Texas Coastal Area Bracing For A Storm

Freezing Temperatures Reign Over North Texas; Fall Of Mercury Is Rapid Here

(By The Associated Press)

A COLD wave swept across Texas Monday night while the coastal area braced itself for a northwester expected to reach storm proportions.

Impelled by rapidly rising pressure over the southern plains, the cold wave drove the mercury to 12 degrees at Amarillo late Monday while freezing temperatures prevailed at Abilene, Lubbock, Fort Worth and Dallas. Lubbock reported a 38-mile-an-hour wind while the mercury dropped at the rate of 4 degrees an hour.

To Drop To 20

At Dallas, Dr. J. L. Cline of the weather bureau office said the temperature was expected to drop below 20 by Tuesday morning. Freezing temperatures were anticipated over most of East Texas with the exception of the Lower Rio Grande valley.

The New Orleans office of the weather bureau ordered livestock warnings for northern East Texas.

Storm warnings were hoisted from Brownsville, Texas, to Morgan City, La.

Ship Is Stranded

In the path of the northwester was the stranded motorship Dolomite No. 2, fast on a sand bar off Padre island, about 25 miles north of Port Isabel. The Mobile, Ala., headquarters of the coast guard, reported that a cutter had reached the scene Monday. Coast guardsmen from the Port Isabel station also were standing by and the crew of 20 on the motorship was not considered in immediate danger.

Plainview, Lubbock Persons Are Hurt

GALVESTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Pearl Clark of Plainview, 38, and D. G. Stanton of Lubbock, 21, suffered serious injuries when struck by a pickup truck while they were crossing the Seawall boulevard here tonight.

Both have possible fractures of the skull, according to hospital attendants. Mrs. Clark suffered fractures of both bones in the left leg, and Stanton suffered fractures of both legs.

Police filed two charges of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle against Chris Haverson, who was released by a justice of the peace.

Mrs. Clark and Stanton were visiting the former's son, a medical student, who escaped injury in the accident.

LUBBOCK PERSONS THERE

Dye G. Stanton, son of Mrs. and Mrs. T. G. Stanton of 1508 Avenue X, had gone with Mrs. Pearl Clark of Plainview to Galveston to visit a cousin, relatives said. They had left Thursday afternoon and were to return Wednesday or Thursday. Mrs. Clark is an aunt of Stanton. He is a junior engineering student at Texas Technological college.

Huge Defense Plan Outlined For U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—President Roosevelt was reported authoritatively today to have decided on a double-barreled recommendation to congress for national defense reinforcements of unprecedented peacetime magnitude.

Persons close to the administration said the chief executive intended to report, in the annual message he will deliver personally to a joint senate-house session on January 4, that the security of the nation and its neighbors was threatened by the armed might of aggressive dictator states.

To Offer Message

A week later, under present arrangements, a special message will present detailed recommendations for an army air force of some 10,000 planes and numerous other measures.

Thus, the administration contemplates a quardrupled military air fleet of at least 13,000 aircraft.

Supporting the proposals, congressional circles have heard, will be "startling" evidence that Germany's aerial force and aircraft factories geared to war demands threaten to upset the world balance of military and political power.

Developments Told

From usually well-informed sources come reports of these developments:

1. Details of the new rearmament program are complete. They were shaped in close cooperation with General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, and other military advisors, since Europe's uneasy peace agreement was reached at Munich. War and navy department budgets already have been approved.

2. Convinced that American air power must be quickly augmented, Mr. Roosevelt has been unmoved by arguments of some congressional critics that the United States, protected by two oceans, needed no

Holiday Toll Is More Than 400

(By The Associated Press)

The nation paid with more than 400 lives for its holiday weekend.

At least 301 of the violent deaths were caused by traffic accidents.

The total death count for the weekend, however, was short of the 500 fatalities reported last Christmas.

Fire claimed 17 lives this year; gunshot wounds 13; suicides 13; train accidents 10; drowning 4 and miscellaneous caused the rest.

Largest death tolls by states included: California 25; Illinois 22; Michigan 25; Missouri 16; New Jersey 13; New York, including New York City, 35; Pennsylvania 26; Texas 29.

Six states—Delaware, Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, Rhode Island and Vermont—and the District of Columbia reported no violent deaths.

One Killed, Several Injured On South Plains

Westerner Defense Crumbles; Offense Is Stopped Cold

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

COTTON BOWL, Dallas, Dec. 26—This is one of the toughest assignments this reporter ever experienced.

It is tough from two angles: (1) We have to say, for the first time this season in Texas, that the Lubbock Westerners lost a football game, which, incidentally, was the final and championship game of the Texas schoolboy league, and (2) we are forced to say that the Westerners of today were not like the Westerners of yesterday, whose coming events were shadowed by a large and lusty blizzard and an inclination to fumble, mentally and physically.

To the Corpus Christi Buccaneers, who have knocked frequently at the Interscholastic league football door, goes the class A championship of 1938—and power to them and to Coach Harry Stiteler.

The gold-clad youngsters from Texas' gulf coast skittered and slithered through the slippery going of the Cotton bowl field this afternoon to a 20-6 victory over the Lubbock Westerners. The best team won.

The best team, that is, of today won. Yesterday, tomorrow, next week, last week, the Westerners probably would have been the best team. Today they were runners up, because today they fumbled and stumbled; they couldn't think straight, and they were messed up from the beginning.

Lubbock Beats Itself

Consensus of the press box was that Lubbock was beaten by its own superiority complex—by haphazard quarterbacking, a disregard for the weather and underestimation of Texas high school football in general, of Corpus Christi in particular.

Corpus Christi, which knocked at the championship door in 1934, only to be repulsed by the great Amarillo Sandies, 48-0, protected more than its own record today that of its fine coach, Harry Stiteler, the ex-Aggie.

Corpus Never Lets Up

Featured by Emory Nix, the Buccaneers' fine field general and all-around, triple-threat star, Corpus Christi ganged on the Lubbocks from the start and never let up. Pat Hall, the Buc end who this week will be named on the All-State high school team, joined Nix and his backfield mates, Dolan, Matthews and Garza, to make life miserable for the Westerners, and all the Westerners could do was to take it. They took it rather gracefully, but with utter disregard for the time clock.

Beaten back into their own tracks in the first half, the Westerners came back with a rush in the third period. Apparently they had heard some dressing room lectures that hit home. They drove 76 yards, to the Corpus 9-yard line, but failed to score.

Drive 80 Yards For Score

They came back a few minutes later with the same determination, and drove again, 80 yards, for a touchdown. It was the only touchdown they scored. And Corpus Christi scored three.

Walter Webster, All-State fullback (it'll be in the paper next Thursday afternoon, official from the Associated Press, along with the names of Jerry Nash and Joe Pytell), was partly his old self and partly not. He made a good showing nearly every time he was called upon to carry the ball, or make a tackle. He did the latter perfectly; he did the former almost perfectly, and if he had been called upon more frequently, he would have done better. As long as Webster was carrying the mail and getting anything like creditable blocking, he made yardage. Corpus Christi had made plans relative to Lubbock's passing game, and the plans worked.

Their Plans Clicked

Joe Pytell and Jerry Nash, and also Earnest Winter and Wayne Pipes, did themselves proud for the Lubbock side today, but the Westerner eleven couldn't do enough to forestall the South Texas plans to make a fool out of West Texas.

"The best team ever to come out of South Texas," Coach Weldon Chapman said of the Buccaneers a week ago after seeing them defeat Temple, today defeated the best team ever to come out of Lubbock.

"We'll Be Back Monday," Chant West Texans

By CHAS. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 26.—"We'll be back next Monday."

That was the word West Texas grid fans were passing around in downtown Dallas tonight after witnessing a heart-breaking defeat of their favorites, the Lubbock High school Westerners, by the Corpus Christi Buccaneers at the Cotton Bowl this afternoon.

For on next Monday, West Texas will again invade Dallas and the Cotton Bowl to see the Texas Tech Red Raiders uphold the honor of the western portion of the state against a foreign invader, St. Mary's of Moraga, Calif.

Buccaneers Best Monday

"The team that won today was the best team—today."

That was the consensus of fans who witnessed the contest. Whether Corpus could have done it under normal conditions is problematical but they won today and Lubbock fans were in no way downhearted or apologetic for the Westerners' showing today.

Downtown Dallas resembled Lubbock, and Commerce and Akard could easily have been Broadway and Avenue J during "Old Home week" as fans gathered for the game.

They Were There All Right

"I've seen more people I know here today than I've seen in two months in Lubbock," Geo. P. Kuykendall said in the lobby of the Adolphus hotel tonight. And a saunter through the lobby was convincing.

Near the desk stood Morris Levine, Sam Rosenthal and Jerry Jarett chatting with Dallas friends. Near them was George Benson and Harry Morris. Along came Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sanders, sr., whose son, Lloyd, played a good game at guard this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pryor, both ardent fans, stood chatting with friends and, as you walked by, there was Mark Halsey, Lorenz Ellis and D. A. Davis. Jim Floyd hurried through to the elevator. Mr. and Mrs. Tate Sanders stepped out as the door slid open. Along with them were Dallas friends, Howard Wheelock, former Lubbock resident, stood nearby talking to Gaston Shaw.

Lubbockites Form Huddles

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Daniel came in through the Adolphus revolving doors about that time. Grouped about the lobby talking to other West Texans were Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Alderson, Miss Ruth Pirtle, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Hub Jones, Mr. and Mrs. U. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Risinger and daughter Ouida came in with Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Ross of Corpus Christi. Ross is a former resident of Lubbock.

The Tom Duggans stood near Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nislar and about that time they were joined by the Oscar Nislars and family.

Arch Underwood, chairman of the Lubbock Cotton Bowl committee, was seen frequently in the lobby. Jim Barrow stood shoulders above a group and over near the cigar counter were Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bayless chatting with Alex McDonald. Pinkey Lowrey was flitting here and there as he made arrangements for the game and accommodations for the team.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Griggs drove in from Burleson where they spent Christmas with Mrs. Griggs' mother.

Out on the street were Mr. and

So I Can Pick 'Em, Eh? Oh, Yeah! Chas. A. Guy Draws In Neck, Praises Bucs

By CHAS. A. GUY
Editor Of The Avalanche

DALLAS, Dec. 26.—It may be true what they say about Dixie, but it's a lead-pipe cinch that it isn't true what a lot of folks have been saying about the quality of South Texas football.

At least, not as the Corpus Christi Buccaneers play the game.

So if you can find the guy who told you last week that South Texas football players are all softies, sock him. Not once, but twice. The second time will be for me.

I rode to the state championship game today in the bus bearing our Lubbock Westerners to what looked like was going to be the Texas schoolboy grid crown. And when they talked about everything under the sun from the Adolphus hotel to the Cotton Bowl I was sure that was a good omen.

I sat with them on the bench throughout that icy afternoon, during which they did not show anything like their usual form and placidly waited for them to explode, as usual.

I heard them "fired up" between halves in a dank locker room and saw them, at the opening of the second spasm, look for a few minutes like the powerhouse which flattened everything it ran across in Texas and said "It won't be long now."

And even in the fading minutes of the game, with the score 20-6 against them, I still believed that somehow they would hit their stride—because they always had.

But they didn't—and Corpus Christi won the title.

Let it be duly chronicled here that Corpus Christi won the title here today because the Buccaneers were the best ball club.

I don't believe they could have beaten the Westerners yesterday.

I don't believe they could beat them tomorrow.

But the game was played today and as a grand little guy by the name of Weldon Chapman told his weary and downhearted charges on the hotel-bound bus after the game, "You don't play a game on your past record. You play it on the day it's scheduled."

From Walter Webster on down, with the possible exception of Wayne Pipes who is the best high school center Texas has seen in many years—the Westerners were not themselves today. Corpus had a good ball club. We cheerfully follow the instructions given the Westerners by Assistant Coach Goober Keyes after the game, a terse "Don't alibi. We just took a country lickin' and we couldn't do anything about it." But Corpus at its best is not 20-6 better than the Westerners at

Associated Press, Plane, State Police And Bus---And Your Morning Avalanche Brings You First Photos Of Title Grid Battle

"HOW in the world did they do it?"

Thousands of Morning Avalanche readers are asking themselves that question this morning after seeing a picture of yesterday afternoon's Lubbock-Corpus Christi football game in Dallas in this morning's edition which went to press at 3 a. m. today.

Well, here's how it was done:

Advance arrangements were made with The Associated Press to put undeveloped plates of photographs of the game on the west bound American Airlines plane leaving Dallas at 4:15 p. m. Monday.

The plane delivered the plates to a Texas Highway patrolman at the Big Spring airport at 6:50 p. m., and the patrolman, under orders from Capt. W. W. Legge, patrol officer in command here, delivered the plates to a South Plains Coaches bus at the Big Spring terminal. The bus waltzed the plates to Lubbock.

Engravers at the Reeves plant in Lubbock were waiting for the plates, went immediately to work on them and, presto!, they're in this morning's paper.

The service marks the most rapid bit of newspaper picture work in the history of the South Plains.

Surprise Coup Of Franco Cuts Off Thousands Of Loyalists From Their Base

Hold Tightened On Entire Front

By HARRISON LA ROCHE
United Press Staff Correspondent

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 26.—Swift encircling movements cut off thousands of loyalist troops from their bases in Catalonia, nationalist border sources reported today.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco increased pressure along the entire front and as his troops moved swiftly through the valleys of the Segre river plain they formed four big pockets.

South of Lerida the advance was reported to have exceeded 20 miles, but Franco was maintaining strict secrecy and only the names of villages already far in the rear were being announced as captured.

Reports from the loyalist side said Franco's Italian division had turned the Sierra de los Rasos and were within sight of the loyalist defense positions on the Sierra de Constant, the last serious obstacle between them and Falset, Reus and Tarragona.

It was increasingly apparent that the main purpose of the offensive was to turn the rear of loyalist positions on the east bank of the Ebro from Mora la Nueva to Amposta.

That might force a hasty loyalist retreat from the triangle formed by Mora la Nueva, Amposta and Hostalet, including the Sierra Balaguer.

Four divisions of Italian infantry, backed by several hundred Italian planes and ample artillery, were driving forward on that front.

Although there has been virtually no fighting fortified positions, there was increasing danger that this force would be turned by advances to the north and south.

Franco had not yet thrown the entire weight of his army into the drive. He was using only two corps of the eight corps massed for the battle of Catalonia.

Border observers said the spearhead of the offensive apparently was aimed at the capture of Tarragona, 25 miles directly east of Lareda.

Famous Silent Days Picture Star Is Victim Of Death

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26. (AP)—Harry Myers, the brightest of comedians when the movies were young, the gamest of extras when his fortunes waned, died on Christmas day in a hospital room paid for by the film industry's relief fund.

The 56-year-old actor, best remembered for his starring role in the first screen version of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," succumbed to a three-day attack of pneumonia.

His career, as few others, mirrored the growth of motion pictures as a gigantic medium of entertainment.

He and Rosemary Theby, his widow, were acting for such companies as Lubin and the old Universal while many stars of today were hardly out of kindergarten.

In "Connecticut Yankee," released shortly after the World war, he helped bring a new vein of satire to the screen. The picture was later remade with the late Will Rogers in the title part.

The advent of talkies shunted Myers, like other veterans, into obscurity.

Climbing Of Mountain Proves Fatal For University Stude

BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 26. (AP)—The passion of Nason D. Carey, 20, Springfield, Mass., student at the University of Colorado, for mountain climbing was given by friends today as the reason for his death in what apparently was a fall down the steep slope of a 1,000-foot peak near Boulder.

The youth's shattered body was found yesterday 250 feet down the slope from a narrow trail in the Flatirons, a series of rocky eminences in which University of Colorado students frequently hike.

Famous Novelist Is Reported As Improved From Pneumonia

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (U.P.) — Zona Gale Breese, 64, famous novelist and Pulitzer prize winner, was reported to be resting comfortably today at Passavant hospital where she is ill from pneumonia.

She received a blood transfusion yesterday and during the night appeared somewhat stronger, a hospital attache said. She has been ill for two weeks.

Four Hurt, Garage Burned By Cracker

LYNCHBURG, Va., Dec. 26. (AP)—A penny firecracker touched off a blast today that destroyed an automobile repair shop, shook the downtown section, and provided the city with its most spectacular blaze in months. Four persons suffered burns.

Injured were L. B. Taylor, owner of the repair shop, Horace Smith, 30, of Coleman Falls, his wife, Elizabeth, and Fred Gotschall.

Taylor said the fire started when Gotschall, standing in the doorway of a storage house containing fireworks, owned by Taylor, lighted a firecracker. The explosive dropped to the floor, Taylor said, and a terrific explosion followed.

ROME, Dec. 26. (AP)—Slight earth shocks were felt today near Rome, in Grottaferrata and Rocca Di Papa. No damage was reported.

Ropesville Will See Changes

Nineteen families are to move into Ropesville community this week and number of families living there by Jan. 1 will total 75, said Rex Baxter of Lubbock, project manager.

Last summer the 12,000 additional acres were placed in cultivation, and families moved onto 29 of the units. The remainder were not occupied, owing to conditions at that time.

Size Was Increased

There were 33 units in the original 4,000 acres. Two of these units, after a client had moved off, were cut up and acreage added to other units to increase their size. Original was 120 acres, but now most of the units range from 150 to 250 acres.

First families moved onto the project late in 1935 and worked to for the 1936 crop season. Several replacements were made for 1937 and in 1938 the additional units were opened.

Nineteen counties are represented there now. Lubbock has 12, with Lynn and Hockley, 11 each; Crosby and Terry, 7 each and others as follows: Hale, 5; Childress, Lamb and Motley, 3; Collingsworth, Garza and Swisher, two and Bailey, Cottle, Donley, Floyd, Gaines, Midland and Wheeler, one each.

A total of 307 persons reside on the project.

Have Made Progress

The families have over 450 milk cows, 8,000 chickens and 1,000 or more pigs and shoats. Most of the families on the project during the season closing have from 800 to 1,200 cans of fruits and vegetables in their pantries, with a number having up to 1,500 cans.

Families and the counties from which they come, together with the number in the family, are: Kelton Person, 5, Crosby; Arlie W. Arnold, 3, Lynn; Luther Bartlett, 3, Collingsworth; W. L. Post-Christmas Realization Returns Populace To Work

After a double Christmas holiday, Lubbock residents will return to the work-a-day world this morning.

Approximately 235 football fans are to arrive at Santa Fe station on an Avalanche-Journal sponsored special train at 6:15 o'clock this morning, after attending the Lubbock-Corpus Christi game in Dallas.

Today will be exchange day for those who received the wrong sizes, the wrong colors, or maybe the wrong items for Christmas. Few exchanges could be made Monday, since all business places except drug stores were closed.

Inventory Claims To Follow

With Christmas over, many business folk will turn their thoughts to inventory.

Several minor accidents on Christmas day but none that proved fatal to victims were reported by the Texas Highway patrol district office here and the Lubbock police.

One victim of Christmas fireworks was treated at Lubbock sanitarium. Eight-year-old George Dial Turner of Roaring Springs suffered an eye injury Sunday when a piece of glass struck the eye after a firecracker exploded in a bottle. The sight was not destroyed and he was dismissed Sunday afternoon after treatment.

Holidays For Kids Continue

Several days continuation of public school holidays will allow more time for numerous children to play with bright red toys and new dolls that appeared in profusion on front doorsteps and sidewalks or in the arms of their small owners.

Sunday brought Merry Christmas not only to homes of the fortunate but to abodes of those who would have experienced lean celebrations except for benevolent organizations.

One of the most successful of the four annual Goodfellow drives ended Sunday.

Packages Are Generous

More than 2,500 children in more than 800 families were remembered. The individual packages containing toys, fruit, nuts and candy for each child were as generous as in any previous year. The number of addresses which could not be found were fewer than ever before. The distribution was speedier. And the number of men who turned out in their automobiles to assist in the distribution was larger than ever before.

The American Legion home, 910 Texas avenue, was the place where addressed packages were loaded into automobiles made available for the occasion. In spite of the fact that 7 a. m. was the time set, more than 100 automobiles were on hand.

Distribution Is Speedy

The Chief Goodfellow reported that every package was in its conveyance by 7:30, and that the distribution had been completed within an hour. The work was expedited by Boy Scouts, who loaded the packages, and by the presence of five traffic officers who kept streets clear of other traffic. Participating in that work were Sgt. Lewis Kittrell and Motorcycle Officers Ralph Goldwater and Silas Anderson of police and Texas Highway Patrolmen Bruce L. Wooddell and M. Y. Hollowell.

Seventeen orphans and five sponsors from Mrs. W. T. Milam's orphanage were guests of Busy Bee cafe for Christmas dinner.

It was Christmas also for the transients. Thirty-five ate Christmas dinner at the Salvation Army hall at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Baskets Are Distributed

Baskets distributed by the army numbered 264. Funds came from kettles on downtown streets.

Christmas tree and treat for children in the army's Sunday school is scheduled for 7 o'clock Wednesday night. Envoy V. M. Vansyckle will be in charge.

One of the quietest Christmases for the fire department that he can recall was the summation of the holidays by Fire Chief W. E. Twitty Monday morning.

Not a single fire alarm was turned in Sunday, and only two on Saturday. Neither of them caused damage. One was a grass fire in the 700 block on Broadway and the other a fence fire in the 800 block on Avenue M.

A smoking furnace caused an alarm from the home of R. Wade Walker, 1318 Avenue M, Monday morning.

Man Sets Jaw, Cuts Own Hand Off To Save His Life

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 26. (U.P.)—Henry Donnett, 32, gritted his teeth at painful memory and told from a hospital cot today how he lived only because he had been able to sever his right hand at the wrist with a small pocket knife.

Donnett, Central High school janitor, was stoking a boiler in the school basement last night when coal became clogged in a hopper.

Unable to dislodge the obstruction with a shovel, he used his hand. A steam plunger pinioned his hand.

"I fainted," Donnett said. "It must have been some time later when I revived. I realized that unless I got to a doctor I would bleed to death.

"I managed to get my jackknife with the other hand and began to whittle at my wrist. I think I fainted three more times before I got my hand cut off."

Donnett telephoned police and staggered up three flights of stairs to unlock the door for them.

They found him with a tourniquet of rags, tightened by a steel bar, fastened around his arm below the elbow.

Donnett estimated he was caught in the hopper three and one half hours. Physicians at the hospital believed he would recover.

"Ammonia" derived its name from the fact that sal ammoniac, one of its compounds, originally was made near the temple of Jupiter Ammon.

HOUSES WENT CHEAP

LIVERPOOL, England. (AP)—There was only one bid when two houses were put up at auction in Liverpool. They were knocked down for $2.50 apiece. Reason—the houses are scheduled for demolition.

Family Observes The Golden Rule For Merry Christmas

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 26 (AP)—"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

Because they did that this Christmas was the merriest of all for Thomas Hughes, 28-year-old WPA worker, and his wife, Florence, 22.

Two years ago they were without money or food for themselves and their two young children.

This Christmas they dined 29 poor children on turkey and gave them toys they had collected and repaired themselves.

Mr. And Mrs. W. J. Goodnight Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Woman's Angle

Margaret Turner

IT WAS a happy Christmas with the dozens and dozens of unusual and lovely Christmas greeting cards and the record of Bing Crosby's "Silent Night" and "Adeste Fidelis" (the gift of George Bennett), but a sad Christmas with the family circle broken for the first time and the death of lovable Mrs. Matilda Popejoy, Lubbock's "oldest mother."

LUBBOCK presented a forlorn sight Monday night. Football fans who didn't make the trip appeared too disappointed and weary to discuss the outcome of the Buccaneer-Westerner game. The streets, almost deserted, were punctuated here and there by sidewalk Christmas trees blown down by the sand-swept wind that made the day after Christmas unpleasant outside. Truly the year-end finds us more depressed than we can remember.

THE NEW GAME

WRITING a letter to your Congressman has become the great American pastime. Until only a few years ago says Bruce Barton, representative from New York City's 17th (silk stocking) district, a congressman's life was a comparatively easy one. "The government didn't touch people directly," he explains. "So about all you had to do was send out a few seeds to your farmer constituents.

"Nowadays, it's impossible for any man—shoe-shine man up—to live for even a month without coming into contact—or conflict—with the government. And the first thing he thinks is: 'I'll write a letter to my congressman'."

Does Congressman Barton pay much attention to his mail?

"I've learned from those who have been successful in keeping their seats over a period of time that answering letters is important," he says. "I try to answer everyone within 24 hours. A third or so require a little research—so they take slightly longer than that."

He receives 200 letters on average days, as high as 4,500 a day when something controversial is brewing. How should you address business letters to your congressman?

A member of the house of representatives is addressed thus:

The Honorable George H. Mahon
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

In speaking to a member of the house of representatives say "Congressman So-and-So" or "Mr. So-and-So." Strictly speaking the term "Congressman" applies to members of either the house of representatives or the senate, but it has come to mean a member of the house of representatives in Washington, where the term "representative" is almost never used.

THE GOODNIGHT FAMILY

WE THOROUGHLY enjoyed our visit to the W. J. Goodnight home. Monday afternoon where last-minute preparations were under way for a golden wedding anniversary celebration. Five sons and daughters and three grandchildren were on hand for the open house. The Goodnights, who lived in the old Canyon community school house when they moved to Lubbock 24 years ago, reside in an attractive white house with a green as grass roof and neat yard. Their home, which has all the comforts of the city, was a bower of golden flowers and soft sunlight. An electric clock with chimes and floor lamp with indirect lighting were evidences of love and thoughtfulness from the children.

Seldom do you see two younger persons than the Goodnights. Active and healthy, Mr. Goodnight looks forward to many more years. We laughed about the year 1919 when the writer, as a member of a seventh grade class, picked cotton on the Goodnight farm for two weeks. We never managed to gather over 33 pounds a day but that meant a dollar since they were paying three dollars per hundred. He said he had never forgotten those days.

RALLS, Dec. 26.—(Special)—The marriage of Miss Eleanor Ragle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ragle of Ralls, to R. H. Huddleston, son of Mrs. Wade Hutcheson of Springtown, took place at the country home of the bride's parents December 22 at 8 o'clock in the evening. Rev. E. M. Jennings, pastor of the Lubbock Cumberland Presbyterian church, an uncle of the bride, performed a single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Noble H. Price of Lamesa, accompanied by Miss Lorraine Wilkowski of Denison, sang "I Love You Truly" (Bond.) As the pianist began the traditional wedding march, the bride entered with her sister, Mrs. H. M. Reed, jr., of Crosbyton, and met the bridegroom and his best man, Roy Powell of Anson, before an arrangement of ferns representing a window in Gothic design, tall white tapers in candelabra and floor baskets of white carnations added beauty to the scene.

The bride wore a teal blue costume suit, with brown fitch sleeves, and a wine hat with veil. Her accessories were brown and she wore an orchid for a corsage. For "something old" she wore a locket that her mother had worn on her wedding day.

"Wave Of Hysteria" Fanned By Radio Shoving U.S. Toward War, Is Charge

Wheeler Says Danger Involved

By ALLEN C. DIBBLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the senate interstate commerce committee, today warned against a "wave of hysteria" sweeping the United States to the brink of war.

Wheeler coupled his warning against war hysteria with criticism of a statement by Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters. Miller declared radio stations should not carry programs which incite "racial and religious hatred."

Free Speech Said Violated

The Montana senator charged that Miller's position violated the right of free speech.

Miller recalled, in his statement, the observation of the late Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes that the right of free speech does not give a person the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theater.

"This statement by Mr. Miller of the National Association of Broadcasters with reference to the abuse of freedom of speech sounds fine," Wheeler said. "We could all agree with his sentiments but who is Mr. Miller that he should set himself up to say when free speech should be denied to any citizen of the United States?

"What special wisdom does he possess that he can judge when I or anyone else abuses free speech. In times of hysteria which is sweeping this country, there are always those super patriots who believe that they are destined to regulate the actions and the speech of their fellow man.

"Recognizing this fact, that is the reason we had a written constitution and why it was written into that constitution that there should be free speech as a part of the fundamental law of the land."

Wheeler charged that broadcasters who refused to carry the programs of Father Coughlin were "intolerant."

Associated Press, A Great Newsgathering Organization, Observes 90th Birthday

The 90th anniversary of the founding of the first Associated Press was observed Monday by leading Texas newspapers, including the Lubbock Morning Avalanche which is a member of the world's greatest newsgathering organization.

At 8 a. m. the great Texas news network—more than 11,000 miles of operating wires—paused a full minute to mark the anniversary of the beginning of the name of the Associated Press in newspaperdom. A similar pause was made last night for morning newspapers as a part of the observance throughout the country this year.

An Accurate Account

An impartial and accurate account of world happenings, both printed and photographic, is brought to Texans by the Lubbock Morning Avalanche through the Associated Press.

The name Associated Press came into being in 1848 when six New York newspapers banded together to gather news. The first AP was a proprietary concern, and in the years that followed rampant partisanship developed.

To combat this, a small group of publishers in the growing west set out to realize the ideal of a great cooperative association of newspapers, representing every creed and party, for the exchange of factual news on a basis free of partisan bias and private interest.

Victor Lawson, of the Chicago Daily News and founder of the present AP, led the new organization in its seemingly hopeless fight. Finally the association won and for the first time in the world, freedom of the press became an actuality. In 1900 the Associated Press was reorganized under New York state laws as the world's only non-profit, cooperative, news-gathering organization.

Texas System Grows

The Texas service of the Associated Press is one of the greatest units in the organization. Only New York has a larger membership than Texas.

From a trickle of news over a tottering telegraph wire the service has expanded to a flood of news, 200 words a minute over four wires to the metropolitan papers of the state.

In 1910 the first Texas bureau was established in Dallas. Today 16 Associated Press staff editors supervise the report in Texas while more than twice that number of traffic department operators are employed.

During the 1910-20 era transmission of news by telephone was in great vogue. This service now has been replaced by leased wires, but remarkable feats of telephonic transmission were accomplished.

Frank Baldwin, now editor of the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald, stood at the head of the class in handling telephone news. The Versailles peace treaty had been signed. Baldwin startled the Dallas bureau by asking for the text—by telephone! Baldwin insisted. Dictation started and the intricate text was on his typewriter 1 hour, 30 minutes later, without a comma or a word missing.

In 1925 teletype transmission began to replace the slower Morse telegraph. This improved the service and enabled rapid extension of the leased wire system. In one year the network was almost tripled. Today every important newspaper in the state eligible for the service is a member of the Associated Press. A triple-wire service spans the state, while a fourth wire carries the association's latest pioneer effort, Wirephoto.

The national network measures more than 285,000 miles of leased wires, serving 1,400 members. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the local news appearing in member papers, this being the basis of the non-profit, cooperative character of this unique news organization.

Besides this exchange of news among members, the association has its own editors and reporters at each bureau point, checking, verifying and working with news much as do reporters and editors of individual newspapers.

The organization is headed by a general manager, Kent Cooper, with headquarters in New York. Distinguished Texas publishers have served as officers and members of the board of directors. Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times at the present time being a member of the board, which is elected by member newspapers throughout the nation.

Blast? None Seems To Know Anything About Causes

Mystery Monday night continued to shroud two blasts which rocked Lubbock Saturday night.

Theories were numerous, but opinion of authorities was that whatever the blast was, it wasn't serious. They inclined to the opinion that someone desiring—and succeeding—to celebrate the advent of Christmas in a loud way was responsible.

Little Definitely Known

About all that seemed definitely known was that two blasts following each other within a fraction of a second were heard somewhere south of southwest of the business district. General supposition was that it was outside the city limits, because the noise was reported heard in Smyer, 20 miles from Lubbock. It was of sufficient violence that dishes and windows were reported rattled in residences and brick buildings downtown vibrated from the jolt.

The explanation most generally accepted was one advanced by Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, who has made a long study of explosions. His belief was that it was an "anvil."

Explanation Given

An "anvil," he explained, is made when the hollow portion of a blacksmith's anvil is filled with black powder which is ignited with a fuse. It causes a rumbling detonation unlike any other, the chief said.

Other suggestions were that it may have been dynamite, perhaps tossed into a body of water, or that it could have been nitroglycerine. One other was that gasoline ignited in the bottom of a well could be the explanation.

Bill Mabray, assistant police chief, said dozens of telephone calls were received at the station Sunday from curious persons. Police, however, were as much mystified as any others.

Government's Financial Structure Is Not Weakened, According To Eccles

National Income Is Increasing

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — Government spending has not endangered government credit, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board said today in a letter in which he asked Sen. Harry F. Byrd, (D-Va) to cooperate with the administration in facing national problems.

Eccles accused the Virginian, leader of the senate opposition to New Deal spending policies, of having a "misunderstanding of the fundamental nature of our capitalist economy."

The letter was prompted by a recent speech by Byrd in Boston, Mass., in which Eccles claimed to have been "misquoted and misconstrued."

Income Rise Cited

In defense of the position that government credit has not been affected by New Deal spending, Eccles pointed to the rise in national income, to the steady flow of foreign capital to this country and to government bond quotations.

He said Byrd's expressed apprehension over the potential effect of a succession of large deficits and steadily rising public debt was needless.

Eccles called on Byrd to stop "name calling" and, referring to the senator's concern about "the character of the individual citizen" and "the dignity and the rights of the individual," answered that "empty stomachs do not build character" and "substitution of a dole for useful work relief will not improve either the dignity or the free character of the people affected."

The chairman of the federal reserve board said he could find not "slightest evidence" to support Byrd's contention that "millions of able-bodied citizens rely upon the government for support and have ceased to exert their efforts for self-help to obtain private employment."

Colorful Ranchman, Oilman Is Dead

IOWA PARK, Dec. 26. (AP)—Tom L. Burnett, 67, a native Texan whose love for cattle and the ranching business could not be dimmed even by the drilling of 500 oil wells on his land, died of heart disease here today.

He was a son of Captain S. Burk Burnett, for whom the oil-famed city of Burkburnett in northwest Texas was named. Tom Burnett's father, owner of great cattle domain around his 6666 Ranch on both banks of the Red river, but the younger man pushed himself up in the business like any other employe.

He grew up on the ranch, and started working for his father as a line rider. He was promoted to wagon boss, then became foreman. He managed the business for 17 years during his father's last years. around his 6666 ranch on both around Burkburnett were sold shortly before the turn of the century and the estate never realized on any of the fortune in oil which lay underneath its grasslands.

Tom Burnett acquired his Triangle ranch, with headquarters between Iowa Park and Electra, and the subsequent drilling of hundreds of oil wells there never disturbed his affection for ranching. He was one of the first to introduce pure bred Herefords to this section, and his fine cattle won prizes at stock shows throughout the land.

Cinderella Of Fables Would Be Lost In This Setting

By DAN TARPLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

It's a very busy week-end planned for Miss Opal Hill, the nation's Cotton girl.

And the week-end for her starts early.

According to the tentative schedule which arrived here early this week, here are the activities planned for her:

At 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning she is scheduled to arrive at the Dallas Union terminal and parade up Commerce street. She will reach the Adolphus hotel at 9:30 and will have an hour for rest.

At 10:30 o'clock she will go to the Dallas News offices for a 30-minute visit. From 11 o'clock until noon she will attend the college fashion show and a coffee on the third floor of the A. Harris & Company store.

Dizzy Schedule Arranged

She will lunch with the Salesmanship club in the Palm Garden of the Hotel Adolphus.

The afternoon's activities will begin at 1:30 with a half-hour interview by a staff member of WFAA, Dallas radio station. The interview will be at Miss Hill's suite in the hotel.

At 2 o'clock she will go to Higginbotham-Bailey-Logan company. She will be photographed in a Virginia Hart dress. Forty-five minutes later she will attend the college fashion show at Neiman-Marcus company. After a visit to Sanger Bros. at 4 o'clock, she will return to her suite at the hotel, closing activities for that day.

After a Friday morning breakfast at 8 o'clock, she will arrive at the Cotton exchange at 10 o'clock. She will inspect a cottonseed products exhibit at 10:45 o'clock in the Baker hotel and 30 minutes later will go to Butler Bros. to be photographed with a textile products display.

Then To Don Overalls

Lunch will be with the Lions club in the Palm Garden of the Hotel Adolphus. At 2 o'clock she will visit 40 minutes at offices of the Dallas Times-Herald.

At 2:40 o'clock she will change to overalls and spend an hour at the Dallas Cotton mills. She will return to the hotel at 4 o'clock. At 4:30 o'clock the Wholesalers and Manufacturers association will bring models to Miss Hill's suite for showing frocks as part of the Cotton Fashion show.

Saturday will be a quieter day for the Cotton girl. After breakfast at 9 o'clock that morning and an hour for rest, she will be taken on a leisurely drive over the city, Southern Methodist university's campus, and the Dallas airport.

She will lunch in the Century room of the Hotel Adolphus as a compliment of the hotel.

At 2:30 o'clock she will be taken to a beauty salon for a hair dress. No other activities had been planned for Miss Hill for Saturday, according to latest announcements.

And Some Program Not Decided

At 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning she will attend a rehearsal at WFAA studios for a reception and will attend a broadcast at the studios from 12:30 to 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Detailed arrangements for a reception at the Hotel Adolphus that night, honoring the Cotton girl, had not been announced.

Monday afternoon she will attend the Cotton Bowl game between Texas Technological college and St. Mary's university. Three official chaperones will accompany her to the game.

The program was announced by William Z. Hayes, vice-president of the Republic National bank at Dallas and chairman of the Cotton girl activities committee.

Not all the honors to be received by West Texas' Cinderella girl will be in the form of entertainment.

The Durene Association of America, a non-profit organization of mercerized cotton yarn manufacturers which has worked several years in efforts to improve their products, announced the Walls Hosiery company of North Wales, Pa., was sending the Cotton girl a half-dozen pairs of cotton hose.

One of her dresses will be made of fabric manufactured at the New Braunfels Textile mill at New Braunfels. Walter Dillard, jr., vice-president and general manager of the mills, sent Miss Hill sufficient yardage of red and black plaid materials and the home economics students of Tech are making the garment. It will be an all-Texas product.

To Have Cake—And Eat It

An All-Texas cake, symbolic of the united support all Texas cotton interests are giving to the Cotton Bowl Jubilee, will be presented to Miss Hill who, as a cotton textile engineering student at Texas Technological college, has been selected as honor guest of the Cotton Industries committee, jubilee sponsor.

Cottonseed flour, developed by a Texas A. and M. college graduate chemist and manufactured by the mayor of Fort Worth, will be combined with cottonseed oil shortening and other ingredients in the all-Texas cake to be made at the Hotel Adolphus for presentation to the Cotton girl.

Mayor T. J. Harrell of Fort Worth, manufacturer of the flour and a member of the Cottonseed Processors division of the Jubilee committee, furnished the flour for the cake.

How cottonseed flour was discovered is a story typical of the many new uses for cotton and cottonseed which are being spotlighted at the Jubilee, said William H. Jones, general chairman of the Cotton Industries committee.

Story Of Man Held At Longview Sounds Straight To Official

LONGVIEW, Dec. 26. (AP)—Chief of Police Albert Adams said today he was inclined to believe the story of a 23-year-old man held for questioning in connection with the disappearance last week of Richard P. Johnson, 40-year-old Atlanta, Ga., stereotyper.

"We believe that if Johnson met with foul play it was at the hands of another man," Adams said. Adams Saturday quoted the man detained here as saying he and Johnson drove to Houston from Birmingham and picked up an ex-soldier, with whom Johnson became friendly. Then the trip proceeded to Waco, officers said, and the young man told them Johnson and the ex-soldier failed to show up at a prearranged meeting place.

The young man, against whom no charges have been filed, said Johnson hired him for $25 in Birmingham last Sunday to drive him "over the country."

high school since the league was organized.

For Nix, Dolan, Matthews, and Garza, in the backfield, and Hendricks and Hall, the great Corpus ends, and for Salyers, a guard, and Vrazel, a tackle, and most especially Hall, the end, go all the credit this department can bestow for fine work in the Corpus Christi championship football lineup. They performed well, and they deserve a lot of credit.

The weather, bad from the start, was worse as the game proceeded, and at the end it was a raging gale, comparable with the best gales West Texas can offer.

In defense of the Westerners, it must be said that the Lubbocks were playing on a muddy, slippery field for the first time this year, and under the most adverse weather conditions.

Corpus Christi, too, has had fair weather for most of its games, but the fact that the Buccaneers survived the wintry blasts from the north and withstood the water is conducive to warm feelings, despite the outcome of the game, to the Buccaneers.

Use "Corrigan System"

The Westerners brought the "Corrigan system" into play in the first ... did practically everything wrong and backwards. Late in the second period—too late for it to do any good, they tried reverse English to the "system" to block a Buccaneer punt for a 21 yard gain.

Ernest Winter, who looking particularly good in the Lubbock line, was principally instrumental in blocking Hall's punt. Joe Pytell was in on the block, too, getting his hands on the ball. Winter followed up by falling on the ball. There was time for one play, and Howard Martin, who had replaced Leete Jackson in the Lubbock backfield, made three yards through the line.

Bucs Never Stop

Corpus Christi started off like Breckenridge did in the quarter final game at Lubbock. Webster kicked off for Lubbock and Nix took it on the Buc 13, returning 20 yards. From the 33, the South Texans went into operation with their double wingback, balanced line style, and before they were stopped they had first down on the 10 yard line. They weren't stopped then; two passes and a line play were no good, but a pass, Nix to Hendricks, was completed on the 1-yard line. The ball went over and Webster got off a 40-yarder from behind the goal line, the Corpus touchdown was merely postponed, however. The Bucs were stopped outside the 20, and Lubbock took over on the 26. Webster fumbled on his first attempt, and the attack of fumbleitis extended through the first half.

Nix made three, then slipped through the mud and the Lubbock line for 13 yards. He picked up five more. Two line plays failed and Nix passed to Garza for first down on the 6. Nix passed to Garza for touchdown, and Cooper, a guard, ran in to boot the extra point.

They Hop On Fumble

Lubbock took the kick-off on its 20, Parsons receiving and wobbling a poor and inexcusable lateral to Webster, who could barely touch it. The ball was recovered by Corpus Christi on the Lubbock 28.

As if trying to make up for the boner, the Lubbock line held for two plays, and Webster and Jackson broke up a couple of passes. Lubbock took over on its 22, but the Lubbock offensive still hadn't started to function, and Webster's punt was gathered in by Matthews who returned 19 yards before Webster got him. The first period ended with Corpus in possession on its own 43 and the Bucs leading by seven points.

Again the Buc backs made hay through the Lubbock line, marching to the Westerners' 22 yard line. Dolan and Nix did the ball toting, and were very good at it too. Nix got loose on the second play of the quarter for 23 yards, overhauled by Webster. Three line plays gained nothing, a pass was incomplete and the ball went over. But not far over, because the Lubbock offense still couldn't go. Corpus made a first down during the next series but couldn't get over the midfield marker. Hall kicked over the goal line, and for the first time Lubbock started gaining. Webster made four, then two, then eight yards for Lubbock's first first down.

Martin Plays Good Game

Howard Martin then came into the game, replacing Leete Jackson, and little No. 33 made himself quite prominent from then on. He made six yards on his first attempt. Johnston made two, then fired an incomplete pass with two yards left to make first down. Webster kicked out, and the Westerners held the Buccaneers inside their own 30. Webster kept up his fumbling ways when Lubbock got the ball, and lost it after making his longest run thus far, a 17-yard sprint through the left side of the Buc line. As he was hit, he dropped the ball, and Corpus took over, Nix recovering. Nix picked up three yards, but was held for a 10-yard loss on the next play by Pipes.

Nix picked up five on the next, then Hall tried to punt. He was tackled hard by Winter and Pytell, who batted the ball down and

Congratulations To The Bucs! Texas Interscholastic League's 1938 Champions

This is the powerful and deceptive Corpus Christi Buccaneers who yesterday blasted Lubbock's Westerners from the schoolboy heights to capture the Interscholastic League state championship. This win climaxed one of the most amazing fights for gridiron supremacy of possibly any Texas High school football team. It was a triumph of veterans over veterans. Coach Harry Stiteler, coaching his first year at Corpus Christi, saw another victory added to his record that boasts only one defeat and two ties in years of coaching Class B squads. The victory climaxed a season marred only by a tie by Temple and was later avenged. Most of these players are 60-minute players.

In addition to taking the state schoolboy crown the Buccaneers set the pace for Class A scoring with [illegible]. Several all-state players are pictured above. Especially was the playing of Emory Nix, quarterback, Capt. Bill Dolan, left half, and Pat Hall, right end, notable yesterday.

In the forward wall, left to right, are Pat Hall, right end; John Varzel, right tackle; Jack Salyers, right guard; Jack Hinnant, center; Charley Fowler, left guard; Zuehl Conoly, left tackle; and J. B. Hendricks, left end. The backfield, left to right is Kenneth Matthews, right half; Jesus Garza, fullback; Emory Nix, quarterback; and Capt. Bill Dolan, left half.

back. Winter fell on it for a Lubbock recovery on the Corpus 33-yard line. Martin made three yards on the last play of the first half.

Stage Beautiful Drives

The Westerners came tearing out of their stadium between-halves room like a whizzing norther, and in the third period they staged two of the most beautiful drives of which a football team is capable. The first went 75 yards, but was stopped short of a touchdown. The second went 80 yards and resulted in a touchdown.

Corpus kicked off, to open the second half, and Webster returned it from his 15 to the 33. Martin roughed up three would-be tacklers for 8 yards, and Webster smashed the line for 6 yards and a first down on the 47. Johnston carried 7 yards and Webster plowed through for first down on the Buccaneer 40. Johnston made 12 yards, and Corpus was penalized 15 yards for holding. That put the ball on the Corpus 16. Webster made 7 yards, but Lubbock was caught holding, and that ended the rally.

After the penalty, Martin made one yard, Webster 2, then Webster passed to Parsons for 13 yards. Webster passed again, but it was incomplete over the goal line, and Corpus went into operation from the 20.

Westerner Drive Fast

The Westerner drive down field was fast, furious and held fulsome hopes for the Lubbock delegation. The Chapman lads had come back with a fighting fury that threatened destruction to the Buccaneer outfit.

Just as suddenly the tide turned, and Corpus had the ball.

And Corpus didn't stop until the Bucs had carried—and passed for a distance of 80 yards for touchdown.

Nix started the drive with a 2-yard plunge. He followed with a 3-yard dash, and he kept getting better. On a reverse, he handed the ball to Dolan, who ran 11 yards for a first down. Nix made 5, then 6, and Dolan carried 11 more for first down on the Lubbock 41. Dolan made 4, but Pipes and Sanders and Nash closed in on Nix for no gain. Dolan made about 10 through the line, but was thrown for that much loss on the next play. But from the 26-yard line, Garza threw a pass to Hall, Corpus Christi's great end, and Hall caught it near the goal line, ran over for touchdown. Again Cooper kicked goal and the score was 14-0, the first time in a long time the Westerners had been that far behind in a football game.

Nobody Remembers When

In fact, nobody handy around the Cotton bowl stadium could readily recall when Lubbock had been beaten that bad in a championship game, beginning with a district game.

The drive that the Lubbocks instituted immediately thereafter was something to see. The kick-off after the Buccaneer touchdown came into the hands of Parsons, who im-

California Smashes Georgia Tech, 13-0

Bottari Sparks Bears' Attack

By RUSSELL J. NEYLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 26. (AP)—University of California's Bears came to life in the last period today to score twice and defeat Georgia Tech's Engingers, 13 to 0.

In two sharp drives, the Bears traveled 60 yards and 66 yards to snatch victory from what appeared nothing better than a scoreless tie.

Vic Bottari, graduating left halfback, sparked both touchdown sallies. He went over from the three-yard line to break the deadlock and on the second thrust handed the ball to Lanky Louie Smith, right half, who banged through the right side of the Tech line for seven yards and a touchdown. Bottari added the extra tally with a dropkick after a similar try after the first touchdown had been blocked.

California Leads Statistics

With superior weight and noticeably more ground power on its side, California held a slight edge in statistics during the first half and the last quarter. But in the third period, the swift-moving boys from the South put on a show of "fancy dan" pigskin lugging which had the Californians running around in circles trying to find out who had the ball.

Faked punts of a vintage dating back a quarter of a century caught Bears napping several times. Once the invaders made 21 yards from such a play. Earl Wheby, right half, was the principal ball carrier on these whiskery creations. A number of end around plays also branching from fake punts resulted in good gains.

Until the two scoring series, the ball remained between the 19-yard lines. The Bears reached Tech's 19 in the opening period. Bottari returning a punt 18 yards to the opposing team's 25.

Tech Bids Twice

After advancing six yards, however, they lost the ball on a fumble by Bottari.

Tech made two impressive scoring bids in the third quarter, once advancing 33 yards to California's 31 and later moving 31 yards to the 19.

California's first touchdown started from its own 49. Bottari lugged the ball seven of eight times for a total of 26 yards, finally scoring. A 15-yard penalty and a 19-yard tackle smash by Smith accounted for the balance of the yardage.

Bottari and Smith divided the ball packing duties on the second touchdown march. One pass was completed, from Bottari to Smith, good for 17 yards, in the 66-yard drive.

The outcome gave California an edge in the series, with three wins against two for Georgia Tech.

Duke, Trojans Bear Down In Training

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 26. (AP)—Duke and Southern California began the final drive down the training trail today that leads to the Rose Bowl one week away.

All that can be done must be done early this week if it is to be done before 90,000 grid fans next Monday in Pasadena's 24th edition of the colorful post-season series. After that the pressure sets in and it won't let up until the final gun brings the big game to a close.

Little actual knowledge can be gained by watching the iron Dukes on the practice field, but observers have been impressed by the calmness and seeming determination of the team and its coach, Wallace Wade, as they go about preparing for the Trojans.

Wade, looking over the outfit as it turned out for practice today, said it was lighter than any of the three Alabama teams he brought to the Rose Bowl.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

FORT WORTH, Dec. 26. (AP)—Governor-elect W. Lee O'Daniel today announced the appointment of Tom L. Beauchamp, sr., Tyler attorney, to succeed Edward Clark as Texas secretary of state.

Banaski Has Main Event Spot Again

Local wrestling fans who have not seen Joe Banaski fasten his "alligator clutch" on an opponent for sure victory will have the opportunity Wednesday night.

"King Kong" Banaski shuffles his powerful frame into the ring over in Sled Allen's Auditorium for a torso tussle with John Nemanic, the "bad" man who can get just as rough as they make them when necessary.

Nemanic has not been billed on a main event in recent weeks but has been making quite a name for himself in curtain raisers and semi-finals.

On the other hand the man with the "clutch" has lost only one match in a local ring, that to powerful Frank Wolff. Last week Banaski met the scrapping brown headed Leo Mortensen of New York. It took "Kong" just four minutes to fasten the "clutch" for the first fall and a little more than 30 minutes to clinch the same peculiar weapon on Mortensen for the second fall and victory.

Otto Ludwig, the growling German, appears in the semi-final against the Kansas City lad, Frankie Hill. Ludwig has a habit of staying outside the ropes almost as much as inside them. He will not find too much opposition in Hill.

Russ Riley, the ex-Muleshoe lad who made a big hit with local fans in two previous performances, mixes it up with Bill Cazzell in the curtain raiser.

Nova, Braddock To Meet In January

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—The New York Daily News says that Lou Nova, promising California heavyweight, has agreed to meet Jimmy Braddock, ex-world's heavyweight champion, in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden on March 31.

If Nova wins he will meet Max Baer outdoors next summer, according to the News.

Braddock, who retired after beating Tommy Farr last January, has been in light training for two or three weeks.

Whiskered Team Defeats Stars

Mixing football formations with basketball wizardry the whiskered House of David five took a 40-35 decision over the Lubbock Independent League All-Stars Sunday afternoon at Sled Allen's Auditorium.

The locals were leading by one point at the end of the first period but were five tallies behind at the half. In the second part of the tussle Hugh Snodgrass, Bob Hale, Carl Weaver and Jack Miller pitched in enough fancy goal hooping to keep the locals within speaking distance of the Benton Harbor lads.

True to advance publicity the tall Michigans pulled court tricks out of their repertoire that had never been seen in these parts before.

Features of the whiskered quintet were Elmer Johnson, as much comic as basketball performer, and Art Stoelting, 6 feet 4 inches of perfect court talent. Also adding to the Davids score as well as humor was Artie Deim.

The game started evenly and was played on comparatively even terms until the middle of the second period. Stoelting and Deim dropped in six points via the field goal route. And the whiskered lads led 18-13 at the halftime. Scoring was even in the second half and the game ended with the Davids five points ahead for victory.

Joe Louis Acclaimed Boxer Of The Year As Lou Nova Rated Second By Magazine

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Joseph Louis Barrow, the dark angel of the gentle art of beak busting, is the boxer of the year.

The solemn, stolid heavyweight champion receives the honor from Nat Fleischer, editor of "The Ring" magazine who since 1925 has ranked the boxers of the world in each division for his publication. This year's ratings, which appear in the February issue of "The Ring" are the product of months of work on the records of 2,964 fighters. In the end all but 895 records were eliminated. All ratings are on the fighters work in 1938 only.

Fleischer, besides declaring the middleweight and featherweight titles vacant, takes many a crack at the New York State Athletic commission for the part he says it has played in creating a muddle of championships.

Louis Rating Expected

The accolade to Louis is not unexpected. He became a great fighter in the eyes of the boxing world when he battered Max Schmeling into a bloody, helpless pulp in 2:04 of the first round last June.

In the second division of the heavyweight class are Lou Nova, rated first, Max Baer, Bob Pastor, Tony Galento, Maxie Rosenbloom and John Henry Lewis in that order.

Second only to Louis in prominence is Henry Armstrong, the world's lightweight and welterweight king. Off by himself in the 147-pound division Henry shares the first group of the lightweight class with Lou Ambers whom he dethroned in the year's bloodiest bout.

Barney Ross, beaten by Armstrong for the welterweight crown, is not ranked this year. Ceferino Garcia, turned back by the hammer in a bid for the title a month ago, is ranked alone in the second group.

John Henry Lewis, czar of the light-heavyweights, stands alone at the top of this division in Fleischer's ratings besides being ranked as a heavy. Although Lewis has been shorn of his title by the New York State Athletic commission, Fleischer defies the three storm troopers and rates him the best in the 175-pound class.

Tiger Jack Fox, the aged Spokane, Wash., negro and Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., chosen by the commission as the likeliest contenders, are first and second in the second group.

Apostoli General Choice

Fred Apostoli, the general choice as the best middleweight, although he is recognized as champion only in New York and California, heads the fighters of his division. Solly Krieger, who supplied one of the year's great upsets by thumping Al Hostak, the 231st "second Stanley Ketchel," and who is considered champion outside of the two states that recognize Apostoli, is ranked first in the second group. The National Boxing association recognizes Krieger.

Hostak is fourth in this division behind Don Richards, the diligent Australian, and Jock McAvoy, the Britisher.

The featherweight division was left in confusion when Armstrong vacated the first of the three titles.

The N. B. A. ranks Leo Rodak of Chicago and Pete Scalzo of New York as the leading contenders but calls the championship vacant. So does Fleischer. Joe Archibald, the Providence, R. I., thumper is third in the second group according to Fleischer with Rodak and Scalzo off by themselves. To add to the confusion the New York commission claims the title for Archibald.

K. O. Morgan, the Stamford, Conn., Italian who has fought all over the world, is ranked first among the bantamweights with Sixto Escobar the Puerto Rican who holds the world title on the second rung. He is the only recognized champion not rated No. 1.

Morgan has beaten Escobar and everyone else with any claim to his division.

Kane Only Foreigner

The only foreigner to be rated first is Peter Kane, the Englishman who is the world flyweight champion. He is rated at the top of a group that includes little Dado and small Montana of the Philippines and Kid Tahner, of the British West Indies.

The rankings included:

Heavyweight division:

(Group 1).

Joe Louis, Detroit, (world champion).

(Group 2).

1—Lou Nova, Alameda, Calif.
2—Max Baer, Livermore, Calif.
3—Bob Pastor, New York.
4—Tony Galento, Orange, N. J.
5—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York.
6—John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz.

(Group 3).

1—Tommy Farr, Wales.
2—Red Burman, Baltimore.
3—Roscoe Toles, Detroit.
4—Max Schmeling, Germany.
5—Len Harvey, England.
6—Maurice Strickland, South Africa.
7—Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia.
8—Gunnar Barlund, Finland.

Raiders Want To Workout Even More

DALLAS, Dec. 26. (AP)—Texas Tech's Red Raiders romped through a two-hour scrimmage on the muddy turf here today in preparation for their Jan. 2 football game with the St. Mary's Gaels of California.

After the stiff workout, Line Coach Dutchy Smith asked the squad whether they wanted to return for more scrimmage in the afternoon or see the state high school championship game between Lubbock and Corpus Christi.

They yelled for more scrimmage.

"It's the darndest bunch of guys I ever coached," said Pete Cawthon, the Red Raiders' head man. "I never saw a bunch that didn't ever get enough football. But these guys want to play all the time. They love to work out."

They were taken to the high school game, but, with several players suffering from slight colds, they returned to their hotel after the third period.

Frogs Preparing Pass Defense

FORT WORTH, Dec. 26. (AP)—Back in harness after a two-day layoff, the Texas Christian football squad, romped through a lively practice session early today.

Almost the entire squad was on hand as Coach Dutch Meyer started his charges through a final series of workouts, sharpening them for the Sugar Bowl test against Carnegie Tech at New Orleans Jan. 2.

Chilly weather and a field heavy from last night's rain failed to slow the ardor of the Frogs. They indicated, by an abundance of pep, that they'll be both mentally and physically alert when they leave Friday for New Orleans.

Meyer stressed defense, especially against passes, in the drill today.

"We are going into this game expecting anything and prepared for it," he said. "Once before we went against an Eastern team (Fordham) that was famed for its running and unheralded as a passing team. We were set to stop power. Fordham threw more passes than we did, and completed a lot of 'em too. We were defeated 7-6.

"Now Carnegie, while a great running team, is also recognized as a capable passing unit, and Coach Bill Kern has said he might beat us with our own game. So we're getting ready to defense against the pass just as much as if we were getting ready to play a Southwest opponent."

After the workout the squad went to Dallas to watch the state high school championship football game.

Lobos Resume Work For Bowl Contest

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 26. (AP)—New Mexico university football players worked out in the sunshine today to shake off effects of a two-day layoff and Christmas turkey in their campaign for next week-end's Sun Bowl game with Utah at El Paso, Texas.

The Utes, 35 strong, meanwhile landed at Los Angeles harbor today and entrained immediately for El Paso, and a five-day practice grind of conditioning after their shipboard idleness en route back from Honolulu and a game with the University of Hawaii.

The Lobos were scheduled to taper off their training with short drills tomorrow and Wednesday. Wednesday night a squad of 43 entrains for El Paso and a few days of conditioning drill for Monday's game.

Coach Ted Shipkey, a Warner system tutor, is expected to stake New Mexico's victory chances on a wide-open, razzle-dazzle aerial attack.

Dr. W. B. Singleton, of the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, has developed an "all American" corn. Each ear is tri-colored in red, white and blue.

Tech Basketball Team Advances In Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 26. (AP)—Two Oklahoma collegiate conference teams fell by the wayside as out-of-state entries led the way through this afternoon's play in the first round of the third annual Oklahoma City All-College basketball tournament.

A pair of Missouri Valley conference quintets—Washburn college of Topeka, Kas., and Tulsa (Okla.) university—started the 1938 tourney on its way with impressive victories.

Texas Tech of Lubbock was forced into an extension period to oust Phillips university of Enid, Okla., 25 to 23. Ed Landon, who hit the bucket five times from the floor to lead the Phillips attack, came through with two baskets in the final minute of the regular playing period to tie the score at 23-all. Paul Reynolds, Tech center, won the game by driving in for a set-up and the only basket of the overtime period.

Tulsa University's Golden Hurricane put on a whirlwind finish to defeat the West Texas Buffaloes 39 to 32.

Both teams displayed fast breaking offenses that at times transformed the battle into a rough affair. Tulsa, after a slow start, came to life and led at halftime, 17 to 14.

Fenger Defeats Waco, 14 To 0

WACO, Dec. 26. (AP)—Don Griffin, spectacular Chicago schoolboy football star, paced Fenger high to a 14-0 victory over Waco High school here today, scoring both touchdowns to bring his season's total to 30 such counters.

It was the worst trouncing a Waco high team has taken on its home field in 20 years of football, and was the first time Waco had ever lost an intersectional game.

Griffin not only scored both touchdowns but placed the ball in scoring position each time and also placed it in position for a field goal from the 16-yard line which Dudzik missed. Dudzik, however, didn't miss anything else, kicking both points after touchdowns. Also he did not miss a tackle and at times seemed to be playing a backfield position for Waco.

BILOXI ON WAY

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 26. (AP)—Coach Engle May and 21 Biloxi, Miss., high school gridsters worked out on the Miss. college field near here today. The team stops tonight in Monroe, La., en route Plainview, Texas, for a post-season tilt Friday.

AMERICAN WINS BOUT

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, Dec. 26. (AP)—Steve Dudas, Edgewater, N. J., heavyweight defeated Paul Wallner of Germany in a ten-round bout here today.

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE

—until you read these facts about Du Pont "Zerone"*

A FRIENDLY WARNING: You cannot be sure of getting the best value in anti-freeze until you know what Du Pont has to offer in "Zerone."

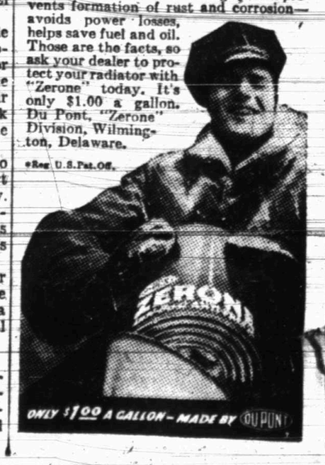

First of all, extraordinary anti-freeze protection. "Scientific tests prove that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone" used in accordance with directions will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

The materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Furthermore, scientific tests prove that the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone. That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

Investigations Nearing End

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Four congressional investigations carried on through the summer and fall will end next week, but three others will continue during the 1939 session.

Here is a brief summary of the inquiries;

1. House committee on un-American activities. Chairman Dies (D.-Tex.) has announced a report would be submitted along with a request for an additional $150,000 to continue the work. He complained that the present $25,000 fund was insufficient for a thorough inquiry.

2. Tennessee Valley authority. After TVA Chairman Arthur E. Morgan was removed by President Roosevelt, the senate-house committee was created and granted $50,000 to investigate charges of mismanagement.

It held 13 weeks of hearings in Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington, but adjourned last week subject to the call of Senator Donahey (D.-Ohio).

One Committee Nears End

3. Senate campaign expenditures. The committee is completing its work preparatory to reporting early in January. It issued frequent criticisms of campaign practices last summer and fall, with special emphasis on alleged abuses by candidates seeking votes among relief workers. About $26,000 remains unspent of its $60,000 appropriation.

4. Profit sharing. A senate committee held three weeks of intensive hearings this fall and is now preparing a report. It was created to study systems under which employers share profits with employes. It also inquired into the advisability of easing the tax burden on businesses which share their profits.

5. Monopoly. The committee was charged by congress with investigating the concentration of economic power and the effect of exacting price, tax and patent systems upon competition and given until 1940 to finish its work.

Public Hearings Scheduled

6. Civil liberties. The senate last session extended the life of the committee, created in 1936. It has investigated industrial espionage, alleged employe interference with the workers' right to bargain collectively, and other phases of labor relations.

Its inquiries during recent months have been confined to employer organizations, citizens committees and third parties in labor disputes. It is planning to hold public hearings in California after the first of the year.

7. Tax exemptions. The senate authorized an investigation of exemptions from taxation of government securities and salaries of federal and state employes. The committee has not met, but Chairman Brown (D.-Mich.) has indicated he would hold public hearings after the first of the year. The committee was given an appropriation of $5,000 and instructed to report by March 1, 1939.

"We'll Be Back"

Mrs. T. E. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Tubbs of Jefferson, both former residents of Lubbock.

Supt. W. B. Irvin was seen occasionally chatting with school leaders from over the state. A. C. Jackson, schools business manager, also was present.

Oscar Lykes of Seagraves, also a former Lubbock man, was present.

Sheriff Tom Abel's big hat could be distinguished above the crowd.

Ticket scalpers crying "Good seats on the 40-yard line," held up tickets to every passerby. Some seats were reported to have sold for as high as $5, although there were plenty of them available.

P. C. Cobb, Dallas schools business manager, placed attendance at approximately 21,000 with 19,500 paid admissions.

Stadium Not Half Full

The Cotton Bowl was not half full but there was a blaze of color in the stands to brighten an otherwise murky day.

Heavy blankets were on the arm of nearly every fan and before the second quarter was ended they were brought into use.

The Westerner band received the plaudits of the crowd with half-time performance. An intricate number of formations were made by the Black and Gold uniformed musicians, an excellent Lone Star getting a big hand from the stands.

Sentiment in the press box seemed to favor the Westerners at the start of the game, but after it was evident that the Buccaneers were the better team, praises were heaped on the fine playing of the South Texans.

Norther Greets Spectators

As fans streamed out of the giant bowl, they were smacked in the face by a norther which had blown up during the contest and which they hadn't felt the full force of since the gridiron is in an excavation well over 100 feet below the surface.

For 45 minutes cars formed a line out of the fair grounds back to town.

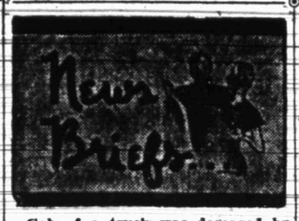

More than 3,000 Lubbock and West Texas fans were estimated to have been present for the game. Corpus Christi sent 1,200 on a special train accompanied by the Buccaneer band which also performed during halves. One Corpus Christi oil man sent 120 of his employes and their families on the special to the game.

Perpetrator Of Five Robberies Sought In Abilene Section

ABILENE, Texas, Dec. 26. (AP)—City, county and state officers in West Texas tonight were on watch for a man in "a black suit and a black hat," credited with five hijackings here and in Sweetwater the past 10 days.

Leonard Plowman, Abilene filling station operator, has been victim No. 1 and No. 5. He was held up this morning, forced to hand over $25 and walk into a field adjoining his station while the gunman fled. On Dec. 17 Plowman had lost $40, the proceedings being practically the same except that the hijacker then had a companion.

At 1:30 o'clock Christmas morning at Sweetwater, F. L. Bryan, a taxi driver, picked up a passenger and found himself staring into the muzzle of a gun. Dr. Harlan Metcalf, one of the three members of the Nashville Archery club on the hunting trip, telegraphed a Nashville friend that he had killed a 120-pound boar early in the day.

Metcalf said his fellow huntsmen, Ed and Tom McNish, would continue their hunt tomorrow.

A guide accompanying the trio is the only member of the party with a firearm. He is carrying a pistol to be used only in an emergency.

Uncle Sam Investigates Late Delivery Of Christmas Gifts

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 26. (AP)—John Rohrer's 1937 Christmas presents to his parents living across town took a day and a year, to be delivered.

Postal officials, who started an immediate investigation to determine the cause, said the package may have been stored away in "empty" extra mail sacks during the year.

The package containing ties, hose and the like, arrived just before John put in a personal appearance with a new supply of gifts.

"We thought it a little strange last year when we did not receive any gifts from John," Mrs. J. E. Rohrer said. "But we didn't say anything about it to him."

CHARGES of burglary will be filed today against four young men suspected of having crashed the show window of King's Jewelry store at 1020 Broadway early Monday morning and making off with five watches and two rings, according to information from the sheriff's office, Lubbock police and district attorney's department.

The men also will be accused of burglarizing a cafe at Ralls earlier that morning and taking candy, cigars, cigarettes, and approximately $4.50 in money from a cigar box in the cafe.

After the suspects were arrested as they approached the city limits of Big Spring about 7:30 o'clock that morning by Texas Highway patrolmen, the jewelry was recovered as well as the merchandise and most of the money taken from the cafe at Ralls.

The car in which the suspects were arrested was reported stolen at Fort Worth Christmas night, officers here said. The suspects, all under 21 years of age, were returned here Monday afternoon from Big Spring by Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, and Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff. They were assisted by L. P. McCasland and G. T. Avery, Texas Highway patrolmen stationed at Big Spring, and Sgt. C. E. Taber of the Lubbock district office of the patrol.

McCasland and Avery arrested the suspects when they approached Big Spring after Big Spring officers had been warned to be on the lookout for them. Soon after the burglary, law enforcement authorities of this area were warned to watch for them.

The goods taken from the Ralls place were valued at approximately $75, officers here said.

The four suspects, after their transfer here Monday afternoon, were questioned, but none admitted the crime and no written statements had been made late that night. No firearms were found on the men, authorities said.

Officers here said at least two of the quartet had served terms in reform schools. Criminal records of the other two had not been investigated Monday night.

Halted By Gunfire

Burglary of the Ralls place was believed to have happened about 2 o'clock Monday morning. The Lubbock burglary was about 5 o'clock and success of the burglary was halted by gunfire. They sped away amidst a volley of shots.

L. W. Bell, special officer, on the corner diagonally across from the jewelry store was credited by police with having foiled the burglary plans here.

Bell said he heard the noise when the window was smashed and fired six shots at the car as it sped from the scene. A bullet hole was found in the car, but none of the suspects was injured.

Police spread the alarm immediately after the firing.

Bell was afoot and could not pursue, but a police car which quickly took up the chase followed the fugitive machine by the marks of skidding tires for considerably more than a mile, according to Policeman Aubrey Fawver and O. E. Rush, who were aboard.

Bell reported that he had observed the car and its occupants about five minutes before the burglary and that their actions aroused his suspicion. However, they turned into an intersection, circled and returned, slowing as they approached the jewelry store. One man alighted from the car and Bell started across the street from the diagonal corner at about the same instant, police were further told.

The implement used in smashing the glass was not discovered, Bell, according to police, shouted at the crash and the window smasher dashed for the car. It swerved from Broadway into Avenue J, picking up speed as it traveled south.

Police were quickly upon the scene and started in pursuit. Officers Rush and Fawver said they never sighted the machine but discovered skid marks indicating sharp turn at high speed from Avenue J eastward into Nineteenth. They learned from a young woman enroute to work as a waitress that a speeding car swerved from Nineteenth into Avenue H, traveling north. No further trace of the machine was discovered.

their best. Probably the Westerners are the better aggregation, day in and day out.

In the traffic snarl which followed the game I watched and listened to the Westerners for the long 45 minutes it took them to get back to their quarters and I don't mind admitting that I had a lump in my throat and was holding back a few tears.

For the Westerners—the 1938 edition which is the best high school team Lubbock has ever had—are, after all, just a bunch of clean-cut kids and some of them coughed and some of them sniffled and some of them, unashamedly, bawled out loud.

And I, for one, don't blame them for it. Instead, I admire them for it, because I sat with them as they took what Goober Keyes calls "a country lickin'." And I know it hurt.

It hurt Chapman and Keyes and the other assistant coach, Walker Nichols, but that unexpected defeat hurt the boys more.

It not only hurt them for themselves, individually and collectively, but it hurt them because it hurt Chap and Goober and Nick.

They really wanted to win and, on what unquestionably was an "off day," they did the best they could.

Homefolks who didn't see the game and who must depend upon what they heard on the ether and read in cold type, mustn't get the wrong idea.

Not a kid on that team "laid down."

Not one of them "took it easy."

Everyone of them gave the best he had here today and, today, that best just wasn't good enough.

And as Chapman said as he smiled with brimming eyes, "If you're gonna play, you gotta learn to take it."

So a great little guy who has lots of luck and it's all bad sent a grand football team knocking at the door of fame here today but fame wasn't home to the knock.

But before the Westerners got back to their hotel they were talking first about starting spring training and then about how they're going to go to town next fall.

AND ANYHOW, WE'RE AHEAD OF CORPUS CHRISTI IN BUILDING PERMITS!

Defense Plan

such force as 10,000 army planes.

3. The chief executive and intimate advisors are confident congress will approve at least the basic recommendations.

Piecemeal disclosures provide this outline of the proposals:

Air forces—orders for thousands of additional army and navy planes in the next two years. (Each service has about 2,000 first line craft now.) Undisclosed numbers would be used for training, others held in reserve.

Under plans already announced, the civil aeronautics authority and the National Youth administration are to assist in schooling upwards of 100,000 pilots and 125,000 mechanics as a military "backlog."

Plan New Air Bases

New air bases are contemplated.

A key objective is expansion of the American aircraft industry's capacity, through commercial and export as well as military orders, to keep pace with developments abroad. Manufacturers consulted by the war department obtained the impression there would be no competition from government plants.

Army (troops)—Prompt measures to remedy deficiencies in anti-aircraft artillery, tanks and other weapons and munitions for the regular army and national guard.

Navy—Various measures to reduce the time—now estimated at eight months—required in an emergency to switch factories from peace to war production.

Official hints of a $100,000,000 increase for the army and $150,000,000 for the navy over their respective appropriations for the current fiscal year shed little light on the estimated cost of the projected measures.

Several Injured In Traffic Mishap; Truck Leaves Road

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 26. (AP)—The 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keith was fatally injured and several other persons bruised when a truck Keith was driving left the highway four miles east of Durant today. The truck with 16 persons aboard slid into a ditch while rounding a curve.

Parents of the tot were among those slightly injured.

Because birds cannot afford to carry extra weight, nature has done away with their teeth and the heavy jawbones which would be necessary to hold them in.

Downtown Lubbock Presents Picture Of Calm As Holiday Atmosphere Departs

Downtown Lubbock Monday night presented a picture of deliberate calm. The whole area seemed to have gone into a stupid siesta, as if recuperating from the strain of Christmas celebrating and girding its loins for the enthusiasm and excitement which usher in the New Year.

Parking space, which for weeks has been at a premium, went begging; buses moved through the streets with only handfuls of passengers; waiters and waitresses relaxed on counters and chatted easily; a majority of persons on the streets were theater-goers who were out to enjoy the most inactive sort of amusement available.

He Still Has Spirit

Early in the night a negro couple stood on the corner of Avenue J and Tenth street with a 5-year-old boy. The boy was humming through a kazoo, making cacophonous sounds which, if interpreted liberally with a liberal sprinkling of imagination, could be recognized as the opening bars of "Flat Foot Floogie."

A passerby stopped and spoke to the boy. The man rubbed his cold stiff fingers, shifted the guitar which was hanging around his neck and broke into an accompaniment for the kazoo solo while the woman clapped her hands to accentuate the rhythm of the music and encourage the boy. At the conclusion of the first chorus the little black fellow swapped his kazoo for a mouth organ and began stamping and dancing as he played.

They Too Desert

The pedestrian gave the boy a coin and walked on, wrapping his topcoat about him a little more tightly. The couple and the boy huddled for a while in a doorway, but in a few minutes they, too, deserted the already quiet street.

Early in the evening hotel lobbies took on a sleepy air. Clerks and bell boys yawned openly while the few people sitting on easy chairs talked slowly and quietly. In one downtown hotel the clock over the desk had stopped and had not been started—at 8 o'clock it read 4:24. In another hotel wash room two inebriates dispassionately discussed the Westerners' defeat by Corpus Christi in Dallas.

What happened to be the most active spot in the city was the bus terminal where returning Christmas visitors were being met happily by husbands, families and friends.

Death Strikes Twice In Burnett Family

KNOX CITY, Dec. 26. (AP)—Death took its second victim of the day in the family of the late S. Burk Burnett, claiming Mrs. T. B. Burnett, 79, this morning at 9 o'clock. She was a sister in law of the fabulously wealthy rancher and oil man, whose son, Tom L. Burnett, died at Iowa Park today.

Two children besides Mrs. Atterbury survive. They are Clyde and Glenn Burnett, both of Benjamin. A sister, Mrs. P. C. Sams of Lubbock also survives.

The funeral is scheduled Tuesday afternoon at Benjamin.

None of the relatives here will be able to attend rites, it was indicated.

Corpus Victory

mediately fumbled it, but recovered in time for a 5-yard return.

Johnston made 5 yards, and Webster took it for 10. Martin got back in the game and made 10 more and another first down. Webster made 3, Martin 5. A pass, with one yard to go for first down, was incomplete, and Martin rushed the left side for 6 yards. Johnston made 5, and Webster made 9, around left end, for first down on the Corpus Christi 20 yard line.

Webster Goes Over

Martin carried to the 15, Webster to the 6. Webster to the 3, and Webster for touchdown. Joe Bob Foster's try for point went awry, and Lubbock trailed at the end of the third period 6-14.

There was time but few plays after the touchdown. Corpus was held in check by Nash, Eytell, Sanders and Pipes, and Corpus punted out of bounds on the Lubbock 23.

Johnston failed to gain, then he passed, a long one down the field that was taken by Nix of Corpus Christi on the Buc 40-yard line. He returned it 42 yards to the Lubbock 18 as the third period ended.

First play of the fourth period saw Dolan take the ball from Nix on a reverse scuttle through Lubbock's right side of the line, and make his way to a touchdown. Cooper rushed in for a try at the 2½ point, but it was low.

Weather Is Big Item

From there on, the weather was the big item to the fans. They started leaving the stadium early in the fourth period and for good reason. Little short of a blizzard was the raging wind and low temperature that dominated Dallas after 3 o'clock. A handicap to both teams, it seemed even more so to the Westerners, who failed to get going any more.

After receiving the kick-off after Corpus Christi's third touchdown, Lubbock gained 6 yards, to its own 40, when interference was ruled on a forward pass, Johnston to Martin. Another pass was incomplete. Webster was held for a 2-yard gain, and a well-displayed forward pass attempt, embodying parts of the famous "Detroit" screen pass, not only failed to gain but lost 2 yards. The Westerners gave it away long before the ball was snapped.

Ge's Off Mighty Boot

Webster got off a 66-yard boot, which actually traveled about 30 yards farther, so great was the wind advantage, over the goal line.

Corpus was content to hold what it had, and kicked out from its 25, after Lubbock had held the South Texans to 5 yards in three plays. Webster drew back to throw a long pass, but it was intercepted on the Corpus 25-yard line by Nix, who ran it back 15 yards. Nix made 6 more, but was forced to kick from near mid-field.

It was getting late then, and very cold and windy. Lubbock had two more chances. The Westerners could not capitalize on either one of them. Receiving the ball in their own territory, the Westerners sought to score by passes, but two were incomplete, and Johnston made but 5 yards on third down. A pass was completed, however, Johnston to Martin, on fourth down, first down on the Corpus 40. Martin made 3 more, but two passes were incomplete, and the ball went over when a fourth down pass gained only 1 yard.

Bucs Threaten Again

Matthews, a Buccaneer back who gave Lubbock trouble all evening, made a dash on a reverse play for 20 yards, down to the Lubbock 42 yard line, as Corpus threatened to add more insult to injury. He broke loose two plays later for another good run, and a first down on the Lubbock 25.

Corpus advanced it to the 15 before a 15-yard penalty set the Bucs back. Lubbock had time to run four plays before the game ended. The first lost 5 yards, the second gained 4, the third 4 and the fourth 2 and a first down on the 30, but the gun popped at that time, and the state championship game for 1938 was over.

Four Killed When Auto Strikes Passenger Train In Storm

WEST MANCHESTER, O., Dec. 26. (AP)—A father and three sons were killed tonight when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a fast passenger train during a blinding snow storm.

The dead were: Oca Stivers, 50, the father; and Noah, 28, Oscar, 15, and Cletus, 12.

Four Are Hurt In Car Crash

(Special To The Avalanche)

SUDAN, Dec. 26.—An automobile accident here on the Main street of Sudan about 5 o'clock this afternoon injured four persons, one possibly critically.

The accident happened at the intersection of Main street and the east-west highway.

Condition Critical

Mrs. G. F. Neely, 24, of Corpus Christi, was rushed to Payne-Shotwell hospital at Littlefield and admitted for treatment. Tonight she had regained consciousness, but authorities considered her condition possibly critical. It was believed she suffered internal injuries.

Her husband, G. F. Neely, suffered cuts of the face. A son, about 8, suffered only minor injuries.

P. H. Ballard, operator of a confectionery at Sudan High school, suffered numerous lacerations, some of them serious, but his condition was not considered grave.

Others Uninjured

Mr. and Mrs. Neely, their son, and a girl and man described as "hitchhikers," were in a light coach and were driving west on the highway when their machine was in collision with that occupied by Ballard who was crossing the highway at Main street, investigators said. The hitchhikers in the Neely car were uninjured.

Both machines were badly damaged, said Arch Jones, Lamb county deputy sheriff. D. O. Wilkerson of the Texas Highway patrol also conducted an investigation.

'Biscuit Not To Race In Florida

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 26. (AP)—Chances for another meeting anytime soon between Seabiscuit and War Admiral appeared slim today when the Biscuit's trainer revealed that he was taking his charge—the outstanding race horse of the year—back to California.

The decision to pass up the Florida races was made, trainer Tom Smith said, because of ligament trouble in Seabiscuit's left front ankle. "I want to be near home if anything happens," Smith said, although he explained that he expected the trouble to clear up in a short time.

Smith said that although the Biscuit's owner, C. S. Howard of San Francisco, wanted to send the great horse to the Florida tracks he (Smith) favored California.

"I thought it best to be close to home and then I didn't want to go to Florida with one horse," Smith said, pointing out that original tentative plans called for practically all of his string of 19 horses to return to California while Seabiscuit went to Florida.

Smith planned to ship Seabiscuit and the other horses tomorrow night. He said he doubted if the Biscuit would race in the Santa Anita handicap but that, he explained, depended upon training developments.

Budge-Ellsworth To Break All Records

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (U.P.)—The Don Budge-Ellsworth Vines tour which opens Jan. 3 in Madison Square Garden will break all crowd and gate records for professional tennis, promoter Jack Harris predicted today.

The match will be Budge's first as a profession. The tour will embrace more than 75 cities.

Harris predicted that the swing would gross close to $300,000, topping the Vines-Fred Perry tour by nearly $70,000. Requests for tickets in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Detroit and Minneapolis—the early cities on the itinerary—indicated jammed galleries.

Harris said that Budge had been guaranteed $75,000 and an option of taking a certain percentage of the total gross instead of the guarantee. Early returns indicate that Budge will take the percentage and probably make more than $100,000.

Junior Tennis Meet Opens In Gotham

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—Taking advantage, as usual, of the fact that school is out for the holidays, the National Junior and Boys' Indoor tennis championships get under way today at the seventh regiment armory.

The Junior division, including players from 15 to 18 years of age, has attracted 97 players this year and the boys' singles tourney, limited to players 15 and under, drew 36. First round play in the junior event is scheduled to start today with the boys' singles beginning tomorrow. Doubles tourneys in both divisions will start later this week.

France Agrees With Italy And 1935 Treaty Tossed Overboard

PARIS, Dec. 26. (AP)—France told Italy today that she accepted the Italian note renouncing the 1935 Laval-Mussolini territorial treaty but that the accord must stand as the only basis for negotiations between the two powers.

Thus, the next move in the colonial issue was put squarely up to Italy as Premier Daladier, despite Fascist cries of "provocation," disclosed plans to make his tour of Corsica and Tunisia a mighty "hands off demonstration" to Premier Mussolini's legions.

were forecast for the entire state of Nebraska.

Snow swept through the Dakotas and into Minnesota, where it drifted and halted highway traffic in some sections. Flurries were reported in Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan, with more snow predicted for tonight.

Kansas and Missouri were out of the path of the storm, but near zero temperatures were forecast for both states during the night.

Eastern states, the weather bureau reported, would feel the worst of the cold wave tomorrow night.

New York City and New England generally enjoyed clear, crisp weather today. Temperatures hovered around the freezing mark.

Warnings Are Issued

Storm warnings were issued for the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Sandy Hook, N. J.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported in Colorado, Montana and Wyoming, ending a spell of unseasonably warm weather in those states.

A cold wave entered Oklahoma, accompanied by a dust storm in the west and a drizzle in the east. Rains helped winter grain crops in some parts of Texas.

Los Angeles had fair weather today, the temperature reaching a high of 66.

Thermometer Here Falls To 18 Degrees Before Midnight

At 11:30 o'clock Monday night the mercury had dropped to 18 degrees, and the thermometer continued to fall, according to the main line station of the West Texas Gas company.

It had fallen three degrees an hour from 7 o'clock, reports showed.

At midnight skies were clear and a north wind had lessened in velocity.

Thanks, Mr. And Mrs. Lubbock

EASILY one of the outstanding contributions to the spirit of the past Christmas in Lubbock was the widespread and wholehearted cooperation of the community with the Goodfellows.

The community nature of the cooperation was reflected strikingly Sunday in the response to appeal for automobiles to assist in the distribution of packages. The Chief Goodfellow reported that approximately 125 automobiles were made available, and that all were at the meeting place before 7:30 o'clock in the morning. The distribution thus was completed more speedily than in any previous of the four years during which the Goodfellows have been a part of Lubbock.

In other respects the drive was outstanding. The $1,500 in cash asked, although a small sum when balanced against needs, was more than had been set for any previous drive. It was asked, too, at a time when many Lubbock residents had to face unusual calls upon their available cash. Yet the fund went over, as everyone expected it would.

But the time and the cost were worthwhile. If you doubt that, ask any of those who participated in the distribution. Or, better still, ask any of the 2,637 children to whom the real meaning of Christmas was brought home by the Goodfellows.

Confidence Still Needed

ALTHOUGH the Pan-American conference in session at Lima, Peru, resulted in an expected declaration of solidarity among nations of the Americas, it emphasized that a considerable task still confronts the United States.

It demonstrated that we still have far to go if we are to convince our sister nations, particularly in Central and South America, that they can place complete confidence in us, that we do not covet anything they possess, that we have no imperialistic aims.

Despite the Lima declaration, which is to the general effect that the nations of the Americas will form a common front of resistance against aggression from the outside, discussions during the conference were positive evidence that some of the Latin nations are suspicious of us. Most of them have been in closer touch with European nations for generations than with the United States. The result is that they measure us by the standard of European nations which seem always on the grab. We have added further to the difficulties of our position by never having made strenuous effort to contradict the unfavorable propaganda which has been aimed at us in South America by European powers and Japan.

Perhaps one approach to a better understanding with South America would be emphasizing to them that selfish motives have much to do without our desire for unity in the Americas. When they are in danger, we are in danger also. If an invader should establish a foothold on any American shore, he also will establish a base for attack upon us.

Of course we are for the Americas because they are Americans. It is correct to say that we still would be for them even if we had far more to lose than to gain because of our position. But that is not the whole reason. We are for them because, in so being, we are looking out for ourselves at the same time.

Yesterday: News of Dwight's quarrel with Marvel stirs old flames in Judy; she wonders if she still loves Dwight. Jack senses this and asks her, but she denies it, knowing she is lying.

CHAPTER XXIV

When Judy Alcott left the Naval Hospital, her heart was a heavy, lifeless lump inside her. She felt stiff, old. Weary as she had never felt before. Her fingers touched her lips with a sort of loathing, with a stunned disbelief that they could have been the medium through which she had lied to Jack Hanley. Lied again. How many times had she lied to him? She had lost count.

She felt his hurt, she felt the sickening, senseless blow she had given him, but she was powerless to stop herself. Something urgent egged her on. Something compelling and indescribable. Something compounded of the songs she had danced to with Dwight Campbell, the sound of their laughter blending. Something that was part of the kisses he had given her and part of that night on the Texarkana when he told her he was marrying Marvel. Everything she had lived through—everything they had lived through together—was separate and alive in her memory. The memories made a little chain, like a bracelet of thorns. There was his voice, asking her to help Marvel get along. And Marvel's voice saying, "You love him." There was the time both of them stood before her and said, "Will you be the maid of honor?" And the wedding—and the party in the theatrical, overdone house. And Marvel's voice whipping at her in the room on the ship.

Why couldn't she be done with it? Why couldn't she cast him out of her heart? Jack was the most wonderful man a girl could have. Fine and true and honest. Jack, who showed her his whole heart, who wanted nothing but her happiness. Jack, oh whom she had depended for so long, and who would never fail her, no matter what it cost him.

But she knew, anguishedly, that it wasn't enough. Knowing his worth wasn't enough. There had to be that other, mysterious alchemy, that pull that drew you to him, that made your blood water in your veins, and your will soft and useless at the sound of his voice. There had to be emptiness when he wasn't near you and singing happiness when he was close. Not just satisfaction. Not just contentment. Nothing that she had with Jack was enough. The flaming promise of what might have been here leaped to life every time she heard Dwight's name.

She had parked the car a couple of blocks away from the hospital. She could not see to drive any more. Her hands shook on the wheel. She'd have to calm herself. She lit a cigaret. It was no good.

People passed. Faceless, anonymous people. Were they all happy? Or did everyone have his secret grief? She thought, suddenly seeing everything clearly, that it wasn't the grief that counted. She had had hers—Ward's death, long ago. Other things. It wasn't the grief. It was having, if only for a little while, the glittering mirage, the promised miracle. Feeling it, close in your hand. Touching it. Sensing it. Letting it flame through you, coming alive under its spell. If you lost it afterward—if it broke your heart and ruined your world—it was still worthwhile. Still the most beautiful thing had had it. Nights in the little bungalow, in Bill's arms. Her mother had had it. She was lucky. It had changed imperceptibly to the solid affection, the staid warmth of growing old. Even Marvel had had it. Marvel who had married Dwight because she wanted to. Marvel, who had left when she grew tired.

"Judy!" She jerked her head up, scarcely believing she had really heard her name. "Judy!"

For a moment, she felt numb. And then, seeing him open the door, seeing his lean, tanned face, and the curly hair under his cap, she said, "Dwight!"

He sat down beside her. The door closed. She heard it close. This must be real. It must be happening. But she didn't believe it yet.

"I was walking—not going anywhere — just walking—" he said. "When I saw your car, I thought at first I was dreaming."

"I'm dreaming," said Judy. "You're not really here."

He looked at her. His eyes were deep wells of pain. "I'm here, all right," he said with a little mirthless laugh. "There's no place else to go. I couldn't stand the house. It's her house, anyway."

She folded her hands together. She mustn't tremble so. "Would it help you to tell me what happened, Dwight?"

"You've heard. Everybody's talking. God, is there ar place more vicious about gossip than the Navy? Everybody watches everyone else. You can't have a free, private moment. You can't have a private thought!"

"It must be that way everywhere," she said, remembering how few private thoughts she had been allowed to possess.

"We got in from Bremerton a couple of days ago," he said. "Surely you must have heard by now."

"No," she said. "Tell me. If you want to."

His big, brown hands touched the dashboard, then curled around the door handle. "Nothing much. Right from the beginning we couldn't—couldn't jibe. She wanted to spend a few thousand dollars on a honeymoon and I didn't have it." He roused himself with a effort. "Oh, why talk about it. More important things. I—I heard about Bill Bell. That was a raw thing. He was a nice guy. I—I always liked him. Liked his wife. What about her?"

"She's gone to her folks," said Judy.

"The papers said Bell came down to help Hanley. Said if he hadn't sacrificed himself for his shipmate — What was that, the usual soap?"

"No," it was true. Bill was a—a hero."

Dwight said moodily, "Hero stuff is usually hooey. Why should a man throw his life away?" Then he said, "But I guess he believed it. Bell was an idealistic guy. Rotten shame!"

"You don't like Jack Hanley much, do you?"

He looked at her very directly. He said. "I'm not a flyer. I don't know. Was the spin his fault—lose control? Or just the human element."

"It was engine failure."

"I'm probably not being fair," he said. "I've had such a load of private hell, I didn't think much about it. Always have been suspicious of grand-stand gestures, that's all. But I'll give it to Bell—if it was ever real, it was real with him."

"You're very cynical."

"Why wouldn't I be?" He was suddenly bitterly angry. "Even love—love, the most tooted commodity in the books!"

"You love her very much, don't you?"

He didn't answer that directly. "She's spoiled. She doesn't realize . . . Sometimes she's like a little kid, greedy, eager to taste everything. She's always had so much. I guess the Navy was no fun for her. She didn't want to drive up to Bremerton. The other wives bored her. She—she was used to a different life. And Tennant's yacht is the sort of thing—"

"That isn't so awful," said Judy, trying to be fair. "I should think you'd be able to understand that."

"But he's a snake!" said Dwight violently. "He's the kind who thinks a kiss—even if it's another man's wife—"

Harried Car Owner Finds Machine And Tank Well Filled

Although two cars really were stolen at all, the owners and Lubbock police had reason to worry—for awhile.

Sharing in the mystification relating to one of them was Jack Williamson, 2401 Avenue L, whose automobile disappeared sometime during the early hours of Sunday morning from a downtown parking place while he was at work. Shortly before noon Sunday he found the car in his garage, undamaged and the tank filled with gasoline. He presumes that some friend borrowed it without consulting him.

The other theft report provided ramifications which were none too happy for at least two individuals. A Wichita Falls resident, here for the holidays, was arrested for drunkenness as he staggered along a street, but was released several hours later when he had sobered upon posting $15 bond. Then he couldn't find his automobile, which he had parked on a downtown street.

Later, county officers arrested another man who was reported "drunk and down" in a car parked in such manner as to be a hazard to traffic. It developed, police said, that the two men were friends, had been on a party together and that the second to be arrested was trying to take it back to its parking place when he stopped and "passed out."

The owner subsequently found his car at the police station.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

SIDESTEP: The imminent failure of the Lima conference to achieve any worthwhile advance toward American solidarity is attributed by diplomatic insiders to the amazing restraint of the Roosevelt-Hull policy toward dictator nations in recent months. It highlights an up-the-hill-down-the-hill march for which everybody has a different explanation.

For more than a year, beginning with his "quarantine" warning at Chicago, the President and Mr. Hull have advertised their irritation toward Germany, Italy and Japan. It reached a sharp crescendo in F. D. R.'s denunciation of Hitler's persecution of the Jews. In line with this verbal assault, it was expected that our Lima delegation would attempt to consolidate sentiment against totalitarian aggression abroad and oppression at home. But we voted against the Cubans' resolutions assailing these "medieval" practices.

Despite high-sounding resolutions against "all outside aggression"—not simply European—and pious declarations for free trade barriers, the U. S. gained no victories and won no prestige among the Latins. Our diplomatic sidestepping may furnish an open field for fascist-nazi penetration among nations resentful at our unwillingness to organize a continental crusade against totalitarian tyranny.

REVISION: Nobody blames Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Hull for this apparent backdown. Their hostility toward the dictators' philosophy is too well recognized here—from what they say privately as well as publicly—for anybody in the know to believe that they relish their new role. They are simply facing hard facts.

From his conversations with returning diplomats, the President has been converted to the Chamberlain-Daladier policy of "appeasement". He has been told that Hitler and Mussolini, now that they have won so many initial triumphs, are in a mood to fight, if necessary. He has also been informed that Great Britain and France are in no shape to resist alone, and that Russia will go to war only in the event of actual invasion. Without American aid—and this deeply impressed him—Europe's democratic states would be defeated in a battlefield showdown if war comes within the next two years.

The President seeks to avoid another general conflict—and wants to keep the United States out of it at all costs. It is for these compelling reasons that his previous policy of aggravation has been supplanted by an attempt at appeasement, punctuated now and then by Ickesian reminders that we really haven't changed our minds about Mr. Hitler's goings-on.

TECHNIQUE: Preliminary conferences with Capitol Hill leaders, especially Vice President Garner, have privately produced a change in the President's attitude toward the Congress. His recent visitors congratulate themselves that he may have read the black handwriting on the political wall.

For one thing, Mr. Roosevelt does not intend to shove any hard-and-fast or "must" program down Congressional throats. He intends to recommend rather than command. Secondly, his proposals will be the product of commissions of experts who have been studying such questions as railroads, social security, government reorganization, etc. It is quite different from the days when "Tommie" and "Bennie" wrote a law, the White House forward-passed it to Congress and expected a swift touchdown on each play.

The new technique represents a more conservative brand of football—and politics. Mr. Roosevelt will let Congress take the lead—the offensive—and give the signals. Then, if the legislators fumble the ball, the crowd will yell that they ought to be benched—not the President. Or they may demand that F. D. R. do his own quarterbacking.

GRATITUDE: Daniel Calhoun Roper fashioned his farewell to politics and built his political epitaph out of his favorite construction material—sugar and taffy. To the last minute he played out his ancient role as the Polonius of American public life.

When the retiring Secretary of Commerce was asked the identity of his successor, he replied solemnly: "I am a great believer in Americans." Then, in keeping with his reputation as the administration's Pollyanna, he handed out a 4-page prediction on future business. It dripped with his honeyed phrases, such as "coordination," "dynamic action," "abiding faith and confidence," "improved understanding" and "interdependent responsibilities of all economic and social groups." A biblical parable and a paraphrase of a quotation from Lincoln—typical of Mr. Roper in that they sounded swell but said nothing—wound up the genial North Carolinian's valedictory.

When asked if he thought that now Secretary Hull would swallow the commercial attaches abroad, thus ending an old feud between the two men, Mr. Roper told the story of Lot's wife, who was turned into a pillar of salt because she looked back. Uncle Dan, though 72 years old, still looks forward to bigger and better things. Now, after drawing a government check for 48 years, he quits "with gratitude to all and malice toward none". Under those circumstances, somebody suggested, who wouldn't!

WARNING: A quiet movement among F. D. R.'s advisors to make a friendly gesture toward European refugees—the problem is becoming politically acute because of the delay—has apparently foundered on the rocks of Congressional opposition to letting down the immigration bars.

The scheme contemplated admission of several thousands of Jewish children from Germany and Catholic youngsters from Spain. It would not solve the problem of suffering boys and girls, but it would have appeased vast groups of humanitarians who believe the United States should offer refuge to the oppressed. It would also have established a precedent for more to come across later.

But when the proposal was broached to several influential members of Congress, they advised against the move. The pulse-fingerers on Capitol Hill have found scant sentiment for opening the doors to foreigners in view of the 10,000,000 unemployed and the task of caring for our own needy. In fact, the warning has been around that the next Congress may strengthen rather than weaken the immigration laws. Like it or not, the next Congress will probably subscribe to the selfish but understandable doctrine that "Charity begins at home."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

REWARD: One leading corporation that should certainly feel in a Merry Christmas mood is Bethlehem Steel. Its customers have been generous with their orders in recent months. This company has been getting the cream of the new steel business deriving from the upturn in the motor and building industries. It is also drawing quite a few railroad purchases. The carriers haven't much dough, but they have reached the point where they simply have to replace some rails and cars.

The preference shown by large corporate buyers in placing their orders with Bethlehem Steel is no accident. A number of them used to be regular customers of U. S. Steel. Their switch to Bethlehem amounts to a tacit reward to Eugene Grace for his firm stand against recognition of the C.I.O., although naturally no industrialist will admit this for publication. Tom Girdler's Republic Steel also shares in this behind-the-scenes favoritism, but not to as great an extent. Republic is more limited as to capacity and the types of products it turns out.

Bethlehem's anti-C.I.O. attitude doesn't appear to bother the U. S. Navy Department, which has recently awarded that company two substantial contracts.

Side Glances---By George Clark

"I see those lazy, good-for-nothing boys of Mrs. Bilk are visiting her again."

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Dec. 26. (AP) — Decision of the Railroad commission to continue for three months the Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of Texas oil fields is interpreted at the capital as indication there will be no radical change in oil conservation policies after January 1.

On that date G. A. Jerry Sadler will succeed C. V. Terrell as a member of the commission, and there has been much speculation whether the course of that body concerning oil regulation in recent years, usually set by Terrell and Ernest O. Thompson, would be altered.

For a year the weekly shutdown orders have been considered and issued by the commission each month. To promulgate an order for three months, therefore, was a sharp departure from precedent. In view of the fact the commission membership was about to change, issuance of a long-time order was even more significant.

The commission could rescind the order but is not expected to do so. Commissioner Smith signed it and at the same time stated that if conditions in the industry changed to justify it he would favor removing the curb on Saturdays.

An opinion heard frequently was the commission's action indicated Chairman Thompson would continue to dominate oil conservation policies in the future as he has in the past.

Credit for the "build up" for the order, the summoning of industry leaders from New York and other centers to the statewide proration hearing where they advocated continuing the shutdowns, generally was given to Thompson.

Reaction to statements of Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel in Detroit regarding labor conditions in Texas was not altogether favorable in Austin.

O'Daniel was quoted as saying that all Texas labor wanted was a job, a chance to work.

Some labor circles thought this was putting it a little too strongly, that Texas labor wanted jobs, but it also wanted jobs under fair conditions, for example, at reasonable wages.

O'Daniel also said Texas was free of labor troubles, that it had no sit-down strikes, no "stream-lined labor."

IN general this has been true, labor sources agree, attributing the cause largely to the fact Texas is not an industrialized state. If the state became industrialized the condition probably would change.

Two years ago when sit-down strikes were popping all over the North and East concern plainly was felt by Gov. James V. Allred and many members of the legislature.

Governor Allred issued a statement declaring sit-down strikes would not be tolerated in Texas while bills intended to outlaw them were introduced in the legislature.

One of the chief inducements to draw industry to Texas, some capitol observers say, would be the reduction in taxes on industry.

In fact, industrial development might be stimulated, it was said, if assurance could be given that existing taxes would not be increased.

Texas has a tax structure more favorable to industry than some states. For example, it has neither a corporation nor a personal income tax and its franchise tax is very low.

This column recently distributed a remark by Rep. Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill that on a trip through the Lower Rio Grande Valley he found little favorable comment on Governor-Elect O'Daniel's first advisory cabinet. Hardin had been in the Valley on a hunting trip.

"He must have gathered his information, while he was lost in the brush," M. C. Chandler writes from Edinburg. "Quite to the contrary; the man on the street down here is very favorably inclined to the idea of the advisory committee. Have not heard any criticism but must confess have not consulted any politicians.

"While holding no brief for O'Daniel, must conclude that Ross Hardin is generally speaking, generally speaking."

IN Dallas Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, four times an unsuccessful candidate for governor, said O'Daniel's advisory committee might "prove to be a good thing."

Hunter has advocated a constitutional amendment authorizing the governor to set up an advisory group.

"There are some pretty good brains on the committee," Hunter said. "However, no one knows how the legislature will take their recommendations. They may look upon the committee as a fourth house and refuse to follow it."

Lemens Good Hunter

Nearly all Texas' 31 senators like to hunt deer and a number got their legal "take" of venison this season.

Senator Vernon Lemens of Waxahachie, according to reports reaching Bob Barker, senate secretary, obtained one of the largest heads, an 11-pointer. He killed the deer in the Kerrville country.

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY. No. 20 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

To Tarzan, treachery was the blackest of crimes. And in the instant that he clutched the throat of the deceitful Magra, he was beast rather than man; he was Tarzan, King of the Apes, punishing a transgressor of the tribal code, with no regard for her sex.

In another moment he would have throttled her. But Tarzan was man as well as beast, a man of the finest human heritage. In his veins flowed the blood of chivalric knights of old England, knights who had made a mystic fetish of respect for womanhood.

Suddenly he dropped his hands. Without a word he turned and stalked away. Magra's eyes followed him. In her heart was born a new fear, a new respect for this masterful man. The elemental instinct he had revealed only increased his fascination for her.

Gregory sighed sadly as he spoke to Tarzan. "What shall we do? Can we possibly reach Bonga in time to rescue Helen from that devilish Thome?" The ape-man shook his head. "Thome will reach Bonga today. But from here it is six days' rapid march."

Allreds Have New Automobile, Given Them By Austin Friends

AUSTIN, Dec. 26. (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. James V. Allred today were proud possessors of a new $1,250 automobile.

The car was a combined Christmas and "going-away" present from Austin friends, including some present and former state officials who were closely associated with him. These friends paid the difference between a smaller 1936 car owned by the Allreds and the new machine.

Governor Allred will leave Austin Jan. 17 to become a federal judge for the South Texas district. He will reside at Houston.

Bertha Marie Sybert, who is harried by a spirit or something, sits in the chair that witnesses say moved backward with her when she refused to go to bed. Her family claims she has slept little since bed bouncing began Nov. 16.

FDR Makes Plea For Good Will

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (U.P.) — The nation had before it today the plea of President Roosevelt that class problems be settled in an atmosphere of good will.

The president's appeal was read by Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins last night in a radio forum which aimed to combat forces creating class warfare in the United States.

The president said that the first Christmas message, as announced to the shepherds of Bethlehem, was that "the glad tydings are for all of the people."

"No one was overlooked or forgotten," he said, "when the multitude sang — Glory to God in the Highest and On Earth Peace, Good Will to Men. The joy and happiness of Christmas time extends to all nations and to all the people. The spirit of Christmas is the hope of mankind."

"America's Expression"
The newly appointed secretary of commerce interpreted the president's message as "America's expression of a will to peace and well-being of all our people."

Hopkins added that "It sometimes appears that the whole world is seeking to destroy itself in bitterness and hate" but that such was not the case because the American family is determined to find a good way of living by working hard, by being inherently honest and by a wholesome joy of living.

Other speakers of the forum, sponsored by the United States News, included Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, Speaker William B. Bankhead, Sen. Robert A. Taft, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, Vice President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation, President Charles R. Hook of the National Association of Manufacturers, President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton university, and David Lawrence, editor of the United States News.

Cooperation Urged
The speakers generally urged cooperation to remove causes of friction and dissension.

Justice Reed warned that "only in lowering our ideals can there be disaster" to the American nation and he asked the public to embrace mutual tolerance to promote progress and reduce friction.

Bankhead urged greater attention to religion, claiming that application of the Golden Rule would aid solution of problems facing the nation.

Taft said that rival political groups could adhere to "sound principle" without stirring class hatred. He said views of all factions should be considered on the assumption they were honest.

Green said peace and security might be promoted only through collective bargaining and he reaffirmed the AFL stand in favor of "fair profits for private initiative."

Tragedy Strikes At Floydada

FLOYDADA, Dec. 26 (Special)—Deaths marred the Christmas observance of several Floydada families.

Funeral services for Sam Beard, 48, resident of Floydada many years who was killed in an automobile crash Saturday, were conducted at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. W. P. Jennings of the First Christian church of Plainview officiating. Harmon Funeral home directed burial in Floydada cemetery.

Mr. Beard was driving alone toward Ralls when his car struck a culvert and toppled into the water in White river about six miles southwest of here.

Last rites for Mrs. J. T. Hinkson, 71, resident of this vicinity approximately 30 years, were conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Vernon Shaw, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Hinkson's death was attributed to internal hemorrhage. Burial was in Floydada cemetery.

She is survived by one son, Robert L. Hinkson of Corpus Christi, and one daughter, Mrs. S. H. Phillips of Floydada.

Boy Is Death Victim

Four-year-old Jimmy Wayne Colthorp, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Colthorp of Pampa and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goin of Floydada, died at 3 o'clock Sunday morning in a hospital in Pampa. His parents formerly lived in Floydada. Colthorp teaches near Pampa.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, with Rev. Mr. Shaw and Rev. B. P. Harris of Silverton officiating. Pallbearers were J. G. Martin, Claude Martin, Robert Medlin and Joe McBrian.

The child died of streptococcic throat infection.

Harmon Funeral home had charge of the three funerals.

Oldest Mother Here Is Victim Of Death

A brief service was read Monday afternoon at Sanders chapel for "Lubbock's oldest mother," Mrs. Matilda Popejoy, 92, who died early that morning at the home of a son, John R. Popejoy of 2313 Ninth street.

Rev. Boyd P. Milburn, pastor of the College Avenue Baptist church, officiated. Mrs. Popejoy was a member of the College Avenue church.

The body was taken by train Monday night to Itasca, where services and burial will be conducted today.

On Mother's day in 1937, Mrs. Popejoy was honored by Lubbock business firms and individuals after she had been found to be the city's oldest mother. An automobile was placed at her disposal, gifts sent to her home, and homage otherwise paid to her. On Mother's day this year, she still presumably was the city's oldest mother.

Came Early To Texas

Mrs. Popejoy came to Texas the year after the end of the Civil war, in an ox wagon. She had been born in east Tennessee, near Rutledge, on Jan. 24, 1846. She was married in 1866. Her husband died near Itasca in 1909. She had lived in Lubbock nearly 10 years.

Mrs. Popejoy had suffered little sickness in her life. She had been confined to bed the last two weeks with kidney complications, and had been unconscious 10 days. She did not regain consciousness before her death.

She is survived by one daughter, Miss Martha Popejoy of Lubbock, and two sons, M. T. Popejoy of Snyder and the son at whose home she died. She had 17 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

They Ask For It, Apparently: Self-Imposed Prisoners Are In Marshall's Hoosegow

MARSHALL, Dec. 26. (U.P.)—Two Christmas celebrants slept it off today in jail, voluntary inmates of the institution.

The police blotter notation on one of them said: "A drunk drove up to the police headquarters at 3:15 a. m. and demanded curb service. He got it."

Sheriff J. H. Wilson made the other arrest. "There's a drunk at the service station," a telephone caller told him. Wilson picked up the man, then asked who had placed the call. The station attendant pointed at the drunk and answered: "He did."

SHERIFF IS INJURED

Thrilling Sea Rescue Told; Twenty Persons Are Saved

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (U.P.)—Another saga of the sea went into the records today with the detailed narrative of the rescue of 18 men and two women from the sinking Norgian steamer Smaragd 600 miles southeast of New York last night. The U. S. Maritime commission lighter Schodack effected the rescue and arrived here last night with Capt. Bernard Larsen, his wife, Margit, their 18-year-old daughter Svenhilde, and 17 crewsmen of the Smaragd.

Larsen called the rescue a "miracle." He said that when he left the ship she was nearly full of water, could not have kept afloat another hour, "and that would have been the end for all of us."

Capt. Clinton Smith of the Schodack added weight to Larsen's "miracle" theory.

Vivid Story Related

The second officer of the Smaragd, Ingwald Tindelund, said the ship started leaking Dec. 15 after she sailed from Norfolk for Kinghaven, Scotland.

"The leaks increased until last Monday night, when the wooden bulkheads in the hold gave way and began to float," he said. "The water came in so fast that our pumps could not handle it, and soon our starboard rail was under water. At 4 a. m. Friday our dynamo failed and the pumps stopped and all our lights went out."

Tindelund started the flares which caught the Schodack's attention late Thursday. An expert signalman, he used an electric torch to flash an SOS to the Schodack after it came in view.

"We are leaking badly. Our engines are broken down. We need assistance," was the message Tindlund laboriously got across the raging sea.

"We had two lifeboats lashed down on deck, which were licensed to carry 10 persons each," Captain Larsen recounted. "One was smashed to pieces six hours before we were sighted.

Carols Sung By Women

"By daylight Friday the sea had gone down a little, as it was coated with the fuel oil poured from the Schodack. We launched one remaining boat, into which seven of my crew jumped as the craft rose and fell alongside.

"My wife and daughter did not go, as I did not consider the small boat safe to carry more than seven persons in such a sea. They waited for me and the remaining 10 men of the crew for the larger boat coming from the Schodack."

It was a night of imminent death aboard the Smaragd. Water rising in the hold drove the crew from their quarters. All aboard gathered in the captain's cabin.

To sustain the morale, the captain's daughter sang Norwegian
