

Israeli commandos fire on Lebanese

AAQBIYE, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli commandos striking before dawn from the air and sea attacked a Palestinian base at this southern Lebanon fishing village today, killing five guerrillas and wounding seven others, Palestinians here reported.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said two Israeli lieutenants were killed and eight of its soldiers were wounded in the surprise assault by seaborne commandos and paratroopers.

It said the strike destroyed a guerrilla naval base and there was evidence the seacoast compound was being used to prepare for terrorist attacks on Israel "in the near future."

An Israeli military spokesman said the raiders counted eight Palestinian bodies, and he claimed none of the estimated 30 to 40 defenders escaped before the Israeli raiders dynamited the base.

Guerrillas said they killed 8 to 10 Israelis in the two-hour clash. Western correspondents who drove down from Beirut to this village 26 miles north of the Israeli border saw signs of a major firefight.

Abu Jihad, the Al Fatah guerrilla group's top military commander in Lebanon, toured the bloodstained site at midmorning. He denied the base was used to train guerrillas for seaborne attacks into Israel.

He said 19 guerrillas were manning the garrison when it was hit by a force of at least 150 Israelis, landed by rubber boats and helicopters. He admitted the base was caught off guard.

Abu Jihad is No. 3 in the hierarchy of Al Fatah, largest guerrilla group in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

"This is not a major base at all," Abu Jihad told reporters. "We have people here just as we have them scattered all around the area."

Inexplicably, Israel reported the attack was on Dahar el Bouj, about one mile inland and northeast of Aaqbiye. The area is six miles south of Sidon and 20 miles north of the Israeli-occupied zone of southern Lebanon.

The attack was the deepest Israeli penetration north of the Litani River since Israel invaded and occupied 500 square miles of southern Lebanon in March. That invasion, aimed at driving guerrillas out of southern Lebanon, followed a Palestinian terrorist raid into Israel that killed 35 Israelis.

A pooled report prepared for the foreign press in Israel quoted military sources as saying all Israel's casualties today were caused by the explosion of a Palestinian arms depot.

Three buildings were demolished in the beachfront guerrilla compound.

Guerrillas said there were six Lebanese civilians buried beneath one of the wrecked houses. They reportedly were local laborers who tended the orchards around the compound. There was no way to verify the report before the rubble was cleared.

Houston scientists successfully alter path of falling sky lab

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Skylab was falling, but the space agency caught it.

Spokesmen at the Johnson Space Center in Houston said commands transmitted from tracking stations on Bermuda and near Madrid succeeded in placing the space station back in orbit.

"We hadn't anticipated so much success so quickly," said spokesman Bob Gordon. "But we still have adjustment maneuvers to execute Saturday morning."

On Thursday, the space station's two remaining gyroscopes were turned on. When spinning, the gyros provide a means of controlling the position of the vehicle. Today Skylab received commands that stopped its erratic motion and aligned its solar panels with the sun.

"We didn't anticipate locking on so quickly," Gordon said. "The sun sensors locked on right away. The flight controllers were very pleased."

On Saturday morning, controllers will execute a final maneuver aboard the 85-ton space station. They said it was "minor compared with today's efforts but nevertheless critical to keeping the space station in orbit longer."

Success for Saturday's maneuver will extend the life of Skylab in orbit into at least early 1980, officials said.

If the maneuver fails, Skylab could plunge to its destruction as early as next January, breaking up in the atmosphere and possibly scattering large chunks of debris over a 3,000-mile swath of the earth.

The fear is that some of the pieces could hit populated areas, although space officials say that chance is remote.

"Can you imagine a 300-pound piece of metal plunging out of space into the Super Bowl?" asked one observer.

Scientists have been making a major effort this week to extend the life of Skylab, the world's largest man-made satellite which the United States launched five years ago.

They have been sending a series of commands to turn on heaters and gyroscopes and to point the station's battery-charging solar panels at the sun.

These have been preludes to the big maneuver planned for Saturday, which key members of Congress will be watching.

At 7:12 a.m. in Houston, a team of 15 men led by flight controller Bill Peters will send a radio signal to Skylab from the same control center that was a hub of activity during the historic Apollo moon flights and when Skylab was inhabited by three different astronaut crews in 1973 and 1974.

If all goes well Saturday, the radio signal will fire small steering rockets to tip the cylinder-shaped station so that instead of orbiting with its nose up, it will fly parallel to the earth, small end forward. If the signal doesn't work, there will be no further attempts to prolong the station's flight.

Carter backs water projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today asked Congress to approve 26 new water projects, making this the first time in four years that the White House has recommended new water project construction.

The projects would cost a total of $718 million, with expenditures during the first fiscal year of about $70 million, according to the White House's Office of Management and Budget.

The largest single project among Carter's requests calls for the establishment of the Big South Fork national river and recreation area in Kentucky and Tennessee. The administration estimated on completion it would cost $140 million, but practically all the money would be spent to acquire land.

At the same time, Eliot Cutler, a spokesman for the OMB, reiterated Carter's intention to veto a House public works appropriation bill, calling for new water project construction totalling $1.4 billion.

The House bill also contains funds for seven of nine water projects that comprised the administration's so-called "hit list."

One unique feature of the president's request is to ask Congress for the full $718 million appropriation even though all the money would not be spent the first year.

Cutler said, "We are clearly flying in the face of congressional custom" because the administration wants the full cost figures included so that Congress and the American public knows precisely what is at stake.

Traditionally, Congress appropriates only the amount of funds that will be spent during the year.

In addition to the 26 Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation projects, Carter also proposed spending $75 million for 25 small Soil Conservation Service projects.

Julianne will meet wife of president

WASHINGTON — Today bids fair to become the biggest day in the life of 14-year-old Julianne Raines of Big Spring.

This afternoon, Julianne and other Regional Spelling Bee champions go to the White House where they get a VIP tour of the famed presidential mansion. While there, they will get to meet Mrs. Jimmy (Rosalynn) Carter, wife of the president.

Julianne and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Raines, will start their return trip home Saturday but will probably not arrive in Big Spring until Tuesday.

Jeffrey, the Raines' son, is visiting with grandparents in Oklahoma City while other members of the family are in Washington. Julianne was eliminated in the third round of competition in Washington. Peg McCarty of Kansas emerged as the 1977 National Spelling Bee champion, earning $1,000 in cash and other prizes.

In a telephone conversation with the Herald Thursday, Julianne said she had formed friendships with other bee contestants she expects to keep a long time.

The Raines family will move to Arlington shortly after the return to Big Spring. Julianne will become a student at Gunn Junior High this fall. Her parents have already established a residence at 3627 Lake Tahoe Drive in Arlington.

Action/reaction: Illegal beer sales

Q. Is it illegal for convenience stores to sell beer to 16-year-olds? There are stores here that sell to my son without checking his identification because he looks older.

A. It is illegal for store employees to sell alcoholic beverage to anyone under 18-years of age. Complaints may be turned in to the office of the Alcoholic Beverage Commissioner. A witness is needed for an illegal sale violation charge. The stores require their clerks to check I.D.'s but some are less conscientious about it than others.

Information requested

Shotgun slaying clues continue tough to find

A spokesman for Big Spring police says they have been able to make very little progress in their investigation of the Sunday night shooting death of Rudy Ramirez Jr., which occurred on a city street in east Big Spring.

Lt. Claude Mitchell, head of police detectives, said, "There are some people with information who have been afraid to talk who have not brought it in. We are alarmed because we now hear that two of the main possible witnesses are being threatened."

The police lieutenant urged anyone with information to bring it in "so that arrests can be made before there is additional violence."

One report indicates that the man gunned down may have let a friend out at his home shortly before the shooting. "That man's life may be in danger because of the information he has," the police lieutenant added.

Another man being sought as a witness disappeared after a party Wednesday night and has not been seen again.

Det. Gary Porter and Lt. Morris urge people with information to call the police department. The information will be kept confidential, according to the police officers. "We don't need more killings," Lt. Morris emphasized.

Police, meanwhile, are still investigating the murder of Enrique Longorio, 69, which occurred in his home on Feb. 9.

Texas Ranger Eddie Almond and Detective Ray Lujan are en route back from Atlanta, Ga. where they have been questioning persons concerning that shooting.

Longorio was shot inside his own home by a masked gunman, shortly after returning from work.

A local man was taken into custody at the police department today in connection with that shooting and is expected to be administered a lie detector test, according to Lt. Morris. It is not known if the two killings are related.

'I am somewhat awed by the position'

Carol Hunter elected school board president

By BOB BURTON

Eleven years of service to the school district, including eight as president of the board of trustees, ended Thursday as Roy Watkins resigned from the school board and Carol Hunter was acclaimed president in his stead.

Watkins submitted his resignation to the board earlier this week, stating his reason for resigning as a lack of time to spend on the job.

In his motion to accept Watkins' resignation, board member Delnor Ross said, "I have been associated with school for 35 years, and in that time I've never met anyone more interested and conscientious than Roy with his years of service to the Big Spring School District."

"The community is suffering a big loss. I don't think we'll be able to replace you, and it is with regret I make this motion."

Carol Hunter, who has eight years teaching experience in Killeen and Houston, was nominated for the president's chair by Vice-president Delbert Donelson. She was elected unanimously.

"I am somewhat awed by the position," said Mrs. Hunter, "especially following someone like Roy who has served so well. But I have a great deal of interest in the district and I have time to devote to the job."

Superintendent Lynn Hise remarked later that he had worked with Watkins for all of the eleven years, "and no one has given more dedicated and loyal service to the district. I can respect his wishes to retire after this length of service, but it will be a loss to the district. We can't replace his time, talent, and service."

Watkins called his years of service "rich and rewarding" and said, "The district is fortunate to have this high quality staff, which I believe can compare with any in the state. One day the board may look back, and I think they will decide that boosting Lynn Hise for the superintendent's position was the smartest thing I ever did."

In other action, the board agreed to accept a bid by Mid-Tex construction company to repair the damage to the high school choir room. Acting on the recommendation of Assistant Superintendent for Business Don Crockett, the board bypassed the competitive bid process in order to have the $62,500 project completed by the beginning of the next school year.

Damage to the building included roof joists, brick, and corner joints. A $1,000 reward is still being offered for information about the arson leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible.

An additional $15,125 in damaged goods are also being replaced. Under the present $5,000 deductible insurance the district will have to pay only the deductible amount.

The board also agreed to appoint Charles Beil and Delbert Donelson to a committee to study the present social security system within the school district. The move is intended to provide more information about the impact of withdrawing from the system on district teachers.

Teachers voted by a slim majority in a poll last year to withdraw from the system. Withdrawal is a two-year process, requiring a vote now to get out in 1980.

Crockett also told the board in his financial report that the district had a record sum in its general fund for this time of year. Cash balances show $2,430,266.32 in the fund now. Crockett attributed the amount to the time-lag in state average daily attendance figures, which means the state has been paying this year on last year's attendance figures.

In other action, the board voted to continue its involvement in the West Texas Education Center, to relocate two portable buildings at Goliad Jr. High to serve as classrooms next year, and to begin budget meetings.

They also agreed to tentatively set up a board meeting to consider appointment of a board member to replace Watkins.

MABEE DIAGNOSTIC CENTER
Dedication scheduled June 17

Diagnostic facility named for Mabees

Dedication ceremonies will be held June 17 for the new 205,000 square-foot Mabee Diagnostic Center, the Scott and White Clinic's new laboratory, research and patient-care structure named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Mabee, who founded the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Okla.

The Foundation is the biggest single donor to Scott and White Memorial Hospital and the Scott, Sherwood and Brindley Foundation. The Mabee Foundation made a grant of $1.5 million for the Diagnostic Center, which brought its total gifts to Scott and White to $3,125,000.

The Mabee Diagnostic Center started receiving its first patients Monday.

Many Scott and White Clinic Departments are the beneficiaries of greatly enlarged facilities in this new structure, built at a cost of $14.5 million. The Mabee Diagnostic Center initially will provide space for 40 additional physicians, many of whom have come on the Scott and White staff in recent months. Later expansion will provide office space for a total of 200 physicians.

The new building connects to the present Scott and White Clinic on all levels except the sixth floor. It is completely insulated to achieve maximum energy savings. The Center is a six-story building plus a ground floor, constructed to accommodate the addition of four more floors to be added if needed.

Departments which have moved into the Mabee Diagnostic Center include:

—Ground Floor — Laboratories, Medical Records, Endocrinology, Tumor Registry, X-Ray Therapy.

—First Floor — Pediatrics, Dermatology, Infectious Disease, Allergy, Community Internal Medicine.

—Second Floor — Orthopedics and Chiropractic, X-Ray.

—Third Floor — Gastroenterology, Endoscopy, Fluoroscopy, Proctosigmoidoscopy.

—Fourth and Fifth Floors — Shelled in.

—Sixth Floor — Doctors' Lounge, Clinic Administration.

The new building is equipped with a complete communications system, compatible with that in the existing Hospital and Clinic. Telelift communications vertically and horizontally carry laboratory items, X-rays and medical records. Of course, there is a nurse call system and a public address system throughout.

With many laboratory and medical support departments moving into the Mabee building, some 35,000 square feet of existing Clinic space in the main building has been renovated for expansion. Office and waiting areas have been redecorated for better patient access and comfort. Radiology and pathology laboratories are expanding into some of the vacated space.

The new diagnostic facility constitutes Phase II of the $25 million Expansion Fund at Scott and White. Phase I brought the Lucy King Brown Special Treatment Center in 1975. These two structures are the most significant single additions to Scott and White since it moved to its present site in 1963.

In 1977, Scott and White celebrated its 80th anniversary of founding. In observance, a special time capsule containing artifacts and memorabilia from those eventful years was sealed and placed in the lobby of the Mabee Diagnostic Center (adjacent to the picturesque fountain). In 1997, during Scott and White's centennial ceremonies, the capsule will be taken out and examined. Until then, a chunk of the institution's history can consider the Mabee building as its home.

Government suing Exxon Corp.

a three-year period, is suing Exxon Corp. for the money and interest.

Soviet Union demanding payment for damages

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has demanded that the United States pay for damage its investigators did when they broke up Soviet bugging of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the Americans destroyed a Soviet "protective system" designed to foil U.S. spy gear.

Tass said the Soviet Foreign Ministry filed a protest with the State Department threatening to make public documentary materials about U.S. electronic spying if the Americans continue to publicize the bugging incident.

The protest "contains the demand for the immediate ending by the Americans of the unlawful (anti-bugging) work and full restoration of caused damage," Tass said. "Otherwise appropriate measures will be taken."

U.S. officials in Washington disclosed last week that a chimney in the Moscow embassy was found to contain monitoring devices, including a large antenna, that were maintained by Soviet technicians who entered the building through a secret tunnel.

here and is a followup to a probable violation notice issued against the Houston-based corporation by the Energy Department six months ago.

Paul L. Bloom, a department attorney, said the government decided to go into the courts now instead of proceeding along administrative lines to achieve "the earliest possible resolution" of the case.

Presumably, he said, the company would have appealed an administrative decision to the courts at any rate. The suit is the result of an audit of Exxon records for the period running from late 1973 through 1976.

Exxon officials were not available for comment on the suit.

When the government's notice was issued last January, Exxon denied the overcharges. The company claimed the government was trying to apply price ceilings retroactively using "standards not in effect when our decision and commitments were made."

The Exxon suit involves the sale of crude oil after the government established a two-tier pricing system to protect against windfall profits and promote domestic oil development after the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Under the tier system current crude oil production was divided into "old" oil and "new" oil. New oil is the quantity drilled which exceeds production capabilities before the tier system was established. The barrel price of new oil was $11.28 when the alleged violation occurred. That price was about $6 higher than what could have been charged for "old" oil.

When the government's notice was issued last January, Exxon denied the overcharges. The company claimed the government was trying to apply price ceilings retroactively using "standards not in effect when our

Spectator sports increasingly violent

Spectator sports have always been popular in this country because the fan develops a great affection for a real, live hero who can produce in a very simple way.

Also, with very little imagination, a fan can imagine himself reversing roles with the athlete and producing touchdowns or home runs in clutch situations before adoring thousands. The fan becomes a part of the team or the individual he follows.

People who become faceless individuals on an endless production dream of escaping that tedium in an endeavor which can capture the imagination of the public and, invariably, sports provide the avenue of escape. Athletic competition has always symbolized man's loftiest ideals, talked about with awe by commoners and kings.

THERE HAS BEEN an increasing amount of violence exhibited in athletic competition lately, however, sometimes by athletes themselves but, more often than not, by fans.

You won't find too many baseball players clapping the chops of an opponent, mainly because the diamond hero knows they run the risk of breaking a knuckle if he connects with the jaw of an antagonist. Most of the restlessness among athletics in baseball ends up as wrestling matches.

Football players hesitate to lash out at opponents, even in fits of pique, because those opponents are well-upholstered and wear face masks and helmets that would crush swinging fists.

The fans, though — they are something else. In England, rampaging soccer buffs have turned normally happy sports-filled Saturdays into days of terror and horror.

THE YOUNG toughs not only riot within the confines of stadium seating areas but strut up and down streets, breaking windows, pounding hapless individuals who might be in their way and defying police officers.

In one game, supporters of one team threw Irish confetti (bricks) at fans of the opposing team. Such outrageous displays of violence are, of course, not limited to Great Britain.

The last World Series ended in a near riot, when thousands of fans descended upon the playing field of Yankee Stadium, forcing Reggie Jackson to run for his life. The rioters, for some reason, then did their best to inflict heavy damage upon the stadium itself.

It's come to the point where merely to inflict defeat upon an opponent is not nearly enough. We've got to humiliate him and his likes and put knots on his head, so to speak, as if he were being warned never to be brave enough to issue a challenge again.

There must be a stopping place somewhere if we are to retain some sense of sanity and rationalization, some appreciation for the civilized age in which we are supposed to be living.

What ever happened to the old saying: "It's not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game (that counts)."

Lose on other end

Around the rim

Proposition 13 passed in California, much to the dismay of state employees and officials. The doom they predicted is probably on the way now, what with the revenue cut back by such a disastrous percentage.

They predict major cutbacks in state programs, possible unemployment for state employees, and hardship on the money-line running from the state coffers to the people of California.

But significant state officials and celebrities voted in favor of the proposition — though whether they did to get on the bandwagon or because they really meant it has yet to be decided.

Both Texas gubernatorial parties have candidates ready to propose such "wars on taxes."

BUT THE PROBLEM lies in more than the taxes. Despite their consistent increase, no money has ever been left over. The heart of the matter is that money is not being efficiently spent by governing bodies, who find it easier to raise the levies than to cut out the fat.

It will undoubtedly be a popular campaign promise to fight the tax battle for the citizen. But unless some parallel progress is made in government efficiency, the taxpayer will simply lose out on the other end; rather than getting more for his money, he will just get less services along with less taxes.

"Photolab" Danny Valdes, who some say can't even swim, recently acquired an aquarium filled with "Pacific" fish. Says Valdes, "If I see one eating on another, that's it. Out he goes."

MAYBE WE could get Danny to run for President and impose that kind of iron rule on the Congress. There would probably be a lot of politicians flopping around near Pennsylvania Avenue, gasping for water.

Two quick sports notes — as of today the Cincinnati Reds moved into first place in the National League. If the Rangers win the American League my dream will come true — an all-local World Series. I can root for both teams.

Also, if you like tennis, check out the Figure Seven Tennis Center Saturday to see some of the best West Texas pros play. Watching a real match beats the tube all hollow. You can't begin to guess how fast some of those forehead drives are travelling, and the serves...

Next stop: Terrorism

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The political philosopher and strategist James Burnham, who knows more about everything than just about anybody, has written that terrorism is headed this way in the U.S., along with a variety of kidnappings, hostage-takings, and hundreds of acts of arson that are in fact terrorist. Though many of these actions are by amateurs, they show a promising source of recruits for serious organizations.

But the success of the Aldo Moro operation has got to have emboldened the terrorists, who will be thinking big. Thinking big means thinking about the United States. We are, after all, the principal target of the anti-Americans of this world.

BURNHAM GIVES additional reasons for concluding that ambitious terrorists will go west. "First, the U.S., as the heartland of imperialism, corruption, exploitation, etc., is the most attractive, spectacular, and decisive target. A successful assault in the U.S. would have profound global repercussions, and would lift the global terrorist offensive to a higher historical phase." And then, "For the past five years the U.S. has been stripping away its organizational, legal, and ideological defenses against terrorism."

He means by that, of course, the war against the CIA, the FBI, and many of the techniques by which they have sought to protect the interests of the republic and its citizens.

Now Burnham says that, unhappily, there is probably only one way we are going to learn how to fight our way out of the present dilemma. "Maybe, sooner than we think, a Senator, Governor, Vice President, or member of the Joint Chiefs (will be) given Moro's role in a replay of the Red Brigades' scenario."

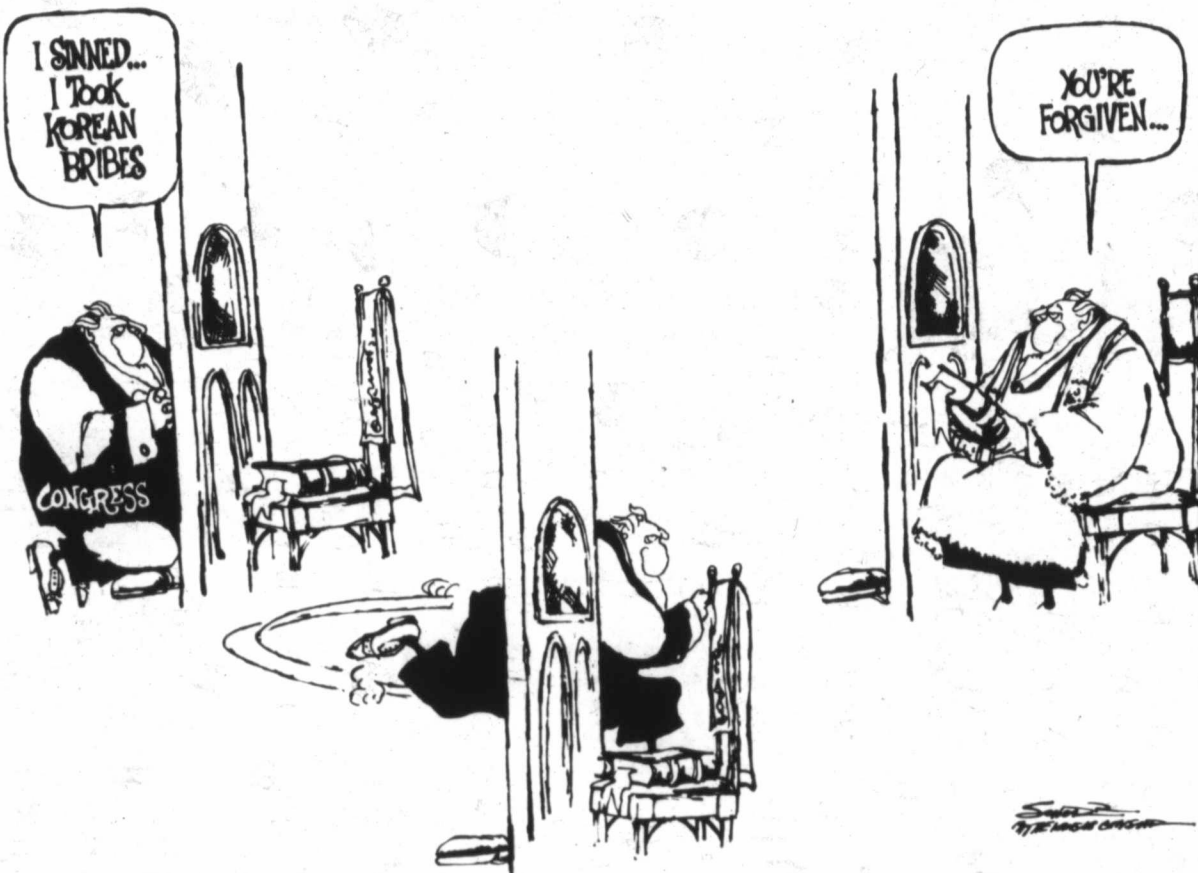

Let us consider the event. Suppose that tomorrow, on his way to his office, the Vice President of the United States, who is probably not more heavily guarded than Aldo Moro, were ambushed by a dozen organized terrorists who proceeded to slaughter his bodyguards, and scoop the Vice President off into hiding.

By no means can it be taken for granted that so illustrious a person could not be kept out of sight. Let us follow through the grim scenario: The terrorists make their demands. We decline, after the most hectic meditations in history, to give in to them; and the corpse of the Vice President is discovered in the middle of the boardwalk of Atlantic City.

The question is: What does America do then? Mr. Burnham assumes that America will then listen to reason. What is reason? "Without exception, every person who has any acquaintance with terrorism understands that such forms of absolutely disciplined organizations can be successfully combated only with the help of counteractions that intersect the terrorist universe: secret surveillance, wiretaps, mail checks, computerized files of millions of persons throughout the world..."

But what has happened to Italy in the wake of the Moro case? Presumably the high and mighty in Italy are taking greater precautions. But short of self-immobilization, it is difficult to conceive of greater precautions than those taken by Aldo Moro. Or is the problem distinctly Italian? Is there, in Italy, an organic disorganization which nothing will cure?

What is lacking psychologically is national resolution: the will. What is lacking intellectually is the knowledge that self-defense is an art.

Newer gout therapy more successful

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had gout in my right big toe about ten years ago and my doctor prescribed Colbenemid. It relieved the pain in a couple of days. When I felt an attack coming on the pills were always effective. But a couple of months ago I had an attack and got no relief with these pills. What kind of a diet should I be on? My doctor has since retired and moved to California. — E.A.R.

There should be more help for you than your present program of control. Gout is a matter of how much uric acid is being produced in your body. When it gets too high some may settle in joints, the great toes being common sites. The medicine you are taking (probenecid and colchicine) is a uricosuric. It helps the body get rid of excess uric acid and relieve pain. In more recent years, a newer drug (allopurinol) has been developed to get into the act before acid builds up. It prevents formation of uric acid.

You should find a new doctor, who may want to start you on this program. The colchicine must be reduced gradually while you begin the newer medicine.

A drawback of the drug you are presently taking is that any aspirin you might be using cancels out its effect. Not so with the newer drug (allopurinol).

Diet is not as important as proper drug therapy, although you should probably still avoid the foods high in purine. Purine is used by the body in producing the uric acid you don't want. These include organ meats (as liver and kidney) sweetbreads, and legume vegetables (as peas and beans). Alcohol can precipitate an attack of gout. The gout booklet you asked for has more detailed discussion.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My three-year-old grandson has been pulling his hair out, mostly at night, and I am wondering if there is something physical that might induce this problem. His parents have cut his hair real short, but if the cause can be eliminated they can let it grow in again. Doctors offer no explanation. — L.J.P.

Nor can I. This is most often associated with the thumb-sucking technique employed by the tot (usually the thumb-in-mouth, with the free hand grasping a curl or two.) It will end when the thumbsucking ends, but it is annoying for parents and grandparents.

The shortie hair cut sounds practical, much preferable to others, such as tying on gloves. Such methods are counterproductive in their frustration potential.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are orange peels harmful in any way? — Mrs. P.L.

Orange peels are, as you know, used in some jams (marmalades), and are not harmful. The rind does contain a small amount of oil to which some people may be sensitive. Children and infants may be a bit more sensitive than others. The individual must be the judge of his sensitivity or non-sensitivity. The peels also contain vitamins.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Isn't there some method to retard the progress of cataracts? — G.P.L.

None that I'm aware of. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Bravo! That's for mentioning the La Leche League to the prospective adoptive mother who wanted to breastfeed. And, yes, it can be done. I did it, and successfully, too. I am enclosing a resume of my relaxation experience. I nursed both my natural daughters, too. — D.H.

Thanks for the interesting resume. I found it fascinating. I note, though, that you had had other natural babies before the adopted one. Hence, your "relaxation." Lactation is unlikely for a woman who has never had a previous pregnancy.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How much knowledge must you have before you can really serve God effectively? — B.C.

DEAR B.C.: There are two things you need to keep in mind. One is that God can often use someone who has very little knowledge (either in terms of formal education or just practical understanding of the Christian faith). I have heard of people who came to Christ and immediately were used by God to lead others to Christ. Although they had very little knowledge of the Bible, God used them and honored their sincere desire to serve Him. I should also say that I have known some people who had a great deal of knowledge, yet who never got around to putting their knowledge to work for God.

On the other hand, we should, of course, always strive to be the best servants of Christ that we can be. We should grow in our relationship to Christ, and this includes "increasing in the knowledge of God" (Colossians 1:10) and "by love serve one another"

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

This letter is to commend the Big Spring Herald for giving Bill Marks a job delivering papers. We live at 408 Circle Drive and Bill has been our deliveryman for the past several months, he has always been prompt, courteous, and has given excellent service.

We did not know him prior to this job, so we do not know him much, even now. But Bill is handicapped, and he has handled this job very efficiently, and we are sorry that his family is moving out of town and, of course, we must lose him; but we are thankful to Big Spring Herald that they gave him this opportunity.

In the six years we have lived here, we have not had better paper service than we have had from Bill Marks.

The experts, therefore, expect the Kremlin to continue probing and pushing in Africa, to hand down more harsh sentences against Soviet dissidents, to exploit its foot-in-the-door in Afghanistan and to behave more boorishly from the Chinese border to the edges of Western Europe.

But if the analysts have given up hope of a breakthrough, they also don't expect any breakup in Soviet-American relations. The outlook merely is for chillier weather in Moscow.

IT HAD BEEN Carter's intent to end the John Foster Dulles era and to base American foreign policy on something more constructive than anti-communism. His national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, explained this to the Cabinet last Nov. 21.

The confidential minutes report that he had detected "an ambivalence about the underlying theme of U.S. foreign policies." He felt "the reason may be that the fear of communism is no longer the glue that holds our foreign policy together." He suggested that anti-communism might be replaced by the "human rights" theme, which evokes an emotional bond in people all over the world.

The National Security Council advised the president that he didn't have to spare Soviet feelings on this issue. "There is no evidence," the council informed him, "that the U.S. human rights policy has affected Soviet bargaining positions in important negotiations, even if the atmosphere surrounding negotiations is tense."

Carter also trampled on Soviet sensibilities by making an excursion into Eastern Europe. Explained Brzezinski to the Cabinet on Jan. 9: "The President's visit to Poland was the first time a U.S. President has gone to Eastern Europe without 'visiting the U.S.S.R. first — a gesture which underlines our interest in pluralism in Eastern Europe.'"

The East-West climate predictably became chillier. On Feb. 27 Brzezinski described to the Cabinet "a pattern of deterioration in U.S.-Soviet relations." He said "the pattern is reflected in the Soviets' recent actions at the (Belgrade) Conference; their sustained campaign against the neutron bomb; their efforts to expand naval bases in the Mediterranean; and their current intrusion into the Horn of Africa."

Carter glumly agreed that "the U.S.-U.S.S.R. relationship is not as good as it should be." The confidential minutes added: "The President and several Members of the Cabinet discussed the advisability of developing an increased public awareness of the U.S.-Soviet situation."

This was followed by public statements intended to alert the public that the bloom was off the rose. Nevertheless, according to the minutes, the president on March 6 still hoped to divorce the other issues from the disarmament negotiations.

BUT ON APRIL 10, he dispatched Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on a mission to Moscow to discuss strategic arms limitation. Vance's parting instructions, the minutes show, were "to avoid a merely technical discussion and point out how other actions, such as the Soviet presence in Africa, are endangering the overall U.S.-Soviet relationship."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko paid a return call upon Vance last week. Gromyko said afterward that "only two or three" outstanding questions remained to be settled. But these are fundamental questions.

As the president told his Cabinet, he may have to sit down with Brezhnev "to resolve the last three of four issues." But for the time being, the summit meeting appears to have been rained out.

TEMPER TANTRUM: Many a Congressman has twisted bureaucratic arms to get projects for his home district. But few have been as obstreperous as Rep. Harold Ford, D-Tenn.

We've followed Ford's flamboyant activities ever since the handsome, dapper mortician's son came to Congress in 1974. He's cocky, aggressive and hot-tempered. But most of all, he's unpredictable, a Jekyll-and-Hyde personality.

The Mr. Hyde side of him came out recently when he tried to get a contract for a constituent from the Office of Minority Business Enterprises. The contracting officer, Michael Keene, ruled in favor of a rival firm.

Ford accused the former priest of having "WASP mentality" and taking a political payoff. "I'm going to get your ass off the job even if it takes me a year to do so," thundered the congressman. Keene gave his superiors a memo on the tirade, which we have seen.

Our reporter Rich Shapiro tried to reach Ford by telephone for comment. The Tennessee first said he didn't have time to talk because of a vote. He promised to call back, but failed to do so. So Shapiro again tried to reach him. On Shapiro's final call, Ford finally cut in on the line and exploded: "I'm getting tired of you constantly calling my office. I'll tell you what to do; you print the damn story any way you'd like."

Financial woes plague cities

With the prices the business community is charging, one would think it would become the model community of the world but the largest city in the country is in severe financial straits.

With a deficit equal to almost $1 billion for the current fiscal year, it is $229 million over authorized debt ceiling even after making all feasible budget cuts, including cancellation of annual pay raises for municipal employees.

A concerned but reluctant government probably will have to step in to avert bankruptcy. New York City? No, it's Tokyo. The twain shall meet.

Carter, officials disagree on effect of beef imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says his decision to ease beef import restrictions will save Americans $500 million this year in cheaper hamburger, but the government still thinks the overall cost of beef will average up to 23 percent higher than last year.

Carter's plan — announced on Thursday — will allow an additional 200 million pounds of hamburger and other low-grade beef into the country by renegotiating meat-import agreements with 13 countries, principally Australia and New Zealand. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted the larger supply would trim hamburger prices from what they might have been by a nickel or slightly more during the height of the late summer outdoor cooking season. What the "other-wise-might-be price" would have been, Bergland would not say.

But Kent Christiansen, an economist with the Food Marketing Institute, the food retailers and wholesalers' trade group, said, "It's hard for me to conceive of its having that kind of impact." The extra beef is a rise in the supply of less than 1 percent. Some 15 percent to 18 percent of consumer grocery dollars go for beef each year and, Christiansen noted, "it is by far the most important item we sell in the grocery stores."

Beef prices have been rising rapidly since last summer and, with a record leap in April, led the largest increase in consumer prices in more than a year.

Prices to producers for their cattle have been increasing at an even greater rate, and neither spiral is expected to be reversed until sometime next year, if then. The increases stem from cattle producers' reactions to devastating losses in 1974, losses that have been repeated for 15 of the last 23 three-month periods.

Carter said the added imports of lean, grass-fed beef "will not change the price of fat cattle at all."

"It will certainly not hurt the farmers who produce beef, but it will be of great help to consumers," the president said.

Thus, in July, the department will have for the first time a complete estimate of total wheat production this year, including winter wheat planted last fall and the remainder of the crop planted this spring. On Aug. 10, the department's Crop Reporting Board will update its estimates for wheat and corn plus issuing first estimates of 1978 soybeans, cotton and a number of other important crops.

Meanwhile, today's winter wheat report will be based on surveys made June 1 and will include per acre yield estimates as well as total production by major producing states. A month ago USDA estimated this year's winter wheat crop at about 1.28 billion bushels, down 16 percent from last year's production of 1.53 billion bushels. The decline results primarily from farmers reducing acres planted to winter wheat last fall in the face of sagging grain prices and acreage cuts ordered by the government to help curb rising grain surpluses. Although production of spring-planted wheat will not be estimated by USDA for another month, experts have said it could total 400 million to 500 million bushels. If so, that could mean a total wheat output this year of about 1.68 billion to 1.78 billion bushels, based on last month's winter wheat forecast. Last year, total wheat production was about

2.03 billion bushels. A weather review for the week of May 29 to June 4, which includes the survey period for making today's new winter wheat estimate, says that the crop was "rated good throughout most of the major production areas."

The crop in Kansas, the leading wheat producer, was rated "good to excellent" although some areas sustained hail and rain damage during the week, the report said.

LOVE NEEDS LIGHT

The afternoon sun was streaming through the altar window the day Ken and Carole spoke their vows. She looked even lovelier with the soft transfusion of light upon her face. But, had it been a cloudy day, there would have been no less promise in it for this couple.

Love needs light. But the light that love needs comes not from the heavens but from Heaven itself. It is the light of divine truth . . . of faith . . . of religious commitment.

That is exactly what our marriage vows mean to Christians. This is why we usually prefer to be married in church. Our promises are given not only to one another but to God. Our love looks up to Him who described himself as the Light of the world.

For Ken and Carole every Sunday in church renews the glow on their faces . . . and in their hearts.

Police officers prepared to testify against chief

JACINTO CITY, Texas (AP) — Twelve of this small city's police officers are prepared to tell state and federal investigators their former chief and some fellow officers routinely abused prisoners and performed other misdeeds over a period of 17 months, according to a copyright story in today's Houston Post.

The most significant allegation is that convicted capital murderer John Charles Zimmerman, 31, was tortured into signing a confession that he raped and then killed his 10-year-old niece last year.

The officers' other allegations are that evidence was planted, illegal search warrants were executed and citizens' property was destroyed, the Post said.

Zimmerman, who pleaded insanity and went through the county's most costly trial in 1977, is awaiting execution at the state penitentiary at Huntsville. Testimony from officers may have significant bearing on the pending appeal of his conviction.

Only one of the 12 officers has agreed to have his name made public in testimony that will cover the period Allan R. Jamail was chief.

The number represents one third of the police force in Jacinto City, a town of 10,000 east of Houston and north of the Houston Ship Channel.

The city council fired Jamail in February of this year, citing allegations of brutality. The former chief won election to the council five weeks later.

The U.S. Attorney's office in Houston told the newspaper Thursday federal investigators were looking into numerous civil rights complaints against Jamail.

One man suffering from cancer said Jamail broke three of his ribs and jailed him for drunkenness when he tried to report a crime, according to the Post.

The officers, who could face prosecution themselves, said they were forced to take their complaints to prosecutors after Jamail won his council seat and Mayor J.D. Liles appointed him informal police and fire commissioner.

"I would have been willing to drop the whole thing if Jamail would have stayed out of city government after he was fired," one of the officers told the Post. "But now he's back and he doesn't give us any choice but to try to get him indicted."

Jamail has denied any wrongdoing during his tenure as chief. He told the Post he took the job with the intention to crack down on narcotics, "to do the job that needed to be done in Jacinto City." He said he was aware his methods would be controversial.

Jamail's attorney, Mike

Ramsey, said former Harris County district attorney Mike Hinton, who is representing the officers, "is still serving as prosecutor."

Jamail dismissed allegations of general prisoner abuse but would not comment to the Post on one accusation that he beat a 16-year-old prisoner in his custody last year.

Officer Tommy Thacker and several other officers said they saw Jamail kick and hit the youth repeatedly after he had stopped up the commode in his cell, the Post reported.

The council specifically questioned Jamail about the incident when dismissing him.

Other officers said Jamail used electric cattle prods on prisoners and routinely had marijuana cigarettes or other controlled substances planted on narcotics suspects, according to the Post.

Jamail, who operated a gun repair business in his home and was a member of the city council when he was appointed chief, said allegations against him were part of a "political conspiracy."

He said former councilman Joe Harwell and councilman James Martin were behind the conspiracy because they were jealous of the publicity he received while chief.

Dollar unchanged in Tokyo, firmer in Europe market

LONDON (AP) — The dollar closed unchanged in Tokyo trading today and then opened firmer on Europe's money markets. The price of gold was down slightly in London and unchanged in Zurich.

The U.S. currency ended the day in Tokyo at 220.925, unchanged from Thursday's close. A London dealer said as the business day got under way in Europe that the dollar was "a shade firmer."

Morning rates in major European financial centers, compared with Thursday's laterates:

Frankfurt—2.0901 West German marks, compared with 2.0841 Thursday.

Zurich—1.9015 Swiss francs, compared with 1.89475 Thursday.

Rains have impact on cattle industry

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — The scrub-brush cattle country of Southwest Texas is green again. That's the most obvious indication the year-long, cattle-killing drought is easing.

But to a cattleman, the empty pens and the absence of out-of-state buyers in the Southwest Livestock Exchange auction barn here Thursday were more subtle, but just as telling, indications of the recent rains.

"This is the lightest day we've had since last fall," Joe Hargrove, owner of the sale barn, said Thursday. "And we had some people here buying from Carrizo Springs who were selling out here only three weeks ago. We don't have enough volume now to attract out-of-state buyers. The rain did all that."

With cattle dying by the hundreds and stock tanks shriveling into dust, many ranchers were forced to sell their entire herds. Others sent their cattle to expensive feedlots or burned the spines off cactus to provide forage.

Dr. LeRoy Hoermann, a Texas Agriculture Extension Service area livestock specialist here, estimates the ranchers have either lost or been forced to sell 250,000 head of cattle because of the drought.

At the height of the drought three weeks ago, Hargrove's auctioneer sold 3,391 head of cattle in one numbing 16-hour session. Many of the bony cattle went to California and Montana ranchers who are restocking after the end of their own droughts.

But only about 1,000 head of cattle were sold Thursday. They were sleeker, showing the signs of two weeks of better grazing, and none of them went to out-of-state buyers.

Most of the area has been doused with six to eight inches of rainfall in the past month, but some isolated areas remained dry. Delighted ranchers warn that those rains will only help them for about six weeks.

"I think this old country is gonna come back, but if there is no more rain, this won't last that long," said Eagle Pass farmer-rancher Zan Mathies.

Second year student winner of achievement award

Second year student Janie McLaughlin, of Malone-Hogan's School of X-ray Technology, was named as this year's winner of the Lila Brewster-Elizabeth Harrison "Best Student Teacher Award", at the third annual Faculty Appreciation party held recently in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Buerk Williams.

McLaughlin was selected by four first year students, using a 50-point system based on the teaching program at the school.

The award was established in 1976 in honor of two retired school teachers who set up the curriculum and teaching program of the X-ray school. Called a pyramid teaching method, the first year students are taught in part by those who are in their second year of training, resulting in reinforcement of the learning process for both first and second year students.

"It has been proven that this method produces outstanding technicians", Dr. Williams said. Graduates of the MHH program have been placed almost immediately, and in most cases before graduation day.

Mrs. Lila Brewster presented the award to Mrs. McLaughlin. "Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and Jesus were among the greatest teachers of all time", she said, in describing the attributes of the outstanding teacher. She added that "a good teacher stimulates others to wonder at what else there is to know."

Other students scheduled to graduate Aug. 26 at exercises to be held at the Big Spring Country Club are Eddie Decker, Mike Hutte and Susan Hull.

Museum fetes works

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Three paintings of water lilies by Claude Monet, lent by three different American museums, are on show together publicly for the first time as a triptych, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

They are among 81 works, including other famous water-lily paintings, in a radiant exhibition titled "Monet's Years at Giverny: Beyond Impressionism," which is in New York until July 9, and will then be at the St. Louis Art Museum from Aug. 1 until Oct. 8.

The exciting discovery that three of the single water-lily paintings belonged together was made by Charles S. Moffet, associate curator in the Metropolitan Museum's Department of European Paintings, when he was selecting works for the show.

The paintings had been sold separately from Monet's studio in the 1950s and belong to the Cleveland Museum of Art, the St. Louis Art Museum and the Nelson Gallery-Atkins Museum, Kansas City, Mo., respectively. They will return to their separate homes after this unique showing as a triptych.

Monet moved to Giverny, a village 40 miles down the Seine from Paris, in 1883, and lived the second half of his life there, until his death at the age of 86 in 1926.

The show includes works from the whole of the Giverny period, which amounted to two-thirds of his productive life, a period during which he created not only paintings but also the beloved gardens which came to dominate the subject matter of the paintings.

The exhibition has been organized to celebrate a happy circumstance — the reopening of the gardens, with the lily ponds and the Japanese footbridge so often depicted. They have been restored to full beauty, after years of neglect, with the help of a grant from an American patron of the arts

There's nothing like sealing a letter to inspire a fresh thought... Etiquette is knowing which fingers to put in your mouth when you whistle for the water.... X-rays are like marriage. Your chances of hiding anything are poor....

Inflation is when wallets are getting bigger and shopping bags are getting smaller.... Anybody who thinks the best things in life are free just hasn't been caught yet....

Jim Campbell is a fine local artist. He'll have his first one man show in Big Spring this weekend at the Heritage Museum and his original paintings will be for sale. ## School nurse may help

Dr. Wallace: I am now 17. I was married at 14 and divorced at 16 and have a 2-year-old son.

My problem is that I'm pregnant again. The baby is due in eight weeks and I don't have enough money to support all three of us. How can I get help?

Don't suggest welfare, I'm already on it. I get $178 every two weeks and, as you know, it doesn't go very far.

Please tell me what to do. I need your help desperately. — R.T., Santa Rosa, Calif.

R.T.: There are many agencies that can help you, but my suggestion would be to stop by a high school in Santa Rosa and talk to the school nurse there. She knows where and how to find help in your area.

If for some reason this doesn't work out (I'm sure it will), call me. I am sending you my telephone number.

Doctor Wallace: I am 17 and have my own landscaping business that I perform after school and on the weekends.

A local hardware and gardening store allows me a business discount. Last week I tried to open a checking account at a local bank but I was refused because of my age. I went to a second bank and also was refused, again because of my age.

A checking account would make my bookkeeping and money transactions much more simple.

If I have my own money, why can't I have my own checking account? — Albert, Rock Island, Ill.

Dear Albert: In checking with the largest bank in the United States, I was informed that with a valid driver's license and a student identification card you could have your own checking account, provided your reputation was unblemished.

The next time you apply for a checking account take one of your parents along, or another trustworthy adult.

Dr. Wallace: When we date, my girlfriend wears a ring on each finger and thumb (10) which is bad enough, but she now thinks it's cute to wear sandals and decorates her toes with rings.

In school she wears only two rings; it's when we go out that she goes bananas. Whenever we enter a restaurant, all the people stare at her, and I feel ill at ease.

Do you have any suggestions that I can spring on her so she will keep her

He Won't Collect His Own Money

DEAR ABBY: You aren't going to believe this, but my husband has been eligible for Social Security for two years, and he has yet to collect a dime of it!

Why? He says that as long as he's able to work, he doesn't feel justified in taking money from the government. I think he's crazy. What do you think?

MOREY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Social Security isn't exactly "welfare" from the government. Since the mid-'30s working people have kicked in part of every paycheck in order to build up some retirement income. Your husband is entitled to do as he wishes, but he's also entitled to the money.

P.S. A person who earns more than $4,000 a year at his job must return $1 of Social Security for every $2 he earns above $4,000.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who has just started to date. I am going to ask you a question I have asked many others: I have never been able to get a straight answer from anyone.

When a girl really likes a fellow, and they are alone together, naturally they are going to make out some. But how far should a girl go?

JUST "ME" IN PLAINS, GA.

DEAR JUST: The limits of self-respect will provide the answer. A boy who has genuine affection for a girl will never do anything that will degrade her or make her feel ashamed. Courtship is preparation for marriage; ask any boy how far he would like the girl he marries to go on a date. And if he's honest, you'll have an honest answer.

Car repair compared to art

By The Associated Press

When Orville Hoelscher isn't working in his Godfrey, Ill., body shop, he might be found at home pursuing another career — creating sculpture.

How did an artist end up in the body shop business? For artistic reasons.

"I had a car repaired one time, and it did not suit me," he said in a telephone interview. "I decided it would take someone with artistic talent so that the cars would look like something."

And that's what he has been doing for the past 30 years.

Previously he had worked repairing, stained glass church windows and crosses and art glass and as a designer and touchup artist.

All the while, he has been a painter, sculptor and pastel artist.

Hoelscher, 64, is largely self-taught, although he said he first learned to draw from his artistic mother while growing up in Breese, Ill., and has had private tutors. His wife also is an artist.

He says too much formal art instruction can ruin an art student's creativity because the student's expression becomes an extension of the teacher's.

His sculpture involves what Hoelscher says is probably a unique medium. He creates realistic pieces using welding rods.

"This was a medium no one knew anything about as far as realistic sculpture," he said.

The technique is dangerous, he said, because it involves high temperatures formed by acetylene gas and oxygen and it is sensitive, because the rod has to be touched at just the precise moment to get the desired effect.

Not only is it difficult to control, but it is difficult to see. The artist said that what he sees through the glass of his welding helmet, "looks like tapioca boiling on the stove."

Welding rods are made of steel coated with copper, which turns black in the heating process. After the work is finished, Hoelscher burnishes it with a wire brush, then seals it with plastic.

He creates such figures as Mark Twain at the wheel of a river boat, ballet dancers, athletes in action and animals in natural settings. His sculpture sells for $200 to $2,000. He said it is in collections in Germany and Ireland as well as the United States.

This summer, Hoelscher and his wife will take off a couple of months to travel around the country to exhibit and sell their work at art fairs.

Two people in homes

Two people or less live in more than half of U.S. households, although in 1960, such households numbered only 40.9 per cent, says Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Joggers invited as participants at convention

ATLANTA (AP) — Plans have been announced for the fifth annual Southern Baptist Convention "Joggers' Jubilee" June 13 in Atlanta to promote jogging as a means toward physical fitness.

Sponsored by the denomination's Sunday School Board, the jogging event at Lakewood Stadium coincides with the opening day of the denominational convention.

"The church is beginning a new start with a new name for a new day," the Rev. Herb McPherson stated. "All members, former members, and prospective members, interested persons, and others looking for a congenial place to worship and serve are urged to come and identify with Calvary Baptist Church," he added.

The church will be open to receive candidates for church membership during its regular services. Information will be available by phoning 263-4242 on Saturdays between 3 and 5 p.m.

The church has a nursery open for all services, and weekly Sunday school services. There is plenty of parking space available on the north, south, and west sides of the church in parking lots.

Central Church eyes problems

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Officials of the American Lutheran Church have given the denomination's largest congregation, the 1,750-member Central Lutheran Church, 60 days to regularize its pastoral leadership or be suspended from the denomination.

Its North Pacific District executive committee ruled that two of the congregation's assistant pastors had not met requirements for clergy credentials, were ineligible to serve and unless their status was changed, the congregation would be dropped Aug. 5 from the denomination.

The senior pastor, the Rev. Rueben Redal, affiliated with a group which says the ALC has strayed from its historic doctrines, says he's uncertain what will be done about the matter by the congregation, which can appeal the ruling.

Garage sale set

The Nazarene Youth will sponsor a gigantic rummage sale at 1400 Lancaster from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited to attend the event, which is to raise funds for youth projects in the church.

Religious buildup against arms race gathering steam

NEW YORK (AP) — With religious forces pressing for progress at the special United Nations assembly on disarmament, a rare mix of American Christian leaders has pledged "non-cooperation with our country's preparation for nuclear war."

"On all levels — research, development, testing, production, deployment, and actual use of nuclear weapons — we commit ourselves to resist in the name of Jesus Christ," say the 110 signers of the statement.

The unusual declaration was seen by some observers as the beginning of a religious buildup against the arms race similar to the religious mobilizations in the recent past against racial segregation and the Vietnam war, but with potentially even wider dimensions.

While the signers include characteristically social-activist Christians and some veteran war resisters, such as the Berrigan brothers, the list remarkably also includes many evangelicals and charismatic Christians who have shunned such activism in the past.

"What's particularly significant is that it involves Christian constituencies that have never been engaged in this way before," says Wes Michaelson of Washington, D.C., managing editor of Sojourners, an evangelical magazine outspoken on social problems.

Signers include leaders of Youth for Christ, which Billy Graham was instrumental in founding, Young Life, World Vision International and Congressional Prayer Breakfasts, groups that previously have shunned political issues, as well as noted evangelical scholars and Catholic and Protestant leaders in the charismatic-renewal movement, which typically has focused only on personal devotion and salvation.

Declaring that for 30 years Christians have remained mostly passive during a nuclear arms buildup that deprives the poor and that

Lutheran slates national leaders

Two leaders of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod (LC-MS) will be official guests at the 47th Convention of the Texas District of the LC-MS scheduled to convene at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel, June 23-25.

J.A.O. Preus, President of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, of St. Louis, will present the Report of the President of the Synod. Preus, 58, a native of St. Paul, Minnesota, had held a number of synodical offices before being elected President of the Synod in 1969. Since his election, the national church body he represents has been embroiled in what some observers have called a combination of doctrinal and political controversies. In the last two years, however, the Synod has emerged as a soundly Scriptural church body with an increasing commitment to accomplishing the mission of the church, which is communicating who God is and what He has done for all people.

Henry E. Simon, President of the North Wisconsin District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is scheduled to present the Guest Convention Essay on the convention theme: "How Great Thou Art." Highlights of the Convention include (1) the Convention Worship Service Friday, June 23, at 8:15 p.m. The guest speaker will be the Synodical President J.A.O. Preus; (2) the Convention Banquet Saturday, June 24, at 8:00 p.m.; (3) a multimedia presentation by New Life, a group of students from Concordia Lutheran College in Austin, Saturday, June 24, at 4:20 p.m. The Texas District of the LC-MS is comprised of 115,000 Lutherans in 300 congregations throughout the state of Texas.

puts the entire world in "unprecedented danger," the statement says:

"The time has come for Christians...to stand upon our Biblical convictions and act together in a clear and visible witness against the nuclear arms race. "The 'biggest myth' to be challenged is that 'all this military might is for a righteous purpose, for peace and self-defense' while actually it is 'for maintaining superiority, for keeping control, for dictating our terms, for protecting our wealth and power,'" the statement says and adds:

"We are soberly reminded of God's command, 'you shall have no other gods before me.' But we have fallen away from God by joining our fellow citizens in succumbing to the idolatry of military might and power."

Did you hear about the 747 Jumbo Jet that landed in San Francisco, with only one passenger? And to behold, that lone passenger departed only to find that his luggage was missing!
Or the expectant father in Tulsa who set a new record between his residence and the Tulsa General Hospital? Five miles in eight minutes flat! Only one little detail marred the success of his speedy trip — he neglected to bring his expectant wife!
What a sad commentary on modern life. We set daily records for speed, business and travel, only to arrive at our destination day after day, having missed the whole point of life's meaning and purpose. Our days and nights take on the character of a merry-go-round. We ride a wooden horse in endless circles to the sound of brass music. I wonder — if we are not careful, we may set a new record for speeding through life only to discover that we have neglected to find out what it's all about.
ONLY IN CHRIST CAN WE DISCOVER THE PURPOSE AND MEANING OF LIFE. WE INVITE YOU TO DISCOVER IT WITH US!

Jehovah's Witnesses plan international conventions

A schedule of 20 international conventions has been completed by Jehovah's Witnesses for the continental United States during the summer of 1978.

Spokesman George A. Arnold said 120 persons will represent Big Spring at the Astrodom in Houston. July 12-16.

Court makes rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has abolished as unconstitutional Tennessee's ban on clergymen holding public office. The state was the last one to retain such a restriction.

It was thrown out in a decision that upheld the right of the Rev. Paul A. McDaniel, a Baptist minister from Chattanooga, to retain his seat in the legislature.

MOVIES ARE FUN — This entire group was enjoying old-fashioned Disney films and other children's movies at the Wednesday Afternoon film showing at St. Paul Lutheran Church. All children three and over are invited to attend.

Jimmy and Anita will speak at Baptist meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern Baptists, the biggest, most burgeoning body of American Protestants, see some disturbing and puzzling clouds on their horizon.

Although steady gains in membership, rising almost twice as fast as the general population, have put the denomination over the 13-million mark, the number of baptisms, oddly, has declined.

So have enrollments in Sunday school and church training classes.

Both setbacks added an undertone of uneasiness to an otherwise surging set of plans and statistics as the Southern Baptists made ready for their annual convention next week in Atlanta, Ga.

"There's a kind of queasy feeling down inside that's not quite panic yet, but we're wearing worried frowns on our brows," says the convention president, the Rev. Jimmy Allen of San Antonio, Texas.

Another "Jimmy" sur-named Carter, the President of the U.S. and also a dedicated Southern Baptist, will speak at a post-convention finale, following appearances by other denominational luminaries such as singer Anita Bryant, lately a crusader against homosexuality.

She's considering a bid to be nominated for a denominational vice presidency.

While membership climbed 1.2 per cent last year, continuing a steady upward pattern that has contrasted sharply with the slump in most major Protestant bodies, enrollments in Sunday schools and church training classes declined.

That down trend is making for a "generation of theological ignoramus," says the Rev. Dr. Grady C. Cothen, president of the the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn. But efforts were being made to counter the slip-page.

The Rev. Roy T. Edgemon, director of the church training department, said he senses that "pastors are now recognizing that the failure to train our people in Bible doctrine, discipleship and ministry is the cause of an erosion in all Baptist life."

"I also believe that pastors are now ready to move aggressively to equip, build up and grow their people in the Lord."

Conference is planned on ordaining women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another national conference is planned this fall to press for the opening of the Roman Catholic priesthood to women.

The Women's Ordination Conference, an organization now numbering 1,500 lay women and nuns that was set up after a 1975 ordination conference in Detroit, has scheduled the second one Nov. 10-12 in Baltimore, it was announced by the National Sisters Communications Service.

"It is time to lay to rest the heresy that women cannot 'image' Jesus in the priesthood," said Sister Mary Luke Tobin of Denver, a leader in the movement.

Dolores Pomerleau of Washington, D.C., coordinator for the Baltimore gathering where up to 5,000 people are expected, said it would explore "a new kind of priestly ministry" for women.

"We are not talking about women assuming the traditional priest role," she said, but about a transformed priesthood offering women new forms of priestly ministry.

RHODEN TALKS TO NEWSMEN — Harold Rhoden, the attorney who sought to prove the Howard Hughes Mormon Will authentic, talks with newsmen Thursday evening after the jury ruled that the will "was not entirely written by Howard Hughes." Rhoden told newsmen that he didn't intend to appeal the decision.

Jury decides will of Hughes false

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The handwritten words that would have made a gas station attendant a millionaire have been rendered worthless because a jury concluded that Howard Hughes didn't write them.

The unanimous decision showed the jurors did not believe the strange story told by Melvin Dummar, the once obscure Utah man who said he met Hughes as a hitchhiker, helped him out and won a bequest of some $10 million.

The five men and three women of the jury, who heard seven months of testimony in the complex trial, spent 11 hours in deliberations before reaching their decision Thursday night.

In a hushed, packed courtroom, the verdict was unsealed and read:

"We the jury ... find that certain three-page document written on lined, legal paper dated March 19, 1968 ... was not entirely written, dated and signed by the hand of the decedent, Howard Robard Hughes Jr. himself."

There were gasps.

Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, who invested two years and thousands of dollars in seeking to prove the will authentic, appeared shocked.

"Well, fellas, that's it," Rhoden said, turning to his team of lawyers.

Outside court, he said he would not appeal the verdict.

"The jury has spoken, and that's it," he said.

"There's nothing more to be said."

Rhoden said he still believes the crudely scrawled will is authentic, "but I sure didn't convince the jury that it was."

Rhoden represented Noah Dietrich, a former Hughes aide who was named executor in the strange document delivered mysteriously to Mormon Church headquarters shortly after Hughes died.

It came to be known as the "Mormon Will."

Dummar, now a beer truck driver, was playing with a band at a country-western dance in Ogden, Utah, when the jury returned its decision.

"I would have hoped it would have gone in my favor," he said. "I was not in control of it so there's not much I can do about it. So I'm just planning to go on working like I have been."

U.S. may have 37th foreign trade zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within a few days it is likely that a foreign-trade zone will be approved in the township of Mount Olive, Morris County, New Jersey, bringing to 37 the number of such sites in the United States.

Within that zone, imported components for electronic items, watches, textiles, farm machinery and other goods may be stored, processed, assembled and exhibited without immediate payment of customs duties.

For Uncle Sam it means less customs revenue. For importers it could mean the difference between profits and loss. For the local community it means jobs, and the related economic benefits that jobs bring.

John DaPonte Jr., executive secretary of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board, expects more than 40 zones and subzones by the end of the year. They are "simply a more rational way of paying duty," he says. For customs purposes, each of the zones, some measuring only a few acres, is a little foreign territory, even though future sites might be in such heartland places as Boonville, Mo., and Brook Park, Ohio.

A typical situation: An electronics company assembles components from foreign countries. Component imports often carry heavier duties than finished goods. But while in the zone no duty is levied.

The components are assembled into the finished product. If the product is reshipped abroad, no duty at all is charged. If it is shipped within the United States, the levy is at the finished goods rate.

The latter rate not only might be lower, but it is assessed closer to the actual sale. When customs are applied to components, the process conceivably could tie up a company's money for many months more.

OSHA doesn't have enough inspectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six weeks after 51 men died when a scaffold collapsed at a West Virginia power plant cooling tower, federal safety officials say they have not inspected two other cooling towers now being built, one of them in that state.

"I don't have enough resources (inspectors)," says Eula Bingham, head of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which accused a contractor Thursday of "willful" federal safety rule violations that allegedly contributed to the 51 deaths.

It's an impossible task for 1,500 federal inspectors to regularly check the nation's five million workplaces, she said.

OSHA cited the cooling tower's builder, Research-Cottrell, for 16 violations, 10 of them willful. The agency, which also proposed $105,100 in fines against the firm, linked three willful violations to the collapse of the scaffold.

In issuing the citations, OSHA said it is considering whether to ask the Justice Department to bring criminal charges against the firm.

Research-Cottrell, based in Bound Brook, N.J., called the citations "unjustified" and said it would contest them.

In the aftermath of the scaffold collapse, Research-Cottrell has shut down three other cooling towers under construction in Pennsylvania, Alabama and Ohio, said Ms. Bingham.

But work is continuing by other companies on towers in Port Gibson, Miss., and New Haven, W.Va., 50 miles from the site of the Willow Island disaster, OSHA officials said.

The 51 workers fell 170 feet to their deaths on April 27 when the scaffold they were working on peeled away from the concrete tower.

Pre-season in 2 weeks?

The NBA championship series between the Washington Bullets and Seattle Supersonics was reportedly the lowest rated playoff of its kind since the 1975 finals duel between Golden State and Washington.

Why? Just a few reasons include: Pete Maravich, Julius Erving, Bill Walton, Kareem Abdul Jabbar, John Havlicek, and Bob McAdoo, just to name a few. You didn't see any of them in the championship series did you? No way.

And unless a team has at least one big, I mean BIG name star (Washington's Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes are close, but no cigar), then that team is not going to accumulate the national following it takes to pump some out-of-state interest, on a grand scale, into the fortunes of that team.

So the ratings are down. A season that spans almost eight months may also be another reason. Back to the old "Rocky Road" corollary. Anyone can get too much of a good thing.

And poor Brent Musberger, the announcer for CBS Wednesday night. Did you hear him yelling as if the Cowboys had just won the Super Bowl and he was trying to impress Phyllis George? A few of the Washington players found enough energy somewhere to sort of half-jump up and down off the court after the game. Other than that, not much excitement.

The crowd was reserved (what losing home crowd wouldn't be?), and there was just a general atmosphere of anti-climax that pervaded the whole aftermath. But Brent was yelling as if the Bullets had just won the game in the last half-second after surging back from a 30-point deficit in the final two minutes.

But, at least Washington won. No one deserves it more. The only team to be in the playoffs for the past 10 years running. It's about time. Ditto, for the end of the season.

THEY GET LETTERS TOO

You think I get letters. You should read the barages that fire into the San Francisco Chronicle's sports desk. A couple of examples follow:

"The NCAA is run by power schools such as USC and Notre Dame. For San Jose State to be investigated while all these big schools wave big money under the noses of high school athletes is truly a thing to be sorry for."

"I can only tell the NCAA to beware, as when I become a lawyer I will uncover violations that make their present investigations look like horseplay." — Tony Robinson, S.F.

"Ira Miller's article, 'Why Not Pinch Hit for Big Mac' really takes the cake. Instead of writing items about the bright side and trying to get people back to the park, Miller lives up to the true tradition of (second-guessing) West Coast writers."

"You do not embarrass a great player... who ever heard of pinching hitting for Musial, Ruth, Mays, Aaron, Clemente... even when they'd have slumps?" — R.E. Campbell, Oakland.

REMARKABILITIES

"Most people are fascinated with racing because they are watching drivers playing a game that imposes severe penalties for error. If the drivers get away with a small balance of error, then the spectator has his vision of immortality enhanced." — JANET GUTHRIE, Indy 500 driver.

"The thing golf has going for it, besides $80 cashmere sweaters and a lot of guys who kick the ball out of the rough, is tradition. The game people try to play now is basically the same game people tried to play 100 years ago. Or 300 years ago." — ART SPANDER, sports columnist.

Al right on '77 pace, Morley leads Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP) — Al Geiberger had a twinkle in his eye as he assessed his position.

"Well," he said, "I've matched last year's first-round score. Now all I have to do is match last year's second-round score."

"The first part," he admitted, "is the easiest." It was something of an understatement. His par 72 was the same score he fired last year in the opening day of the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic. In that tournament, however, he followed with a tour record 59 in the second round.

This time he was a distant six shots back of Mike Morley's 66 that set the pace Thursday in the $250,000 event that was interrupted by a thunderstorm and accompanying tornado warning. Play was held up for almost two hours and the final men in the field finished in darkness on the rain-soaked, 7,249-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Lee Trevino, who had to endure the two-hour delay, had a chance to tie for second but missed a 4-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

That left him one shot back of Barry Jaeckel. Tied with Trevino at 68 were Allen Miller, who had a hole in one with a 4-iron on the 200-yard 15th hole, Spain's Seve Ballesteros, Miller Barber, Bob Gilder, Jim Colbert, Jim Simons, Alan Tapie and rookie Mike Sullivan.

Gary Player, winner of the Masters and two other events earlier this season, had to rally for a 73 and Johnny Miller shot 75.

Morley, a low-key, soft-spoken journeyman, had an extremely solid effort. He didn't make a bogey and missed only one green.

"I've been in a two-month slump," he said. "I played too much early this year and got too tired. I let my swing get too long. I've been trying to shorten it. I had a good ball-striking round today, real solid. I'm very pleased."

Rangers move up to 2nd with Royals' sweep

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Third base coach Pat Corrales didn't think Bobby Bonds' fly ball to shallow right field in the 13th inning was deep enough for Bump Wills to risk trying to tag at third and go for the winning run.

As Al Cowens made the catch, Corrales yelled "No" and Wills hesitated at first as if to stay where he was, then thought better of it and set sail.

Wills collided safe at home with catcher Darrell Porter, and the run gave the Texas Rangers a 3-2 victory over Kansas City and a sweep of a double-header that began seven hours earlier.

The victory, combined with a 5-4 victory in the opener, pushed the Rangers past the Royals into second place 2½ games behind Oakland in the American League west.

"The ball didn't go far enough to beat us. We should still be playing. It's a tough way to lose," Royals manager

Whitey Herzog said.

A drained Porter, after playing 22 innings, sat stretched out before his locker in the dressing room.

"I don't know if the throw was good or not. I'm too tired to know," he said. "It got there before he (Wills) did, and if I catch the ball we get him. I guess I just missed it. I felt the ball hit the end of my glove, but I never did tag him."

Ranger Richie Zisk had spoiled rookie righthander Rich Gale's no-hit bid in the seventh with a single to left field after Mike Hargrove had walked for the third straight time.

Bonds came within a few feet of hammering a three-run homer a few moments later, but his shot landed up in the bleachers, just to the left of the left field foul pole.

Bonds walked on a 3-2 pitch, and Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, the American League's second-leading hitter, pushed a base hit between third base and shortstop to score two runs and tie the game at 2-2.

NBA draft opens

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association club owners searched for the new Jabbars today as the player draft opened at NBA headquarters here.

The NBA draft lasted eight rounds last year. Of the players chosen below the first two rounds, Indiana's James Edwards was by far the most successful, but there were others who lasted to make the pro ranks.

Edwards replaced Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at Los Angeles early this past season and did well until Abdul-Jabbar returned to the lineup. Edwards was traded to Indiana, where he's expected to make a major contribution next year.

From the third round last year, guards Eddie Johnson of Atlanta, John Kuester of Kansas City and Mike Bratz of Phoenix all made the grade. In round four, Phoenix' Greg Griffin was on the Suns' roster for much of the year and Los Angeles' pick, Tony Robertson, caught on with Atlanta after being dropped by the Lakers.

Phoenix' seventh-round pick, Alvin Scott, played in 81 games and was the club's seventh leading scorer. And Golden State's eighth-round choice, guard Ricky Marsh, was actually a starter for a couple of months despite being the 165th player selected out of a total of 170.

So while the focus of attention in today's draft was naturally on the opening round, more than a few general managers were fantasizing about uncovering a diamond in the rough like Edwards among the unfamiliar names of the lower rounds.

Helton hired as coach

Larry Helton, head basketball coach for Stanton last season, has been hired as a math teacher and coach for the Big Spring Independent School District this year.

Helton, who is currently attending North Texas State University, received his B.S. degree from that school and has six years teaching experience.

He is a graduate of Big Spring High School and was an offensive guard and linebacker for Athletic Director Don Robbins during his first stint here in the 60's.

Helton will see duties as defensive line coach and equipment manager for the Steers in 1978.

Monterey in UIL finals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bellaire and Lubbock Monterey are down to the wire for the University Interscholastic League's Class 4A baseball championships.

Bellaire earned its berth in tonight's final tournament game by rolling past Duncanville 5-1 Thursday at Ditch-Falk Field, while Lubbock Monterey made it past Corpus Christi Moody 6-1.

Before the 9 p.m. Class 4A final gets under way, a 7 p.m. match has Mount Pleasant taking on Burkburnett for the 3A crown.

Mount Pleasant shut out Brazosport 10-0 and Burkburnett squeezed past Jasper 3-2 in semifinal action Thursday.

John Moses' four-hitter helped Bellaire end Duncanville's fourth consecutive trip to the UIL event. Moses struck out 12 to raise his record to 17-2.

His only difficult moment came in the fourth inning when Duncanville loaded the bases with one out. Pitcher Mike Pierce then struck out and Craig Fouts ground out to second.

Bellaire now has a 35-8 season record. The school has chalked up four state titles in seven tourney visits. Duncanville ends its season at 32-4.

Seven errors by Corpus Christi Moody made the game easier for Lubbock Monterey. Ron Reeves ran his record up to 16-1 by allowing only five hits.

Monterey owns two state titles from seven trips. It has a 28-3 season record. Moody finished the year at 29-6.

Norton-Holmes bout tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Ken Norton battles undefeated Larry Holmes tonight for one of the boxing's heavyweight championships.

The 32-year-old ex-Marine was given the title by the World Boxing Council when Leon Spinks signed to give Muhammad Ali, rather than Norton, a return match in New Orleans next Sept. 15.

Never before has the heavyweight crown been awarded outside the ring, but Norton says he deserves it even though he would rather have fought Spinks in the fight the WBC had wanted.

Norton goes against Holmes, who was the challenger named by the WBC to fight Norton in his first title defense. "I'll fight anybody, and I'd like to fight Spinks," said Norton. And Holmes echoed the view, saying he would also like to fight the winner of the Spinks-Ali rematch.

Norton and Holmes dislike each other heartily, but nevertheless Holmes stood up for Norton, saying the WBC made the right decision in stripping the title from Spinks when he would not fight Norton in his first title defense.

"I knew I had a no-hitter going, but I was trying hard not to think about it," Gale said. "My biggest concentration was to win it."

Walks led to Gale's downfall. He gave up two of them in the first inning and let them advance to second and third with one out by heaving a wild pitch past Porter. He then settled down and retired the next 17 batters before walking Hargrove in the seventh. Hargrove drew a walk in the fourth but was cut down on a double play.

He gave up two more walks in the ninth as Texas loaded the bases with nobody out and appeared ready to end things then. But a force out at home, a squeeze play that misfired and a fly ball sent the game into overtime.

Gale left after 8 2/3 innings with a three-hitter. Steve Comer, Texas' third pitcher, got the win, his second in three decisions. The loss went to Al Hrobosky, 1-1, who left the game just before Bonds' winning sacrifice fly.

USC sweeps College Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Bill Bordley silenced Arizona State's heavy hitters for more than seven innings while his Trojan teammates blasted three Sun Devil pitchers as Southern California rolled to a 10-3 victory and the College World Series title.

While Bordley was limiting the Sun Devils to just three singles in the first seven innings Thursday night, Southern California was battering ASU pitching for 16 hits.

The Trojans, 54-9, backed up Bordley, 12-2, with three runs in the second inning, added two more in the fifth, two in the sixth and put the game away with three in the eighth.

It was Southern California's 11th NCAA World Series title and its 10th with Coach Rod Dedeaux at the helm.

Holtzman accuses Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Holtzman, the New York Yankees seldom-used $100,000 lefthander, charged the team placed him on the disabled list when he wasn't disabled, it was reported Friday.

The Yankees placed Holtzman on the 21-disabled list last Saturday, saying that he was suffering from a back ailment. At the time, New York activated pitcher Don Gullett, who was returning from a shoulder ailment that kept him from pitching since the start of the season.

"I was okay Saturday, I told them that," Holtzman told the New York Times from his home in Lincolnshire, Ill. "To juggle the roster is one thing, but when it leads to a damaged reputation and an out and out falsehood about a player's condition, that's another."

NFLers paid like teachers?

CHICAGO (AP) — There may come a day when professional football players are paid like teachers — according to wage scales rather than individually negotiated contracts.

"Individual bargaining works well for some, but not for the vast majority," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Association. "Does it really make sense to have a 23-year-old college graduate negotiate with a 46-year-old general manager who has negotiated hundreds of contracts?"

Garvey said many players would at first be opposed to such a system but he thinks they may seriously consider it if an ultimate wage contains a minimum of $50,000 and a maximum of $150,000, for example.

Garvey talked about the proposal with reporters as he prepared for a weekend meeting of players representatives beginning Friday in advance of the union's meeting with the owners' NFL Management Council in Chicago on Monday.

Peru shows 'The New Pele'

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — Peru's soccer team, the big surprise of the World Cup, revolves around the man some experts call "the new Pele."

His name is Teofilo Cubillas, and his feet can dance with a soccer ball in the same magical way Pele, the great Brazilian, entertained the world for two decades.

Cubillas scored two goals in Peru's 3-1 upset of Scotland last week, and his deft flicks set up many dangerous attacks in the 9-9 tie with Holland Wednesday.

The 28-year-old midfielder, whose career has included spells with Porto in Portugal and Basel in Switzerland, has attracted the attention of the big-spending Cosmos of the North American Soccer League. The Cosmos are looking for a successor to Pele, whose play was a major factor in winning an audience for professional soccer in the United States.

Lady golfers are hurting

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Maybe they should rename the Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship the Medicare Open.

Judy Rankin has a touchy back.

Jo Ann Washam, Rankin's first round co-leader Thursday at 5-under-par 67, is recovering from shoulder tendinitis.

Amy Alcott, alone in third place at 68, is so allergic to the rainy, humid Ohio climate she has slept little since arriving this week.

Blazers after 'The Bird'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers, who had the best regular-season record in the National Basketball Association last season, have sent guard Johnny Davis to Indiana for the top pick in today's college draft.

The Blazers also gave up the draft's third selection to the Pacers. Stu Inman, Portland's director of player personnel, said the team would use the top pick to select either 6-foot-10 Mychal Thompson of Minnesota or 6-9 Larry Bird of Indiana State.

However, Bird has said he will stay in school to finish his one remaining year of college eligibility.

Bowling for divorces

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Mary Lou Anthony, wife of professional bowler Earl Anthony, has filed for divorce on grounds that the marriage is irretrievably broken.

Mrs. Anthony sought custody of the couple's 17-year-old son and 14-year-old daughter, plus $300 a month support for the daughter.

Anthony is the leading all-time money-winner on the Professional Bowlers Association circuit.

'He's very warm, kind, not tough'

Borg at French Open

PARIS (AP) — Swedish tennis king Bjorn Borg may be a merciless machine on court, but his fiancée Mariana Simionescu says that behind his icy exterior "he's very warm, kind and not tough."

"I think it's not true Borg is an iceberg," says Simionescu, a warm, traditional Romanian who plays on the women's tennis circuit. "You can't judge somebody by the way he plays. He is completely different in private life."

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, Borg and Simionescu talked of their life off court, their plans to marry in two years, their desire for children and their difficulties with the Romanian people over their decision to live together before marriage.

Whether speaking of tennis' glamorous groups or Bjorn's new interest in reading history, the young couple laughed happily together Thursday following Borg's quarter-final victory over Mexico's Raul Ramirez, 6-3, 6-3, 6-0.

Borg, the favorite to win his third French Open crown, plays a semifinal match Saturday against Italy's Corrado Barazzutti, who beat No. 4-seeded Eddie Dibbs 6-2, 7-6, 6-1 in another match Thursday.

Dick Stockton and defending champion Guillermo Vilas of Argentina square off in Saturday's other semifinal match.

It was here on the clay courts of Roland Garros Stadium that Borg first began courting Simionescu two years ago. "I never called him, he called me," Mariana confided with a laugh.

Borg said he finds the simplicity of his 21-year-old fiancée a refreshing change from the "beautiful people" on the circuit.

"I know which ones are my friends, which ones like me," the 22-year-old Swede said. "I've been around a long time. They go out with you because you're a superstar."

"Since we have been together, I have been happy," Borg said. "Now every minute I enjoy."

Borg said a marriage date has not been set, "but we will probably want to wait a couple more years."

"We live as though we are married," Mariana said. "We are together all the time. The only thing that is missing is the paper that says we are married."

Their open relationship has raised eyebrows in Bucharest, where Mariana's family lives.

"Everybody knows we are together, that we are engaged," she said.

"The Romanian people, the only thing they are waiting for is when Mariana and Bjorn are going to get married."

They both want children but Mariana said it might not be a good idea to have another young tennis star in the family "because the father was so good."

Borg, who already has captured two titles each at Wimbledon, the Italian Open and the French Open, also sees the end of his career within five to seven years.

"I hope I will enjoy it until then," he said. "I don't want to play tennis my whole life because I started so early and I want to do other things. I just hope we are together, married, and then have a family."

THE OPERA'S OVER — Betty Clark of Rockville, Md., leads the cheering for the returning Washington Bullets at Washington's Dulles airport Thursday. A large crowd greeted the team after its Wednesday victory over Seattle for the National Basketball Association championship.

Bullet rejoicing not over

WASHINGTON (AP) — The celebration went on today for the Washington Bullets and their fans, who have yet to get over this city's first major sports championship since the Redskins won the pro football title 36 years ago.

The Bullets players planned to take part in a parade from their stadium in suburban Landover, Md., to the Capitol, where a committee of House and Senate members were to receive them. Afterward, another rally at RFK Stadium was scheduled.

Mayor Walter Washington has proclaimed today "Bullets Day" and the team will receive the key to the city as this town of politics recognizes its 105-99 National Basketball Association championship victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Wednesday night.

Exiled Russian author turns dissatisfaction to new home

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Alexander Solzhenitsyn, exiled from Russia for criticizing Soviet life, has turned his dissatisfaction toward his adopted home in the West, calling it weak, shallow and cowardly.

In a stinging, abrasive speech to Harvard graduates Thursday, the dissident author chastized the West for materialism, devotion to human rights, unwillingness to defend itself — even its music.

"After the suffering of decades of violence and oppression, the human soul longs for things higher, warmer and purer than those offered by today's mass living habits, introduced by the revolting invasion of publicity, by TV stupor and by intolerable music," Solzhenitsyn said through an interpreter.

The winner of the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature was Harvard's commencement speaker. In his rare public appearance, he addressed about 18,000 people — 4,474 of them graduates — who sat outside in intermittent showers in Harvard Yard.

Some of Solzhenitsyn's remarks, especially his criticism of American anti-war activists, were met with hisses. The biggest applause greeted his rejection of communism.

He said the West seems unwilling to defend itself against the Communists.

ALEXANDER SOLZHENITSYN

The 59-year-old author has lived in self-imposed isolation behind high fences on a 50-acre estate in Cavendish, Vt. He first lived in Switzerland after his expulsion.

He is author of the three-volume "Gulag Archipelago," an indictment of the Soviets' prison camp system, and novels critical of life in the Soviet Union, including "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," "Cancer Ward" and "First Circle."

Size means little on top a horse

VERNON, Texas (AP) — The sprawling W.T. Waggoner Estate near his Northwest Texas city is one of the few places left in the country where one can find working cowboys, and it's there that you'll find a cowpoke named Shorty riding tall in the saddle, more or less.

To Shorty Newman, size means nothing when astride a working quarterhorse, and that's a healthy philosophy for a man 5 feet tall.

Newman is one of 36 fulltime cowboys who work the half-million-acre estate, spending most of the time working cattle from the back of a horse.

Newman won't say what his real name is, explaining that "Shorty" is the only name he's ever used.

Shorty's equestrian colleagues take little note of his size.

"We must do it all and take our turn when it comes and this includes all chores," Newman said. He admits his size is often a handicap. "And there's no advantage to being a small cowboy...at least none that I've discovered."

Being small means something special each year when they bring out new broncs from which the Cowboys choose their work-mate for the year.

Newman gets there first and tries to pick one of the smaller mounts. His current horse stands 14 hands and weighs around 1,000 pounds. The average size and weight among the horses is 15 hands and 1,100 pounds.

Newman is a bachelor cowboy and lives in a modern-day bunkhouse.

When the day's work is done, he and the other singles might "drink a little beer," ride their broncs or watch television, where they'll sometimes see a western movie.

"Television cowboys aren't cowboys," Newman said. "All you ever see them doing is chasing somebody or fighting."

What real cowboys do, Newman said, is arise at 4 a.m., ride a van to the location that will serve as a work site, and spend the day working cattle or mending fence, depending on the season. They get their marching orders from the foreman, wagon boss or straw boss. And they carry out their orders.
