PHILLIPS AND THOMAS LEAD IN ELECTION

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13 (AP)—Senator Thomas, Oklahoma's silver-haired new deal favorite, widened his commanding lead today by over two hundred opponents in the first ballot-box test of President Roosevelt's political speaking tour.

Former Governor W. H. "Alfalfa" Bill Murray frowned upon by the President as "nationally known as a Republican" was running third in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Senator Thomas, seeking re-nomination for a third term, won praise from the President who called him "my old friend" Mr. Roosevelt, in his speech here Saturday made only passing mention of E. W. Marland, now dead governor running third to Thomas as the count progressed.

He offered no back-pat at all to Representative Gomer Smith, apparent runner-up in the Senate race. Smith voted against the President's reorganization bill and the administration farm act.

The unofficial count in 2,487 precincts of the state's 3,522 gave Thomas 158,579; Smith 148,091; and Marland 73,544.

Leon C. Phillips of Okemah, a new candidate pulled ahead of Murray and W. S. Key, former state WPA administrator, in the Democratic gubernatorial contest.

By influence, Mr. Roosevelt declared "Alfalfa Bill" was nationally known as a Republican, Murray, no longer, introduced Alf M. Land on for a speech here in the 1936 Presidential campaign.

Incumbents Leading

The count in 2,551 precincts gave Phillips 119,803 votes; Key 111,607; and Murray 99,388. Two other aspirants, former Governor Jack Walton with 27,826 and the Enley, president of the Veterans of Industry of America, apparently were hopelessly behind.

Eight Democratic Congressmen running for re-nomination held snug leads in the fifth district where Representative Smith filed for the Senate. T. Bone McDonald, Edmund soil conservationist, and Mike Monroney, young Oklahoma City furniture dealer vied top for position. Monroney won the lead from Bone near noon today.

WHEAT LOAN FIGURE TO BE ANNOUNCED TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Federal farm officials were computing next year's wheat acreage allotments today while awaiting announcement of the government loan rate on the 1938 near-record crop.

Secretary Wallace said he would disclose the loan figure late this afternoon. There were indications it would be near the 59 cents a bushel minimum permitted under the law.

Federal loans to farmers desiring to withhold wheat from market became mandatory with Monday's forecast of a yield of 967,412,000 bushels.

The acreage allotment must be proclaimed Friday. It can not be less than 55,000,000 acres, which would be about a 30 per cent reduction from the 79,000,000 acres seeded for this year. The allotment will be divided among states and then among individual growers.

The allotment is based on an effort to produce enough wheat for domestic and export needs—roughly 750,000,000 bushels—plus a 30 per cent reserve supply.

Officials estimated the Texas allotment, on the basis of a 55,000,000-acre program, compared with the seeded acreage for this year's crop, would be approximately 3,648,681 acres.

WHEAT 59 CENTS

Local price on wheat remained at 59 cents a bushel today as the market remained steady. A small amount of late wheat was received today with a few orders to sell.

A good pitcher and a couple of slugging outfielders are needed to round out the team. Anyone knowing of girl players in this territory is asked to call Miss Avis Heiskell at 1089. DeAnn Heiskell, see hurler for the Sluggers the last two years, is expected to return from Oklahoma City Friday.

Confessor In Mattson Slaying Insane, Says Chief Investigator

TACOMA, Wash., July 13 (AP)—Chief William Cole of the Washington highway patrol announced today he was convinced a man of many aliases, who yesterday confessed the Mattson kidnaping, was a "mental case and had no part in the crime."

Cole said the man, who gave his name as Clarence White, Clarence Thorpe, Clarence Mead and Frank Olsen, would not be charged with the kidnaping and slaying of 10-year-old Charles Mattson, but would probably be given a sanity hearing.

Cole said the Federal Bureau of Investigation had taken part in the questioning, but expressed no further interest in the man.

Cole, who announced Olsen's confession last night, said the prisoner's description tallied closely with that of the man sought for the abduction but that many portions of his story did not check with known facts of the case.

Arrested Friday

Olsen was arrested last Friday near Riverton in eastern Washington and after 36 hours questioning by Sheriff Melvin Ostreich, state policeman Jack Crooks and sheriff's deputy Joe Schaefer, was brought to Tacoma. He is irrational about a third of the time, Cole said.

Glenns in a lettered effort would have Olsen have Murray and William Mattson, sister and brother of the slain boy, who were in the Mattson home at the time of the kidnaping, identify Olsen's picture. The children now are at a summer camp.

CLASH BETWEEN ARABS AND JEWS WOUND MANY

JERUSALEM, July 13 (AP)—An undetermined number of persons were wounded today in a new clash between Arabs and Jews in the mixed quarters of Haifa while police and troops sought to restore order in the troubled Holy Land.

Rifle fire echoed through the streets as the two groups hurled stones and missiles at each other, but no deaths were reported. Many Jews were evacuating their homes in the district.

A mid-day recapitulation of casualties since July 5 showed 66 Arabs and Jews killed, 146 Arabs, 93 Jews and five British soldiers wounded. Many others whose number could not be determined were wounded in guerrilla fighting.

FOR SALE SIGN PUT UP ON BARRYMORE MANSION

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (AP)—John Barrymore's 40-room mansion on Tower road, with artistic odds and ends from all over the world, bore a "for sale" sign today.

'Miss Pampa' To Be Selected Tonight on L'Nora Theater Stage

Pampa's representative in the Sweetwater Water Carnival, to be held Friday in Sweetwater, where girls from West Texas towns will compete for the title "Goddess of West Texas," will be chosen from a group of 24 entrants in the Bathing Beauty pageant to be held at 8:45 o'clock tonight on the L'Nora stage.

"Miss Pampa" will leave tomorrow morning for Sweetwater. Her expenses on the trip will be paid. At Sweetwater the "goddess" will be crowned by George O'Brien, RKO Radio motion picture actor, who will fly to Sweetwater from Hollywood on Friday morning.

A one-week expense paid vacation trip to Galveston is the prize that will be awarded the Goddess of West Texas.

Three out-of-town judges will select "Miss Pampa" at the pageant tonight. In groups of five the girls will assemble on the stage, then each girl will go to the center of the stage and walk on a ramp, that has been built over the orchestra pit, and return back stage. As there are 24 entrants there will be four girls in the last group.

Interspersed between the appearance of the groups will be singing and dancing acts by pupils of the Vincent School of Dancing. Accordion numbers by Mike Shepik of Tarpley's Music store will precede the appearance of the last four girls.

This will be followed by another act by Vincent pupils. Entrants in the pageant will then assemble in a semi-circle on the stage and the judges will make and announce their decision.

A novelty number, the nature of which has been kept secret, will open the pageant. Appearance of the first

Here is the crew of the giant $200,000 silver monoplane in which Howard Hughes, one of America's richest and most chieftain bachelors, is seeking a new round-the-world speed record after his successful trans-Atlantic flight to Paris. Left to right, they are: Edw. Ed. Lind, flight engineer; Hughes; Harry P. Gurnea, navigator and veteran of Atlantic flights; Edward Howard, standard radio operator; and Capt. Hiram (Tommy) Thurgood, co-pilot.

The scene at the LeBourget Airfield, Paris, France, on July 13th, as Howard Hughes, millionaire oil man and speed flier, alighted from his great Lockheed plane, the "New York World's Fair 1939," after he and his daring crew of four had flown non-stop from the Floyd Bennett field, New York City, in 16 hours, 35 minutes, less than half the time taken by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his historic flight 11 years ago. A great crowd of admiring Frenchmen wait on the field to welcome Hughes and his crew. Stepping only long enough for a short rest and repairs to the plane, Hughes hopped off for Moscow on his speed dash around the world. This picture was rushed to London from Paris and back of from there to New York.

M'Clellan Lake Dam Site Lives Up To Congressman Jones' Fondest Hopes

Principles and workings of the Townsend organization were discussed by Dr. Carl Lunn of Fort Worth in an address at the regular meeting of the Pampa Townsend Club last night in the county courtroom.

Local members named Cal Rose as a member of the board to fill out the unexpired term of the late J. O. Burleson. Twelve new members were received into the local club last night.

Dr. Lunn is making a tour of this section of the Panhandle, speaking before clubs and organizing efforts. He will reorganize clubs at LeFors and McLean before leaving the Panhandle.

Quoted Skaptics

The Congressman also expressed his personal approval of the site. He marveled at the natural setting, the scenic beauty and the site's adaptability for the purpose for which it was intended.

"You know," he said, "I had quite a bit of difficulty convincing some of the engineers in Washington when this project first came up that it could be met with water. They told me it couldn't be done—that the lake at this site would be a 'cut' and that it would turn out to be a reflection on the government's water conservation program."

ROUND-WORLD FLIER DUE TO ARRIVE TODAY

YAKUTSK, Siberia, July 13 (AP)—Howard Hughes took off for Fairbanks, Alaska, at 9:01 p. m. tonight (6:01 a. m. C. S. T.) on the fifth leg of his attempt to set a new record for round the world flight.

The American aviator and his four companions had remained at Khatanga only two hours and 53 minutes after completing their 2,177-mile hop from Omsk, Western Siberia.

Hughes planned to make Yakutsk his last stop in Soviet Russian territory. He plotted a course of 2,456 miles to Fairbanks, across the northeastern tip of Siberia and the Bering Sea.

However, preparations for an emergency landing have been made at Andysk in case of necessity.

Leaving Yakutsk just 60 hours 41 minutes after their takeoff from New York and with two-thirds of the flight completed, Hughes and his companions were far ahead of the time of the late Wiley Post, who girdled the globe alone in seven days 18 hours 49 minutes in 1933.

Post flew a different course across Siberia, but his takeoff from Khabarovsk, approximately the same distance from New York as Yakutsk, came 113 hours 58 minutes after his New York take off. He had stopped only two hours and 13 minutes at Khabarovsk.

Andysk is a little more than 1,400 miles northeast of Yakutsk. From there the direct route to Fairbanks would take Hughes close to the narrowest part of the Bering Strait, where only 60 miles of water separates Soviet and American territory. The district between Yakutsk and Bering Strait, however, is one of the wildest parts of Siberia.

Hughes had landed his big monoplane at Yakutsk at 6:08 p. m. 3:08 a. m. C. S. T., ending the fourth leg of his flight.

The weary aviator immediately snatched a brief rest.

At 6:15 a. m. Hughes was greeted warmly by representatives of the regional Soviet executive committee and newspapermen. In a brief interview he said it had rained heavily between Kuran and Omsk. He flew at an altitude of more than 9,000 feet.

WYNNE APPOINTED TO HOLD BOND ELECTION

J. S. Wynne was appointed by the city commission at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon as manager of the election to be held on August 2 to decide on issues of $15,000 in water revenue bonds to pay for the cost of an improved water system for Pampa.

There will be only one polling place, the city hall, and the polls will probably be located in the city commission room, Mayor E. S. Carr said.

FARM PRODUCTS VALUE SHOWS NICE INCREASE

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—A general recovery of major farm commodities values during the past two months has increased prices 5 to 37 per cent and altered the 1938 agricultural outlook, an analysis of Chicago markets disclosed today.

Wholesale prices of nine important commodities which help to gauge the extent of farm prosperity have risen an average of 19 per cent since the broad upturn from a four-year low level began late in the spring.

Hogs and cattle, a major source of farm income, have led the upturn with a price increase of 24 to 31 per cent. Eggs are up 31 per cent. The important grains are 9 to 12 per cent higher than the 1938 lows reached scarcely six weeks ago.

The gradual rise of livestock quotations began almost a month before the recent sharp bulge in securities, confirming to some extent livestock experts' belief that the meat animal market is an important indicator of general business conditions.

Market statisticians said the price recovery may result in a revision of 1938 farm income prospects.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART.

Encouraging indeed to the woman who wants to lose weight are exercises recommended by Dr. Harry J. Schireson, author of "As Others See You." Unlike the average list of reducing exercises these are extremely simple—in fact, quite pleasant to do.

However, simple though his exercises are, Dr. Schireson would not have the would-be reducer do them for any other exercises, for that matter, unless she is sure that her body is in the best of health. One hundred per cent sound. This is his key, a key which the layman may not determine for himself. And he points out that, in later years particularly, a man or woman should not cut out even the mildest system of exercises until after a thorough examination by a physician.

Having given that sensible advice, Dr. Schireson recommends the following routines:

Stand as erect as you can, lifting up the top of the head. Arch the back to the limit. Push the shoulders back as far back as possible toward the spinal column. Now draw in the abdominal muscles as far as possible. With all the muscles contracted to the limit, hold the pose two minutes. Deep breathing, of course, will accompany this set-up. You will not be able to avoid it, all there should be no conscious effort toward inhalation. Repeat the contractions several times a day—all a minute at a time to start, if you minutes are too long.

"Anybody can put this system to work—in the office, the factory or at home," Dr. Schireson adds. "It is so simple that many think it will not work. My answer to them is that it cannot work if it is not tried. My answer is that it never fails in normal cases."

Then, for those in good health, the author outlines three more exercises which he says are of definite value in reducing fat on the hips, thighs and buttocks. The first is an upward movement of the

Awards Offered by Santa Fe Railway For Boys and Girls

Maintaining its support of 4-H club work in the 1938 agricultural program, the Santa Fe Railway announces that it is offering educational awards to 61 farm boys and girls in its territory to permit them to attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this fall.

The educational program of the railway is extended to eight states, with distribution as follows: Texas, 19; Oklahoma, 16; Kansas, 12; Missouri, 5; Illinois and New Mexico, 3 each; Arizona 2 and Iowa 1. With 874 previous winners this will make a total of 935 educational awards offered by the Santa Fe during the past 16 years.

The National 4-H Club Congress is held in Chicago in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition, and is attended by several hundred farm boys and girls from every state in the union. Being of an educational nature, the Congress has the backing of the Santa Fe which is interested in developing farm leadership in its territory.

Winners of the awards are chosen by the various agricultural colleges on the basis of individual records made in farm club work as carried on by the extension departments.

arms as though springing into the air. The second is actually jumping from the floor. The third is bending the head and body backwards.

Top to Health "Start with the simple stretching of arms above head, beginning with twenty-five times a day and gradually working up to one hundred times," Dr. Schireson advises.

"After muscles are accustomed to this, start the leaping exercise following the same program of gradually increasing the number of times you repeat it from twenty-five to one hundred times a day. It is important to keep in mind that the first twenty-five should be done slowly, without any more exertion than is necessary. Within a few weeks, the last twenty-five may be taken with all the vigor at one's command."

"The method of the third routine is to start touching the back of the head to some object, such as a dresser or fairly high table. When that becomes easy, as it will with repetition, a lower table may be selected. Repeat twelve times a day. The average woman will find that within a few months she'll be able to bend backwards to within a short distance of the floor."

'GUARDIAN ANGEL' OF AMERICANS ABROAD WANTS TO HELP OTHERS

By NEA SERVICE

WASHINGTON When black headlines blare "SHANGHAI INVADED," "MADRID BOMBARDED," "CANTON BOMBED," some of the news dispatches under them you'll always find a paragraph to the effect that "State Department authorities are taking measures for the safety and evacuation of Americans in the battle area."

How does this impersonal State Department know who the Americans are, their number and whereabouts when hostilities break out? It knows because, in a crowded room of the dimly old State Department building in Washington, they have a guardian angel—Mrs. Madge Blessing, Director of the Welfare and Whereabouts Division of the U. S. Department of State.

The safety of Americans abroad becomes her responsibility. China Big Task Now Her office isn't big enough, Mrs. Blessing explains, what with the wars in China and Spain. And she hasn't enough help. That means that when bulletins of battle and revolution come rushing over the cables, she and her three assistants are deluged with frantic inquiries. Night after night—these nights of war news—the lights in Mrs. Blessing's department turn late. There are so many calls for information so the family, friends, business associates, university and mission boards, working about the fate of individuals. There are so many heart-aches that only definite information can assuage. A guardian angel hasn't much time off.

Mrs. Blessing files contain the names and travel records of every American who applies for a passport. When she consults at scenes of trouble report the whereabouts or condition of any individual—a routine procedure under war conditions—the information is listed on the individual's card. When information is incomplete, and requested Mrs. Blessing tries to get it. She forwards requests to consuls and other government officials on the spot to keep a sharp eye out or to make a special search, as the case may be.

The work of Mrs. Blessing's Spanish problem is past and China greatly surpasses it today. Bulking China files on her desk reveal that there are case records of some 12,000 American men, women, and children involved. They were either resident or traveling in China when the hostilities started. Half on them are still there.

Scope is Limited "There's enough drama and heartache and human suffering in these files to fill a library," Mrs. Blessing declared. "When the invasion commenced most of these Americans were working away at their jobs, tending their own business, carrying on their normal lives. Then suddenly everything exploded. In many cases there weren't any more jobs. In many more, there was actual danger. In many more, there was actual destitution. More than 700 Americans in China when Japan marched in were business men, engineers, architects, experts of various kinds. Invasion left many of them stranded. We got lots of them out, some by a ticklish margin. But 6,000 are still there, mostly missionaries, medical and other workers, who feel that now more than ever they are needed on the scene of their chosen life work."

One thing troubles Mrs. Blessing. She is limited by regulations to watching over the fate of American citizens. She'd like to help others. In a way she does, anyhow. There are many Chinese born in this country, thus actual Americans, though Chinese by race. They actually have access to Mrs. Blessing's help. So in many a Chinatown throughout the cities of this land, her work brings comfort and happiness.

Seven little Chinese silver elephants parade around Mrs. Blessing's desk on a gold chain. "They're for luck," says Mrs. Blessing. "All my people out there need it."

To improve the flavor and texture of chicken used in salads let the cooked chicken stand an hour or so in the broth. Then cut the chicken into small pieces—don't mince or chop it. Thin the salad dressing with a little of the chicken stock.

Fried mush is often served with fried chicken. To prepare the mush mold it in a leaf pan. Chill it until it is firm. Then cut it into four-inch strips and sprinkle each with flower. Brown in chicken drippings and serve around the platter of chicken.

Business Centralized, Government Must Be Also, Says Jones

Decentralized government without centralized business is impossible of achievement, Congressman Marvin Jones declared yesterday noon as he defended regulation of industry and business by the government.

Mr. Jones, chairman of the agricultural committee of the House of Representatives, told his 150 listeners in the basement of the First Methodist church that the greater part of the industrial and business wealth in the U. S. was concentrated east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river.

Mr. Jones, Congressman from this district, discussed the constantly increasing trend toward a stronger centralized government, and analyzed the arguments of those who oppose government regulation of industry and commerce and business. If business were decentralized, government could be decentralized, Mr. Jones said. The inconsistency of criticism was mentioned by Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones said he was not in favor of the government going into business, but stated that business had to conform to policies that would serve the best interests of the people. He defended the government's record during the past five years, and declared that the nation was making a swift comeback from the recent depression.

He criticized critics of the spending and lending program, and declared that such a program had been made necessary. Spending and lending were quickly proving their worth, he said.

The speaker was presented by Postmaster C. H. Walker who said that his introduction would be as brief as the speaker's remarks when he introduced the President of the United States in Amarillo.

In opening his talk, Congressman Jones declared that he was glad he lived among the generous people of the southwest and in a nation of freedom.

Congressman Jones condemned the "street corner howlers" who sit all day long crying that the nation has gone to the dogs and that the government is spending too much money. "The type of fellow who will never build anything worthwhile and he should be gotten rid of immediately," he said.

"Our nation has reached the end of an epic and just beginning another," declared Congressman Jones. "To the howler that says we have been spending too much money, let us look at the cold business figures. Between 1918 and 1932 our national debt increased 16 billion dollars while our national income decreased from 60 billion dollars to 36 billion dollars. Between 1933 and 1938 our national debt increased another 15 billion, which seemed terrible in itself. But let us look at our income which during that same period which increased from 38 billion dollars to 60 billion."

"But that is not all, during the period from 1933 to 1938 we have recovered 10 billion of the 15 billion increase in debt in payment of loans, leaving us five billion dollars net increase in the national debt."

In defending the spending of money by the government, Congressman Jones said, "Do you realize that every dollar that your government is spending is being spent right here in the United States and not a dollar going abroad? And of course you know that the money we are spending on water conservation, refinancing of homes and farms, and other programs is not lost but will return a great deal more in years to come."

The speaker revealed that the nation now has 25 per cent more highways and four per cent more farm-to-market roads, all since 1933; that more banks failed in one week in 1932 than have failed between 1933 and 1938; that stock market regulations have been passed that 29 million dollars in refinancing money has come to this immediate section of the Panhandle; that dozens of homes and farms have been saved in this section.

A guest at the luncheon was Ted Smith of Amarillo, with the Bureau of Agriculture Economic.

Leslie Aldrich sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Aldrich on the piano.

Mayor E. S. Carr urged those present to support the water bond election on August 2. Mayor Carr said the move was to give Pampa adequate water so that they could forget the terror of a water shortage.

CHAMBERLAIN FINALLY LAMBASTS BOMBINGS

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today Britain was "not prepared to acquiesce in repetition of attacks of a certain character" on British shipping in Spanish waters.

He also disclosed that the government's effort to form an international commission to investigate bombings of civilian cities in Spain had been unsuccessful. Another announcement was that Sir Robert Hodgson, British agent in insurgent Spain, would stay in London for the present.

Chamberlain said Britain had rejected as "unacceptable" insurgent General Franco's suggestion that Almeria be made an "immune" port for British merchantmen in Government Spain.

Discussing the international commission to investigate bombings of civilians, he said the scheme, in which the United States, France, Norway, Sweden and later the Netherlands had been invited to join, had been found "impossible."

FRANCE AGAIN WARNS NAZIS ABOUT CZECHS

By TAYLOR HENRY

PARIS, July 13 (AP)—A scarcely-disguised French warning to Germany to keep her hands off Czechoslovakia was given pointed significance today as France opened a campaign for a huge unlimited arms loan.

"At the same time, Premier Edouard Daladier ordered publication in the official journal of a law detailing general organization for the nation in time of war."

Daladier, who as national defense minister and premier, guided the French rearmament program which in six months used up $5,000,000,000 franc (about $138,500,000) loan, issued only two months ago, declared the nation was ready to take strong action to prevent any German-Czechoslovak conflict.

The premier in an address last night held out an olive branch in one hand with a tribute to German "good will" in the face of a strong French-British representations in May when fears were felt that German efforts to intervene on behalf of the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia might bring war.

But Daladier also swore to uphold France's treaty with Czechoslovakia pledging armed aid to the central European democracy in case it were attacked.

Insistent reports in Paris of an acceleration of the pace of German military preparations caused anxious feelings in some quarters here.

The new French rearmament loan, in 3 1/2 per cent bonds to go on sale Monday, will be negotiable with the bank of France for 90 per cent of their value after six months. It was announced the previous loan offered May 16 and bought up in one day covered armament expenses from January 1 to June 30.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS IN OIL FIELD PERSIST

TULSA, Okla., July 13 (AP)—Favorable conditions in the oil industry persisted today as executives made ready for the mid-summer crush of business that traditionally follows the Independence day holiday.

Gasoline was in strong demand and there were scattered forecasts that general increases in the tank car, or wholesale, price might be expected any time.

On the other hand, it was pointed out that the big business of the triple holiday over the fourth of July brought no increase and since then some refineries who had been holding back their supplies in hope of better prices were in the market again. Such an influence might offset a trend toward an increase.

Hot weather boosted sales of motor fuel in all sections. Market surveys universally forecast an excellent volume for July and August. Vacation-time demands became heavier.

Crude oil producers were not alarmed by the fact that the output of crude jumped more than 200,000 barrels daily during the week ending July 9. Such an increase had been expected. Oklahoma's increase of 66,700 barrels daily was anticipated because the majority of operators take their allowable early in the month.

The Texas hike of 172,588 barrels daily resulted largely from the lifting of Saturday shutdown of oil wells. The oil and gas journal's computation showed the total output for the week was 3,266,396 barrels daily, compared to the bureau of mines estimate of 3,398,100.

BIDS ON CARLOAD OF SEWER PIPE OPENED

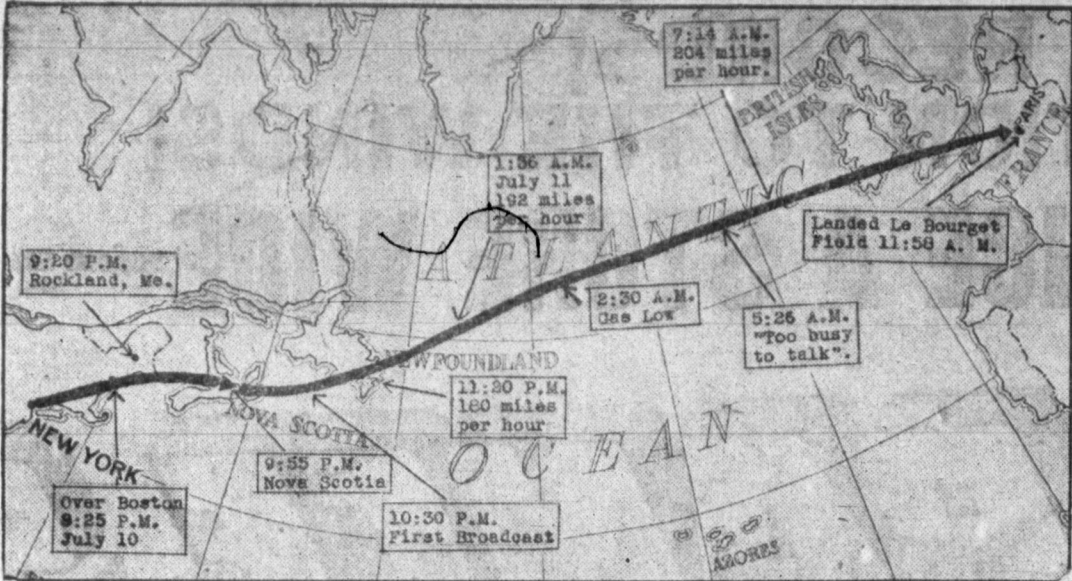

Bids on a carload of sewer pipe, asked for a week ago by the city manager were submitted to the city commission yesterday, but each of the four bids turned in were tabled until the next meeting.

Plans for improving Pampa's water system occupied the bigger part of the five-hour meeting yesterday. A Johns-Manville salesman was present at the meeting seeking to induce the commission to use transite pipes in the water system, but the city commission declined to purchase any.

Present at the meeting were City Manager W. T. Williamson, Mayor E. S. Carr, Commissioners Lynn Boyd and D. W. Osborne, City Attorney Walter E. Rogers, and Andy Crocker, Pampa water department superintendent.

HOW HUGHES ZOOMED ACROSS ATLANTIC

On the map above you can follow the breath-taking progress of Edward Hughes and his four companions, after they took his huge silver monoplane from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 7:20 p. m. on July 10th, zipped over the Atlantic to land at Le Bourget Field, Paris, at 11:58 a. m., July 11th, a record-breaking flight of sixteen and a half hours. The black line traces the course of the "flying laboratory" plane.

No Landlord Trouble in City Park

Twice in a month their landlords wouldn't wait for the rent, so two fatherless Cleveland families moved to a pavilion in a municipal park and announced their intention of continuing light housekeeping there until relief funds are available to pay their rent. Mrs. Emma Krus is shown, top, cooking on an improvised stove as her children Robert, 5, and Richard, 7, look on. The lower photo shows Mrs. Jessie Ferguson, mother of the other evicted family, watching over her sons Herbert, 11, and Wilfred, 7, as they sleep on a park bench under the pavilion. Said Mrs. Krus: "It's wonderful for the children."

FDR PAID NO ATTENTION TO SENATORS' RECOMMENDATIONS IN APPOINTING FEDERAL JUDGES

By W. B. RAGSDALE
WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The bustle of primary campaigns probably will keep President Roosevelt from filling several new federal judgeships until late in September. Twenty additional district and circuit judgeships were created by Congress shortly before adjournment. More than a dozen of the posts remain to be filled.

Very well established practice dictates that such appointments not be made when a state is wrapped up in a hot political campaign. Especially is this true when a Senator is picking his way through the primaries toward a general election.

In the past, what a Senator said for or against a man's appointment to a federal judgeship has meant a great deal. Some Senators have warned the hopes of several aspirants through a primary campaign. The aspirants did their bit for the Senator—and found later that all of those who campaigned for him could not be judge.

If the judge had been appointed in the middle of the campaign, the unsuccessful candidates would have sulked, straggled off, or gone out and fought against the Senator. Most presidents have gone along with the policy of delaying not only judgeship but other nominations out of deference to the wishes of Senators.

The South has been one exception federal appointments in the South. The Senators were ignored.

Consequently, two incidents of the last week might not have been particularly new to Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia and Connally and Sheppard of Texas—if a Republican President had been involved.

Virginia's Fred

Just before he left on his western trip, President Roosevelt appointed Floyd Roberts of Bristol, Va., to be federal judge for the Western District of Virginia. Senator Glass promptly said the selection was "intended to be offensive" to him and Byrd, and declared the two would make an active fight against confirmation.

The second incident took place Monday at Wichita Falls, Texas. Mr. Roosevelt handed to Governor Allred the appointment to a new federal district judgeship in Southern Texas.

Senators Connally and Sheppard had endorsed other aspirants. Sheppard said he would accept the President's choice, but Connally had no immediate comment.

In neither Virginia nor Texas is a Senator up for renomination this year, though that fact probably was not directly involved in the President's action.

Application of the old custom to such states as Arkansas, California and Washington would dictate that no new judges be appointed there for a month or more. Senator Hattie Caraway is up for renomination in Arkansas August 9. One new district judgeship is open there.

HIGH SCHOOL BEING PAINTED, RENOVATED

Renovating and repairing of the Pampa High school is progressing rapidly, according to Roy McMillen, manager of the school district. The roof has been re-covered, window frames and screen painted and now interior work is under way.

The program calls for placing new floors in some of the hallways and in several of the rooms painting of several class rooms with a light color paint to give more light and repairing of seats and blackboards.

Several rooms in the ward schools will be remodelled if time permits, Mr. McMillen said.

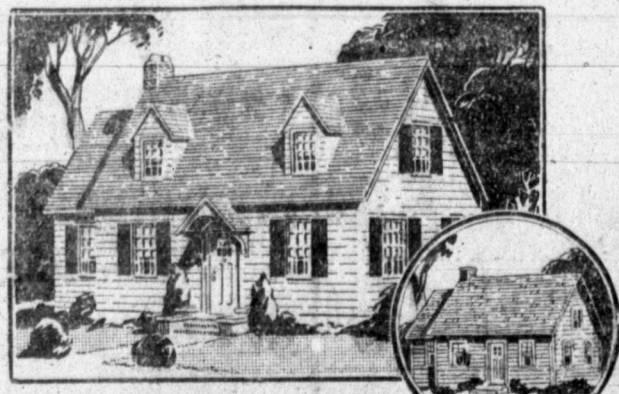

The grandstands at Harvester field have received two coats of grey paint and are looking bright and inviting for the football season. The turf on the playing field is better than ever before.

KANSAS FIRM TO PURCHASE WATER BONDS

A motion to call an election on August 2 for the purpose of issuing $165,000 in water revenue bonds, the proceeds of which are to be used in improving Pampa's water system, was read and approved at the regular meeting of the city commission yesterday afternoon.

This action follows the special meeting held Friday when the commission arranged for a contract for purchase of the bonds by Brown-Crummer of Wichita, Kas.

The company agreed to purchase the bonds, which bear a 1-1/2 per cent interest, handle all election proceedings, pay the city a premium of $625 on the bonds and to pay accrued interest until the bonds have been issued.

In the motion passed by the city commission yesterday it was stated that the bonds are to be secured by a first lien or pledge on the city's water system provided that the holder or holders of the bonds shall never have the right to demand payment thereof out of any funds raised or to be raised by taxation.

The bonds will be water revenue and not tax bonds. The city tax rate will not be affected by the issue, nor will city valuations be changed.

Improvement of the city's water system is in connection with Pampa's application for a Public Works administration grant of $110,114. The application has been approved by the regional PWA office in Fort Worth and has been sent to Washington for final passage.

Representative Marvin Jones met with the city commission yesterday afternoon, following his speech at the monthly membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

He was shown a plat of the proposed improvement, which would provide Pampa with additional water wells, more feeder lines, better water service and fire protection generally. The congressman assured the commission that he would give his assistance in attempting to secure the prompt approval of the application for the Public Works administration grant.

The amount of the city's bond issue will include the city's 55 per cent share of the contract and a contingency fund of $15,000 necessary to secure the PWA grant. Payment on the bonds will be serially as per a schedule prepared by the city auditor which calls for 14 years to pay off the bonds, providing the full $165,000 is used or 13 years if the contingency funds is not spent.

M' Craw Calls On O'Daniel To Give Stand On Issues

(By The Associated Press)

Campaign trails of four of the Texas gubernatorial candidates cross today, diverting interest for the moment from William McCraw's verbal sallies with W. Lee O'Daniel.

Karl Crowley and Tom Hunter were scheduled to speak at the same time at Longview tonight while McCraw and Ernest Thompson were to speak at Granger.

Whether Crowley and Hunter will speak on the courthouse lawn or take separate sites was not announced by the Gregg County Democratic Committee.

O'Daniel, who broke the ice and mentioned names for the first time yesterday at Gonzales, travels to Edinburg tonight. The Fort Worth flour merchant dedicated his Gonzales speech to McCraw, whom he dubbed "this professional politician" and charged he was attempting to "arouse sectional prejudice."

McCraw, hitting again at O'Daniel, said at Georgetown today the Fort Worth candidate should make public his stand on race track gambling, sale of liquor by the drink and other such issues.

"The banjo man talks a great deal about home and religion and the ten commandments and the fine women of our state," McCraw said, "but he doesn't say a word about gambling on the horses or selling liquor by the drink or any of the other things our church people want to know about."

McCraw has Taylor and Greenville on his itinerary in addition to Granger and Georgetown. Thompson visited Beisel and continued on to San Antonio.

Thompson, leaving the Panhandle section, visited eight towns yesterday, climaxing with a speech at Lubbock in which he pledged his efforts, if elected, to create a state commission to regulate all utility rates.

Crowley Attacks Foes
P. D. Renfro of Beaumont had Waco on his schedule today; Crowley went to Gilmer and Marshall before his Longview speech, tonight, and S. T. Brodgon of Stephenville was scheduled for Giddings. LaGrange and Hallettsville. James A. Ferguson of Belton abandoned his West Texas campaign because of business at Dallas. He plans to go to South Texas from there.

Renfro, who spoke at Austin last night, denounced heavy spending on the part of some of his opponents and rapped O'Daniel.

Renfro, who is holding up his economy and efficiency record while mayor of Beaumont as an outstanding qualification, said "We Texans are not behind in efficiency and economy in government." Governor James V. Allred sat on the platform and at the close of the address, invited those in the audience to come up and make the acquaintance of the former Beaumont mayor. The governor said no particular significance should be attached to this action. "Pete's a fine fellow and an old friend," he said.

Hunter, speaking at Corsicana, attacked McCraw and Thompson as "political ring bosses" and hit at O'Daniel by inference when he said "A person not holding a poll tax receipt or exemption was not regarded as a stockholder in the great business of the state."

At Mount Pleasant Crowley, boasting he is a "brass collar" Democrat, said McCraw and O'Daniel "have a battle on to find out who is the worst Yankee." He said the first time he had heard of O'Daniel was when the latter announced for governor and that McCraw, whom he termed "Tap-Dancing Willie from Dallas," found himself up against some real opposition. Crowley attacked McCraw and Thompson because they did not resign as attorney general and railroad commissioner, respectively, while campaigning for governor.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE TO NEWLY-WEDS

The fashionable wedding was a rush. The bride and groom made a dash for their motor car to escape the rice and the ragging of their friends and were speeding away on their honeymoon. The ladies of the company remained to exchange greetings and express adulations over the beautiful ceremony, the loveliness of the bride and the brilliant future that awaits the newly-weds.

The father of the groom, a prominent Southern physician, wanders thoughtfully out into the corridor of the church where he meets a fellow physician, an old friend of the family. "Well, Doctor, your son is married and if he and his bride will keep all of the many vows that the minister made them promise, they should live most happily—for he made them promise nearly everything."

"But," said the wise old physician, "the minister overlooked the most important vow." "What's that, Doctor?" "He should have made them promise that when either of them became fretful, grouchy, and bilious, the other would promptly administer Calatots, for," said he, "Biliousness is the cause of most family trouble, misunderstandings, fights and divorces, than almost any other factor."

Note—This is a true story of a conversation between two physicians in the corridor of a fashionable church on Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga. (Printed as an advertisement by the makers of Calatots.)

SUMNERS HAS 2 OPPONENTS IN CAMPAIGN

By HARREL E. LEE
DALLAS, July 13 (AP)—Hutton W. Sumners, 63-year-old chairman of the House judiciary committee, has two opponents in the congressional race who claim to be better Roosevelt men than he.

One is Thomas B. Love, 68, essaying a political comeback after eight years of comparative inactivity, and the other is Leslie Jackson, who received 6,000 votes in a race against Sumners two years ago.

Friends of Sumners, who shares with Sam Rayburn of Bonham the distinction of being the oldest member of the Texas delegation in point of service, says he has been with President Roosevelt much more often than against him. The fact remains, however, that he has at times opposed proposals advocated by the President.

The Congressman is counting on accomplishments during his 26 years in Washington to bring about his "rejuvenation" and the Smith and a strenuous campaign. In the first primary of 1936 he received more votes than the combined totals of three opponents.

Sumners has been making a house-to-house and handshaking campaign for many months. Love did not enter the race until late but has the advantage of being widely known through many years of public service.

He has long been an ardent admirer of President Roosevelt. During the Woodrow Wilson administration he was an assistant secretary of the treasury and Roosevelt was an assistant secretary of the navy.

Voted For Hoover
Voters throughout the state remember Love for his fight against "Prohibition" and the Smith and for liquor prohibition. He was a leader in the move which put Texas in the Republican column in the 1928 Hoover-Smith contest.

Love, a former state Senator and former Democratic national committeeman for Texas, promised in his opening speech that he would withdraw from the race if President Roosevelt said the welfare of the people demanded Sumners' re-election.

He describes himself as "a Franklin Delano Roosevelt new deal Democrat," by which I mean I heartily believe in the economic program proposed and being carried under his leadership.

Sumners replies that he had supported the President "earnestly and I think effectively in the majority of his proposals." The Dallas Congressman, opponent of the Supreme Court reorganization bill.

Another northeast Texas race finds Wright Patman of Texas, author of the soldiers' bonus payment law and mentioned as a possible candidate for the United States Senate two years hence, with his first opponent since 1928.

George P. Blackburn of Paris is endeavoring to unseat the Texarkana representative. The Paris candidate favors the national administration program in general and assails Patman's monetary ideas. Patman is a strong supporter of the President.

Patman's campaigning was delayed by the late adjournment of Congress but his 18-year-old son, Connor, did an able job of "pinch-hitting," touring the Bowie county political rallies with the Congressman's sound equipment.

FIRST AID
ALTON, Ill.—Firemen were called on to meet a new emergency when a young woman stopped her automobile in front of a fire station and she motioned that her jaws had become locked.

The fire fighters didn't hesitate. They inserted a pencil between the woman's teeth, applied pressure to joints of the jawbones—and opened her jaws.

She thanked them and drove away.

Where 'China's Sorrow' Came to the Aid of China's Armies

How Yellow river floods succeeded in stopping the Japanese drive through China—where defending armies had failed—is graphically portrayed in the picture above. The photo shows how the rampaging river cut through the strategically-important Lunghai railroad, halting transportation of troops and supplies at a time when the Japanese were in the midst of a crushing drive southward toward China's provisional capital at Hankow. Japanese soldiers are pictured on the tracks, ruefully viewing the break, which occurred near Kaifeng. Note how the tremendous force of the water has twisted one of the rails completely off the right-of-way and down into the swirling water. Thousands of soldiers and civilians were drowned in the floods.

INSURANCE DEADLINES

Time limits with respect to when applications may be made for insurance on the 1938 winter wheat crop have been set by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

Three time limits have been announced for different regions, two in August and one in October.

Growers who fail to make applications prior to these deadlines will not be granted policies, the AAA said.

August 15 is the limit for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska, North Dakota and Kansas.

August 30 is the last day for Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Texas.

October 30 is the last day for California and Arizona.

All warehouses licensed under the Federal Warehouse Act to handle grain will be acceptable as "storage warehouses" for wheat reserves to be accumulated by the corporation.

Grain may also be stored in approved warehouses other than those with Federal licenses.

HOG PRODUCTION TO RISE
A rather sharp upswing in hog production this year as compared with last is indicated in a report issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The spring pig crop is estimated as 13 per cent larger than in 1937 and the number of sows to farrow in the fall season of 1938 is indicated as 9 per cent larger than the number farrowed in the fall of 1937.

Total farrowings, spring and fall, in 1938 are indicated as 10 per cent larger than in 1937. The number of hogs six months old on June 1, however, was little different from the number last year.

This pig crop report is based upon information obtained from a large number of farmers in cooperation with the Post Office Department through the rural mail carriers.

POTATO PRICES FIRM
Marketing of the early and second-early commercial potato crops are about completed, with market prices remaining firm, it was reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Shipments have started from the intermediate states, where the crop is indicated to be only 4 per cent smaller than that of last year, despite a 12 per cent reduction of the acreage planted.

Unless a relatively large late crop develops, potato prices probably will decline less than usual in the next few months.

Truck crops in general made less progress during the first half of June than during May. Some producing areas reported weather too cool and others too rainy. Most of the western vegetable areas, however, reported favorable growing conditions.

COTTON CLASSING SERVICE
A cotton classing service for one-variety communities will be available to growers in many of the cotton producing regions for this year's cotton crop. It is sponsored by the government.

The service is for groups of producers organized to promote the improvement of cotton, but will not be available to individual farmers or groups that do not qualify as cotton improvement organizations, a report said.

FRUIT CROP REPORT
Size of the nation's fruit crop is expected to be about average this year, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

ROADHOUSE FIRE NEAR OLNEY CLAIMS 1 LIFE

OLNEY, July 13 (AP)—Fire destroyed a roadhouse two miles north of here today, burning to death Mrs. William Tullis, about 40, wife of one of the proprietors.

Tullis, who leaped from an upper story of the two-story building, said his wife came out on the balcony, then rushed back into the flames.

Tullis suffered burns and bruises. Firemen recovered Mrs. Tullis' body.

The roadhouse was situated just over the line in Archer county. Mr. and Mrs. Tullis had moved there from Graham recently.

'BABS' DROPS CRIME CHARGE AGAINST COUNT

By RADER WINGET

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—The former Barbara Hutton dropped a criminal charge against her titled Danish husband today with indications that a separation or divorce proceedings would be the next step in her turbulent married life.

The surprising ending of what one of the lawyers called "a most unhappy case" came as her second husband, Count Countess Haugwitz-Revntlow, reappeared in the shabby Bow street police court dock and prepared to defend himself against the charge that he had threatened the American-born Woolworth heiress.

Solicitors, announcing an agreement under which the 42-year-old Count promised to stay away from Countess Barbara's London mansion and not communicate with her, indicated no reconciliation was in prospect.

The Countess' counsel indicated to the judge that the mysterious "gentleman in London" whom the Count was accused of threatening to shoot, did not come into her life until after she had quarreled with her husband.

The Countess' attorney, Sir Patrick Hastings, hinted at a shift of the martial dispute to Danish courts in telling the magistrate that any separation proceedings would be subject to Danish law.

The sudden ending of the case disappointed a crowd jamming the tiny court room in the hope of finding out the name of the mysterious "London society gentleman" whom the Count was accused of threatening to "shoot like a dog."

But Countess Barbara's attorney said she had already quarreled with the Count before she met this "mysterious person."

Agreement on the withdrawal of the charge indicated the Count and Countess might be closer together on the terms of separation or divorce settlement than they were last week.

Testimony was given then that she offered him $250,000 and he demanded $5,000,000 and custody of their two-year-old son Lance in return for divorce.

Countess Barbara, who sat thru last week's sly hearing, stayed at well-guarded Winfield Mansion today with the son, whom she has made a ward in Chancery to keep him out of the Count's hands.

The settlement today deprived the Count of an opportunity of defending himself personally against the charge, but his counsel asserted he had no intention of threatening the safety of his wife or doing her bodily harm.

MORE DORNICKS INDIANWARD

The Indians have been phenomenally decent about things for generations now. They're probably the most maligned bunch of citizens in the country, and you rarely hear a word of protest from them.

When they're not being treated as curiosities they're serving as the butts of jokes on such subjects as land speculation, sloth, firewater, and female labor. Or sometimes they're just investigated to death.

What's your conception of the typical Indian? Whatever else he may be to you, he's probably close-mouthed, self-contained, grave. But now comes an anthropologist who declares that there's not a word of truth in it. He describes the Indian as a congenial, enthusiastic, spontaneous, bubbling over with fun, a great joker—in short, quite a card.

This is all dandy, and nothing at all to take offense at, but then the anthropologist goes a little further. He says there's nothing an Indian likes so much as a good, violent practical joke. The Indians, he says, go in for practical jokes in droves, or a kind of mass-production scale. And when they're not doing anything else they're sitting around thinking up puns. And they send younger members of the tribes out for left-handed monkey wrenches and then yell with uncontrollable merriment.

The time has come for the red man to organize a Society for Mutual Protection Against the White Man's Slander.

100-PER-CENT AGE

This is an age of hundred-per-centers, of whole-hog-or-nothing boys, in more fields than politics and economics. Thinking along the lines that make everything either snow white or jet black is in danger of becoming a national habit.

A 100-per-center is a man whose mind is on a sidewalk strike. Representative Bruce Barton observed the other day. The man whose mind is on a sidewalk strike not only sees everything as black or white but always believes there's one particular way to turn black things into white things, and no other.

Dr. Robert W. Searle, secretary of the New York Federation of Churches, recently listed these as the seven worst evils of American society: poverty, unemployment, slums, racial injustice, crime, industrial strife, and political corruption.

A Communist divides this list by seven and calls it capitalism. A hundred-per-center rugged individualist calls it sloth. An ivory-tower scholar calls it ignorance. A devoted believer in eugenics calls it bad stock. You can even find people who blame it all on astral influences or improper dieting.

The moral is, don't be a one-hundred-per-cent 100-per-center in anything.

Other Editors Say:

JAM BAN VIEWED WITH ALARM.

(From the Chicago Daily News.)

The swing news is mixed. First, there are tidings that Mr. Petrillo of the musicians' federation has slipped a ban on jamming. Naturally, this will cause apprehension. It was by sitting in with little orchestras, after the regular job, that the great men of jazz reached their present development. That was how solid jazz kept alive during the period of sweet music. In other words, when jazz had to go underground, it still lived in the jam sessions. Or to put it even more plainly, we should have nothing but schmalz today, if it hadn't been for jamming, where a real ride man got a chance to swing out with those old hot licks and that old riverboat jive, beatin' gput those oldtime riffs with plenty of rock. We should have nothing but paper men, playing those spots, very corny, strictly from hunger and right off the elbow.

So a ban on jamming is bound to cause some alarm. But it's always darkest just before the dawn. There is a second piece of news to make

Tex's Topics

When Sheriff Bill Adams, of Potter County, and Police Chief McDowell, of Amarillo, were presented to the President just before he was about to board his train to leave Amarillo the other night, Mr. Roosevelt said: "Hello Sheriff, Hello Chief—you've sure got a grand spot here." And he grasped their hands and shook them heartily.

Then, he turned on that dynamic, thousand candle-power smile of his. . . . Really, it is contagious. . . . Persons who make a business of analyzing a man's popularity are agreed that the Rooseveltian smile, his very human demeanor, and his desire to be just "like folks," combine to make him beloved by the people. . . . The minute he appeared on the rear platform of the Presidential special at Amarillo the other night, a smile virtually blossomed across his rugged, sun-tanned face. . . . From then on he had the people in the palm of his hand.

One who mingled through the throngs had only to listen to the sidewalk comment to know that he is encased in the hearts of the people of the Panhandle and of the Southwest. . . . They say if he were to run for President again tomorrow he would be re-elected by an overwhelming majority. . . . No President of the United States ever has had such a hold on his people. . . . They love him here in the Southwest. . . . They will even fight for him. . . . The man who drove us out to Ellwood Park to hear the President's speech told of an incident in an Amarillo garage before the President's arrival.

He said a tourist going through had stopped to get some repairs made on his car and that he casually made a slighting remark about Amarillo and the Panhandle "getting worked up" over the President's visit. . . . A man standing nearby challenged the visitor's statement. . . . He said: "If you are going to talk that way about my President you'll have to fight me." . . . The tourist tried to sidestep the issue by saying that his challenger was too big for him to fight. . . . "All right, I'll get on my knees and fight you to avenge an insult to the President."

Out at the park an elderly man prayed aloud for the President's welfare. . . . The people appeared to be awed in his presence. . . . They listened with reverent and worshipful attentiveness as he spoke. . . . The loudest cheers came when Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted to come back to the Panhandle. . . . He is welcome any time he wishes to come. . . . Those who dissent with him politically are so far in the minority that they are scarcely a drop in the bucket in the Southwest. . . . And, even most of them have the greatest of admiration for Roosevelt, the man.

To me, one of the most interesting sights on the Roosevelt visit to the Panhandle was the highly guarded manner in which Secret Service men prevented photographers from snapping pictures of the President while he was in motion. . . . Absolutely no pictures can be made of the President unless he is seated or standing behind the rostrum of the speaker's stand. . . . This is an unwritten law wherever the President goes and, of course, at each stop there are cameramen who have not yet learned the rule. . . . If it becomes necessary, the Secret Service men will "unload" a camera which they believe has been used to violate the rule. . . . The camera is then handed back to its owner.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Indications were that four producers were to be drilled in during the week-end in Gray county, mainly in the central and east fields.

Bank deposits in Pampa increased more than $600,000 after the first of the month, according to the statements from the First National and the Gray County State Banks.

Gray county was over the top with her cotton farmers pledged to retire 3,885 acres. The county quota was 3,884 acres.

Pampa's first Red Cross life saving institute, made possible by completion of the municipal swimming pool, was to start here.

The Capital Jigsaw

BY HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP)—The race for state-senator from the Dallas district closely matches that for governor in the number of candidates.

Ten persons are seeking to defeat Senator Claud C. Westerfield for reelection. There are 13 entrants in the contest for the governorship.

Two opposing Westerfield are members of the present House of Representatives, Fred Harris and Sam Hanna, while two are former representatives. The latter are W. T. Savak and Ray Holder.

The remaining six candidates are Tom Sessions, Walter C. Johnson, W. C. Graves, W. C. Pardue, Roger Q. Flournoy and Howard Daulty.

In point of numbers the fight for the senatorship from Fort Worth ranks next. There are five entries, including Rep. Lon Smith. The other four are Frank A. Ogilvie, Mack Taylor, Jesse E. Martin, and Frank Patterson, Jr.

These are trying to succeed Senator Frank A. Rawlings, who is retiring from public office.

P. D. Renfro of Beaumont, candidate for governor, said in the Capitol press room he had found plenty of hot weather on his campaign trips, but none hot enough for a certain farmer to whom he talked.

"I like weather so hot that when I raise my hoe a cucumber will before I can chop it down," Renfro quoted the farmer as saying.

South Texas seems to be well pleased with its representatives in the lower House of the Legislature.

Reports to Secretary Vann M. Kennedy of the Democratic state executive committee list 11 representatives who have no opposition for re-election. There may be others.

The 11 are Emmett Morse, J. E. Whitfree, Sr., and George F. Howard, all of Houston; E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston; W. Elmer Pope of Corpus Christi; Augustine Celaya of Brownsville; Arnold J. Vale of Rio Grande City; Joe Monkhouse of Uvalde; B. J. Deyndeker of Laredo; Albert Cauthorn of Del Rio and John J. Bell of Cuero.

All the representatives of the Rio Grande border country from west of Del Rio to Brownsville, with one exception, will return to the House without opposition.

The exception is Homer McAllen, a House veteran of four terms, who, according to reports in Austin, is opposed by R. F. Cook of McAllen and J. E. Berry of Edinburg.

Various advertising novelties have been employed by candidates for state office.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Railroad Commission, who is asking another term, has distributed thousands of packages of safety matches.

W. H. (Bill) McDonald, commissioner of the general land office, also running for re-election, has used pocket mirrors to draw attention to his claims.

Buttons to stick on lapels have been popular with other candidates, which recalls a story about Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, once the Republican candidate for governor of Texas.

In 1932 Bullington was campaigning against the Democratic nominee, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, and as he toured the state he threw out handfuls of buttons to children.

Giving buttons to children was his very best way to get good distribution, he said. The kids took them home and wore them, which, Bullington said, was more than many of their elders did.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

In the north part of town there was a lot covered with weeds. It is next to a fine residence. Two boys hunting for a weed-cutting job decided the weeds on the vacant lot should be cut, so they went to see the owner, a Shylack if there ever was one. "I'll pay you boys four-bits to cut the weeds off my lot," he said, "and not a cent more."

The boys felt the wage was unjust. "I'll take both of us all day to cut them," one said. "That would be 25 cents a day. We've been getting at least 20 cents an hour other places."

"I don't care what you've been getting—I'll pay four bits and no more to have those weeds cut. I'll get a man to cut them in a half day—you boys can't do it!" the man said. "Yesir, we can cut those weeds cheaper and better than anybody. If you get a man it will cost you 30 cents an hour at the least."

The other boy said, "Well, I'll cut them myself," he said. But the man did not cut the weeds; nor did any other man cut them. A slip of a boy cut them. He hadn't seen four bits in a long, long time. The job worked from 8 o'clock until six in the evening, and he still wasn't finished. He had had no lunch and he was tired enough to drop. That night his employer paid him 25 cents and told him he'd pay him the rest if he would come back the next day and finish the job.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALTSTON, M. D.

Summer is an appropriate time for issuing a warning about appendicitis. This is the season in which "stomach-upset" is common. What with picnics, hurried meals in odd places, and dietary excesses of every kind, few escape without indigestion, colic, or diarrhea.

A goodly number of such upsets turn out to be just what they are assumed to be. An appreciable number, however, will sooner or later be diagnosed as appendicitis. It is the "later" cases that concern us most, for there are few surgical emergencies in which prompt operation is more vital to saving life and hastening recovery.

The appendicitis case operated upon within 24 hours after the onset of symptoms is most likely to have a speedy and smooth recovery. The longer operation is delayed, the greater the risk that the patient may die—not of the operation but of complications arising from the appendicitis, chiefly peritonitis.

The condition of appendicitis has certain common, but few invariable symptoms. Hence it is not easy to diagnose. Among the common symptoms are a sharp, shooting or gnawing pain felt in the region of the right groin, or in the region of the navel. The patient may also experience fever, constipation, nausea, or vomiting.

The symptoms are unlike those of a common "colic" or of an ordinary gastric upset in that they tend to persist longer. Under the circumstances, it is folly to "dose the symptoms" with cathartics. Put the patient to bed, feed him not at all (except for water) or only a light liquid diet. Bear in mind that children (even infants) may have appendicitis. Young children are frequently un-

Around Hollywood

By DAN DE LUCE

(Stand-in for Robin Crooks)

HOLLYWOOD.—Charles Boyer, memorable as Napoleon on the screen last year, meets another kind of Waterloo this week as a French jewel thief in "Algiers."

As the gendarmes would say—cherchez la femme! And that's easy to do. The woman in the case is Hedy Lamarr, sultry-eyed importation from Vienna.

Miss Lamarr, then known as Hedy Kiesler, won a Hollywood contract by swimming nude in a foreign film which was called, logically enough, "Ecstasy." Her name changed, her wardrobe multiplied to gorgeous proportions, she makes an exciting American debut.

Paralyzed by travel folders, North Africa's weird mystery creeps by camera-magic into "Algiers." It is the story of Pepe le Moko (Boyer), fabulous and fantastic criminal, who flees Paris with a fortune in gems, holes up in the native quarter—the casbah—of Algiers, and mocks the tumbling French detectives who try to smoke him out.

Miss Lamarr is his society light o' love, Sigrid Gurie, the Brooklyn Norwegian, plays his native sweetheart under dark makeup. Even clever Pepe has no answer to the eternal triangle.

For the sinister mood of the picture, African capital credit Joseph Calleia, Alan Hale, Gene Lockhart and Johnny Downs with finely shadowed characterizations. Definitely, "Algiers" is "different."

It is a re-make of a French movie and on this week's list is another twice-told tale. The Hollywood success of yesteryear, "Gallant Lady," comes back as "Always Goodbye," with Barbara Stanwyck in the mother-role created by Ann Harding.

Talored by Director Sidney Lanfield almost along comedy lines, the new version introduces a curly-haired moppet, John Russell, who'll make women fans want to hug him. Dimpled John is Miss Stanwyck's screen son, born out of wedlock. She gives him up so he may have the security of a home and a name, but they meet again on a note of fun and heartbreak.

John's foster father, Ian Hunter, is about to be snared by a fortune-hunter, Lynn Bari. Miss Stanwyck has the problem of how to reclaim her child.

Zany Cesar Romero, flaunting his white-toothed smile, supplies most of the zest as a fast-talking count to whom all women are colossal beauties. Herbert Marshall plays Miss Stanwyck's loyal suitor.

Raye's Big Laugh "Tropic Holiday" is no vacation for Martha Raye—she has to fight a bull. As a lady matador, she saves this Mexican musical by Paramount from mediocrity.

Her big mouth buttoned up, Martha is a hi-de-ho shouter no longer. When she homes in on the bull-ring to free Bob Burns from a Latin jail, she has her funniest scene in many months.

Aside from Martha, Bob and the bull, "Tropic Holiday" also has sweet music by Mexican composer Augustin Lara. His songs supply Dorothy Lamour with her best moments. But without a sarong, it's a less interesting Lamour, though Ray Milland doesn't seem to mind.

"Fast Company," with Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice, speeds along through a series of conubial cut-ups patterned after the Powell-Loy "Thin Man" model. As an innovation, Claire Dodd is the "other woman."

Even definitely to point to where it hurts most.

Appendicitis annually causes the death of thousands of persons. The toll exacted by this disease can be reduced by prompt diagnosis and operation.

THE QUESTION OF EQUALITY There are few questions that have caused as much confusion as the question of equality, as used in social justice and in government.

The confusion comes in people attempting to compare things which are not equal. But there never was any progress by all men being equal. All progress came by some superior being having a different idea from others and doing things in a different way.

And this belief has led people to try by law and custom and regulation to eliminate the difference in people. They fail to realize that the higher the state of civilization, the more heterogeneous people are and the lower the state, the more homogeneous. So they are doing everything they possibly can to stop individuality from developing. This stops the progress of civilization. It is certainly not the function of government to attempt to make people alike or to retard people from becoming different. The equality that is so important in social progress is the fundamental principle of democracy—equality before the law. No special privilege, no discrimination, no favoritism, with the greatest possible liberty for all people.

It is the misconception of this equality that has brought about 12,000,000 people in the United States being out of work and the worst and longest depression in our history.

When we followed the fundamental principle of equality before the law instead of trying to make people equal, we were making more progress than any other people in all the world. When we compromised on this principle, we started deteriorating.

ON THE SUPPRESSION OF COMPETITION

Few people realize the true statement that competition is the life of trade. When competition is eliminated, there is no progress, in spite of the politicians, who are telling us constantly that we must eliminate competition, in order to eliminate waste.

Some 90 years ago, Adolphe Thiers, on the subject of suppression of competition, had this to say: "To check the fecundity of mankind is a crime against nature. Yes; but are there any other crimes? Malthus still more reprehensible; and would they not be those who

Inquiry On Monopoly Nothing New In U. S.

By BRUCE CATTON

The investigation of monopoly, now being organized by six members of Congress and six executive department officials, which will continue throughout the summer and fall, may turn out to be any one of many things.

It may prove to be a real fact-finding inquiry to lay down body of knowledge of just what effect great industrial and financial combinations have on the national economy, which could be used as a basis for new regulation and control of those forces.

It might prove inconclusive, a mere smudge-pot to raise a lot of talk about monopoly, leading to nothing at all, useful only in obscuring in a cloud of words one more failure to come to grips with a 50-year-old problem.

It might be used, at its worst, to pick certain anti-administration firms for a verbal crucifixion, as mere party propaganda.

The latter would be inexcusable, and must not happen. There is no very concrete reason to believe it will. There have been most specific promises that it won't.

But as to the two former possibilities, let it be noted that neither is more than an investigation. Neither implies any action or any new law unless Congress later should wish to pass on the basis of the facts revealed.

This is certainly mild enough in view of the way in which the monopoly issue has been kicked about in would check man, fond of labour, and occupied in feeding, clothing, and sheltering the child which Malthus forbids to be born? He would lessen produce, who would prevent the growth of the necessary to feed the child to be born. Is he not alone responsible for the prohibition set up by Malthus; for Malthus would have withdrawn his interdiction had he seen on the earth a sufficiency for the sustenance of all the new comers?"

This, written 90 years ago, is timely today when we are passing laws to limit production and limit hours of work. The people who do this and advocate these things are playing right into the hands of Malthus and are committing the crime against nature of checking the fecundity of mankind.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 13.—There will be three million heads of families and single persons on the WPA rolls by the end of July.

That is nearly twice as many as a year ago. On July 31, 1937, there were 1,639,000.

Last year there was a drop of 188,000 WPA workers in the month of July, when the policy was to slash the rolls and to ignore several hundred thousand persons on relief who were eligible applicants for WPA jobs. For July, 1938, there will be an increase of 257,000 on straight WPA relief rolls plus a portion of a group of more than 100,000 WPA workers expected to be employed by a special congressional allocation of $60,000,000 for projects under other federal agencies.

The increase is unprecedented for this time of year. In addition to a change in administration policy, the new crop control program and mechanization of farms are partly credited by WPA officials—speaking privately—for the fact that fewer WPA workers can find farm or other seasonal work.

The biggest July increases are scheduled for the Great Lakes states—especially Illinois, Ohio, and Michigan—and Missouri.

Average WPA monthly wage is slightly below $65. The total roll is not likely to exceed 3,050,000 unless business gets worse instead of, as now anticipated, better. Recovery effects are not reflected immediately on WPA rolls because those first hired by reviving industry are persons who have been receiving unemployment compensation and others who recently unemployed—plus those who have been unable to get on WPA and will be forced to take very low-wage jobs.

"Push" Into "Purge"

If anyone still clings to the moth-eaten myth that Mr. Roosevelt was pushed into the attempted "purge" of Democratic conservatives by left-wing advisers, and reluctantly at that, just listen to this:

Within the week preceding and the week following the Fourth of July the President urged two prominent men to seek nomination and election to the Senate on the ground that he wanted to build up the Democratic progressive bloc in that body.

In neither case was his request known—and at this writing it still isn't—to the group of New Dealers, sometimes called the "elimination committee," who unofficially are supervising Roosevelt's campaign to help seat liberals in the place of conservatives. That's the important point.

There may be similar instances unknown to this writer. One of the two men told Roosevelt he had no chance to beat the incumbent Democratic senator for the nomination. The other, although agreeing with Roosevelt that he could be nominated and elected with administrative support, said the Senate would bow him to tears. Roosevelt is still pressing both.

Amusement and amazement were the twin reactions in Washington to news from New York that independent steel companies, hit by the abolition of basing point differentials announced by U. S. Steel along with its price cuts, were exploring ways and means of protesting to the federal government against the change. The basing point system, by New Deal standards, always has been considered a prime example of a monopolistic price-fixing device.

Furthermore, heads of so-called "little steel" companies such as Tom Girdler, Ernest Weir, and Eugene Grace have been loudest in decrying "government interference" and denouncing administration labor policies.

According to late reports, attorneys for "little steel" companies have advised their clients there is no agency in Washington to which they can effectively squawk.

Patriotism Via Japan

Washingtonians who week-ended over July Fourth at the nearby ocean resort of Rehoboth Beach, Del., report that certain not-so-younger members of the Du Pont family, celebrated manufacturers of explosives, were busily exploding noisy fireworks late at night and in the early morn.

This seemed logical enough until a neighbor captured a firecracker parachute supporting an American flag on which was boldly printed "Made in Japan." But it was conjectured that, after all, the Du Ponts might have supplied the powder.

SERIAL STORY INTERNE TROUBLE BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
TRAN DEARBORN—heroine, student nurse. She ran into love and trouble when she met...
DR. BOB BENCHLEY—hero, handsome young intern. He had trouble, too, keeping up with his...
DR. STEPHEN SARGENT—head surgeon. Dr. Sargent's problem was something else again.

Yesterday, Tran rejected a date with Dr. Benchley, then enters Miss Philbin's room. Her decision was to be one of the most fortuitous in her nursing career.

CHAPTER VI
WHEN Tran opened the door to the demonstration room, a plump figure sat up abruptly on the bed in the curtained corner which represented a ward cubicle, stretched, and yawned. It was Beula Tagg.

"Hello!" Beula said, rubbing her eyes and blinking resentfully. "Say, before I forget, you're to go to Miss Armstrong's office right away."

Exactly like that it dropped—out of a blue, cloudless sky—just at the moment when Tran had managed to forget the sword hanging over her head.

"I knew you were going to meet Anita here," Beula explained. "So I waited."
"You would pick a place with a bed to wait in," Tran told her.

"What do you suppose Miss Armstrong wants?"
"She probably wants to know why my well-known sense of duty hasn't led me to report that fruit cake you keep hidden in your bureau drawer," Tran said, nervously.

"Students," she quoted again from the House Rules this time—"are in honor bound to report infractions of regulations that might reflect upon the dignity of the house." And if you constantly expanding waistline doesn't reflect on the dignity of the house, I don't know what does.

"Oh, Ugly—you wouldn't!"
"Of course not, goop!" Tran said, and went to meet her doom.

Miss Armstrong looked up from a mass of charts and reports on the desk, folded her hands, and studied Tran thoughtfully as she closed the door behind her and stood waiting—very straight in her nun-like gray dress and white apron—feeling as if her trembling must communicate itself to the floor, and thence to the very chair in which Miss Armstrong sat.

"I've been looking through your record, Miss Dearborn," the director of nursing began.

"Yes, Miss Armstrong?" Tran temporized, shaking more and more.

"I was particularly interested in your early training. You were in school on the Continent, I believe?"

SHE'S trying to let me down easy, Tran thought wryly. She'd rather lay my being a misfit to the corruption of European culture than to my innate cussedness—bless her kind heart!

Aloud she said, "Yes... Yes, Miss Armstrong."

"You speak several languages, I understand?"

"Why, yes... Yes, I do."
"There is a critical case down in Emergency," Miss Armstrong went on. "Apparently an Italian. He seems to be very anxious about something. It may be important to find out what before operating. But the regular interpreter is out, and no one there can understand him. Should you mind going down and seeing what you can make of it?"

Would she mind? She would sell her soul for the chance.

Tran cleared her throat and choked out, "Of course, Miss Armstrong. I'll try."

As she sped away, she thought, Suppose I hadn't gone into the demonstration room!... I might not have seen Beula in time. I was sunk enough to sneak out and meet Bob tonight. If I had, and anyone had found out, it would have been curtains. . . . Now, perhaps . . .

But a new thought brought her up short: hadn't Miss Armstrong heard yet—about her and Bob—in the instrument room this morning? . . . Because, of course, she was sure to sooner or later. Dr. Sargent's eyes couldn't have missed a trick; and Dr. Sargent was popularly known as the world's worst stickler for discipline.

When Tran slid into Emergency, Dr. Bob Benchley was bending over a quivering figure stretched out on a first-aid examination table. The young intern's face was grim; and the preoccupied look he turned on Tran held no memory of their morning's escapade. Engaging as Tran had found him in his moments of irresponsible gaiety, she liked him a thousand times better this way.

The Emergency nurse stood at the other side of the table, a hydropneumatic tray on a stand at her elbow. Now she stepped back to make way for Tran.

"Make it snappy, Agility," the intern directed briefly. "Top Sarge will be here in a minute. This isn't really a case for Dr. Carson, only he's just gone out. If Dr. Sargent backs up my judgment this poor devil goes right up to G-11. But before we put him under complete anesthesia, there's something he wants to get off his chest."

AS the man on the table looked from one face to the other, his own face gray, and dripping with sweat, Tran shrank for a moment before something she saw in his bright dark eyes, but did not at once recognize for an agony of terror.

For in all Tran's four months at the hospital, this was the first time she had come face to face with terror—or with suffering of any magnitude, for that matter.

Always before, if a real crisis arose when she happened to be about a ward—doing, under the supervision of an older nurse, the simple little house-maidish tasks which were all she was permitted to do—the senior nurse would hastily draw the cubicle curtains that screened the bed and say curtly, "That will do now, Dearborn. I'll attend to this alone" or "Hurry and get me the head nurse, Dearborn."

Now Tran murmured, "Is he—saying anything?"

"Well," said Dr. Benchley, "a crushed leg isn't exactly a picnic at best; but he's had a local anesthetic. It's mostly that the poor devil's plain scared to death."

Scared to death, Tran thought on a quick breath. Scared!

Tran knew how desperately one could suffer fear from the most trivial causes. . . . And this was no trivial matter.

She bent over the figure on the table, put a small hand on his quivering arm, and said softly, "I speak Italian. Tell me."

At sound of her voice, gentle and pitiful, speaking his own tongue, the man centered his glittering eyes upon her face. "What will they do to me?" he asked, speaking as if they were alone. "I can see in their faces that I am dying. Already my legs are numb. . . . Tell me the truth. Already I am half dead—is it not so?"

"Oh, no," Tran told him; and was surprised at her own calm assurance. "That is not death that you feel. It is only that they have given you something to help the pain."

"But what will they do to me?" he insisted. "If I am to die, I must know."
"They will only do something to help you rest while they fix you up," Tran told him. "And you must not think about dying. You must think only about how fine it will be not to hurt any more."

In her absorption, Tran did not notice that some one else had stepped into the room behind her.

JAYCEES CRUSH BARBERS; KING AND SUPPLY BOYS WIN

STANOLIND AND SERVICE TEAM FORM MERGER

Stanolind played its last softball game in the Industrial league last night, losing to King 16 to 11. The Stanolind and Cities Service teams have merged and in the future will be known as Cities Service.

One of the major upsets of the season occurred in the twilight game when the lowly Jaycees rose up and smacked the Mack and Paul Barbers 6 to 2 in a City League attraction. In the same league, the Supply Boys downed the Christians 14 to 5.

With Burleson pitching nice ball and Al Prigmore in the outfield and Red Weathered at third base taking everything that came their way, the Jaycees held the Barbers in check all the way. Hall was behind the plate for the Clubmen. Prigmore came up with some of the prettiest robbing catches of the season to pull the club boys out of holes.

Warner and Harrell was the losing battery. Warner pitched good ball but several juicy errors and timely Jaycee hitting put him in a hole. Johnson hit a home run for the Barbers.

LaPrade, a new hurler, allowed the Christians to score one run as the Supplymen coasted to victory. The hit came in the sixth. The five runs scored by the Christians were the result of three walks and four errors. Whitten was behind the plate for the Supply Boys.

Jordan and Leggett was the battery for the Christians who let the Jaycees pass them in the league standings.

This evening at 6:30 o'clock on the Cabot diamond the Supply Boys will meet the Diamond Shop in a postponed game.

King used Sharp, Brown and Dewey on the mound with Sheridan receiving. Chism and Muncy hurried for Stanolind with Harding receiving.

Schedule for tonight, all games at Recreation Park, free gate, follow:

6 p. m.—Christians vs. Jaycees.
8:15—Danciger vs. Cities Service.
9:30—Gulf-Cooper vs. Gray County Creamery.

Schedule for tomorrow night:

8:15 p. m.—Diamond Shop vs. Supply Boys.
9:30—Stanolind vs. Cities Service.

Grid Team To Play Redskins Being Chosen

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—College grid stars of big-name mid-western schools are away to early leads in the nationwide poll to select the team which will appear against the professional Washington Redskins at Soldier Field Aug. 31.

Field returns, principally from the Midwest sector, show only two western candidates among the leaders. Byron (Whizzer) White, University of Colorado, is second to Cecil Isbell of Purdue among halfbacks, polling 4,954 votes to Isbell's 5,108. Sam Chapman, University of California's versatile athlete, is third among fullbacks, trailing Patrick of Pittsburgh and Davis of Indiana.

Balloting, which is being conducted by the Chicago Tribune and 150 associated newspapers, will close July 24.

Pirates Win 13th and Take Lead In National

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Back home in first place!

That has a comfortable sound for any ball club, especially one which hasn't had a taste of world series glory for more than a decade.

That's just the position of the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

They finished up their road chores in Chicago yesterday by pounding out a 14 to 6 victory over the hapless Cubs. It was their 13th straight win—the longest streak since 1922 when they also won 13—and it put them in the lead by a hair's breadth or two. Today they return home to face the National League's Eastern clubs, starting with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who knocked off the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-3 and 10-5. The Tribe managed to hold the top by a half-game margin.

Brooklyn, incidentally, explored the stratospheric heights of sixth place for the first time since the middle of May as they gained their first triumph over the Giants in eleven clashes. The Cincinnati Reds beat out St. Louis 6-5 in the other National league game and dropped the Cards to seventh.

The remaining Major league contest saw the Chicago White Sox scoring five runs on homers by Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel, to hand the Athletics their eighth straight defeat, 8-6. Detroit and the Boston Red Sox were rained out while the Phillies and Boston Bees had an open date.

The American league came close to having a shift in leadership as well, for the Cleveland Indians took a 9-3 setback at Washington in the first game of their Eastern tour while the fast-stepping New York Yankees knocked off the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-3 and 10-5. The Tribe managed to hold the top by a half-game margin.

The Tribe managed to hold the top by a half-game margin.

Brooklyn, incidentally, explored the stratospheric heights of sixth place for the first time since the middle of May as they gained their first triumph over the Giants in eleven clashes. The Cincinnati Reds beat out St. Louis 6-5 in the other National league game and dropped the Cards to seventh.

The remaining Major league contest saw the Chicago White Sox scoring five runs on homers by Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel, to hand the Athletics their eighth straight defeat, 8-6. Detroit and the Boston Red Sox were rained out while the Phillies and Boston Bees had an open date.

The American league came close to having a shift in leadership as well, for the Cleveland Indians took a 9-3 setback at Washington in the first game of their Eastern tour while the fast-stepping New York Yankees knocked off the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-3 and 10-5. The Tribe managed to hold the top by a half-game margin.

Blazing the Homeward Trail

When singers of spirituals chant about the "Glory Road" they may visualize something as beautiful as the photo above, showing a brilliant spectacle of illumination along New York's George Washington Bridge and its approach. But it was scarcely a glory road for the thousands of Gothamites in the streaming caravan of cars whose headlights produced the effect. For they were reluctantly blazing the homeward trail across the Hudson River to return to work after a weekend at summer resorts.

REPORTER MISTAKEN FOR BOB SIGNS HIS NAME 500 TIMES

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—This is an open letter to Pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Dear Bob:

This reporter forged your name about 500 times yesterday—not on checks, but for 500 boy baseball fans who think you're a very great man.

It was like this:

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators invited these boys to the Cleveland-Washington game free of charge. When the nine innings were over, they all went looking for you. They wanted your autograph.

You must have got out a side door, because they were yelling for you when I came along.

"There's Bob," screamed a little low-headed fellow.

Now, Bob, I look about as much like you as Babe Ruth does, but it didn't make any difference to them. You know how it is with a crowd of boys.

"Sign my autograph book, Bob," they yelled, pinning me against the wall.

"I'm not Bob," I yelled.

"The heck you're not," they chanted.

"Sign it Bob," they pleaded.

"You're my favorite pitcher. Please Bob."

A policeman tried to butt in, but he didn't get any farther than I did. They yelled and shouted and pushed score cards in my face.

So—I began to sign—"Sincerely, Bob Feller."

This kept up for three-quarters of an hour—three broken pencils and a cramped wrist.

What else could a fellow do. I'd have let you down if I'd run out on them, and I'd have let them down if I hadn't signed your name.

Anyhow—it was a pretty swell feeling getting mistaken for you. That's how it was, Bob.

Sincerely,

EDDY GILMORE.

Dr. W. P. Taylor, head of the Texas A. & M. college wild life game department, has found that beavers are working on Spanish oaks and threatening to ruin some excellent trees on the Moody property near Seagovia, Kimble county. The Moody beaver colony is one of the few known in Texas. The game, fish and oyster commission is considering mowing some of the animals.

Research by Texas Extension Service wild game specialists establishes that game will not increase beyond a point determined by available food, shelter and range. A regular commission is recommended as wildlife becomes more abundant.

World production of motor vehicles in the last year registered a new record high with a total of 6,352,000 passenger cars, trucks and busses. This exceeded 1929 production by slightly more than one percent.

In the West Highland museum, Fort William, Scotland, is one of the strangest portraits ever painted. It looks like nothing but a mass of colored paint; but when a metal cylinder of the right size and shape is placed at a certain spot on the canvas, the reflection mirrored on the cylinder becomes a portrait of Bonnie Prince Charlie, pretender to the British throne in the 18th century.

WINS TITLE

Proudly holding the cup emblematic of the intercollegiate tennis singles championship, Frank Guernsey, Jr., above, Rice Institute sophomore from Orlando, Fla., is pictured after successfully fighting through a list of players rated above him. The largest gallery in recent years watched him defeat Morey Lewis of Kenyon College by 6 to 4, 6 to 1, and 6 to 0, after 55 minutes of play in the recent 53rd annual National Intercollegiate tournament at Haverford, Pa.

THOMAS WINS 16TH TIT FOR TULSA OILERS

(By The Associated Press)

Max Thomas, the consistent Tulsa slab artist, had a good lead toward pitching honors of the Texas league season today.

With Ash Hillin, Oklahoma City veteran, finding the going tougher each day and with his chances of equaling his marvelous record of last year fading fast, Thomas and Bill Trotter, San Antonio ace, just about had the race to themselves with the Tulsa flinger holding the advantage as his team swept down the stretch.

Thomas now has 16 victories and Trotter 14.

Thomas turned in another master piece last night as the Oilers beat Fort Worth, 4-0, to give Tulsa a five and one-half game lead over the field. He allowed the Cats only six hits while his mates, paced by center George Susce, punched out timely blows to score twice in the seventh and twice more in the eighth.

Susce also mixed up in a fistie exchange with Flippin, Fort Worth shortstop, after the latter was called out in an attempt to steal home. The victory gave Thomas a record of 16 wins and 7 losses.

Shreveport kept pace with Fort Worth in seeing which team wouldn't get out of the cellar, the Sports losing to San Antonio, 4-3. Shreveport again made too many miscues in the clinches.

Beaumont dropped another game behind Tulsa by losing to Houston, 1-0. It was a pitching duel between Bill Seimsoth of the Buffs and Ed Seiway of the Exporters.

Oklahoma City won over Dallas, 5-2. It was the Indians' first home victory in eight starts. Paul Dean was the victim but turned in a well-pitched game nevertheless.

Only two games were scheduled tonight, Houston playing at Dallas and Shreveport at Fort Worth.

Marshall Downs Kilgore 8 to 4

(By The Associated Press)

The Marshall Tigers gained another game in the drive toward the East Texas league flag last night by downing Kilgore, 8-4, while second-place Texarkana was losing to Palestine, 9-0, and third-place Henderson was taking it on the chin from Tyler, 8-4.

Hal Capdeville fanned 11 Kilgore batters and limited the Rangers to 7 hits while his mates were clouting the apple for 12.

Palestine swept the series with the Liners behind the five-hit hurling by Frank Marbut as the Pals pounded Walker and Sam Gray hard.

Carl McNabb and Bob Hill clouted homers to pace the Tyler assault on Thomas and Rachunok.

Orval Grove settled down after two bad innings to pitch the Longview Cannibals to a 9-3 victory over Jacksonville.
