barrels of 41.3-gravity oil per day flowing through a 28.64-inch choke. The gauge was based on an nine-hour gauge. The production is from perforations at 3,905-4,004 feet which were acidized with 4,000 gallons.

It is in section 306, block 2, H&TC survey.

Kay Kimbell of Fort Worth will re-enter and clean out to 3,700 feet to test the Noodle Creek line No. 1 L. M. Davis, a former 4,220-foot straw sand failure one mile northwest of Rotan.

It is 330 feet from north and 2,278 feet from west lines of section 126, block 2, H&TC survey and 1 1/4 miles southeast of the three-well Hargrove (Noodle Creek) pool, but separated from it by a 3,700-foot dry hole.

The re-entry originally was drilled by Ray Smith Drilling Company and abandoned as a straw duster in June, 1956.

In Northwest Fisher County, John Schattel and Tara Rice Oil Company of Sweetwater staked location for a Noodle Creek wildcat, contracting it for 4,000 feet.

It is No. 1 E. R. Burns 660 feet from north and east lines of section 291, block 2, H&TC survey, five miles north of Rotan, and 1/4 mile east of the Rough Draw (Noodle Creek) pool.

In South Stonewall County, T. D. Humphrey, Jr., and others, of Dallas, have scheduled a 7,000-foot Cambrian wildcat seven miles northwest of Hamlin and 4 1/2 miles west of the Tompkins (multipay) pool—2 1/2 miles southeast of the Fisher County, Droke (caddo) pool.

It is No. 1 W. F. Martin, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 1, block U, T&P survey.

In Northeast Stonewall County, 4 1/2 miles southeast of the East Bisset (Strawn) pool and two miles southwest of the Kiowa Peak (multipay) field, Keith Wells and Dugger & Herring Drilling Company of Abilene have staked a 6,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat, 840 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 2, block D, H&TC survey and 12 miles northeast of Aspermont.

Garden Of Books

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Parents should collect a personal library for their children, suggests Miss Lillian Skeele, head of the children's division of the Columbus Public Library.

"Reading is a skill like music," she says. "Unless you practice it, you don't accomplish much."

Starting with nursery rhymes which you can read to the 1 or 2-year-old, every home should have a few well-chosen books.

Winds Complicate Clearing Of Snow

By The Associated Press.

Brill, cold winds blew snow along the shores of the Great Lakes Saturday, complicating the tremendous task of clearing drifted streets and roads.

The winds churned up snow that had fallen since Thursday in the northeastern quarter of the nation. The big fall was ended by furries and squalls persisted near Lakes Erie and Ontario and higher elevations in the Appalachians.

The count of dead in the storm rose to 43, including 17 in Michigan, 19 in Ohio, 8 in Pennsylvania, 3 in New York and 4 in West Virginia.

Plows chugging and charged into drifts, freeing thousands of motorists who had been marooned by snowfall that measured up to three feet in depth.

A plane landed at Cleveland's Hopkins Airport, the first to touch down there in more than 32 hours. That signalled the resumption of operations there.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. labored to restore power to thousands of homes that had been blacked out by fallen lines.

A fire broke out in the New Ohio Hotel in Fostoria, Ohio, early Saturday. It drove 100 persons—25 or more of them stranded travelers—out into freezing weather. Only one injury was reported.

A 160-mile stretch of the Pennsylvania Turnpike through the state's mountain backbone was reopened to normal traffic at 6 a.m. That gave the go-sign to 2,000 persons who had taken temporary shelter in six service areas.

The sun came out in Garrett County, Md., where the snow measured 18 inches and drifts ranged up to 10 or 12 feet.

The snow continued in some sections of New York State Saturday.

Boonville reported almost a foot of new snow.

The big digout was under way in southwestern New York, where the blanket measured two feet in Little Valley in Cattaraugus County.

A fresh surge of polar air moved into the Midwest. At Duluth, Minn., where the night's coldest mark was 18, the mercury dipped to 7 by midmorning.

Freezing weather covered most of the North, with lows reaching down to 13 above zero in Devils Lake, N.D., 17 in Columbus, Ohio, and 19 in Cincinnati. Battle Mountain, Nev., had 11 above.

Continuing To Garden

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. C. D. Nease lost her wedding ring in 1938 while gathering beans in her garden.

She and a friend, Mrs. Tom Hunter, were picking greens this week when they found the ring "just sticking up out of the dirt, shining as bright as could be."

The first successful pipeline, a five-mile pipe of cast iron began operating in Pennsylvania in 1865.

Launching Is Delayed

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Persistent winds forced scientists to postpone Saturday the scheduled balloon evaluation flight in Princeton University's astronomy project. It was the fourth delay in a row.

If the gusty winds recede, the balloon will be launched at 4 p.m. Sunday, officials said.

The tandem balloon system, part of a project known as Stratoscope II, will fly at 80,000 feet after launch. It will carry a three-ton dummy package aloft.

Recovery is expected in Southern Louisiana.

The test will be the first major launch from the new national scientific balloon flight station in Palestine. Officials have said a successful flight will be a major step toward the first Mars scientific flight next spring.

Mariner 2 Gets Hotter

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Mariner 2 spacecraft sped Saturday toward its rendezvous with the planet Venus, with temperatures continuing to rise.

The craft will pass within 20,000 miles of Venus on Dec. 14, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology said.

The vehicle at noon Saturday was 312 million miles from earth and 15 million miles from Venus, the laboratory said. Its speed, increasing under the sun's gravity, was 33,000 miles per hour by earth standards and 82,800 m.p.h. in relation to the sun.

All systems were working properly, the laboratory said.

Graduates Working

CHICAGO (AP) — The U. S. Department of Labor reports, through Commerce Department House, that the national unemployment rate as of October 1961 among high school graduates was 16 per cent; among high school dropouts 30 per cent.

Abolish Poll Tax, Committee Urges

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — A special election law study group recommended Saturday that Texas junk its poll tax voting requirement in favor of a free registration system.

Declaration of party ties still would not be required until a voter casts a ballot. Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, chairman, reported.

The committee reached no agreement on another controversial election law change proposal — moving party primaries back to late summer or early fall. Under the so-called "Lyndon Johnson Law" the first primary election dates were changed in 1959 from July to May. The change allowed the vice president to gain renomination as U.S. senator early enough to devote full time later to his unsuccessful Johnson-for-president campaign.

The committee strongly feels that the dates of primary elections should be brought closer to the date of the general election. Creighton said "but present convention procedures, national and otherwise, present a complex problem of specifying a date."

"A change to late summer or early fall requires major substantive changes in convention procedures. The committee believes this merits further study and consideration."

The committee also refused to recommend to the legislature a much-discussed earlier committee proposal that all newspapers, radio and television stations would submit financial statements to the secretary of state to show how much political candidates spent on advertising. The proposal was opposed by the Texas Press Association.

Texas is one of the few states which require a poll tax. The poll tax in Texas is $1.75 with each county getting a small part for collecting the tax.

Under the recommendation from the 25-member legislator-citizen committee, the poll tax would be replaced by an annual registration requirement that would cost nothing. There would be no more exemption certificates for those under and over the voting age. Party designation would not be stamped on the registration certificate until the person votes in a party primary. After once voting as a member of a political party, a voter could not vote in another party's primary the same year. Party designation would not affect voting in a general election.

Requirements for voting would remain the same as under the current poll tax law and the registration certificates would contain the same information as on the poll tax certificates. County tax assessors — collectors would handle issuance of registration certificates as they now handle poll taxes. There would be a state penal provision for false registration.

Other preliminary recommendations of the committee were finally adopted today except for one change. The group approved a recommendation that absentee ballots marked in a county clerk's office be placed directly in ballot boxes by the voter. At present, all absentee ballots, whether cast by mail or in person, are sealed in envelopes and kept separate from votes cast directly into ballot boxes.

Canadian Air Roams South

By The Associated Press

A great mass of cold, Canadian air tumbled down into Texas Saturday from the eastern slopes of the Rockies.

The Weather Bureau said the cold air should bring a freeze during the night to most of North and West Texas. The Panhandle was due for a hard freeze with snow flurries in the north.

The whole state should be cooler Sunday and clear to partly cloudy, the forecasts said. High temperatures in the 40s and 50s were predicted.

High level clouds moved across northern sections of Texas in advance of the northern. Forecasts called for temperatures down to 22 degrees in the upper Panhandle, where the mercury dipped to 23 at dawn Saturday at Dalhart.

Guard Unit Steps Up Its Recruiting

A stepped-up recruiting campaign of the 38th Infantry Division, Capt. Billy J. Brown, commanding officer of Co A, 2nd BG, 142nd Inf., said today.

All National Guardsmen here are encouraged to participate in the recruiting endeavor.

He indicated that "Joining the Guard gives a young man a wonderful opportunity to fulfill his military obligation to his country. It is possible for men to enter the Active Army on a 'buddy' system wherein several persons enlist at the same time and spend their complete six-month tour together."

The program consists of two months basic training at one of several military installations such as Fort Polk, La., along with other locations, which is followed by eight weeks of advanced individual training and is climaxed with basic unit training. The length of obligation incurred in this program varies depending on the age of the individual at time of enlistment.

Between the ages of 17 and 18½ the obligation is 6 months active duty followed by 3 years Ready Reserve in the National Guard.

Between the ages of 18½ and 26 the obligation is 6 months active duty and 5½ years of Ready Reserve in the National Guard.

All that is required to become a member of the storied T-Patch outfit is that a young man pass a qualifying test and a physical examination.

An open house will be held at the armory Monday night to which high school seniors and their parents have been invited. Personnel of the local guard unit will be available to explain not only the military service plan of the guard, but also other services, enlistment programs for young men who have a military obligation.

Contrasts Mark Life In Saudi Arabia

By WEBB MCKINLEY
JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Life in Saudi Arabia is a series of contrasts.

In this Red Sea port big new cars dent their fenders on donkey carts. At night goats roam along the main street, under the stare of a sleepy shepherd, and browse beside a shop window full of Japanese transistor radios.

Visitors in the biggest hotel dine on a veranda as the evening cools. On the ground below workers are tying down for their night's sleep. A nearby coffee house clears off the tables as beds.

Outside the towns there are only desert and an occasional oasis with date palms and perhaps a few meager fields. It rains only two to six inches a year in central Arabia. The Bedouins scratch out a living with their goats or camels or the few seeds they throw into gulches that hold the winter rains.

They are hardy people who carry guns and curved daggers. Some Western customs still shock them. A Briton once took his boxer dog for an automobile ride in the desert and stopped to talk to a Bedouin group.

"Is that a man?" they asked, pointing to the dog's face grinning from the window. When the Britisher jokingly said "yes," the Bedouins fled in alarm.

The royal family, although under some restraint now, still lives in a combination of Oriental luxury and Western gadgetry. Its members, including all the wives, are rationed to one Cadillac each a year. King Saud still has his personal jet Comet airliner, a Conair and two DC-3s to transport the family. A gold watch is not an unknown tip from a gay young prince.

At one count there were 24 royal palaces. The one in Riyadh covers a square mile and cost 4 million. It consumes more electricity than the rest of the capital (population about 300,000).

Near Raif, a town with pristine nights, the summer palace is surrounded by villas stretching for a mile along the road where live the princes, wives, concubines, cousins and retainers. Last year when the royal family left for Riyadh, they tied up 20 Saudi Arabian airliners for 15 days.

All this, of course, is changing. The family is budgeted now. Its 1,000 members will get along this year on about $60 million while the rest of the oil revenues of about $520 million go to the country.

On the Persian Gulf coast, American oil-men pioneered not only the wealth but development of Saudi Arabia. They live in separate air-conditioned towns, and do their best, in the blazing and humid heat of the gulf, to live like Americans in Texas or Oklahoma.

In Dhahran there are about 3,000 of them, including wives and children. They have two theaters in the "senior staff camp," an art club, hobby shop, camera club with darkroom, recreation center with pool, and a hobby farm, mainly for the raising of animals.

The "Rolling Hills Country Club" has 27 holes with sand fairways and oiled sand greens. There are two tennis courts, a Little League ball field, a school that runs through the eighth grade, a 12-lane bowling alley, library, two-channel television station, hospital, handball court, basketball court, post office, three snack bars.

Webb McKinley, a native of Michigan, is chief of Associated Press operations in the Middle East.

Three cafeterias, seven guest houses and a warehouse with 250,000 items.

The Americans and some Saudi Arab officials live in about 600 residential buildings that look like a pleasant development of small ranch houses on the outskirts of a big city. They have found water beneath the sand, and the wives grow gardens.

Two Louisiana Men Held In Arkansas

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Two Louisiana men, charged with possession of securities taken in the burglary of the Bloomberg, Tex., bank March 16, have been turned over to federal authorities here.

George Winborne, 36, of Winnsboro and Ivie Lee Umphries, 32, of Bossier City were arrested Wednesday after they had passed six travelers' checks. They had numerous others in their possession at the time of arrest, police said.

Police said $28,323 in currency and silver, and a large number of travelers checks were taken in the bank burglary.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — People are always writing letters asking what Mexicans are really like and wanting to know about Mexican psychology and curious things like that.

And one lady up in Wisconsin, where it is already snowing, said she heard Mexicans were a little on the shady side and would commit unlawful acts at the drop of a sombrero.

This more or less sums up what we of the United States know about other folks, which is "nothing."

Now Mexicans are sort of curious. They like to own homes, live well and send their kids to school so the next generation will be a little better.

And they like movies and baseball and water skiing and progress. They like to see their country grow. They like getting around to have some fun, relaxing, and they say "Gee, I'm glad this day is over."

I have heard there are persons even in New York and Chicago like that.

Of course, we have read many interesting observations on Mexico. Journalistic gentlemen come down here and spend several days, weeks or even months to write a treatise on what Mexicans are like.

Some of these accounts are rather mysterious and startling. The Mexicans read this material and say, "Holy cow, where'd this guy find these things — in China?"

Down here you can find pretty much of everything like in the rest of the world.

For instance, you go to an American and say, "Hey, how would you like to make a few bucks and improve your position?"

He will answer, "Stand a little closer and start talking."

But you ask a Mexican the same question and he will reply, "Stand a little closer and start talking."

The thing that fascinates us is "Mexican psychology." We asked a doctor friend to explain this and he said, "Oh, for Heaven's sake, psychology deals with all human beings. You find varying customs, languages and traditions in different countries but pass the coffee and quit asking silly questions."

And then we worked some silly experiments on the Lady from Puebla to get reactions and the doctors who studied these reactions said they were as irrational as those of ladies all over.

Then we checked into crime for the Wisconsin lady and yes ma'am, they have it. There are some Mexicans who stick you with knives or pick your pockets and some who even violate traffic laws.

in Bonanza come galloping up and shout in Spanish, "Who are these bums chopping down our timber?"

And the Mexican viewers nod with approval when the bums are chased off the premises and justice takes over.

We have traveled around the countryside for a quarter of a century looking for the tragic facts which appear in publications in order to prove that people here suffer stoically.

But it is tough because most everywhere we go, the country people are cracking jokes and having fiestas unless there is a photographer present who says, "Gentlemen, I am here to make an honest report so please suffer for the camera."

You can find happiness and sadness like everywhere and there are pains and looks and curious stares and people who would rather climb a mountain than sit in a hammock and vice versa.

Mexican jokes are about the same as ours and there are many people who have a sense of humor and others who don't.

But all things considered, a Mexican is like the guy who lives next door to you. He is people.

Foot Easy First Time In 20 Years

AUSTIN (AP) — Miss Teresa Hawryluk already has her Christmas present. For the first time in 20 years her foot does not hurt.

Last July 4, Miss Hawryluk arrived from Poland to join her three sisters and a brother. She was a refugee from concentration camps and a communist.

She spoke no English. She walked with a limp. Time and time again she tried to tell her sisters and brother something.

Finally the family was able to get an interpreter. Through the languages and traditions in different countries but pass the coffee and quit asking silly questions.

And then we worked some silly experiments on the Lady from Puebla to get reactions and the doctors who studied these reactions said they were as irrational as those of ladies all over.

Then we checked into crime for the Wisconsin lady and yes ma'am, they have it. There are some Mexicans who stick you with knives or pick your pockets and some who even violate traffic laws.

The main difference we note is that techniques here are not as advanced as those in our big cities and apparently, we are far superior to the Wisconsin lady and yes ma'am, they have it. There are some Mexicans who stick you with knives or pick your pockets and some who even violate traffic laws.

Integration Vote May Be Ruled Out

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas News said Saturday in a story from its Austin bureau that the referendum law requirement for desegregating Texas public schools likely will be ruled illegal next week.

The newspaper said Atty. Gen. Will Wilson is expected to issue Monday or Tuesday an opinion holding the 5-year-old law unconstitutional.

"There's no way around it," the News quoted an unnamed lawyer it said was assisting in preparing the opinion.

Commenting on the report, Wilson said his department will have an opinion on the subject soon.

"I'm almost certain it will be the first part of next week," the attorney general said. "I can not say what the opinion will be because we have not finished processing it."

He said he had no further comment on the published story.

"We'll do whatever the attorney general directs," the News quoted Dr. J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, as saying.

Texas Education Agency currently is withholding funds from the Benavides Independent School District in Duval County because the state auditor found it had admitted two Negro children to an elementary school previously operated for whites only.

The legislature in 1957 passed a law ordering public schools to remain racially segregated until each district's voters approve desegregation. No election was held in the Benavides district.

The attorney general previously held that the state can continue paying its funds to local districts where a court orders segregation abolished, regardless of the election law provision.

Pearl Harbor Day Is Quiet

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The 21st anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor passed quietly Friday.

It was an unexpectable day. There were no formal ceremonies. It was a day of meditation.

About 600 persons—some of whom were at Pearl Harbor on the "Day of Infamy"—were quietly shuttled across the gleaming Arizona memorial to pay silent tribute to the dead.

The Navy has decreed that services to all war dead—including Arizona's crew and other Dec. 7 casualties—shall be held only on May 30.

Oil slicks that still seep to the surface from the sunken bulk of the battleship USS Arizona, beneath the memorial, colored the waters of the harbor. Air bubbles occasionally rose to the surface as the group prayed.

Beneath lay 1,102 men entombed in the ship when the Arizona went down 21 years ago, in the attack that brought the United States into World War II.

A company of Marines formed three ranks in front of the monument, offered a salute to their dead comrades, and left.

U. S. Dollar Is Still Good

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. dollar is still "as good as gold" despite its many troubles. It used to be thought better than gold. Now there is some question.

Two sets of statistics show a glance the implications of the troubles that have assailed the national currency during the past decade:

Ten years ago the U.S. government owned $23.2 billion of gold, or 64 per cent of all the gold in the non-Communist world. Today U.S. bullion holdings amount to less than $16 billion, or 36 per cent of the total supply.

In 1952, foreigners had $9 billion of U.S. bank deposits and other liquid investments that could be readily converted into cash dollars. At present, these liquid dollar holdings of foreigners total $19.2 billion.

Because the U.S. government makes a standing pledge to sell gold to foreign governments and central banks at $35 an ounce, dollars held by foreigners are of great importance. They represent the potential ability of foreigners to buy American gold.

In 1952, the figures show, even if foreigners had exchanged all their dollars for gold, the United States would have been left with a hefty $14.3 billion of bullion.

Today, foreigners have more than enough dollars to buy up the entire U.S. gold supply.

Although such a development seems inconceivable at this point, the danger of a run on American gold increases as the bullion supply declines and the dollar holdings of foreigners increase.

If these trends continued long enough, there unquestionably would be a run on gold at some point.

To forestall such an eventuality, the U.S. government is determined to defend the dollar and the gold supply that makes it the world's leading currency, by eliminating the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

For the past decade, Americans have been spending, lending, investing and giving away abroad more money than foreigners have been spending, lending and investing here. Because the outflow of funds has exceeded the inflow, the United States has been running a payments deficit.

This deficit is the direct cause of the dollar's troubles. It weakens the dollar on two accounts.

1. As foreigners collect more dollars than they care to spend, lend or invest in the United States they take their extra dollars to their local banks and exchange them for other currencies they find more useful. The dollar becomes less valuable in relation to the other currencies that are in greater demand.

2. When foreigners exchange dollars for other currencies, most of these dollars go into the central bank in their particular country. The central bank, in turn, has the authority to exchange these dollars for U.S. gold—something that individuals and corporations cannot do.

If the dollar is weak, foreign central banks are more likely to buy American gold. If it is strong, they are more apt to invest their dollars in the United States and earn interest.

A large payments deficit—especially one that persists year after year—tends automatically to weaken the dollar in international money markets where one currency is exchanged for another. Just as automatically, a large deficit leads to foreign purchases of U.S. gold.

Fortunately the U.S. payments deficit seems to be declining—from $3.9 billion in 1960 to $2.5 billion in 1961 and, hopefully, to about $2 billion in 1962 when the final figures are in.

While this encouraging long-term trend means a gradual strengthening of the dollar, disturbing setbacks do occur. For example, the payments deficit in the July-September quarter reached an annual rate of $2.9 billion—a sharp increase from the April-June rate of $672 million.

This dramatic reversal was a pointed reminder that the government's effort to wipe out the payments deficit must continue without pause.

These are a few of the more important measures taken in the government's campaign. Since 1960, the United States has insisted that countries receiving foreign aid spend the bulk of the money here.

The Pentagon is spending less money abroad and is urging the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies to buy more military hardware in the United States.

The government is trying to spur exports so more foreign funds will flow into the United States. The results have not been particularly encouraging.

The Treasury is encouraging well-kept Western European governments to make ahead-of-schedule payments on debts owed the United States. This has shaved the 1962 payments deficit by about $500 million.

The government has built up a sizable fund of foreign currencies which it uses from time to time to buy dollars in international money markets. By increasing demand for dollars in this fashion, it strengthens the relative position of the dollar and helps discourage currency speculation.

All these measures, plus some others, have combined to allay fears, prevalent in 1960, that the dollar might be devalued. The Kennedy administration remains hopeful that its policies will wipe out the deficit within the next few years.

'62 Rainfall Already On Average Mark

Snyder's annual rainfall allotment has run the scale from a powdery 8.15 inches in historic 1917 to a whopping 44.22 inches in 1941 during the past 50 years.

The average comes out around 20 1/2 inches, and it is that 1962 is going to be a pretty average year.

November rainfall totaled 69 of an inch, according to the official gauge at the city water treatment plant. That brought the year's total up to 20.20 inches.

The year 1962 has had its big months weather-wise, which is not unusual, according to the 50-year record. September, with 6.47 inches is tops for the year, while June, with 5.16 inches is a respectable second. Thus, two months have accounted for well over half of the 1962 total.

December, not particularly noted for its moisture production, already has produced 32 of an inch. Records indicate that not much more may be expected during the month. December has

Our 'Good Old Days' Are Now; How Will They Wear?

Folks around the newspaper here have been looking into the history of this area during the past three months.

If there is anything that is more fascinating than speculating on the future, it must be commenting on the past. There's something about "the way it used to be" that stimulates interest among most human beings.

Theoretically, man is supposed to learn and profit from his errors, and unpleasant experiences are supposed to equip him to avoid similar happenings in the future.

But it's not the "bad" or unpleasant things that people prefer to recall when they take a look into the past. It is much more pleasing to remember the good times that were had, even those interspersed with hardship, than it is to recall episodes of trial and tribulation.

Thus, frequent reference is made to "the good old days." Of course the good old days were not necessarily recognized as such at the time, but as the years roll by most people are able to view them in much better perspective from afar than they were close to the scene.

It follows, naturally, that hindsight is much better than foresight, or current sight as well. Moreover, hindsight usually gives a clearer picture of actual conditions, which is the reason that historians often are able to provide us with a more comprehensive analysis of a by-gone era than could the people who actually lived during the specific period.

Our good old days are now, and we wonder what the youngsters of today will recall of the sixties some 60 or 70 years hence.

Backstage...

Do you believe everything you see? We heard of a lesson last week that would suggest it's not always possible. A responsible citizen reported to a friend who happened to be a police officer, that as he stopped for a red light the State Highway Patrol car passed him and actually went through the light as it turned red. It seemed all right at the moment, the citizen said, since it seemed they were on a call. But, he reported, in the middle of the next block they stopped in the middle of the street, got out, saluted each other, got back in the car, and roared off. "What kind of foolishness is that?" he demanded. Well, the officer repeated the story to the patrolmen in a day or two, and also demanded to know what all the foolishness was about. Said the patrolman, "You trust this man?" The answer was "Yes." "You would believe him?" The answer, "Anywhere." "Well," said the Highway Patrolman, "we WERE on a call. We were having trouble hearing on the radio so we stopped and unhooked the antennas." So with the whole story told it does make sense, doesn't it? And it does prove, like we said before, that you just can't believe what you think you see anymore.

Cuban Sandwich Loses Popularity

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Some sandwich makers here have found the name "Cuban Sandwich" distasteful.
Two companies have changed the name of the sandwiches. One calls them Latin American, and the other uses the name Americana.

They are still the same oversized sandwiches — known elsewhere by such names as Poor Boy, Big Boy and Hero — including a variety of luncheon meats and cheese.

Tech Board Lets Record Contract

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech's board of directors Saturday awarded the largest single construction contract in Tech history.

It authorized two studies of possible academic development.

H. A. Lott, Inc. of Houston received a $2.3 million contract for construction of two new residence halls—one to house approximately 1,000 men and the other more than 800 women.

The board asked the administration to gather details for a proposed law school with the proposal to be submitted to the Texas Commission on Higher Education when feasible.

The administration was also asked to study the possibility of adding other schools or departments, such as schools of education, nursing and pharmacy. Tech already has an education department but not a full school of education.

In other action the board authorized:
The awarding of an honorary degree to Cal Farley of Amarillo, Boys Ranch founder. It will be conferred at the spring commencement.

An annual water conference to seek new ways to utilize that resource. The first conference will be held Feb. 1.

A new research study of ground water recharge.
The requesting of new bids on revised plans for the Kilgore Beef Cattle Research Center to be located on the Tech Research Farm near Amarillo. All bids taken at the first opening Oct. 24 had been rejected previously.

In one of a series of informational reports at board meetings, Athletic Director Polk Robison pointed out that Tech's intercollegiate athletic program is on a sound and self-supporting foundation. He forecast an improved football team as well as a well-rounded program "without any questionable practices."

Two Mishaps Are Reported In City

The Snyder police department reported two auto mishaps Thursday afternoon.

The first occurred at 4:45 at Avenue E and the East Highway. Involved were a 1956 Chevrolet driven by Alfred Lee Shook and a 1954 Ford driven by Rodney C. Summers of Fluvanna. Damage to the Shook car was estimated at $15 and to the Summers car at $50.

At 5:06 a mishap at the corner of Twenty-sixth Street and Avenue F involved a Bell Funeral Home ambulance driven by Myron Fietz and a 1962 Pontiac driven by Loren Kobutek. The ambulance was not on an emergency call. It received damage estimated at $150. The auto was damaged in an amount estimated at $50. There were no injuries in either mishap.

Fort Meade, Fla., is named for Gen. George G. Meade, who while still a second lieutenant, was asked to find the site of an old Indian fort named Fort Clinch. When he found it, his commanding officer named it for him.

South Dakota Hamlet Battles For Records

By DAN PERKES
MOUND CITY, S.D. (AP)—If you blinked at the wrong time, you could drive through town and never know you've been there.
Mound City is that small.

But in recent days, this tiny north-central South Dakota farming community of about 150 people has put itself on the map—by tweaking Uncle Sam's nose.

And Uncle is unhappy about it. Almost downright angry. The fight between Mound City, named after Indian mounds located in the area, and the federal government is over refusal of this town to release records belonging to the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The federal government wants the records moved to the new Campbell County ASCS office located at Herreid. Mound City's larger (population 767) and more prosperous neighbor, about nine miles north.

Mound City is fighting to keep the ASCS office in Mound City, refuse to release the records. The government last week threatened to send in U.S. marshals to retrieve the records. The people of Mound City said they would meet force with force.

The threatened invasion by marshals, however, produced only scores of newsmen and television cameras.

Hearing Set For Banker

LAREDO (AP)—Dist. Judge James Kazen has set a hearing for Monday on a defense motion to determine if Zapata banker Manuel Medina should be given a jury trial in his second court appearance Dec. 17.

Medina, 52, president of the defunct Bank of Zapata, in a jury trial last August was given a five-year suspended sentence for accepting deposits when he knew his privately-owned bank was insolvent.

The defendant testified the bank in the small nearby town closed July 17, 1961, because it "ran out of money." He said he used up to $70,000 of the bank's money in grain speculation.

Medina faces trial Dec. 17 on two charges similar to those on which he was convicted Aug. 10: the remaining charges bear names of other depositors. Testimony in the August trial revealed that accounts of the Medina family were overdrawn by more than $231,000 at the time the bank closed.

And Occasional Beer

CLEVELAND (AP)—Unionists were speaking on the rights of barmaids to demand the same pay as their male counterparts.

Explaining the situation, Andrew J. Kump, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO Bartenders Local 108, commented:
"I believe they are working for peanuts."

An uneasy truce now prevails as efforts continue to settle the matter peacefully.
Two attempts to move the ASCS records out of Mound City earlier this year met determined resistance.

The first time, Mound City women sat down on the office desks so movers couldn't get them.
The second time, the State ASCS Committee sent a pickup truck here early in the morning before the office opened and loaded part of the records. Before the job could be completed, however, someone blew the town fire, whistle and the truck sped away.

Since then, the front of the ASCS office has been sandbagged to prevent entry.
The fight actually started almost two years ago when the State ASCS Committee insisted on more modern facilities for its Campbell County office. The Mound City office then lacked, among other things, indoor toilets.

The county committee signed a lease to set up shop in new office building at Herreid but Mound City whipped up its own $30,000 office. Townspeople and area farmers had chipped in the money.

The county committee then canceled the Herreid contract. But the state committee fired her county committee.
Farmers in Campbell County have twice elected new county committees since the dispute started. Each time, the new county committee favored Mound City, which is the county seat, as the ASCS site.

The controversy, climaxing a long rivalry between Mound City and Herreid has left bitterness in its wake and split Campbell County wide open.

Mound City children, who used to attend the Herreid High School, now travel about a dozen miles further north to go to school at Pollock even though the Herreid school is recognized as the better of the two.

A half-dozen churches at Herreid changed congregations almost overnight when the fight started. Mound City people now go to Sunday services elsewhere although Herreid ministers continually preached "brotherly love."

Mound City people do their buying at Pollock and other communities instead of at Herreid. And relatives living in Mound City and Herreid no longer speak to each other.

Mound City people have pulled their savings out of the only bank in Herreid and deposited them elsewhere.

And the closing of the ASCS office until the dispute is resolved also is having its side effects.
There are 91 sold bank payments that can't be made for the year, at least 300 commodity loans outstanding and several farm facility loans on which the government can't collect.

The people hereabouts claim the dispute is just another chapter in a long-standing battle of pride with Herreid.

Herreid, they say, always has coveted the courthouse at Mound City. And once the ASCS office is removed, they add, the courthouse will be next.

What's fair is fair, replies Herreid.
Herreid agreed to let Mound City keep its courthouse if we got the ASCS office," said Mrs. Sentner.

This town may have to swallow its pride in the face of federal orders and for the sake of its pocketbook.
But it has served notice that it is not going down without a fight, even if the only weapons are words.

C-C Panel Awards Made

More cash prizes were awarded Saturday in the Snyder Chamber of Commerce merchants committee pre-Christmas program.
Roe Rosson, Route 2, was awarded the $100 top prize at the drawing, which was held at the Highland Shopping Center.

Bob Womack 1201 Twenty-sixth Street, was awarded $75; Bill Wood 701 Birch, was awarded $50 and Mrs. Dan Coomer, 1712, Twenty-eighth Street was awarded $25.

Prizes of $15 each went to R. C. Popcoe; Mavis Overman, Clairemont Route; Bettie Huddleston, Fluvanna Route; Helen Miller, 3614 Hill Avenue; Mrs. C. C. Caldwell, 305 Thirty-second Street; Lorey Cagle, 908 Thirty-second Street; Larry Allen, 2106 Fortieth Street; Mrs. Stanley Gray, 2307 Avenue U; M. W. Howard, Bel-Air Village; and Ronnie Spittle, 600 Thirty-fourth Street.

Prizes of $10 each went to Jerry Vestal 2901 Thirty-fifth Street; Margaret C. Gary, Route 2; John C. Moore, Route 3; Mrs. C. L. Melton 3007 Fortieth Street; and David Fish 3179 Avenue U. Awards totaling $400 will be given away again next Saturday.

One activity which ended its days about the time of the boom were the baseball games at Knapp. In the early 1940s a diamond was built by the neighborhood citizens of Knapp on the Buford Sterling place in an area which would now be located about two miles south of the Lion gasoline plant. Everybody pitched in, raised money, and built the diamond.

A trucking company sponsored the team, and used their equipment to go after the needed poles and equipment. Team members included all of the Sterling boys, the Huddleston boys, Garland and a Bernard Bishop, Pat and Delbert Johnson, Max von Roeder, and Bud Thompson.

While the oil boom days of the early 1950s saw the start of many things in Scurry County, it also saw the end of others.

Oilers Back In Battle With Boston

By The Associated Press
The Houston Oilers and the Boston Patriots continue their game of chase Sunday in the race for the Eastern Division title of the American Football League, and all indications are that the Championship still won't be decided until next week's final games.

Pilot, Logan Year's Best On Offense

By The Associated Press
Jim (Preacher) Logan won the major college football ground-gaining championship for the second straight year in 1962, marking the fourth consecutive season a New Mexico State player has captured rushing honors.

The 195-pound junior gained 1,247 yards on the ground in 208 ball-carrying attempts according to final statistics released Saturday by the NCAA Service Bureau.

For the first time in six years, the scoring and rushing titles did not go to the same player. Pilot failed to defend his scoring crown as Jerry Logan of West Texas State was tops in point-production with 110 points.

Pilot finished in a second-place tie with Cotton Clark of Alabama with 92 points each. The hard-running halfback therefore missed out in his bid to become the first player to lead the nation's scorers two years in a row since Tom Harmon of Michigan accomplished the feat in 1939-40.

Pilot became the second man in the annals of major college football to win ball-carrying honors in back-to-back seasons. Art Lupino of Arizona was the first to turn the trick in 1954-55.

Pilot gave New Mexico State an unprecedented fourth consecutive rushing title with Bob Galters in 1960 and Pervis Atkins in 1959 his predecessors. No other team has ever won as many as four titles in any one principal department—team or individual.

Baylor's Trull Is Athlete Of Month

DALLAS (AP)—Don Trull, Baylor quarterback who set three passing records, was honored here Dec. 19 as the Southwest Conference Athlete of the Month. Trull was named by the Greater Dallas Chapter of the Southwest Conference Lettermen's Association.

Trull will receive a plaque at a luncheon, open to the public.

Historic Habitat Of Fish Damaged

By The Associated Press
Engineers of the Game Commission say the historic fish habitat of the Upper Laguna Madre off the Texas coast near Corpus Christi has been damaged, beyond repair.

Chiefly because of man-made structures, the engineers said in a report to the commission, water circulation has been reduced causing a high percentage of salinity in the water.

Consequently, the report said, almost lost completely are 6½ square miles of prime spawning and nursery grounds for fish.

To halt this damage and to restore some portions of the Laguna Madre would require building two passes to the Gulf and one channel at a cost of $7.15 million. This amount, a commission official said, "is far out of reach."

What has been termed by some as the "shortest, most restrictive duck hunting season in Texas' history" is on with predictions that few hunters will be out.

The 25-day season opened Thursday and will end Dec. 30. A hunter may kill only two ducks a day, but cannot kill canvasbacks or redheads. Kills of northern or green-head species mallard are limited to one per day, a rule which does not apply to the Texas mottled or black mallard.

Miss Billie Domingue, 17, of Port Arthur is the new women's champion duck caller of Arkansas. It was the second consecutive title for the high school senior.

Two other Texans, Dr. P. W. Walker of Dallas and J. W. Elliot of Mexia, were among 20 people cited recently for the United States Pen Field Trails Service Achievement Award.

Elliott is a former member of Raiders, who haven't won in 12 games this year and in 18 since mid-season of 1961. Boston, one-half game behind Houston, is favored over San Diego.

In the only other scheduled game, Denver plays the Dallas Texans, who last week sewed up the Western Division title. Boston and New York played Saturday, Houston, with a 9-3 record, is on a five-game winning streak—the same kind of late rush the Oilers have used to nail the divisional title in the two previous AFL seasons.

However, the Oilers' passing offense, led by quarterback George Blanda, may find it tough sledding against the Raiders' defense.

Despite its lowly standing, Oakland ranks No. 1 against the forward pass, having allowed an average of 170 yards per game. The Oilers have been rolling up an average of 234 yards, with Blanda totaling 2,407 so far. However, the pro veteran has been intercepted 37 times.

The Oilers may have to turn to their running game, which is stronger now than Billy Cannon is back Oakland is ranked last in rushing offense.

Boston, with Tom Yewcic proving a capable running back replacement for the injured Babe Parilli, would be out of it with a loss should Houston win. The Patriots have won two in a row since Yewcic took one from Parilli, and have an 8-3 record.

San Diego, now 4-8, snapped a six-game losing streak against Oakland last week with rookie quarterback John Hadl turning in his best game of the year. Hadl could have a big day against the Oilers' most porous pass defense—one that has allowed an average of 231 yards per game.

Boston's Gino Cappelletti still has a chance for the AFL's scoring title. He trails Gene Mingo of Denver by 13 points, 133-120.

The Texans already hold one victory over second-place Denver this season, and had not the Broncos lost last week to Houston this game would have been a last gasp effort by the Broncos for the title.

But Mingo still has a shot at the scoring title, and end Lionel Taylor will try to retain his pass catching crown. Taylor has caught 70 for 748 yards so far.

Dallas quarterback Len Dawson also will try to protect his passing lead. He has totaled 28 touchdowns and 2,515 yards with 168 completions. Abner Haynes of Dallas is within halting distance of rookie Gilchrist of Buffalo for the scoring title, having gained 860 yards so far.

Haynes would break Bill Griem's league season record of 18 set last year.

Game Commission

A bulletin which those who hunt and cook should appreciate has been published by Texas A&M specialists in nutrition and wildlife conservation and food. It's title is "Wild Game - Care-Cooking" and it describes the proper care of small and large game in the field, in camp and at home. Copies may be obtained at county home demonstration agents' offices.

For those who have trouble preparing a goose to cook, especially finding it difficult to pluck the feathers, one hunter has an answer. He says dunk the goose in a bucket of about 130-degree water and add a generous amount of ordinary dishwashing detergent. He says the detergent dissolves the natural oil in the feathers and makes the rest easy.

Packers Can Clinch Tie For First Place

By The Associated Press

The Green Bay Packers can nail down a tie for their third straight crown in the National Football League's Western Conference Sunday with a victory over the perking San Francisco 49ers or they can win the title outright if the second-place Detroit Lions should unaccountably fall before the Minnesota Vikings.

These are the two alternatives that Coach Vince Lombardi's defending NFL champions face if they hope to take another step toward a second straight title game against New York Giants. The Giants, who play the Cleveland Browns, clinched the Western Conference title last week.

One unhappy alternative faces the Packers, who had threatened to make a shambles of the western race only three weeks ago. A loss to the 49ers and a Detroit victory would tie the two for the lead, each with one game left. Green Bay winds up against the Los Angeles Rams and the Lions face the Chicago Bears next week.

In other NFL action, the eastern race for second place and a spot in the Playoff Bowl in Miami next month continues.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (7-5) are second and play in Philadelphia against the Eagles (5-5).

In the Western Conference, the Los Angeles Rams (10-10) are in third place at 6-5, will try and halt the Giants seven-game winning streak while the Dallas Cowboys, fifth with a 5-6 record and the St. Louis Cardinals (2-8-1).

Washington's Redskins, also aiming for a second-place finish, played at Baltimore Saturday.

In the Western Conference, the Los Angeles Rams (10-10) are in third place at 6-5, will try and halt the Giants seven-game winning streak while the Dallas Cowboys, fifth with a 5-6 record and the St. Louis Cardinals (2-8-1).

Green Bay, 11-1, had to scrap to get by the 49ers 31-13 in the first meeting this year. San Francisco, meanwhile, has been offensively for most of the first half and led in the third period until worn down by the Packers' defense and the running of full-back Jim Taylor.

Taylor, the top ground gainer and scorer, gained 160 yards in the first meeting. He may get more help from Paul Hornung, who came out of last Sunday's victory over Los Angeles without aggravating the damaged right knee that shelved him for six weeks.

The 49ers, with John Brodie now established as the No. 1 quarterback, have won three in a row for a 6-6 record, but had a victory streak of three games snapped in their first meeting with the Packers.

Colts Nudge Skins, 34-21

BALTIMORE (AP)—Linebacker Don Shinnick intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble which the Baltimore Colts turned into three last period touchdowns Saturday for a 34-21 victory over the Washington Redskins.

The coast-to-coast televised National Football League game was largely a pitching duel between quarterbacks John Unitas and Norm Snead, with the Colts throwing a 43 touchdown edge.

Unitas also ran 19 yards to the Redskins 2 and set up the last Colt touchdown by Alex Hawkins. The 25 passes out of 36 Unitas completed for 367 yards were a new personal high for him in seven seasons.

The Colts bounced back for two of their touchdowns after the Redskins had come close enough to try field goals.

The Colts improved their season record to 6-7 while the Redskins were taking their sixth loss in 15 games, two of which they tied. Washington 0 14 0 20-34

The Lions (10-2), still buoyed by their sound victory over Green Bay on Thanksgiving Day, have a six-game victory string. They also have solid relief strength for quarterback Milt Plum in Earl Morrill, who has bailed them out twice in three games, including a 17-6 victory against the Vikings three weeks ago.

New York Coach Alie Sherman has promised no let-up by his team, now winners of seven straight, even though their second straight tie is clinched. He will start veteran quarterback Y. A. Tittle and his other regulars against the Browns, though he has indicated that his reserves will get considerable duty.

Cleveland holds one of the two decisions over New York so far, beating the Giants 17-7 in the season's first game. Cleveland's quarterbacking has become solid with the passing of Frank Ryan, but the running game, Jimmy Brown—must conquer the Giants' tough defense.

The Steelers will have Ed Brown at quarterback again but must cope with a rejuvenated Eagles' attack that has been successful in two games with former world sprint champion Frank Budd at flanker and Tim Brown handling the running.

Don Meredith is expected to have more help from veteran Edie LeBaron at quarterback for Dallas, despite his near-perfect job in helping beat the Browns last week. He completed 10 of 11 passes. The Cards haven't won since defeating Dallas 28-24 Oct. 28, a five-game stretch, in which Billy Wade, whose 2,777 yards gained passing is second only to Tittle's 2,871, cranks up George Hals' aerial circus against the Rams. Los Angeles rookie Roman Gabriel, who has shown great pulse in his only two starts, will guide the Rams.

In the American League, Boston is at San Diego, Oakland plays at Houston and Dallas meets Denver in the only scheduled games.

Pete Runnels Is Crowned Top Hitter

BOSTON (AP)—Pete Runnels, who was traded by Boston to Houston of the National League last month, was officially crowned the American League batting champion for 1962 Saturday.

The veteran infielder hit .326 to pace the junior circuit for the second time. He captured the title in 1960 with a .320 mark.

Runnels moved to Houston in an inter-league swap for outfielder Roman Mejias.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was the runner-up, just season with .321. Only seven others hit .300 or better among those who qualified for batting honors with a minimum of 502 total appearances. They were Floyd Robinson of the Chicago White Sox .312, Chuck Hinton, Washington .310, Norm Siebern, Kansas City .308, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore .303, Bobby Richardson, New York .302 and Jerry Lumpe and Manny Jimenez, Kansas City, .301 each.

Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota's slugging outfielder, captured the home run and runs batted in titles. He slammed 48 homers and drove in 126 runs.

Bobby Richardson, the Yanks' spray hitter, had the most safeties, 209. He also collected the most stolen bases, 20, and the most official times at bat, 692.

Floyd Robinson set the pace in doubles with 45 while Gino Cimoli of Kansas City was the leader in triples with 15. Luis Aparicio of the White Sox was tops in stolen bases for the seventh consecutive season. He had 31 in '62. The fleet shortstop also was caught stealing the most times, 12.

AFL Rushing Record Set By Gilchrist

NEW YORK (AP)—Cookie Gilchrist, who starred for nine years in the Canadian League, became the first American Football League player ever to roll up 100 yards in a season and in the process scored all of Buffalo's points in a 20-3 victory over the New York Titans.

Gilchrist, in his first AFL season, finished his 12-game campaign with 1,096 yards, rolling up 143 against the Titans. Two big gulps came on touchdowns runs of 42 and 30 yards in the second half after he got only 26 yards in the first half.

However, he chipped in with a pair of 45 and 27 yard field goals, and also kicked both extra points. The victory assured Buffalo of a third place finish in the Eastern Division as the Bills ended their season with a 7-6 record.

Bill Shuford, the 22-year-old rookie who tied the score in the first period was all the scoring the Titans could muster.

Gilchrist, a 6-foot-2, 243-pound runner, broke the 1,000 yard mark on his 42-yard scoring jaunt in the third period. He added the 30-yard run early in the last period. He entered the game with 953 yards. He broke Billy Cannon's single season record of 948 last week.

Hofstra Goes Down, 46-12

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Quarterback Terry Eberly fired three touchdowns passes and scored twice himself Saturday to lead West Chester Pa. State to a 46-12 rout of Hofstra in the first Cement Bowl football game.

Eberly amazed a crowd of 6,000 with his faking and passing. He completed 14 of 18 attempts for 203 yards, including a pair of touchdowns—Max "Biggie" Wagner and another to Roger Augenbaugh.

Joe Iacono, the Rams' little All-America fullback pushed his season scoring total to 114 points with two touchdowns and a pair of 2-point conversions.

Brownwood recovered a fumble on the Dumas 16-yard line and pushed it into a touchdown in the first period. James Crow ploughed over from the 2 and Doug Young kicked the extra point.

With three seconds left in the first half Young kicked a 30-yard field goal to make it 10-0.

Dumas smashed 49 yards for its first score in the third period, with Joe Parsons going over from the one and Joe Ballard kicking his first of four extra points.

Jerry Glover blocked a Brownwood kick and Kelly Baker recovered on the 1. Julian Miller scored and Ballard again converted.

Following a Brownwood punt, sophomore Norman Bonner raced 69 yards for another touchdown and Ballard converted.

A pass interception by Joe Casas put Dumas on the Brownwood 6 and Gary King scored on a third down from the 1. Ballard made it 28-10 with a 6:32 left.

A pass interception by Ronald Smith gave Dumas the ball on its 44 and Doug Holtzclaw ran the last 28 yards for a touchdown. Parsons passed to Baker for the two points.

On the final play of the game Terry Southall passed to James Harris on a 45-yard Brownwood scoring play and then a connected with Grayson Wetzel for the two points.

Dumas, boasting a 206-pound line, held Brownwood to a minus one yard rushing in the second half but couldn't contain the passing of Southall. He hit on 10 of 23 for 178 yards.

Bonner carried 11 times for 118 yards as the game's top rusher.

4 Planters Gins Are In County

Mr. Cotton Farmer, regardless of your location in Scurry County, there's a Planter's Gin near you, as there are four plants scattered around the county.

This convenience of location plus versatility of experience of its managers and dependability of equipment prompts farmers of the area to entrust thousands of bales of cotton a year to these gins, and thus enables Sweetwater Cotton Co. to have a sizable chunk of the cottonseed processing business from this area. The gins are subsidiaries of this parent firm and each gin manager operates as a cotton buyer as well as a processor.

Each gin stresses up-to-date equipment, and all have double Moss Lint Cleaners and carefully maintained equipment.

D. V. Merritt, the manager of the Snyder operation for the past fourteen years, has a 44-year background in ginning to rank as the "senior" gin manager in the area. T. K. Kray at Harnleigh and Hugh Billingsley at Dunn offer the farmers of this area many years of experience. Roy Lee Beaver succeeds his father, Pete Beaver as manager at Fluvanna having taken over the reins this year. This is Roy Lee's first year as a manager but as his father says, "Roy Lee was raised working around a gin as this has been my occupation for the past 19 years."

One of the truly outstanding progress examples of this area is Bill's Auto Salvage. Bill Baldwin started in business in 1952 with a few repossessed cars accumulated from the used car business. Those few cars have increased to acres and acres of cars, over 2,000 at present, and he is now in the area on the Roby Highway, his location since starting into business.

The Snyder firm is doing an amazing amount of business up in northern Texas and in Oklahoma as well as far south and as far west as El Paso in Texas.

This far-reaching trade is spurred by a trade journal advertising program which originates in Dallas and through its circulation body shops all over the southwest "search" for unavailable or profitably-priced items through salvage sources. Another large boon to Bill as well as the people needing those hard to get parts in a new addition to the firm, a private live teleprinter circuit. With this teleprinter messages are sent and received instantaneously to Abilene, Lubbock, Odessa, Plainview, Amarillo, Midland, Hobbs, Carlsbad and Roswell. Bill says, "This line is growing in popularity all the time and it shouldn't be too long before we have as many as 20 new members." This new addition enables Bill to locate in a matter of minutes.

Baldwin's wife, Jackie, keeps books for the operation and the firm employs two other people, Clyde Baldwin, Jr. and Travis L. Dean.

Benny Going Back After 31 Years

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jack Benny is returning to the medium he left 31 years ago—the Broadway revue.

It was in 1931 when the young 37 Waukegan, Ill., funnyman walked out on a tour of "Earl Carroll's Vanities," in which he had starred in New York. The move was decidedly not in keeping with his later fame as a pennypincher.

"I was getting $1,500 a week and you can imagine how big that looked in 1931," he says.

But he declined the job because the show was beginning a rugged tour of one-nighters. Besides, he had his eye on something else called radio. And the rest, as they say, is history.

On Feb. 11, the comedian will open "The Jack Benny Show" at the O'Keefe in Toronto and head for a six-week stand at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, starting Feb. 27. He'll take long a troupe of performers including Jane Morgan and the Beverly Hillbillies—that's his own zany combo, not the television series.

Benny, 68, conducts a weekly television show, plays his fiddle all over the country to raise funds for longhair music, does his act in Las Vegas showrooms at less charitable fees. So why return to Broadway?

"Because it's fun," he said. "I like what I do; I always have. That's why I work."

This season in television has been a breeze for me. I've been able to play nine holes of golf every day. I get in an hour or two of practice with my violin each day. My only problem is what to do with my nights."

The Jack Benny Show has bounced back in the ratings after a rocky season last year. The shift from Sunday (opposite front-running "Bonanza") to Tuesday undoubtedly helped.

"But I can't worry about ratings," he remarked. "There are too many unknown qualities that determine them. Do you know that the change of one phone call can make your rating drop?"

"I'm gratified if the rating is good, especially since we're up against two strong shows, Dick Powell and 'The Untouchables.' Performing stimulates him; the sound of laughter is a great tonic. Unlike other comics, he also is a good listener. His fellow performers love to sharpen their wit before him, because they know what a ready audience he is."

His real secret of living may be his much-maligned violin. "When I play it, I can't think about anything else," he said. "It's the greatest relaxation in the world."

BLACK AND GOLD

In senior class meeting Tuesday, committees were chosen for Kid's Day, Senior Day and Senior Assembly. It was suggested that instead of having wills, which is the annual senior assembly, there would be a program to inspire the juniors and sophomores.

Class favorites were elected Wednesday in advisory. Each person in senior, junior and sophomore classes voted for a boy and girl of their respective classes. There will be a runoff for the favorite in each class.

Rogers Inc. Service Here Is Unique

Rogers, Inc. provides Snyder with the availability of junior department store facilities by having comprehensive selections in men's boys and ladies ready-to-wear and accessories, as well as shoes for the entire family.

Rogers also serves as an area Gold Bond stamp redemption store with each filled Gold Bond stamp book being worth $3.00 toward the purchase of any item from their regular stock, or they can order any premium out of the regular Gold Bond catalog.

Jay Rogers is president and general manager of the firm, while his father, Abe Rogers, founder of the business, is chairman of the board. Jay's wife, Jo is secretary-treasurer.

The store carries out the unique plan wherein their key personnel also serve as directors of the firm. Serving with the three Rogerses are Marie Wallace, office manager; Billie James, Ladies Dept.; Kenneth Aldridge, Men's Department; and Clifford Hale, men's department and shoes.

Each director is responsible for a specific department but under the present setup, Jay explains, each can be active as needed all over the store. He is chief "greeter" at the front door and thoroughly enjoys visiting with his many friends.

Full-time personnel who ably assist in the store operation include Jane Reynolds in the ladies department, Valla Osborne also in ladies, Frankie Wall in shoes and Thelma Devenport in alterations. They have five regular part-time aides. Too, these are David Taylor and Jay Dun Rogers in men's department and stock control; Onedee Sevey, alterations; Ruby Spradling, shoes; and Jackie Adams in the ladies' department.

There is a 46-year tradition behind Rogers, Inc., in Snyder, although it took 30 years before Abe could attain the magnitude he dreamed of when he first came here as an itinerant salesman who wanted to settle down in a nice town with a nice business.

Abe started out with a small cleaning plant and tailor shop on a shoestring, and dabbled on the side in men's custom suits ordered to measure. This was his forte until Jay came home from the service in 1946 and they branched into the formality of a men's store of which Jay was the manager.

This business grew and they actually got the "feel" of ladies merchandise on specialized merchandising on "match-made" features of lines which featured men's clothing and ladies attire that complemented or matched, as one normally sees in the Pendleton and Manhattan lines.

When a fire destroyed Owens Department Store next door, they incurred enough smoke and water damage to require moving and staging a fire sale to freshen up their stocks while new construction was replacing the ruins left by the conflagration.

Graham's Is Pioneer Firm Here

Art M. Roberts, Jr., is manager of one of the oldest dry cleaning establishments in town—Joe Graham Cleaners, which was founded in 1915 or 1916.

They have been located in their present site since 1932. They are noted for such comprehensive services as complete cleaning operations as well as doing all types of alterations. In fact, they serve as the alterations department for many of the dry goods firms in town.

They have a staff of four besides Roberts-Arturo Espinoza has been with the firm for six years, and others on a full-time schedule, are Mrs. Naomi Martin, Edna Campbell and Mrs. Alice Gay. They feature a triple bath cleaning system which has a 2500-gallon filter plant that changes soil in the washer within 60-second cycles.

Highland Cleaners Got Start In '39

Shelby and Lucille Coker are carrying on a 12-year tradition with Highland Park Cleaners which they have operated since 1959.

The firm moved to its present location on the Big Spring highway about four years ago, and the Cokers bought out St. Steinbert in February, 1959.

One of the dominant distinctions Highland Park Cleaners enjoys is their exclusive position as cold storage vault operators. They have a spacious vault for summer storage of winter garments and provide adequate area to hang the items up.

The Cokers have a long family background in dry cleaning. Shelby was about four years ago, and he has counted up a total of 32 years of experience in the work.

Highland Park Cleaners has latest equipment at work in their business, including high filtration cleaning equipment to three presses, adjust-a-mat, buff iron, and four-unit silk finisher.

The Cokers have been in Snyder for six years, first being employed by Steinberg before buying the business. They came here from Paris, Tex., where Coker had worked in plants and also operated his own business.

Texas Electric Has Served City With Power Since '25

Electric power, a basic requirement for progress and growth came to Snyder 33 years ago.

That was 16 years before Texas Electric Service Company purchased the local power plant and began developing the modern electric power system that serves Snyder today.

Until Texas Electric bought out the old Snyder Utilities company in 1925 Snyder's power came from a local power plant. It consisted of a number of small oil engines and was in poor condition. Texas Electric extended its highline from Sweetwater after acquiring the local electric plant, thus ending a 16-year story of the small system that had developed through ownerships involving nine different persons.

The first electric power to come to Snyder was a little light plant built at the rear of the present Williams Jewelry store site, where George Mosier generated electricity for the movie house and a few north side business houses.

Later electric service came from a small generator installed in 1909 by J. V. Ransome and R. F. Brumback near the Standard Oil of Texas storage tanks at the RS&P tracks.

The Ransome-Brumback plant was the first commercial unit in town and it made a forward step in 1911 when E. W. Clark and W. A. Fuller moved and enlarged the plant, establishing it on the site of the old oil mill. The light plant remained there through the years, although additional generating units were added from time to time.

E. F. Renken bought the plant in 1915 when Snyder electric was only from dark until 11 p.m. Then in 1918 George Wilcox became the owner, succeeded in 1919 by D. P. Yoder and W. B. McCormick. McCormick sold his share to E. J. Anderson in 1923. For a short time the company was part of the West Texas Electric Company before it became the Texas Electric Service Company.

Anderson remained as manager for a time until J. E. Blakes came here from Sweetwater to take over as manager in 1927, holding this position for 30 years until he retired.

Texas Electric's office has been in the present location since 1927, but has had two major face-lifts. The building was remodeled in 1950 when the old bank vault in the building, at one time the home of the old Snyder National Bank, was removed, an inside stairway taken out and a new front and entrance installed. In 1957, following a fire in the block, the structure was rebuilt—converted from a two-story building to the present modern, one-story office building.

Bill Brown has been manager of Texas Electric's operations in the Snyder area since 1957 and has been on the local staff since 1947. He was commercial manager before being named manager.

Texas Electric now has 29 employees in Snyder, many of them active in church and civic work. This compares with a staff of eight people on the payroll when Brown started with the company 15 years ago.

Key personnel include, besides Brown, L. H. Hardy, distribution superintendent; Garth Austin, chief clerk; Billy Bob Hardee, commercial salesman; R. C. Scott, line foreman with a crew of 11 men; Leonard Keller, service man; Billy Roy Browning and Guy Allen, meter readers; Deloris Minor and Xan Harris, cashiers; Bill Skies, customer services; Mrs. Tommie Preston, home service advisor; Gerald Pulte, outside customer services; and Tommy Iverson, sales coordinator.

Snyder's present electric power comes from a network of high voltage transmission lines that are fed by eight big Texas Electric power plants. These plants are at Lake Colorado City, Monahan, Graham, Wichita Falls, Eastland, and in the Fort Worth area.

These power plants and transmission lines form a strong power network bringing modern electric power and light service to Snyder and more than 100 other cities and towns and to rural communities, farms and ranches in North Central and West Texas.

The electric power substation serving Snyder has been increased in capacity a number of times as the electric power load has grown. Ample power is available here from Texas Electric's system for all present needs and those of the future.

Southwestern Brick & Tile Has Constant Growth Story

If any industry in the Snyder area "exhibits momentum," it's Southwestern Brick and Tile, which has grown from a hesitant experiment to an outlet which produces by the millions and serves a three-state area.

They manufacture nine million bricks a year—a standard face brick in pink and red, romo brick and the paving brick and patio pavers.

They have what appears to be an incessant growth story, because they now are putting in a 220-foot shuttle kiln with 24 car capacity which will turn out 30,000 brick a day.

And this is just another chapter in their continuing progress experience, because just about every year they have kept in step with the demand for their expansive trade territory by adding kilns and storage space to accommodate month-to-month needs.

The new shuttle kiln will be set on kiln cars and bricks will be removed by a fork lift. It will have a pre-heat chamber, firing zone and cooling zone. Its main advantage will be to save labor and cut down gas consumption by one half, when compared with the old down-draft kiln.

In addition it actually will produce a better quality brick and represents only two thirds the investment of the tunnel-type kiln, despite the fact that its flexibility is greater than the tunnel type.

Incidentally, several equipment manufacturers as well as brick industries are manifesting a keen interest in this kiln. Everything other than principles of their own design and invention has been installed by the Martin family, owners and operators of this vast Southwestern Brick industry.

The simply stated manufacturers' catalogs and build the feeding and measuring equipment themselves.

The business is owned and operated by a father, two sons and a daughter. A. L. Martin has had a family situation in Southwestern Brick from the start. He has the assistance of sons Ray and Billy Don as well as Janelda (Mrs. Z. W. Davis).

They launched the brick-making career in 1953 when a general contractor who was digging footings for a ranch house they found soft shale. They thought it might make brick and after 18 months of experimenting, they concluded they could make a brick that was comparable with any competitor's.

A chemical salesman inspected the kiln and advised the Martins their shuttle kiln had great possibilities and that they should apply for a patent. They did and submitted nine claims of originality. None have been protested in any way. Some of the features of the shuttle kiln are muffle type firing, down-draft circulation, full fan circulation and they are experimenting now with sealed-in automatic burner.

The Martins employ 15 personnel, enhancing the economy of this area with a total of $60,000 a year in paychecks.

They utilize materials from Fisher County and Cisco, and their demand for high quality brick has exceeded their output ever since they started business.

Southwestern Brick keeps three trucks running all the time, and one of these is a 850-series Ford, with superlite boom unloader. This unloader enables them to unload 12,000 bricks in only 30 minutes with the simplicity of push-button control.
