First Baptist Revival Series Begins

Revival services will be held Wednesday, Oct. 16 through Sunday, Oct. 20 in the First Baptist Church. Evangelist for the series of meetings will be Eddie Freeman, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sudan. Rick Hudson, music director of the church, will direct song services.

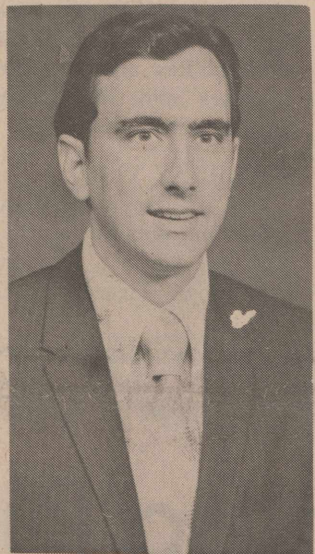

Evening services will be held each day at 7:45 p.m. Bible studies are slated for Thursday and Friday mornings at 10 a.m. Lunch will be served in fellowship hall following the Bible studies.

Freeman is a 1970 graduate of Wayland Baptist College and has pastored four churches in his ministry including Date Street Baptist Church in Plainview. He was converted during his college days at Odessa Junior College.

Married and the father of three children, Freeman played guitar in an area rock band while attending Odessa College. He still plays the guitar, Hudson says, although his style music is changed. He will be playing some during the meeting.

Sunday morning, Oct. 20 is designated for special emphasis as "Olton Mustang Day" and all students of Olton High School will be honored. Recognition will be given to some of the OHS organizations and all students are extended a special invitation to attend the 11 a.m. services.

Hudson says, "Although the young people are being urged to attend, our adults are also asked to make a special effort to be at each of the services during the meeting."

"Mark these days on your calendar and plan to make this a very special week in your spiritual life," Hudson invites. The Rev. John E. Lewis, pastor, also extends a cordial invitation to all to attend each of the services.

Gary Davis Leads In Grid Contest

One misprint plus a game that wasn't even scheduled were credited as two points for each of the contestants entering last week's Enterprise football contest. Tulia versus Slaton was a goof deluxe since both teams faced other opponents. A bit of print "ake-Earth" was accidentally printed along side "Dimmitt" as guessers were also given the benefit of any question that might arise from that.

With two automatic credits, no contestant was still able to come up with fewer than four misses. Six contestants were wrong on four games so the Mustang Antelopes were used to determine the winners.

Former basketball coach, Jim Curtsinger of Lubbock, nailed down the top win by missing the actual tie-breaker score just three points. He picked the Mustangs to win, 30 to 6.

Rob Sivley picked it 22-16, missing by 11, and claims a narrow edge for second place. One point back with a miss of 12 points, Chris McClure will claim third place.

Others who missed four games but lost out on their tie-breaker guessing were Stacy Barnett, 15 points, 28-16; Mark Watt, 16, 49-6 and Steve Stockdale, 21, 18-12.

Gary Davis inched one more point ahead of other guessers in the season standings despite missing five games in his predicting.

He holds 64 correct picks for the season with Charles Didway of Post and Mark Williamson sharing second place.

Contestants with 57 or more correct guesses are listed elsewhere in this issue. Persons who trail by 10 points could still be possible season winners if leaders hit slumps and others hit lucky streaks.

Any one can be a weekly winner, too, even a first time to enter contestant. Miss Barnett, second place winner this week, had not entered prior to this contest.

Enter today. Don't forget, when you deposit your entry with a sponsoring merchant, express your appreciation for those merchants who make the contest possible.

Nurse From London Compares Life Style

proud of her Scotch ancestry.

As a member of the clan of Urquhart, she has her own tartan, a blue, green and white plaid in the distinctive pattern of the clan. She even has her own kilt (which, regrettably she did not bring to America this trip).

Gill's visits to Scotland are made to the Loch Ness area. She admits to hearing much about the movements of the much publicized 'Loch Ness monster'. Although she says she cannot explain it, she feels there is surely something to the story of the monster, who reportedly inhabits the recesses of the castle that bears her family name.

As a young Scotch Highlander, her father was called to war. During his tenure in service he married a young English girl and before the fighting was over he was involved in the "Battle of Dunkirk" a memory he never wanted to discuss with his family. Upon his release from the armed services, he and his bride made their home in England.

Miss Urquhart's English ancestry is equally interesting. Her maternal grandfather, now 93, was a farmer and a "thatcher." But she states that England's picturesque thatched roofs are passing from the scene, partly because of the fire hazard they impose, and partly because thatching is becoming a lost art that no one is interested in learning.

Gill, who was born in Bedfordshire, moved with her family at the age of seven to Reading, west of London. Here she received her grammar and secondary schooling. At seventeen she had cherished all of her life.

She finds her work very interesting since she meets doctors, nurses and patients from all over the world. At one point, while training in Hammersmith Hospital, a Commonwealth institution in London where doctors from around the world come for graduate study, she was the only English nurse on duty.

During her stay in Olton, Gill has been devoting much of her attention to seven-month-old Andrew Kirkpatrick. By his happy smile, this little lad has given every indication that he is well aware that HE is the most important thing in Texas to this charming young English nurse.

Miss Urquhart left Lubbock Thursday afternoon for her flight to London and duties there. Hopefully she carried with her memories of that captivating infant smile that will lure her back to Texas on one of her future 'long holiday periods.'

WTSU Band To Visit OHS

Twenty-three musicians, members of the West Texas State University's stage band, presented a program of jazz rock at Olton High School Wednesday and, conducted a stage band clinic for members of the Mustang Band following the musical performance.

The WTSU band is making a number of off-campus tour performances playing such jazz rock numbers as "Into Your Mind," "Ironside," "Chunga's Revenge," "Nine Monks" and "Reflections."

Girl Scouts Need Help Of Citizens

Do you care about girls? Would you like to know more about Girl Scouts?

A meeting Monday, Oct. 14 at 10 a.m. in the Girl Scout House is being planned to help mothers of girls in scouting and those who would like to be scouts learn more of what the Girl Scouts are doing. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Persons are urgently needed to work with Girl Scouts. One troop of junior scouts needs at least one more adult to serve as an assistant leader. Also needed for the troop is some mother to serve as refreshment chairman.

Someone is also needed to serve as chairman of the cookie sales campaign and persons are needed who will devote time to help teach the girls in work needed to earn badges. Persons who would work with Girl Scouts to teach cooking, crocheting, knitting, other crafts, horseback riding and other worthwhile efforts are asked to attend the Oct. 14 meeting.

Mrs. Alarah Russell, field service director from Lubbock, will attend the meeting and speak on the roll of parents in Girl Scouting.

Many personal changes have taken place since last the ladies visited. During the interim of their separation, Mrs. Kirkpatrick returned to Australia where she laid aside her coveted nurses cap to assume the 'mother-role' for her young son, Andrew. Shortly after the birth of their child the Kirkpatrick family came, by special invitation, to the city of Olton to establish their home as the doctor assumed duties at the then idle local clinic.

The past few weeks, reunited in these rather unfamiliar surroundings, Dorothy and Gill have had a lot of catching-up to do. Both agree there have not been enough hours in the day. "With so much to do, and so many things to discuss, it has seemed a shame to stop to cook a meal or do any of the number of other little things that have to be done," Dorothy lamented.

In addition to the intimate days of visiting and reminiscing, the Kirkpatrick family has been busy showing the English visitor as many local sights as possible. They have also made a few more extended trips.

One day last week was spent in Carlsbad Cavern, in New Mexico. Making the trip with them were Mr. and Mrs. Basil Sherman. The drive down, through the oil and cattle country of the area, was a rewarding one for Miss Urquhart, who had some preconceived ideas about "oil rich Texans!" She was impressed with the view of real oilfields and was, of course, awed with the immensity of Carlsbad Cavern.

The Kirkpatricks and their guest spent the last weekend in September again in New Mexico. This visit took them into the Santa Fe-Taos-Red River area where they saw much of interest, including the autumn foliage beauty of mountain drives.

Locally, Gill has enjoyed meeting Dorothy's new Texas friends, "visiting the shops" and generally learning about life in the Texas Panhandle. Claiming that she is a typical tourist, she has kept her small camera with her, and has snapped candid shots of things that caught her interest...including cowboy hats.

The thing that has most impressed Miss Urquhart has been the fact "there is so much space...so much room for everything...in London we have so little space! At home several families would occupy the space devoted to Dorothy's yard alone."

Even in Dallas, during her short stay there, she had the impression of widely separated distances. She felt that "Dallas is not as fast moving as London, and is restrictive...difficult to do anything on your own." "But," she added, "I think that one can live better here. The apartments I saw in Dallas were far superior to my own...facilities are better...more is offered in decor." Although costs seemed slightly higher in the Texas city, she enjoyed "the better presentation of merchandise" and realized that "this encourages one to buy more."

Gill is accustomed to the beauty of English countryside and seashores, but she does not take this beauty for granted. Her work allows long holiday periods and she uses this time to visit places of beauty and interest. Regular trips have been made on alternate years to Scotland, the rugged northern part of the island of Great Britain, to visit with her paternal grandmother, at Inverness. These are favorite days of retreat for Gill, who is very

Olton Trade Lot Motto

Anything For Farmers

It's not easy!" says Ed Aranda as he describes the work involved in his business "Olton Trade Lot" but it is a work that gives him satisfaction of doing a needed service.

January will mark the second anniversary since Ed purchased the business from Charlie and Murdell Shipley. Prior to his becoming owner of the business, Ed worked for Trade Lot almost 10 years.

Ed says he'd never had any training in welding and was farming at Munday when he first did some welding.

"I was watching a fella weld and I told him, 'I believe I could do that.' He said, 'Well, we'll get you a hood and see.' That's how I got started. He asked me to do some welding for him."

In 1954, Ed recalls getting into his car and coming to this area to seek farm work. "All week, I drove over the country - around Lubbock and all around and here was the last place I come." Ed worked on the farm until the 1963 crop was in and then began working for Shipley.

After working at the Trade Lot three years, Ed says he moved his family to Amarillo. "It was cheaper to live there because they had so many big grocery stores to buy specials and so many filling stations there was always a price war but there's too much traffic in a big place." When Shipley asked him to return to Olton to work at the Trade Lot, he came without hesitation. Ownership of the business has brought no easing of the work load during the "busy season" which Ed says begins along in September and does not slow until June. Even then, he says, with a grin, business is too busy for the "boss to go fishing."

General repair work needed by farmers is the line of work turned out by Olton Trade Lot. Welding, building or sharpening plows - these are just a portion of their work.

"Lots of times," Ed says, "I get called in the night to come fix something a farmer needs. Well, I get a call at midnight, my hand is not going to want to go, so I go." That's one of the responsibilities, he says, of an owner if he wants to "keep the customers."

"When they need you, you have to be ready if you want to keep their business."

Ed has been joined at the shop by his seventeen-year-old son, Steve, who's very interested in the business and chooses to work rather than complete school.

"I could force him to go to school but if he didn't want to go, he wouldn't learn. He looks at me and says, 'You didn't finish school.' He's right. But me, I didn't have the chance," Ed says. Steve wants to work - he wants to help me finish paying for the business."

Also helping Ed at the Shop is Larry Lopez.

Olton Trade Lot was begun in 1951 by the late Earl Copeland, Murdell's step-father, and her uncle, Pat Marshall.

Murdell believes that, at first, the business was confined to building cotton trailers. Later it grew into a type business where, "They did most anything the area farmer needed done."

It was in 1956 or 57, Charlie believes, that he and Murdell bought into the business and moved to Olton from Plainview.

"They built about everything from buildings to plow points," Murdell says and then adds "most anything that can be put together with hard work, time and materials."

Their work was not always a product for work. They constructed swings and other fun things and Charles did most of the work on the back stops for the baseball parks in town.

Editorials

Because of the grave conditions existing in today's National economy, and in view of the critical decisions being made almost hourly by national leaders and lawmakers all citizens should keep themselves informed of these actions.

Officials, both elected and appointed, are placed in positions of trust by the people and are accountable to the people.

For this reason, concerned citizens should keep in touch with law and policy makers to keep them informed about conditions on their homefronts.

Letters to congressmen, when they have made a decision which deserves approval, or when they are not following a course suitable to the folks-back-home, should be written.

For the benefit of persons who might wish to get in touch with U.S. Senators, Lloyd Benton (D-Houston whose term expires 1977) and John G. Tower (R-Wichita Falls whose term expires 1979) they may be addressed as follows: U.S. Senate, Old Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Texas has 24 representatives, terms expiring Jan. 1, 1975.

George H. Mahon (D-Lubbock), address 2314 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515; and Rep. Robert D. Price (R-Pampa), address 430 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 represent this area.

Senators and representatives may be reached by calling the main number for the U.S. Capitol, 202-224-3121.

Mail-O-Grams may be sent by calling 800-325-5300, a toll free number. Charge for the message sent is quoted at $2 for the first 100 words, and $1 for each 100 words thereafter.

We suggest that interested persons clip this information for future reference.

Letters To The Editor

The Girl Scouts of Olton wish to express their sincere thanks to the citizens of Olton for their marvelous support in our recent fund drive. It is due to such response that a rewarding organization can continue to offer the overall benefits of Scouting to the young ladies of our community.

A special thanks goes to the following: Donald Loafman for serving as Fund Drive Chairman, volunteers who worked so hard to make the drive a success, the Olton Enterprise for their support through their publicity of the Fund Drive and to Mayor Parley Meyers for proclaiming the week starting 9-16 as Girl Scout Week.

MRS. WELDON DANIEL

Cook Of The Week

A wide double shelf built in front of double windows on the east wall of her living room are laden with blooming African violets certifying the green thumb of our Cook of the Week, Mrs. Weldon Daniel.

Florence really became interested in growing violets only three or four years ago and today has 34 different varieties - most of which she has started herself from leaf propagation. About 20 of her established plants are blooming and are arrayed in blossoms of pink, violet, plum, white and variegated pinks and purples. She also has a number of leaves starting new plants.

In addition to growing African violets, Florence enjoys sewing and likes to can and freeze, receiving pleasure and reward from the jars and packages of foods for future meals.

Florence grew up around Childress and moved with her parents to Springlake in 1936. She and Weldon have lived on the Daniel farm ever since their marriage.

Located inside the Olton School District but near Halfway, the farm is now rented out and Weldon cares for livestock "to keep busy." They raise sheep, pigs, chickens and care for their own cow. A pet dog also shares their farm life.

Members of the Church of the Nazarene, Florence has served thirty years or more as Sunday School secretary.

The Daniels have two daughters and five grandchildren. Carolyn lives with her family in Lubbock and has since her marriage almost 14 years ago. Evelyn now lives in Idalou but has been far from home. She met her husband while she was taking nurses training in Amarillo and he was stationed at the air base there.

Florence shares recipes for a "yummy" pumpkin pie, ever popular oatmeal cookies, a tasty and different tuna casserole plus a very special recipe.

TUNA CASSEROLE

1 can tuna
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 soup can carnation condensed milk about 1/2 can chopped green chilies
7 oz. longhorn cheese (grated)
1 - 11 oz. bag regular size Fritos

Flake tuna in mixing bowl, add soup, milk and chilies. Mix well and line 13x9x2 pan with Fritos. Leave a couple of hand fulls in bag for kids to munch on. A whole bag is too many. Cover Fritos with entire mixture, sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 375° oven until hot and bubbly. Serves six.

FLUFFY PUMPKIN PIE

1 envelope Dream Whip Topping mix
1 pkg. (3 1/4 oz.) Jello vanilla instant pudding
1 can pumpkin
1/2 c. milk
1/4 t. nutmeg
1/4 t. ginger
1/4 t. cinnamon
1 baked 8 inch pie shell, cooled

Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Combine one cup of the prepared whipped topping with the pudding mix, pumpkin, milk and spices in a bowl. Mix slowly with rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer just until blended about one minute. Pour into pie shell. Chill until set - at least two hours. Spread with remaining prepared whipped topping and finely chopped nuts.

OATMEAL COOKIES

1 c. Crisco
1 c. brown sugar (packed)
1 c. granulated sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1/4 c. cold water
2 t. vanilla
1 t. soda
1/2 t. baking powder
1 c. flour, sifted
3 c. oatmeal (uncooked)
1 c. raisins or 1 c. nuts
Mix all together good and put in refrigerator over night. Drop by teaspoon on baking sheet and flatten with a fork dipped in cold water. Bake at 350°. Makes 60 cookies. Bake to a light brown.

RECIPE FOR A HAPPY MARRIAGE

1 c. consideration
1 c. courtesy
2 c. flattery carefully concealed
2 c. milk of human kindness

Mrs. Lloyd Graham Honored At Luncheon

Tickets may be obtained for $1.25 from any member of the club or will be sold at $1.50 at the door Saturday evening.

Free coffee will be served.

1 gallon faith in God and each other
2 c. praise
1 small pinch of in-laws
1 reasonable budget
a generous dash of cooperation
3 t. pure extract of I am sorry
1 c. contentment
1 c. confidence
1 c. encouragement
2 children, at least
1 large or several small hobbies
1 c. of blindness to the others' faults

Flavor with frequent portions of recreation and a dash of happy memories. Stir well and remove any specks of jealousy, temper or criticism. Sweeten well with generous portions of love and keep warm with a steady flame of devotion. Never serve with cold shoulder or hot tongue.

Olton Boxers Victorious At Muleshoe Tourney

By Dick Watson

Area coaches and spectators were amazed as Olton boxers smoked their way to victory at the Muleshoe boxing tournament Saturday night.

Alfie Fuentes lost a decision to the older Robert "Killer" Lavato of Lubbock. Fuentes displayed dazzling combinations and footwork and did a beautiful job of boxing but was overpowered by the more experienced boxer. Lavato is probably the best fighter Fuentes will meet this year.

Danny Garcia hammered his way to victory over Bobby Mendez of Levelland with cool "heads-up" boxing. Garcia popped leather with straight left jabs and steaming rights.

Duane Eby, seven-year-old boxer, had trouble reaching the faster Israel Reyna of Muleshoe and lost the decision. Eby packs power in either hand and should become a knockout artist in a few years.

Marty Crowder had to fight two contestants in three rounds in a zany mixup that should have given him the fight on a technicality. Tom Mendez of Levelland was scheduled to go three rounds with Crowder but didn't show up until the second round. Crowder, already tired from winning the first round, lost the decision.

Tough Scott Cannon slugged his way past Julio Galingo of Hereford to win an undisputed decision. Pardon the pun but after the fight, Galingo looked like he had been shot by a cannon.

Gilbert Garcia came just short of victory as Paul Garcia of Muleshoe won a close decision. Gilbert withstood some good punches and retaliated with some of his own.

Gus Zamora lost an unpopular decision to John ny Campos of Muleshoe with Zamora apparently winning the fight. Zamora rained blows on Campos all three rounds in a glittering display of boxing. The hard hitting Zamora showed excellent timing and good footwork.

Boxing is a sport that encourages sportsmanship. When you get hit in the face and can grin about it, that's sportsmanship!

The Olton representatives gave their best effort and displayed superb sportsmanship. We can be truly proud of these fine young gentlemen.

Other young men who are interested in the manly art of fisticuffs are encouraged to contact Wayne Phares, Bill or Gene Chaney or me.

Phares, trainer, has announced plans for a tournament to be held in Olton in February. Olton boxers are scheduled for sixteen other tournaments this season, including two this week. We go to Hereford Oct. 11 and Lubbock, Oct. 12.

Library Building Studied, Site Donated

A new building to house the very adequate County Library now maintained in the basement of the Court House in Littlefield, is the dream of Lamb County Memorial Library Corporation.

The non-profit corporation organized several months ago has been studying plans for a new County Library building that can be open six days per week with longer hours per day.

The present library, although well staffed, well stocked and well arranged, isn't accessible to Saturday users and to those who cannot negotiate the stairs.

Services of library consultants have been obtained, with approval of Texas State Library Board, and a Lubbock architectural firm is presently working on building plans.

A building site, located on Hiway 54, at 9th and Rowe streets, Littlefield, has been donated by the Arthur P. Duggan Jr., family.

Some foundations have offered to assist in the funding, including the Ewing Halsell Foundation. Some governmental assistance is available and application for some of these funds has been made.
