CITIES WILL DECIDE ON GAS ACTION TODAY

Mann Leaves for Conference to Determine Whether or Not Litigation Will Be Entered.

Committee Appointed to Investigate Matter Called to Meet in Dallas Today.

Final decision on the probability of Wichita Falls entering into the litigation between the North Texas and Lone Star Gas companies will likely be decided at a session of the special committee of the various cities and towns affected by the recent injunction suit, which meets Friday in Dallas, according to the announcement of city council members Thursday.

E. M. Mann, city attorney and member of the committee, who was empowered by the city council Tuesday night to act on behalf of the city at the meeting, left Thursday night.

Mr. Mann announced that he expects to meet Mayor W. D. Cline in Dallas Friday morning. Mayor Cline, it was announced, is expected to arrive in Dallas Friday morning on his way here from Louisiana. It also was announced that Mayor Cline had not been notified of the meeting of the committee on Friday, as it was originally announced for Saturday. The meeting was called a day earlier at the request of Hamp P. Abney, city attorney of Sherman, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Mann, who also attended the meeting of mayors on the gas question, asserted Thursday that it is impossible to prophecy the probable outcome of the committee meeting. Some of the members, he asserted, were strongly in favor of intervening in the suit, while others were equally as strongly opposed to entering into the suit.

An adjourned session of the city council called for Friday afternoon to consider paving problems will merely meet and formally adjourn until the return of the mayor, according to W. M. Bonner, commissioner of utilities and mayor protem, in the absence of Mayor Cline. A hearing on the Fifteenth street paving question was scheduled for this session.

Discussion of putting down pavement on North Indiana also is scheduled to come before the adjourned session when it meets. Also it was reported that Fourteenth street property owners are talking of reviving efforts to pave that street.

Councilmen were unable Thursday to announce on what date the hearing for Fifteenth street property owners will be held. It was announced however, that the meeting may be held on Saturday should the mayor arrive in time.

HARDING THROWS WEIGHT AGAINST SOLDIER BONUS PENDING BETTER OUTLOOK

Appears in Person Before Senate and Requests Matter Be Held in Abeyance Until Finances Better.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—President Harding paid an unexpected visit to the senate today and, it is understood, interposed the weight of his personal influence to defer action on the soldier bonus bill until a clearer understanding of the government's financial outlook has been made possible by enactment of new tariff and tax laws.

In an hour's conference with senate leaders the president is understood to have endorsed the view of Secretary Mellon that bonus legislation now might be a serious embarrassment to the treasury, and even to have suggested that all other legislative business be suspended to permit completion of the tariff and tax provisions as soon as possible. By those who talked with him, he was quoted as favoring a recess of congress while the committees in charge are hastening perfection of the two measures on account of which the special session was called.

May Have Special Message.

It was indicated that Mr. Harding's views would be set forth for that greater length in a special message to congress which may be sent to the capitol tomorrow. The document is expected to deal particularly with the bonus bill and to set forth that while the administration regards itself as committed to some legislation for relief of war veterans, it sees no reason for acting precipitately.

While the president was giving his opinion to senator after senator in his room just off the senate chamber, the senate itself was debating the bonus bill with sponsors for the measure confident of its passage. By an overwhelming vote the bill had been brought to the senate floor as a special order of business and the senators in charge were inclined to predict that even the opposition of Secretary Mellon would not be sufficient to delay it.

Tonight the outlook generally was admitted to be more uncertain.

Leaders had not yet made a canvass to ascertain just how much weight the visit of the president might have and the disposition in most quarters to await Mr. Harding's message before forcing a showdown. After the message has been received it is regarded as likely that an attempt will be made to send the bonus bill back to committee and then secure another vote on the recess proposal which failed of adoption several days ago by a margin of four votes.

Agricultural Bloc Active.

In their opposition to a recess the bonus advocates are expected to have aid of various other senate elements who want action on some particular class of legislation. Not the least potential of these groups, it generally is expected, will be the agricultural bloc, who are determined to put through a series of relief measures for the farmer. The final division is expected to be along group rather than party lines.

Leaders of the elements most anxious to push particular measures to enactments were among the first to be summoned into conference by the president when he reached his room at the capitol. Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, in charge of the bonus bill, and senators Norris, republican, Nebraska; Kenyon, republican, Iowa, and Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, prominent in the agricultural group, were said to have been told frankly and emphatically by Mr. Harding that he considered completion of the tariff and tax program the prime duty of the federal government. In each case the president punctuated his argument by vigorous gestures and nods of the head.

Has Lunch In Senate Cafe.

Mr. Hardings conferences on the legislative situation were held after he had broken precedent by taking luncheon with a party of senators in the senate restaurant. Most of those in whose company he was accustomed to take his meals during his senatorial days at the table and the president made a manifest effort to make the visit as informal as possible.

TARIFF BILL PLACED FIRST ON CALENDAR

Fordney Measure Will Not Be Displaced Until Ultimate Vote Is Taken on It July 21.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The permanent tariff bill as drawn by Republican members of the house ways and means committee took top place on the house calendar today, not to be displaced by other legislation until voted on July 21. There was no ceremony in beginning consideration of the 346-page measure and the day was devoted to having it read, paragraph by paragraph, while members sat and sweltered without giving heed to the droning of a relay of reading clerks.

Immediately upon adjournment Democratic members held a conference at which it was said with "half a dozen exceptions" it was agreed that the party should stand as a unit against the bill. Some of the members, it was added, declined to be bound by instructions, but leaders predicted the final vote would show but few breaks in the Democratic ranks.

A resolution was adopted at the conference declaring that the measure violated all principles and traditions of the Democratic party and reaffirming the party's stand against a high protective tariff. The conference lasted less than fifteen minutes.

The reading had not been concluded when the house quit work for the day, and before general debate begins tomorrow the reading will be concluded and a rule adopted shutting off all but a few general amendments and such others as may be offered by the committee.

WELCOME YANK ENVOY TO FIUME

By Associated Press.

ROME, July 7.—The United States Consul, Wilbur Keblinger, who was refused permission to reopen his office in Fiume in March, last, would now be welcomed in that city, says Professor Riccardo Zanella, head of the Autonomist party of Fiume, which was victorious in the recent elections in that little state.

"It was a grave mistake when Consul Keblinger was sent away," said Professor Zanella. "We want him to re-establish his office in Fiume so that America can do business through that port."

(Mr. Keblinger attempted to reopen his office in Fiume in March, last. He was instructed to inform the provisional government of that city that his presence did not constitute recognition of the new government. The Fiume government in turn refused to recognize the American consul until the United States recognized the independence of Fiume.)

Professor Zanella said that order has not yet been restored in Fiume, which has been troubled for months by turbulent elements inherited from the regime of d'Annunzio. Within a month, he said, there had been seven assassinations while more than 60 persons had been stabbed or shot. He expected that order would soon be restored.

The Autonomist party said the professor carried the recent elections in Fiume by 2 to 1 against the Annexationists. A constitutional assembly will shortly meet which will be composed of 56 Autonomists and 18 Annexationists. During the functioning of the assembly a special commissioner will be appointed to administrate the ordinary affairs of the city.

Today Cox bid the pantry girl and the hotel keeper farewell, and started for California where he had been notified of the one-third share in the fifteen million dollar estate of Dr. Samuel Shaw of Hollister awaits him. Cox learned of his inheritance through a Toledo attorney who had conducted a country-wide search for him.

RACE SUICIDE PRACTICED BY COLLEGE GRADS

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 7.—Race suicide is being practiced on a vast scale by American college graduates, Maurice Ricker, assistant director of the United States health service, declared in an address before the department of secondary education of the national education association convention today.

He submitted a series of figures to substantiate his statement. "Investigation by the federal health service," he said, "over a period of years indicate that the progeny of one thousand graduates from such institutions as Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Vassar and Smith will not exceed fifty in 100 years from now," while investigation among illiterate foreigners, he said, showed that in a like period the original thousand will be multiplied at least a hundred times.

The ratio therefore will be, he said, fifty men and women descended from educated parents to one hundred thousand individuals begotten by ignorant parents.

This condition, Mr. Ricker said, is premeditated, college graduates shirking the responsibility of children. Mr. Ricker's statements created somewhat of a minor tempest at the meeting.

He urged that sex matters be taught openly in the schools. "It must be placed on the same footing as other sciences," he declared. During the discussion that followed, Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver raised the question whether the teaching of sex matters would not increase immorality. This contention was strenuously denied by Mr. Ricker, who cited figures to disprove it.

An international congress of educators to be held in 1923, was advocated this afternoon by Dr. Augustus O. Thomas of Augusta, Maine, in submitting a report of the foreign relations committee of the association.

HARDING'S AID TO CATTLEMEN HAS FADED INTO AIR

By BASCOM M. TIMMONS
Record News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 7.—The aid promised to cattlemen by the Harding administration today had vanished into thin air. Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, member of the finance committee charged that Wall street had misled President Harding on the proposed $50,000,000 loan for the live stock industry of the south and west. He said that when they found a growing sentiment for government funds to help the farmers through the financial depression big bankers hurried to the White House to block any move to that end.

"When the government was on the point of coming to the relief of the stock growers with $50,000,000 in cash," Mr. Simmons said, "the bankers started out to block it. They do not wish the government to go into the money lending business or to finance the moving of crops. If there is any profit in it, they want to make it.

"The senate was about to pass a bill requiring the government to advance $50,000,000 for the relief of the stock growers. Both houses would have accepted it, but when it became apparent that we were really going to act financiers hurried here to thwart it.

They told the president and leading Republican senators that there was no necessity for that.

"We will mobilize the banks, we will get the $50,000,000," they declared, so we stopped.

Senator Kenyon said today he had been informed the negotiations between the stockmen and the big bankers were practically off.

"These financiers," Senator Simmons asserted, "have accomplished their purpose of taking congress off the financial depression which has not responded to the treatment of the administration through the emergency tariff and the proposed livestock loans cotton pools and optomistic talks at the White House, are worrying the Republican leaders here.

Some of the Harding financiers have been forced to admit that the promised protective tariff is not the panacea they told the people it would be.

WITNESSES TESTIFY KABER WENT TO HIS DEATH BELIEVING WIFE PLOTTED HIS ASSASSINATION

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 7.—Testimony tending to show that Daniel F. Kaber, whose widow, Eva Catherine Kaber, is on trial for first degree murder, suspected Mrs. Kaber of planning his assassination, was introduced today by the state through two witnesses.

"My wife ordered this done, my wife ordered this done.

"My God, my wife ordered this done!"

These exclamations were uttered by Kaber to Police Lieutenant L. B. Miller of Lakewood, upon the officers arrival at the home soon after Kaber had been stabbed, Lieutenant Miller testified.

"My God, doctor, my wife must have done this," Dr. W. J. Quigley, who was called to attend the wounded man, said Kaber made these statements while yet conscious, lying on the floor by the side of the bed in which he was attacked.

Wanted Husband Killed.

The women witnesses testified Mrs. Kaber had told them she wanted her husband murdered.

Mrs. Mary J. Wade, an alleged medium, testified that Mrs. Kaber on the last of several visits to her said: "I want you to try to get rid of Dan Kaber for me."

Asked by Mrs. Wade how she was to go about it, Mrs. Kaber was alleged to have replied:

"I want you to kill him—anyway to get rid of him. The man I love has no money, only brains, and Mr. Kaber has $50,000 life insurance."

Mrs. Bertha Mietke, grandmother of the little Patricia whom the Kabers had adopted, testified that Mrs. Kaber said to her:

"I hate Dan Kaber and am going to get rid of him within the next six months in some manner or other."

The state, in an effort to substantiate its claim that Mrs. Kaber had sought to poison her husband, introduced testimony of Dr. Quigley and Dr. Alfred Maschke.

Suffered Neuritis.

Both physicians said they had treated Mr. Kaber and made examinations of him during a period of several months before his death. They asserted that he was suffering from neuritis and secondary anemia.

Based on a hypothetical question asserting that an analysis of Mr. Kaber's internal organs after his death disclosed the presence of arsenic in quantity "sufficient to kill four men" both physicians said they would diagnose the cause of the anemia and neuritis as arsenical poisoning.

This hypothetical question was admitted by Judge Maurice Bernon only on the state's promise to show by later testimony that an analysis of Mr. Kaber's organs showed the presence of poison in the quantity alleged.

Sprinkled Arsenic Over Him.

Attorney William J. Corrigan, on cross examination of the physicians, sought to establish that the poison might have been absorbed from powders sprinkled over the organs by the undertaker who prepared the body for burial. He based a hypothetical question on this assumption, but Dr. Quigley maintained that the poison could not have been absorbed in this manner in such an amount as claimed by the state.

Attorney Francis W. Poulson, Mrs. Kaber's personal counsel, asserted this evening that the testimony of the undertaker will show that the powder sprinkled over Mr. Kaber's internal organs was arsenic, and according to Dr. Poulson "enough to kill a whole regiment of men."

Attempts by the state to introduce additional statements alleged by Police Lieutenant Miller to have been made to him by Kaber soon after the stabbing were ruled out by Judge Bernon because the alleged statements were in answer to questions asked Kaber by the officer.

Dr. Lowry announced that the offer of Henry J. Toussaint, under indictment for the killing of his father, will not be accepted.

HOPES REMAIN HIGH FOR ERIN ISLAND PEACE

On Surface Movement Makes No Further Progress, but Officials Sanguine of Success.

King's Offer of Palace and Jan Smuts Interest Taken Kindly by De Valera and Party.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 7.—The Irish peace movement on the surface made no further progress today, but hopes remain high, mainly on account of the fact that General Smuts, premier of South Africa, is taking such an active part in the negotiations with an evident purpose to translate into practical politics the king's message and exhortation for forbearance at the opening of the Ulster parliament.

The king's evident and serious interest in bringing about peace is also a strong factor in the situation. His proffer of Buckingham Palace for the meetings of the proposed conference points in the direction of a repetition of the peace effort of 1914, when the home rule conference assembled in the palace under the chairmanship of the Right Honorable James William Lowther, then speaker of the house of commons.

It is believed that if an independent chairman were appointed to the conference now contemplated, especially GenPral Smuts, who is trusted by the Irish people, there would be a far greater chance of Mr. DeValera accepting the conference. It is probable, however, that nothing will develop definitely pending tomorrow's Dublin conference between the Irish leader and the southern unionists. General Smuts will not attend this conference.

According to latest information, Mr. DeValera is maintaining the Republican claim, but is willing to give the Irish people a full opportunity to decide upon any serious proposition.

RESERVE BANK INCREASES ITS GOLD HOLDINGS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Federal reserve bank operations during the past year have resulted in an increase of its gold holdings by $483,607,000, a decrease in its notes in circulation of $480,000,000, and an increase in its total reserves of $5019,000,000, according to a statistical summary issued by the board of governors today. The contraction of the currency indicated, the board said, the degree to which the country had entered a period of deflation.

"Characteristics of this period on the banking side have been reduction of loans and bills held, retirement of note circulation, gain in gold and liquidation of investments," the statement said, "while on the business side there has been lowering of production, growth of unemployment, falling off of foreign trade and reaction of prices.

"The spring months of 1921 would seem, in the light of information now available, to be a period of approach to equilibrium in certain lines of business and of preparation for recovery from depressed conditions that had developed."

UNEMPLOYMENT IN UNITED STATES SHOWS DECREASE 2.9 PER CENT DURING JUNE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A decrease in employment of 2.9 per cent during June as compared with May is indicated by a survey made by the department of labor of reports from 1,428 firms employing normally 1,600,000 persons. A decrease since January in these establishments, situated in 65 principal industrial centers, has been 6.2 per cent, a statement issued today said.

All industries reported decreased employment except those engaged in the manufacturing of food products, textiles, leather, liquors and beverages, stone, clay, glass and tobacco.

"Detailed examination of the present returns indicates clearly the fundamental causes of the protracted industrial depression and the mounting tide of unemployment," the statement declared. "Continued unsatisfactory conditions of transportation with freight rates in many cases considered almost prohibitive; lack of anything like a normal foreign market; the present low value of farm products; stagnation in iron and steel; high cost of construction and the general dullness of the retail trade stand out prominently as leading factors in the situation.

While there still is an almost nation-wide housing shortage, the statement said, the only resumption of building operations noted has been on a restricted scale.

"Industry generally is optimistic," the survey continued, "and while the likelihood of a dull summer in almost all lines is fully recognized, the tendency is to count on improvement by fall and a healthy, though not spectacular business revival by the spring of 1922."

Peoria, Ill., showed the heaviest decrease among industrial centers with a drop of 36.9 per cent. San Francisco was second with 25 per cent and Syracuse, N. Y., next with 17.4 per cent.

Among 26 cities reporting increased employment Atlanta, Ga., was first with 16.7 per cent, Sioux City, Iowa, second with 16 per cent and Toledo, Ohio, third with 15.6 per cent.

In New England continued employment was reported with the industrial situation relieved somewhat by recent improvement in the textile trades. New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania noted increased unemployment.

There has been "no great change in the industrial situation of the east-north central district," the summary said, "and none is expected until construction costs and railway rates are materially reduced."

Unemployment was characterized as "serious" in the district comprising Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas, but it was said that the "consensus of opinion indicates gradual betterment." Lumber operations were reported to have fallen off and the oil industry is stagnant.

In Tennessee and Kentucky the coal industry continues inactive, with about six thousand miners unemployed while many factories "are operating on reduced schedules." In the mountain states the industrial outlook was reported to be somewhat brighter, operations on public works providing considerable employment and a "seasonable demand" being felt for farm help.

FIRE CAUSES $10,000 LOSS TO BUSINESS

Gutting the Marvin Smith building, 902-4 Scott street and practically destroying the stocks of two businesses and slightly damaging another, fire of undetermined origin caused approximately $10,000 loss at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, according to the estimates of the owners.

The blaze was reported by firemen to have originated in the rear of the Chapman Cleaning and Pressing company, completely destroying the entire stock and a quantity of clothing from where it spread to the Automotive Accessory company.

All tires and rubber goods in the accessory shop were reported a total loss, with a large amount of the other goods reported as practically worthless from the effect of the hot blaze.

J. D. White, manager of the White Sign Co., which was estimated to have suffered approximately $000 damage, announced that he will continue conducting his business from his office in the rear of the building. W. D. Chapman, manager of the Automotive Accessory company, announced that he will continue his business at the same location as soon as adjustment and necessary repairs to the building can be made.

An unopened barrel of lubricating oil was reported by employes of the accessory company to have disappeared shortly after the fire. Belief that it was removed from the building by some one in an effort to save some of the property and later carted away by others, was expressed by employes.

The cleaning and pressing establishment was operated by D. A. Chears.

CHINA SUSPICIOUS OF JAP PROPOSAL

By Associated Press.

PEKING, July 7.—The Chinese people regard with suspicion Japan's suggestion that China and Japan enter into negotiations regarding the Shantung question, realizing that in the past China always has lost either territory or prestige as the result of negotiations over international controversies; and they further believe that in this instance there is no occasion for negotiations, according to Dr. W. W. Yen, China's minister of foreign relations, in a statement made to the Associated Press.

"If Japan intends to restore the German leased territory in Shantung and the inalienable rights and privileges formerly enjoyed by Germany, without conditions, Japan should announce that fact to the world in unequivocal terms," he said. "If she proposes to make conditions for such restitution she should likewise frankly announce those terms for all nations to pronounce judgment upon them.

"Furthermore China does not wish to jeopardize her right to carry the Shantung question to the League of Nations by entering into direct negotiations. China does not propose to permit Japan to cite such negotiations in support of possible opposition to submission of the question to that body.

"China also would be lacking in proper consideration for the nations which have interested themselves in the Shantung settlement should she undertake to negotiate directly. This is particularly true with reference to the senate and people of the United States who have evinced a friendly desire to see China's interests safeguarded.

"Internationalization of the port of Tsingtan would meet with approval by China. It is in line with China's declared policy and action in throwing open various ports to international trade, and it is realized that it would be greatly to China's interest; but the initiative in this direction lies with China and not with Japan."

Dr. Yen sees a hopeful future for China regardless of present financial difficulties. "The welfare of the country," he said, "rests upon the thrift and stability of the people, and the people are making perceptible advancement economically. They are better educated, live better, think more correctly and are more thrifty than ever before.

"The increase for this advancement are greater contact with more advanced nations, the press and the railways, and the influence of thousands of students and others, not omitting the coolies who went to France, who have returned with new and more progressive ideas."

FRENCH TO GIVE DECORATIONS TO CHINESE SAILORS

By Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, July 7.—M. Wilden, French consul-general at Shanghai, has forwarded to the French government a request that decorations be awarded to Chinese and foreign members of the crew of the steamer Montcagle of the Canadian Ocean Pacific Services. The occasion is heroism they displayed in effecting the rescue of 66 persons from the steamer Hsientien after it had gone on the rocks in a storm a days voyage from Hongkong.

The Hsientien was bound from Saigon to Chefo with a cargo of rice, when it began to take water and sink on April 8. It was kept above the surface by driving it on the rocks a considerable distance from shore, distress signals brought the Montcagle, bound out of Hongkong for Vancouver, B. C., to the scene.

In the face of a rising storm one boat after another was put off manned by the crew of the Montcagle and after hours of perilous work the rescue was effected.

The only loss of life was the drowning of four Chinese who attempted to put out a life boat from the sinking vessel. Shortly after the rescue had been made the Hsientien broke in two and went down.

VALUE OF BIBLE AS READING IS STRESSED.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The value of Bible reading was emphasized by speakers at today's sessions of the World's Christian Endeavor convention. The Rev. Dr. A. B. Kendall of Washington, D. C., said that the carelessness and peremptity of the home were being assailed from many sides and urged that it be safeguarded with the Bible.

DIPLOMAT DEPLORES ATTITUDE

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 7.—"It is regrettable that the real character and policy of the new American president should be misunderstood by some of the Japanese people," said Micho Kaku, secretary of the Japanese embassy in Washington, who has just returned on furlough, when interviewed by the Asahi representative. Mr. Kaku continued:

"The president has often had occasion to express his conviction that an Anglo-American-Japanese entente should be made the basis of world peace. There is every reason to believe that the American president and his staff are all in favor of the maintenance of friendly relations between America and Japan.

"Mr. Ozaki's policy of armament limitation produced a favorable impression on American minds in general although the plan was defeated in the Japanese lower house.

"On my way back I was often asked by American friends when the American-Japanese war was going to break out, and some young American women I met in the country districts assured me that they were determined to offer their services as hospital nurses upon the outbreak of American-Japanese hostilities.

"I was rather surprised that so many Americans should anticipate an American-Japanese armed conflict. My impression is that the Americans are prepared to fight if challenged, but otherwise they will be the last to take up arms against the Japanese. The diplomatic relations of the two countries are not, therefore, by any means so seriously strained or going to be strained as to justify any anticipation of an American-Japanese war. If the situation appears to be anything but quite smooth, that is only because of the propaganda of some Chinese and bolsheviks."

In the Osaka Mainichi Mr. Kaku is quoted as saying that what had struck home particularly during his three years' service in the United States was the deep impression which Japan's militarism had made on American minds. The general impression among Americans is that the military party is predominant in Japan and that the Japanese government is under its influence. This bears witness to the extensive injury which the existence of the military party in Japan is doing to the country's cause.

But Mr. Kaku emphasized that Mr. Ozaki's disarmament speeches had produced a greater echo than expected and that Americans generally interpreted the speeches to indicate a decline in the influence of the Japanese military party.

He was convinced also that as a result of the friendly attitude of the new American government, the "anti-Japanese" situation in the United States had improved very considerably.

ARMY PAJAMAS MAKE JAUNTY STREET WEAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 7.—American Red Cross and army pajamas are being converted into jaunty street clothes here by ingenious Russian refugee soldiers and civilians.

Hugh S. Bird, treasurer of the Red Cross, when here on a visit of inspection to dispose of a large quantity of supplies laid up in the warehouses, saw a spick and span, monocled Russian officer flourishing a cane and fanning himself with a straw hat, at the local Red Cross offices asking for some mail.

The officer looked so well put up that Mr. Bird stopped feeling sorry for the Russians for a moment until he took a second look at his clothes. He then saw that the man had taken a suit of pajamas, sewed some shoulder strap braid on them, strapped his officer's belt about them and rolled up the bottoms to give a trouser effect. By taking off his hat, shoes and belt the man was ready to go to bed.

Mr. Bird thought so well of the ingenuity of the man, who had defeated the hot weather that he gave orders for several thousand more pajamas to be distributed so no Russian need wear his heavy, shabby winter

BUDAPEST HEARS TWENTY THOUSAND IN PRISON CAMPS

By Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, July 7.—The government has lately been attacked by members of the national assembly because of the fact that 20,000 persons are in internment camps in Hungary.

Internment is a powerful weapon in the hands of the government. Anybody can be interned by a simple decree of a police director or sheriff, without a previous judicial inquiry. There are cases where people have been interned upon anonymous information that they entertained bolshevik sympathies.

Bishop Glesswein was loudly applauded in the assembly the other day when he declared that some of the 20,000 persons interned in the camps had been detained two years without having been once examined by a magistrate. He stated that former communists are not released upon having served their sentences in prison but usually are transferred to one of the internment camps.

It is charged that these camps hold many who merely are disliked by government officials. The camps are isolated from the outside world, the prisoners pass their time in idleness and the deputies were informed are becoming hot-houses for the breeding of communism.

Members of the assembly also complain against the censorship and charge that the local newspapers are subject to a minute and ignorant application of the law, resulting in the suppression of news and comment which are unpleasant to the government.

The telegrams of foreign newspaper correspondents are no more exempt from the vexations of censorship than are the local newspapers. Commercial dispatches are censored and the censor frequently prevents the delivery of messages using code words.

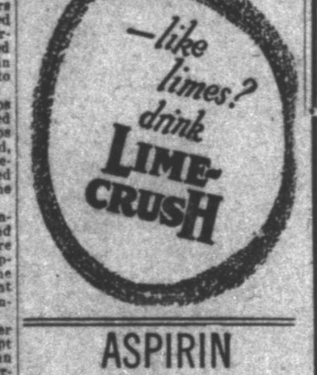

It is charged in the assembly that there is still a strong current of semi-official trend against the Jew. The chief of Budapest police recently undertook a revision of the moving picture licenses on the ground that a more just distribution was desired. Lleenses were taken from 20 Jews and assigned to new petitioners.

These acts are no longer viewed with indifference but have been rebuked by deputies. There are indication that public opinion is veering democratic and liberal principles and that it has become out of sympathy with the ultra-national and ultra-Christian war-cries of street corner politicians.

"The Hungarian nation yearns for the air of liberty," declares Count Apponyi.

BUSINESS IN WICHITA FALLS VERY SOUND

"Business conditions seem fundamentally sounder in Wichita Falls than in other towns in the state and business men are looking toward the future with a more cheerful attitude than those of other cities I have visited," B. Frank Johnson, member of the Texas legislature from this district, declared Thursday in an address before the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club.

Mr. Johnson, who only recently returned from a two months' absence attending the meetings of the legislative bodies, also urged a movement to have Rotary clubs meet on the same day in every city.

This was urged as a means of assisting in the entertainment of Rotarians when away from home, as they could then know on what day the Rotarians would meet, wherever they were.

The meeting was presided over by Bert Scharrf in the absence of President Horrace Robbins.

PROPERTY RIGHTS UNDER GROUND ARE DISPUTE SUBJECT

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 7.—Property rights in a hole in the ground under Winter street in the center of Boston's retail shopping district are in dispute between the city and the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The hole is an underground passage the existance of which the dispute has made known for the first time to thousands of persons who travel daily through the tunnels, subways and sub-subways in the city. It was built some years ago and runs the whole length of Winter Street lying between the roof of the Cambridge-South Boston tunnel and the street surface. It has never been used.

Attention has recently been called to it through a petition of the Railway Company for sanction of a plan to rent the space to abutting stores for storage use. The company contends that inasmuch as it holds a lease of the Cambridge-South Boston tunnel, it has a property right in the dark void above. City officials assert that the passage is not a part of the tunnel and that if any income is to be had from it the city is entitled to it.

The passage or gallery as the railway company describes it came into being because the Boston Rapid Transit Commission which had charge of the construction of the underground system built this section of tunnel not by boring but by digging from the surface and found it cheaper later to fill in the cavity.

FALLS FROM SKY IN PARACHUTE AND ASKS FOR LODGING

By Associated Press.

BEDFORD, England, July 7.—A night watchman at the royal airship hanger at Cardington near here got the surprise of his life when he saw a parachute dropping from the sky early in the morning a few days ago.

"Can I get a bed here?" asked a calm voice.

The parachutist was Air Commodore E. N. Maitland on his way home to Howden air station from Epsom aboard the dirigible 4-33 which had acted as official traffic controller and wireless station at the Derby races.

Commodore Maitland explained that he had suddenly remembered that he had to attend an important meeting at the Cardington station in the early morning. "The only way to get there in time was to jump right off," he said.

RITUAL BEING PREPARED FOR MEMORIAL DAY

We shall live as a nation only as we remember our dead." These words were spoken by Colonel W. F. Galbraith, commander of the American Legion, shortly before his death, on the occasion of New York's third Memorial Festival, held in the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment, May 30, 1921.

Because the war dead of former decades gave extreme proof of this country's determination to preserve its ideals as a nation one day has been set aside to honor them. In small towns and country places the day is still sedately bright with flowers and white ruffled dresses, the music of bands and many flags. The school children decorate the soldiers' graves. Gardens and side-yards are stripped of bloom. Everybody goes to the exercises in the school house or the square, to drink lemonade and listen to the orator. The village feels again the sting of personal loss. For this one day at least it is re-dedicated.

But the school children of France decorate the graves of our dead in the World War, for it has been deemed fitting that they should lie where they fell, claiming American acres in a foreign land.

Patriotic citizens and organizations have been trying to devise memorial observances which would arouse interest and sentiment over war graves thousands of miles away overseas. Perhaps a lesson was learned from the Memorial Festival arranged this year between the school children of New York and the American Legion. Although the ceremony was performed before 10,000 people, it in no way suggested a show or pageant. It was a dramatization of universal feeling so intense that it became a sacred ceremonial. The spectators were not an audience, but a congregation.

The heart of the ritual used on that occasion is the military ceremony for the dead, transmuted into flower ceremony. On the evening of May 26 the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment was hung with blue and gold, the colors of the Legion, the decorated with knots and garlands and poppies. At one end of the hall 2,000 high school girls and boys, a great chorus, were grouped in rising tiers behind the orchestra. Before them was a platform, suggestive of an altar. At the other end of the hall a white shrine had been erected over the doorway.

The spectators soon caught the keynote of the occasion in the solemn music of the chorus, the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Silverman, and the addresses of welcome and explanation by Colonel Galbraith, Father Duffy and Governor Allen of Kansas. When the funeral cortege entered to Chopins' slow measures, the atmosphere was tense with unshed tears. A curtain of blue gauze, sprayed all over with gold stars for the fallen, dropped slowly behind the altar, shutting off the chorus and the orchestra. The empty caisson, covered by an American flag and drawn by soldiers and sailors, followed a great circular aisle formed by a thousand children from the public grade schools. As it passed each child flung down upon it an armful of fresh flowers.

Before the altar the caisson paused, while the Legion prayer for the dead was pronounced. Again there was a pause at the other end of the hall. Julia Arthur, in misty draperies of gray and madonna blue, had appeared upon the shrine to give voice to the poignant words of "In Flanders Fields."

As the cortege passed out a blanket of scarlet poppies was thrown over the heaped flowers on the caisson.

This is the third year that the Memorial Festival built around this ceremony has been held in New York. In the first year after the war it was given in the Lewisohn Stadium, and in 1920 at the Madison Square Garden. The essentials of all three occasions have been the same—the participation of school children, the invitation of gold-star mothers and the veterans of all wars as guests of honor, the payment of honor to the dead with music and flowers.

It is now the desire of those interested in the festival to make it a national institution. The essentials of the ceremony have been embodied in a ritual and a permanent committee, now in the process of appointment, will seek to introduce it in every state. The members look forward to a day when a great part of the nation will join at the same moment in this rededication in honor of the dead.

Illustrous names were numerous on the committee for the last memorial. President Harding was Honorary Chairman. Colonel Galbraith, the chairman, represented the American Legion, and was enthusiastic for the perpetuation of the festival. The state of New York, the city, the board of education and the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic religions were represented among the honorary vice chairmen. Mrs. Douglas Robinson, as honorary chairman, and Mrs. Charles H. Dixon, as chairman, headed the Women's Committee. The permanent national committee, it is hoped, will include, besides prominent New Yorkers, many of whom have already promised to serve, the governor of each state.

The president wrote after the last memorial:

"I am glad it is to be made a permanent institution and to accept your invitation to serve as the permanent honorary chairman."

The sponsors of the memorial idea are anxious to get a large group of small subscribers to the festival in order to insure widespread interest. So far the expense has been defrayed by large private donations.

Miss Isabel Lowden, who conceived the idea of the festival and realized it through hard work and enthusiasm, attaches great importance to its effect on the foreign-born population. Immigrants find in America little of the solemn ritual which is such a large part of their conception of government and religion. The ceremony with which the mayor presents the freedom of the city to distinguished strangers lacks the grandeur of a pontifical procession or a royal visit, and fails to beget the same respect for law and order. The foreigner of the immigrant class reacts strongly to ritual and to art, especially to beauty in music and drama. In the Memorial Festival Miss Lowden tried to combine these elements in an American ritual and to give the foreign-born a personal share in it through their children. It was estimated that all but 2 per cent of the 700 children who took part in the 1920 festival had foreign-born parents.

New York has a particular opportunity in this direction. Of the immigrants who come in through Ellis Island, and these are 80 per cent of the country's total, 50 to 75 per cent spend their first year in New York or within 100 miles of it. Still, every native-born baby is just as ignorant of American ideals and institutions as the greenest immigrant. If he learns them more easily than the peasant from Galicia it is because they are included in his regular education. The greatest importance of the festival, as its sponsors point out, is to rivet reverence in the souls of school children.

DECLARES BURK LAD DELINQUENT

Denver Black, arrested Sunday in Burkburnett for the alleged theft of several bathing suits from a merchant of that city, was declared a delinquent by Judge J. P. Jones of the County court. He was sentenced to the state reformatory at Gatesville.

The arrest Sunday was the second for Denver within the last few weeks. While confined at the juvenile jail on a former occasion he, with two other juveniles, attempted a raid on the liquor stored by federal officers on the third floor of the court house. They were detected just before they obtained entrance to the cell where the liquor was stored.

REPORT INDIANS EAT HUMAN FLESH

By Associated Press.

FORT McMURRAY, Alberta, July 7.—Canadian mounted police left here today to investigate reports that starving Indians in the Caribou tribe have been eating human flesh. The report states that human bones were found showing evidence of cannibalism.

A few years ago officials state Caribou were so plentiful that the Indians ate only tongues of the animals, which they held as a delicacy. They slaughter the animals in thousands. The prophesy was made at that time by officials of the Canadian province that the Caribou would soon disappear and starvation would face the aborigines.

ALLENDALE WILL VOTE BOND ISSUE

School District No. 14, commonly known as Allendale, will vote on $2000 bonds for a new school house July 16, according to information Thursday from Acting County Superintendent of Schools Presson. The ordering of the election followed after school trustees concerned had agreed to the boundary line of the district.

The proposed bond issue for the school house was to have been voted on last month but was postponed when a disagreement arose as to the boundary of the Allendale district. The new building if constructed will replace one of the oldest school structures in the county.

POLITICS.

Politics has been resumed on Capitol Hill. It may seem a little early. The resolution taken at the beginning of the session to chuck politics until normalcy returned was impressive, but too good to last. At the end of three months it has gone blooey.

Still, let us remember that nearly all of our national legislators are politicians—either born so, or men who, by associating with politicians, have acquired a strong taste for the political game. An abstinence of three months must have been a trying experience. They must have said to themselves—probably every one of them—"It's a long time between stump speeches!"

The tariff broke the spell—put an end to the period of good feeling. It is a mighty fine old topic for just such a purpose. Many politicians have been "raised" on the tariff. They cut their party teeth on it, and have been talking it ever since they learned to talk. And some of them talk well on it.

And now that the spell is broken it will probably stay broken. Every topic will lead to politics, more or less.

Well, enterainment at least is assured. Our politicians, whether for one party or another, know their business, and when in their stride are great entertainers. And never before have so many topics been available, or any more inspiring. If one is disposed to take a political view of the situation he has but to look about him. There are lures galore. He could find them with his eyes shut.—Washington Star (Ind.)

REPUDIATING THE SOVIETS.

The American Federation of Labor has formally severed connection with all European labor movements and has taken particular pains in doing so to express its aversion to the methods and policies of the Soviet Government of Russia. By a vote of thirty-five to four the Socialist party of the United States, in convention assembled, has rejected affiliation with the Third Internationale of Moscow and taken a definite stand against international relations of any sort. Whatever lingering hope or fear of Red revolution still exists in the United States to trouble the rest of the Lusk committees should be finally ended by these coincident decisions. If there are organizations of any kind in this country which might have been expected to look to Russia for leadership they are the Socialist party and the labor unions.

Much violent language has been wasted on the Bolshevists. They have governed Russia as well as they could according to their lights. But their creed included a tyranny of a few in the name of the mob, and for this they are justly condemned.—New York World (Dem.).

THE COMMENCEMENT TARGET.

At the commencement the elective system goes to smash. The defenceless graduate must listen to whatever rhetoric the orator of the day puts over on him. Or, what is just as bad, he must appear to listen. In this trying hour he must find it difficult to suppress a grim smile over the irony of his situation. While a thousand cartoonists are drawing pictures of him ladeling out wisdom to a world which is divided between a feeling of admiration and a feeling of headache, he is being admonished (1) not to lose sight of spiritual values; (2) not to think that unselfish motives can take the place of a big navy; (3) to appreciate the past; (4) not to live in the past; (5) to apply himself to a solution of the world's problems; (6) not to imagine that the world's problems can be solved in a generation and (7) in general, to combat radicalism, oppose reaction, do more thinking, remember it is deeds that count, and don't take advice too seriously.—New York Post (Ind.)

POPULARITY.

I have a lot of ardent friends who greet me every day, and genuine affection lends much warmth to things they say. They meet me on the beaten track whenever I go out, and clap me gayly on the back, and call me Good Old Scout. For I have never made a race for office, large or small; I've never promised, with my face, to make the taxes fall; I've never cried that I would save the voters' picayunes, or volunteered to fill a grave to save our Precious Boons. I've never pledged myself to ease the burdens that men bear, or handed out the cheesy wheeze where statesmen paw the air. I sit beneath my tree and vine and pen my rigmaroles; I've never asked a friend of mine to help me at the polls. So there is nothing that abates the love men have for me; for they are tired of candidates and talk of Liberty. Our Sacred Bulwarks sometimes seem a topic rather vain, and men require some other theme to keep them safe and sane. And when they see me lead my goat along the village street, they know I will not ask a vote from any gent I meet. "It is a comfort," people cry, "that there's one man in town who never has the wish to try to hold an office down." They look on me with loving lamps, with lamps that shine like stars, and borrow two-cent postage stamps, and touch me for cigars.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

Notes on Trade and Industry Abroad

Export Duties Removed.
The duties on all commodities exported from Jamaica except those on logwood extract have been removed. The duty on logwood extract is now five pounds per ton of 2,204 pounds.

Tobacco Monopoly In Iceland.
From Commercial Attache Anderson at Copenhagen has come a report that the Althing of Iceland has passed a bill providing for a state monopoly on the sale of tobacco.

Permits Maize and Rye Imports.
According to a cablegram from Trade Commissioner A. A. Osborne, Rome, the Italian restriction on the importation of maize and rye has been removed, effective July 1, 1921. Cereals have been under government monopoly since August 1, 1919.

Don't Want Solid Tires.
Vice Consul McGurk, at Dakar, Senegal, Africa, reports a recent order in council prohibits the importation of motor vehicles fitted with wheels adapted for solid tires, and double tires, whether solid or pneumatic, for motor vehicles. This order is to come into operation on August 1, 1921.

Rumanian Trade Needs.
Recent official information from Rumania states that there would appear to exist many opportunities for American exporters to extend their commercial relations with Rumania. That country is greatly in need of all kinds of machinery and tools, notably manufacturing machinery and agricultural implements.

German Trade In Norway.
Consul General Snyder of Christiania, reports that a prominent American manufacturer who has been investigating the market for bolts and nuts in Norway states that almost complete control of the Norwegian market has been secured in recent weeks by German houses. It is stated that German firms are now quoting lower prices and filling orders in less time than Norwegian factories.

Java's Sugar Crop.
The estimate of the new crop of sugar in Java during the season May to October, 1921, is given in The Indian Trade Journal as 1,500,000 tons. It is also reported that, notwithstanding the serious decline in sugar, some new estates are being established in Java. Some estates at present growing tobacco are being turned into sugar estates, as the low price at present ruling for tobacco has been the cause of serious losses.

New South Wales Woolen Mill.
The New South Wales Textile Workers' Union, writes Trades Commissioner A. W. Ferrin, has proposed to convert the old Parramatta jail building into woolen mills and to establish a company to be known as the Co-operative Woolen Mills with a capital of 200,000 pounds ($972,000). It is intended to manufacture the whole of the woolen goods required by the government, to be ultimately converted into clothing for the police force and other government employes.

New Brazilian Glass Factory.
The Uniao Industrial Brasileira has just finished the construction of a large modern glass factory in Rio de Janeiro. The factory is said to be up to date in every detail, meeting hygienic requirements based on the system used in the United States. It is understood that national material was used entirely in the construction and that the plant will use native raw materialse. It is estimated that at first the factory will have a capacity of 60,000 bottles per day, besides some 20,000 pieces for use in chemical work, and that within a very few months, it will be in position to turn out any kind of simple glass.

From War To Peace Uses.
A plant has been established near Turin, Italy, for the transformation of explosives into nitrates for agricultural uses. The explosives are to be gathered from battlefields to the value of 1,000,000 lire and their products combined with other materials for the production of fertilizers. The factory now employs 250 men, and is expected to produce 30,000 quintals of fertilizers, containing 15 per cent. azote, within a short time, according to a report of Consul Dana C. Sycks.

Making Gauges In China.
Advice from oConsul Max D. Kirjassoff at Dairen states that a glass factory of the South Manchuria Railway company has recently been successful in the production of gauge glass, and that now all the gauges for locomotives, not only on their own lines but also on those of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Shantung Railway, are being supplied by this factory. It is expected that the company's products will be able to compete with America and European gauges, as the factory can utilize cheap Chinese labor.

Transylvania Silkworm Culture.
Silkworm culture in Transylvania which was highly developed under the Magyar regime, but which declined during the war, is again engaging attention, and the Department of Agriculture has taken steps to forward the industry. According to Hungarian law, still effective in this district, the products of this industry must be delivered to the government for a fixed amount, it is estimated that 150,000 kilos of silk coccons, representing a value of 5,000,000 lei, can be purchased this year.

Germans Under Chinese Law.
A new epoch in China's relations with foreigners is opened, acording to Commercial Attache Arnold at Peking, by the signing of the Sino-German trade agreement. By it German citizens will be brought under the jurisdiction of Chinese law and courts. It is expected that there will be a considerable indlux of Germans into China, and with exchange conditions favoring German imports, much competition may come from that source. German trade-marks in China revert to German interests. Negotiations are now under way for a similar treaty with the Far Eastern republic, which has its capital at Tchita, Siberia.

Mexican Taking American Cattle.
The demand in Mexico for American cattle, acording to Consul Cornelius Ferris, Jr., at Mexico City, has developed to such an extent that purchasers are now sending representatives to the United States to buy and obtain deliveries of cattle at the point of shipment or at the Mexican border. Such Mexican representatives are able personally to direct the shipment by methods with which foreigners would not be familiar. Both dairy and beef stock are in demand. The favorite dairy stock is Holstein. The demand at present does not include cattle for the range or haciendas. As the greater proportion of the animals imported are for immediate consumption the demand is likely to continue.

PRESIDENT MILLERAND RECEIVES ROTARIANS

PARIS, July 7.—The last day of the visit of the American Rotary Club delegates to Paris was devoted to sightseeing and an inspection of French industrial plants. The five hundred delegates were received by President Millerand at the Elysee palace this afternoon.

CONGRESSMEN PRESS FIGHT AGAINST TARIFF

Special to The Record News.
WASHINGTON, July 7.—Members of congress who led the fight against a duty on lumber will not be satisfied until all legislation which would leave the way open for negotiations for the establishment of a lumber tariff are removed from the tariff bill.

Representative Walter H. Newton of Minnesota, (Republican), said today he did not believe the lumber schedule as reported by the committee is satisfactory. "While I can only speak for myself, I believe that my views and those associated with me in the fight for free lumber are in accord that while progress has been made the schedule is not yet satisfactory," Mr. Newton declared.

"The committee placed finished lumber on the free list but coupled with a proviso permitting the president to negotiate for the removal of the Canadian duty and upon failure to proclaim the removal—the 25 per cent ad valorem duty would take effect.

"Such action by the president is not anticipated. Yet it is possible if taken by him it would be fully as effective and quite as burdensome as if congress provided for the duty in the first instance. Such a duty would mean an increase in the cost of Canadian lumber to the American home builder of from $200 to $300 a house.

"We are not interested in enlarging the markets of the American lumberman. We are interested in keeping the manufactured product of American forests in the United States.

"We who have been fighting for free lumber are still considering the matter if it is felt that there is any reasonable prospect of the provision being acted upon so as to impose such a duty I for one shall continue to oppose it.

"As for shingles a duty of 50 cents per thousand is better than 60 cents, the original schedule—but it is too high. Shingles should be free or at least subject to not more than a fifteen cent duty per thousand. Fifty cents is prohibitive and will prevent the importation of two billion Canadian shingles or one-fourth of our annual consumption. The shingle men admit this tariff is prohibitive. Furthermore it means the using up of 200 million cedar logs and the depletion of our forests annually to that further extent."

POMERENE WOULD LIMIT CONSTITUTION.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 7.—Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, reintroduced today a separate resolution on his naval disarmament plan. It would authorize the president to suspend American naval construction for six months while negotiating for a disarmament agreement.

SEES SLUMP IN MORALS OF WORLD

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—The changes in the manners, customs and the living standards of the American people in the last twenty-five years have been decidedly marked, according to Archbishop John J. Glennon, who was ordained a bishop in Kansas City June 29, 1896.

The archbishop also found a diminution of religious biotry in the quarter century of his episcopate and an increase in reverence.

"Today the average citizen may not be more religious than he was 25 years ago," Archbishop Glennon said in an interview yesterday, "but he is at least more sensible and more reverent."

Many Are Uncertain in Belief.

"There is, however, a noticeable decrease in the imparting of technical religious instruction, with the result that, today, many of our people, while not unbelievers, are uncertain in regard to what they believe, or what they ought to believe."

But it is the great change in the manners and morals of the people that the archbishop stresses.

"While twenty-five years ago there was evidently a tendency towards a greater freedom, if not laxity, yet that tendency has quickly accelerated until, with the war, it reached a flood tide."

Manners Are "Informal" Now.

"Twenty-five years ago they did observe certain forms in meeting, greeting, eating, conversation, etc. You had men and women who were distinguished by their manners. But in the course of years, this 'form' appears to have vanished; and today it is but mildly stating it, to say that our manners are largely 'informal.' Perhaps, as with other things the lack of form may be compensated for by a note of greater honesty and sincerity.

"Speaking of morals, I am entering upon a more difficult subject.

"Both the manners and morals of young people in every age and generation have been the subject of adverse criticism on the part of the older folks. That was true twenty-five years ago; and with some reason; and it is true today, and probably with more reason."

Moral Standard Has Lowered.

"So much is left to the discretion of the young people themselves, so little of supervision is either offered or admitted, and so reckless and insurgent is the attitude both of old and young, that morals, as we understand them, must necessarily be degenerating. It makes no matter what sphere you enter today—whether the club, the theater or the dance hall; these but reflect the manners and morals of the age.

"You will find that in twenty-five years the standard has been lowered; and that things are said and done for the amusement of supposed respectable people which, twenty-five years ago, would bring the perpetrators before the courts of criminal correction."

Refuses to Accept Apology.

"There are some who in apology for these things suggest that it is more honest and more democratic to so please the public, even in this inferior way, than to have the public resort to the obscurities that veiled the vices of other years. But I do not believe either in the ingeniousness or the sufficiency of the apology. We should have a standard of morals; and we should have someone to uphold and protect that standard. And a censorship on public exhibitions, established by law, is, I believe, a logical necessity of the times. Also, there should be a large measure of protection thrown around our younger people.

"During the last twenty-five years we have enacted and added to the Constitution two amendments, which are deserving of a passing notice. Perhaps, they are not long enough in operation to give them a fair trial."

His Views on Suffrage.

"Regarding the woman suffrage amendment, I would say that there is a certain fitness in its enactment, because it has to do with the rights and responsibilities of the people, and makes equal our citizenship; but in its application and operation, it is doubtful if it will achieve all that was expected of it by its promoters. It will add, it is true, to the numbers of voters; but in very rare instances will there be a change of verdict on the issues presented. The women voters will eventually follow party lines. They may or may not improve the party; but the women who hope by an independent movement to reform all things are doomed to disappointment.

"As to the other amendment, while I agree that every lawful means should be taken to abolish drunkenness and the American saloon, and while I believe the prohibition movement so far has accomplished much good, I am not convinced that its place is in our national Constitution, since it does not deal with the fundamental rights or duties of our citizenship. It is rather a moral issue to be dealt with through local laws, police courts and general education."

TAX AGENTS BEGIN DRIVE ON DELINQUENTS

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Aided by a mobile force of 250 specially trained revenue officers, 2000 deputy collectors today began a nation-wide campaign for the collection of delinquent sales tax. The "flying squadron" invaded only Dallas of Texas cities today. Other cities beseiged were Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, New Orleans, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco.

After mopping up in these towns the flying squadrons will next enter Houston, Fort Worth, Philadelphia, Birmingham, Louisville, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Salt Lake City. Further than that the itinerary has not been arranged, but the drive will cover practically every city of importance in the United States.

Special attention will be given to verification of returns of manufacturers' excise taxes, the tax on soft drinks, and the transportation, jewelry, admission and insurance taxes. Monthly returns of these taxes are required.

Discoveries of fraud, or wilful refusal to collect and pay the taxes will be followed by prosecution. In these cases the bureau of internal revenue will urge the imposition of extreme penalties. Failure to file a return and pay the tax is punishable by a fine of not more than $100 and an additional assessment of 25% of the amount of the tax; while for wilfull refusal or evasion the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000 or five years imprisonment, or both, together with an added assessment of 50% of the amount of the tax.

The time to file amended returns is before and not after government investigation. Commissioner Blair said today "Tax payers who, prior to inquiry by revenue officers, file amended returns accompanied by evidence to show the delinquency was due to no wrongful intent, will be given every proper consideration."

In Austria employes are bound by law to maintain as many workmen as they did before the war.

GOVERNMENT "WINS" ON ALL LOTTERIES RUN IN GERMANY

BERLIN, July 7.—If you gamble in Germany you must play against the state—private quiet games run the risk of being raided by the police. Gambling by cards or roulette is punishable. The paternal German government attempts to satisfy its citizens' instincts for gambling by conducting state lotteries.

You buy a numbered ticket which costs you 400 marks. At certain intervals the numbers are drawn and the winners are advertised in the press. The usual high prize is 500,000 marks, the smaller prizes decreasing to 1,000 marks.

The explanation of the government conducting the lotteries is that a private individual might cheat you; the government wouldn't think of such a thing. So you take a chance and perhaps may draw the half million mark prize.

First you plan exactly how you are going to spend the half million. Then you go around to draw your money. The cashier hands you 420,000 marks. Twenty per cent was retained by the government as its profits. You are informed that a list of the winners is given to the tax authorities to prevent your dodging on your tax return. The tax collector relieves you of 195,000 marks income tax on the 500,000, for on your tax certificate is a special question as to your lottery winnings.

You still have 225,000 marks to report to the authorities as your capital increase for the year. The capital increase tax (a first cousin to the excess profits tax) costs you 100,000 marks. You have 125,000 marks remaining to build your air castles originally planned on the basis of 500,000.

Germans gamble with the state because it's a sure thing—you simply can't be cheated.

BARKER GUILTY OF VIOLATING STATE FOOD LAW

W. F. Barker of the firm of Barker Brothers, local proprietors of a bakery, was found guilty Thursday by a jury in the county court at law on a charge of violating the state law regulating the sanitary condition of bakeries. He was fined $25 and costs.

Following another inspection of the bakery late Thursday, S. M. Ramsey, state inspector who filed the charges, issued the following statement:

"Immediately after adjournment of court, at the request of Mr. Barker, I went with him to his bakery and made another inspection of the plant, which is a good one and can easily be kept in a sanitary condition. I found that the walls and ceiling had been painted and that the floors had been scraped. Mr. Barker declares that by the end of the week, he will be in first class condition and that from this time forward he proposes to employ an ample number of efficient men to keep his place in first class condition at all times."

The nurses will assist the Iowa Park physicians during the two days in weighing and giving medical advice to the children and babies who are brought to the center.

MISS MARTHA BRITAIN CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Celebrating her second birthday, little Miss Martha Britain entertained a group of her small friends with a delightful party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Britain Wednesday afternoon.

Games on the spacious lawn in which balloons in gay colors furnished amusement, were enjoyed until a late hour when the guests were invited into the dining room, which was attractively decorated for the occasion, the elaborate birthday cake forming the feature attraction.

The cake was lovely with two lighted candles in the center, surrounded by 61 smaller ones, in remembrance of the hostess' grandmother, Mrs. B. M. Bell, for whom she was named, and who passed away on the date of Martha's birth, three years previous.

The grandmother's birthday, which is also on the same date, was remembered. A large crowd of the guests' mothers were present, and spent a delightful afternoon. Ice cream cones and animal cookies were served.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

NED'S SURPRISE

In the middle of Main street they parted. Edward to go his way, and Cherry her's.

"I'll meet you here at noon, darling," were the happy husband's last words as he left.

Cherry, all smiles, floated on, until she reached the portals of "Hamlen & Son's" department store, which she entered briskly.

There was a decided stir among the girls employed there as she entered. It was evident that Cherry's decision to enter the business world had caused a furore in town circles.

Here and there Cherry heard a smothered giggle, but she paid no attention to it.

Mr. Arthur Hamlen, Sr., came forward to meet her and welcomed her warmly to his house. He then introduced her to the rest of the staff with a flowery little speech, which amused Cherry beyond words.

That done, he led her to her special department, and to Cherry's delight there was a huge basket of dewy, autumn flowers, charmingly arranged, awaiting her, and deep down in the flaring heart of the blossoms a card which brought the smiles and blushes to her cheek. It read:

"To the dearest sweetheart in the world, with all the best wishes of her adoring husband."

Mr. Hamblen, may I set these right up here in the show place for today? They're from Ned, bless his dear heart. And they will sort of decorate my department as well as make me happy while I work."

"This little realm is yours, Mrs. Randall. You are to be queen bee here. Do with it what you will in the future," said Arthur Hamlen, generously.

Then, after explaining a few necessary details to her, he left the excited girl to face her first day in the shop.

With the unerring instinct which had helped to make her reputation back in Chicago, Cherry flew about arranging and rearranging as she saw fit.

Her particular department was one entire side of the department store. There were four large windows facing the street, which cheered her considerably, when she thought of the wonderful display she would use them for a little later on.

Humming to herself, she slipped into a becoming lavender apron and patted her curly locks here and there to make them look a wee bit more "business-like." She next examined the old stock of hats, hats which made her shudder as she looked at them! Not a chic one in the entire lot! It was indeed high time that Hamlen & Son engaged her services.

"So much good material wasted," she whispered to herself as she took up one particularly ugly brown velvet affair, trimmed with plush silk roses! Dear, dear, poor Mrs. Witherbee certainly didn't have much of an eye for color!"

Excitement made the wild-rose color fly to her cheeks as she patted and examined.

One or two of the older girls came up to her corner and stood watching her with respectful eyes as she worked.

"Come right in, girls. I want to get acquainted with every one of you," said Cherry in her friendly manner as she caught sight of them.

She was busily transforming a small green turban into a miracle of loveliness as she spoke, much to the admiration of her youthful watchers.

"Oh, Mrs. Randall, how perfectly lovely. I never would have thought you could do anything with that funny little bonnet," said one of the girls.

"I do hope you'll fix me a fall hat, Mrs. Randall," from another. "I've just had the ugliest old things ever for the longest time. Joey that's my young man, always laughs at my hats. But he won't be able to any more, now."

"I'll make a hat for every one of the girls here, just you wait and see," said Cherry gleefully.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

LEOPARD CANNOT CHANGE SPOTS

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man,, Tells the Treachery of Calomel.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and you can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

TASTY SAUCES

Chicken Sauce—Melt one-quarter cup butter, add one-quarter cup of flour and blend well. Add one cup chicken stock and stir constantly until smooth and creamy. Add one cup cream and heat over hot water, stirring frequently. Just before serving stir in two egg yolks diluted with two tablespoons cream.

Green Pepper Sauce—Remove seeds and tough portions from three green peppers. Chop peppers very fine and fry until soft in one-quarter cup butter. Add two tablespoons flour and blend well. Add two cups milk and stir constantly until smooth and thick. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Onion Sauce—Blend one and one-half tablespoons flour with one-half cup butter. Add gradually two cups scalded milk and stir constantly until smooth and thick. Add four boiled onions, finely chopped, and salt and pepper to taste. Serve with veal, mutton or poultry.

SUGGESTIONS

To Wash Baby Flannels that have become hard, use soapflakes but add a teaspoonful of turpentine to two quarts of water. Do not rub on the board. Squeese and pull into shape while under suds. Then rinse in the same temperature of what that they were washed in, with another teaspoonful of turpentine and pinch of soapflakes added. Squeese the water out, but don't wring or twist. Hang in warm place to dry. If you dry them in the house put a pan under to catch the water that drips from them. In the summer dry them in the shade—never in the sun. Pull once in a while while drying into shape.

Sink Cleanliness—To avoid unnecessary plumbers' bills, pour one cup of kerosene down the sink once a month and next morning pour down a couple of gallons of boiling water. The kerosene loosens and eats away any accumulated grease and the boiling water dissolves and washes it away, thus preventing stopping of the pipes.

To Remove the Smell of onions from breath, parsley eaten with vinegar is good.

To Remove Bluing Stains from fabrics, soak in strong ammonia water. Or soak in kerosene and wash with nahptha soap in luke warm water.

COOKING HINTS

When Making Fudge use one tablespoon of peanut butter instead of butter and chopped nuts. This gives a much richer flavor and is pleasanter to the tongue.

In Making Mayonnaise Dressing to use for potato salad, if the white of the egg is beaten stiff and dry and then added to the dressing it will be found a great improvement and besides takes less mayonnaise to make the same amount of salad.

If Heavy Cream is whipped a little too long, it will granulate. To bring it back to the right consistency add about two tablespoons of milk to a half pint of cream, then turn the beater a few times.

Wash Raisins in Hot Water before putting into cakes, and they will not settle to the bottom of the pan.

CYPHER CLUB DANCE UNUSUALLY ENJOYABLE

Because of the many attractive visitors in the city, the Cypher club dance which will be given at Lake Wichita this evening, promises to be unusually enjoyable.

Several local hostesses are entertaining house parties of out of town guests, and several are expected from neighboring towns.

Music for the affair will be furnished by the "Doc" Davis orchestra, which is composed of Oklahoma University men.

SENSE OF HUMOR IN MARRIAGE, HE SAYS

A man got up the other day and said it was his opinion that a sense of humor was so important in life that it ought to be put right into the marriage ceremony.

It is needless to add that the man who got up and said it was a bachelor. If he had been married he wouldn't have been allowed to get up in the first place, and even if he had managed that he wouldn't have dared say anything so radical.

This gentleman's suggestion was that, since the "obey" had been amputated from the service, the loving couple should be required to "love, honor and have a sense of humor" until death do them part.

Undoubtedly, a sense of humor has its place in the home, but we don't see the advantage of thrusting it into the wedding service.

If you really had a sense of humor in working order you wouldn't be doing anything so ridiculous as promising anything. A man getting married is in no condition to enjoy a joke—even if he is one.

When a man can hardly keep a wife, the way prices are, how can he be expected to keep a sense of humor? Even if he did manage to scrape up the remnants of one after the wedding it would be knocked out by the first of the month, when the bills begin to come in.

Generally speaking, a sense of humor in matrimony is about as much use as a map of Europe, published in 1913.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Uncle Jim Sewell Shows He Has Come Back

VETERAN JUDICIOUSLY APPLIES SALIVA AND PITCHES MASTERLY SESSION ALLOWING SIX BINGLES

SHREVEPORT, July 7.—Oh, dearly beloved brethren!

Bring forth the crepe de chine decorated cuspidor with the hand embroidered Irish lace handles and ask Walter Cline to prepare a presentation speech, giving the famous trophy to the rejuvenated spit ball king, Uncle Jimmy Sewell.

Uncle Jimmy, twirling his first nine inning battle since his arm went bad in the spring, expectorated all over Billy Smith's Gassers here this afternoon, and the Spudders tucked a 4 to 3 victory in the old bat bag.

Uncle Jimy spat on 'em, by golly.

He slipped 'em the old saliva-coated pellett with great earnestness, considerable speed and lots of terbacker.

Uncle Jimmy had a little trouble in the seventh inning, when the Gassers collected three tallies after two were out, but as Rube Marshall remarks in the dugout, "Don't ride him, boys, the kid is nervous just breaking into this high class league."

Uncle Jimmy did a most artistic and serious minded job. He chewed steadily and industriously, he spat upon the ball accurately and he twirled scientifically.

Between frames he applied ice cold towels soaked in the water bucket to the back of his neck, grabbed a fresh chew and prepared to wreck more Shreveport batting averages in the inning to come.

Not only did Uncle Jim slap 'em his fast one, all his spitters and a splendid assortment of the midseason's best styles in curves, but he also did some dirty work on Billy Smith with his trusty wagon tongue.

Fellers, it would have done your hearts good to see those two green youngsters, Kitchens and Sewell, put on an old fashioned squeeze play in the seventh.

Kitchens was on third. Uncle Jimmy at bat.

Uncle Jim put the play on the Charley Paddock, Kitchens raced for the plate, and Uncle Jimmy kittenishly laid one down to Pitcher Gleason. Kitchens scored standing up and Uncle Jim durn near beat out the throw to first.

Those two kids are sure full of jazz.

The Shreveport fans had a big hand for their Ace Gleason who had twirled 'em to victory in his last four starts. But Uncle Jimmy butted Gleason's winning streak, outpitched him and showed us beyond the shadow of a doubt that his come back is a real one. Jim Sewell will win more games for the Spudders. Six hits was the best the Gassers could pole from Jim's moist ball, while the mighty Hack Eibel, treading close on the heels of Clarence Kraft as the leading slugger of Doak Roberts' loop, could not scratch a single off Jim.

For five innings today we watched as pretty a duel as one could wish to see.

During the first three innings the Gassers did not hit a ball out of the infield. Long's fly to Griggs in the fourth being the first ball that left a Shreveport bat with any semblance of power behind it.

In the sixth the Spudders finally broke the deadlock and scored a tally without a hit. Buddy Tanner walked and he and Tex McDonald were both safe on a fielder's choice when Ewold pegged low to second. Jake Miller flied out to right, Buddy took third and Danny Clark hit to Long in center who dropped the ball after a run, Buddy scoring. McElwee fouled out to Henry and Griggs flied to center.

Two more Spudders markers were chalked up in the seventh. After Works had flied to Long, Frank Kitchens slammed a triple to left center, Roy Storey trying to field the ball on the run and booting it about forty yards. Then Uncle Jimmy and Frank worked the old squeeze successfully.

Buddy again worked Gleason for a base on balls, stole second and romped home when Tex McDonald singled heatedly to right. Tex died stealing.

And then the Gasers and a little hard luck made trouble for Uncle Jimmy in the same frame and robbed him of a shut out.

Ewoldt walked and was forced at second by Jackson, Clark to Tanner. Buddy made a nice peg to first for the double play and beat Jackson easily, but Umpire Sentell called Jackson safe because Caddy Works had pulled his foot off the bag too darned early.

Eibel rolled weakly to Works for what should have been the third out, but unfortunately only made the second. Hollohan doubled hard to left on a high fast one, Jackson scoring. Hartford caught a lucky one on the end of his bat for a single over first, and Hollohan scored.

On a steal Hartford raced on to third when Kitchens pegged low into the dirt and the ball broke out of Clark's glove into right field.

Henry singled to left, scoring Hartford, and then Uncle Jimmy got down right mad and struck out Gleason on three pitched balls.

The Spudders chalked up the winning counter, however, in the next frame. Miller flied to center and Clark drew a pass. McElwee flied to right, and then Danny purloined the second cushion. Cecil Griggs took complete revenge on the Gassers for cutting him loose from their old ball club by busting one of Gleason's shoots clear to the center field fence for a double and the winning tally. Cecil was out at third trying to stretch it. But it was enough.

Uncle Jimmy turned 'em back in the eighth and ninth, aided in the last frame by a lightning double play by Tanner.

Buddy went back of second on Eibel's punch, took the ball on the run, stepped on the sack and cut the old pill clean to Works, thereby rendering useless the single obtained by one Jackson only the minute before.

Boys, Uncle Jimmy Sewell has come back.

He's done traveled the route and pitched a masterful [illegible]

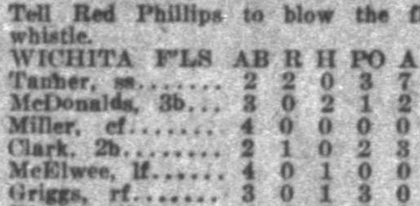

Tell Red Phillips to blow the fire whistle.

RICKARD UNABLE TO FIND GIBBONS FOR FIGHT OFFER

NEW YORK, July 7.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Carpentier contest, said today that until he is able to locate Tom Gibbons he will be unable to make any definite proposition to Carpentier about a fight next fall. Carpentier is willing, he said, to fight with any good man in his class, but he has had no further talk with him on the subject pending news from Gibbons.

Carpentier saw the pictures of the championship fight at Newark today for the first time. His only comment was that they "showed a good fight." His manager, Francois Deschamps, said that it was evident from the pictures that Dempsey weighed nearer 193 to 195 pounds than the 188 pounds given as his weight before the fight.

"You can see," he said, "he was too big, too powerful for my Georges."

WEEKLY SHOOT OF GUN CLUB TO BE HELD TODAY

The regular weekly shoot of the Wichita Falls Gun Club will be held today at 4:00 p. m. at the regular shooting grounds beyond the baseball park, according to an announcement.

WILL HE MAKE NEXT BID FOR TITLE?

Tommy Gibbons ready for the gloves and gong.

Tommy Gibbons isn't set to demand a chance at the heavyweight championship. He needs another year of prepping against the "run-of-the mine" heavies to increase his knowledge of handling big opponents and perfect his punching. Gibbons has just grown into the heavyweight class. Until a year ago he was too light for the big class. Now, with added weight, which he put mostly in his shoulders, he is nearing the ideal size.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 6.—Tonight we terminate our stay at the Terminal hotel, and move the entire front line offensive against the "Shreesport" Gassers—and then the boys are coming home in third place at the worst. Wait and watch what this fighting gang will do in their own back yard.

When the Cats hit Spudder park they'll have to win with nine players and a manager. Don't forget that, fellers.

We're writing this at 1 p. m.—and Holly hasn't beaten the Panthers today as yet. But before this goes in the mail chute, we expect to add a "Hooray" paragraph.

Did we say the "entire line" would move against the Gassers? No, the Spudders will be minus the services of Bob Bescher and Froggy Rothfuss again. Bob is going home to Wichita Falls tonight, both legs crippled, lame and cut up—and the skipper is sending Froggy with him. Froggy's head is aching—"feels sort of all on fire," he told us—and yesterday's collision with Clark shook him up quite a bit.

Bescher was spiked by "Possum" Moore when he slid down home in the opener here Monday, and both his legs, for that matter, are black and blue.

Hunter Hills is on a still hunt for pitchers for the Spudders. Salm is doing his best to dig up some new talent somewhere. We hope to have additional news along this line late tonight, but we can't promise anything definite.

Asked Hunter Hill today if he was through umpiring:

"Through! Yes, for life! It might be different if a fellow's working in a strange league where nobody knows him. But a man's a fool to handle an indicator in towns where he's known. My friends are worth too much to me. I'm through. But I guess at that I got by as good as any of the rest of 'em."

Reading that gold old Record News today and see where "J. H. S." busted in again with a poetical volley at Umpires Kane and Daley. It gave the Spudders a good laugh, and considerable satisfaction. But say, Boss, you're gonna let us keep our job, aintcha?

Battled Will Gray over the links of the River Crest Country club this morning. Will hit a home run in the seventh and got two two baggers and a single—but there wuz a couple o' times when his clubs were wild and Will should have waited 'em out and got a base on balls! Will says he ain't used to playing with colored caddies, and it takes more than two pairs of sox to fill Bill Stripling's golf shoes!

Say, fans, is "Red" Phillips still blowing the fire whistle? How about it, Slim Richardson? Ask Slim to tell you how Red came down here for the doubleheader and poured it on these Panther fans.

Swede Anderson has wired from Cisco that his wife is still critically ill, but that he will rejoin the club as "soon as possible."

Buddy Tanner's feeling stiff. Says that long lay off got him back to where he'll have to be playing three or four more days before the soreness works out.

Time to grab the score book and get ready to check up some strike outs for Holly. See you all after the game.

8:00, P. M.—Hooray for the Spudders! With a catcher in right field, a third sacker in left, a youngster shortstop at third base, and a southpaw first baseman warming up for pitching duty, they made the Cats go to the last of the ninth, with two out, before the Spuds admitted defeat. Greatest fighting game of ball we ever saw, major or minors. Off to Shreveport in 20 minutes.

GREATEST STARS IN BASEBALL FIRMAMENT MAY BE CALLED AS WITNESSES FOR "BLACK SOX"

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Some of the greatest stars in baseball, including Tyrus Raymond Cobb, manager of the Detroit Americans, Eddie Collins, captain of the Chicago White Sox, and half a dozen Detroit players may be called to testify in defense of the former White Sox players and others on trial charged with a conspiracy through which it is alleged the 1919 world series was thrown to Cincinnati. This was made known by the defense today in accepting the first four jurors to be chosen for the trial.

As Henry Berger, defense attorney, finished examining the fourth juror, he asked if he knew any of the witnesses announced by the state and then said:

"Do you know Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann, Veach, Young, Bill James, Owen Bush, Howard Ehmke, Oscar Stanage, Dyer, Dauss, or Mitchell of the Detroit club, or Eddie Collins, John Collins, 'Red' Faber, Bird Lynn, Harry Leibold, Eddie Murphy or Clarence Rowland, who are now with or formerly were with the White Sox?"

Later Mr. Berger said these men might testify as to the character of the indicted players, render opinions as to the possibility of a game being thrown or about the pennant winning drive of the White Sox at the close of the 1919 series in which a number of games were won from Detroit. Examination of veniremen will be resumed tomorrow.

CULLUM GETS AWAY WITH LOVING CUP IN DUB TOURNEY

Frank Cullum is the possessor of the McGregor-Rowe-Lea cup given in the Dub tournament, winning by virtue of defeating W. M. Haigler, 2 up in the final match.

The play in the final match was phenomenal with respect to the closeness of the play, the players being all square at the end of the first 18 holes, and remaining so for an additional nine, when Cullum won a hole. Play to the final hole was necessary to determine the winner.

Only players with a handicap of 18 or more participated in the matches. The players eliminated in the semi-finals were A. E. Myles, by Haigler and Jim Barnard, by Cullum.

LEWIS DEFEATS POWERS IN FAST TENNIS CONTEST

Defeating William Powers in a fast semi final match Thursday afternoon, Delbert Lewis eliminated his last opponent scheduled before the finals in the city tennis tournament. The scores ran 9-7 and 8-6.

The game was snappy and fast throughout, with Powers taking the lead in the first set, which was later overcome largely by a stonewall defense put up by Lewis.

Lewis will meet Charles Gallencamp Thursday afternoon at 1609 Thirteenth street for the finals. A Heather sport coat is offered the winner by the Southern Electric company and a bathing suit the runner up by the Richardson Haberdasher company as prizes in the finals.

The match will be refereed by Joe Hill.

CHAMP JACK SENDS FLOWERS TO BOY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—A card bearing the inscription:

"From Champion Jack Dempsey—Dick's friend," was attached to a bunch of flowers sent to the funeral of Richard Prendergast here today.

"Dick," who was sixteen years old, had beaten his way by freight to the Jersey City arena, fought his way to the presence of the champion and shaken his hand, but was crushed to death between two freight cars when he attempted to return to his home here hobo style.

The champion heard about it and insisted on sending flowers to the funeral.

"Black Sox" Drew High Salaries While Members of Chicago Team, State Attorney Asserts to Court

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Statements by defense attorneys during examinations of prospective jurors in the baseball trial today that the indicted White Sox players were not high salaried men as had been supposed resulted in the state making public a list of salaries which included figures as low as $3,000 for some of the men and as high as $7,250 for others.

Buck Weaver's contract for $7,250 per season was the highest in 1919 and Claude Williams with a contract for $500 per month for six months, received the lowest salary. Bonuses, however, increased the total of several men. Most salaries were increased in 1920.

The list, as given out by the state and on which the defense refused to comment, follows:

Chick Gandill $666.66 per month for the playing season of six months in 1919. Not with club in 1920.

Charles Risberg, $3,250 for the 1919 season, plus $185.76 for the extra time required for the world series. Same for 1920.

Buck Weaver, $7,250 for 1919, plus $419.36 for world series period.

Fred McMullin, $300 per month, plus $149.94 for world series period; $600 per month for 1920.

Joe Jackson, $1,000 for playing season months in 1919, plus $209.07 for world series period; $3,000 for 1920.

Oscar Felsch, $714.50 per month in 1919, plus $214.38 for world series period and a bonus of $3,000; $10,000 contract for 1920.

Claude Williams, $500 per month in 1919, plus a contract bonus of $375.00 and another bonus of $500 given voluntarily by Charles A. Comiskey. Contract for 1920 season, $6,000; received a bonus of $1,500 at the time of his suspension in fall of 1920.

Edward Cicotte, $952 per month in 1919 season, plus $3,000 bonus, plus $285.75 for series period; 1920 contract $10,000.

COAST GUARDS PROTECT SHIPS AGAINST ICE

A man who is brought up to look upon ice in summer as served in 10-cent chunks is suddenly confronted by a cake, carried by the sea, of sufficient size to supply the families of the United States for July and August; a man accustomed to measure objects on a scale of skyscrapers, city blocks or church steeples, finds flashed before him a sea spectable, in which ice in hills, in mountains and in whole glaciers drift at the mercy of wind and current.

This is the experience of New England boys with the coast guard patrol, which for five months has been stationed on the edge of steamship lanes out of New York and Boston.

Ice Assumes All Shapes.

Members of the crew who have seen a river valley in flood say it does not inspire the awe induced by these fantastic sea pictures: Swan boats, big enough to seat giants; doglike mountains rising up from the ocean's depth and melting overnight, and "sailors"—all in ice—coming out of the North laden with stupefied seals, not knowing where they were going, but on their way.

Icebergs still rule the sea, but after several casualties to ships in the month of May, the United States government, which patrols the ice field under international agreement and cost, dispatched the destroyer Breckenridge to the Grand Banks, armed with the newest torpedo to fight the menace.

The nature and results of these experiments are not definitely known, but acording to coast guard men a war weapon makes on the face of an iceberg the impression of a popgun against a mountain of cotton. The destroyer may have found icebergs good targets, but the most destructive agency of man could not accomplish what must still be done by a warm breeze.

Tests Fail to Locate Bergs

"Several tests are supposed to reveal the presence of icebergs," said Commander Bamble, "but none can be relied upon. An echo from a whistle or gun will return readily enough from a fog bank, but rarely from a berg. And only in good weather can you hear the wash against the sides of ice.

"As for water temperatures—it is a myth, for on the approach of an iceberg the temperature of the water may be rising.

"There is only one way to eliminate the iceberg menace. Glaciers come down in the spring in the cold Labrador current. Now when they hit the Gulf stream from the south they cannot live. We therefore keep informed of the course of the shifting Gulf stream and offer the route provided by nature.

"In the last month we have received by radio, reports of more than 1,000 temperatures from vessels at sea in this region. We can easily give a streamer a safe course—if captains will only co-operate with us. But they cannot raed iacross the banks."

While the radio has been stealing the Seneca and Yamacraw have been running a course of sea adventures in waters where the ghost of the Titanic is never absent on any sea voyage.

This is a season with a larger crop of icebergs due to the open winter, which released them in the north and which did not impede by ice anchors their progress downstream in the early spring.

With the patrol is Lieutenant Commander Smith, one of the youngest of his rank in the service. Commander Smith is navigator of the flagship and his hobby is icebergs. He has writen stories about them and has plied Washington with original records and observations.

One Berg Would Supply Nation.

Commander Smith usually makes the inspection trip of all icebergs in charge of the small running boat. He is authority for the statement that bergs this year have assumed the most fantastic forms.

The largest iceberg he has ever seen was surveyed in the 1921 patrol. It was a third of a mile long, seventy-five feet high, and, calculated at a depth nine times its height above the water, shows an ice content sufficient, he figures, to supply the 110 million people of the United States, handled in groups of five, for the months of July and August.

The iceberg, which proved to be a veritable ship's mascot for a month, traveling three hundred miles, also established to his mind a record.

Through an opening in one iceberg known as the "Floating Drydock" Commander Smith took his exploring party and found a small lake of blue water, in which he drifted along with the huge natural edifice. The area was large enough to float the Imperator.—Boston Globe.

AUXILIARY URGES AID IN BENEFIT

More response and co-operation generally among the members of the Auxiliary to the American Legion than has been manifested up to the present time will be necessary if the Monday benefit at the Olympic theater is to be a financial success to the auxiliary, officers of the unit stated Thursday. All members are urged to take tickets, for themselves at least, if they can not sell tickets.

Mrs. D. O. Long, the chairman of the entertainment committee will be at the Wilford Harrison Drug Store again this morning from 9 to 11 o'clock with tickets to sell, or to distribute to members to sell. Members of the auxiliary who have not already made arrangements, and all others interested in the work of the auxiliary are urged to call at the drug store this morning and purchase their tickets.

Individual members who have been working on the ticket sale report good success in the work so far, but a more general participation in the sale is urged.

The proceeds will go towards the fund to assist the invalid soldiers in Texas hospitals.

AMERICANS STUDY HUN BUSINESSES

BERLIN, July 7.—Can Germany's cheap labor underbid the world markets and throw Americans out of work? This question has brought dozens of American business men to Germany who are making quiet investigations of the German industrial situation. The result of these investigations are, for a time at least, reassuring for America.

An American textile manufacturer found that to his surprise he can undersell the German in neutral European countries in many lines. The International News Service asked him the reason why Germany, with labor costing only from eight to fifteen cents an hour, cannot compete with the comparatively highly paid American workman's output. He said:

"Before the war Germany was able to cut prices because of her enormous production. The majority of textile factories today are working only 35 to 40 per cent of their 1913 production. Smaller output increases production cost on the article. The reasons for the decreased output are:

"1—The graduated taxation is so heavy that manufacturers don't find it worth the risk to have a big output. With a heavy production the state takes the profits in taxation; with a smaller gross income they can make a larger net profit without so much risk.

"2—The fluctuating exchange of the mark makes it dangerous for German manufacturers to lay in large stocks of raw material. The value of the mark may change and they may find themselves in a position where they can't even get the original value of the raw materials out of their finished wares. Raw materials are more expensive when bought in small quantities.

"3—The state law forbidding dismissing workmen, even if they are unnecessary, makes it dangerous to take on a big staff temporarily to turn out a hurried order.

"4—The psychology of German salesmanship has been so affected by the falling mark and skyrocketing prices that they demand twice the percentage of profit they were willing to take in peace times."

Owens was removed to the General hospital for treatment. Physicians announced that he will be able to leave Friday.

RESIDENTS OF "VILLAGE" ASK FOR REAL FOOD

In the dispute over Greenwich Village—whether it ought to be something that it isn't—the Radicals have had their say; so have the Ninth Warders and Reformers. About the only citizen who has not got his or her chance of contributing to the debate is the Middle Class Villager, the resident who has to live in the quarter merely because one must live somewhere.

The Middle Class Villager now gets up in meeting and tells what he's peeved about. "Eats." He has indigestion—indigestion from being forced to consume queer, deadly concoctions created to pander to the subnormal tastes of radicals and tourists. The food question—that's his trouble. He thinks of his stomach while hundreds of his fellow villagers are worrying about the Menace to Art.

"I'm going to start a food reform," says he. "As far as I am personally concerned, the reform wave isn't going to help me a bit. I'm a hopeless victim of indigestion after living one year in Greenwich Village. These queer dishes in the restaurants may taste good to uptowners who do not have to consume them as a regular diet. Or they may be all right as late supper dishes when a gang is out for a lark, but as a steady diet for a man or woman who lives in the Village, never gets any home cooking and is forced to eat them two or three times a day, for sustenance, they are a crime.

"Miss Ridgewood, N. J., finds herself in a downstairs cave, candle lit. About her are seated short-haired girls smoking cigarettes. There is a sprinkling of long-haired youths, holding books of poems. Everything seems cozy and unusual to her. She eats anything they give her. The smocked proprietor slouches in, offering a half-baked chunk of chocolate cake and a cup of poisonous black coffee. She eats, drinks, giggles, and thinks she is having the time of her life. She's had a good, home-cooked dinner before she started out for the evening, so why worry?

"Near by is a resident of the neighborhood. He is consuming goulash-chop-suey, washing it down with forty-horsepower tea, trying to pretend he's having a square meal. The 'atmosphere' means nothing to him. What wouldn't he give for an electric lighted dining room, a good piece of beef, mashed potatoes, buttered beets, creamed onions and a piece of apple pie!

"I've tried out all the old and new haunts. They're getting to be all alike. There are a few places a bit lighter, a bit cleaner than the rest, which serve slightly more palatable food, but most of them hand out starvation portions. The good ones are far between and they are not considered 'Village places.'

"I tried recently a place noted for its radical patronage. It was conducted by a foreigner. It was not in a basement. I soon discovered that I couldn't even read the menu. It was supposed to be a clever creation, with all the dishes so misspelled and punned that the patron had no idea what they were. The only thing I could read was a foreign pastry, and I took that. I ordered coffee with cream. The proprietor grew belligerent.

'If you are a plutocrat, go uptown and drink your coffee,' he bellowed. 'This is a poor man's coffee-house. Workingmen can't afford cream. They drink black coffee. Drink yours that way. It will make you strong.'

"You ask why I continue eating at cellarettes when there are good restaurants uptown which I might patronize. The answer is that I find it necessary to go to the most convenient places; also I have to economize. Uptowners wouldn't be thrilled early in the morning, and after work, when they're tired and hungry, to be forced to come down to the Village for their breakfast and dinners—miles downtown in the subway or elevated. The same holds true for us downtowners. It takes too much effort after a day's work or early in the morning before the day commences to take a long ride in order to get food.

"The crusaders who have been storming the Village passed up the one best bet. They overlooked food reform."

APARTMENT RENT CUT 40 PER CENT FOR TWO HOUSES

Characterizing the move as in line with the general decline in price and in accord with the request of the Chamber of Commerce a 25 to 40 per cent reduction in rents at two city apartment houses was announced Wednesday by W. S. Curlee of Curlee and Johnson.

The two houses affected are the Lorraine apartments at Tenth and Holliday and the Brook-Manor at Eighth and Brook streets.

These are the second reductions announced in these apartments from the peak prices of last year.

PRESIDENT IN INDIAN PROBE.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—President Harding has undertaken to investigate, personally, numerous complaints from Indian tribes that their interests are not being properly safeguarded by the government.

Representatives of the Sioux, Mohave, Apaches and several other tribes carried to the White House complaints that designing white men were being allowed to wrest valuable property rights from the Indians. The president listened to the representationes and then requested that the detailed charges be laid before him, asserting that he would tolerate no injustice to the Indians under his administration.

One of the complaints, presented by Joseph W. Latimer, attorney, is that the bureau of Indian affairs is endeavoring to remove the Mohave and Apaches from the Fort McDowell reservation in Arisona to the Salt River Valley and deprive them of their water rights on the reservation in order to enable private water companies to obtain a water supply from the Verde river.

Indian Commissioner Burke denies that any Indians who elected to remain on the McDowell reservation will be deprived of water rights.

Vital Issue Divides American Federation of Labor for First Time in Twenty-Five Years

For the first time in a quarter century a vital issue divides the American labor movement. Gompers has been re-elected and Lewis defeated for the presidency of the Federation. But Lewis secured a full third of the votes on a radical platform. It is true that Lewis is not a radical himself and that a certain part of his following was conservative; but this is more than counterbalanced by the fact that most of the Socialists, who certainly are radicals, supported Gompers solely on the ground that he was going to be elected in any event. The Lewis platform undoubtedly has the support of a large section of the Federation. Rightly understood this fact gives the key to labor's situation; but it is not rightly understood.

The only interpretation found in current reports of the Denver convention was that the race of Lewis, a new and young man, against Gompers, the experienced veteran, is a struggle of progressivism against conservatism. This description is wholly fallacious.

Neither man is a conservative in the sense in which that word is employed outside the labor unions. Both are thorough-going progressives—except as regards the issue each presents as paramount. Lewis has put forth a political program as paramount—and it is distinctly radical; in economic or labor union maters Lewis is a moderate. Gompers is a moderate progressive in politics (though not a conservative). As to economic or labor union action—which he regards as paramount—he is distinctly radical (though not an extremist), and certainly more militant than Lewis.

At the time of the last coal strike Lewis announced that he was an American first of all, and gave in to the most extreme anti-labor injunction of American history. On a similar occasion Gompers and the previous president of the miners, John Mitchell, announced their readiness to go to jail. This is undoubtedly the prondest moment of Gompers' life, and his policy has lately been unanimously adopted and reiterated as the policy of the Federation. Beyond all question this was the leading point of Gompers' supporters at the convention. And it indicates clearly enough Gompers' economic policy. There is to be no compromise whatever as to the rights of labor in the economic field. Concessions may be dictated by discretion at any time and in any direction, but only for tactical objects. Labor will not disarm. Carried to an extreme the Gompers' policy would lead in the direction of syndicalism, but he does not carry it to an extreme.

What Lewis Stands For

In the same way the platform upon which Lewis appealed to the convention would lead unmistakably to socialism—but Lewis is far from being a Socialist and does not propose to go beyond a certain well defined limit in that direction. What Lewis stands for is government ownership and democratic operation of railways and coal mines and government control of natural resources. But the Denver convention was scarcely divided on these questions; it was unanimous for government control of natural resources and the majority was overwhelming for government ownership and democratic operation of mines and railways, while Gompers pledged himself a second time to carry out loyally the decisions of the Federation. This year the majority on the railway question was even more sweeping than it was last year, and it is evident that this position will not soon be reversed.

The majority of the delegates who voted for Gompers also voted for government ownership and democratic operation of railroads, and those hwo did not certainly have no idea of endeavoring to thwart the will of the majority. They realize that the nationalisation sentiment will not be reversed, but they know it acn be modified. Already the Plum plan has been dropped into the background. It has not by any means been abandoned, but when it comes to the front again it will undoubtedly appear in a modified form.

This represents the fourth stage of the evolution of the government ownership movement in the Federation within two years. From government operation it passed to democratic operation under the Plumb plan. To the Plumb Plan the Montreal (1920) convention of the Federation preferred merely democratic operation without any specified plan. And now the railroad brotherhoods, supported by the Gompers administration, are deliberately holding their political program in suspense and postponing the presentation of labor's cause in the shape of a congressional bill. All the important unions are pledged absolutely to some form of government ownership, but their position has been so steadily and rapidly modified that they are likely now to propose a measure that is far removed from anything that has hitherto gone under that name.

There is no sharply defined alignment between the Gompers and Lewis groups on this issue. The difference lies in another direction. Lewis proposes to make government ownership and related political reforms (state insurance against sickness, unemployment and old age) the paramount issue before the labor movement and the country. The issue within the Federation then, is thit: Shall organized labor place its chief reliance upon the influence of the radical-liberal voters of all classes over the government or shall it continue to attach first importance to the maintenance and increase of its own economic power?

The Pseudo Liberals

The radical outsiders, Socialists or pseudo liberals, who, through their publications, press associations and numerous ramifying and inter-related organisations, have an immense and rapidly growing influence over labor, prefer the political program, which would put the labor movement largely in their hands, as in Great Britain and several other countries today. But organised labor in countries where it is freed from the influence of a heavily subsidized socialistic or pseudo liberal press, tends to attach greater importance to its own economic status and power. This is now the case in most of the continental countries and not merely among the French syndicalists, as is sometimes supposed.

Torn between the various international communist, semi-communist and Socialist sects and thoroughly disillusioned as to mere government ownership without a considerable degree of labor participation in control, the labor of the continent is relying more upon labo runions and less upon political and Socialist parties. Only Great Britain is an exception, and the inspiration of the Lewis program is undoubtedly the British Labor party. And this inspiration is imported almost entirely by the Socialists and pro-Bolshevist pseudo liberals (and the Hearst newspapers) in the confident hope that they will be able to take control of the American movement. Lewis may not have an American Labor party on the British model in view, but that is undoubtedly the expressed objective of those who have popularised the program he has adopted. And the British Labor party is no longer moderate, as it was before the war; it is not only a member of the Socialist International, but until a few days ago was pledged to an effort to get together with the communist parties—a fusion prevented not by the moderation of the British party but the insanely combative extremism of Lenine.

Significance of Lewis Vote

When labor had its special congress last February it issued an appeal to the public which contained the following exemplary excoriation of these same "liberals"—signed by Lewis himself as well as by all the other leaders of the American Federation of Labor:

"The insidious propaganda of radical European fanaticism is particularly and peculiarly deadly in its hatred of the American labor movement because of its democratic character and its steadfast refusal to adopt revolutionary destructive policies. It is a curious and startling fact that this propaganda of fanaticism has the sympathy and support of many of those in our country who style themselves as liberals, but who do not distinguish between that which is truly liberal and that which is destructive and fraudulent.

"This propaganda, this constant effort to undermine the constructive organizations of American labor, this constant poisoning of the very foundation of our democracy, finds its expression everywhere and through countless agencies. It is assisted in its work of destruction not only by the publications devoted to a perverted expression of 'liberal' thought, but it is assisted as well by many of those who speak from our platforms and who write and edit our periodical publications and our daily newspapers."

Yet these elements were all behind Lewis, especially after he announced his platform. Here, then, is the significance of the Lewis vote. For the first time the supporters of the semi-revolutionary British Labor party idea have secured a strong candidate in the Federation. They have been defeated, but they have greatly advanced their cause. Aided by hundreds of Socialist and pseudo-liberal publications—a hundred times better finnaced than the labor union organs—the campaign to make the American labor unions a merely subordinate part of a radical political movement will continue.

The Immediate Results

As to immediate results, the outcome at Denver means this: Labor may engage in fierce economic struggles during the coming year, but it will not enter into any radical political movement. Probable later results are scarcely less important. The American Federation of Labor may continue indefinitely in its present political course; but even if it enters into politics in some new form a year or two hence, the political environment will not be the same as it is today. Sovietism will have been utterly discredited, the near-Bolshevist Socialists and psendo-liberals will be less pestiferous, the nationalist extremists of various European races in America will have somewhat quieted down—and an entrance into politics under these changed auspices (if it occurs) will be entirely different from what it would be if it occurred today.

American labor now stands pledged to a somewhat radical political program, but it remains wholly out of the control of the revolutionary and semi-revolutionary radicals. It will continue, as heretofore, to give its main attention to direct economic action. Judging by the past that action will be defensive (conservative) when necessary, but militant (radical) when opportunity presents itself. Gompers has shown that he is fully aware that labor cannot hope to get forward when the rest of the nation is unitedly against it. But that fact has not led him to the conclusion that labor must abandon any of its main positions. His aim is, at once to deserve and to compel public respect.

The Federation has given more of its attention to politics and has been more active politically from year to year. This tendency is acknowledged by all the leaders and is expected to continue. The Denver convention has not only adopted a more radical political program, it has made its nonpartisan political campaign for the first time permanent—at the proposal of the administration. But this is far from making political action predominant over direct economic action, or giving it equal importance—as has happened in Great rBitain. The Gompers administration does not believe that the day is at hand, or that it lies immediately before us, when labor would stand a good chance to secure any very large results by concentrating its attention mainly on politics. As to whether that day will come a few years hence it has no opinion—some of the administration's supporters, possibly a majority, believe it will.

But one question seems permanently settled. American labor, apparently, is going to make its own decisions, in spite of all the machinations of outsiders, whether powerful and unscrupulous newspaper proprietors, wealthy radicals or intellectuals and sectarians of the sort that have plagued the European labor movement.

FOX TROT POPULAR IN RUSS CAPITAL

PARIS—Petrograd has "fallen" again, but this time before the onslaught of the American one-step and fox-trot, which has proved more infectious among the Russians than the bolshevist propaganda among outsiders. Cut off from the rest of the world, it is one of the last urban centers to "catch" jazz.

The curious story of the capitulation of Petrograd before the onslaught of the American dance was brought to Paris by Edwin Carlson of Brooklyn, who has been, since February, 1920, in Finland and the other Baltic states with the American Red Cross.

According to Carlson, the craze for American dances was started by the famous boatload of Russian children brought all the way around the world by the Red Cross and sent to join their parents in Petrograd.

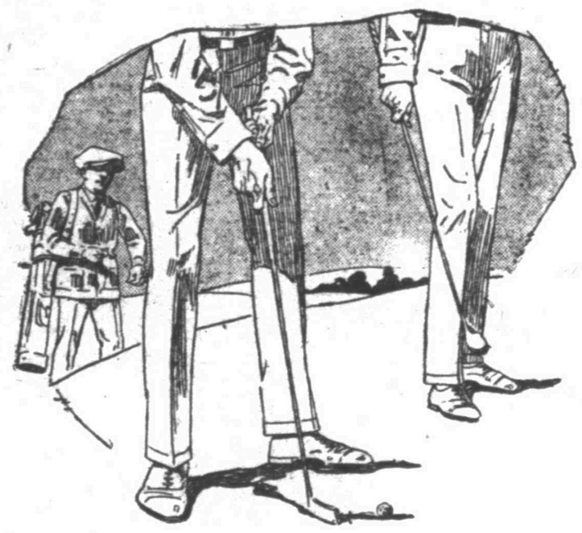

The eight hundred of them felt that after so many adventures together they ought to have some sort of social organization in Petrograd to perpetuate the camaraderie that had sprung into being during the long journey. With some difficulty they obtained soviet permission to use a hall for their meeting place, and here they started the dances they had learned during their long round-the-world voyage.

The thing spread, the young folk stick generally to the one-step and the older ones going in for the fox-trot until, according to the children's letters to the leftovers in Finland, Petrograd quite succumbed.

Carlson was stationed at Viborg, the nearest large Finnish city to Bolshevikia, and was on the ground when the thousands of refugees came streaming across the ice from Kronstadt after the recent Kronstadt rebellion. Many of these refugees now want to go back, but the soviet government has refused them permission.

The Finns, who have a deep suspicion of anything Russian, keep refugees penned in an old fort and a system of barracks near the frontier and as far from Finnish cities as possible.

With the withdrawal of Red Cross relief work, work in the Baltic is being cut down to child welfare.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, July 7.—Coffee futures were higher today owing to advances in Brazil, some buying by houses with Brazilian connections and a scattering demand. The market opened at an advance of 1 to 11 points. There was some scattered selling on easier Rio exchange rates but it was readily absorbed. September advanced to 6.50 with active month generally selling 14 to 20 points net higher. Last prices were a few points off from the best under realizing, with the market closing at a net advance of 13 to 20 points. Closing bids: July 6.20, September 6.45, October 6.59, December 6.86, January 6.97, aMrch 7.20, May 7.35. Spot coffee dull, Rio 7's 6 1-2 to 6 5-8, Santos 4's 9 1-8 to 9 5-8.

NEW YORK SUGAR

NEW YORK, July 7.—Improved demand for refined led to more active buying the raw sugar market and caused an advance of 1-8c in prices with centrifugal now quoted at 4 1-8c.

Strength in raws led to renewed covering in raw sugar futures and together with considerable buying by trade and commission houses caused advances of 9 to 10 points, although near the close there was a partial setback under realizing with final prices 2 to 5 points net higher. July closed at 2.87, September 2.90, December 2.65 and March 2.62, all bid.

The market for refined was firm with one refiner advancing list prices 10 points to the basis of 4.50 for fine granulated. Other refiners were unchanged at 5.20 to 5.40 and business was more active.

Refined futures were firmer on covering and closing prices were 9 to 10 points net higher, except December which was one point lower under liquidation. Trading, howveer, was light and confined to the September and December positions. Closing bids: July 5.60, September 5.69 and December 5.59.

GOOD DEMAND SENDS COTTON PRICE HIGHER

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Reports of a better demand for spots and aggressive trading on the long side with its objective the dislodging of what was generally described as an extensive short interest put the price of cotton higher today, but in the last half hour of the session the market lost much of its good tone and last prices were at an advantage of but 13 to 18 points. At highest of the day prices were 18 to 25 points up. October traded as high as 12.27 and closed at 12.20.

In early trading and during most of the session shorts covered and this buying made traders on the long side all the more confident. The market was filled with reports of an improvement in the spot inquiry. Liverpool cabling over that the demand was greater while points both east and west of the Mississippi river claimed that cotton was much harder to buy. In this market it was claimed that spots were sold after hours yesterday at the highest basis of the season. Freight brokers told of a steady demand for ocean room for cotton for July sailing and it was estimated that room for from 500,000 to 600,000 bales had been booked ahead for sailing from October to January.

N. Y. COTTON

NEW YORK, July 7.—Early advance in today's cotton market seemed largely the result of the better tone reported in Wall street, and when stocks turned easier during the afternoon, cotton also eased off from the best. October contracts which had sold up to 12.76 closed at 12.65, with the general list closing barely steady although last prices were 13 to 18 points net higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 9 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, reports of an improving spot demand in the market there, and private cables claiming that Lancashier was showing more interest in new crop shipments. The south sold a little cotton at the opening and there was scattered realizing which may have ben promoted by the favorable weather map. These offerings were readily absorbed however and the market showed considerable strength during the middle of the day on a scattering demand from the trade, Wall street and local operators.

The feeling appeared to be that the better tone reported in the early stock market would lead to Wall street buying of cotton on a more active scale or the covering of short accounts. July sold up to 12.04 and December to 13.25 or 24 to 28 points net higher, but the advance was checked by scattered realizing and there was liquidation by early buyers in the last trading.

GEORGE HOPEFUL OF HAVING TREATY STATEMENT SOON

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 7.—The prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, stated in the house of commons today that he was fairly hopeful of being in position to make a statement concerning the Anglo-Japanese treaty on Monday next. He added, however, that such a statement would depend on the replies received from the United States and Canada.

A premature declaration, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, would interfere with the success of the negotiations now in progress.

COURT DEFINES FIVE ESSENTIALS OF COURTSHIP

LONDON, July 7.—Five essentials of courtship were laid down by counsel in Mr. Justice Lush's court.

Mr. S. P. Merlin was addressing the jury for Mr. William Cuthbert Cromwell, motor engineer's clerk, of Brightonroad, Redhill, who was sued by Mrs. Winifred Kate Coales, a war widow with two children, for alleged breach of promise.

In the correspondence, counsel pointed out, there was nothing even approaching what was usually called a love letter, and not a single letter which contained a stronger term than "Yours very sincerely."

There was no engagement ring, and the young man took the widow to no theatre—not even to a picture theatre. There were five essentials in the conduct of engaged persons to each other which here were totally absent. Mr. Merlin gave the first three—love letters, engagement ring and the introduction to the respective families. The judge then interjected: "I have exhausted them when I think of those three. What are the others? Counsel said the others were the giving of presents and the taking of love-like expeditions and outings.

"Look back at your own engagements, ladies and gentlemen," he urged. (There were two women on the jury.)

"Can you say," he asked, "that during that period any one of the five was absent? The jury merely smiled.

The judge, summing up, said he did not know what the jury thought of a young woman, who had been married sixteen or seventeen years and had two children who within ten days of hearing of the death of her husband while serving his country made an agreement to marry someone else. Nor did he know what the jury thought of the woman if her story was true, allowing a young man to come to her while her husband was alive and talk about his being willing to marry her if she were free.

After an hour's retirement the jury intimated that they found for the woman, but awarded no damages.

The judge: "You must give a farthing; that is the nearest to nothing that I can think of."

BLACK RUST REPORTS LIFT WHEAT PRICE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Bullish crop reports from North Dakota together with blackrust in Manitoba and Saskatchewan did a good deal today to lift the price of wheat. Closing quotations were strong, 3 to 5 cents higher, with September 1.28 1-2 to 1.28 3-4 and December 1.23 to 1.23½.

Corn gained 5-8c to 1 1-2c, oats 7-8 cent to 1 1-4c and provisions 5 to 20 cents.

Wheat values began to ascend as soon as trading got fairly underway. It was estimated that deterioration in Missouri to ten million bushels compared with the prospect of a month ago. The chances of harm from black rust north of the international boundary were said also to be greater than in the domestic crop.

Continued dry weather had a bullish influence on corn. Oats, like wheat, were affected by adverse threshing returns. Provisions advanced readily with grain and hogs.

PROHI OFFICIALS TO DEFINE WHAT WHISKEY MEANS

WASHINGTON, July 7.—"What is whiskey?" may again become a live issue.

The field of whiskey selling is widening under more "liberal" rules made possible by the now famous opinion of former Attorney-General Palmer.

Competition is growing keener among the retail druggists. A larger number of physicians are being authorized by the government to prescribe whiskey and other intoxicants for different ailments.

To protect legitimate users of whiskey prohibition officials are now giving some study to suggested measures, taking the form of tentative regulations, to protect legitimate consumers against impure liquor products.

Complaints have reached the Internal Revenue Bureau from all parts of the country alleging that it is a common practise for retail druggists to sell on doctors' prescriptions liquors that are impure or diluted.

Some instances are cited showing that druggists in some localities obtain a barrel of whiskey from a bonded warehouse and by a process of dilution with water, addition of caramel coloring, and mixing in a proportion of the easily obtained grain alcohol, make two barrels of alleged pure whiskey.

Druggists in such instances double their profits, which already are great. Their charge of $3 and upwards for a pint of whiskey, even for the pure product as it comes out of bond is said by prohibition officers to represent a big profit.

PARALYTIC CURED BY OPERATION

DENVER, July 7.—Luther Dionne, for many years a shoemaker of Drummondville, Ont., has been "reborn" after lying a helpless paralytic in a hospital here for nearly eight years, and today he is enjoying his five vital senses as the result of an extremely delicate but highly successful operation upon his brain for the removal of a tumor.

In addition to the restoration of the senses of smelling, tasting, hearing, seeing and feeling, the operation brought back to Dionne the faculty of speech.

Dionne's recovery has been very slow, but steady, and he can now read and write and move about.

Deaf, dumb and blind and paralyzed in every limb, Dionne was carried into the county hospital in 1913. Food had to be administered to him by means of a tube through the nostrils. He could not feel, smell nor taste, and physicians said he could not even think.

For months he existed in his living death, his condition of complete inertia remaining unchanged. Then Dr. Clarence Hall and Dr. Leonard Freeman determined to operate on Dionne's brain. They discovered that the nerve centres had been paralysed by a tumor nearly an inch in diameter.

The tumor was removed and the process of "regeneration" for Dionne set in. It crept over his body slowly. He moved first one finger, then a second and then his whole hand. Then, one day, he stirred his head, and, finally, the most anxiously awaited sign of all came when the patient spoke.

BRITISH NEED NOT ACT IN GREEK CASE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 7.—The prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, informed the house of commons today that the Greek reply to the allied offer to mediate between the Greeks and Turkish nationalists, which had just been received, is of a simple, negative character.

Therefore, he added, it did not call for immediate further action on the part of the British government.

WAIS IS NEW MEMBER OF SPANISH CABINET

By Associated Press.

MADRID, July 7.—Julio Wais was this afternoon nominated for the portfolio of minister of justice in the cabinet of Premier Allen De Salazar.

Senator Wais formerly under-secretary of the interior.

MANY ISSUES RECORD GAINS THRU TRADE

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Additional gains were made by many leading issues in the stock market today but the advance lacked the breadth and vigor of yesterday's sesison and was materially impaired before the close.

Shorts also opposed the recovery, basing their operations largely on the belief that industrial conditions as indicated by the steel trade were still subject to downward revision.

The most constructive development was the announcement by Secretary Mellon that the railroads would receive additional advances amounting to about five hundred million dollars before the expiration of the year.

Leaders of yesterday's rebound, especially foreign oils, were under pressure throughout the day, although Mexican petroleum at one time managed to rise moderately from its 3⅛ point reaction. Sales amounted to 835,000 shares.

Further release of July interest and dividend disbursements contributed to the ease of the money market, although all call loans on the exchange again were made at 5½ per cent despite the lower rate in the open market.

Dealers reported very light trading in foreign exchange, a firmer tone prevailing, however, for sterling.

Liberty bonds were irregular but speculative. Convertible rails hardened again on the better tone of transportation shares. International issues were dull and featureless. Total sales par value, $12,275,000.

Valuable jewelry and a small sum of money were obtained Wednesday afternoon by daylight prowlers who entered the home of Mrs. B. O. Howle, 1507 Seventeenth Street, during a short absence of the occupants, according to a report made Thursday to Detective Chief Boyd.

A ruby ring, a string of pearls, a cameo brooch with four clusters consisting of six pearls each, a leather purse containing $6 and a silver mesh purse were among the articles enumerated in the report as missing.

NEW GARBAGE ORDINANCE IS NOW IN EFFECT.

Notice to citizens that the new garbage ordinance, drawn as a protection to both citizens and bona fide garbage haulers, is now in effect and was issued Thursday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, city sanitary officer.

The ordinance provides for a maximum charge of 5 cents per gallon for garbage and 30 cents per barrel for trash. According to Dr. Douglass, however, the contractors will not be required to visit any house for less than a fee of 25 cents.

The ordinance requires that garbage be removed from each residence at least twice a week during summer months and once each week during winter months. Trash is required to be removed once each month.

Under the new ordinance, according to Dr. Douglass, garbage men are required to furnish bond, which places them directly responsible to the sanitary department for efficient service.

Copies of the new ordinance are being published.

ARREST MAN IN SEATTLE FOR WICHITA

The arrest of Jerry Cheathem at Seattle, Wash., in connection with the famous raid of federal officers here in May in which 1,400 quarts of liquor was seized in a vacant house on Austin street, has been made, according to information received by local federal officers from the federal department at Seattle.

Cheathem's arrest follows several weeks of search, the warrant for him being sworn out soon after the raid here.

According to local officers, Cheathem was in the employ of W. S. D. Smith, confectioner at Seattle, who was arrested directly after the raid on a warrant sworn out by local federal officers. It is understood that Cheathem never visited this city in the sale of the liquor but is alleged to have been connected in some manner in the purchase and disposal of the Sunnybrook whiskey.

Although definite information to that effect has not been received it is presumed that both Smith and Cheathem will be brought back here to stand trial in the next term of federal court. The court will not convene until November.

AUSTRIA ELATED OVER ACT ENDING LATE WORLD WAR

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, July 7.— The utmost satisfaction was expressed today by Austrian oficials and the newspaeprs on the adoption by the American congress last week of the resolution terminating the war with Germany and Austria Hungary.

The high hopes entertained here of American financial aid however have been dampened by the receipt of dispatches to the effect that the American government will not consider waiving the Austrian reparations while the scheme of rehabilitation of the country rests with the league of nations.

Further disappointment has been caused by the postponement of the Porto Rosa confegence to discuss measures for the relief of Austria as it is considerd here to be inseparably connected with the plan for foreign aid.

Policemen are now to call at the homes of owners of dogs and ask for payment of proper taxes, according to an announcement made today.

TRANSCRIPT OF ELECTION IS DELAYED

No attempt will be made to submit the transcript of the $1,500,000 bond issue voted three weeks ago for road construction to the attorney general's department until after the regular meeting of the county commissioners' court Monday, according to statements by county officials Thursday.

It is planned to have the transcript completed by the time the court meets and have it approved by that body Monday. It will then probably be taken to Austin for approval by County Attorney Fulton.

Since the return of Mr. Fulton from Austin several days ago at which time he was unable to submit the transcript due to the absence of a state official, it has developed that several errors are apparent in the manner in which it was drawn up. Wednesday and Thursday officials were busy correcting the errors.

Affidavits from judges of voting precincts in which no election was held was one of the formalities required which was not shown in the first transcript.

NAME TOWNSEND CHANCERY MASTER FOR OIL COMPANY

W. J. Townsend, local attorney, was appointed master in chancery by Judge P. A. Martin of the 30th District court Thursday in the case of the Fresno Oil Company vs. C. B. Farquharson et al, a case now pending in the 30th District court.

Mr. Townsend will hear evidence with regard to an accounting of the company's dealing with the defendant. Judge Martin last week ordered a valuable producing lease in Burkburnett district be returned to the plaintiff company by the defendant pending an accounting. Farquharson originally purchased the lease from the Fresno company.

MEXICANS NOT ALARMED OVER GUNBOAT VISIT

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 7.—The United States gunboat Sacramento, sent to Mexican waters as a result of alarming reports reaching Washington, arrived at Tampico yesterday and is anchored in the harbor there, it was said in advices received last night from that city.

In view of the regulations of international law which provides that foreign ships can enter the port of any friendly nation and remain for 24 hours, the Mexican foreign office refused last ight to comment on the arrival of the Sacramento at Tampico.

"The Mexican government," said Elias P. Calles, secretary of the interior and chief of the cabinet, last night, "does not see in the dispatch of vessels to Tampico a show of naval strength on the part of the United States, inasmuch as there is no conflict at present which might cause the hostile presence of those ships."

The secretary said he anticipated no naval demonstration by the United States at any Mexican port.

President Obregon refused to comment on the situation.
