for the next year.

KIWANIS NAMES DELEGATES TO DISTRICT MEET

Seven Members to Carry Local Colors To Austin

Seven delegates will represent the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club at the district convention to be held in Austin September 7 and 8, as decided by action of members at the weekly luncheon yesterday noon at the Kemp hotel. Only three of the delegates will have a vote, but the other four will be sent to represent the local club.

The three voting representatives will be Rex Watland, J. L. Jackson, Jr., and Dr. F. T. Datson. The four non-voting delegates will be Donald Bernard, Grover Bullington, A. A. Spencer and J. A. Kemp, Jr. The three alternatives chosen are Joe Sherrill, Homer Sanderford and W. L. Brown.

Other members from the local club who will probably attend the convention in the capacity of district officers or merely visitors will include Dr. Felix R. Collard, Julian Bobo, district governor, Bob McCullough and Frank Queisser.

Definite action was taken at the last meeting of the board of directors, according to President Jim Gant, on the new day nursery, for which some funds were subscribed in a recent drive. A committee headed by Joe Sherrill was named to arrange for plans for the new structure. The cost will be about $20,000, it was decided, and the building will be started at once. The offer of Joe Pate, local architect, to draw up plans at a minimum cost was accepted.

Mexican Raid Victims Will Be Reimbursed

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—Fifty million dollars in claims growing out of loss of life or property in Mexican or Indian raids in Texas border counties during the period beginning July 5, 1868, and ending December 31, 1878, has been approved by the United States-Mexico mixed claims commission, and all persons or heirs of persons concerned are urged to establish their identity with the commission, said a notice received today by Dan Moody, attorney general, from Henry W. Anderson, agent for the United States. Headquarters of the commission is at Washington.

Heirs of the following persons, some of whose first names are not available, wh were killed during the period July 4, 1868, through December 31, 1878, are urged to file claims for awards with the United States-Mexico mixed claims commission, Washington:

HASKETT QUITS C-C FRIDAY TO RESUME INDEX

Assistant Manager in Leaving City Says Wichita Falls Destiny Great

Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, will leave Friday afternoon for Childress, where he will assume management of the Childress Index, a semi-weekly publication.

HASKETT

The index is the oldest newspaper in the Panhandle, having issued its first number on July 28, 188. With the exception of one year, which was the first, the paper has been in charge of L. E. Haskett and his son, Fred L. Haskett. The Index is recognized as not only a leading newspaper in the Panhandle section but in Texas. Its editorials and news features are quoted as frequently as any country newspaper in the state.

In again assuming charge of the Index the paper will be personally owned by Fred L. Haskett, who is buying his father's interest. Mr. Haskett states that he plans improvements to the paper and expects within a few weeks to make the Index one of the outstanding country publications in Texas. Mr. Haskett in discussing his leaving Wichita Falls said:

"It is with regret that I must leave this city. I believe Wichita Falls will rank within a very few years as the fifth city of Texas. His leaders are alert and ever anxious to do something for the future growth and prosperity of the city. I think the time fast approaching when Wichita Falls will be the manufacturing city of Texas. With abundance of water, cheap fuel, the very highest quality of labor and community co-operation that prevails nothing can keep Wichita Falls from becoming a real city.

"Wichita Falls is the metropolis of Northwest Texas and no other city can excell or exceed her in that position. There is a friendly feeling among the Panhandle-Plains people toward Wichita Falls and when better transportation facilities are provided this friendship will be more pronounced, especially in a material way. I have been told how proud the people of France are of Paris. The citizens of Northwest Texas are proud of Wichita Falls and her people. This friendship will grow when the people of the Plains have an opportunity of visiting Wichita Falls more often, and that will come when the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway is completed.

"In leaving Wichita Falls I do not expect to put the best interest of the city behind me. I feel that I shall have many opportunities to do something for Wichita Falls. If I failed to do that I would be ungrateful, not only to Wichita Falls but the friends I have made since becoming a citizen of the best city in Texas."

PIONEERS FOR DENVER, SAYS FRED HASKETT

Wichitan Back From Hearing Scores Propaganda In Certain Papers

"If public sentiment is to be considered there is no question but the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway will be constructed," said Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager oft he Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, wh oreturned Monday afternoon from the hearing held at Plainview last week.

"The Panhandle-Plains people were outspoken in favor of having the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company build this line. Some newspapers have carried reports more or less colored to suit their policy of being against the Denver road. However, few were the witnesses who testified that present rail facilities are adequate in the Central Plains counties. Citizens, the men who have pioneered the Plains section, were to a man in favor of the Denver road's project.

"The Denver road will give competition to the Santa Fe and assure better rail connections with Wichita Falls, Dallas and Fort Worth. It was brought out several times during the hearing that Wichita Falls would perhaps profit most of the major cities of Texas if the permit is granted and the road constructed. This is but natural as Wichita Falls is more fortunately situated than its sister cities to the east. Regardless of this fact Dallas and Fort Worth jobbers will be equally served and Texas leading cities will profit instead of having the business of the rich Plains section going to jobbers and manufacturers in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The Plains people are friendly to Wichita Falls. They want to get acquainted with our people and business interests. While in conversation with a business man of Silverton he stated that only last week he visited Wichita Falls for the first time in 34 years. He was not only surprised but astonished at the growth of Wichita Falls." This man said when the new Denver railroad is completed that people of the Central Plains will really learn about Wichita Falls and how jobbers and wholesalers of this city can serve them as they would like to be served.

"There is no question in my mind but that the inter-State commerce commission will grant the permit to build into the Central Plains counties as has been requested by the Denver road. One of the strongest witnesses in the hearing in behalf of the new railroad was Frank Kell of Wichita Falls. Mr. Kell's efforts to show the necessity and advantage of the proposed road is highly appreciated, and he has made friends among the Plainsmen for every business institution in Wichita Falls.

"As to when the question will be settled is not definitely known but the belief among men who are in position to predict is given as about November 1 of this year. The Denver road officials testified that the money is on the barrelhead and work will start when permission is granted."

MILLIONS DIE OF INDIGESTION

Most Common Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases Strike Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect Yourself by Strengthening Your Digestive Organs With Ferraline—Then Eat What You Please Without Fear of Trouble.

Nature with her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferralite a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—indigestion. Ferraline is not a concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product and contains the essential elements which nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand-in-hand. No dyspeptic can have pure rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of indigestion, do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heartburn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals warning you that the dread disease, indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A ten days' treatment of Ferraline will cost you only one dollar at your druggists. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.
