Mayor Proclaims Baseball Holiday

COLLIER SETS ASIDE OPENING DAY OF LEAGUE

First Official Act Urges Support of Team

Mayor Frank Collier's first official act of a non-routine nature, after being sworn in last night as head of the city family, was to issue a proclamation declaring Thursday afternoon a half-holiday and urging all Wichita Falls citizens to attend the opening baseball game of the 1922 Texas League season.

Mayor Collier, who several years ago was a pitcher on the only baseball club representing this city, and once premier pitcher of the Texas league, stressed the value of the present league franchise to Wichita Falls and declared that the baseball association deserves the hearty support of the general public.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

The proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the game of baseball is recognized as the national game of the United States and its admirers and supporters have done much to uphold the traditions of this country as a nation of healthy, vigorous people and,

"Whereas, the city of Wichita Falls possesses a franchise in the Texas Baseball League, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the United States, which organization will begin its 1922 season on April 13, now, therefore,

"Be it proclaimed, that Thursday afternoon of April 13, 1922, is hereby declared a legal half-holiday within the city of Wichita Falls, and that the citizens be urged to attetnd the opening baseball game of the Texas League season."

Cup On Display

The "president's cup," given annually to the Texas League city that has the largest attendance on opening day at home, arrived in Wichita Falls yesterday and was placed on exhibition in the window of the First National Bank. The cup, presented this year by J. Doak Roberts, is of silver standing 18 inches high and supported on three silver crossed bats and a silver ball.

CLINE TURNS OFFICE OVER TO COLLIER

Walter D. Cline and his retiring fellow members of the city administration almost got out of office and inducted their successors into office at Monday night's council meeting without the customary speech-making which traditionally goes with such an occasion—almost. In fact it looked for a time as if this was to be entirely the case, for the speech-making that

DR. ATTICUS WEBB OF DALLAS, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, is reminded that soldiers of the Irish Republican army captured a custom house in the city of Dublin and destroyed 500,000 gallons of wine and whiskey owned by Belfast distillers which inflicted a revenue loss of $10,000,000. This was handing a harder wallop to the Belfast liquor traffic than Pussyfoot Johnson and his cohorts could have dealt in a hundred years and these soldiers of the Irish Republican army, having captured half a billion gallons of red liquor, refused to drink it. They not only refused to drink it themselves but they made it impossible for the thirsty of Dublin who are not soldiers to get a swig of the stuff that is so scarce and so costly in America. After that display or exhibition of self-denial, Dr. Atticus should be willing to admit that the Irish are entitled to a Republic instead of a free state. Critics of the Celts should be willing to admit that there is something new under the sun.

NOW A SELECT COMMITTEE may be sent by the lower house of congress to the Lone Star state relative to the speeches made by the Hon. "Bleating" Thomas Blanton in Texas recently in which he is said to have accused his colleagues of being petty grafters and the recipients of petty graft. Why waste the money? Texans know the Hon. Thomas L. Blanton. They know his tongue gauge and methods. Those who are uninformed and with minds undeveloped may believe all that he has to say concerning the congress and the government, but the people who read and think enjoy his rhetorical convulsions just as they enjoy a high grade circus or a vaudevillian who has rare gifts as an entertainer. Thomas L. loves the center of the stage. He loves to see his name on Page 1 in the scare headlines. He loves publicity. It is meat and drink for Thomas. Somewhere in his boyhood he read the story of Diogenes and his lantern and the vain quest of the old Roman scout in the streets and alleys and highways and byways of the eternal city on its seven hills. As the ancient story goes Diogenes never found an honest man and, if Diogenes Blanton is to be believed, after a diligent search he has found only one honest man under the big dome in the city of Washington and that one white-souled and clean-handed saint of the hour the congressman from the Abilene district. Again the writer insists that the congressional solons have no right to fritter—away Jones' hard-earned tax money by sending a select committee "away down to Texas." Just let it go at that.

BLANTON WON'T LET SORE HEAL; SEEKS HEARING

Solon Reiterates "Stationery" Was Whisky Flask

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The house is asked in a resolution, introduced by Representative Blanton, of Texas, to investigate all the matters brought up by and others in connection with the congressional stationery store establishment.

Denying that he was seeking to accumulate wealth, or accusing others of depotism or practicing it himself, Representative Blanton came back at Representative Garner, of Texas, who attacked him in a speech last week by setting forth in the resolution that Mr. Garner's wife was his secretary, drawing $3,200 a year. Mr. Blanton denied that he had sons on the payroll, adding that his brother was servin his secretary.

Ar Garner

In a long of whereases, the resolution quo from the speech made by Garner to the effect that "Representative Blanton was not an individual but a creature and was a common base liar." It also took in other things said on the floor during the last week's row including a published statement that Representative Summers, of Texas, "also said that Representative Blanton had lied in his speech on the prequisites of congressmen."

The first notice that members got of the resolution was just before the house met today although the resolution was thrown in the hopper in the usual way Saturday and published along with other documents.

Drew Allowance

The resolution declared that the report of the clerk of the house for 1920 showed "that in December 1919, Representative Blanton drew his entire stationery allowance of $125 in cash," that Representative Garner and Summers did the same on several occasions, and that in the 1921 report it was shown that Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the republican leader, "drew 9.45 in stationery and the balance of $115.55 in cash"

After quoting what was said in the house by Representative Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, regarding the purchase by Blanton of a whiskey flask at Philadelphia through the stationery room, the resolution continued:

"In truth and in fact the said stationery room did have on sale during the last Christmas holiday just such pocket pint whiskey flasks, covered with ostrich hide leather, as was exhibited on the floor of the house, and certain employes, if placed on oath, will testify that same were sold there during the holidays, that Representative Blanton "ordered an exact duplicate and that if other creditable witnesses were sworn they would testify such flasks were on sale in the house stationery room."

Mrs. Day comes of Revolutionary stock. She is an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and has several terms been president of the state society of the Daughters of 1812. She is a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, of several literary clubs and the Episcopal church.

DEMOCRATIC SENATOR ROUGHENS COURSE FOR G. O. P. STEAM ROLLER

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—A spat occurred in the senate between Vice President Coolidge and Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas today when the latter tried to introduce another resolution relating to the administration's observance of civil service laws. Caraway, with much show of feeling, complained that the vice president was recognizing republican senators and said that although he had addressed the chair a half dozen times, the vice president had recognized only republicans.

"If that is going to be the rule, it ought to be stated," Senator Caraway said with shaking voice. "I want my rights and I'm getting tired of this kind of conduct."

Mr. Coolidge replied that Mr. Caraway would be recognized and Senator Caraway replied heatedly:

"Yes, as soon as everybody over there (on the republican side) is through."

OFFICIAL SPLIT IN KLAN PROBE?

Special Counsel Is Named for State

Differences between Judge Ed Napier, who summoned the special grand jury in the 78th district court to investigate the Ku Klux Klan and the state's attorneys, County Attorney Fulton and Assistant District Attorney Holliday, apparently came to a full break Monday with the appointment by Judge Napier of special counsel to represent the state in the drafting of an appeal brief.

Judge John C. Kay and Tom A Hunter, both outspokenly opposing the Ku Klux Klan through the recent agitation, were named by the court. They were appointed to "assist" in the drafting of the brief to be submitted to the court of criminal appeals in connection with the appeals of the three witnesses sentenced by Judge Napier Saturday for failure to answer questions with regard to the klan

State Counsel Ignored

Both Fulton and Holliday during the sensational hearing of Saturday gave opinions that the questions for which the three witnesses were fined and jailed with reference to the klan were not material questions as the klan was not being investigated in connection with the commission of a crime.

Judge Napier noticeably ignored the state's counsel during the remainder of the hearing. Neither was with the grand jury Monday, both trying a case in 50th district court. Wayne Somerville, assistant county attorney, was in the grand jury room for a time.

Probers Work Late

This action, together with failure to fine and imprison Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts, who Saturday refused to answer a question as to whether or not he was formerly a member of the klan, and the examination by grand jurors of J. G. Camp of Atlanta, lecturer who spoke here Sunday on the organization, were the sole developments in the inquiry Tuesday, although the body remained in session until 5 o'clock.

A distinction was evidently drawn between the case of Commissioner Fitts, who Saturday was the principal witness in the attack of the other witnesses on the grand jury, and the refusal to answer by Dr. Wallace Martin of Burkburnett and J. C. Jennings of Electra, who were fined and sent to jail until released through appeal for failure to answer questions. Judge Napier released Fitts, who appeared promptly when the court opened, to answer for his refusal to testify, for the present at least.

Camp Talks an Hour

Camp was before the body for a full hour, leaving early this afternoon for Vernon. It is supposed that he answered all questions. Sunday he said he knew nothing of names connected with the local klan roster.

Judge Kay has on several occasions expressed his sentiments in reference to law enforcement, expressing himself as seeing no need for such an organization as the klan. Hunter prepared the brief in which the recent grand jury in the 30th district court was attacked as selected and dominated by the Ku Klux Klan.

GERMANY SAYS 'NO' TO FRANCE

Crisis Develops in Negotiations

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 10.—What is viewed in official circles as a grave crisis in the relations between France and Germany was reached today just as the Genoa conference was assembling, with the possibility of the military occupation of further German territory presenting itself. This came as a result of a negative reply from the German government to the note of reparations commission on the German reparation moratorium in which certain fiscal reforms were demanded of Germany.

The explosion at Gleiwitz, involving the killing of more than a score of French soldiers in the explosion of a mine, news of which is officially confirmed, although details are lacking, is likely to complicate the situation, provoking as it will, energetic diplomatic action on the part of France at Berlin.

SPIRITED CLASH WIDENS BREACH ON CURTAIN RISE

Disarmament Issue Plays Bone of Contention

By Associated Press.

GENOA, April 10.—A clash over a disarmament proposal by George T. Chitcherin, the Russian soviet foreign minister, which occurred between he and M. Barthou of France, threatened to disrupt the conference.

M. Barthou said that France refused to discuss disarmament at Genoa.

Chitcherin replied that Russia thought France would be ready to discuss this question because M. Briand, the former French premier, had said at the Washington conference that Russia's arguments had made disarmament impossible.

Russia, the status of which is one of the questions of supreme importance to be decided by the economic conference, came to the forefront soon after the opening that great assembly today. Speeches had been made by the presiding officer, Premier Facta of Italy, M. Barthou, representing France, Premier Lloyd George of England, Dr. Wirth of Germany and spokesman of Japan and Belgium, all of a conciliatory nature, and voicing adherence to the Cannes resolution, on which the present gathering is based.

The keynote of Lloyd George's speech was peace, and he made an appeal to the delegates to work in unison for the restoration of good relations and normal economic conditions throughout the world. He believed that if the conference was successful in its achievements the United States "would not merely come in, but come in gladly."

The Sign
On the House—

"Rooms for Rent" is frequently an opportunity killer. The average man, young or middle-aged, DOES NOT like to rent a room in a house bearing a label that it is a rooming house. Once upon a time people were not so particular; but in these days the modern way is to omit the sign and advertise in The Record News. It's a lot more effective, too, because practically everybody in Wichita Falls reads the want ads where only those who may pass the door will see your sign. DOWN with the sign—ADVERTISE!

Daugherty May End Strike

JUDICIAL CHIEF TAKES HAND IN MINE TROUBLES

Dismissal of Many Anti-Trust Cases Proposed

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—With the view of opening the way for possible settlement of the nation-wide coal strike by coal miners, Attorney General Daugherty arrived here today unannounced from Washington, and after a two-hours conference with Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, declared he did not know whether dismissal "was possible or practical at this time" of the indictments charging 225 coal operators, union leaders and others of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

In private conference with the judge, Mr. Daugherty discussed dismissal of the indictments, which action, it was said, would remove the ground for the refusal of some operators to continue interstate wage negotiations with the unions. Judge Anderson was said to have refused to approve dismissal of the pending cases.

Meets Attorneys.

Mr. Daugherty also met with District Attorney Elliot and L. Ert Slack, special government prosecutor of the Sherman anti-trust cases, discussing the cases at length, and at the conclusion of his conference declared:

"I may do nothing in connection with any of these matters while here."

Further conferences with the officials here are now on the attorney general's program for tomorrow, and it was learned authoratively that Mr. Daugherty did not have any new proceedings to institute in the court here at this time. Mr. Daugherty did not meet with President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, and said he would not seek any meeting with miners' officials.

KIWANIS HELPS RAISE MORALS

Former Secretary Talks Here

Declaring that the Kiwanis club fails to live up to its ideals whenever it fails to seize an opportunity for constructive civic service, O. Samuel Cummings, former Kiwanis international secretary, delivered a gentle curtain lecture yesterday to members of the local club. John Woodward, of Tulsa, governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district, and Dr. Charles Johnson, of Gainesville, a member of the district executive board, were also guests of the organization.

"Kiwanis is helping to raise the morals of business men of North America," Cummings told his hearers. "The Kiwanian sees in his business not only a means of livelihood but also a means of serving his fellow men."

Emphasis also was laid on the value of the club to individual members in fostering better business relations and in developing personal ability.

President Ben Neal, Mr. Woodward and Dr. Johnson contributed the touch of humor characteristic of Kiwanis club meetings by engaging in a triangular discussion of the need of pep and enthusiasm at all club meetings. It is alleged that President Ben stretched the truth a point or two during the discussion, but it was all "for the good of the order."

Musical entertainment was furnished by Miss Marguerite Kore, who sang two charming numbers, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Aiken, Jr. The weekly attendance prize, given by Carl Eckman, was won by Pucil Coleman, while W. W. Silk "set up" the cigars as silent boosts.

House Entertains Self With All-Day Naval Bill Battle

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — The fight on the naval appropriation bill began in the house today with members insisting that it did and that it did not actually carry out the five-five-three ratio as fixed by treaty.

All day the discussion centered around this one big question in dispute.

There were seven speeches during the day, three for and four against the bill.

There will be two days of general debate with more later when the personnel section is reached.

COLLIER SETS—

did come did not take place until the brief business coming before the body had been transacted.

Induction Sudden

Frank Collier was rather suddenly inducted into office. As George Thorburn, the city clerk, finished administering the oath the new mayor moved toward a seat on the side line, and when Mayor Cline, springing from the chair in which he had weathered two years of municipal storms, enthusiastically urged, "Sit down, Frank, I'm through."

The new aldermen, Burton Stayton and N. M. Clifford were ushered into their new places with equal alacrity on the part of the two retiring aldermen, Walter S. Curlee and Judge William N. Bonner. Ordering an immediate audit of the city books, at the request of Mayor Cline, who declared that having expended several million dollars of the city's money that he and his successors were no less entitled to an audit than were the taxpayers of the city; appointment of Alderman Shepherd as mayor protem, the disposition of some paving matters and the hearing of a complaint by hotel and rooming house keepers against the city ordinance regulating hotel runners constituted the business of the session.

The First Kick

Walter Curlee, retiring street commissioner, secured the honor of presenting the first "kick" to the council, after having been on the receiving end for four years. The complaint was with regard to the failure to lay the regular apron on the Second street intersection when Ohio was paved—the property owner in question laying a complaint with Mr. Curlee and with L. E. Whitham, the contractor, who was also heard. This matter was referred to Street Commissioner Clifford for investigation and recommendation.

The straightening of the turn from Lamar into Jalonick, the starting place of the concrete highway to the Clay county line, was brought before the council by J. M. Isbell, county engineer. The turn can be straightened by obtaining a slice of the property on which the Gulf company has its storage station. Belief was expressed that the mattter could be adjusted easily with the company, and the street commissioner and city engineer were instructed to accompany the county engineer and a Gulf engineer to work out a solution.

Protest Ordinance

The ordinance prohibiting hotel runners or proprietors from soliciting transients away from their own doors was protested by a petition presented by a committee headed by W. L. White. The ordinance works an injustice on the man whose place is out of the line of travel from the railroad station, White declared. He expressed himself as feeling that the annoyance to the public occasioned by hotel runners in the past was occasioned by the hired runners and not by proprietors of rooming houses or hotels. He urged changing of the ordinance to permit proprietors to operate as before. He was promised some kind of a change by next Monday night, members of the council expressing themselves as believing that some relief in this direction was due. A licensing system may be the result, it is believed.

Ex-Mayor Offers Service

At the close of the meeting the retiring mayor expressed his appreciation of the friendliness and co-operation shown him by the members of the council over which he had presided. He referred to the fact that through "two or three political campaigns he had fallen heir to some fellow workers for whom he did not vote," but called attention to the fact that these differences had been forgotten as soon as the election was over and expressed himself as feeling that no council in Texas had as few split votes as this one. He said that the people of Wichita Falls were to be congratulated for the selection of men of the calibre of those referred to—men big enough to disregard the personal and to work with those from whom they had previously differed for the interests of the city.

Declaring that he did not want the new mayor and new members of the council, for whom he expressed his esteem, to forget that it was his intention to retire as a private in the ranks, he offered his services and the services of his private secretary, C. E. Thames, who will remain in his employ, to the new council at any time they might desire. He particularly urged them to avail themselves of the services of Mr. Thames during the period they were familiarizing themselves with the city's affairs saying that he had a closer knowledge of the details of the city's affairs than any other man—in which he was borne out by other members of the old council.

The Parting.

In expressing his appreciation for his co-workers he mentioned the appointive officers of the city—declaring that he was not wanting to tie a string to anybody's job, nor make any suggestion in a place where he realized the new council might want to make changes, but only to express personal appreciation of the men.

Both Judge Bonner and Mr. Curlee expressed themselves as regretting the break up of the intimate associations on the council, and relieved at the end of the more or less heavy responsibilities of council work. They joined with the mayor in proferring any information in their possession to their successors.

Both Mayor Collier and Aldermen Shepherd and Fitts, who spoke in reply to an appreciation of the retiring officials, warned them that their offers of assistance would not be lightly taken, and that they were likely to be called on to make good on their offers. Mr. Fitts, who came into office as an anti-administration candidate less than a year ago, declared that his service on the council had brought the most pleasant association that he could call to mind, and declared that he was glad to feel that each of the retiring officials were friends of his as he knew he was a real friend of theirs.

GRAND JURY REFUSES LYNCHING INDICTMENT

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 10.—The grand jury has refused to indict four men arrested last winter in connection with the lynching of Fred Rouse, packing house strikebreaker, who, wounded, was taken from his cot in a hospital and hanged to a tree. Subsequently three murder charges and one assault to murder charge was filed. But in each instance "no bill" was voted by the grand jury. One of the men, charged with murder in connection with the lynching was G. H. Tiller, who was elected police chief of Niles City, packing house town, last Tuesday. Another was a Niles City policeman, W. H. Atherton.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT FOR APRIL 28

Each Building to Have Display

The annual exhibit of work of the students of the various schools of the city will be held April 28 and 29. A different plan will be followed this year, instead of all the schools combining the affair and showing the work at the high school, they will each have their own exhibit in their respective buildings, thus there will be no confusing as to which school put the work up. The high school will not be large enough to give each school all the room desired, so the authorities think that this plan will be more desirable to the public.

According to Miss Hendrick, faculty advisor of the Ranger, a bi-monthly publication of high school students, will have only one more issue, which will be the first week in May. The reason given was that as financial conditions were such that it was delayed.

Now that the beauties are chosen, the Coyote, an annual publication, is getting along splendidly and all material will soon be in the hands of the publishers. The annual will likewise have to be published more economically than the preceding numbers.

The price of 19 cents also was put into effect by the Gulf Refining company, which raised its quotations from 18 cents. The Texas company was still selling at 21 cents tonight.

RAIL DELEGATES CONDEMN BOARD

Decisions Held as "Sugar Coated"

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Severe condemnation of the federal railroad labor board and the law which created it, marked the opening session today of the sixth biennial convention of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, and Bert Jewell, head of the railway department, scored the transportation act as "the most vicious piece of legislation ever foisted on the people."

Declaring that the open shop was an effort to crush the efforts of the masses, he expressed confidence that the railway workers' convention would issue a warning to industry "lest it try to drive its bargain too hard and too far."

"You have your railroad labor board. Its decisions tasted pretty good in the first award, but that was merely a sugar-coated pill with the most poisonous ingredients covered up. You have already tasted some of those ingredients — reduced wages, curtailment or rights, or opportunities, and of the absolute rights of negotiation."

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! BETTERMENT OF TRADE PERSISTS

Conditions Better Than in 1921

Special to the Record News.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Business improvement persists and, according to the April Review of Retail Trade compiled by the National Retail Dry Goods association, promises steady if slight betterment compared with last year.

The Federal Reserve Board figures of trade for the country at large at the close of February, derived from computations embracing reports from 444 leading department stores, show a decrease of net sales during February, as compared with those of February, 1921, amounting to 10 1-2 per cent. For February and January of this year, as compared with net sales during the corresponding period in 1921, the decrease was 11 per cent. Stocks in hand February 28, as compared with that date last year, were 1 per cent greater, and they were 8.2 per cent greater than at the close of January. Orders outstanding on February 28, amounted to 7.4 of the total purchases made by all stores in the course of the year, 1921.

No Aftermath of "Strike"

These figures—notably the percentages applying to net sales during February and January—must be interested in the light of the cost of living index figures assembled by the National Industrial Conference Board showing a decline of 10 1-2 per cent in price value of goods and services at retail from February, 1921 to February, 1922.

It is apparent, in view of the reduced prices, that the increase in the close of 1921, steadily continues and that the so-called "buyers' strike" reported then as definitely of the past has left on aftermath of lack of confidence on the part of the consuming public. In fact, there is now in evidence a perceptible increase of confidence accompany the renewal of business activity.

Many Repeat Orders.

Certain basic industries, including iron and steel and construction, show return of activity. Unemployment was diminishing up to the time of the miners' strike, and the buying capacity of the public meanwhile increased.

Seasonal conditions by no means account fully for the improvement in retail business. Prices continue to be low and the public responds to the attraction they offer. Replenishing orders by retailers are restoring confidence among wholesalers and producers, who note particularly the receipt of many repeat orders at a date much later than is usual in various sections.

A vast volume of business is being forfeited at this time in the field of wireless telephony because of shortage of supplies and equipment. Although the Westinghouse interests, only a single member of the Radio Corporation of America, are producing $2,000,000 worth of instruments monthly the avalanche of demand on the part of the public leaves this and all other sources of supply far behind the potential sales.

Radio Trade.

This paucity of wireless merchandise bears most heavily on department and similar stores, in the analysis of the radio trade situation made by the Bureau of Research of the National Retail Dry Goods association. Immediately upon stabilization of the business, the bureau of research announces, department and other American stores engaged in general merchandise trade can be looked to for yearly sales amounting to $70,000,000—a modest 1 per cent of the $7,000,000,000 in retail trade done by all such stores in the course of one year. It is pointed out that practical, satisfactory radio sets with magnifier and otherwise fully equipped, cannot be provided at the low charges for present experimental outfits. This puts them on a par with the phonograph, most largely sold now by such stores and amounting in volume to $300,000,000 annually. The research bureau dwells emphatically on the feature of service in connection with wireless as being a prime essential to the great volume of business impending, but so far backed by lack of supplies, and observes that department and similar stores are the only distributing agencies qualified to furnish service on the extensive scale required.

Wireless apparatus is likely to be among the conspicuous features of the National Merchandise Fair in August next, that new and vast national event being committed by its essential character to a scope equal to if not exceeding the fmmense Leipsig Fair of Europe.

WOMEN MAY NOT GIVE MISS ANNIE BLANTON UNANIMOUS SUPPORT

Miss Annie Webb Blanton, the woman candidate for congress from this district, and a resident of Denton county, may not have the unanimous support of voters of her sex, it was indicated Monday by a trip to Denton by Judge Sul Morgan of Wichita Falls, the trip being made on invitation of representatives of a woman voters organization.

The trip necessitated a change of plan for Judge Morgan's speeches in Iowa Park, Electra and Burkburnett—weather and road conditions also figuring in the change of plan. A date for speeches in the county outside of Wichita Falls will be announced later.

MILLIONS WON FOR SCHOOLS

Mineral Decision Is State Victory

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 10.—The recent decision of the supreme court in the case of Clements vs Robison, a mandamus suit against the land commission in which it was aleiged that the law authorizing the land commission to classify lands as minerals was unconstitutional and that the land commission had no right to reserve minerals when school lands were sold, has now established the right of the commission to reserve the minerals, J. T. Robison, commissioner of the general land office of Texas, said in commenting on the decision. The court upheld the state's right to reserve the minerals. The land in question was sold in Reeves county.

"The decision means millions of dollars to the school fund," Commissioner Robison said. "The case was filed direct in the Supreme court to compel the cancellation of all the mineral permits issued by the state.

In his answer in the case Commissioner Robison contended that the commission had the authority to classify land as mineral and thereby reserve the minerals when school lands were sold. He contended that the statute empowering the land commissioner to reserve minerals was constitutional and the court upheld his view of the matter.

"The decision effectively disposes of the question of the state's right to reserve minerals when disposing of state land," Commissioner Robison said.

GOVERNMENT SLEUTHS SOLVE MYSTERY OF FLOATING CURRENCY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Solution of the mystery of the finding Friday of the package of $5 treasury bills in the Potomac river near the bureau of engraving and printing was announced tonight by Chief Moran of the secret service, who said that the bills were a part of a bundle of 1,000 sheets, each containing four $5 notes, stolen from the bureau about a year ago.

Clayton C. Dunn, of Potomac, Virginia, a former watchman at the bureau, who was arrested in February for passing $1 bills raised to $5, Mr. Moran said, admitted burying a portion of the 1,000 sheets in the swampy land near the Potomac river and more of the bills were located there today by Samuel Shiflett, of Potomac, who found the first package last week.

HORNSBY SINGS "LORD I'M COMING HOME"; WILL HANG FRIDAY

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 10—George Hornsby, sentenced to hang in Belton next Friday for the murder of J. N. Weatherby, is still in the Travis county jail. No date for his return to Belton to pay the supreme penalty has been set.

A committee of women from a local civic organization visited the jail today. They asked Hornsby if he wanted to hear any musical. He requested "Lord I'm Coming Home," and as it was played he sang it. He then requested some Hawaiian music.

Hornsby's case attracted state wide interest because of the statements of Willie Carter, chief witness for the state, who repudiated his trial testimony and later said this repudiation was false.

Road makers throughout the ages have been empire builders. Road making began when man found himself sufficiently civilized to realize the necessity for highways instead of trails and bridges instead of logs for the passing over of traveler and traffic Mighty were the road builders of ancient Rome. In the days of the Ceasars they constructed the Appain way. This marvel of road construction has survived civilizations and dynasties that are almost forgotten. It is the wonder or marvel of the engineers of today. Wherever civilization is at the highest there the highways are the most modern and all the accessories of advanced thought and inventive genius which add to the comfort and convenience of man are found with the highways. Kentucky is a southern state. Its legislature has adjourned. It was controlled largely by the Democrats who had retrieved their losses of 1920. There was a new forward movement for Kentucky launched by these law-makers. They proposed a state bond issue of 45 million dollars. It was enacted. The measure carried with it a bi-partisan state commission and the selection of a state highway engineer who had been assistant to General Goethals who became one of the immortals when he completed the Panama Canal. Kentucky has determined to move forward. Kentuckians are determined that their state highways shall be among the first in the land. These Kentuckians, Democrats and Republicans, decided it necessary to match federal aid dollar for dollar. There was opposition but those who refused to move forward were out-voted almost two to one and the gigantic state road building program was launched. Texas is proudly called by its people the imperial commonwealth. It is imperial in extent of territorial area and almost matchless latent resources. It is not imperial when it comes to modern highways which are the arteries of commerce and the high mark of an advanced civilization. In the long ago the trail blazer came and then came the ox team, the man on horseback, the pony express and the stage coach. This was in the virgin or pioneer days of the commonwealth. Then came the mud-roads, hastily constructed which were impassible when it rained and almost insufferable in the seasons of drought and dust and sand storm which prevailed almost everywhere. Then came the steam railways with the mud highways or routes of transportation the feeders of the railway. Civilization never stands still. There is a marching column all the time. Regardless of upheavals or political commotions there are men of vision and constructive energy who are ever moving onward. Came the motor age and the motor car for truck demanded public roads or highways of the best and before the coming of the motor the telephone, the free delivery of mail, including the daily newspaper, had added cheer and color to farm or rural life. Texas should set the pace as a road building state. Texas has been voting and spending millions annually for highway construction. Texas has made an excellent start but Texas should take advantage of federal aid and match dollar for dollar that voted or appropriated by the congress to aid the states in highway construction. Many of the foremost states of the union have voted state bond issues spread over many years and many of the states have building programs that are a credit to their people and speaks volumns for their progress and knowledge of the needs of the people of city and country and town and hamlet. Texas has been moving onward but the people of Texas through their law-makers should continue to co-operate with the federal government in constructing and maintaining a comprehensive system of highways in this state. Should the law-makers and the people refuse or fail to co-operate with the federal government then the state will be robbed of six million dollars or more per year. To avoid this Texas must amend its laws and the calling of a convention to draft a new constitution or the submission by the legislature of a constitutional amendment to the people will be necessary. It has been estimated that if Texas is to keep pace with other imperial or progressive commonwealths then the law-makers must provide a means of raising at least 10 million dollars revenue each year. There should be no delay. Within three years from November 9, 1921, is the time allowed by congress for states to amend their laws, otherwise the federal fund appropriated by the congress will revert back to the general fund and be apportioned out to the states that have complied with the provisions of the Woodruff act. Texas can adopt a constitutional amendment allowing a state-wide bond issue. This would tax all the property of all the people for modern public highways and all the people would share in the benefits of state highways of transportation and travel. This would be an equitable tax and would prevent the blocking or delaying of highways by counties or communities here or there defeating local bond issues. This would also enable all progressive counties and communities to construct latterals by local bond issues and thus assist in the placing of the state in the very lead of all other commonwealths for its model highways from the gulf to the mountains and from the border of Mexico to the boundry lines of Oklahoma and Arkansas and Louisiana. Texans are reminded that the unimproved mileage in this state is far in excess of any other state and the latent or undeveloped resources are vastly greater than any other state of the union. There is another proposition that should not be overlooked. When roads are constructed there should be a maintenance fund. If Texas decides to co-operate with the general government in its road building program then Texas must provide the money to match federal aid dollar for dollar and approximately 2 million dollars additional to maintain the roads. Failure to provide either of these funds will mean that Texas cannot continue to participate in federal aid. All the people are interested in this issue which is of vital importance and all voters should give it deep consideration. There is a legislature to be elected this fall. There are 15 new senators to be elected this fall. If the people are the masters and the law-makers their servants it is important that all candidates for legislative place shall be asked to speak out and define their exact attitude before the coming of the nominating primary in July. Texas should go forward. Texas must go forward. As the people are the masters they should give positive instructions to those who are to serve them in a legislative capacity at the capital of the state in the winter of 1923. Transportation is a problem which must be solved. Modern highways everywhere will tend to its solution. Scientific marketing is a problem that concerns the welfare as well as the pocket of all producers and all consumers. A comprehensive system of highways in Texas will help to solve the marketing problem in the foremost of the agricultural states of America.

District Judge Joel C. Bond of Van Zandt county is on the firing line for the written law. Masked men kidnapped a citizen of Van Zandt county and carried him to Tarrant county. Judge Bond told his grand jury to return indictments against the kidnappers in order that they may be arraigned for trial in his court. This is as it should be. "Two wrongs have never made one right" is the slogan of this judge in the free state of Van Zandt county who insists that whenever there is a violation of the law a bill of indictment should be returned against the offender who should then be gien a fair trial by a jury of his peers. For a hundred and forty-six years the laws and the traditions and the bill of rights of the fathers have won over all opposition in this republic and the laws and the traditions and the bill of rights of the fathers will continue to be uppermost while this Republic shall endure. It is so written in the book of destiny.

other cotton growing states. He is certain that the Genoa conference will have a marked influence on the economic conditions of the world. Yes, and Lloyd George will win all the credit and most of the benefits for the nation that he so ably represents. Genoa, or rather the deliberations of the conference, may make or unmake Europe. Lloyd George insists that the Russia of Lenine and Trotsky must be let in, that the Germans must be given time to pay and that land disarmament is just as important as ocean disarmament in order that the cost of government may be reduced. He is a fast mover. A year ago he was going to send the Kaiser to trial for his alleged crimes and collect from the Germans at the point of the baronet. At that time the little Welshman was playing for points and for time. He knew that the mad mob would not listen to what he called "reason." Now he is of the opinion that the psychological moment is here for the recognition of Soviet Russia and an extension of payday for the people who lost when their erstwhile rulers appealed to the sword of might as the best method for obtaining world control.

EDWARD L. DOHENY IS back from Mexico. He says there is no development of oil land going on in Mexico at this time; that the only matter at issue between the oil companies and the Mexican government is a question of the amount that the companies shall pay to the government; that he had paid a total tax of 27 cents on oil that had cost him no more than 10 cents and had paid the same on oil that cost him 20 cents a barrel. All the big producers of Mexico are Americans; all the big producers deny the right of the Mexican government to fix the export tax unless the government fixes a very low tax. All the revolutions and riots in Mexico were bubbled or spouted from oil wells. Mexican crude is on the free list. Democrats placed it there and Republicans are keeping it there. Mexico owes a foreign debt of 500 million dollars. Mexican financiers and statesmen are insistant that this debt should be paid in the near future and that foreigners owning the rich oil fields of Mexico should help to do the paying. If protection is a good thing for the manufacturers and producers of America again, the writer asks, why wouldn't it be a good thing for the petroleum producers of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana? Why is Mexican crude kept on the free list?

THE GOLDEN CALF

As far back as Granger Bell could remember money had held first place in his thoughts. In his poverty stricken small boyhood, when with longing eyes he had watched the marvelous purchasing power of another child's nickel, the lack of it had been as a searing hot iron that entered a sensitive soul. Later when he worked his way through high school and business college the imperative necessity of it further emphasized its importance. And when step by step he rose in the financial world, when every careful investment he touched turned to gold, he came to regard money as omnipotent. For his life had had no hardship, no anxiety, no baffling problem that money could not have prevented, while his present well-being, all the comforts, the luxuries he now enjoyed and his every pleasure were due to his having "made money."

Even when at forty-five a new radiant miracle came to him and Granger Bell fell in love, the sceptre that had held sway over his entire life was unbroken. True, he spent money as he had never done before, for what a man values he holds on to. But while he lavished gifts upon Janet Dyer—editions de luxe of rare books, most expensive confections in most expensive bonbonnieres, orchids, costly roses and lilies of the valley at the season when lilies of the valley were prohibitive—his sense of the value of money did not fluctuate for an instant. The change was in the nature of his desire. In short, Granger Bell reacted to the loveliness of Janet Dyer in the same exceptional outburst of extravagance that might happen to a thrifty housekeeper who had always bought ingrain carpet for her parlor when suddenly carried off her feet by the display of a rich, colorful Persian rug.

And party because it had become a habit to think—and to talk—money, partly because in the game of hearts that he was playing with such ardor, he regarded it the winning card in his hand, Granger Bell never for a moment of his wooing let Janet Dyer forget that he was a man who had "all the money there is and then some."

When she turned him deliberately and definitely down, for the first stupefying instant it was the shock of astonishment rather than the blow of disappointment that stunned him. Not that Granger Bell had overweening conceit. On the contrary, for a self-made man he was exceptionally modest, even a little shy. But Janet Dyer of the straightforward, genuine type had frankly shown her liking for him. She "liked him tremendously" she had said in so many words, but she could never marry him. That was the baffling thing he could not understand. For he had everything to offer. And except for the money she earned giving music lessons, Janet had nothing—the little income from "poor dear dad's 'estate,' the size and thinness of an invisible hairpin," the laughing way she put it. Yet she persisted in her refusal until at last there was an open rupture between them.

Then with the sudden, dynamic upheaval of an earthquake all the outstanding values of Graham Bell's life were laid low. For the first time in his experience money had failed him. Far from being omnipotent, it proved itself worthless. For as he sat evening after evening in his big beautiful, lonely house, the one only thing in the world that he wanted was a woman's dear companionship; the bright joy of her talk, the mirthful sweetness of her laughter. And that one only thing money could not buy.

He undertook new business enterprises. In the hard-fought game to the goal he experienced a temporary glow of interest. But, success won, the spark went out in dead ashes of apathy.

He went in for art. He hung the walls of the big, beautiful, lonely house with priceless masterpieces in water color and oil. But what was a painted Madonna on the wall to him compared with the beautiful, glowing, flesh and blood mother and child of his own that he pictured in his heart?

In an ignorant, untrained way Granger Bell had always been fond of music. Now on Sunday afternoons he invited leading musical artists to his house. But no matter how perfect a pianist's technique, no matter what remarkable range the voice of a singer, none brought the stir of pleasure, the thrill of emotion that he had experienced listening to Janet Dyer sing some old familiar ballad to the accompaniment of the cheap, out-of-tune piano at her boarding house.

He bought a yacht and cruised around the world. But whether he sailed upon sunlit waves or drifted upon dreamy silvery waters under pale stars, Granger Bell had but one passionate, homesick longing — a heartaching desire for Janet Dyer.

At the end of a year he came back to the big, beautiful, lonely house and the monotony of living when all zest had gone out of life.

It was at the season when drives for charity were at their height. A woman of his fashionable neighborhood called on Granger Bell for a subscription to the cause for which she was soliciting. And, although her audacity at naming so large a sum almost took her own breath away, Granger Bell gave her what she asked for.

It was the very next day that the Dyer in the same exceptional outburst of extravagance that might happen to a deserted block of the quiet residential part of town where he lived suddenly he met Janet Dyer. And she did not turn away from him, as the day dream he had always feared, and pass by on the other side. Instead she stopped and held out her hand with a most gracious smile.

"I've just heard of your splendid contribution to our orphanage," she said, "and although I'm a very unimportant new member of the board, I want to thank you personally. It was awful generous of you."

Now there was one thing that Granger Bell had always been. Honest to a fault. And at her warm words of commendation he shook his head ruefully.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I didn't give the money from generosity. I gave it from indifference."

"I don't understand."

"You see, it meant nothing to me anyhow," he explained, a wistful note in his voice. "And the little lady seemed so eager to get it I was quite willing to satisfy her."

"It meant nothing to you?" cried Janet Dyer in astonishment. "Why, I thought money meant everything."

Again he shook his head. "Once it did," he said in a lifeless tone. "But that was before I found out that the only thing really worth while in life—a woman's love and a man's happiness—were things that money can not buy."

"Do you mean that absolutely?"

"Absolutely. Why?"

A deepening crimson swept Janet Dyer's beautiful, radiant face. "Because that was my reason for saying no three years ago," she faltered. "Your thinking money everything. Oh, please, you mustn't, not here on the street!" she cried out a warning in tremulous laughter.

But she did not say that he mustn't do it anywhere. And waiting just around the corner was the time when Granger Bell was to take her in his arms and kiss her.

The Irish Question

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

What seems to me to be the real solution of the Irish question I find in Heywood Broun's column in the New York World.

He quotes from a correspondent by the name of J. W. McConaughy, who writes:

"It is very difficult for us to understand the Irish situation, because Ireland is the last outpost of the Occident and all of us have come strongly under the influence of certain Oriental exotics such as mathmathics and imperialism. Both of these were invented beyond the Mediterranean; and the Irish, being the last Christian patriots extant, have a healthy contempt for both. All of us having proved to our own sad and dreary satisfaction that 4,000,000 people could have no chance fighting 40,000,000, the Irish proceeded to show how it could be done. Having got more from the British Imperial government than all the hundreds of Oriental millions have ever been able to get, we do not understand why they are still not satisfied. Yet the answer is easy: They have not yet got what they want.

"They are irritated by this settlement—I think for the same reason that I feel a sense of loss in connection with it. As nearly as I can analyze this feeling it arises from the fact that the whole arrangement is so damned 'sensible' and stifles a lot of people who want to die for a flag, for an altar, for a song. It is one of the most reasonable treaties that a 'strong' power ever made with a 'weak' one, but in true Oriental fashion it leaves out of consideration such tremendous realities as for what tune the Irish youth shall stand uncovered and his right to choose his enemies."

This statement is amusing, but underneath its whimsicality there is a truth.

And the truth is that the same thing is the matter with Ireland that is the matter with every other country. Its leaders are much more occupied in seeking glory and honor for that idealized something they call the nation than they are in endeavoring to establish justice in the land, to maintain freedom, to encourage the humanities, to make everybody happy, and to co-operate with other nations and thus influence them to do likewise.

The Irish movement is a curious mixture of rabid progress and equally rabid reactionism. Irishmen want to go on to something new and want just as violently to go back to something old.

And, as far as that is concerned, so do all the rest of us.

In time the situation will work itself out. In conditions of democracy and self-government the Irish people will eventually get what they want, and that is what Ireland and every other nation most needs. For when we get what we want, and then only, do we learn our own strength and weakness.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

My wife says that Jimmy Whitehead is insincere. She says that one can possibly be as glad to see me as Jimmy pretends to be. She says she isn't that glad herself. And from the way Jimmy carries on when he sees Mrs. Pilgrim, you'd think that the light had just been restored to his eyes.

"He is nothing but a flatterer," says my wife, scornfully.

For all that it looks like no festive occasion is complete under our humble roof unless Jimmy Whitehead is there. If we dance Jimmy's feet are among those present. If we eat it is Jimmy who is carried away from the table in a state of purple repletion. If we just sit on the veranda on a pleasant evening and say mean things about the people passing by Jimmy is apt to be sitting with us.

"I don't believe a word he says," my wife repeats.

And she doesn't. I feel just the same way she does about Jimmy. I haven't any idea that he looks on me as an elder brother should be looked on but rarely is, or that he regards my wife as the most perfect specimen of her sex in the captivity of matrimony. But we had rather listen to Jimmy tell us these pleasant things which are not true than put in the hours hearing Dr. Darwin tell of the Fall of Man and registering the exact distance of the fall.

I rather like these insincere people, myself. They keep me in good humor. They are forever finding fine things in my character that my truer friends have never suspected. There is an atmosphere of warmth and geniality when they leave and many's the time that Jimmy has arrived just in time to protect me against my wife's sincere and love inspired but blistering tongue. Maybe it would not do for all the world to be insincere, but it wouldn't do any harm if a few more o' us were at least a little more given to checking and controlling our sincerity.

Also, I do not forget that the time I was so sick Jimmy Whitehead was the only one of my friends who acted as though he really wanted to sit up with me.

Rippling Rhymes

MY NEIGHBOR.

My neighbor keeps me in the hole, although he is a kindly soul, who would not hurt a flea; he's done me no uncivil trick, and yet the record makes me sick—he's nearly ruined me. He's always buying gorgeous suits and noble hats and costly boots, he dresses like a king; and shall I let my neighbor shine in splendor costlier than mine? I can't stand that, by jing! My neighbor buys a new sedan that makes mine seem an also-ran, a rusty thing and frayed; and shall my neighbor ride in state while I push round an old tin crate, the first that Henry made? My neighbor's wife is just as bad; she paws around our little grad, a new hat on her head; my wife then murmurs through her tears, "I've had my punk old lid for years—I would that I were dead!" I know just how the woman feels, and so I dig up sundry wheels, a helmet she must buy; we cannot see our neighbors prance in pomp and state and circumstance, and not make money fly. My neighbor has an ample wad and can afford to walk abroad with diamonds on his duds, and I have just the wage I draw, about enough to buy the slaw, the sowbones and the spuds. But I'm a dead game sport, I wot; like other sportsmen I must trot with those who make things whiz; and so my neighbor keeps me broke; I try to leave a trail of moke as sumptuous as his.—(Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams.)

The Right Word

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON.

THE REASON.

(Find the error in this article.)

Mrs. Bird asks why "I feel bad" is correct; and also why "I feel badly" is ungrammatical.

There is a group of words called copulative verbs. Feel is one of them. Some others are look, appear, seem, become, and, sometimes, sound, turn, and grow. There are others, the most common of which is the verb, is.

A copulative verb is a verb that connects. It connects the subject with a noun or adjective following it, but never with an adverb.

Imagine saying, "I am hungrily." "I feel happily." "You look comfortably." "She appears sadly," or "He became kindly." The blackface words are adverbs, and they are alright in their place, but not after copulative verbs. The right words needed are adjectives like hungry, happy comfortable, sad, and kind. Bad is an adjective whose definition, in part, is ill.

Therefore, "I feel ill;" "I feel bad:" both are correct.

There are those who argue in favor of "badly." One argument is that feel is a verb, and, therefore, requires an adverb as a modifier. This contention has already been disproved.

Another reason advanced is that the expression, "I feel badly" is becoming good form through wide usage. If this be the situation, then why not accept "ain't." "I feel like I ought to do this," "I feel it," "that kind of a man," "I don't know nothin'," and be done with the argument, and grammar to boot.

"I feel bad" is correct.

Yesterday's Error.

"Mrs. Bird reflected a minute and then says * * *" The tense of yesterday's article was the present. Reflected should therefore have been in the present, reflects. One bad fault in writing is careless changing of tense.

Vocabulary.

AUXILIARY GIVES MISS VEALE SHOWER

Complimenting Miss Teresa Veale whose marriage to Loy Schrader of Columbia, Missouri, is announced to take place Wednesday, April 19, members of the two circles of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Kell Monday afternoon and presented the honoree with a miscellaneous shower.

A mock wedding was a feature of the entertainment in which Mrs. E. H. Gipson took the part of the bride and Mrs. C. C. Cabbiness, the groom. Mrs. E. W. Nicholson was the bride's father and Mrs. Curtis Atkinson in the garb of the minister performed an impressive ceremony. Mrs. G. D. Anderson was maid of honor to the bride and Mesdames O. W. Hines and Bernard Martin were bridesmaids. Mesdames Bert Williams and Shuler acted as groomsmen, while little Misses Lucy Thompson and Ann Katherine Howard acting as ribbon girls, held the ribbons and formed a passage for the bridal party as they approached the improvised altar. Little Misses Florence Cabbiness and Genevieve Williams were flower girls.

The entire party were dressed in costumes suitable to the part they took. Preceding the reading of the ceremony, Mrs. Joe D. Harris accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Burnside, sang the prenuptial solo.

The shower containing many beautiful and useful articles was presented in a unique manner being brought in an express wagon with white cover on which was written, "I am Missouri Bound," and was hauled in by Master Wiley Blair and Jack O'Donohoe, both dressed in overalls.

Hostesses for the affair included: Mesdames Fred Couper, Holland Thompson, O. E. Newton, Walker, Ira Eells, N. F. Grafton, W. T. Carlton and A. H. Carrigan.

At the close of the afternoon, brick ice cream moulded heart shape, cake and mints, carrying out a color scheme of pink and white was served to about 70 guests.

FASHIONS

Cretonne and Cotton Crepe Are Combined in This Summer Frock.

Cretonne may be used to make a morning or porch frock that is genuinely "dressy," as the one shown in the sketch, which combines cretonne and plain Japanese crepe, helps to prove. The cretonne is in a flower and lattice pattern with a good deal of black and yellow in the design, and the crepe is plain yellow piped in black. To begin with, the dress is merely a simple straight line model of the slipover type made of cretonne, but the clever little ripple panels and sleeves of crepe make it decidedly out of the ordinary.

Parasols, hats and work bags of cretonne to match these vivid hued summer costumes are very smart and certainly not at all expensive to make.

Black sateen and flowered cretonne combine to make both smart and practical morning and work dresses. The upper half of the frock may be made of one material and the lower half of the other, or the sateen may be used to fashion the entire dress, with cretonne as the trimming only, usually in the form of cut out flowers appliqued here and there on the frock.

The vogue for aprons and house dresses made of plain old-fashioned unbleached muslin continues strong, and some very effective little garments may easily be developed, with plain color chambray or sateen, checked gingham or flowered cretonne as the trimming.

All of the materials mentioned except cretonne can be depended upon to stand innumerable launderings without appearing any the worse for them, and good quality cretonne will also make several trips to the washtub without fading or running, if care is taken to set the colors.

A dainty frock combining unbleached muslin and cretonne had the upper half of the frock made of the plain fabric, with lower half of skirt of the cretonne, a smart sash of the flowered material holding the waist in and being tied in a flaring bow at the back. Collar and cuffs matched the skirt and sash.

BUILDING LOAN NOTES SUBJECT TO TAXATION

All property of a building and loan association including vendor's lien notes are subject to taxation like any other personal or real property, according to an order received Monday at the office of Irvan Deaton, county tax assessor, from Lon A. Smith, state comptroller. In his opinion, Smith states that the assessors should take the same rendition that they would if the property was owned by other parties or firms.

TAKE CARE IN BATHING BABE

First Tub Bath Danger, Told

This little story is not the story of an infant's first tub, but that of an invalid who had been in bed for several weeks.

She had a mind of her own. She resented bed-baths and being fussed over, and regarded with silent scorn the anxiety her aunt displayed over that first tub bath.

For her aunt had nursed her through her illness. Her patience had been sorely tried, but she had an unlimited fund of understanding.

"Now I feel good and strong," said the patient one morning. "And I am going to ask the doctor if I can get up and have a bath in the tub."

The doctor having given a reluctant assent, the invalid said briskly after his visit: "Now, Aunt Margaret, turn on the hot water in the bathroom. I'm going to get up this very minutes."

"But, my dear," began her aunt.

"Don't 'my dear, me,' said the invalid, tensely. "Hand me my bathrobe and get out of the way."

Then the long-suffering aunt asserted herself.

Patient Aunt Asserts Herself.

"Now, Mary, you just listen to me," she said, with unusual firmness. "If you were in a hospital the nurses would be very particular about this first bath after your illness. I know how it should be done, and it's going to be done correctly. And you just stay in bed till the bath is ready and the bathroom the right temperature, or you won't have a bath at all."

The two women gazed into each other's eyes, and then, such is the strangeness of the feminine complex, that Mary, relaxing upon her pillows, said sweetly, "Very well, Aunt Margaret. Tell me when you are ready for me."

Aunt Margaret Smith knew there were at least six rules to be remembered when a convalescent patient took her first tub bath after an illness. They were common sense rules—rules that every woman who cares for the sick in an emergency should know.

Briefly, the rules were that:

If a patient had been very ill, she might not take a tub bath without the doctor's permission.

That the bathroom must be comfortably warm before the patient enters it.

That everything required for the bath—soap, towels, face cloths, brushes, bath mat, and sponges should be placed within reach of the tub.

Very Hot Baths Exhausting.

That the tub should be half filled with water not hotter than 96 degrees Fahrenheit, because very hot baths are exhausting.

That the patient while she might be left alone if she so desired, must not lock then door, and that the nurse should remain within speaking distance to ascertain from time to time that the patient was all right. Many a convalescent, overestimating her own strength, has grown faint or ill in her first tub bath, and if the door was locked or the nurse beyond calling distance, the result might be very serious indeed.

When all was ready the invalid was escorted to the bathroom and instructed to sit down for a moment before she undertook the bath.

Then, having promised to remain not longer than ten minutes in the tub, she was left alone. It took her something less than ten minutes to discover that she was not nearly as strong as she thought she was.

Quaveringly she called for Aunt Margaret Smith, who was sitting in the hall anticipating the call.

And was helped back to the bed feeling "shakey," and admitting it.

FATHER AND INFANT SON TAKE PASTEUR TREATMENT

Alfred W. Burnside and his infant son are taking the Pasteur serum treatment as a preventative for rabies at their home on Polk street. It is taken as a preventative measure as the result of the licking of their hands by a pet airedale which later went mad. Quite a number of Wichitans have taken the treatment at home rather than go to the Pasteur institute at Austin. The serum is brought fresh from Fort Worth each morning.

Soldiers who are absent without leave in Honolulu are punished by a twenty-five mile hike back to the barracks all the way uphill.

A Wife or a Profession?

CHAPTER XLVII.

"What a mistake Annette is making!" Claire Gordon soliloquized, as she walked home. Then suddenly she chuckled. "Suppose I took all the love-making get as 'seriously as she does! Poor Howard! It's tough to have his foolish speeches thrown up at him. A man hates to be made to look silly, to recall what a boob he was."

"What's so funny?" Percy Baker had joined her.

"My thoughts."

"A penny for them. I haven't laughed today. Gout!"

"I'm glad of it! If you weren't such an utterly spoiled individual, if you had been poor instead of a bloated millionaire, you might have amounted to something. Then the other fellow would have had the gout and paid you for curing him."

"You object to money, then?"

"Yes, for a doctor," she snapped, her thoughts on Howard Blake.

"Blake has money—now." As if reading her thoughts.

"Yes, and if he isn't careful he'll grow to be just like you."

"And that would be a calamity."

"I'll tell the world it would! One like you is enough even for New York!"

"You seem rather caustic today, fair lady. I see you have been calling on Annette—at least, I judge so from the direction you came."

"Yes. I'll never forgive you for making that girl select that lady-like furniture for Howard's office. It's an atrocity!"

"Seems to me you are wonderfully interested in Blake."

"I am! I hate to see a real man making a fool of himself."

"So he's a real man, is he? And in what way is he making a fool of himself?"

"By giving up the real things of life to play around with Annette."

"Meaning?"

"That he is too clever a man, too great a surgeon now, and a greater one if he applied himself, to waste his time at pink teas and theaters. Why doesn't he attend to his work and let the slackers like you play the society pet?"

"If I wasn't sure you loved me, Claire, I should be offended. But we all know you pride yourself on your bluntness, just as another woman does because of her wonderful complexion. Come, now, what started this tirade? Been talking to Blake? Listening to his quixotic ideas for doing good to his fellows by easing their pains and aches?"

"I've no business to answer you. But mother knows Mrs. Campbell. The doctor expected great things of Howard and is disappointed that he has taken up society to such an extent."

"It was not what Claire intended to say, but she thought she had said enough about Howard's affairs, perhaps too much.

"Campbell is an old fogy. I believe the same as Annette. Let them that needs to work day and night, work. But what's the use of Blake's taking the job away from some other fellow when his wife has a fortune?"

"All that talk about taking it away from another makes me wild. That's Annette's plea. There aren't so many expert surgeons who can afford the time to help people who need them and who cannot pay anything like an adequate fee for what is done for them. All the hospitals are clamoring for doctors and nurses. I wish I were one."

"Which, a doctor or a nurse? I tell you what, Claire, marry me. Then you'll be a doctor's wife and can shine through my reflected light."

"I wouldn't do much shining! I've half a notion to take you at your word. I wouldn't have anything to throw up at you afterward, that's sure—any silly love speeches," she said cryptically as she reached her home.

"Queer sort, Claire; so emphatic. I wonder if she's a bit stuck on Blake. I can't see him myself."

A good many did not see Howard Blake at this time. He was apt to be very quiet, almost absent-minded. People would talk to him and suddenly realize he was not listening. Then he would apologize for his inattention. Aside from this he was always courteous, and many of Annette's friends envied her the attention he showed her.

"I don't see how he can spare the time to escort you," one young married friend said. "My husband's brother is a doctor, and I'm so sorry for his poor wife. He scarcely ever goes anywhere with her, and often when they do plan something he will be called out at the very time they are ready to start. I was there once when we were all going to a dinner party. The doctor had on his dress suit—for a wonder—and we were out on the porch. In another two minutes we would have been gone. Some poor fellow rushed up to us. His wife was sick; the doctor must come at once. He went, dress suit and all. He never refuses to go, no matter how poor they are. He says it is a physician's duty."

"There are other duties just as binding," Annette replied.

"It was twins," the friend went on. "The doctor said the woman would have died but for his prompt attention."

"Yes?" Annette returned, uninterested.

Iowa Park Will Vote on Material For Road Work

An election will be held in the county May 13, to determine whether or not Precinct 2 commonly known as the Iowa Park precinct, will be allowed to spend the special road money apportioned to it for the construction of gravel rather than concrete roads as the records at the court house now provide. The county commissioners court in session Monday set May 13, as the date for the election by reason of the fact that on that date an election will be held throughout the county to select a successor to fill the unexpired term of the late Lucian W. Parrish, congressman from the 13th district.

Commissioner Kupts of the Iowa Park precinct said several weeks ago that people of his precinct wished to construct gravel roads with the road fund which they will receive and a petition signed by 151 voters was presented to the commissioners court Monday asking for the special election. According to the present apportionments made to the four precincts in the county precinct 2 will have funds sufficient to construct 5 miles of concrete paving or 15 miles of gravel road.

The court in a brief session Monday also approved the offer of the Fort Worth & Denver railroad to construct a side track to be used to unload materials in the construction of the concrete road from the city limits to the Clay county line east of here.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

(Copyright by J. G. Lloyd.)

The news that Little Joe Otter told at the Smiling Pool how Farmer Brown's boy had run away from Buster Bear without even seeing him, soon spread all over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest until every one who lives there knew about it. Of course, Peter Rabbit helped spread it. Trust Peter for that! But everybody else helped, too. You see, they had all been afraid of Farmer Brown's boy for so long that they were tickled almost to death at the very thought of having some one in the Green Forest who could make Farmer Brown's boy feel fear as they had felt it. And so it was that Buster Bear became a hero right away to most of them.

A few doubted Little Joe's story. One of them was Blacky the Crow. Another was Reddy Fox. Blacky doubted because he knew Farmer Brown's boy so well that he couldn't imagine him being afraid. Reddy doubted because he didn't want to believe. You see, he was jealous of Buster Bear, and at the same time he was afraid of him. So Reddy pretended not to believe a word of what Little Joe Otter had said and he agreed with Blacky that only by seeing Farmer Brown's boy afraid could he ever be made to believe it. But nearly everybody else believed it, and there was great rejoicing. Most of them were afraid of Buster, very much afraid of Farmer Brown's boy because they didn't know him or understand him, and because in the past he had tried to catch some of them in traps and had hunted some of them with his terrible gun.

So now they were very proud to think that one of their own number actually had frightened him, and they began to look on Buster Bear as a real hero. They tried in ever so many ways to show him how friendly they felt and went quite out of their way to do him favors. Whenever they met one another all they could talk about was the smartness and the greatness of Buster Bear.

"Now, I guess Farmer Brown's boy will keep away from the Green Forest and we won't have to be all the time watching for him," said Bobby Coon as he washed his dinner in the Laughing Brook, for, you know, he is very neat and particular.

"And he won't dare set any more traps for me," gloated Billy Mink.

"Ah wish Brer Bear would go up to Farmer Brown's henhouse and scare Farmer Brown's boy so that he would keep away from there. It would be a favor to me which Ah cert'nly would appreciate," said Uncle Billy Possum when he heard the news.

"Let's all go together and tell Buster Bear how much obliged we are for what he has done," proposed Jerry Muskrat.

"That's a splendid idea!" cried Little Joe Otter. "We'll do it right away."

"Caw, caw, caw!" broke in Blacky the Crow. "I say, let's wait and see for ourselves if it is true."

"Of course, it's true!" snapped Little Joe Otter. "Don't you believe I'm telling the truth?"

"Certainly, certainly. Of course, no one doubts your word," replied Blacky with the utmost politeness. "But you say yourself that Farmer Brown's boy didn't see Buster Bear, but only his footprint. Perhaps he didn't know whose it was, and if he had, wouldn't have been afraid. Now I've got a plan by which we can see for ourselves if he really is afraid of Buster Bear."

"What is it?" asked Sammy Jay eagerly.

Blacky the Crow shook his head and winked. "That's telling," said he. "I want to think it over. If you will meet me at the Big Hickory Tree at sun-up tomorrow morning and get everybody else to come that you can, perhaps I will tell you."

NEXT STORY—BLACKY THE CROW TELLS HIS PLAN.

JUST DRAGGED SO WEAKENED

Florida Lady Was in a Miserable Condition, but Says She Found Cardui Helpful and Got Well.

Blountstown, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up.

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a healpless feeling.

"I would get depressed and out of heart.

"I began to feel, after a while, there was no use to try to get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse.

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results.

"I took one bottle (of Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so kept it up.

"Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right.

"Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women.

Good druggists, everywhere, sell Cardui, the women's tonic. Try it. —Adv.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born." —Mrs. WM. JOHNSON, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to yours?

if nature could speak she would say:—

I have provided the only real tonic for Spring to cleanse your system of the stagnant waste of winter, purify your blood and bring to you that glorious feeling of perfect health:

—and it is S. S. S.

SPRINGTIME is the season when Nature intends all living creatures to be charged with new life and energy. But you cannot enjoy the glorious feeling of renewed strength and vigor if your system remains clogged up with the impurities which have accumulated during the winter.

At this time your blood is overloaded with stagnant waste; you are drowsy; you hate work and you are denied that irresistible energy and enthusiasm that made every moment of your childhood days bubble over with happiness and the joy of living.

Nature's Warning

This tired feeling is often accompanied by disagreeable symptoms such as boils, pimples, rashes, eczema or rheumatism. You call it Spring Fever; but that is only Nature's way of saying—Cleanse Your System. And, just as Nature has provided everything else for our comfort and well-being, so She has given us the only really effective remedy for this draggy, let-down feeling.

Ninety-six years ago these wonderful vegetable herbs, roots and barks, of which S. S. S. is composed, were found to possess remarkable power to purify the blood, eliminate skin eruptions, strengthen and aid in supplying every cell and tissue with the rich, red nourishment that is so necessary to vigorous life, health and happiness. Then it was that Nature's own great remedy for Spring fever was given to us in the form of S. S. S.

And ever since, S. S. S. has gone on converting hundreds of thousands of tired, worn-out, run-down people into strong, healthy, red-blooded men and women with the power and capacity to accomplish things and to enjoy the beauties of Nature and the happiness of life to the very fullest.

Do not be fooled into taking compounds, such as metallic iron, etc. These minerals crash into the system, attack the delicate tissues and oftentimes leave you in worse shape than before.

Nature Intended A Vegetable Remedy

Always insist upon S. S. S., for this wonderful vegetable tonic is the remedy Nature has intended for you. The soothing, healing powers of the vegetable ingredients first cleanse and then tone up the entire system without one particle of distressing after effect.

S. S. S. overcomes your tired, drowsy feeling in a natural, easy way and without the slightest harm to the most delicate membrane of your body.

S. S. S. brings you back to where you feel like a new person; you walk with a spring in your step, a sparkle in your eye and with perfect health radiating from every pore of your skin.

Don't be cheated out of your natural Springtime heritage. That wonderful feeling of newborn energy, life and strength is yours! Simply go to your druggist and get a bottle of S. S. S., now, today.

Salm Closes Cash Deals for Two Good Ball Players

NEWKIRK AND ADAMS ARE LANDED

Spuds Are Ready For Pennant Battle

By C. F. C.

Ring that gong, lift that barrier and start those horses in the Texas league race The Spudders are sitting atop the world, and ready to run! Yesterday Skipper Walter Salm landed Joe Newkirk, Omaha's star spitball hurler, and "Shorty" Adams, fine little St. Louis infielder, at one fell swoop!

Newkirk stayed behind with the Spudders when Omaha left last night. It was a cash transaction. Adams is not here, of course, and some difficulty may be experienced in bringing him into the fold with the speed that might be desired. Branch Rickey, Cardinal boss, however, has ratified the deal for Adams, and last evening wired Salm as follows:

"Have given Adams notice of release. In conversation with him, he told me he would not report to the Texas league. You may have some difficulty in getting him."

Skipper Salm at once wired Rickey to suspend Adams if he fails to report to the Spuds:

"And he'll report,' Salm said confidently.

Newkirk worked four innings last Saturday against the Spudders, and proved to be the most effective twirler Barney Burch trotted out for inspection during Omaha's stay here. Burch was willing to talk sale, as Newkirk's spitter is barred in the Western league. Joe pitched ball in the navy for five years, and was grabbed by the Chicago Cubs in 1919, but failed to work in more than a few games that season owing to a lame arm. In the middle of the 1920 season the Cubs sold him to Omaha, but he failed to report, and played independent ball until this spring, when he was reinstated and joined Barney's crew.

"I'm glad to come here," he said last night. "I like this city, I like Walter Salm and I like the good sportsmanship your fans here show."

Stay in there and pitch, Joe, ol' kid. Come on and report, Adams; you'll like the city, too.

Rabbit Drive on Today in Cooper Schoolhouse Area

There's a big rabbit drive on this morning in the neighborhood of the Cooper schoolhouse—unless Pres Lea, Elmer Leslie, better known as "Gasoline Gus," and Max Shumake decide to go. If those three pie-devouring rascals show up on the grounds, someone's liable to call the drive off.

That Thornberry rabbit drive became a part of the nation's history because of the tremendous appetities of Pres, Elmer and Max. They killed beaucoup rabbits, it is true, but it is reported they were more destructive than the rabbits they killed, in that they consumed such enormous quantities of free lunch that Paul Adams couldn't find anything left but crumbs and fainted from exhaustion during the afternoon campaign.

Pres, Elmer and Max have promised to make bond not to raid the lunch wagon, and there is just a fighting chance they will be permitted to take part in this great drive on that one condition. It is expected close to 200 citizens will be in the drive, which will be conducted over the Doyle, Gentry, Fleming, McClain and Bolton farms.

Last week many shooters were unable to make the trip to Thornberry because of a lack of automobiles. The committee in charge of today's drive is urging every man who owns a car and who intends to take in the big hunting event to report early this morning at either the chamber of commerce or at the store of the Little Sporting Goods company, so that riding accomodations can be found for everybody.

The farmers' wives will put out a real bang-up, home cooked lunch, free to everyone, as a reward to the bunny chasers—and those who tasted that lunch last week will be back today for more! But lay off, Pres, Elmer and Max, and give us slow birds a chance!

And, as Perry Wright says:

"For Heaven's sake, don't bring buckshot."

LEGIONNAIRES WIN A HOT GAME

Bradley's Corner Fans Are Real Sports

Capt. "Waffles" Wofford done fell his company out Sunday and started a drive on the northwestern front—and that company of American legioners captured the enemy lock, stock and barel. All of which don't make no sense, nohow, but merely serves to introduce the fact that the American Legion ball team of the Twilight league hiked to Bradley's Corner and defeated the team of the Bradley's Corner Athletic club 6 to 3.

According to ol' "Waffles," the ex-soldiers won the game in the ninth inning by knocking two home pitchers out of the box, while he adds that the fielding was good on both sides. But Fred Andrew, the greatest after-dinner speaker in the Bowie field trials ever knew and a live-long friend of Jack Dempsey's, asserts his Bradley's Corner boys lost the battle because their regular second baseman was missing.

Snipe Connoly did the flinging for the Legion nine and Major Harding McClure, who owns twelve different baseball uniforms, handled Snipe's shoots.

The Wichita Falls players were enthusiastic in their praise of the fine sportsmanship shown them, and of the splendid field on which the game was played. The Bradley Corner A. C. has built a fenced-in ball park with grandstand accomodations, and has even constructed an honest-to-big-league turtle-back diamond. That's the good ol' oil field spirit, gang!

BECKETT WINNER

LONDON, April 10.—George Cook Australian pugilist was disqualified in the sixth round of a scheduled twenty round bout here tonight with Joe Beckett for the championship of the empire.

EDDIE COLLINS REACHES OUT WITH LONE PAW AND SPEARS 'EM AS M'GRAW BURIES HIM

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Eddie Collins, of the White Sox considered by many experts to be baseball's greatest second sacker, is "slipping says John McGraw of the Giants.

During the White Sox-Giants game at the Polo Grounds yesterday McGraw engaged his veteran comrade, "Kid" Gleason in conversation.

"Now," said the Kid, "There's Collins, he's the class."

"Ah, yes, but he's a slipping."

"Why," asked Gleason.

"Well, he's beginning to get a doublin' chin, a sure sign," McGraw replied.

"They don't cover the ground or hit as well when they get that way."

At this juncture Collins made a launching dive and speared a line drive back of second base with one hand, and—

Gleason laughed.

CAPTAIN OF YALE NINE RULED OUT

PRINCETON, N. J., April 10.—Thomas H. McNamara, baseball captain, and Ralph Gilroy, football star, have been declared ineligible for further athletic activity at Princeton university but are not guilty of professionalism or flagrant misconduct, Dean Howard McLennahan stated last night.

Dean McLennahan said the placing of these athletes on the ineligible list was the result of an investigation by the athletic committe composed of Yale, Harvard and Princeton men, and intimated that the committee would make further announcements during the next week, affecting Yale and Harvard athletes.

Three other Princeton men have been declared ineligible by the intercollegiate committee.

SCHOOL SPORTS

With the high winds, blowing around recklessly several athletic events have been postponed. The base ball game between the Senior and Junior high nines has been laid aside for a future date; and the track men did not report yesterday as their uniforms are not made to withstand these occasional blusters, but they will go to Iowa Park for practice this afternoon, if weather conditions are permissible.

Business Manager Danhelm has not heard from all the schools that he has written asking for baseball games and has not fully completed the schools schedule, but expects to hear some kind of an agreement by the last of the week.

WATER TOPS LEVEE

BEARDSTOWN, Ill., April 10.—Water was on a level with the top of the levee here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but no additional signs of weakening were noticeable. The levee top has been raised six inches and a rush order has been sent to St. Louis for more sand bags with which to build it still higher.

CHAMPS LEAD OFF WITH JONAH

Title-Holders May Be Affected by Swell Head

The New York Yankees and Giants are ready for the 1922 pennant race, and they face it under the biggest handicap any team can have—that of being champions.

While the other seven clubs start the season's schedule with no prestige to lose the Yanks and Giants will be facing always the fear that fate or failure of brain or hands will kill their chances of retaining their titles, which mean much financially in addition to the glory and fame attached.

The Giants on paper, seem to be better prepared to repeat than do the Yanks. McGraw made a ten-strike when he obtained Heinie Groh. He now has a perfect infield, with Dave Bancroft, Frank Frisch and George Kelly completing it.

BURNS BIG LOSS

The loss of the veteran George Burns in the outfield will not be felt. Ike Boone, Ralph Shinners and Bill Cunningham all appear ready to fill that bert with the pep and dash of youth. Emil Meusel and Ross Young will steady which ever one is chosen.

The pitching staff appears more formidable than last year's. McGraw's firm methods in bringing Douglas and Barns to terms will be of benefit to them. The catching staff is o. k.

HUGGINS HIT

Huggins, on the other hand, has not found satisfactory substitutes for Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, who cannot play until May 20. Not only will his outfit miss Ruth's big bat but it will be without the services of the two men in the outfield. Huggins has, however, strengthened his hurling staff by [illegible] Joe Bush. He has eliminated some of the friction by disposing of Roger Peckinpaugh. Peck's place will be filled by Everett Scott.

PANTHERS OFF

FORT WORTH, April 10.—Fully recovered from their defeat in Dallas Sunday, the Panthers, Texas and Dixie champions, will leave Tuesday for Cleburne to meet the Texas-Oklahoma leaguers there. Arrangements for the game were completed today. This will be the last practice game befort the opening of the Texas league season.

BARNEY BURCH'S BUSY BEES BLESS THE "BREAKS" BARRING ANOTHER BITTER BEATING

By "NICK" CARTER

Goodby, Barney, goodby. We hated to do it, but it had to be done. Thank the great dust storm, Barney boy, that your stingless Bees were unable to play that fourth game yesterday. By-by, Barney Burch; fare-thee-well, ol' kid; drop in again next spring and take three teaspoons full of the famous Spudder tonic—guaranteed to build up an Omaha ball player's system and put him in the proper frame of mind to withstand future disasters; greatest thing in the world, Barney; come back in 1923 and get some mogs.

Yes, the Omaha Bees, their stingers completely removed, went on their sad, sweet way yesterday, declining with emphasis an urgent invitation to play the fourth game. Of course, the fact that a gale of wind attended by swirling dust clouds made playing impossible, had nothing to do with it. Barney just dassn't play any more with Walter? But, say, if the Fort Worth Cats had been here for a reg'lar ol' Texas league scheduled game, betcha they'd have played—and, lissen, that he-wind would have picked up "Midget" Tavener, lifted him right out of "Topper" Rigney's shoes, and blown him clear into the Three-Eye circuit somewhere! Then where would "Jakie Ats and his clawin' Cats" have been, huh? I arsk you!

But wind is nothing to boys that carry the weight of Bob Bescher, Ray O'Brien, Fred Beck, Jumbo Ramsey, Abe Bowman, Skipper Salm, et al. The whole durn squad just went out there and got their practice, anyway. They didn't try to chase the elusive apple through the dizzy, dusty atmosphere, but they played leap-frog and ran foot races and otherwise conducted themselves as athletes should who are desirous of getting in that w. k. "pink of condition."

Walter Salm crossed me all up, as I rather expected he would. He didn't leave town Sunday night a-tall. But I played safe, at that, being very careful to say that he "packed his grip last night for departure"—now I'll leave it you, gang, that don't mean he actually departed, does it? Course not. City-slicked him, by gum!

ANOTHER GONE!

"Heavy" Ammons, the 200-pound utility player who has been working out with the Spudders for several weeks, was returned yesterday by Skipper Salm to the Tampa club of the Florida State league.

It is understood that Ammons has been sold by Tampa to the Atlanta "Crackers" in the Southern association.

HUGGINS HIT

Huggins, on the other hand, has not found satisfactory substitutes for Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, who cannot play until May 20. Not only will his outfit miss Ruth's big bat but it will be without the services of the two men in the outfield. Huggins has, however, strengthened his hurling staff by [illegible] Joe Bush. He has eliminated some of the friction by disposing of Roger Peckinpaugh. Peck's place will be filled by Everett Scott.

Guess we'll all have to get up a fund to buy Bill Ruggles a diamond-studded watch fob of some p'n. Bill is full of civic pride in a pinch, but he believes also in hewing to the line and letting the chips fall where they—and when Bill Ruggles says the Spudders are "the best bet in North Texas," you can wager he means just that; it is his opinion, and he's honest enough to expres it flatly.

But it isn't going to be a one-team race by a long shot, and the Spudders have got to hit a winning stride and hold it consistently in order to collect the marbles. If the club can get away in the lead early, it may mean much in the long drive. Fort Worth, in my judgment, is going to be a weak sister for quite a little while; with her left side of their infield shattered, with Clarence Kraft on the crippled list, with their pitchers as yet failing to show their old effectiveness and with their team play suffering because of the many changes, the Cats are not the same great ball club that finished the season of 1921—but if Jakie Ats keeps his health, he'll weld a fighting ball club together just the same, and the Panthers may start with a rush later in the season.

But it isn't all Fort Worth, by any means. Atz isn't necessarily the man Walter Salms has to beat. What about Billy Smith and his Shreveport Gassers? Billy has a ball club this year. It may not be the hardest-hitting club in the loop, but it has wonderful defensive strength, and, you will agree with me that the history of baseball has proven that "hitless wonders" can win many, many ball games. Billy has a fine assortment of twirlers, and every club that faces Shreveport is going to find the task of breaking through the Gassers' defense a tough one.

And you all know how these south Texas clubs come with a wild rush early in the season. George Whiteman has a good-looking club in Houston and San Antonio has trengthened. Either of those babies may cause a world of trouble.

The Spudders have got to stay in there and pitch, gang; got to hustle right from the jump, and keep on hustling. I believe they can do it; I believe after two years in the first division we're going to win the third year—but it's going to take the combined fight and pepper and enthusiasm of the players, the management and the fans. Are we ready to go? I'll say we are. Turn 'em loose!

In the course of a little fanning bee t'other evening someone raised the question as to what ball player in the Texas league has the power to draw the most money in at the gate. There were five men present, and they named Bob Bescher unanimously, each stating that his idea of pleasure at a ball game was to see old Bob get on the paths and worry the infielders ragged. Of course, these five men were all Spudder fans, but their viewpoint is interesting nevertheless; it proves at least that not everyone goes to a ball game just to see some player wham the pellet over the fence.

BIG LEAGUE HEADS OPTIMISTIC

Johnson Predicts Close Race

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—A prediction that the race for the penant in the American league this season would be one of the best in years, was made tonight by B. B. Johnson, president of the organization.

"Since the early expansion movement of the American league," Johnson said, "there has been few years when the organization approached a season with so many real contenders for the flag.

"It is conceded everywhere that New York and Cleveland again will measure strength for the prize and those who have followed closely the much improved St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators are firm in the declaration that both clubs will prove worthy opponents of last year's race.

"The Detroit club is a problem with its new factors, and challenge the respect and fear of teams in the first flight.

"Boston, with its batting strength, will prove no mean opponent, and it can be safely asserted the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics have been measurably bettered."

SALINA GETS IN

AUBURN, N. Y., April 10.—Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues today announced that the franchise and players of the Pittsburg club in the Southwestern league had been transferred to Salina, Kan.

"Outlook Splendid" —Heydler

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—"All prospects point to another successful baseball season," said President Heydler of the National league, today in discussing the outlook in the senior association.

"The National league will open its forty-seventh season, Wednesday, in possession of the world championship honors, well balanced clubs and the confidence and following of baseball patrons in both east and west," he continued, "and I feel safe in predicting high class play, a close race, and a fair share of the patronage which in the past has caused baseball to be termed the national sport.

"At least five clubs in our league have a chance to win the 1922 pennant and since nothing is certain in baseball, any one of the other three may spring a surprise and confound even the experts.

"The New York club, of course, as the winner of the world's series last year, carried its strength and prestige into the new season. But it cannot be taken for grauted that the team will repeat.

"Boston, Brooklyn and St. Louis, on the showing in 1921, must be given a chance, and I am inclined to believe that these clubs are stronger than was the case seven months ago. If Brooklyn gets off to a good start its pitching staff will carry the club far and the team can be considered as a pennant factor."

BOXING CARNIVAL TOMORROW

There will be large doings at the American Legion hall tomorrow night; doings large, handsome and fiery. Gloves will swish and there will be fists inside those gloves. Man, dear, there will be tumult and wild excitement.

The legion post is staging its spring indoor athletic carnival, with more "box-fighting" than Wichita Falls has seen in many, many moons. With five boxing bouts and a battle royal on the program, there will be fun enough for all hands and the cook.

In the main event George Chestain, 160-pounder from Oklahoma, is due to swap punches with Sailor Grisham of this city. Both boys are in good shape for the bout, which will go 10 rounds and a warm battle is being promised by the legian committee.

The full program is as follows:

Remarks by Dr. Strong.

Remarks by Post Commander Dr. O. W. Wilson.

Four rounds, two local boys.

Remarks by Hon. W. D. Cline.

Remarks by Mayor Collier.

Battle royal.

Four-round preliminary, Battling Bruce, 100 pounds; vs. Willie Murry, 105 pounds.

Remarks by Post Chaplain.

Six rounds, Kid Stanton, 118; vs. Battling Snyder, 115.

Eight rounds, Barney Beasley, 130; vs. Pal Brown, 128.

Ten rounds, Sailor Grisham, 155; vs. George Chestain, 160.

SUGAR GOES LOWER

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The raw sugar market continued to decline today and spot Cubas were quoted on the basis of 2¼ cents and freight, equal to 3.86 for centrifugal, while later shipment was quoted at 2 7-16 cost and freight, equal to 3.92. Business, however, continued light, the only sales reported being 10,000 bags of Cubas in port at 2¼ cents, cost and freight, to an operator.

The raw sugar futures market was easier, reflecting the decline in spot market. Opening prices showed gains of one point on active position on covering, but the demand was limited and prices eased off rather sharply in the late trading under scattered liquidation. Final prices were 2 to 5 points net lower; May 2.49; July 2.68; September 2.86; December 2.94.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 5.25 to 5.50 for fine granulated, but the demand was light.

There were no transactions in refined futures. Closing: May 5.85; July 6.10; September 6.25.

INVISIBLE FORCES OF AIR USED IN FIGHT ON 'INVISIBLE EMPIRE'

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—The invisible forces of the air were arrayed against "the invisible empire" of the Ku Klux Klan last night, when Governor Parker used the Daily Item radio broadcasting station to make an Anti-Ku Klux Klan address.

"No band of masked men, no mob, no visible or invisible forces shall ever dominate the government of America or the government of Louisiana," the governor declared. "Neither the Ku Klux Klan nor any other similar body of men shall rise superior to our law enforcing officers or to our courts and our judges. We of the south, as well as the people of the entire nation are passing through a crisis that demands and insists on fearless and impartial enforcement of the law. If you have not that, you have no civilization."

SEA-GOING GOATS TO RETURN TO TIN CANS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The sea-going goats of the Navy are retiring to the tin sans of civilization.

They have discarded the Navy blue in such numbers as to te almost extinct as Navy mascots, is reliably reported. Owing to the slackness in the mascot business the goat's historic place as a ship's mascot is being taken by the cat, who is reported to be flocking on board ship in large numbers. The Navy parrot is also losing his perch on the Navy's guns, giving way to the more respectable dog, who is now going down to the sea in ships more than ever before.

Genoa Parley Aids Money Trading

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The new week on the stock exchange opened with a resumption of the past fortnights extraordinary demand for securities of almost every variety. Many issues exceeded all previous high records of the year in the day's turn over of 1,475,000 shares.

Eliminating the coal strike, which continues to be ignored despite its graver aspects, developments over the recess again seemed to favor the constructive side of the market.

Railroad and industrial reports almost without exception confirmed recent advices, indicating steady expansion of transportation movement and increased production of the more important manufactured materials.

The latter condition found strong confirmation in the March booking of the United States Steel corporation. These disclosed an increase of 353,000 tons in unfilled orders over the previous month and the first pronounced gain in almost a year.

Rails were the more solid features of the season, although the substantial gains in that division were confined to secondary shares. Steels, motors and equipments yielded occasionally to the weight of realizing sales and oils eased with sugars, tobaccos and local tractions.

United States Steel rose to within a small fraction of par before the close, but reacted a point with affiliated issues closing at a nominal gain Net gains of one to five points were registered by Gulf States, Bethlehem, Lackawanna and crucible steels, Baldwin, Studebaker, Stromberg, Pierce Arrow preferred, Columbia gas, Electric Storage Battery, Market Street Railway preferred, and Manhattan Elevated.

Last week's favorable clearing house statement was conductive to easy money rate, all call loans being made at 4 1-2, while time money continued to rule at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4. Reported concession on commerial paper were not confirmed.

Proceedings at the Genoa conference in its preliminary stage received favorable interpretation in the foreign exchange market. Sterling was comparatively strong on the higher quotation posted in London, but reacted moderately later.

All allied remittances were better, the German rate showed appreciable improvement making further gains on the strength of the reports of bonds recent placed here.

COFFEE TAKES SPURT

NEW YORK, April 10.—An opening advance of 7 to 10 points in the market for coffee futures carried prices back to within 3 or 4 points of last week's high record. There was covering by near month shorts and scattered buying of later deliveries promoted by firmer Brazilian cables and the advance to 9.93 for May and 9.58 for September attracted some realizing, which later became more active because of late cables from Santos. May eased off to 9.88 and September to 9.43 with the market closing net two points lower to five points higher. Sales were estimated at about 62,000 bags including exchanges. COTTON HAS ITS UPS AND DOWNS

Unsettled Weather Unsettles Prices

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today with the tone unsettled by further near month liquidations, while later deliveries were sustained by uncertainty over weather conditions in the south. After selling off to 17.22 early for July the market rallied, closing at 17.31 for that position, with the general market closing firm net 17 points lower to one point higher. The opening was barely steady at an advance of one point to a decline of 13 points, most months being lower in response to easier Liverpool cables and a better weather map than was expected. Liverpool sold cotton here and there, was scattered liquidation by buyers of late last week, who found that the southwestern storm conditions had been followed by clearing weather over Sunday.

Near months were relatively weak under renewed liquidation with May selling off to 17.67 or 22 points net lower, while the lowest price reached by October was 17.10, making a net loss of only 11 points. Selling of the new crop position was checked by the Eastern belt forecast for cloudy weather with showers and there was scattered buying on the reports of constructive developments in the Genoa conference which was probably promoted by firmness in stocks, grain and foreign exchanges rates. This caused rallies of several points from the lowest during the afternoon but bulges in the prices of May met further liquidation and that position closed within five points of the lowest. New crop deliveries recovered the greater of the early loss. Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool market to hedge selling and long liquidation, but claimed that there was a continued fair spot, demand, and according to some reports reaching here during the day, the English concerns have been buying much cotton in the south.

Ports 12,815. United States ports stocks 1,037,783.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON

LIVERPOOL, April 10.—Cotton, spot in good demand; business moderate; prices steady. Good middling 10.95; fully middling 10.65; middling 10.05; low middling 9.80; good ordinary 8.95; ordinary 8.45. Sales 10,000 bales, including 7,300 American.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Cottonseed oil advanced 12 to 18 points through local buying on the advance in lard and grain but later reacted several points under freer pit offering and for want of outside support. Closing bids were 8 to 11 points net higher. Sales 4,800 barrels.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, April 10.—Cotton goods were quiet today with prices barely steady. Yarns showed some softening. Silk and cotton inquiries were more numerous. Wool goods were quiet and raw silks slightly easier. Burlaps were shaded a little on spot trading.

THE PRINCE

Prince of Wales as an Indian colonel

During his recent stay in India, the Prince of Wales was appointed to the colonelcy of six Indian regiments. Each of these units now bears the title of "Prince of Wales' Own." The prince appeared frequently in the uniform of a colonel-in-chief of the Indian forces with turban, sword, sash and medals.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—Price weakness in Liverpool was the one big argument in cotton today and the market here was affected by it from the start. Crop and weather news was unfavorable, but most traders seemed to think that news along this line had been discounted and were disposed to pay attention to the somewhat better weather prospects than to what the weather already had done.

Opening lower, the market soon was 10 to 18 points down. After a recovery of a few points it sagged again to net declines of 11 to 18 points and this was the low of the day May standing at 16.58 and October at 16.38.

In the later trading was steady enough and small recoveries occurred because of profit taking on the short side. The close was at net losses of 4 to 12 points with May at 16.63 and October at 16.47.

According to private messages reaching here from Texas, that state again received too much rain over the week end, there was more flooding of lowlands in the southern part of the state, and sand storms were complained of.

Private cables from Liverpool explained the weakness there as due to hedge selling in a narrow market.

J. C. Murray, receiver, and general manager, said an effort would be made to have the road in operation by May 15.

GRAIN ADVANCES ON CROP REPORT

Supply Fails to Check Demand

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—New upturns in the price of wheat took place today owing largely to an unexpected advance of quotations at Liverpool and to unfavorable domestic crop reports. The market closed unsettled, half sent to 1 5-8 cents net higher, with May $1.33 5-8 to $1.33 3-4 and July $1.21 to $1.21 1-4. Corn gained half cents and oats half to 7-8 cents. Provisions, the outcome varied from 10 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

With sterling exchange showing decided strength, wheat traders were disposed to give a little more weight than usual to the course of values at Liverpool, especially as houses with eastern connections were good buyers. It soon became apparent, too, that the United States visible supply for the week would increase to a greater extent than had been expected. Meanwhile, aprehension regarding the crop outlook became dubious, owing to messages from the southwest that conditions were not favorable.

Much larger receipts of wheat in Chicago than have been witnessed for some time failed to chek the upward tendency of the market, an impression gaining ground that the bulk of the arrivals would go to eastern mills. Gossip, however, that Duluth wheat might be shipped on a big scale to Chicago by lake brought about a material setback in prices at the end of the day.

Wet, cold weather, ill adapted for field work was responsible for the advances in the corn and oats.

Provisions went up in price with hogs and grain, but the effect was afterward largely counterbalanced by selling ascribed to packers.

STRIKE ADDS TO BUNGER AREA

Field Extended to Stephen's Line

Extenson of the Bunger producing area almost to the Stephens county line is promised by the strike of the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Carmack, almost a mile south and west of the Raico's Roark well, recently completed in the 3,700-foot lime. The Gulf well will be drilled in today or Wednesday if the tanks that are being moved up from Breckenridge arrive, and other preparations are completed.

The lime was drilled into at 3,795 feet, and was quite unexpected, according to reports today from the local offices of the Gulf. The showing is said to be quite favorable for a nice producer.

The test of the Rhodes Drilling company on the Rowe, is reported also on this deep lime, and making considerable gas, and showing some oil. This test is north of the Bunger pool.

JURORS TO BE HELD ACCOUNTABLE FOR ORDERS FROM COURT

Fifty men constituting the regular jury panel for the week of district and county courts were told Monday morning in a lengthy charge by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court that they were going to be held strictly accountable in obeying instructions regarding their duties as jurors.

Obviously showing his strong feeling in the matter Judge Martin told the jurors that they must carry out instructions given them and any violation would result in their being held for contempt. The judge cited the case of two weeks ago, where he fined a juror $100 and sentenced him to three days in the county jail for misconduct in the jury room. He said that the conduct of jurors had become so loose that the first thing an attorney did when he lost a case was to check up on the jury to see if he could not discover some misconduct which would justify a new trial. He also told of the large number of cases that are reversed in the higher courts by reason of jury misconduct in the lower courts.

The judge dwelt at length on the "sanctity and solemnity" of the oath which the jurors took and the obligation it implied to assure that all parties concerned in a case would be given a fair and impartial trial.

HOUSTON, Texas, April 10.—Exceptions and demurrers to 13 of the 14 counts in the indictment against S. E. J. The case is scheduled for trial before a jury May 29 on Cox's plea of not guilty.

OIL EXPORTS TO ENGLAND STOP

Only Five Gallons Sent in February

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Henry C. Morris, chief of the fuel division, department of commerce, has issued a report of the petroleum export trade to the United States for February. According to Mr. Morris, the outstanding features of petroleum export trade for February were: (1) Shipments for each chief class of petroleum products declined as compared both with the preceding month and with February a year ago. (2) Shipments of gasoline and naphthas to the United Kingdom were practically nil (only 5 gallons) compared to 12,937,000 gallons in January and a monthly average for 1921 of 5,150,000 gallons. Total United Kingdom imports of motor spirits in February were 28,170,000 United States gallons. (3) Exports to France of gasoline and naphthas showed a striking increase, being 21,537,000 gallons as compared to 12,815,000 for January and to a monthly average for 1921 of 6,600,000 gallons. (4) Cuba took only 15,569 gallons of gasoline and naphthas in February. Our monthly shipments of gasoline to the island in 1921 averaged 200,000 gallons, and in 1920 some 720,000 gallons.

February exports of 62,000,000 gallons of illuminating oil equaled the monthly averages for 1921, but were about 10,000,000 gallons under the monthly average for 1920.

Exports of lubricating oil of 23,591,000 gallons were about equal to the monthly average for 1921 and about 10,000,000 gallons under the monthly average for 1920.

Imports of 507,000,000 of crude oil marked a decline of 43,000,000 gallons compared to January and of 70,000,000 compared to December. The monthly average for 1921 was 438,000,000 gallons and for 1920 some 371,000,000 gallons.

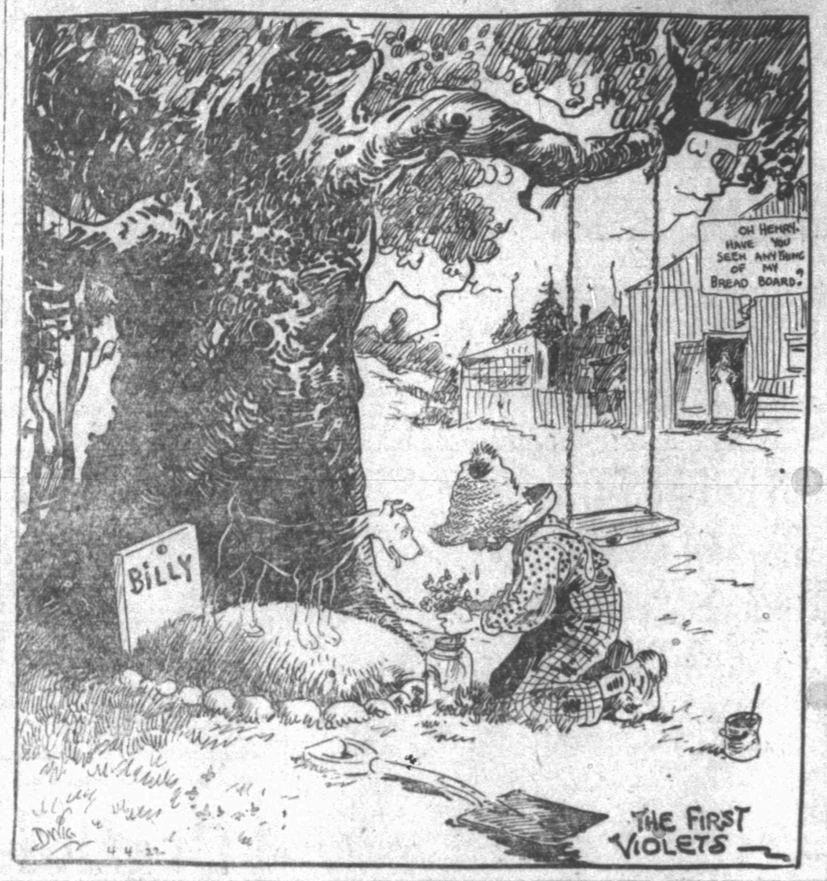

BIGGER PURSES TO BE HUNG UP FOR COWBOY ROUND-UP

With the announcement that the fourth annual Round-Up will be held in the ball park here May 3, 4 and 5, and that Tom L. Burnett, producer, will hang up even bigger purses for daring cowboy stunts than in years past, people are looking forward to a real gala event and especially the small boy, who will again invade the domain of the family wash and will perhaps purloin the family clothes line to play at cowboy and roping.

It is really remarkable how proficient in the art of lassoing the little fellows get about Round-Up time. To every small boy the cow boy is the real hero and Mr. Burnett has promised that the purses which are being hung up for the various events of the Round-Up will attract the greatest number of contestants ever seen in this part of the country.

Already the headquarters of the Round-Up at 705 Ohio street, have taken on a busy aspect and the work of preparing for the big event is getting under way.

LAKE NEARING HIGHEST LEVEL

Getting Back to Pre-Drouth Point

Rising to a point within approximately 10 inches of the top of the spillway, Lake Wichita Monday night was, as a result of rains and snows of the last three weeks back to its level of last September when the several months' drouth really established its hold, and the city began drawing on its reserve water supply.

Although never low enough to occasion anxiety for the water supply for the city during the coming year, the present volume of water in the lake assures an abundance of water for all uses in the city, and promises a supply for the irrigation of truck gardens in the irrigated district near the lake.

Year's Supply

At present the lake holds about three and a quarter billion gallons of water, about three times the amount required for the city during a year. Allowing half for evaporation, about four feet a season, there is still more than a year's supply in reserve. If May, normally a rain month, proves so this season, full irrigation will be permitted.

Use 2,000,000 Gallons

The city uses about two million gallons of water per day in the winter season, while the peak load of the summer calls on the lake for twice that amount daily.

Completion of the irrigation project this year is expected to provide against the city ever facing a shortage of water in the future.

CHIEF TO PROBE INVALID'S CASE

Man Is Treated Cruel, Charge

Charges of harsh treatment on the part of police toward a man of 79 years of age, still weak from a recent operation, who was locked up as a drunk after swooning from weakness, will be investigated immediately and reported to the city council, Police Commissioner Fitts volunteered that statement immediately after the presentation of these charges by Ed Staley, local real estate and oil man.

"I don't think we have a policeman of that kind on the force—I know we don't intend to have," Fitts said in connection with the report.

The man in question missed his step on the street and stumbled, and had to sit on the curb and rest as a result of weakness, Staley said. He had just been released from the hospital after serious operation, he told them—leaving sooner than he really should as he desired to conserve his diminishing funds. The policeman appealed to on this occasion started him toward his rooms, but later put him in a car brought by another policeman and took him past his rooms to the city hall, according to the story.

Not realizing that he was under arrest the old man made no move to leave the car at the city hall, and was jerked out roughly, taken in, booked for drunk, and locked in the "cooler" with several who were drunk, according to Staley's story. His voice, affected by weakness and indignation, did him little service toward convincing the officers he was not drunk, the council was told, even though he named two local physicians and Chief of Police Morgan as persons who could vouch for his condition and identity.

Locked in the "cooler" he kicked the ttin door, and made some noise, but retreated when warned to desist only to trip over a sink in the middle of the floor and lie on the concrete floor too weak to rise, Staley said. Later, Chief Morgan happening to come into the station, went back for a look at the old man and recognized him and had him released. Staley named J. L. DeGroot, who was present, but not called on by the council, as in a position to substantiate his story.

SAND, WIND, RAIN AND SNOWFALL

Skies Reddened by Copper Dust

Western and Central Texas and Western Oklahoma Monday were in the grip of a blinding sandstorm, driven by a wind shifting from southwest to northwest and attaining at several places an estimated velocity of 35 to 40 miles per hour.

In the way of diversion came flood conditions on the west portion of the Gulf coast, and snow in the Texas Panhandle and the extreme northern and western parts of Oklahoma, while the organization of relief measures for tornado sufferers in Callahan county served as a reminder of the "epidemic" high winds of Saturday.

To altogether clinch the reputation for variety in Texas weather came reports establishing Sunday, sandwiched in between the rains and tornadoes of Saturday, and the grizzly sand storm of Monday, as an ideal summer day. The thermometer at Wichita Falls and in many widely scattered sections topped the 90 mark —the high mark of the season.

Wind Does Damage

Although establishing a high velocity at several places, reports of damage from the wind which fanned the sand through the two states came from only one place Monday—McKinney in Collin county where several houses were blown from their foundation, and a seed house and gin at Rhea Mills was wrecked. No injuries were reported.

Snow at Altus, Oklahoma, and beyond, and snow at Amarillo and beyond in the Panhandle, failed during the day Monday to materially lower the temperature in Wichita Falls, which was around 70 in the afternoon. A light but "concentrated" shower early Sunday morning was the share of the precipitation coming to Wichita Falls and surrounding territory.

No Rain in Oklahoma

Although the showers extended over a wide area of Northwest Texas in all directions from Wichita Falls, the adjacent section of Oklahoma is without reports of rain.

Welfare authorities at Fort Worth were arranging aid for storm sufferers in the vicinity of Oplin in Callahan county, where three were killed and several injured Saturday.

Sleuth Picks Up Telephone Order For Booze While Idling in Cafe, Takes Buyer and Seller to Jail

"Sure, I have some for two and a half," an employe of a downtown cafe is alleged to have said late Sunday night as he answered the telephone. A lone customer eating a sandwich was seen to sit up straight on his stool.

A few minutes later a second party drove up to the cafe in an automobile and two bottles of whiskey are said to have been transferred to him by the employe.

"How about riding with you?" said the lone customer as he walked up to the machine about to drive away.

"Where you going?" was the query of the automobile driver.

"We are all going to the county jail," was the reply.

Identifications were in order and it developed that the lone customer was John Bartlett, veteran officer who recently joined the local federal prohibition enforcement staff.

Monday morning federal charges of sale of whiskey were filed against Louis Gardner, the employe of the cafe.

Charges of possession and transportation were also filed against Jack Daugherty, arrested Sunday night by deputy sheriffs. It is alleged that Daugherty had 16 half gallons of whiskey in his machine when arrested. Ralph Watson and Colly Wyrick also arrested by deputy sheriffs Sunday night in a raid on a downtown hotel, were charged with possession of liquor.

Member of Grand Jury Is Called To Testify as to Whether or Not He Has Purchased Bootleg Liquor

Summoned before the grand jury room, D. M. Perkins, a member of the grand jury now in session in the 78th district court was one of the witnesses for the defense in the case of Ralph Pardy on trial Monday afternoon for the third time on a charge of violating the state prohibition enforcement act.

Perkins was called by the defense to contradict the testimony of Charles Bryan, principal witness for the state. Bryan testified that accompanied by Perkins he had purchased whiskey from Pardy who was employed in an Indiana street cafe in January of this year. Perkins said the whiskey was purchased in the cafe at the time designated but said that he did not know whether it was Pardy or another man who sold it. He said he did not believe it was Pardy because he had previously tried to purchase it from him and had been refused.

The case was submitted to the jury late Monday evening after a heated trial. Judge P. A. Martin of the 30th district court fined Shields Heyser, attorney for the defendant, $10 for remarks made during his argument before the jury concerning the action of Judge Martin in refusing to allow the introduction of certain testimony. The jury retired late Monday night without having reached a verdict.

Pardy has been tried twice before on a similar charge the first trial resulting in a hung jury and second trial in an acquittal.

Good Showing at Dow Deep Test On Horton Farm

A 600-foot oil sand was drilled in Monday at noon in the Dow deep test on the Horton farm, a half mile east of the Texhoma-South Burkburnett main producing pool, according to reports from F. G. Dow who is drilling the test, Monday night.

Casing will be set today, and a thorough test given the sand. According to the reports the show is exceptionally good, and estimates from 35 to 50 barrels have been made by oil men visiting the test Monday afternoon.

Axe Will Begin to Fall at City Hall With Little Delay

Official heads at the city hall, due to come off as a result of the taking over of a new administration, will begin to fall with very little delay, it was indicated at Monday night's council meeting. The indication came with a motion by Police Commissioner Fitts that the council recess to Monday noon when they will go into executive session to consider "important matters." A list of all appointive officers and employes, with the pay of each, was passed to each member of the council.

It is believed that the matter will be taken up and the offices dealt with one by one, with a period of "notice" in all probability to the officers who will be affected. The changes to be made, however, will probably be settled upon right away, according to belief among the city's official family.

All but one of approximately 40 jurors constituting the jury for the week at the courthouse Monday in answer to a query from attorneys representing Ralph Pardy on trial for alleged bootlegging said they were not members of the Ku Klux Klan.

L. E. Cowling, local real estate man, refused to answer the question when asked him. The questions were asked of the entire panel previous to the selection of a jury for the Pardy case. Mr. Cowling was taken from the jury through a preemptory challenge by the defense. Pardy is on trial in the 89th district court.

The defendant's council also asked if there were any members of the jury panel who had contributed to funds for the promotion of law enforcement in the county. All answered that they had not. BORROW KEY STEAL AUTO

Brand New Machine Driven Away

Police Monday afternoon and night were investigating something new in the way of schemes on the part of automobile thieves. D. A. Crossman, local oil operator, reported to the police late in the afternoon that his new Dodge car purchased Saturday and driven less than 100 miles had been stolen while parked on Eighth street.

Inevstigation disclosed that the thieves had secured a key to the automobile by sending a messenger boy to the sales room of McFall Brothers, local Dodge dealers, shortly before the theft of the car was discovered. The boy told the salesman that the owner had lost his key and wanted another.

It is believed that the two men who sent the boy after the key immediately went to the car and drove it away. Police were notified a few minutes after the car was stolen, but a thorough search of the city and surrounding section had failed to find the car late Monday night.

Minister Gains 10 Pounds in 15 Days through Ironized Yeast

"Fighting Parson," World War Veteran, Tells of His Amazing Restoration to Health

"I HAVE taken only one and a half packages of Ironized Yeast, yet I have gained ten pounds in 15 days."

Such is the remarkable statement of the Rev. L. W. Vandergriff, pastor of the Fairview Church, Athens, Tenn., whose experiences during the world war have caused him to be known by many as "the Fighting Parson."

"I was crippled up in the army, and have been in ill health ever since. But now, thank God, I am on the road to recovery, and feel better than I have felt in five years. I am only too pleased to give this testimony, for I think I am doing my fellow man a service if I can induce him to try Ironized Yeast."

From everywhere come equally surprising reports of the apparent "miracles" performed by IRONIZED YEAST. And all because IRONIZED YEAST embodies an exclusive scientific process—a process which enables yeast to bring its wonderful results often in half the usual time!

"Gains 9 Pounds"

"IRONIZED YEAST has been worth $500 to me. I have gained 9 pounds and my skin has become entirely clear."—Mr. J. M. G.

"Gains 6 Pounds"

"The improvement in me since taking IRONIZED YEAST is just wonderful. Now I eat heartily; never have that tired-out feeling, and I have gained six pounds."—Mr. F. B. C.

"Gains 8 Pounds"

"After one box of IRONIZED YEAST I have gained 8 pounds, my skin is clear, I now sleep soundly every night. It is the greatest tonic I ever heard of."—Mr. A. G. B.

"Gains 10 Pounds"

"I think IRONIZED YEAST is a wonderful flesh-builder and fine for the complexion. I have gained 10 pounds after 1½ packages."—Mrs. J. K. B.

"Gains 7 Pounds"

"Before taking IRONIZED YEAST I weighed myself. Then I weighed myself two weeks later and to my surprise I have gained 7 pounds."—Miss M. G. W.

How the Process of Ironization Makes Yeast Doubly Effective

While Science admits that yeast is of wonderful value in building flesh, clearing the skin, and increasing energy, it is found that yeast alone is not enough to bring 100 per cent results. For while yeast contains certain vital elements—lacking in diet, yet essential to health—experiments prove that some other agent is needed in order to quickly CONVERT these important yeast elements into new firm tissue, energy and health.

Everyone knows the great value of iron in changing our food into living cells. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the amazing process of ironization—the scientific process which enables you to derive from yeast ALL of the wonderful benefits it holds for you.

The Only Yeast That Is Genuinely Ironized

This remarkable process of ironization is embodied ONLY in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment. IRONIZED YEAST is superior, therefore it is widely imitated. You are cautioned against accepting cheap inferior imitations, which in most cases are merely mixtures of ordinary yeast and iron. Always insist upon the genuine IRONIZED YEAST. It is the only way you can be sure of getting the best. Get IRONIZED YEAST from your druggist today. $1.00 a package. Satisfactory results guaranteed—or money back.
