Jap Premier Back From Official "Death" To Rule Again

Surrender Of Rebels Noted; Quiet Reigns

Government Discloses Premier Okada Is Still Alive And That Rebels Killed Wrong Man Last Week

May Lose Power

Rebellious Troops Capitulate To Imperial Order To Stack Their Arms And Return To Their Barracks

TOKYO, Mareh 1, (Sunday)—Premier Keisuke Okada, back from official "death," directed the Japanese government again today as soldiers maintained peace in the governmental office district from which rebels had departed.

The citizenry stayed indoors, thankful for peace and for the fact that their beloved Okada lived. They and the world were told officially last Wednesday that the statesman had been killed by assassins.

Still Nominal Head

Although he still is nominal head of the government, political observers were of the opinion that Okada will not be in power much longer. Authoritative sources stated that his premiership must be terminated and replaced by a government headed by "a man of great prestige and influence, capable of restoring the shaken national morale."

LEADER ENDS LIFE

TOKYO, March 1, (Sunday) (By Telephone To Shanghai) (AP) — Captain Teruzo Ando, alleged leader of the Tokyo rebellion, shot himself in the head and died late last night.

Captain Shiro Nonaka, chief lieutenant to Captain Ando, was understood reliably also to have attempted suicide by self shooting.

The remainder of the 20 leaders of the mutiny which ended Saturday with the rebels' surrender were reported reliably to be still alive at a military prison on the outskirts of Tokyo where they were being held.

The government itself disclosed Okada was still living as loyal troops moved into the area of government buildings which 1,000 rebel soldiers had held since last Wednesday when they attempted to overthrow the government.

Others Shot Down

It was then that members of their group shot down Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, former premier and lord keeper of the privy seal, Korekiyo Takahashi, minister of finance, Gen. Jotaro Watanabe, chief of military operations, and Admiral Kantaro Suzuki, lord chamberlain of the imperial court.

Of these, Admiral Suzuki alone survived. Although gravely wounded, he was said by an official of the imperial household to be recovering, following a blood transfusion Friday.

The assassins tried to kill Okada, and it was not until yesterday that the world outside the palace

Physicians Labor To Save Barbara

LONDON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Four physicians labored tonight to save the life of Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz - Reventlow, Woolworth heiress and one of the wealthiest women in the world.

She was reported to have survived two operations—a Caesarian delivery of a son last Tuesday and another for the relief of an abdominal obstruction Thursday.

Tonight the physicians issued the following bulletin:

"The condition of Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow improved slightly during the day. Her baby continues to do well."

It is known that previous to the countess' confinement she suffered from anemia and was under treatment for this condition.

Lubbock Debating Team Goes Into Semi-Finals Of Tourney

A debate team from Lubbock High school, composed of Waggoner and Warlick Carr, Saturday lost a decision in the semi-finals of a 35-team tournament at Wichita Falls, losing to Sweetwater. Another team from the high school, made up of J. W. Gamble and Mont Jennings, lost to Denison in the third round.

The Lubbock teams have been unusually successful this year, under coaching of J. W. Reid, economics and sociology instructor. The Carrs have won 11 out of 13 debates, and the entire squad of boys and girls have won 20 of 28 contests.

The Wichita Falls tournament, begun Thursday and concluded Friday noon, was won by Breckenridge, who vanquished Sweetwater.

Millions Of Texans To Pay Tribute To State's Heroes

Ceremonies Will Be Held In Several Big Gatherings

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 29.—One hundred years ago a little band of stern-faced men met in a village on the Brazos river in South Texas and solemnly affixed their signatures to a sheet of paper.

"We . . . do hereby resolve and declare that our political connection with the Mexican nation has forever ended, and that the people of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign and independent republic . . ."

Backed With Bullets

So read the Texas declaration of independence, scrawled in firm longhand; and the 58 signers, most of whom had come from the neighboring United States of America, marched forth to back up their declaration with bullets.

On Monday, March 2, millions of Texans, led by three governors, will render tribute to the heroes who laid the foundations for the republic of Texas and the "Lone Star" state of today.

An official group, which will include Governor James V. Allred of Texas and Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, will visit the scene of the signing of the declaration at old Washington-on-the-Brazos, Washington county, March 2, 1836.

Journey To Huntsville

After ceremonies and speeches, they will journey to Huntsville, where, joined by Governor Hill McAlister of Tennessee, they will honor the memory of General Sam Houston, whose military genius contributed so much to make independence a fact and whose political wisdom guided the new nation.

Four days later, on March 6, Governor Allred and McAlister, with thousands present and multiple thousands throughout the state, will pay their utmost in respect to the 187 men who on that day in 1836 died within the walls of the Alamo mission in San Antonio before the onslaught of 6,000 Mexican troops.

From these ceremonies, spreading through Texas, the celebration of Texas independence will radiate and continue through virtually all the year, centering in a Centennial exposition at Dallas beginning in June. For the observance, the state and federal governments have appropriated millions of dollars.

Accepts Invitation

Governor LaFollette, in Texas for a students conference on government, accepted an invitation to participate in the independence memorials. He and Governor Allred planned to motor to Brenham Sunday and visit old Washington briefly Sunday afternoon, returning to Brenham for the night.

Startling Figures Are Revealed In Survey Of Traffic Problems Here

Eighty-Two Out Of 100 Motorists Do Not Stop At Signals, Other Facts Shown

By BILL DONNELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

EIGHTY-TWO out of every 100 Lubbock motorists fail to stop at intersections where a plainly visible, easily read "stop sign" is displayed!

Five persons killed, 120 injured and 587 vehicles damaged are the tolls taken by automobile accidents in the city of Lubbock during the years of 1934 and 1935, with a money loss of $88,575. Four people have been killed in Lubbock thus far in 1936 but figures covering the number injured and cost entailed are not yet available.

More accidents occur when one of the drivers is making a left turn, when the rate of speed is between 15 and 25 miles per hour, when one of the cars is being projected from a lateral onto a main thoroughfare.

Most Dangerous Point

Most dangerous intersection in the city is at Broadway and Avenue Q, while second place is held by the Main and Avenue Q intersection. One out of every 10 accidents reported to police occurs on Broadway between Avenue Q and Avenue P.

Startling figures, those!

Their authenticity is attested by members of Lubbock's Traffic Safety committee who tomorrow afternoon will submit to City commission their findings of the past several months.

Comprehensive Survey

Theirs is the most comprehensive survey ever undertaken here on a scientific approach to traffic problems. Data they have secured will form a basis of recommendations to the commission for changing regulations to meet the requirements of present conditions.

Corporate Tax Plan Arousing More Support

Congressional Dispute Raging About FDR's Estimates Of Revenue Drowned In Clamor Over Shunted Profits

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. — Increasing talk of a tax on undistributed corporation profits was heard today above the clamor of a growing congressional dispute over President Roosevelt's billion-dollar revenue estimates.

Adding his voice to those of administration leaders in the senate, Speaker Byrns endorsed such a profits levy as "just and equitable." He reported that many members of the house ways and means committee, which will draft the tax bill, were in agreement with him.

Would Tax Bonds

Meanwhile, Senator Byrd (D-Va), a critic of some of the New Deal's spending, expressed approval of the tax program but called for a constitutional amendment to make federal, state and municipal bonds subject to taxation.

Despite some hints of opposition to a program of such size in a campaign year, Secretary Morgenthau expressed confidence in the outlook when asked what would be done if the full program is not enacted.

"There is no if about it," he replied. "We'll get it."

Aside from the tax on undistributed corporate profits, no one method of applying the new taxes apparently had official or semi-official approval. Many individual members of congress had their own ideas of what should be done. Generally these ideas were similar to those they have been backing for years.

Must Make Decision

It remained for the ways and means committee to receive, sort over and select from these proposals those that seem most profitable, obtain estimates of their yield from

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—American networks will join in the British empire broadcast of a speech, the first since he became king, by Edward of England on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. They will include NBC, CBS, and MBS. The king is expected to speak 15 minutes or so, with a musical program to complete the half hour set aside.

Girls' Privileges On Leap Year No Concern In Houston

HOUSTON, Feb. 29. (AP) — Leap year may be the year when the girls get a break, but they let the boys get a start on them here on the day that makes this a leap year.

Five babies, all boys, were born in Houston hospitals between midnight and 6:15 a. m. Saturday.

Police Report Draws Denial

Promises And Threats Rumored In Lindbergh Investigation But Governor Hoffman Denies Knowledge Of Them

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 29.—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf's report that persons, representing themselves as agents of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, had approached state troopers with "promises and threats" drew a sharp denial of such knowledge from the governor today.

The governor caustically described the Lindbergh kidnap investigation as the "most bungled case in police history."

Not A One Man Job

"My opinion, which is shared by thousands of people," the governor wrote to Schwarzkopf, "is that the Lindbergh kidnaping, murder and extortion of $50,000 was not a "one man job."

In ordering the case reopened a month ago, Hoffman sent to Schwarzkopf a long brief, setting forth what he called "incontrovertible proof" that more than one person was involved in the crime. He instructed Schwarzkopf to make weekly reports.

If Schwarzkopf feels now, the governor wrote today, that the case was solved with the arrest and con-

Legalized Sale Of Liquor In Howard County Favored

BIG SPRING, Feb. 29. (AP)—In a local option election in Howard county today, voters favored legalized liquor sale by a vote of 1,543 to 1,196, incomplete returns tonight showed. There were two small boxes uncounted but they could not affect the result, election officials said.

Howard county had been dry 20 years. The city of Big Spring and Forsan, an oil center, were wet already. All rural communities were dry.

LIQUOR IS VOTED

BEEVILLE, Feb. 29. (AP) — Bee county apparently voted to legalize the sale of liquor today. Unofficial returns from Beeville boxes indicated the "wets" had a majority of almost two to one.

Sheriff's Department Seeks To Identify Stolen Animals

Two cows, stolen here several weeks ago, were believed to have been located yesterday, the sheriff's department reported.

Deputies Sheriff Grady Harrist and Bedford Carpenter went to Dimmitt in an effort to identify one animal, said Sheriff Tom Abel. The officers also planned to question Clyde Bigham, facing two charges of cattle theft at Dimmitt.

National Youth Projects In Texas Given Approval

AUSTIN, Feb. 29. (AP)—Approval of National Youth projects today increased to 20,061 the number of jobs available for Texas youths.

Lyndon B. Johnson, state NYA director, said the 15 jobs to employ 412 youths, would require expenditure of $6,172 by the NYA and $6,380 by local sponsors. He said cost of 500 projects being put into operation would be $480,000.

Projects were located in Brazos, Clay, Goliad, Gillespie, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Montague, Morris, Palo Pinto, Randall, Stonewall, Titus, Trinity, and Wise counties.

Plainview Mail Carrier Is Satisfied With Past Record

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 29 (AP)—Satisfied that he had carried a lot of mail a long ways, John F. Bier voluntarily retired today after 28 years' service as a rural mail carrier in Texas and Missouri.

As near as the veteran postman could figure, he had handled 125 tons of mail and traveled mileage equivalent to 20 jaunts around the earth.

Trading With Belligerents Is Aimed At In Amendment And Teeth Added By Prohibition Of Obligations Trades

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—A new appeal to Americans to refrain from excessive trading with belligerent nations was issued today by President Roosevelt, coincident with his signing of the amended neutrality resolution and his immediate application of it to Italy and Ethiopia.

Hailing the addition of a ban against loans to warring nations as "a new and definite step" toward American peace, despite conflicts abroad, the president added this statement:

Proclamation Issued

"On October 5, 1935, I issued a proclamation which made effective the (arms) embargo (of the earlier law) with respect to exportations to Italy and Ethiopia, and I have now issued a new proclamation in order to meet the requirements of the new enactment."

The measure he signed into law extends the neutrality act of 1935 from today until May 1, 1937. It contains authority to embargo arms and ammunition to belligerents, with the addition of a prohibition against loans or credits to such countries. It forbids also either the purchase or sale of any obligations of a government against which an arms embargo has been declared.

In general, the law would not apply in the case of any Latin or South American republic engaged in war with a non-American power.

Ended At Midnight

Had the chief executive not signed the legislation today, the United States would have been without power to embargo munitions shipments, as the earlier law provided this authority only up to midnight tonight.

In his accompanying statement, Mr. Roosevelt spoke of "the high moral duty" he previously had urged

One Of Three Leap Year Day Babies Has Indian Heritage

The heritage of the vanishing American as well as of Leap Year day was the gift to one of Saturday's children.

Quanah Finley Parker, jr., whose father is a second cousin of the late Cynthia Ann Parker, famous in West Texas history, was born at 4:48 o'clock that morning, at West Texas hospital. He weighed 7 pounds 7 1-2 ounces. His parents live at 1907 Tenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gilmore of route 6, Woodrow community, were parents of a daughter born at 2:45 o'clock that afternoon at their home.

A daughter weighing 7 pounds 2 ounces was born at 8 o'clock that night at the hospital to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Snider of route 2, Lubbock. Snider is a farmer.

Cynthia Ann Parker, mother of Chief Quanah Parker, who died in 1912 and for whom the town of Quanah was named, was captured by Indians when a child, later was recaptured by whites, but elected to return to "her people."

Denver, Dallas And Chattanooga Are Scenes Of Arguments Over How To Treat Fowls; Value Of Tests Doubted

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 29. (AP)—Subject to the constant pitfalls of glass house dwellers, Biddie Mathilda was far from secure in her five gallon water bottle today.

Right of the five-weeks-old leghorn pullet to live in the glass jug, where her owner placed her at birth, was upheld yesterday by the district attorney.

But things took a different turn Saturday.

Dr. George A. Glenn of the State Humane society said he might ask a court order for her release. Among other things, he said, Mathilda is "wall-eyed"—because her glass coop takes the health giving rays out of sunbeams.

So Mathilda and her experimenting owner, Henry Willis, had no time to worry about other bottled chickens—Henry of Dallas and a

Work On No. 1 Bennett Halted Saturday When Salt Water Is Picked Up; Await Orders Before Proceeding

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SEAGRAVES, Feb. 29—Salt water, picked up at 5,112 feet and said to be standing 1,500 feet in the hole, has temporarily dashed the hopes of a producer in the No. 1 Bennett of Honolulu-Cascade oil companies in Yoakum county.

This afternoon drillers picked up the water when they had reached the 5,112 foot level, 22 feet below the bottom of the hole that had contained oil for several months.

Work Is Halted

Immediately Driller Bill Adkins stopped work. He telephoned for orders and up to late this evening no word had come as to future plans.

The water may be cased off and the hole plugged up to the 5,090 foot bottom and a try made for a test of oil at that level. There is a possibility that the test may be abandoned.

The hole, closed since last October, was first swabbed Thursday. Eighty barrels was run in the storage tanks in 17 or 18 minutes that afternoon after 1,500 feet of oil had been swabbed out. The oil tested

Changes Planned To Bring Order Out Of Deep Chaos

(By The Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 29.—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas called upon Republicans tonight to make clear to the needy "that the changes we pledge will bring order out of chaos by purging" federal relief "of partisanship, of waste and of incompetence."

In a nationally broadcast address, Gov. Landon said:

Indefensible Thing

"When a national administration takes millions and millions paid in taxes by the American people to build a partisan political machine out of want and misery, that administration does an indefensible thing.

"And a congress that failed to protect its own witnesses, when summoned to testify in regard to the waste of this tax money, would be guilty of deserting one of its gravest responsibilities under the constitution."

The prepared address, on a Founder's day program here, did not specifically mention the case of Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, but it came at a time when congress was debating an inquiry into Hagood's exile after he had criticized federal spending policies in house committee testimony.

"In short," said Landon in his

Childress Man Trapped In Fire Saturday And Burned

CHILDRESS, Feb. 29. (AP)—Frank Lanningham, 24, was burned to death today when his farm home 10 miles northwest of here was destroyed by a fire believed to have resulted from an oil stove explosion.

Lanningham's body, trapped between a bed and a door, could be seen by neighbors, but they were unable to get inside the blazing structure to pull him to safety.

Struck By Automobile, Man Killed At Ennis Saturday

ENNIS, Feb. 29. (AP)—A middle-aged man killed in an automobile accident in Kaufman county today was identified as George W. Carver.

Carver, a white man, was walking with an unidentified negro on highway 34 near the Trinity river bridge when an automobile struck them. The negro escaped with injuries.

The car driver swerved into a ditch in an effort to miss them as they walked along the road.

Farmers Are To Be Called To Gatherings

President Roosevelt Expected To Sign Measure Into Law Monday; Four Meetings Over Nation Planned

Subsidies Will Be Provided To Greater Number Of Individuals But Average Payments To Be Smaller

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. — AAA officials said today they were ready for instant action to launch the new farm relief program when President Roosevelt signs the soil conservation-subsidy measure into law—probably Monday.

Secretary Wallace made a routine official examination of the engrossed printing of the bill this morning.

The first action of the AAA is expected to be a formal announcement calling regional meetings of farmers at Memphis, Chicago, New York City, and Salt Lake City to discuss details of the $500,000,000 program to retire crop land for soil conservation.

The Memphis and Chicago meetings have been scheduled tentatively to begin next Thursday and continue three days, with the others the next week.

Officials said agreement has been reached on many of the major details, but added that the first official disclosure of how the program will operate will be made to farmers themselves at the regional meetings.

Payments To Be Smaller

One conclusion appeared certain—that the new program will provide subsidies for a considerably greater number of individuals that did the AAA, but that the average amount of payments will be somewhat smaller.

It was emphasized by some officials that the program must be general in scope, and that every farmer who wishes to do so may become eligible for the payments, regardless of the commodity produced.

Several privately raised the possibility of organizing voluntary producer cooperative associations to obtain production control if such measures should be deemed necessary.

Farm Own Group

One official explained that cotton farmers, for example, might organize their own association, entirely apart from government connection, in an effort to control the size of the crop. Such action, it was said, would be completely supplementary to the government's soil conservation efforts.

Among the topics to be presented to the farmers at the regional meetings will be the amounts and methods of payment, specific conditions farmers must meet to become eligi-

Bachelors Are As Scarce As Hens' Teeth As Unmarried Girls Get All Jobs In Leap Year Day Observance

(By The Associated Press)

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 29.—Bachelors became as scarce as hens' teeth in this city today as unmarried girls took over all executive jobs for Leap Year day.

The women, and they must be neither married, widowed nor divorced, drew up a list of "public enemies," as they described the city's eligible bachelors. They serve notice that men so posted must either propose to some girl or go to jail and "be fined one silk dress."

The matriarchy extended from the mayoral chair down to the dog catcher. Even the stores and shops were included.

Two men dissented. They contended that as women always held the positions of jail matron and jail cook, these jobs should be taken over by men for the day at least.

Fierce Battle Is Now Reported Raging On Northern African Battle Front

Fascists Hold Historic Town

BY CHARLES H. GUPTILL
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, Feb. 29.—A great battle was raging in the Tembien sector of the northern front today, between the third army corps of the Italian forces and the Ethiopian warriors of Ras Kassa, Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported.

The advancing Fascists encountered this resistance just as their sentries mounted guard over historic Amba Alaji, the point occupied yesterday and which for several months to come may be the high watermark of the Italian invasion.

Badoglio's communique said:

Others In Attack

"While troops of the first army corps reached Amba Alaji, troops of the third army corps and those of the Eritrean army corps attacked from the north and south the forces of Ras Kassa.

"From dawn yesterday, Feb 28 a big battle is raging."

Premier Mussolini saluted students celebrating Italy's latest victory against the forces of Emperor Haile Selassie in East Africa, the capture of historic Amba Alaji.

Concentrating in the Piazza Venezia, the students were rewarded with the appearance of Il Duce, arm outstretched in the Fascist greeting.

Selassie In Action

Reports circulated Emperor Haile Selassie himself was hurrying from Dessye, his field headquarters, northward in an effort to check the Fascist advance which has penetrated some 37 miles since the start of the February 10 advance.

The capture of Amba Alaji by the first army corps in a swift maneuver dislodging the Ethiopians who had retreated to that point from Amba Aradam, coincided with unofficial reports of a major Italian victory in the Tembien mountain sector. Three thousand Ethiopians were reported killed and Ras Seyoum's army routed.

The victories, Italian officials said, virtually completed the task the army set for itself before the start of the rains in a fortnight or so.

Engineers Plan Banquet Affair

Celebrating the decennial year of the Tech Engineering society, three hundred students and their guests are expected to attend an annual banquet to be given Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the dining room of the woman's dormitory.

Senator G. H. Nelson of Tahoka will be guest speaker and Dr. Leroy T. Patton, head of the department of geology at the college, will act as toastmaster.

Four student speakers will appear on the program, which will also feature musical numbers. They are M. J. P. Minter of Sulphur Springs, senior; Elmo Knudson, junior; Leo Corley, sophomore and Hugh Ayers, freshman.

Tickets are selling at $.75 for stags and $1.40 for couples, announced Denzil Probasco, president of the Engineering society.

Plans Of Doctors Blocked; Babies Refuse To Be Born

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Nature today defeated plans of 400 physicians and surgeons at George Washington university.

These scientists had gathered from all parts of the country for an obstetrical demonstration which had to be cancelled at the last minute.

The reason was that the babies the doctors were expecting to be born refused to be born. The physicians waited and finally were told the demonstration would have to be cancelled until a May clinic in Kansas City.

The medical profession had come to watch Drs. Howard F. Kane and George B. Roth of George Washington university medical school demonstrate a new anesthetic which they say allows mothers to sleep restfully through the pains of childbirth.

Gly-Cas Wastes No Time In Conquering His Stubborn Stomach Trouble; Mr. Lane Also Freed Of Dizziness, Nervous Spells—Like New Again

Gly-Cas is helping people all over Lubbock and vicinity who never before had been given any actual relief by any other medicine or treatment. Read what Mr. Jesse Lane, 411 Ave. R., Lubbock, Tex., said recently in lauding the action of this new remedy.

MR. JESSE LANE

"For the past several years my diet was always chosen for me," said Mr. Lane, "I would suffer terribly with gas, bloating and indigestion regardless of what I ate and there were many foods I dared not touch at all for the suffering they would cause would be unbearable. I could not sleep at night. Finally my system accumulated so many poisons rheumatism took hold of my body, my arms and feet would swell so at times it was impossible for me to do my work. I tried many different kinds of medicines but did not seem able to find anything to help me. And when I began to hear so much praise for Gly-Cas I couldn't believe it would be so different from the medicines I had already taken—but a short trial soon proved its remarkable difference."

"For the first time in years I can now sit down to a meal and enjoy it," continued Mr. Lane, "I can eat the foods I dared not touch before and even drink sweet milk without my stomach distress afterwards. My health troubles have been brought to an end by Gly-Cas, I sleep fine the entire night through, nerves quieted, my stomach and kidneys are in fine condition, bowels regulated, pains have been relieved and I am again enjoying the health I had been looking forward to for many years. Gly-Cas is one medicine of outstanding ability."

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Denham of Ozona are in Lubbock spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Denham, 2324 Thirteenth street. Claude Denham is superintendent of schools in Ozona.

Mrs. R. A. Trussell of Meridian, Miss., who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pressley, is to leave this morning for Austin. She will visit her sister there before returning home.

Mrs. W. D. Aycock, 1613 Eighteenth street, visited during the past week in Amarillo at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Selba.

Liquor Inspector Named For Area

AUSTIN, Feb. 29 (AP)—C. A. Paxton, chief inspector for the liquor control board, today appointed five enforcement district supervisors. He previously had appointed supervisors for eight of the 17 districts.

New assignments were: N. B. Hillyard in charge of district 2 with headquarters at Lubbock; Garrett Hawkins, district 3, Wichita Falls; A. R. Cartlidge, district 5, Paris; O. Lee, jr., district 11, San Angelo, and Guy Hale, district 8, Abilene.

Assignments were delayed to posts at El Paso, Port Arthur and Big Spring.

Farm Outline Will Be Made

Series Of Community Meetings, At Which Plans For Long-Time Program Will Be Mapped, Scheduled

A series of community meetings at which plans for a long-time agricultural program for Lubbock county will be mapped was called yesterday afternoon following a meeting of community and county leaders in the district courtroom.

Both men and women attended the meeting. Mrs. E. F. Alford, president of the county home demonstration council, presided in the absence of Henry Mahoney, president of the Lubbock County Agricultural association.

County Agent C. C. Jobson and his assistant, Charles A. King, jr., explained the purpose of the plan. Blanks on which information for an agricultural census is to be listed were distributed and the work explained.

Information to be sought from farmers inculded: 1—what increase or decrease in acreage of crops in case there is no national or state farm program; 2—what increase or decrease in the event of a program.

The president was authorized to name a committee to summarize the reports. Nearly every community in the county was represented. Most of them selected their next regular community meeting as the date for starting their program.

List Is Announced

Dates are as follows:

Tuesday, March 3, Carlisle, Barton, Monroe; Wednesday, March 4, Union, Southwest Ward, Hurlwood; Thursday, March 5, Northeast Ward, Canyon, Liberty; Friday, March 6, Slaton, Slide, Foster, Center.

Monday, March 9, Idalou, Posey, Shallowater, Grovesville; Tuesday, March 10, Acuff, Woodrow, Hardy; Wednesday, March 11, New Hope, Northwest Ward, Southeast Ward.

County Agent Jobson or his assistants plan to attend as many meetings as possible. They are also asking communities not listed, arrange for a meeting as soon as possible.

T. C. Worley Resigns Here As Instructor At College

Resignation of T. C. Worley, mechanical engineering instructor at Texas Technological college, and appointment of several student assistants in that department were announced Saturday by President Bradford Knapp.

Worley, whose resignation is effective today, will take a position in the bureau of standards, Washington, D. C.

Truman Green, Portales, N. M., senior class president, was given increased duties in the mechanical engineering shops as student assistant, Jimmie Gaines of Bronte, Martin True of Lockney, and Robert Houston of Lubbock will begin duties as student assistants.

Occupational Survey Of Graduates Of Lubbock High School Is Being Made

Aided by eighteen carefully selected students, Roy M. Stone, Mrs. Ethel Terrell, Miss Ione Jones and Sam Leifeste, teachers in the commercial department of Senior High school, are making a commercial occupational survey of Lubbock.

Material for the survey will be gathered from sixty heads of representative firms and fifty graduates of Senior High who took work in the local commercial department. Appointments have been made with the business heads, and the eighteen selected students will conduct personal interviews. Letters are being written to the graduates to secure needed information.

Seek To Aid Graduates

The purpose of this survey, which has been approved by Superintendent K. E. Oberholtzer and Principal R. W. Matthews, is to secure data to serve as a basis for general improvement of the commercial education in Senior High, to get teachers into actual contact with business and businessmen of Lubbock, to learn how students have been able to use skills learned in high school, to gain information about employment opportunities in Lubbock for commercial graduates, to secure information upon which to base judgments in present commercial courses, and to meet needs of students in this particular community.

The questionnaire prepared for employers of Lubbock will seek to determine information on positions, number employed in various types of jobs, age of commercial workers; the education and personal qualifications of present commercial workers; commercial equipment, that is the number, kind and makes of machines being used; processes of commercial mathematics most used in every day; general information needed by workers, as use of telephone, operating machines, and retail selling. Twenty of the sixty business men will be interviwed by the four commercial teachers, and the other forty by students.

The questionnaire sent to former graduates will ask about type of position, business subjects of most importance, subjects needed for specific work, and phases of subjects not stressed as much as they should have been, or were developed more than they should have been. Results are to be tabulated to be used in improving the curriculum in commercial subjects.

Students who will aid in the survey include Helenoire Reynolds, Flora May Betts, J. B. Bratchers, Mary Ann Niblack, Helen Zeh, Billy Hilton, Hershel Maxey, G. V. Pardue, Billy Coffman, Helen Robinson, Joe Davidson, John Rountree, Lillian DeShazo, Marion Rogers, Edna Pearl Johnston, Clyrene Kyle, Mary Peek, and Mary Jo Doak.

Children In Sanders School Are Guests At Dupre Assembly

Children in Sanders school were guests of Dupre school Friday morning for their special assembly program on the Development of Texas. The play was arranged and directed by Mrs. Mary Walton.

In the orchestra pit at Senior High a chorus was placed. As various phases in history of Texas were spoken of the chorus sang suitable songs.

Lubbock Voters To Cast Ballots In Several Elections

Final Tabulation On County Voting Strength Is Revealed

At Least Five And Possibly Six Elections Are Coming Up This Year; Big Interest Is Being Shown

Lubbock's approximately 7,694 voters for this year will have at least five and possibly six elections to vote in, making their cost nearly 30 cents per ballot, while the 3,126 voters in the county and the other towns, will probably have to get by the five elections. However, if there is a wet and dry vote, there will be another election and if the city of Lubbock has more than one election, there will be still more for Lubbock voters.

Figures announced Saturday at the tax collector's office by H. B. Bryan, deputy, show 8,571 poll tax receipts issued last year, up to January 31, 1936; 869 exemption certificates issued and 1,533 permanent exemption certificates issued. Mr. Bryan estimates 10 per cent of the 1,533 permanent certificate holders have either died or moved away, leaving 1,380 Lubbock residents eligible to vote. No permanent certificates prior to this year, were issued to residents living outside the city limits of Lubbock.

Commissioner precinct No. 1 still has the largest number of voters in the county, there being approximately 4,261. This included 3,946 in the city of Lubbock, the remainder coming from three full precincts outside the city and partial totals from three other rural precincts that are in other commissioner precincts also.

Slaton's four precincts have 934 voters inside the city limits there. Of these, 885 will vote on poll tax payments and 49 by exemptions.

Idalou, the only other incorporated town in the county, has 359 poll tax receipts and 37 exemptions, a total of 396 voters.

By a coincidence Southwest Ward, Lubbock, voting in the courthouse and the junior high school box, precinct 33, have the same number of voters. There are 1,236 voters in the courthouse box holding receipts, 138 exemptions, a total of 1,374 in all. In the school there are 1,240 voters, 134 exemptions, a similar total.

Dupre school, also in the No. 1 commissioner precinct, has the only other box with over 1,000 voters. There are 1,119 receipts, and 79 exemptions, a total of 1,198 in all.

Noted Trumpet Player Pays Tribute To Famed Humorist

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., Feb. 29. (AP)—Grace Adams East, noted woman trumpet soloist, stood on a rocky craig overlooking the chasm of the Grand Canyon today and played "The Last Roundup" in memory of Will Rogers.

"I was on the program of his last public appearance in Los Angeles," she said.

James H. (Jim) Kimmel Announces As Candidate For Lubbock County Clerk

Pioneer shoe salesman, James H. (Jim) Kimmel of Lubbock yesterday announced he is a candidate for county clerk subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July and August.

Mr. Kimmel sold thousands of pairs of shoes during the quarter century he was engaged in that business before disposing of his interest in a local store in 1933. He has been employed in various Lubbock stores since 1908.

His present campaign is his first for a public office. His business activities, he declared, fully equipped him for operation of the county clerk's office.

Mr. Kimmel is married, the father of two sons, one a student in high school and the other in Texas Technological college.

"I ask the voters of Lubbock county for this important office, promising them the same courteous and efficient service, if I am elected, that I have rendered in all my dealings with the public."

Kansas Official Claims The State Is Losing Gas Taxes

TOPEKA, Feb. 29. (AP)—A. W. Logan, director of the state department of inspection and registration, said today he believed the state "is losing more than $1,000,000 a year in illegal gasoline tax exemptions."

Under the present state law, he said, only gasoline used for driving vehicles on highways is taxed.

"Evasion cannot be properly controlled," Logan said, "there are approximately 80,000 people who hold permits to purchase tax free motor vehicle fuel," Logan said.

The state tax is three cents a gallon.

Playing 'Postoffice' At School Here Has A Different Meaning

Playing "postoffice" has a different meaning for children in the room of Miss Pearl Jackson at K. Carter school than it probably had for their mothers and dads. To these children it means learning to write several different types of letters, being postmasters and postmen, and studying the important part the mail service plays in the world in which they live.

During the study of the post office the children constructed their own post office, anxiously awaited the daily visit of the mail man, and conducted a mail service in their own room as well as sent several letters through the "real" mail service and awaited reply. Alan McLaurin was chief postman during the study.

"We Specialize To Serve You Better"

Today's Ford is an exceptionally Roomy Car

THERE'S a double advantage in having a V-8 engine in your car. It helps to give you fine-car roominess, as well as fine-car performance.

The Ford V-8 engine takes up less space under the hood because of its compact design. And it is positioned forward in the chassis, in accordance with the most modern construction.

More of the car's length can thus be used for passengers—extra inches of leg room are provided in both the front and rear compartments.

Wide seats are another reason for the big-car roominess of the Ford. All seats in all body types (except the individual bucket-type front seats of the Tudor Sedans) hold three persons in comfort. The 1936 Fordor Sedans have 3½ inches more elbow room in the rear seat because the rear-quarter trim is recessed above the arm rests.

We'd like to have you ride in the Ford V-8 for 1936. Actual measurements will confirm your own impression of big-car roominess and comfort.

Arkansas Makes Title Secure With Second Victory; Hard Play Marks Game And Poole Is Held To 2 Points

(By The Associated Press)

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 29.—The University of Arkansas Razorbacks, who cinched the Southwest conference basketball championship last night by beating the University of Texas made it two straight over the Longhorns tonight. The lanky Arkansas players won 43 to 31.

Coach Glen Rose's men barely won from the determined Texans in the titular game last night, 38 to 37.

Tonight's clash was again featured by hard play, with the Longhorns making a determined effort to upset the lanky Razorbacks. The score was tied five times. Don Lockard, scoring frequently on one-handed shots, proved to be the deciding factor in Arkansas' win.

Poole Leaves Game

Ike Poole, Arkansas center and conference scoring leader, was held tightly in check and scored but two points. Capt. Jim Lee Howell likewise was covered. Howell and Poole went out of the game on fouls, finishing their varsity careers on the sidelines.

The game was close during the first half, but after that Forwards Edwin Gilliland and Lockard put the Razorbacks into the lead.

Capt. Collins, scoring 11 points, and Roach, forward, with seven, made a strong effort to pull up to the Razorbacks in the second half but they could not match Lockard and Gilliland, with 17 and 13 points respectively.

The box score:

ARKANSAS	FG	FT	TP
Gilliland, f	6	1	13
Lockard, f	8	1	17

Free throws missed: Gilliland 2, Lockard, Lunday, Poole 2, Martin 2, Howell 2, Robbins 2, Baxter 4, Sparkman, Collins 4, Osborn 2.

Score at half: 16-15, Arkansas.

Officials: Bell and Sisco. Personal fouls: Gilliland, Lockard 3, Lunday 3, Poole 4, Martin 2, Howell 4, Brodie 2, Roach 2, Baxter, Collins 2, Osborne 2, White 2, Sparkman 3, Clifton 2.

Razorbacks Likely Olympic Candidates

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 29. (AP)—Dean J. S. Waterman of the University of Arkansas athletic board said today "Arkansas probably will be allowed to participate in the Olympic basketball tournament."

Coach Glen Rose of the new Southwest conference champions said his tall Razorbacks would compete if the board, which meets Monday to decide the question, would grant permission. Four faculty members and two students comprise the board.

The Razorbacks, who average six feet, four inches in height, annexed their sixth undisputed conference basketball championship last night by defeating the University of Texas Longhorns in a 38-37 thriller.

Arkansas quintets took titles from 1925 through 1930 and last year tied with Rice institute and Southern Methodist university.

Baylor Loses Final Game To East Central

WACO, Feb. 29. (AP)—The East Central Teachers from Ada, Okla., evened up their series with Baylor by winning tonight's basketball game, 30 to 26. Baylor took last night's game.

Two field goals in the closing minutes by Anderson, star guard, and Dickey, enabled the Teachers to win. Anderson scored nine points in all. Dickey had seven and Earl Wray, Baylor center, scored seven.

It was the final game of the season for Baylor.

Houston Host To Davis Cup Games

HOUSTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—The Davis Cup tennis matches between the United States and Mexico will be played on the River Oaks country club courts here April 10-12, it was announced today.

Most of the members of the United States and Mexican teams probably will come here late in March to participate in the annual River Oaks invitation tournament opening March 30.

Daniel Baker Takes Second Place In Texas Cage Race

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 29. (AP)—Daniel Baker college basketball players won their seventh game in the Texas conference tonight by beating St. Edwards, 59 to 25.

The victory put Daniel Baker firmly in second place in the conference. Howard Payne is leading the conference.

Carey Defeats Pampa For Second Time To Capture Regional Cage Tournament

Quintets For State Tourney Decided In Eight Tilts

(By The Associated Press)

Eight crack teams fought their way through regional tournaments Saturday night for the honor of competing next week in the state high school championship tournament at Austin.

Carey, one of the small-town teams making a strong threat to grab the title, eliminated Pampa, 32 to 26, in the region 1 play-off at Canyon.

Denton Out Of It

Dallas Tech, one of the few surviving big-city teams left in the race, demonstrated its strength by whipping Waco, 19 to 10, at Denton in Region 3. It was Waco who ousted Denton, 1935 champion, from the regional tournament yesterday.

Two more athletically-obscure teams, Gober and Cushing, clashed in the finals of Region 4 at Longview, Cushing emerging victorious by a score of 30 to 23.

Jeff Davis of Houston took an easy victory, 35 to 22, from Colmesneil in the Region 5 final match at Huntsville.

In Region 6 at San Marcos, Austin proved much too strong for Del Rio, piling up a 40 to 20 score.

Taft Is Winner

In the Region 7 tournament at Kingsville, Taft trimmed Laferia 37 to 33 in a game that was close and hard-fought all the way.

At Alpine, El Paso High school encountered tough opposition in the final game but finally nosed out Fort Stockton, 29 to 27. Brown won the consolation tilt, turning back Fort Davis 22 to 20.

Cathedral Of El Paso Wins Catholic Title

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 29. (AP)—Cathedral High school of El Paso won the Texas Catholic Interscholastic basketball championship here tonight, defeating St. Henry's Academy of San Antonio, 53 to 38.

With Jim Redford sinking 15 points and George Edgerton registering 19, El Paso had little trouble with its smaller opponents after the half.

Central Catholic of San Antonio defeated St. Joseph's of Victoria, 31 to 24 for third place. Kirwin of Galveston whipped St. Xavier of Denison, 27 to 25 for the consolation championship.

Anton To Sponsor Independent Team Cage Tournament

ANTON, Feb. 29. (Special)—The Anton High school letter men's association will be host to an independent basketball tournament starting Tuesday night, March 3, and ending the night of March 6.

The first twelve boys teams and the first six girls teams will be accepted as entries, the field to be limited to this number.

Eight members of the winning boys team will receive wool sweaters in team color as awards, and members of the runner up team will receive silver basketball trophies. The same type of awards will be given winning teams in the girls division.

The schedule will be arranged so that no team will be required to play every night, however all clubs will play as many as two games before being eliminated.

The games are to start each evening at 6 o'clock, and games will be played in 16-minute halves instead of quarters. Competent officials have been enlisted.

Tech Wrestler Wins Match In Roswell Ring Tournament

ROSWELL, N. M., Feb. 29. (AP)—West Texas State Teachers college mat stars retained their championship belt here today in the annual New Mexico Military institute tournament, when they gained five match victories by falls for a total of 25 points.

The other three schools left in competition each gained only three points, or one time-advantage victory. These were the Institute Texas Tech and New Mexico Aggies.

Results included:

115: Chew, Aggies, defeated Van Winkle, Institute, time.

125: Calloway, Canyon, defeated Hudson Aggies, fall.

145: Watkins, Texas Tech, defeated Murry, Canyon, time.

Tom Beaupre Knocks Out Joe Doctor; Jack Dempsey Didn't

DALLAS, Feb. 29. (AP)—Youthful Tom Beaupre, 193-pound Dallas heavyweight sensation, today held a knockout victory over iron-jawed Joe Doctor of Buffalo, N. Y.—something Jack Dempsey and Young Stribling failed to do in encounters with Doctor a few years back.

Beaupre, fighting perhaps the best bout of his brief career, smacked Doctor to the canvas five times and was never flattened himself.

Beaupre landed the knockout blow in the ninth round of the scheduled ten-round fight.

HANK LEIBER

Holdouts Mean Big Headaches

Crop Of Holder-Outers Bigger Than In Four Years; Major League Magnates Beginning To Bite Their Necks

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—Major league club owners enter the month of March with the biggest holdout headache they have experienced in at least four years.

Where only a handful of athletes remained to be brought to terms at this time a year ago, a recount today revealed approximately 50 unsigned players.

May Cost $100,000

Many of the best known performers still have salary grievances. Aside from the holdout of the Dean brothers, the most serious case to develop this week involves Hank Leiber, slugging outfielder of the New York Giants. Hank's threat to quit if he doesn't win a substantial compromise is not taken seriously by club officials, but it adds a sturdy note to the general overture of dissatisfaction.

Even if the magnates go no more than half way with their recalcitrant hired hands it appears likely to cost them an aggregate of $100,000 extra to get all needed signatures on the dotted line.

Pitchers—Paul and Dizzy Dean the Cardinals, Van Mungo of the Dodgers, Buck Newsom of the Senators and Charley Ruffing of the Yankees.

Catchers—Ernie Lombardi of the Reds and Bill Dickey of the Yankees.

Second basemen—Buddy Myer of the Senators and Minter Hayes, White Sox.

Shortstop—Luke Appling of the White Sox.

Outfielders—Paul Waner of the Pirates, Wally Berger of the Boston Braves, Hank Leiber of the Giants, Babe Herman of the Reds, Ben Chapman of the Yankees and Sam West of the Browns.

Just Like Goldfish!

Olympic Swimmers Have Little Privacy

BERLIN, Feb. 29. (AP)—Submarine rooms at the swimming basin of the Olympic field will enable judges to decide from under the water foul and fair play in the Olympic water ball contests.

A small under water room recently was built in the longside of the pool about 5 feet below the water's surface.

From here the basin can be watched through a window which is two meters long and forty centimeters broad.

Two more rooms of this kind may be built in the future.

Big Ten Slaps Suspension On Badger School

University Of Wisconsin To Be Suspended July 1 Unless Faculty Takes Whole Charge Of Athletic Department

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 29—The Western conference faculty committee today gave the University of Wisconsin a choice between restoring athletic control to its faculty, or suffering suspension from the Big Ten.

Declaring that the "evidence at hand establishes more than a reasonable doubt that the University of Wisconsin now has that degree of faculty control of athletics required by the conference," the committee closed an all-day session by ordering the suspension, effective July 1, unless changes are made at Madison meanwhile.

Regents Fired Coaches

The conference committee, the final word on all questions of Big Ten athletic policies, took a hand in Wisconsin athletic department tangle, just when it appeared that the problem had been solved. The Wisconsin board of regents stepped in to end a long battle between Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell and Head Football Coach Clarence W. Spears by ordering the dismissals of both men.

The regents' action, however, overrode a recommendation by the University athletic board that Meanwell be retained and Spears dismissed. This action was interpreted by the conference committee as a definite violation of a conference rule which reads "only institutions having full and complete control of athletics may retain membership in the conference."

Matty Bell Returns To The Mourners' Bench As Ponies Prepare For Spring Drills

DALLAS, Feb. 29. (AP)—Seven seniors and ten juniors, remnants of last year's Rose Bowl team that lost to Stanford, will be listed in the 45 candidates to report for spring football training Monday at Southern Methodist university.

Sophomores, some of them due to fill big gaps in the Mustang lineup next fall, will complete the roster. Head Coach Matty Bell will have Charlie Trigg, new line coach; Roswell Higginbotham, new varsity baseball and freshman football coach and Harry Shuford, new varsity backfield coach, to aid him in spring training.

Seventeen seniors, including All-America Bobby Wilson, Truman Spain and J. C. (Iron Man) Wetsel, will be missing.

But three varsity veterans, Co-Captains Johnny Sprague, blocking back and Paschal Scottino, great guard, and Bob Finley, halfback, will return.

Squadmen and some fine sophomores, developed last season by Freshman Coach Trigg, will fill out Bell's 1936 team.

"We'll be lucky to win half our games next season," he moaned. "Texas A. and M., Texas Christian and Arkansas appear to have too much strength for the other teams."

John Tarleton Cagers End Season With 60th Straight

ARLINGTON, Feb. 29. (AP) — The John Tarleton college Plowboys defeated the North Texas Agricultural college junior Aggies, 31 to 23, last night to annex their 60th consecutive basketball victory and their second Central Texas conference title in a row.

It was the Plowboys' final game of the season. In their long winning streak, which started nearly three years ago, the Plowboys, a junior college team, defeated several four-year institution teams.

Cardinals Believe Deans Are Serious About Holding Out-Until Cuban Trip Is Over; Otherwise Boys Not Worried

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP)—Those torried blasts the Messrs. Dean have been firing from Dallas and points west are greeted with the thunder of silence here in the training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Nobody, from Skipper Frank Frisch on down to the club house boy give them a tumble. You see, they know the Deans. Instead any Cardinal regular will lay odds both brothers will be in there throwing their high hard ones long before the team opens the season against the Chicago Cubs on April 14.

Fear Seasickness?

When the headlines flared: "Dizzy demands $40,000 or else" or "Daffy to stay down on the farm" it's no longer news here in Bradenton. The ball players don't look up from their pinochle games and the natives keep right on trucking.

If the Cardinals know what they're talking about the real reason the Deans are not in camp is that they want to dodge the trip to Cuba, starting Wednesday.

"Dizzy is afraid he'll be sea sick," said one veteran, "and if Dizzy is afraid of sea sickness, Paul will be too."

REDS ARE BEATEN

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 29. (AP)—The fine pitching of the Cuban moundsman, Dihijo and Don Brennan's wildness gave the Almendares team of Havana 5 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Dihijo blanked the major leaguers until the ninth inning when a close decision by Umpire Bill Klem put a runner on base and an error on Gilly Campbell's infield grounder allowed him to score.

EARNSHAW LIMBERS UP

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP) The Dodgers went through two long, hot workouts today in their second day of training. George Earnshaw, who has been getting into shape for the past week or so, was far ahead of the rest, turning on the steam and sending over a few curves the hitters couldn't even touch.

TERRY IS SATISFIED

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP) Manager Bill Terry of the Giants said he was thoroughly satisfied with the results of the first week's training after he sent his batterymen through a three-hour drill today. The infielders and outfielders are scheduled to report Monday. The "Dannings" and "Mancusos" played another six-inning game with the former winning 5-4 on John Leonardo's triple in the sixth.

CARDS UNDER PRESSURE

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP)—What they do in practice is one thing and what they do in a game another, so Manager Frank Frisch intends to find out.

To give his rookies a chance to perform under a mild kind of fire, he's sending them against his regulars in a six-inning game tomorrow.

BROWNS START GATHERING

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP) — With the first workout scheduled for Monday, members of the St. Louis Browns were converging today on the team's spring training camp here.

RUDY MAKES "HIT"

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP)—Rudy York, who made a name for himself in the Texas League last year, was the center of interest today in the Detroit Tigers' training camp as he was lining pitched balls off the left field fence.

Manager Mickey Cochrane and Al Simmons looked on with admiration. York picked up a bat five minutes after he had donned a Bengal uniform.

"I never saw a fellow who could pick up a bat for the first time and crack a ball like that," commented Simmons.

Skeet Shoot Is Scheduled Today

Hoping for a break in the weather, the Lubbock Skeet and Gun Club announces its regular Sunday skeet and trap shoot will begin this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Both the spring inaugural meet two weeks ago and last Sunday's meet were handicapped because of unfavorable weather, although twenty shooters turned out for the first day's shoot.

Sportsmen of surrounding towns are invited to join members of the local club in today's events. Skeet or straight-away trap shooting will be available to all entries.

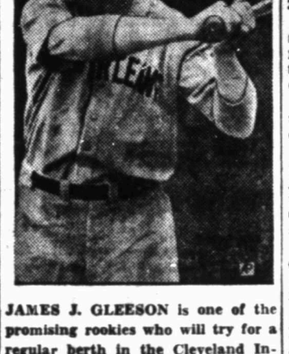

Marshall And Kilgore To Be Admitted To East Texas Loop

LONGVIEW, Feb. 29. (AP) — Marshall and Kilgore will be taken into the East Texas baseball league at a meeting called here for tomorrow by J. Walter Morris, league president. The addition of Marshall and Kilgore will make it an eight-team circuit.

It was reported that Oklahoma City of the Texas League will sponsor the Kilgore club. An independent organization will back Marshall.

Harry Faulkner, business manager of the Longview Cannibals, announced that Chester Klaerner, pitcher for Tyler last year, had been obtained by Longview. He is a brother of Hugo Klaerner, another hurler.

In the Rookie Ranks

JAMES J. GLEESON is one of the promising rookies who will try for a regular berth in the Cleveland Indians' outfield. In 1935, with New Orleans, he led the Southern Association in runs batted in—104. This 24-year-old 196-pounder is a turn-around batsman.

JAMES HENRY, who hails from Danville, Va., goes up to Tom Yawkey's Boston Red Sox from Memphis, where he had a record of 20 victories and 14 defeats on the mound last season. A right-hander, he is 6-feet-2 and scales 175.

CLARENCE (RED) PHILLIPS, a native of Oklahoma, gets his major league hurling chance with the world champion Detroit Tigers. Pitching for Beaumont in the Texas League last year, he won 20 games, lost 11 and had an earned run average of 2.79.

CHESTER LAABS, infielder and outfielder, will be given the once-over by Manager Mickey Cochrane of Detroit in spring training. With Fort Wayne, Laabs led the Three-I League last season—his first as a pro — with a .384 batting average and he was the circuit's home run king.

Aggies Take 28-27 Victory As Frog Fails To Make Gratis Shot In Last Three Seconds Of Close Contest

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 29.—The Texas Aggies climbed out of the Southwest conference cellar tonight by defeating Texas Christian 28 to 27.

With but three seconds to play, the Aggies called time out for the fourth time, giving the Texas Christians a free throw. Will Walls missed the shot.

The Aggies had a five-point lead until two minutes before the end of the game.

The game started slowly, both teams missing many shots. The Aggies took the lead and held it until almost the half when Cliff Cowan's goal put the Horned Frogs ahead, 12 to 10.

Early in the second half, Texas Christian built up a five-point advantage but was unable to hold it.

Mustangs Upset Owls With 43-34 Victory

HOUSTON, Feb. 29. (AP)—Southern Methodist's Mustangs, who evidently can't win a basketball game unless they are doped to lose, upset the Rice Owls tonight before a scant crowd. The final score was 43-34.

Perhaps disheartened because their mathematical chance for the flag vanished when Arkansas whipped Texas Friday night, the Owls, save only for Willis Orr, failed to play any basketball in the first half, and missed too many shots after the intermission to overcome an eleven point lead.

The defeat left the Owls tied for second place with the Texas University Longhorns. Each team has one game remaining, the Owls finishing their schedule against T. C. U. here Monday night.

Slaton Team Cops Levelland Joust

LEVELLAND, Feb. 29. (Special)—The Slaton Oilers, paced by Jim Neely, won the independent team basketball tournament championship here tonight with a 32 to 29 victory over the Texas-Oklahoma All-Stars from Altus, Okla. Neely, former Hardin-Simmons star, scored 9 points to lead the Oilers to victory, but he was outscored by Reisinger, guard on the Altus team, who made 12 points.

In a play-off for third and fourth places, the Levelland Independents defeated Dick's Aces, a team representing Levelland High school, 57 to 21. Bates of the Independents made 19 points and Smith made 17.

An all tournament team selected at the end of the tournament consisted of Neely and Miller of the Slaton Cotton Oil team, Curb and Reisinger of the Altus club and Smith of Levelland. Wilson Gilmore, former Tech star playing with the Slaton team, was given honorable mention for his guarding and passing. The winners will enter the Anton tournament beginning Tuesday.

Moody Club Wins Women's Texas Amateur Cage Title

AUSTIN, Feb. 29. (AP)—The Moody Club of Galveston defeated the Stewart Independents of Fort Worth, 32 to 19, here tonight for the woman's basketball championship of the Texas Amateur Athletic federation.

Time Supply Finishes Out Of Money, Discovery Fails To Start In Closing Event At Santa Anita Track

(By The Associated Press)

SANTA ANITA PARK, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 29—Whopper, sporting the navy blue and white silks of Hal Price Headley, won the $10,000 added San Juan Capistrano handicap today, grand climax of Santa Anita's prosperous racing season.

Neil McCarthy's rejuvenated Tick On, with Jockey Danny Brammer up, ran a close second, and Ariel Cross, H. C. Hatch's 4-year-old gelding, pulled a surprise to finish third.

A crowd of 50.000 or better saw Mrs. Frank Carreaud's great Time Supply, runner up in the $100.000 big race a week ago, and a short priced favorite today, finished fifth behind Mrs. Payne Whitney's First Minstrel.

Whopper, one of the biggest horses on the turf since the days of the late ill fated Phar Lap, ran the mile and one furlong in 1:50 flat, three-fifths of a second over the track record.

$24,802,202 Is Wagered

Whopper paid $9.40 to win, $4.60 to place, and $3.80 to show. Tick On paid $16.40 and $6.60 and Ariel Cross $8.

Azucar, second to Time Supply in the betting, ran ninth and threw his rider, Georgia Woolf after the horses dashed under the wire. Woolf apparently was not hurt.

A total of $244,026 was wagered on the feature race, bringing to $24,802,202 the total for the season.

Mantagna Sets New Record At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 29. (AP)—Mantagna, racing in the white and red silks of William H. Furst, left eight high class rivals behind today as he accounted for the inaugural running of the Widener challenge cup handicap in track record smashing time at Hialeah Park.

Under little Eddie Litzenberger's perfect ride, Mantagna carried 109 pounds over the one and one-quarter miles in 2:01 4-5 to clip two-fifths of a second off the course record established by Mrs. Walter O'Hara's Howard last year. At the finish he held a head margin over Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart's Chance Ray with E. F. Seagram's Sablin, coupled with Stand Pat as the even-money favorite, another one and one-half lengths to the rear in third place.

Mantagna's brilliant victory was not a great surprise. The four-year old son of Sweep had been closing ground impressively in shorter events and had won a handicap earlier in the season. As the result a $2 win mutuel was worth $1.40 while the gelding's owner received $10,150. Next year the value of the purse will be increased to $50.00.

Epsom Downs Meeting Off To Fast Start

HOUSTON, Feb. 29 (AP)—Salaam, five year old gelding owned by C. E. Davison, upset a small but select field of distance handicap horses today to win the San Jacinto handicap, $1,500 added feature of the opening day card at Epsom Downs.

Well paced by Jockey H. Dudley, the gelding permitted Reaping and Money Getter to race themselves out in the early part of the mile and a sixteenth run, and then swept around the field to win going away.

Whippercracker was second and Black Peter third. The Favorite, Our Count, was fourth by a nose.

Two Hundred Athletes Are Entered In Frontier Track And Field Meet At Laredo

LAREDO, Feb. 29. (AP) — Eleven universities and colleges and 20 high schools, athletic clubs and military organizations from Texas and Northern Mexico will compete here Monday in the fourth annual International Frontier Track and Field Olympics.

More than 200 participants have entered.

The University of Texas already has two legs on the frontier championship and Donna High school of the lower Rio Grande valley is far ahead in points scored in the high school division during the last three meets.

Colleges entered in the senior division include, the University of Texas, East Texas State Teachers college, University of Nuevo Leon, Howard Payne university, Southwest Texas State Teachers college, Rice institute, University of Texas, Texas Christian university, North Texas State Teachers college, St. Edward's university and Abilene Christian college.

Entrants in the high school division include Monterrey, Stockdale, Thomas Edison, Alamo Heights, Sidney Lanier, Brackenridge and Thomas Jefferson schools of San Antonio, Rio Hondo, Brownsville, Sinton, Weslaco, Kenedy, Donna, Villadama, Nuevo Leon, Laredo and Ursuline convent.

An innovation in musical instruments displayed at Germany's Leipzig Fair was an upright piano which may be converted into either a sideboard or a desk by merely changing the position of the cover and the center panel.

Baseball Starts In Southwest On 6 College Fields

(By The Associated Press)

Revival of Southwest conference baseball starts Monday on six practice fields—only the University of Arkansas, content with a basketball title, remaining out of the 1936 race.

Southern Methodist and Rice institute, out of the baseball wars since 1933, return to the fold for the chase already conceded to "Uncle Billy" Disch and his University of Texas squad by most of the conference mentors.

"Uncle Billy" has piloted his Longhorns to 20 championships in the last 25 years and will have nine lettermen this season, including Norman Branch of Montgomery, captain and pitcher, and Dick Midkiff of Gonzales and Henry Ramsey of Austin, as the nucleus of a fine hurling corps.

Sophs At Aggieland

The Texas Aggies, who, under the tutelage of Roswell Higginbotham, now at Southern Methodist, captured two championships in the last five years, will depend on sophomore talent. Coach Siki Sikes has seven lettermen but a few of them were 1935 reserves. "Doc" Pitner and Homer Martinez are two lettermen pitchers returning. Herb Knowles, a junior college transfer from Beaumont, is a likely mound prospect.

Higginbotham, at Southern Methodist, will attempt to bring back to life a sport that boasts only one letterman—Red Goodman, an infielder of the 1933 team. "Where there are athletes there are ball players," said "Little Hig."

Baugh To Pitch

One of the greatest "throwers" in any sport, Sammie Baugh, the forward pass expert of the Texas Christian university football team, will try his hand at chunking baseballs for the Frogs. If he can throw curves like he does a football and basketball, he'll be valuable. Five other lettermen will be out for the team, including All-America Darrell Lester, the football center who also pitches. Baugh lettered last year as a third baseman.

Coach Cecil Grigg at Rice institute will have an unknown quantity. He will have "six or eight boys who say they have played baseball." Mike Seale, football and basketball star from San Antonio, hurled good ball in high school days. "Big Jaw" McCauley, the football star, will seek an outfield berth. He reputedly is a heavy hitter. Two other mound prospects are Sam Mays, football captain last year, and Harris Lodge, court star.

Baylor has been named as a threat but just what Coach Morley Jennings has will not be known until practice starts Monday. The Bruins turned out a good club last season.

Defeated Greenville Candidate Institutes Contest Proceedings

GREENVILLE, Feb. 29. (AP)—A. S. Moore, incumbent, who trailed former City Commissioner F. N. Sockwell nineteen votes in last Saturday's Democratic run-off primary for mayor, instituted contest proceedings today, claiming illegal votes had been cast.

Joe D. Williams, chairman of the city Democratic executive committee, said he would confer with other committeemen late today and set a hearing date.

Moore alleged 200 illegal votes were polled by persons who either lacked poll tax receipts or had failed to secure exemptions.

Dawson Meets Bush In Final

New Orleans Golfer Advances To Title Round In Carnival Tourney With Chicagoan; To Decide It Today

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 29. (AP)—George Bush, a youthful New Orleans golfer who has been knocking at the championship door for some time, will get another title opportunity tomorrow when he engages Johnny Dawson of Chicago in a 36-hole match for the fifth annual Carnival championship over the New Orleans Country club course.

Dawson, the defending champion, won his way into the finals with an easy morning victory over Al Reuning, New Orleans, 7 and 5, then unraveled some of his best shots to turn back Freddie Haas, Louisiana State university star, in a semi-final tilt this afternoon, one up.

Bush disposed of Leonard Vann, jr., New Orleans in the third round, 3 and 2, then trimmed Raymond Salmen, also of New Orleans, 2 up to gain the final round.

Haas, seeking a chance for the victory which would have given him a clean sweep of Louisiana golf for the past 12 months, was steadier than his dapper rival, but he missed shot putts that counted heavily. Dawson, in trouble on more than one occasion, came out with brilliant recoveries to maintain the lead he took with a birdie three at the 38-yard sixth hole.

Plainview Wins District Three Cage Title With 41-28 Win At Shallowater

SHALLOWATER, Feb. 29. (Sp'cl.) Plainview High school's undefeated girls basketball team won the District 3 interscholastic tournament here tonight with a final 41 to 28 victory over the Shallowater club.

Abernathy defeated McAdoo, 15 to 13, for consolation honors, and Meadow won from Muleshoe, 29 to 22, for third place.

The first all tournament team: Todd of Shallowater, Walker of Plainview and J. Deckard of Meadow, forwards; M. Deckard of Meadow, Sterling of Muleshoe and Williams of Abernathy, guards. The second team: Embry of Abernathy, Willman of Muleshoe and Harryman of Ropesville, forwards; Akins of Shallowater, Bumpass of Shallowater and Keys of Wilson, guards.

Ward of Meadow received a prize for being the "best sport" of the tournament; Willman of Muleshoe scored 30 points in one game for a prize, and Reddell of Plainview made 76 points during the tournament to lead that department and gain a trophy.

Sailor Moran In Main Event

Newcomer From Salt Lake City Who Taught Detton To Make Debut At Auditorium This Week; Estes Returns

Promoter Sled Allen has lined up half a dozen "main eventers" for his Wednesday night wrestling show at the Auditorium, and the card serves as introduction for a newcomer who is hailed as one of the real comers of middleweight and light heavyweight wrestling.

Nick Bosinis, the garrulous Greek from Elmira, works on the main event again, but he has nothing in the way of a cinch this week. Sailor Moran, the one and only, is his opponent in the two-out-of-three falls principal. Moran returned to the circuit last week and looked fresh as ever against a newcomer, one Balk Estes, but the newcomer, a he-man in his own might, kept it to a draw.

Estes Returns

Estes, who made a big hit last week, is to fight Dale Haddock in the curtain raiser, and they're better than preliminary fighters, much better.

The stranger this week is Hy Sharman, from Salt Lake City, one of the guys who taught Dory Detton how to wrestle. Some say Sharman is better than Detton. The newcomer makes his debut against Luis de la Torre, the handsome Spaniard who has been missed for the last two weeks.

Justice Department Officials Report Decrease Of Serious Crimes In U. S.

Past 3 Years Show Decline

Murders, Assault, Auto Thefts And Robberies Decreased In Report From 74 Big-City Police Departments

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—The justice department reported today a "decrease of serious crimes during the past three years."

Murders, assault auto thefts and robberies all declined, according to statistics compiled by the bureau of investigation from reports of 74 big-city police departments.

Auto thefts dropped from 78,727 in 1933 to 62,406 in 1935.

Robberies Decline

A "heartening" decrease in robberies was reported from 20,025 in 1933 to 14,248 in 1935.

Murders decreased from 1,778 in 1933 to 1,455 in 1935. Aggravated assault dropped from 12,104 to 10,765, while burglaries declined from 87,846 to 76,001.

"Larcenies still predominate," the report said, but show a small decline, from 181,325 in 1933 to 178,703 in 1935.

Jap Premier

knew he had escaped.

A group of men sworn to "remove corrupt influences from around the throne" went to his home just before dawn Wednesday and called him out into the snow-covered garden. A man appeared in answer to the summons, and they killed him with revolvers.

The war office at that time announced that the victim was Okada, but today it disclosed that the man who lost his life was Okada's brother-in-law and secretary, Col. Denzo Matsuo.

The authorities' secrecy as to the actual victim apparently misled even the assassins, for, prior to the official announcement, there was not even a rumor that Okada still lived.

Physicians testified to his death, a coroner's inquest returned a verdict of his death, "his body" was buried with impressive funeral services. But the body which was buried was that of Colonel Matsuo. With chacteristic Japanese meticulousness, the war office last night officially cancelled its announcement of Odaka's passing.

Rebels Capitulate

In the meantime, thinking that they had succeeded in their effort to "liquidate" the head of a government they believed inimical to the interests of the empire, the rebels capitulated to an imperial order that they stack their arms and quit the buildings in which they had barricaded themselves.

A government communique announced that the rebellion was ended yesterday afternoon with the complete disarming of enlisted men among the rebel group and the arrest of at least 15 officers.

The government claimed the troops surrendered without the firing of a shot and that there had been no bloodshed since Wednesday.

The resistance of the enlisted men collapsed when two airplanes, flying over their strongholds, dropped notices issued in the name of Emperor Hirohito, whom they worship as a God. The notice said:

"By imperial command, you have been ordered to return to your barracks. If you disobey this order, you must be regarded as traitors. You may consider what you have been doing is right, but if you come to see the error of your ways, there is no use in continuing resistance. It is not too late to cease your resistance even now.

"If you return now, your offenses will be forgiven. Your fathers, brothers, and the whole nation are praying for you to return immediately to your own barracks."

the treasury and then come to a final decision.

This process was scheduled to begin next week after the receipt of President Roosevelt's message — scheduled for delivery Tuesday — calling for an increased permanent annual yield of $620,000,000, plus $500,000,000 to replace revenue lost through the invalidation of the processing tax. This half billion would be spread over one to three years.

Mr. Roosevelt stuck to his study at the White House today to prepare his message.

The undistributed corporate income tax would be aimed at profits which the corporations shunt into reserves instead if distributing as dividends which become taxable through the income tax of individuals receiving them. In some cases these profits have been distributed ultimately in the form of new stock, also untaxable.

Meddling Is Charged

Schwarzkopf's allegations of meddling were contained in this paragraph in his fourth report to Hoffman in the case:

"It has come to our attention that persons representing themselves as your agents or representatives are approaching members of the state police with promises and threats. I feel it is my duty to bring this to your attention."

To which the governor replied: ". . . Your letter reveals that you have learned of an incident that occurred a month ago when your 'fingerprint expert,' Frank Kelly, was contacted by a representative of mine. This was done at my direction—although I have no knowledge of 'threats or promises'—for the purpose of securing certain information that I believed to be important and involving an activity of which I am quite sure Kelly has not advised you."

It was indicated that eventually a survey may have to be made for every farm in the United States.

The greatest activity in shifting lands from commercial to soil conservation crops this year is expected in the cotton belt. There, an official said, the AAA may seek diversion of a minimum of fifteen million acres normally devoted to cotton.

Cotton was described by one official as the only major crop where there is a dangerous surplus this year, and success of the new program in the south was expected to have an important bearing upon the future permanent state-federal cooperative conservation program.

upon Americans to restrict exports of essential war materials to belligerents to normal peace-time levels. Saying it was true that this has "not been the subject of legislation," he added:

"Nevertheless, it is clear to me that greatly to exceed that basis, with the result of earning profits not possible during peace, and especially with the result of giving actual assistance to the carrying on of war, would serve to magnify the very evil of war which we seek to prevent.

"This being my view, I renew the appeal made last October to the American people that they so conduct their trade with belligerent nations that it cannot be said that they are seizing new opportunities for profit or that by changing their peace time trade they give aid to the continuation of war."

Brigham Young Tonight Will Initiate 24-Hour Cab Line

With avowed intention of making Lubbock "cab-minded," Brigham Young, former grid star of Texas Technological college and graduate student of the college now, tonight will open Hub Cab company at Thirteenth street and Avenue J, next the Myrick building.

Within a few days he will open a Master Auto clinic there, and storage and parking facilities. "All services necessary to automobiles will be available," he said. "The cab service, which will be on a 24-hour basis, will be conducted in connection."

Several present and former Tech gridders will be employed, Young said.

Scout Council Forging Ahead

Eight Troops, Numerous Cubs, Scouts, Scouters And Other Members Of Organization Are Registered In February

That scouting interest in the South Plains council decidedly is on increase may be ascertained by figures.

Within the past month the following has been accomplished:

Eight new troops in seven towns have been registered, 143 scouts, 72 scouters, 12 cubs and five cubbers.

Leadership training courses have been instituted in six towns, Ralls, Spur, Slaton, Littlefield, Brownfield, and Lubbock, with combined enrollment of 109, and new courses will begin this month at Lorenzo, Sudan and Tahoka.

Parent cub training courses are being conducted in Lubbock, one for parents of pack 1 at Junior High and one for parents of a new pack at Dupre school.

Perfect Organization

An Eagle Scout club is perfecting organization here and will enroll from 35 to 50 members, said Earl M. McClure, council executive.

Plans for initiating a scouters university to be held at Texas Technological college April 13-17 and offer 10 courses for training in scout leadership are underway. Attendance of possibly 300 from throughout the council is looked to.

An Easter egg hunt for all scouts and cubs of the council will be staged here Easter Sunday, said McClure, and plans for a water carnival in the summer are taking form.

New troops registered, together with sponsors and towns, follow: 3, First Baptist church, Lubbock; 11, Junior High school, Lubbock; 28, First Baptist church, Slaton; 31, community, Idalou; 35, Rotary club, Spur; 38, community, Circleback; 39, community, Sudan, and 44, Lions club, Brownfield.

Traffic Problems

completed by eight students at Texas Technological college, who, under supervision of J. W. Jackson, assistant professor of government and an authority on municipal government, began an investigation last October as a project of the National Youth administration. The project had been started before the commission instructed Mayor Ross Edwards to appoint a group to study the traffic situation.

Work of the students was made to synchronize with the committee when it was organized, Professor Jackson said.

Members Of Committee

Headed by Durwood H. Bradley, the committee has Mrs. H. F. Godeke, W. A. Jackson, Rev. R. M. Hocker, L. E. (Jack) Davis, regular members; and H. L. (Bud) Johnston, chief of police, and Chas. A. Guy, ex-officio members.

Students working on the survey observed 20,772 pedestrians to discover that an average of 54.87 per cent of those who cross at 11 downtown intersections protected by signal equipment take heed of the green light. The rest take their safety in their own hands.

Answers returned by 400 persons who were handed a questionnaire generally reflected a decided overestimation of their ability to bring their cars to a stop from a speed of 20 miles per hour.

Two played wise and made no estimate, 18 were accurate. The rest, 380, were off a good many feet from the average length as confirmed by authorities, 35 feet.

Restrictions Needed

In answering three other questions of 27 asked, the 400 almost unanimously affirmatively declared that additional restrictions should be added to the procedure in obtaining drivers licenses.

Jackson said that those who distributed the questionnaires were instructed to select carefully the persons who were called upon to give information. No names were taken.

If anybody should be interested in knowing where all the vehicles come from, and where they go, one survey of the flow of traffic indicates this answer: 800 to 900 of them pass on Broadway and Main, between Avenues H and M, each hour, leaving those main thoroughfares at the rate of 250 per hour at Avenue Q, and at a slightly less rate on Avenues T and U and College avenue.

Busiest intersections in the city are Broadway and Avenue J, 1715, Broadway and Avenue M, 1542, and Broadway and Texas, 1504, the figures indicating the number of vehicles which pass hourly. Seventeen intersections are traversed by more than 1,000 vehicles an hour, although only 11 are protected with traffic signal equipment.

Aside from actual observance of traffic, another survey was made to locate street name plates throughout the city. Only 174 of approximately 900 intersections are marked. Ten per cent of these were declared by Jackson to be illegible because of rust and deterioration.

NEWS BRIEFS

Formulation of a constitution and by-laws for a recently organized Eagle Scout club will be the purpose of an Eagle Scout committee meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Boy Scout office in City hall. W. H. (Ike) Crenshaw is committee chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Cantrell, of 1502 Ninth street, are parents of an 8 pound 8-ounce boy born Friday night at 11:35 o'clock at Clark-Key clinic.

Bond of $100 and trial Wednesday for B. B. Pendley of Lubbock, charged with hauling livestock on a state road without having common carrier license, were set Saturday by J. T. Trigg, justice of the peace. Trigg said Pendley was hauling nine mules from Tahoka to Lubbock. Pendley maintained the animals belonged to him.

Olan Baskin and L. H. Redwine posted bail of $500 Saturday after arraignment before County Judge E. L. Pitts on joint charge of violation of liquor laws. Cap Moore, deputy, signed the complaint, alleging the men sold and delivered to a Lubbock man two pints of "spiritous liquor . . . not sold upon . . . prescription." Madison S. Rayburn, who drew the complaint, said he believed it was the first of its kind ever filed here. The man who assertedly bought the liquor pleaded guilty of drunkenness and paid fine in the court of J. J. Dillard, justice of the peace.

Two complaints of swindling by worthless $10 check were filed in the office of the county clerk Saturday against a man who had not been arrested. T. A. Gilliland was complainant, and charges were drawn by Madison S. Rayburn, assistant county attorney.

Plans for construction of a two-story, seven-room brick veneer residence for Mr and Mrs. Sam Rosenthal, on Nineteenth street, had been completed Saturday, said S. B. Haynes, Lubbock architect. Rosenthal, proprietor of Hub clothiers, will landscape the grounds.

J. E. Boog-Scott, San Angelo, formerly with the U. S. biological survey as state assistant, was here Friday. He is in charge of the San Angelo district. While here he said there was considerable activity in the San Angelo territory.

Miss Sophia Eklund, junior stud-ent of home economics in Texas Technological college, has recently been appointed rural home supervisor of Garza, Kent, and Scurry counties. Her home is near Slaton.

The auxiliary of St. Joseph's Catholic church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. A. Beggy, 1411 Ninth street, at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Frank L. Moore, Floydada, broth-er of Louie F. Moore, deputy county clerk, here yesterday to visit his brother, said their mother, Mrs. Josie Moore, who suffered a stroke of paralysis early last week, was not showing much improvement. She is a pioneer resident of Floyd county.

Crosbyton is enjoying a good bus-iness, with wheat prospects better than for several years, County Judge G. S. Bond of Crosby county, said here yesterday. Little damage has been done to the wheat by wind this spring so far, he said.

Gilbert Smith, Fort Worth, who spent several days here last week on business, left yesterday for Amarillo. He will be there several days before returning home.

Beginning Monday at Brownfield, L. B. Barkley, deputy U. S. internal revenue collector, will work this week in nearby towns, returning to Lubbock Saturday night. The week of March 9-16 he will be here. Schedule is: Monday, Brownfield; Tuesday, Tahoka; Wednesday, Post; Thursday, Littlefield; Friday and Saturday, Plainview.

Police said a proprietor of a small stand in 1600-block Avenue H Saturday complained he had been "short-changed" by two men. Police assisted him in a search, but none answering his description was found.

Because of illness of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Vivrett, Pat Henry, jr., ordained minister, will speak at both services today of Church of Christ. Mr. Vivrett Friday returned from an annual Texas Ministers institute conducted at TCU, Fort Worth, by the Christian church. He was there from Monday until Friday noon.

The mercury slid over a wide range Saturday, when a sub-freezing low of 28 degrees was established at 8 o'clock that morning and a high of 72 at from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The reading at 10 o'clock that night was 48 degrees, said main line station of West Texas Gas company.

Miss Bobby Rivers, first year lib-eral arts student of Texas Technological college, Saturday was being treated at West Texas hospital for a streptoccio throat. She is a daughter of R. L. Rivers of Roxton.

Attorneys Are Ready In Case

Trial Of Gas Bonds Election Suit Will Be Started Here Monday Morning; Amendment Is Filed Saturday

Attorneys on opposing sides of the suit in contest of the Oct. 3rd gas bonds election announced Saturday that they were ready to begin litigation of the case tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in 99th district courtroom.

The date had been set last Jan. 17 at a hearing before Judge Clark M. Mullican to determine right of plaintiffs, eight Lubbock citizens, to bring the suit as questioned in a petition and plea in abatement filed by the defense.

Amendment Filed

An amendment to the petition of defendants, Mayor Ross Edwards and members of City commission, was filed yesterday by J. E. Vickers and W. W. Campbell, attorneys for the city.

The amendment added 42 names to a prior list of 4 who allegedly voted illegally Oct. 3. A list of approximately 230 names of persons allegedly voting illegally is included in the petition of the plaintiffs.

Attorney Vickers, as instructed by City commission Friday after he had advised the procedure, said Saturday that application for a jury would be presented to the court Monday morning.

Should trial by a jury be agreed upon, two courses of action could be taken. The case might be continued until services of a regularly impaneled jury could be obtained, or a "pick-up" jury could be impaneled on consent of parties to the suit.

Henry will be out of his bottle Sunday unless there are intervening developments. Protests of the humane society assured the seven-weeks-old rooster of his freedom. Anyway, Owner J. W. E. Drew said his experiment has been completed.

Henry's Drew and Mathilda's Willis put the chicks in the bottles to experiment with poultry diets. They could think of no other way to contro! their eating to the prescribed ration.

Poultry experts at Cornell university and Iowa State college said the chickens would suffer no ill effects from their confinement.

But on the other hand, they said, the experiments are worthless.

Letters Citing City Ordinance On Cleaning Units Mailed Out

Letters explaining a city ordinance regulating operating of cleaning plants have been mailed to owners of local plants by City Fire Marshal D. A. Forbess.

The ordinance specifies requirements in venting rooms in which petroleum or coal tar products are used in cleaning garments.

Fire Marshal Forbess warned that complaints would be filed against operators whose establishments did not meet the requirements.

He also warned against burning of trash in the residential section. Several fire alarms have resulted when flames in trash have spread to fences or to stacks of feed.

Boast Trips Man Badly Wanted By Local Officers

Maurey Niems, 27, wanted here to face an indictment charging swindling of more than $50, is held in Phoenix, Ariz., city and county officers were informed yesterday.

A New York report to Sam W. Fort, police identifications officer, said Niems had been arrested in Salt Lake City after he had attempted to cash a worthless check at the office of a department of justice investigator.

Local officers wired Salt Lake City authorities, who said Niems had been transferred to Phoenix. Deputy Sheriff Parum Posey said he had wired Phoenix officers that he held a warrant for Niems.

Quick Reply Given

Information received by Fort from New York said Neims had told the department of justice investigator at Salt Lake City that he was a friend of an investigator in El Paso. A teletype report to El Paso drew a quick reply to arrest Niems for Nevada officers.

Niems was reported as saying he was glad he had been arrested.

The compliant drawn here charged him with passing a worthless check to Hilton hotel.

An Associated Press dispatch Saturday night from Phoenix said Niems had waived preliminary hearing and was held in jail in default of $750 bond. Arraignment will be Monday.

"Brownie" Hamilton Injured In Fall Saturday Morning

Falling approximately 18 feet from the superstructure of a building being constructed as a WPA project in 1000-block Texas avenue, C. H. (Brownie) Hamilton, 31, manager for Lydick Roofing company here, Saturday morning suffered simple fractures of the left wrist and right leg and a laceration over the right eye.

Hamilton was taken by Rix ambulance to West Texas hospital for treatment. His condition that night seemed "good."

He was inspecting the building when a board broke and caused his fall. His right leg had been injured in 1934 when he was in an automobile collision while making a goodwill trip with a group of Lubbock business men.

Hamilton lives at 1913 Twenty-third street.

INTRUDERS ARE ROUGH

Paul Stewart, 16, looked out a window of the W. N. Howard home at 1811 Avenue F and saw a trespasser. The Howards had been disturbed before by intruders, so Stewart rushed out to apprehend them. Instead, he was struck heavily by one of them. He told police a man and a woman were outside the window. Both escaped police. Stewart, who lives at 1720 Avenue E, said the offense happened at approximately 10 o'clock.

Institute To Be Held Here

Several Hundred Persons Are Expected To Be Attracted To City For Meetings Set Wednesday And Thursday

Several hundred merchants, salesmen and employes of firms in the South Plains area are expected to be attracted here for Wednesday and Thursday night sessions of a Merchants Institute, sponsored by the Lubbock Retail Merchants association and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Invitation letters have been forwarded to Lubbock merchants, and merchant associations and chambers of commerce throughout the area, B. Sherrod, president of the Lubbock association, said.

Stanley To Speak

Addresses by Henry W. Stanley, of Dallas, nationally known authority on economics, salesmanship and business administration, will be a feature of each of the sessions, to begin at 7:30 o'clock each night at Hilton hotel ballroom.

The program Wednesday night includes talks on "The Merchandising Outlook for 1936" and "The Retail Sale." Stanley will speak Thursday night on "Turnover—The Pulse of Profit" and "Advertising in the Lubbock Retail Market."

The institute is to merchants and business men what short courses in agriculture have meant to farmers, Stanley said in a communication received by the retail association here Saturday.

Touch High Spots

"We cannot hope to cover completely any subject in the short time allotted to us in Lubbock. But we will have time to touch some of the high spots and the more important phases of modern merchandising," Stanley said.

Both sessions of the institute will be conducted without charge, since expenses are borne by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, Sherrod said.

"Rare is our opportunity to hear a man so forceful and authoritative as Stanley, and the area merchants should take full advantage of this institute," Sherrod declared in urging attendance at the meetings.

BEAUTY COURSE

BEAUTY CULTURE IS A BEAUTIFUL PROFESSION

Two New Classes Starting Each Month

Each pupil receives personal attention and is thoroughly trained under capable licensed instructors and awarded a Diploma.

Our graduates are always in demand. Up to present time we have more requests for good operators than we have been able to supply. Upon completing our Beauty Course you are capable of opening and operating your own shop.

All equipment in our school is strictly up-to-date. The well lighted and well ventilated operating rooms make pleasant quarters in which you may truly feel at home.

We furnish our students their tools, such as Marcel irons, wafts of hair, theory books, combs and manicuring tools. To students out of town, we are glad to extend our services in helping you to find a place to live.

Write us now, or visit our school.

Applicants Are Still Puzzled Over Some Of Questions On License Blank

A 30-year-old Mexican whose insanity is "good" and who is "all ways all right" has made application for a drivers license at Lubbock.

Jose Gonzalez of "111 S Ave" is of "mail" sex and, despite the fac the had operated a motor vehicle "all time," had been issued former licenses in "non" states.

Driving Nine Years

It is not likely the Mexican's failure to "free-wheel" in English will preclude his being issued a license, said H. J. McClellan, deputy in the office of Hurley Carpenter, county assessor-collector. He had been driving nine years.

Application for such a license apparently is no novelty for John Glin, 69, of 1415 Avenue M, said Joe Barlow, Tech grid star and assistant in that office. Glin was issued an operator's certificate in Chicago in 1902, he said, 34 years ago. "Gas buggies" then were in their infancy and their erratic popping caused an "epidemic" of runaway horses and mules.

The public knows the "right answers" generally, but the fellow who answered a question asking his sex by scribbling "Irish" had the tax office in stitches, said H. B. Bryan, deputy assessor-collector.

Lily Pons May Become A U. S. Citizen; Is To Return In April

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—Lily Pons, little French opera star, announced today she is going to bring her furniture over to this country, and "perhaps" become a U. S. citizen.

"I shall become a legal resident when I return in April," she said before sailing on the Conte Di Savoia to sing in opera at Monte Carlo.

Students At High School Are Studying "Axolotl" Family; Captured Recently Near City

An "axolotl," that is the biological name for the water creature in the aquarium of the biology department at Senior High that has students and their instructor, W. C. Watts, busy finding out about his family.

The six-inch tadpole of the giant salamander family was captured recently in a surface lake near Lubbock. Students have found out that these axolotl are common around Mexico City where natives eat them and that the family reaches the adult stage only when tanks dry up and it is forced to develop lungs, and become a land animal.

They have also discovered that the thyroid glands had something to do with the transformation from larva stage to adult, but that a peculiarity of the species is that they reproduce in the larva stage.

Many lessons in biology have been motivated by this latest addition to the biological aquarium, but other fish have been moved for fear the newcomer might turn cannibal.

15 Years Experience in Filling Prescriptions

Your Guarantee Of The Quick, Perfect Service You Need

When you come here to have your prescription filled, the work is done by an expert pharmacist, one who has had both the rigid training required for his responsible position and the long experience that has made him accurate, fast and instinctively sure of each ingredient and instrument he uses.

This, in a business where the acid test of experience has as much real value as careful training, Service Drug has attained both high standards. They are standards that merit the same complete faith that you have in the doctor who prescribed for you.

Buckalew's Trial Set For Monday

Trial of Y. D. Buckalew, charged with murder as aftermath of an automobile mishap in which two persons were burned to death on the Shallowater highway northwest of here, has been set tentatively for trial in 72nd district court Monday.

Judge Homer L. Pharr also will call case of M. A. Scott, charged with theft over $50.

Buckalew is represented by Bledsoe, Crenshaw & Dupree. District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, will prosecute the case.

Walter Davies In Race For Office

Walter Davies, local carpenter, Saturday announced his candidacy for justice of peace, precinct 1, place 1, Lubbock county, subject to the action of voters in the Democratic primaries. Davies has lived in Lubbock and vicinity for the past 36 years with the exception of a few years spent in New Mexico. He has resided here since 1924.

This is his first time to seek a public office.

"If elected, I will deal in an unbiased manner and according to the laws as the word justice applies, ever conscious of the fact at all times that justice should prevail regardless of age or class distinctions," Mr. Davies' statement said. "I am a member of the Methodist church and I have always stood ready to assist those who stand for better government and higher standards of living, never satisfied with what is just done but ever seeking to make some improvement.

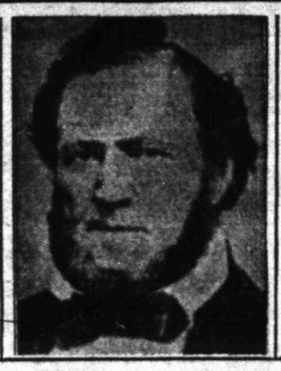

"I am just a carpenter asking you voters for a job. If I am elected, I promise to perform the duties of a justice of peace to the best of my ability."

Mr. Davies resides at 2001 Main street.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—Quiet but persistent selling in railway issues today tended to dim bullish stock market hopes.

The carriers sagged fractions to a point or more and recent industrial favorites were backward. The sugars and a few specialties bucked the trend. The close was heavy. Transfers approximated only 980,000 shares.

Some of the sugar equities continued to hold their following as futures of this commodity again moved into new high territory for the season.

Outside of the carriers, there were scattered weak spots including Greyhound Corp. which was off 6 points at one time. The steels, motors and utilities registered fractional changes in either direction.

Grains and cotton were up and down in a restricted range. Japanese bonds rallied, but the yen was still a bit soft in foreign exchange dealings.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included Great Western Sugar, Cuban-American Sugar, Case, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley, International Harvester and Chrysler.

Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson and Pennsylvania were off about 2 points each. Others in arrears up to a point included N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Westinghouse, Goodyear, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and North American.

Overnight consideration of the interstate commerce commission's action in cutting rail passenger fares brought further selling in the carrier stocks. At the same time transportation authorities believed some of the roads would be helped by the reduction because of expanding traffic.

That the bus lines may be adversely affected by the lower rates was indicated by the sharp decline in Greyhound shares. It was expected that all of the bus companies would slash fares which, consequently, might mean a drop in profits, unless offset by addition trend.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 29. (AP)—Trading within narrow limits, with only a very light speculative interest, developed an uneven trend in the short session in the cotton market today.

Slight advances in old crop months reflecting good demand for spot cotton and temporary suspension during the past week of sales by the government pool brought advances of one to three points on those positions, while later months eased off somewhat on hedge selling and long liquidation and closed two points under the previous close.

Warmer weather over the belt was favorable to preparations for the new crop already retarded by the severe and protracted winter. A good season was believed put in the ground by the heavy rains and snows.

Exports continued to move in fair volume and the year's sales to foreign spinners still ran well above a year ago.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 29. (AP)—In the absence of new developments cotton was quiet today within a range of 3 or 4 points.

May contracts sold up from 10.76@10.82 in the late trading, closing at 10.81 with the general market ending steady net 4 points higher to 3 points lower.

Traders were waiting for something more definite with reference to the marketing of government financed supplies, details of proposed taxes, and the formulation of agricultural programs under the conservation legislation.

Court Is To Pay Wilson Respects

Members of the Amarillo Bar Association will go before the Seventh District Court of Civil Appeals Monday morning to request that resolutions of sympathy and condolence on the death of Roscoe Wilson, prominent Lubbock attorney, be spread in the minutes of the court.

According to W. T. (Bill) Pheiffer, president of the Amarillo Bar Association, the resolutions have been formally adopted by the local lawyers.

It was reported that several members of the Lubbock County Bar Association may go before the court with the Amarilloans.

H. S. Pipkin, past-president of the Texas Bar Association, is to deliver a eulogy at the court after the resolutions have been presented.

Mr. Wilson died in Houston on February 13. He was 54 years old, a member of the firm of Wilson, Randal, and Kirkpatrick.

WEEK'S WEATHER OUTLOOK

Weather outlook for week beginning Monday:

Generally fair except showers over east portion at beginning of week and over east portion again about Thursday or Friday. Moderate temperature except colder over north portion near end of week.

New York City has a greater population than that of nine states combined: Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

Licensing Here Proceeds Slowly

The licensing of automobiles and drivers in Lubbock county is proceeding slowly, according to a survey made Saturday.

About 7,000 of the estimated 20,000 motor vehicle operators had received their licenses, and plates for this year had been issued for only about 300 of the 10,500 cars and trucks.

Both kinds of licenses should be obtained before April 1. Penalties for late registration will be assessed only in the case of motor vehicles, but persons driving after the foregoing date without permits will be liable to prosecution.

Hurley Carpenter, tax assessor-collector, has established branch offices in City halls of Slaton and Idalou for issuance of licenses. Harvey Austin is in charge at Slaton and W. F. Pruitt at Idalou.

Carpenter urged that all persons procure licenses as soon as possible to avoid congestion at the last of the month. New tags may now be placed on cars and trucks.

RIOTING REPORTED

DAMASCUS, Syria, Feb. 29 (AP)—One person was killed and five others wounded today in a clash between 10,000 Damascans and police after nationalist proponents voted to continue a 40-day strike.

Townsendites Will Hold Rally Here

One thousand persons are expected to attend a 19th congressional district mass meeting of Townsend club affiliants at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in 99th district courtroom, said W. E. Johnston, Lubbock club president.

A 41-year-old World war veteran, James O. Rail of San Antonio, will analyse humanitarian qualities of the plan and list his belief why it should be enacted into federal law.

Notice of the meeting has been made in the press, pulpit and by mimeograph letters, said J. J. Dillard, former president of the Lubbock club.

The Lubbock club will conduct a regular meeting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the courtroom, said Johnston. Conflicting dates with other gatherings prevents the session's being held Saturday, he said.

"All members and sympathizers of the movement are invited," he said. Plans for the Monday rally will be perfected.

Trotzky's Statement Termed Unworthy Of Soviet Comment

MOSCOW, Feb. 29. (AP) — The Soviet foreign office termed today a recent statement by Leon Trotsky, exiled war commissar, charging a "terrible regime against political prisoners," "lies" not meriting comment.

It is estimated that Stradivarius, famous Italian violin maker of Cremona, made approximately 1000 violins.

Road Meeting Will Be Held

Highway Enthusiasts From Two States To Meet In Snyder Wednesday; Affair Will Be 10th Annual One

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, Feb. 29.—Road enthusiasts from two states will be here Wednesday, March 4, for the annual meeting of the East-West Highway association. Sam Richardson, Lamesa, president, has called the meeting, which is the 10th annual affair.

Opening session begins at 10 a. m. At noon a chuck-wagon feed will be given the visitors, sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, at the country club.

Towns along state highway 15 in Texas are expected to be represented. Victor L. Minter, secretary of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce has reported a good delegation from that city and also from Hobbs.

In Texas, Seminole, Lamesa, Gail, Roby, Anson, Albany, Breckenridge, Caddo, Palo Pinto, Milesap, Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Fort Worth and Dallas are also expected to have delegations, as well as several towns east of Dallas.

Highway 15 is a part of a nationwide highway that extends from Savannah, Ga., to El Paso.

Miss Hortense Ragland Will Be Presented Tuesday

Luncheon Will Honor Visitor En Route West

Miss Margaret Weeks Will Be Hostess Friday As Courtesy To Dr. Marie Bentivoglio; Talk Scheduled Later

HONORING Dr. Marie Bentivoglio of Australia who is to be main speaker Friday night on an international evening program sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Miss Margaret W. Weeks, president, will be hostess for a luncheon at 12 o'clock Friday noon in the home economics tea room at Texas Technological college.

Other guests will be members of the A. A. U. W. executive council which is composed of officers and committee chairmen.

The food will be prepared by the catering class in the Tech department of foods and nutrition under the direction of Miss Mozelle Craddock.

About 250 persons are to attend the program at Seaman hall at 8 o'clock that evening.

Subject Announced

Doctor Bentivoglio will give an illustrated talk on "Introducing Australia". Coffee will be served afterward.

Ushers will be Misses Lulu Mae Cravens, Katherine Fry, Carolyn Casson, Evelyn Jones and Marion Betts.

The refreshment committee will consist of Misses Jonnie McCrery and Gertrude Daniel and Mrs. W. L. Bradshaw.

Room arrangements will be made by Misses Martye Poindexter and Elizabeth Hawley.

Miss Weeks will preside.

Mrs. William G. Dingus, chairman of ticket sales, said Saturday that much interest is being shown in Doctor Bentivoglio's lecture here.

A limited number of tickets are being sold at 50 cents each by A. A. U. W. members to defray expenses.

Is Widely Educated

Doctor Bentivoglio is reputed to be a scholar of distinction who holds degrees from the University of Sydney and Oxford. She is a noted geographer who is in the United States this year as a guest of the National Georgraphic society. Published comments concerning her ability as a lecturer and writer have included:

"One of the foremost women intellectually and socially, and is a brilliant lecturer and able writer."—Dr. R. P. Cole, vice-principal of Teachers college, Sydney, Australia.

"Alert, original mind, a fund of energy and enthusiasm, one of the most fluent and stimulating women speakers in Australia."—Dr. C. Anderson, director of the Australian Museum, Sydney.

"We consider Doctor Bentivoglio's lecture one of the best of this winter's course."—Melville B. Grosvenor, National Geographic society, Washington, D. C.

After lecturing at the University of Minnesota for a period last fall, the Australian geographer went to Italy to get material for a second lecture season.

This will be the last of a series of appearances in five Texas cities made by Doctor Bentivoglio who is en route to the Pacific coast from which she probably will sail for Australia.

Holy Land Scenes Shown Federation

Foreign Influences Are Reflected In Fashions

BY RUTH HURMENCE
Texas Tech News Service

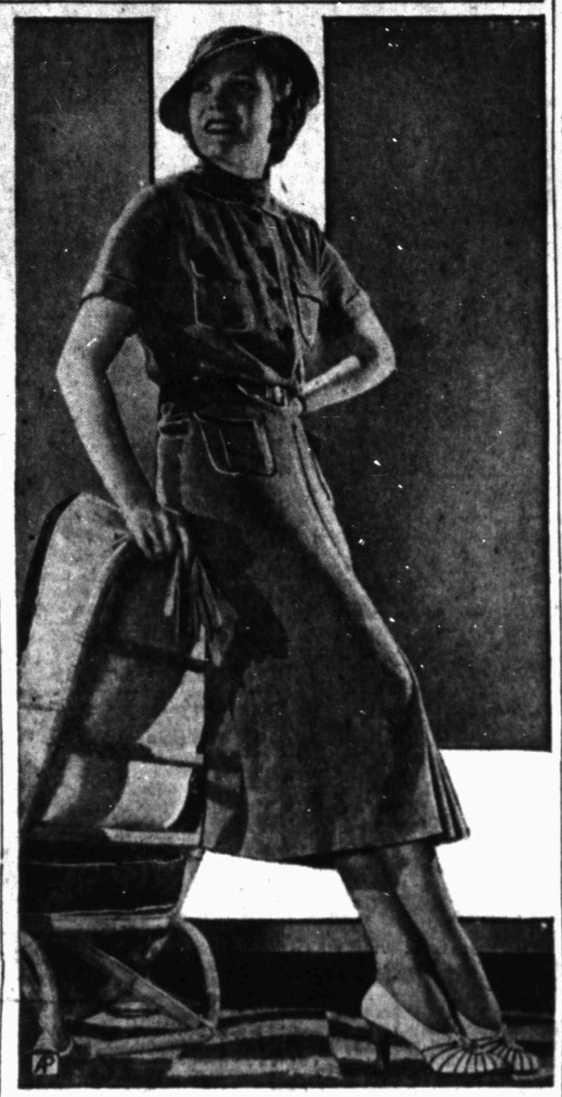

From China, Spain, Austria, and Scotland come spring fashion influences, a survey of this season's fashion trend made recently by home economics students at Texas Technological college reveals. Spain has contributed the Carmen bolero, brilliant colors, and the Toreador shoulder. Austrian peasant influence appears in tyrolean effects, gay outdoor colors, bright pipings, coin buttons, and embroidery touches. From Scotland come checks and plaids, hairy-surface wools and tweeds, skirt pleats, and elkhorn buttons; from China the combination of striking and mellow colors, straight lines, mandarin-lengths coats, and narrow, close-fitting collars.

The suit for early spring will reach a new high in popularity this year, with navy and gray the predominant colors. A new note in suit materials, however, is sounded in pastel tweeds of soft dusty pink, blue, green, and yellow. Spring suits follow four major silhouettes; the mannish suit, the feminine suit, the cape suit, and the ensemble. Coats and capes are of all lengths, and jackets have turned from Clark Gable square lines to the Fred Astaire straighter line.

Emphasis is on wools for early spring. Their distinction lies in the weave. Some have thick chenille stripes in self-color woven through the surface. Oth-

Mrs. G. C. Gaines Will Preside For Two Day Program

Plans are being made by the Lubbock Girl Scout council to entertain the largest conference in the history of the Cactus region at an annual meeting here on April 3 and 4. Mrs. George C. Gaines, jr., of Houston, regional chairman, will preside.

Sessions of the two-day conference, which will be held at the Hilton hotel, will be devoted to discussions of all phases of girl scouting. There will be much variety in training with courses offered not only for council members, new and advanced Girl Scout leaders but also for Brownie leaders.

Mrs. Walter Harrison of Roswell, N. M., is conference chairman.

From National Council

Miss Emelia Thoorsell, secretary of the camp advisory staff of the National Girl Scout organization, will be guest of honor at the conference.

A banquet given through the courtesy of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will feature the first night's entertainment and local Girl Scouts will present a program.

The next day the local council will be host with a banquet at Texas Technological college with Dr. Bradford Knapp, president, as main speaker. Four special luncheons are planned for the second day with professional Girl Scout leaders in one group, council members in groups according to the size of the council and other leaders in the others.

Mrs. H. P. Godeke, commissioner of Lubbock Girl Scouts, will be director of general arrangements for the conference. Others on various committees are Mesdames J. L. Nisbet, W. D. Wilson, C. C. Extension Specialist Describes Clothing Storage Project

The Woman's Angle

* * *

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

WHEN your feet ache so you feel you just can't go on though you must, try a hot water soak. A little epsom salts added to the water helps draw out the puffiness and brings circulation back to normal. Stay off your feet as much as possible until you must. Keep the next appointment and putting on your shoes again won't be quite so much torture.

• • •

FEMININE STANDARDS

AFTER comparing physical measurements of English and American women, Miss Fale Jarman, New York department store stylist, has discovered that the divergence is so great, that no common standard can be reached for average sizes in dresses, costumes or hats.

• • •

Miss Jarman has found that in England, girls' shoulders are narrower, their hips wider and their waists smaller and lower than their American cousins, who are becoming more and more masculine. (Shades of George Jean Nathan!)

• • •

EXERCISING THE HIPS

SPEAKING of hips, we heard of a young school teacher who reduced her hips three full inches in exactly six months simply by rolling on the floor fifty times night and morning. If you decide to try this one, don't get any idea that you are supposed to roll over and over across the floor until your body is bruised and your head throbbing with pain. You are to lie on the floor on your back, keeping your shoulders flat and arms at your sides. Simply roll your body back and forth as far as it will go without forcing your shoulders to move.

• • •

The waistline does the work. The hips and thighs pressed hard against the floor as they are, derive the benefit.

• • •

SCATTERINGS

DR. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is leading a discussion on "Love, courtship and marriage" in the young people's department at the church school hour. . . . The only famous person named Benny we have any use for is Jack Benny. He is anything but dumb. . . . Wonder why Walt Disney doesn't make a silly symphony on the three blind mice? . . . Lilac Yeats reviewed "Green Rushes" by Walsh before a college book review group. Somehow that strikes us as being euphemistic. . . . Elizabeth Jones, Tech student, understands something about chirography and palmistry. . . . The traffic lights change fast in that block between Avenue J and Texas avenue on Thirteenth street. At least that's the way it seems if you're trying to make both of them . . . No entries were received in the essay contest the Business and Professional Women's club sponsored on the theme, "What I Would Do If I Were Mayor or City Manager of Lubbock." Apparently no young men, paying their poll taxes for the first time this year, are interested in city management. . . . Said of the late King George of England: "His good remembrances lie richer in your thoughts than on his tomb." . . . Hope no vandal destroys the beauty of those jonquils

County Women Adopt Methods

Mrs. Dora Barnes Of College Station Explains Arranged Closets Have Ventilation, Light And Room

'A place for everything and everything in its place" is the motto set forth by Mrs. Dora Russell Barnes of College Station, extension specialist, whose suggestions are being followed in a clothing storage project under way in home demonstration clubs of Lubbock county.

"Nothing," she explains, "contributes more toward prolonging the life of our garments than a well arranged, well kept clothes closet

"Each member of the family should have a place to keep his clothing. The ideal arrangement is to have at least one built-in closet in each bedroom which will give adequate space for hanging clothes and storing unused clothing. A closet of convenient size is two and one-half feet deep and six feet long."

Should Be Arranged

Mrs. Barnes explains that it is surprising how much clothing can be stored in a small closet if arrangement of shelves and hangings is well planned.

The best arranged closet, she says, has a row of shelves across both ends and one or two shelves near the top the entire length of the closet. Every closet should have a rod on which to hang garments.

Spacing between the shelves is important, the specialist teaches. It should vary according to objects to be stored there. At least half the ottom shelf may have a drop door, hinged at the bottom and fastened at the top with catches, Miss Barnes suggests. This makes an excellent storage space for shoes and shine materials.

Light and ventilation are essential in a closet. If possible, a window should be cut in one wall. If this is not possible, the closet door should be left open at night several times a week. If it is impossible to have an electric light in the closet, one could have a pocket on the door in which to keep a flash light, the specialist suggests.

Moths, she says, hate smoothe, new and light paint. Hence it is well to have the closet well finished in a light color. The floor should be well made and finished in order to be easily cleaned.

Improvised clothes closets are included in the project for those whose homes are not equipped with enough built-in closets.

An adequate built-in wardrobe can be made partly of wall board. It should extend to the ceiling in order to avoid becoming a dust catcher.

For one's best clothing and for garments which are not worn often, one should have a dress bag. Paper ones or bags made of unbleached domestic, flower sacks or old sheets may be utilized for this purpose.

The bag should be long enough to allow for dresses of different length on hangers but short enough that it will not touch the floor of the closet.

Inexpensive moth proof bags for storage of woolen clothes, during the summer, may be bought.

For the garments which need to be folded and packed away, newspapers make an excellent wrapping against moths, as printers ink has proved distasteful to moths. Gummed paper tape should be used to seal packages of newspaper wrapped clothing.

Moth proof boxes may be bought in various sizes for storage of woolen clothing.

All clothing should be well cleaned before storing, Miss Barnes says. Crowns of hats should be stuffed with tissue paper. Paper also may be crushed and molded into shoes to retain their shapes, if shoe trees are not available.

If the closet does not have adequate space for shoes, a shoe bag of strong fabric may be tacked on the inside of the closet door.

Each member of the family, the specialist sggests, should be provided also with adequate drawer space for cosmetics, underwear and accessories.

Flaring Curled Feather Adds Chic Note To This Black Straw Chapeau

Exes Banquet To Be Monday

Ex-Students Of University Of Texas To Gather Monday At Hilton In Annual March 2 Banquet Meeting

Ex-students of University of Texas will hold their annual get-together in the ballroom of Hilton hotel at 7:30 o'clock Monday night.

Dinner will be served, and a program of songs, yells, and speeches will be given. The songs will be under the direction of Edgar Shelton, and accompanied by Mrs. R. E. Mills. E. L. Klett is to speak. George Dupree will lead the yells.

A nominating committee composed of Clark M. Mullican, Mrs. J. T. Krueger, and Jack M. Randal will report.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. W. F. Helwig, 2519 Twentieth street.

A boy, weighing 8 1-2 lbs., was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Washington at 2:10 a. m. Saturday at their home, 1309 Avenue D. He was named Jimmie Sheral.

Wee Bits Of Gossip Giving Comings, Goings, Doings Of Well Known People

Dear Louella: If this were not Texas we'd be hearing a lot of discussion about "Wherever two Texans shall meet," etc. and Texas Independance Day banquets. It seems that ex-students of the University are the only ones who pay much attention to that tradition here.

There's going to be a Texas-Ex banquet Monday night at the Hilton. Mrs. W. F. Helwig seems to be in charge.

I've had an exciting week. I've done a lot of things, different from the socials and meetings that usually keep me too busy to go visiting.

"Monopoly" Good Game

Monday night I played "monopoly" in Post in honor of Skeeter Slaughter's birthday. It was a big party with everybody apparently wild over that fascinating game. You ought to try it sometime, or have you?

Tuesday night of course I had a magnificent time, sitting enrapt before those excellent players in "The First Legion."

Now guess what I did Wednesday. I went to the wrestling match. I read in the paper where the Tech dramatic class was going to be there and it must have been. So was everybody else.

I learned while there, in addition to a few choice defense holds, that I am the only gal in town who hasn't a Homberg hat.

• • •

SPEAKING of wrestling, I am reminded of Jack Clifford and his story about a woman wrestler. Get him to tell you about her. That reminds me of something I've been intending to mention for a long time:

Mrs. Clifford consistently wears some of the most beautiful clothes I've seen anywhere.

Thursday night I went visiting. Yes, I just broke down and made some calls I've been intending to make for a year. I found all my hosts reading, so I came home all inspired and finished "With Napoleon in Russia," memoirs of Lord Caulaincourt, which I borrowed from Mrs. J. L. Barstow.

A Good Movie

Friday night I saw my favorite actors (besides Greta Garbo), Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, in "The Petrified Forest." I hope you saw it.

Eddie "Blind Tom" Hambright is in town again, but not to stay I think. He's been in Dallas the past several months and probably will go back.

The Sam Wests are making their annual trek from here this weekend. Sam is going to spring training at West Palm Beach and Grace is going to visit awhile with her father in Rule before joining him for the baseball season.

Allene Odom Gray (Mrs. Robert L.) has been visiting the A. G. Odoms this week. She is going back to Big Spring today. Her sister, Mrs. R. C. Reed, and children of Sherman were here last Sunday. Lorena Odom went home with them for a visit.

• • •

DID you read in the paper where Kathrine Kirk of Amarillo is going to marry Horace English Wilson, son of Judge and Mrs. James C. Wilson of Fort Worth, March 14? The engagement was announced at a luncheon given in Amarillo Wednesday by Mrs. J. N. Childers.

The Ralph Trolingers had Mrs. Blank Oglesby of San Angelo as a guest last week.

Mrs. R. L. Clinkscales who is wintering in Dallas has been visiting here the past three weeks. She plans to go back Monday.

En route home from a long visit in California and Arizona, Misses Theresa and Fay Belle Dudley of Comanche visited their sister, Mrs. C. E. Roberts, last week. They left Thursday.

Motts Move To Kansas

I just now found out that the R. H. Motts have moved to Kansas. I thought she was just visiting up there since Christmas.

Mrs. E. L. Banks is visiting relatives in Popular Bluffs, Mo., and Obion, Tenn.

The Abilene paper gave Helen Barstow a big send off last Sunday as "Miss Boston." I imagine the writer took the information from a southern girl over the telephone.

Mrs. R. V. Kimmel had a light attack of the flu last week, and that dear Louella is about all I

Schools Will Close Monday

Texas Independence Day Is To Be Observed Monday; Special Program Is To Be Presented On Thursday

Tomorrow all schools in Lubbock will be closed, as will all schools in the state, to celebrate the one hundredth birthday of Texas. One other holiday, April 10, will be observed this semester.

Because of the holiday tomorrow special celebrations were held in all schools last week. All student publications are putting out special Centennial papers. At Junior High school a two-color front page will make the red, white, and blue arrangement complete. Special pages on West Texas and Lubbock history are being included.

On Thursday at Senior High school a special program on Texas will be given under the supervision of Mr. E. J. Lowrey. Home room programs and assemblies in all other schools were given on Texas this week.

A HUMAN KING

As the funeral cortege in which was borne the casket of King George passed along a London street where ordinary people live it was said an audible gasp of "Oh" went up from the lookers-on. At that instant the new king, Edward VIII, turned his head and gazed at the crowds and his naturalness electrified them to silence. It was a look of compassion filled with pity and love, mingled with "what am I doing here in this position?"

• • •

Others had walked by with heads straight ahead, to all appearances unaware of the great crowds standing on tiptoe, filling windows and using hand mirrors in their efforts to see. It was their new king who was gracious enough to give them a look.

• • •

HE IS SO NATURAL

It was the naturalness of King Edward that endeared him long ago to British subjects. The little habits of fingering his tie, of easing a tight collar, drinking beer with men in East End London, staunching blood of the face of a man who lay injured in a road, lending his cough cure to a child on the train, giving a light to a companion for his cigaret helped to convince the English people that he really was "just one of the boys."

• • •

In an English paper we saw two incidents about the king, both new to us. Once while visiting in Australia he met a digger who asked him who he was. Upon being told he said "Glad to meet you, I'm the King." That night at a reception the two met again and to the startled subject, the then Prince of Wales said: "Glad to see you again Dad."

• • •

The other incident happened in a Canadian war hospital. Asking if he had met all of the patients H. R. H. was told that there was one missing. He was blind, deaf, dumb and for a moment the face of the royal one paled as he looked at this derelict of humanity who had given all but his breath for his country. Then he strode to his bed and stooping kissed the soldier's face. This is the man who rules over the largest empire in the world.

Junior High P-TA Talk Is To Be On Theme Of Health

The Junior High Parent-Teacher association will meet at 3:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon instead of 7:15 p. m., as scheduled in the year's program, the secretary has announced.

Dr. F. B. Malone will lecture on "Cooperation of Home and School for Better Health".

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryant of Pampa are parents of a daughter born at 3 a. m. Saturday at the Pampa hospital. Mrs. Bryant is the former Miss Mary Lee Bardwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Bardwell, 2205 Broadway. The Bardwells left Saturday to spend the week-end in Pampa.

Spring Styles

ers have raised slubs, ribs, checks, nubs—anything to give the texture a visual relief. A tendency in both silk and wool is toward sheerness. A recent wool fashion show in New York City featured a sheer wool wedding gown. Sheerness will be repeated in cottons, which will be as smart as ever for all occasions this spring. Cottons this season are featuring dark colors such as brown, dark green, ox blood, and henna. Large cotton prints are good for sport and evening wear.

For decoration there is continued use of braids and cords. Ornaments range from antique gold with onyx trim and bone, covered, and leather buttons to taffeta edgings and fringe. Pique is the last word in trimming materials. Pleats will be found in clusters on collars, sleeves, blouses, and skirts. There will be pleated pockets, pleated cuff frills, pleated lace, and pleated peplums.

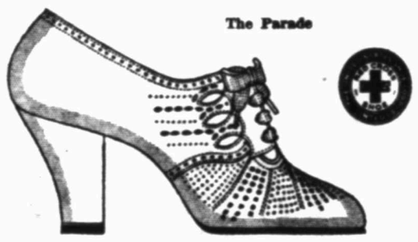

Fads this season include the use of two corsages, one on each lapel of the suit; jersey and felt belts; dyed lace; Irish crochet; colored zippers, and watches carried in pockets of belts, glove cuffs, and sleeves.

For sports, popularity will be centered on the divided skirt, jersey tennis dress, slacks and shorts, and the woolen blouse. With slacks the overblouse is stressed as more attractive than the tuck-in.

All clothes this season have a casual look. Fussiness has been eliminated—beauty of fabric plus true distinction in cut and tailoring distinguish spring clothes of 1936.

Winners in the fifth annual quilt show sponsored by Hodges Bros. and the Avalanche-Journal at the Hodges store at 1115 Avenue G have been announced.

The 67 quilts entered in the show are to remain on exhibit through March 7. Six hundred persons viewed the quilts Monday through Thursday, said Walter Smith, who is in charge of the exhibit.

Mrs. Allen Wins First

An intricately quilted Sunburst design in pink, green, blue, lavendar and other blended colors won for Mrs. E. F. Allen, 224 Avenue V, the prize for the best quilting in the show, not including old quilts.

Most harmonious color combination was attributed to a quilt entered by Mrs. J. L. Coleman, Lubbock, route 6. Brown and cream predominate. Fruit basket designs contain handpainted fruit which appears to be appliqued.

Mrs. R. A. Tynes, 1501 College avenue, was given the prize for the most suitable design. Her quilt has a white background with blue pieces, quilted mostly in square and diamond designs.

Judges Are Named

Other prizes were given for quilts judged best in each division. Judges were Miss Mabel D. Erwin, head professor of clothing and textiles at Texas Technological college; Miss Gertrude Daniel, head of the Lubbock High school home economics department; Miss Gladys Sanders, assistant county home demonstration agent.

Prizes were given as follows in the divisions:

Pieced, Mrs. H. L. Laughter, Lubbock, route 5.

Applique, Mrs. J. B. Pope, 711 Avenue Q, Lubbock.

Combination pieced and applique, Mrs. W. O. Sheely, 1601 Main street.

Silks, Mrs. R. H. Martin, jr., Lubbock Hotel.

Of Many Pieces

Much attention has been attracted to a quilt entered by Mrs. Jim Wolf of Slaton. The quilt contains 38,400 pieces. Twenty-one spools of thread were required to quilt it.

The oldest quilt, for which no prize was given this year, was entered by Mrs. Katie Watkins of Slaton. It is 127 years old.

A quilt in Colonial Lady design, entered by Mrs. William Rusk of Slaton, has lace insertion and edging and resembling a bedspread.

STRETCHING WHIPPED CREAM

Beaten white of egg may be mixed with whipped cream to make it go further. Or white of egg may be beaten up in hot chocolate without whipped cream.

One of the few places left in the world where persons may still see Rocky Mountain sheep is Guadalupe Mountain state park in the western part of Texas. Large herds of antelope, protected by law, are also in the park.

Practical Farm And Ranch Home Processing Unit Devised At A. & M.; Can Be Of Service During The Entire Year

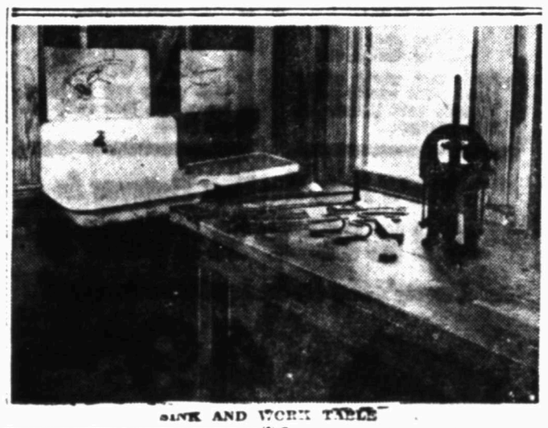

EXTERIOR VIEW OF UNIT

FURNACE AND SCALDING VAT

SINK AND WORK TABLE

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 29. — A practical farm and ranch utility and cold storage unit, designed to meet the growing demand for such a plant on the well managed farm or ranch, has been developed at the Texas A. and M. college. Uses of the plant, which might also be called a home processing unit, are surprisingly numerous. Its four major features include a cold storage room, a scalding vat with furnace that may be put to many uses, a smoke house and a sink with running water and the necessary large wooden work table.

The unit affords complete facilities for the killing, dressing, refrigeration, storage and curing of meats. The large furnace for the scalding vat can be used when desired as a barbecue pit. The unit may be used as a canning plant, laundry, for rendering lard, as a milk room, for the storage of dairy products, eggs, fruits and vegetables and for various other purposes. It affords, in short, a general utility work and storage room for the farm and ranch, not of a seasonable nature but for service the year around.

Cost Can Be Low

An important feature of the plant in the opinion of its designers is that, with the exception of the machinery required for the refrigerating unit, the plant with all its facilities can be built on the farm with ordinary labor, no especial skill being required. The cost can be held to a minimum, if desired, this depending on the kind of material used and whether a small building is already available for conversion into the unit's quarters.

The plant at the college was designed by Fred Hale, chief of the division of swine husbandry of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and J. C. Harrison, mechanical engineer of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station. The only expert labor required was in the installation of the cold storage machinery which is included in its cost.

Floor Is Concrete

The building at the college is a frame structure twenty feet square and ten feet high, the frame walls being set on two-foot concrete base of five-inch walls. The floor of the structure is concrete with slope to a drain in the center.

The cold storage room has inside dimensions of 4x6x8 feet, a total of 192 cubit feet of space. The double walls are of tongue-in-groove sheeting, both inside and outside, on 2x8 studs. The sheeting was put on over builder's paper and the 8-inch space between the walls filled with granulated cork. The double doors, with air space between, fasten against felt sealing strips. Home-made wedge-type latches are used. Ordinary gas engine is used for the refrigerating unit. Interior of the cold storage room is covered with two coats of aluminum paint.

The furnace is eighteen inches wide and five feet, eight inches long (interior dimensions) with open pit in front. Brick smokestack leads out through the roof of the building. The furnace is open at the top and is built of concrete. When not in use the scalding vat can be lifted off the furnace, permitting use of latter for other purposes.

The smokehouse is of simple construction, having an interior four feet wide, three feet deep and eight feet high. An ordinary galvanized iron wash tub, partly filled with dirt, serves well as a firebox.

Water Connections

Sink and drain with water connections occupy a fourth corner of the room. Two wooden tables, one for scraping hogs at the scalding vat, the other a general work table, are located as desired.

The cost of the entire unit at the college, including all material, labor and equipment, was $2.10 a square foot of floor space, or $840 for the unit. This cost, however, could be materially lowered where building was already available. Brick or rock could be used also instead of concrete for floor and base.

Automobile engine or electric motor, where electricity is available, could be used for the refrigerating plant.

Cost figures on the cold storage room and refrigerating equipment are $2.50 a cubit foot of storage space in the unit at the college as compared to about $30 a cubit foot of space provided in the commercial type of mechanically refrigerated boxes.

There are in Texas more than 500,000 farms, according to the bureau of the census, and more than 200,000 of these are operated by full and part owners, the type of farm and ranch for which the utility and cold storage unit is expected to appeal particularly.

Candidates To Plan Schedule

Meeting Of All Candidates To Be Held Monday Night At Courthouse To Arrange For Campaign Speakings

All candidates for public office may attend a meeting in the courthouse at 8 p. m. Monday when a speaking schedule will be arranged.

Lubbock county Young Democrats likely will make arrangements for the engagements.

Several candidates met briefly in the courthouse Saturday morning, with Floyd Jackson, district clerk, presiding. It was decided to conduct another meeting to arrange the schedule.

Noted German Conductor Is Reinstated As Opera Director

BERLIN, Feb. 29 (AP) — Wilhelm Furtwaengler, noted German conductor, was reinstated today as director of the Prussian state opera.

Furtwaengler resigned as leader of the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra and conductor of the Municipal Opera Dec. 5, 1934, after a quarrel with Nazi officials occasioned by his championship of Composer Paul Hindemith.

The conductor opposed a Reich boycott on the works of Hindemith who incurred displeasure of Nazi officials because of his marriage to a Jewess. The quarrel was settled last year after a conversation between Adolf Hitler and Furtwaengler.

Furtwaengler yesterday was chosen general musical director of the Philharmonic Symphony society of New York for the 1936-37 season.

Daughter Of Henry L. Doherty Married To Danish Sportsman

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 29 (AP) — Theodore Wessel, Danish sportsman, and his bride, the former Helen Lee Doherty, daughter of Henry L. Doherty, American utilities magnate, left here by plane today on their honeymoon.

They were married last night in the presidential mansion in the presence of high Nicaraguan officials. President Juan B. Sacasa and his wife acted for the bride's parents, and President Sacasa himself gave the bride away.

Charges Of Showing 'Indecent' Pictures Dropped In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 29 (AP)—Charges that John Stewart Bryan, jr., a vice president of the Richmond Academy of Arts, violated Virginia law in the displaying of "indecent" paintings here were dismissed in police court today.

Bryan, son of a Richmond publisher, was charged by F. M. Terrell, middle aged Sunday school teacher of Richmond, with being responsible for an exhibition of murals done by Mordi Gassner. The complainant, however, refused to press charges today, saying:

"In view of the widening division of sentiment that would be necessarily created, I drop the proceedings against Mr. Bryan."

Special Railroad Rates Are Offered For Fat Stock Show

Special rates for round trips to the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in Fort Worth, March 13 to 23, are being offered by the Santa Fe, E. Kancher, division passenger agent, said Saturday.

There are two types of tickets: a 10-day limit, $13 for all classes of equipment and $11.69 for coaches; a week-end rate of $6.49 for coaches. Tickets at the $6.49 rate will be sold March 13 and 14, with return limit March 17 and March 20 and 21 with return March 24.

Bank Vault At Gunter Looted; Bills Fished Out By A Wire

GUNTER, Feb. 29 (AP)—Burglars burned their way into the First State bank vault here last night, fished what bills they could through a two-inch hole in the money box and left the balance burning.

The operations left the vault door jammed and officials were unable to immediately estimate the loss. President A. M. Beeman said about $2,000 was left in the strong box last night.

Using an acetelyne torch, the burglars burned an eight-inch hole in the outside of the vault, penetrating ten inches of steel. A smaller hole was burned in the inside box and a wire used to pull the money out. The torch was left on the scene, the only clue.

Officials found the vault still hot this morning when the burglary was discovered. Smoke from burning bills and papers drifted from the looted vault. A safe expert from Dallas was summoned to open the door.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Is Doing Right Well At Age Of 96

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 29 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, sr., is in "excellent health for a man 96 years old," it was said today at his winter home, "The Casements."

Living in strict seclusion, Mr. Rockefeller recently has foregone the daily automobile rides which of late years have given townspeople their only glimpse of him.

I know some dope that won't do to tell that maybe I will write you sometime when I am feeling low. It concerns the way some of the more popular benedicts haven't had to ask a girl for a date in a year because women make the dates themselves, according to the young men's testimonials. One man told me Friday that three women asked him for a date in one day and all of them were married. He told me who one of them was, I guessed who another was and I'm still in the dark as to the third one.

Sane Enforcement Of Texas Drivers License Law Promised By Commission

Officers Will Regulate Law

Highway Patrolmen Are Being Advised To Use "Judgment" In Dealing With Drivers; Drunkenness "Different"

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 29 (AP)—Sane enforcement of the new drivers license law has been promised by the Public Safety commission under whose direction the highway patrol will administer it.

Albert Sidney Johnson, commission chairman, said all officers were being advised to use "judgment" in enforcing the law and expected little difficulty after the provision requiring all drivers to have licenses become operative. Drivers have until April 1 to obtain their certificates.

Not To Be "Too Technical"

"We will make every effort to minimize complaints under the law," Johnson said. "Officers have been instructed not to be 'too technical' and to let the facts of each case rule. For instance if a farmer should forget his license and drive to town some Saturday afternoon and be unable to produce his license the officer will not arbitrarily place him in jail unless the circumstances warrant."

Johnson made it plain, however, the law would be rigidly enforced against persons involved in major traffic accidents and violations.

"A Different Story"

"If an officer runs across some driver who is drunk and incapable of proper handling of an automobile it will be a different story."

Johnson advised all drivers, however, to obtain a license promptly and make a dilligent effort to carry it when driving.

The commission chairman said the law thus far had not proved as onerous as many members of the legislature who opposed it predicted.

"The county tax collectors (who issue the licenses) are making use of the law to get acquainted with the voters," he commented. "It offers them opportunity to do a service without cost. Several collectors have sent deputies to small towns and communities to assist the people and others are providing free notary services so licenses may be issued without cost to the applicants."

Red Cedar, Formerly A Pest To Ranchmen, Is To Be Used In Manufacture Of Cedar Oil

UVALDE, Feb. 29 (AP)—Red cedar, regarded by many Texas ranchmen as a pest, is to be turned to profit.

A plant is being assembled and expected to be put into operation within six weeks, for the manufacture of oil of cedar. It will be located on the Edwards plateau, 60 miles from here, at a point known as Camp Eagle, a former summer resort, and approximately 50 men will be given steady employment. It will be the only one of its kind in the state.

The area is reputed to have the largest stand of cedar in the world, many thousand acres of hilly country being densely covered. Ranchers long have discussed methods of eradicating the growth because its density prevented grass and weeds, upon which cattle, sheep and goats graze, from growing.

Seasoned Timber Better

Oil of cedar is used in the manufacture of soap, cosmetics, perfumes, paints, varnishes, insecticides and other products. The oil may be obtained from green or seasoned timber although the latter is regarded as best for processing. J. H. Richardson, who is moving the plant from Grayford, Palo Pinto county, to the Hill country, states there are instances on record where oil has been obtained from cedar fences in service 60 years.

For the present, he said, only seasoned wood will be used. It is probable, he added, that machinery will be installed for manufacture of oil from cedar foliage.

The first step in processing is cutting the cedar into four-foot lengths. It then is chipped and ground preparatory for cooking in huge retorts. The vapor from the retorts is condensed, passed through separators and distilled. After being filtered and treated the oil is placed in containers for shipment. Large quantities are exported to Holland, Japan and Germany.

Tex McDaniel Is Raising New Steer; Is Named "Centennial"

ALICE, Feb. 29 (AP) — Tex McDaniel, the Texas cowboy who saddled Barker, a big red steer in 1932 and rode it 326 days from Houston to Washington, says he is bringing up a new steer from the border.

The animal, a yearling, was given to him by the Calahan ranch near Laredo and has been named "Centennial," although it answers more readily to "San Tana," Tex says. He is headed for the Centennial exposition at Dallas.

"San Tana" doesn't mind wearing a saddle and will travel alone or mounted, but Tex isn't traveling in the saddle he said, because the steer is too shy to be ridden well in the traffic of large cities. Tex does not think it will make as good a performer as Barker, which wore out 80 ox shoes carrying him from the Gulf of Mexico to the White House.

Tex and Barker had many adventures on the journey north but their association ended when the animal's leg was broken in Georgia. Doctors saved its life but the leg healed crooked and the steer was retired to the LH7 ranch near Barker, Texas.

Show To Open At Amarillo

Sixth Annual Fat Stock Show To Be Held At Amarillo On March 9 To 12; Program Of Education Added

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Feb. 29—An educational program has been arranged as a new department of the Amarillo Fat Stock show.

The sixth annual show will be held March 9-12. Frank R. Phillips, head of the agricultural school at West Texas State Teachers college, will be in charge of the new department. He has been superintendent of the show's vocational agricultural department for several years.

M. K. Thornton, state extension service leather specialist, will give a series of demonstrations on hide and leather work. Roy Snyder, extension service meat specialist, will give meat cutting and curing demonstrations.

The show, said to be the second largest of its kind in the state, will occur at the same time as the sixtieth annual convention of the Texas-Southwestern Cattlemen's association.

Seventy-five purebred Hereford bulls and eight cows have been consigned to the annual Panhandle Hereford breeders' sale. At least 150 bulls are expected in the carload show and sale.

Other show attractions will include a baby beef club sale, pig show and sale, rabbit show, lamb show and sale, and exhibits of home cured meats and canned goods.

HOPES GIVEN SETBACK

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 29 (AP)—Hopes for a new producing area in Garvin county near Pauls Valley were given a decided setback today when 1,800 feet of water filled the hole in the McElreath and Suggett No. 1 Hyre, ne se 23-3n-1w.

The well, from which a heavily saturated core was taken at 4,109-4,119 feet, had brought a wave of activity in leasing and royalty buying in the area in the last few days.

Operators planned to deepen the test.

Texas, Unlike Many States, Doesn't Escheat "Lost" Bank Accounts; Banks Of State Said To Have Many Of Them

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 29—Investigation discloses that Texas, unlike some states, does not escheat "lost" bank deposits.

Whereas if a man dies without heirs or leaving a will his property automatically goes to the state, a deposit of which the ownership is unknown remains in a bank.

Estimates as to the amount of such unclaimed deposits range in sources familiar with Texas banks from "small, much less than the public thinks" to "large sums."

"No Such Animal"

Attaches of the state banking department asserted that in view of the fact a bank always is liable for a deposit under Texas law, there theoretically is "no such animal" as a "lost" deposit, and efforts to turn the money over to the state would be both unjust and impracticable.

Whatever the merits, it is done in several states and the Texas house of representatives at the regular session in 1933, passed a bill escheating unclaimed deposits under certain conditions. The bill died in a senate banking committee.

May Claim 50 Years Later

"An account may be inactive or dorman but never is 'lost' and always is subject to claim," said F. C. Branson, deputy banking commissioner. "Fifty years later a depositor can demand his money. So how can you say it is lost?

"There are mistaken ideas that millions of dollars are 'lost' in Texas banks alone and hundreds of millions throughout the country. I believe most accounts are only a few cents or a few dollars."

On the other hand, State Treasurer Charley Lockhart said he had heard reports that lost deposits totalled "large sums" and advocated a law escheating them. He would require deposits unclaimed for 10 years to be turned over to the state treasury, kept in a suspense account for two years, and thereafter placed in the general revenue fund with any claims subsequently to be handled through the legislative claims committees.

Should Cover All Groups

"All forms of business that receive deposits, banks, building and loan associations and insurance companies should come under such a law," he said.

The only law in Texas on the subject provides that unclaimed deposits in liquidated banks must be placed in the treasury suspense account and may be paid out on proof of ownership. This account totalled $7,186.41 Feb. 17.

Most of the individual accounts are small and an employe recalls that one Canyon bank listed about 1,500 names with an aggregate balance of less than $100. This was due to accounts of students at the West Texas State Teachers college. Students made deposits and forgot small balances.

Service Charge Does Work

"Service charges are one handy means of liquidating inactive accounts," said another state official. "At the rate of $1 or so a month, they soon take care of such accounts."

The bill which passed the house in the forty-third legislature was sponsored by Representative W. T. Savage of Dallas and would have applied to individuals or companies holding unclaimed deposits of money or certain property for storage. It was somewhat similar to, though more stringent than, a law adopted in Oregon in 1929.

Would Require Reports

Banks would have been required to file reports with the state comptroller of savings accounts which had not increased, or decreased or been credited with interest on the depositor's pass book, within 20 years. Seven years inaction similarly would establish regular accounts as unclaimed and subject to reports. This provision also applied to unclaimed dividends, profits, interest on debts and trust funds held by county and district officials. Penalty for failure to report was set at $500 fine.

After legal notification to the missing owner at his last known address by letter and then by publication, the deposits could be taken by escheatment proceedings instituted by the attorney general. The owner could recover by proof of claim within seven years and not thereafter.

Very Human Trait

"This matter of lost deposits involves a very human trait," said W. W. Heath, assistant attorney general in charge of banking and insurance cases. "Many persons are very secretive about their financial affairs.

"Some men don't want their wives to know how much money they have; there often is concealment between parents and children. It wouldn't always be easy to say when money was 'lost'."

"I know of a man who lived many years in another state and had $30,000 in a Dallas bank under a slightly different name. His family knew nothing of it. When he wanted to buy a business, he drew out the money. You couldn't say that money was lost.

"Then, people scatter money in many banks. Some keep deposits unchanged for years. Criminals have secret deposits. How many accounts do you suppose Al Capone has, and under how many names?"

The Oregon law made exceptions to persons known by banks to be living although their accounts were unchanged.

New Cars Gain In Past Month

Decline Is Reported From December But Increase Noted Over January 1935 Recorded At 19.7 Per Cent

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 29.—Registrations of new automobiles in Texas during January dropped slightly from December but maintained a higher rate than in January, 1935.

The University of Texas bureau of business research said reports from 14 representative counties showed 5,215 registrations, a decline of 4.7 per cent from December but a gain of 19.7 per cent from the previous January.

Only the lowest price bracket cars showed increased sales the gain being two percent. All other price groups registered declines, contrasting sharply with several months last year when the highest price bracket led all others in percentage increase.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

AUSTIN, Feb. 29 (AP)—The railroad commission has accepted the resignation of J. L. Read, chief rate expert for agricultural products. Read will become assistant manager of the Southwest Motor Freight bureau with offices in Dallas where he formerly resided. His successor has not been named.

West Winfield Pa., has built a modern recreation room and dance hall in an old mine 300 feet under ground.

READ WHAT THESE OWNERS SAY ABOUT DODGE ECONOMY!

"I left San Leandro, California, and drove to New York City via Texas, Oklahoma, St. Louis, Chicago, etc.," says A. A. Sinclair, Sales Manager of the United Engine & Machine Co., San Leandro. "I watched my gas consumption very carefully and averaged 20 miles to the gallon. I made one oil change and only used three quarts of oil besides."

"Big-car luxury—small-car upkeep—that's what you get from the big, new, Money-Saving Dodge. I am getting over 19 miles to the gallon of gas—and so far I have not had to spend a single cent on upkeep."—Charlotte Ward, New York.

"You couldn't make me believe," says Oliver F. Shearer of Chicago, "that a car with the size and roominess of a Dodge could be more economical than the smaller, competitive makes—until I had my Dodge for a while! But when I proved to myself that I was getting 20 miles to a gallon—5 more than my old car—well, you can bet I was convinced."

"Beauty Winner" of 1936

EVERYONE knows Dodge as the car that smashed all records for ruggedness, dependability, and amazing economy. Now Dodge steps out ahead with brilliant new beauty that has provoked enthusiastic praise everywhere.

"The most beautiful car Dodge ever built!" say noted auto editors and fashion authorities from coast to coast. And at the very first glance you, too, will recognize the sheer smartness of this new Dodge "Beauty Winner" of 1936!

Ask about the economy of its big, powerful engine which owners report gives them amazingly high gas and oil mileage. Also ask about the Dodge safety-steel body . . . Airglide-Ride — the amazing new ride sensation . . . Dodge genuine hydraulic brakes . . . and other startling advancements.

Hog Unit To Open Monday

Armour & Co.'s Concentration Plant On South Avenue A To Be In Operation; Capacity Of 500 Animals Available

Armour & Co.'s hog concentration plant for the South Plains will open for business Monday, March 2, and Manager R. C. (Bob) Harvey says all hogs from this section will be concentrated here for shipment, after being graded.

The pens, nine in all, have a capacity of 500 hogs. They are 88 by 90 feet, have concrete floor, city sewage and built of heavy timbers and well lighted. Location is a block south of Broadway, on Avenue A.

To Be Concentrated Here

"All animals bought over the South Plains will be concentrated here," Mr. Harvey explained. "We will separate the light and heavy hogs. Light hogs, those from 175 to 250 pounds, will be shipped to Los Angeles and San Francisco. The heavy hogs and mixed will go to Fort Worth."

Prices of animals for the past 60 days have run above $9 per hundred pounds. The animals have averaged around 230 pounds, or in excess of $20 an animal.

Has Bought 75,000 Hogs

During 1935 three hog-buying concerns here purchased in the neighborhood of 75,000 hogs. Most of them came from the territory between Dimmitt and Tulia on the north and Lamesa on the south and from Spur and Matador on the east to the New Mexico state line.

Mr. Harvey predicts 1936 will see a getting back to former peak years when from 125,000 to 140,000 head of hogs were bought and shipped out of this territory. This figure does not include animals slaughtered at local plants in Lubbock, Plainview and other points.

The 1935 business represented a million and a half dollars paid to hog producers of this section, he added.

Contract Let For Erection Of Two New Seminole Buildings

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SEMINOLE, Feb. 29 — Arthur Duff, son of A. L. Duff, pioneer business man here, and owner of the old First State bank property on the south side of the court house square, has closed a deal for the erection of two brick business buildings, it became known today.

C. A. Clayton, Sweetwater contractor, was given the contract. The buildings will be 24 by 50 feet each, of brick construction.

Fifty applications for renting the structures have been made to Mr. Duff. The present frame structures on the locations will be torn down.

DOCTOR DIES

DALLAS, Feb. 29 (AP)—Dr. Grover Cleveland Wagner, 27, interne at Parkland hospital here for three years, died of pneumonia today. The body was sent to Brownsville, his former home, for burial.

Gospel Riders Are To Live Again At Texas Centennial; Hall Of Religion Is To House Religious Lore Of Texas

From its 75-foot tower the Hall of Religion at the Texas Centennial Central exposition at Dallas will burn "The Eternal Flame of Life" to lighten the heavens above and call the travelers to the sanctuary of the Lord. In this $50,000 structure will be gathered the religious lure of Texas covering a period of 400 years. In this hall the different denominations active in Texas will have exhibits. Denominational days have been set aside by the exprosition management.

DALLAS, Feb. 29. (Special)—Protestant missionaries on horse back with holstered pistol and rifle across their laps brought order and culture into the wilderness of Texas 100 years ago. These horseback riding preachers of scriptural gospel rode out of the East and into the West. In one saddle bag was a Bible, the other carried a "snack" to eat, a change of shirt and behind the saddle draped a blanket roll.

In log cabin or under the shade of a giant tree these riders of the gospel exhorted for hours to the mere handful of colonists who dared to venture out for the "meetin'." In those days the "parson" who couldn't sermonize at least two hours without pausing for breath was not considered to be much of a preacher.

Church Meetings Not Common

Church meetings were not common. A foreign government looked with displeasure upon the spread of evangelic faiths among the colonists and often the meetings were secretly held and only upon invitation was attendance possible. Most of the colonists boasted of a family Bible, but these were brought from hiding to be read behind closed doors.

Then came the battle of San Jacinto and to Texas came religious and political freedom. General Sam Houston's victory over Santa Anna, Mexican president-dictator, opened the way for spiritual development and from that day to this religion has advanced steadily with the commercial and industrial growth of the state.

Baptists Plan Event

Texas Baptists have asked Baptists throughout the nation to join with them in celebrating the 143rd birthday of Gen. Sam Houston, Sunday, March 1. This celebration is the first of a series of similar services to be held during the year in connection with the Texas Centennial exposition opening in Dallas June 6.

On the grounds of the exposition will be the $50,000 Hall of Religion in which the lore of the "gospel riders" will be placed. Twelve halls within the building will be used for exhibits which will tell the progress of religion and culture the state has made since Alvarez de Pineda and his Spanish conquistadores planted their flag on Texas soil, in 1519.

Were Lone Apostles

The "gospel riders" rode alone. No army cleared their way nor built forts and stockades for them. They were lone apostles crying their faith in a wilderness. But their cries were heard, their prayers answered and posterity now reaps the benefits of their courageous endeavors.

The Hall of Religion is a tribute to the "gospel riders" who helped Sam Houston and fellow patriots save Texas for the United States and to establish an empire of vast wealth, tremendous resources and the culture of a modern world. It will be one of the centers of attraction at the Texas Centennial exposition.

BRAID AIDS LINES

LONDON (AP)—An afternoon dress which gives a slimming line to the hips and width to the shoulders is covered with narrow cire braid which is stitched closely together in diagonal lines.

The braid runs slantwise from the shoulders and meets in "V" points up the center front and back. The skirt design is reversed with the lines running down and out from the waist to the side seams.

Sleeves also are covered with the braid.

INSTALLED AS MAYOR

LAREDO, Feb. 29 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Gonzales Villarreal, summoned to Tampico, Mexico, several days ago by President Lazaro Cardenas because of political and labor troubles, was made mayor of that city, it was learned here today.

Immediately upon his installation, Gen. Villarreal appointed Leopolodo Dorantes chief of police. Gen. Dorantes was formerly military commander of Nuevo Laredo, and Gen. Villarreal was active in the same capacity when summoned to Tampico.

Blister beetles, ground into powder, once were used by physicians for blistering patients.

British Leaders See World On Verge Of Another War Threatening Democracy

Japan, Reich Said Threats

Armament Races Are Branded Peril; Excerpts From Recent Speeches By Statesmen Reveal Forebodings

BY CHARLES P. NUTTER

LONDON, Feb. 29. (AP)—The world, as viewed through the eyes of British statesmen, is in a dangerous, tense state, tottering on the edge of another war which would threaten the existence of democracy.

Dire forebodings and predictions of conflict have been uttered with increasing regularity in recent months by Britain's political leaders who, without exception, appear agreed the future holds grave perils.

Public Speeches Bare Fears

With this situation in view virtually all of Britain's leaders have swung in behind the rearmament program expected to be launched in March at a cost estimated at between a billion and a billion and a half dollars.

The following excerpts from speeches, made in recent months both in and out of commons, show both the trend of current British thought and present many of the rearmament arguments:

Stanley Baldwin, prime minister: "The world has never been less safe for democracy than it is today. In the interests of world peace it is essential our defensive services be better than they are today. I warn this country there are grave risks to peace."

David Lloyd George, war time premier and member of parliament: "People have been predicting war during the last two or three years. I have never agreed with that. One reason was that Germany was not prepared. She is more prepared today. Russia was not prepared, but she is prepared now. I do not think there is very much time left to throw away."

Germany Called Menace

Winston Churchill, former holder of cabinet posts, who may reenter the cabinet to coordinate the rearmament program: "The whole of Germany is an armed camp. The industries of Germany are mobilized for war to an extent ours were not mobilized even a year after the great war. A whole population is being trained from childhood up for war."

Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister: "Our attempt to lead the world towards disarmament by example has failed. All over the world—in Germany, Russia, Japan, the United States and elsewhere—armaments are being increased. I regard the present situation as the most serious we have faced since 1914."

George Lansbury, member of parliament and until recently head of the labor party: "The danger of war, whether waged between two nations or groups of nations, is nearer today than at any time in my lifetime. I have never known a period when armaments were of such a devilish description."

Sir Samuel Hoare, former foreign secretary: "I am haunted by two unescapable questions. What effect is the rupture of the Stresa front, the front that maintained the entente between the old allies of France and Italy, going to have upon the new Germany, a Germany militarily stronger than it has ever been before? What effect is the continuance of the European conflict going to have upon Japan, a country that in the east is as resolutely bent upon achieving its objective as is Germany in the west?"

Churchman Voices Warning

Sir Stafford Cripps, labor leader: "The government armaments program will lead this country to war as surely as did the armaments program of 1910."

Oliver Baldwin, labor member of parliament, and son of the prime minister: "Another five years of foreign policy of the national government will cause war not with one country but with the whole world."

Questions And Answers On New Farm Program

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 — Agriculture department experts today prepared the following answers to questions about the new soil conservation farm program.

Q. What will the new farm program be called?

A. The AAA. A part of the adjustment act was untouched by the Supreme court, the new law provides that the AAA may be used for enforcement.

Launched This Week

Q. When will the new program be launched?

A. With the convening of regional meetings of farmers, probably next Thursday at Memphis and Chicago.

Q. What are the principal differences between the new program and the old AAA?

A. Instead of aiming directly for control of production of crops, the new program will seek preservation of soil fertility. Subsidy payments will be made generally available and not merely to farmers who sign contract. No contracts will be permitted. The program will be developed on regional lines instead of commodity lines. There is no tax provision in the new law.

Q. Who will be eligible to obtain subsidy payments for soil conservation?

A. Any farmer who meets standards of performance which will be established by the AAA. The standards will vary for the different major crop regions.

Q. Will benefit payments to farmers be as large as they were under the old program?

A. Probably not. Under the new program, however, more money probably will go to regions not producing such major commercial crops as cotton, corn and wheat.

Controlled By Grain Production

Q. Could the AAA control hog or beef production under the new law?

A. Probably only incidentally. Livestock production might be controlled by limiting in some way the production of feed grains.

Q. If no definite commodity programs can be established, what can be done to prevent surpluses and to maintain prices for special crops, such as tobacco, sugar cane and sugar beets, and rice?

A. No definite answer has been found for this question. In some quarters, it has been suggested that tobacco and rice prices might be maintained by passing a law governing interstate shipments of the commodities and providing for state quotas.

May Open Regional Offices

Q. If regional sections of the AAA are established, and regional programs operated, will regional offices be opened and the AAA organization decentralized?

A. This is not expected during the first year, and regional offices probably will be maintained in Washington. Later, the office force here may be broken down partially and regional offices established.

Q. Will the AAA employ more people now?

A. No employment of new workers is expected. The AAA furloughed from 1,000 to 1,500 persons after January 6 and many probably will be recalled for the new program.

To Divert 50,000,000 Acres

Q. How many acres of commercial land will the administration seek to have diverted to soil conserving crops?

A. The AAA has estimated that about 50,000,000 acres of commercial lands are producing crops for which there is no foreign market. The AAA is expected to work toward retirement of much of this land.

Q. What will be the basis for subsidy payments under the new program?

A. This is to be determined largely at the four regional meetings now planned. But for many crops, the basis probably will be a combination. The AAA may pay a flat sum for acres planted in soil conserving crops, plus an allowance for commercial crops which would have been planted on diverted acres.

Little Known Facts In The Life Of Barrymore Bared As Old Times Recalled

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 29—When Lionel Barrymore gets to talking about old times with an old-time friend like Charles Grapewin, some little known facts about the eldest Barrymore crop up.

For instance: Lionel once was knocked out by John L. Sullivan, the great fighter. Helena Modjeska, the great actress, was his godmother. Mark Twain was his friend. He has shaken hands with Mussolini.

Twain, it develops, was a friend of his father, and they used to gather—actors, authors, artists—in a chophouse in New York. Lionel highly prizes today a letter from Twain.

He met and knew Mussolini when, some years ago, he played in Rome. He knew John L. Sullivan when, as a youth, he used to haunt training quarters. Sullivan swung at him playfully one day—and Lionel forgot to duck. "So they picked me up and carried me out," he recalls.

Wrote Scripts For $25

MOREOVER—Lionel the actor the artist noted for his etchings, was one of the first laymen to fly in one of the Wright brothers' "pusher type" planes. He was then a prominent stage actor. "We used to be perched out on a couple of struts in front of the thing," he will reminisce. "Once over New York harbor, we got in a spot where the wind against us just balanced the power of the motor and we stood still in the air—had to turn around and go back. . . ."

Twenty-five years ago, when he was just starting in pictures, he wrote scrips for Griffith at $25 apiece. Anita Loos, still a ranking scenarist, was just a beginner then also.

As a boy, Lionel put himself in "hock" at Delmonico's restaurant for a bill amounting to more than he and John possessed—while John rushed to the theater to persuade their father to come to the rescue.

* * *

Almost Gave Up Acting

IN Marshall, Tex., he saw a "tough guy" take a shot at his father, Maurice Barrymore, and wound another man fatally. He has lived in a sheep camp in Wyoming. As boys, he and John once lived all summer on a farm with a negro hostler and 30 dogs. He once played semi-professional baseball in and about Philadelphia.

Once he almost gave up acting entirely to become a director. The picture he made most successfully was "Madame X," starring Ruth Chatterton. But then he played with Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul." He couldn't direct any more because he was too busy acting. The role not only restored him to his first love but won him the academy award that year.

When he came to Hollywood he expected to use the other half of his round-trip ticket. But he never did. It's just among his souvenirs, now.

* * *

Fan Letter Framed

THE only fan letter Joan Crawford ever had framed hangs in her dressing room. It is a hand-made silk handkerchief on which the sender typed a personal letter in purple ink, the typing forming a silhouette of the actress in profile.

A woman in Ontario, Canada, has proposed by mail to the Yacht Club boys. She says she doesn't care which one of the four she marries. They are not drawing lots.

Vilma Banky, since giving up the screen, has seriously turned to golf. Her husband, Rod La Rocque, sheepishly admits she beats him frequently. Vilma has won 11 local trophies for her pasture pool prowess.

FFA Members Are Hosts At Dinner

"The Six Stages of Music," a piano composition, was played by Mrs. R. Ralph Lipscomb. Alvin Parchman and Ordell Roberts played a violin-guitar number.

Roy M. Monk, vocational agriculture teacher, made arrangements for the program and the dinner, preparation of which was supervised by Miss Thelma Lee Dumas, home economics teacher.

Grid awards were received by Boyd Buckman, Randall Cook, Ted Davis, J. B. Hammitt, Marvin Haralson, Bill Kleth, Wilmoth McArthur, Alvin Parch, Dick Park, W. C. Pierson, Voloney Rush, Jeff Samples, George Seagler, Noble Sides, James Simpson, Floyd Tidwell, Dan Trotter, Frank Moore, J. A. Sherrod, and Leo Patterson. Basketball awards went to Billy Montgomery, McArthur, Wesley Davis, Tidwell, Olen Walker, Simpson, and Kleth.

L. E. Park, Bob Pace and Lynch Simmons, members of the board of education, attended.

There has been restored, between Groesbeck and Mexia, Texas, old Fort Parker, destroyed a century ago by Indians, who captured there as a child, Cynthia Ann Parker, who became the wife of a Comanche chieftain and mother of Quanah Parker, famous war chief of that tribe.

BROADWAY—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday: "Dangerous Waters" (Universal). Jack Holt, Robert Armstrong, Grace Bradley.

LINDSEY — Sunday, Monday and Tuesday: "Song Of The Saddle" (Warner). Dick Foran, Alma Lloyd, Charles Middleton.

A wagon train of pioneers moves across the western prairies and among the group are a young boy and girl. They are separated, however, when his father is murdered by three bandits dressed as Indians. When he grows to manhood he sets out to avenge his father's death.

LYRIC — Sunday, Monday and Tuesday: "Cleopatra." Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Henry Wilcoxon.

TEXAN — Sunday and Monday: "Hands Across The Table" (Paramount). Carole Lombard, Fred MacMurray, Astrid Allwyn, Ralph Bellamy.

Many laughs as a poor but ambitious manicurist and a penniless young socialite attempt to live up to an agreement that each shall marry for money, with love a negligible factor.

PALACE — Wednesday and Thursday: "The Lady Consents" (RKO-Radio). Ann Harding, Herbert Marshall, Margaret Lindsay.

A wife allows a cunning woman to lure away the husband she dearly loves. Then ensues a battle between one woman for the man she loves and another for the things which he can give her.

BROADWAY—Wednesday and Thursday: "Public Enemy" (Warner). James Cagney, Jean Harlow.

A small time gambler becomes a big shot but discovers that he is not big enough to win the girl he loves. She makes him prove to the world that he will become a worthy citizen.

LINDSEY — Wednesday and Thursday: "The Widow From Monte Carlo" (Warner). Warren William, Dolores Del Rio, Louise Fazenda.

A gay Lothario sweeps a bored young duchess into his arms and teaches her the thrills of romance. Awkward situations arise when their actions are discovered by a social climber who threatens to reveal all unless the duchess attends her party.

LYRIC — Wednesday and Thursday: "Jealousy" (Columbia). Nancy Carroll, George Murphy and Donald Cook.

A woman's beauty fanned the flames of jealousy in the hearts of two men who loved her. One tried to win the love which she so freely gave to another, and their three lives were almost ruined by the spectre of suspicion.

TEXAN — Tuesday and Wednesday: "Annie Oakley" (RKO-Radio). Barbara Stanwyck, Preston Foster, Melvyn Douglas.

A crack rifle shot meets a young girl of the mountains. Her romantic interest in him makes her miss a decisive shot in a contest. They both are signed for Buffalo Bill's show and become professional rivals and romantic allies.

TEXAN — Thursday: "Two For Tonight" (Paramount). Bing Crosby, Joan Bennett, Mary Boland, Lynne Overman, Thelma Todd.

Amusing incidents take place when a singer tries to sell a song to a music publisher and accidentally meets a theatrical producer who imagines he is a playwright. He undergoes some rollicking adventures trying to prepare a play for the producer's star and sweetheart.

PALACE — Friday and Saturday: "The Prisoner Of Shark Island" (20th Century). Warner Baxter, Gloria Stuart.

A gripping story of a doctor who ministered to a killer and was then sentenced to life on a dreaded prison island. Here he underwent untold hardships. He once tried to escape but was recaptured. Later he was given a chance to prove himself when fever struck the island and he fought it to a successful conclusion and finally won a pardon from the president.

BROADWAY — Friday and Saturday: "Footlight Parade" (First National). Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler.

LINDSEY — Firday and Saturday: "One Man Law" (Columbia). Buck Jones, Shirley Grey, Robert Ellis.

A young sheriff finds himself facing plenty of trouble when he has to turn out old friends in favor of newcomers. They become openly hostile but he manages to straighten out all troubles.

LYRIC — Friday and Saturday: "Kid Courageous" (Republic). Bob Steele.

TEXAN — Friday and Saturday: "Gallant Defender" (Columbia). Charles Starrett, Joan Perry.

A stirring tale of the conquering of the west and of a young man whose brave deeds won him friends and the heart of the woman he loved.

"The Prisoner Of Shark Island" brings Warner Baxter and Gloria Stuart together at the Palace here Friday and Saturday.

Ann Harding fights for [illegible] Herbert Marshall in "The Lady Consents," coming to the Palace Wednesday and Thursday.

Washington Dairymen War On "Butcher Bull" Species

SEATTLE, Wash. Feb. 29. (AP)—Washington dairymen have declared war on "the butcher bull."

The "butcher bull" is a young sire, farmed out to a dairy farmer by a butcher, the butcher exchanging the animal's sire service for his feed and development at the hands of the farmer.

Members of the Washington Guernsey Cattle club and Washington Holstein-Friesian association, in recent convention at Longview, declared many of these bulls are grade animals and not purebred, pedigreed sire prospects as represented by the butchers or traders who furnish them for two to four years to the dairymen.

McKenzie Funeral Is Held Saturday

Series for Alfred McKenzie, 27, who died of pneumonia in a sanitarium here Friday morning, were held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Sanders Funeral home. Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of First Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery.

McKenzie, who lived in the Arnett and Benson addition north of Texas Technological college, was a resident here for about six years.

His wife; a son, George; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McKenzie, Lubbock; three brothers, Lon, John, and Clyde McKenzie, all of Lubbock; and three sisters, Miss Ellen McKenzie, Lubbock; Miss Beulah McKenzie, Amarillo, and Mrs. Ross Hill, Levelland, survive.

Presidents Of State Teachers Colleges Re-Elected Friday

DALLAS, Feb. 29 (AP)—Contracts for construction of a $250,000 library building at North Texas State Teachers college were let and presidents of all seven state teachers colleges were re-elected Friday at a meeting here of the board of regents.

Nominations of the presidents for their summer school faculties were approved and problems concerning $1,500,000 in Public Works administration projects at the various institutions were discussed.

Petitions asking about $15,000 in additional grants to round out the various improvements were prepared.

The regents were told that approximately 10,000 were expected to attend summer schools at the various colleges.

Dr. J. R. Brinkley Purchases Palatial Residence In Valley

McALLEN, Feb. 29 (AP)—Dr. John R. Brinkley, operator of a hospital at Del Rio, has purchased a palatial Rio Grande valley residence south of San Juan at a reported price of $50,000.

The former Milford, Kansas, physician, who broadcasts over two Mexican border radio stations, included a 26-acre citrus grove surrounding the house, in his purchase.

Dr. Brinkley operates station XEAW at Reynosa, Mexico, and XERA, across the Rio Grande from Del Rio.

Republicans In Western New Mexico Endorse Gov. Landon

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Feb. 29 (AP)—Otero county Republicans joined party organizations of four other New Mexico counties Friday in endorsing Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas as the GOP presidential standard bearer.

Leading New Mexico Republicans predict the state's Republican convention, here next Monday, will endorse the Kansan's candidacy. However, they say New Mexico's six-vote delegation to the Republican national convention in Cleveland, June 6, will be uninstructed.

The Time To Act Slowly

ALTHOUGH prospects for oil in commercial quantities are better today than they have ever been in this section of West Texas, this is no time for plunging in the hope that quick riches will follow.

From all indications, the Honolulu-Cascade No. 1 Bennett test in Yoakum county eventually will play the role of discovery well fo ra new pool, but more people have lost money on oil "indications" than on any other one thing connected with the petroleum business. At best, investments based upon possibilities are long pull investments and at the present time almost purely speculative in nature.

There are few occurrences that can hurt a territory more than a premature oil boom that fails to "boom", hence residents of this entire area will act slowly if they want to safeguard their economic positions. The major companies are largely "in the saddle", ready for whatever oil development there may be and history shows fields dominated "from scratch" by the majors are not as conducive to profits by "the little fellow" as pure wildcat development.

Best thing for citizens of all towns near the prospective field to do at the present time is to start slowly preparing to take care of an influx of people and business which will follow any important development to the southwest of us. Not a community within striking distance of the possible field has any extra housing facilities, business building or office space—in fact, none of them have enough to take care of the natural growth which will come without any oil business at all.

Outside of such conservative preparation, residents of the area will do well to "think fast and talk slow" regarding prospective investments at the present time.

THE WEATHER BUREAU AGAIN

Comment in these columns the other day to the effect that a government weather bureau should be established in Lubbock, and that Lubbock civic agencies should work toward procuring such a bureau, has resulted in a letter from Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college.

Concurring fully in our suggestion, Doctor Knapp enclosed with his letter a copy of another letter which nearly two years ago he wrote his personal friend, Secretary Henry A. Wallace, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In the letter to Mr. Wallace, copies of which went to Senators Connally and Sheppard, Doctor Knapp urged location of a weather bureau not only in Lubbock, generally speaking, but on the campus of the college in particular.

President Knapp pointed out to Mr. Wallace the needs of such a station and that the college could and would co-operate in assembling and keeping of various data. While his letter has yet not borne fruit, the college executive has not lost hope and writes the Editor of The Avalanche-Journal "I believe all of us ought to get together and see if this could be put over".

We are pleased with Doctor Knapp's suggestion and with the position he is taking in this matter of importance to the vast agricultural interests of the far-flung South Plains.

We believe, as he believes, a concerted action on the part of the interested citizenship will result in our attaining the goal.

A GOOD JOB WELL STARTED

As soon as the safety group reports to the City commission and that body accepts what parts of the program it deems best, further articles, including a mass of statistics worked out under the direction of able Prof. J. W. Jackson, of Texas Tech, will be presented by Avalanche-Journal papers.

Working slowly and carefully, the safety commission has gotten well started on a difficult but none-the-less important public problem.

Its efforts thus far are wholly commendable.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

That which is crooked cannot be made straight: and that which is wanting cannot be numbered.—Ecclesiastes I: 14-16.

A Raise By Any Other Name!

THE NEW BOOKS

Stonewall Jackson's Biography By Henderson Re-Issued; N. Warner Hooke Writes Another On Biff And Netta; Good Collection Of Mystery Stories Recently Published

"STONEWALL JACKSON," by G. F. R. Henderson; (Longmans, Green and Co., New York).

THE world of books being what it is, it can be a great deal more profitable to spend some time with a re-issue of an old book than with a new issue of a new book; and this year will produce few, if any, biographies as good as "Stonewall Jackson." by G. F. R. Henderson.

This work was originally published in two volumes in 1898. Since then it has been accepted universally as "the" biography of the great Confederate soldier; and since it is now available in a new, one-volume edition, attention may properly be called to it here.

Agrees With Viewpoint

Sometime after Appomattox, a statue of Jackson was unveiled in New Orleans. A Confederate chaplain, offering prayer, used this expression: "When, in thine inscrutable decree, it was ordained that the Confederacy should fail, it became necessary for thee to remove thy servant, Jackson." With this viewpoint Colonel Henderson seems to agree.

For Jackson, great strategist and great fighter, was the perfect implement for the expression of Lee's designs. With Jackson at his side, Lee never failed. Had Jackson been at Gettysburg, the South almost unquestionably would have won; and victory there would have been final.

Readable, Interesting

It is the virtue of this book that it shows just how and why Jackson was such a matchless instrument in Lee's hand. You may know little about military matters; Colonel Henderson will explain all that is needful, and explain it in readable, interesting style.

He also reveals Jackson, not as the dour fanatic some books show, but as a warmly human, lovable man.

More About Children

"CLOSE OF PLAY," by N. Warner Hooke; (E. P. Dutton, N. Y.)

A YEAR or more ago an unknown, by name N. Warner Hooke, published a book called "Striplings" in this country. It took hold firmly, if slowly. Finally it became an enthusiasm with a large number of people, and still remains so. These people believe it to be a classic among books about children.

It told about Biff and Netta, half brother and sister, and their somewhat amazing life in the ruins of what once had been an impressvie English estate. Biff and Netta were amazingly uninhibited; they did precisely what they pleased because no one had forced them to do differently. Their story ended on a sad minor chord, and left thousands demanding to know what happened next.

A Good Sequel

Miss Hooke (her first name is Nina) has tried to fill the demand. She has written as good a sequel as anyone has a right to expect; better than anyone else might have done with the same material. Nevertheless, it is rather an anti-climax.

"Close of Play" picks up Netta at St. Cecilia, rather happy, quite popular, thoroughly charming as a girl of 13 "going on 14," Biff has had bad times at his school; early in the book Netta learns he has disappeared, and because something tells her he will return home if she is there, she breaks with her best friend and goes home instead of to a holiday in Wales as had been planned.

Finds A Substitute

And at home Netta finds a substitute, who is fair and handsome and named Rodney. Curiously, or perhaps not curiously since she is a girl, Rodney comes to be almost a complete substitute. The old relationship between her and the absent half-brother has altered, even before he returns.

Miss Hooke manages the situation when Biff turns up quite marvelously. But the prospective reader should know that neither Biff nor Netta is the breathtaking sort of being each was once upon a time. Each has met life.

Fast-Moving, Hard-Boiled

"JUDGE ROBINSON MURDERED" by R. L. Goldman; (Coward-McCann, N. Y.)

IF you like your mystery stories fast-moving and hard-boiled, you are pretty apt to go for "Judge Robinson Murdered" by R. L. Goldman (Coward-McCann: $2). Here is a book which carries you along so fast that you don't notice the tale's defects until after you have finished reading.

It tells about a newspaper editor who, falling in love with the daughter of his bitterest enemy—a political boss whom he has sworn to destroy—has to leap to her aid when her father is mysteriously murdered.

There are some sinister gangsters in the story, an asylum for lunatics from which a Jack-the-Ripper inmate opportunely escapes, sundry shots in the dark, and enough all-around excitement to make the book very hard to lay down.

• • •

"THE UNCHARTED ISLAND" by Sidney Parkman; (Harper's, N. Y.)

FOR those who prefer their melodrama sea-going, there is "The Uncharted Island," by Sydney Parkman (Harper's: $2). This one has to do with a young American exbootlegger (a fine lad, for all that) who ships on a Pacific liner to escape the law, runs into a pretty girl, meets a shipwreck, and winds up on a South Sea island after divers exciting experiences. You could go far and do a good deal worse.

• • •

Pedestrian Story

LASTLY, we have "The Murder of a Bad Man," by Hulbert Footner (Harper's: $2). This is a rather pedestrian story about a young treasury agent who insinuates himself into the home of a post-prohibition bootleg king. You will be glad to learn that after suffering extreme peril he brings about both the discomfiture and the death of that gentleman.

Thumbnail Reviews

"BLACK Thunder," by Arna Bontemps (Macmillan): very effective novel of an attempted slave revolt at Richmond circa 1800; lowering in the background are the French Revolution and the exploits of Toussaint l'Ouverture; the protagonist is Gabriel, young, intelligent negro giant.

• • •

"THE Rolling Years," by Agnes Sligh Turnbull (Macmillan): another good novel through the years, beginning in 1870, ending before the war; homely talk, village scenes, at least three love stories.

• • •

"THE Bright Hill," by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman (Little Brown): Definitely in the sentimental class, but written with more firmness than usual: Kerin revolts against a selfish husband and finds a job and love and so forth.

• • •

"THE Rainbow," by Donald R. Richberg (Doubleday, Doran): the story of the NRA; a lot of facts and an occasional thrill.

• • •

"MR. Theobald's Devil," by Anna Gordon Keown (Morrow); one of those brittle, puckish books which come out of England with such appalling regularity; this one is about a curate with a devil under his hat.

• • •

"INSIDE Europe," by John Gunther (Harpers): one of the best collections of European political personages assembled in recent years; Gunther is a good reporter who does not allow personal bitterness or lack of it to blind him.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

VERY subtly President Roosevelt has shifted the federal financial setup so that it is no longer dominated by New York bankers. Now he's looking for an Under-Secretary of the Treasury whose only knowledge of Wall Street is what he reads in the stock market tables of the newspapers.

Mr. Roosevelt gave plenty of warning of his financial plans and personnel but other Chief Executives have done that. In his inaugural speech he promised to "drive the money-changers out of the temple." In his address on the "state of the union" he declared that "we have brought control of the government back to Washington." Quietly but persistently he has carried out the promise in certain respects.

Secretary Morgenthau is an up-state New York farmer. Federal Reserve Board President Eccles hails from Utah. The new Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, is a wealthy Chicago liberal. RFC Chairman Jesse Jones was born in Tennessee and bred in Texas. SEC Boss "Jim" Landis is a missionary's son who was in China. It's possible to exaggerate the significance of this shift but Wall Street doesn't think so. It's a different setup from the days when the trio who dominated federal financial policies were Andrew Mellon, Ogden L. Mills and Eugene Meyer.

HIT: Senator Dickinson may not know it but he turned the knife in an old New Deal wound when he headlined the fact that a reelected Roosevelt might remake the Supreme court so that Brandeis-Stone-Cardozo liberals would dominate its decisions.

Some Rooseveltians suspect that the senator from Iowa may be wrong. They have heard reports that the next vacancy has been promised to Majority Leader Robinson of Arkansas. Although a loyal Rooseveltian, Mr. Robinson is not regarded as a practicing progressive whose decisions would inevitably embody the President's ideals. The type of man Mr. Roosevelt's closest friends want on the bench is Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York or Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

Mr. Dickinson also reckons without the temper of the conservatives now on the court. Wholly aside from their decisions, it it known that they personally dislike Mr. Roosevelt's social and economic philosophy. Although several are of advanced age, they will not resign during his White House incumbency unless their health forces them to step down. In fact, their friends confide that at least two have gone into training so they they may outlast Mr. Roosevelt. Just the same, the Iowa senator has raised an issue which makes an appealing political refrain.

• • •

TACTICS: Gifford Pinchot has at last been read out of the Progressive faction of the Republican party. And the man who did it was none other than William Edgar Borah.

Here's the story: Some weeks ago Mr. Pinchot tried to persuade the senator to enter the presidential primary in Pennsylvania. But the governor, having had some experience, insisted that it would cost thousands and thousands of dollars for the senator to make any kind of a showing. Mr. Borah listened and then gave out that the Keystone state was off his list because of the expense. Next he sent trusted scouts into the state. They reported that he had plenty of public backing in the rural districts, and that for a small outlay he could place his name on the ticket. He's toying with the idea.

What actually happened is that Mr. Borah's advisers urged him not to tie himself to Mr. Pinchot. They pointed out that the ex-Bull Mooser had too many enemies and had made himself unpopular even with his old admirers. The senator, who now displays a surprising grasp of bread-and-butter politics, acquiesced. And the next he heard of Mr. Pinchot was when the latter delivered a bitter anti-New Deal speech under the auspices of the Republican National committee—the very group Mr. Borah seeks to dethrone.

STATUS: President Roosevelt disagrees sharply with statisticians who estimate the unemployed at upwards of 10,000,000 people. He figures that the total is several million below that number.

The president bases his guess—it's no more than that—on conditions as he has observed them around his home at Hyde Park. He tells friends that he knows of many men who were once employed in factories and stores and offices. Though they lost their regular jobs during the worst days of the depression, they have managed to find full-time or part-time work which furnishes them with a living. Other members of the families have had the same experience, doing different work and earning less pay.

But Mr. Roosevelt's central argument is that households are keeping together by this means. They are working at something. Yet when relief or census experts ask their status, they are apt to reply that they are "unemployed" because they haven't recovered their pre-depression jobs. Statistics being what they are, your theory—and guess—is as good as the president's.

NEW YORK
By Lou Schneider

WITH the TVA decision out of the way constitutional lawyers are advising clients as to the possibilities of other important administration measures. As, if and when these cases reach the high tribunal the following results are being predicted:

Utility Holding Company act—unconstitutional;
Jones-Costigan act—unconstitutional;
Guffey Soft Coal act—unconstitutional;
Government Land Condemnation Right—constitutional;
Railway Pensions act—constitutional;
Wagner Labor Disputes act—unconstitutional;
Frazier-Lemke Mortgage Moratorium—unconstitutional.

It is also the opinion of well-read lawyers that any government act giving the Federal Trade commission the power to regulate interstate business will be found constitutional. That is why business interests fear the prospect of the enactment of the O'Mahoney Business License act this year.

• • •

CHEERFUL: The Supreme court's ruling on the TVA cheered one branch of the electrical manufacturing industry while it took all the pep out of another. The electrical appliance manufacturers are all agog with their business prospects. On the other hand the manufacturers of power producing and distributing equipment feel down in the dumps.

According to appliance trade insiders the market for household equipment has expanded ten-fold because of the decision. One said that the sales gain of last year was enormous. "But the prospects for 1936 are now unusually bright." He expects washing machines to show the greatest benefit. After that it is expected that refrigerators will do next best. Then will come water heaters and electric ranges. "All is cheerful."

• • •

GLOOMY: But it isn't so for heavy electrical equipment producers. Utility organizations planned to spend about $250,000,000 for expansion of plants and distributing facilities. Now that the TVA ruling is against utility companies these plans are being revised. It is hinted that the total may be reduced to $100,000,000.

Informed opinion—from the business point of view—is that the court's ruling doesn't work out in favor of business recovery. Should power companies curtail plant improvements and expenditures it will effect numerous other industries. Steel and copper will be hit most severely. The cement industry is another that will suffer as will rubber, cotton and wearing apparel. Thousands of men who would have been employed to fill the orders will have less to spend. And so from the heavy electrical producers' point of view the outlook is gloomy.

• • •

WORRIED: Big business is bothered by the war talk sweeping through the newspapers of the country. It is worried when it reads such headliners as "German War Plans Being Perfected" and "Russia Fears War in East Will Spread West" and "Britain Plans War Consolidation of Offices and Units" and "Italy Looks for Further Spread of War Should Oil Be Limited."

Children Should Be Put "On Own" When They Marry

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

PLENTY of parents who have given their children everything they can afford—are now confronted with a new problem. Mary wants a husband and Johnnie wants a wife. The family exchequer is going to take considerable squeezing to take care of the purchase.

Helen Welshimer

Yet such authorities as Dr. Valerie Parker, of the American Social Hygiene association, are advocating parental responsibility in making marriage financially possible for children. Parents sympathize with the desire of their sons and daughters to marry. They understand that it is a normal, natural urge. They crave homes and their own sons and daughters.

• • •

Help Children Over Hurdles

IN SO far as is conveniently possible, fathers and mothers are willing enough to help their children take the financial hurdles across the present economic barriers.

To sacrifice unduly is another proposition. It is not fair for a son or daughter to let father and mother, who have saved and scrimped to obtain a few final comforts—or maybe necessities—spend that money on those children. Parents have certain rights. They do not need to make a perennial sacrifice. Any boy or girl who permits it isn't worthy of marriage.

When a woman has saved for years for a new living room rug why when she purchases it must she spread it on her daughter's floor? When she has gone without glasses, a needed operation or a lower plate that would really fit, spending that money on her children, why must she continue to sacrifice so Adam and Eve Junior may share their oatmeal and orange juice every morning?

• • •

Waiting Tests Stamina

IT IS well to talk of the privileges of the younger generation. It is not unfitting to say that our hopes rest in them. However, when the younger generation knows that in time it will be good for nothing but a sacrificial gesture, what chance has it of wanting to be brave, true, noble?

Certainly two young people who do not love each other enough to weather a separation that necessity makes more prolonged than they and their parents wish, lack one of the essential ingredients for a well-baked wedding cake.

There was a generation of boys and girls not very long ago who had to wait for marriage. The boys went off to war and the girls knitted, rolled bandages, and watched gold stars replace the blue. They took it. Surely their younger brothers and sisters aren't any less strong.

There were plenty of hardships for those pioneer forebears of ours who took that strange, dark path through a crowding wilderness. Life wasn't easy always for the mothers and fathers of today's marrying generation, either.

• • •

Acceptance Sign of Weakness

IF a boy and girl permit undue sacrifice on the part of their parents in order to favor their matrimonial intentions, it would appear that some sturdiness of their own will be weakened. If, in twenty-five years, they in turn are asked to make a similar sacrifice, they don't be as likely to do so as their parents, who had defined the word long before Mary and Johnnie reached the proposing age.

Certainly children have rights. Every young man and woman deserves the opportunity to erect a home founded in love, peace, pride and understanding. Every father and mother deserves to maintain the walls of their own establishment with a little comfort when the lean years end.

Problems And News Concerning Those Old Favorites

WIDESPREAD interest in checkers and chess over the South Plains area has prompted this "corner" of the Sunday Avalanche-Journal's editorial page. Several score persons are actively engaged in chess play and chess clubs; seveal hundred belong to checkers clubs and play that grand old favorite.

He is the latest checkers and chess news, along with problems and comment.

• • •

The Checker Board

Place black men on squares 1 to 12 and white men on squares 21 to 32. Black men move first.

This is the first checker column to appear in this paper. It is to appear in each Sunday's Avalanche-Journal. Local and national checker news, games, and problems will be edited by Vinson Stanphill.

The ocal checker club meets every Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in Hilton hotel, mezzanine floor. All persons interested in checkers are invited to attend.

11-15, 22-18, 15-22, 25-18; 9-11, 29-25; 4-8, 25-22; 11-16, 24-20; 8-11, 27-24; 10-14, 24-19; 7-10, 32-27 (A); 9-13 (B), 18-9; 5-14, 22-18; 1-6, 18-9, 5-14, 26-22 (C); 13-17, 22-13; 14-18, 23-7, 16-32, 21-17; 3-10, 30-25; 11-15, 25-21; 15-18, 17-14; 10-17, 21-14; 18-22, 14-9; 22-25, 9-5; 2-6, 13-6; 2-9. Drawn.

(A) 28-24 is very weak.

(B) 3-7 loses by 19-15, 10-19, and 27-24; white wins.

(C) 13-15 is dangerous for the beginner.

Problem No. 1 will be "first position." More games or won and lost by this position than by any other.

17-13, 5-1; 13-9, 1-5; 9-6, 5-1; 14-10, 1-5; 6-1, 5-9; 10-15, 9-5; 15-18, 5-9 (A); 1-5, 9-6 (B); 18-15, 21-17; 5-1, 6-9; 15-18, 17-13 (C); 18-15, 9-14; 1-5, 14-17; 15-10, 17-22; 10-14, 22-25; 5-1, 25-22; 1-6, 22-25; 6-10, 25-22; 10-15, 22-25, 15-18, Black wins.

(A) 22-17, 18-22; 17-14, 1-6; 5-1, 6-2; 1-5, 22-17. Black wins.

(B) 9-13, 18-22; 21-17, 5-1; 17-14, 1-6; 14-10, 22-18; 10-6, 5-1. Black wins.

(C) 9-5, 18-22; 17-14, 1-6; 5-1, 6-2; 1-5, 22-17; 14-9, 17-14. Black wins.

The Chess Board

Lubbock Chess club will meet in the Hilton hotel at 7:30 o'clock Monday night. V. O. Jennings and J. R. Taylor will be hosts.

After an absence of several weeks while arrangements were being completed for a games department, this column is being resumed. A number of queries were made regarding the Chessboard.

Eight high school boys have formed a chess club, holding weekly meetings. Frank Ward, a teacher, is sponsor. If the club will designate a reporter, this column will be glad to have news from the group.

Delayed games in the intra-club team match have been completed, resulting in a final score of 7½-4½ favoring the team of Dr. A. L. Strout. Dr. R. S. Underwood captained the other group. In their second game, Dr. Underwood defeated Dr. Strout, but G. V. Pardue, of Strout's team, defeated Rod O'Neall twice.

Problem No. 84 was composed by H. J. Tucker. White plays and mates in two moves. The position:

8; 2p5; 3p4; p1rR4; 8; 2P1kb1R; 2BNp2Q; 4n1Kn.

The following game decided the 1936 championship of the Manhattan Chess club:

Seventeen players will be accepted for a United States championship tournament to be conducted in New York beginning March 28.

Nine players, because of their prominence, will not be required to qualify. They are I. Kashdan, Reuben Fine, Samuel Reshevsky, Arthur W. Dake, A. Kupchik, Edward Lasker, A. Kevitz, Hermas Steiner, and I. A. Horowitz. Only Kupchik and Steiner have not accepted the invitation.

Rafael Cintron, San Juan, Puerto Rico champion, and Harold Morton and Weaver W. Adams of Massachusetts will seek to qualify. First prize will be $600, and other awards will total $900.

NINETEEN counties have made entries of over 700 head of livestock and 100 hams and bacons in the sixth annual Lubbock Quality Meat show March 30 and 31 and April 1, it was announced Saturday.

"Entries are the largest in the history of the show, it was said, with indications that the quality of the animals exhibited will be above the highs of previous shows. Many of the animals have been on feed for nearly a year and greater care has been taken by feeders in their work this year, than before.

Hale Plans Show

Nineteen vocational agriculture teachers and eighteen county agents have entries already listed. In addition W. W. Evans, Hale county agent, and John R. Hewitt, Plainview vocational agriculture teacher, are expected to have some animals entered. Hale county has planned a show for mid-April. They have 108 head of cattle on feed.

Kent and Garza counties are also expected to have entries, although none have been received so far.

Cured Meats Entered

Six counties this year have entered 52 cured bacons and 52 hams. Owing to a shortage of hogs, fewer pigs were killed and meats cured this year than in previous shows, such as the 1932, 1933 and 1934 shows.

Lamb county has entered the most, Donald Turner, county agent at Amherst, having entered 16 each of hams and bacons. Lubbock is second with 12 each; Floyd third with 10 each; Crosby next with eight each; Briscoe with four each and Glen Blackmon, Shallowater vocational teacher, has two each. He is the only vocational teacher to enter cured meats.

There will be livestock entries from counties amounting to 160 calves; 298 pigs and 275 sheep.

By counties, the entries include:

Lubbock: Charles A. King, jr., assistant county agent, 15 calves, 14 pigs; Lubbock high school, R. L. Burdette, teacher, four calves, 12 pigs; Frenship rural high school, L. M. Hargrave, teacher, ten pigs; Shallowater rural high school, Glen Blackmon, teacher, five pigs, five lambs; New Deal rural high school, Lawrence Shipman, teacher, four calves, 40 pigs.

Anton Has Entries

Hockley: Anton high school, J. P. Smith, teacher, 12 pigs; county, D. W. Sherrill, county agent, 10 calves, six pigs, 12 sheep.

Lamb: Littlefield high school, T. L. Leach, teacher, 30 pigs; Olton high school, two calves, J. D. Strickland, teacher; Spring Lake, Fred Nix, teacher, five pigs; county, Donald Turner, agent, three calves.

Crosby: Lorenzo, G. S. Dowell, teacher, ten pigs, 60 lambs; Ralls, F. C. Shellingburg, 12 calves, 10 pigs, eight lambs; county, Ralph Howe, agent, two calves, five pigs, 40 lambs.

Meadow Enters Animals

Terry: Meadow high school, Bill Zirkel, teacher, 10 pigs, 15 lambs; county, R. N. McClain, county agent, two calves, five pigs.

Gaines: Seagraves high school, R. H. Wells, teacher, 40 lambs; county, Lee R. Pool, county agent, five calves, 20 pigs, four lambs.

Lynn: Tahoka high school, Bill Tubbs, teacher, two calves, eight pigs; Wilson, M. C. Brandon, teacher, three calves, 25 pigs; county, V. F. Jones, county agent, eight calves, five pigs.

Dickens To Have Lot

Dickens: McAdoo high school, Henry Elder, teacher, 16 calves, 25 pigs, 13 lambs; Patton Springs, George D. West, teacher, 12 calves, 14 pigs; Spur high school, 10 calves; county, Grady J. Lane, county agent, seven calves.

Yoakum: H. B. Horne, county agent, 15 calves.

Bailey: Lazbuddy high school, Euel Liner, teacher, six calves, 10 pigs, eight lambs; county, J. B. Waide, jr., county agent, 10 calves.

Floyd: D. F. Bredthauer, county agent, 25 lambs.

Borden: Cline E. Morris, county agent, one calf.

Parmer: Jason O. Gordon, county agent, five calves.

Rust, Wheat's Old Enemy, In Ambush For 1936 Crop; Spores Borne By Wind

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
(Associated Press Science Writer)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 (AP)—The annual race has started between growing wheat and the rusts which threaten to decimate the crop.

Pathologists of the United States department of agriculture explain that the kind of weather occurring between now and harvest largely will influence where serious outbreaks of the fungus may take place and how widespread they will be. Beyond this, the experts decline to make any predictions.

"Rust spreads faster when the weather is warm and moist than when it is cool and dry," Dr. H. B. Humphrey, principal pathologist in the division of cereal crops and diseases, declared.

Spores Are Wind Borne

Stem rust of wheat, one of the most vicious of the cereal rusts, occurs in every part of the world where wheat is grown. The tiny spores can be carried thousands of miles by air currents. Dr. Humphrey declared that in one outbreak in the North Central states stem rust alone destroyed 180,000,000 bushels of wheat.

This rust, as well as the others, is caused by a tiny, parasitic moldlike fungus which attacks all parts of the wheat plant above ground. The spores fall on the plant and sent out one or two germ tubes which enter it through the breathing pores. Inside they develop through their life cycle using nourishment drawn from the plant, finally breaking through the epidermis as pedules filled with the next generation of spores.

Dr. Humphrey pointed out that the stem rust spores have two stages, red, which normally is found through the summer, and black, which usually appears when the wheat starts to ripen.

Infect Barberry Bush

The black spores will not germinate immediately, but generally remain on straw or stubble throughout the winter and cannot infect grains or grasses. They infect only certain species of the barberry bush which in turn produce the spores dangerous to growing crops.

Because of this peculiarity the rust problem in southern states is a complicated one, Dr. Humphrey said. "In the southern states rust seldom develops on barberry bushes because the black spores are formed in May or early June and cannot survive the long hot summers," he said.

The red spores, however, are produced continually throughout the year and the life of the rust is, therefore, independent of the barberries in those states.

In northern states the barberry bush is regarded as a distinct menace and a vigorous campaign has been carried on to eradicate it, about 18,000,000 bushes having been destroyed.

OWNS OLD IRON

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 29 (AP)—Don C. Chamberlin of San Angelo owns a branding iron which he believes pre-dates many irons in Texas. An announcement received here from the Witte Museum of San Antonio listed the Swastika brand, recorded in 1877, as one of the early Texas brands there. Chamberlin's brand, the DT, was made at Belton in 1859 and was first used by his uncle, D. T. Chamberlin. The brand is in the West Texas Museum in San Angelo.

Even when made of frozen salt water, icebergs contain little salt. The salt separates from the water as it freezes.

ONION FIESTA SET

RAYMONDVILLE, Feb. 29 (AP)—Dates for the eighth annual Willacy county Onion fiesta here have been set tentatively for April 17 and 18. Mrs. E. B. Reeves, who has been active in organization and executive work in previous celebrations, has been named chairman of the fiesta executive committee.

Farmers Aided In Dust Fight

Resettlement Administration Has Expanded Its Program To Help Farmers Combat Soil Erosion; Loans Made

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Feb. 29—The Resettlement administration has expanded its program in the southwest "dust bowl" in an effort to help farmers combat wind erosion during the spring blowing season.

Officials announced that loans and grants will be made on a limited scale for emergency treatment of blowing land. Aid will be extended only to persons who are unable to borrow money or get credit from any other government or private lending agency.

Solid And Strip Listing

The loans and grants will be for both solid and strip listing with a view toward preventing damage to adjoining fields as well as the eroding areas. Special consideration will be given to farmers in sections where land has started to blow.

During the first month after establishment of regional headquarters of the Resettlement administration here, 1,173 grants totaling $45,208 were made and 384 loans aggregating $168,702 were completed. Grants were made for the primary purpose of providing farm families with food and clothing to meet immediate needs. The rehabilitation loans were made in an effort to aid farmers in reestablishing themselves as producers.

The region, designated as No. 12, recently was increased to include all of New Mexico. Previously it included only eastern New Mexico, 38 Texas counties, parts of the Oklahoma Panhandle, southwestern Colorado and southwestern Kansas, where wind erosion and land problems are considered acute.

Farmers Double Soybean Output To Meet Demand

DES MOINES, Feb. 29. (AP)—The once little-known soybean has outgrown the "emergency" classification and emerged a full-fledged crop.

National estimated production totalled 39,637,000 bushels in 1935, a 112 per cent increase over the 18,627,000 bushel harvest in 1934 and more than three times the five-year (1928-32) average production of 11,658,000 bushels.

Five corn belt states—Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri—and North Carolina produce the bulk of the nation's crop. Illinois still leads production with an estimated 21,834,000 bushels for 1935.

Four Reasons Cited

Agricultural leaders assign four major reasons for this sharp increase in production of soybeans, which a few years ago were known as the "hard times" crop, because they were raised only after other crops had failed in the spring. The reasons:

Withdrawal of thousands of acres from production of the principal crops under recently invalidated AAA programs, coupled with the AAA appeal to produce soil-building crops on the retired acres.

Substitute For Grains

Soybeans are becoming more and more popular with farmers as a substitute for oats or other small grains in the crop rotation.

There has been a sharp increase in the use of soybeans for industrial production—manufacture into soap, glue, automobile parts, oil, oilmeal, varnish and other industrial and livestock feed products.

A movement, sponsored chiefly by the "Farm Chemurgic Council," has led to establishment of 22 small "neighborhood" soybean processing plants.

West Texas' Greatest Lighting System As Proven at the Avalanche-Journal

△ DELTA ELECTRIC

1015 Avenue J Phone 84

The Avalanche-Journal Has Tested "Indirect" Lighting for A Period Of Six Weeks

The last four years have produced outstanding advancements in "lighting" hardly dreamed of. The Century of Progress displayed hundreds of examples in "better lighting" that are "taking root" in every city and town in America. People everywhere are sensing the importance of "better light." It spells efficiency and comfort, whether in business or in the home. Plans drawn by General-Electric engineers were used in the Avalanche-Journal building . . . with an assurance of correct foot candle intensity.

NO SHADOWS!

NO GLARE!

Here's What Employees Say About It!

'An Editor Says:
"The new lights give a much softer glow and remove all glare from my work. Glare and heat were the worst features of the old direct lights."

'An Ad Man Says:
"A most modern step, and surely a great contribution to working conditions. Indirect lighting is far superior to the old methods."

Circulation Man:
"And now when I come to work at 4 A. M. each morning, I think its daylight at the Avalanche."

'An Auditor Said:

Classified Department:
"Positively West Texas Greatest Lighting System."

'A Stenographer Said:
"I think the new indirect lights are perfect."

'An Advertising Man Says:
"Such an improvement over the old style of lighting cannot be adequately expressed by me."

'A Classified Salesman Says:
"The new lights are the stuff."

'A Proofreader Says:
"Indirect lighting is an excellent improvement, and I think ours are beautiful."

'A News Reporter Says:
"This is the best lighting system I have ever seen and worked under—and I have worked on newspapers in several states."

'A News Reporter Says:
"I have bad eyes anyway, and can truly state that indirect lights as installed here have given me relief. My eyes don't feel as tired."

Society Editor Says:
"I'm for indirect lighting in a big way—in fact—indirect lights give no shadows, no glare."

'A Lady in the Advertising Department Says:
"I think the new lights are swell—there has never been anything so nice."

'An Old Timer Said:
"Indirect lighting is softer, more uniform—and the big thing to me is the removal of heat from above—formerly it glared down on my ever thinning locks."

Bell County Youth Is Named King Of A. & M. Cotton Fete

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 29. (AP)—Members of the Agronomy Society named R. L. Huckabee of Holland, Bell county, senior agricultural student, as king of the fifth annual cotton ball and pageant at Texas A. and M. college after selecting April 3 as the date for the affair.

In keeping with custom inaugurated in 1932, proceeds from the ball and pageant, sponsored by the Agronomy society, students' organization, will be used toward traveling fellowships to be awarded winners of the annual cotton contest held at the college. Such awards provide for visits to foreign countries to observe the cotton industry there in its relation to the industry in the United States.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS, No. 139 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In celebration of Tarzan's victorious skirmish with the "barbarians," the village held carnival. Merry Tommy Welsh took the occasion to teach Arbela the steps of the antiquated Bunny Hug. "You're swell, kid," he said. "When we get to New York, you'll knock 'em dead."

Arbela didn't comprehend just who it was she was to knock dead, but she was willing to perform any such small favor for Tommy. Lady Beth and Jerry watched the merrymakers from a distance, engrossed in the raptures of love which was rising in their own hearts. . . .

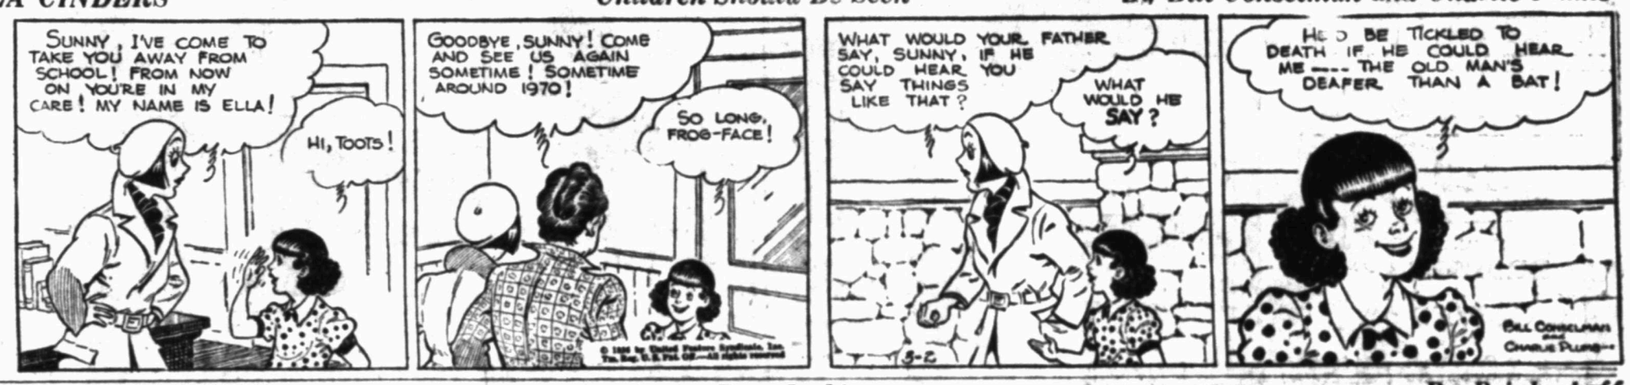

. . . But while Tarzan's allies celebrated, Garetto was brewing a plan for their destruction. "From the blacks of the foothills," he roared, "I'll raise a levy of two thousand warriors. Tarzan, nor any living creature will remain when I have scourged this miserable valley!" . . .

. . . Next day, the ape-man began a survey of the crater, to become familiar with the terrain of his impending campaign against the shiftas. But already Garetto's messengers were flying from tribe to tribe, demanding warriors for the great brigand army!
