Apollo Roars To Blistering Sea Landing

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The first unmanned Apollo moonship successfully rocketed over a blistering 5,300-mile ballistic course today and parachuted to a landing in the south Atlantic Ocean.

Recovery craft raced to retrieve it.

The mission control center reported that the craft plunged into the sea near Scension Island, only about 35 miles west of the main recovery ship the aircraft carrier Boxer.

Helicopters with frogmen aboard were dispatched to the landing area.

A Saturn 1B, most powerful rocket ever built by the United States, thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 11:11 a.m. (EST).

The launching was the first of a long series of Apollo shots aimed at landing American astronauts on the moon in this decade. If there are no major problems, the historic adventure could be achieved on the 12th launching, early in 1968.

The huge Saturn 1B, 22 stories tall and weighing 650 tons on liftoff, blazed away from Cape Kennedy at 11:11 a.m. (EST) on the tremendous 1.6 million pounds of thrust generated by its first stage powerplant, a massive cluster of eight engines.

A tall of flame the length of a football field fanned out behind the rocket as it climbed upward, tilting over on a southeast heading.

The rocket was launched after the shot at one time was postponed today because of problems associated with pressurizing the first stage fuel tanks.

The postponement announcement was made by NASA at 10:45 a.m. (EST). Ten minutes later, as newsmen were about to leave the Cape Kennedy press site, the control center announcd that a further look at data showed that the trouble had been corrected.

Earlier, at 9:03 a.m., the count was halted just four seconds before liftoff when an electronic trouble - sensing device noted the low pressure and automatically ordered a stop.

The countdown was recycled to 15 minutes and held there while technicians adjusted a pressure regulator in ground support equipment.

The launching was the first for the Saturn 1B, which may be the most powerful rocket ever launched. However, Soviet secrecy on the size of their rockets prevents comparison. Saturn 1B is forerunner of the Saturn 5, which will be the moon booster.

The rocket was to propel the unmanned three - seat Apollo ship 310 miles into space and then drive it back through the earth's atmosphere at more than 18,000 miles an hour to determine how well it survives jolting forces and searing heat.

The control center reported about three minutes after launching that the second stage engine had ignited as planned at an altitude of about 40 miles.

On the downward plunge, a spacecraft motor was to ignite twice in the first flight test of a propulsion unit that will steer Apollo astronauts to the moon and bring them home.

Nearly 40 minutes after launching, the 11,000-pound cabin section of the craft was to parachute to a landing in the south Atlantic Ocean 5,300 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy, near Ascension Island.

A recovery fleet of ships and planes, headed by the aircraft carrier Boser, was stationed in the area to retrieve the cone-shaped cabin.

McFarland Rites Here

Funeral for Mrs. Cora McFarland, 96-year-old Mississippi pioneer, was held at 4 p.m. Saturday in Bell-Seale Chapel with the Rev. Virgil Mott, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was to follow in the Raymond, Miss., cemetery under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. McFarland had moved to Snyder about six months ago to live with a daughter. She died at the home at 12:30 p.m. Friday after an illness of about eight months.

Born Sept. 23, 1869 in Hines County, Miss., Mrs. McFarland was a member of the Presbyterian Church. She was married to Charles E. McFarland July 2, 1895, in Mississippi. Her husband preceded her in death in 1952.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. W. H. McNeil, Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Claude McDaniel, Snyder; three sisters, Mrs. R. N. Gooch, Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. J. R. Cox, New Orleans, La.; and Mrs. W. H. King, Largo, Fla.; one brother, J. R. Horne, Jackson, Miss.; and nine grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Tension Up In Jakarta

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesian tanks, armored cars and troops blocked all roads to President Sukarno's palace today and helicopters kept watch against student demonstrations, reliable sources said.

The atmosphere in Jakarta was "tense — almost explosive" in the wake of Sukarno's crackdown on student rallies, the sources said.

The anti-Communist, proarmy Indonesian Student Action Front — KAMI — banned by Sukarno Friday, received a pledge of support from the 150,000-member Moslem Studets Union, the informants added.

But it was not known if the army would continue to give tacit support for the students, who have demonstrated to protest Sukarno's ouster of Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution as defense minister.

Troops Repel 'Cong Attack

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines fought off a determined Viet Cong attack near Chu Lai today and U.S. artillery duelled with enemy mortar fire as the Communists continued to step up their offensive.

Today's attack by about 100 Red troops on a 50-man Marine unit marked the second time in two days that the Viet Cong struck at U.S. emplacements.

A force of 160 Leathernecks hurled back a Viet Cong attack Friday night at Phu Bai, killing three Communists, spokesmen said. Marine losses were reported light.

Today's target for the Viet Cong was Phu Loi, an artillery base area 15 miles north of Saigon. U.S. spokesmen said the Reds fired 16 mortar rounds, but casualties were light.

The Viet Cong were also active in the northern part of the Mekong Delta, attacking a government outpost Friday 60 miles southwest of Saigon. A spokesman said the 60-man defense force suffered heavy casualties.

For the fourth straight day, air attacks over North Viet Nam were hampered by poor weather. An Air Force spokesman said all the bombing Friday was by radar.

Air Force pilots flying F105 Thunderchief jets smashed at an ammunition depot and storage area five miles from the city of Vinh. Other Air Force targets included the Vinh Loc bridge and highway complex.

Navy Skyraiders and F4 Phantoms from the carrier Ranger hit a mountain pass Friday 37 miles southwest of Vinh.

In the ground war, the Viet Cong attack on the U.S. Marine position began with a barrage of mortars and recoilless rifles. The main attack came at dawn when Viet Cong fighters managed to cut their way through the outer triple apron of wire.

As they clawed through the single inner wire strand the assault was halted by concentrated small arms fire and artillery support from the embattled Marines.

The latest body count said that 18 Viet Cong bodies were found together with four submachineguns, four rifles and 50 hand grenades. Marine casualties were light.

One Viet Cong who said he was a stretcher bearer was captured.

An armored troop carrier patrol from the mechanized 5th Infantry, 25th Division, surprised a Viet Cong platoon attempting to mine a bridge near Cu Chi Friday, and killed 15 of the enemy, a U.S. spokesman said.

No Quorum For Viet Nam Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration efforts to speed up and resolve the Senate's Viet Nam debate failed for lack of a quorum today.

After some 40 minutes of confusion, frustration, and roll calls, the Senate had to break off its Saturday session because only about a third of the 100 senators answered the roll. A majority is required.

LBJ Sees No Need To Mobilize Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he has acted on all requests by the military command for more troops in Viet Nam but expects additional requests by mid-summer.

Johnson, holding a news conference in his oval White House office, declined to speculate on the number of added forces that might be sought but emphasized that he felt certain they could be supplied "without undue strain."

This strongly indicated he foresees no need to mobilize large numbers of National Guardsmen and Reservists.

As for the home front impact of the war in Viet Nam, Johnson said he has made no studies, nor recommendations about a possible tax increase to boost federal revenues and combat inflation.

But he added, "I would not want to preclude them."

Questioned about grumbling from organized labor about the working of the administration's wage-price guideposts — which AFL-CIO spokesmen argue puts more pressure on them than on industry—Johnson expressed renewed hope the guideposts would work.

If not, he said, "we'll recommend whatever legislation is necessary."

The chief executive left the general impression, however, that no legislative proposals either for a tax increase or for any type of wage-price controls loomed as a very large possibility in the foreseeable future.

Some of the questioning dealt with his reaction to recent debate—notably in the Senate — over administration policies in Viet Nam.

Johnson said he felt hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and other developments along the same line "will serve us in good stead ahead" by promoting a greater measure of national unity.

He said he would not want to criticize those in Congress engaged in the debate unless he felt the whole matter was "much more damaging."

Johnson said, "I'm rather pleased that the differences are as minimal as they are."

Discussing grumbling by a minority of Congress members about a 1964 resolution which he often has cited as one basis for his freedom to act in Viet Nam, Johnson said this resolution had been amply debated and discussed and "I think the members understood that resolution."

The resolution, adopted after North Vietnamese torpedo boats had attacked a U.S. destroyer in the Gulf of Tonkin, expressed support for all actions by the commander in chief to repel aggression.

Even if Congress should vote to revoke it, he asserted, "I think I still have authority to carry out our commitments there"—in Viet Nam.

In citing the bases for his authority to act, Johnson listed first his position as commander in chief, second various mutual defense and other treaties and finally the congressional resolution.

And he described recent lopsided votes favoring various pieces of legislation affecting the Viet Nam situation as evidence that he has strong majority support in Congress.

He listed the following four objectives as his reason for sending American forces into Viet Nam:

"Prevent aggression, establish a stable government by democratic efforts, defeat social misery and attain a just and honorable peace."

He said he thought these were objectives anyone in this country could embrace.

In the Class AA competition, which was completed Friday, the Greenville High School Stage Band won the championship trophy, while the Stephenville High Stage Band was runnerup.

The Snyder High Stage Band, under direction of Melvin Montgomery, has won the championship trophy in the Brownwood event 10 times.

Water Pact For Midland On Agenda

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. at the district headquarters in Big Spring, Charles Perry, Odessa, president, announced Saturday.

Among other matters, the board will discuss negotiations with the City of Midland for a contract to sell surface water to that city. The Midland council considered the matter at its meeting last Tuesday, after having conferred with CRMWD officials. O. H. Ivie, general manager for the district, said he was encouraged by progress of the talks.

The board also will be brought up to date on progress of land appraisals and purchases for a new lake site on the Colorado River above Robert Lee. Reports also will be heard on gathering of information for issuance of revenue bonds to finance the new lake and other facilities.

Ginning Season Is Nearing End

The cotton ginning season finally was nearing an end Saturday in Scurry County and indications were that the final total would be slightly under 60,000 bales.

The county's nine gins reported a total of 58,604 bales Saturday morning and some of the gins were preparing to close for the season. One, the Planters Gin at Fluvanna, already had finished its season.

However, several gins still were operating and others were on a stand-by basis to handle the last remnants of the 1965 crop which has exceeded all other crops in the county's history. The county's total cotton acreage in 1965 was approximately 66,000.

Estimates were that somewhere between 300 and 500 bales remained in the fields. However, it was not known whether all of it would be harvested, since some of it is on the ground and the quality has deteriorated considerably.

The report by gins Saturday included: Snyder Co-op, 12,580 bales; Snyder Paymaster, 11,926; Layfield Gin at Ira, 2,350; Snyder Planters, 2,882; Hermleigh, 4,325; Inadale, 7,222; Fluvanna, 3,170; Dunn, 2,835; China Grove, 11,214.

Operations Are Normal

Operations started on an even note for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, according to the January operating report.

Revenues of $227,586 were virtually the same as a year ago. Member cities paid $109,682, or about $1,300 less than the previous January while oil companies paid $80,280, or about $2,700 more. Recreation revenues, due to the lower level of the lake, were $19,703, or about $1,400 less than a year ago.

Operating expenses of $60,315 were down about $17,000, principally due to the employment retirement fund payment not falling due in January.

New Spillway Design May Cut Robert Lee Dam Cost

Tests of a model of the spillway proposed for the Colorado River Municipal Water District dam near Robert Lee have indicated some design changes, O. H. Ivie, general manager, said Friday.

Fortunately, these may save money while also doing a better job.

There are no firm estimates on how much may be saved, but this could run into thousands of dollars, Ivie explained. Actually, enlarging the morning glory intake of the spillway will add to the cost while increasing safety of th structure. On the other hand, shortening the stilling basin, a massive concrete box-like affair, some 50 to 70 feet will cut sharply into costs. The net difference should be solidly on the side of saving, said Ivie.

The CRMWD general manager, with his assistant, Paschall Odom, met with CRMWD consulting engineers Jim Nichols and W. L. Eeds in Fort Collins, Colo., last week to witness tests on the precise scale model spillway at Colorado State University.

At every point of potential pressure or stress, the model has monometers (pressure gauges) so that performance at various water levels and rates of flow will be registered. Tests indicated that in conditions where only two gates were opened at flood stage, the water would spill at an angle and force which would set up questionable negative pressures

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you with a problem and I probably never will because I take all my problems to the Lord. I just wanted you to know that I wouldn't miss reading your column for the world. In fact, I enjoy reading DEAR ABBY so much, I gave it up for Lent.

Sincerely Yours,
LAURA C. SVENDSEN

• • •

DEAR ABBY: So many lonely women write to you, asking how to get a man to marry them. They say that men don't have marriage in mind. Well, I was a bachelor or 44 years. I invited many women out to dinner, movies, concerts and sports events, and they were always tickled to go. They would say goodnight at the door, and that was all right with me a I never was the kind of man who expected anything more than the pleasure of a lady's company. I took one little widow to a movie, and afterwards she invited me into her small apartment. She went into her tiny kitchenette and came out with some home-made apple strudel and a cup of hot cocoa. It was delicious! You have my word for it, when I saw that little woman in an apron, I knew then and there that I wanted her in my kitchen for the rest of my life.

JESS

DEAR JESS: Please ask the lady to send me her recipe for apple udel. Many of my readers would find it valuable.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Just when I am telling my 14-year-old daughter she may not have boys in the house when I am not home, YOU tell "WORKING MOTHER" she should let her 16-year-old daughter use her own judgment and expect the best of her. I expect the best of my daughter, too, but I feel it's unfair to make a girl decide what is good and bad behavior in her own living room. My neighbors are not gossipy, but they would have every right to talk if they saw my daughter entertaining boys in my absence. As for the one hour limit you set, I assure you that many a girl has gotten into trouble in less time. I also feel that the age of the girl does not matter in this case.

KENTUCKY MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I believe that if we are to teach teenagers responsible behavior, we must let them use their own judgments occasionally, so we can evaluate their maturity. Parents who have given their children sound moral values by example and teaching, need not worry. And I disagree with you. Age DOES matter. Would you set the same rules for a 13-year-old as you would for a 19-year-old?

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 years old and single. I travel alone a lot. I have met lots of guys who have a seat beside me on trains and buses and they always ask where I'm from, where I'm going, why, if I'm married and so on. And I always lie to them. I never lie to people I know, but I must admit I just love making up stories when I meet strangers. I suppose it is just a matter of time before I will meet one of these people again and will get tripped up in my lies. I keep promising myself I will not make up any more stories, but the first chance I get, I do it again. Do you think there is something the matter with me?

TIRED OF LYING

DEAR TIRED: Probably nothing more serious than an inventive imagination and a strong desire to exercise it. Why not try your hand at creative writing? It will fulfill your urge to "make up stories" without having to tell lies.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

I know there are some real nice people in this good town of ours and I would like to publicly praise one of them.

On Saturday morning about 6:30 a.m. an oil truck loaded with crude oil spilled a part of the load at the north side of the square on Avenue S. It made a very dangerous slick spot. Mr. Luther Blythe saw the danger in the oil slick and of his own accord and with no thought of renumeration proceeded to carry several buckets of dirt to cover the oil slick and remove the danger.

As Mr. Blythe is an employee of the Texas Highway Department he knew he could have called the Department and they would have dispatched someone to cover the area, but he did it himself because he is a good citizen of our community. There are many more in the area but I would like to bring this to the attention of the community as an example of the many good things that are done in our community by the good people that live here.

Two Negroes Charged With Holdup Slaying

DALLAS (AP) — Officers charged Willie Sewell, 20, and Floyd Patterson, 18, Negroes, with murder Friday in the Feb. 15 holdup slaying of Leland F. Hendley.

Before dying of multiple chest and head injuries, Hendley said he was robbed by two men. They obtained $150.

Acquaintances said the accused pair bought new clothes shortly after the killing. A Negro girl claimed one of the men asked her to help him set up an alibi.

Hendley was district manager of the Universal Life & Accident Insurance Co.

Two-Car Mishap Logged In City

City Police investigated a two-car collision at Twenty-fourth and Avenue I at about 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

Cars driven by Peggy Phillips Moffett, 111 Browning, and Joyce Whisenhunt, Route 2, were involved in the mishap. Damage to the Moffett vehicle, a 1965 Model Dodge, was estimated at $125, and damage to the other car, a 1955 Model Ford, was set at $45.

against the wall of the big outlet. Widening the lip of the morning glory (which corresponds to the top of a funnel) will overcome this, engineers calculated. This part of the model is being altered and retested to validate their estimates.

The tests also indicated that the stilling basin—the big, heavy concrete box in which discharged waters are released and reduced in force—could be made considerably shorter than at first calculated. Because these walls are some 40 feet high and are many inches thick, the saving will be considerable.

Other information gained fit closely into previous calculations by Eeds in his designs. The tests are continuing to furnish information on the suggested type and size of rip-rap to be put downstream below the stilling basin to protect the river banks. Gravel used in the test are scaled to represent various sizes of stones from small rock to boulders.

Changes suggested by the scale tests will not delay the final designs on the dam and its structures, said Ivie. The changes will be progressing while testing is being completed.

Cost of the scale model testing may be as much as $15,000, but the service spillway is a key element in the project. It may cost upwards of $2,500,000. The service spillway works much like the overflow drain in a lavatory. A series of gates on top of the circular spillway can control the amount and rate at which excess water will be let off through the outlet which passes through the base of the earthen dam to the stilling basin.

Sees Hike In Building

DALLAS (AP)—Texas is on the way to its biggest construction year in history if present trends continue, the magazine Texas Contractor will say in its March 1 issue.

Three big jobs in February shot the construction total for the first two months in the year to $219 million, which is $38 million ahead of the same time in 1964, when Texas had its greatest volume year.

The February figure of $117 million was second only to the February 1956 mark of $122 million, the record for the month, the magazine said.

The three biggest projects in the month were an $18 million contract for an electric generating plant in amarillo and an $11 million convention center and a $9 million highway project, both in San Antonio.

Municipal Poll Taxes Seen Void

AUSTIN (AP)—City poll taxes apparently were wiped out by the three-judge federal court ruling that the state's poll tax voting requirement is unconstituinal, two attorneys said Friday.

U. S. Dis. Atty. Ernest Morgan said, "the reasoning of this opinion would probably apply equally to cities as well as to state elections. The court said any payment of a sum of money is a burden on the right to vote."

Two, possibly more, Texas cities require payment of a municipal poll tax to vote in local elections, said Riley E. Fletcher, general counsel of the Texas Municipal League. These include Corsicana, Marshall, and Yoakum.

"The effect of the ruling would be that a city poll tax may not be required as a prerequisite for voting," said Fletcher.

He said, however, that cities may continue to impose the tax only as a revenue source, just as the state may keep the poll tax to raise money but not to qualify voters.

State law limits municipal poll taxes to $1.

Idaho Oks Amendment

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Idaho became the 21st state today to ratify a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment on presidential succession and presidential inability.

Ratification by 38 states is necessary for it to become law.

The amendment would allow the president, with the consent of Congress, to appoint a vice-president when there is a vacancy in that office. It also would provide for the vice-president to act as president if the president were disabled.

Other states that have ratified the amendment are Kansas, West Virginia, Maine, New Mexico, Arkansas, Michigan, Arizona, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Nebraska Massachusetts, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana, California, New Jersey, Delaware, Utah, Rhode Island and Colorado.

Bus Passengers Escape Injury

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—Twenty-four passengers aboard a Continental Trailways bus escaped injury Friday night when the vehicle hit four cows on U.S. 77 about 15 miles north of here in North Central Oklahoma.

The bus was disabled. Another one was called to continue the trip to Wichita, Kan.

Sentence Is Delayed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A Kerrville dentist, convicted of defrauding an El Paso bank of $64,000, faced up to 60 years in prison and $20,000 in fines today.

A Federal Court jury Friday convicted Dr. Robert Edward Hausmann, 42, on 11 counts of a 12-count indictment charging him with defrauding the Bassett National Bank.

Sentencing was delayed until at least March 17, said U. S. Atty. Jamie Boyd.

He was accused of securing loans on representation that he was negotiating a large land sale in the State of Washington. Hausmann formerly lived in Everett, Wash.

Hausmann was acquitted on one of two counts of interstate transportation of falsified securities.

Texas Towns Due Improvement Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration has allocated $25,488 to two Texas towns for improvements.

Sabinal will receive $15,938 for a $300,000 street and drainage improvements project. A $9,550 loan was made to Groveton for planning water system improvements to cost an estimated $78,025.

Three Texans Are Among Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Texans were among servicemen killed in the week ended last Monday, the Defense Department reported Friday.

They included Pfc. Bobby B. Braswell of Paris and Spec. 4 Raymond R. Poston of Longview, both Army men, and Marine Corps Pfc. John M. Hoelscher of Houston.

New Mexico Mourns For War Hero

LOS LUNAS, N.M. (AP) — All across New Mexico flags fly at half staff today. But the mourning is greatest in this rural community where a war hero has come home for the last time.

His name was Daniel Fernandez. Last week, the 21-year-old Army specialist fourth class deliberately threw himself over an exploding grenade in Viet Nam.

He died. But his buddies lived.

"Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends."

With that simple passage from the Gospel of St. John, the Rev. Francis Schuler will begin his sermon at a Requiem High Mass for Fernandez, held, not in a church, but in a school gymnasium so that more of the youth's friends might be able to attend.

After the Mass, the body will be taken to Santa Fe, about 90 miles north, for burial.

An eight-man rifle squad will fire a graveside salute and a bugler will sound Taps.

Lt. Gov. Mack Easley, acting in the absence of Gov. Jack M. Campbell, issued orders that flags in the state dip in tribute to the young hero today.

Representing the governor at the burial services will be Maj. Gen. John P. Jolly, the state's adjutant general.

Fernandez had been decorated with the Purple Heart and Air Medal for previous service as a helicopter door gunner in Viet Nam. He was sent home to recover from wounds but volunteered to return in January.

He had volunteered for the patrol action in which he lost his life shielding comrades from the blast of the Viet Cong grenade.

For that action, his last, Daniel Fernandez has been recommended for his nation's highest military decoration, the Medal of Honor.

Building On Decline

AUSTIN (AP) — Building permits in Texas declined during January, a month that usually has a sharp seasonal increase, the Texs Bureau of Business Research reports.

This forced a 22 per cent drop from December's figure in the seasonally adjusted index of Texas construction authorizations. The index fell to 130.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

January was up 16 per cent from January of 1965.

The total value of January permits was $133 million, compared with $142 million in December and $115 million January a year ago.

Completions Up From '65

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday 173 oil wells and 44 gas wells were completed in the state during the past week.

This raised the total number of oil well completions for the year to 1,274, compared to 1,185 a year ago, and increased gas well completions to 338, compared to 346 a year ago.

The commission said 114 wells were plugged, including 66 dry holes.

Nine wildcat oil wells were drilled, three in Dist. 4, two in Dist. 3 and one each in Dists. 1, 2, 8 & 8A and 9. A total of 71 wildcat oil wells have been drilled this year, 20 more than at the same date in 1965.

Four wildcat gas wells were drilled during the past week, two in Dist. 2 and one each in Dists. 4 and 6. The yearly total is 31, far behind the 1965 total at this time of 157.

Search For Wife Yields Many Replies

AMBLECOTE, England (AP) — The handsome vicar who announced he was seeking a wife who resembles Ingrid Bergman has been driven into hiding by a flood of telephone calls from applicants.

A note pinned to the door of the Rev. John Hencher's Georgian vicarage said, "Vicar away ill."

But a relative of the 34-year-old churchman said, "He has gone into hiding. He is horrified at all the fuss."

The fuss arose after word began to circulate that the vicar was looking for a "cosy wife who adores Shakespeare and is prepared to share my four-poster bed."

The Rev. Hencher, who is six feet tall and weighs 185 pounds, told of his dream girl in an interview in a religious newspaper, the Worcester Diocesan Messenger.

"She must be a lot younger than me," he said, "about five feet six inches tall and preferably with fair hair."

The vicar received his first marriage proposal Thursday, shortly after his appeal for a wife was published. Since then his telephone has hardly stopped ringing.

He slipped away Friday from the 15-room vicarage in his car.

His sister, Priscilla Harris, said: "John has had several girl friends and was engaged for a short while some years ago. I don't know why he broke it off.

"The trouble is he is searching for the perfect girl and as he gets older the girls never seem to match up to his standards."

Elementary Art Pupils On Schools TV Program

Place of art in elementary school instruction will be the curriculum area for presentation on Monday's "Know Your Schools" TV program. This broadcast may be seen over Channel 2, SCAT, from 6:20 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Mrs. J. C. Traugott, fifth grade teacher at West Elementary, will represent art instructors in the upper elementary grades. Mrs. Wilson Bright, of the same school, will appear on behalf of primary grade teachers.

West elementary pupils to appear and the phase of art they will demonstrate include Danny Martin, fifth grade, sand modeling; Cheryl Bennett, fifth grade, crayon resist, and Steve Wiman, first grade, finger painting. Fay Sullenger, second grade, will display a use of tempera.

Experience of local elementary teachers with art instruction in the lower grades shows that the very young have a keen desire to be creative and like to experiment with various materials and use the different techniques presented in schools today. These young would - be artists enjoy expressing themselves and quite often do so artistically. Children are encourage to be creative and not merely to represent or appreciate qualities of art and nature that may be considered beautiful in form and color only. Mrs. Traugott explains the modern teaching of art at the elementary level thus, "Methods of teaching art have changed to keep pace with studies made by art educators concerning the creative abilities of youngsters. In art, as well as in other fields of school endeavor, new methods involve more freedom for children to express themselves and encourage creativity rather than teaching the aesthetic quality."

Teaching of art in schools today has several purposes. It is believed by educators that art is important to every child. They conclude that art is an emotional experience and is an excellent outlet for expressing inner feelings of happiness or frustration. It has been proved that if a child learns to be creative early in art class participation this ability is carried over into the areas of school work and on through life.

Teachers explain that the so called "gifted" children are not over looked, but are encouraged to develop whatever abilities they may have. The artistically talented are very few, educators find, but all children have an innate desire to be artistic. One local art instructor advises, "Talent is merely a desire to do, the ability to visualize and the determination and patience to complete a project once it is started. All of the needed qualities can be developed, broadened and strengthened through proper instruction and through a continuing effort on the part of an individual to perfect natural and attained skills. The so labeled "artistically talented" possibly account for two or three percent of the over-all total making real artistic contributions to the field of art. The rest are cultivated artists with zeal and a real will to try."

Art techniques can be mastered, and appreciation for good art can be cultivated, art authorities believe. They point out it is best to start the process early. "Planting the seeds of appreciation for art in young minds is sure to produce good results," Mrs. Bright contends, "Possibly the greatest satisfaction to the individual child, or adult art enthusiast for that matter, is the feeling of accomplishment with a finished product of his own designing. Art furnishes a means of emotional release, so important to everyone, especially in this day and age."

Lloyd Potts will act as master of ceremonies for the entire program Monday evening, and will also bring news of interest from the school administration. Mike Stephens will bring news covering all schools in the Snyder system. A five-minute newscast precedes the program feature.

Cameras will be operated this week by Tom Lowe and Herbert Eades, with Glenn Arnold handling mikes and Doug Burney in charge of slide projector operations. Robby Wesson keeps check each week on the audio portion of the broadcasts.

On Monday evening, March 7, Lamar Junior High School's student council will present the feature on the "Know Your Schools" TV program. This group will give a program on "Americanism." Jimmy P. Lynch is sponsor of the student council at Lamar.

Charge To Be Dropped

DALLAS (AP) — A murder charge filed against a Texas airman in the rape-slaying of a Seagoville woman will be dismissed, Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Alexander said Friday.

Sheriff Bill Decker said a lie detector test given Mason Gene Smith, 20, of Eustace indicated the airman had no connection with the death of Mrs. Herbert L. Vann, 45, last Jan 31.

Smith, absent without leave from Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, also has been charged with rape in an assault on a 17-year-old Henderson County school girl Feb. 14.

Authorities said a cord had been used to strangle Mrs. Vann and to choke the teen-ager.

Mrs. Vann's body was found in her partially burned automobile a short time after she had left a self-service laundry.

The Dallas County sheriff said he would re-open the investigation into Mrs. Vann's death.

Smith lawyer for John W. Key Jr., said the airman signed a statement admitting the death of Mrs. Vann because he was upset and wanted "peace and quiet" after many hours of questioning by Dallas County officers.

Key said he can provide witnesses that saw Smith at Sheppard AFB at various hours between Jan. 29 and Feb. 1.

Criticizes Connally

DALLAS (AP)—Houston oilman Stanley Woods called Gov. John Connally a "monopolycrat" Friday and said Connally "wants to kill the Republican Party and dupe the Democrats."

The 43-year-old Woods Connally's only opponent in the May 7 Democratic primary, made his remarks at a news conference.

He said the issues were education, automobile insurance rates, medical schools, old age assistance and "getting the oil industry back on its feet."

Woods, seeking his first elective office, predicted that the governor's race "will start getting hot next week."

He said automobile insurance rates should be lowered in Texas by $35 a year. Many peeople, he added, are not buying insurance for their cars because rates are too high.

Woods also advocated raising the oil allowables, increasing old age assistance and establishing new medical schools at Lubbock and Tyler.

Road Deaths Laid To Deadly Driver

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

When there is an automobile death or injury — and there is one every 18 seconds — it usually is blamed on one — or a combination — of three things:

The car, the road, the driver.

Mainly, the driver.

If this is the culprit, what makes him that way?

For years, he was usually described as the decent chap who turned into a holy terror the minute he got behind the wheel. Or he was pictured as the guy who had one too many at a party. Or he was either too young to be driving or too old.

But now research indicates:

— He may be drugged and not know that it impars his driving ability.

— He may be affected by a poisonous gas and not recognize it.

— He may be ill with alcoholism, not merely a social drinker.

— He may be unable to handle his emotions.

— He may be determined to kill himself.

The millions of drivers and pedestrians, the millions of automobiles and trucks, the millions of miles of road have together produced an ironic catastrophe: the blessing of fast, cheap, universal transportation has brought with it fast death and maiming.

In 1965, 49,000 persons were killed, 3.5 million maimed and injured. The loss in dollars: $8.5 billion.

The finger usually has been pointed at the driver. But what about the automobile, tires, roads, weather? None of these factors is dismissed, and experts agree that in cases of automobile death and injury more than one factor may be involved. Practices within the automotive industry are now being challenged in federal and state hearings with the one theme consistently stated: Detroit thinks more about style than safety.

What would happen if there was an overnight miracle and suddenly all autos and all roads met the highest standards of safety?

"The impact on reducing facilities wouldn't be greater than 20 per cent," answers James P. Economos, director of the American Bar Association's traffic court program. "That leaves the human element to deal with. This is probably greater than 80 per cent."

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, says "statistics do show that driver fault was present in about 85 per cent of all automobile accidents, but this does not mean that other factors may not also have been present."

The driver has been flooded wth special training courses, long litanys of 'do's and don't,' car care tips and about everything else in the book. Since the deaths and injuries continued to grow, researchers began to wonder whether the advice was simply being ignored, or whether there might not be forces at work that are impervious to the good intentions of driver or advisers.

The widespread use of drugs came under scrutiny.

Briefly, the medical-pharmaceutical breakthrough which produced stimulants, antihistamines, hypnotics, tranquilizers, and pain-killer or sleep-inducing synthetics of all sorts, also made it possible for millions of people to get easy aid for the things that bothered them. The stay-awake, go-to-sleep, calm-jangled-nerves, lose-weight, stop-sneezes pills are produced by the ton and sold supermarket fashion.

Since there are 96 million licensed drivers in the United States, it follows that these pills, capsules, tablets, elixirs and what-not are being consumed by people who at one time or another operate a motor vehicle.

While the medical profession knows about the side effects of many drugs, the exact role they play in accidents involving automobiles or machinery has not been fully measured statistically.

Adair To Tackle Fire

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — Firefighter Red Adair says it will be Wednesday before he is able to extinguish a gas well fire which has been burning since Tuesday in Southeast New Mexico.

He has abandoned a plan to pump in mud to shut off the gas flow feeding the fire at the base of the pipe.

The well is 30 miles southwest of Artesia in the Indian Hills area. It was being drilled by the Ralph Lowe Drilling Co. of Midland, Tex.

An estimated 50 million cubic feet of natural gas burn each day.

Adair, a veteran of oil field fires, said today he plans to clear the area around the rig, put out the fire and cap the pipe. He estimated this will take four or five days.

The first step will be to remove the wrecked derrick and other equipment and then to cut off the pipe just above ground level.

Dynamite will be used to snuff the flames.

APACHE BELLES ON TV SHOW—The Apache Belles, precision dance group from Tyler Junior College, will highlight a special hour-long TV program featuring campus talent from 12 Texas colleges and universities. Called "Campus Talent '66," the program will present 15 acts ranging from ballard singers to jazz ballet. It will be telecast soon throughout the state.

Campus Talent Show Scheduled

Students from 12 Texas Universities and colleges will be featured performers on a special television program to be shown throughout Texas soon.

An hour - long show, "Campus Talent '66" was videotaped on the campuses of Texas Tech, Rice, University of Texas, Lamar Tech, University of Houston, Hardin - Simmons, Baylor, Trinity, SMU, Tyler Junior College, Arlington State, and McMurry.

It will be shown in this area on the following channels: Channel 12 (Scat 3) at 8:30 p.m. March 4 and at 4:30 p.m. March 6; Channel 2 at 8 p.m. Feb. 28 and 4:30 p.m. March 6; Channel 4, 7:30 p.m. March 12 and 4:30 p.m. March 13; Channel 11 (Scat 6) at 9 p.m. Feb. 28 and 2 p.m. March 6.

According to Calvin Jones, producer of the show, there will be 15 acts, "ranging from ballad singers to a contemporary instrumental quartet — and just about everything else in between."

"Our production crew traveled more than 2,000 miles during the on - location shooting of the show," said Jones. "I think Texans will be proud of what they see. These talented youngsters could step in tomorrow on almost any major network television show and do a bang-up job."

Sponsored by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Campus Talent '66 will be seen on 16 television stations in Texas. All stations will air the show two times.

Why two times?

C. F. Weekley, general public relations manager for Southwestern Bell, explained it this way: "We think this is the type show every Texan should have a chance to see. If you're unable to see one showing, we hope you'll watch the other. It's encouraging to see some of Texas' outstanding young people perform. It is reassuring to find out that all young entertainers today don't dress like beatniks and have more hair than talent."

Some Fear Threat In Laos Afforded Too Little Attention

By ANTOINE YARED

VIENTIANE, Laos, (AP) — Laotian officials are worried that the focus on Viet Nam is drawing attention away from what they regard as the Communist threat to Laos.

They admit that this is only logical because of the involvement of American combat troops there. But if the Vietnamese question is settled without proper solution of the Laotian problem, they say, the Communist threat to other Southeast Asian countries — particularly Thailand — will remain wide open.

Some Western diplomats here concur with these views. Says one:

"Today South Viet Nam is being pictured as the front door of Communist expansion to Southeast Asia. But in fact Laos is its backdoor. If you close one and leave the other, all the efforts one has made in South Viet Nam would be futile."

Laotian Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, reflecting his concern about the little attention given to Laos, said in an interview:

"People talk too much about the interference of the United States in Viet Nam although the United States didn't sign the 1954 Geneva accords.

"People talk too little about North Vietnamese interference in Laos, although Hanoi was a signatory of the 1962 Geneva agreements on Laos. This is much more serious."

The 91,000 square-mile landlocked kingdom of Laos is often considered the keystone nation of the Southeast Asian peninsula. Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia composed French Indochina.

Laos borders six other countries — Burma, Red China, North Viet Nam, South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Thailand.

The border with Thailand runs 1,090 miles, including 500 miles along the Mekong River. It is a loose frontier, mostly jungle, extremely difficult to police, an easy route for trained guerrilla infiltrators.

The United States is committed to the defense of pro-Western Thailand and is quietly helping Laos stop Communist aggression. An eventual Communist takeover of Laos and subsequent drive across the nearly open frontier into Thailand could result in another American deep commitment in this part of the world.

Some Laotian officials and foreign diplomats believe that the Laotian problem will disappear when the South Vietnamese issue is settled.

Less optimistic Laotian officials and diplomats see things differently. They base their judgment on experiences in dealing with the actions of the North Vietnamese and Communist Chinese, both supporting the Laotian pro-Communist Pathet Lao. The Pathet Lao is still waging a war against Souvanna's government forces.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF INTENT
TO ORDER DEMOLITION

The City of Snyder, Texas, acting through its building inspector, hereby gives notice to each of the following persons, their unknown heirs and assigns, if any, of the intent to order the demolition of a dangerous building located on each of the hereinafter described tracts of land, to-wit:

1. J. H. Rogers, et al, Lots 12 and 13, Blk. 39 and 40, Cody Heights Land Co. Addn.
2. Ross Deffebach, Lot 3, Blk. 4, Chambers Addn.
3. Ceola James, Lot 5 and 6, Blk. 3, Erwin Hts. Addn.
4. B. E. Garner, Lots 3 and 4, Blk. 21, Nunn Addn.
5. United Pentacostal Church, West 50' of Lot 2, Blk. 44, Nunn Addn.

The City of Snyder, Texas, avers, through its duly authorized agent, that the whereabouts of each of the above named persons is unknown, that reasonable diligence has been exercised by the City of Snyder to ascertain the whereabouts of each of the above named persons, and that each of the above named persons is the record owner of that certain real estate set forth adjacent to his name.

The City of Snyder, Texas, alleges that there is located upon each and all of the above described pieces of property a building which is uninhabitable and untenantable due to obsolesence and deterioration caused by neglect, vandalism, old age, and the elements and which is in danger of falling and injuring persons and is a fire menace by virtue of its abandonment and neglect which is in violation of Ordinance No. 324 of the City of Snyder, Texas, and each of said structures is highly dangerous and hazardous to the life and property of the public in general and thereby constitutes a public nuisance, and the cost of alleviating the violation is not reasonably related to the value of the dangerous structure.

WHEREFORE, having failed to correct said violations, notice is hereby given to the above named J. H. Rogers, Ross Deffebach, Ceola James, B. E. Garner, and United Pentacostal Church, their unknown heirs, legal representatives and assigns, if any, to demolish the said dangerous buildings on or before the 5th day of April, 1966 (which date is thirty (30) days from the date of the second publication of this notice). In the event the violation is not eliminated on or before the 5th day of April, 1966, the City shall demolish and remove each of said buildings, or cause the same to be done and charge the expenses incurred in doing such work or having the same done, to the respective owners of said lands; and if such work is done at the expense of the City, then said expense shall be assessed as a lien on the lot, tract or parcel of land, or to the premise upon which such expense was incurred.

Texas Draft Quota Drops For March

AUSTIN (AP)—A national reduction in the March draft call dropped Texas' quota for that month from 1,570 to 1,068, State Selective Service headquarters said Friday.

The national cut—because of increased enlistments — was from 32,900 to 22,400, a 32 per cent reduction, the same percentage reduction as in Texas. This month's draft call in Texas was for 1,372 men, January 475.

Rams, Cougars Clash In NCAA Playoff

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Colorado State University Rams, December lambs in the New York Holiday Festival, may turn out to be March lions in the NCAA tournament for the national college basketball championship.

Paced by Lonnie Wright's 35 points, the Rams whipped Utah State Friday night 74-64 before a record home crowd of 9,522 at Fort Collins. It was the Rams' sixth victory in their last seven games.

The one setback in this string was to unbeaten Texas Western 68-66 on a last second basket by Bobby Joe Hill.

Utah State took an early lead, but Wright tied it at 22-22 and quickly put the Rams out in front for good. Colorado State, now 18-6, was picked for the NCAA tourney as an at-large selection on Wednesday and paired against Houston in the first round at Wichita, Kan., March 7.

Top-seeded Davidson, led by Dick Snyder's 27 points, routed Richmond 84-65 in the semifinals of the Southern Conference championship tourney at Charlotte and will try to land an NCAA berth by beating West Virginia in the final tonight. The Mountaineers advanced by defeating William and Mary 64-50 in the other semi.

Penn's Quakers, led by Jeff Neumann's 28 points, clinched a tie for the Ivy League title by scoring an 83-68 road victory over Columbia. The Red and Blue can win their first Ivy crown in 13 years by beating Cornell at Ithaca, N.Y., tonight. Princeton eliminated Cornell by beating the Big Red at Ithaca 84-62.

If Penn should win the Ivy crown, however, there is a question whether the Quakers will play in the NCAA tourney because of an NCAA ruling over the controversial 1.6 academic rating.

Jerry Chambers tossed in 43 points for Utah and moved the Redskins a step closer to the Western Athletic Conference Championship and an NCAA berth with a 107-103 victory over Wyoming at Salt Lake City.

San Francisco and University of Pacific each won and will meet tonight in a showdown battle for the West Coast Athletic Conference title and a berth in the NCAA. Each is 11-1 in league play after the Dons' 88-67 home court victory over St. Mary's and UOP's 73-68 home triumph over Santa Clara.

UCLA and Stanford kept alive their faint hopes of overtauling Oregon State in the Pacific Athletic Conference. Mike Lynn's 22 points paced UCLA over California 95-78. Stanford downed Southern California 82-71 behind Bob Bedell's 25 points and Ray Kosanke's effective guarding of John Block.

Texas A&M regained the lead in the close Southwest Conference race with a 93-65 home conquest of Rice, while Gonzaga clinched a tie for the Big Sky Conference crown by edging Montana 82-81 on the road. Dave Wagner, the nation's second leading scorer, got 47 points for Idaho State, but his team lost to Weber 102-92 at Pocatello.

Boston College warmed up for the NIT by crushing Seton Hall 112-77 at Newton, Mass. Temple was named to the NIT field, and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia accepted an NCAA bid. The Hawks' first round game against Providence was switched from March 8 to March 7 at Blacksburg, Va.

Fans Help Jim Ryun

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I had the crowd behind me — that made the difference," said young Olympian Jim Ryun after his 3:59.6 mile with no opposition and no pacer — best ever on a 12-lap track and first sub four-minute mile in the United States this season.

The plan the 18-year-old Kansas freshman in the 38th Big Eight Indoor Track meet was to stick to 60 seconds each quarter. It worked to perfection, with quarter times of 59.7, 2:01 and 3:01, then a final quarter of 58.6.

Only three men in track history have run faster than Ryun indoors. Tom O'Hara of Chicago did it five times, Jim Beatty of Los Angeles three times and Germany's Jurgen May once in an eight-lap track.

O'Hara set the indoor mark of 3:56.4 at Chicago in 1964. All the races by O'Hara and Beatty were on 11-lap tracks in New York, Chicago or Los Angeles.

This is a factor worth noting, because Ryun had to make 24 turns, the others 22 turns. Each turn slows the time a fraction. Ryun is the American record holder outdoors at 3:55.3.

Texas Is Key To Southwest Race

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M clung to a half-game lead in the Southwest Conference basketball race today and waited with fingers crossed on the outcome of the Southern Methodist-Texas clash.

The Aggies, once far in front of all rivals on the road to the conference title, hit a slump. After Southern Methodist beat them Tuesday night, the two teams were tied for the lead.

Then Texas A&M swatted lowly Rice 93-65 Friday night to put the pressure back on SMU, whch meets Texas at Austin this afternoon.

The Aggies have won nine of 12 conference games and the Mustangs have taken eight of 11. The regular season ends Thursday night with two conference games next week.

Texas A&M managed only a 39-35 halftime lead over Rice, winner of just one game this season. But in the second half John Beasley, the conference's leading scorer, hit 20 of his 33 points to lead the Aggies home.

Beasley also led the Aggies' whopping 66-34 rebounding margin with 11 recoveries. Teammate Randy Matson had 10 rebounds.

Rice's Doug McKendrick, with a 20-point per game average, managed only five points before fouling out with 11:43 to play.

Texas Tech nursed slim hopes of sharing the title it was a preseason favorite to win outright. The Red Raiders nudged Arkansas 79-74 at Lubbock Friday night for a 7-5 conference record and remain two games behind Texas A&M.

Norman Reuther flipped in 37 to lead Tech, which couldn't get in front of stubborn Arkansas to stay until the last nine minuts of the game. Arkansas led 42-37 at halftime.

Tech's Billy Tapp limited Ricky Sugg, the Razorbacks' top pointmaker, to one basket. Arkansas is 6-6 in the conferenc

In the only other conference game Saturday, Baylor, 5-6, is at Texas Christian, 4-7.

Penn Clinches Ivy League Tie

By BOB GREENE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Pennsylvania clinched a tie for the Ivy League basketball championship Friday night, but the National Collegiate Athletic Association has ruled that Penn cannot participate in the NCAA tournament.

Penn crushed second-place Columbia 83-68 to clinch a share of the league crown. If the Quakers defeat either Cornell tonight or Princeton Tuesday they will win the crown outright.

According to the NCAA Friday, Penn advised it would not conform nor comply with the association's 1.6 minimum grade standard for athletes. Acceptance is required for participation in NCAA-sponsored events, including the basketball tournament which starts March 7.

The Ivy League and other schools have opposed the 1.6 grade average, based on a 4.0 scale. The Ivy had contended that no outside agency, such as the NCAA, should establish academic standards for a school.

However, Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton, announced Thursday that the Ivy schools had agreed to the academic standard. Goheen served as chairman of the Ivy League committee that conferred with the NCAA on the problem.

Then on Friday the NCAA reported telegrams from both Penn and Yale which stated the two schools would not comply.

Goheen, who said he was trying to reach NCAA President Everett D. (Eppy) Barnes of Colgate and straighten out the situation, said:

"The directors of athletics at Yale and Penn apparently sent telegrams to the NCAA without a complete understanding of the agreement I had reached on behalf of the Ivy group policy committee with Barnes.

Only Best Fives Remain In Field

By The Associated Press

It was a day to relax for Houston Memorial, San Antonio Marshall, Kilgore and Clear Creek, but the tension mounted for other Texas high school basketball teams seeking the remaining 18 spots in the state tournament field.

Houston was the first of four Class AAAA teams to advance to the state meet at Austin next week. San Antonio, Kilgore and Clear Creek make up three-fourths of the Class AAA field. These four teams won regional tournaments Friday night.

All other regional meets in Class AAAA, AAA, AA, A and B will be decided today.

Six Class B teams go to the Austin tournament March 3-5 and four from the other classes.

Houston Memorial won its 32nd game in 36 starts, edging Beaumont French 48-47.

In Class AAA, Clear Creek tipped Huntsville 58-56, San Antonio Marshall stopped city rival Sam Houston 69-60 and Kilgore whipped South Garland 72-43.

The fourth Class AAA team will come from the winner of the Andrews-Coleman game at Lubbock.

The three remaining Class AAAA places will be filled by the winners of Abilene - Lubbock Monterey at Lubbock, Dallas Samuell - Garland at Dallas and Austin McCallum - San Antonio Lee at San Antonio.

Only two of the five state champions of a year ago remain in contention for a return trip to Austin. Lake Worth of Fort Worth, 25-5, meets West Rusk, 27-3, at Denton in one of the Class AA highlights.

Little Snook, the Class B defending champion, won its 73rd consecutive game by beating Hutto 51-30 in a Region 5 game Friday night. Snook has won 47 games this season.

All Class AA, A and B teams play two games today.

'Horns Beat 'Cats, 57-47

BIG SPRING — Westbrook's Wildcats came to the end of its string here Friday night, losing, 47-57, to Bronte's Longhorns in the first round of the Class B Region VI basketball tournament. Bronte met Anthony Saturday morning in the second round, and the winner was to challenge the Norton-Sands victor in the championship tilt Saturday night.

Elmer McMahan ripped the cords for 30 points, but no other 'Cat was able to collect more than six. Bronte received 20 points from Tad Richards and 19 from Royce Lee. The 'Horns took a nine point lead in the first half and held its own in the second.

WESTBROOK (47) — McMahan 12-6-30; Williamson 2-2-6; Rich 1-2-4; Forbes 0-2-2; Casterno 1-0-2; Chambers 0-1-1; Jerrit 1-0-2; totals 17-13-47.

ABILENE—The Snyder Boys Club Golden Gloves team was all set for action here Saturday night in the annual boxing program.

Only one boy, David Coy, saw action in the first day of boxing Friday. Coy, a high school division featherweight, won a decision over Jerry Bellamy of Colorado City. Later the same night, he returned and lost a close verdict to Bob Clifton of Hamlin in the semi-finals.

Only PeeWee, Novice and High School divisions bouts were held on Friday's card. The open division competition was held Saturday. Most of the Snyder boys were competing in the open division.

MANTLE, MARIS, ETC.

Old Pros Have To Prove Themselves

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The future of Mickey Mantle, Tommy Davis, Orlando Cepeda, Robin Roberts and a long thin line of veteran baseball players may be determined in the next few weeks as the big league clubs get ready for the new season.

Mantle still is recuperating from shoulder surgery and will not report to the Yanks' camp at Fort Lauderdale until the end of the week. He became a part-time player last season when Manager Johnny Keane shifted him to left field from his old center field job. His batting average sagged to .255 and his home run production to 19 for limited appearances in 122 games.

Although the Yanks are prepared to give Mantle his usual $100,000 contract, there are doubts about the super star. Last year he couldn't throw and he had trouble swinging the bat. The shoulder surgery is supposed to have cured that. But Mantle still has those same heavily taped knees and the scars of many operations. At 34, he has to be a big question mark.

Roger Maris is another Yankee who must bounce back from a disastrous year when an injured hand limited him to 46 ball games and cut his production to eight home runs and a .239 average. Maris' performance in the Florida games will be a guideline for the Yankee future, anxiously watched by Keane, General Manager Ralph Houk and the CBS brass.

Jim Bouton also will be carefull observed to see how his right arm responds to a winter's rest. The pitcher's disastrous slump from 18-13 to 4-15 last year was a major factor in the Yanks' slide into the second division.

Tommy Davis missed all but 17 games of the Los Angeles Dodgers' season. He suffered a broken ankle May 1 and never did return to the lineup. At the end of the year he still was limping. There were conflicting reports about his recovery during a winter trial in Arizona. After winning the National League batting title two years in a row, the fleet outfielder skidded in 1964 and then lost virtually an entire season. It will be up to Davis to re-establish himself in left field.

Cepeda was even worse. The Puerto Rican slugger underwent a knee operation after the 1964 season and never was sound all last year. He appeared in only 33 games and batted .176 with only one home run. The Baby Bull is only 28 and should have many good years left. It all depends on how the knee stands up.

Roberts is another hospital case. He went in for removal of bone chips after the season. The former Phillie pitching great who will be 40 in September is listed as a coach by the Houston Astros but will be returned to active status if he can work. In his first few appearances at the early camp in Florida, reports have been encouraging.

Al Kaline hoped to get back on the beam at Detroit after an operation on his foot. A .281 average and 18 homers is satisfactory but not up to Kaline's best production with the Tigers.

HOOF IN MOUTH DISEASE?

Clay-Terrell Bout In Chicago Is Out

CHICAGO (AP) — Unbending Cassius Clay and the attorney general of Illinois today appeared to have killed Clay's scheduled heavyweight title match with Ernie Terrell here March 29 and probably chased it elsewhere.

Official cancellation of the bout was expected Monday when the Illinois Athletic Commission was scheduled to meet again.

A spokesman for Main Bouts, Inc., owning closed circuit television rights to the virtually-cancelled Chicago match, said three cities were receptive to taking over the bout.

The MBI spokesman, Bob Aaron, declined to identify the possible sites of a bout ahead of Clay's likely April induction into the Army, but a Pittsburgh promoter said he was offered the match by Clay interests.

In an incredible series of events Friday, the scheduled Clay-Terrell bout in Chicago was blown skyhigh when:

1—Clay testily refused to apologize before the Illinois State Athletic Commission for his "unpatriotic remarks" in an outburst eight days ago when his Louisville, Ky., Draft Board reclassified him 1-A.

2—The three-member boxing commission hastily recessed until Monday after Clay's assertion that he didn't come from his Miami training camp to "make a showdown thea or apologize the way the press said I would."

3—Atty. Gen. William G. Clark minutes later declared the proposed fight was illegal anyway for violations of the Illinois boxing code.

Clay's performance at the somewhat weird commission meeting was typical of the unpredictable 24-year-old undefeated champion.

Instead of an expected contrite apology for his anti-draft blast in which he said that as a Black Muslim he wanted no part of the Viet Nam war, Clay in effect blamed the press for his adverse publicity.

"If I got any apologizing to do, I'll do it to government officials, the draft board and others," Clay blurted to the amazement of the commission which reportedly would have reaffirmed the fight if Clay was properly apologetic.

But equally strange was the fact the commission called the meeting to order some 40 minutes after the attorney general had told the group in closed session to inform the bout principals the fight was illegal.

Clark said the license of National Sports Promotions, Inc., carried the name of two individuals and under the Illinois Exhibition Act, a corporation must be represented by at least 50 persons.

Clark also added that both Clay and Terrell failed to meet compliance of the Illinois Boxing Act.

The later charge was not specified by Clark, but the attorney general pointed out that the Clay-Terrell contract violations came under a section barring licenses to fighters except to those of "good and stable moral character . . . not likely to engage in acts detrimental t the public."

SO TALL SO YOUNG — Randy Canfield shows what 6 feet, 8¾ inches can mean to a junior high school basketball player as he towers above teammates Mark Baker, left, and Spencer Davies. They attend Robinson Junior High School in Wichita, Kan. Randy, 15, averaged 19.8 points and 18 rebounds a game this season. He had a 60.9 per cent field goal average and considers shooting his weak point. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK — The brown eyes twinkled and the former beauty queen popped a shrimp in her mouth:

"Girls have so many props — eyelashes, hair, nails. Do they really need props? Do men really care?

"They try to look like Elizabeth Taylor, but it may be that they'd look better if they don't look like Elizabeth Taylor. They do everything magazines say to do. They hardly have the time to do much else."

This is Angie Dickinson, 5 feet-5 of spunk and laughter, and a shapely size - 8 blonde with 10 movies to her credit and more on the horizon. (She's eating lunch and businessmen keep bumping into the table.)

"Personality is more than eyelashes. Props can make most girls pretty. I used to do things I thought I should do. Now I do things I want to do.

"When there's a question of clothes, I choose what I want."

The hardest thing about success, she says, is learning to cope with yourself and meeting criticism.

"I used to panic, I'd go out and buy jewelry and clothes when I got frustrated," she says. "There came a point in my life where I had to say to myself, 'Am I going to stay in this business?'

"Then I had to decide not to be frustrated and to go full speed ahead, accepting all that's involved. In some ways that's been hard: I'm a loner.

Being Roman Catholic helped her adjust to the shiny, sometimes jaded world of movie stars and cameras, she says. "The book, 'The Prophet' is my favorite reading matarial."

"When the frustrations become too much I take a walk on the beach and sing."

Angie grew up in Burbank, Calif., attended nearby Glendale College briefly, then upon Huab nds need more than urging of classmates won a local beauty contest that lead to a movie contract.

"I gag when I look at how bad I was at first. I started stone cold. I was horrible.

"My voice teacher Laura Hart in Hollywood helped me learn to discipline myself. Friends helped too."

One ot those, she says, was Marlon Brando with whom she just finished the film, "The Chase."

'Marlon realized I felt pinned to the lines and showed me how to say something else. He didn't let me lock myself into the script."

Movie business, says, Agein is exhilerating but rough.

"You have to run a household across continents. You have to buy stamps between takes. You must most of all learn to cope with your own frustrations of being a woman.

"You don't have to cope with trees and sky. They just are. That's why I like to be alone, or with my husband."

Angie and composer Burt Bacharach were married last May and maintain homes in New York City and Hollywood. With those $600 a month phone bills when they're apart, one wonders if Burt would rather have just a housewife.

"Heavens no," says Angie. "By working I have interests, I'm more of a woman. It's good for him. I don't like this separation but I think it's great for me to keep alive and creative. Husbands need more than props."

One of the most important development projects in Africa is the Volta River Project which will supply huge amounts of electricity to Ghana and eventually its neighboring states. To honor the opening of the Volta Dam, Ghana has issued a set of four colorful commemorative stamps.

The lowest value depicts a section of the dam with its generators. Another stamp features a view of the dam and the manmade Lake Volta. A third stamp shows a symbolic representtion of the dam. The highest value bears a symbol of fertility.

The Volta Dam Project was originally supported by the late President Kennedy of the U.S. Much of the funds for the dam came from the U.S. government.

Previously typography was used for printing permanent issues with values up to 25 pfennig. Intaglio printing had been used for values of 30 pfennig or over. Now all permanent issues will be done by Intaglio.

The first value of the new modified larger-size stamp will be an addition to the "Gates, Casteles and Palaces" series. It shows Nordertor, a gate in Elensburg. The value is 30 pfennig.

Protein Rich Dish For Meatless Days

A person's intake of proteins does not necessarily have to be curtailed on meatless days. Lentils are high in protein value and, although we are apt to think of them in the form of a soup, they may be served as a main dish in many inviting ways.

You won't miss meat if you try—

LENTIL SUPREME

2 c. lentils soaked overnight (if not soaked increase cooking time 1 hour until tender)
5 c. water
2 large onions, grated or ground
3¼ oz. package potato chips crushed fine
1 c. finely chopped pecans
2 tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 tsp. allspice
8 tomato slices, cut thin
4 acorn squash cut in half, seeded, baked cut - side - down in greased pan 30 minutes at 375 degrees (or omit squash and bake mixture in greased casserole).

Simmer lentils in 5 cups water 12 - 15 minutes or until nearly tender. Drain well in colander. Combine and mix well lentils, onions, potato chips, pecans, salt, eggs, allspice.

Fill squash with mixture or spoon mixture into greased casserole. (If squash are used, spoon surplus mixture into small baking dish. Delicious for sandwiches or snacks). Top squash or casserole with tomato slices.

Bake 35 - 45 minutes, basting with following sauce, in 375 degree oven. Use all the sauce up. Serve hot or cold.

Basting Sauce

½ c. Russian dressing
¼ c. brown sugar
2 tsp. lemon juice

Note: If squash are not used, reduce sauce in half for brushing top of casserole.

Mix ingredients well.

If you didn't like lentils before, you'll love them this way.

Miracles Slower

By DAVID J. PAINE

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—"Impossible?" says honey blonda Norah Dicker. "Then bring your problems to my impossibles Bureau. Nothing is impossible to us."

A passport in two hours, a rare vintage car for a bride at church, accommodations at the height of the season in a vegetarians - only hotel?

It's all in the day's work for Norah.

Being a suburban housewife bored this good - looking 34-year old mother of three. She wanted to do something with a little excitement in it, something that required initiative.

A local newspaper article on an 'Impossibles Bureau in London decided her.

"I stayed up till 3 a.m. writing down all the 'impossible' things I could do," she says. "My husband looked them over and thought it would be a good idea to open up a bureau of my own."

Her card bears the seasoned slogan: "Impossibles we do immediately, miracles take a little longer." In her case, it means something.

Recently a Frenchman who migrated to South Africa with his wife and two young children asked her to find him a job, a home and furniture. He had no money, no security and could not speak either of South Africa's two main languages, English and Afrikaans.

With the aid of a helpful receptionist at the French embassy, who translated for the man over the phone, Norah was able to learn what he needed. She found him a job as a painter, an apartment where he could pay his rent a few pounds at a time and hire purchase furniture with no deposit needed.

When work stopped for Christmas she found him another job to tide him over the holiday period. The man was so delighted he brought his brother along for similar treatment.

Much of Norah's work involves getting permanent residence, alien registration and similar permits for Portuguese and the newcomers who cannot speak the language here.

So far Norah has turned down only one type of job.

"When I first opened up my bureau five widows and divorcees asked me to find them men to go out with," she says. "I dodged this because I felt I would be involved if there were any unpleasant aftermaths. No Lonely Hearts Clubs for me!"

Toperettes Make Plans For Convention

The Toperettes met Tuesday night at Stanfield cafeteria for their weekly meeting.

The meeting was opened by the members saying the club pledge. The prayer was given by Edna Lieb, followed by a fellowship song. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and approved. Roll call was answered by number of pounds gained or lost.

Alzada Middleton gave a report on the fund raising project to be held in two weeks. Names were drawn for some feather roses and went to Joy Early, Eleanor Burns and Edna Holmes. Final plans for the trip to Galveston to the state convention were discussed.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a delightful low calorie salad supper was enjoyed by the members.

Whip Up Appetites With Saucy Eggs

Saucy Eggs is an extra nourishing lunch you can whip-up on these cool fall days. Saucy Eggs uses convenience dairy products to provide needed energy and protein for growing youngsters. Economists suggest cooking the eggs in the morning so they will be ready to put into sauce at the last minute.

Shelling of the eggs will be much easier if you immerse the eggs into cold water immediately after cooking. This also helps to prevent a dark surface on yolks.

Saucy Eggs
(Serves 6)

6 eggs, hard cooked
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped chives or green onion
6 pattie shells or buttered toast

Quarter eggs. Heat soup and stir in milk, sour cream and chives. Add quartered eggs. Heat through. Spoon egg mixture into pattie shells or onto toast points.

Donated Art Rated 'Summit Quality'

By DEL MILLER
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The day of the collector is almost over,' Avery Brundage said glumly, "unless you want to spend $2 million for a painting." lion for a painting."

He didn't add that his own Oriental art collection, which he is giving to the city of San Francisco, still is growing and will keep on increasing — Brundage hopes — until it is the most important collection of its kind in the world.

The Chicago millionaire, collector and Olympic sports enthusiast was being interviewed in the basement of the M. H. DeYoung Museum. Above the basement floor and to one side the city is finishing the $2.75 million wing which will house the Brundage collection, starting June 11.

Around the 78 - year - old Brundage as he spoke were the 5,000 - odd objects of his collection being groomed for exhibit. Many of them are priceless. As Brundage phrases it, they are unique, the only specimens of their kind to survive the centuries. And, despite what he says about collecting, 300 of them were added in the past year.

In fact, in recent months there has been so much change that Yukio Yashiro, undoubtedly would revise some things he said about the collection last October.

"I was amazed at the grand scale of the Brundage collection,' said Yashiro, a 75 - year-old Oriental art expert rated by many as No. 1. "Brundage's Chinese bronzes are the finest in the world. Perhaps his Japanese and some of his Southeast Asian art are not yet up to his standard."

At the time Yashiro was speaking, Brundage was out of the country with his curator, doing something about those standards, in Japan, Korea, and through Thailand and Southeast Asia.

As a result, a hoard of fine art has flowed through the museum for final appraisal. Of these, 300 objects have been retained for the collection — including Japanses ceramics, lacquers, paintings and sculptures.

Noteworthy to the layman is the 13th Century scroll of Sutra of the Angry Dieties, preserved carefully in a Japanese Buddhist temple until recently, when the need for money caused its disposal in variance with national policy. The prayer text of the Sutra is illustrated in free, dynamic lines with color pictures of the angry dieties. It was a historic, religious and art treasure of a temple in southern Kyoto.

Delicately beautiful are a pair of the oldest lacquer statues ever found in Japan, from the 8th Century —about four feet tall, and representing Boten, a form of Brahma, and Taisakuten, which is equated with the god's Indra phase.

Oriental art consultant Rene-Yvon d'Argence said four Khmer sculptures acquired by Brundage in this last stage of buying elevate the Southeast Asia collection to "summit quality." He said the museum now ranks only behind the "Olympian" holdings of the French museum at Guimet.

"Few museums outside Asia," he added, "can hope to match either collection, since Cambodia is protecting any art remaining in that country."

The Khmer culture spread over Cambodia, Siam, part of the Malay Peninsula and Java in the 10th to 13th Centuries. New acquisitions by Brundage from this era include a life - size, crowned Vishnu, and a brown sandstone Uma (girl) representing Khmer sculpture at its apex.

He also acquired three pre-Khmer bronzes representing an advanced culture from the 5th to 10 Centuries, discovered less than a year ago.

The DeYoung Museum is making plans for a symposium to be conducted for two weeks starting next Aug. 28, to which have been invited nearly 100 Oriental scholars, museum directors, collectors and art dealers, from all over the Western world.

The purpose will be to discuss — and perhaps argue over — the sources and dating of various items in the Brundage collection, prior to the preparation of a catalog.

The experts will be divided into study groups. During the first week the Bundage wing will be closed to the public, so that the partcipants may be free to move through the collection.

Tentatively, the study groups will be closed to the public, so of Chinese bronzes, Chinese jade Buddhist sculpture, early Chinese and Japanses ceramics, decorative arts, Japanese painting, Chinese painting, Indian art and the art of Southeast Asia, Tibet and Nepal.

The home of earliest known man — Olduvia Gorge in Tanzania — has become a tourist attraction. Visitors make an arduous journey over East Africa's dusty plains to see the fossil beds where the remains of two - million - year - old manlike creatures have been unearthed by Dr. and Mrs. L. S. B. Leakey, the famed British anthropologists whose work is supported by the National Geographic Society.

MUSEUM GREETERS — A pair of 400-year-old Buddist dogs will welcome visitors to the Wing for Oriental Art at M.H. de Young Memorial Museum after it opens June 11 in San Francisco. Avery Brundage, donor of the collection to be housed in the new wing, is shown with the figures in front of shelves containing 7th Century Tong ceramics.

Mother Can Sleep In Spangles

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Courage, man! That sleeping beauty in the four-poster is your wife, the kitchen slave.

The new philosophy of the go-go age is: if baby must sleep, baby must do it beautifully. It's fashionable to look icky in bed.

Steady, man: Her sliken eyelashes won't blow away, they're designed especially to flutter as she sleeps. Those angelic lips are painted imperceptibly with a new bedtime lipstick that doesn't rub off.

And that coquettish hair curl, falling around her throat, just-so? It's the newest of hair pieces, a long romantic loop that suggests coyness, demureness in the Boticelli mood or something.

That strange scent permeating the room like an incense that suggest Chinese pagodas is her special bedtime perfume, so concentrated she has been advised to wear it drop by drop. Thrifty girl.

That heart-shaped glimmering thing on her blush-brushed shoulder? It's a mouache, and she's got 'em in all shapes—crescents, stars, dots. She has jeweled mouaches that resemble diamonds, emeralds and rubies for gluing to chin, cheek or nose on very special occasions.

It's a nice change from peanuts and cracker crumbs in bed, not isn't it. But that glamorous babe would munch herself to sleep in her new Rudi Geinrich night shift. Those price tags call for champagne.

Where are the hair curlers? Chin strap? Eye mask? Super creams for eyes, ears, throat, neck forehead and scalp and all the other concoctions that gave your bedroom that aroma of a hospital barber shop.

This is the year of the sex kitten in a cocoon of chinchilla, sable, ermine. She's been caught up in it all, the chance to play leading lady instead of bit player.

She has wardrobes of glamor for every occasion. Hair pieces for skiing, brushes for everything, special visors for sun and fun and jump suits for morning.

This is the year to live it up fashionably indoors and outdoors. A girl doesn't know what's ahead or who's ahead in this scientific age.

One must be up to date and prepared. There are things they haven't thought of—yet.

Or have they?

Days Of Lopsided Scores Over For Sec. McMamara

By SID MOODY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once upon a time Robert Strange McNamara could seemingly walk onto the field, throw a few warmup passes and then massacre his opponent, any opponent, 68-0.

"But those days of the lopsided scores are over," says an old friend of his. The secretary of defense is no longer always on offense.

In Congress, where he has scarcely lost a battle, McNamara has, as one legislative aide put it, "lost his halo." And the public seems more critical of the man whom, rightly or wrongly, it expects to win or end a war that has, rightly or wrongly, been named for him.

McNamara has been secretary of defense longer than any other man.

"In that job you use up your aassets, then you begin to accumulate liabilities," said a former Pentagon executive. But if after five years it has seemed time to some to take shots at McNamara, it also is an appropriate time to take stock of him.

Friend and foe agree almost unanimously he has been the Pentagon's best boss. The fact that the United States can fight at all in South Viet Nam without hocking the family jewels is testimony to the brilliance and foresight of his administration. The proof of the Pentagon is its ability to fight. That it is doing.

Ironically, however, it is undoubtedly the war in South Viet Nam that has put McNamara on a spot. He runs the Pentagon. The Pentagon runs the war. But he is also a major maker of Vietnamese policy second only to President Johnson. Therefore if South Viet Nam has become controversial, so inevitably has McNamara.

What, then, is his role in the controversy?

Among Johnson's advisers McNamara is first among equals," said one of the secretary's former top aides. There are probably several reasons for this beyond Johnson's admiration for those who get things done. (The President said he sleeps better at night knowing McNamara is in the Pentagon. On the other hand a former service chief says he has trouble sleeping knowing McNamara IS in the Pentaton.)

McNamara is by nature forceful, aggressive. Secretary of State Dean Rusk is quiet, reflective. "It is obvious," said a congressman, "that this difference will carry over into the cabinet."

If McNamara is playing a larger role in foreign policy than defense secretaries have heretofore, it is not solely because of personality. It is also by design.

In the Pentagon itself, McNamara has moved into actual military operations. Charles Wilson, for instance, saw his role as secretary as one of production chief. Military decisions were the military's. McNamara, who has brought civilian control to the Pentagon as no one before him, has been a five-star civilian, the day-by-day manager of the war.

"I think McNamara feels," said a man who has been very close to him, "that aside from the Indian campaigns, this war is unique in our history. Therefore all the textbook tactics of the command schools do not necessarily apply in South Viet Nam. He feels his decisions can be as valid as the military's."

The question remains, however, to what degree McNamara has the president's mind as well as his ear. McNamara is reportedly less of a hawk than Rusk. He is said to be dubious that a ground war can be completely won in South Viet Nam. President Kennedy leaned heavily on McNamara but also consulted with the service chiefs. Johnson worked solely through McNamara but reportedly is now listening more and more to the military who feel, said a former high defense official, that while wisdom has always cautioned against U.S. ground involvement in Asia, they will obey orders and fight the war as they have all others, hard and all out.

If McNamara's relations with the president should deteriorate, it would not be over a difference of opinion. He doesn't work that way.

"He never says to the President 'you should do this or that'," said a long time associate of the secretary's. "He presents the president with a set of options and leaves him the decision."

He has a devotion to duty which makes it difficult at times to distinguish whether McNamara is speaking for McNamara or Johnson. In the recent aluminum price rollback, for instance, McNamara did all the talking but the orders came from the LBJ Ranch, and until the phone rang, the secretary reportedly knew no more than any one else what was coming next. Johnson got his way. McNamara got the punishment.

All of these things have escalated a little brushfire war on the Hill. Rivers, who inclines to the military where Vinson advocated strong civilian control, has four investigations under way in his committee. An aide of one such committee sees things headed for a shootout at the O.K. Corral over the issue of whether Congress, with its constitutional power to "raise armies" has the ultimate say in the size of the armed forces or whether it is a rubber stamp, to be inked when needed.

Behind some of the noise there may simply be a feeling of reaction in Congress against a man who used to mesmerize them with streams of statistics.

"This is a town where every one is meant to be nice to dogs and old ladies," said a friend of the secretary's, "and along comes a guy who gets an 87 on the final exam where the next best secretary may have had 34. In other words, it's fun to throw snowballs at the smartest boy in the class.

And if the class be those eight men who have been secretary of defense, McNamara is almost unanimously conceded by friend and foe to stand at the head of it.

He is there because he has a brilliant mind. He was a Phi Beta Kappa at California where he majored in math, economics and philosophy. He is an amnivorous reader.

He is there because he has a trained, broadly experienced mind. "He learned accounting which he taught at the Harvard Business School," said an old friend. "In the Army he learned systems analysis and computers. At Ford he learned management and how to get things done." All play a part in his way of operating.

He has excelled because he has a questing mind. As a youth he went to sea as an ordinary seaman for the experience. "He likes to express himself to new things," said one of the "whiz kids," who came to Ford with him after the war. "Bob has some goal way up there you and I don't even see. To him it's the challenge, be it mountain climbing or the Pentagon."

He has excelled because he has a disciplined mind. "When it's business, it's business and he is as cold as can be," said a former Ford colleague. "You better be damned sure of your ground because chances are 99-1 he's better prepared than you are."

Junior Editors Quiz on MAGNETS

QUESTION: If mercury is a metal, why can't a magnet pick it up?

ANSWER: It's true that mercury is a metal even though we commonly see in liquid form. But mercury does not belong to the ferromagnetic group of metals. "Ferrous" means pertaining to iron, and iron is the chief metal affected by magnetism, others being nickel and cobalt. This is why the mercury in the thermometer is paying no attention to Jimmy's magnet, while the iron nails are hanging by their heads.

While iron is the chief metal used in making magnets, it is often combined with other ferromagnetic metals in what are called alloys. There is still much to be learned about magnetism. Many scientists, however, explain it by the idea that the minute molecules in iron are all jumbled together, but that when it is magnetized, they are then lined up in orderly rows. Then, these scientists say, they can exert an attraction all together, for each molecule attracts others. This group attraction can reach out beyond the magnetized metal and do strange things, like picking up nails.

FOR YOU TO DO: Become familiar with magnets and magnetism. You'll be amazed to find the great extent to which magnets are used in our modern world. 2-26

Stuffed Lobster Tails

It might be hard for us to believe that early New England settlers staved off starvation by eating lobster. Today, we enjoy this sea food for its sumptuousness of flavor and texture. And, we have an added bounty from the deep, lobster tails from faraway waters, frozen and ready for cooking. Meaty and tasty, they are just right for stuffing. Briefly, here's how. Carefully cut away undershells from 4 cooked lobster tails (½ pound each). Remove and cube the meat, setting the outer shells aside. Mix ¼ cup butter or margine which has been melted together with ¼ cup each of lemon juice and milk, ¾ cup each of packaged bread stuffing mix and coarse cracker crumbs. Add cubed lobster. To stuff: Place lobster shells on their sides in a baking pan, allowing the tails to curl around. Fill each shell with 1 cup of the stuffing mixture and tie into a circle with heavy string. Sprinkle paprika over stuffing and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove string from shells before serving. Serves 4.

Note to brides: if you are planning to learn to bake pies, equip your kitchen with a wire pastry blender, a pastry cloth and a stockinet cover for the rolling pin. You'll find the pastry cloth and covered rolling pin will also be a great aid in rolling out cookie dough.

NEW LOOK IN GALLEYS . . . Modern boats like this Hatteras 41 footer have all the conveniences of a land kitchen, three-burner electric stove, refrigerator, can opener, automatic ice cube maker.

Boats Made To Live On

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

We shouldn't have a housing problem while we have those great big oceans on tap! More people are living at sea and loving it. Children go off to college or get married and parents trade housekeeping for boatkeeping. Home is one or another marina or port most of the time. A small apartment on land is all that is needed for times when going gets rough.

The boat home has brought lots of changes to boats in the last few years. For one thing you don't have to walk around bending and stoop - shouldered in galleys or bedrooms. The average boat has more headroom, more sitting room, more everything. Boats are designed for sturdiness and easy maintenance.

If women are going to live on boats, comfort, color, conveniences must be stressed said Doris Slane of High Point, N.C., at the recent National Motor Boat Show in New York. She has parlayed her own sewing machine into a boat decorating business.

It all started six years ago when her late husband Willis decided to ditch his hosiery business and make boats. Boats? thought Mrs. Slane. It seemed unrealistic when you lived 250 miles from water.

But how realistic it was has been proven. In six years the company has had 650 boats in the 28 to 50 - footer class slide from their cradles into the brink, considered phenomenal for a new company. Doris Slane sewing machine has been whizzing ever since.

"I took the machine right down to that first boat and made everything on board — slip-covers, the little throw pillows curtains, contoured sheets and bunk covers. I began to look for comfortable, easy - care furniture," she explains.

She was saving pennies for the company as well as putting a homey touch on board. The first molds for their fiber - glass boat designed by a naval architect cost $250,000. By then, practically all the businessmen in High Point were financially involved in the venture, she says. It was like a town project. They were all fishermen who were always complaining about the high cost of boat upkeep in the rough waters of Cape Hatteras. They wanted to try a new building idea.

That was how the burgeoning company put her in business more or less full time.

She likes colors of water on board. Green was a color usually avoided in boat decoration, particularly yellow - greens, "but it is amazing how many people want greens now," she says. Perhaps it reminds them of the grass around the old homestead. But whatever, green is going to sea.

She shops everywhere for the just - right chairs. Rattan and vinyl combinations are favorites for durability and easy cleanability. Boats are shown with lamps, tumblers, all the things that make them look livable.

On their 41 - foot carpeted boat, the galley would be a delight even for a landlubber. It has 10 to 14 cubic foot refrigerator, automatic ice chest, sliding cupboard doors faced with a pebbly glass.

Bathrooms too are a far cry from old - fashioned boat heads — a smaller edition of the posh type you'd like to have at home with sink built into cabinets, shower, handsome sea - motif wallpaper with matching curtains on track rods. There are closets and storage cabinets.

In the beginning a man usually must sell his wife on a boat, Mrs. Slane has observed. But soon she takes the same attitude about it as she does about her home — she wants the surroundings to be cheerful and conveniences to which she is accustomed.

There are all sorts of optional features — hi fi and air conditioning. Some companies make ladders an optional feature. "But you can't fly aboard, so it should come with the boat," says Mrs. Slane.

But regardless of how well a boat is decorated, people buy it for the well - engineered, seaworthiness of the vessel, she says. That's the first requirement and it always will be.

Though her husband failed to survive a heart attack, she is happy that he lived "to see his dream come true." Mrs. Slane has three sons, Bill, 15, Tom, 11, and Bob, 8, and she continues to operate the boat business.

The full skirt was made up of rhinestone and pearl trimmed tiers which ended in a long tram. The back of the waist was trimmed with a mum-shaped flower and satin ribbon.

Her finger - tip length veil of illusion tulle and Chantilly lace tirm fell from a pillbox crown made of tulle trimmed with simulated pearls. She had the traditional penny in her shoe and wore a blue garter given to her by her mother-in-law.

She carried a white lace-covered Bible which held a bouquet of a pale pink orchid nestled in Hyacinth blooms and Lilies of the Valley. Bridal wreath bedecked the white satin streamers.

ON THE HOUSE

How do you like your walls? In willow green, mayfair beige or mint frost? Or do you perfer colony yellow, ballerina pink or silver bell?

Those are the actual names of some modern paint colors. And pretty as they are (we've seen them), the king of the hill once again is off-white.

It happens year after year. New, delicate shades hit the market to blend with sophisticated decorating trends, only to have off-white walk off with the leadership in popularity. A research report shows that off-white did it again in 1965, a tribute to its neutral ability to serve as a fine background for furnishings of all types and colors.

White also remains the favorite for house exteriors. It makes a structure look larger than it is, simply because it is such a fine reflector of light. When used on a roof, it makes the roof seem to be farther away and so appear higher. In fact, any color lighter than the body of the house will have this effect to some degree.

Colors of all kinds play some part in seeming to change the dimensions of the house. They also do much towards minimizing objectionable features and emphasizing good ones. If, for example, a chimney is too large and out of proportion with the rest of the house, it can be made far less noticeable by painting it the same color as the roof. Or, if it forms part of one of the walls, it would be painted the same color as the siding.

When a roof looks too high, paint it a dark color. When a house has too many "busy" additions — such as gables, cupolas, dormers, etc. — paint them the same color as the roof to make them less conspicuous.

In the commendable effort to make their houses different from their neighbors, some persons make the mistake of using outlandish color combinations. Their houses become different all right, but the attention they get is hardly flattering. In selecting a color for the exterior of your house, pick one that will blend in with those of your neighbors' homes.

Incidentally, in that 1965 research report, pastel yellow and beiges were next in popularity to off-white in interior finishes, with light gray runnng second to white in exterior finishes.

QUESTION: The double tubs in our basement occasionally get three or four inches of water in them even when the tub faucets have not been turned on. I have tried using a chemical cleaner, running a wire "snake" down the drain, using a rubber plunger and cleaning out the trap at the bottom of the tub. But no matter what I do, the water just takes its own good time going down the drain, usually at the rate of an inch or so an hour. We are connected to a sewer. Can you tell me what is wrong and how to correct it?

ANSWER: Since the water collects in the tubs even when the tub faucets are not turned on, the chances that this water is backing up from the main soil line. You are fortunate that so far it has not backed up enough to spill over onto the basement floor, or even worse, backed up into the regular house line and overflowed a plumbing fixture on the ground floor. If you don't get it fixed in a hurry, this is what inevitably will occur. The backup is caused by a clogging within the main soil line, either the portion inside the house or that leading from the house to the sewer. In the latter case, the condition often is the result of tree roots that have worked their way through the seams into the pipe. In the former, it could be a long-time accumulation of hardened grease or even some large object, such as a toy, that may have been thrown into the toilet bowl. Unless you have the proper equipment or knowledge to do the job, and your local ordinance permits it, you should get a plumber at once. He will open the soil line in the basement and attempt to unclog the pipe with an electrical "snake" that has a propeller - like apparatus at the end of it.

Red Cupboard Relish

1 can (1 pound) sliced beets
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut
2 to 3 tablespoons light brown sugar

Drain beets, reserving ¼ cup of the juice; chop beets fine. Into a saucepan turn the ¼ cup beet juice, chopped beets, undrained sauerkraut and brown sugar. Mix well and let bubble gently until very hot and flavors blend—about 10 minutes. With a slotted spoon, remove to serving dish. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Stuffed Pike, Ichthyophogist's Delight

What is an ichthyophagist? One who enjoys eating fish. A super ichthyophagist is one who enjoy eating baked stuffed pike. This is not a small gourmet group by any means. A baked pike — or trout, for that matter — plumped out with a Tomato Cheese Bread Stuffing is bound to increase society membership by means of a taste test. For the stuffing: Simmer together ½ cup tomato cheese sauce, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning, a dash of pepper, and 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Moisten 1 quart of ½-inch, soft bread cubes with the sauce. For 3 generous servings, use ½ cup of the mix to stuff a 2-pound pike and close the opening with skewers or toothpicks. Brush both sides of the stuffed pike with a mixture of 1 tablespoon melted butter and ⅛ teaspoon paprika and place in a buttered baking pan. Shape remaining stuffing into 6 balls and arrange these around the pike. Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove skewers and serve on a hot platter with wedges of lemon. Serves 3.

Folk Scene Bitterly Related

SHAME, SHAME ON THE JOHNSON BOYS! By Joel Oliansky.

The strange world of professional folk singers is the setting for this racy, gamey comic novel.

Oliansky takes you right into the scene with an episode in which impresario Wiliard McAllister hauls Half-Dead Hawkins, an old-time Negro street singer, in and out of a Texas jail, and off to New York for a promotional buildup.

McAllister also arranges the formation of a new trio—Dave, Ben and Gil, two guitars and a banjo—right under the nose of a rival promoter.

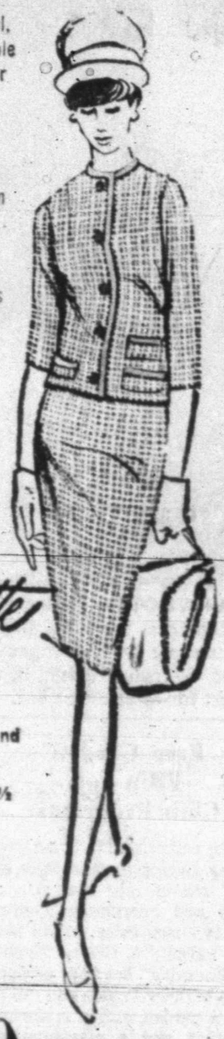

The trio becomes involved in several complications, one of which is a nymphomaniac named Sonya. Another is Ben's growing megalomania.

The early part of the narrative is keyed to a hootenanny, and in this scene the comedy is mild and almost sympathetic It becomes more bitter when the author lampoons many of the industry's odd facets—the arty pretensions, the scheming of the agents, the publicity tricks, the fancy stunts in the recording business, the phony hangers-on.

Oliansky plunks a mean banjo, as they used to say in the trade.

The popular restaurant is open 24 hours a day and has accommodations for group meetings.

Wilson Assumes Tractor Agency

Faith in the future of the East Highway area was one of the reasons that Wilson Motors, Ford and Mercury dealers, moved to their location there in the latter part of 1959.

The firm needed space for expansion. The 11-acre site on the East Highway was chosen as the one offering the best location for that growth. And the wisdom of the move has been reflected in the continual growth of Wilson Motors since the move.

Wilson Motors took a big leap forward last September when the Ford Tractor Agency was added. The business is now known as Wilson Motors and Tractors. This caused an increase in personnel and annual payroll.

Wilson Motors now has plenty of room; room to display new and used cars—room to have a large, well - equipped maintenance and service department —room for a modern body and paint shop.

Bill Wilson, owner of Wilson Motors, feels that space in which to work contributes to the quality of the work done. This quality work done is one of the features that is making Wilson Motors the popular automotive service center that it is.

Actually, the majority of employes at Wilson Motors have been with the firm long enough to become "associated" with the business. They take pride in their work.

Part of their pride in their work comes from the fact that they are well trained. Employes of Wilson Motors attend clinics and training schools sponsored by the Ford Motor Company to keep Ford sales and service employes abreat of the very latest techniques.

These well - trained service personnel at Wilson Motors are there to stand behind the Ford Company's advice to "take your Ford home for service." Not only are the personnel well - trained, but they have the factory designed equipment at hand to analyze and repair any trouble.

A car suited to everyone, whether he wants the economy of a Falcon or the luxury and prestige of a Thunderbird is found at Wilson Motors.

The friendly sales staff at Wilson Motors will welcome the opportunity of demonstrating the Ford and Mercury automobiles and rugged Ford trucks.

Wilson Motors is easy to find —it's on the busy East Highway.

He said 17 other counties reported cases of "influenza-like disease."

Tipton added, however, "there have been no laboratory confirmed cases of influenza."

Denson's Is Sports Mecca

Harold Denson's Gulf Service Station at 300 East Highway is more than just a service station. It's a mecca for the sportsman.

In addition to finding receptive ears for his story about the one that got away, the fisherman can find just what he needs to keep the next one from being another that got away.

If the sportsman needs a boat, he need go no further than Denson's. There he'll find the Lone Star, Larson and Texas Maid lines of boats. Among the choices offered is the very one he can't get along without.

To make his boat go, the boat owner can find a Mercury or Johnson motor that's just right for his boat at Denson's. To keep that motor running at peak power and efficiency, he can call on Tom Machen at Denson's. Machen is one of the finest boat motor mechanics in the state.

Also featured at Denson's Gulf Service are Cushman motor scooters and golf carts, both electric and gasoline powered. So whether the sport is fishing, skiing, boating, hunting, or golf, Denson's, on the East Highway, is where sportsmen go sooner or later.

Denson has also added a nice selection of used cars on a lot across the street from his service station.

New Owners Uphold 66 Good Name

The 66 Cafe on the East Highway, long known for its good food and service, continues to build that reputation under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Franklin, who became the new owners Dec. 15 of last year.

Because of its location and the nearby access streets, the 66 Cafe is easily reached quickly from any area of the town.

The 66 Cafe is one of the "old" and dependable businesses on the East Highway, having opened its doors in 1950 under the ownership of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hodges. Since that time it has grown and prospered along with the East Highway.

The reputation for good food and service at the 66 Cafe is not only known in Snyder, but in far-off areas also. Traveling people from all parts of the United States seek out the 66 Cafe when they are passing through this area.

The restaurant's location on the East Highway, alongside the Super 66 Service, makes it covenient for travelers on the busy East Highway, and the large free parking area makes the 66 convenient for Snyderites as well.

Open 24 hours a day, the 66 features all types of good food, specializing in Mexican food, seafood, sandwiches, cold plates or steaks at any hour of the day or night. Fast service is another feature of the 66 Cafe. This is a service appreciated by each and every patron.

Nursery Has Complete Line

Contributing to the beautification of Snyder is the Snyder Nursery which is located at 1306 Twenty - fifth Street.

Snyder Nursery is the only business of its type in Scurry County and carries a complete line of nursery stock.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Eoff, owners and operators of the business, said that this is the time of year to plant fruit trees, pecan trees and roses. By getting busy now, and deciding what is needed, and where it should go, the homeowner can take another step in beautification of his property, which reflects the beauty of the city as well.

Eoff is a graduate landscaping designer with over 20 years experience.

Often it is late spring when a person finally decides what he wants. Then it might be too late for the type of plant to be successfully planted for this season.

Snyder Nursery is ready now to do the job. They have the stock and the experience. All they need to know is what the customer wants and where he wants it.

From a single fruit tree to a complete landscaping job, Snyder Nursery is headquarters in Snyder for those who want beauty.

In addition to the complete nursery stock, the firm also handles plant foods, fertilizers, and other necessary garden accessories. They are glad to give advice as to the proper use of these items as well as making suggestions in any of a where the customer may have a question.

Beacon Offers Comfort And Fine Food

Floyd and Betty Boston, owners and operators of the Beacon Motor Lodge, have been in business in Snyder for the past 16 years. They purchased the motel three years ago.

The Beacon is located on the East Highway at the Y of 84 and 208 highways and is easily accessible to the traveler.

The Beacon Restaurant is open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and features a large variety of foods. The restaurant is not only popular with the traveler, but also with the residents of the area who like good foods, served in a friendly atmosphere. If you desire a delicious thick, prime steak, seafood, sandwiches, home made pastries and soup, you'll find them at the Beacon.

Another specialty of the Beacon Restaurant is a fish plate served daily with three to five kinds of fish on the plate. Also exceptionally popular with people of this area is the Sunday special (fried chicken) and Cherry-O cream cheese icebox pie. They have orders to go, just phone in, and have a thriving catering business also.

The Beacon holds membership in the AAA, Key City Club, Law Enforcement Officers Association of Texas and Snyder Chamber of Commerce. They honor credit cards of American Express, Carte Blanche and Diners Club. The family are members of the First Methodist Church and Boston is a member of the Lions Club. Their two children are Connie, 11, and Ronnie 9.

Among the many conveniences offered by the Beacon are swivel picture tube T. V. with sleeper and wake up TV controls at your discretion, all downstairs rooms so that you can park at your door, background music taped to all rooms and restaurant, large swimming pool and a 10 acre playground.

The Beacon has received complimentary letters from people all over the world who have stopped at the motel and have written back to tell how they enjoyed their stay in Snyder. A scrapbook is kept in the lobby of the motel containing these letters.

The Bostons welcome travelers and local guests at the motel and make every effort to make their stay a pleasant one.

Les Francis Is Stubborn — Just Won't Be Out-Traded

Les Francis doesn't mind admitting that he's a stubborn man - especially when it comes to making a trade. He doesn't like to miss a sale, and if given a chance he can be more stubborn than an ordinary mule. He's a lot more like Francis, the army mule of movie fame. Just give him an opportunity and he will give you the best deal you have ever made on a new or used car.

Francis is determined to give the customer the very best possible price. His excellent and experienced sales force does everything possible to insure complete satisfaction with every car or truck before delivery, and they stand firmly behind it after the sale.

Stopping by Les Francis Chevrolet at 711 25th St. is just like being at a shopping center in the automotive field. It is really four businesses in one. There you will find new and used cars, a parts department, a service department, and a body shop. All of these are operated with the best interests of the customer in mind.

Francis keeps an excellent inventory of new cars at all times. He has a very good selection in all body styles of cars and trucks ready for immediate delivery. The used cars are thoroughly reconditioned. As Francis puts it, "We wholesale the lemons and sell you the plums". The better cars, the "OK" used cars, carry a 25-month warranty.

The service department, headed by Tommy Graves, is fully staffed with all-Chevrolet factory trained technicians. Chili Childress is in charge of the parts department, which has one of the most complete parts inventories in West Texas. This is instrumental in helping to insure prompt and efficient repair of your car.

The body shop, supervised by Andy Killian, is rapidly gaining the reputation of turning out top-quality work. At this shop they are capable of repairing any model car and do excellent work, whether it is a minor or major repair job, collision repair, repainting, or what-have-you.

If you even think that you may be in the market for an automobile or any thpe of automobile service, then give Les Francis a chance. That's all he asks.

Paper was first made in America in 1690 at a mill near Philadelphia, owned by William Ritterhouse and William Bradford.

Ballard's Cafe, owned and operated by Carl Ballard, a man with over 20 years experience in this type of business, offers a fine selection of foods at all hours. The cafe is popular with Snyder residents, tourist and truckers.

Ballard's Truck Stop Service Station is operated by Jerry Rose. Rose has been in the service station business for the past nine years.

The station offers discounts to truckers, repairs, flats of all types, and has a parking space to accomodate fifty trucks. Road service is also offered by the firm.

At present Darlene Lee, an experienced operator, is assisting in servicing the customers of the shop during the absence of Jonell.

O'Rear's Oldest Furniture Store

Snyder's oldest furniture business is that of O'Rear Furniture, Co. 904 Twenty - sixth Street, just off the East Highway.

Owned by M. M. O'Rear, the store was established here prior to the oil boom in 1948, by L. C. Carmichael and Mr. O'Rear. O'Rear, a native Texan, had moved here from Altus, Okla. where he had lived most of his life, and Carmichael had moved here from Post, where he operated a variety store for about 20 years.

The store, originally on the courthouse square, was moved to its present location in 1950, where more parking was available.

O'Rear bought sole ownership of the store when Carmichael retired in 1954.

The store has a complete line of furnishings for the entire home, including Norge and Gibson appliances and a full stock of furnishings for living - room, dining room, bedroom, den and occasional use.

The firm has Westwood, Basset, Broy-Hill, and others in living room suites, as well as chairs by Broy-Hill, Stratolounger, Swing King, and others.

In the bedroom line it has the well - known Tell City line, in maple, and many others, Taylor bedding, Dell Peeples and Morning Glory matfresses and U. S. Koylon foam rubber are among those in the bedding line.

The firm also features Sandran plastic and Armstrong rugs.

The store is open six days a week from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Also working at the store are Leo Heath and Clara Buchanan.

ERWIN FURNITURE'S New Location, 1101 Twenty-fifth.

Erwin Furniture In New Location

Erwin Furniture, owned and operated by Grady Erwin, has purchased the building formerly occupied by Cash Food Store located at 1101 Twenty - fifth Street.

The new store has over three times the floor space for display of merchandise and makes it possible for Erwin Furniture to show a much larger selection of every type of furniture for the home.

The firm opened for business in March 1964 at 603 East Highway and has had an active business since its beginning.

Erwin has been connected with retail establishments in Snyder since 1949, when he moved here from Dallas. Before opening his own business he was connected with another Snyder furniture firm and gained invaluable experience as to the types of furniture desired by West Texas buyers.

Early American, contemporary and other types of furniture are on display in a wide selection of colors. Popular makes of bedroom furniture, dinettes, bedding and other home furnishings are featured at Erwin's.

Some of the popular brands featured are Ballman - Cummings, A-Brandt, Bassett, Falcon Dinettes and Garrison bedroom and dining room furniture.

Grady invites the residents of this area to come in and browse around in his new location that offers ample parking space for convenient parking.

Carlos' Cafe Popular Spot

One of the most popular eating places in Snyder is Carlos' Little Mexico, located on the East Highway next door to Wilson Motors.

Some of the best-liked dinners at Carlos's are the Special Mexican Dinner and the Mexican Dinner. The Ladies Special and Carlos Special Combination are especially on the favorite list.

If it is Mexican food that you want to eat, Carlos has a selection second to none in West Texas, but he will serve you steaks or seafoods, including their popular shrimp. The choice club steaks come in 8 oz. and 14 oz. sizes.

Carlos' stresses that they are more than happy to fix orders to go. Just call and your order will be ready to go when you arrive.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Mijares own and operate the cafe. They have been in business in Snyder for 11 years and at their present location for four and one-half years. Seating capacity at the Little Mexico exceeds 100. Also available are two banquet rooms which may be reserved for parties or meetings.

Home Town Motor Offers Wide Choice

One of the best selections of used cars in Snyder is found on the East Highway.

Pinkie Ferguson and Sam Stephens owners and operators of Home Town Motor Sales at 1100 Twenty-fifth Street, have more than 35 good used cars in stock.

The cars range from a few low - priced older work cars up to nearly - new models which can hardly be told from brand - new cars. Also, Home Town Motor Sales can arrange for the purchase of brand new cars through their "custom buying" plan.

If a person has a need for a certain type of car, either new or used, Home Town Motors can, if given just a few hours, usually locate just what the customer wants. The car can be purchased by Home Town Motors at far less than could an individual.

By the same token, Home Town Motors can sell that car to the customer at a low price too because they have not had to have any operating capital invested in the "merchandise" for any length of time.

Financing, of course, can be arranged on any car, new or used, that is purchased from Home Town Motors.

Home Town Motors is a local firm, owned by local people. Stephens and Ferguson have worked together since 1950. In 1957 they formed the Home Town partnership, and since that time they have sold literally thousands of cars in Snyder. Many people have "traded up" several times at Home Town.

What this means is, that Home Twon Motors has a good reputation, built on many years of fair dealing. Further, they intend to stay in business, and to keep that reputation for fair dealing.

A customer deals with confidence when he deals at Home Town Motor Sales.

Beauty Event Set

MINERAL WELLS (AP)—Miss Possum Kingdom will be crowned here April 30 and the beauty contest winner will enter the Miss Texas Pageant. The event is named for Possum Kingdom Lake nearby.

Downtown 66 Convenient To Store Area

Joneil Smallwood has owned and operated the Downtown 66 for over 4 years. He purchased the station from Steve Birdwell in January 1962.

The station, one block east of the Snyder square on Twenty-fifth Street is conveniently located to the downtown area.

The location permits shoppers or those employed downtown to leave the car for service and pick it up at their convenience. The firm also offers free pick-up and delivery service anywhere in Snyder.

Several services not offered by most service stations are to be found at Smallwood's. Motor washing, undercoating, brake adjustment and quality washing and lubrication are all featured along with Preston milk.

Smallwood's 66 is also local agent for the Nationwide system of trailer rentals. A trailer may be rented here and returned in almost any city in the United States. Trailers may also be rented for local use.

The Downtown 66 is well known for the fine service that it offers to the customer and the special care and attention given to every automobile that drives in for service. Joneil says, "I am here to stay, so why not trade with a local merchant that will be here when you need service."

Jack & Jack Busy Spot

One of Snyder's busiest realty men got into the business as something of a sideline to augment his current home - building projects back in 1950 and found it so hustling that it crowded other phases of his activities entirely out.

The man fitting this unusual description is L. A. McClanahan who is known variously under his own name and under the name of Jack & Jack Realty Co.

The Jack & Jack business dates back a year further, being founded by a son-in-law, Jack Smith with Jack LaRue, who operated the firm a year before selling out to McClanahan.

Originally established on the East Highway, the firm moved from there to a downtown location, but several years ago purchased a building and moved back to the East Highway. That address is 611 East Highway.

The firm deals in all types of properties, including rentals, residential, commercial, and farm and ranch property. They also manage income properties and serve as leasing agents for business buildings.

Trucks Are Custom Built

Snyder Truck and Tractor has been one of the real reliable businesses on the East Highway for years. It has continually expanded in services and equipment offered over the years.

Snyder Truck and Tractor was purchased on August 1, 1964, by Jim McCaleb, Clifford Terry and Charles McCaleb, Jr. Under their ownership the concern is constantly improving its service and merchandise in order to give complete satisfaction to the customer.

The International Harvesters tractors and trucks have a reputation of dependability and long service. Custom - built trucks are tailored to meet a man's exact needs. The parts department is constantly being expanded so that the customer can get what he needs when he needs it.

Trained service personnel are on hand to service the more complicated machinery that farmers need to meet farming requirements.

Sands Clean And Modern

The Sands Motel, located on the East Highway, is operated by Mr. & Mrs. L. H. Dean.

Mr. & Mrs. Dean came to Snyder last April from Brownfield, where they spent 25 years in the automobile business.

The motel is conveniently located to three large cafes and features in-room coffee.

Fifty refrigerated air conditioned units make the Sands one of the largest and most modern motels in the Snyder area. Among the conveniences and comfort attractions in the clean motel are telephones in the rooms and television of desired.

Special weekly rates are available to longer than overnight customers.

DALLAS (AP)—Mayor Erik Jonsson has been named to the board of the Independent College Funds of America, Inc., a firm representing 504 colleges from coast to coast.

Jonsson is chairman of the board of Texas Instruments Inc., and is active in the affairs of several universities.

'Old' Customers Boost All-State

Once a person decided to enjoy the extra benefits that members of the Allstate family of policy holders enjoy, that persons becomes important to the Allstate Company.

Ever since Allstate Insurance started operation in 1931 a customer has been important. In that year they had about 4,000 customers, each of whom had clipped a coupon in the Sears Roebuck catalog.

It wasn't until 1934 that agents were placed in Sears stores to handle the insurance phase of the business, but coupons were still included in the catalogs for several years thereafter.

As a matter of fact, one Allstate customer who is served by the local agent, Derrell Parrish, purchased his insurance through a catalog coupon back in 1938.

This is what Allstate wants. New customers are welcome, because it is they who Allstate can make into "old" customers. And the "old", satisfied customers are the company's best advertisement—it's they who help spread the word of the exceptional service offered by Alstate.

Starting with auto insurance only, Allstate has grown into all areas of insurance underwriting, including fire, life, hospitalization, theft, boat commercial, and homeowners insurance.

Parrish will welcome the opportunity to discuss anyone's insurance needs or program. He may be reached at the Sears store at 608 East Highway, or by calling HI 3-5821.

Pat Boasts Good Buys On Autos

Shopping for a good automotive buy is easy at Pat Buick-Pontiac - GMC Company on Snyder's East Highway.

Used car trade-ins and brand new Buicks, Pontiacs, and GMC trucks are all available at prices that make them real values. For example, a brand-new Buick Special is priced at just $2,332 at Pat Buick - Pontiac-GMC.

And not only does the customer get the benefit of lower prices from a franchised dealer, he gets the benefit of that dealer's excellent service department. The new - car warranty and the inspections are a part of each new car sale at Pat Buick - Pontiac — a franchised new car dealer.

Some new car buyers have shopped around the area for their new cars. Most of them have found that they wasted their home and gasoline—their best buy was right here at home at Pat Buick - Pontiac - GMC.

The firm was established on the East Highway in Snyder in 1959. Pat Underwood, owner, came to Snyder from Winters where he had successfully operated a Buick and Pontiac agency for 10 years. The GMC truck line was added in 1961, and later in 1961 a new building was added to house the firm's body shop.

Butane Firm Sells Service

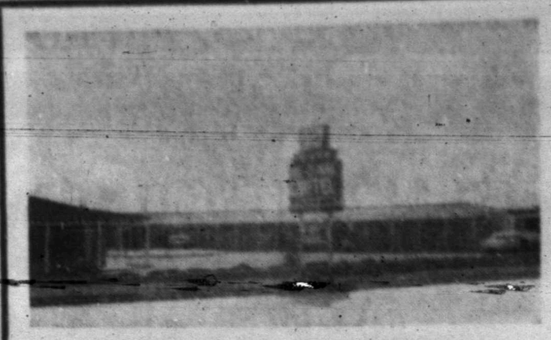

Proof that good service makes for satisfied customers is offered by Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Houston, operators of the Scurry Butane Co., 1012 Twenty - fifth Street.

Some of their customers have been "regulars" since the firm was established over 27 years ago, and it is to these long-time customers and to the new ones too, that Mr. Houston says "Thanks!"

"Without our customers there would be no need for us to be here," said Mr. Houston, "so we thank each and every one of them for making our business possible. We hope to be here for another 27 years, and we promise to give the very best service we can," he added.

Scurry Butane is the dealer in Snyder for O'Keefe and Merrit butane ranges, Dearborn butane heaters, Dearborn air conditioners, American Standard water heaters, DX and Amalie motor oils and a number of small appliances.

The store is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. six days a week.
