Nixon Signs Arm Curb Pact In Historic Chamber

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a congressional resolution approving the interim U.S.-Soviet agreement to curb offensive arsenals and said the pact is a step toward "reducing the danger of war."

In the history-laden White House Treaty Room, Nixon affixed his signature to the legislation passed after protracted Senate debate and hailed the event as "a beginning of a process of enormous importance."

"This is not a treaty which ends a war," Nixon said. "This is not an agreement guaranteeing that there will be no war."

But, he said, the agreement is intended to limit the burden of arms and thereby reduce the danger of war.

The President was flanked by a score of congressional leaders, including the two major participants in the Senate debate—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Also present were Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and his Republican counterpart, Hugh Scott, the chairmen of House and Senate committees which handled the legislation, as well as Secretary of State William P. Rogers and presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

Referring to the congressional debate and eventual approval of the agreement, Nixon said the agreement had wide bipartisan support and that "We consider this a cooperative venture."

Because of the historic significance of the event, Nixon said he had selected the Treaty Room for the signing. The small, green-walled chamber served as the Cabinet Room for Abraham Lincoln and it was there that the treaty ending the Spanish-American war was signed 75 years ago.

The interim agreement drafted by Nixon and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev covers offensive weapons and gives the Soviet Union a numerical advantage in land-based and submarine-launched missiles.

It was this numerical edge which led Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., to press for an amendment—finally adopted after a month of debate—stipulating that there should be equality in the number of weapons in any future treaty on strategic arms.

The Jackson amendment, which was endorsed by the Nixon administration although White House officials took exception to some interpretations of its language, urges the President to seek an arms treaty which "would not limit the United States to levels of intercontinental strategic forces inferior to the limits provided for the Soviet Union."

The Senate adopted the resolution with the Jackson amendment Sept. 14, and the House then accepted the Senate version.

The original House version merely endorsed and approved the interim agreement without reference to the future talks.

Negotiations for the permanent treaty—the so-called SALT 2 talks—could begin this fall. The talks leading to the interim agreement stretched over several years and, referring to SALT 2, Nixon said last week "those negotiations will not be easy."

The SDN Column

The first of a series of local elections comes up next Saturday and some voters may be confused by a couple of items on the ballot. The first two issues on the school bond election ballot have absolutely nothing to do with the $2.9 million bond proposal. They were put there upon advice of bond attorneys because Snyder Independent School District annexed a small piece of land in 1965 but neglected to officially bring it into its maintenance tax and bond assumption jurisdiction.

What actually happened back there in 1965 was a swap of some land between the Ira and Snyder School Districts. A small piece of land in the Snyder district went to Ira in exchange for enough to extend the Snyder Independent School District to the Scurry-Howard County line. This transaction was made so that it would be possible for the Snyder Independent School District to join the Howard County Junior College District if it so desired. At that time, it appeared that annexation to the Howard County District offered the best opportunity for a junior college facility here.

Of course the college annexation never took place and subsequently Scurry County was permitted to establish its own two-year college.

Nevertheless, the small area, actually less than a section of land, which was annexed to the Snyder School District at that time, still must be brought into the fold for the purpose of maintenance tax assessments and it must assume its portion of the district's bonded indebtedness. This requirement exists, regardless of what happens to the $2.9 million bond issue and consequently the first two issues on the ballot next Saturday should get 100 per cent approval.

★ ★ ★

As for the $2.9 million bond issue, such items always are controversial to a certain extent. Consequently, there often is a tendency to ignore the only valid yardsticks which should be applied to such issues: The benefits, or lack of same, that the children will receive.

Therefore, if the proposal is educationally sound and therefore may be expected to give children here a better education, it should be approved. There really should not be any other criterion applied here.

However, the air conditioning proposal also involves a health and environment factor which was pointed out many months ago by members of the medical profession. But there again, the benefits to the children should be of paramount concern as voters make their decision.

★ ★ ★

Aside from these observations, there is one other aspect which could be important. This may be the last time that such an election is held here. It is a foregone conclusion that the financial base for public schools is going to be changed. The federal courts already have decreed this. Only time, the legislature (and possibly the courts) can tell what the new system will be. But there appears to be a chance that patrons of a school district will not have authority to initiate plans and then make their own decisions on such projects when the new system becomes effective. And this will be one of the first items on the agenda of the 63rd Legislature when it meets in January.—WACIL McNAIR.

US Jets Attack Airfields

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes unleashed a coordinated series of raids against military airfields in North Vietnam and destroyed or damaged nine MIG fighters on the ground, the U.S. Command reported today.

Five of the Soviet-built aircraft were wiped out and four damaged as the Air Force F4 Phantoms swept in on the airfields at Phuc Yen and Yen Bai, 10 and 80 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The blows were among the heaviest struck at North Vietnam's air force since the stepped up American bombing of the North was resumed, and came as Hanoi's general offensive in South Vietnam reached the six-month mark.

Except for scattered ground fighting reported by the Saigon military command in the northern region and along the central coast, overall battlefield activity remained at a level far below that which had existed through most of the six-month period.

Buttressed by the addition of the Air Force's FIII supersonic fighter-bombers, the American attack planes hit four airfields and a variety of other targets, including transportation lines and military supply and storage facilities in the raids Friday, the Command said.

At Phuc Yen they destroyed two MIG21s, the most modern in Hanoi's air force, and a MIG19 and damaged two other MIG21s while other pilots destroyed two of the older MIG17s at Yen Bai. Three support buildings also were destroyed at Yen Bai, reports said.

Since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30, the United States has claimed destroying 62 MIGs while losing 20 aircraft to the enemy planes.

Mission Delay Is Possible

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A possible 30-day delay in the start of the Apollo 17 mission scheduled for early December has been disclosed by NASA Administrator Dr. James C. Fletcher.

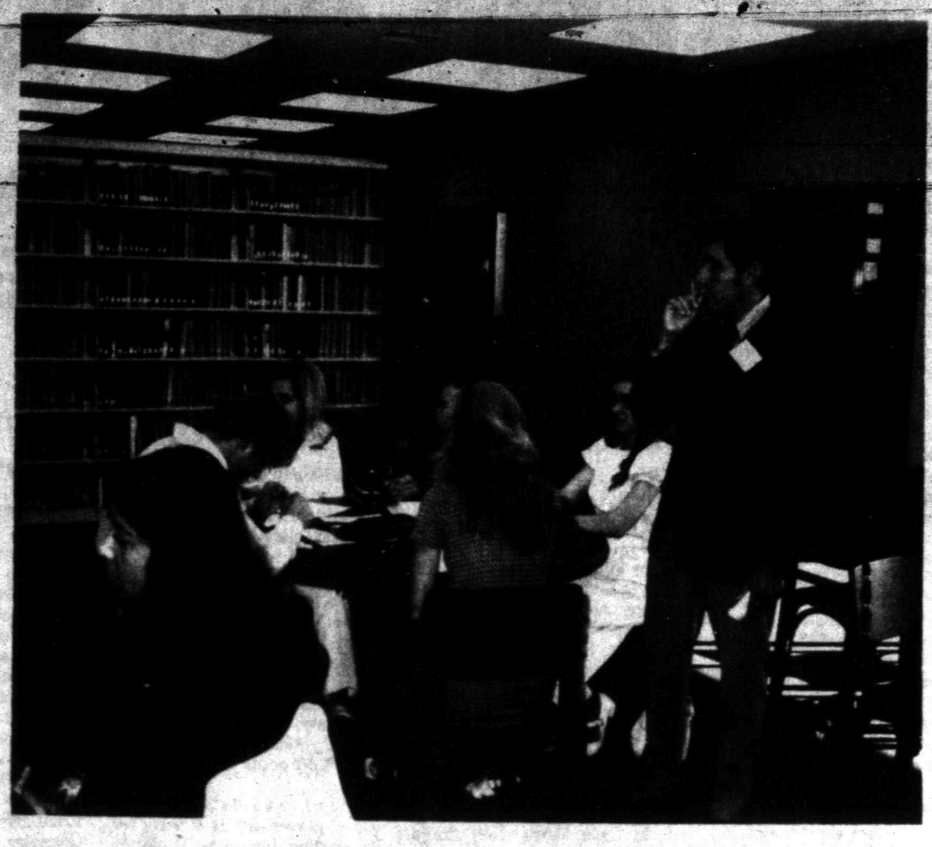

Fletcher said Friday that technicians should learn today whether a diaphragm in a control system of the Saturn rocket "stack" can be repaired or replaced quickly.

If it is, the launch of Apollo 17 probably will proceed as scheduled Dec. 6 or 7, Fletcher said. Otherwise, he said, the launch will have to be delayed about 30 days.

Snyder Area Gets Taste Of Autumn

The Snyder area got a taste of autumn weather Friday night and Saturday as a cold front with a touch of zip in it moved through from the north.

Brisk winds prevailed Friday evening, sending the thermometer to a reading of 44 degrees, lowest of the season. North breezes continued on the nippy side Saturday morning and forecasts indicated that temperatures would be back down in the forties again Saturday night before a warm-up started on Sunday.

100,000 Protestants Parade In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Thousands of Protestants, many garbed in combat tunics and black berets, brought downtown Belfast to a standstill today as they paraded to Northern Ireland's government seat at Stormont Castle to protest the province's deteriorating security situation.

Parade organizers claimed 100,000 Protestants joined the four-mile march, led in bright sunshine by 50 bands and closely protected by a strong force of British troops.

There was a carnival atmosphere in contrast to the bloodshed Friday in which five persons died and at least 25 were wounded in guerrilla shootings and bombings.

A cordon of troops guarded the Roman Catholic Unity Flats on the Protestants' route from their Shankill Road heartland to Stormont. But no incidents were reported.

The march, organized by the Vanguard Movement, also marked six months of British direct rule of the province, imposed when London suspended the Protestant-based Unionist government.

Speakers at a rally at the castle included a former Northern Irish prime minister, Lord Brookeborough, and the right-wing Vanguard Movement leader, William Craig.

Two Protestant leaders, former provincial prime minister Brian Faulkner and Democratic Unionist party leader the Rev. Ian Paisley, said they would not attend.

They believe the Vanguard planned to call for a unilateral declaration of independence for Northern Ireland while they want Ulster to remain part of Britain.

The dead were a sniper, a British soldier, a 19-year-old girl troops said was aiming a pistol at them, a milkman and another victim found shot in the head, apparently by rival Catholic and Protestant murder squads.

The weekend violence began with a terrorist raid on a lonely farmhouse at Ballynure Friday. A milk deliveryman was shot and died in a hospital.

Marcos Slashes Electric Rates

By GIL SANTOS
Associated Press Writer

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos slashed electric power rates and increased base pay for officers and the living allowance for enlisted men in the armed forces, Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad reported today.

The moves, along with six more arrests, came as the Philippines went into its second week of martial law.

The cut in power rates is expected to draw favorable reaction from the approximately 10 million people in the greater Manila area and neighboring provinces who protested against the 36.5 per cent rate increase recently granted the Manila Electric Co. — Meralco.

Meralco was one of the public utility firms taken over by the military when martial law was imposed last week. Its management is headed by the family of Vice President Fernando Lopez.

Marcos ordered Meralco to submit within 24 hours a revised rate schedule for his approval, Tatad added.

In a move to improve the economic status of the armed forces, his main support in implementing martial law, Marcos increased the living allowances of men from private up to master sergeant rank, Tatad said.

Marcos also gave an across the board increase in the base pay of military officers.

In earlier developments, Marcos promoted five colonels to brigadier general rank, Tatad reported.

Six men, including the head of young Chinese Communist students, sugar traders and the former supremo of the Marxist-Leninist Huk organization, were arrested by the military, Tatad said.

They were arrested as martial law went into the second week since President Ferdinand E. Marcos proclaimed it.

Seized were:

—Luis Taruc, captured in central Luzon during the tenure of the late President Ramon Magsaysay in the 1950's and convicted of rebellion. After serving a prison term he became a columnist for a daily newspaper.

—Go Eng Tuan, alias Ben Go, leader of a Communist organization responsible for recruiting young Chinese students in the country to wage a propaganda campaign in Chinese schools;

—Antonio Roxas Chua, a Chinese who has Filipino citizenship and is believed to be a contributor to the local Kuomintang party treasury.

Four Die In Fiery Crash

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Four men died when a car and a loaded trailer-truck collided Saturday. A fifth person, watching the cleanup, was killed when he was struck by a passing truck.

State patrolmen said the car veered across the center of U.S. 59 and the two vehicles collided head on. The truck plowed into a grove of trees, knocked down two large pine trees and burst into flames.

The men in the car were identified as Glen Jones, Queen City, Tex., 24 miles south of Texarkana, and Glenn Rich of Atlanta, Tex.

The occupants of the truck were not identified immediately. The bodies were badly burned.

Police said Jesse Howeth, 55, of Henderson was watching as the burned truck was pulled out of the woods and was struck and killed by a truck. Howeth's companion, Joe D. Lee of Queen City, was struck and injured.

The accident occurred three miles outside Queen City about 2 a.m.

George Dobson, a Texarkana newsman, reported the car was shattered by the impact and "it looked like somebody stuck a bomb in it."

Firemen from Texarkana fought for three hours to put the fire which spread from the truck to the woods.

Senate Approves Benefit Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 29-24 today to permit men and women to retire at age 60 under Social Security and to permit widows to get benefits at age 55.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., was added to the massive Social Security-Welfare bill.

But it was opposed by the bill's managers and it seemed doubtful it would be retained in the Senate-House conference.

Under present law, men and women can get retirement payments at age 62 but these are actuarially reduced below what they would be entitled to at 65.

The age 60 provision in the Byrd amendment would provide for a further reduction so that the recipient would receive over his remaining lifetime the same total amount he would get if he waited to 65.

Widows under present law can get benefits at age 60 based on their husband's Social Security coverage.

Byrd said many widows now were left without any protection since they were under 60 when their husbands died.

The Senate amendment came during debate over the Social Security—welfare bill. Sources say the Senate may attempt to resolve a three-way split over welfare reform by adopting all three plans—but only temporarily.

The compromise—to experiment with the various ways of providing welfare families a guaranteed annual income rather than choose any method permanently—may have improved the chances for Senate passage of the massive legislation containing Social Security revisions as well as welfare reform.

Sen Russell B. Long, D-La., a central figure in the debate on the measure, said Friday that, contrary to earlier predictions, the measure might still become law this year.

South Yemeni MIGs Downed

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Yemen claimed its forces shot down two South Yemeni fighters today.

A North Yemen army communique said the two MIG 17s were downed in an early morning air raid on the border town of Kutoba, scene of fighting for the past four days.

The communique said 13 civilians and one soldier were killed and three other soldiers wounded in the South Yemeni air attack.

The communique was broadcast by North Yemen radio and reported from the capital, San'a', by the Middle East News Agency.

The statement claimed a school, mosque and hospital in Kutoba were "heavily bombed and strafed" and that several houses were set afire.

The communique also reported a ground battle in progress near Kotuba in which "several South Yemeni tanks and armored cars were destroyed."

The communique termed the hostilities "aggression aimed at plunging the two neighboring countries into a senseless war."

North Yemen has shot down three planes since fighting began, communiques said.

Premier Mohsen Eini said a plane shot down Thursday over Kotuba was piloted by a foreigner, but he did not specify the nationality.

Eini said more than 100 North Yemenis have been killed by South Yemenis in border raids and this prompted the North Yemen army to go into action.

South Yemen also reported Thursday that North Yemeni troops and tanks overran four villages in Dhalei province and killed 25 South Yemeni civilians and one soldier.

The Aden government also denied reports that one of its planes was shot down Thursday.

Its embassy in Beirut said the country's army and air force have not been involved in any attacks on North Yemen.

The South Yemen Peoples Democratic Republic is Marxist and receives military aid from Communist China and the Soviet Union.

North Yemen also gets economic aid from Communist countries but it resumed diplomatic relations with the United States July 1.

Gray Transfers Kunkel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III has censured the head of the bureau's large Washington field office, placed him on probation and transferred him to St. Louis, The Washington Post reported today.

The Post quoted FBI sources as saying the action against Robert Kunkel was intended to punish him for allegedly covering up an incident in which an agent was overpowered during an antiwar demonstration last May.

Gray asked Kunkel to submit a report, which said the agent had not been overpowered and glossed over many controversial details, the Post said.

The newspaper cited the action against Kunkel as the second time this month that Gray took disciplinary action against the special agent in charge of a major field office.

Earlier, Gray demoted, censured and transferred Wesley G. Grapp, the former head of the Los Angeles FBI unit, for privately monitoring office telephone conversations and disobeying orders to relax grooming rules, the Post said.

The newspaper said that, according to FBI sources, Gray is concerned about checking the power of "empire builders" who attained considerable influence under the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Gray inherited his post from Hoover in May. The Post said Gray has departed from Hoover's style and called both Grapp and Kunkel to his office for face-to-face confrontations rather than sending them letters to inform them of his actions.

Kunkel, a 26-year FBI veteran, declined to comment on the Post report. And the newspaper said a spokesman at the FBI national headquarters would only confirm that Kunkel had been transferred to the smaller St. Louis office, where he will be special agent in charge.

Senators Circulating Letter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two prominent Democratic senators are circulating a letter among big party contributors hinting at an election victory by President Nixon and warning against the possibility of a Republican Senate.

The letter is signed by Sens. Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois and cites the danger from "the bitter division in the Democratic party."

"Another four years of Richard Nixon in the White House, if it comes to that, is somewhat predictable and familiar—continuation of the war, further erosion of the Supreme Court, economic policies favoring the favored at the expense of ordinary Americans, neglect of our swelling urban problems, indifference to racial minorities, further deterioration of the environment, and so on through the dreary indexes of national decline," the letter said.

"But," it continued, "Nixon with a Republican Congress would be another and infinitely more dangerous phenomenon. Together, they might work an upheaval that would signal a long era of unchecked reaction."

Judges Elect New Officers

HOUSTON (AP) — The State Bar of Texas Judicial Section wound up its meeting here Friday with the election of officers and the decision to hold its 1973 cconference in Amarillo.

James F. McCarthy of Dallas was elected chairman of the group, Judge James G. Denton of Austin was named vice chairman and Judge Paul W. Nye of Corpus Christi secretary-treasurer.

Judges named to the executive committee included Ross Doughty, Uvalde; R. Temple Driver, Wichita Falls; Edward R. Goff, Angleton; Connally McKay, Tyler; Austin McCloud, Eastland; Wendell A. Odom, Auston; and J.H. Starley, Pecos.

Land Sales Agency Organized

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Promising concerted action to curb six specific abuses in the nation's land sales industry, regulatory officials from 13 states, the federal government and Canada have organized the International Association of Land Sales Officials.

"It's a breakthrough in land sales regulation," James F. Carey, executive director of the Connecticut Real Estate Commission, said on Friday following the two-day meeting.

"I think this can have more effect than the Office of Interstate Land Sales (of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)," added Ryan Johnson, chief investigator for the South Carolina Real Estate Commission.

"Until now, all the individual states have gone their separate ways. Now we can compare notes and work together," he said.

The new organization is designed to help overcome a major obstacle in interstate regulation — lack of uniformity.

Some states, such as Florida, have separate agencies to regulate land sales. Some put land sales under their real estate commission; others under securities commissions; still others under their attorney general.

Some states have no laws governing land sales. Others have laws without teeth. Four states — Florida, California, New York and Hawaii — have laws sufficiently strong to have their land registrations automatically accepted by the federal agency.

The regulators hope to enlist their counterparts in foreign countries to better control the large amounts of American land sold abroad as well as foreign land sold in the United States.

Ex-POWs To Host Chief

The Permian Basin Chapter of the American Ex-Prisoners of War will be host to the organization's national commander, Harold L. Page, at a meeting Oct. 4 in Big Spring.

Page, who lives in Buckley, Wash., will attend a session set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Holiday Inn in Big Spring.

The American Ex-Prisoners of War, Inc., is primarily concerned with the health and welfare of former prisoners of war and men currently being held in Southeast Asia, said Carl A. Carlsson of Big Spring, Permian Basin Chapter Commander.

"We are non-political, extremely interested in an accounting for and release of present POW-MIA personnel in Southeast Asia and will do everything we can to accomplish this purpose," said Carlsson.

He said Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon is sponsoring legislation to grant the Ex-Prisoners of War a federal charter, which the organization feels will be of benefit to all present and past prisoners of war.

Further information on the organization may be obtained from Bob Mitchell, Box 203, Ira, who is a member of the Permian Basin Chapter.

36 Killed In Train Accident

MALMESBURY, South Africa (AP) — Thirty-six persons were killed and 140 injured Friday when a nine-car train derailed near Malmesbury, the Transport Ministry reported.

After leaving the rails, the train plunged into a gorge running beside the track. Officials said rescuers would probably take most of today to clear the wreckage.

Most of the dead and injured were said to be badly mutilated.

In Cape Town, rail officials said they had been told by police not to release any information about the derailment.

The instruction posed the question of sabotage which has been the cause of at least three derailments in South Africa this year.

In March 38 persons were killed and 174 injured when a train was derailed. Police said the track fastenings had been deliberately loosened.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Minor damage resulted from a two-car collision at Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue R at 2:47 p.m. Friday.

Involved were the 1965 Model Chevrolet of Rowland Prichard of Carlsbad N.M. and the 1971 Model Ford of Rolan Purton of Wichita Falls.

AF Enlists Wild Goat

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — The Air Force has enlisted a year-old nubian goat and sent it up to Mt. Nebo in southern Oregon to help forecast weather.

It was admittedly a public relations gimmick to spur enlistments.

But the weather forecasting talents of a herd of wild goats on the mountain have been locally accepted for years. When the goats move up the mountain it means bad weather. When they come down it means rain.

A local radio station uses the goats' movement as a basis for its weather forecasts. It claims the goats are more reliable than the National Weather Service.

The Air Force named the new goat Billy A. Goat, gave it the rank of airman basic and presented it to Roseburg Mayor Bill Evans this week on the Air Force's 25th anniversary.

The addition brings to nine the total number of goats now handling weather forecasts.

Plane Crash Kills Five

READING, Pa. (AP) — A twin-engined plane crashed into the Blue Mountains near here Friday night killing the five persons on board.

State police this morning identified those killed as Robert C. Loomis, about 55, his wife Louise; the Loomis' daughter, Mrs. Laurie Estes; and her two daughters, Missy, 5, and Tina, 3. All were from Rancho Santa Fe, Calif.

Loomis was a former president of Consolidated Aircraft Corp., and a retired Trans World Airlines pilot.

State police said the aircraft had taken off from the Allegheny County Airport in Pittsburgh. Loomis and his family reportedly were en route to Mertztown in Berks County to visit a friend he had flown with during the war.

The plane came down in a densely wooded area.

Man Held On Counterfeiting Charges

EDCOUCH, Tex. (AP) — An Edcouch man remained jailed at Edinburg today following his arrest by Edinburg police and U.S. Secret Service agents on a counterfeiting charge.

The man was being held pending an arraignment before U. S. Magistrate William Mallet. Assistant U.S. Atty. Raul A. Gonzalez of Brownsville said Friday he did not know when the man would be arraigned.

The case first came to the attention of officers, according to Edinburg Police Chief A. C. Gonzalez, when Mexican police arrested a Raymondville man Sept. 22 at Nuevo Progresso, Mexico, when he allegedly attempted to pass a counterfeit $20 bill.

A raid at the home of the Edcouch man Thursday netted officers a plate used in the printing of $20 bills, some duplicating equipment, paper and fragments of bogus bills, Gonzalez said.

Freed POWs To Receive Leaves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three repatriated American pilots who are undergoing medical examinations and military debriefings appear to be well and will be given leaves after they receive a "clean bill of health," a Pentagon official says.

How long that will be depends on their doctors and "on the wishes" of the men, Dr. Roger E. Shields, special assistant for prisoner of war affairs, said Friday. Later, they will be returned to active duty if they desire, Shields said.

The returning prisoners are the first to be treated under the Defense Department's new Operation Egress Recap, a plan for the care and gradual rehabilitation of POWs returning from North Vietnam.

"I feel great," Navy Lt. j.g. Norris Charles told newsmen at Miramar Naval Air Station in San Diego, Calif., where he was taken after arriving in New York Thursday night with the other two officers freed by North Vietnam.

A military doctor reported that Charles, 27, had lost 16 pounds during the 8½ months he was a prisoner in North Vietnam but th he was in good condition and should be out of the hospital in a few days.

A second POW, Navy Lt. Mark Gartley, 28, who was captured four years ago, was in St. Albans Naval Hospital in New York City where chest X-rays taken of him Friday were described as negative.

Gartley's mother, Minnie Lee, who had vigorously protested her son's immediate hospitalization, said Friday "he will leave the hospital soon ... he's very well. We've been with him last night and this morning."

Air Force Maj. Edward K. Elias, who was flown to Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., expected to spend the weekend with his son and wife Georgia, whose gratitude for the return of her husband continued to be tinged with expressions of concern for other POW families. Elias, 34, was captured five months ago.

The homecoming of the POWs released by Hanoi Sept. 17 was practically eclipsed by charges that the Defense Department had recaptured the three airmen. Shields said the men went to military hospitals voluntarily.

Will a man who fools a cat fool a girl, too?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Ted and I have been dating for about three months, and he is perfect for me in every way, except one.

I love cats, and Ted hates them. When he first started coming here, he asked me to please keep Snowball in the other room because he detested cats. [He wasn't allergic to them, he just didn't like cats.]

Snowball is like a member of the family, but to please Ted, I locked her in the other room when he came over.

Well, last Sunday, Ted stopped by unexpectedly, and Snowball was loose. When he saw her, he put out his hand in a friendly gesture, and said, "Here kitty, kitty, kitty." Then he gave out with some very authentic "Meows"! I nearly collapsed.

Snowball went right to him and affectionately nuzzled up to his leg and started purring. Then Ted sat down, and Snowball hopped up into his lap, while he stroked her fur and spoke gently to her.

When it came time for Ted to leave, he couldn't get Snowball off his lap.

I said, "I thought you hated cats?"

He replied, "I can't stand them!"

Now, Abby, if Ted is so good at covering up his true feelings that he can fool a cat, wouldn't you say he could fool a person, too? TED'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: CAT-egorically!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who is in more trouble than anybody you ever heard from. And it's all over something my mom thinks I did, but I really didn't.

Here's what happened: I keep a diary and I have been putting a lot of stuff in it that isn't true because I have this real snoopy girl friend who comes over here and sneaks looks in my diary every chance she gets, so all that stuff is just made up for HER to believe.

Well, Mom got hold of my diary and read it, and all you-know-what broke loose. She told me that if Jeff—he's the kid I go with—ever comes around again she will have him ARRESTED!

Abby, I tried to tell my mother that we didn't do any of those things I wrote about in my diary, but she said that being a liar is as bad as being a tramp, and now she couldn't believe a word I said.

I begged and pleaded, but she wouldn't listen. Please help me! What am I going to do?

GROUNDED UNTIL CHRISTMAS

DEAR GROUNDED: Quit begging and whining—that's babyish. From now on, try to behave in your most mature manner and I'll bet your mom reconsiders and lets you off. [P.S. Shame on your mom for snooping in your diary. Your girl friend is not quite grown up yet . . . but what's your mom's excuse?]

DEAR ABBY: I have been a papergirl for almost two years, and the other day I jokingly remarked about how few tips I got from people on my route. I was told, "Why should you get any tips? All you do is deliver papers"! [She was serious, too.]

So, all I do is deliver papers? If it were only that simple! Being a carrier is more than that.

Delivering newspapers is . . . getting up at 6 a. m. on Sunday morning to do the papers, and finding a foot of new snow . . . mothers asking you to stay with their kids "for a minute"—and coming back an hour later . . . collecting in July and getting a nice sunburn. [No carrier ever tans.] . . . knocking on a door until your knuckles are raw, waiting for 10 minutes, and finding out they don't have any money . . . wearing three of everything in below zero weather, and then getting your nose frostbitten . . . having the newspapers come at 3 p. m. on a hot day when you want to go swimming, and at 1:30 p. m. the next day, when it's raining.

All in all, I've been mauled by dogs, clawed by cats, and attacked by little kids. Depending on the season, I've been pelted with snowballs, rocks and mud. Yes, all I do is deliver papers. Sign me . . . KNOWS WHY

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

More Bilingual Education Urged

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower called today for expansion of the bilingual education program. He said that it "strikes at the very core of poverty and discrimination."

Tower told a luncheon meeting he thought Congress "has realized the tremendous potential of bilingual education and is ready to provide funds for expansion of it."

Male Glee Club Open To Women

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The Cornell University Glee Club, an exclusive domain of male voices for more than a century, has opened its membership to women—if they can sing like men, that is.

The 80-member glee club previously restricted its membership to any male student at the university who met the standards of the group. But club members voted this week to delete the word "male" from their constitution.

"Before, we couldn't even try out a girl—this amendment eliminates discrimination solely on the basis of sex," explained Jonathan M. Kaplan, student manager of the club.

He emphasized, however, that the purposes of the glee club remain unchanged: "The study, practice, performance and promotion of music for male voices."

"Male voices are only those in the tenor and bass range and quality," Kaplan said.

Women students who feel they qualify can audition next semester.

Astrohall To Be Expanded

HOUSTON (AP) — An expansion program to increase the Astrohall convention and exhibit building to 795,000 square feet was announced Saturday.

Two 22,500 square foot areas will be added at the east and west sides of the north entrance of the "Y" shaped structure adjacent to the Astrodome.

The Astrohall, the world's largest one-level convention and exhibit structure, was built as a home for the Houston Livestock Show. During other parts of the year, the Houston Sports Association, operator of the Astrodome, makes use of the building for conventions and exhibits.

One of the new extensions will be used as permanent offices and meeting rooms for the livestock show. The new west extension will add 22,500 square feet for convention and trade show use.

Body Recovered Near Bridge

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The body of Pedro Angel Gutierrez, 24, of Pasadena, Tex., was recovered Saturday from the Rio Grande near the international bridge.

Rescue workers said the victim is believed to have been in the water for about three days.

Justice of the Peace Brigido H. Flores ruled accidental drowning.

Wolf Whistles Bring Law

BEIRUT (AP) — In Egypt, a low wolf whistle can quickly bring the power of law on sidewalk playboys and women chasers.

The Iraqi News Agency quoted a census published in Cairo saying that women chasers are arrested at the rate of 100 a day.

Arrests on charges of woman chasing, by whistling or by uttering indecent phrases, have risen sixfold since 1970, said the agency.

This year, the agency reported, 12,000 sidewalk woman chasers were condemned to prison sentences ranging from one week to two years and fined from $46 to $230, depending on the gravity of the offense.

In ultra-conservative Upper Egyptian governorates woman chasers were often arrested and had their heads shaven clean in public. They were also conscripted or sent to compulsory labor camps.

Female Candidate To Be Heard

MERCEDES, Tex. (AP) — Lower Rio Grande Valley voters have never sent a Republican or a woman to the Texas Legislature, but this year a candidate is attempting to break both those traditions.

Patti Patane, 27, of Mercedes is facing incumbent state Rep. Menton Murray, a man who has served in Austin for about a quarter of a century.

"I am going to stand up and be heard," she said. "He's going to know he's been in a race and if I beat him, he's going to know he has been beaten," said Miss Patane, a former reporter for a Weslaco television station.

She left the station to establish her own film company, making documentary and educational films. Miss Patane cites as a campaign issue Murray's relationship with former House Speaker Gus Mutscher and Murray's post as chairman of the House Investigating Committee named to investigate various matters involving the Texas stock fraud case.

"All the House Investigating Committee has done is criticize the news media for breaking stories about the scandal," she said in an interview.

Miss Patane has been endorsed by the Cameron County Republican Women's Club and claims support from such powerful Texas Republicans as U.S. Sen. John Tower and Mrs. Anne Armstrong, national GOP committeewoman.

"The Republican party is very interested in this race and will be helping Patti" said Mrs. Francis Lipe of Brownsville, a member of the state executive committee of the Republican party.

"An ally of Mutscher cannot be effective in Austin since the voters of Texas cleaned house in the primary election and got rid of all his supporters but one—my opponent," she said.

Miss Patane, who has covered the legislature as a reporter, says, "I am not a professional politician." But in the interview she never mentioned her opponent by name.

Asked what motivated her to enter the political race against a veteran legislator, Miss Patane said, "There was such a lack of concern by people who can do something about problems such as education and health."

There are an estimated 441,300 blind people in our nation today.

WHY SHOULD SNYDER CITIZENS CONSIDER THE SALES TAX?

Over 600 Texas Cities have adopted the 1 percent City sales tax. Why? Because it is the fairest way to provide city services. It is fair because everyone participates in the cost of city services, and everybody benefits from them: Fire and Police Protection, Good Streets and Traffic Control, Health and Sanitation services, and the many other services provided by our city.

The City Council has pledged the first years sale tax revenue to rebuilding the bridges which were destroyed in the August 13 flood.

Without the sale tax our city must continue reliance on increased property taxes paid only by homeowners and property owners.

African Safaris Not The Same

EDITOR'S NOTE—African safaris aren't what they used to be. Now it's hot baths, cool drinks, leisurely dinners in luxury lodges where the staff announces the animals. And safari-goers, like the AP's Edith Lederer, ride in the safety of mini-buses.

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

NGORONGORO CRATER, Tanzania (AP) — A disheveled group of tourists armed with cameras bounces across a thousand miles of bush country in a "cage-on-wheels," hunting big game. For two weeks, they have seen elephants, lions and giraffes running free. And the tourists have been the ones caged—in a cramped mini-bus. But as night falls, the travelers take hope.

At 6:30 p.m., their cage opens, and they find themselves at the entrance to a luxurious lodge in the wilderness. They take a long, hot bath; drink a long, cold drink, and eat a leisurely dinner.

That's safari, contemporary style.

It's a far cry from the trek of the white hunter.

There's a modern tiled bathroom and an inviting bed. And sometimes there's one-hour laundry service for dust-covered safari clothes.

Some lodges overlook watering holes and are designed so tourists can drink while watching water buffalo, waterbuck and elephants do the same.

The night watchman at Treetops lodge in Kenya even announces the wildlife. He runs through the corridors banging on doors shouting "Elephant! Elephant!" or "Rhino! Rhino!" depending on what has shown up for a 4 a.m. watering.

The staff at Ngulia Safari Lodge in Kenya's Tsavo Park is more discriminating. It has a prepared list of animals, and before retiring the safari-goers can check those they would like to be awakened to see.

Some spots, though, have only tent camps—but even these are luxurious. Tents are equipped with electricity and there are separate mini-tents for private toilets and showers.

Despite the luxuries, these safaris aren't for late-sleepers and people prone to car sickness. Out in the bush, the day begins early—sometimes at 6 a.m. with a pre-dawn "game run," when lions and other predators usually hunt their dinner.

Then, it's back to the lodge for a "small" breakfast: fresh pineapple, papaya and grapefruit, four kinds of juices, cold cereal, hot cereal, local fish, bacon or sausage and eggs, sweet rolls and coffee.

About 9 a.m., the mini-bus "cage" door is locked and the safari is off. Within minutes, dust begins filtering through every crack, leaving travelers coughing and grimy.

The bus bounces, almost rhythmically, from pothole to pothole. But for many these are small prices to pay to see floppy-eared elephants lumbering through the brush; lazy lions basking in the sun, almost hidden by high grass, yawning and licking their golden coats; a flock of light-footed Thompson's gazelles leaping across an open field, their little black tails bobbing up and down.

The tourists hope for prize-winning pictures: a lion stalking prey and glowering over his catch; a cheetah racing through the brush at 60 miles an hour, or a knock-down drag-out fight between an elephant and a water buffalo.

One spot, Ngorongoro Crater, contains the greatest permanent concentration of wildlife in Africa. Buses can usually approach lions and leopards without disturbing them. But elephants have been known to chase busloads of tourists. Rhinos and ostriches usually run the other way.

For the hardy traveler, there's a chance to climb the 19,340-foot icecapped peaks of Mount Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain, or the lower-17,058 foot—but more rugged—Mount Kenya.

For the adventurous, there's a chance to visit a fly-infested Masai village, home of the spear-carrying hunter.

For the water lover, there's a chance to take a boat up the Nile to Uganda's Murchison Falls.

For the historian, there's a chance to visit Olduvia Gorge, the cradle of civilization where Dr. and Mrs. L. S. B. Leakey unearthed the oldest known species of man.

And for the brave, there might be a chance to take a 2 a.m. stroll outside a luxury lodge and show the elephants, rhinos and water buffalos at the watering hole that sometimes there aren't any cages at all.

Greece registered 42 new merchant ships in July 1972.

Gray Sees Different Energy Picture By 1985

HOUSTON (AP) — An entirely different world energy picture may begin to develop after 1985.

Such is the opinion of Stanley Gray, a director of Shell Internationale Petroleum Maatschappij N. V. at The Hague.

Gray says the dominant position in world oil reserves currently held by the Middle East and North Africa may begin to slip late in the century.

The Middle East and North Africa currently hold two-thirds of the hydrocarbon reserves of the world outside Russia, China, and Eastern Europe.

"In certain of these areas, large potentials have been generated by little drilling effort," Gray says.

"The days of this type of development are just about over."

Looking farther ahead, Gray adds, further expectations from an extensively explored Middle East and North Africa may take second place to those of the rest of the world.

Gray uses Iran as an example of the potential drilling and development problems ahead for those two areas.

Iran, with its rough terrain, has many wells that can produce 50,000 to 100,000 barrels a day.

"Foreseen further expansions in Iran will have to come from more difficult locations and objectives than those already developed," he says.

"There still may be big wells, but drilling conditions, terrain and logistical problems are such that the effort required to generate a daily barrel can only increase. This is a challenge to the industry."

Meanwhile, he says, future conventional discoveries will increasingly be made in the African countries, the Far East and other areas.

"Increasing exploratory activity is already building up in Central Africa, where tremendous distances will have to be covered in countries poor in transportation and communications," he says.

Gray adds, however, that the major expectations for further discoveries and development are found offshore, which already holds 20 per cent of proved reserves and generates one out of every six barrels of production.

"I am not referring merely to the continental shelf areas, a great part of which lie in areas of extremely adverse seas and weather conditions, but to the Arctic and to the new frontiers in depths greater than 600 feet," he says.

Gray also says some of the present activity in difficult and expensive offshore areas is being stimulated by the uncertainty over future supplies from traditional sources.

"Although conventional oil at moderate technical costs is still available in large quantities, the high degree of dependence on them is leading to searches for alternative sources of crude supply," he says.

"In this context, the North Sea, like Alaska is a home province. Although these new areas are far more expensive—they may be more than 20 times as expensive, say, as the Middle East — there is a greater incentive to explore them now and to develop their resources to meet world demand."

Gray's observations on the outlook for international oil and gas were made in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

Major Changes Are Sought

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — Three major changes in New Zealand's way of life are being sought by organizers of the Christchurch Commonwealth Games from Jan. 24 to Feb. 2, 1974.

They want staggered holidays for workers, a later start to the school year and later drinking hours.

Most New Zealanders take their summer vacations from Christmas to mid-January, causing a massive industrial and commercial closedown. But some businessmen now say they will allow staff to take holidays coinciding with the Games.

Attempts to postpone the start of the school year in early February are aimed at releasing boarding school accommodation for Games visitors.

Games organizers also want bars to remain open beyond the customary 10 p.m. to provide late-evening entertainment for an expected 20,000 sports fans.

AF Ace Glad To Be Home

REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Capt. Steve Ritchie, first Air Force ace of the war in Vietnam, says, "It's tremendous to be an American . . . It's even greater to be at home."

The 30-year-old flier arrived Thursday, one month after scoring his fifth kill in air battle in the Southeast Asian war.

WHY THE CITY COUNCIL CALLED THE SALES TAX ELECTION!

THE CITY OF SNYDER, TEXAS

Dear Fellow Citizens:

The Snyder City Sales Tax election offers Snyder voters a choice.

Voters can choose a one percent city sales tax which everyone pays, or by rejecting the sales tax at the polls, choose to continue reliance on increased advalorem property taxes which home owners and property owners pay.

The proposed city budget is $63,000 short due to the cost to rebuild the bridges which were destroyed in the August 13 flood. This additional revenue can be raised by increasing property taxes about 18%. This would bring in an estimated $64,000.

If the sales tax is approved, it would bring in an estimated $70,000 (1/2 year collection) for use in the 1972-73 fiscal year. This amount would make up the budget deficit and leave a small reserve.

The sales tax would not apply to such items as automobiles, groceries, gasoline, prescription medicines, cigarettes, school lunches, or many other purchases. It would be paid only on the items now included in the state sales tax.

One fact is certain - - - - more money must be raised by taxation for operation of our city services. Please go to the polls and vote on October 10 so that Snyder can continue its progress.

SEES PROGRESS ON MONEY REFORM — Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, closes the annual IMF meeting in Washington Friday with a prediction that "very substantial progress" will be made on overhauling the world monetary system next year. (AP Wirephoto)

Reform Of Monetary System In Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — Reform of the international monetary system dominated business news this past week, with the world's top finance officials confident strides could soon be made in revamping the system.

In domestic developments, the Commerce Department announced leading economic indicators advanced 2.2 per cent in August, the largest monthly gain since March. The machine tool industry continued to show gains in orders and reported the advance went into September.

The United States unveiled sweeping new international currency rules at the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) this week in Washington.

The reforms proposed by Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz would mean more frequent changes in the prices of imports, more fiscal uncertainty for American travelers abroad and more economic protection for U.S. businesses.

The U.S. plan was one of several to be debated by an IMF group called the Committee of 20. The committee hopes to have reform recommendations ready for consideration at the IMF's next annual meeting a year from now.

Shultz proposed new flexibility for the monetary system, including a wider range of international values for the dollar. This would make it less immune to speculation and remove its once-special role as the currency by which the monies of other countries are valued.

Because the dollar currently is the centerprice of the monetary system, it is limited to a 4.5 per cent fluctuation range. Other currencies can vary in value against each other in a 9 per cent range. Shultz recommended the dollar be granted the same privilege but didn't spell out how it would be done or whether the precise figure would be 9 per cent.

He also proposed that countries with heavy international reserves and big surpluses in the balance of payments be forced to revalue their currencies or be subject to international sanctions.

After a transitional period the United States would agree to convert foreign holdings of dollars into reserve assets, provided its balance of payments problem was corrected, Shultz said.

Gold would be ended as a monetary reserve asset. Currencies would be valued instead in terms of the artificial reserve asset, special drawing rights or "paper gold."

In other developments, Commerce Department spokesman Harold C. Passer reported leading indicators continued "to signal strong growth for the economy in the future." The eight indicators are regarded as harbingers of broad trends in the economy and only one—contracts and orders for plant equipment — showed a slightly downward trend in August.

More encouraging news came from the National Machine Tool Builders' Association, which reported orders for machine tools in August totaled $108.3 million, up 3.7 per cent from a month earlier and nearly 40 per cent ahead of the year before.

Concert Assn. Board Will Meet Tuesday

The board of directors of the Scurry County Association will hold a brief meeting at 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Snyder Savings and Loan Association Building.

Final decision of the booking of concerts will be made at the session, and all board members have been urged to attend.

Western Texas College will combine its fine arts series with the three programs already booked for the coming season through the Scurry Concert Association. The college is planning to book six programs during the fall and spring which would be available to Scurry Concert members. In return, the Scurry Concert bookings would be available to students at WTC.

Membership will be opened to new people who have moved into Snyder, as well as others who were unable to purchase memberships last spring. Association memberships for an entire family are priced at $23 regardless of the number in the family. They may be purchased during the fall drive, Oct. 4-10.

Forest conservation means the use of the forest for the greatest good of the greatest number of people for the longest time. It does not imply stopping the harvesting of timber nor does it recognize unnecessary waste.

Morse Confident OnReforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Englishman named to oversee the world monetary system says the job can and should be done within two years. Maybe sooner.

"A year and a half would be a good result," said Jeremy Morse, executive director of the Bank of England. "I suppose it could slip to two years."

Bit Morse, named to head the working committee that will negotiate the tough issues of reform, said if the task takes much longer than that, three years for instance, "I feel that we would not be achieving much."

A strong dollar in the next year or so could mean a little longer time to negotiate, Morse said, but he added some action could be taken by next year's International Monetary Fund meeting in Nairobi, Kenya.

"A lot will depend on the momentum of discussion and what happens in the real world outside," Morse said. The Bank of England where he works is the British equivalent of the Federal Reserve Board, the U.S. central bank.

Morse, who bears the imposing title of chairman of the deputies of the IMF's Board of Governors on Reform of the Internationa Monetary System and Related Issues, said he was optimistic about the prospects for reform.

The deputies will meet next in Washington Nov. 22. That threeday gathering will set the stage for the work to be completed by the end of the year.

Morse said he would give up his post with the Bank of England while devoting full time to monetary reform. "I regard myself as an international civil servant," he said.

He spoke to reporters after the deputies of the Committee of 20 finance ministers held their first meeting at the conclusion of the IMF's annual meeting.

Morse was joined in his optimism by Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the IMF.

Schweitzer said that despite some differences on specific issues, "I'm very honestly convinced now that everybody is willing to get together for serious negotiations."

Tanka Says Many Problems Remain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO (AP) — Back in Tokyo after establishment of diplomatic relations between his country and mainland China, Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan said today many problems still remain to be solved by the two countries.

Tanaka, greeted by crowds of flag-waving supporters, added, however, that Peking understands Japan's remaining ties to Taiwan.

He also said the United States-Japan security treaty aimed at containing Communist China in the cold war days "doesn't matter" to Peking now.

Tanaka ended his six-day state visit to Mainland China in Shanghai. He and Premier Chou En-lai flew there after signing an agreement in Peking Friday establishing diplomatic relations.

The two men departed for their respective capitals from Shanghai today. Tanaka said normalization of Japanese-Chinese relations will help bring peace and stability in Asia because the absence of normal relations between the two countries had been the biggest source of instability in this part of the world.

Under the principles of peaceful coexistence to which Japan and China agreed, Tanaka added, the Japan-China rapprochement will not pose any threat to third nations.

He said Japan will send a special envoy to Southeast Asian countries to explain the normalization of Japan-China relations, but no exact itinerary has been worked out yet. He said China also would send officials to its neighboring friendly countries.

Tanaka returned to Japan just hours after the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan severed diplomatic relations with Tokyo because of the Peking agreement. They branded Japan's part in the pact a "perfidious action."

The Nationalists suffered another setback Friday when the West German and Peking governments announced they had completed talks on establishing diplomatic relations and an exchange of ambassadors. They said a joint communique would be signed when Foreign Mpnister Walter Scheel visits Peking Oct. 10-14.

The United States had no direct comment on the Japan-China pact, saying it is "primarily a matter for those nations concerned."

Rent Watch Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered a nationwide "Rent Watch" to make sure landlords don't illegally boost the rent of older persons receiving a 20-per-cent increase in Social Security benefits next week.

The program was announced Friday after the President met with the Cost of Living Council. Council director Donald Rumsfeld said there have been cases in the past where Social Security benefit increases for older persons prompted rent hikes.

To ensure that doesn't happen again, Rumsfeld said the Internal Revenue Service will conduct a "rent sweep" of 50,000 units—housing mostly elderly persons—which are subject to the Price Commission's rent regulations.

IRS district offices will get broader responsibility to enforce rollbacks if there are illegal rent increases, he said.

Rumsfeld estimated that, of the 28 million Social Security recipients, between four million and seven million live in rental units falling under government guidelines.

Dallas Plans New Center

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas land developer B. B. Short announced plans Saturday for a multi-million dollar commercial and residential center in Plano on a 261-acre tract midway between North Central Expressway and Preston Road.

Short acquired the land for more than $1.5 million.

State Board Is Told Of Innovative Med School

LUBBOCK — The progress of a new and innovative medical school, unique in many respects in the state of Texas, was described Saturday for members of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System meeting at Texas Tech University.

Dr. Grover E. Murray, president of both Texas Tech University and the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, and Dr. John A. Buesseler, vice president for Health Sciences and dean of the School of Medicine, made a joint presentation before the Coordinating Board.

President Murray reviewed the concept and current history of the school, authorized in 1969 by the Texas Legislature. Dean Buesseler made an audio-visual presentation emphasizing the impact of new concepts upon health care in West Texas in the immediate future as well as far-reaching effects in the more distant future.

Texas Tech University has worked with unusual speed in implementing the State Legislature's authorization to eastablish a medical school in West Texas. Within three years of authorization, the Texas Tech University School of Medicine had admitted its first students. Association of American Medical Colleges statistics indicate that a 10-year span from authorization to admission of students is as fast as any other school has moved.

The school admitted its first 61 students this fall, 36 first year students and 25 third year, transfer students. The first graduation ceremonies will be held in 1974.

The school is unique in Texas in that it is the only medical school to be located on a university campus, providing students with a broad adacemic atmosphere. This further allows for educational and research interrelationships with faculty and resources of the university.

There can be no goal for the medical school, Murray said other than to fulfill the needs of the people.

"To accomplish this the school is committed to the development of a highly innovative and practical administrative, curriculum and facility structure," he said.

In its educational program, the school's Lubbock campus, is coupled with a South Plains area commuter clinical campus with a 60 to 80 mile radius, serving communities which are within eash driving distance of Texas Tech's home city.

In addition to a teaching hospital to be provided by the Lubbock County Hospital District, the medical school will have as an integral part an ambulatory clinical teaching facility.

Groundbreaking for the $25 million Phase 1A of the school's permanent medical facility on the Texas Tech campus could take place within six to 10 months, Murrsy said.

Affiliation agreements with hospitals in the region will provide facilities for hospital training and patient contact also. These agreements now exist with Lubbock's West Texas Hospital, St. Mary of the Plains Hospital, University Hospital and Methodist Hospital; Plainview's Central Plains General Hospital and Central Plains Comprehensive Community Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center; Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital, Psychiatric Pavilion and the Killgore Children's Psychiatric Center and Hospital. Additional agreements are expected in the future.

The school's program will extend beyond the immaculate Panhandle area, however. It calls for six Area Health Education Centers to be located in Amarillo, Abilene, El Paso, Midland-Odessa-Big Spring, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.,

A Panhandle Area Health Education Center in Amarillo is proposed as the first for this regional program. Plans call for construction of a facility to be completed in the fiscal year, 1975, and programs initiated in that year for up to 25 medical students, approximately 100 students in allied health subjects, a significant number of area physicians who want continuing education and several postdoctoral resident physicians.

University estimates of the cost of the Amarillo facility are $500,000 in 1974 and $1,999.900 in 1975. Requests for these amounts have been made of the Legislature.

In curriculum development the school has initiated several innovative programs.

The emphasis is on the education of doctors with the required skills to become family practitioners but a sound base also will be provided for medical specialists.

Although students with only 90 hours of undergraduate work may be admitted, most will have the bachelor's degree. Unusual in the admission of students, however, is the Texas Tech school's interest in accepting students majoring in the humanities, providing they show motivation and aptitude for the required medical science courses.

The curriculum is designed as a three-year program with 12-month, trimester system. The program intensified training and reduces the time necessary to earn the M.D. degree.

In effect, a high school graduate could receive the M.D. degree with a minimum of six additional years in school.

The tutorial team system within the school is expected to serve students' individual needs and capabilities. Tutorial teams function as an educational family unit.

Eight to 12 students and one mentor — a physician member of the faculty —are on each team. The mentors serve as role models for students and act as ombudsmen, counselors and educators to whom students can informally relate.

Students remain on their tutorial teams throughout their medical training.

Allied health and postdoctoral programs will be, as in other medical schools, an integral part of the Texas Tech school's program, Murray said.

"The school has made rapid progress in transforming its plans into ongoing programs within a functioning organization," Dr. Murray told the Coordinating Board.

"Foremost in the school's achievement of stated goals is its receiving provisional accreditation from the Liaison Committee on Medical Education of the American Medical Associatio and Association of American Medical Colleges, and subsequent approval to admit 61 students in the fall of 1972."

Girl Tells Of Using Drugs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 16-year-old girl told a Congressional committee conducting hearings here on drug problems in the suburbs that her mother introduced her to marijuana when she was 12 or 13 years old.

"I first got involved with grass with my mother," Laura Mayer told the House Select Committee on Crime Friday. "After that I went to hash, speed, mescaline and acid."

Later, Laura told newsmen how she stopped taking drugs:

"What I really needed was a good swift boot, and that was getting busted."

She said she was arrested and sent to a hospital for withdrawal.

Several youths testifying at the three-day hearings that ended Friday estimated that 90 per cent of the students on some high school campuses are using drugs.

Some witnesses, like William Strickland, 19, said they committed burglaries and pushed drugs to support their habit. Strickland said he committed some 1,000 burglaries over a two-year period when he was hooked on tranquilizers.

James Sullivan, 18, said he could make $1,000 a day selling cocaine in his high school in nearby Palo Alto. Sullivan said he was successful in peddling the narcotic because he kept his grades up, dressed neatly and avoided long hair and hippie-style clothes.

"I kind of avoided situations where I'd get hassled," he said.

While police officers frequently checked on friends who dressed in drug-culture style, Sullivan said he was able to remain undetected for two years because officers regarded him as "all right."

He said the cocaine, shipped from Peru and disguised as candy, was used by a large number of students even though its price shot up to $1,000 an ounce.

Soviets Reveal Aid To Syria

By ROGER LEDDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin has revealed it is supplying Syria with advisers and the latest Soviet arms. Western diplomats view the disclosure as a veiled threat to Israel.

Pravada, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, made the first official announcement of the new military aid program Friday after rumors about it circulated for some time.

Discussing over-all Soviet cooperation with Syria, Pravada said: "Syria is also supplied with the latest weapons for its armed forces and receives help in the training of its military cadres."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said last weekend that Moscow had begun an airlift of personnel and armaments to Shria that was of "concern" to the United States.

Lebanese newspapers have reported SAM3 ground-to-air missiles also have been installed in Syria.

Western diplomats viewed the Pravda announcement as a warning to Israel not to launch any raids into Syria such as the Sept. 16-17 incursion by Israeli troops into Leabanon in search of Palestinian guerrillas.

Since the Israeli raid, the Syrian armed forces have been in a state of alert. Reports circulating in the Arab world that Israel planned a similar raid into Syria have received extensive publication in the Soviet press.

The diplomats also noted that the Kremlin report put to rest Arab suggestions the rumors of new Soviet aid were planted by U.S. intelligence agents.

Syria borders Israel on the northeast and has received Soviet military aid for some time along with neighboring Iraq. But with Egypt's ouster of most Soviet military advisers in July, Moscow's interest in Syria and Iraq increased.

The new aid apparently was arranged when President Hafez al Assad held two days of talks in Moscow with Soviet leaders just a week before Egypt announced expulsion of the Russians.

Issue Pickup For Juveniles

VALLEY MILLS, Tex. (AP) — Officers have issued a statewide pickup request for two juveniles blamed for the slaying of Henry Ihlenfeldt, 64, at his home Friday.

Officers said Ihlenfeldt apparently returned to his home at noon from sowing oats and found the two, one 10 and the other 14, in the house.

Mrs. Ihlenfeldt said the two still were in the house when she returned at 3 p.m. She said they took $30 from her and stole her car.

After they left, she told officers, she found the body of her husband in a closet. He had been shot.

Officers said the boys are armed with a .22-caliber rifle and a shotgun.

Chevrolet To Drop Derby

DETROIT (AP) — Citing "changing life-styles," the Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. has decided to sponsor the Junior Olympics instead of the All-American Soap Box Derby.

The automaker ended Friday 38 years of Derby sponsorship, but assured Derby officials that scholarships already won in competition would be protected.

In a letter to Derby directors, Don D. Lund, Chevrolet general sales manager, said, "Young people in America have different needs, attitudes and interests. To keep pace with the changes, we must develop creative new programs that are responsive to modern attitudes."

He said Chevrolet, which footed most of the Derby bill in the past, would provide national scholarships if new sponsors can be found. No figures of the past cost to Chevrolet were available.

Officials in Akron, Ohio, site of the national Derby championships, said they would seek a new sponsor and would announce within 30 days if the search was successful.

The Derby, held yearly since 1934 except during four years of World War II, was begun as an activity for youngsters aged 11-15 who built and raced gravity propelled cars of their own design.

Texas Feeds Most Cattle

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is at the top of the charts in all phases of the cattle industry, Agriculture Commissioner John White reports.

Iowa lost its first-place spot in cattle feeding to Texas this year, as the Lone Star state reported 2,045,000 head of feed, White said.

Texas is also No. 1 in total cattle and calves and in beef cows that calved, White reports.

There were 12,829,000 cattle and calves in Texas on Jan. 1, five million more than second-ranked Iowa, and more than a million above the state's human population.

Youth Group Censures Dior

BORAS, Sweden (AP) — The leading French fashion design house, Christian Dior, is being accused of threatening the future of animals already on the verge of extinction by using their pelts in its clothes.

The International Youth Federation, which held its conference at Kyrkhult, near Boras, censured Dior for endangering several species of furred animals in this manner.

The conference also decided to open a worldwide campaign against the waste of natural resources.

Agnew Makes Verbal Slaps At Hecklers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the worst disruption he has faced in the 1972 presidential campaign, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has handed out verbal slaps to antiwar hecklers during a rally on a Deep South swing.

Meanwhile, the Democrat who wants Agnew's job, Sargent Shriver, has continued his courting of the labor vote in some heavily industrial areas.

President Nixon was at the White House today, where he planned to sign a congressional resolution approving the historic U.S.-Soviet agreement to freeze most of the two nations' nuclear arsenals for five years.

And Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern planned to give more details about his ideas for urban America while campaigning today in three Eastern Seaboard states.

Agnew encountered the same 40 protesters Friday at an afternoon rally in Tampa, Fla. The hecklers were among a capacity crowd in a 5,000-seat hall.

Agnew, who disputed McGovern's claim to have opposed the Vietnam war consistently, was repeatedly interrupted by shouts of "murderer!" and "stop the bombing."

The vice president fielded each disruption with a comment of his own. He said at one point, "I'll wait a few minutes to see whether some type of catatonic reaction sets in," and at another moment, "they're using their mouths a lot more affirmatively than their minds."

Shriver was in Cincinnati Friday, one of the stops in a series of labor speeches in industrial areas the past few days.

The candidate met with Frank King, the powerful Ohio labor chief who has expressed unhappiness with McGovern's candidacy.

Afterward, King—the Ohio AFL-CIO president—said the McGovern-Shriver campaign was bypassing the traditional centers of support and going only to the people. He said that is not enough to win elections.

Shriver told newsmen after the meeting with King: "He pointed out that as president of the AFL-CIO he is required under the law to remain neutral. He said he would never vote for Nixon-Agnew."

McGovern has been at his Chesapeake Bay farmhouse retreat at St. Michael's, Md., working on the speeches he will make during his planned television "fireside chats."

But the South Dakota senator planned today to talk more about his proposals for cities during appearances in Baltimore, Atlantic City, N.J., and New York City.

"In city after city, there has been systematic fraud in federal housing programs by real estate brokers, mortgage housing officials and, in some cases, Federal Housing Administration officials and appraisers," McGovern said in a statement on his Baltimore rally.

On another front, John Mitchell denied a report that he personally controlled a secret Republican fund used for gathering intelligence about Democrats while he served as attorney general.

"My comment is that I've never had control of any fund for any political purpose, not while I was attorney general or thereafter," Mitchell said at his New York law office.

Illegitimates Due Benefits

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — All acknowledged illegitimate children of a deceased parent are entitled to his earned Social Security benefits as are children of legitimate birth, a federal judge here has ruled.

The ruling was in favor of a 9-year-old Seattle child and is retroactive to October, 1970. The class action ruling also applies to all children in similar situations.

U.S. District Judge Morell Sharp's ruling on Friday was based on a decision last summer of a three-judge federal panel that invalidated part of a federal law that denied equality to children born out of wedlock.

A legal services attorney contended denial of benefits to an illegitimate child was an act of "irrational discrimination" by the government.

The attorney said the father in the case had filed papers in King County Superior Court acknowledging he was the parent

Oil Spill Reported

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The Coast Guard says the Norwegian tanker Tamano slammed into a buoy outside Portland Harbor last June 22 before spilling 100,000 gallons of oil into Casco Bay.

The Coast Guard's final report on Portland's second largest oil spill was made public Friday.

It said the 810-foot supertanker hit the buoy which marks Soldier's Ledge, a natural navigation hazard in the approach to Portland Harbor.

A Tamano crewman, Sven Hassen of Oslo, is quoted in the report as saying he saw the starboard bow of the supertanker strike the buoy about 1:20 a.m.

The report disclosed that the Coast Guard inspected the buoy later that day and found a broken lens and four broken holding bolts.

The Tamano had a hole in its hull 20 feet long and 10 inches wide.

The report said the ship's captain and the harbor pilot, Capt. Charles C. Dunbar Jr. of Portland, reported they neither heard nor felt the vessel hit anything.

The spill was discovered by Dunbar while he was taking draft readings after the Tamano reached an anchorage in the outer harbor.

The Tamano, a Norwegian flag ship, was under contract to Texaco Oil Co. at the time.

The oil covered portions of the coastline from Portland south to Kittery.

Price Of Wheat Highest In Years

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat prices averaged $1.73 per bushel at mid-month, the highest September price since 1963 and exceeded only once since then, says the Agriculture Department.

The department, in a farm price report Friday, said wheat prices jumped 22 cents in the month, from $1.51 in August. It also was 41 cents above the July average.

Back of the rise is the huge sale of 400 million bushels to the Soviet Union and an outlook for a billion-bushel wheat export total to all buyers by next summer.

A wheat specialist in the Economic Research Service of USDA said that only once since 1963-64 has the national wheat price average for a single month topped the $1.73 September mark.

That was in July 1966 when wheat was reported at $1.74 per bushle, he said. At that time it appeared the United States was on the verge of running short and that export demand would soar beyond supplies.

The current price also has occurred in a much different atmosphere of government price support programs. In September 1963 the price for wheat was $1.84 per bushel. But the support loan rate then was $1.82, compared with $1.25 now.

It was not until mid-1964 that basic changes were made which translated into lower price support for wheat.

The monthly average market price through the fall and winter of 1963-64 reflected the higher support, rising to $2 per bushel in January and then settling to $1.88 in May.

But in June 1964, the cash wheat price average for the month plummeted to $1.40 per bushel and—except for July 1966—did not equal the current price again.

Over-all, Friday's report showed farm prices in September held steady, equalling the record-high average set in August. Cattle dropped slightly for the second monthly decline in a row, and cotton and potatoes also were lower.

Corn, milk and eggs, on the other hand, were up from August, the Crop Reporting Board said. Farm expenses also rose by 1 per cent during the month.

Mao Suffering From Rheumatism

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung is reported to have told visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka in Peking that he is suffering from rheumatism.

Correspondents of Asahi Shimbun, reporting from Peking, quoted the Chinese Communist party chairman as saying Wednesday night that his legs are slightly weak because of the affliction.

Five Are Indicted

DALLAS (AP) — Five residents of the Dallas-Fort Worth area have been indicted for violation of state security laws regarding the sale of unlicensed stock of an Oklahoma firm.

Each of the men was indicted on two counts.

A spokesman for the police department's intelligence division said indictments were returned by a grand jury Friday against Richard Moody, 28, Dallas; Charlie F. Jones and David L. Moon of Hurst, James A. Brewer, 38, Grapevine, and Marvin Williams, Euless. They have not been arrested.

The police spokesman said the indictments climaxed an investigation which began soon after World Market Center, Inc., began operations in the area to recruit dealers for a chain of new discount department stores.

The firm has one store in Oklahoma City, but its representatives claimed that additional stores were being planned in Dallas, Fort Worth and elsewhere, the police spokesman said.

He added that the Oklahoma store has been enjoined by state court against selling additional dealerships.

Mouth Can Indicate Disease

LONDON (AP) — Dentists should operate an early warning system in the diagnosis of diseases, says Prof. J. Harold Jones, professor of oral medicine at Manchester University.

He told the British Dental Association conference in Swansea that certain changes in the mouth could provide pointers which could lead to the early diagnosis of bodily disease.

TOUCHDOWN RUN--Snyder High School's Hubert Crayton (45) shakes loose on an 80 yard run during the second quarter of the Tiger-Mustang battle in Andrews Friday night. Mike Bridge (15) was the last Mustang to get a shot at the Tiger tailback. Charles Cain (82) and Chris Covey (76) lead the downfield blocking. Andrews won 13-9.

Andrews Mustangs Shoot Down Snyder Tigers 13-9

ANDREWS — The Andrews Mustangs struck for two quick touchdowns in the second quarter to score a 13-9 triumph over Snyder's Tigers here Friday night. The victory left Andrews with a 3-1 record while Snyder fell to 2-3 for the season.

Andrews dominated play throughout the first half with quarterback Tim Leach completing four of eight passes, including two for touchdowns, and tailback Jimmy Christian romping for big chunks of yardage.

The Mustangs swept 60 yards in five plays at the end of the first quarter and early in the second period. On the last play of the first period, Christian sliced across tackle for a 25 yard gain from the Andrews 40 to the Snyder 35. Christian then carried twice in succession for six yards to the 29. Halfback Jim Clements added 13 on a run to the 16. Then Leach faded back to pass and lofted a perfect strike to right end Randy Lunceford who was slanting into the east side of the south end zone. It was a perfectly executed play. Charles Fritz kicked extra point to give the hosts a 7-0 advantage.

The ensuing kickoff went out of the end zone and the Tigers took over on their 20. On the first play from scrimmage, tailback Hubert Crayton went 80 yards for a touchdown. He went up the middle and about 20 yards past the line of scrimmage the Andrews safety made a lunge for the talented Tiger back, but he missed. It was a foot race after that with Crayton sailing all the way to the goal. Micky Gonzales' extra point kick tied it up at 7-7.

Following the Tiger touchdown, Andrews went 80 yards in two plays to go out front again. A clipping penalty following the kickoff set the Mustangs back at their 20. Christian made one yard to the 21, then Leach connected with Lunceford again on a pass and run play that covered the 79 yards. Lunceford made a nice catch behind the Tiger secondary and had smooth sailing into the end zone. Leach fumbled the snapback on the extra point play and was smothered behind the line of scrimmage as the hosts had to settle for a 13-7 margin with 8:53 remaining in the first half.

The Tigers barely missed a golden opportunity to win the game late in the fourth quarter. They had just taken over at the Andrews 37 following a high snapback from center on a fourthdown play. In seven yards they drove down to the six yard line. Cryaton started the drive with a four yard plunge to the 33. Then Norred carried twice to reach the 24. Richard Gorman lost two back to the 26. Then Tim Holder fired a 12-yard aerial to Welton Cobb who was stopped at the 14 with first and 10 to go.

On the first down, Crayton gained three to the 11, then Norred crashed for five to the six to set up third and one. However, the tough Mustang defenders were equal to the occasion and threw Cobb for a three yard loss back to the nine, leaving fourth and five to go. The Tigers elected to pass, but the ball fell harmlessly to the turf in the end zone as the drive fizzled out.

Andrews took over and couldn't move the ball. Facing fourth and 10 from the nine, Leach decided to run into the end zone and give the Tigers a safety. He simply ran straight back to the end zone and laid down with David Yearwood covering him for the two points.

The Mustangs still had a four-point lead and only 23 seconds remained in the ball game. Snyder returned the kick to their 43 yard line. Holer connected with Ralph Lewis for a 15-yard gain just before the final gun sounded.

Andrews made two other serious drives during the contest. They took the opening kickoff and swept from their 20 to the Tiger 30 before running out of steam. A 20-yard penalty on an interference call was the big gain in the march. Christian carried the ball five times during the march. But the Tiger defense stiffed and held at the 30.

In the second period following an interception by Jimmy Jones. Andrews marched from their 36 to the Tiger 14. A 10-yard run by Daniel Madrid, a 13 yard run by Jimmy Rex, and a 9 yard pass, Leach to Lunceford, were the big gains in the drive. But the attack bogged down at the 14 with two successive incomplete passes.

Andrews threatened again in in the fourth quarter following an interception at the Mustang 48, but the drive bogged down at the Tiger 33.

Snyder's pass defense was vastly improved in the second half as Leach threw eight straight incomplete passes.

Christian was the leading ground gainer with 132 yards on 34 carries. Crayton had a much better average, getting 112 yards on 13 carries. Cobb contributed 60 paces on 11 runs, and Paul Norred was held to 27 yards on nine efforts.

Snyder had two other drives that were halted due to mistakes. The Tigers carried from their 22 to the Mustang 48 in the second quarter following Andrews' second touchdown. A 12-yard run by Cobb was the big gainer in the march. But an interception by Jimmy Jones halted the march. In the third quarter, the Tigers benefitted from a 17-yard runback of a punt by Crayton to the 37. Runs by Crayton and Cobb plus a 5 yard penalty put the line of scrimmage at the Andrews 45, but a fumble recovery by Charley Gregg halted the march.

It was a close, hard fought game, but the Mustangs' passing combo, Leach to Lunceford, provided the margin of victory.

To their credit, the Tigers nave gave up and were striving gallantly until the end.

Next Friday, the Tigers host Lamesa in another non-district affray.

Houston Faces Namath, Jets

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers might prefer not to look at the record books before taking the field in their home opener against the New York Jets and Joe Willie Namath Sunday in the Astrodome.

They only have to look back to last week to see what Namath and his receiving corps did to the Baltimore Colts. Namath completed 15 passes for 496 yards and six touchdowns. It was the third most yards passing in NFL history.

Going back further to 1967, Namath hit for 399 yards against Denver one week and came back the next game with 415 yards against Miami.

Houston's rookie head coach Bill Peterson is just hoping Namath doesn't repeat 1967 or last week.

"We're just hoping he doesn't throw that well this week," said Peterson, trying to rally the winless Oilers, who have been plagued with a poor offensive line and a weak rushing attack.

"We've got five defensive backs and they'll all play," Peterson said. "We'll just have to give him a lot of defensive problems."

The Jets figure to cause some problems too with their Mutt and Jeff receiving corps of 6-foot-5 tight end Rich Caster, who caught three TDs last week, and 5-foot-9 Eddie Bell, who snagged a 65-yard TD bomb. Emerson Boozer suffered a hamstring pull last week but is expected to be ready for the Oilers.

Caster caught six passes for 204 yards and Bell caught seven for 197 against Baltimore last week. The Jets also have a fellow named Don Maynard who is the all-time pro yardage record holder.

The Jets are first in the NFL in passing and Namath will be throwing into the Oiler defense that is 10th in the American Football Conference in pass defense.

The Jets attack is balanced by John Riggins, who is the AFC's leading rusher, and Matt Snell.

The Oilers will try to counter with second year quarterback Dan Pastorini, who has completed 42 per cent of his passes despite little protection. The Oilers have the worst rushing average in the NFL (58.0 per game) with Hoyle Granger the leading rusher with 48 yards.

Kickoff time is 1 p.m. CDT.

Westerners Win Golf Tournament

Western Texas College won the third Western Junior College Athletic Association golf tournament at Snyder Country Club Friday. The 18 hole tournament featured medal play with the four best scores of five golfers on each team counting.

The Westerners fired a 14-under par 270. Odessa JC was runnerup with a 4-under par 280. South Plains JC fired a 285 for one over. Howard County JC carded a 291 for seven over. Amarillo Junior Cotlege and New Mexico Junior College each carded 301's for 17 over. Clarendon JC and Frank Phillips JC each fired 314's for 30 over. New Mexico Military Institute was last with a 320 or 36 over.

Four of the Westerners carded under par scores with Blake Arnwine turning in the best score-d five under par 66. Danny Walters carded 67, Steve Rutherford was 68, and Max Tenorio was 69. Mark McCraney shot a 73.

Arnwine, a sophmore, was medalist in the tournament with his 66. Danny Walters, a freshman, was runnerup medalist with his 67.

This is the first conference tournament for WTC to win, and this was the first time for WTC to have the medalist or runnerup medalist in a conference tourney. Moreover, this was the best score ever shot by a conference team in an 18-hole conference tournament.

The standings after three conference tournaments find Odessa JC in the lead with 26 points. The Westerners are runnerup with 24 points. Standings of other teams: South Plains, 22 points; NMJC, 16½ points; Amarillo C., 14½ points; Howard County JC, 12 points; Frank Phillips JC 8 points; Clarendon C., 8 points; and , NMMI, 5 points.

By winning the conference tourney at Snyder, WTC moved into sole possession of second place.

Friday's round was the best score ever posted in a tournament by a WTC golf team.

Eight players shot under par in the tourney, and half of them were from WTC. Scores ranged from 66 to 92.

WTC plays at Alpine next Friday and Saturday against Sul Ross State University. There will be 18 holes of dual match play each day. Tee off on Oct. 6 is at 1:30 p.m., and tee off the next day is set for 8:30 a.m.

The next conference tournament will be held at Roswell, N. M. Oct. 27.

Cowboys Meet Packers Today

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, who have been fuming all week, get a chance to take it out on the champion Dallas Cowboys in their National Football League game Sunday.

The game at Milwaukee is one of the headliners on the third weekend of the NFL season.

The Packers are steamed up because they feel they defeated Oakland last Sunday instead of losing 20-14 as the official records show. They claim Jack Tatum's record 104-yard touchdown run for the Raiders should not have counted because MacArthur Lane never had control of the ball on a forward pass. Officials ruled it a fumble.

In any event the Packers are 1-1 going against the 2-0 Cowboys who will be seeking their 13th straight victory in regular season, playoff and Super Bowl competition.

It's possible that the Packers will start rookie quarterback Jerry Tagge who led Nebraska to the national collegiate championship last year. Scott Hunter, the regular starter, has a back injury. Craig Morton again will direct the Cowboys.

Washington, tied with Dallas for fist in the NFC East, plays at New England with Miami at Minnesota and the New York Jets at Houston.

In other games Baltimore is at Buffalo, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Detroit at Chicago, Kansas City at Denver, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, San Diego at Oakland, and San Francisco at New Orleans. The New York Giants play at Philadelphia Monday night.

The Jets are a heavy favorite to beat the Oilers, but it's hardly likely that Joe Namath of the Jets will duplicate his feat of last week when he passed for six touchdowns against the Colts.

The Dolphins will rely on their hard running backs, Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick to try to beat the Vikings and stay tied with the Jets for first in the AFC East.

O. J. Simpson, who ran for 138 yards in leading the Bills over the 49ers last week, is hoping for another 100-plus-yard game against the Colts.

And if veteran quarterback John Hadl of the Chargers can pass for 214 yards against the Raiders he will join the select group of NFL quarterbacks who have passed for 25,000 yards in their career.

Gail Slams Whitharral

Gail--The Gail Coyotes Friday night inundated the Whitharral Panthers 72-0 in eight-man football.

Led by Randy Crittenden and Randy Hensley, each gaining over a 100 yards and scoring three T.D.'s, the Coyotes rolled up 30 points in the first period.

The Borden County team took a breather at half time with a 52 point lead, then added 14 more in the third quarter. In fourth, the Coyotes finished off with one more score and a total of 72 points.

"We had trouble holding down the score," said Coyote Coach Bob Dyess.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The two newest teams in the National Hockey League—the New York Islanders and the Atlanta Flames—will open the season at the Nassau Coliseum Saturday, Oct. 7. It will be the first of 39 home games for the Islanders who with Atlanta bring the NHL to 16 teams for the 1972-73 season.

The Islanders will play on 18 Tuesdays, 16 Saturdays four Thursdays and one Sunday at Uniondale. They will also play 39 road games. The Islanders are in the East division with the New York Rangers, Boston Bruins, Montreal Canadiens, Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit Red Wings, Buffalo Sabres and Vancouver Canucks.

Mare Got Proud

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The owner of Micheles Pride is an impatient man and he almost planned to ship his 4-year-old chestnut mare from Yonkers Raceway after she lost her first two starts there. But the mare won her third Yonkers start on August 14, pacing the mile in 2:02.2, the fastest time ever for her. Owner Mike Reppucci of Stamford, Conn., changed his mind about shipping out.

Micheles Pride won four straight mile paces at Roosevelt Raceway, Westerbury, N.Y., in June and July, but Reppucci apparently forgot she didn't win her first race there until her third start of the spring. By winning on August 14, Micheles Pride ran her 1972 earnings to $14,920 in nine races. Last year she won $13,083 on eight wins in 26 starts.

The starting Mets had a total of 40 homers. But the Mets won the game 5-0 behind the pitching of Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw. And Met home runs were hit by first baseman Ed Kranepool and center fielder Tommy Agee.

Schoolboy Grid Powers Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only four teams among the Class 4A elite of Texas high school football saw action Friday night—and the quartet, including top-ranked San Antonio Lee, found the pickings to their liking.

Lee's strong offense was held in check by Seguin, but the Vols nevertheless pulled out a 6-0 shutout. Fifth-ranked Conroe blanked Angleton 34-0, No. 6 Austin Reagan topped San Antonio Marshall 20-7 and No. 7 Port Neches-Groves outscored Houston Spring Branch 41-20.

Meanwhile, Houston Westchester, picked in ninth place, lost 28-13 Thursday night to South Houston. Odessa Permian, San Angelo and Abilene Cooper, ranked second, third and fourth, respectively, and all in the power-packed Dist. 5, had off nights, along with No. 9 Wichita Falls and 10th-ranked Brazoswood.

All the other schoolboy classes also were relatively free of upsets, although the top-ranked team in Class A, Sonora, was beaten and Class B kingpin Celina was tied. Sonora was stopped 21-8 by Ozona of Class 2A and Celina and Tom Bean battled to an 8-8 draw.

Uvalde continued to roll atop Class 3A with a 46-0 slaughter of San Antonio Clemens. Second-ranked Brenham beat Wharton 21-7, but No. 3 Silsbee was held to a 14-14 tie by Huntsville.

Svare Meets With Thomas

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Running back Duane Thomas met with Head Coach Harland Svare Friday to discuss joining the San Diego Chargers but no conclusions were reached, Svare said.

"I am not going to say we are not going to meet again and I am not going to say we are," Svare said. "How's that for an answer?"

Thomas has been property of the Chargers since July 31 when San Diego gave up two promising second-year men to get him from the NFL champion Dallas Cowboys. But the talented runner has worked out with them only once since then.

Thomas, in the final year of a three-year contract he signed when he joined Dallas, wants a new contract with a substantial salary boost. Charger owner Eugene V. Klein made him an offer last week—one which attorney Jack Schall, who volunteered to advise Thomas, said was too good for the athlete to pass up.

Svare initially refused to discuss contract matters with Thomas but subsequently was authorized to do so by Klein.

HOUSTON (AP) — Northwestern State runners finished one, two, three here Friday as the school swept a quadrangular cross country meet.

Northwestern scored 21 points to best runner-up Houston with 35 points, Prairie View with 92 and Texas Southern with 102.

Leo Carlson was first and Frank Trammel second, both finishing with 21:30 clockings over the four-mile course, while teammate David McLeod was third with a 21:51.

Gonzales Gets Title Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rodolfo Gonzales of Long Beach, Calif., is the first challenger to Chango Carmona, the World Boxing Council's new world lightweight champion.

Carmona agreed to the title fight here Nov. 18 Friday when he signed a contract calling for a 15-round bout to be held at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. Gonzales is rated No. 5 by the WBC and was the choice for the match after Pedro Carrasco of Spain turned down a $15,000 guarantee for the fight.

Carmona is 41-8 and Gonzales is 45-4. Both have knocked out 29 foes.

O'Brien Rips Hermleigh

O'BRIEN — Invoking a rule peculiar to six-man football, ending the game at the close of the third quarter, O'Brien defeated the Hermleigh Cardinals 70-24, Friday night.

In the third quarter, the O'Brien Bulldogs kept possession of the football by kicking onside three times and adding 22 points to their 48-24 halftime lead. If a team gets 45 points ahead before the fourth quarter, the six-man football rule book states, that team has the option to call the game.

In the first quarter the Hermleigh Cardinals came on strong. Charles Kuss for the Cards scored first on a running play, only to have the Bulldogs come back for two tallies.

In the second period, Dale Peterson galloped home for a T.D. and Ricky Bowman followed by Kussagain, both on pass plays went into the end zone. Offensively, the Bulldogs had rolled up 48 points by halftime, compared to Hermleigh's 24 total.

A disastrous third quarter marked the end for the Cards as they never held the football.

Mrs. Cudone set a competative course record of one under par 36-37—73 in winning the title for the fifth straight year Friday. Her score equaled her own tournament record of 231 in 1970.

OAKLAND (AP) — The two longest hitting streaks in the American League this season were compiled by two members of the Oakland Athletics. Shortstop Bert Campaneris and outfielder Joe Rudi both hit safely in 17 straight games. Rudi's streak ended after a June 10 game, Campy's after a July 10 game.

Before another year passes an estimated 34,650 Americans will become blind.

Oriole Demise Is Surprising

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles had been fading out of the pennant race in the American League East for a week, but final elimination still caught some of them by surprise.

"What's the magic number now?" asked Frank Cashen, the club's executive vice president, after Boston had whipped the Orioles 4-2 in 10 innings Friday night on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer.

"We really have our backs against the wall now," said outfielder Merv Rettenmund.

Both were informed that the loss to Boston, the sixth for the Orioles in their last seven outings, spelled mathematical elimination for 1972.

"We went down hard all season," said Manager Earl Weaver, who had piloted the Orioles to three consecutive American League titles in his first three full seasons as manager. "We went down hard too many times."

The latest defeat gave Baltimore a 12-17 record in games decided by two runs, and the Orioles are 24-32 in one-run contests. Two years ago, they set a league record by winning 40 one-run decisions.

Weaver apologized to Jerold C. Hoffberger, Baltimore's board chairman, but contended the players "had tried their best."

"I'm sorry, too," Hoffberger said, "but don't worry, starting next year, you'll win five in a row."

Jim Palmer, Friday's losing pitcher who has a 21-10 record for the season with a 2.07 earned run average, said he had felt for several months that the Orioles were "not going to blow anybody out this season."

"I'm a realist," he added.

"For the past month, I didn't see any reason for us to suddenly play better or hit better.

"I think we'll just have to say this season was a learning process; that we'll have to do things differently in the future to win. We're not going to blow anybody out, but we can win in other ways. We still have good pitching and good defense, and we should have better hitting."

Most of the Orioles said they still believed they could win the division title until suffering a doubleheader defeat in Boston on Sept. 20.

"But when you hit about .220 as a team all year," said veteran third baseman Brooks Robinson, "you're not going to win most of the time."

Robinson was asked if the rest of the division had caught up with the Orioles, who won 100 or more games in each of the past three seasons.

"The other teams haven't played any better," he said. "We came back to them." He noted that first-place Boston, for instance, has 83 victories now as compared for 83 for all of 1971 when the Red Sox finished 18 games behind Baltimore.

Blackwell Puts Down Fluvanna

FLUVANNA — Scoring in every period, Blackwell bested Fluvanna Buffaloes 36-19 here Friday night in a Six-Man football contest.

Bob Watts plunged across from the three early in the first quarter for the visitors' first touchdown. Watts also kicked for two extra points.

Fluvanna got back in the game on a 36 yard touchdown pass, Richard Gill to J.W. White, but the try for extra points failed.

Blackwell's Tommy Bledsoe scored a touchdown in the second quarter on a one yard plunge. The conversion kick was blocked. Still in the second period, Ronnie Adams tackled Richard Gill in the end zone as Blackwell got a two point safety and hiked their lead to 16-6. Before the period ended, Bob Watts scored on a one yard plunge. Again, the extra points kick was blocked as the visitors had to settle for a 22-6 halftime lead.

Fluvanna rallied in the third quarter and recovered a fumble on the Blackwell five yard line. Gill passed to Stansell for the touchdown, then Gill connected with Neely Landrum for the two extra points as the Buffs pulled within nine points at 22-13.

Blackwell's Pat Clark and Tommy Boyd teamed up on a 37 yard pass and run play, and Watts kicked for two extra points as the margin soared to 30-13. Still in the third frame, Bledsoe scored on a two yard run, but the extra point was blocked.

Fluvanna's J.W. White tallied on a one yard plunge in the fourth quarter, but the PAT was blocked.

Defensively, Chuck Jones and Larry White were outstanding for Fluvanna while Tommy Bledsoe was outstanding for Blackwell.

Derby Nag Loses Cash

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Forward Pass, the runner-up in the 1968 Kentucky Derby, has officially been awarded the purse originally given to Dancer's Image, the big colt that finished first in the race.

Peter Fuller, owner of Dancer's Image, is continuing his fight for possession of the $5,000 gold cup awarded the winner, however.

A check for the winner's share of the purse has been mailed to Calumet Farms, owner of Forward Pass, said John Tarrant, attorney for Churchill Downs.

Checks were also sent to the owners of Francie's Hat, T.V. Commercial, and the fifth-place finisher in the controversial race, Kentucky Sherry.

All were moved up when the Kentucky Court of Appeals upheld the state racing commission's contention that Peter Fuller's colt had a forbidden medication in his system when he won the Derby.

Fuller is still claiming the winner's trophy, and that issue is still before the racing commission, which was asked by Churchill Downs to make the decision.

Tarrant said the purse money, held in escrow since the dispute erupted, was distributed as follows:

Calumet Farms, $97,600, plus $15,986.78 in interest.

Al Lippe, for Francie's Hat, $12,500, plus $2,047.49 interest.

M. A. Waldheim, for T.V. Commercial, $7,500, plus $1,228.50 interest.

Mrs. Joe W. Brown, for Kentucky Sherry, $5,000 plus $819 interest.

Ramirez Praises Nixon

DALLAS (AP) — The chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-Speaking people says that President Nixon has done more for Mexican-Americans than any other administration.

Henry Ramirez, who is here attending a dinner for Republican congressman Jim Collins, said that Mexican-Americans are becoming aware of the fact that President Nixon "does care about our people."

Ramirez said Nixon has placed more Mexican-Americans in top government positions than the Democratic administrations that preceded him.

"It may be politics," Ramirez said, "but that is the name of the game, and the fact is that we are doing better with the Republicans."

Ramirez said that Mexican-Americans are going through a period of political awareness.

"The manifestations of this awakening," he explained, "are facts like the formation of the Raza Unida party."

The party, formed in South Texas two years ago, is running San Antonio attorney Ramsey Muniz for governor Texas. At its national convention earlier this month the party refused to endorse either Nixon or Sen. George McGovern in the presidential race.

"Only four years," Ramirez said, "we were still delivering our votes to 'papacitos' (daddy). Now are people are more edticated politically and they no longer feel that it socially unacceptable to vote Republican."

Miss Merrill Adds Business

By RENA PEDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — It isn't enough for Dina Merrill to be nestled in the Post Toasties family fortune with actor Cliff Robertson for a husband and an acting career for herself.

"I want to be busy and creative all the time," she said with a technicolor smile.

So she has added the cosmetics business to her roles as wife, mother, actress.

"It all started when a cosmetics company sent me some makeup that gave me huge, giant hives!" she said in a recent Dallas interview. "I was furious that such products could be on the market and I protested. It wasn't their makeup that broke me out, but I told them they ought to bring out a makeup that was absolutely safe for the consumer and easy to use."

She shook her honey blonde hair-immaculately coifed-and said, "There's no reason for some of the things on the market now. They just confuse the consumer and her complexion."

A manufacturer gave Miss Merrill the go-ahead to develop her own safe-and-easy cosmetics. Now she spends a lot of her time jetting to department stores telling women who wish they looked like her how they can try—with her beauty supplies.

"It's fascinating to me," Miss Merrill says. "I like the people, I like the selling, I like the creative end such as designing the packaging—I just like the challenge."

The new role fits in with her motto, "You're never to busy to squeeze in one more thing."

Miss Merrill, 47, has three grown children from her marriage to Stanley Rumbough Jr. and she and husband Cliff have a 4-year-old daughter, Heather Merriwaather. She said they don't mind her new responsibilities, "because we have a great sharing and giving relationship."

STAR-CROSSED LOVERS—Karen Black and Richard Benjamin are seen as star-crossed lovers in 'Portnoy's Complaint," opening Wednesday at the Cinema I Theatre. The Warner Bros. production was based on the best-selling novel by Phillip Roth. Written for the screen and produced and directed by Earnest Lehman, the film, in Panavision and Technicolor, is scored with music by Michel Legrand.

Officer Doesn't Believe In Ghosts

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — Coles County law enforcement officials must not believe in ghosts.

Katherine Fanton, 20, of Mattoon, who operates a "spiritual advisor" business in her home, was arrested Friday and was charged with theft after a patron's $20 bill disappeared.

Mary Caine told police she visited "Sister Katherine," as Miss Fanton calls herself, for spiritual advice.

She said Miss Fanton asked her to put a $20 bill on the table and was told that it would disappear.

It did.

When the patron asked Sister Katherine to give her the bill back after the session was over, Sister Katherine was reported to have said "The spirits took it."

Miss Fanton posted bond and was released.

Convict Graduates With Near-Perfect Grade

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Victor Laurence Taylor earned a bachelor's degree in 21 months with a near-perfect grade average, but he couldn't attend graduation ceremonies at Southern Illinois University.

Taylor is serving a 25-year sentence for bank robbery at the federal penitentiary in Marion, Ill.

Prison officials said Taylor completed his studies through correspondence courses and cooperative programs between the prison, the university and a local junior college.

Taylor received his degree Friday night in special ceremonies at the penetentiary.

Taylor said he studied 60 to 70 hours a week, sometimes finding reading time during his eight-hour-a-day job in the prison's education department. His study schedule netted him a gradepoint average of 4.89 out of a possible 5.00.

The 28-year-old convict majored in psychology with a minor in black American studies. This fall he will be admitted to SIU as a graduate student in psychology.

Walter G. Robinson, Jr., director of the SIU black American studies program, told Taylor's story this way:

The Dallas native enlisted in the Navy when he was 17. His Navy recruiter said he would be eligible for pilot training or officers' training program.

However, he was ruled ineligible for aviation training because he was partially color blind and was then passed up for officer training.

It was then, while still in the Navy, that Taylor robbed his first bank. He and a friend took $125,000 from a San Diego naval station bank in November 1963.

He was caught, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten years. He served four years of that sentence, then went home to Dallas on parole.

However, he was arrested for a jewelry store robbery in Oklahoma and sentenced to 95 years.

In March 1968 he escaped from the state prison in Oklahoma City, and went on a bank-robbing spree through Arkansas and Louisiana. Forty-four days after his escape, he was back in prison—this time in a federal penitentiary in Atlanta, on new bank robbery charges.

In October 1969 he escaped from the Atlanta prison. He was free only a few hours. He was transferred to the maximum security institution at Marion in 1970 because authorities feared he would attempt another escape.

Taylor is up for parole in 1976. But Oklahoma officials will be waiting for him to finish his term for the jewelry store robbery whenever the federal prison releases him.

He has a possible 52 more years in prison, the combined total of the federal and state sentences.

Weather Delays High Plains' Cotton Maturity

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Light to heavy rains brought needed moisture to southern and eastern sections, of Texas last week Dr. John E. Hutchinson, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said.

However, the cool, wet weather further delayed cotton maturity on the High Plains, he said.

The cotton harvest moved along well in Central Texas with about 75 per cent of the crop in the Blacklands, he said.

Late summer rains boosted ranges in northern and western areas, Hutchinson said, but grazing is short in some eastern counties and stock water is low. Screwworm and ear tick infestations remained heavy in many counties although screwworm cases eased a bit during the week.

Agricultural agents gave these reports;

Panhandle: Wheat planting is active and the crop ranges from 70 to 90 per cent planted in most counties. Corn harvesting has started in southwestern counties and some grain sorghum is being harvested in Donley and Collingsworth counties.

South Plains: Some early planted grain sorghum is being harvested. Late plantings are heavily infested with sorghum midge. Soybeans are progressing well with some early varieties beginning to mature. Small grains are in excellent shape although grub worms and armyworms are causing some damage.

Rolling Plains: About half of the cotton is open in some counties. The first bales were ginned in Hall and Hardeman counties. Wheat planting is at the halfway mark in some counties with early plantings making good progress. Armyworms are active in some small grain fields.

North Central: Cotton yields range from fair to good. Some early peanuts are being harvested. Some wheat and oats are being planted but planting moisture is short in most counties. The pecan crop looks good with shucks beginning to split.

Northeast: The cotton harvest is active with fair to good yields. Corn harvesting also is in progress with some low yields. Soybean yield prospects have been reduced by the dry weather. Stock water is low in many areas. Hay feed is active.

Far West: Hot, dry weather is needed for cotton to open. Some grain sorghum is being harvested. The late crop shows promise for good yields. Livestock conditions are excellent.

West Central: Some cotton is opening but low yields are expected due to heavy boll weevil damage. Grain sorghum yields are about average. A good pecan harvest is expected in a number of counties. The peanut crop looks good.

Central: About 75 per cent of the cotton crop is harvested in the Blacklands. About 15 per cent of the peanut crop is in with good yields. About half of the small grain acreage is planted in some counties and armyworms are infesting some early plantings.

East: Peanuts are being harvested with good yields. Fall vegetable planting is active. Hay making is active with some producers making a fourth cutting. Insect damage is heavy on pecans.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Cotton yields are generally good with about 80 per cent of the crop harvested. The second rice crop is making good progress. Insects are a major problem in soybeans. Ear tick and screwworm infestations are heavy in Calhoun and Victoria Counties.

South Central: Most harvest operations are complete. Pecans are beginning to hull with a generally good harvest in prospect, but insect damage has been heavy in some counties. Ear ticks and screwworms continue to plague livestock.

Southwest: Winter vegetables are making good growth with some squash, peppers and cucumbers moving to market. Late peanuts are being harvested with good yields. The pecan harvest is about to start and good yields are expected.

South: Cabbage, carrots, peppers, tomatoes and citrus are growing well. Cucumbers and squash are ready to harvest in Kleberg County. Ear tick and screwworm infestations eased some during the past week.

Special Offerings Are Announced At College

Several offerings in a community services and continuing education have been announced by Western Texas College.

These include a course in basic radio broadcasting, a course in powder puff mechanics, a course in China painting and a course in mid-management.

The broadcasting course to be conducted by a team from KSNY, will cover 20 clock hours and will include techniques of broadcasting, radio advertising and the understanding of the electronics of radio. It will begin Oct. 16 and tuition will be $20 per student.

The powder puff mechanics course, to begin on or before Oct. 20, will be designed to assist women in understanding the theory of the internal combustion engine as well as the identification of minor malfunctions and their corrections, tire changing, etc. It will be taught by a WTC instructor. Time and cost is to be arranged.

Mrs. R.C. Patton, Snyder artist, will teach the course in China painting. The course is open to men and women and a minimum of 10 students will be required to organize a class.

The mid-management department of WTC, in cooperation with the Small Business Administration, will sponsor a course titled "Know Your Customer." The class will meet each Thursday evening in October from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the occupational-technical building. The total cost will be $7.50 per student, with all materials furnished. The instructor will be Harry Dietz of WTC.

Texas Business Recovers

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Business Bureau says there is little doubt that Texas business has recovered from the recent recession.

But the threat of inflation still exists, said Dr. John R. Stockton in a special report on the state's business activity.

Texas business surged upward in August after an erratic decline in July, "continuing the strong rise that has been characteristic of the economy throughout most of 1972," Stockton said.

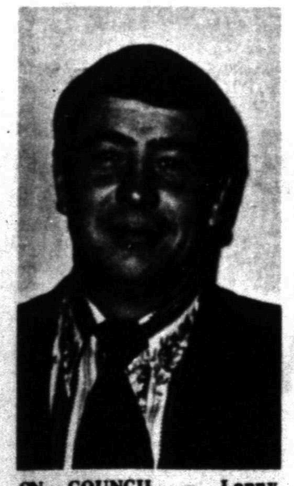

The rise of 8 per cent in August restored practically all of the loss registered in July.

"This rise in the measure of total business activity corresponds with the behavior of practically all of the barometers of business in the state," Stockton said.

"The improvement shown in Texas indexes is uniformly good; there exists little doubt that the recovery from the recent recession is real. The threat of inflation, however, is also real."

Stockton pointed out that a dollar spent on goods and services in 1960 would buy only 72 cents worth of the same goods and services now in Houston or just 71 cents nationwide.

That same dollar would have bought $1.19 worth of goods and services in Houston in 1950 or $1.23 nationwide. Stockton noted that the buying power of the dollar has its big drop just since 1965, about 22 per cent.

ON COUNCIL — Lanny Wadleigh of Wadleigh Construction Co., Inc., of Snyder served in September as a member of the Dealer Council of Star Manufacturing Co. He received recognition for his service from R.D. Hall, president of the Oklahoma City-based manufacturer of metal building systems. The council helps management formulate policies for mutual benefit of dealers and the manufacturer.

Naturalists say that wolves have some good traits. They are monogamous, good parents and providers, loyal, brave, intelligent and inquisitive. By weeding the weak and unfit from wild animal herds, they upgrade the stock.

Robbers Timing Off

NEW YORK (AP) — It was payday for the FBI here Friday and two men picked the wrong bank and the wrong time to try and rob it.

When the men entered the Manhattan bank, there were nine FBI agents inside transacting personal business. In fact, the bank, on the Upper East Side and located near an FBI office, has about 300 agent-customers.

Branch Manager Philip Horton said the two men went to different windows, where each presented notes that read, "I have a bomb. Give me $10,000 or—."

Horton said two agents were standing in line behind one of the luckless robbers.

"What are you doing?" one agent asked the man, who was carrying a cardboard box covered with black paper.

"This is a stickup," the man reportedly replied.

"The hell it is," the agent said, pulling his gun.

Other agents joined in the capture and the situation was well in hand when police arrived.

Hearing To Be Set On Police Firings

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston Civil Service Commission hearing will be set soon to rule on the firing of three Houston policemen Friday by Chief Herman Short, city officials said.

Short fired officers J. D. Skipper, J. D. Harmon and J. P. Williams after they admitted taking home three pistols seized in a gambling raid here.

A fourth officer, J. W. Conley, who took part in the raids but did not report that the other officers took the pistols, was suspended for 10 days, Short said.

Inspector W. L. Williams, who investigated the incident, said the pistols were apparently thrown on the floor by several of the 20 persons arrested by the officers at a gambling raid on a Houston bar.

The officers held the pistols in the air and asked someone to claim them but no one did, Williams said, probably because carrying a pistol into a place where alcohol is consumed is a felony.

He said all three officers admitted they took the weapons home instead of turning them in, but said the three told him they had planned to do so but forgot.

"Their records are perfect," Williams said of the three. "They have been excellent officers."

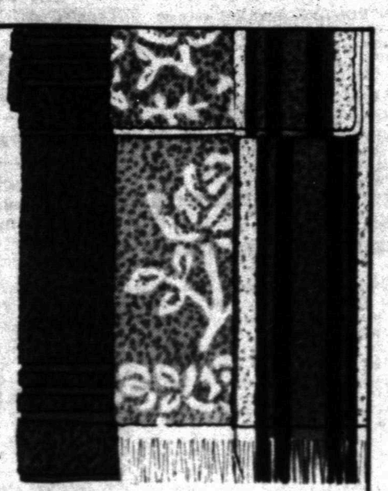

"The pistols taken were old and beat up," he added. "None of them would be worth $10 apiece. But we just can't tolerate this sort of thing."

Wichita Falls Church Scene Of McGlaun, Compton Vows

MRS. JAMES MICHAEL COMPTON

Before an altar banked in greenery and white chrysanthemums and lighted by votive candles in branched candelabra, Mary Katherine McGlaun became the bride of Lt. James Michael Compton. The ceremony, held in the First Baptist Chapel of Wichita Falls, was performed by Dr. Landrum P. Leavell, pastor of the church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. McGlaun of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Carson L. Compton of Manchester, Tenn.

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal gown of ivory silk organza and Chantilly lace. It was designed with a Victorian neckline, bishop sleeves and an Empire waist. Handsewn pearls were used as accents with the lace. The bride carried gardenias, white roses, gypsophila and ivy.

Miss Linda Kirkland of Fort Worth, maid of honor, was dressed in burnt orange jersey with ecru lace. The dress featured a Victorian neckline and bishop sleeves. She carried tangerine carnations, Tripicana roses and yellow pompoms.

Mrs. Alecia Richardson, bridesmatron, was dressed idential to the maid of honor.

Attending his son as best man was Carson Compton. Robert Thompson Jr. of Manchester, Tenn., was groomsman with Ray Compton, also of Manchester, the groom's brother, as junior groomsman. Ushering were David F. McCullah of Midland and Gerald McGlaun of Fort Worth.

The bride's parents hosted the reception in the church parlor. Assistants were Misses Sherri, Debbie and Joy McGlaun of Snyder; Mmes. M.E. Harrell, Jimmie Marks, Thomas Baccus of Lubbock; Zoe Edwards of Midland; Vic Taylor of Dallas; and R.S. McCullah of San Angelo.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner in the Woman's Forum.

Following the wedding trip to Mexico City, the couple will live in Fort Knox, Ky., where Lt. Compton is stationed with the U.S. Army until February, then the couple will go to Illeshiem, Germany for a tour of duty.

Mrs. Compton is a graduate of Midwestern University where she belonged to Alpha Phi sorority. She has been employed by Castleberry Independent School District. The bridegroom is a graduate of Middle Tennessee State University where he was in Kappa Alpha Order.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wilson, Mr.. and Mrs. O.D. McGlaun and Jack McGlaun, all of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. R.S. McCullah of San Angelo; Mrs. Bill Stirman of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Doug McGlaun of Fort Worth; Loyd McGlaun of Big Spring and Mrs. Dell Stirman of Midland.

Mrs. Compton is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wilson of 2609 Thirty-fifth and Mr. and Mrs. O.D. McGlaun of 2402 Ave. M, all of Snyder.

Drop-out Leads ISRAD At University Of New Mexico

By LYNN B. VILLELLA
Albuquerque Tribune Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Grace Olivarez "dropped out" at the end of her junior year of high school.

Twenty years later, divorced and with an 8-year-old son, she entered law school at the prestigious University of Notre Dame.

Today the tall, dark, attractive attorney is director of the Institute for Social Research and Development (ISRAD) at the University of New Mexico.

She heads a multifaceted program that operates under more than $2.75 million in contracts and appropriations.

Mrs. Olivarez succeeded former New Mexico Gov. Jack Campbell as director of the institute, which employs 280 persons.

"I would like to see New Mexico be the leader in dealing with problems of population, environment and poverty issues," declares Mrs. Olivarez. "I think New Mexico has the most beautiful opportunity to take these problems and be innovative and creative.

"New Mexico can be one of the few states that keeps clean air and avoids congestion...we can accommodate another half-million people but it will take planning," she said.

Grace Olivarez grew up in a small mining town near Phoenix, Ariz. Her father was from Spain; her mother was of Mexican-Irish descent. She knew English but spoke only Spanish until just 10 years ago. She didn't start reading books until 1966 and before she entered law school in 1967 she had never been in a library.

"Then I hounded the library," she says grimly. "And buying books—it has become an addiction with me."

Although Grace's background sounds "culturally deprived," it was, in reality, anything but.

She has been involved in civil rights programs, in Mexican and Chicano affairs since her late teens. Her involvement has been zealous and meaningful.

In law school Grace feels she "discovered herself." Survival became crucial.

"It was my first time away from home," she observes. "I was renting an apartment for the first time. I was strictly on my own with a son and a nephew to support. The environment was completely new—all male and midwestern.

Before joining ISRAD, Mrs. Olivarez was associated in Phoenix, with "Food for All" a federally funded program.

In 1960 she was appointed by President Nixon to the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future. She had recently completed that two-year assignment.

Mrs. Olivarez is the first woman on a high administrative level at the University of New Mexico.

"If I am invited to make a presentation before the vice presidents of the university I am not addressing anyone but men," she says, adding, "In the committee of deans there is only one woman—dean of the school of nursing.

When Grace meets with the ISRAD project directors she is dealing with an all male group Ditto the executive committee.

"And I refuse to use feminine wits to get my requests granted," she declares. "I see myself as an administrator, not as a woman."

Lady Bus Driver Likes Job

DALLAS (AP) — Despite 29 years of new vehicle contraptions, the only female bus driver in Dallas hangs in there because "the people make me feel important."

Mrs. Lavada Wilson started to work for the Dallas bus system in 1843 in answer to a newspaper advertisement for women drivers, she said. Sixty women were recruited during wartime, and only three remained as drivers by 1954.

"I used to dream of marrying a truck driver and we'd drive," the grandmother explained, recalling her girlhood fantasies. "I've almost satisfied my wanting to drive," she adds.

With all the problems some passengers give her about the no smoking rule or paying zone fares, Mrs. Wilson said the job is very rewarding because people make her feel "good and important."

Once a young woman resisted paying zone fare when getting off the bus instead of paying when getting on.

"I though she really hated me. Then, one day she told me that she liked the way I handled the bus. It makes me feel so good," Mrs. Wilson said.

But her favorite people are the "boys at the barn".

"One of the boys at the barn (bus garage) asked me, 'Vada, whatcha gonna do when you retire? You're all alone,"' she said.

"I guess I want to work at a day care center. I like little kids," she said.

She recalled one day recently when her son rode her bus. "He brought me my little granddaughter. I let her push the button to turn the route sign. She's real smart."

Roth Releases Silly Story

THE BREAST. By Philip Roth. Holt, Rinehart. 78 Pages. $4.95.

This is a short story, put up in hardback form, about one David Kepesh, who between the hours of midnight and 4 a.m. on Feb. 18, 1971, underwent a massive hormonal change that turned him into a female breast, not connected with any female—and retaining his original height of six feet. It is told in the first person by Kepesh himself.

The idea is sheer fantasy, of course, but like a one-joke book it goes on and on without developing the fantasy.

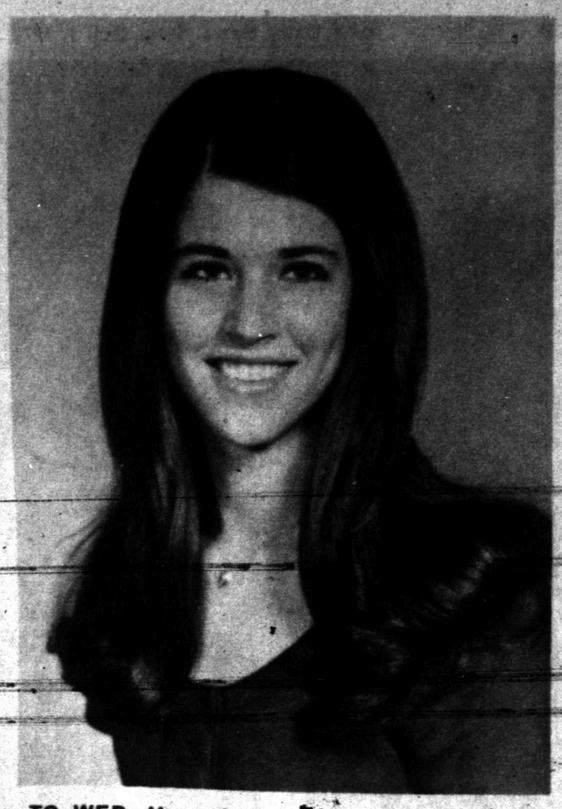

About the only developments are that Kepesh decides at first that he is living through a nightmare, and that he isn't really a breast. Next he decides he is not dreaming, but has lost his sanity and only thinks he is a breast. He talks these things over with the head shrinker he had been seeing before the great event.

Kepesh also discovers that when he is massaged he has erotic feelings. This gives the author an opportunity to ring in some very explicit sexual thoughts, but the story is not as raunchy as his supposedly comic novel in which masturbation is a prominent element, "Portnoy's Complaint."

Roth's most recent work, "Our Gang," was a sophomoric political satire which did not stir much attention, so apparently he has decided to return to gamier subjects.

It may occur to the reader that Roth is indulging in a leg-pull, mocking the ease with which he and other writers have hit the best-seller lists with bedroom and bathroom books. This does not seem to be a tenable theory, as the story isn't even ridiculous.

Hair Spray Gets Supreme Test

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A woman in the U. S. Steel building almost got the supreme test for her hair spray's holding power.

Firemen rushed to the building Wednesday when women claimed they smelled smoke in the women's room. Firemen found no smoke, but...

"We think the girls were smelling hair spray," said Battalion Chief Joseph Mullen. "It was kind of a deodorant smell. One of the girls was still spraying when we got there." — a small, dark, automatic pistol.

Pistol Completed The Ensemble

DETROIT (AP) — The world of "haute couture" has caught up with the criminal class.

Police and the FBI are looking for a holdup man who withdrew $4,000 from a branch office of the Bank of the Commonwealth here Friday.

A teller said the bandit was arrayed in a black wig with a swirl effect on the left side, and matching black-rimmed sunglasses with green lenses. A dark woman's shawl over his shoulders accented his long-sleeved, multi-colored shirt but did not cover his red bell bottom trousers.

Completing the ensemble was a small, dark, automatic pistol.

Towns Bans Trick Or Treating

COMMERCIAL, N.J. (AP) — There will be no trick or treating in this southern New Jersey town this Halloween. The township committee has ordered a ban on the traditional children's holiday activities.

Officials said Friday there has been "too much vandalism" on Mischief Night and Halloween. Therefore, a dusk to dawn curfew for those under 18 will be put into force two weeks before the holiday so youths can get used to it, they said.

"Halloween is part of growing up," said Mayor John Panco, "but it's been getting out of hand the last few years."

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Men yell 'Geronimo' when they jump. I was going to yell 'Pocahontas,' But with all that happened, I forgot." Nancy Gail Volkmann from her hospital bed after falling nearly 3,000 feet under a partially opened parachute.

"Initially, I was afraid, as I remember, to sign my name to a report—I always used initials. But I got over that after awhile. I was always being mistaken for a secretary, but I found it bothered the men more than it did me." Dr. June Turley on her rise to the management level at Dow Chemical Co.

"I realized that when I was 50 I'd still be daydreaming that next year I was going to do something." Marilyn Durham describing the motivation for her first novel, "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing."

"There are days when tennis is significant and days when it isn't. This was one when it wasn't." Billie Jean King after losing 6-4, 6-1 to Margaret Court.

"We must not let Right to Life groups dictate their own beliefs to other women or to anybody else." Mrs. John V. Lindsay, wife of New York's mayor, speaking on organizations favoring restrictive abortion laws.

Lighthouse Keepers Married On Beach

MICHIPICOTEN, Ont. (AP) — With the Lake Superior surf providing a backdrop, Cape Breton-born Ann Whitehouse and Ojibway Indian Joe Thibeault were married on the beach here after a romance by correspondence.

They met briefly in Toronto, where Ann was living, some years ago. Later they started writing each other, and Ann's letters eased the loneliness in Joe's life as lighthouse keeper on Michipicoten Island. They became engaged by mail two years ago.

The groom, a former fisherman who has been lightkeeping for 10 years, was dressed in Indian regalia as he rode up to the beach on horseback for the outdoors wedding ceremony.

The bride, from New Waterford, N.S., wore a long, brightly hued dress which Joe said signified nature's colors and life.

Scurry County Unit Of ACS Exceeds Goal

In closing out a most successful campaign and work of service, the board of the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society proudly announces that the final countdown for the recent campaign was $10,926.12. The self imposed goal was $10,000.

The board wished to commend the chairmen of the various divisions and the more than 500 volunteer workers who worked so untiringly for the cause.

Dr. R.B. Caraway of Austin, president of the Texas division, stated recently at the annual meeting in Dallas, "Doctors alone can never conquer cancer. They must have the aid of a dedicated public, the millions of volunteers over our nation who are passsing out life saving educational material and helping in the rehabilitation program." He stated further that most cancers can be cured if treated early.

The organization accepted this challenge by manning a booth at the County Fair. Approximately 3,150 educational pamphlets were passed out during the three days.

Scurry County residents have contributed freely to ACS Memorials, remembering their relatives with a "Gift of Life." This gift not only honors the dead, but could provide a gift of life for someone else. Those desiring to contribute a memorial to this ACS fund should contact H.W. Cargile at the West Texas State Bank.

Finding Alternative To Drug Use Is Discussed

"IT'S SO GOOD, DON'T EVEN TRY IT ONCE." Heroin in Perspective. Edited by David E. Smith, M.D., and George R. Gay, M.D. Prentice-Hall. 208 Pages $5.95 (Spectrum paperbound $2.45)

Heroin, says Dr. Gay, "is the 'I don't give a damn drug,' the social anesthetic."

And the search for the anesthesia, the escape it produces, has brought an explosive epidemic of heroin abuse. Once confined mainly to ghettos, where it was largely ignored, heroin recently seized middle-class white American youngsters, and more lately blue-collar kids, and untold thousands of Vietnam GIs.

Why the appeal of such a drug, so "good" a first experience can be highly euphoric, but later so dangerously addictive and destructive? Drs. Smith and Gay offer a diagnosis and discuss some approaches from their vantage point of witnessing, and trying to help, a tragic parade of young addics through the Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinic in San Francisco.

Drug abuse is by no means a simplistic, cause-and-effect affair, controllable by "law and order" methods, they write.

"The bitter fact is that heroin dependence and other drug abuse patterns (they include tranquillizers, alcohol, sleeping pills) are merely the symptoms of a complex medical, psychological and social disease whose causes are interwoven with the very fabric of American society. We can cure America's heroin epidemic only by understanding the full dimensions of the problem and developing effective, consistent means of treatment that are based not on preconceptions but on 'what works.'"

"Rather than declaring the drug abuse problem to be 'Public Enemy Number 1,' we must realize that the true enemy is ourselves—witness our immoral and unjust involvement in Southeast Asia, our racist attitudes, our inability to deal with problems of minority ghettos," and other social ills.

"Our country must undergo an immediate and dramatic reorientation of national priorities and we must look for contemporary solutions to contemporary problems," they assert.

Other authors discuss the pharmacology, the social and psychological aspects of heroin use, and treatment methods, including methadone, Synanon, Daytop and other programs.

In a concluding chapter, Dr. Allan Y. Cohen says people use drugs because they want to, and will stop only when they want to. The course, he says, should be to find alternative (not substitute) attitudes, strategies, activities and lifestyles that can help people attain their legitimate personal aspirations. An appended glossary of street and drug terms add another passport to understanding a complex epidemic through this insightful book.

NEW YORK (AP) — To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, Mme. Olga Koussevitzky, president of the foundation, has announced a commissioning project under which six composers will each write a large-scale piece of chamber music.

The music will be premiered by the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, three during the 1972-73 season, three during the following season.

The composers are Barbara Kolb, a native of Hartford, Conn.; Earl Kim, of Dinuba, Calif.; Stanley Silverman, New York; Friedrich Cerha, Austria; Karel Husa, Czechoslovakia, and Tiberiu Olah, Roumania.

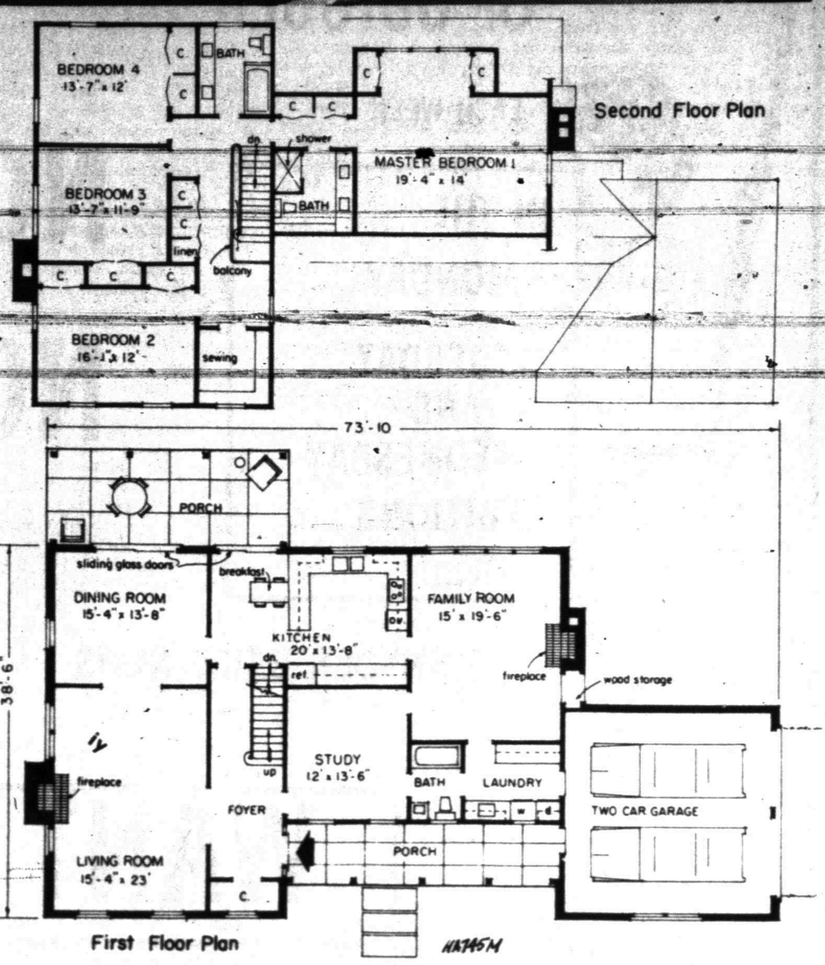

Company Folds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Committee, performing nonstop ad lib satire among the strip dens of gaudy North Beach for almost a decade, has announced it will fold because of financial troubles.

Alan Myerson, who founded the company here in 1963, blamed the closing on the "economic situation" of the Nixon years, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto and the "disaster" which converted neighborly, solid North Beach into a blaring carnival of strip joints, shills and overpriced drinks.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

OUTSTANDING FEATURE of this Colonial home is the large size of all rooms. In addition to living and dining rooms, kitchen and four bedrooms, this home has a king-size family room and a study. A 28-foot-wide front porch covers the front entrance. The center hall divides the traffic flow. The kitchen has efficiency in mind with its U shape. The breakfast area and dining room have sliding glass doors to the rear porch. Both the living and family room have log-burning fireplaces. The study, which could be used as a professional office, has direct access to the front door and direct access to a bath. The family room could double as a doctor's examination room if needed. Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q.—My son spilled some ink on a varnished wooden table top. Unfortunately, he didn't tell us about it immediately. Several weeks have now passed. Is it still possible to get off the stain?

A.—I'm afraid not. Once ink settles into the pores of wood—or even the finish—it's impossible to get it out. There is one possibility. If the table top had a reasonably thick coat of paste wax on it, the stain might have been prevented from penetrating. But this is only a slim possibility.

Vigorously rub down the top with turpentine in the hope that removing the wax will also remove the stain. If the wax comes off but not the stain, try rubbing the area with rottenstone and oil as explained in the previous answer. If that doesn't work, you have no choice but to take off the entire finish with a varnish remover.

The chances are the stain will come off, but if it shouldn't, because it is in the bare wood itself, you'll have to bleach it out with a commercial wood bleach, sold in most hardware stores, lumber yards and paint stores.

Q.—I clipped a story out of a newspaper some time ago about a refinishing project. It said to use water putty to fill nail holes in the wood. When I went to purchase some, the hardware dealer said he didn't have it in stock but offered to sell me some plastic wood. He said it's the same thing. Is it?

A.—While water putty and plastic wood are both used for patching wood, they definitely are not the same. Water putty is a powdery substance which must be mixed with water to a putty-like consistency. To get the color you want—if you are trying to match the color of the wood—you must mix it with dry coloring.

Plastic wood is used just as it comes from the can or tube. It is available in a natural color, but well-stocked stores also carry it in light mahogany, dark mahogany, oak and walnut. Both water putty and plastic wood harden so that they can be sanded.

Land Purchased For Wombats

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Chicago Zoological Society, using funds provided by the Forest Park Foundation of Peoria, owns 13,800 acres of semi-arid land in South Australia's "outback" to help increase the chances for the rare hairy-nosed wombat to survive.

The purchase was the first attempt by an outside zoological society to aid Australian wildlife.

The society bought the reserve when it became evident that the wombat's very existence was threatened by sheepmen. The entire area has been fenced and a game warden patrols the area.

The wombat survives only in isolated colonies in the hot, dry lands of South Australia and Queensland. Like many desert mammals, the wombat is mainly nocturnal and spends daylight hours in burrows where the temperature is about 65 degrees.

Casals Turns Down Home

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Cellist Pablo Casals has been offered a home in Mexico by a Guadalajara couple who had it built especially for the 95-year-old musician.

Casals, however, has decided the building should be used as a cultural center, his wife, Marta, says.

Neighbors In Uproar Over Dogs

LONDON (AH) — The barking of ex-Beatle Paul McCartney's English sheepdog and her eight pups have his neighbors in an uproar.

Neighbors in the exclusive St. John's Wood district at first asked McCartney by letter to keep the dogs quiet, then three filed a formal complaint with police over the day-and-night yapping.

One of McCartney's neighbors said Thursday that one of the notes sent previously to the former Beatle had been returned to the sender with a crudely scrawled, four-letter word reply.

"It was inexcusable,' said the neighbor, who declined to be identified. "There was no need at all to send that. It just shows a dreadful lack of manners."

McCartney commented, "They're all mad around here. They're a load of colonels — I don't care what they say."

Cancer Threatens Lives Of Shipyard Workers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A type of cancer caused by exposure to asbestos threatens the lives of thousands of World War II American shipyard workers, a cancer authority says.

The disease—a tumor affecting the lining of the chest or abdomen—has only recently begun to appear, 30 years after exposure, the National Cancer Conference was told Friday.

Dr. Irving J. Selikoff, director of the environmental sciences laboratory of Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York, said it was possible that 32,500 to 225,000 of the 3.25 million World War II shipyard workers still living could be killed by the disease.

Silokoff said it had been determined that a maximum of 7 per cent of shipyard workers directly exposed to asbestos had died of mesothelioma, but that no figures were available on workers whose exposure was indirect.

He said the disease, which has surfaced only in recent years, was "a new and potentially very serious environmental cancer" and the cases occurring as a result of indirect occupational exposure to asbestos will be "another unhappy legacy of World War II."

Selikoff said it has been known for almost 20 years that occupational exposure to asbestos is "associated with increased risk of lung cancer."

He said that until recently mesothelioma was so rare that it did not warrant separate classification as a cause of death.

"In the past decade," Selikoff said, "these tumors have suddenly become much less rare. Series of 25 to 80 or more cases are not uncommon, and have been reported in many parts of the world — the United States, Great Britain, South Africa, Germany."

About 300 cases have been listed in the United States and 1,200 in Britain, he said.

Selikoff said that among cases in Britain, few of the victims had been asbestos workers but had been employed in the same yards in which a relatively small number of other men had been working with asbestos.

"Such cases already are being seen in our country," he said. "In the past year, a number of such World War II mesotheliomas have been brought to our attention; the last five cases had worked in East or West Coast shipyards as an electrician, a tinsmith, an engineer, a steamfitter and a welder.

"Another, a young man of 30, died of pleural (lung) mesothelioma. Although he had never worked in a shipyard, much asbestos was found in his lung. He had been born two blocks from the Brooklyn Navy Yard."

Many Varieties Of Apples

MONTAGUE, Tex. (AP) — Whether you like apples for teacher—or eat them to "keep the doctor away" -the Fruit Research-Demonstration Station at Montague may have just the apple you need.

Research at Montague, part of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station system, is proving that apples can grow in North Texas. Fall "Delicious" type apples off a new commercial crop for North Texas orchardists, says Bobby D. Reeder, superintendent of the station, two miles west of Montague.

Apples are no newcomers to the Montague area. Growers have been harvesting the summer Holland apple for many years. A Holland apple from Montague County won a first prize at the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1903. The Holland, an excellent cooking apple, has been grown commercially in this region.

Fruit growing was introduced to Montague County in the 1870s by Italian settlers. The immigrants picked the Montague soil because it would grow grapes.

Early Italian settlers, including the Fenoglios, Nobiles, Carminatis and others, planted grapevines and later added peaches and other fruits.

One of the earliest apple growers was the late Pete Corado, who had a large Holland planting. His son, Henry, still grows fruit near Montague. Bill Vicari, a grandson, farms the old Corado orchard now and plans to include the new fall apple varieties.

Another early apple grower was Clarence Newsom of Bowie. He marketed Holland apples for several years. He recently sold his orchards, but the new owner is planning to increase the apple acreage.

The possibilities of fall eating apples largely was ignored until 1962 when plantings were made at the Fruit Station. Early growth indicated the fruit had potential. North Texas fall apples mature several weeks in advance of traditional apple-producing states as Washington and Michigan, Reeder explained.

Preliminary work at the Station prompted peach grower L. A. Whitecottons now have about 40 acres of apple plantings, some coming into production this season. Yield this year is about three bushels per tree.

Altogether, Reeder estimates Montague County now has approximately 200 acres in apple production.

Meanwhile, apple research work at the station is being expanded. a new research project was inaugurated this year to evaluate apple varieties and rootstocks for Texas conditions. Twenty-one new varieties were set out in 1972 to test their adaptability to Texas growing conditions.

Astronaut Mitchell Is Retiring Today

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell, who once tried to send mental signals from space, is retiring Sunday to form an organization to study "the psychic potential of man and other forms of life."

The 42-year-old astronaut and Navy captain said he is establishing a "service organization" to be called Edgar D. Mitchell & Associates, Inc.

"Our purpose is to help people develop greater awareness of themselves, of their relationship to other people and to the processes of nature he said. "We think scientific research into psychic phenomena is an important key to developing that awareness. We will make out findings as widely known as possible to the scientific community and the general public."

Mitchell was the lunar module pilot on Apollo 14, the 1971 lunar mission, and was the sixth man to walk on the moon.

At carefully scheduled times during the moon voyage, Mitchell tried to communicate a signal mentally to four persons on earth, including Olof Jonsson, a Chicago man known in parapsychology circles as a "sensitive."

Mitchell took a deck of cards designed at Duke University to test for extra sensory perception. Six times during his mission the astronaut concentrated on the cards, looking at them in random order.

Meanwhile, back on earth, Jonsson and three other "sensitives" also concentrated, trying to catch the image projected from Mitchell's mind.

Months after the flight, Mitchell said in a scientific paper that the results were "statistically significant", although Jonsson and the others determined the correct order of only a few of the cards.

The space agency disavowed any support for the experiment and some officials have said privately they were embarrassed by the whole thing.

Since his moon mission, Mitchell has continued to study psychic phenomenon. Earlier this year he claimed that a lady friend, who had a kidney disease, became healthy after ministrations from a faith healer.

Mitchell, however, made no claims for the healer.

"You don't base any scientific finding on one data point," he said. "Medical people can come up with any number of explanations."

Mitchell's retirement from the astronaut corps and from the Navy was announced last spring, but became effective Sunday. At the time of the retirement announcement, space agency officials said it was part of a "planned phasedown" of the astronaut corps.

The astronaut's new organization will be supported by about 75 scientists, physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, educators and business executives, according to the announcement.

Dr. William A. Tiller of Stanford University will help coordinate the activities, the announcement said, and the board of directors includes Dr. Stanley R. Dean of the University of Florida and Christopher Hegarty, a businessman.

The announcement quotes Mitchell as saying, "my associates and I feel we are approaching major breakthroughs in understanding the mind."

He said their work will "help enrich people's lives, expand their consciousness and encourage individual responsibility for planetary problems."

Speaking of the research effort in an earlier interview, Mitchell said, "You can characterize it as a search for truth with a capital T."

Di Bonaventures Are Separated

NEW YORK (AP) — What was once called a Cinderella story, in reverse, has ended here with the separation of the granddaughter of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the son of an Italian barber.

Attorney Vincent Malone filed notice Friday of a separation in Manhattan Supreme Court. He said the former Sara Delano Roosevelt and her husband, Anthony Di Bonaventura, would be divorced soon, but he did not say why.

The Di Bonaventuras were married 19 years ago and have five children. Mrs. Di Bonaventura was heiress to the $50 million fortune of her stepfather, John Hay Whitney.

Our Traffic Laws

BY BOBBY GOODWIN
Snyder Police Chief

Did you know that the 62nd Legislature enacted some new traffic Laws in the interest of traffic safety? The Snyder Police Department would like to bring your attention to these new laws in an effort to gain your support and compliance with those new laws.

Over the next few days we hope to inform you of these changes or additions. We are currently experiencing approximately two wrecks per day. Fortunately we have not had any fatalities to this date. Radar is being worked on a daily basis with concentration in the heaviest traffic area, with some marked results.

Today we would like for you to know about homicide by a vehicle. Whoever shall unlawfully and unintentionally (with a conscious disregard for the rights of others) cause the death of another person while engaged in the violation of an State law or municipal ordinance applying to the operation or use of a vehicle shall be guilty of homicide when such violation is the proximate cause of said death. Any person convicted of homicide by a vehicle shall be fined not less than five hundred ($500.00) nor more than two thousand ($2000.) or shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than three (3) months nor more than one (1) year, or may be so fined and so imprisoned.

Houston Is Losing Land To Sea Inch By Inch

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The more water Houston uses, the more land Houston loses—and nobody knows just where it will stop.

Inch by inch, like a leaky balloon slowly collapsing, the ground in Houston and the area surrounding Galveston Bay is sinking. And as it does, bay waters rush in to claim acreage once high and dry.

The word for the phenomenon is "subsidence" and the result of it is expensive and even disastrous.

Streets are being slowly flooded, homes are being cut off, trees die in salt water, docks and levees must be raised and park lands turn into lakes.

The cause is well known. Industries, cities and individuals are using too much water from the wrong place.

Most of the domestic and industrial water used in the Galveston Bay area which includes Houston and its satellite cities, is pumped from a subsurface formation called the Beaumont Clays.

These clays contain a gigantic and very efficient aquifer. As rain falls inland of the deposit, water moves toward the Gulf of Mexico and becomes trapped in sand cavities within the formation.

Pioneering city builders and ranchers discovered this deposit of pure, sweet water decades ago and it has been heavily mined ever since.

But only in recent years have residents begun to notice that as the water use increases, so does the subsidence. On the average now, about 600 million gallons of water per day are pumped out of the Beaumont Clays. Overhalf of it is pumped out by municipalities, principally Houston. Most of the rest of the pumping is by industry, especially the huge paper and petrochemical complex along the Houston ship channel.

Robert K. Gabrysch, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, said that as the water is pumped out, the pressure in the sand cavities is decreased. This pressure difference causes water to be forced from the surrounding clays. The clay, in turn, then compresses causing the ground surface to sink.

It doesn't happen quickly, said Gabrysch.

"In most of the areas it amounts to only a few tenths of a foot per year," he said.

But when your property is only three or four feet above mean sea level to begin with, those few centimeters a year can be very important.

There are a number of towns around upper Galveston Bay which have been hit hard by sinking ground and rising water.

Sections of Kemah and Seabrook, bayfront communities near Clear Lake, are now almost constantly under water.

In Baytown, just east of Houston, many showcase homes are protected from bay waters only by the flood walls property owners built at costs of up to $3,000. And despite this protection, even mild storms cause flooding. Streets in the area are often awash. At least one home, a large two-story, is surrounded permanently by water and has been abandoned.

San Jacinto Battleground Park, east of Houston and on the ship channel, is the center of the massive subsidence in this area. Gabrysch estimates that the land around the San Jacinto monument has dipped three to three and one-half feet since it was last surveyed thoroughly.

James Frantz, the park superintendent, said the park has lost about five acres of land, now permanently covered with water, in the three years he has been there. It doesn't even take a storm to threaten the residence of one of the park rangers, he said.

"We get three days of east winds and the house is surrounded by water," said Frantz of the home of Lee Murphee. "His kids go out in the backyards and catch crabs."

One park road is permanently covered, marked only by a sign rising from a large pool. The sign reads, "no Fishing from the Bridge." The bridge cannot be seen.

A levee and other measures are planned to protect the park, but even so, said Frantz, 40 to 45 acres will eventually be lost to subsidence.

The sinking land has also cost Harris County acres of park land and millions of dollars.

The county-operated Lynchberg Ferry, a major route across the ship channel near the San Jacinto Park, has been forced to shut down numerous times because of invading water.

Tom Moseley, the Harris County engineer, said the approaches to the ferry are sinking rapidly.

"We're raising the approach on the north side three feet now," he said. "In a year or two years we'll have to do it again."

Since 1959, the county has spent almost a million dollars raising the ferry approaches. And while workmen complete the north approach, the south approach already is being lapped by water.

Moseley said the county also has had to raise roads in the Seabrook area and bring in fill for bayside parks.

"At Clear Lake Park (near the Manned Spacecraft Center)," he said, "we lost 20 acres of land due to subsidence in just the last few years. And we're probably going to lose more. This is no small problem."

Industries have also been hit. Piers and dock facilities have had to be raised and protected along the Houston ship channel and on the bay. The cost has run into millions and often the work has to be repeated only a few years later.

The Humble Oil Refinery south of Baytown installed a 13.5-foot levee in 1965 but it already is inadequate.

"It's sunk about two feet since it was built," said Perry Smith, a Humble plant official. "Twelve years ago we had to raise some product pipelines to get them out of the water. In spite of this, some of the lower pipes are now again frequently under water."

Smith said his company is currently considering raising the levee to 17 feet because "during heavy winds we're now getting a partial flooding of dock areas."

The cost to Humble of subsidence? "It's millions," he said.

Construction in the bay area is designed to withstand or avoid hurricane flooding.

This flood plain is established by a leveling survey which measures the altitude of the land above sea level.

Junior Editors' Quiz on CINNAMON

QUESTION: What is cinnamon?

* * *

ANSWER: Cinnamon is one of the most aromatic and oldest known spices. It is prepared from the bark of the cinnamon tree which grows in Ceylon, Malabar and other tropical regions. This tree, a member of the laurel family, has oval leaves, pale yellow flowers, acorn-shaped fruit and grows as high as 30 feet. Cinnamon trees under cultivation are usually dwarfed to make the bark more accessible.

Cinnamon is mentioned in the Old Testament as an ingredient in incense. The ancient Romans used it as an incense in honoring their deities. The oil of cinnamon is used frequently for medicinal purposes. As a spice, cinnamon is used to enhance the flavor of sweets and to accentuate the flavor of chocolate. It is popular in baked goods such as coffee cake, buns and cookies. Many people enjoy this spice in pudding and sauces. It is frequently used to flavor apple and other fruit dishes. Cinnamon sticks are served in hot drinks or mulled wine.

"Leisure" Field Opportunities

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I am a junior in high school and would like to enter a field of recreation. But I don't know what branch of leisure time or recreation careers, or what's required of me. Could you give information about recreation? -- M.A., Towanda, Pa.

Recreation is a high-growth "industry," and there are many opportunities. U.S. Consumers spent about $58 billion for a wide variety of leisure/recreation goods and services in 1970, and, in a continuing upward cycle, are expected to spend $100 billion by 1977, according to a new study. The study was made by the Midwest Research Institute (MRI), a nonprofit organization headquartered in Kansas City, Mo. The MRI study is thought to be the largest and most comprehensive private-sector research program ever directed to the subject of leisure and recreation.

AMONG THE MRI STUDY'S KEY FINDINGS:

* Driving for pleasure is still the number 1 outdoor recreation activity in the U.S. in terms of participants; 110 million Americans, 12 years and older, went driving for pleasure at least once in 1970, compared with 75 million in 1960.

* Picnicking remains in 2nd place among outdoor recreation activities, with 105 million participants in 1970 as compared with 70 million in 1960.

* Activities showing the highest rates of growth, in percentage terms, between 1960 and 1970, were camping and bicycling.

* Boating, fishing, and hunting are showing signs of relative maturity in terms of percent of population participating. However, the total activity-days for each grew more rapidly than the number of participants, so that markets for boating, fishing, and hunting equipment and services remain attractive.

* The average American family now takes 2.8 vacations each year, plus 4.6 weekend trips away from home. About half the weekend trippers stay with friends and relatives.

* Sightseeing rates first among vacation activities, followed in descending order of popularity by swimming, fishing, relaxing, shopping, walking and boating.

* Camping vehicles accounted for two-thirds as many total vacation-travel-passenger miles as the airlines. Many major oil companies and hotel/motel chains are developing facilities to serve this large and rapidly growing travel market.

RECREATION is not a regular type of "industry," but a collection of many dissimilar types of activities. There is, as yet, no uniform agreement on the precise scope of leisure/recreation careers, but jobs in "parks and recreation" and "travel and tourism" are generally considered part of this field.

Some of the places of employment and activities which can be considered within the boundaries of leisure and recreation are: parks, picnic areas, camps, zoos, aquariums, resorts, hotels, ski or marina facilities, youth agencies, senior citizen centers, church recreation, business employee recreation, recreation for the handicapped, theaters, amusement parks, physical culture operations, legitimate gambling operations, bowling, swimming pools, skating rinks, golf and tennis clubs, Armed Forces recreation, museums and libraries, sports and athletics, travel agencies, and discotheques. Preparation ranges from no formal educational requirements to advanced college degrees.

FOR MORE INFORMATION. The National Recreation and Park Association, 1601 Kent St., Arlington, Va. 22209, has two booklets of interest. Send 30 cents for "Where the Action Is," a career booklet. Send $1 for "Directory of Professional Preparation in Recreation, Parks and Related Areas." Order booklets directly from the National Park and Recreation Association.

Building Drops In Texas

DALLAS (AP) — New Texas construction contracts awarded for September totaled $93,937,745 after the $153,254,466 chalked up in August, but the trade publication Texas Contractor says things in the state's industry "really aren't that bad."

One big contributing factor in the drop, it points out, is that the montly Texas Highway Department letting, amounting to $32 million plus, was not included in the September total because it came late in the month.

"Also economic conditions continue to be strong, and all indications are that the fall of 1972 will be a good volume period," the Texas Contractor said.

Among the larger projects awarded during the month were: $10,121,320 to Granite Construction Co. of Watsonville, Calif., and $9,862,300 to Peter Kiewit Sons Co. of Omaha, Neb., for sections of the Crosstown Wastewater Interceptor project at Austin; $6,814,000 to Cadenhead Construction Co. of Fort Worth for a new fine arts building at the University of Texas, Arlington; $5,813,760 to Manhattan Construction Co. of Houston for the first phase of an addition to Hermann Hospital there; $3,769,000 to Zapata-Warrior Constructors, Houston, for federal parking facilities in Fort Worth; $2,636,390 to Gilvin & Terrill Inc. of Amarillo for the Tule Creek dam near Silverton in Briscoe County, and $2,046,666 to H.R. Bergstrom & Associates of Marshall for an addition and alterations at Memorial Hospital in Marshall.

Panel Rules Law Illegal

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-judge federal panel in Atlanta ruled Friday federal laws prohibiting the mailing of abortion information were unconstitutional.

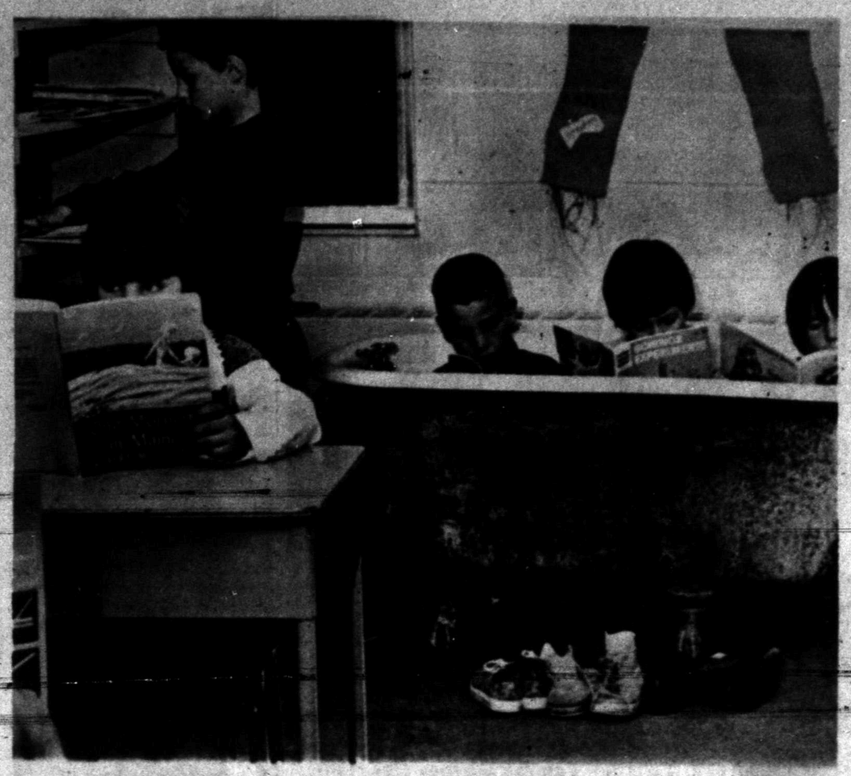

Mailing restrictions against abortion information constitutes prior restraint against the constitutionally protected right of free speech, the judges said.

An Atlanta underground newspaper, the Great Speckled Bird, brought suit last May when postal authorities refused to mail the April 27 edition of the paper containing advertisements for abortion referral services.

The judges, Lewis R. Morgan, Charles A. Moye Jr. and William C. O'Kelley, declared that "the Postal Service will no longer detain parcels of mail which have been the subject" of the lawsuit.

TOKYO (AP) — A 22-member delegation of U.S. editors led by J. Edward Murray, president, and Arthur C. Deck, vice president, of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, arrived in Peking Friday at the invitation of Chinese journalists, Hsinhua news agency reported today.

Museum Unveil Art Collection

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The New Kimbell Art Museum unveils to the public Tuesday a variety of 200 art objects spanning some 4,500 years.

Many are described as "rare, exceptional—even unique—treasures."

A number of groups toured the ultramodern complex last week for a series of preview showings. They included art scholars, critics, publishers, dealers and officials of other museums.

The collection, amassed by the late industrialist Kay Kimbell, is encased in a $6.5 million building that is unique in its own right. The method of natural lighting devised by architect Louis Kahn of Philadelphia is also said to be one of a kind.

The museum's acquisition policy is to select each work of art solely on the basis of its aesthetic quality and typicality—whether it defines a master, period, school, style or area.

Although the collection spans 4,500 years, there has been no attempt made for historical completeness.

Rather, definitive objects of any period have been acquired when they became available.

The earliest surviving English painting on wood, "The Barnabas Altarpiece," painted about 1250, is among the treasures.

While older medieval wall paintings and hand-illustrated books are known, it is said that there is no other English painting on wood panel older than the Barnabas work.

The collection, ranging from the prehistoric to Picasso, includes these major objects not previously announced:

—"Wall Paintings from the Chapel of St. Andre de Bagalance, near Avignon," of dry fresco on plaster, transferred to canvas and mounted on wood in the original dimensions of the apse, dating from the mid 12th century in France.

—"Four Classical Myths on the Theme of Fire" painted by Francois Boucher late in his career in 1769.

—"Madonna and Child" by Giovanni Bellini, an early work of tempera and oil on panel, painted about 1470-1475. Formerly in the collection of Prince Napoleon III, it disappeared completely for nearly 100 years and had been considered a "lost" painting until acquisition by the Kimbell.

WHO WILL PAY FOR THE NEXT LIQUOR ELECTION?

You will. We all will--no matter how we vote.

We just paid out several hundred dollars for an election less than two months ago. Tax dollars out of our pockets at a time when we're being called upon to raise new tax money to repair flood damaged bridges.

Now we're being petitioned by the same wet forces who called the last election--they're forcing us to dig deeper and come up with more dollars to pay for another election which the majority of the voters do not want.

The voters spoke in August, but the wet forces did not choose to respect the voice of the majority, so we have to do it all over again.

Before the old wounds have even had time to heal, the city will be torn apart again by a liquor election. We don't want it to be this way, but experience has taught us that it will.

The wet forces will be defeated again, but it will cost even more for the next election than it did for the last one--wasted money at a time when it is so sorely needed for other things.

So once more we will go to the polls to defeat a menace which periodically threatens our community. Now that the drys have been shaken from lethargy by the closeness of the last election, the margin of defeat will probably be much greater.

It's a shame that we in Snyder have to pay for unwanted and purposeless elections, but consider the county residents in Dermott, Fluvanna, Hermleigh, Inadale, Ira and Knapp--they pay for the elections, too, and cannot even vote, since the wets have excluded them from both elections.

One thing is certain, the people of Scurry County do not want liquor with its attendant miseries to move in on our community. This has been true for decades, and it still is.

So how many more times will we have to spend vital tax dollars to finance liquor elections called by a minority group?

How many times can the wets call an election at our expense? As many times as they want! There are so many ways to call for a vote that we could be paying thousands of dollars for senseless elections.

The wets can call election after election, hoping to catch the majority asleep or hoping to wear us down, and tax dollars will pay for every election.

Coleman County had eight such elections in one year!

Is there any way we can put a stop to it?

Yes, there is one way.

We can go to the polls in such numbers that the wets will get the message so loud and so clear that they will despair of defeating those of us who will never be discouraged from fighting to keep our community the wonderful, decent, safe place that it is.

We can wake up, turn out, and turn down liquor on the next election day.

We're all losers when an election is called, but we and future generations would be infinitely greater losers if we should let a militant minority outvote a sleeping majority.

Come on Snyder--think! register! vote!

Enforcement Of Land Sales Law Nonexistent

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Congress, reacting to widespread complaints of sales fraud among land developers, passed the Interstate Land Sales Act in 1968 to police the industry. Only four indictments have been obtained.

George Bernstein, appointed last March to administer the act for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, admits that enforcement has been nearly nonexistent. He says it will improve.

Toward that end, he says, the Office of Interstate Land Sales is holding public hearings in 17 cities across the nation. Atlanta, where hearings were held two days this week, was the sixth and most recent city to be visited.

"One purpose of the hearings is to obtain leads for investigators sniffing out sales fraud in recreational land development. At least six indictments are in the works and they are based partly on information obtained at the hearings, Bernstein said in an interview.

The sessions thus far have spotlighted developments catering to buyers looking for a place to build a retirement home or a second home for recreation. Most developments mentioned have been in the Northeast, Southwest and South.

Scores of complaints have been filed by witnesses. The Atlanta testimony was typical of that heard in New York, Boston, Denver, Kansas City and Washington since the hearings began last May.

Witnesses complained that property had been misrepresented, that the initial cost did not cover hidden items for which they were later charged, that salesmen applied high-pressure tactics, that "vacation trips" to visit developments failed to pan out, or that developers sold land for which they held only an option to buy.

The single thread running through all the tetimony has been that the buyers don't know their rights under the law.

There were also stories of underfinanced developers who sold land with promises of lakes, golf courses and swimming pools, but who left buyers stuck with virtually worthless raw land when bankruptcy closed in.

James Fauster of Roswell, Ga., said he was promised that the development into which he bought would be completed this year, but learned that it won't be finished for years. "I went out there to the site and they told me to get out or they would throw me out," he said.

Atlanta lawyer Joseph L. Abraham said he had clients who were victimized by a real estate chain letter originated by a salesman. A local investment club had been among those fleeced, he said.

A common complaint was that the buyer didn't know what he was getting until after a down payment was made and the sales contract signed. Few witnesses knew that they were entitled to a property report, which the 1968 law requires the developer to give a buyer before closing a deal.

Under the law, the report is to detail the actual condition of the property. If the land actually is worthless swampland for which no real development is planned, the report is supposed to say so. Likewise it must reveal the lack of access roads, water and sewerage if that is the case.

Rooney Denied Sole Custody

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney was denied sole custody of his four children by his fifth marriage Friday because, the judge said, he "has had a poor record to date as a father."

Superior Court Judge Mario Clinco ruled that Rooney will remain a co-guardian, but the children will continue living with their maternal grandmother, Helen Thomason, in suburban Rolling Hills. Rooney has almost unlimited visiting privileges.

Rooney had sued to gain sole custody of Kelly, 12; Kerry, 11; Kyle, 10, and Kimmie Sue, 9. He wanted them to live with him and his seventh wife at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"Mr. Rooney, on his seventh marriage, has had a poor record to date as a father," said Clinco in his 15-page decision. "The entire record is devoid of any evidence that Mr. Rooney gave or attempted to give his children paternal guidance during the past six years and particularly during the past three years."

The judge described the children's life with Mrs. Thomason and her husband Don, both 60, as "one of regularity, reliability, stability, love, strong emotional ties and dependence and companionship."

The children's mother, Barbara Thompson, was shot to death in 1966 while estranged from Rooney.

Rooney told the judge at hearings last month that he wished "with all my heart" to have the children with him and his wife.

Over 1,500 Expected At Texas Tech's Ranch Day

LUBBOCK--"History with a difference" is the guiding theme planned for this year's third annual meeting of the Ranch Headquarters Association by the association's Snyder unit which is charged with providing the entertainment.

The Oct. 7 meeting is expected to draw more than 1,500 persons of Texas Tech University's unique outdoor living museum of ranching history the Ranch Headquarters.

A non-profit organization, the Ranch Headquarters Association is comprised of citizen supporters of the project who have accepted the task of helping raise funds; soliciting gifts of buildings, equipment and furniture; and helping wherever needed.

Nowhere has interest among private citizens in the Ranch Headquarters project been at a higher pitch than in Snyder where the first local chapter, or area unit, of the association was formed. Its members will share that enthusiasm during this year's annual meeting by way of a special musical production and presentation to be known as a "Pageant Wagon Shindig."

A copyrighted work of William Overton of Abilene entitled "Brazos Bill and the Indians" has been specially adapted for Ranch Day by Mrs. Jess Everett and Mrs. G. A. Parks Jr. Mrs. Parks is secretary for the Snyder Area Unit and has served also as a research historian for the unit.

According to Mrs. Parks, the production will be a melodrama "of the type that should prove amusing and entertaining for children as well as adults" and will run approximately 45 minutes.

Directing the production will be Charles Holland, chairman of the Theatre and Speeech Department of Snyder's new Western Texas College. Members of the cast will come from the college and from the Snyder community. Snyder unit president Dudley Kramer will introduce the program.

Mrs. Everett will provide narration for the "Pageant Wagon Shindig" which will consist of a series of wagon mounted tableaus depicting authentic Western history. Portrayed will be the periods of the military explorers, the cowboy, the buffalo hunter, and a dugout wedding.

An important part of the musical production will be integration into the program of formal dedication of the Harrell House, latest acquisition of the Ranch Headquarters. The structure, transported to the Ranch Headquarters site from near Snyder, has housed three different ranching families since around the turn of the century.

The house is in excellent condition and has already been extensively and carefully restored by Misses Faye and Myrtle Harrell of Snyder who donated it to the Ranch Headquarters. The Harrell sisters will be special guests during the dedication. Dedicatory remarks will be delivered by D. Burns, president of the Ranch Headquarters Association Board of Overseers.

This year's Oct. 7 annual Ranch Headquarters Assocation meeting will fall on a big day for the ranching industry throughout Texas. That date has been proclaimed by Gov. Preston Smith as a day to launch statewide commemoration of the contributions made to the distinctive heritage of Texas as well as to its economy by the ranching industry.

According to a resolution passed by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association (TSCRA) in support of the proclamation, the action was prompted by "recognition of the efforts being made by the Ranch Headquarters Association to preserve this heritage and its visual symbols."

"The nation's ranching industry, which has its origins in Texas and then spread throughout the American West, still regenerates the principles of individualism and private enterprise upon which this nation was founded," Gov. Smith said in proclaiming statewide observance of "Ranch Day."

Two Die In Rig Accident

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — Two workmen died Friday when they fell nearly 70 feet from a rigging structure at a $600 million Detroit Edison power plant which is under construction.

Officials said they didn't know what caused the fall. Monroe police were investigating the deaths, the fifth and sixth to occur on the project since work began in 1970.

Dead on arrival at Monroe's Mercy Hospital was Lavon Hall, 35, of Delta, Ohio, an iron worker.

The other worker, Wayne Darden, 35, of Corpus Christi, Tex., died at the same hospital shortly after being admitted.

Dynamite Is Seized

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — Federal troops moved in on a ranch south of here Friday, confiscating 171 sticks of dynamite and one and one-half tons of marijuana.

Police said the ranch belonged to Fermin Reyes Pruneda. He was arrested later at a different location and was the object of an unsuccessful gunbattle to secure his escape.

A police spokesman said unidentified gunmen attacked a police car in downtown Nuevo Laredo in which Reyes Pruneda was being taken to headquarters. The attack failed, though, and no one was reported injured.

In the raid at the ranch, police seized several official-type seals and rubber stamps in addition to the marijuana and explosives. The seals and stamps reportedly came from Encinal, Tex.

Mrs. Reyes Pruneda was arrested in August after three of her sons were shot by federal troops at one of the family's ranches.

Thirty-one states in the U.S. have passed school eye-safety law requiring that students, teachers and visitors in schools and colleges wear appropriate eye protection in labs and workshops.
