Gunman Killed, Texas Sheriff Shot In Coast Gun Fight

Pair Abducted By Bandit But Alarm Spread

Two Members Of Prominent Port Lavaca Family Taken For Ride But Officers, Set On Trail, Catch Gunman

Woman Is Heroine

Wife Of Man Jumps From Car And Notifies Officers Who Overtake Bandit, Shooting Follows

(By The Associated Press)

PORT LAVACA, Dec. 30. — An armed bandit who abducted two members of a prominent family here was shot to death and Sheriff J. D. O'Neil, 63, of Calhoun county was wounded in the head in a gun fight tonight.

Roy Barton, city attorney, said the gunman was identified from papers in his pocket as Wade W. (Gunboat) Smith, 34, of Rockport, Ohio.

Officers Set On Trail

The bandit held up Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wasserman and their daughter, Bennie Mae, 22, and was slain by pursuing officers set on his trail by Mrs. Wasserman who leaped from the car and called Sheriff O'Neil.

Wasserman said he and his wife and daughter started early tonight for the home of a brother, and discovered when they got in his daughter's new car that the key had been left in the house. Miss Wasserman, who is a deputy county clerk returned to the house to get the key, and as she did, the bandit jumped on the running board of the car and flourished a pistol.

Jumps From Car

When Miss Wasserman returned to the car, the gunman climbed in the front seat with her and ordered her to drive toward the railroad. Mrs. Wasserman jumped out of the car and ran toward the house despite the bandit's threats to shoot, officers were told.

Meanwhile, Wasserman, a grocer, argued with the bandit, trying to gain time. The man, sitting on the front seat and threatening Miss Wasserman and her father with the pistol, ordered her to drive out of town until they came to a barricade where the highway was blocked during repairs.

Here he ordered them to leave the

Two Injured At Levelland

Mrs. H. T. Newberry Of Littlefield And Mrs. George Harpoole Of Whitharral Are Hurt In Car Mishap

(Special To The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 30.—Diagnosis of condition of two women injured in an automobile mishap about sundown today in the outskirts of Levelland indicated painful, though not dangerous, hurts.

Mrs. H. T. Newberry, 24, of Littlefield suffered a broken right wrist, possibly a broken left arm, severe shock, lacerations of the forehead, and bruises of both knees. X-ray examination will be made Thursday morning to determine if there are other injuries.

Mrs. George Harpoole, 32, of Whitharral, suffered minor bruises of the body, slight lacerations of the forehead, and a sprained back.

Both are in Littlefield hospital, where conditions of each were believed satisfactory at midnight. Both seemed to be resting, said attaches.

One Woman Thrown "Thirty To Forty Feet" In Crash

Mrs. H. T. Newberry of Littlefield and Mrs. George Harpoole of Whitharral narrowly escaped more serious injuries at Levelland late Wed., said Jack Reaves of Lubbock, member of the state highway patrol and who with another patrolman of that department, J. C. Ferguson of

Ransom Bills In Lindbergh Case Reported Found

Philadelphia Record Says $21,650 In Gold Bills Found In "A Bag" In New Jersey

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30. — The Record in a copyrighted story tonight said it had learned discovery of a cache of $21,650 in goldback bills—"believed to be Lindbergh ransom money — threatened to split the Bruno Hauptmann case "wide open once more."

The story said the money was found in "a bag" by New Jersey state troopers assigned to the case by Governor Harold C. Hoffman.

Hoffman was declared by the Record as a result of the discovery to be ready "to name persons he believed to have been the actual kidnapers of the baby" son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The governor "refused to deny" recovery of the money, the paper stated, and promised to "tell all about it" at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

At Trenton, N. J., Col. Mark O. Kimberling, head of the state police, said his officers had not found any money and know of no one who has.

Sec. Roper Issues Warning In Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP) — While hailing business recovery "on all fronts" during 1936, Secretary Roper warned today that "the importance of lingering aspects of the depression" should not be underestimated.

In a year-end review, the commerce department chief said that "unemployment, while alleviated materially in the past year, is still the paramount problem."

"We may hope," he continued, "that cooperative efforts of business and government, aided by the extension of business improvement, may result during 1937 in further material progress toward the solution of the unemployment situation."

This, Roper said, would bring simultaneous progress toward solving "the concomitant problems of government expenditures for relief and of an unbalanced budget."

Jane Withers' Life Has Been Threatened, Mother Reports

BOSTON, Dec. 30. (AP) — Jane Withers, freckle-faced little star of the screen, has been threatened with death unless her parents pay $50,000, her mother revealed here tonight.

"It was supposed to be kept a secret," asserted Jane's mother, Ruth Withers. "I don't know how it leaked out. An armed bodyguard accompanies Jane everywhere she goes and sleeps in a bedroom next to hers in our suite here."

Jane is making a personal appearance in a Boston theater.

Company Is Said To Be Organization For Such Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A story linking Soviet Russia with the Jersey City company which is preparing to ship airplanes and motors to the embattled Spanish loyalists was uncovered today in the files of congressional investigators.

The Vimalert Company, ltd., whose president has obtained a license to ship $2,777,000 of planes and motors to Spain against President Roosevelt's wishes, was mentioned in the 1930 congressional inquiry into alleged communist activities in this country.

Organization Maintained Here

Basil W. Delgass, former vice president of Amtorg, the Russian Trading Corporation of America, testified in that inquiry that Vimalert was an organization maintained here to repair airplane engines bought from the United States government and shipped secretly to Soviet Russia.

His testimony was recalled as President Roosevelt arranged with congressional leaders to speed new legislation which would give him discretionary power to forbid munitions shipments to nations suffering internal strife.

Denial Is Made

A denial that Soviet Russia had anything to do with the proposed plane shipment to Spain came from Alexander Troyanovsky, the Soviet ambassador.

"The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics is on speaking terms with the Spanish government, but it had nothing to do with this transaction," he said. "We are informed that the Amtorg Trading corpora-

Texas Utilities Co. Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The Securities commission approved today the application of the Texas Utilities company to acquire the assets of the New Mexico Utilities company.

The Texas company will issue a demand note for $278,500 and assume the liabilities of the New Mexico company.

In granting the application the commission ordered the applicant not to declare or pay any dividend upon its common stock until the aggregate of the stated value of its common stock, contributed surplus and earned surplus "shall equal and be maintained at not less than $1,400,000."

First Baby Of 1937 And Parents Will Receive Prizes From Local Merchants

BOTH the first baby of 1937 and its parents will receive presents from nine Lubbock merchants.

To win the prizes, the youngster must be the first 1937 arrival within the city limits of Lubbock, although the parents may reside anywhere in Lubbock's trade territory.

In order that the prizes may be given to the first born of the new year, doctors, nurses, and fathers are invited to telephone the Avalanche-Journal concerning times of births.

The prizes, with their donors:

Clark's Drug store, a baby set, of a rattler, comb, and brush to match; Groce Furniture company, a bed; J. C. Penney Co., a bassinet; Piggly-Wiggly, a basket of groceries for the parents; Montgomery Ward and Co., crib blanket and a handy bath basket; Bowen's Drug store, free filling of baby's first prescription; Lindsey theaters, two free tickets to each of the parents; Texas Utilities Co., an iron for the mother; Levine's, hand crocheted jacket.

Farm Tenancy Session Will Be At Dallas

Tenant Farmers, Landowners And Agricultural Leaders In Six Southwestern States Invited To Meeting

Leaders Attending Are Asked To Give Views Of Solution Of Problem In Writing To Be Used In Legislation

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 30.—Tenant farmers, landowners and agricultural leaders in six southwestern states were invited today to attend the first public hearing of President Roosevelt's recently-appointed committee on farm tenancy here Monday.

D. P. Trent, regional director of Resettlement, through whom the invitations were issued, said that the Dallas hearing will be headed by Dr. Will W. Alexander, acting administrator of the Resettlement administration, and Dr. L. C. Gray, assistant administrator, who is also executive secretary of the farm tenancy committee. Meetings will be held at Montgomery, Alabama; Lincoln, Nebraska; Indianapolis and San Francisco.

Urged To Present Views

Trent said that those attending the hearing are urged to present their views in writing. The written reports will be taken by the committee for further consideration, in preparing a recommendation to congress.

Among the questions to be discussed, Trent said, are:

1. What can states do to improve present rental contracts?
2. How should tenants be recompensed for improvements made on the farm, or penalized for depletion of land?
3. What are the chief difficulties facing tenants who wish to become owners?

How Can Government Aid?

4. How can the federal government help tenants acquire farms? By loans for purchase of farms? By public acquisition of farms, and lease to individuals?
5. What are the possibilities of cooperative farmers by tenants?
6. What interest rates and amortization plans should be applied to

Lottery Idea Said Involved

Texas Supreme Court Throws Case Out Of Court But Fails To Pass On Whether Any Law On Plan Exists

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. — The Texas Supreme court ruled today that theater bank nights involved the lottery principle and were condemned by the state constitution, but it failed to pass on the important question of whether any statute existed to prevent their operation.

It did not decide specifically whether they were lotteries or merely gift enterprises involving the lottery principle, but did say they were one or the other. If lotteries the drawings are in violation of the penal code. Otherwise there is no statute against them.

Effect Not Determined

What effect the opinion would have on operation of bank nights could not be immediately determined. Attorney General William McCraw said it might strengthen the hands of local enforcement officers seeking to halt "bank nights" but Dark splotches on the floor of the above scene show graphically where E. P. Hamner, 61, Hale county filling station operator, was murdered Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. The body, hacked horribly by what was believed to have been a hatchet, was found with the head near the washstand to the left. Serrated edges above the tip of the arrow in the blood pool to the left show impression of Hamner's clinched left hand, and the light spot indicated by X in the pool to the right was where the aged man's watch was found crushed. The pool to the right is believed to have been where Hamner was murdered, when he reached futilely for a pistol found by investigators under the nearer pillow of the bed. Above the pillow on a shelf was a shotgun.

Allred Names 5 Appointees

Howard Martin Is Appointed District Attorney For 30th Judicial District; Bowie Man Named To Medical Board

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. — Governor Allred today appointed Howard Martin of Wichita Falls as district attorney for the 30th judicial district comprising Archer, Wichita and Young counties, a post once held by the governor.

The governor also appointed Dr. J. T. Lawson of Bowie to succeed Dr. J. Allen Kyle of Houston on the state medical board. Reappointed were Dr. N. D. Buie of Marlin and Dr. Phil R. Russell of Fort Worth.

Named To 6-Year Term

Dr. O. B. Kiel of Wichita Falls was named to a six-year term to succeed Dr. T. J. Crow of Dallas, with Dr. Crow filling out Dr. Kiel's unexpired term ending in 1939.

Allred began his law practice under Bernard Martin, father of Howard Martin, who recommended Allred's appointment as district attorney of the 30th district to governor Pat Neff.

Declares Office Vacant

The governor declared the office vacant in a proclamation naming the younger Martin to the position. His action followed a ruling by the attorney general holding a law passed by the 43rd legislature abolishing the office was superseded by a later law which provided for the election of district attorneys in all districts, except the 40th.

The governor said District Judge Allan D. Montgomery and other public officials urged immediate appointment of a district attorney.

French Aviatrix Sets New Speed Mark In Atlantic Hop

NATAL, Brazil, Dec. 30. (AP) — Marsye Bastie, French aviatrix, landed here at 2:30 p. m. today to set an unofficial speed mark for the 1,281-mile flight from Dakar, Senegal.

Her elapsed time for the South Atlantic hop was 12 hours seven minutes, compared with the official record held by Jean Batten, New Zealand flier, of 13 hours, 15 minutes.

The French aviatrix is former holder of the women's record for the distance flight.

Dallas Times-Herald Says Appointment Is Due Soon

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 30.—The Times-Herald said today reports were current that Leslie L. Steele of Mexia would be appointed a member of the Texas Highway commission by Gov. James V. Allred in the near future.

The newspaper said it was informed Steele would succeed D. K. Martin of San Antonio, appointee

DECLINES TO SAY

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. (AP)—Gov. Allred, en route to El Paso today, has persistently declined to say whom he will appoint highway commissioner to succeed D. K. Martin.

Many names have been mentioned for the position, including C. M. Bishop of Giddings, Marvin Hall of Brownsville, Stanford Payne of Del Rio, Fred Mauritz of Ganado and George Surkey of San Antonio.

The only thing certain, observers believed, was that Martin would not be re-appointed.

of former Governor Ross Sterling, whose term expires soon.

Eugene Vidal Is Reported To Be Considering Resignation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Eugene L. Vidal, dynamic little director of the air commerce bureau, was reliably reported today to be preparing his resignation with a view to entering private industry.

The resignation, officials said, would not take place until after the air safety conference called yesterday by Secretary Roper to convene between January 10 and 15 for an investigation of recent fatal air crashes.

Intermediary Mystifying In His Activities

Prediction Is Reiterated That $28,000 Would Be Paid Soon To Kidnaper Of Mattson Boy In Tacoma, Wash.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 30.—A reputed intermediary in negotiations for the ransom of kidnaped Charles Mattson, 10, dodged questions today about his mystifying activities, but a family spokesman reiterated the prediction that the arrangements soon would be completed and $28,000 paid.

First steps to pay off the abductor were taken, a reliable source said, after the appearance of a classified advertisement in the Seattle Times. The source said an answer to the ad was expected in the same newspaper today.

Observers sensed the possibility of developments when Gus B. Appelman, "closest friend" of the abducted boy's father, sped away from the Mattson home on an undisclosed mission after a 40-minute conference with the family.

Severe Punishment Advocated For Generalissimo's Captor

NANKING, Dec. 30. (AP) — Srong elements in the government tonight favored severe punishment, some even advocating death, for Marshal Chang Huseh-Liang, as authoritative quarters disclosed the leader of the recent rebellion in the northwest must stand trial tomorrow before the national military commission.

Presiding at the trial will be Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, chairman of the commission, whom Chang held prisoner in Sianfu, Shensi province, for thirteen days. The generalissimo has announced he favors leniency, but men high in the government disagree with him, informed quarters said.

Gotham Tense As Annual New Year's Eve Hysteria Nears; Hilarity Slated

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Like a volcano getting ready to erupt, Gotham rumbled tonight toward the annual New Year's Eve hysteria.

From Greenwich village to Harlem, and from Broadway to Park avenue the town was in a froth of ferment.

Bustling Broadway night club operators and pompous Park Avenue majordomos strove frantically to squeeze one more table in where one more table just wouldn't go.

Entertainment entrepreneus racked their brains to think up daffy new stunts for what promised to be the most tumultuous outpouring since Wall Street went boom!

Times Square merchants, profiting from the experience of other years, boarded up their shop windows to protect them from the crush of humanity that traditionally forms there.

Neighborhood liquor stores and delicatessens rang with the clash and jingle of cash registers as the stay-at-homes laid in a store of festive portables.

And on a more sober note, the

Battered Body Is Discovered In Gas Station

E. P. Hamner Is Victim Of Brutal Slaying; Hatchet Is Believed Weapon Used By Assailant

Clues Are Slight

Body Is Found By Young Man Seeking To Buy Gasoline Wednesday Morning At Station Near Plainview

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 30.—Beclouded by absence of "any clues whatsoever," Sheriff J. K. Hooper and his Hale county deputies tonight sifted every tangible approach to a mystery which held in its gruesome background mutilated and murdered E. P. Hamner, 61.

Hacked and battered, the skull and hands riven with what authorities indicated must have been a hatchet, the aged man was discovered this morning by a passer-by—lying in a welter of blood and surrounded by other blood pools, in his station, three miles west of Plainview on the Olton road.

Discovered Wednesday Morning

Death could have been anywhere from 10 to 12 hours before the body was discovered sometime before 9 o'clock this morning, an undertaker estimated, but Sheriff Hooper found significance in the stopping of Hamner's crushed watch—the hands of which pointed to 6:33 o'clock.

"Whether the watch stopped last night or this morning, however, cannot definitely be said," the sheriff said. He indicated condition of the body would infer more than the watch that Hamner, who had lived here since 1929, had been killed Tuesday night.

Seven Wounds On Head

Almost indescribably hammered and slashed, few areas of Hamner's body were unaffected by the savagery of the attack.

Seven wounds—either of which might have been fatal—were found on the head, said Sheriff Hooper, and the hands were chopped, as though the victim had tried warding off blows with those members.

The knees were skinned, apparently when Hamner fell to the floor. Lesser injuries, including bruises, were numerous.

A verdict of "murder at the hands of unknown persons" was returned late today by Justice of Peace J. P. Siler of precinct 1. Justice Siler had reserved his verdict since first investigations this morning.

It was Morris Starnes, about 28, son of Mrs. G. W. Starnes of west of Plainview, who discovered the body. Starnes drove to the station, he reported to the sheriff's office, to get gasoline. His summons was

Woods Charged In James' Statement

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. (AP) — W. E. James charged today in a letter to L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, that he had been dismissed recently primarily because he had refused to submit to the character of domination in the main office of the department.

Other reasons he assigned for dismissal were that he had devoted too much time in performing official duties as first assistant superintendent and not enough to soliciting votes for Woods, and that he did not subscribe to procedure practiced in the administration of the office of state superintendent.

Woods recently announced he was making changes in the department in the interest of harmony and greater efficiency. Miss Lillian Peek, director of the home-making division, also publicly criticized Woods for displacing her.

Lubbock Is To Celebrate New Year's Eve At Watch Night Entertainments

The Social Calendar

MY, how time flies! It seems such a short time since the year began and now it is on its last lapse and tomorrow a new year begins. Perhaps you had wondered why New Year's Day is a time of celebrations and propritious time for making gifts and making calls.

NEW YEAR'S GIFT

THE Romans decided upon the the first day of the year as an appropriate time to invite protection from the senators during the ensuing year by giving gifts. According to records that have come down to us, the gifts were usually trinkets, although there are some instances of exquisite fabrics and of wearing apparel being presented to men in high office.

In faraway Persia it became the custom to exchange eggs as gifts on New Year's Day. Here we see another significance: The beginning of life, of creation, and hence the beginning of a new period of life. The kinds of gifts have differed at different times and among different peoples. In "The Customs of Mankind" we read that the glove was considered the appropriate New Year's gift and in more recent times a box of candy has been popular. Calendars are peculiarly appropriate because a new calendar is needed at the beginning of a new year. The book, too, has become a popular New Year's gift.

OH THE BELLS, BELLS

WE all like to sit up on New Year's Eve and listen for the chimes that "ring out the old, ring in the new." This custom of ringing bells on New Year's Eve originated in England long ago. It was customary to ring muffled bells just before 12 o'clock, and at 12 to remove the wrappings and permit the bells to ring out loudly. This symbolized the thought that the old year was weak and feeble that the new was strong and powerful.

"Of all sounds of all bells," says Charles Lamb, "most solemn and touching is the peal which rings out the old year." We like to hear the bells peal out the news that the New Year has started. It seems a death knell to the old year—a welcome to the new. Some sit up and wait for the chimes because of an inherent curiosity to not miss out on anything. And there is a little superstitious feeling that something, anything, might happen on New Year's Eve.

NEW YEAR'S DIN

IN Petrograd it was at one time the custom to usher in the New Year with a cannonade of a hundred shots fired at midnight. Various Scandinavian cities still celebrate the advent of the New Year with noise of firearms. Some New Year's Eve you may have been in Times Square in New York to add your whistling and yelling to the street revellers who make such a din—much to the satisfaction of their savage instincts.

NEW YEAR'S SALAD

HERE'S a New Year's salad which is supposed to be a good omen if you eat it on the first day of the year. It should be made about five hours before serving. Four red beets, 4 boiled potatoes, 1 onion, 2 apples, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 2 dill pickles, cold roast, celery. Chop fine and moisten with your favorite salad dressing.

May be served buffet style in a large bowl with crackers or with cheese sandwiches and a drink.

THE MOVIE "BESTS"

THIS is open season to conduct polls on favorite actors and the best releases of the dying year. We have discovered the most popular film players and ten most popular attractions here during 1936 at the Palace theater. The survey was made by the manager, Hal Grady.

The most successful shows, from the standpoint of crowds, were "Littlest Rebel," "Tale of Two Cities," "Magnificent Obsession," "Follow The Fleet," "Wife Vs. Secretary," "Libeled Lady," "Born To Dance," "Trail of the Lonesome Pine,' "Anthony Adverse," and "San Francisco." Mickey Mouse and Pop Eye also come in for their share of the honors, Mr. Grady explained.

When taking votes, one must be careful to define the issue. We put it this way: What film actors are so popular in Lubbock that the public can't stay away from their pictures: Hal lists Shirley Temple whose popularity has declined some because of a few weak pictures but "she is still near the top and 'Stowaway' should bring her back up higher than she has been for the past six months."

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers (listed as a team), William Powell and Myrna Loy (also a team), Clark Gable, Robert Taylor and two new stars, Bob Burns and Martha Raye.

The best picture shown here during the year was listed as "A Tale of Two Cities." Most rated picture doing the most disappointing business, "The Green Pastures." Picture providing entertainment, without the ballahoo of stars and story, "Theodora Goes Wild."

The peak hours in summer months at the Palace are between 8 and 9 o'clock and in winter between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock, Sundays excepted, Sunday matinees usually draw better houses than Sunday nights, the manager said.

Variety To Be Seen In Fetes

Church Services And Socials To Be Widely Observed And Women's Clubs And Others Also To Entertain

New Year's Eve is celebrated the world over, it being the most festive holiday of the year in many countries. In the United States it is celebrated various ways, the only consistency being that nearly everyone observes the occasion.

A dance, a buffet supper, a theater party or merely a foursome of bridge will suffice. Each is planned so that the hosts and guests may watch together the advent of a new year.

A psychologist has said: "We sit up and wait for midnight chimes because of an inherent curiosity that has been bred in us for many generations. We don't want to miss anything and we have a secret feeling that something, anything, might happen on New Year's Eve."

All Lubbock Awaits

Whatever the underlying reason for celebration, it is a certainty that numerous parties, both large and small, all informal, will be given in Lubbock tonight.

Each church will have its own "watch night" service, a custom borrowed from the Hebrews whose great watchnight, Passover, ushers in the New Year.

Young people of the First Christian church will gather at that institution shortly before midnight for a brief meditation program to be conducted by Miss Gay Garner.

At the First Baptist church, Lattimore Ewing, state Baptist Student Union president, will be guest speaker for a social and consecration service beginning at 9 p. m. Miss Corinne Brown, director of young people's activities in the church, will be program leader. Attending will be young people of the church.

Going To Southland

Methodist young people from eight churches in this district will meet at Southland at 8 p. m. for a watchnight program sponsored by the Hub Lubbock union. Following supper, served by Southland young people, Cecil R. Matthews, director of young people's work in the Lubbock First Methodist church, will direct a recreational period.

Churches to be represented are Shallowater, Asbury, Slaton, Wilson, Dixie, First, Post and Southland.

About 40 young people of the two Lubbock churches are expected to attend.

Several women's clubs are entertaining tonight. Their husbands, of course, have been invited.

Men Are Guests

The Fellowship club will have a watch party in the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Members of the Loyal Sisters Needle club and their husbands will meet at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hodges, 1320 Fourteenth street, to watch the demise of the present year.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Pascal Peek, 2621 Twentieth street, will be scene of a party given by the woman's auxiliary to the painters' union. Members of the union will be guests.

Several dances are scheduled. Accompanying these will be the festive spirit associated with serpentine, confetti, noisemakers and balloons.

The Assembly club is having an annual dinner dance, beginning at 7:30 p. m., at the Hilton hotel. Duane Fuqua's orchestra will play.

Many young people from Lubbock and surrounding towns will dance to Ned Bradley's music at Sled Allen's auditorium.

Wise New Years Eve Hostess Sees That Entertainment Doesn't Cease

The wise New Year's Eve hostess arranges the type of entertainment that will keep interest from lagging at 10 p. m. A few interesting tricks should accomplish her purpose.

"I Resolve" is an amusing watchnight game. Each guest is provided with a sheet of paper and a pencil. He is required to write a list of ten New Year's resolutions, such as:

"I resolve to beat my wife daily."

"I resolve to buy an automobile for my best girl."

"I resolve to remain a bachelor always."

"I resolve to become acquainted with Greta Garbo."

The lists are folded and shuffled in a hat. Each person draws one out in turn, and in turn reads his list ALOUD. That the resolutions seem funnier when applied to the person reading them will occasion much laughter.

A vote as to the cleverest list is taken and the person who wrote the winning list is requested to step forward and receive his prize, a handsome calendar. The person who reads the winning list gets a booby prize, a "kewpie" doll with an inscription of the year across it.

"Ghost" is an enjoyable game to be played at 11 o'clock. A guest is blindfolded and asked to sit in the center of the room. In single file the other guests are asked to pass before the blindfolded "King Ghost" and recite a bit of verse or sing a little tune, disguising their voice if they prefer. The "King Ghost" must call out the name of the person who is reciting or singing and, until he does, the reciting continues. All the guests are "ghosts" and continue to be "ghosts" until their names are guessed correctly.

As bells are an ancient symbol of New Year's Eve entertaining, they might be included appropriately in the decoration scheme. Nuts also are a traditional New Year's symbol, signifying bounty, hence they should be included in the menu.

Other appropriate foods for a New Year's supper include hot bouillon in cups, chicken or turkey salad, nut bread sandwiches, fruits, cakes and candies.

The above ideas for parties were suggested by Lillian Eichler in the book, "The Customs of Mankind."

Miss Elizabeth Louise White, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. White of Plainview, will become the bride of Ralph Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Yates, also of that city at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

The engagement was announced at a breakfast given by Miss White's mother this week at the Plainview Hilton hotel.

Rev. and Mrs. White and their daughter are former Lubbock residents. He is former pastor of the First Methodist church here.

Miss Ernesteen Lockhart, who is visiting in San Angelo now, probably will attend the wedding. Miss White visited in the Lockhart home last summer.

Dorcas Society Will Plant Greenery Around Parsonage

Ten members of the Central Baptist Dorcas society met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. B. Wages, 614 Avenue O. The hostess led a devotional program.

The society planned to plant trees and shrubs around the home of the pastor, the Rev. Jeff D. Welch.

The next meeting will be at 2:30 p. m., January 13, in the home of Mrs. Osa Wilbanks, 1610 Twenty-second street.

PAMPA MAN DIES

PAMPA, Dec. 30. (AP)—Oscar Dotson, 47, wrestler, tavern owner and former blacksmith, died today of injuries suffered last week when his automobile crashed through a bridge railing into the north fork of the Red river east of Lefors.

One person was instantly killed in the accident.

Vacations Are Ending Daily

Families Who Spent Holiday Season Away Are Returning And Guests In Lubbock Are Leaving This Week

Today is the finale for many Christmas vacations, as the first day of a new year means back to work for many business folk. Teachers, students, and others, whose duties begin Monday, are arriving home daily from holiday jaunts.

Several couples who were married during the holidays have returned from their wedding trips and are establishing homes of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Scoggin, who were married in Aspermont on Christmas morning, have returned from a trip to Abilene and are at home at 2217 Fourteenth street. The bride is the former Miss Emma Dean Bingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey Price are at home at 1106 1-2 Avenue L. They were married on Tuesday, December 22. Mrs. Price is the former Miss Juanita Price.

Ayerses Are At Home

Following a trip to points in Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ayers are at home temporarily at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Betts, 2201 Twentieth street. Before her marriage at high noon on December 23 Mrs. Ayers was Miss Marion Betts.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lawson, jr., are at home at 910 Avenue K. Mrs. Lawson is the former Miss Mary Keeter. The couple visited with relatives in Central and South Texas after their marriage in Crosbyton on Christmas Eve afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chesser, who were married in Lorenzo on Christmas Eve day, are at home here temporarily. She is the former Miss Mary Frances Johnston, a Tech graduate. Mr. Chesser is with the State Highway department and is being transferred to Post the first of the year.

Mrs. O. E. Lockhart is to return this week-end from a visit in Cisco.

Take Extended Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest L. Lindsey and daughters, Betty Lee and Patricia, are expected to return today or tomorrow from a Christmas vacation that carried them through seven states. They write from Marshall that the most excitement was crossing the Mississippi. Their automobile trip extended through Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Dr. Clyde F. Elkins, jr. and Dr. Hubert Cone left this morning to join the staff of Parkland hospital, county-city institution, in Dallas. They were accompanied by Campbell Elkins, who will visit in Dallas for several days before going on to Austin where he is a law student in the University of Texas.

W. T. Corley and son, Robert, of Tennessee are guests in the home of Mr. Corley's cousin E. L. Banks, 2202 Seventeenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dupree and their sons, George, jr., and Hunter, of 2314 Seventeenth street, returned Tuesday night from a week-end trip to Gallinas canyon, near Las Vegas, N. M. When the Duprees left Las Vegas Tuesday morning heavy snow was falling in that vicinity.

Mrs. E. H. Miller of Dallas is visiting in the home of Miss Juanita Shannon, 1610 Avenue K. She will return to her home Friday.

Jimmy Murrell has returned from several days' visit with relatives in Dallas.

Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, is visiting her mother in Amarillo.

Miss Wynona Swepston, Texas Technological college student, is visiting relatives in Amarillo.

H. M. Gibson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gibson, 2012 Twenty-third street, will leave Saturday for Galveston where he is attending the medical school of the University of Texas. He has been visiting his parents during the Christmas holidays.

Commerce Department Is To Seek Funds For Airways Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The commerce department announced today it would seek $10,000,000 of additional funds to improve airway safety facilities during the next two years.

The announcement was made by J. Monroe Johnson, assistant-secretary of commerce, at Secretary Roper's press conference. It followed the department's action yesterday in calling an air safety conference in January.

Johnson told reporters that present radio and other airway aids would be improved and modernized "and additional ones added."

GALVESTON GETS MEET

GALVESTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The 1937 convention of the Texas Cotton association will be held in Galveston on March 19 and 20, according to advices received here today from L. T. Murray of Waco, secretary and general manager. Decision was reached by a ballot of the board of directors.

Mahon Speaks To Rotarians

Informal Discussion Of Legislative And Political Matters Is Given By Congressman Here Wednesday

Informally discussing legislative and political matters and expressing the belief that a Texan would win the coming house leadership contest, Congressman George Mahon of Colorado charmed Rotarians and their guests yesterday noon at the Hotel Lubbock with a straight forward talk on future congressional matters.

Don L. Jones, vice president, was in charge in the absence of President Kenneth Oberholtzer. J. A. Raley, jr., presented the musical numbers: Don Smith, Lubbock, a singer who gave two numbers and Lawrence Ivy, Abilene, who played a piano number besides accompanying Mr. Smith.

Resolutions Read

Program chairman W. E. Inmon read a series of purported "New Year's resolution," what caused considerable merriment. Chas. A. Guy introduced Mr. Mahon.

The congressman pointed out that "Senator Connally and I, being loyal Texans, have stayed here to the last, while the others have gone to Washington." Congressman Sam Rayburn, Eonham, in his opinion, will be elected majority leader, although his chief opponent, John O'Connor of New York, is chairman of the powerful rules committee.

Explains Bills Procedure

How a bill progresses through the mill of congress was explained by Mr. Mahon. During the past sessions of congress, 15,000 bills were introduced, but about 800 only were passed.

The first measure he proposes to introduce, in his second term, Mr. Mahon said, is one to change the farm credit system. The Federal Land bank has loaned about $3,000,000,000, at 4 per cent, on 20 to 30 year payment plan, thus financing about one third of the nation's $9,000,000,000 farm debt. There are two types of loans, the land bank and the land bank commissioner's loan, the latter maturing in 10 years.

Would Consolidate Loans

"I propose to introduce a bill to consolidate the two types of loans," he explained, "making it possible for the loans to mature in 20 to 30 years instead of the now 10-year plan. Five thousand farmers in this congressional district have borrowed about $8,000,000. Texas farmers have borrowed $53,000,000."

In discussing the future of some of the emergency governmental departments he predicted "the chances are we will always have some form of them," such as the R. F. C., C. C. C., guarantee of bank deposits, reciprocal trade treaties and WPA, and possibly the PWA.

To Cut Appropriations

Congressional appropriations for 1937 may be cut to $6,000,000,000 and receipts of about $5,000,000,000, leaving a billion dollar deficit. Next year, 1938, "the budget may be balanced," he added.

One of the most important matters for congress to consider and solve is the farm tenancy problem, Mr. Mahon said. His district has 30 per cent of the land operated by farm owners; 10 per cent by landlords through employing of day labor and 60 per sent by tenants.

Another important matter is the neutrality situation. The 1936 neutrality act, as amended, has four sections: 1—Americans cannot sell munitions of war to warring countries; 2—Cannot ship munitions on American ships; 3—Will not guarantee the safety of American citizens in belligerent countries and 4—No financial assistance to warring nations.

New Officers To Take Up Duties At Courthouse Monday; Few New Faces

Officers elected for the next two years will be sworn in Monday, but few new faces will be seen in the courthouse. Five who are taking new official positions already have been serving in the courthouse.

District Attorney Daniel A. Blair was promoted to judge of the 72nd district court, comprising Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran and Crosby counties.

E. L. Pitts has been serving as 99th district judge, to which he was promoted from county judge, since September, after resignation of Judge Clark M. Mullican to enter private practice.

Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, has been promoted to the district attorneyship.

J. J. Dillard, elected county judge, has been on the bench since Judge Pitts was appointed district judge. Judge Dillard formerly was justice of the peace in precinct 1, place 2.

S. E. McMillan, county treasurer, will become justice of the peace in precinct 1, place 2, and A. B. Ellis, former county assessor of taxes, will take McMillan's place after several years absence from the official family.

Robert J. Allen will be sworn in as county attorney, succeeding County Attorney Jess C. Levens.

Walter Davies, a carpenter, will take office as justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 1, succeeding Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg.

Only one member of the commissioners court is retiring. He is J. T. Pinkston of Slaton, from precinct 2, who will be replaced by Ben Mansker, Slaton.

District Judge-elect Blair Wednesday announced that Chas. H. Smith, for many years official reporter in 72nd district court, will become court reporter in that district again. Smith first was appointed to that place in 1912 by the late District Judge W. R. Spencer.

County Attorney-elect Allen said he was appointing Hugh Anderson as assistant county attorney. Anderson served as an assistant to Vaughn E. Wilson when Wilson was county attorney.

Judge Pitts, who will appoint a court reporter, and District Attorney-elect Burks, who will name an assistant, were out of town Wednesday.

Among the hold-overs in the official family are: Sheriff Tom Abel, District Clerk Floyd Jackson, County Supt. Joseph R. Griggs who is serving the second half of his 4-year term, County Clerk Ed D. Allen, Tax Assessor-Collector Hurley Carpenter, Commissioners P. B. Penney of precinct 1, T. L. Holt of precinct 3, Idalou, and B. O. McWhorter, precinct 4; Constable J. C. Roberts, and Surveyor A. L. Harris, veteran office holder.

Hemorrhoids (Piles) Treated Without Surgery

No Loss of Time From Work

This Is One Prescription That Isn't Hard To Take...

Physicians frequently prescribe ice cream in febrile diseases, difficult feeding cases, convalescence, and other conditions.

They find that not the least of its virtues is that patients like it. It tastes good. It often tempts the appetite when nothing else will. It is easy to swallow—soothing in throat conditions so prevalent at this season of the year.

And ice cream—good ice cream—has the food values of milk—the vitamins, minerals, and proteins, plus extra food-energy from pure sugar and greater butterfat content.

Physicians can be certain of prescribing good ice cream when they recommend brands bearing the Borden Seal. These brands—more than 60 all told—are produced under Borden's unique system of Quality Control. They are subject to the same safeguards as Borden milk. They are always pure, safe and wholesome—products you can trust. Ice creams made by Borden Associated Companies are available in most sections of the country. Look for the Borden Seal shown below.

Tax Collectors For State, City, County And School To Have Busy Month Ahead; Jan. 31 Is Deadline

Tax collectors for the state and Lubbock county, City of Lubbock, and Lubbock Independent school district, are making preparations for the "big month" of tax payments which begins Friday.

New Year's day will mean to tax collectors and their staffs the beginning of their busiest month of the year. A large portion of the taxes are paid in January, the last of the four months in the tax-paying season. This year is no exception, officers said.

January 31 Deadline

State and county taxes and poll taxes must be paid at the office of the county tax collector in the courthouse before Jan. 31 to avoid the addition of penalty and interest, W. H. Carpenter, collector, said.

E. C. Young, City tax collector, also said interest and penalty would be added to city taxes if they were not paid by the last day of January. His office is in the city hall.

Also School Deadline

From A. C. Jackson, collector of taxes for the Lubbock independent school district, came the report that Jan. 31 was the deadline for payment of school taxes if penalty and interest are to be avoided. His office is at 1007 Texas avenue.

All three offices will remain open New Year's day.

Hobbs Prepares For Finger Bowl Game On Friday

HOBBS, N. M., Dec. 30. (AP)—The Hobbs Oilers, all-star football team coached by Jap Woods, Nelson Tydings and W. C. Westerfeldt, the latter pair from the Hobbs High school, really have been burning the candle at both ends in practice of late.

In an effort to develop their game in an aerial way to the finest possible degree, the three coaches have been putting the lads through their paces at the baseball field in night practice for the past three weeks in preparation for the Finger Bowl game New Year's Day.

Word that the Big Spring Spartans, Finger Bowl opponents of the Oilers, have a highly touted passing attack, the Oilers have gone into their workouts with more determination than ever.

Players from many different colleges will participate in the affair, among which are Texas Tech, Texas A. & M. and Oklahoma university. A capacity crowd is expected New Year's Day.

Here's Hutson's Secret Of Grid Success; Drink Ale

DENVER, Dec. 30. (AP)—A bottle of ale diet worked for Don Hutson, all-star end on the Green Bay championship professional football team.

For two weeks, under orders of Coach "Curley" Lambeau, the former Alabama wingman drank a botte of ale before dinner every night to put on weight.

Lambeau, here to pilot his team against the Brooklyn Dodgers New Year's Day, said today the prescription was successful and that Hutson is back to his normal weight of 184 pounds. He was four or five pounds under that before he started his "liquid diet."

"Don liked the ale, all right, but he hated to put out the 25 cents for it every night," Lambeau laughed.

Brother Of Lubbock Woman Is Fatally Hurt In Oil Accident

Informed his brother-in-law, Early Beckman, about 35, had died after an oil field injury, W. Bogart of 2611 Twenty-second street, accompanied by Mrs. Bogard, left Lubbock Wednesday night for Stamford.

Beckman was caught by a rope running through a pulley of a pump rig and one leg was torn off. He lived four hours after being rushed from the Lueders oil field to a Stamford hospital.

Bogart said he had just returned from visiting with relatives at Stamford, and that Beckman was there.

The man, married to a sister of Bogart, and the father of two daughters, 4 and 9 years old, will be buried today at Burkburnett, said Bogart.

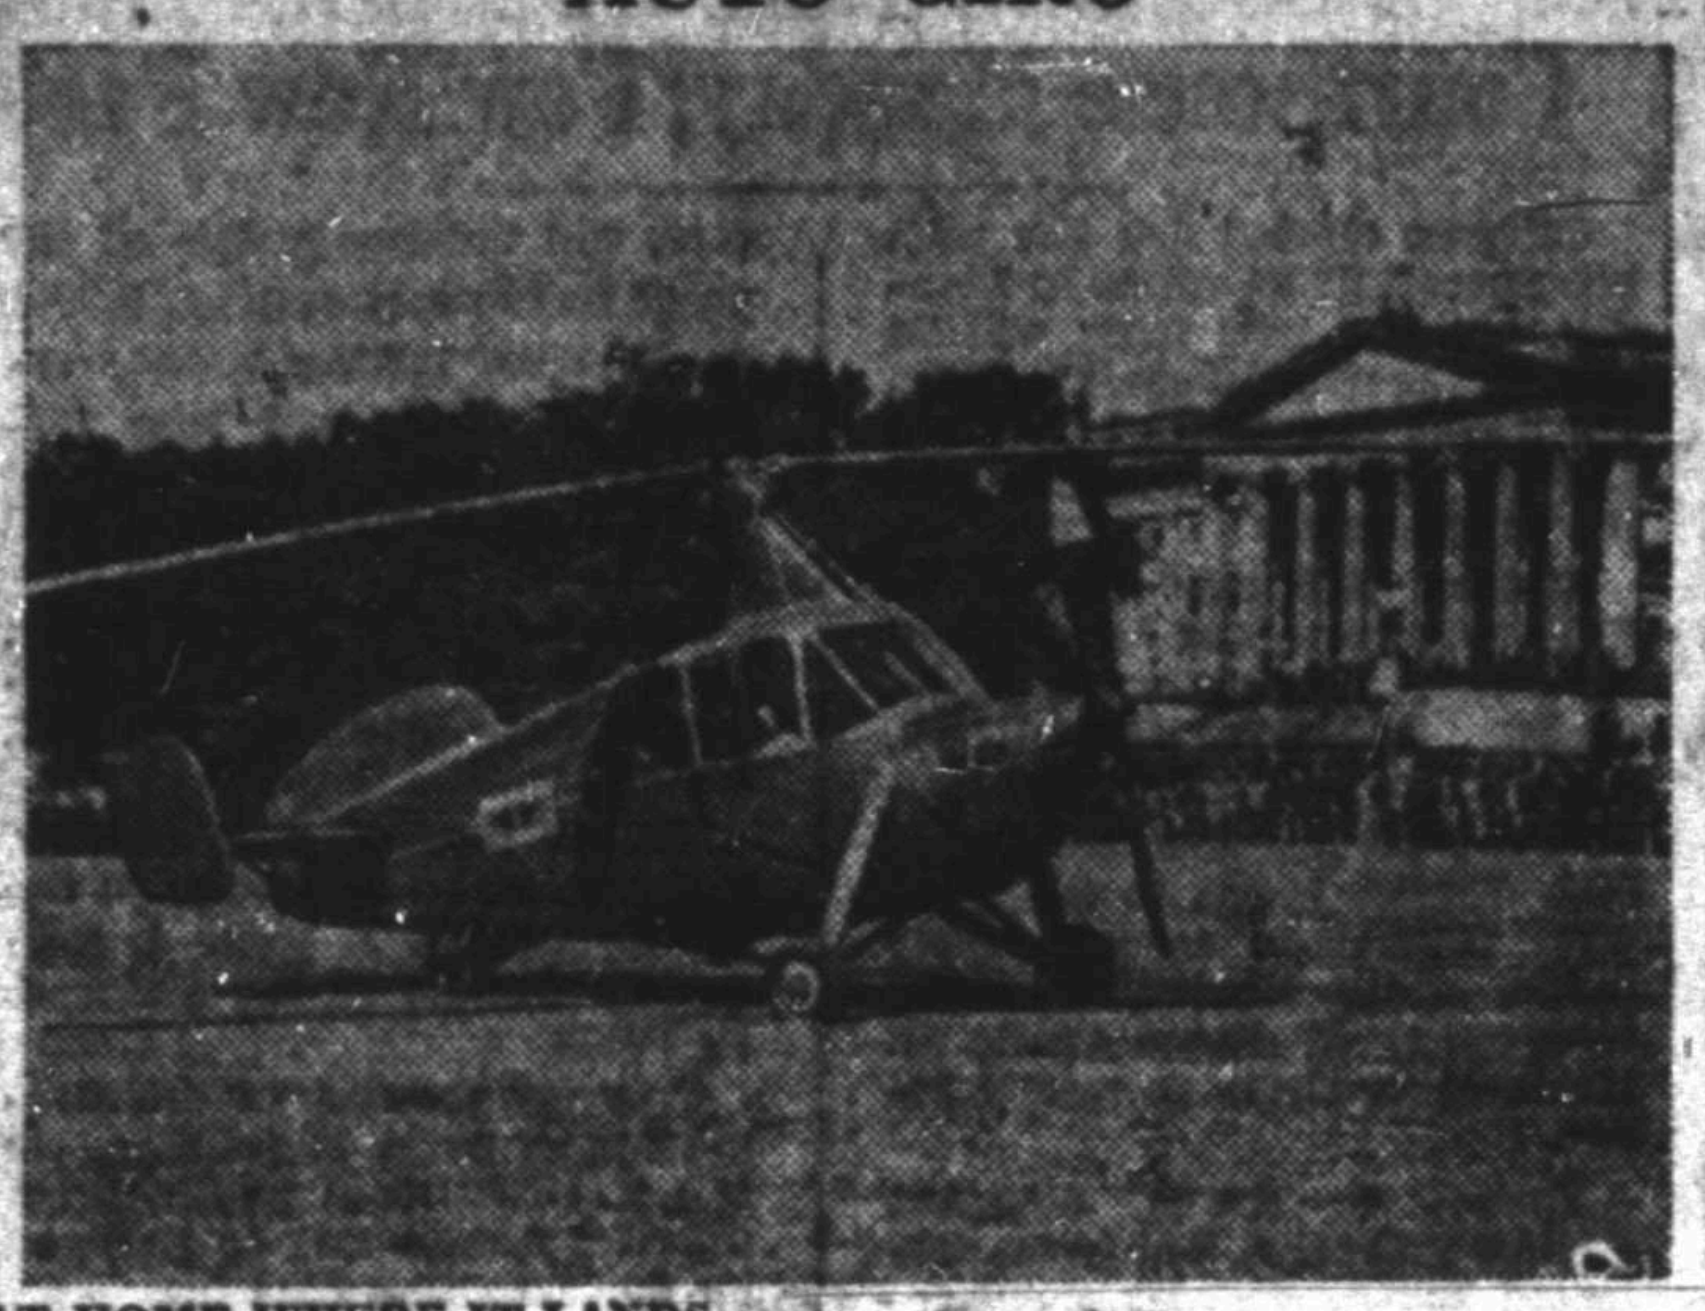
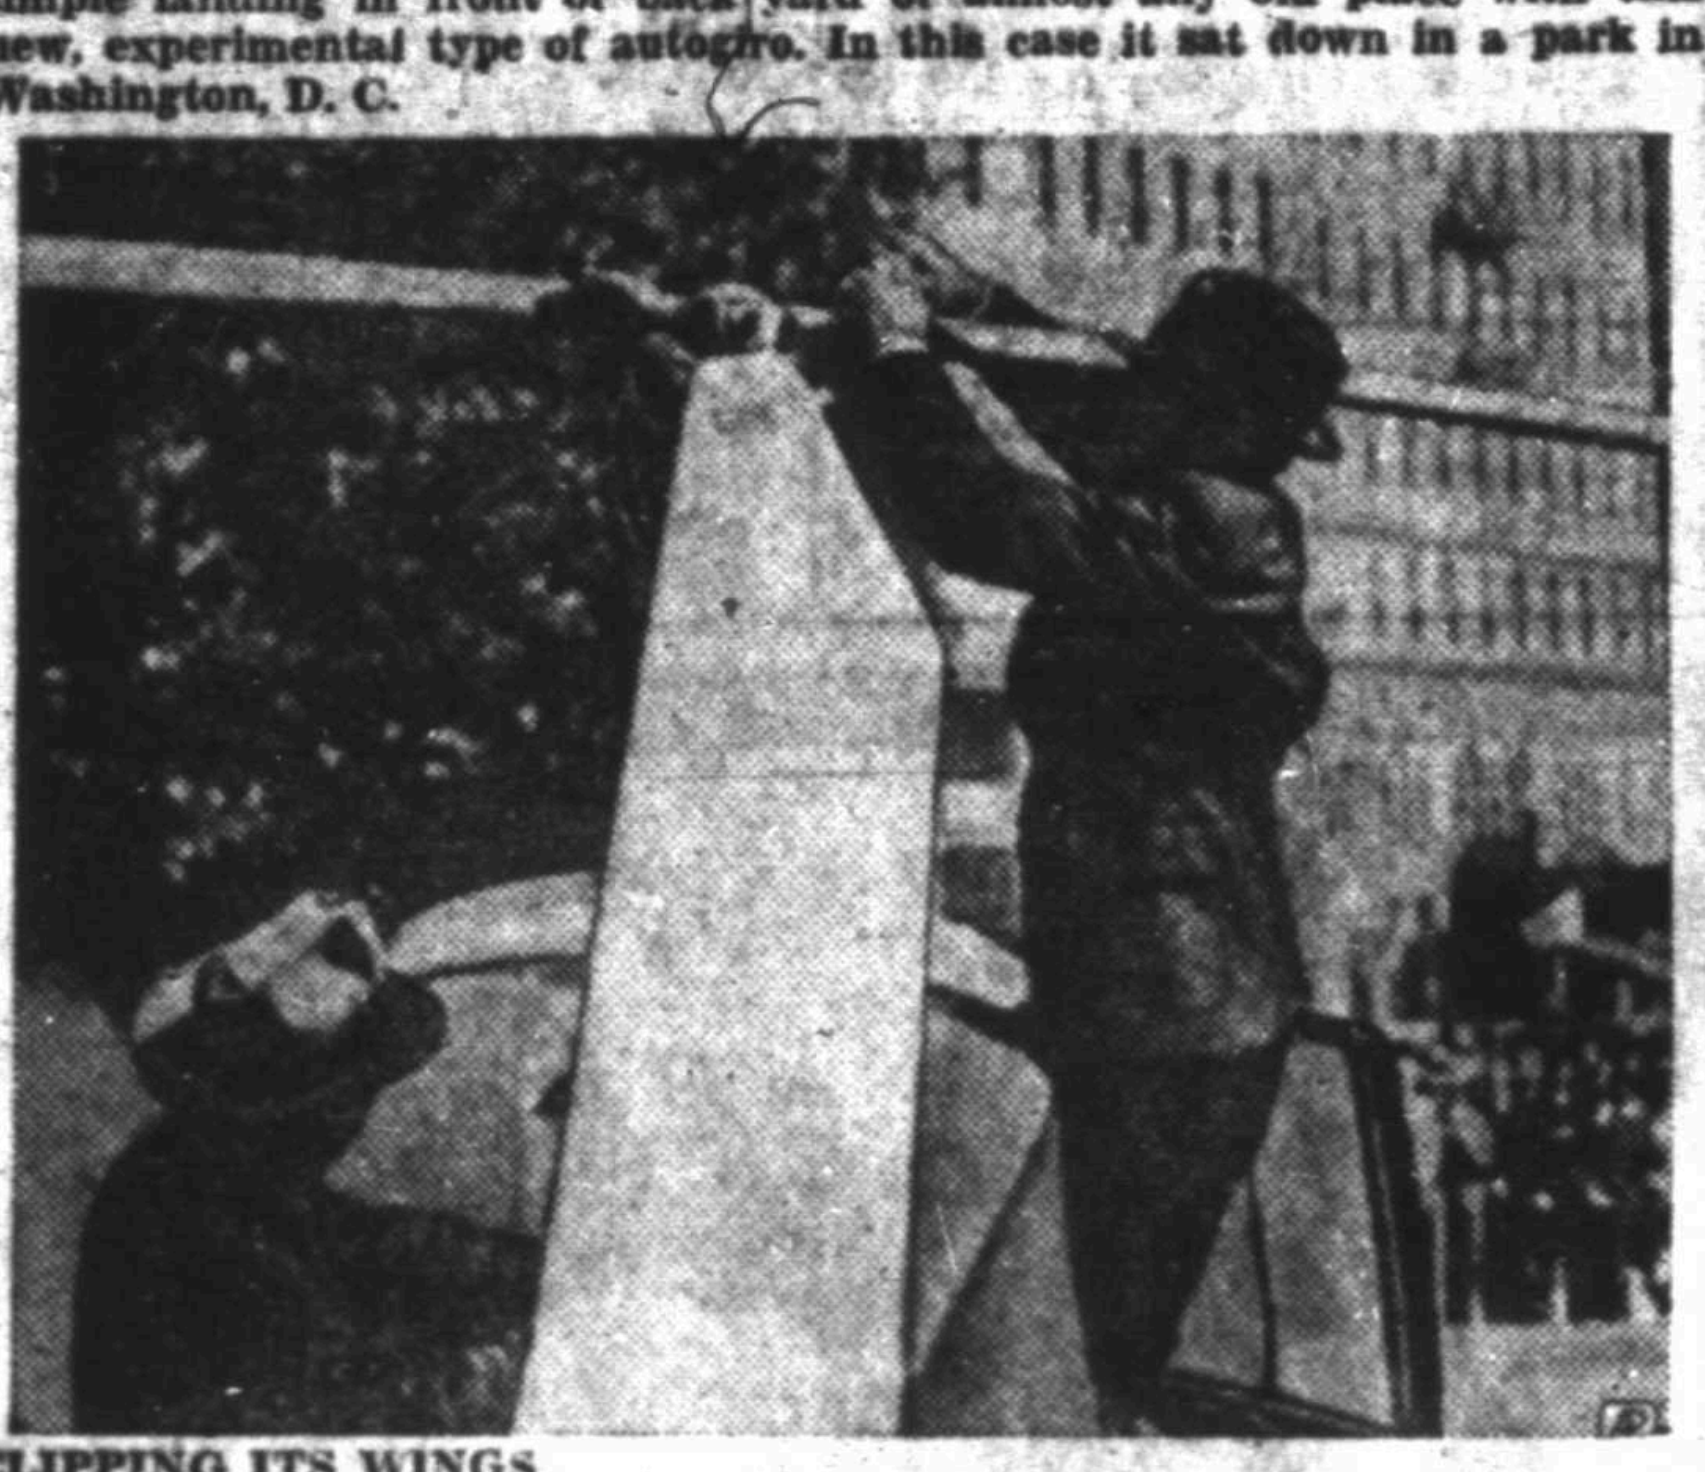
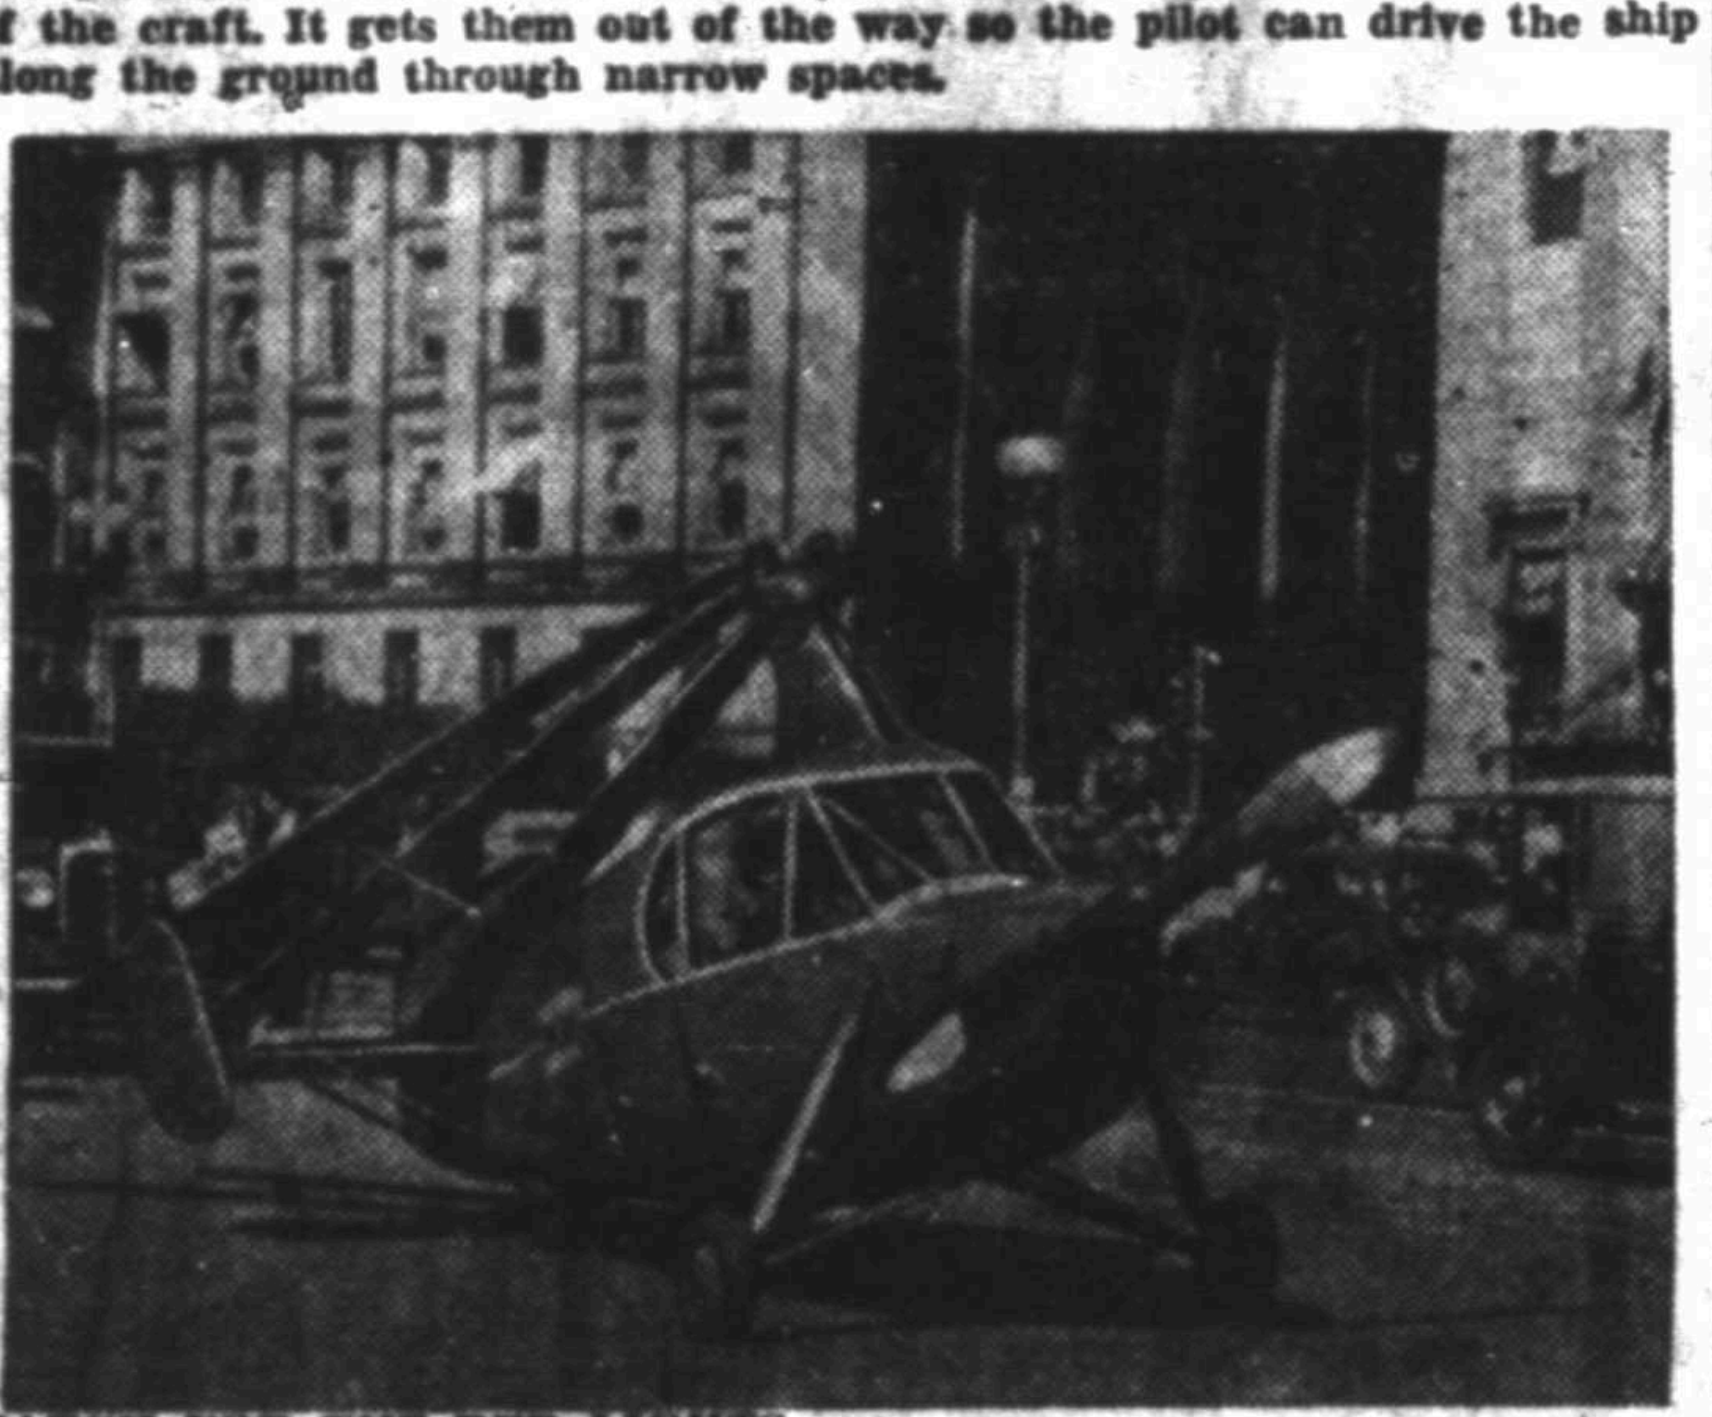
'AUTO' GIRO



AT HOME WHERE IT LANDS
"Howdy, folks. Just dropped in for a little visit." And it's almost that simple landing in front or back yard or almost any old place with this new, experimental type of autogiro. In this case it sat down in a park in Washington, D. C.



CLIPPING ITS WINGS
He won't be needing them for a while, so the pilot folds the rotators—those blades that revolve horizontally above the ship—backs over the tail of the craft. It gets them out of the way so the pilot can drive the ship along the ground through narrow spaces.



WATCH FOR THE RED LIGHTS
"Put her in low and off we go," for a clutch throws the propeller out of gear and powers the rear wheel, which pushes the giro along over highway or street. Here the plane picks its waythrough crowded Pennsylvania avenue in the nation's capital.

BUT DON'T GO NEAR A HYDRANT
"We'll just park it as the curb and stop in here for a minute." It's no trouble, if automobiles haven't already taken up all the parking space. Here is the final phase in the demonstration of this autogiro for the bureau of air commerce.

States Enact Security Laws

Thirty-Five States Have New Unemployment Insurance Acts To Coincide With Social Security Legislation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Thirty-five states have enacted unemployment insurance laws, the Social Security board reported today, with the possiblity Delaware would join the procession before the year-end deadline.

The Delaware legislature was deadlocked over a measure to comply with the federal security act but the board planned to stand by until late tomorrow.

Must Start Paying Tax

Employers of eight or more persons in states which lack the insurance tomorrow must pay a federal tax of one per cent on their 1936 payrolls before January 31.

Employers in states with laws approved by the security board can deduct from the assessment, up to 90 per cent of its amount, what they pay in state unemployment taxes.

It was estimated almost 17,000,000 workers are covered under the state and District of Columbia laws.

The 12 states certain to miss the deadline are Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Washington and Wyoming.

Mickey Has Blues

Greatest Honor Of Career Is To Go

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30. (AP)—The world may make merry on New Year's Eve, but Mickey Mouse, cartoon screen star, has the blues. Tomorrow night at the stroke of 12 he will lose the greatest honor of his career.

As "Miki-San," the little rodent has been venerated in Japan as the name and symbol of the year 1936. According to Nipponese custom, each year is given an animal emblem from one of the 12 Japanese calendar signs.

Pictures of the mouse have appeared on New Year's cards, street decorations, toys, buttons and even in the newspapers. His good qualities, Japanese tradition holds, have shaped the course of the Oriental empire for 12 months.

But on January 1, the mouse will be deposed in favor of the ox.

Mineola Man Is Sentenced To 150 Days For Burglary Try

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Joseph Miller, 23, of Mineola, Tex., was sentenced to 150 days in the house of correction today for attempting to burglarize a loop department store Monday night.

Miller, six-feet-five-inches tall, who told officers he used to play center on a Texas high school basketball team, utilized his height to reach the bottom rung of the fire escape and was caught by watchmen as he attempted to enter a 10th floor winodw.

"Biggest Athletic Year Yet" Seen For House Gym.; Many Members Young

By EDDIE GILMORE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Peter Henderson, physical director for members of the house, put his gymnasium in order today for a serious session of congressional muscle bending.

"I think," he said, "we're going to have the biggest athletic year yet, especially with so many young members."

Asks But Three Rules

The gymnasium asks but three rules of legislators who cast aside the togas of statesmanship to cavort in sweatshirts and shorts: No politics in games; no boxing; no wrestling.

"If I see two Democrats playing a game and notice two Republicans eyeing them," said Henderson, "I suggest a foursome—with a Democrat and a Republican as partners."

Reducer Is Popular

Designed to meet the athletic needs of men about 40, the gymnasium's most popular piece of equipment is an automatic reducer.

For bashful congressional athletes, there is a little room to one side where dumb-bells can be swung and waists reduced in solitude.

"A lot of new ones use it," Henderson said, "especially getting off the first few pounds."

SHOWS PRODUCTION

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 30. (AP)—The Holcomb, Thomas, Flesh, Hootkins et al No. 1 Henderson in the R. Bennington survey, Marion county, Tex., 14 miles southwest of Rodessa production, was reported to have shown itself a 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 open flow capacity gas-distillate producer in a drill stem test today.

The test was made at 5,960 to 5,990 feet. Operators said the well would be cored deeper for possible oil production.

Tech Cagers Win Opening Tourney Game; Coaches Assail Football Gambling

Scrapping Red Raiders March Ahead, 47-32

Game Is Rough At Times As Wilkinson Leads Matadors To Victory; Baylor Also Wins In First Round

(Special To The Avalanche)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 30. — Texas Tech moved into Classen High's gym Thursday with what appeared to be its football team and East Central's budding young crop of cagers learned all about the Red Raiders in a basketball way in the charity cage tournament's afternoon feature.

In an ear-splitting bedlam, the Tigers went down to defeat, 47-32, and even Coach Mickey McBride saw the humor of the situation as the sometimes rough battle reached a rollicking close.

Game Gets Rough

From their coach, Burly Berl Huffman, on down, the Raiders were husky and inclined a wee bit toward physical and vocal roughness. Handling themselves and the ball remarkably well for stalwarts of stockiness, the Raiders slid off to a quick lead and held it all the way.

Six-foot-4-inch Russell Wilkinson, Tech center, was the biggest and best reason why the Tigers could make no more than momentary headway. The rules do not permit climbing the opponent's frame, so Wilkinson had pretty much his own way under both baskets.

He looped and tipped in five goals and retrieved the in-and-out Tiger tosses that simply wouldn't go through. The Tigers were so disheartened that they didn't even follow in their shots. This, with failure to pass to one another under the basket, left them hopelessly outdistanced after their best spurt had brought them up to 24-22 shortly after the second half opened.

Small Tiger Stars

Strangely, it was the smallest of the Tigers who chose to do battle with the tall invaders. They call him "Mickey Mouse", but he was christened Mitchell McDaniel, this 5-foot, 8-inch 140-pound perpetual windmill. "Mickey" was snatching at the ball and trading bumps with his bulky adversaries all afternoon, and didn't come out exactly second [illegible].

He hit six baskets, almost singlehanded bringing the Tigers within reach on his mid-game spurt. But when he was stopped, the Raiders running 13 straight points before East Central could score again. During the bombardment, Texas Tech enjoyed the run of the scoring end of the court and one of the Carltons, cousin Lloyd, went out on fouls trying to stop them.

Baylor Wins 42-14

Other first round victories went to Baylor University's Bears, the Oklahoma City university Goldbugs, Tulsa university's Golden Hurricanes, the Oklahoma Aggies, and the Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers of Alva.

Baylor had the easiest time of the [illegible] afternoon sessions, breezing through to a 42-14 victory over Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers of Weatherford. Cowboys Plaster Horned Frogs In 21 To 18 Battle

ABILENE, Dec. 30. (AP)—Hardin-Simmons university's Cowboy basketeers lassoed another Southwest conference foe tonight, turning in a 21 to 18 victory over Texas Christian university in the opener of a two-game series.

Both teams played raggedly, and the indications were that the Horned Frogs may stop the Hardin-Simmons victory streak against Southwest foes at five straight tomorrow night when the Cowboys will play without three of their top hands. The trio will be in El Paso to participate in Friday's Sun Bowl football game.

Sam McCollum led the Cowboy scoring with ten points, and Hench was high for the Frogs with eight. The half-time score was a 10-10 tie.

L. S. U. Tigers Made Favorite In Sugar Bowl

Betting Odds Show Tigers To Be 1-4 Choice; 11 To 5 Is Offered Santa Clara Fans; Teams Continue Workouts

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30.—Louisiana State's football Tigers were favored today to defeat the Broncos of Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day.

The betting odds listed the Southerners as 1 to 4 choice two days before the game. For those who liked the bucking Broncos, bookmakers were laying 11 to 5.

By the dawn of the New Year, however, it was considered likely the odds in favor of Coach Bernie Moore's two-time Southeastern conference champions, the only major undefeated team performing in post-season games, would be sharply reduced.

Broncos In Shape

Reports from Houston, where the Broncos went through a long workout today before departing for Louisiana, said Coach Lawrence (Buck) Shaw's gridders were in great shape and primed for one of their best efforts.

Tulane defeated Colgate 20 to 14 in the inaugural game in 1934 and Louisiana State lost to Texas Christian 3 to 2 a year ago, in a deluge of rain.

The probability is this New Year's Day will find conditions ideal for the game, the weather bureau announced.

Heavy Rain Fails To Hinder Bronco Drill

HOUSTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—A heavy downpour today failed to keep Coach Buck Shaw and his Santa Clara Broncos indoors.

The Californians went through a drill at Rice Field shortly before noon and then took an indoor workout during the afternoon, before leaving for the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans January 1.

Santa Clara's gridsters were in fine spirits as they drove through the twin practice and the squad appeared ready to give Louisiana State university a hard battle in the post season engagement.

May Stop Running Plays

The Broncos will continue on to Bay St. Louis where they will remain until Friday morning.

"We are well aware of the power Louisiana State boasts," Coach Shaw said. "However, our defense has been fair this season and if the Tigers hold to running plays they are apt to be in for a tough afternoon.

"I don't say we will take Louisiana, but I will say that the team winning will know it has been in a ball game."

Popular California Weather Delays Appearance; Huskies And Panthers May Go In Rain

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 30. (AP)—Southern California's "ideal" weather took another holiday today and it began to appear that the Washington-Pittsburgh battle in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day might be played under unfavorable conditions.

Today's renewed rainfall, after a one-day lapse, may continue for 24 hours, and the weather bureau offered little encouraging predictions for New Year's Day.

Meanwhile the grid aggregations of Washington and Pitt went through their last serious workout of the Rose Bowl program.

Dry-Weather Teams Bolstered By Promise Of Colder But Clear Weather For Cotton Bowl Game Tomorrow

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Two dry weather teams, Texas Christian and Marquette, gave their hocus-pocus offensives a final thorough going over today in their last heavy drill before the Cotton Bowl classic here New Year's Day.

Forecasts of sharp temperature drops tonight failed to disturb the pass-minded elevens, for weather forecasters promised clear skies with the expected cold snap. Freezing, but clear weather was predicted for tomorrow.

Frog Practice Defense

The sun was out again today and Marquette pranced through its intricate passing plays on the Southern Methodist gridiron in near 70-degree weather.

At Fort Worth, Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer pushed his Horned Frogs hard on Marquette plays. Second stringers yesterday frightened Meyer with the ease with which they punctured the first string tackles on Marquette running plays.

Lack of available ends also worried Meyer. L. D. Meyer, his nephew, will start in place of the injured Willie Walls at left end and only Charlie Needham, veteran senior wingman, will be listed among end reserves. Walls, Coach Meyer said, would be available only in the worst emergency. The big end suffered a bad leg injury in the Santa Clara game.

Harrell Is Out

Bob Harrell, elusive left wingback, definitely will not play, while it was doubtful whether Harold McClure, best running back on the Horned Frog squad, would limp into the game.

P. C. Cobb, business manager of the Cotton Bowl association, said tonight good tickets were still available. Tickets were selling on the 12 yard lines of the vast, 46,500 capacity stadium and Cobb estimated 75 per cent of total sales represented out of town purchases.

Cobb said he expected a last day rush if the sun continued to shine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP) — Reporting 28 fatalities directly attributable to the game during 1936, Floyd B. Eastwood of New York university, today forecast an annual football death toll of between 25 and 30 unless the high school fatality total is materially reduced.

Eastwood told the American Football Coaches association that 18 of the fatalities in 1936 involved high school players.

Eastwood's six-year survey shows a total of 174 deaths chargeable directly to football. There were 33 in 1931; 32 in 1932; 27 in 1933; 25 in 1934; 29 in 1935, and 28 this year.

Of these, 78 have involved high school players. Sandlot football has accounted for 49 deaths; Athletic club football 26 and college football, 21.

Recommendations Made

Deaths not directly attributable to football, such as those due to infection or pneumonia after injury, were not included in the six-year survey.

In an effort to reduce the toll, Eastwood recommended that (1) close attention be given to cuts and bruises in order to prevent infections; (2) pre-season medical examination be given to all football candidates before the first practice; (3) backs be given more thorough training in proper tackling and blocking technique; (4) coaches be selected from among college players who have had theory and practice in safety procedures; (5) high school players be given complete medical care; (7) players be given a more adequate warming up period before entering the game and that they be removed at the first sign of fatigue.

Mississippi State Gridders Arrive In Miami For "Bowl"

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 30. (AP)—Mississippi State's football maroons, arrived today for their New Year's day battle with Duquesne, were said by their coach to be "mentally and physically" ready for the Orange Bowl game.

The Mississippians hurried from their train to an ultra-secret practice. Meanwhile, Duquesne ran plays with a tentative starting lineup.

Coach John (Little Clipper) Smith of Duquesne withdrew Boyd Brumbaugh, halfback, from practice and announced William Dillon would take his place on the first team. Brumbaugh has been suffering from tonsilitis.

Glenn Morris Is Winner Of Sullivan Sports Cup

Colorado Star Beats Jesse Owens In National Poll

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Glenn Morris, great all-around athlete from Fort Collins, Colo., tonight was declared the winner of the James E. Sullivan memorial award for 1936.

The award is made annually by the Amateur Athletic union to the athlete "who by his performance, example and influence as an amateur and as a man, has done most during the year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

Morris, who set up a new world's record of 7,900 points in winning the Olympic decathlon championship at Berlin in August, beat out Jesse Owens, Ohio State's negro Olympic sprint and broad jump title-holder, in a close battle of ballots cast by 600 outstanding leaders of sport in all parts of the United States.

Jack Medica Third

Morris polled 1,106 points, 93 more than Owens. Jack Medica of Seattle, Olympic 400 meter swimming champion, was third with 301 and Helen Jacobs, Wimbledon tennis champion from Berkeley, Calif., fourth with 204.

Rounding out the list of ten for whom the final votes were cast were: Helen Stephens, Fulton, Mo., sprinter, 174 points; Tommy Hitchcock, New York, polo ace, 170; Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, United States amateur golf champion, 153; Lt. Charles F. Leonard, New York, modern pentathlon star, 153; Forrest C. Towns, of the University of Georgia, Olympic High hurdles champion, 123; and Herman Frasch Whiton, prominent yachtsman, 34.

Sailor Moran Takes Bennett In Rough Wrestling Contest

Oklahoman Displays Mental Lapse And Moran Is Quick To Take Advantage; Andy Tremaine, Stratton Win

George Bennett, the scrappy Oklahoman, let his wrestling fans down somewhat last night by betraying mental weaknesses hitherto unknown in the lad who has been advertised as one of the cleverest grapplers to hit this circuit.

It would still be hard to convince most fans hereabouts that even the great Sailor Moran could pin Bennett if Bennett exerted all his mental and physical efforts. Evidently he didn't do it last night, because the acid-tempered, alert sailor-man won the third fall and the main event of the Auditorium's pre-New Year's party.

George Takes Second

Bennet, who whipped the tar out of the tar in the second fall and was going right handsomely in the third until he slipped a cog or two, lost considerable prestige by holding off the rough stuff until it was too late. Moran used his famous straight punch to the heart to win the first fall in 22 minutes. For the first fifteen minutes, the sailor devoted his time to real wrestling, and must have pulled Bennett, who was holding his own, off guard. Suddenly Moran let go with a hard right, and kept them up, flooring Bennett as fast as he would rise. Referee Clements interfered and offered to forfeit the fall to Bennett, but George wouldn't have it that way, which was his first mental failing of the evening. Soon he was knocked out, and Moran was the winner.

George came back with a rush and the 9-minute second spasm was plenty rowdy. There was a heap of everything besides wrestling, with Bennett carrying the fight and so far outclassing Moran that there was no doubt of the outcome—of that particular fall, at least. Bennett won with a stake hold one of his favorite weapons, after he had battered Moran into a pulp.

Stake Hold Fails

They went at it easier in the third. Bennett got another stake hold, but they were too close to the ropes and Moran wriggled out. He got another, but failed to hold it, bending too close over Moran's searching tentacles. Moran got away, dashed outside the ropes. Bennett pulled him back in with a headlock and slam. Moran raced to the other side and went out. Bennett again pulled him in, and Moran raced out again. This time Bennett was met with a Moran foot full in the solar plexus, and went down. Like a cat, Moran was inside the ropes and on the fallen Oklahoman for the fall in something like 14 mintes.

The preliminaries went to definite ends, Andy Tremaine, the husky Arizonan, coming to life after 17 minutes of hard but clean grappling with the newcomer, Swede Olie Erickson from Washington, and winning with a rolling rocking-chair split, finishing by holding Olie's shoulders flat.

The semi-final also went 17 minutes, Walter Stratton turning on the power to take the hustling Russell Riley with a bear hug, spin and body smother. They had themselves a good fight, and Riley gave Stratton considerable trouble, lacking strength to hold the Iowan once he got a good hold. But he made it interesting for the small crowd of spectators.

Kipke Elected New President Of Association

Gus Dorais Takes Stump To Warn Of Evils Of Betting On Grid Games; Committee To Be Named By Kipke

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Warned in forthright terms of the "serious menace" of professional gambling on college football games, the American Football Coaches' association today decided to probe its growth and determine definite steps calculated to curb any threat of wagering evils.

After being elected unanimously as the association's new president at the closing session of the 16th annual convention, Michigan's Harry Kipke announced he would soon name a special committee to study the gambling situation and report its recommendations to the 1937 meetings.

To Study Pro Gambling

This committee will investigate alleged activities of professional gamblers, some of whom are said to have established contacts at many large colleges, as well as the growth of football pools.

Gus Dorais, Detroit coach, brought the subject of gambling dangers before the convention. Dorais said: "When professional big-time gamblers interest themselves in the results of our games, I do not need to tell you men what might happen. Football always has been played on the square and the responsibility rests on us to see that it continues to be played that way."

Bob Higgins, Penn State, raised the question of ethics involved in the controversial subject of "picking winners," in which some coaches participate through newspaper syndicates.

Higgins' report made no recommendations but asked if coaches, in making public predictions on the outcome of games, were helping to foster the gambling spirit.

Number Rule Okayed

The National Collegiate A. A. already is on record as condemning this activity by the coaches, many of whom feel, nevertheless, that it is a legitimate by-product of their profession.

With only one dissenter, Charley Caldwell of Williams, the coaches informally approved the idea of a rule making it mandatory for players to wear jerseys with numbers on both front and back.

Kipke, named to succeed D. O. (Tuss) McLaughry of Brown as president went into office with the following slate: First vice-president, Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin; second vice-president, Lou Little, Columbia; third vice-president, A. N. (Bo) McMillin, Indiana; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Cowell, New Hampshire; trustees, H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, Princeton; Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; and Madison (Matty) Bell, Southern Methodist.

It's Settled At Last; New York Giants "Own" Albany

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Elusive Joe Cambria, almost hoarse from shouting denials of the sale, finally marched into the New York Giants' office today and sold his Albany club to the National League champions for a reported $50,000.

His patience sorely tested by the long negotiations, President Horace Stoneham of the Giants was tempted to throw up the sponge on the deal when Cambria arrived with Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International league, and signed the papers.

Travis Jackson, veteran Giant infielder and field captain, will be offered the managership of the team.

Proposed Grid Game Here For Friday Is Out

Brownfield All-Stars Choose To Play At Home; Lubbock Hub Clothiers To Play At 2:30 O'Clock Tomorrow

There'll be no football game in Lubbock tomorrow.

But there will be a gridiron contest in Brownfield, between the Brownfield All-Stars and the Lubbock Hub Clothiers.

Efforts on the part of Harold Crites, former Tech star, to round up a team of his former Matador mates were progressing nicely in a plan to accept Brownfield's challenge for a New Year's Day game. But Brownfield's team, skippered by Pete Miller, choosing to play at home, booked the Hub Clothiers, an independent team managed by Primo McCurry, former Lubbock High star. The Clothiers, organized soon after the regular grid season, have been trying to get games, and Brownfield took them on. The contest is to start at 2:30 o'clock on the Brownfield High school field.

Ex-Collegians Play

Pete Miller's all-stars, made up of former college players of various schools, defeated an all-star team from Anton, 30 to 0, on Christmas Day.

Crites said last night he was grateful for the cooperation received in trying to get a team of old Tech favorites together for a game here, and hoped that it would be possible to round them up next year for a post-season game at Texas Tech stadium.

Arkansas Razorbacks Defeat Tennessee Volunteers, 42-34

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Arkansas' Southwestern conference champions, led by a pair of ace forwards—Lockhard and Gilliland —defeated the University of Tennessee Volunteers, Southeastern conference champions, 42 to 34, in the basketball chapter of the Sugar Bowl sports festival tonight.

Taking command shortly after the start of the contest, the Razorbacks held a 22 to 9 advantage at the half time intermission and pulled away in the closing minutes to triumph over the Tennesseans.

Here's Our Simple New Year's Wish To You!

At the beginning of the year 1937, we feel it is proper to greet our many friends and patrons in the spirit of the occasion, therefore we say to you, one and all:—HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU!

May every morning find you inspired with some new and worthwhile goal. May each day find you busily engaged in carving happiness from the material of time without end. May each evening find you in the midst of your loved ones, happy and content with the achievements of the day.

May you be happy, healthy and prosperous through every day of the New Year. This is our wish for you.

IT WILL BE A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR!

FOUR YEARS AGO when Prosperity was a snare and a delusion the word was going 'round that it was just around the corner. In '34 and '35 Recovery had become a hope and a promise and everybody cheered. Today as '36 checks out for 1937, Good Times are a fact and there is very little noise; people are too busy to shout. Which means that at long last the Big Bust-up is over; the Great Depression is history.

IT'S BEEN A LONG LANE, a rocky road before the turning and we have come quite a way. All of us are a little older; many of us are rejoicing in battle scars; a few of us are even wise enough to know now that not every rainbow has a pot of gold at the end. It will be a good thing to remember because there'll be other rainbows . . .

THE WHEELS ARE TURNING. The factory smoke recalls '29. But, thanks be, there is a difference; this is not the America of the New Era and for that we can be glad. Mr. Citizen isn't trading his savings for mere I.O.C.'s. Speculation is in bad odor. Instead, new homes are going up in every town and suburb. People are better dressed. There are new cars on every street. And business is healthy as well as good with even better days to come. More corporate surpluses are going into higher wages and better selling effort than into the kind of capital equipment that would be slated for the junk yard ten years hence leaving bond holders holding the bag. Payrolls are fat and getting fatter. We're out of the red and this is, at last, a normal year.

AND AS BUSINESS shifts gears into high, the urge for experiment, any experiment, fades. Little need for big sticks and foreign isms, for colored shirts and catchwords when the nation's paycheck is on the make. The tension, the uncertainty are past, and with their passing we know that the American way is safe for a while longer. Together, democracy and the capitalistic system have stood the test.

THIS IS A NORMAL YEAR. America is in better shape right now than at any time since 1926. So say the economists, business and the working man—and they ought to know. The future looks rosy—it's going to be a Happy New Year. We are really on our way.

Make The CCC Permanent!

RECENTLY there has been considerable discussion, in Washington and out, on whether the Civilian Conservation corps should be continued only so long as needed as a relief measure, or made a permanent feature of government service.

The United States News, a weekly paper covering governmental affairs, took up the question, received from many a bigwig, including Robert Fechner, CCC director, an opinion. Most people feel that the CCC is one of the really valuable governmental agencies growing out of the depression and that it should be made a permanent organization.

With that idea the Morning Avalanche thoroughly agrees.

While we believe officers in CCC camps should have more authority over their charges than they now have and that CCC boys should be made to give more labor in return for their government aid, we think the Civilian Conservation corps has been a fortunate innovation and that it has a decided future in this country during good times, or bad.

This country has never seen the day—and never will—when the CCC could not be serviceably used for the benefit of the nation and for the good of under-privileged youth of the nation.

By its very organization it offers to unemployed youth opportunities for education, for healthy work, for directed play and for sane character building, and it also offers to many a community an avenue of getting improvements made which otherwise would be impossible.

The Morning Avalanche has heard all the criticism which has been directed at the CCC here and can understand the reasons for much of it. Yet there are many things to praise in the organization, not the least of which is the fact that most of the boys who have served any length of time have been bettered by their association and by the knowledge they have picked up.

By all means, the CCC should be a permanent agency of this country no matter how badly we may some day lick the spectre of economic upheaval. It is at least one relief agency that serves a purpose every day.

JAY TAYLOR'S APPOINTMENT

Governor James V. Allred's appointment of Jay Taylor, of Amarillo, to be chairman of the State Racing commission is a fortunate one.

Everyone who knows the young president of the Panhandle Cattle Raisers association knows he has a habit of serving and serving well in any job he undertakes. One of the most promising young men of the West, Mr. Taylor may be relied upon to exert the same broad, capable talents in his state position that have made him outstanding in the cattle and oil business of his home section.

If there is any surprise in the Governor's appointment it is from the angle that Mr. Taylor accepted the position and was constrained to take the time from his own affairs to administer to those of the state. In so doing he is performing a patriotic service, not without loss of time and energy which otherwise would have been expended in carrying on business.

With Mr. Taylor as head of the commission, friends and foes of legalized horse racing may rest assured that the job will be well done, fairly and squarely operated.

To Mr. Taylor, good luck in his new venture; to Governor Allred a palm for a good appointment.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"The Lubbock Avalanche is all nerved up again, or at least that is the status of their 'head man' and of course he has a right to be nervous after what he has been going through, not only with having to write long-winded articles about those parking meters, (just like they have in Dallas, and Charley is sort of jealous of Dallas anyway) but having to drop nickels in them as well," Johnnie Price shouts in the Littlefield County-Wide News. The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony has walked knowingly into Ambrose Lawson's trap, in an effort to bring that worthy and his gang of kidnapers and dope runners to justice. But he is mistaken for a mysterious Mr. Brown by an equally mysterious Irishman, and has to fight for his life. Then police arrive, and Terence and the Irishman, allies for the moment, escape over the housetops. One pursuing policeman falls to the ground; while the crowd watches him, the two fugitives slip down through a house, to the street.

Chapter 28
FATTY BASSETT

The inured constable had been removed into a house to await the arrival of an ambulance, and the constables who had been attending to him were hurrying up the street to join in the hunt. The danger now was that, even in that crowd, the tall hulking figure and ugly features of the Irishman would be recognized. He evidently realized the danger.

"You slip along, Mister; don't stay with me; let me take me chance on me own," he urged Mahony. "The cops aren't likely to know you, I'm thinking; you'll get away much better without me."

But Mahony wasn't having any of that.

"I'm damned if I will," he said.

The Irishman grinned.

"Right you are me boyo," he replied. "But I'm thinking you'd do better . . . ."

He broke off as a dirty hand plucked at his sleeve. The hand belonged to a little, squinting bow-legged man, dressed in a disreputable check suit and a red muffler.

"Get along to Fatty Bassett's," said a hoarse voice. "Slip away quietly, mate. I'll give the cops something to think abart while you're gettin' away."

The bowlegged man edged away from them through the crowd and suddenly raised his voice in an excited shout.

"There they go! Look, on that roof! I seen one of 'em dodge be'ind that chimney stack!" he yelled shrilly, and raised a pointing hand.

"Where? Where?" A dozen voices asked the question. A police sergeant grasped the bow-legged man by the arm.

"You saw them?" he demanded.

"I seen one of 'em, large as life, be'ind that there chimney stack," declared the bow-legged man in a voice of excited conviction. "'E popped 'is 'ead out, took a decko, and orf gain. I seen 'im as plain as I see me 'and."

The sergeant ran in the direction of the house at which the bow-legged man had pointed. For the time being the attention of the crowd and police was directed towards that house. That gave Mahony and the Irishman the opportunity to slip out of the crowd and make their way along a dark side street.

But the danger was not over yet; the police in the whole district would be on the lookout for the two fugitives. For five minutes they dodged cautiously about the dark, narrow streets, keeping a wary eye open for [illegible] Then they drew [illegible] an arch over [illegible] eway. [illegible] the Irishman [illegible] narro[illegible] grimy back gardens. Half-way along the passage he turned off to the left, crossed a small garden, and descended half a dozen stone steps into a dark area.

In front of him was a door, the kitchen door of a house. He rapped on it sharply three times, paused, and rapped once again. The door opened very slightly, and a gruff, suspicious voice said: "Who's there?"

"Barney Glynn and another," answered the Irishman. "The cops is out after us."

"Come in," said the gruff voise, and the door opened wider.

They entered through a dark pantry into a frowsy kitchen lighted inadequately by a flickering gas jet. Three men were seated at the kitchen table drinking beer and playing with a greasy pack of cards; another chair and mug had obviously just been left by the man who had opened the door. The three men looked up as Mahony and Barney entered. One of them, a very fat, disreputable-looking rascal, spoke.

"'Lo, Barney," he said. "Wot the 'ell you doin' over 'ere? I thought you was lyin' low in Joe Walton's doss 'ouse over the other side of the river."

"I was so," answered the Irishman. "But I was given the tip where Mr. Brown was to be found tonight, and I slipped across the water to see if I could get me money."

"And who's yer pal?" asked the fat man. "I don't remember to 'ave seen 'im before."

"Why, 'tis Mr. Brown himself," answered Barney with some pride. "We had a bit of a friendly argument, and the spalpeen laid me on the flat of me back. After that the police came and we got out by the roof."

"Wot, 'e laid you on the flat of your back!" exclaimed one of the othermen. "Wot with?"

"With his fist," said the Irishman, and he laid his hand almost affectionately on Mahony's shoulder. "Begob, he's a foine fighter is Mr. Brown."

The fat man turned to Mahony. His eyes were cold, and his expression was unfriendly.

"So you're Mr. Brown, eh?" he demanded.

"No, I'm not," answered Mahony. "I told Barney I wasn't, but he wouldn't believe me."

"True, you're not," answered the fat man roughly. "I know wot Mr. bloomin' Brown looks like; I seen 'im once when I went to the 'ouse in Jamaica street."

Here was a chance of getting information, and Mahony took it.

"What does he look like?" he demanded.

"Taller than you, and darker, with a little moustache. And 'e's got a little scar on the back of 'is left 'and," answered the fat man.

He scowled at Mahony suddenly.

"Oo the 'ell are you, anyway, askin' questions?" he went on suspicously. "Suppose you tell us a bit about yerself."

Mahony did not answer for a moment. The fat man's descriptio[illegible] of Mr. Brown had given him a sudden sh[illegible] Tall, with a little d[illegible] mou[illegible] [illegible]nd a scar on the ba[illegible] o[illegible] his [illegible] that description exactly fitted his friend Billy Ross.

"Well?" demanded the fa[illegible] [illegible] got a tongue. Wo[illegible] [illegible] named Milson; he told me that if I called there at ten Mr. Brown would give me a job," answered Mahony.

"Milson??" said the fat man. "Milson? I never 'eard of 'im. Wot's 'e look like?"

Before Mahony could answer, there came three sharp raps on the outer door, followed by another rap. The man who had admitted Mahony and Barney went to the door and opened it. A man entered.

He came into the room, stopped short, and stared at Mahony and Barney with the expression of one who cannot believe the sight of his own eyes. Mahony stared back at him; there was a smile about his lips but the expression in his eyes was hard and dangerous.

"Hellow, Milson," he said.

After Mahony's words there was a pause. The air of the cellar was charged with a kind of dramatic tension. Milson stood just inside the doorway, an expression of amazement and fear on his face, staring at Mahony and Barney.

Just behind him, in the doorway, was the man who had let him in. The fat man had risen; his expression as he stared from Mahony to the man called Milson.

Mahony had moved back slightly and was standing against the wall; his expression, too, was keen and hard, and his hand had slipped into the side pocket of his coat.

During the pause, the bow-legged man also quietly entered the cellar and stood looking with some curiosity at the men in there.

The fat man was the first to speak.

"Milson?" he demanded roughly. "Wot d'yer mean, Milson? That's Mr. Lake."

"He told me his name was Milson, and he sent me down to that house in Jamaica street to see Mr. Borwn about a job," stated Mahony.

Milson, or rather Lake, made a little nervous movement with his hand. He was afraid of Mahony and the big Irishman, and to conceal his fear he tried to bluster.

"Well, and supposing I did?" he said shrilly. "I had my orders and I carried them out. And it's a nice thing you've done to let them in here. I'd like to know who's responsible for that. There's going to be some trouble about that, I can tell you."

"I sent 'em along 'ere becos the cops wos arter 'em," put in the bow-legged man. "Wot else wos I to do?"

"You dammed fool. The cops were after them because . . ." began Milson. Then he broke off as if he had said too much.

Mahony talks, to morrow, for his life.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE holiday mood hit almost everybody at the capital except the serious, fearless reformers who hitched their chariots to President Roosevelt's star four years ago. The approach of the New Year finds them listless and discouraged.

They have lost the enthusiasm and energy which they exhibited up to and shortly after election. They are inclined to blame the President for not capitalizing his conquest, and whipping the nation into another idealistic mood. They figure, naturally, that their let-down attitude reflects the feeling of the people, and that even if Mr. Roosevelt contemplates new and startling reforms, he will fail in the face of popular and Congressional lethargy.

In their opinion, he made two fatal mistakes. He should not have hurried off to South America immediately after November 3rd, and he should not have permitted certain aides to sponsor and promote the theory that the New Deal will pull in its "brain trusters" during the second term. They are still anxious to "remake America."

OUTBOUND: These young, brilliant liberals have framed the program which they wish the President to pursue for the next four years. But though it fits in with Mr. Roosevelt's underlying philosophy, they don't dare to lay it on his desk in so many words.

First, they contemplate legislation to break up vast concentrations of wealth and industry—either through drastic laws against holding companies or measures which will penalize bigness as such. Perhaps the phrases which most accurately describe their objectives is the "abundant life" and the "simple life" for the average American. Tied in with this proposition, of course, is an immediate move to fortify Uncle Sam with comprehensive control of business, industry, agriculture. Otherwise, their restless dreaming is of no avail.

Their third objective is a curb on the Supreme court. Without imposing strict restraint on the judicial body of review, they realize that they cannot give permanency to their plans. But the President's apparent indifference to these ideas makes the wassailing period an unhappy time for them, and sparks threats of further resignations by several original New Dealers.

ADVANTAGE: Great Britain's suggestion that Hitler may spring a military coup reveals the virulence of Europes war jitters. Confidential reports here suggest that the German dictator is far from ready.

The explanation for the epidemic of rumors is that Der Fuehrer has staged all his other moves on a weekend or holiday eve. He has caught his rivals wholly unprepared—prime ministers in the country, military and naval advisers at distant garrisons, newspaper correspondents on a remote assignment. He achieved his purpose before public or political opinion could be mobilized in opposition.

The protracted British weekend works in Hitler's favor. He may yet reform the island system of a five day week for the empire's managers and military nabobs.

PATRON: It's the habit to think of Senator Carter Glass as a statesman supreme—an honor which even unfriendly colleagues accord him. But the Senator from the nearby state of Virginia dabbles in patronage squabbles as violently as any bread-and-butter politico.

Despite his refusal to stump for the President in the last campaign, Mr. Glass has demanded that his recommendations be honored. Right now he has submitted an imposing list of candidates for jobs, and he won't take "no" for an answer. He—or his secretary—is making it hot for a certain bureau chief who won't place a Glass constituent on the payroll. The official contention is that the candidate is unfit, but that doesn't satisfy the angry Virginian.

The dispute has not yet been presented to the President, but it probably will be. And for all their differences, Mr. Roosevelt is so fond of his friendly enemy that the Senator may eventually win out. He usually does.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

A BILL will be introduced at the coming session of Congress to confer new rate making authority on the Federal Power commission. The purpose—somewhat camouflaged— will be to establish this commission, rather than the Tennessee Valley Authority, as the ultimate arbiter of federal yardstick power rates. This would be the first step towards setting up the Power commission as the coordinating and directing agency for all federal power activities.

Such a measure, if enacted, will clearly foreshadow a more conservative government power policy and friendlier relations betwen the administration and the private utilities in future. It would also constitute a severe setback for David Lilienthal of TVA and other advocates of public ownership.

Will it be enacted? That rests chiefly, if not entirely, on FDR's private wishes. Outwardly his attitude towards it, at least in the beginning, will probably be one of benevolent neutrality—the familiar trial balloon technique. Then, depending on public reaction to the proposal, he might give backstage orders to Congressional leaders either to push it through or kill it. There is little doubt that such orders would be executed without serious argument.

DOUBT: When the utility act of 1935 was being drafted, its brain trust authors—Ben Cohen and Tom Corcoran—concentrated on holding companies. Title II of the law, affecting operating companies, was added as a sort of afterthought. The only reason it was included at all was because of persistent and effective backstage lobbying by the Federal Power commission, which saw no reason why it should be left out in the cold while the Securities Exchange commission was feasting on added authority.

Senators LaFollette and Norris were really responsible for carrying Title II through Congress. They were the "friends at court" whose cooperation the Power Commission successfully sought. But the commission cannot count on them to support its latest ambitions. On the contrary, they are pretty sure to be lined up with the opposition.

LaFollette and Norris have become suspicious of the Power commission. In particular they doubt whether Basil Manly—who has quietly become the commission's unofficial pilot—is true to their ideals. Dave Lilienthal is their pet protege now—and he hates the Power commission's gizzard.

SEAMEN: Unions which have never before bothered to send delegates to the Central Trades and Labor council in New York are doing so now. This is especially true of the "progressive" unions.

It's a question of public relations. It may not make any practical difference in the outcome of a strike whether the Trades and Labor council endorses it or not. The body has no real authority. But the public may get the impression that the voice of the council is the voice of organized labor.

The maritime unions which are rebelling against the officials of the International Seamen's union have been active at recent council meetings. They are trying in every way to overcome the impression—which their opponents put over at the beginning of the East Coast walkout—that their is an "outlaw" strike. Joseph P. Ryan of the International Longshoreman's association uses this as his excuse for refusing to allow his members to help the striking seaman. Until lately the Trades and Labor council has upheld Ryan, but at the last session the vote was about 50-50 and next time the maritime strikers may succeed in gaining the council's official okay.

PROFIT: One of the main New York arguments against the capital gains tax is that it prevents large traders selling to take their profits—thus reducing the floating supply of stock and curtailing stock market market activity.

But shrewd Wall Street observers doubt that wealthy investors would do any important selling even if the tax were repealed. There wouldn't be much point in liquidating when their present stock investments still look like the most profitable use they could find for their money.

Horse, Considered Intelligent Animal In Past, Is Rated Behind Old Bossy

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 30.—After all these years of saying people "should have more horse sense," it now turns out it should have been "cow sense" all along.

The horse, as an animal of intelligence, rates behind Old Bossy, and just ahead of sheep, another much maligned animal so far as anything but lamb chops is concerned.

All this Miss Pearl Gardner, of Cornell university's agricultural school, told to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Took Her Five Years

It took her five years, starting in 1931, and with infinite patience, she studied 72 horses, 48 cows and 11 sheep.

"When it comes to learning by observation, there's no question the cow is much smarter than a horse" said Miss Gardner. "It doesn't matter whether the horse is a polo pony or a percheron. I worked with both. Even sheep give horses a pretty good run for it, mentally.

"Cows catch on to things quicker, remember better. And strangely enough, the champion cows that give the most milk were the smartest of all cows. But polo ponies make the same mistakes that draft horses do. And sheep despite their timidity can be taught tricks such as taking a handkerchief out of your pocket, rolling a barrel, shaking hands, just as easily as a horse.

Network Of Multiple Routes For U. S. Visioned By Experts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30, (AP) — A national network of multiple land highways for cross country travel, with a system of belt and radial roads for city traffic, were visualized by government experts today as the way to make automobiling safe and speedy.

While the bureau of public roads was announcing apportionment of $200,000,000 among the states, the bureau's engineers were ready with proposals for spending this and later appropriations on the roads of the future.

Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the bureau, envisioned the motorist of a few years hence riding on roads designed especially for high speed automobiles.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN, 136

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

After she had repulsed his ardent declaration of love, girl and man walked on in frigid silence. Often Kali Bwana's eyes were upon him. She was thinking, but what her thoughts were, she did not reveal. When they came to a little open spot, Old Timer said, "We'll camp."

The girl made no comment as he set about the task of building a shelter. She helped him, following his example without asking directions. "I'll have to have weapons to hunt," he said finally; "and since there's no hardware store around, I'll have to make them."

With his knife he shaped a bow, rough but practical, and strung it with the pliable stem of a slender creeper, such as he had seen the natives use for the same purpose in an emergency. When it was finished, he began to whittle an arrow working deftly and rapidly. Then a staff for her and a club for himself.

Kali Bwana watched him with secret admiration, but on the few occasions when he chanced to look up, she quickly turned her eyes away. But there were other eyes watching them both from the edge of the jungle—red-rimmed, savage eyes beneath beetling brows!

Gets $1,600,000

The huge cash settlement of $1,600,000 was won by Mrs. Emily Milliken Lambert, upper photo, with the divorce which she was granted from J. D. Wooster Lambert, lower photo, multi-millionaire sportsman and former pharmacal company official. Monthly payments for support of their two sons also were awarded Mrs. Lambert, who charged mental cruelty.

Wealthiest Woman In England Dies; Was A "Lady Bountiful"

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP) — Dame Fanny Lucy Houston, wealthiest woman in England, died today.

Lady Houston came into great wealth when she inherited 5,000,000 pounds sterling (about $25,000,000) in 1926 after the death of her second husband, Sir Robert Houston, shipping magnate.

She was known as England's "lady bountiful." Most of her gifts were to hospitals and charities. Once "just on an impulse," she gave the British government $12,000,000—death duties on her husband's estate to which the government was not legally entitled under the law of the Isle of Jersey where he died.

Strike Completely Paralyzes Dollar Line Fleet Of Ships

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 30. (AP) The Dollar line fleet of 14 ships will be completely paralyzed when the President Harrison of the Dollar line, docks today from a world cruise, and is tied up because of the maritime strike.

Company officials said it would be the first time in 13 years that none of its ships was in service in the Far East or on a world cruise.

nswered, although the front station was open. He stepped , to be confronted by the ndit.

mner, said by authorities to been divorced "several years from his wife and to have been at the station, where he did cooking and sleeping, was lying, downward, in the small front , near its back. His head was tly more than a semblance. His was between a sort of wash d on which were a bucket of r and a large dipper, and a .

Fort Invited Into Probe

Investigators hesitantly recon- cted the murder, "but we know more than anyone else," said riff Hooper, who invited Sam Fort, police identifications of- ficer of the Lubbock police depart- ment to assist his department.

Authorities said Starnes reported quickly as possible his find and at they and Siler, notified by oyt Curry, deputy sheriff, went mediately to the station.

Gasoline Is Taken

Four gallons of gasoline had been ained from one of two tanks at front of the station. Inside, d was found in front of and a domino table where Hamner apparently had "made change." Blood led to the bed, against the wall facing the interior, and y at right angles from that to the spot where the body lay.

The blood trail and a scattering of effects in the room indicated the aged operator of the station had gone inside and that he first struck when bending over the . Presumably, he must have ered back several paces tow- the bed and near the back of the room. Other blows were there, and he fell with his slightly under the bed. Evi- pointed to his having been later, over to near the wash .

Gun Under Pillow

ing of a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol under the near- right, pillow of the bed led conclusion Hamner might have to make his way to within distance of the weapon before being hacked and battered to death. The gun was not distur- bed. Over the head of the bed, on a shelf littered with household affairs and merchandise, lay an- other weapon, a .410 gauge shotgun. It, too, apparently had not been . His handkerchief lay be- the two places where the body .

sought fingerprints on num- effects, and took to Lubbock a runningboard toolbox which sub- for a breadbox, Hamner's chairs, the handkerchief, other equipment, authorities .

Justice Siler said his inquest was at 11 o'clock this morning and was concluded at 5 o'clock this noon after he had taken testi- of the undertaker and of .

Grand Jury To Probe Case

Sheriff Hooper said next grand of 64th district court would be led in regular session Mon- at which time it could investi- findings which might develop tonight.

ulation among members of the public revived memories of a what similar case in Dawson . W. P. Peacock, about 70, storekeeper of the Grandview com- munity, 12 miles north of Lamesa, was slain the night of Nov. 8 at his store. He apparently was beaten with an iron bar, when he over to fill a sack of potatoes for murderer.

Peacock and Hamner were understood to have carried large sums of money on their persons; both were rather removed from population centers, and both were aged. Nothing but money was taken from either, it was believed.

Arrangements for funeral had not been announced late tonight. There are a son and a daughter living here, Foster Hamner and Mrs. Hubert O'Connor.

MAN FOUND SHOT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 30. (AP) — His stomach torn by a shot gun blast, a 26-year-old South Carolina weaver was found near Arlington Downs this afternoon, the victim, he said of two kidnapers.

The wounded man, who said his name was Foster Shaw, told officers he was abducted by two men whom he picked up near his home city of Calhoun Falls, S. C., Christmas morning. His condition is grave.

Spanish Revolt

Spain be stopped, Nazi chieftains gathered here tonight to confer with Hitler on a course of action without the support of the Italian premier.

Leaders Openly Bitter

Army leaders, recalling the German-Italian agreement to consult each other on European policy and that the two nations jointly recognized the Fascist junta of Gen. Francisco Franco, were openly bitter.

Mussolini, sources close to Rome said, had recognized Franco's government when it appeared that he was near victory and could establish quickly a Spanish Fascist regime.

Now, with the war dragging along with little indication of advance for either Franco or the Madrid-Valencia Socialist government, Mussolini was represented as having decided to drop any interest he may have had in the Spanish civil war.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—In one of the broadest upturns of the past several weeks, the stock market today swung back on the recovery trail for gains of 1 to 3 points or more.

A few "thinly" traded issues got up as much as 6 or so and fractional advances were widespread.

The list surged forward in the face of fresh labor upsets and an unusually large volume of year-end "cash" selling for the purpose of establishing profits or losses for income tax returns.

Signs of slackening in the industrial pace were few. "Iron Age" sounded an optimistic forecast of the continuance of active steel mill operations well into next year. Electric power output was off less than seasonally and well above the same period of 1935. Railroad earnings and traffic expansion were on the upgrade, and Christmas retail sales were estimated at some 12½ per cent ahead of the similar preceding holiday.

Trading in stocks attained only moderate momentum throughout the greater part of the session.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues held a net gain of 1.2 points at 70.1. It was the largest single day's advance of this composite since Aug. 27. Transfers totalled 2,305,070 shares compared with 2,38[illegible],642 yesterday.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30. (AP) — Cotton moved up a few points in dull pre-holiday trading today.

While the end of the session found options 8 to 10 points higher, the advance was not spirited.

The absence of important selling helped options to stage the advance with short covering and evening up accounts for over the approaching three-day holiday a contributing factor.

Cotton news that did appear offered little to warrant a change in the price trend.

At the close of dealings at New Orleans March changed hands at 12.41, May at 12.32, July at 12.23 and Oct. at 11.90. Spot cotton was 7 up at 12.91 for middling.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton at ten southern spot markets today was 12.82 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Cotton rallied today on trade buying and lessened selling pressure. March advanced from 12.35 @12.40 and closed at 12.44, with final prices generally 7 to 11 points net higher.

Initial advances of 4 to 6 points reflected an accumulation of foreign buying orders but these levels attracted scattered realizing which sent the market within a few points of the previous close before attracting renewed trade support.

With contracts relatively scarce, prices gradually advanced until net gains of 10 to 15 points had been established.

great cathedrals and churches prepared for the annual watch night services.

Tariffs posted by hotels, restaurants and night clubs were about the same as last year.

They ranged from $3 a person in small basement cabarets to $15 a person at the more elegant places. Many places offered a free bottle of champagne and nearly all were ready to supply celebrants with noise-making gadgets and other souvenirs.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Future deliveries of corn today over-topped peak prices of the past seven years, and helped materially to lift quotations of other grains.

Unfavorable moist weather, with scantiness of receipts, as well as forecasts of a widespread drop in temperatures likely to increase livestock feeding demand, all tended to promote buoyancy of corn values. Arrivals of corn in Chicago today totaled but 48 cars, and the aggregate for primary centers taken as a whole was only 364,000 bushels, against 681,000 a week ago.

May delivery of corn, new style contracts, scored the maximum gain, mounting 1⅞ cents to $1.07⅞ a bushel. July corn new also reached a fresh top price record at $1.04.

At the close, corn prices ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1⅝ higher, May new $1.07⅝@1.07⅞, July new $1.04, Sept. 99½@1.00, wheat ½ to 1 cent up, May $1.35⅝@1.35¾, July $1.18⅝@1.18½, Sept. $1.16⅝, oats ⅛ to ⅛ advanced, May 51⅛@51¼, and rye varying from 1¼ setback to 1⅜ bulge, May $1.16⅜. In provisions, the outcome was 2 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Rye and oats responded like wheat, to the strength of the corn market. Quotations on September rye, however, a new crop future, underwent a decline.

For the most part, provisions climbed with hog values and with grains.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 30. (AP)—Demand for grain was dull here Wednesday.

Two Are Injured

Lubbock, investigated the crash.

An automobile driven by Eduard Gonzalez of Slaton, reputed Baptist missionary, struck a car in which the women were sole occupants, said Reaves, overturning it "two or three times and knocking off the pump of a nearby filling station in northeast Levelland."

Thrown 30 To 40 Feet

One of the women, said Reaves, was thrown "from thirty to forty feet" from the machine "after it had been hit in the right side."

Bibles were spilled from a suitcase in the Mexican's car, in which were four or five other occupants, said Reaves.

Emergency treatment was administered at Levelland before the two victims were taken to Littlefield, Reaves said he was informed.

The patrolmen arrived after victims had been removed and after witnesses had scattered. They were told the women were driving north, the Mexican west.

From 20 to 30 sinuses are contained in a human head.

Bank Nights Case

added the big question was whether or not the drawings were lotteries.

Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, who wrote the opinion, suggested the attorney general might enjoin corporations for violating the public policy of the state as an abuse of their corporate franchises. He could not bring such injunction suits against individuals. McCraw said he probably would not decide on a course of action in this regard until the court's ruling became final through action on a motion for rehearing.

Case Thrown Out

The decision was in the case of the city of Wink vs. the Griffith Amusement company. Judge Cureton threw the case out of court, holding the city's ordinance was void because it prescribed an illegal penalty and the theater had no right to be protected because bank nights violated the public policy. The city had sought to enjoin the theater from continuing to operate bank nights and the theater had sought an injunction against interference by the city.

Judge Cureton cited the provision of the constitution that "the legislature shall pass laws prohibiting the establishment of lotteries and gift enterprises in this state, as well as the sale of tickets in lotteries, gift enterprises or other evasions involving the lottery principle, established or existing in other states."

Stand Condemned

"Lotteries only," he said, "have been prohibited by the penal code in accordance with the constitutional mandate. Gift enterprises and other evasions involving the lottery principle nevertheless stand condemned by the constitution as being against public policy. It is hardly necessary to argue that the bank night plan of the defendant in error, if not a lottery, is at least a gift enterprise involving the lottery principle."

The chief justice also said the court of civil appeals "had substantial grounds for the conclusion that the bank night plan of defendant in error was a lottery."

Karl Hoblitzelle, president of Interstate Circuit, Inc., and Texas Consolidated Theaters, Inc., operators of more than 100 Texas theaters, said the decision would not immediately affect bank night in the houses under his management.

Dismissal Of 141 Cases To Be Asked

In order to clear the county court active docket of cases which would be cumbersome in conduct of other court business, County Attorney Jess C. Levens this morning will move for retirement of 141 cases against 144 persons.

He will ask County Judge J. J. Dillard that 57 cases against 58 persons be retired to the dormant docket for reason of no arrests. Furthermore, he will move that 34 cases against 36 persons be dismissed outright, because of several reasons: In four cases there were no available witnesses, in three there was no evidence, in one there was a faulty complaint, and there was insufficient evidence in the remainder, he said.

Cases which might be placed on the dormant docket would be "subject to further orders of the court."

car, took two $1 bills from Wasserman, and returned toward town.

Bandit Opens Fire

Meanwhile, City Marshal George Livingston and Sheriff O'Neil had started out in pursuit and met the car near town. The bandit opened fire while driving, lost control and jumped out of the car when it ran into a wire fence. He was slain in an exchange of shots with O'Neil, who was firing a sawed-off shotgun, and Livingston, who was using a pistol. The man was shot several times, and death apparently was instantaneous.

Sheriff O'Neil was wounded in the head. Dr. S. J. Roemer, county health officer, said he may have suffered a slight skull fracture from the bullet, which struck a glancing blow.

Livingston said neither he nor O'Neil shot to kill until O'Neil was wounded.

The kidnaper did not harm Miss Wasserman or her father, but threatened to pistol-whip them. They said he talked with them throughout the ride and said he wanted to get to the railroad.

(Russia is one of the European countries which has signed a pact pledging non-intervention in the Spanish strife.)

Another development in the controversy was a disclosure by secretary of War Woodring that the war department had sold a lot of used airplane engines early last January to the Vimalert company.

Woodring said another lot had been sold on November 20 to the Martin Liling company of New York.

May Be Indefinite

"These latter have not yet been delivered and it is possible that the delay may be made indefinite," the secretary asserted.

(A story published today in the Baltimore Sun said Liling had resold the engines to the Vimalert company.)

Woodring emphasized that the engines sold were in no sense military and that machine gun synchronizers had been removed from them.

At the state department, officials pressed a search for legal grounds to revoke the export license issued to Robert Cuse, president of the Vimalert company.

They cabled a report on the entire situation to the American embassies in London, Berlin, Rome, Moscow and Valencia, Spain, to remove any impression of foreign governments that this government favored such shipments to Spain.

This grew out of a controversy caused by delay in opening the Hug-The-Coast highway from Sarita through the ranch country to Raymondville, according to the newspaper.

It was understood that the contract for this link of the highway would be let Jan 4, thus freeing the governor from obligation and making it possible for him to appoint whoever he wishes, the Times-Herald added.

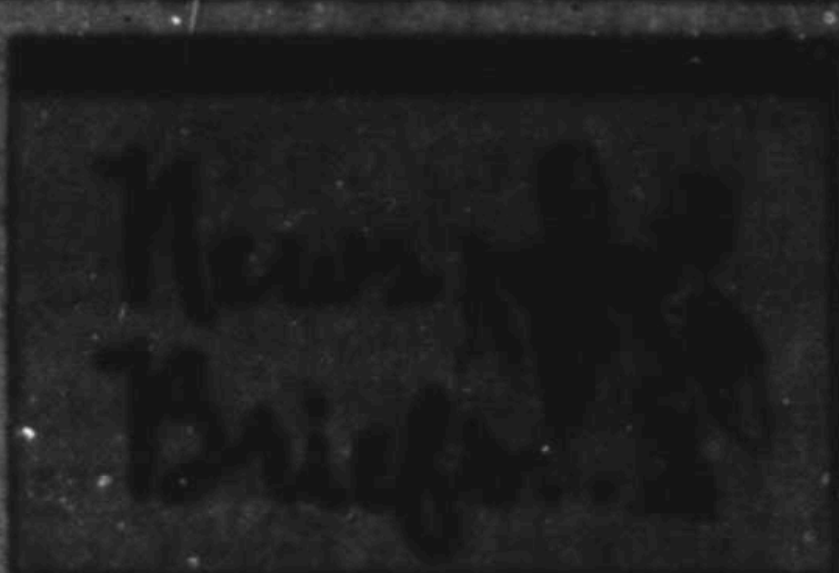
TO BUILD NEW LINER

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP) — The Cunard-White Star Steamship line announced tonight it had ordered construction of a new trans-Atlantic liner.

The vessel will be approximately half the size of the superliner Queen Mary, a sistership which is under construction.



Roosevelt rural high school east of Lubbock, will resume class work Monday, January 4, with a good enrollment, said M. L. Kelley, superintendent, yesterday. A number of families in the community have been on an extended vacation and are expected to return next week.

Littlefield schools, which opened Monday after the holiday vacation, have a good enrollment, said A. B. Sanders, superintendent, here yesterday. The system is having a good year, he added, with a splendid type of work being done.

Lee Dobbs, manager of the Crystal Ice company plant at Littlefield, came down yesterday on business. He said his company anticipated a good year's business in 1937.

Lamb county schools are in splendid shape, with a record number of pupils being transported to and from their homes to school, P. O. Boles, Littlefield, county superintendent of schools, said yesterday. The county claims the largest number of school buses of any county in Texas.

Cold wind from the northwest caused discomfort yesterday but failed to drive down the temperature to any extent, the reading at 6 p. m., of 38 degrees, being 12 degrees below a maximum of 50 degrees. Temperature at 6 p. m. Tuesday was 53 degrees.

A watch night program of three services will be conducted tonight at 7:30, 9, and 10:45 p. m., at the Salvation Army hall, 1510 Avenue H, Capt. John G. Churchill said. Envoy Mabelle Durrett, of Fort Worth, former Lubbock girl, will be the principal speaker.

No charges had been filed last night relating to a crash near Shallowater when an automobile driven by a white man struck a car containing six negroes, county authorities said.

Miss Margaret Huff of 2121 Sixteenth street has returned from Colorado, Texas, where she visited relatives.

A. Reid, 84, who is ill at the home of a daughter, Mrs. G. C. Barrier, 1813 Avenue O, was reported improved last night. Another daughter, Mrs. H. S. Glisson, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Burns McCallister of Austin, are here.

T. J. Richards, Big Spring airman who, several years ago flew for Mexican rebels in a civil controversy below the Rio Grande, landed at Municipal airport at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. He and three passengers inspected a plane at the port and took off an hour and a half later in their five-place Stinson for Big Spring. C. C. Spencer of Hobbs, N. M., landed at noon en route to Muskogee and took off a half-hour later. He was flying a four-place Waco job and was accompanied by two passengers.

Don Franklin Stevens, 3-1-2 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stevens of Midland underwent a blood transfusion Wednesday and was showing improvement, reports from Lubbock sanitarium said last night. Oxygen was still being administered the child, who has been ill of pneumonia since Dec. 24.

No damage was reported when one piece of fire equipment answered an alarm at 5:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at 1807 Main street.

Early morning police check: A coat from 301 Avenue H, a peanut machine from 1202 Avenue H, and a Dalton adding machine from Tahoka remained on memorandums of unrecovered articles stolen Wednesday. Key number of the peanut machine and serial number of the adding machine were known by police.

Bouyant Year-End Buying Is Cause For Stock Market Rise

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP) — A buoyant year-end buying wave swept the stock exchange today, sending prices up $1 to $3, and in some cases as much as $8 a share, with bonds, and shares in the curb market, rising in sympathy.

All departments participated in the advance, the broadest since August 27. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.20 to $70.10 on a turnover of 2,305,070 shares.

Brokers said the upward surge was due to a combination of elements, including favorable railroad earnings statements, continued peak activity in the steel mills and signs of continued recovery generally.

"Slow But Continual Decline" Reported In Pope's Condition

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—Pope Pius XI weakened tonight in "slow but continual decline," Vatican prelates said. Relatives were summoned to be within close call at all hours.

Much concern was expressed over disappearance of a blood clot from his paralyzed left leg, and physicians feared it might pass through the blood stream into the heart or brain—with probably fatal consequences.

Absolute silence was ordered in the papal apartments and staff of nursing brothers in its vigilance.

AdAmAn Club Members Start Annual Trek Up Pike's Peak To Set Off Ton Of Fireworks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 30. (AP)—Fifteen mountain climbers bundled on their heaviest clothing today, laughed at a mountain snowstorm and started toward the 14,110-foot summit of Pike's peak to greet 1937.

The party—the five members of the AdAmAn club and 10 "guest helpers"—plan to reach the summit by tomorrow.

The journey is the sixteenth annual one for the club up the mountain which juts like a giant thumb from the eastern Colorado plains. Each New Year's Eve the club members set off a ton of fireworks there.

Three Of Four Automobile Victims Considered Serious

Three of four victims remaining in Lubbock sanitarium after a Tuesday night crash north of Tahoka that sent six here for treatment, early today were in "serious condition," it was apparent.

First diagnosis did not reveal complete extent of injuries of two girls, Beatrice Gilmore, 19, and Little Mae Gilmore, 14. Beatrice will undergo X-ray examination again this morning to determine whether she suffered fracture of the base of the skull. She had not recovered complete consciousness.

Little Mae suffered a pelvic injury, and there was internal hemorrhage, possibly of the bladder.

W. F. Prince, 33, of Amarillo underwent decompression surgery Wednesday to relieve pressure on the brain. He had suffered a skull fracture.

Mrs. H. L. Brooks, 18, of Gadsden, Ala., apparently was in satisfactory condition. Her husband and Garland Gilmore, 21, were others injured and later released. The Gilmores live 11 miles north of Tahoka.

DOG PREVENTS VIOLENCE

WARSAW, Poland, (AP)—When a mother sought to kill herself and her child after her husband had been arrested for business irregularities, their little brown dog kept her from touching the baby.

And when the woman turned on gas, the dog barked so loudly neighbors came to the rescue.

It has been estimated that rehearsals of great orchestras cost $10 a minute.

More Burglaries Reported In City; Negro Tells More

On the basis of a 16-year-old negro's confession of two business establishments burglaries, making a total of 13 business and residence entries here recently, and his implication of another negro juvenile, two other burglaries were reported to police and the sheriff's department Wednesday night.

Residences of Andy Mauldin and G. C. Barrier, respectively at 1802 and 1813 Avenue O, were entered, and money totaling approximately $45 taken, said Sam W. Fort, police identifications officer, and Bedford P. Carpenter and Parum Posey, deputies sheriff.

Bedroom Window Opened

The authorities, all of whom began investigation of the entries, said approximately $15 was taken from the Mauldin home, as well as a check and a woman's Gruen watch in a purse. They said a back bedroom window had been opened about 8 o'clock when family members were in the front of the house.

Two purses containing approximately $30 were taken from Barrier residence. Authorities said the breaker apparently opened a window, saw the two purses at the foot of the bed and merely pulled the coverlet to where he was.

No clues were left, said investigators.

Earlier, Posey had been asked by a negro already in jail to send Carpenter to his cell to hear an additional confession.

"I thought of two more places I got stuff from," he told the officer. He related how he entered the Peel and Barnett Meat company at 812 Texas avenue and the Goodrich Silverton stores at 1109 Main street.

He said he had not obtained any loot at the tire store after knocking knob from a safe, but said he found several pennies after prying open a cash drawer at the meat company.

He said another negro, a 15-year-old "street shine boy," had induced him to make attempts on the most recently admitted burglaries, but that he had turned to house breakins after finding so little money available in the two business establishments attempts.

The negro boy implicated by the new confession came to the sheriff's office and surrendered when he learned Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, was seeking him.

Three Hundred Navajo Indians Are Rescued From Bad Storm

GALLUP, N. M., Dec. 30. (AP)—Three hundred snowbound Navajo Indians were returned to safety today after being marooned on a mesa at Wide Ruin, Ariz., where icy winds last night threatened to put a tragic finish to their thrilling "fire dance."

Indian service officials from Window Rock, Ariz., Navajo reservation headquarters, continued their checks of various communities, however, to be sure that no pinion nut hunters had been stranded.

County's Finances "Within Budget," Report Reveals

County Auditor Joe Y. Boyd said Lubbock will have operated its 1936 business "within its budget", in answering a request of a representative of Dun and Bradstreet, nationally known credit agency, concerning the county's condition.

Budget for the year was $243,564.06, said the auditor. The operating expenses, as a whole, will be below that total. Several of the funds are in "the red" for one reason or another, but the total is under the expected costs. General fund has a balance of about $30,000.

Dawson Looks To Good Year

Much Development Is Expected In County During 1937, Says County Judge; Farm Conditions Are Improved

Dawson county residents are looking forward to a big year of development in 1937, said W. M. Yates, county-judge elect, said while here yesterday afternoon on business.

Crops have been good the past year and the county has a good cotton crop, he said. Farm conditions are improved over other years, there is a good under-ground season with prospects of better crops in the new year.

Road Building Stressed

Dawson county has begun paying attention to road building and the new highway to Stanton, county seat of Martin county, will be finished in a short time. Work on highway 15 across the county is under way, with much of the road surfaced. The recent announcement of improvements for No. 15 west of Seminole has helped Lamesa merchants, he said.

Mr. Yates, for many years a resident of Pride, in northwestern Dawson county, was chosen county judge last summer in the runoff primary. He succeeds Phillip Yonge, who is moving to Sweetwater to enter the practice of law.

British Indian Who Escaped Death On Scaffold As Rope Breaks Believed A Divinity

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30. (AP)—Atma Singh, British Indian and convicted murderer who escaped death on a scaffold, achieved "immortality" today in a police hospital.

The husky, bearded Atma Singh, a Sikh from British India, was to have been hanged yesterday but the rope snapped as he plunged through the trap. He suffered a brain concussion but lived.

The several thousand Indian inhabitants of Shanghai, regarded Atma Singh's survival as an act of heaven. His Sikh co-religionists believed he was a man favored by the dieties, therefore a minor divinity himself.

Sha Kur, his young wife, was weak with joy but she glowingly expressed belief a divine hand severed the rope to save her husband. It was to avenge an insult against her that Atma Singh slew another constable of the Shanghai International settlement police force.

The British consulate intimated the embassy had decided tentatively to spare the Sikh from the death sentence but had not announced an alternate penalty.

GETS 30-YEAR SENTENCE

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—Cyril W. White, 32-year-old army air corps attache from March Field, Calif., was sentenced today to 30 years in state's prison for the murder of Jack T. Ashburn, 36, in a beer parlor here Dec. 7.

White pleaded guilty ten days ago. He told the court he nursed a 12-year grudge against Ashburn, Fort Douglas, Utah, army cook.

Ashburn was killed and two other persons wounded in a wild outburst of gunfire.

Gov. Allred Invites People Of Texas To Join Happy New Year Dinner Club This Year

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. (AP)—Governor Allred, honorary president of the Happy New Year Dinner club, has invited Texans to join the organization by having a needy person to dinner on the first day of the year.

"Heretofore," the governor said, "January first has been a day for making mental resolutions. Henceforth, the occasion will be an opportunity for putting into immediate and active operation our good resolutions."

The Happy New Year Dinner club was founded by B. E. Neal of Los Angeles during the depression as a non-profit oganization. Anyone who entertains a needy guest that day automatically becomes a member.

New Year's To Open Sea Race

Great Britain Is To Start Naval Armament Race By Laying Keels For Two Great Battleships; Treaties Expire

BY THOMAS J. HAMILTON, JR.

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP) — Great Britain will start the world's naval armament race New Year's day by laying the keels for two great new battleships.

Naval limitation treaties expire at midnight tomorrow and the next day two 35,000 ton war craft will be begun to add to the world's greatest tonnage of 1,222,164.

(France, Japan, the United States, Italy, Germany, Russia, and even the smaller powers have enlarged their naval programe the past year.)

Reflection Of English View

The date was the earliest possible after the end of the Washington and London 1930 agreements denounced by Japan, Dec. 27, 1934, and the early building program was regarded as a reflection of the British view that the pacts gave other powers vital advantages in the past and that this now must be remedied quickly.

An admiralty spokesman emphasized that the new war craft, the Prince of Wales, to be started at Birkenhead, and the King George V, to be built on the Tyne, would mount 14-inch guns "regardless of what other nations may do."

Refers To Prediction

He referred to a prediction by Jane's fighting ships gazeteer that two new United States battleships would carry 16-inch guns, despite the 1936 London agreement giving Japan until April 1 to decide whether to agree to restrictions of battleship armament to 14-inchers.

Regardless of future agreements, the first few days of 1937 at least will find no naval limitations of any kind — because Britain and France who joined with the United States in the 1936 treaty have not yet ratified it.

The 1936 agreement not only restricted batleships o 14-inch guns—subject to Japanese consent—but limited the size of cruisers and aircraft carriers.
