Last Of Civil War Mothers Tells Of Son Who Never Came Back From Front

She Will See to the Decorating of His Grave Today

BY JOE LOVE
NEA Service Writer

WEST McHENRY, Ill., May 29.—On the front porch of a small stone house here sits Mrs. Samantha Rorer Button 96, a kindly little woman who dreams of her "soldier boy" who marched away to war in February, 1864, and never came back.

Mrs. Samantha Rorer Button, 96, who will see to it that her son's grave is decorated today—she left her and marched away to war in 1864 and never came back alive.

Born in Pennsylvania in 1830 she came west with her parents and settled in McHenry. At a very early age she married. Three boys were born to her before she was twenty—Clinton, Leonard and Frank, Clinton the oldest, was the soldier. He enlisted in Company H, 18th Illinois Cavalry, in February, 1864, when he was 16.

Tells of Son
Mrs. Button now wrinkled and worn sits alone with her reminiscences.

"I have had to work hard all my life but we did have the joyful times," she says. When Clinton was old enough to dance I taught him how and was his first partner. I'll have you know I was no wall-flower in those days.

When the Civil War came and with it a call for recruits. Local companies were formed in McHenry and they drilled not far from the River house.

"There was parading up and down the streets with torches and drums," she says. "Clinton was only 16 but he was big and strong and they took him in. They drilled up and down that street. He shouldered her cane to illustrate."

"They gave him a cape and they paraded and paraded and then one day they went away and I never saw him alive again," she continued. "I didn't mind it so much at first because my brother was in the same company and he promised to look out for him. And the captain and his wife were friends and used to write to me."

A few months later her son was taken down with typhoid fever and removed to a hospital. She thinks it was Camp Relief at Washington.

"I wanted to go to him but I couldn't manage with the other boys."

Telegraphic invitation, preferably for either June 13 or 14, was sent Mr. Surratt last night following a meeting of interested persons in the Board of City Development officers yesterday afternoon.

Urgent call of B. C. D. Manager A. B. Davis, J. B. Maxey, K. N. Clapp, N. L. Peters, Charles H. Mahoney and Chas. A. Guy, all of whom were in attendance at the recent National Conference on City Planning at Dallas, and City Secretary W. H. Rodgers, met late Tuesday afternoon and after hearing a report from Mr. Davis concerning the possibilities of bringing Mr. Surratt to Lubbock, unanimously approved the plan. The Kessler association, the city council and the board of city development officers.

Cullen Thomas To Oppose Dan Moody, Rumored

Movement to Draft Dallas Man Is Outgrowth Of Three-Cornered Fight Staged At Convention.

THOMAS IS ONE OF ULTRA-DRY FACTIO

Non-committal Attitude Is Maintained On Request For Definite Statement Of Intentions.

DALLAS, May 29.—Opposition for Governor Dan Moody in his race for re-election appeared certain here today as a movement begun at the democratic state convention over the prohibition question showed signs of crystallizing on Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas as its candidate.

Considerable pressure has been brought to bear on Mr. Thomas to make the race, and he is expected to make a statement in the matter before Saturday. He maintained a strictly non-committal attitude today when asked if he would become a candidate against Governor Moody. He admitted he had received many urgent requests to announce during the past two days, but would not indicate whether he was considering the race seriously.

Mr. Thomas was one of Governor Moody's strong supporters in the race for re-election. He was one of the leaders in the ultra-dry camp at the state convention at Beaumont last week, and the movement to put him into the governor's race is an outgrowth of the three-cornered fight between Governor Moody, State Senator Thomas and B. Love and the Smith forces over the question of a Texas delegation instructed against the New York governor.

Applications for places on the official ballot must be filed by Saturday. Mr. Thomas' statement of intentions is expected for this reason.

Rev. Jack M. Lewis pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, will receive the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the president and board of directors of Austin College, in Sherman, on next Tuesday, June 5th. Suspect In Mutilation and Murdering of Young Girl Grilled by Officers

Tell-Tale Bloodstains On Automobile Bring Arrest Of Young Man At Toledo—Child Was Stolen From Bed By Fiend, Who Made Use Of Skeleton Key

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 29.—A young man suspected of being the slayer who snatched 7-year-old Dorothy Sielagowski from her bed early this morning, attacked and mutilated her and tossed her body upon a porch near her home, was grilled by detectives tonight.

An automobile, believed to be the one in which the killer carried the body away, has been recovered. On the dust covered rear window was the imprint of a child's hand and on the rear seat and upholstery were fresh blood stains.

The machine was found half a mile from the Sielagowski home where it was thought to have been abandoned. It had been stolen the night before, purposely for the execution of the crime, police believe.

Through a comparison of finger prints on the automobile and those of the man in custody, detectives hope to determine whether the suspect is the guilty one.

The little girl was sleeping with her sisters, Stella, 13, Leona, 5, and Caroline, 2, when the man stole into the bedroom after entering the house with a skeleton key. The father, Alex Sielagowski and a brother, Raymond, 11, were in another room. The only member in the family who was not at home was a brother, Stanley, 18.

This morning Stanley was found by detectives wandering in the street. He said he had "bummed" his way to Monroe, Mich. last night and had begged rides back again today.

Both Stanley and his father were being questioned closely by the police tonight. Mr. Sielagowski was known to have enemies who police said might have killed the child.

This theory was given some credence by the fact that Dorothy's body was deposited on the front porch of an uncle, Joseph Skibinski, living directly across the street from the home of Alex Sielagowski.

A Bull Story Would-Be Matador Is Routed

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 29.—A bull got loose in the business section of the midway district here today, chased a young woman who was wearing a red dress and routed nearly a score of volunteer matadors before a patrolman brought him down with a rifle.

Breaking loose from the flimsy pen on a truck that was carrying him, the animal chased the girl in a red dress into a nearby doorway, evaded efforts of pedestrians to capture him and when police were called, forced a motorcycle patrolman to ride over curbs and through alleys to get away.

The patrolman shot the animal once with his revolver and ten times with a rifle before dealing a mortal wound.

Lubbock Placed On Proposed Air Line From Dallas

Lubbock, long renowned as "The Hub of the Plains" is destined to also become the hub of the Panhandle airlines if plans being worked out by the American Air Transport company, a Texas corporation with headquarters in Dallas, are carried to completion.

Lubbock is a key point on a proposed circle air route through Texas, under plans of the corporation which now intends to start regular freight and passenger service throughout West Texas, with Dallas as a central point, by July 15.

Charles E. Cutler, of Dallas, field representative of the corporation, was in Lubbock yesterday conferring with Chamber of Commerce officials relative to securing of an air field here.

Stops on the route, Mr. Cutler said, will be Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo, Abilene, and Fort Worth, in a circle route. If traffic justifies it, Lubbock will be made a terminus and planes operated from there each day. The present plan is to have one plane in each direction leave Dallas each morning.

Tex Ryan brochures, similar to the famed "Spirit of St. Louis" have been ordered by the corporation. Twenty-four pilots will be employed. Smaller or "Swallow" planes will be used for air taxi service.

Passengers and baggage will be carried at the rate of 10 cents per airline mile. Airline distance is generally much less than the distance by highway or rail. One hundred miles an hour cruising speed will be maintained.

Stations with two persons in attendance will be maintained at each town.

Bids for carrying air mail over the route will be presented when this has been authorized by the postoffice department, Mr. Cutler said.

MEMORIAL DAY

Observance To Be Made In Lubbock

Today, Memorial Day, will find an observance in Lubbock. The postoffice will close and several other institutions in the city will shut their doors.

The American legion auxiliary yesterday was conducting its annual Memorial Day poppy sale, the red flowers being conspicuous on east lawns throughout the city.

Tumult and Shouting to One of Most Stormy Days of Session Dies While Senators Rise In Tribute to Dawes

Executive Session Called To Calm Ruffled Demeanor Of Senators, As Aftermath Boulder Dam Row

ISSUE REMAINS TO COME UP NEXT YEAR

Longworth Delivers Parting Word To Members Of Upper House Just As Session Ends.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—A smiling refusal by vice-president Dawes to answer cries of "speech, speech" from the senate floor, and a brief word of farewell to the house by Speaker Longworth, concluded with the Hawaiian goodbye—"Aloha"—brought to an end today the first session of the 70th congress.

A moment later at 5:30 o'clock both presiding officers brought down their gavels and congress stood adjourned. Its members free to plunge into the political battles that await most of them individually at home and collectively at the party conventions in Kansas City and Houston.

House Is Peaceful

To the last, sparks were flying in the senate, but in the house all was peace and good nature. Its work was done a day or two ago. It listened today to speeches on many subjects, chafed its members cheerfully as the hours rolled by and threw verbal bouquets to a departing member, Simon of Oregon, who will not return next winter. And both houses and senate passed long enough to stand idle a few minutes at the time the body of Tom Butler, of Pennsylvania, veteran of years of service in the House which ended with his death Saturday, was being carried to the grave in Philadelphia.

The senate achieved its adjournment by breaking out of an all night battle to prevent a vote on the Boulder Dam bill. As a climax to the tumult and uproar which followed, which transgressed every rule of senate decorum and forced an executive session to calm feelings, Johnson of California, captain of the forces pressing the Boulder measure, had the last word in the senate except for the adjournment order.

SEEK NEGRO SLAYER

Murderer of Fort Worth Policeman Sought

FORT WORTH, May 29.—Immediately upon their return from Denton where a futile search has been made for Tonia Moore, negro slayer of Policeman George Turner, a squad of police officers today began searching the city for a negro who this morning shot E. D. Hawkins, collector for a loan company.

Hawkins, who was wounded in the shoulder, will recover.

All clues leading to the whereabouts of Moore were exhausted by the officers and they returned to Fort Worth leaving peace officers of Denton to continue the hunt.

THE WOMAN'S DAY By Allen Sumner

George Bernard Shaw, thinking it is about time for him to make some epigrams, recently remarked "Women love hotels; men hate them," thereby putting woman in a class of those who love the standard, the ornate, the impersonal, the superficial; whereas, man, blessed with an eye for the sterling worth of home and hearthside. Perhaps the reason women love hotels, if they do, and men don't never get away from home and men are never at home. That's a slight exaggeration, but it's only human to enjoy a change, and to a woman a hotel's the change; to a man, home is.

AUTO DRESSES
Frilly, feminine clothes never will return in this automobile era, according to some fashion authority who insists that automobiles demand tailored, simple, sport clothes. One might argue that ruffles and bustles and panniers and sashes thrived in a home and buggy era, and that buggies would crush clothes just as much as autos. But our lady forebears didn't live in buggies to the extent that their lady descendants live in autos. They occasionally had 'corn to dry and candles to make, to say nothing of soft soap to boil and yarn to dye.

LEGS NOT ART?
Speaking of dresses, painters now are fighting mad at the short-skirt—not because they think it ugly so much as that it's putting full length painting out of business, and the bigger the canvas and the more the oil used, the bigger the bill for the starving artist. Just why ladies won't be painted full length with their legs showing is somewhat of a mystery, if they believe in the aestheticism of the style. Maybe they're afraid future generations won't be so sure. After all, we do not yet take our leg display for granted or we would no more wonder what future generations would think of legs than our Great-Aunt-Emma wondered what we'd think of ankle-length skirts.

NOT SO MODERN!
Is modern woman so modern after all? We have made no little to do about our women aviators—our Ruth Elders, Frances Grayson, Mildred Doran, Princess Wertheim-Lowenstein, Herta Junkers and the rest. But in 1838 the world was exactly as excited about ballooning as it is today, and of 471 balloonists 49 were women. They say that today there are only about 50 women in the world who can really handle a plane. Considering that there are many more aviators than 471, women of the long ago stand out as a bit more adventurous than those of today. Sometimes one wonders if all the modern woman's cockiness about her modernity isn't a bit mistaken!

BAD BUSINESS!
Commercial interests control the National Federation of Women's Clubs according to a charge made by Anna Stose Richardson, a club editor who has been in intimate touch with all women's clubs for years. She claims that chairmen of various departments of the federation are in the hire of commercial interests who have an axe to grind along the particular line which this department represents.

Other patriotic organizations in the town are to cooperate in the service and Boy Scouts will act as escorts to the veterans. The chamber of commerce is furnishing transportation.

Jack Quinn is so old that he is sensitive about his age. The record books say he is forty-two, but he has been pitching for twenty-five years and some say he must be more than 45. Connie Mack doesn't care how old he is because the aged veteran is still delivering winning ball for the Athletics, having turned in two early season shutouts. The players say he throws with his head but even at that they can't hit him.

Girls, Provide a Foundation for Your Future Health

Port Arthur, Texas.—"When I was a girl my health got very poor. My stomach was weak and I became anemic. Some one advised my father to give me Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the Famous Prescription. He got three bottles of each, and I took them alternately, and before the six bottles were gone I was feeling and looking like a different girl. I have enjoyed fairly good health ever since."—Mrs. J. # When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father after losing his fortune, goes to live with a girlhood friend, CLARRISSA DEAN, and her father, in spite of the objection of her fiancé, NATHANIEL DANN, who mistrusts DEAN's motives. Becoming unhappy in her new home, VIRGINIA phones to NIEL'S studio late one night and is surprised when his model, CHIRI answers. This causes a lover's quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get NIEL away, DEAN has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried position in San Francisco. NIEL begs VIRGINIA to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

CLARRISSA becomes furious when she discovers her fiancé, RUSSELL WAINGOLD, making love to VIRGINIA and will not listen to an explanation. VIRGINIA resolves to leave but when she goes to say farewell to her host DEAN tries to get her to stay and asks her to marry him. When she refuses indignantly, he tells her that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging deal and that she had better reconsider her decision in order to save her father's honor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XV
 I shall pay you with money! Virginia's voice rang with defiant resolution, and she flung the words at Frederick Dean as one would fling a stone to a man's face. He started, bent a searching glance upon her, and then laughed a cruel laugh, cruel in its merciless mockery.

"That's good," he sneered. "I'd like to know where you will get $100,000." His words broke off suddenly and the jeering smile left his lips. "Unless you expect to marry someone else for it?" he shot at her with unveiled insult. "But that would hardly be playing the game," he hurried on, before she could answer. "Letting some other man pay the Brewster debt of honor would not be acceptable to me. I shall insist that you pay it yourself or agree to the alternative. Otherwise I shall still look upon your father as a liar and a cheat."

Virginia did not show any signs of the consternation he expected her to feel at his ultimatum. Her eyes still gleamed with defiance, and when she spoke there was no hint of despair in her voice.

"You are jumping at conclusions too low for my consideration," she said icily. "I shall marry no one but the man I love." "Be sure you don't marry him too soon," Dean warned sullenly. "It may not be so easy to find a fortune of $100,000 around an artist's studio. After all, you have to admit there's a good chance of failure. You might borrow it from among your father's old friends if you care to pass on the obligation in that manner, but you would still have to repay them or owe your protection to charity. And you cannot expect ever to see even the shadow of such a sum if you marry a penniless artist."

"I will get the money for you," Virginia declared, still in a state of unreasoning excitement. "But if I should fail I will keep to your infamous bargain!" "Then you may as well set a wedding date," he replied bluntly. "A year from today then," she hurried back at him. "If I have not paid you the debt you claim I will marry you! But don't think you have made me believe that my father knowingly cheated you. Whatever happened couldn't have been his fault, but I acknowledge the debt rather than have you blackening his character."

"Spoken like the girl I thought you were," Dean applauded. "But I'm sure you're just a little bit afraid that I have told only the truth and you don't want to take a chance of denying a genuine obligation. Well, I assure you that if you don't live up to your agreement I shall find it easy enough to have Richard's name dropped from the conversation of men who still believe that he was a very life fellow."

Virginia shrank slightly from the pitiless lash of his words but her spirit continued to flame at a high pitch of combat. Her voice when she spoke, vibrated with disdain and contempt. "I suppose I can't tell you to withhold your lies until the end of the year?" she asked with deliberate implication that nothing decent could be taken for granted from him.

"So long as you keep to the terms of the agreement, so shall I be returned smartly using a trifle by her open disregard for the rest of things in the morning," Virginia told him and turned quickly to leave the room.

Back in her charming room and every bedroom, she was seized with a great desire to fling herself upon the bed and give way to the grief and horror that assailed her. But she thought that this room and all the beauty it held belonged to the man who had charged her father with being a dishonest and dishonest man. She strained her eyes and tried to get out of the house soon enough.

For a moment she stood and watched the walls swaying and the ceiling bobbing. "I mustn't! I mustn't!" she cried aloud against the thought that she was about to collapse here at the mercy of a man she hated.

Somewhat, she pulled herself together, dragging the thin shreds of a much tried endurance about her to get her through this crisis. Hastily she picked a few necessities in her traveling bag and rang for a maid.

Pack the rest of my things, Collette," she ordered briskly, all of them, and have everything ready when I send for them in the morning. Here," she picked up her black beard handbag and extracted a five-dollar bill which she handed to the servant girl. The latter's dark eyes were alight with curiosity but she said nothing beyond a respectful "thank you."

"Now run down and call me a cab, and let me know as soon as it gets here," Virginia ordered and turned away to get a hat and wrap from the closet.

In a very short while the girl was back to tell her that a cab was waiting. Virginia motioned to the traveling bag and Collette took it up and followed her down to the street.

As she passed swiftly along the hall Virginia glanced through the open door of the drawing room, fearful lest Russell might see her and make another scene. But she did not see him. Russell and Clarrissa had left the house in the library.

The door of that room, across the hall, remained closed and Virginia breathed a sigh of thankfulness that Frederick Dean did not appear to bid her adieu. She was glad to be spared the necessity of pretending for Collette's benefit.

"Where to?" the taxi driver asked perfunctorily, and for the first time Virginia realized that she had given no thought to where she was going.

"To the Ritz," she answered in response to the power of her subconscious mind. "To the Ritz," had been a habit of years and the words sprang to her lips automatically.

But common sense had a word to say before she arrived at that glamorous hostelry. Could she afford to go there now? In a moment she had the contents of her hand bag spread out in her lap. A jade vanity case, a few cards, two cobwebby handkerchiefs, a notebook and the usual odds and ends to be found in a fashionable woman's possession. But the money there was very little.

Virginia bit her lip with vexation. How could she have been so negligent as to let her available funds get so low? She would have to cash a check at the hotel. She put the things back in the bag with the exception of a small checkbook which she opened and examined, trying to find her balance. It was a hopeless task. Not more than half the stubs were blank. She had no idea how many a good break in the bank but she knew it might be none at all. A small matter like an overdrawn account had never bothered her in the past but it looked now like a dread disaster.

The taxi was speeding southward and fastening a good break in the traffic and Virginia knew that she was soon to be deposited under the marquee of the Ritz if she did not do something to avert it. It was simply impossible to go there broke. She thrust out an unglazed hand to rap on the glass at the driver's back to attract his attention when her own became centered upon her hand, and she drew it back to regard more closely a ring she was wearing.

Her father had given it to her and Virginia rebelled against the thought that had come to her in connection with it. He must have funds. Immediately and there was nothing she owned that would not have the same sentimental value, except Nathaniel's ring. Virginia smiled over it. It was in exquisite taste, made by Niel himself, but it had little intrinsic worth. Her father's ring was a costly sapphire.

Still Virginia hesitated, and a little later the taxi was pulling up to the curb at the hotel. She had chosen. Virginia made no

Gratification In Present Trend Of Road Plans Seen

Revolving Bond Issue Is Held Most Satisfactory For State, Head of Texas Association Says.

FORT WORTH, May 29—In a recent discussion of the highway situation in Texas, Lloyd H. McKee, director and former president of the Highway Club of Texas declared that it is very gratifying to note the present trend of highway thought in the state. He declared that indications are that both public and private opinion and directed toward the one idea of a coordinated, connected system of durable roads throughout the state, which is the great need of the state today.

"During the past few months," said Mr. McKee, "there have been a number of prominent citizens, including some state officials who have made public statements favoring a state wide bond issue of motion to get out when the door-mat held open the door for her."

"I want to go down Fifth Avenue," she said and the lackey transmitted her directions to the driver.

As they crept down the avenue Virginia was thinking fast. Where did she go to raise money on jewels? Surely not to any Fifth Avenue jeweler! Perhaps if she had a newspaper.

They were at a corner and she beckoned the driver to turn to the right to get out of the unending river of cars. He reached back and pulled down the glass partition between them. "Where a lady?" he inquired.

"Why I— I really don't know," Virginia replied helplessly. She saw that he was looking at her with a worried expression. And she was surprised at the sympathy in it too, for she had thought that all taxi drivers were hard-hearted brigands. And here was one of the ilk with a kindly visage and apparently at a loss as to what should be done with a bewildering passenger whom most drivers would have been glad to drop.

"You might be able to advise me," she said suddenly, on an overmastering impulse.

varying amounts and under varying plans for the purpose of highway construction."

All Aim At One Purpose
 "All these aim at the one purpose of an improved highway system for the state and all are in the right direction, for it is now generally recognized that if Texas is to have a connected system of good roads, properly classified so as to serve the best interests of the majority of the people such a system must come through state wide effort and not through any form of localized effort. The federal highway act requires that the states must have their own funds and should not be dependant upon funds from counties or any other state division."

"All these suggestions are good," declared Mr. McKee, "and in time will enable the people of the state to arrive at the proper solution of the problem of financing highway construction."

Court Delayed Planting Takes Time of Jury

Justice for members of the alleged "turkey theft" ring which was recently smashed by local officers, will be delayed at least until June 25, it developed yesterday when a jury composed of farmers failed to show up for service, due to a start in planting activity over the county.

Planting was more important to the farmer-venue summoned in county court to hear the criminal court docket than was the court itself.

Judge Nordyke concurred with the veniremen and adjourned the session until June 26.

MEMORIAL DAY

Time has a way of healing things and making sharp outlines less harsh. The slopes of cemetery ridge, outside the town of Gettysburg, are grass-grown and peaceful.

But today, as on every 30th of May, we call it back again; not in all its red, ugly horror, but as a rather picturesque, heroic, romantic memory.

Yet our reverence to these things seems to be rather a surface matter. We watch the parades and listen to the bands and the orators today; but tomorrow we put it all away and resume the daily routine.

We need to recapture the solemnity of the original Decoration Day. Perhaps we could do it by bringing back in all their ghastly horror the war scenes that we talk about so glibly today.

For the day's real significance lies in the fact that a great many thousands of men have given up their lives for the sake of that red, white and blue symbol that heads today's parades.

What should we do, then? Chiefly, we could make our patriotism a little deeper and broader. We could do it by remembering the sacrifices that this day commemorates; by reminding ourselves that our heritage, as Americans, was dearly bought.

VICTIMS OF GRAFT, WAR AND "CHINA'S SORROW"

In reply to Tokyo's note which asserts an intention to enforce peace in Manchuria—by arms, if necessary—the Peking government takes a bolder position than most foreign observers evidently had expected.

Since 1900—when an allied force, including a strong American contingent, wrested Tientsin from a much greater array of Chinese regular troops and Boxers—that city has been considered neutral ground.

The North China cabinet—merely a mouthpiece for Marshal Chang Tso-lin—asserts that Japanese action in the Peking Tientsin area would violate Chinese sovereignty, and also contravene the Nine-Power Treaty signed at Washington in 1922.

The Peking cabinet apparently is trying to drive a wedge between the Japanese and other Treaty Powers, and also to gain sympathizers in Central and South China; but such efforts to stay the Nationalist advance doubtless will fail.

Under Chang Tso-lin and his clansman, Gen. Chang Tsung-chang, North China has suffered greatly during the past two years. The latter warlord—once a bandit leader—never will be forgotten in Shantung Province, where until lately he was military governor.

The China Famine Relief—quartered in New York City—is endeavoring to raise $10,000,000 for 10 million sufferers in Shantung and adjacent provinces.

Not only has Shantung suffered from grinding taxation, but this spring the Yellow river destroyed the crops over vast areas. Under Chang Tsung-chang, graft absorbed funds ostensibly collected for levees and other protective works.

Experience has shown that most Chinese are reluctant to accept outside aid unless they can give some return in labor. It is planned to employ the needy in strengthening and rebuilding levees along the Lower Yellow river.

THE NEED OF GOD

Although the present age frequently is unbraided—and with good reason—for its materialism, there is much to be said to its credit. The churches are crowded, their membership rolls are long, their position in the community life is secure.

People generously give to the support of organized religion, with less regard for denominational lines than their forbears exercised—this, too, in a day of much outcry against intolerance.

Religion and morality are indispensable to political prosperity, Washington said: "In vain would that man claim the tribute of Patriotism, who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these foremost props of the duties of Man and Citizen—Reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle."

Religious instincts are as truly a part of our nature as our appetites and our nerves—one of the strongest proofs of the reality of that unseen world to which the soul of man continually tends. A man of science, Dr. J. A. Fleming, in the devout spirit characteristic of his calling—thought the savant rarely is credited with piety—thus describes, in The Nineteenth Century, the manifestations of this universal attribute: "The world is covered with cathedrals, churches, chapels, meeting houses, synagogues, mosques and temples where worship and prayer to an unseen Creator is offered"—and he inquires: "What does it all mean if there is no external reality corresponding to it?"

The militant theologian often is heard asserting that science never will explain away God. In truth it never has sought to do that; such motives usually are imputed by persons who fear that their own pet dogmas may be discredited.

OUT OUR WAY—

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN.

SO THINK WE

We think that a lot of Texas is proud of the Texas Technological college and the progress it has made. One of the speakers during the commencement services made the statement that it was not only the talk of Texas but it was the wonder of the nation.

We think the Tech college acted wisely in its selection of Honorable Pat Neff to deliver the address of the graduation class of 1928. Mr. Neff figured very conspicuously in the establishment of the Texas Tech. He was governor at the time the college was established.

We think the average boy cannot understand why when he behaves that he cannot have any fun.

We think that if Lubbock is going to keep in the lead she will have to build a municipal auditorium.

We think that Plainview surely feels sat upon since the federal court bill has passed and been signed by the President. It is our understanding that the people of that city fought the bill bitterly and even went out of their way to try to kill it, but failed.

OPINIONS

MR. HUGHES PUTS IT STRAIGHT That the attitude of the United States toward Nicaragua is completely in accord with Latin-American policy, has just been made clear by Charles Evans Hughes in his address to the Central American problem.

States is now active in Nicaragua as a supporter in principle of the treaty entered into by five Latin-American nations in 1907. Nicaragua, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, and Costa Rica then agreed among themselves not to recognize a government that came into power in any of these countries through a coup d'etat or a revolution, unless the freely elected representatives of the people themselves had reorganized the government.

The United States has had the option either of encouraging this effort on the part of the Central American Republics to promote constitutional government or of discouraging or nullifying it.

Here, then, was the principal behind our refusal to recognize the Chamorrist government in Nicaragua, set up through a coup d'etat which Nicaragua itself was a party to. To disregard that treaty, said Mr. Hughes, or to have dissuaded the five governments from adopting it, would frankly place the United

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that a recently married couple has agreed that when two can live as cheaply as one they look that way and they have therefore decided that they will have to double their appropriation for eats.

It is reported that it has been found by one of our young men friends that you cannot sit on your hands and grasp opportunity.

It is reported that an open mind will be more profitable to you than an open mouth.

It is reported that some one is always kicking at the seal of our government. This is especially true when congress is in session.

It is reported that Congress quit in a fuss. They have never been able to get together on any thing very important except the appropriation for the Lubbock Federal building and the establishment of a new court district with headquarters at this place. We thank them for that much however.

It is reported that Lubbock people are going ahead with the proposition of zoning the city or at least the Chamber of Commerce is going to discuss the matter with those who attended the zoning meeting at Dallas recently.

It is reported that Ex-Governor Pat Neff's address at the Commencement exercises of the Tech was considered by many as being one of the strongest addresses that he was ever known to make and it was very highly complimented by many prominent citizens.

It is reported that activities are very marked in the development of gas and oil fields to the southwest of us, and it is expected that within a very short time there will be a big gas and oil field not very far from Lubbock.

It is reported that there is going to be a very large attendance at the summer school at the Tech. There is nothing specially remarkable about it except that it is a very young institution, and none other has ever made the progress that the Tech has made in so short time.

It is reported that there were more high records in the Lubbock schools this year than any other known in the history of the school. This indicates that Lubbock has a very high type of citizenship, and she also has a very efficient corps of workers, from the superintendent down to the kindergarten grades.

It is reported that some folks have forgotten that there is a speed limit on the streets of this city, or possibly they think the limit is all their car will make. Anyway that seems to be the way they work it.

AMARILLO HAS STRUCK A KNOT

Amarillo high school graduated 130 pupils in the class of '28. A class of 232, more than 70 per cent larger than the local class, was graduated from the Lubbock high school.

Amarillo has a population of more than 40,000 by actual federal census count, and claims more than 50,000. The population of Lubbock is probably little more than one-third that number.

The total scholastic enrollment in the Lubbock schools is considerably smaller than the enrollment in Amarillo.

The college environment probably has something to do with the matter. It is probable that the influence of a college would be strong enough to keep more boys and girls in high school in a city the size of Lubbock than remain in school in graduate in a city like Amarillo.

It is probable that many things contribute to the disproportionate graduating classes of the two high schools, but the comparison is interesting and is worthy of thought on the part of Amarillo citizens.

The News has put a question up to the people of Amarillo, that we are pretty thoroughly convinced that they cannot answer. Possibly Superintendent Duncan, who held the position of superintendent of the Amarillo schools for awhile might be able to answer the question to our satisfaction. There is one thing that the News is possibly a bit off on and that is that Lubbock possibly has no more than 15,000 population. There are a good many things that enter into the solution of this question, and the News will find out after awhile that the average population has long left Amarillo, and is down very close to Lubbock. We have hundreds of farms and dairy farmers. We have fine schools throughout the county that are sending their high school students to Lubbock.

THE BOB AND THE GANG

Ninety-five per cent of juvenile crime in America is committed after 4 o'clock in the afternoon according to the New York City Crime Commission.

The Crime Commission points to the Boys clubs and municipal employment bureaus do good work even though there must be a considerable number of boys who fail to utilize the facilities offered.

The important question is, how many of the boys who prefer to run the streets and get firm into trouble be persuaded to substitute wholesome recreation or productive occupation for the gang?—Washington Post.

South Plains Towns Grow By Leap and Bound

The building program in the business district of Levelland is now well started and from present indications construction will begin on nine new brick buildings by the middle of the coming month. Others are contemplated and it is likely that the next few weeks will witness active preparations for five or six more.

Conditions were never more promising in this section than at present, and the next few months will witness perhaps a greater development in Levelland than in any previous space of time. It is the county seat of one of the richest counties in the State, and the one which has for the past few years undergone the most rapid development of any part of West Texas during this period has been the greatest in the Southwest.

The new theatre which is to be erected by Wallace Blankenship of the north side of the Square, is scheduled to begin about the middle of next month. The contract will be as soon as the plans are complete. This building will be two stories high with a fifty-foot frontage and when completed will be one of the most modern show houses on the South Plains. Mr. Blankenship stated yesterday that it was his intention to have the building completed in time for an opening about September 15th and that the general plans of the building will be as published several weeks ago. This building and the furnishings will represent a cost of $50,000.00, and will open with a seating capacity of about 750, but with the completion of the balconies will accommodate about 1300.

A seventeen-foot electric sign is now being built for the new theatre. The excavation for the basement will likely begin in a very few days. The equipment of the old theatre will be left intact and will be used for special exhibits and probably be loaned on certain evenings of the week.

The School Board of the Levelland Independent District is now considering plans to furnish adequate room for the schools for the coming year. A State inspector who was here a short time ago served the Board with notice that the Grade Schools were too crowded for general efficiency and the well-being of the schools for the coming year. Arrangements are being made to start the two Covey buildings and the T. W. Bowers building on West Houston Street as soon as the contractor can get the new Thomson residence, which is a Spanish style, completed. These three buildings will be erected simultaneously under the supervision of Oscar Covey, and construction will begin some time next month.

The Burnet Mercantile Company, who join the Shannon property, are also making active preparations to build a modern brick for their business and construction will likely proceed with that of the Shannon building.

LAUGHS

We were at dinner when mother suddenly told Peggy, aged five, "Peggy, darling, you should not scratch your nose with your spoon."

"Oh, mother, ought I to have used a fork?" asked Peggy.—Helen M. Request.

A Matter of Viewpoint

Mrs. Bach: "My boy got the highest marks in German semester of any boy college."

Mrs. Furch: "Poo! My son tells me that German marks have been worthless since the war!"—Nelson Stocker.

Accurate!

The visiting aunt, wishing to make friends quickly with her niece took the little tot upon her lap and asked: "How old are you, dearie?" "Four," was the abrupt response. "And when will you be five?" urged the aunt. "My next party," was the illuminating reply.

Disease In Jail
It Doesn't Help
Any, Though

The fact that smallpox has attacked three members of the present population of the county jail, and thus resulted in placing of all those arrested by both city and county officers in the city hospital has not in any way abated activity of the peace officers here.

During the week-end three were arrested for drunkenness; two for alleged passing of cold checks; and four for participation in a dice game.

The three smallpox wards have been isolated, vaccination has been used on the other fourteen there and it is not thought that there is any danger of a further spread of the disease.

Houston Declares Facilities Adequate

HOUSTON, May 29.—R. J. Seaman, secretary of the general housing committee, reported Monday that "we are now able to take care of 22,000 people outside of hotels and tourist camps during the democratic national convention."

Demands for sleeping quarters in apartments and residences made by groups from the different states and territories continue to pour in to the housing committee daily, but there are fewer individual demands, he said.

Workmen were busy Monday laying out plans for tourists camps at two public parks, where thousands of visitors will be taken care of during the convention.

NEW TELEPHONE BUILDING

BIG SPRING, May 29.—The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has completed a two-story brick building in Big Spring and is installing an electric system which will be in use by July 1. The ground floor of the building will be used to house the equipment including the batteries for generating.

tion of subject matter has been complied with every school in the county and now a student graduating from the rural districts can enter the high school at Lamesa without examination. Some of the schools have the distinction of supplying part of the Lamesa school facility each year also being observed for the efficient and competent instruction while in the rural communities and given a position in the city schools when vacancies occur.

SACRIFICED!!

We want everyone to realize that we are making an actual sacrifice of one third of our present stock. This is done for no other reason than to turn into immediate cash one third of our stock—because we are overstocked at least that much.

Every department of this store will share in the price cutting—the great stock of shoes in which you may find the better styles offer definite savings; the entire work clothing stock featuring high quality and nationally advertised brands, the great piece goods stock—the most popular ready to wear and millinery stock of the South Plains—all share in the sacrifice we are making.
