Guard Out In Michigan Strike Rift

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Gov. George W. Romney, responding to a plea for help from the city's mayor, today declared "a state of public emergency" in strike-torn Hillsdale.

The National Guard was ordered to move troops in after a night of violence in which some 300 rock-throwing demonstrators virtually stormed the Hillsdale jail. The mob was protesting arrest of three pickets.

The governor also ordered the strike-plagued Essex Wire Co. plant here shut down, except for skeleton maintenance crews, for an indefinite period.

Except for police officers and troops, Romney said no one will be permitted firearms in this city of 7,629 in southeastern Lower Michigan.

BANS PICKETING
A third part of the governor's order bans "picketing, demonstrations or public assemblage" in Hillsdale, but it leaves government in the hands of local officials.

Romney said Mayor C. Aubrey Paul was informed of the order and "he has indicated informally that it appears to him to be adequate."

Romney acted in Lansing after a telegraphic plea from Paul for martial law. Beforehand, the governor conferred with State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs and Brig. Gen. Carson Neifert, assistant adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard.

The governor said his order will remain in effect "as long as people and property are in danger" and that guards at the strike-bound plant will be disarmed.

PRODUCTION
He ordered production stopped and banned picketing. "Without this action," Romney told newsmen, "there is a likelihood of violence of an unknown extent."

Sixty state policemen and sheriff's deputies Wednesday night came to the aid of Hillsdale's seven-man police force in the emergency.

A crowd of 300 persons had massed at the Hillsdale County Jail. Some demonstrators threw rocks, breaking jail windows. Before midnight the crowd had dispersed. However, police kept an overnight watch.

The trouble began about 7 p.m. with the march of demonstrators to the jail from the strike scene at Essex Wire Corp.

The crowd was angered by the arrest of three persons, one of them a striker's wife. The demonstrators stoned the jail in protest and police began waving their nightsticks to restore order.

PEACEFUL
After about two hours, the crowd had become generally peaceful.

The violence-marked strike at Essex, a major industry in this city of 7,629, has been going on since Feb. 28. It became exactly three months old today.

The Hillsdale Local of the International Union of Electrical Workers pulled out its 180 plant workers in a dispute over terms of a first contract with the company.

A chief issue has been the Hillsdale local's demand for wage parity with the Indiana workers.

BELOW AVERAGE
Essex has said that the average hourly wage at the Hillsdale plant, about $2.43, is from 40 to 60 cents below the average wages paid the employees in the Fort Wayne plant.

A plant guard was shot and wounded Tuesday night, another guard was clubbed with a baseball bat, and a union picket was slashed.

Trouble broke out Wednesday night when a carload of guards leaving the factory was intercepted. Rocks were thrown.

Ah, Sweet Relief

Wednesday brought the last day of school for Big Spring school children, and they lost no time in getting into the summer mood. While John D. Bryans, a first grader, trudged home from Park Hill School with a load of books and supplies, Terrell Ann Veil, second grader, and Mary Anne Lee, first grader, got the feel of things by going barefooted. The ecstasy of the moment is plain to see. (Photo by Keith McMillan)

Official Sees Red Takeover Danger In Asia

Britain Rejects Russian Charges

LONDON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of State William P. Bundy said today there is a real danger of a Communist takeover in Southeast Asia.

As Bundy flew in from Washington for London talks on the Asian crisis, the British government rejected a Soviet charge that U.S. reconnaissance flights over Laos violated Laotian neutrality. The Soviet note to Britain warned that the U.S. flights could aggravate the situation throughout Southeast Asia.

Bundy, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, told newsmen the threat of a Communist takeover "is a matter we all have been watching with great concern."

TALK ABOUT

Asked how stability and neutrality for Laos could be achieved without force, he replied, "That is a very difficult question to answer and it is one of the things we must talk about."

Bundy was meeting with Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler for the first of several days of talks on Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam.

The British Foreign Office, in a sharp rebuke of the Russians, dismissed the Soviet note on the U.S. flights as "purely propagandistic" and said it "totally misrepresents the true position in Laos."

The Soviet note said the United States was "embarking on this dangerous road of an open violation of the Geneva agreements" and "assumes grave responsibility for all consequences following from this."

INVOLVE SEATO

The Russians also accused the United States of trying to involve the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization in "its dangerous plans for Laos."

The Soviet Union urged Britain to endorse the note for distribution to the United States and other participants in the 14-nation Geneva conference of 1962 which guaranteed Laotian neutrality. Russia and Britain are co-chairmen.

"They can never have expected us to agree" to distribute the note, the Foreign Office said.

British officials consider the flights justified because the Communist Pathet Lao forces refused to allow inspection of their military strongpoints by the International Control Commission established by the Geneva agreement.

Laotian Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma asked the United States to undertake the flights. In a dispatch from Washington, the Soviet news agency Tass accused the United States of "harboring plans for new military actions in Southeast Asia," which hold nothing in store but scandalous failures.

Unmanned Moon Ship Fired Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Saturn I superrocket blasted off today in the first attempt to orbit an unmanned model of the Apollo moonship.

The launching was the first of a long series of unmanned Apollo flights aimed at earth orbital missions and eventual landings on the moon.

The mammoth two-stage Saturn I rumbled skyward at 12:07 p.m. on the tremendous force of the world's greatest known rocket power plant. The cluster of eight first-stage engines was designed to develop thrust of 1.5 million pounds during 146 seconds of flight.

HYDROGEN

The second stage, powered by high-energy liquid hydrogen, was calculated to produce an additional 90,000 pounds of thrust for eight minutes to drill the "boilerplate" Apollo craft into an orbit ranging from 110 to 140 miles high.

As the rocket's booster engines flashed to life, they showered the launch stand with a mass of flame and sent a thunderclap rolling across Cape Kennedy.

Rising slowly at first under its vast load, the rocket picked up speed quickly as the engines gulped fuel.

About 51 seconds after lift-off the vehicle began a gradual pitch into a southeast heading, spurring a tail of flame more than 300 feet long as it raced across a clear sky.

NORMALLY

Project officials announced three minutes after launching that the second stage had ignited and appeared to be performing normally.

The 190-foot rocket-spacecraft combination—tallest ever launched by the United States—was burdened by 475 tons of propellant. To produce the enormous thrust for their task, the engines had to consume fuel at a rate of nearly three tons a second.

The shot had been postponed twice because of equipment failures. Because of the test nature of the flight no attempt was to be made to separate the burned-out second stage or an instrument package from the Apollo spacecraft. Total weight of the three payload sections was 37,300 pounds and over-all length 80 feet.

Laos Seeking Soviet Ammo

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma has asked the Soviet Union to provide his embattled neutralist forces with ammunition for their Russian arms.

Souvanna made the request in a letter to Soviet Ambassador Sergei Affanassiev. "Ammunition for arms supplied by the Soviet government, notably for 85mm guns, is becoming very short because of several encounters which have taken place recently between neutralist forces and (Communist) Pathet Lao forces," Souvanna said.

Souvanna also asked the Soviet government to repair Russian gift transport planes which are now inoperative. The premier asked the Russians to repair the planes about a year ago but got no answer.

Russian arms and ammunition were provided to the neutralists in 1961 when they were allies of the Pathet Lao and were fighting together against the right-wing Laotian army.

The Soviet Union is currently withholding aid from all Laotian factions including the Pathet Lao who are under the influence of the Communist North Vietnamese and Chinese.

However, Moscow has supported the Pathet Lao viewpoint in the propaganda side of the Laotian crisis. Diplomatic sources say the Soviets don't want to give the Communist Chinese the opportunity to accuse Moscow of abandoning a "revolutionary movement."

Souvanna said previously he would ask military and economic aid from all countries to defend his country from Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese aggression.

Rains, Wind, Hail Dance Over Howard County Area

Rains, in some instances accompanied by strong wind and hail, swept parts of Howard County Wednesday night.

The precipitation was even more scattered than on Tuesday night and parts of the county did not receive any moisture at all.

Heaviest rainfall was in the northeast corner of the county. Vincent community reported an inch, accompanied by hail which residents said did no damage. Winds were strong but no harm was caused.

LIGHT SHOWER
Here in Big Spring the U. S. Experiment Station reported 0.1—a light shower which fell after midnight. Winds were gusty but there was no damage. No hail was reported here.

Northeast of town on the LeLand Wallace ranch, 1.10 inch rain was gauged on the home place and four miles northeast on one of the Wallace pastures .90 inch. Mrs. Wallace said that one stock tank on the ranch filled to spillway level but that the runoff was not heavy enough to make an appreciable showing in other tanks.

L. J. Davidson, who lives south and west of the Wallace ranch, had an additional .40 inch.

At Wade Choate's house on the Moss Creek road, .40 inch fell. Toward the lake, he said, there were reports of .80 inch of rain.

Coahoma had from .30 to half an inch.

AT LUTHER
Luther had an inch which brought the week's total to close to two inches on most of the farms.

Knott reported only .10 inch and Lomax in the extreme south west corner of the county had only wind. There was no rain.

Texas Electric Service Co. said its switching plant here gauged .85 inch. Eskota .10 and Lamesa .50.

Colorado City had a two-day total of .74 inch of which .52 inch fell last night. It was said. In South Mitchell County 1.4 inches rain fell. There was some hail but no damage resulted.

North Mitchell County had .75 inch.

Apparently the northwest corner of the county, like the south west sector, received the last rains of Thursday's offering. Fairview had no rain at all.

Heavy clouds, a chilly breeze and a feeling of dampness dominated the weather Thursday forenoon. The forecast promised continued cloudiness, warmer temperatures and possible showers for today and Friday.

Barry Wades Into Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, bolstered by neutrality pledges from Richard M. Nixon and Gov. William W. Scranton, wades deeper into the presidential primary battle today as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, fortified with support from Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's son, steps up the pace.

Rockefeller planned today to visit Monterey—where Goldwater had been Tuesday—for a round of appearances before continuing north to Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and San Francisco.

Goldwater also planned to move northward, visiting Santa Barbara—where Rockefeller had been Tuesday—to "mend any political fences the New Yorker may have toppled."

5-Way NATO Link Studied

LONDON (AP)—The man who may be Britain's next foreign minister says the British Labor party, if it wins the national election in the fall, will work for a five-nation directorate to formulate nuclear and political strategy for the North Atlantic Alliance.

Patrick Gordon Walker, Labor's spokesman on foreign affairs, suggested that West Germany and Italy should join the United States, Britain and France in drawing up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's plans for action "up to the moment when—and if—the nuclear trigger has to be pressed."

At that point, Gordon Walker added, the Americans would be on their own because Labor wants the United States to become the sole custodian of the West's nuclear striking power.

Gordon Walker outlined his party's planning in an interview shortly before flying today to discuss key world problems with Communist leaders in Warsaw, Moscow and Bucharest. Harold Wilson, Labor Party leader, will join him Saturday in Moscow.

Gordon Walker skirted the problem French President Charles de Gaulle's lone-wolf policies create for the Labor NATO plan.

"If the French decide not to join in the group, a place should be kept for them," he said.

NATO's shape and strategy was a major topic when foreign ministers of the 15-nation alliance met in the Hague, two weeks ago. It has been a subject of confidential discussion between Wilson and his colleagues and the Johnson administration in Washington. If Labor wins the fall election, Wilson will become prime minister and Gordon Walker very likely will be foreign secretary.

Nehru's Body Burned As Huge Crowds Mourn Fallen Leader

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's body was committed to the flames of a funeral pyre today in an ancient Hindu ceremony watched by hundreds of thousands of mourners on the banks of the sacred Jumna River.

Ending an era, Nehru's 17-year-old grandson Sanjaya Gandhi touched a torch to the huge pile of sandalwood on which the prime minister's body lay.

Police had to beat back crowds with clubs when the gun carriage bearing Nehru's body approached the cremation site after a funeral procession through the city. Thousands of shuffling feet sent up a dust cloud that obscured even the towering walls of the nearby Red Fort.

Military officers lifted Nehru's body to their shoulders, walked along a freshly laid carpet of red earth spread to the pyre and then up seven steps to the sandalwood resting place.

Frenzied mourners shouted "Nehru! Nehru!"

Even before the procession started from the prime minister's official residence, a stampede among the crowd outside killed two persons and injured six.

The gun carriage was halted repeatedly by the vast throng of mourners. Foreign statesmen and dignitaries riding in cars behind were prevented from following closely.

FLOWER PETALS
Uncounted hundreds of thousands jammed the city shouting, crying and throwing flower petals at the body wrapped in India's tricolor flag and lying atop the gun carriage.

The crowd was so thick and the procession so cloyed that U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who arrived from Washington after the funeral march started, could not join the procession. He spent two hours at Palam Airport while aides tried to arrange a helicopter airlift to the cremation site.

Acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda, with tears in his eyes, placed a floral wreath on the body as it was lifted from the porch of the prime minister's residence to a flower-bedecked gun carriage.

The huge crowds broke through the police lines many times, halting the vehicles behind the gun carriage.

Trees along the route were filled with spectators. Many tumbled to the ground when overloaded branches gave way.

To the beat of muffled drums, an honor guard of Indian soldiers and sailors accompanied Nehru's bier as six horses slowly drew it along the six-mile route to the Hindu funeral pyre at the Rajghat, the Pyre of Kings, on the banks of the holy Jumna River.

Sorrowing Indians jammed the line of march.

Turbaned Kisan farmers, who drove their bullock carts from nearby villages, watched as a long line of shiny automobiles carried government chiefs, diplomats and soldiers from around the world in the procession.

The huge crowds broke through the police lines many times, halting the vehicles behind the gun carriage.

STAMPS HONOR JFK
E. C. Boatler displays new Commemorative

JFK Commemorative Stamp On Sale Friday

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that he has 40,000 copies of the new 5-cent John F. Kennedy commemorative stamp on hand and an order on file in Washington for 50,000 additional copies.

The new stamp, honoring the martyred president, goes on sale at the Big Spring post office Friday.

Boatler said that it is anticipated that a heavy demand will develop for the stamps. Not only will collectors want copies, he said, but officials believe thousands who never collected stamps will buy sheets or individual stamps as souvenirs.

The new stamp, which is strictly a commemorative issue, is printed in blue gray. On the right hand half of the stamp is a portrait of President Kennedy and on the left half a symbolic drawing of the eternal flame which burns at his grave.

Inscribed around the stamp is "And the glow from this fire can truly light the world." The dates "1917-1963" are in alternate corners and the name "John Fitzgerald Kennedy" appears across the bottom.

Boatler said that normally his office is sent 20,000 copies of each commemorative stamp which is placed on sale. This time, he said, the shipment was doubled.

"We just turned around and ordered 50,000 more," said the postmaster. "We want to have plenty of the stamps on hand for all who want copies."

Duran was injured, police said, as he walked across North Gregg from the east. John Valentine, Lamesa, was going north on a motorcycle at the time. The motorcycle struck Duran.

Locations of other accidents and drivers involved: high school parking lot, Joe Landrum, 3221 Cornell, a J. Edward Thomas, Route 1, Jet Drive-In Theatre, Larry Miller, 1706 Setles, and unidentified motorist.

Two of the biggest items were the approval of a revised contract with Sun Oil Company whereby the district will furnish Sun with an additional 600,000 gallons of water per day. In turn, Sun will divert 900,000 gallons of its present 3,000,000 gallons per day in order to supply Perkins & Prothro with 1,500,000 for a waterflood project in northern Coke County.

Directors also are expected to award a contract to Ramsey Enix Co., Inc. of Amarillo for $214,881 to construct a 5 1/2-mile 18-inch diameter pipeline from the Sun Oil treatment plant to the Perkins & Prothro project.

A contract also is due to be awarded to R. B. Hodgson Co., Inc., Dallas, for constructing a river crossing from $27.776.

Other items on the agenda include consideration of sale of a lot to the Howard County Rehabilitation Center; reimbursement of the City of Big Spring for leases; consideration of a request by Girl Scouts for a Lake Thomas campsite; a statement by Country Club representatives on a water request.

Edwin Willie Juneck, 53, who lives on the Gail Route, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated Thursday morning. Judge Lee Porter fined the man $50 and sentenced him to serve three days in county jail. The arrest was on the Gail road about 11 miles north and east of town.

Billy Gene McCarty, charged with DWI, has been released on $500 bond.

Someone forced open the front door of the Warehouse Liquor Store, 701 Lamesa Drive, Tuesday night and took $577.50 worth of liquor and $50 in change.

Police said the missing items included 65 fifths of whisky, 42 pints, and 92 half-pints. The merchandise was taken from display shelves in the store. The change was removed from an open cash register.

Jacob Unger, 1024 Birdwell Lane, told police someone took a propane torch and solder valued at $15 from his garage Tuesday night.

A solicitor reportedly was operating in the 100 block of West Eighteenth without a permit Wednesday afternoon.

Police picked up two abandoned bicycles at the Wesley Methodist Church about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Someone broke a window from the Humble Station, 300 W. 3rd, Wednesday morning.

Forty-seven electors showed up Wednesday at the office of Pauline Petty, county clerk, to request absentee ballots for the June 6 primary election. Absentee voting began on Wednesday morning. Six applications for ballots by mail were received and processed.

Voters were showing up today and an even greater rush is anticipated Monday and Tuesday. These are the final two days absentee votes can be cast. No voting will be possible Friday, since the courthouse will be closed down for the Memorial Day holiday.

Deadline for casting absentee votes is 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The General Conference of Methodist meeting in Pittsburgh, Penn., earlier this month called for the voluntary absorption of Negro churches of the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction into other existing jurisdictions during the next four years.

Separate Accidents Injure Two Local Men Wednesday

Two Big Spring men were injured in separate unusual accidents Wednesday.

Injured were Jack Wesley Martin, 57, 708 E. 3rd, and Leon M. Duran, 45, 107 NE 3rd. Nalley-Pickie ambulance took Martin to Medical Arts Clinic-Hospital and Duran to the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital. Martin was released Thursday morning after receiving treatment for bruises and abrasions. Duran suffered a possible fractured left leg.

Police said Martin was traveling south over the east viaduct on Benton. His car sideswiped a truck, continued past Second and went off the road to the west. Then, according to police, the vehicle broke down a utility pole and hit the front side of the B&B Parkway Grocery on the northwest corner of Third and Benton.

Damage to the pole was estimated at $500, and damage to the store was set at the same amount. Police said the car was a total loss, but damage to the truck, driven by Jack O'Donnell, Route 1, Owassa, Okla., was minor. The utility pole was shattered, police said, and wires were knocked to the ground.

Duran was injured, police said, as he walked across North Gregg from the east. John Valentine, Lamesa, was going north on a motorcycle at the time. The motorcycle struck Duran.

Locations of other accidents and drivers involved: high school parking lot, Joe Landrum, 3221 Cornell, a J. Edward Thomas, Route 1, Jet Drive-In Theatre, Larry Miller, 1706 Setles, and unidentified motorist.

Rev. P. D. O'Brien, former Big Spring pastor, notified the Daily Herald via telephone this morning that the operation on R. D. Ulrey, which was to have been performed this morning, has been postponed at least until Friday morning.

Ulrey, retired locomotive engineer, is to undergo heart surgery. Mr. and Mrs. Ulrey make their home here at 420 Dallas. Ulrey is in Room 321 at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston.

Typical of the double-sided nature of U.S.-Soviet affairs at present is the fact that, at almost the same hour that Johnson was announcing the consular pact, a spokesman at the State Department was deploring the prospective shipment of Soviet arms to Cyprus.

An arms deal between the Cyprus government, controlled by the island's Greek majority, and the Soviet Union has been rumored for about two weeks. U.S. officials obviously believe the reports are true, and they fear the possibility of new violence between the Greek population and the Turkish minority.

The most serious source of current tension between the world's two major powers, however, is the crisis in Southeast Asia. Faced with Communist offensives in both Laos and South

C-City Worker Indicted For Dance Hall Shooting

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Jesus Alvarez Garcia, 21, Colorado City construction company employe, was indicted for the dance hall murder of Rosendo Garza, 17, April 18, east of Lorraine.

Garza was shot in the chest with a .22 caliber revolver and was dead on arrival at the Johnson Hospital in Lorraine. Garcia surrendered to county authorities on the day following the shooting.

The Mitchell County grand jury returned eight other indictments and passed one resolution suggesting that the Commissioner's Court explore the possibility of adding a Latin American officer to the sheriff's department as a means of hurdling the language barrier when local law enforcement officers attempt to investigate a crime involving Latin Americans.

Eugene Scott, 28, Colorado City, was indicted for assault of Charles Lewis and assault with a prohibited weapon.

William E. Schoonover, about 50, of Abilene was charged with second offense DWI in connection with his arrest April 28, by the highway patrol.

Harold James Preure, about 30, of San Angelo, is charged in two indictments with forgery in connection with checks to W. C. Henderson and C. A. Hughes Sr., of Lorraine on February 18.

Dave Garrett, 63, is charged with burglary of the Baker Hotel, May 16.

One person not yet apprehended is indicted for theft by false pretense in connection with a check given to Brice Webb for an automobile, and two others not yet apprehended were charged with theft by false pretense in connection with a check given to A. E. Janke of the Villa Inn Hotel.

Headed For Lake Thomas

Heavy rains fell on the water sheds of Lake J. B. Thomas early this morning, with the result that the big basin might catch as much as 7,000 acre feet. The level of the lake is expected to rise at least one foot. The above scene shows the water flowing down the Colorado River into the western part of the lake. Rains above Gail totaled up to three inches. In most other places around the lake, the fall amounted to one inch, with 1.3 inches reported at the dam itself and .6 at the Big Spring intake.

Opening lead: Four of ♠
 When it becomes necessary to put something over on the opposition, hesitation is apt to prove fatal. South reached a five diamond contract on aggressive bidding — particularly in light of North's failure to keep the bidding open—and, when the dummy was spread, he realized that even with favorable distribution his contract could not be made against alert defense. His only resource was to act quickly before the enemy had time to get organized.

West opened the four of spades and East played the ace which was ruffed by South with the eight of diamonds. Declarer saw at a glance that his prospects were not very bright for, even if he succeeded in establishing his heart suit which would require ruffing out the opponent's king, too many of his trumps might be used up in the process. Furthermore there was the consideration that he had three clubs in his hand, one of which must be scored up as a winner in order to bring the trick total to 11. Altho the outlook was a dim one, there was only one line of play that offered a remote chance and South proceeded swiftly to put the issue to a test. A small heart was ruffed in the dummy and a club was returned. East played low and South put up the king from his hand which held the trick. Another heart was trumped by North and a small diamond led to the jack. The ace of hearts was cashed and, when East's king fell, declarer drew the remaining trumps with the ace and queen of diamonds. He ran his established hearts and cheerfully conceded two club tricks to the opposition at the end.

East missed his opportunity to upset South's plan when he permitted the latter to sneak thru an early club trick. If East puts up the ace when that suit is led from the dummy, another spade return will administer a lethal punch to declarer's trump holding. Reduced to but two diamonds while the heart suit still remains to be established, South will be unable to maintain control over the proceedings and must succumb to defeat.

Viet Nam Deadline Of 1965 For U. S. Quietly Slips Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is unlikely to admit it, but it seems apparent the plan to wind up the major part of the U.S. military effort in South Viet Nam by the end of 1965 has quietly withered away. When officials are reminded of that plan, announced last October, they reply: "But there have been two coups in Saigon since then."

What they mean is that the effort against the Communist insurgents has been set back by confusion and disorganization stemming from two changes in the South Vietnamese government. These were the overthrow of the Diem regime by a military junta in November and the overthrow of the junta by another military group in January.

That statement was issued by the White House on Oct. 2 after McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reported to President John F. Kennedy on an on-the-spot check. McNamara and Taylor had gone to Saigon at that time to assess possible damage to the anti-Communist cause growing out of repression of the Buddhists by the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

MAJOR PART
 The White House statement said in part: "Secretary McNamara and Gen. Taylor reported their judgment that the major part of the United States military task can be completed by the end of 1965 although there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of United States training personnel."

At the same time, it was announced that 1,000 American military men would be withdrawn by the end of 1963. This was done, even though a military junta unhorsed Diem in the meantime, and the Communists capitalized on the turmoil.

SUCCESSFUL
 President Johnson sent McNamara and Taylor back to Saigon just before Christmas. Returning, the defense secretary said he had reviewed Vietnamese and American plans for operations in 1964. "We have every reason to believe they will be successful," McNamara stated.

But he ignored a question about the 1965 target, and there was speculation the October plan had been ditched. In January, McNamara appeared before a House committee behind closed doors. A censored version of his testimony put him on record as saying the United States still hopes to withdraw most of its troops from Viet Nam by the end of 1965. Within a couple of days of McNamara's testimony, a second coup was staged in South Viet Nam. Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh seized power and became the Saigon government's strong man.

BACK TO SAIGON
 Again the Communists struck, and in March an alarmed Johnson administration sent McNamara back to Saigon to see what needed to be done. It was this March trip that led to a big spurt in U.S. aid, including a major increase in the size of the Vietnamese regular and para-military forces.

Little was heard of the end-of-1965 target after that. The subject was raised at an April 24 news conference, and McNamara said: "I don't want to predict what the totals (of American servicemen in Viet Nam) will be at the end of this year or at the end of 1965."

NOT REDUCED

The belief is that the 15,500 U.S. military men in South Viet Nam will not be reduced appreciably, if at all, this year, and perhaps not to any great extent next year.

New plans to double the number of Vietnamese pilots and to boost the Vietnamese ground forces by some 50,000 men will entail increased U.S. training responsibilities that will carry over at least into 1965.

Some U.S. advisers will return home as their tasks are finished—as the Vietnamese get the hang of doing certain things for themselves.

LONG STRUGGLE

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says repeatedly it will be a long, hard struggle before the Communists are overcome in Viet Nam.

The latest indication that the end-of-1965 target date has been shelved came Tuesday after McNamara testified in secret before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., the committee chairman,

COMMITMENT

Some officials contend there never was a flat commitment to pull out the bulk of U.S. military men by the end of next year.

They say it was an objective predicated on the ability of the South Vietnamese to stand on their own feet and to control most of their country, and on political stability in Viet Nam.

These officials also note that the statement setting the 1965 target date specified that some U.S. trainers probably would have to stay on beyond that time.

The White House statement said in part: "Secretary McNamara and Gen. Taylor reported their judgment that the major part of the United States military task can be completed by the end of 1965 although there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of United States training personnel."

Included among speakers for the conference are W. Willard Wirtz, secretary of labor, Sen. Harrison Williams, N.J., Rep. Albert Rains, Ala., and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

City Commissioner Paul Kasch is serving as mayor pro tempore in the absence of Zachariah. He presided over the city commission meeting held Tuesday night at City Hall.

A Devotional For The Day

"The Helper, the Holy Spirit whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything and recall to you everything I have said." (John 14:26, MOFFATT.)
PRAYER: Dear Father, it is our true desire to follow the way of love. Let the power of the Holy Spirit keep us steadfast through every moment of this day. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Atomic Research Cooperation

A cooperative international project of notable significance was quietly launched the other day in Washington. Through a series of agreements, private firms and government agencies here and abroad joined in an undertaking that will develop a powerful new breeder reactor for the production of nuclear energy.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the six-nation European Atomic Energy Community are parties to the arrangement. So are the General Electric Company, the Karlsruhe Research Center in West Germany, and 17 private utilities firms in the Southeast and Midwest. This will be the first time European groups have made direct financial contributions to a nuclear power project in the United States.

The experimental reactor — of the fast-breeder type that consumes uranium and produces both heat and fissionable plutonium in the process — will be built at Fayetteville, Ark. Important findings as to the safety of such a reactor are expected to result from operation of the plant.

It is not this that lends the project its special interest. That springs from the fact that it seems to herald a new era in international cooperation in the field of reactor development. Though the AEC and Euratom have worked together to some extent in research programs, competition rather than cooperation among nations has been preponderant in the climate of development. The Washington agreement promises further steps along the road to pooling of personnel and research results.

Conflict Of Interest

In all the partisan-fanned furor over the Bobby Baker investigation, its only constructive purpose may be lost sight of. That purpose, as Majority Leader Mansfield recently reminded the Senate, was fact-finding on which to base recommendations for "improvements in laws, rules, or procedures which safeguard the Senate's integrity."

The Senate Committee on Rules and Administration was not "trying" former Senate Secretary Baker. That would be for the courts to do if he were charged with any legal offense. But the draft report of special committee counsel Lennox P. McLendon finds that Baker, though engaged in "gross improprieties," violated no present conflict-of-interest law.

And that, of course, is the whole trouble. Congress, ever eager to slap strict conflict-of-interest laws on the executive branch, has stubbornly refused to adopt any code of ethical conduct for its own members and employees.

The McLendon draft report has come up with proposals for a conflict-of-interest code for the Senate, based mainly on disclosure of members' and employees' outside income and business associations. The Baker investigation was hardly necessary to reveal the need for something like that, but inadequate as it was, especially in not touching on the activities of senators themselves, the inquiry was certainly sufficient to confirm that need.

The disheartening prospect now is that once the November national election has passed, and the partisan steam has gone out of the Baker case, pressure will fade for any reform of conflict-of-interest laxity in the Senate or Congress as a whole. Meanwhile, we can work up little respect for senators or members of either party who profess shock at Bobby Baker's dealings but fail to try to change the system that condoned them and still condones similar activities by others.

David Lawrence Eisenhower And Goldwater

WASHINGTON—When former President Eisenhower issued a statement on Monday describing in general terms his attitude toward the principles which the Republican party should bear in mind in nominating a candidate, the outline was promptly construed by some critics as being a pattern that the Arizona senator could not possibly fit. Senator Goldwater, himself, however, welcomed the designation as a "restatement of the basic Republican principles" on which he said he was campaigning.

A CLOSE READING of what Mr. Eisenhower really said would seem to indicate that Senator Goldwater could accept 100 per cent what Mr. Eisenhower wrote and still be consistent with previous utterances.

Mr. Eisenhower, in his copyrighted article in the New York "Herald Tribune," wrote, for example:

"We believe in keeping government as close to the people as possible—in letting each citizen do for himself what he can do for himself, then making any call for government assistance first on the local government, then on the state government, and only in the final resort on the federal government."

THIS IS A philosophy which many conservatives have embraced, including Senator Goldwater.

Another part of the latest statement by Mr. Eisenhower pointed out that more progress had been made in "civil rights" during the eight years of the Republican administration than in the preceding 80 years. Mr. Eisenhower said:

"We did this through vigorous executive action through steadfast enforcement of court decisions and through passage of the civil rights acts of 1957 and 1960—the first such acts passed since Reconstruction."

SENATOR GOLDWATER on Sunday—the day before Mr. Eisenhower was issuing his statement—expressed his views on this very subject in a television interview with Howard K. Smith on the American Broadcasting Company's program, "Issues and Answers." Mr. Goldwater said:

"At one time when I wrote the book 'The Conscience of a Conservative' I felt that it was improper for the federal government to intervene in a local school system as far as integration goes. I believe now that this is possible and I believe the machinery is there to do it and I think the criticism I would aim at the attorney generals we have had is that they haven't used the machinery."

SENATOR GOLDWATER discussed the pending "civil rights" bill, and pointed out that too many members of Congress are confusing civil rights and states rights. He added that the Constitution mentions only one civil right, and that is the right to vote. He emphasized that the states have the right to deal with public accommodations and that 31 out of the 50 states have already done so. He added:

"But they have never turned over to the federal government the power to do this, and the Congress in a very wrong approach in my opinion is using the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution to accomplish this."

"IF THIS IS correct, then the federal government doesn't have to ask the states about anything. They can just take the powers over, and we become a centralized government. The same thing applies to Fair Employment Practices Commission. This is a prerogative of a state, and I would like to see the states do this. It is their right and the federal government should not take it."

Close examination of Senator Goldwater's views and those of former President Eisenhower will disclose that, while there may be some differences of opinion about the application of basic principles, the Arizona senator and the former President are not at all at odds on the importance of a minimum amount of governmental interference in the private affairs of the citizen and on the importance also of proceeding lawfully and constitutionally in dealing with today's controversial issues.

Billy Graham

Do you really believe there will be a last judgment and that God will judge us for deeds done? J. R. The idea of judgment is not only plainly written in the Bible, it is written indelibly in life itself. Every time we go against conscience, we pay some kind of a mental, physical, or spiritual price. Let us say that a man has a clandestine affair, and he has managed to keep it secret from everyone but God. That man lives under constant judgment of his conscience. He pays the price in an impaired family relationship, in the joy of a good conscience, and in fear of his secret coming to light. The price he pays far outweighs the pleasure he experiences.

Every day we make moral choices which are forged into character. When this body falls away, the character and personality will remain. Just as life on this plane is happier if one lives within the prescribed laws, just so, life in the great beyond is judged by deeds. Yes, there will be a judgment day. The Bible says: "And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works." The good news is that the past can be cancelled by faith in Christ.

James Marlow Nehru Never Learned To Delegate Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mohanandas Gandhi picked Jawaharlal Nehru as his political heir. But Nehru, who died Wednesday as India's only prime minister in its 17 years of independence, groomed no one to succeed him. He was an intellectual who never learned to delegate authority. The result could be gruesome. India has 450 million people in one of the poorest and most jammed countries on earth.

Nehru, a democrat who had enough blind worship among the Indian masses to be a dictator, had sought to guide his country along the democratic path.

BUT NOT LONG before his death he was reported saddened by the incessant quarrels between Indians of different languages, religions and races. And there is bickering in his own Congress party. Seventeen years of democracy — in a country where about 340 million people are illiterate — may have been too brief a time to create any real dedication to the democratic principle.

In India now there is no one in sight with the stature of Gandhi or Nehru.

They not only led the fight for Indian independence before it was achieved in 1947 — thus becoming symbols of it — but by the very nature of these two men their leadership was more than just political.

IT WAS ALSO spiritual, which is unique in the 20th century. They were selfless, with their only interests India and its people. Both had gone to school in England. Both were lawyers. Both abandoned law to work for freedom from Britain. The British jailed them both for years. That much they had in common. There was much they didn't. Gandhi was humble. Nehru was arrogant.

It was ironic that he once described himself in an anonymous article he wrote as intolerant of other people and with contempt for the weak and inefficient.

WHILE HIS leadership and vision were tremendous, and he was a miracle for India, he himself was inefficient. Example: He concentrated decisions in his own hands, was his own foreign minister. The result was called an "administrative jungle."

Gandhi put together his philosophy of civil disobedience and nonviolent resistance under the influence of many sources, including the Sermon on the Mount, Henry Thoreau, Leo Tolstoy, John Ruskin, Percy Bysshe Shelley, and India's early Jain sect which preached Ahimsa, the principle of non-injury to living things.

BUT HE WAS never the complete pacifist the world imagined. Louis Fischer, a Gandhi biographer, said he had a "violent nature and his subsequent Mahatma-calm was the product of long training. His mind was a battlefield on which caution constantly contended with passion."

He used nonviolence against the British in India when the British had all the power and the Indians had none. Nehru went along with Gandhi on nonviolence as a tactic to be used when useful, to be abandoned when not.

PERHAPS NEHRU'S greatest contribution to his country was in being an inspiration to its people, for through that he managed to keep the country and its people glued together as he gave them a sense of direction.

And perhaps the greatest difference between him and Gandhi was in their vision of the Indian future. Gandhi looked back, distrusted mechanization, thought in terms of spinning and cottage industries. Nehru wanted India industrialized and thought in terms of steel mills and hydroelectric dams.

To Your Good Health Bronchiectasis A Chronic Infection

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Dear Dr. Molner: I have had bad breath, and wish you would write about bronchiectasis. — M. C.

Bronchiectasis, of course, is much more than simply a cause of bad breath, although it is likely to be that, too.

It is a dilation of the lower end of the bronchial tubes. It can result from bronchitis, pneumonia, tuberculosis or other lung disorders, but it also may occur without any of these forerunners.

The dilated area permits phlegm to accumulate, and there is chronic infection and pus as well as fluid. This in turn means foul-smelling sputum, raised by a loose-sounding cough which can be a symptom of bronchiectasis.

As you might suspect, the affected area can become ulcerated, and thus phlegm may be bloody. In fact, bronchiectasis is the commonest of all causes of bloody sputum and lung hemorrhage. The bleeding may be heavy and hence dangerous. The classic symptoms of chronic infection — loss of appetite and weight, fatigue, and fever — follow.

Separate lobes of the lung can be involved, sometimes the upper, but usually the lower.

Treatment includes courses of antibiotics to subdue infection, and postural drainage — that is, lying with shoulders lower than the hips — several times a day to help clear away the phlegm and fluids.

Smoking aggravates the condition and should be stopped. Cure (as distinct from treatment to ease the problem) involves surgery to remove the affected tissues. This does not necessarily mean removal of an entire lung, or even of an entire lobe of a lung since methods have been devised now for "segmental dissection," removing only a part of a lobe.

While bronchiectasis obviously causes bad breath, other symptoms would be more noticeable than the mere odor.

However, it's a significant example of the sort of thing, other than bad teeth, which can cause bad breath. Lung, tonsil or even nasal infections can smell bad, and having your teeth fixed or using mouthwash isn't going to correct it.

"Vitamin starvation" is possible even if you eat a lot. In order to check your diet to make sure you are getting necessary nourishment, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, for a copy of the pamphlet, "Vitamins — The Alphabet of Health." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is always glad to hear from his readers, and whenever possible he uses their questions in his column, but because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, he cannot answer individual letters.

Around The Rim

It Isn't Just Pay

I got an assignment Aug. 30, 1959 to find out why so many teachers resigned from schools. I was given two years to ask confidential questions where resigning teachers could be contacted. But I came to Big Spring before the two years were up.

During that time my interest was really aroused because most people think teachers are always resigning to hunt higher paid jobs. Until now I have interviewed 157 of those teachers in some 23 schools.

Only nine of that 151 left schools for higher salaries, and I had talked to more than two dozen before I found one that had.

What, then, seems to be the reason for so many resignations?

Some won't tell, but most of them will if you give them a reason and assure them that names and schools will not be divulged. Schools range from the Red River in the Sherman area, to as far west as Pecos where some landed after leaving East Texas schools.

A BREAKDOWN showed the following reasons given, and the number giving them:

Nine left for higher salaries.
Five didn't like teaching after a one-to-three-year trial.
Sixteen would not get administration (principal, superintendent, or board) backing to handle disciplinary problems. Six of these took lower salaries in leaving.
Three said, after teaching a few years, that they wanted to try other employment for a couple of years, go back to college, and then decide if they wanted to continue teaching.
Eleven said the amount of record

SIXTY-NINE (the largest number) said principals had stooges among a few teachers who had been in the system a long time; these older teachers worked as cliques and reported daily to the principals, any complaints about other or new teachers; held all committee assignments; juggled enrollment cards or blanks before school opened to get select groups for their rooms where more than one of each grade; had access to all records; "froze" out teachers they did not like; were not required to work on higher degrees, and held only bachelor's degrees (most had been in systems over 10 years), and seemed afraid of those with more advanced training.

TWENTY-EIGHT said teachers were required to do too much janitor's work to keep windows clean, blackboards washed, corners swept. If doors or windows were faulty or jammed, teachers were not permitted to complain. Principals had no authority over janitors who ordered doors closed at certain hours, often holding up needed preparation for the next day.

TEN SAID NO system was used in cafeterias. Older children were sent in with primary, and pushed younger ones away from tables, knocked trays on floor, and teachers not required to look after their own children to keep order; no system in supply rooms where a few hogged materials, supplies, books and equipment, and principals who sat with feet on desks and failed to have things organized for efficiency.

So, I've quit believing most teachers leave because they can get more money. Teachers have feelings, too. —M. A. WEBB

Holmes Alexander Losses Must Come In Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON — A good many of Charles de Gaulle's countrymen died under Allied bombs and artillery fire in the liberation of France, which he helped to lead. A good many American infantrymen were killed by American air power which was attempting to give them close support. General George Patton, as fearless a leader and as stern a military realist as we ever had, used to scare and thrill his staff officers by ordering the drop-line of bombs just a jump ahead of his forward units. Stonewall Jackson was accidentally killed by his own Confederate patrols. Hundreds of World War II American fliers were killed in training, another kind of loss in warfare that has to be charged off as an indirect result of enemy action.

THESE ARE thoughts that have to be turned over in American minds because a decision is in the making about the conflict in Southeast Asia. There was a time when President Kennedy contemplated a complete withdrawal of American troops from South Viet Nam, but President Johnson has chosen the opposite policy of re-enforcing our position there with better weapons and more manpower. At the State Department there is talk of using this built-up for a "negotiation from strength," perhaps six months from now. But in the Defense Department the talk is of an offensive with air power, even though it would mean killing a lot of people whom we are attempting to liberate.

BEFORE DISMISSING offensive warfare as "insane," the American public ought, I think, to consider whether expenditure of human life really is, in war or peace, a sign of dementia. At the National Press Club, we have a bulletin board which tells us daily of our comrades who have been felled by strokes and heart attacks in the competitive hustle of finding and reporting the news. I take this to be the common lot in all businesses and professions where men and women pursue their normal ambitions. Nobody worth knowing ever misers his life. He spends it toward obtaining his objectives. President Kennedy needn't have gone among the crowds where he eventually met his death, and President Johnson needn't throw his damaged heart so vigorously into his work, and Governor Rockefeller and Senator Goldwater both have homes where they could stretch out their years without the exertions and risks of campaigning.

IT IS INTUITION, and not intellectualism, which ought to render the public decision about carrying an offensive war against the Communists in Viet Nam. It goes without saying that the Asians and Americans, the combatants and the civilians, the just and the unjust, will live shorter lives if we make this invasion. It may well be that by carrying the war to the enemy, we shall bring it upon ourselves. A man or a nation should be willing to take these chances, but only if intuition gives some endorsement of the objectives.

Richard Starnes When Spy Business Is Not Funny

WASHINGTON — Of course, the hated Bolsheviks planted microphones in the walls of the American Embassy in Moscow. We knew they would, we doubtless found them long ago, and the only mystery now is why the State Department chose this moment to reveal them.

Normal spook ritual, for example, would have dictated that we keep secret the fact that we knew the listening devices were there. In counter-espionage the chance to plant false intelligence with the enemy is prized. Why didn't we use the bugs in the ambassador's bedchamber for this purpose?

IN SPITE OF the State Department's gaudily transparent attempts to show otherwise, the prudent observer must assume that we did try this standard ploy. Just as surely as incompetents and psychotics flock into intelligence work, we may draw two unshakable conclusions: One, the State Department most certainly did not disclose knowledge of the bugs until they were sure the Soviets knew we knew; two, there is a specific reason for the timing in revealing the story now.

FOR SOME TIME now the Russians have been seeking a site for a new chancery in Washington. When and if the city's burgomasters permit them to build it, the sty Muscovites will understand that a tacit clause in the construction contract will provide for the installation of similar devices in the walls.

THEIR FIRST ORDER of business after they have moved their coding machines and samovars into the new building will be to trot out a splendid little device which is known to the dismal wretches who practice electronic snooping as a "mop." This mop, mark well, is not for detecting hidden microphones and other such dirty contrivances. The mop will betray some of the hidden ears, of course, and perhaps not reveal others. Such is the state of the art that certain of the devices will be placed solely for the purpose of being found—in the hope that this will permit others to go undetected.

ALL THIS dreadful business would be wildly funny if it were being performed by a company of actors in some low-budget flick about Balkan intrigue. But it is tragically unfunny in real life, or in what has come to pass for real life in our Orwellian times. The miasma of fear and distrust that engulfs the world once posed a threat to the perpetuation of decent society, but it now threatens the survival of the species itself.

Roommates Again

STAFFORD, Kan. (AP) — When Jake Nelson of Turon, Kan., and Claud Fields of Stafford landed in the same hospital room as patients they began to recall old times.

Among their memories was the fact that they last shared a hospital room 58 years ago.

Gold Mine

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — After Cynthia Rayl, 8, found a penny in an upholstered chair she set off on a hunt through the living room furniture and found a kiddy-sized gold mine. When she finished she had $5.08 in coins which over many years had slipped from adult pockets into crevices of the furniture.

Seven Gallons

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — "I try to give each time the Bloodmobile visits here — but I miss sometimes," explained Richmond businessman Robert Luxon. His latest time as a blood donor was his 56th. That adds up to seven gallons.

Rains, Hail Scatter Over Texas Areas

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms pushed across North Central Texas today, rain and hail fell in the Panhandle and West Texas areas during the night.

An eight-county area was under a severe thunderstorm warning until shortly after noon, but there were no reports of weather damage.

Scattered rains fell early today in the Mineral Wells area, with a thunderstorm line extending between the towns of Itasca and Walnut Springs of North Texas.

More severe thunderstorms packed with hail, high winds and rains, broke out over a 130-mile stretch from Archer City to Abilene in West Texas during the night.

The U.S. Weather Bureau alerted persons in Stephens, Eastland, Comanche, Palo Pinto, Erath, Wise, Parker, and Hood counties to take safety precautions during the storm.

During the night, hail up to one-half inch pounded parts of Amarillo. The moisture was the first sizable amounts for parts of the Panhandle and West Texas areas this year.

Radar indicated a band of heavy thunderstorms near Big Spring northeastward to near Guthrie. Others were reported near Grafrod to west of Breckenridge, and around the Wichita Falls area.

The thunderstorms appeared to veer west of the heavily populated Dallas and Fort Worth areas, but a weak cold front lowered temperatures in that part of North Central Texas.

Early today, the cool front pushed from Paris through the Fort Worth-Dallas area southward to San Angelo.

In contrast, temperatures continued very warm in parts of South Texas, with readings in the upper seventies as compared to the mid-fifties in the Panhandle and North Texas.

Muleshoe got its first rain Wednesday since the winter snows, with up to 2.75 inches of rain. Just across the state line in New Mexico, Clovis measured 3.40 inches.

Forecasters called for more thundershowers for most of Texas today through Friday. It should be warmer in Northwest Texas and cooler along the Red River Valley in North Texas, but other temperature changes should be minor.

Woman Taking Polygraph Tests In Hospital Death

Sheriff Miller Harris and Bobby West, investigator for Gil Jones, district attorney, are in Midland today where they took Iris Kathleen Bridges, Odessa, for a polygraph test.

Miss Bridges, who was involved in the shooting here of Willard Scalf, mail clerk at the Big Spring State Hospital, has since been released from the hospital here. She has been under treatment there and Jones said that her psychiatrist has just recently agreed that his patient be allowed to take the polygraph test.

The woman was wounded in the same affray which took the life of Scalf. She recovered from her wounds and was allowed to go home to Odessa.

Scalf was found shot to death in his apartment at the State Hospital on the morning of March 10. Miss Bridges, shot several times, was in the same apartment. The pistol which had caused the fatal wound in the man and her injuries was on the floor.

She told officers that she had been shot by Scalf and that he later laid the pistol on a dresser. She got possession of it, Scalf, she said, was leaving the apartment and she shot him.

The pistol, she told officers, was hers and she had brought it with her.

Harris and West went to Odessa, where they met Miss Bridges, and took her to the Department of Public Safety offices in Midland. Miss Bridges, Jones said, signed an agreement to take the test at the time she was permitted to return to her home in Odessa after being dismissed from the hospital here.

HCJC Set For Graduation

Two score students will receive associate degrees in commencement exercises set for 6:30 p.m. today in the Howard County Junior College auditorium.

The college ceremonies were advanced to avoid a time conflict with the high school commencement at 8:15 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of the Baptist Temple. Following the commencement, there will be a reception for graduates, their families and friends in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Janice Winans will play the organ march music, and Dr. R. Gage Lloyd and Leslie Kelly will offer the prayers. Jack Hendrix, chairman of the music department, will play a piano passage, and Ira Schantz, making his last appearance as a vocalist for the college, will sing. Schantz has accepted a place on the TCU music faculty.

Those receiving associate and certified arts degrees will be certified by Ben Johnson, dean, and given their diplomas by Dr. W. A. Hunt, president.

240 Seniors To Graduate

Two hundred and 40 seniors of Big Spring High School will be ready to "commence" life following exercises at the city auditorium at 8:15 p.m. today after receiving diplomas certifying graduation.

The candidates, in caps and gowns, went through a rehearsal session at the auditorium at 10 a.m. today.

Supt. Sam Anderson said the entire lower floor of the auditorium would be reserved for the candidates and their immediate families.

Anderson will preside over the program. Diplomas will be awarded by Harold Talbot and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, school board president and secretary, respectively, following certification by Principal John F. Smith and introduction by Assistant Principal Harold D. Bentley.

The valedictorian and salutatorian will be named during the program, and special awards for academic achievement made by Counselor Wayne Bonner.

Club Tallies Its Light Bulb Sales

The Downtown Lions light bulb sale promises to net approximately $1,000, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said Wednesday.

So far the sale have given the club little over a thousand dollars, but there are some slight expenses. All of this money will go into the club's charity and welfare fund.

Special guests at the meeting were four members of the Italian Air Force. They were introduced by Maj. Charles Penn.

Judy Garland In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — American Broadcasting Co. correspondent Stanley Rich reported in a broadcast from Hong Kong today that singer Judy Garland had been rushed to a Hong Kong hospital unconscious and in a critical condition.

Rich said oxygen was administered to Miss Garland and that doctors worked over her for two hours after her arrival at the hospital.

She was reported out of danger afterward but still on the critical list, Rich said.

The nature of Miss Garland's trouble was not given.

Rich reported, however, that Miss Garland is said to be terrified of storms and that she was stricken in her hotel room as a typhoon raged outside with 90 m.p.h. winds.

Miss Garland was winding up a singing tour. She had told Rich the day before that it had been "miserable."

Rich said the singer had been taken to Canossa Hospital by Mark Herron, an actor. Rich quoted Herron as saying that Miss Garland went to the hospital "for a rest." However, Rich said, she was clearly unconscious when she was taken there.

Robert L. Peck Dies Wednesday

Robert L. Peck, former resident of Big Spring, who left about a year ago to enlist in the Peace Corps, died about 7:40 p.m. Wednesday in Locust Grove, Okla. Mrs. Peck, his wife, died Easter Sunday. Her illness delayed their Peace Corps work.

Both were long time residents here and were members of the First Christian Church. Mr. Peck visited in Big Spring over the last weekend and attended church.

Services are set for Saturday morning at Gibson and Sons Mortuary, Kansas City, Kan. Burial will be Monday. Times of services and graveside rites were not available.

Checks Drivers License

Officers Richard Tice and John Wolf checked drivers licenses of 50 motorists during a 20-minute period this week. Tice said no tickets were issued or warnings given as all of the motorists had valid licenses. The check is part of an increased traffic enforcement program designed to cut the number of accidents and save lives, he said.

Small Operators Request Increase In Oil Allowable

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has under advisement today a request by 22 small-tract gas well operators in the Fort Acres Field of Jefferson County for increased production allowables.

Former Gov. Price Daniel, representing the operators, told the commission a Nov. 18, 1963, order setting daily production at 150,000 cubic feet per well will not permit recovery of the producers' investment.

The allowable will enable recovery of only 15.7 per cent of investment without pooling and 29.5 per cent if the leases are pooled, the former governor said.

Opposing the request were attorneys James D. Smullen of Houston, representing Peter Henderson Oil Co.; Harry R. Jones, Houston, representing Michael T. Halbouty; and Frank J. Scurlock, Dallas, Pan American Petroleum Corp. They said that permitting a Dickey Cox, McKinney cowboy, runner-up for 1963's bull riding championship, sparks the roster of early entries for the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo starting Wednesday.

Cox, 25, will pace a field of other top cowboys in pursuit of a prize money packet expected to better the $5,280 paid winners last year.

A total 111 entries were logged in the 1963 edition of the Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, with top money laurels going to Clifton Smith, Teel, Tex., who won $473 in calf roping. Smith will be back to defend his victory of last season.

Others on the early entry log include Jim Mihalek, Broomfield, Colo.; Dallas Chartier, Benkelman, Neb.; and Del Hataway, Roby.

Mihalek, 24, is a leading contender for 1964's bareback bronc riding crown. A wiry, little, 140-pounder, he got his start in Colorado high school rodeo competition, around Denver.

Mihalek has won a current $6,681 on the rigging broncs, so far in the season.

Chartier, 23, who finished fifteenth for the '63 bull riding title, is running twentieth in the event's national ratings as of May 30th. He is a one-event specialist.

Hataway, 26, another graduate of high school rodeo, is holding down ninth in bull riding charts this season, with arena earnings of $3,971.

Rodeo stock will be furnished by Elra and Jiggs Beutler, of Elk City, Okla. Scheduled events include saddle and bareback bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling and bull riding.

Methodists' Counsel OK'd

DALLAS (AP) — The North Texas Methodist Conference has approved the employment of a full time counselor to counsel the minister who may need help with a problem—either of a personal nature or with his parish.

Heretofore, a minister has felt unable to talk to his administrative superior for fear his problems might affect his future in the ministry, Methodist officials said.

The conference Wednesday voted $10,000 a year for the next four years to initiate the counseling program. Offices will be at Methodist hospital.

The counselor's duties will include testing young B. D. degree holders who are coming up for appointment to the ministry. He will conduct workshops in counseling techniques for ordained ministers.

The new program is the first such devised in the South Central Jurisdiction, which includes eight southwest states. Methodists in Indiana, Ohio, and Washington, D.C., are using the counseling program.

Delegates agreed to study the possibility of establishing a Methodist building in Dallas to house North Texas Conference offices.

The proposal was made by R. Bryan Brawner, executive director of Highland Park Methodist Church.

Farmer Enjoyed

W. D. Howell, cotton farmer near Lenorah in central Martin County, has been enjoined by U.S. District Judge Homer Thornberry from violation of child-labor standards of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Howell agreed to entry of the judgment without contest. The complaint contended he had engaged minors under 16 years of age to work on his farm during hours when schools in their home district were in session.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Pure Bleach Used To Whiten Porches

Dear Heloise: A great big archid should go to Mrs. E. F. H. for the hint about using pure bleach on her concrete porch, letting it dry, then rinsing well.

I have a fieldstone mantel that was the despair of my life. I used every chemical I had ever heard of on it, to no avail... When this hint appeared in your column and it dawned on me to try this method on my mantel. It is "done-and-dried" and I am sure that it is whiter and more natural looking than it was when new... 25 years ago.

I used a little glass ashtray, into which I poured my pure household bleach, a little at a time, and painted it on our mantel with a pastry brush, which I threw away afterwards.

One word of caution here: the fumes were very heavy so I opened the front and back doors and aired the house out well... M. Cooper

Always read caution label and directions on any product before using it. We are happy as a lark that your mantel is once again pretty... Heloise

Dear Heloise: The next time you find an egg or two stuck fast in that carton, stop... Don't try to pull the egg away from the carton itself, but get your scissors and cut the carton away from the egg, then use it.

Saves an egg... Hyacinth

Dear Heloise: I read your suggestion to put a dab of mayonnaise on dining room table tops to remove scratches and so forth.

Well, I bought a whole pint! I slopped it all over the top of the table and left it for awhile. Then removed it and rubbed hard with soft, old rags.

My 25-year-old table was so pretty that I then applied it to all my coffee tables.

Dear Heloise, I think this is the best hint you have had in months and months... Nancy Scott

Dear Heloise: I remove the yellow discoloration from my kitchen appliances with a strong solution of household bleach in warm water.

For stubborn areas... dip a cloth in this solution and wring out real well... let the saturated cloth sit on the surface for several minutes.

Rinse well and then use an appliance wax to bring back the shiny surface.

Be sure to protect your precious little hands, gals... Patsy Felmet

Mrs. W. M. Sowers Begins Ring Bell At Party Testing Homemaking Skill

By MARY COCHRAN
 "and they lived happily ever after." is the stuff fairy tales are made of. Mrs. William M. Sowers III, a bride of four short months, is a practical young lady who knows homemaking is one of the requirements for making that happy phrase a reality.
 Despite the fact that the new Mrs. Sowers spends eight hours or more a day in the business world, she has managed to create a serene and pleasing home at 101 E. 16th. New china and glistening crystal brighten a cupboard in the living-dining area and gay modern furniture completes a picture of new domesticity.
 No fairy princess is this bright young woman who has made the step from bachelor girl to busy new homemaker with apparent ease. She is the former Frankie Bedell who for seven years has been in the banking business. After graduating from Forsan High School she joined the State National Bank and the American Institute of Banking program. When Mrs. Sowers receives her third and final certificate from AIB in the near future she will hold a professional rating equivalent to a college education.
 After business hours she is very busy preparing meals and making a home for her new husband who has been soil conversationist in Big Spring for the past two years.

New Homemaker

Mrs. William M. Sowers III, a recent bride, gives tender care to her new crystal in preparation for company dinners she will be giving in her new home.

UNUSUAL LUNCHES
 In the mornings, the couple eat a solid breakfast and prepare for their jobs. Mrs. Sowers prepares two lunches; one of sandwiches for her husband who often has to eat in the field or cab of his pickup; and a lunch for herself of a different type. She may take salad or deviled eggs and on occasion has even prepared chili and tamales for the noon meal. A wide mouth vacuum bottle makes it possible for her to take these more unusual foods in her lunch. She recommends stuffed celery as a fine luncheon item, particularly when it is filled with a mixture of pimiento and longhorn cheese, the variety that doesn't melt easily.
 She started fixing these special lunches when she was a single girl and sharing a home with other young career women. It was during that time that she began her cooking career when each girl shared in the duties of keeping house and cooking.
 "We served hamburger meat in every manner conceivable," she said in describing those days. Italian spaghetti was a favorite dish she learned to prepare and now sometimes serves to dinner guests when she and her husband entertain. Another favorite in her bachelor quarters was fruit salad, made in any combination that suited the young ladies.

EASY MENUS
 Today she finds roast a very suitable and easy menu staple, particularly pot roast with its many possible vegetable combinations. She shops every two weeks for her meat supply with a general menu plan in mind for that period. When company comes for dinner, she sometimes serves charcoal broiled hamburgers in the back yard. This is a casual and easy way to entertain and lightens her duties as hostess.
 It was only October of last year when Mrs. Sowers returned from a trip to Miami, Fla. to receive her engagement ring. Wedding bells followed January 25th and she took on the new role of homemaker.
 Mrs. Sowers remembers with great pleasure the many festivities that took place before her marriage. A series of parties

 No reason why you can't add herbs to that gravy! Try tarragon for chicken, oregano for lamb, basil for beef.

Ring Bell At Party

For many a June bride, happiness is the sound of wedding bells. For the hostess giving a shower for such a guest, it could be the discovery of a pair of edible bells that double for the centerpiece and the dessert. The gay bells are made with popped corn, dry toasted nuts, and marshmallows.
 While the marshmallows melt over hot water, the corn, popped in its own foil frypan, can be ready in a jiffy. Then it just takes a minute or two to combine the melted marshmallows, popped corn, and dry toasted nuts and shape the combination into a pair of bells. For the centerpiece, tie them with white ribbon bows and put on a platter decorated with white flowers.
 When serving the bells for dessert, slice them and top each serving with vanilla ice cream and peaches. For a festive look, freeze the vanilla ice cream in a ring mold. Then unmold onto a platter and fill the center with sliced peaches.

POP CORN BELLS
 1-3 cup butter or margarine
 3/4 lb. marshmallows, cut in pieces
 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
 1 pkg. pop corn
 1 cup dry toasted mixed nuts
 Put butter, marshmallows, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger in pan over hot water. Cover and heat until marshmallows are melted. While marshmallows are melting, prepare pop corn according to package directions. Put popped corn in large bowl. Add nuts. Pour over marshmallow mixture and mix well. Shape into 2 bells.

Fix Mints As Favors

So you're giving a shower for a bride in a few weeks. Besides planning the menu, you may at this time be elbow-deep in table decorations.
 A colorful and fun-filled way to bring a festive note to the table is by making individual favors for each guest. This is one occasion when all of the gala trimmings imaginable can be brought into play.
 Among the most effective of table trimmers are miniature umbrellas.
 For each favor you need a 5-inch square of clear cellophane. Overlap opposite corners of cellophane square to form a cone keeping bottom point sharp. Tape cone closed.
 Fill cone with mints in lime, lemon or watergreen flavors.
 Insert 1-inch of a 4-inch green pipe cleaner. Gather top of cone around pipe cleaner.
 Tie top of cellophane cone with a 6-inch piece of pastel ribbon, leaving ends of ribbon free.
 Make a loop bow with a 12-inch ribbon. Tie into place with free ends of other piece of ribbon.
 Bend top of pipe cleaner into a curve to form umbrella handle.

SHOWER TEA
 Whether a surprise or planned, a shower for the bride-to-be still follows the traditional custom calling for a selection of sweet and savory foods.

Shower Tea Favored For Festive Affair

This is the season brides-to-be are being feted with shower teas. They may vary from a formal afternoon tea to a surprise shower tea along with mutual friends of the bride and her husband-to-be.

While etiquette has eased considerably so that shower teas may now be educational, they still should only be given by close friends of the bride and never by any member of her family.

Whether a surprise shower tea or a formal tea, the hostess will do well to consult carefully with the bride's family and friends to determine her preferences and needs before deciding on the kind of shower to give.

Shower teas follow the traditional tea custom calling for a selection of sweet and savory foods. Because the bridal shower season in many areas of the country can be quite warm and summery, most shower teas now offer guests both hot and iced tea.

Serving iced and hot instant tea together presents no extra work for the busy hostess. Both can be prepared in a matter of seconds.

Here are easy-to-follow directions on how to prepare tea, iced and hot, and have it ready to serve a crowd in a jiffy, a suggestion for a savory "Shower Party Sandwich Loaf" that will not only delight feminine guests but find favor at co-ed shower teas.

HOT TEA: Use one level teaspoon of instant tea for each cup. Add boiling, hot water.

ICED INSTANT TEA (by the quart): Put two level tablespoons of instant tea into a large pitcher and stir in one quart of

PATIO PICNIC
 Curry-fried chicken breasts are crisp finger food

Be Different, Please Honoree With Picnic

The bride-to-be will be entertained with showers, luncheons, teas and coffees galore. So how about giving a picnic for her with a delightfully different menu, one on the sophisticated side?
 For this we suggest serving curry-fried chicken breasts with chutney and a cold rice salad enlivened with slivers of crisp green pepper and ripe red tomato. For dessert, frosted petite fours. This picnic can be on your porch or patio, as the chicken served warm; you'll find, as we did, that the method of preparation makes it deliciously crisp.
CURRY-FRIED CHICKEN BREASTS
 2 cups flour
 2 tps. curry powder

2 tps. monosodium glutamate
 1 1/2 tps. salt
 1 tsp. ginger
 1 egg
 Juice of 1 lemon (about 3 tablespoons)
 1/2 cup milk
 4 whole large broiler - fryer chicken breasts, halved
 Vegetable oil
 Stir together the flour, curry powder, monosodium glutamate, salt and ginger in a large pie plate. Beat egg in another pie plate; add lemon juice and milk and mix well; don't worry about curdled appearance. Rinse chicken and drain lightly; do not dry. Roll chicken pieces in flour, dip in egg mixture, and then roll again in seasoned flour.

Let chicken stand about 30 minutes; coating will be moist - roll in flour again. Have vegetable oil 1/2 inch deep in 2 skillets (10-inch size). Heat to 375 degrees. Add 4 chicken pieces to each skillet, skin side down. Cook until golden brown on one side, about 10 minutes.
 Turn; cook until done through and brown on other side, about 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 8 servings.
 Note: Large chicken breasts will take up all or most of the seasoned flour mixture given. Be sure to use our directions for frying the chicken - uncrowded and in a generous amount of oil - so the breasts will cook through in a short time.

Water Tiff Opens War Maneuvers

BLYTHE, Calif. (AP) — This could be the day of decision for 100,000 fighting men spread across 13 million acres in a make-believe, but not bloodless, war over the Colorado River. Peace feelers have been put out by both mythical nations in Operation Desert Strike.

And reports are growing that directors of the operation want to avoid any conflict with civilian highway traffic over the Memorial Day weekend.

If so, today or Friday may bring an end to the year's largest military maneuver, a multi-million-dollar training exercise that has cost 8 lives directly, 24 indirectly.

Twelve of the 32 have died since the war games began May 16, but only one of them was struck by a weapon and that was an apparent suicide, officers of the maneuver said.

JET PILOT
Latest reported casualty came at noon Wednesday, when the pilot of an Air Force F100 jet fighter was killed in a crash near Vidal Junction, Calif.

Officials said 1st Lt. Peter H. Trogot, 24, of Vancouver, Wash., was flying a simulated strafing mission near Parker Dam when the crash occurred.

Trotogott's death was the third in an aviation accident since May 16 and the sixth since forces began gathering here in February. Trotogott leaves his parents, Peter H. Trotogott and Mrs. Evelyn T. Morrow, both of Vancouver.

It all began because California — on the California side of the Colorado — and its mythical neighbor, Nezona, on the Arizona side, were feuding over rights to the river's precious water.

On the night of May 15, California stopped arguing and sent troops by helicopter to occupy Parker and Davis dams, in a demilitarized zone supervised by a mythical international body, the Organization of Western States.

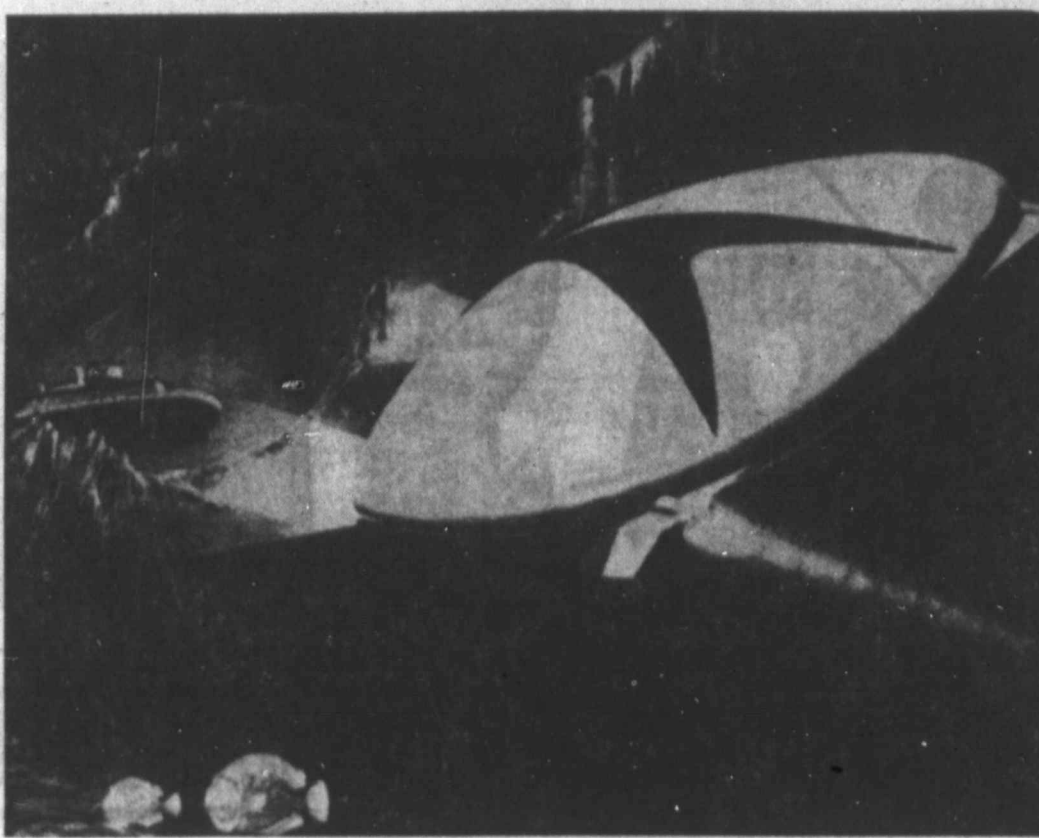

INVADED
The following day Nezona declared war and invaded California. Over the past two weeks, air and ground units of the U.S.

Strike Command, formed in 1961 to give this nation a striking force ready for limited war anywhere in the world, have been split into two forces, play-acting like two nations in mortal struggle.

Under the Colonial banner were the 1st Armored Division of Fort Hood, Tex., the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Ky., and the 2nd Brigade of the 40th Armored Division of the California National Guard.

Under Nezona's banner were the mechanized 5th Infantry Division of Fort Carson, Colo., the 25th Brigade of the Arizona National Guard, the 2nd Armored Division and the 191st Infantry Brigade of Army Reserves from Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada.

At the moment the battleline stretches along the Colorado in a virtual stalemate, with each nation about where it was when the war began.

Westbrook Graduates Nine Seniors Tuesday

WESTBROOK (SC) — Nine seniors of Westbrook High School received diplomas in exercises held Tuesday night in the school cafeteria. Pomp and Circumstances, the traditional processional and recessional was played by Mrs. Charles Ranne. The Rev. S. L. Yelding said the invocation.

Louis Lewis and Janie Putman gave the salutatory and valedictory addresses. Supt. Herman Parsons introduced the speaker, Travis Livingston, a former faculty member here and now a professor at South Plains Junior College at Levelland.

Den Bird presented a gift of shrubbery from the class. Charles R. Hutchins, principal, presented the class to Sam Oden, president of board of trustees, who in turn gave the diplomas to the seniors. Ushers were Vickie Jarratt, Jug Rees, Patty Rees and Larry Bell.

The class left Wednesday for a trip to Santa Fe, N.M., and points in Colorado. Coach and Mrs. Sam Scroggins, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bryant accompanied them. Thirteen eighth graders were promoted in exercises held Monday night in Westbrook School cafeteria. Mrs. Charles Ranne played the march music, and the invocation was said by Ralph Bryant, Eddie Ranne, salutarian, and Patricia Bell, valedictorian, gave addresses.

Others on program were class history by Wanda Whitehead; class will by Margie Geron, prophecy by David Crawford, and poem by Vickie Sullivan. Guest speaker was the Rev. S. L. Yelding.

Climaxing the program Supt. Herman Parsons presented the American Legion awards to Patricia Bell and Eddie Ranne. Ushers were Sue Bell, Junior Oden, Debra Yelding and Oma Rich.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—City-Parish (County) recreation and park facilities were integrated without incident Wednesday.

Negroes played golf at two city courses and tennis at City Park.

Roommate's Wonderment Nearing End

WASHINGTON (AP) — After "four months of wonderment" as the White House roommate of Lynda Bird Johnson, Warrie Lynn Smith, 19, returns to Texas today with memories she'll never forget.

"I just fell in love with everyone," she admitted as she said a wistful goodbye to everyone from diplomats to White House policemen. And everyone seemed to have fallen in love with Warrie.

The White House stay gave Warrie "a feeling and a spirit that will always be with me."

NEXT FALL
It wasn't quite certain whether Warrie Lynn would return to join Lynda Bird for the remainder of their sophomore year at George Washington University next fall. She has said she's going back to the University of Texas, but the Johnsons expect she and Lynda will do lots of visiting back and forth during the summer.

"The President keeps saying I'm not going home," pretty, vivacious Warrie said with a smile.

She joins the Johnsons today for a trip to New York and the gala salute to the President in Madison Square Garden. Then, she is to fly with them to Texas where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warfield Smith, are waiting to welcome her back home to San Antonio.

MEMORABLE
Warrie's last full day in the White House was one of her most memorable.

She and Lynda, 20, finished up exams at George Washington in time to watch the colorful south lawn ceremonies marking the arrival of visiting President Eamon de Valera of Ireland. While President and Mrs. Johnson rode in a brief parade with De Valera, the girls joined the crowd outside the White House to wave at them.

Wednesday night, they were official guests for the first time at a formal state dinner honoring De Valera, and Warrie's mother sent her an appropriate white Irish linen dress to wear. To her delight, Warrie was seated next to television personality Ed Sullivan.

Warrie and Lynda danced in the Blue Room with military aides and guests.

Abducted Dog Is Still Missing

Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach, operator of the animal hospital from which two valuable dogs were stolen last Saturday, said today that only one of the missing animals has been found.

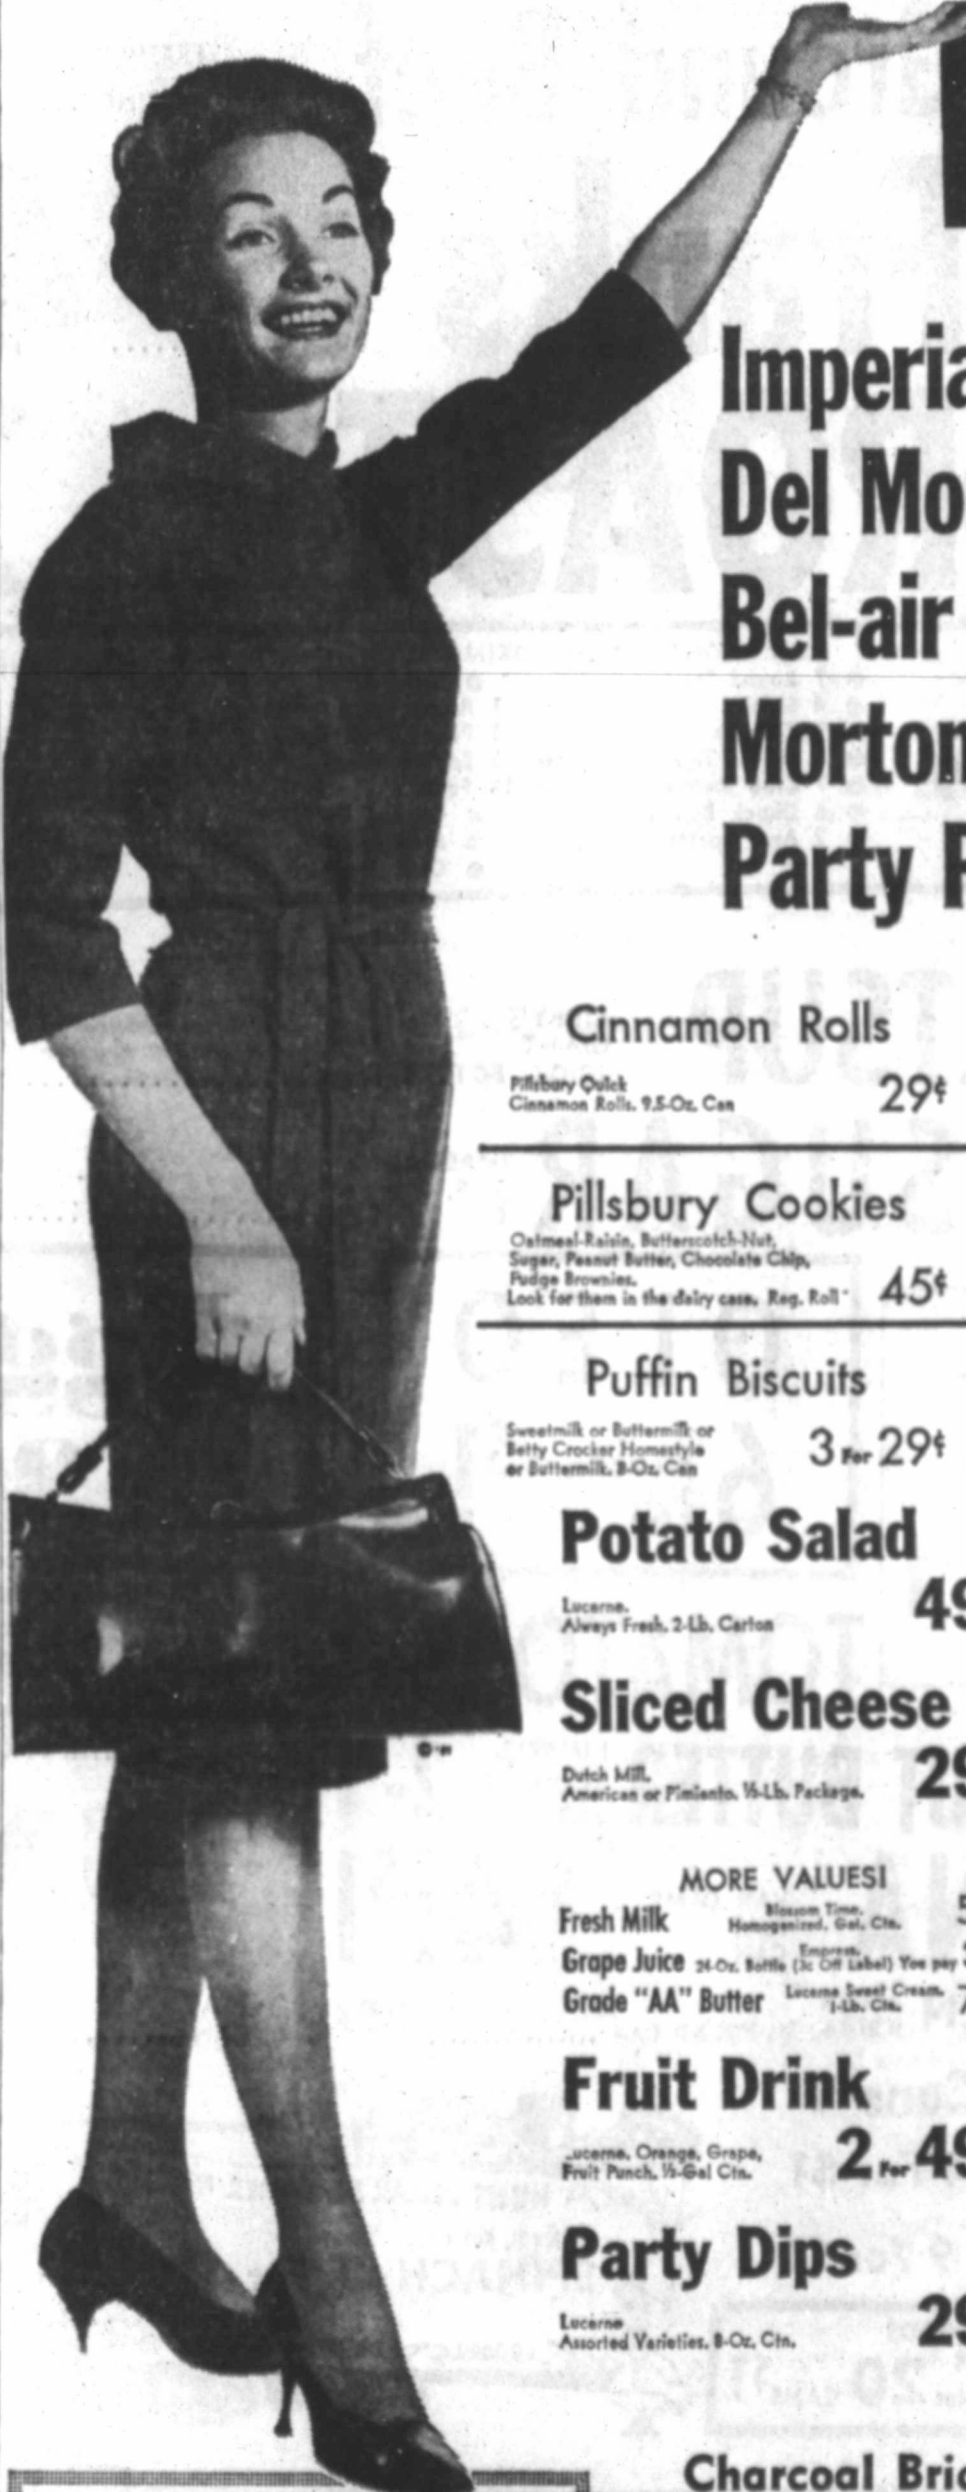

"The report that a youth told police he released the Pekingese near my hospital," said Dr. Schwarzenbach, "may be true but the dog is still missing."

He asked that the public be informed that the animal has not been returned. Someone, he said, may see the little dog and report it.

The Peke is cocoa-colored, small and will weigh not more than 10 pounds, he said.

In a statement to police, John Hipolito, 16, said that he had let the Peke out of his car in front of the animal hospital on Monday night.

A collie taken from the hospital at the same time was recovered when a boy reported he had been given the animal by a man and a woman.

It Takes Water To Make Grass Green, Notes Board

During the recent school bond campaign, a number of people wondered aloud why some of the school campuses are not sodded and kept green.

School authorities suggest the water bill may be one good reason. Board members looked over an itemized statement of water bills for the 1962-63 school year at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Some schools have more than one water meter to permit sufficient flow and pressure for needs.

The total water bill paid by the school district last year was $9,348.23. Water used for stadiums and athletic practice fields cost $2,668.82. Big Spring schools pay half the cost of water for Memorial Stadium, and Howard County Junior College pays half.

Amounts paid by schools and stadiums, were: Airport elementary $340.89; Bauer $292.82; Boydston $500.24; Cedar Crest $161.48; College Heights $408.60;

Marcy $631.44; Park Hill $288.88; South Ward $78.18; Kate Morrison $241.53; Lakeview elementary and junior high $197.40; Goliad Junior High $1,109.15; Runnels Junior High $638.48; senior high $1,193.36; business office $68.97; senior high agriculture class (May through August) $12.80; athletic field (old stadium) $1,108.31; practice field at senior high $821.36; Memorial stadium (half of $1,478.32) $739.16.

Special Classes Acquaint Pupils With 'New' Tongue

Non-English-speaking children, who will enter the first grade in Big Spring schools in September, will have an opportunity again this year to study what is to them a "foreign" language.

Children who generally speak Spanish or a language other than English at home may attend the pre-school program which deals with practicing phrases and sentence patterns until English sounds, word form, and word pattern become automatic.

Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, elementary coordinator for the Big Spring schools, said many materials are used to stimulate interest. Toys, dishes, objects about the school, doll houses with furniture, and many other commonly-used and seen objects, are utilized.

TWO SCHOOLS

Sessions will be held at Bauer and Kate Morrison schools from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. June 1 through July 24. Only children who will be six before Sept. 1, and who do not speak English, may enter.

Three experienced teachers, Mrs. Arthur Rueckart, Mrs. Agnes Mitchell and Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds, will conduct the program. The first two will be at Bauer and Mrs. Dodds at Kate Morrison.

"Reading and writing will not be started in the summer school, but teachers will evaluate the readiness of the youngsters for regular classroom instruction in the fall," Dr. Ainsworth said. "Some will be ready to go into regular first

Sue Cook Gets Scholarship

Suzanne Cook, 1706 Harvard, has been awarded a $100 music scholarship by the National Guild of Piano Teachers. The scholarship is good in any college, conservatory or university.

Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook and has been studying piano for the past 10 years.

In addition to the piano guild scholarship, she was awarded her high school diploma and a Paderewski medal by the Guild.

For nine years, Suzanne was a student of Mrs. Nell Frazier, and for the past year in preparation for her audition for the high school diploma and scholarship she was coached by Jack Hendrix.

"Your achievement in piano playing through 10 years as a national or international member of the National Fraternity of Student Musicians with an excess of 140 more C's (highest possible rating) than A's, you have attained the Guild scholarship for further study,"

Thant Lifts Heavy Load

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Atlas was a muscular gent once credited with carrying the world on his shoulders.

U Thant is a slightly plump 5-foot-8 Burmese who weighs 162 pounds. Because he is U.N. secretary-general, he is actively juggling a dozen or more political pyramids.

The United States has suggested making him an umpire in the dispute started by Cambodia's charges of aggression lodged against the United States and South Viet Nam in the U.N. Security Council.

That came up recently, just after the Security Council had dodged an outright request to him to be an umpire in the Indian-Pakistani dispute over control of Kashmir. The majority of the council wanted him to take over that task but India opposed it. The Soviet Union supported India with its threat of veto power, and the council withheld the recommendation.

U THANT
... carrying problems

ANKLE-DEEP

Thant is already ankle deep in Southeast Asia. He acts as a post office for Indonesia and Malaysia in their complaints against each other over Indonesia's threat to crush the new federation of Malaysia. He is directly concerned in arbitrating a border dispute between Cambodia and Thailand.

Heading the list of pyramids in his direction of the U.N. peace corps in Cyprus.

At the end of June he emerges from another military peace-keeping operation, in the troublesome Congo. The U.N.

force is to be withdrawn June 30 and Thant has been shrinking it slowly. But he still will be actively involved in continuing U.N. civilian aid to the country.

WAR IN YEMEN

Thant has another personal representative in the field trying to dampen down the Republican-royalist war in Yemen by encouraging the United Arab Republic and Saudi Arabia to end active support for the contenders.

He has not been too successful and the situation there has become complicated by Yemeni Republican and Arab League campaigns to drive the British out of Aden and turn the Federation of South Arabia over to Yemen.

He still bosses a 5,000-man force keeping peace between Israel and Arab neighbors in the Middle East.

He played an important intermediary role between the United States and the Soviet Union and Cuba during the missile crisis.

SOUTH AFRICA

Thant is directly involved in dealing with South Africa's racial segregation policies and its trials of apartheid foes, and with trying to get a U.N. technical assistance representative established in the territory of South West Africa as a first step to its independence under a Bantu government.

Thant inherited a financial headache when he took over the U.N. job, and his pyramid juggling included bond sales, economy campaigns and mapping steps to coordinate technical assistance programs as well as trying quietly—but unsuccessfully—to collect from Soviet bloc countries, France and others in arrears on peace-keeping financing.

But he shows no outward nervousness in his juggling act.

An intimate said he is reinforced by his Buddhist faith, which gives him calm in handling his problems from day to day, and the pyramids do not interfere with his digestion or sleep.

Local Firm Gets Contract

Boss-Linam Electric, Inc., Big Spring, has submitted the apparent low bid of $220,449 for construction of lighting approach at Laughlin AFB at Del Rio.

Col. F. P. Koisch, district engineer for the U. S. Army, announced that work would consist of furnishing all plant equipment, labor, material and performing all work in connection with installation of new lighting approach. Work involves new high intensity threshold lighting, new duct bank monitor system, enlargement of existing night lighting vault, new 200 KW diesel engine generator and power building, new 1,000 gallon underground fuel storage tank, new transformer station, and 800 linear feet of fencing.

Nine other bids were received. The government estimate for the work was $222,005.

Work is to start within five days after notice to proceed is issued by the Corps and is to be completed within 270 days.

Dear Abby

To Cheat,
To Tell?

DEAR ABBY: I myself would not inform a teacher when others are cheating. Any teacher who cares about what goes on in her classroom can catch cheaters with little effort. Cheating in school is dishonest, of course, but it is not to be compared with robbery, assault or murder. When one witnesses harm or violence done to another, he has a moral obligation to report the offender immediately. When one cheats in an examination, he is only cheating himself and damaging his own character and reputation. If he attempts to cash in on his ill-gotten marks, he will only prove to others that his fine record was not earned because he will not know his subject. Don't back down, Abby; I think you were right.

"FORTY-ONE YEARS ON THE BENCH"

DEAR ABBY: I do not believe that very young children should "tattle" on one another for the slightest little thing. But when a student sees another student cheating during an examination, I think it is his duty to inform the teacher. Today the classrooms are so crowded, especially in the colleges and universities, we are told that students may get away with cheating, unnoticed. How would YOU like to lie down on an operating table and entrust your life to a surgeon who had cheated his way through medical school? D. N. C. (A Baltimore M.D.)

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received a telephone call from a girl asking me to her prom. I had not even seen this girl in FOUR years, and to tell you the truth, it is not long enough. I never liked her because she was loud and forward, and besides, she used to stare at me in eighth grade, which gave my friends plenty to kid me about. I told her I couldn't take her to the prom because I had to work that night, which was true. After I hung up my mother asked me who the girl was. I told her in a nice way that it was none of her business, which it wasn't. Do you see anything wrong with that?

GROUND

DEAR GROUND: Yes. There is no "nice" way to tell one's mother that something is none of her business. Even if it isn't.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CINDY: In the early 1780's the English poet Edward Young wrote: "The maid that loves goes out to sea upon a shattered plank, and puts her trust in miracles for safety." Times have not changed.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Iraqi Engineer To Visit Here

Bahjet Mohamed Al-Ani, a widely known engineer from Iraq, in the United States for a tour of American construction and engineering projects, will be in Big Spring June 9. He will then leave for Midland where he will attend a luncheon at the Caravan Motel and meet other members of the AGC.

Al-Ani will be accompanied to Big Spring by Frank Fuller, manager of the West Texas Chapter of the AGC. The Iraqi engineer will remain in West Texas all of the week of June 8.

On Tuesday afternoon, after the Midland luncheon, he will tour the Petro - Chemical complex at Odessa. He will be in Lubbock on June 10, in Wichita Falls, June 11, and in Abilene on Friday.

Paul Kasch of Big Spring is a director of AGC.

Storied Goliad Fortress Being Rebuilt As Historic Symbol

GOLIAD (AP) — The historic fortress where Col. James W. Fannin and his troops were massacred during the war for Texas independence is being rebuilt by nail and stone by stone.

On a hilltop overlooking the San Antonio River, the Spanish-built presidio once dominated the coastal plain between San Antonio and the Gulf.

This is the site of Presidio St. Maria de Loreto Del Espiritu Santo La Bahia.

The fort as it stood two centuries ago is taking shape. Some of the walls have been reconstructed and stand even stronger than the day Fannin entitled the fortress "Defiance."

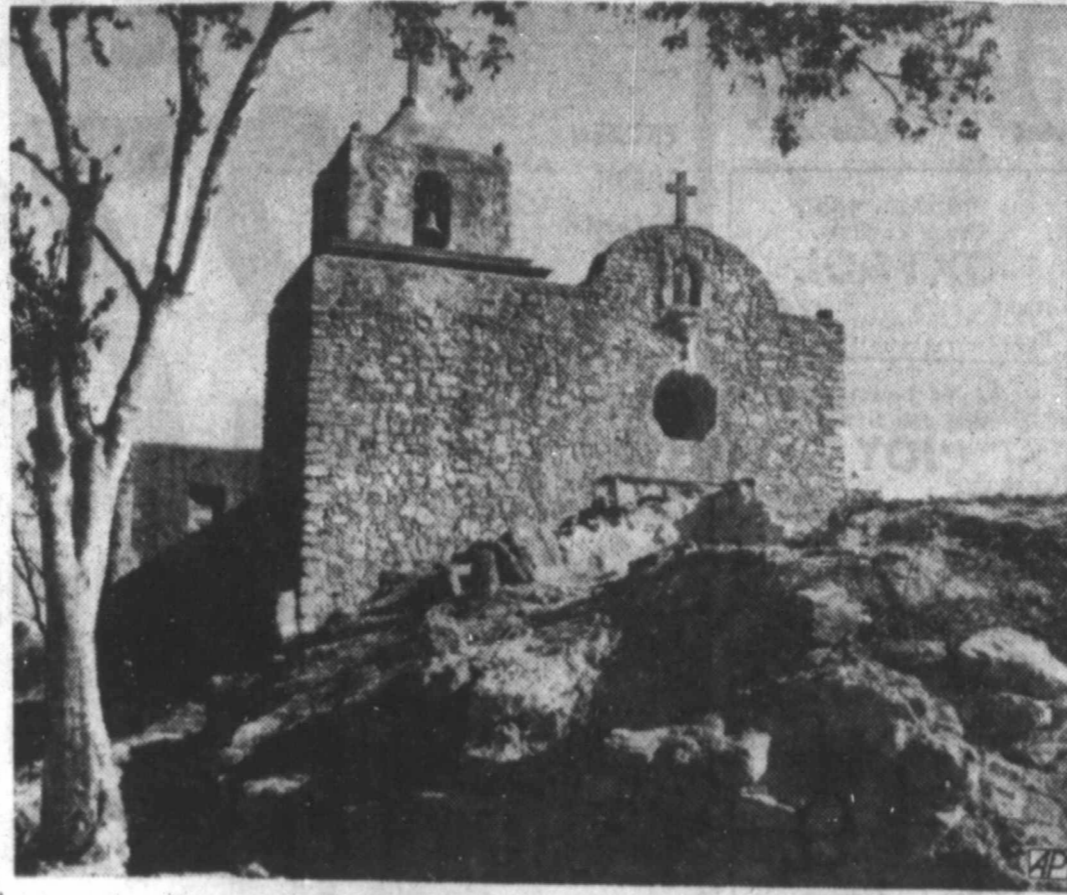

With an assortment of tools, including wisk brooms and trowels, reconstruction workers have spent many hours at excavation. This tedious task has also produced more than 3,000 artifacts that will some day be placed in a museum. In places, the workmen found the presidio walls buried several feet in debris.

DOZEN LAYERS

One floor sample taken shows a dozen cultural layers dating back to the day of Indian habitation. Among the artifacts are many interesting items, such as the mechanism of a two-barrel pistol, a small hand cannon, a round rock that may have been used along with the more conventional cannon balls of the time, a root grown through a tiny bead, and many others.

Railford L. Stripling of San Anguine, architect on the project sponsored by the Kathryn O'Connor Foundation, agent for the Corpus Christi Catholic Diocese, said many of the questions concerning the fort's appearance at the time of the Texas Revolution have been answered through comparison of excavation findings and historical documents.

Since Spanish Capt. Orobio y Basterra selected the site for the presidio in 1749, it has been under the care and command of numerous individuals. It is now the job of the restorers to determine which innovations were completed during, before or after Fannin's occupation.

LA SALLE

The original fort had been founded near Victoria in 1722 at a site where La Salle had built Ft. St. Louis. In 1726, it was moved to Mission Valley, northwest of Victoria, where it remained until the Spanish decided to relocate it on the San Antonio River near the present town of Goliad.

The bastions are a good example of the many changes that took place. Early Spanish occupants built two-story structures. Four decades later, small sentry boxes of stone construction guarded the fort. When Fannin arrived, he constructed a bastion at the southwest corner using a more Anglo-Saxon type of stonework. He remodeled others and built ramps to handle his cannons, which were heavier than those of the Spanish builders.

When the fort was first built of stone, the Spanish probably had little reason to fear attack from the southwest. Fannin knew his troubles were coming from that direction.

Under Fannin's command there was a soldier named Joseph M. Chadwick of New Hampshire, who had attended West Point and knew something of engineering. He drew a bird's eye perspective of the presidio including proposed renovations.

In 1936, when Stripling was engaged in the restoration of Mission Nuestra Senora del Espiritu Santo De Zuniga across the river, he met a descendant of Chadwick. This meeting resulted in Stripling securing a copy of the map, which has been a valuable guide in determining the fort's layout.

SOUTH WALL

The main entrance to the enclosed grounds is through the south wall. Well before Fannin arrived, the Republic of Mexico realized the importance of La Bahia. Supplies and troops landed at a port on Copano Bay and were hauled across the prairie to the presidio.

When restoration work began, only the picturesque chapel and some crumbling walls were visible. The presidio was purchased by the Catholic Church from the town of Goliad in 1833 for one thousand dollars. Ever since, the mission has been maintained as a place of worship. A statue of the Virgin Mary, which someone managed to shelter during the periods of battle, was returned when the church was placed back into use.

The chapel has been added to or remodeled several times since Fannin's day. A second story was added to the sanctuary. The belfry fell off and was replaced. A small room on the south side, which Fannin used as a gun powder room, serves as a side chapel. Some historians believe Fannin was held captive in this room.

There is a long way to go before the restoration is complete, but the site of decaying ruins only a year ago is beginning to once again look like a fortress.

City Traffic Commission Passes Recommendations

The city traffic commission approved several recommendations to the city commission in a meeting held Tuesday at City Hall.

As an experiment, the board recommended changing 60 degree angle parking on Main from Sixth to Tenth to 30 degree parking, providing for two northbound and two southbound lanes of traffic. The change will cut the number of parking spaces about 25 per cent, according to Ernest Lillard, director of public works, but it will provide an extra three feet on each side of the street.

The engineering department was authorized to study the effect of a no parking plan for Birdwell Lane from Yale to Fifteenth. Another study, of traffic patterns at Fifth and Scurry, will determine the feasibility of re-installing a traffic signal light at the intersection. The board members also recommended changing parking from angle to parallel on the east side of Scurry between Fourth and Fifth.

A highway department signal control device for the intersection at Northwest Fifth and US 87 north was approved and recommended to the city governing body. Roy Rogan, city electrician, estimated it will cost $1,191.40 to install the signal.

Under the plan, north and south bound motorists on US 87, east and west bound traffic on Northwest Fourth will face two traffic lights. The first block west of the highway on Northwest Fifth will be declared one-way for west bound traffic, and a concrete divider on North Gregg, where it enters US 87, will separate north and south traffic on North Gregg. South bound traffic on North Gregg will halt before flowing into traffic going in the same direction on US 87.

For the record, the board approved stop signs on Benton, giving traffic on Seventeenth the right-of-way. The signs already have been installed. Also approved was a recommendation for yield signs on Rutgers, allowing motorists on Tulane the right-of-way.

No action was taken on requests for traffic control devices at Seventh and Runnels and Eighth and Nolan.

Castroites Claim Three Agents Shot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four men said by Havana Radio to be U. S. Central Intelligence Agency agents, were executed by a firing squad Tuesday for trying to land on the Cuban coast.

One of the men was identified as Maj. Felipe Vidal Santiago, a diplomatic aide in charge of the Cuban Embassy in Venezuela shortly after Fidel Castro took power in Cuba.
