The Lad Who Rose In The Air

By Glenn Shelton

It was an incredible story indeed the one about the 11 year-old boy who was whisked to 3,000 feet as he dangled by a rope from a balloon in Mill Valley, California, the other day.

I'm sure you read the account of little Danny Nowell — how he grabbed a rope with some other boys to help

I also can appreciate the lad's feelings because I voluntarily rode to the top of Channel three's television tower sitting on a metal ball and holding to the cable.

But to be holding to a rope so high up that people look like ants, not knowing whether or not the balloonist would ever see you and descend, would be enough to frighten an adult, let alone a kid, right out of his wits.

NO DOUBT THOSE MEMORIES WILL RETURN IN HIS NIGHTMARES FOR MANY YEARS TO COME. IT WAS AN EXPERIENCE VERY FEW MUST ENDURE.

OFF ON A TANGENT — Anent my column on "Wild Bill" Owens, R. G. Rickards sent me this little story.

"Among the students of one of our well-known colleges some years ago was a young man who was obliged to walk with crutches. He was a stumbling, homely sort of human being, but he was a genius for intelligence, friendliness and optimism.

LBJ Announces Nuclear Cutback

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union moved Monday to ease the atomic arms race by cutting back production of nuclear explosive material.

President Johnson first revealed the plan to American newspaper publishers at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press, worldwide news cooperative.

"We think we will reduce tension while we maintain all the necessary power," the President said.

Then, in a departure from his prepared text, Johnson went on: "We must not operate a WPA nuclear project, just to provide employment when our needs have been met."

"This is not disarmament. This is not a declaration of peace. But it is a hopeful sign and it is a step forward which we welcome, and which we can take in hope that the world may yet, one day, live without the fear of war."

Shortly afterward, from Moscow, came a similar announcement in which Premier Khrushchev hailed the cutback as "an opportunity for improving mutual understanding with other states on the necessity of avoiding a nuclear war."

Washington sources described the nuclear cutback as a completely separate but parallel action on the part of the world's two foremost atomic powers. No deal was involved, these sources added.

Senator Cites Highway Values

VERNON, Tex. (Special) — "Highways are the lifeblood of our society," Sen. John Tower of Wichita Falls told members of the U.S. 287 Highway Association Monday night at a dinner in the Wilbarger Memorial Auditorium.

"Highway building provides something for generations yet to come," Tower commented. "Without highways we cannot prosper. With them, we can pass on to our children a better society than we came in to."

The senator commended the association for promoting the system of free enterprise... "the system to build, to maintain the main thoroughfares in this country, which will provide our people the best highways we can afford."

Discussing the American free enterprise system, Tower said, "Some say it has run its course. I suggest this is not true. Free enterprise is the great manifestation of popular rule. There is no democracy like economic democracy, and we can have no political democracy without economic democracy."

"Business is becoming more hamstrung by the government," Tower noted. "Our tax structure is tentative, with the government penalizing businessmen for making money by taxation." He de-

U.S. Warns Castro Against Shooting Down U.S. Planes

Twister Hovers In Air In Path Of April 3 Storm

By NATHAN FAIN Weather-wary Wichitans scrambled Monday afternoon when two protean tornadoes retraced the tragic April 3 twister's path over the west edge of the city, but neither officially touched ground.

However, a frantic mother — racing with her children to her parents' storm cellar in Pleasant Valley — collided broadside with a motorist at Farm Road 367 and Huntington Lane, seriously injuring four.

She is Mrs. Roberta Knowles, 22, and her children are six-year-old Angela and two-year-old Kent. Driving a 1962 Falcon station wagon which hit the Knowles' 1956 Buick was Gerald Franks, 36. All are residents of the Pleasant Valley area where winds strafed farmland.

The accident occurred almost as the cloud mass was moving over the area at 5:30 p.m. Mrs. Knowles was rounding an "S" curve on the narrow road as she headed for the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Rogers.

Funnels Sighted Police reported clouds forming into distinct funnels at 5:15 p.m. near Farm Road 369 and Seymour Highway.

At that time, all of 22 city schools had delivered collections. The drive was from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday, with thousands of volunteers walking blocks to help collect funds for Cancer Research.

County crusade chairman, Dr. Jerry Hathorn, said at the close of the annual drive, "All workers have been extremely devoted in planning and carrying out the drive — especially the school district chairmen. We are very grateful to the hundreds of..."

Aerial Observation Flights To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States served notice on Monday that its planes will continue to fly over Cuba. It warned Fidel Castro that use of any newly acquired Soviet missiles against these aircraft would create a highly dangerous situation.

The warning was issued by the State Department as high officials, expressed concern about what may happen if and when the Cuban prime minister gets control of advanced anti-aircraft rockets previously Russian-made.

The officials said they do not know what the Soviets will do about the 24 surface-to-air missile installations now that they are withdrawing the last of their combat troops from Cuba. The modern missiles were installed during the 1962 Soviet buildup and one shot down a U.S. U2 reconnaissance plane during the missile crisis.

The officials said that there is a possibility that the Soviets will turn over control to Castro and the United States is concerned over what the Cuban Communist dictator will do in that event. They noted that Castro declared Sunday that Cuba would tolerate no further overflights by U.S. plane and implied he is ready to use force.

Against this background, press officer Richard I. Phillips noted that the U.S. aerial inspection which has been going on since 1962 is "a substitute for the on-site inspection agreed to by the Soviets, but which Fidel Castro refused to permit."

Declaring that the surveillance flights will continue, Phillips reminded newsmen that the flights by U.S. planes and impositions by the Organization of American States at the time of the 1962 crisis. The flights are intended to make sure that the Soviets do not sneak long-range offensive weapons back into the Caribbean island.

Phillips said the Soviets have not told the United States what their intentions are on the missiles or on the pull-out of troops, who numbered some 22,000 at the height of the crisis.

He described as "speculation" an estimate that the last large group of Soviet troops will be out of Cuba in about two weeks.

Johnson Hopeful For Rail Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) President Johnson was described by a high source Monday as optimistic for settlement of the railroad crisis following reported tentative agreement on about a dozen issues.

The report from a highly reliable source who could not be quoted by name came after an earlier White House announcement that "some definite gains" had been made in efforts to avert a nationwide strike next Saturday.

Final draft of a letter to Attorney General Waggoner Carr from trustees of the Wichita Falls Independent School District was mailed late Sunday by Marvin Pierce, attorney for the board, following several revisions.

"The revisions did not change the three questions asked of the attorney general. We only made brief changes in the wording of the formal application," Pierce continued.

Members of the school board, in a called meeting Friday afternoon, voted to ask Carr to rule on these questions:

1. Did the school board have the authority to reopen ballot boxes at the time of formal canvassing of the votes in a meeting Monday, April 13?

2. Can a district court order a recount in the absence of a showing of misconduct or other irregularities which would have (Continued on Page 4)

Storm Gets Wide Berth

By DAN COLEMAN

A giant turbulent weather cell which developed in the Lake Kemp area at mid-afternoon Monday boiled into an ominous fast-moving storm and swept northeast through Wichita Falls, across the Red River and 55 miles east across the southern Oklahoma border by nightfall.

The weather activity became intense about 4 p.m. and Texas Highway Patrol units from Seymour, Electra and Vernon were alerted to observe the cloud's continuing conditions. The storm began to travel north to a point between Vernon and Electra and then turned east.

As the boiling black cell passed through Iowa Park, stinging rain swept by high winds and mixed with small hail was reported. At 5:20 p.m., as the storm approached the same northeast section of Wichita Falls which was crushed by a tornado on April 3, the U.S. Weather Bureau sent the warning again to residents of that area that a tornado was forming and to take cover.

Twice a funnel appeared to form and another time a monstrous hole curled over in the black clouds and dust, rain and clouds were sucked skyward, but a definite funnel failed to develop and the storm continued across the north edge of Wichita Falls at about 40 miles per hour.

In the frenzied moment of its passing, residents of the area,

Four Funnels Remain Aloft

Four (4) "funnels" — but no tornado. That was the score for residents of the Lynwood West and Sunset Terrace areas Monday.

Residents of that northwest portion of the city are still very weather-conscious, as the result of a devastating twister April 3 which hit Sunset Terrace, Sheppard AFB and adjacent areas, claiming seven lives and causing millions of dollars of property damage.

When the storm warning sirens sounded at 5:20 p.m. Monday, and electronic media repeated the warning, houses in Lynwood west seemed to empty magically, the streets filled with grimly expectant "sightseers."

Many, like Ruth Lambert of 2812 Parkview, had watched a twister wreak its havoc two weeks before in Sunset Terrace, scarcely a mile west.

"It's just like the one before," she said over and over, speaking of the cloud approaching from the southwest.

The cloud, she said, seemed to be taking the same path and dropping an ominous "finger" in the same manner. The finger, hooked in an ironic beckoning gesture, was soon joined by another.

Balloons of dust shoveled by the storm center played along with the black clouds from Sheppard Air Force Base north to the state border.

JOHN KIMBROUGH

'Please, Allah,
Bless Foldberg'

HASKELL, Tex. (Special) — One of Haskell's best-known residents, former All-America fullback John Kimbrough, has learned that Iran's second highest official (and a former schoolmate) recently inquired about him.

With the traditional Aggie Muster — held each April 21 — approaching, one Mehdi Sheybani, who is deputy prime minister of Iran, became concerned about his old classmates.

Jarrin John knew Mehdi Sheybani back at College Station in 1939-40, but he didn't know Ol' Mehdi is "His Excellency" now until the other day. Neither does the A&M alumni roster, but probably not for long. It lists His Excellency with an "address unknown."

The widely-known Aggie from Haskell found out he and his brother, the late Jack Kimbrough, who also was quite a footballer at Aggieland, had been inquired about through George Fuermann's column in the Houston Post. George wrote an intriguing piece that went like this:

Edwin Rice Brown, the Harvey Travel Bureau's "whirled traveler," had an unusual experience the other side of the earth recently. He reported it to Fuermann.

Seems Brown went to Tehran on a KLM inaugural flight from Munich. He paid a courtesy call on the head of the Iranian Tourist Bureau as a matter of course during the conversation, was told "His Excellency Mehdi Sheybani, Deputy Prime Minister of Iran, had graciously granted an audience."

Brown said he didn't even know there was such an official, but he could tell by the expressions on the faces of the Iranians that the honor should not be taken lightly.

A trip through long corridors, three ornate anterooms with crystal chandeliers finally led to an enormous office, where a distinguished looking official sat behind a huge desk.

After Brown was presented with much formality, His Excellency Mehdi Sheybani, Deputy Prime Minister of Iran, thrust out a hand with a big grin, and told Brown, "I'm a Texas Aggie," and made known the purpose of the interview was to learn "about the team this year," and to get news of John and (the late) Jack Kimbrough, as well as Fred Allison, of Corsicana (said now to live in Midland).

His Excellency told Brown he "used to come to Houston to see a girl every week that he could get away." Brown reported, "I didn't think it would be right to ask His Excellency who the girl was."

Brown concluded his report to Fuermann with this appraisal of the Deputy Prime Minister of Iran: "He was easily the most impressive Aggie I ever met—Number 2 in Iran after the Shah."

John Kimbrough, who knows a few folks at the summit himself, is impressed, too. He thinks it would be "grand" if he could muster in Iran.

Army Reservist Has Service Information

Warrant Officer Jerry Baber, unit aide of the 960th Engineer Battalion, recently returned from an intensive orientation on the Army Reserve Program conducted at Headquarters of the Eighth U.S. Army Corps in Austin.

Baber said persons interested in the Army Reserve who desire information regarding their military obligation may call or visit him at the Army Reserve Training Center, 3300 Ninth. Calls should be made between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at 723-6421. Written inquiries will receive prompt replies, Baber said.

Associated Press Reported In Its 'Healthiest Condition'

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of The Associated Press told the membership Monday that the AP is "in the healthiest condition in its history."

The directors' annual report, noting a gain of 814 members and subscribers in the past year, was read at the AP annual meeting prior to a luncheon addressed by President Johnson.

Changes have been made in many areas to improve service and increase efficiency of the worldwide news cooperative, the report said.

"A good deal of emphasis was placed on technological advancements, but the management and the board are aware that it is still the cooperative structure of The Associated Press which accounts for some of the AP's greatest successes," the directors said.

They cited as examples the cooperation of Dallas and Alaska newspaper and broadcast members in coverage of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the Alaska earthquake.

AP members voted at the meeting to fill seven directorships on the 18-member board and voted on the application of 16 associate member newspapers for regular membership.

For the first time, ballots on the directorships were being counted by computers especially programmed to speed the results.

In a special program, filmed interviews with British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville on world questions were presented.

The diplomats were interviewed by AP correspondent Eddy Gilmore in London and by Richard K. O'Malley, AP chief of bureau in Paris.

The program, on the theme of "The Associated Press at Work," included taped reports by Preston Grover, AP bureau chief in Moscow, and Malcolm W. Browne, AP correspondent in Saigon.

Also presented was a film, "Frontiers of News," showing the best pictures of the year by AP and AP member photographers. It was produced by Willard Van Dyke, a documentary specialist, in cooperation with the AP.

Reviewing AP changes in the past year, the directors said: A major wire revision has provided a double trunk system connecting bureaus and newspapers which receive trunk wire service coast to coast.

Special assignments of both editors and writers have provided greatly increased exclusive enterprise material.

A new concept of photo editing and planning has been inaugurated with emphasis on enterprise.

An AP book division has been established. AP's computer system—still the only one in the news service field—is now used for typesetting.

A new system of accounting has been installed in consultation with Price Waterhouse & Co.

A direct teletype line was installed linking Moscow, London and New York.

The board said the AP book, "The Torch Is Passed," a word and picture history of President Kennedy's assassination, has sold 3,612,000 copies.

"This is a tribute to a superb job done by the staff and also to the pulling power of member newspapers, since the book was and is being sold by many of them," the directors said.

Democratic Women To Auction Prizes

Three prize items will be auctioned Thursday at a luncheon of the Democratic Women's Organization of Wichita County.

The auction will be held prior to the talk by Mrs. Barefoot Sanders, wife of the U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Texas, who will discuss "Woman's Political Role in '64."

First item to be offered will be a black and white mounted photograph of the late Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn. This picture was taken by Jim Cochran, reporter - photographer for the Wichita Falls Times, when Rayburn visited the LBJ Ranch. The occasion was a barbecue which Lyndon Johnson, then a senator, held for President of Mexico Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Only a few prints of this particular picture of the late Speaker have been made and it is one which President Johnson - who has a copy - especially likes.

Second on the auction agenda will be a record and printed copies of speeches of the late President John F. Kennedy.

The record and text were prepared by the State Democratic Executive Committee for those who had planned to attend the $100-a-plate Austin dinner Nov. 22 - the day the President was slain in Dallas. Copies of his Austin and Dallas speeches are included.

Only those who purchased tickets to the dinner, which was not held, received the records and speeches.

The third item to be auctioned is an official portrait of President Johnson, which he has autographed.

The framed color photograph was sent especially for this occasion.

In charge of the auction are Mrs. Lyle Cherry and Mrs. Lynn Darden.

Several other items pertaining to the Democratic party will be offered for sale at the luncheon which will be held at the Woman's Forum.

New officers of the organization will also be elected at the luncheon, which is one of four general meetings held annually.

All Democratic candidates, plus any interested Democrats - especially women - have been invited to attend. Reservations must be made by Tuesday noon with either Mrs. Darden, 766-0914; Mrs. Harry Joiner, 322-9021, or Mrs. Ed Majewski, 692-4773.

Following the luncheon, all those desiring to do so are invited to meet at the Thirteenth Street entrance to Times Square to tour the building. Hostess for the tour will be Mrs. Charles Ward Jr., an officer of the women's group and a granddaughter of Rhea Howard, president of Times Publishing Co.

JOYCE SCHUMANN

Psychiatric Nurse Receives Training

AUSTIN, Tex. - Joyce Schumann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schumann of Route 1, Harold, Texas, is receiving special training in psychiatric nursing at Austin State Hospital, according to Dr. Sam A. Hoerster Jr., superintendent.

Miss Schumann is a 1962 graduate of Oklaunion High School, Oklahoma, and attended Midwestern University. She has been living in Wichita Falls, Texas.

The psychiatric nursing program at Austin State Hospital is designed to train nurses in the recognition of psychiatric disorders, techniques useful in caring for emotionally ill patients and of community agencies established for dealing with social problems arising out of mental illness, Dr. Hoerster said.

Students spend three months in ward training and classroom instruction under psychiatrists, psychiatric nurses, social workers, psychologists, rehabilitation therapists, dietitians and chaplains.

Their association with mentally ill patients and qualified professional personnel gives the students invaluable training opportunities, Dr. Hoerster said.

Storm Gets Wide Berth

still shy from the earlier disaster, scrambled for cover and three accidents were reported, one of which injured four persons.

The turbulence raced north-east and passed just north of Petrolia, Tex. where R. W. Bray of the Clay County Sheriff's Department in Henrietta said he saw a funnel touch the ground and tear across open pasture three miles east of the town.

At that same moment, the torrential downpour, furious winds and egg-size hail caused a pickup pulling a trailer to jack-knife across State Highway 70 four miles north of Byers into the path of a 1964 Ford. The accident injured three persons, none seriously.

Moving into southern Oklahoma, the storm passed about five miles south of Waurika where it unleashed its heaviest rains and strongest winds. Pastureland south of the city was virtually flooded and the many small creeks threatened to flood the highway between Waurika and Ryan.

Trees in Ryan, 13 miles north of the Texas-Oklahoma border, were uprooted and blown over and windows were broken by wind and golf-ball-size hail.

The storm moved further east into open territory, became stationary in southern Oklahoma north of Nocona, Texas and dissipated by about 8 p.m.

A Record News reporter and photographer, who chased the storm the length of its flight from Iowa Park to Ryan, Okla., said every town the storm passed near appeared deserted as people had apparently scurried to pieces of refuge remembering the recent Wichita Falls twister which was born from the same type of storm spawned from the same general area.

Four Funnels Remain Aloft

city. The cloud moved slowly on ward, its potentially deadly fingers apparently just a few feet above the ground.

But then, as the spectators to the grim advance looked on in awed silence, the fingers slowly disappeared.

Residents of the area breathed a sigh of relief and went back to more or less normal routine as the tail-end of the cloud passed overhead, bringing strong — but not damaging — winds.

Immediately following the winds came a strong rain which chased the onlookers into their houses, but the rain quickly passed over and residents came out to watch the cloud wend its way northwest.

West of Wichita Falls, a huge, billowing, black funnel appeared in the cloud, close to its north edge and apparently hidden from Wichita Falls.

Later it was learned residents in Byers and the surrounding area could see this ominous funnel clearly. But, fortunately, it was like the smaller funnels that appeared in the cloud earlier and disappeared before doing any damage.

Joe Pool Comes To Wichita Falls

Cong. Joe Pool of Dallas, candidate for re-election as congressman-at-large from Texas, subject to the Democratic primary, stopped briefly in Wichita Falls Monday afternoon to confer with friends and supporters.

Arriving here by plane from Abilene, Pool said he was planning to go to Amarillo for receptions there Tuesday, and then to Denver, Colo., where he will represent the U.S. Government at a symposium on automation in taking of census information.

"I'll return to Texas Thursday. My plans are to finish up the week campaigning in South Texas," he said.

The congressman predicted he will win the Democratic nomination "without a runoff." He said he had visited most of the state in connection with his candidacy, and that "the main topic of conversation is foreign aid."

Legislative Group Invites Candidates

The legislative affairs action group of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an open "political forum" during their regular meeting at 10 a.m. Friday in the chamber offices at the Hamilton Building.

Four aspirants for the state House of representatives will be on hand at the meeting, which will be moderated by James Thomas, chairman of the group. Those on the program are Vernon Stewart, who is running for re-election; Lee Page, Maurice Duke, who is running for re-election; and Harry Joiner. All four make their homes in Wichita Falls.

It was announced Monday that each of the candidates will be given 10 minutes to make any statements they wish and after that time is taken up they will be asked questions by those attending the meeting.

This meeting is open to the general public as well as members of the legislative affairs group.

Revised Vote Recount Letter Sent To Carr

changed the result of the election? 3. If a district judge does have the authority to order a recount, can a member of the board of trustees who was not a candidate become a proper party to bring a case to a district court by virtue of "public criticism?"

Pierce said a long distance telephone call probably would be made to Carr Tuesday to determine if he had received the request and to urge an early action on the request.

The school board's attorney said the request was being made under a statute of the revised election code which allowed independent school districts to make such requests directly.

"Common school district must go through their county or district attorney, but independent school districts which assess their own taxes can make direct requests," Pierce said.

It was indicated that a copy of the request would be released to newsmen Wednesday.

The school board's latest action was a direct result of a request for a recount made by Mrs. Bill (Jan) Thacker, who lost to incumbent Mrs. Laura Doig by 13 votes.

Mrs. Thacker said she based her request on the possibility of human error when the margin was less than one-half of one per cent, and because of her understanding that ballots cast for herself and Mrs. Doig only were recounted in the Reagan Junior High School box on election day, April 4. (5,003 total votes were cast in the election.)

Hoosier Group Visits City

Six members of the industrial development committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Lafayette, Ind., met with leaders of Industrial Development, Inc. and the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce here Monday to discuss activities in this city.

Members of the group are Lafayette Mayor Don Blue; George Needham Jr., president of Biggs Pump and Supply Co.; Gordon Kingma, vice president of Lafayette National Bank; George DeLong, vice president and secretary of Lafayette Loan and Trust Co.; M. J. Ferriter, vice president of Purdue National Bank; and Bob Lamb, manager of the Lafayette chamber.

The group was met at the airport Monday afternoon by Rex Jennings, executive vice president of IDI and the Wichita Falls Chamber; W. A. Hotchkiss, district manager of Texas Electric Service Co.; Tom C. Foley; and James B. Barnett, executive vice president of the Times Publishing Co., all IDI directors.

Following a tour of chamber offices and Times Square, new home of the Wichita Falls Record News and Times, the group was briefed on industrial expansion efforts here.

The group then attended a dinner for them at the Holiday Inn. Earlier Monday, the Indiana businessmen toured Texarkana, Tex. They will leave Wichita Falls Tuesday morning for a similar tour in Fort Smith, Ark., prior to returning to Lafayette.

City Highway Group Will Meet Today

The monthly meeting of the highway development action group of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce is at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the chamber offices. Several reports will be heard including one on last week's meeting with groups from Abilene and Lawton, Okla. at the River Oaks Motel. During the meeting discussion was held on making U.S. Highway 277 between Wichita Falls and Abilene into a four-lane facility.

clared that the government is still responsible to the people. The senator closed his talk by repeating a quote by Edmund Burk, who spoke on the side of the colonists during the American Revolution: "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is that good men do nothing."

Tower was introduced by R. H. (Dick) Coffee, chairman of the highway committee of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce.

Master of ceremonies was Norman Loader, executive vice president of Vernon Manufacturing Co. Entertainment was provided by Linda and the Trio of Rider High School in Wichita Falls. The invocation was given by Rev. Arthur Strickland, pastor of the Federated Presbyterian Church.

Senator Tower was guest at a coffee in the Forum Room of the auditorium, sponsored by the Wilbarger County Republicans Womens Club, Monday afternoon.

The annual Highway 287 Association convention opened Monday. J. Weidon Watson, head of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, was keynote speaker at a Monday noon meeting. Hal Woodward of Coleman, Texas, highway commissioner, will speak at a Tuesday luncheon.

Tuesday's session will start with a "cowboy breakfast" at Allingham Park, sponsored by the Humble Co. Following the breakfast will be a guided tour of the Santa Rosa Stables and Waggoner Ranch.

British Welcome LBJ Statement
LONDON (AP)—British authorities welcomed President Johnson's statement that the United States and the Soviet Union will cut back production of materials for nuclear weapons. Britain already has halted production of uranium for weapons. A spokesman said Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will make a statement on Britain's position in Parliament Tuesday.
Of Johnson's statement to an Associated Press luncheon in New York, a Senior British official said Monday night: "Any move of that kind that contributes to a genuine slowdown in the nuclear arms race is extremely helpful. Naturally we welcome it."
Johnson's speech coincided with an announcement by Premier Khrushchev in Moscow that the Soviet Union also will cut back on fissionable material for military weapons.
British government spokesmen withheld formal comment on Johnson's statement, awaiting Sir Alec's report to the House of Commons.

Questions

Are Answered

By AMY VANDERBILT

Soon I will move into a new home and I am planning the decor in the living and dining rooms in Italian or French provincial. The living room is elevated because of the view and it has a corner fireplace with a raised hearth in Arizona limestone. Next to it there is a large glass sliding door that goes out to a large sun deck. On the opposite side (22 feet away) is a nine-foot bay window, also with a view.

My problem is color. My husband would like a green wall, plush-pile carpet (wall to wall). We have some nice off-white draperies and I wonder if these could be used in the dining room which is next to a kitchenette. I would welcome any suggestions regarding walls, draperies, sofa and chair colors that would go well with the green carpeting.—J.K., San Francisco.

I talked your problem over with a prominent member of the A.I.D. who sent me the following memo for you.

"If you use wall-to-wall carpet, keep the pile low. I would prefer a rug with a foot border all around except at the hearth. Green is a good color. The walls could be bamboo color (light grey-green) or yellow-green. The over-curtains can be a natural linen, off-white or yellow.

"If you have a wonderful view, I would not use a print. Many of the new textured fabrics do not require lining, by the way. The sofa and chairs can be covered in a print or textured material. You might like to use blue and green, or various shades of green with accents of coral."

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Our family wants to give a golden wedding anniversary party. Since our parents live in a trailer, is there any way we can let people know that they don't want gifts? Or do we have to let them decide for themselves? At anniversary parties I have attended, the couple received so many things that would not fit into a trailer.—M.M., Daly City, Calif.

You do have a problem. Don't try to make it a surprise party for your parents. Invite your guests well in advance and then have everybody tell everybody else that storage space in a trailer — as if everybody didn't know — is at a premium, that your parents specifically request "No gifts."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Keep Friendships Alive

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—When it is my turn to be hostess for the coffee hour at our church, I use clippings from my plants as the centerpiece and then offer these clippings to a new bride, a new family in the church or a fellow flower lover. This is a wonderful way to keep friendships green and growing.—MARY

DEAR POLLY—Had you ever thought of making a quilt with those discarded nylon hose? Cut percale, or any desired fabric, into five inch squares. Sew two together as you would make a pillow case with one end open. Gather or roll a nylon socking, foot and all, as you were going to put it on. Stuff it into the edges at the open and sew shut with blind stitches. Put a tie of yarn in the exact center so that the stocking rind will slide around. Place these puffy cases side by side and stitch them together to make your quilt the desired size. The tops could be leather stitched or embroidered for a decorative touch if you like. A full size quilt will require about 10 yards of material.—MRS. M. R. McS.

GIRLS—This would be a good way to use up scraps of cotton and then assemble the squares like a definite over-all pattern.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Have you ever wished you could keep your carbon copies legible and non-smearing? Just coat with hair spray and let dry. The copy will be safe and long lasting as the original. Please, Polly, just print my initials or my wife will find out what is happening to her hair spray.—R.D.M.

DEAR POLLY—I feel I must share the fantastically good luck I have just had with a homey experiment. I have a multicolored cut velvet purse (the type that has been so popular the past few years) that went with anything and was used so often that it was dingy from dust and moisture and oil from the hands.

Remembering that my mother often used cornmeal as a cleanser, I put the purse in a big paper bag, sprinkled about half a cup of cornmeal over it, folded the top of the bag over several times and shook vigorously. The purse was completely covered with the meal when removed from the bag. A brisk whisking with a clean vegetable brush soon removed the meal. This was done out-of-doors so as not to get meal all over the house. The colors are vivid and bright again and even the metal top looks better. Some of the meal had sifted inside the bag so I wiped it out with a piece of slightly moist turkish toweling. Usually my purses can stand a good house cleaning anyway. My old purse is now elevated from everyday use to "Sunday-go-to-meeting" status.—MYRTLE

Play Up Color

To Advantage

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

"I'm so tired of my olive complexion. There are so many colors I'm afraid to wear. Is there any advice you can give me?" Instead of dwelling on her limitations, Olive should be putting the emphasis on the scope her natural coloring gives her. It's wider than she thinks. There's many a girl with a florid complexion who'd gladly trade with her.

Olive-toned skins belong in the "neutral" category that includes white to dark olive. Makeup choice, then, should be more or less neutral in character, light or medium.

Olive's foundation and powder, avoiding shades too golden or too pink, should be "light neutral" if her complexion is light-olive, a deeper tone if her complexion is darker. Her lipstick and rouge may be chosen from the true-red group for it's the clear colors that will liven up skin tones. If she wants to try pink or coral for a change of pace, she just needs to be sure the color values are vivid, not pale or pastel.

In clothes, color contrast is the right keynote. Black, beige, any shade dull, dark or muddy, may not be bright enough unless there is a touch of white near Olive's face.

But why bother with them when all the clear, bright colors seem created specifically for olive complexions? All those reds, corals and orange, yellow and spice... and the more vivid, the better they are.

ANN LANDERS SAYS

Observing Others May Cause Drinkers To Go On The Wagon

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading your drivel for years and am becoming increasingly bored with your maniacal assaults on social drinkers. Please find another, less tiresome, crusade. My guess is that you are a secret drinker or your husband is a lush.

Did it ever occur to you that some people enjoy a little drink? It helps them unwind after a difficult day of tension and pressure. Just to prove the extent to which you have poisoned our society, last night we went to a party, all set to have a great evening. The hostess announced that they were not serving any liquor. "It's an experiment," she said "a la Ann Landers to see if people really need liquor to have a good time."

After an hour my husband was so bored he almost jumped out of his skin. We went home — and had a drink. Thank you for ruining what could have been a great evening.—HIM AND HER

Dear H. and H.: No doubt when you two become sufficiently lubricated you are transformed into brilliant and witty conversationalists.

Why not try an experiment of your own. One night while your husband "unwinds" you stay with ginger ale — and listen to him. The next night you "unwind," give him the ginger ale and let him listen to you. It could put both of you on the wagon for life.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has put it to me and now I am putting it to you.

Next month he is going to a convention in Atlantic City and taking his secretary along. Before you come to any hasty conclusions I'd like to assure you that everything is on the up and up.

His secretary has a face that could stop the town clock. There is absolutely nothing between them. She worked for the former owner and knows the business better than my husband. (He bought the company two years ago.) She also knows a great many people in this business by their first names, and she can be very helpful.

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me. I am 12 years old and very unhappy. My mother lets me do whatever I want and it is a terrible thing to know that nobody is ever going to say "NO" to you. If I told my mother I was going to kill myself she would say, "If that's what you want to do, Honey, go ahead."

My best friend Beverly has a mother who says, "You can't do it and I don't want to hear any more." Then it's all settled.

Sometimes I ask my mother for permission to do things I do not want to do at all. If she would just say "NO" it would help me out a lot. I am not a very good writer but I hope you understand what I am trying to say. Thank you.—NEVER SAID NO TO

Wool Contest Entry Forms Will Be Available Soon

Entry forms for the Make-It-Yourself - With - Wool contest, sponsored by the American Wool Council, will be available by the end of April, according to Mrs. S. M. Harvick of Ozona, state chairman.

The forms may be obtained from home economics teachers in high schools and colleges, home demonstration agents, and from stores which handle woolen materials. The 10 district chairmen in Texas will distribute the literature.

Dates for the state contest are Jan. 8 and 9, 1965, at Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos. The national event staged by the National Wool Growers' Association, will be the second week in January.

Early distribution of forms is planned so that prospective contestants will have ample time to study fashions or to create their own and to lay plans for participation in the event. Purpose of the Make-It-Yourself - With-Wool contest is to interest young people in doing things for themselves as well as to encourage the use of wool loomed or knitted or felted in America, Mrs. Harvick said.

Contestants may enter in three divisions: A—for girls 10 through 13; B—for 14 through 17; and C—for 18 through 21. Texas also permits adults to participate, but the adult winner does not progress past the state level, Mrs. Harvick explained.

Last year 1,200 young women in Texas entered the contests and officials are expecting one thousand more for 1964.

Mothproof This Spring For Un-Holey Autumn Woolens

Spring is the time when new life begins. Unfortunately for your woolens, part of that new life consists of hungry infant moths called larvae. Your best wool clothes and blankets are as tempting to a baby moth as a steak dinner is to a hungry man.

Modern industry has perfected mothproofing sprays which will kill all forms of moth life and sprays that make woolens inedible to larvae for as long as an entire year. They are as effective and convenient to use on furniture and rugs as they are on clothing. For un-holey clothes and blankets next autumn, follow these mothproofing techniques before you store away woolens for the summer months.

First, be sure clothes are as clean as possible. Infant moths love their wool diet flavored with food spots, especially sweets. If you can't have the woolens cleaned before storing, hang them outside in the sunshine and fresh air for several hours. Turn clothes inside out and spray lightly but thoroughly. Let the mothproofing solution dry, then spray outside of garment. On coats and jackets, don't skip insides of pockets. Clothes to be stored hanging in closets should be placed in plastic garment bags. If you haven't enough garment bags, mothproof the entire closet. After placing the clothes in the closet, try to keep the door shut at all times.

Rugs to be stored should be vacuumed thoroughly. Then spray the entire surface, let dry and roll tightly. If you can wrap the rug in heavy paper, so much the better. Moths like summer when it sizzles so try to store your rug in the coolest possible area. Blankets should be washed, fluff dried, sprayed and then folded. Always store blankets in tightly covered boxes. There is an excellent choice of inexpensive blanket boxes available and with careful handling they will last for years. Worn sheets can be used as dust cover to help protect your upholstered furniture and make it cooler to sit on.

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newsper Enterprise Assn. Chicago teacher and expert Art Glatt has a hand in the American Bridge Teachers Assn. Quarterly which is one of the neatest examples of the play known as the "uppercut" that I have ever seen.

West opens the king of clubs. East plays the five, but West cashes the ace anyway. East plays the eight so West knows that his partner holds the one missing club.

West has two tricks in and will surely make a third with the ace of spades. He wants to find a fourth trick somewhere. It will not be in diamonds. He is looking right at dummy's solid diamond suit.

It won't be in hearts either. South needs the ace of hearts for his opening bid. Then where is that fourth trick coming from?

The only possible place is the trump suit, but East can't hold the king of trumps and surely hasn't more than two trumps. East might have jack and one or ten and one and West proceeds on that assumption.

He leads a third club. South ruffs in dummy and gets a useless discard from his own hand. Then he leads a trump to his jack. West takes his ace and leads a fourth club.

East ruffs his partner's trick with the ten of trumps and declarer is forced to overruff.

This uppercut play has promoted West's nine of spades to the fourth defensive trick.

Gout Attacks Twenty Men Per Woman, Figures Show

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: A member of my family has developed gout. We have just learned of it and we are very worried. We know it's a serious disease. What we would like to know is how fast its progress is, and what can be done, including diet which we understand is very important?—A. B.

I think you are overestimating the seriousness of gout. You sound as though it is fatal or totally disabling.

Gout is serious but not that much so, as a rule.

Gout has been known at least since the day of Hippocrates, the father of medicine.

The body sometimes accumulates more uric acid than it should. In turn, chalky deposits of sodium urate form. A joint (the joint of the big toe is the commonest place, but others can be affected, too) suddenly becomes excruciatingly tender.

This is sheer misery while it lasts. After a while (sometimes a few days, sometimes longer) the pain disappears. But then it comes on again, without warning, and the agony is repeated.

For several hundred years colchicine has been known as a drug which relieves the pain. Only in the last handful of years has benemid been found very useful in preventing attacks instead of relieving them afterward. So at long last we now have a lot of people going about their business free of these periodic bouts with gout.

The matter of diet is declining in importance. This does not mean that diet is without value, but that is not as important as in the past.

The idea used to be that rich food and drink caused the disease. That now is doubted. It is a disturbance in uric acid metabolism, the cause of which is not known. It affects 20 men for every woman.

Most doctors recommend that patients be at least moderately careful of their diet: Don't go overboard on rich foods. Avoid foods high in purines: The "organ meats" such as liver, heart, sweetbreads, kidney, tongue; and, generally speaking, the red meats such as beef and sausage, pork, venison, turkey, duck, goose, bacon; also avoid gravies and meat soups and extracts, as well as lentils, beans, peas, sardines, rabbit, squab.

Chicken, lamb, ham, herring, salmon, tuna, whitefish, lobster, crab are some which are of only moderate purine content.

Eggs, cheese, milk, nuts are low in purine, so you have a fair amount of choice in obtaining protein. Cereals, vegetables and fruits are either low or moderate in purine.

My advice for the gout patient is to let his physician set up a suitable—continuing routine of medication to ward off attacks and bolster this with reasonable diet.

If you can't eliminate the high-purine foods, avoid them when possible or else use them in moderation.

Dear Dr. Molner: X-ray showed a small stone in my right kidney.

Would sleeping on my right side cause stones to accumulate there? Being an invalid, I cannot lie on my left side very long and must sleep on my right side.

Is there any truth to the rumor that cranberry juice will keep stones from forming?—R. F.

I doubt that sleeping on the right side would have anything to do with it at all. However a high degree of inactivity can cause a change in the calcium balance of the body which may encourage stone formation.

The only virtue I can see in cranberry juice is that it has an acid ash, hence helps keep the urine on the acid side. Whether this is helpful would depend on the chemistry of the stones, for there are various kinds.

Note to M.J.B.: I do not know of any type of arthritis which is bothered by "too much protein." On the contrary, the risk is that many people get too little protein.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. NCAA Slaps Kentucky, Slippery Rock; Lifts 3 Bans

PRAIRIE VIEW HANDED YEAR'S PROBATION

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of Kentucky was placed on probation for one year by the National Collegiate Athletic Association Monday because of an illegal conditioning program for football players.

Slippery Rock State College and Prairie View A&M College also were put on probation while Indiana University, New Mexico State and the University of Colorado were taken off the probation list.

Kentucky is also forbidden from playing in post-season football competition for one year.

The NCAA council said Kentucky "violated provision governing out-of-season football practice in that during late winter and early springs of 1962 and 1963, its football coaches conducted physical conditioning programs for all student athletes "planning to play football."

The council said attendance was required and football coaches supervised the program. Other students also took part.

The violations occurred during the first two years of Charlie Bradshaw's tenure as head coach at Kentucky. At one point some players rebelled over the conditioning program and quit playing football.

As an outgrowth of this, the council said it also found that "procedures utilized to secure voluntary letters of resignation" from athletes turning in their grants-in-aid "constituted questionable practices and reflected poorly on the general administration of intercollegiate athletics."

An NCAA spokesman said athletes were given form letters of resignation to sign.

The NCAA said Kentucky thought it was running a legal activity and had, been so advised by the Southeastern Conference, of which it is a member.

"The NCAA Council is of the opinion that the University did not intend to do wrong, however in fact, the activity violated NCAA rules two successive years," said Walter Byers.

New Mexico State was taken off probation nine months earlier than expected. It went on the list Jan. 11, 1962, for admission irregularities. During the first two years, the school could take part in no post-season events in any sport. It was to spend one more year on probation.

But a series of hearings on new evidence and new charges which began in April 1962 concluded with Monday's recommendation from the infractions committee to the council that the probation end.

Colorado went on two years probation April 27, 1962, for recruiting and aid violations which were exposed in the Sonny Grandelius case. Grandelius, the football coach, was fired. The Colorado football team could not appear in televised or post-season games during its probation.

Punching Warriors Are KO'd, 124-101

BOSTON (AP)—San Francisco's Wilt Chamberlain floored Boston's Clyde Lovellette with a punch in the nose Monday night, but the Celtics floored the Warriors 124-101 and took a two-game lead in the final National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lovellette-Chamberlain incident, at the foul line in the fourth period, touched off a near-riot.

Uniformed police had to clear the floor at the Boston Garden and Celtics center Bill Russell had to pull coach Red Auerbach off the floor.

The game was a contest only in the opening minutes. The sharp-shooting Celtics, led by Sam Jones, quickly turned it into a rout.

The series now shifts to San Francisco for the next two games of the best-of-seven series on Wednesday and Friday nights. The series returns to Boston Sunday night if a fifth game is needed.

The Celtics led 62-43 at halftime. But it was the third period that was the deciding point for Boston. Jones and running mate Tommy Heinsohn led the barrage as Boston outscored the visitors 36-25 and grabbed a 30-point lead at 98-68 into the final quarter.

Jones was the Celtics' high scorer with 31 points. Game scoring honors went to the 7-foot-one Chamberlain, who had 32 before leaving with about five minutes left in the fourth period.

Heinsohn trailed in the Boston scoring column with 23 and Tom Sanders contributed 15.

For the Warriors, Tom Meschery popped in 24 points, most of them after the intermission.

The fourth period squabble came about when the officials called Lovellette for fouling Chamberlain. The two big pivot men had words and some scuffling ensued.

Then, Wilt turned his kayo punch loose, knocking Lovellette to his knees. Blood streamed from the big Boston center's nose.

Both benches emptied onto the floor and officials were vainly trying to restore order. Police were quickly called in to help.

Auerbach seemed the most incensed of all. Russell had a difficult time pulling his coach off the court and back to the bench.

The only action taken was the upholding of the foul against Lovellette. Nobody was thrown out and Chamberlain calmly dropped in the free throw.

Colts Tromp On Cardinals

HOUSTON (AP) — Dick Farrell pitched a four-hitter and Nellie Fox drove in four runs with a single and triple as the Houston Colts walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1 Monday night.

Farrell, recovering from a sore arm and making his first start of the season, had a shut-out until Ken Boyer homered with one out in the ninth. Farrell also was touched for three singles, striking out seven and walked four.

The 35-year-old Fox, acquired from the Chicago White Sox in an off-season deal, was the key man as the Colts struck for four runs in the second inning and three in the fourth inning.

In the second, a single by Bob Aspromonte, Jim Wynn's double and a walk filled the bases against Cardinal starter Ray Sadecki. John Bateman singled past second, driving in the first run, then Fox whacked a single to left center that chased in two more.

The fourth run came across on a single by Pete Runnels. Bateman singled to open the Colts fourth, and one out later, Eddie Kasko stroked a single.

Rodgers Arrives To Defend Title

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Professional golfers poured into San Antonio Monday for the $40,000 Texas Open. Among them was Phil Rodgers who is back to defend the championship he won last year.

The pros will be going after the richest prize purse in the history of the 37-year-old tournament. Officials have kicked an additional $10,000 into the money bag.

Rodgers, who fired a 16-under-par 268 over the 6,715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course to win last year, heads a list of 175 entries.

The tournament has failed to attract any of golf's big three—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player. Mike Souchak, who won the Houston Classic Sunday has also skipped San Antonio.

The 72-hole championship play gets underway Thursday and winds up Sunday.

Seventy-two players qualified for the tournament Monday with Jerry Pittman and Kermit Zarley posting the lowest score—a two-under-par 68. A 77 was required to make it.

Emerson Heavily Favored At Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Roy Emerson, the Australian currently on a tennis winning rampage, was made a heavy favorite Monday to take the championship of the Dallas Country Club invitational.

Emerson, the Davis Cupper ranked No. 2 in the world, is seeded No. 1 despite the fact that the tournament also has Chuck McKinley, who is rated No. 1 in the world.

Besides Emerson and McKinley, seeded No. 2, others in the tournament will be Frank Froehling, rated No. 2 nationally, Ron Holmberg, Ken Fletcher, Ham Richardson, Cliff Rich, Butch Newman, Cliff Buchholz, Al Hill Jr., Andy Lloyd, Jack Jackson, Leo LaBorde Jr., Rod Susman, Stanley Passarel and Don Kierbow.

Michigan Boaters Lead; 4 Drop Out

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Four of the 40 boats that started the 500 mile water safari to Corpus Christi Sunday dropped out Monday.

Still leading was a Michigan team of Albert Widings of Holly and Robert Gillings of Lansing.

The race over the San Marcos and Guadalupe rivers and 75 miles of open bays will last all week.

One team leaving the race was headed by Fred Halmechek of Gonzales, who led most of the way last year.

Overall Workout Good—Kirkpatrick

"We weren't overjoyed, but overall we had a good workout."

That was Hunter Kirkpatrick's evaluation Monday after he had sent his Wichita Falls Coyotes through their first spring football workout, a two and one-half hour drill on fundamentals, team offense and defense.

On hand for the initial workout were 43 candidates for this fall District 4-AAAA team, including 12 lettermen. Among them was two offensive starters from the 1963 squad, center David Archer and guard Robert Platt.

"I thought we had a pretty good workout considering it was the first day," Kirkpatrick remarked.

While he wasn't trying to look too far ahead, Kirkpatrick did forecast that "with a little bit of luck and if we jell in the right places" the Coyotes could be a respectable club come September.

Kirkpatrick also is working with a new offense, the winged-T. Meanwhile, Rider whished through its third day of drilling with the emphasis on polishing offensive and defensive patterns.

"It's kinda hard to do much in that wind," Coach Joe Bob Tyler conceded, but he did point out that the first defensive unit, those with experience, looked good.

Consequently, Tyler and his staff worked more with the younger boys.

Cowboys, Packers Set Aug. 29 Tuneup

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and the Green Bay Packers will play a pre-season football game in the Cotton Bowl the night of Aug. 29, it was announced Monday.

In other pre-season games, the Cowboys will meet Los Angeles Rams Aug. 7 at Los Angeles; Rams Aug. 22 at Portland; and Chicago Bears Sept. 5 at New Orleans.

Area Gridders Are Nominated

ORANGE, Tex.—Four Wichita Falls area high school football players have been nominated for the all-star game against Pennsylvania Aug. 1 at Hershey, Pa. It was announced Monday.

Also chosen was guard Dan Chilton of Grand Prairie, a member of District 4-AAAA.

Giants Subdue Reds, 5-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Skinner dropped a short fly to left field in the eighth inning permitting two San Francisco runners to score and giving the Giants a 5-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday.

Bosox Shove Yanks Deeper

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Monbouquette and reliever Dick Radatz combined for a nine-hitter as the Boston Red Sox shoved the New York Yankees deeper in the American League cellar with a 4-0 victory Monday.

Monbouquette, who defeated the Yankees four out of five last year, allowed seven hits through eight innings. Radatz finished up and gave up two hits in the ninth but retired the side on strikeouts.

The Sox starter was forced to leave the game after eight innings complaining of a "tightened elbow."

A Patriots Day crowd of 15,401 turned out in 40-degree weather for what was to have been a morning and afternoon doubleheader. The frigid conditions forced postponement of the morning game.

The Red Sox started toward their third victory of the young season in the first inning when singles by Frank Malzone and Dick Stuart followed two walks by rookie southpaw Bob Meyer.

Red Sox rookie outfielder Tony Conigliaro slammed his second home run of the season in the fourth inning. It was a line shot that was still rising when it slammed into the screen atop the left field wall.

The final Red Sox tally came in the fifth when outfielder Carl Yastrzemski broke out of a batting slump with a line drive triple to deep center field and scored on Stuart's second single.

Musick Sparks Burk Triumph

SEYMOUR — Pitcher Mike Musick gave up only three hits in six innings of work and drove in five runs with four hits here Monday as Burk Burnett took a 7-0 non-league victory over Seymour.

It was the second win in three starts for Burk and the second straight setback for Seymour.

Willie Mays continued his torrid hitting with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate boosting his batting average to .444. He drove in the first San Francisco run and scored the third one. Willie McCovey contributed his first home run of the year as Jack Sanford went the route to notch his victory, No. 2, before a Candlestick Park crowd of 8,359.

In the eighth, Chuck Hiller singled to lead off. Mays singled with Hiller stopping at second CINCINNATI

Belgian Breezes To Easy Second Marathon Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Beaming Aurele Van den Driessche, Belgium's jaunty Olympic hope, left his rivals panting in the hills and highballed to his second consecutive Boston Marathon victory Monday on a cold, blustering day tilted as a Finnish delight.

Vanden Driessche who had said he was in better condition than in 1963 and predicted he'd have an easier time, broke the Exeter Street tape nearly 300 yards ahead of Finland's Tenho Salaaka.

His time of 2:19:59 for the traditional 26-mile, 385 yard distance was 61 seconds slower than the record he established as a last-minute entry a year ago.

The methodical metronome in a flashing red T-shirt opened up with five miles to go just as his four challengers were wobbling. He already had 100 yards on Salaaka atop the series of hills where 12 miles ago he turned on his reserve and gunned past Abebe Bikila, 1960 Olympic champion from Ethiopia.

Van den Driessche, who changed jobs to concentrate on his running with an eye toward the Olympics in October, looked as fresh as when he started when he broke the tape.

the street waving and smiling at the cheering crowd. Salaaka, a paper mill employee, edged surprising Ron Wallingford of Hamilton, Ont., for runner-up honors. Their times were 2:20:48 and 2:20:51. Finnish national champion Paavo Pystonen was fourth in 2:21:37.

Hal Higdon of the Chicago Track Club was the first American to finish in 2:21:55. Dave Ellis of Toronto was sixth while Johnny Kelley, America's premier marathon performer, was a disappointing seventh after coming in at 126 pounds, lightest of his running career.

First Lady Admits Being Frightened By 'Lightning'

By FRANCES LEWINE
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson admitted she was frightened like everyone else Monday when a flash the pilot said was lightning struck a commercial plane which brought her here from Washington.

Later a United Air Lines spokesman said that static electricity built up by the plane was discharged into the atmosphere with an effect he said was something like lightning in reverse, but was not lightning.

The explosion-like report and blue-white flash jolted 40 passengers aboard the United Air Lines four-engine, prop jet, but caused only minor damage and no injuries.

The President's wife, went on to her scheduled visit at the Riverview housing development for the elderly.

She was all smiles there and joined in singing "Happy Birthday" to two elderly women and to Mrs. Anthony J. Celebrezze whose birthday anniversary was Monday. Mrs. Celebrezze, wife of the U.S. secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was in the party which flew in from the capital.

Mrs. Johnson made a nationally televised address to 2,500 delegates at the opening session of the national YWCA convention. She called on women to participate in civic affairs, to raise sights and set standards and to prod legislators.

It was a rainy day for the First Lady's excursion, but hundreds turned out to wave to her at the airport terminal and from windows at the housing development.

When it came time for the return flight about 4 p.m., Mrs. Johnson decided to go by car. The weather was still overcast and rainy, but planes were flying.

An aide said Mrs. Johnson "was a little jolted this morning and thought she'd enjoy the adventure of driving back." The drive takes eight to 10 hours.

The 96-minute flight from Washington in rain and fog was a bit bumpy from the start.

A report got to the White House, and Secret Service agents traveling with Mrs. Johnson telephoned reassurance everything was all right. Word was passed along to President Johnson shortly before he started a flight of his own to New York City.

The pilot, George A. Mosteller, 56, of Vienna, Va., a 21-year UAL veteran, said it had been a lightning strike but a small strike and he had no trouble controlling the aircraft.

Later a United spokesman at Pittsburgh said a static charge had built up on the plane and was discharged in the atmosphere, causing the flash and noise.

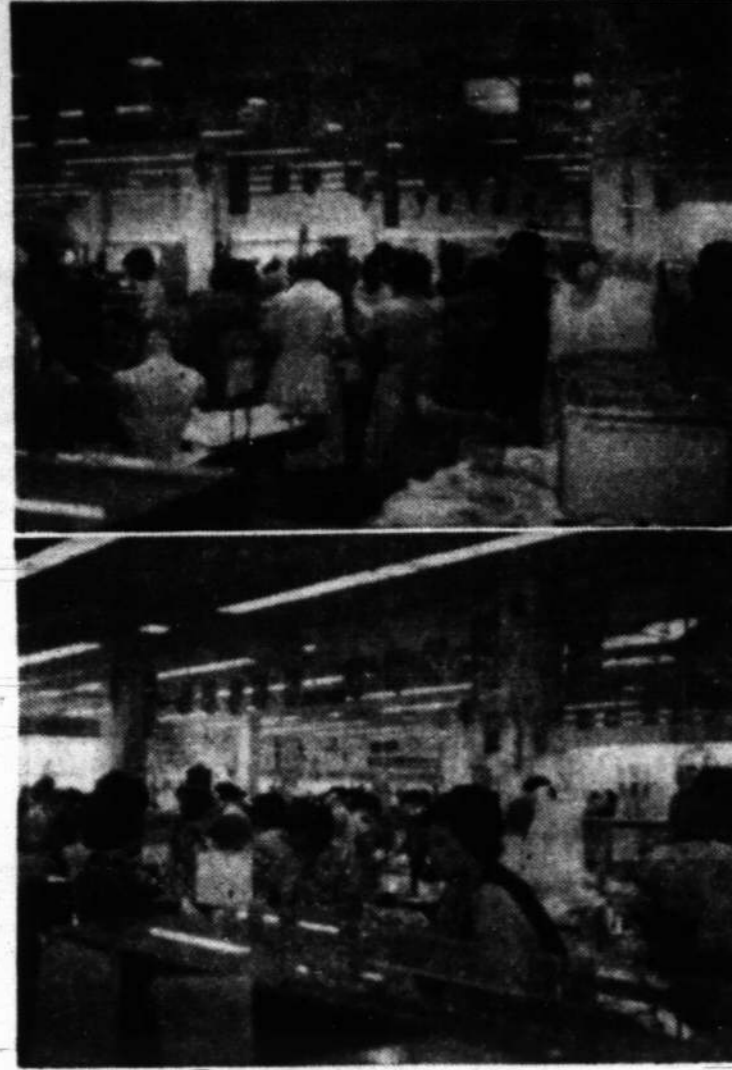

When the plane was examined, burn spots were found on the trailing edge of one wing and one propeller and there was slight damage to the radio antenna.

Officials List 'Victory' Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials listed Monday three tests on whether victory has been achieved in the cold war—and said these conditions have not yet been met.

The three measurements listed were:

1. Soviet permission for inspections inside Soviet territory in order to carry out disarmament agreements.
2. Free elections in East Germany, looking toward reunification of that country.
3. Kremlin abandonment of its support for subversive movements involving the sending of men and arms across frontiers.

Some observers have suggested the cold war has given way to an East-West "detente" or relaxation. They have cited developments such as the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The U.S. officials denied that the cold war is over and list what they termed the three "gut issues" which they say are still unresolved.

The assessment of the international situation was made known as the State Department conducted a semiannual foreign policy briefing for some 800 editors and broadcasters from around the country.

Solons Urge Check On Nuclear Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders called for an international check on Soviet compliance with a developing international agreement to cut back production of nuclear weapon materials.

The simultaneous announcement by President Johnson and Soviet Premier Khrushchev that the United States and the Soviet Union will make substantial reductions in the output of explosive materials surprised members of Congress.

The immediate reaction was one of cautious approval, provided the Soviets accept some system of verification which would show they were carrying out their part of a program in which Khrushchev said Great Britain was joining.

made its reductions accordingly," he said.

The President's announcement, in a speech at The Associated Press luncheon in New York, that production of plutonium will be decreased 20 per cent and enriched uranium by 40 per cent over four years was described by Jackson as raising some concern.

Earlier Announcement
Jackson said the 20 per cent reduction in the production of plutonium already had been scheduled in Johnson's State of the Union announcement in January of a nuclear cutback. He said 40 per cent reduction in enriched uranium production will be made in Ohio, Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he hopes there will be enough for new peaceful uses that may be discovered.

To Make Statement
A spokesman said in London that Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will make a statement Tuesday.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the agreement reopens the question of whether the Soviets will be willing to accept inspection to demonstrate that they are carrying out Khrushchev's pledge.

"We have offered to make our nuclear production facilities available for their inspection and they should be willing to do likewise," Jackson said. "We need to know also if they are building new facilities and whether they are going to continue construction of some now under way."

Khrushchev said work is being stopped on two plutonium plants.

Actual Performance
Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said the United States ought to tailor any cuts it makes to the actual performance of the Russians.

"They make a lot of statements that their actual performance doesn't match," he said. "We should have verification that they are matching our cuts."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said there had been advance word of the U.S. cutback but nothing about any coordinated announcement with the Soviet Union.

He said the Khrushchev statement "is more disturbing to me than the reduction in our own production."

Further Step
"If this is a further step along the road to nuclear disarmament, does it mean we have abandoned the idea of inspection and verification?" he asked.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said he had been advised of Johnson's speech in advance but was not informed of any agreement with the Soviet Union and Britain.

"My information is that the military decided it did not need further great quantities of fissionable material—and that the Atomic Energy Commission

The program will open with the Wichita High School Symphony, conducted by Achilles Balabanis. They will play "Russian Sailors Dance" by Gliere; "Double Violin Concerto," First Movement, by Bach, featuring the entire violin section as soloists; and will conclude their portion with "The Sound of Music" by Rogers and Hammerstein.

Capella Choir, "Os Justi" by Bruckner.

All choral groups will be conducted by Thomas Shaw, choral director. The combined choirs will sing "O Bone Jesu" by Palestrina; "Never Tell Thy Love" by H. Bright; and "King Jesus Is a-Listening" by Dawson.

The band's selection will be "March With Trumpets" by Gergsma; "Finale" from the New World Symphony by Dvorak; and "Incentration and Dance" by Chance. Daniel Prewitt will be the conductor.

Syria Accuses Iraq Of Creating Trouble

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria accused neighboring Iraq on Monday of fanning the flames of inter-Arab strife. The accusation came as Syria's Baathist Socialist government sought to end a strike by merchants in the capital and a smoldering revolt in the northern city of Hama.

Damascus radio charged Iraq with complicity in the Hama revolt and of treasonous action against Arab unity. Baghdad radio reported that demonstrators had marched in that Iraqi capital to support "the struggle of the Syrian people against their Baathist rulers." Iraq threw out a Baathist regime last November. Arab nations agreed at a summit conference in Cairo last January to end propaganda campaigns against each other. Now, Damascus radio said, Iraq is "fanning the flames of inter-Arab strife."

To counter the merchants' strike in Damascus the government ordered hundreds of demonstrators in the streets. They cheered socialism and heard Khaled Hakim, president of the Federation of Labor Trade Unions, declare that workers were prepared to take over the closed shops.

"We demand in the name of the workers that all big businesses be nationalized," he said. He denounced merchants as feudalists and said "we want more nationalization and self-government."

The government of Gen. Amin Hafez provided 40 buses for the demonstrators, who included peasants from outlying areas. As the rally opened the government announced it had nationalized a wood company in Latakia—the sixth firm to undergo that process in the past week.

Hafez lifted a curfew in Hama, 130 miles north of Damascus, in a gesture to leaders in that city of 100,000. But he has expressed determination to wipe out rebels who oppose the government's policies there.

Shoe Store Clerk Wins 'Sales Oscar'

Baker's Shoe Store, 820 Indiana, and an employee, Virginia Shelly, both have won "sales Oscars" for outstanding sales in the North Texas district which includes 18 stores.

The store won its award for having the most outstanding increase in sales this year among the stores of this district, Manager Waford Curb said.

Mrs. Shelly won her "oscar" as an outstanding cashier-saleslady in the district. This award, present to a cashier or saleslady, is based on percentage of sales and customer service. Mrs. Shelly resides in Wichita Falls at 541 Olen Road.

Baker's has recently completed a redecorating job in its store here, including repainting and new carpets.

Curb said, "We wish to thank all the customers for helping to win this honor for the Wichita Falls store."

Remaining U.S. Treasure

Everybody can breathe a small sigh of relief now. The Pieta, Michelangelo's marble masterpiece of Christ and the Virgin Mary, has arrived safely at the New York World's Fair.

America thanks the Italian people who overcame their understandable fear in allowing this national treasure to be moved from its place in the Vatican for the first time since it was created 465 years ago.

America has no probable treasure to send in return, unless it is the original of the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution. Our treasures are of the land itself — "of purple mountain majesties," the "fruited plains."

We would hesitate to let the Declaration of Independence leave the country. Alas, we exhibit no such concern over our natural inheritance.

Conservationists are having to fight tooth and nail to push a bill through Congress to preserve remaining wilderness areas which are still in the public domain.

Too much of the public domain is already gone. The magnificent redwood trees — living things whose age dwarfs the four and a half centuries of the Pieta — were literally put under the ax by a thoughtless government in the 19th century for as little as $1.25 an acre.

These trees, some of which were tall when Christ was born, are being cut down at the rate of a billion board feet a year. It is predicted that within 20 years, all but a minuscule 3 per cent of virgin redwood forest under state protection will have been transformed into recreation room paneling, picnic benches and what not.

Who cares? Maybe somebody in the 21 century will. By then it will be too late.

Government Needs Help

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With economy-conscious officials turning out the lights all over town, it's a bit of a surprise to hear anybody dare to argue for "more Indians" in some agencies. But the case is pleaded here and there.

The State Department, long a whipping object for both the Congress and the public, is one such place.

A young department official, who has to remain anonymous, is somewhat astonished to note how often highly qualified junior officials have to turn from substantive matters to doing their own filing and other routine chores.

In his view, the lack of a judicious sprinkling of secretaries makes part-time clerks out of men who should be focusing totally on the department's creative business.

The official here quoted used to work on Capitol Hill. The clerical help he could call upon then makes those days seem a luxury. He recalls the bland assumption that a telephone request from a lawmaker's office would set hordes of otherwise under-used bureaucrats scurrying to supply answers.

From his new vantage point, he sees that department employees do indeed scurry when a request is made. But the task is not handled by "Indians" resting on the bench. People often get set aside, important foreign policy work to satisfy a query.

The young department officer estimates that perhaps a fifth of the department's time is taken up in its relations with Congress — preparing for appropriations and authorization bills, answering mail and other inquiries, keeping records with a particular eye on next year's congressional hearings.

The situation, he says, is not far from that complained of ruefully in World War II by a young chair-bound lieutenant who said: "I've got so many reports to make out I haven't got time to do the things I'm supposed to report about."

The penalty for all this, it is suggested, is that many men who should be thinking and planning ahead simply do not have the time for it. When a foreign policy crisis develops, these gaps in preparation are quickly revealed.

Ironically, when trouble brews and the department's responses are sometimes less than adequate, loud protests inevitably are heard in Congress. An old, tired question is put again: "What are those striped-pants boys doing down there?"

The answer, some would say, is spending too much time attending to Congress.

Many who move from a congressional setting to the executive branch are struck hard by another thing. The anonymous State Department man expresses it:

"It's a shock to come from the relative simplicity of Capitol Hill to the complexities involved in operating the government."

The late President Kennedy and some of his key aides often remarked the difference, especially in the foreign policy field. In the White House and the many agencies, government has a tangled, gray look that no outsider, no matter how long on Capitol Hill, seems wholly able to comprehend.

If this notion needs further underscoring, that seasoned lawmaker, President Johnson, seems now to be providing it. Testimony is ample that he has found the intricacies of foreign policy to be his hardest lessons. There is no short course.

Global View

Western Action Time

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The dramatic pro-United States turn in Latin America is the first direct result of the growing conflict between Russia and RED China.

Indeed, the inevitable split in the Communist camp is the present reality in international affairs — not Sen. J. William Fulbright's myth that Castro's dictatorship is "sure to stay."

The bloodless coups against Goulart's pro-Communist regime in Brazil, Latin America's pivotal nation, is a case in point. It could not have happened without a civil war if Brazil's Reds had not been divided by the bitter feud between Nikita Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung.

This is not to underestimate the role played in the revolt by courageous men like Carlos Lacerda, the pro-American governor of the state of Guanabara. But as Lacerda recently told this writer in Rio de Janeiro, the global rift has shifted the diplomatic initiative to the Free World. This, he said, "is a golden opportunity that the West must not miss."

A recent survey by specialists on communism gives some indication how badly the Reds are split. It also explains the urgency behind Moscow's renewed verbal offensive against Peking which is likely to lead to an open break between the two Red giants.

Not only in Latin America, but in Asia and Europe the Communists are now engaged in a civil war among themselves. China is gaining ground within the important Red parties of India, Ceylon, Japan, Burma, North Viet Nam and North Korea.

Indonesia, whose Communist party of 2,500,000 is one of the strongest in Asia, has recently shifted from the position of mediator between Moscow and Peking to that of outspoken supporter of China's anti-Russian policy.

The Chinese have also mounted large-scale propaganda offensives to win over Russia's satellites in East Europe and Red parties in the West to their side in the doctrinal quarrel with Moscow.

In Italy, Red Chinese agents are particularly active in Rome, Milan and Padua. L'Unita, official mouthpiece of Italy's pro-Russian Reds, recently complained that "Peking is supporting factional groups all over the world, including Belgium, France, Brazil, Greece, Switzerland and the United States."

The most active pro-Chinese agent in France is Jacques Verges, publisher of the magazine Revolution. He is also reported to be the liaison with pro-Chinese groups in Algeria, Cuba and Venezuela.

Peking has also succeeded in creating strong anti-Russian groups inside the Communist parties of Britain, New Zealand, Australia and in the Scandinavian countries.

No wonder Premier Khrushchev is worried to death. No wonder the Russians are urging a speedy showdown with Mao Tse-tung despite strong opposition among their own satellites who fear an open break in the Red camp.

Will the NATO alliance, then, seize the "golden opportunity" and take advantage of the disarray in the Red world as Gov. Lacerda suggested? Or will a vacillating policy by the West, which sees Russia as the lesser evil, give the Reds enough time to re-group their ranks and strengthen their positions?

When the enemy is under pressure, Bismarck once said, any kind of policy is better than a vacillating policy.

Lodge To Return Home For Campaign

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Reports from Saigon indicate that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge may be preparing to dissociate himself from the South Vietnamese policies of the Johnson Administration.

There is also a report that Lodge may do so in the same spectacular manner in which Gen. Douglas MacArthur courted removal by President Truman—namely, a showdown over U.S. bombing of Chinese Communist territory.

The blue-blood Bostonian is not unaware of the Republican fire he is drawing for serving a Democratic administration in this Asian hot spot.

Indeed, the reliable Louis Harris poll, which shows Lodge far out in front in the Oregon Presidential Primary, also registers strong criticism of his role in South Vietnam. An overwhelming 84 per cent of the Republican voters, though they liked Lodge, held him partly responsible for Vietnam.

Lodge has made clear to his backers that he has no intention of passing up the opportunity to become President. He has told them that it not only was his duty to accept the call, but that he consulted with top Republicans before accepting the ambassadorship.

One who agreed he couldn't turn it down, according to Lodge, was ex-President Eisenhower.

Far more significant, however, are hints that Lodge may be planning a dramatic break with the Johnson Administration over South Vietnam.

The ambassador has written a private letter to his old friend, ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts, telling of his desire to carry the war into North Vietnam.

It was precisely such a letter over a decade ago that stirred up the great controversy over expanding the Korean War into Manchuria. The circumstances are startlingly similar.

At that time Gen. Douglas MacArthur wrote to the same Joe Martin, complaining about President Truman's failure to carry the war into Manchuria. The letter leaked; Truman fired MacArthur; the General came home in a blaze of publicity.

It may be that the ambassador, an impressive if less spectacular figure than MacArthur, had this episode in mind when he wrote to Martin.

Will history repeat itself?

Note — Though maintaining a discreet diplomatic silence, Lodge has also taken issue with the Johnson administration over the prohibition against U.S. helicopters flying closer than three miles to Cambodia. Red guerrillas have the habit of hitting targets in South Vietnam, then running for cover into Cambodia. Lodge has argued that helicopters should be permitted to pursue them all the way to the border.

Acheson and MacArthur

Ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson, his memory pricked by the renewed controversy over Gen. Douglas MacArthur, has told friends about the reaction inside President Truman's cabinet the day after MacArthur was fired.

The headlines were aflame with the news of the great hero's sacking, and public indignation was bursting over Truman's head.

He strode into the cabinet meeting and, without formality, brought up what was on everyone's mind.

"Well," he demanded, "what do you think of it?"

Truman turned first to his secretary of state and asked for Acheson's comment.

"I am reminded," said Acheson, "of the story of the Army couple who brought up a beautiful daughter in a succession of Army camps. She was always surrounded by soldier boys who swarmed about her like bees around honey."

"Her parents naturally were concerned about her in such an environment. One day, when the husband returned from his duties, he was greeted at the gate by his distressed wife who announced that their daughter was pregnant."

"The man reached into his pocket, pulled out a handkerchief, wiped his brow, and said, 'Thank God that's over!'"

"That," said Acheson, "is how I feel about the firing of MacArthur."

Jittery Congressman

Mike Kirwan, the Ohio Democrat who has pushed his congressional colleagues around for a long time, has started pushing his chief opponent around in Youngstown. The 77-year-old Kirwan seems so worried about his re-election that his henchman recently barred Kirwan's opponent from a dinner honoring Monsignor Joseph Koch.

When Robert Hagan, chairman of the Trumbull County Commissioners, who is running against Kirwan, turned up at the dinner he was blocked at the door and told he couldn't come in.

"You're not wanted here. Here is your money back," said big, hulking Al Shipka, who works for the United Steel Workers District 26, whose boss, James Griffen, is Kirwan's No. 1 backer.

"But I was invited by the guest of honor," protested Hagan. "He didn't mention it," replied Shipka, "you'd better go before there's trouble."

Rather than cause trouble, Hagan departed.

Allen-Scott Report

Vietnam Money Crisis

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

And PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — An explosive fiscal problem directly affecting the conduct of the war in South Viet Nam is being virtually ignored by the Johnson Administration.

Inherited from the Kennedy administration, the growing money crisis involves the soaring exchange rate of the local currency in that strife-torn country's black-market and the international money markets.

The piaster, officially pegged at 73 to the dollar by the South Viet Nam government, is being exchanged through official banking channels in Hong Kong at the inflated rate of 140 to the dollar — nearly a 100 per cent increase.

In the Saigon black-market, which now involves everyone from the corner shoeshine boy to the covert money operator, the piaster is being exchanged at rates upward of 100 to the dollar.

Communist North Viet Nam authorities, quick to take advantage of the inflated exchange rates, are purchasing millions of dollars worth of the piasters through the Chinese Communist Bank in Hong Kong and using them to finance the Viet Cong guerrilla warfare against the pro-U.S. South Viet Nam troops.

Once the piasters are smuggled into South Viet Nam, the money is used to pay informers, buy rice and arms from South Viet Nam peasants, and finance other costs of spreading guerrilla warfare against the government of that strategic Southeast Asian nation.

An estimated 50 per cent of this smuggled currency is being re-exchanged within South Viet Nam for dollars at the lower pegged level, with the sound U.S. currency then being routed to Hong Kong for more purchases of the piasters at the more favorable rate.

The Vicious Circle
This round-robin money circle, which some U.S. officials believe is getting out of hand, is growing like Topsy as the U.S. increases its financial help to step up the war effort against the Communist Viet Cong.

One Agency for International Development report, covering completely different fields, warns that as high as 80 per cent of the additional U.S. aid funds being pumped into South Viet Nam could be wasted unless this mounting money crisis is solved.

The AID report stresses that no government agency or official in the Johnson administration is working on this problem or pressuring the military junta in South Viet Nam to take action to control this leaping inflation.

Neither Defense Secretary McNamara nor Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge mentioned this fiscal crisis in their report on conditions in that country and recommendations on bringing that war to a successful conclusion.

Intelligence estimates now gathering dust in the Central Intelligence Agency reveal that the late President Diem was considering devaluing the piaster to check the inflation, but he was assassinated and his duly-elected government was violently overthrown before these fiscal reforms could be carried out.

Since that fateful day in the fall of 1963, neither of the two succeeding military strongmen have felt they had the popular support to make such a drastic fiscal change.

Efforts of lower-level AID authorities to get any higher-echelon action are being stymied by a dispute between State Department and Treasury officials over whose responsibility it is to bring the money crisis to the attention of the White House.

As this problem grows and rumors of new coups increase in Saigon, President Johnson again appears to be approaching another moment of truth in the war that our policy will not let us win or lose.

Foreign Flashes

Algerian Premier Ben Bella will soon show his true Marxist colors. He is scheduled to be the honored guest of Soviet leaders at their big May Day celebration in Moscow. He follows Cuba's Communist Dictator Castro, who was honored in 1963.

Fidel Castro is outflanking the U.S. trade embargo by establishing a new trade mission in Brussels. Intelligence authorities say Castro is erecting a big trade headquarters in the European Common Market "capital." As a base not only for trade with the Common Market countries, but also with Switzerland and the Scandinavian nations.

West Germany has refused Castro permission for a trade mission in that country and opposed his Brussels ploy. In 1963, Castro established diplomatic relations with Communist East Germany, and Bonn retaliated at once by rupturing relations with Cuba and bringing its trade to a halt.

The Bonn government is backing the U.S. embargo both in reprisal for Castro's recognition of East Germany and as a matter of Western unity.

American flagships are receiving government assistance in a new promotional effort to increase their traffic. The government is giving its blessing to "mobile trade fairs" which shipping lines are using to promote U.S. foreign trade in hopes of generating more cargo for American bottoms.

The "trade fair" usually is housed on a specially outfitted ship that travels from port to port. The Commerce Department now plans to help defray some of the operating costs of the fairs.

Alaska Senators E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening have warned the White House that unless emergency aid is given Kodiak, that coastal city could be severely damaged by high tides on June 11. At that time, the tides will reach their peak — an estimated six feet above the coastline, which sank five feet during the recent earthquake.

A federally-financed dike is needed to keep billions of tons of water from pouring into the city.

Prayer

For Today

Blessed be God, Who hast brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, to Whom be all glory, power, and dominion, world without end. We rejoice that Thou hast called us to be children of the resurrection, freed us from the fear of death and reassured us with the promise of a more abundant life. Grant that each day we may live our life to the full and that when death intrudes, we may be risen with Christ, for he is risen indeed. Amen. — Scott Brenner, Philadelphia, Pa., editor, Today, Westminster Press.

Korean Intelligence

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Journalistic pundits baggling over the posthumous release of General Douglas MacArthur's "victory plan" in the Korean War ignore a footnote of history which explains, at least in part, MacArthur's defeat in North Korea.

That footnote states bluntly that until the Chinese Reds fell on him like a ton of bricks, MacArthur stubbornly refused to believe reports of the Central Intelligence Agency that the Reds probably would intervene in force. In retrospect, it almost seems as if MacArthur didn't want to believe these reports; therefore he gave them his death ear.

Mystery

Several weeks before MacArthur sent his United Nations troops across the 38th Parallel dividing South and North Korea, the CIA had warned President Truman the Chinese Reds would view the move with "considerable seriousness." Our spy agency reported movements of Chinese Red troops along the Manchurian-Korean border in numbers large enough to give them the "capacity" to intervene.

At hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee in May, 1961, MacArthur testified the CIA had reported the Red Chinese would not intervene. Truman said he had seen no such report. And General Omar Bradley, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said MacArthur had been informed of the movements on the Manchurian border.

Earlier, Truman and MacArthur had met at Wake Island for a chat, about which Truman wrote in his memoirs: "The general assured me that victory was won in Korea. He also informed me that the Chinese Communists would not attack..." According to Truman — whose memory was supported by the notes of a stenographer — MacArthur further declared that "If the Chinese tried to get down to Pyongyang, there would be the greatest slaughter..." of Chinese troops.

Aid Confirmed
Headquarters of MacArthur's

X Corps provided the first official report of Chinese intervention. Prisoners captured on Oct. 26, 1950, were identified as Chinese and told interrogators they were members of organized units which had crossed the Korean border on Oct. 16. This was the day after MacArthur had assured Truman the Chinese would not enter the war.

Yet, several days later, MacArthur pleaded for the received permission to bomb the bridges over the Yalu River because "Men and Material in large force are pouring across all bridges of the Yalu from Manchuria." Next day, the general told Washington he had been confirmed in his belief that this was not a full-scale intervention.

Thrown Back

By mid-November, the CIA had prepared a national intelligence summary which would have given pause to most generals. It stated the Chinese Reds would "at a minimum" increase their operations in Korea and subject UN forces to "prolonged attrition." MacArthur forthwith launched his Eighth Army on a major attack he described as a "general offensive... to end the war."

Highlights Of LBJ's Speech In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Here are textual highlights of President Johnson's address prepared for the annual luncheon Monday of The Associated Press:

We seek today, as we did in Washington's time, to protect the life of our nation, preserve the liberty of our citizens, and pursue the happiness of our people. But we have also learned in this century, at painful and bloody cost, that our own freedom depends on the freedom of others — that our own protection requires that we help protect others — that we draw increased strength from the strength of others.

We must be alert to shifting realities, to emerging opportunities and fresh dangers. But we must not mistake day-to-day changes for fundamental movements in the course of history.

New Realities

Today there are new pressures, new realities, which make it permissible to hope that the pursuit of peace is in the interests of the Soviet Union as it is in ours. And our own restraint may be convincing the Soviet leaders of the reality that we seek neither war nor the destruction of the Soviet Union.

I am taking two actions which reflect both our desire to reduce tensions and our unwillingness to risk weakness.

I have ordered a further substantial reduction in our production of enriched uranium, to be carried out over a four-year period. I am happy to say that Chairman Khrushchev has now indicated to me that he intends to make a move in this same direction.

At the same time I have reaffirmed all the safeguards against weakening our nuclear strength which we adopted at the time of the test ban treaty.

Security Interests

The experiences of two world wars have taught us that the fundamental security interests of the United States and the interests of Europe are the same. What we learned in time of war we will not forget in time of peace.

The Alliance for Progress is the central task of this hemisphere. That task is going ahead. But that alliance means more than economic assistance — investment. It requires us to encourage and support those democratic political forces which seek essential change within the framework of constitutional government. It means preference for rapid evolution as the only real alternative to violent revolution.

The use of Cuba as a base for subversion and terror is an obstacle to our hopes for the hemisphere. Our first task must be, as it has been, to isolate Cuba from the inter-American system, frustrate its efforts to destroy free governments, and expose for all to see the ugliness of communism. That policy is working. We will continue this policy with every peaceful means at our command.

Viet Nam Conflict

The situation in Viet Nam is difficult. Let no one doubt that we are in this battle as long as South Viet Nam wants our support and needs our assistance to protect its freedom.

No negotiated settlement in Viet Nam is possible as long as the Communists hope to achieve victory by force. Once war seems hopeless, then peace may be possible. The door is always open to any settlement which assures the independence of South Viet Nam, and its freedom to seek help for its protection.

As for China itself, so long as the Communist Chinese pursue conflict and preach violence, there can be no easing of relationships. It is not we who must re-examine our view of China, it is the Chinese Communists who must re-examine their view of the world.

War On Poverty

Let there be no mistake about our intention to win the war against poverty at home, and to help fight it around the world. This battle will not be easy or swift. But the world must not be divided into rich nations and poor nations, white nations and colored nations. In such a division are the seeds of terrible discord and danger in decades to come.

Prophecy is always unsure. But if anything is certain it is that this nation can never again retreat from world responsibility. We will be involved in the world for the rest of our history. We must accustom ourselves to working for liberty in the community of nations as we have pursued it in our community of states.

Restraining Order Prohibits 'Stall-In'

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge issued a temporary restraining order Monday barring any attempt by militant civil rights groups to tie up transportation to the World's Fair opening on Wednesday.

If carried out, plans by the groups — incorporating auto "stall-in" tactics on highways and bridges and in tunnels, as well as jamming subway and commuter train travel — could hopelessly snarl traffic.

The show-cause order, returnable Thursday in State Supreme Court, Jamaica, Queens, was signed by Justice Joseph M. Conroy.

Among those named in the order were Isiah Brunson, head of the Brooklyn chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality; Herbert Gallendar, head of the Bronx CORE, and Arnold Goldwag, public relations director of Brooklyn CORE.

ed its Brooklyn chapter for its plans to cause traffic jams and to conduct lie-ins, sit-ins, picketings at the fair gates, and to jam ticket lines with non-buying demonstrators.

Police and the City Transit Authority were preparing for the planned transport tie-up.

A spokesman for the Transit Authority said: "We intend to operate the subways on regular schedules Wednesday and shall be fully prepared to meet any contingency."

At least 1,000 New York City patrolmen will augment the 800 private fair policemen when President Johnson visits the exposition on opening day.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said special security precautions will be in effect along the President's route to the fair.

The President could go to the fair by highway or helicopter.

The rumor is all over the country that Spiegel will take over as head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, which he denies.

"Not a word of truth to it," Spiegel says. "Who wants to run a studio? People should make pictures, and that's what I intend to do. There is no temptation in the world big enough to make me change my mind. Taking over a studio would be courting disaster and asking for headaches. Who needs it or wants it?"

Shirley Jones Cast
Shirley Jones steps in as leading lady in the film, "Fluffy," opposite Tony Randall and a 500-pound lion, but she won't sing a note.

They should write in a scene and let her tame that lion with a lullaby. Shirley's singing of "The Lord's Prayer" at Orry-Kelly's funeral was so beautiful we all cried.

Incidentally, Edward Andrews will be in "Fluffy," too. He just co-starred with a tiger for Walt Disney. After this he can join a circus.

Lilia Skala didn't have time to feel sad about losing to Margaret Sutherland in the Oscar race. Stanley Kramer gave her the nod to board his "Ship of Fools" and play the important part of Frau Hutten in the movie. She joins Vivien Leigh, Jose Ferrer, Elizabeth Ashley, and Lee Marvin in the cast.

George Cukor visited Somerset Maugham in Vienna and Audrey Hepburn in Spain. He wants Audrey to star for him in "The Spiritist," Trevor Hall's best-seller, but she would like to do the musical version of "Oliver Twist." As a play, Oliver was always played by a girl. I remember when.

Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers dusted off Pickfair's long red carpet to welcome his imperial highness Archduke Otto of Austria Sunday. He was in town only two days.

Filming In New York
Ernest Pintoff, who won an award for his cartoon, "The Critic," started work Monday directing his first feature movie, "Harvey Middleman, Fireman." The comedy, being filmed in New York by Columbia Studios, features Hermione Gingold as a marriage counselor. It has a World's Fair background.

Irving Stone is off to Rome to house guest with Carol Reed.

who is directing "The Agony and the Ecstasy" based on his book, after attending the unveiling of Michelangelo's "pieta" at the World's Fair on Sunday. Stone has been asked to write a story about it for a national magazine. A replica of the Sistine Chapel is being built for the picture in Rome.

Sorry to hear that the play starring Angela Lansbury, Lee Remick, and Harry Guardino is closing in New York.

Hope Holiday and Henry Fonda should make a funny pair in "The Rounders." She plays a lady wrangler who gets tossed into a pond by Fonda, but two big sombreros hide the vital statistics. Producer Richard Lyons starts the picture the middle of May.

Virna Lisi, Italian girl who speaks practically no English, is wanted by Mel Ferrer for "El Greco," and he is willing to wait until she finishes her picture with Jack Lemmon.

Peggy Lee heard from a friend that Paul, the pretty Beatle, considers her the best singer in the business. She doesn't know how to take it.

Sean Connery has a fan club at Oxford with a membership of 50 that includes three lords, the son of the Daily Express editor, and the heir to England's biggest department store. No Hollywood actor can equal that.

The excess of exports over imports in Gabon grew larger in 1963 than it was in '62. The average per capita annual income, though only $110, is high by African standards.

SWOADA Meet Slated Today

MANGUM, Okla. (Special)—Members of Southwest Oklahoma Area Development Assn. will gather in Quartz Mountain Park at their regularly scheduled monthly meeting, Tuesday, April 21.

Ed Hulse, Director from Mangum, urges all area citizens interested in the growth and development of Southwestern Oklahoma to participate. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m., and will feature a review of plans for the 1964 committee's activities. Committees of the organization are as follows: Agriculture, Highway, Industry, Legislative, Recreation, Transportation, and Water.

Membership in SWOADA is paid for on a community basis permitting each community to have a Director and any number of members serving the various committees.

Reservations may be made by contacting Preston Van Hanken, manager of the Mangum Chamber of Commerce, who serves as a community co-ordinator for the Mangum area.

Bob Kerr of Altus, President of the Association, explained that SWOADA is designed to help communities in the 8-county area "lift themselves up by their own boot straps" — and that thus far, the various communities' leaders are contributing greatly to this effort.

Judges Are Named For Beauty Event

MANGUM, Okla. (Special)—Judges have been selected for the Miss Greer County Pageant, in an announcement made by Mrs. Elmo Hurst, general chairman.

The judges will be Mrs. Paul Flippen, Altus teacher; Ivan Evans, Clinton High School principal, and Mrs. Sam Crow, Hollis teacher.

The pageant will be held on Saturday, May 2.

Mrs. Hurst said entries still are being accepted. Five county girls already have indicated they will enter the pageant.

Red Cross Plans Parade Of Services

Approximately 150 persons will view the "Parade of Services" given by the Wichita County chapter of the American Red Cross during the groups annual dinner Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Young Women's Christian Association.

This is the first time a program of this type has been tried by the group. E. B. Fincher, program chairman, said the program will be staged by actors, special lighting and an off-stage narrator.

D. C. (Bunny) Norwood, chairman of the nominating committee, will give a report on proposed chapter directors. Those attending the meeting will vote on replacements at one-third of the chapter's board members. New chapter officers will be elected during the June 2 board meeting, according to Hal Dyer, chapter chairman.

Red Cross services, which will be "on parade" include the blood program, water safety, first aid, disaster assistance, emergency service to military personnel and dependents and youth volunteer groups.

The Wichita County chapter of ARC serves as the clearing house for an 18-county regional blood program serving North Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

Disaster operations carried on by the Red Cross are another important factor in the service area. Wichitans involved in the April 3 tornado in the city are familiar with such disaster operations, which are still being handled by the chapter here.

Red Cross "Volunteers" provide service in hospitals, clinics, public libraries, public health units, city parks and recreation programs, the blood center, McCutchen Day Nursery, Mexican Day Nursery, Crippled Children's Center, Fowler Home, T. B. Association and in the chapter headquarters at Fifth and Baylor.

First aid classes, sponsored by the Red Cross, are offered to all city high schools, law enforcement officers, city employees, community and industrial groups.

Summer swimming classes are also conducted by the chapter at city pools for the benefit of those who are unable to swim.

General chairman for the banquet arrangements is Mrs. Shem Cunningham who is being assisted by Miss Bernice Hindman.

The "Parade of Services" has been arranged by Mrs. Paul Cargill, chairman of volunteers. Steve McDowell will give the invocation and Susan Spillar will render the benediction.

Plans concerning volunteer activities at the hospital will be discussed during the regular monthly session.

Members of the city council recently announced their intentions to purchase from the heirs of the late Fulcher Armstrong the airport facilities here.

The Volunteer Services Council of the Wichita Falls State Hospital will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the First National Bank building.

Man Charged With Forgery

Bobby George Gwin was charged Monday with forgery, culminating a search by intrepid FBI investigators and state law officials to nab the 33-year-old ex-convict.

Gwin, of Jennings, Okla., has been convicted of mail theft, auto theft, grand larceny, burglary, and forgery. He is being detained by federal authorities for violation of parole from an institution in Springfield, Mo.

City police arrested Gwin Saturday when he allegedly tried to cash a forged check at a Southmoor Center store in Wichita Falls. He is under interrogation for possible violation of the Dyer Act, which forbids interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Car Lot Raids' Suspects Queried

Three men charged with felony theft here Monday afternoon are suspected of participating in a rash of used car lot raids in Wichita Falls the past two months.

Charged were William Edward Woods, Carlson T. Stewart and Melville Ross Dewvall, in Justice of the Peace Ralph Davis' court. Stewart and Dewvall are both 20; Woods is 21.

The trio is accused of thefts from Longhorn Chevrolet Co. and Southmoor Motor Co., involving several sets of tires and automobile batteries. Most of the missing equipment has been recovered.

Also charged with felony crimes Monday were: Johnny Baker, forgery; Fred Warren, alias Charlie Tonard, arson; James Choppell, alias James Point, and Sedric Daniel, forgery; Vernon Jagers, swindling by worthless check over $50.

Police Charge Trio In Car Theft Ring

Three more persons were arrested and charged Monday afternoon in connection with a suspected stolen automobile ring operating in Wichita Falls.

Charged with felony theft were Tommy Neptune, 23, of 3225 Old Seymour Road, Dale Ray Wright of Oklahoma City, and Sheila Curlee, 22, of Fort Worth.

The trio are accused of dealing with Bobby Gene Joplin, Mark Flanagan and James Carroll Wood — all charged Friday with receiving and concealing stolen property — in the alleged trafficking of stolen cars.

Wood, 23, is current owner of the North Texas Auto Salvage Co. on Sheppard Access Road, suspected by city police to be the center of operations for a web-like theft system stretching across North Texas.

Police identified eleven automobiles, valued at $20,000, found on the salvage yard lot Friday as being stolen from owners in Ft. Worth, Haltom City, Lewisville, Sherman and Wichita Falls.

The automobiles were all Chevrolets, ranging in age from one to seven years.

Neptune, Wright and Miss Curlee were released from county jail Monday on $1,500 bond each.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Dr. Ralph E. Cox, Dallas; two brothers, Homer Martin and Louis Martin, both of Abilene; two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Clayton, Abilene, and Mrs. Mattie McDaniel, Cincinnati, Ohio; and two grandchildren.

Education Surveyors

A briefing session for personnel of the Wichita Falls school system who will participate with several members of the Texas Education Agency vocational education division in a survey here, will be held at 3 p.m. next Monday at the school administration building at 1105 Holliday.

G. H. Kirby, assistant superintendent of schools who is coordinator for the project, said a group of local people will be assigned to assist with the survey of vocational industrial occupational needs in Wichita Falls.

A training session for Wichita Falls school personnel will be held at 2 p.m. Monday, May 4, in the administration building.

Personal contacts will be made with employers of the city in the fields of auto mechanics, building trades, drafting, electrical trades, metal work, printing, refrigeration and air conditioning.

Target date for completion of the survey and compilation of the results is June 1. Results obtained from the survey will be used to determine needs for a possible vocational high school here and courses which should be taught.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Dr. Ralph E. Cox, Dallas; two brothers, Homer Martin and Louis Martin, both of Abilene; two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Clayton, Abilene, and Mrs. Mattie McDaniel, Cincinnati, Ohio; and two grandchildren.
